"THE UNION must be preserved,"

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 13, 1835. Need we direct the attention of our temograpic citizens to the meeting this evening at Davis' ballmom? The object is not possibly coexist: for when cholers prevailed, the yellow fever-ceased its ravages. Several celebrated physicians and chemists of Europe concur in this conclusion.

In his memoir of cholers of '32, Dr Halphen cites the cases of 77 patients, with his treatment, which was successful in every instance. Having been induced to consider cholers as an authenic disease, and the yellow fever as sthenic, he shows that the antiphlogistic mode of treating the latter often produced the former—thus throwing the patient from the frying pan into the fire, or from the doctor to death. Remarks and reasoning induced Halphen to try and adont the sulphate of kinine united with thridace rs a specific for the cholers: and this remedy he administered externally and internally. See his book for the different anodes.

Mr G Asbridge for that part of said district included be heartisty opposed. The president might have believed that the district means and the president might have believed that the district of the president might have believed that the district of the president might have believed that the district of the president might have believed that the district of the president might have believed that the district of the president might have believed that the district of the president might have believed that the default of the claim has been precognized by the only surpority in Prance that can finally and fixedly ratify any treaty of indemnity, why continue animadversions to gratify or engender emposemed affections?

Place the case of France throughout the affair on a parablel with that of this country, where the relations of the orders of government resemble our own, so far asigneessary to elucidate the present topic. The president has the treaty-making power, as has the king of France. But suppose congress did not think proper immediately to ratify any treaty made by the government, from reasans considered to moving not only the inversate, and finances, but the honor and dignity of America—how would the Americane like to hear their government assailed as waston and false, as unjust and hollow; and to hear themselves branded with the more opprobious epitheta? If we would not like such an event and hollow; and to hear themselves branded with the more opprobrious epithets? If we would not like such an event refrain in the present instance.

The chambers of France have the power of the pures as has our congress: ne appropriation can be made out of the public treasury without a legislative sanction. But if that sanction is delayed, is the national honor therefore tarnished; or the public faith violated? And if that delay is at length terminated, does it follow that the sanction was given in consequence of threats from without; and not rather from operating circumstances within?

I am, sic.

D. PRIEUR, Mayor.

The council proceeded to hallot on the nominations made, which resulted in votes, 1 for, 6 against Harry; 1 for 6 against Harry; 1 for 6 against Abording; 2 for, 5 against Dutllet; 4 for, 3 against Montegut; 2 for, 5 against Abording; 2 for, and 5 against Harry; 1 for 6 and Montegut were elected.

On the 3d part, Mr. Pichot moved to persist, which was carried. The chambers of France have the power of the pures as
