ON THE FIRING LINE

Pulsebeats of the Warriors Shown by Tongue and Pen From Ocean to Ocean in Canada's Greatest Conflict.

"Pa, what is annexation?"
asked the boy as soon as he could toss his school cap on the hook.
"Come here, my boy," said the father. "Do you remember last New Year's night when you woke us all up with that horrid cry of anguish and told us that Jimmy Jicksky had broken in the back window and had tried to strangle
you?" Thoughtfully William recalled the event and sheepishly
replied, "Oh, yes, I remember;
you said I had a Nightmare and that I had been living too high all through Christmas week and that was the result." And the father replied, "Well this is August,
and some of the people haven't got over it yet."

THE BUSINESS ASPECT.

(The Montreal Trade Bulletin.)
The opponents of reciprocity admit that the agreement between Canada and the United States would result in an increase of business between the two countries, and as we are already trading with our neighbors to the extent of $225,000,000 and over a year, it is difficult to understand, upon the broad principles of trade, what objections can possibly be raised against a further augmentation of business relations with our neighbors. Nothing but good can come of it. Reciprocity, in our humble opinion, is the one thing above all others that will prove the death knell of annexation—a stupid error, started by the opponents of the agreement on the other side of the line,
for the express purpose of intimidating
Canadians and inducing them to vote against it.

NO OTHER WAY.

(Toronto Globe.)
President Taft has vetoed the farmers' free list bill sent up to him by Congress for his assent. The members of Congress have failed to pass the bill over his veto. These two moves on the chess board of United States politics
end all possibility of radical tariff reform for two years at least. They utterly destroy the Conservative argument that had Canada "sat tight" the Democrats would have been able to force a measure through Congress that would have materially reduced the almost prohibitive duties on Canadian farm products entering the United States.

HOPELESS BATTLE.

(St. John Telegraph.)
A movement like the emancipation of the American slave, or the complete repeal of the corn laws, might be expected to encounter the opposition of many prophets whom time would prove to be false; but remitting a few taxes on the food of the people is not the repeal of a fiscal system, nor is it a great economic movement like the freeing of the slaves; so it is difficult for reasonable people to understand the present outcry. If the taxes which Mr. Borden is so eager to continue had all been paid in the past into the treasury at Ottawa, we would hardly have found him forcing an appeal to the country at present. But the people, besides what they have paid into the treasury in taxes, have had to pay indirect taxation to certain special interests, and these special interests,
fearing that the end of their unjust
profits is in sight, are sending Mr.
Borden and his party into battle in the vain hope that the Liberals may be prevented from giving the farmers, and the fishermen, and the lumbermen, and
the consumers generally, their turn.
The Conservative mercenaries will fight, but for them the battle is a hopeless one.

HARD ON SIFTON.

(Toronto Telegram, Tor.)
Canadian nationality or any other good cause is better off with Hon. Clifford Sifton's enmity than with Hon.
Clifford Sifton's friendship.

LOSING ITS PATIENCE.

(Winnipeg Tribune.)
It's real unifying indeed to have politicians standing up on eastern platforms calling the farmers of Western Canada "disloyal." There's more real loyalty in the little finger of the average western farmer than in the whole
make-up of blather-skiffing stumpers who shout annexation.

BORDEN'S BAD LOGIC.

(New York Post.)
We may put aside the question as to where Mr. Borden and his followers have derived the impression that "the leading newspapers and statesmen of the United States" are unanimous in accepting reciprocity as the entering wedge for annexation. The problem is not what people in the United States
think, but what the people of Canada think. Even Mr. Borden will not confess that annexation will come by armed invasion and conquest. Canada will have to be a consenting party to annexation. And what will win the Canadian people over to annexation?
Why, this treaty of reciprocity which,
as Mr. Borden declares, will benefit the people of the United States at the expense of the Canadian people. In other words, reciprocity being a very bad bargain for Canadians, it will make them fonder than ever of the people that got the best of them.

COLONIST FALSEHOODS

The Colonist this morning devotes a front page to an ingenious misrepresentation of cases now before the courts in an endeavor to implicate the Government of Canada and its immigration officers in alleged violation of the Alien Labor Act. It publishes partial court proceedings and utters conclusions in a case in which the magistrate conducting the trial has reserved judgment. It also publishes the form of what it alleges to be a contract entered into by a local firm or agents of the local firm with alien laborers whom it alleges came into Canada in pursuit of the alleged contract. Further, it publishes a letter signed by the superintendent of immigration which it falsely alleges gives authority for the admission of laborers into Canada in violation of the Alien Labor Act.

Without commenting on the desperation which forces the Colonist into such proper odium for commenting on a case which is still before the courts
the Times will recite the facts.

From the following clause in the letter quoted it will appear that no relaxation of the Alien Labor Act has been made. The exceptions relate only to the clause requiring certain money qualifications of railroad laborers entering Canada. Here it is:

"This year railroad laborers going to assured permanent employment at construction will be admitted to Canada from the 1st of May until the 30th of September, both dates inclusive, irrespective of money qualifications or continuous journey provided they are natives or citizens of the countries, or some one of the countries, in which immigration effort is made by Canada."

The letter is clear. It only abates
the legal requirement that each laborer entering Canada be relieved from the compulsion to show the required amount of money. It in no way effects
the provisions regulating contract labor.

If it is held by the court that the arrangement under which these men entered Canada is of the nature of a contract the court has no option but to impose the proper fine. If it is held by the court that these men did not enter under contract there has been no violation of the law.

In any case the matter is on the shoulders of the Attorney-General and we are sure the Colonist, in its desperation has only prepared another rod for its back, and the public will not fall to exploit its despicable tactics to the full measure of their deserts.

FIFTEEN MEN KILLED.
Fifteen Others Probably Fatally Injured When Bridge Across Deep Gorge Collapses.

Saint Moritz, Switzerland, Aug. 30.—
A railroad bridge which was being constructed across a deep gorge at Brull, in the Upper Engadine, six miles south of here, collapsed last night, carrying with it 20 workmen. Fifteen were taken out of the wreckage dead and the other fifteen are probably fatally injured.

ASPHYXIATED IN HOME.

early morning fire at his home. Mrs.
Daultel and daughter were seriously injured by jumping from a third story window. The property damage was not great.

HON. F. OLIVER IS LIBERAL CHOICE UNANIMOUSLY SELECTED FOR EDMONTON

Convention Largest Ever Held in City—Speeches in Favor of Reciprocity

Edmonton, Alb., Aug. 30.—Hon.
Frank Oliver was yesterday tendered the unanimous nomination for Edmonton riding by a convention pronounced
the largest ever held in a constituency.
No other name was mentioned, and the minister of the interior was given an enthusiastic reception. There were present 225 delegates, with only eleven proxies. Delegates were in attendance from all sections, some coming from as far north as Peace River Crossing and Grand Prairie, and every spot being represented. The chairman was Senator Talbot, president of the Provincial Association, and the separate school hall,
the scene of two previous conventions
in the last three weeks, was crowded to the doors.

Before the committee reported, addresses in favor of reciprocity and eulogistic of the late member were given by J. I. Cole, H. W. McKemey, Luellen Boudreau, J. A. Macdougall,
members of the local house, and others,
including Stanley Jones, secretary of provincial organization.
In accepting the nomination Mr.
Oliver spoke at some length on the greater issues of the election. Before closing he referred to the campaign of personalities which had been conducted against him.
Resolutions were passed expressing confidence in the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and integrity of Mr.
Oliver.

At the close of the convention delegates formed in procession, and with flags and banner escorted the candidate to the King Edward hotel, where he again addressed the assembled crowds
from the balcony.

Rutherford Retires.
Ex-Premier A. C. Rutherford, who was nominated several weeks ago by a section of the Edmonton Liberals, has retired. Yesterday he gave out the following statement:

"By the Liberals of the Edmonton
electoral district:
"Gentlemen,—Owing to three candidates being in the field in the Edmonton electoral district, and as the reciprocity issue is paramount in the election throughout Canada, I have decided to retire from the contest. I am grateful to the Liberals for their nomination at a regularly constituted convention, and for many assurances of support from all parts of the district.
"(Signed) A. C. RUTHERFORD."

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Edmond Prentix
was nominated by Prescott Liberals.
In Carlton County, Donald H. McLean
was chosen Liberal standard bearer.

ARTILLERY COMPETITION.

London, Aug. 30.—The Territorial artillery competition will resume today, when six coast defence companies
will compete for the two prizes offered.
The first prize is the Prince of Wales
prize of £21, to which is added £10
from the Westminister and £5
from M. R. M. Morrison. A cup will be presented to the commander of the winning battery. The second prize is £20.

SUSPECTS RELEASED.

Kiel, Germany, Aug. 30.—Two Englishmen and a Dane, who for several days
have been cruising near Kiel, were arrested yesterday by the harbor police on suspicion of spying. The suspects denied their guilt, and underwent a searching examination by the authorities and were released. The Englishmen said they were respectively a professor and a teacher of a high school.

MISTAKEN FOR DEER.

Bakersfield, Cal., Aug. 30.—Mistaking
his brother Henry, for a deer, Charles Ward shot him dead while the two were hunting in the Plute mountains, 30 miles from here. The brothers were beating up brush on opposite sides of a canyon when Charles caught sight of Henry and fired.
The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental shooting.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Plymouth, Eng., Aug. 30.—After the statement of the public prosecutor in the case of Lieut. Philip Schultz, a German army officer arrested here August 19 last charged with spying, the prisoner was committed for trial.

THE ISSUES

Cheaper food may not greatly concern the millionaire, but it is of vital importance to the working-man with a family to support.

A full stomach and a contented mind are not likely to render a man less loyal.

The working-man has his wage; let him hold fast to it and fight for cheaper living.

The man short of argument
usually resorts to an appeal to sentiment.

The working-man is not going to be bamboozled by people who care nothing about his vote, less about his wages, but are greatly worried over his loyalty. Dr.
Johnson says: "Patriotism is the last resort of the soundless."

If a man questions your integrity, you give him the lie. If he questions your loyalty, well, sandwich the source, and vote for reciprocity.

Do not be frightened by the lip
loyalties while they have you worrying over your loyalty, they hope to run off with the swag.

"The day of the consumer has come.
If I buy goods from the United States, I am disloyal, but if I send my money to the United States to build up their industries, I am loyal.
Citizens of Victoria, where do you stand?—Laurier, Templeman
and the masses of Borden, Barnard and the masses?
A vote for Templeman is a vote for reciprocity."

ROUSING MEETING OPENS RALPH SMITH'S CAMPAIGN

Esquimalt Electors Hear Hon. William Templeman
on the Navy Question and Liberal Candidate on Reciprocity.

Esquimalt can always be trusted to do its duty by the Liberal party, whether in attendance at meetings when the policies of the party are expounded or at the polls. Many a rousing rally has the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home witnessed, and not least of these will be remembered the meeting last evening when Ralph Smith, the Liberal candidate in Nanaimo constituency, opened his campaign. He was accompanied by the Minister of Mines, Hon.
Wm. Templeman. Both the gentlemen were cordially welcomed.

In the meeting, which was presided over by J. Charles McIntosh, president of the Esquimalt Liberal Association,
were a great many ladies, who followed the speeches with close attention and evident interest. On the platform besides those mentioned, were ex-Mayor Lewis Hall and T. D. Patullo. There were several Conservatives present and some of them added to the life of the meeting by interruptions, not always relevant but all of which were quickly taken up, answered and turned to advantage by the speakers.

The Minister of Mines devoted his attention naturally to a consideration of the naval policy of the government, and he answered criticisms levelled at him by Conservative speakers in recent meetings. From this he went on to discuss the change in the attitude of the Conservative party since, in 1909,
its representatives in parliament unanimously stood with the Liberal party

behind the policy which is now being put into effect, and concluded by pointing out that in the east the Conservative leaders are allied with the anti-navy, anti-Imperial forces led by Henri Bourassa.

Mr. Smith dealt with the question of reciprocity in its broad aspects, giving a full and complete answer to the arguments of Conservative speakers.

Hon. Wm. Templeman.
Hon. Mr. Templeman, the first speaker, was most cordially received.
He began with a reference to Premier McBride's remarks on the retiring ministers, pointing out to the audience that Alan Aylesworth was retiring to private life on account of an increasing deafness which he found to militate against parliamentary life, and Hon. Mr. Brodeur had gone on the supreme court bench, where his profound knowledge of the law would make him of even greater service to Canada than as a minister.

The Minister of Mines went on to say that as he was in Esquimalt, the great naval base of the Pacific Coast,
he thought it would be right to confine his remarks to the naval question and continued:

I see that in the theatre the other night Mr. Barnard suddenly blossomed forth into a naval and military expert,
into a critic of naval affairs, fortifications, big guns, and military matters.
Among other things he tried to fasten some responsibility upon the Liberal Government in regard to alleged neglect of the fortifications and big guns. The naval station at Esquimalt was only taken over by the Dominion Government the day after the Rains-

"Miss Nobody From Starland."
Joseph C. Smith, who produced "Miss Nobody From Starland," the big musical production coming to this city at the Victoria theatre on Thursday, August 31, is also responsible for the production of many of "New York's" most noted successes. He is the son of George W. Smith, who staged "The Black Crook," and other musical productions of other days.
The younger Smith claims to have been the first to introduce in the United States the Apache and cowboy dances. He also staged "The Concrete Soldier" and several large vaudeville acts. Mr. Smith has outdone himself in the way of novel features and climaxes in "Miss Nobody From Starland," and it is expected the patrons of this city will be agreeably surprised on his presentation here.

Dr. Young, minister of education, and other prominent gentlemen and ladies interested in educational matters, yesterday morning formally opened the new Lord Selkirk school building at South Vancouver. In the address the premier made he dwelt particularly on the great necessity of facilities being afforded for education, and mentioned additionally that it had been definitely decided that the new university at Point Grey should be ready for the reception of students by the fall of 1912.

PANIC AT FUNERAL.

Canonsburg, Pa., Aug. 30.—As the casket containing the body of Stephen Mastlowicz, ticket-seller in the moving picture show, was being borne to the grave in the St. Joseph Catholic cemetery here, lightning struck a tree under which the procession was passing and six pallbearers were knocked down. John Hodie, a brother-in-law of Mastlowicz, was rendered unconscious and the mourners were panic-stricken. The casket dropped into the mud, where it lay until the party had recovered from the shock. Hodie was not seriously injured.

SHINGLE MILLS REOPEN.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Following several weeks curtailment, scores of shingle mills throughout western Washington have resumed operations. The shut down resulted in a curtailment of approximately 1,000 carloads of shingles. This was the first time that a curtailment campaign of any moment was ever undertaken during the summer months. Many mills were completely overhauled during the shut down.

LOYALISTS TAKE TOWN.

Guayaquil, Aug. 30.—Gen. Trevino, at the head of 300 troops loyal to Emilio Estrada, president-elect of Ecuador, has occupied Jipi Japa, province of Manabi, without resistance. The rebels under Col. Carlos Alfaro, who have flocked to General Flavio's standard on his attempt to wrest the office of chief executive from Estrada, evacuated the town on the approach of the government troops. The government's losses were two men killed and seven wounded.

Commissioner Grainger, of the forest protection branch of the provincial lands department is to-day before the Railway Commission at Vancouver, for the purpose of establishing patrols along all railway lines of B. C.

The Daughters of Scotland will hold a fabled dance in the Foresters' hall, Broad street, to-morrow evening. An excellent programme has been prepared by the committee in charge. A buffet supper will be served during the evening. Dancing commences at 8 o'clock sharp, and a thoroughly good time is assured all who attend.

WIRELESS BRINGS AID TO STEAMER

OPERATOR RISKS LIFE TO SEND MESSAGES

Two Firemen Burned to Death When Vessel Goes Ashore in Storm

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 30.—To the courage of Wireless Operator Sheesley, a sixteen-year-old lad, the liner Lexington's 12 passengers and crew of 44, say they owe their lives.

Storm-wrecked for 24 hours, her nose driven deep in the quicksands of Huntington Island, with the sea dashing over her, the Lexington threatened to break up and fling her human cargo to death in the waters. It is said she will be a total loss.

Sheesley, the wireless operator, tickled out his call and kept the terror-stricken passengers from abandoning the ship when she struck. For a moment it seemed that all hope was lost, but Sheesley climbed into the rigging and fixed up a station. In imminent danger of his life from the high wind which threatened to tear him from his seat, and blinded by spray Sheesley sent out his plea for aid.

Suddenly through the storm his call was answered by the revenue cutter Yamacraw, which had heard his call and came on to save the lives of the Lexington's crew and passengers. The twelve passengers, a steward and the negro employees on the Lexington were brought here. The entire crew of 44 men were left on board. Two firemen were reported to have burned to death and a third terribly scalded when the vessel rounded. First Officer Chamberlain fractured his right shoulder.

When the captain realized the danger of the Yamacraw to an off-minute, he had life preservers strapped on every passenger.

The Lexington went hard ashore on Huntington Island. She is lying in about 18 feet of water, listed almost 40 degrees to port, with her bow pointing up the coast. Captain Connolly, a veteran in the service of the Merchants & Miners Line, declares that the hurricane was the worst of his experience at sea.

He says, and his statement is attested by the first mate and steward, that the wind came in gusts at times making about 120 miles an hour. The roar of the sea was terrific. All of the passengers were huddled in the social hall equipped with life preservers and not a few fervent prayers were offered that they might see the shore again.

When urged yesterday by the officer of the Yamacraw to abandon his boat, Captain Connolly declared he would remain on her until only a mast was left to cling to.

Search For Vessels.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—A flying squadron of five revenue cutters is to-day searching the Atlantic coast from Key West to New York for ships which may have been caught in the hurricane on Monday.

Commandant Berthoff said he was confident there were small sailing ships helpless at sea and unable to communicate their distress.

The Yamacraw which did gallant work in taking off passengers from the liner Lexington has been directed to search for the schooner Bessie Whiting, of New York, reported helpless 90 miles east of Savannah, and deserted by all her crew, with only her captain, his wife and the cook aboard.

The Seminoe is searching for the schooner Fortuna which also had been abandoned, her crew having been taken off by the tank steamer Ligonier.

ELECTION PREDICTIONS

Dispatches predicting a victory for Mr. Borden in the East are already appearing in the anti-reciprocity organ in Victoria. These unfounded reports will increase and multiply as the day of election approaches. They all emanate from the same source, the headquarters of "the interests" in Montreal. They are not new from an electioneering point of view. A review of the columns of our contemporary proves that the Conservatives professed to be just as confident in the year 1908, and everyone in Victoria remembers, or ought to remember, the result of that contest. It is not necessary to be a prophet in order to predict a victory for the Liberal government on the 21st of September. All independent authorities agree that Laurier will have a larger majority in the new parliament than he had in the old Ontario, the banner province of the Dominion, has always voted in favor of reciprocity when reciprocity was an issue in Dominion elections. Sir Wilfrid, for the first time in his career as a member of the House of Commons, will attain his object, a majority of the representatives from Ontario behind him in Parliament. No one attempts seriously to dispute the fact that the government, already strong in the Maritime Provinces, will increase its strength as a result of the voting on the 21st of September. The reciprocity is so popular in the prairie provinces that Conservative candidates are declaring that they will vote for its ratification if elected. The Times asks its readers to make a note of what is stated here and compare it with the published results on the 22nd of September.

Sir Henry and Lady Bloose Visiting Cities in Canada and United States

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Covering the United States and Canada by motor car, Sir Henry Bloose and Lady Bloose, of Ireland, have reached Ottawa. They are making perhaps the most complete tour of the North American continent ever made by automobile. They arrived at New York in February last and went directly south in the car. They toured the south in a westerly direction and finally reached the Pacific. They then travelled north to Vancouver and from there came east, part of the time journeying in the United States and part in Canada. They do not expect to complete their tour until December.

TWO KILLED BY FALLING TREE.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 30.—In felling a tree near Sumner, George Peterson, aged 43, was instantly killed, and Fred Purvis, aged 38, received injuries from which he died yesterday. The men were clearing land and came upon a high stump of a tree with a nest of hornets in it, so they waited until after darkness set in before starting work upon it. When it was nearly cut through the tree ticked back and caught the men.

Purvis leaves a widow and four daughters, and Peterson leaves a widow and five daughters.

MASTERPIECE STILL MISSING.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The Louvre was reopened to the public yesterday for the first time since the disappearance on August 22 of the painting "Mona Lisa." Everyone entering the museum went to the salon Carré to stare at the vacant place on the wall where Leonardo Di Vinci's masterpiece had hung, and to discuss the theft.

The police continue to follow the multiplicity of alleged clues to the whereabouts of the famous picture that have cropped up. A man carrying an object of a size or shape suggesting the picture has been heard of from nearly every frontier station in France.

BIG DEAL FOR ISLAND TIMBER

THIRTY THOUSAND ACRES CHANGE HANDS

It is Estimated Tract Contains Nearly Two Billion Feet of Timber

Vancouver, Aug. 30.—The Vancouver Timber & Trading Company has closed a deal with the Red Cliff Lumber Company of Duluth for the purchase of some 30,000 acres of crown granted timber lands on Vancouver Island. The timber on this tract is estimated at close on two billion feet of first class merchantable timber.

Mr. Von Alvensleben of the Vancouver Timber & Trading Company refuses to give detailed information as to this deal, suggesting that this is information which should be reserved for the company and its shareholders. When asked, however, if the purchase price exceeded $2,000,000 he would not contradict the statement. At any rate he indicated that he was exceedingly satisfied with the timber in question which the company has acquired with a view to cutting as soon as market conditions warrant it.

Mr. Von Alvensleben believed that the time for doing this would not come before the Panama canal was finished.

When asked if his company contemplated increasing its holdings still more, Mr. Von Alvensleben said that it was prepared to buy timber, but that the offerings on the market were scarce.

Mr. Von Alvensleben says he believes that the owners of timber in the province should all make efforts to have their timber surveyed since the present custom of selling unsurveyed lands, he said, would lead sooner or later to a tremendous amount of litigation and in many cases he declared result in undermining the confidence of outside capital in the stability of British Columbia investments.

RAILWAYS CUTTING DOWN EXPENSES

Reduce Staffs as Result of Commission's Refusal to Permit Rate Increases

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 30.—Following a plan for retrenchment, railroads of the country in the last year have laid off 81,870 men effecting a net annual saving in the operating expenses of $94,000,000, according to a report made public here. The method of economy has been adopted by sixty per cent. of all the roads and is rapidly spreading to the remaining lines.

The decrease in expenses and maintenance is said to be the result of the action of the interstate commerce commission which refused to allow the roads to put into effect an increase of freight rates. The largest reductions are found among the trackmen, shopmen and miscellaneous employees. The report containing these figures may, it is said, have an important bearing upon the widespread unrest in the ranks of the shopmen on the Harriman lines.

That the dispute with the shopmen on the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and other lines may extend to other railway systems was indicated to-day when shopmen employed by the Northwestern road are reported to have given notice that with the expiration of the present wage agreement next month an increase will be demanded.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

Every once in a while you read of some great man or of some good man that he was never subject to strong passions, that he never fell into the tantrums nor spoke in a loud voice.

There is something in the nature of the superior beings? And do they themselves not in a something which after all is the most stirring, if not the best, part of the story? There is something in the nature of the superior beings? And do they themselves not in a something which after all is the most stirring, if not the best, part of the story?

These strong tempers we are supposed to inherit from our savage ancestors. They belong to our "lower nature." But is it not along substratum of our lower selves that we are most akin? We are animals, after all; why turn our noses at the fact that we are not deal of this spirituality largely streaked with affectation? As a matter of fact, one touch of flesh makes the whole world kin.

Washington came within an inch of being lost forever in "the hearts of his countrymen"; it was his little swearing episode that saved him. The jagged words the Nazarene hurled at the Pharisees, and his chasing the money-changers from the Temple, link him strongly to our humanity. The heroes of Homer and Aristotle, the men of ruder times than ours, who let themselves go in towering emotions, seem to have had a richer color to life than our unimpassioned modern Great Ones, who sit serene at mahogany tables and crush their victims with Money. Of course, it is naughty to flare up; but humanity is not putty—not yet. The most moral man is the completest man; and needs Fire, too.

RUSSO-JAPANESE CLAIMS ADJUSTED

Settlement Has Been Reached Regarding Indemnity for Losses During War

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—The Emperor of Russia and the Emperor of Japan exchanged telegrams yesterday on the occasion of the settlement of the questions relating to the various claims and counter claims for indemnity on both sides for losses incurred during the war.

The negotiations have continued for years and were pushed energetically by Mr. Malevsky-Majetch, the Russian ambassador to Japan, prior to his recent departure from Tokio.

For the most part the claims were on the Russian side, the big item of which was payment for property of Russian subjects at Port Arthur.

An official statement respecting the settlement, to be issued soon, is ordered to adhere to the policy adopted by Japan to utilize successive diplomatic acts for the promotion of good relations between the two countries. When the Japanese Emperor received the Russian ambassador in farewell audience he decorated Mile. Malevsky-Majetch with the highest order and invited her to the imperial luncheon. Up to that time this honor had been extended to Miss Alice Roosevelt only.

In the settlement just reached Japan agreed to hand over to Russia $150,000 for apportionment to persons whose private claims Russia has supported. Japan will purchase for $65,000 the property of Russians situated on concession land in the suburban districts of Port Arthur. She agreed to pay rental for houses of Russians at Kwantung and abandon claims to the treasury of the Port Arthur municipality, as the municipal funds are needed to satisfy the claims of contractors.

Japan also agreed to pay $30,000 for a Red Cross ship which she seized and which has now become unfit for that purpose. The former Russian hospital ship Angara, which is to be returned to Russia, has been sent to the drydock at Care for repairs before the transfer is made.

The Russia points out that the claims between Russia and Japan have been settled without recourse to arbitration and that Japan has reserved the decision of its own prize courts with regard to the Angara and the Red Cross ship Orel. The Russia says that the settlement is a strong proof of mutual friendship and that it only remains to reap the advantages promised by this friendly collaboration in the field of peaceful development and legitimate interests. The text of the telegrams exchanged between the Emperors is published here.

The Japanese Emperor, announcing his pleasure at the settlement and at handing over to Russia the ship Angara as an evidence of the sentiment of unalterable friendship here felt for Russia, proceeds: "I am sure that Your Majesty will graciously share my conviction that the settlement will contribute to consolidate still more the good relations existing between our two countries."

The Russian Emperor, in reply, expressing heartfelt thanks, says: "Thoroughly sharing as I do, Your Majesty's sentiments, I see in the handing over of the Angara fresh proof of a most potent pledge of our reciprocal friendship."

WAR AMONG CHINESE.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—A tong war broke out in Chinatown last night, and as a result Lee Yip Wing, a merchant, is dead, and Moy Dong Tong, a laundryman, is in a critical condition at a hospital. Both were shot twice. The shooting was done by Chu Lu Hon, who escaped in a taxi cab. Moy Dong Tong is a cousin of Frank May, "King of Chinatown." The police believe the refusal of the men to comply with demands of the Hip Sing tong led to the shooting.

The trouble came at a time when the basement store of Wing was filled with men. There was a wild scramble to escape when the murderer opened fire. Standing on the steps leading to the place, the Chinese pointed his revolver at Wing and fired. The Chinese merchant was struck by the first bullet and fell to the floor. With his revolver in the points at the terrified lungers in the store, the slayer backed up the stairway and dashed down the basement

Published daily (excepting Sunday) by THE TIMES PRINTING & PUBLISHING COMPANY, LIMITED

SELLING AGENTS.

The DAILY TIMES is on sale at the following places in Victoria: Army & Navy Cigar Store, cor. Government and Bastion.

THE NAVAL AGREEMENT.

The Pall Mall Gazette, which at no time can be accused of advocating the cause or defending the position of Liberals, whether in the United Kingdom or Canada, makes the following deliverance upon the naval agreement:

On occasions on which he has spoken, let us know who these people are so that their political and business standing may be understood.

The Toronto Mail and Empire is endeavoring to evade responsibility for Bourassa's violent conduct in Quebec. It says he is a Liberal and is therefore not amenable to Conservative party discipline.

C. P. R. directors and officials characterize as absurd the report that they would take part in the present political conflict.

It is exceedingly unfortunate for the army of laboring men in the United States that there is an election campaign on in Canada just now.

A startling question is asked to-day by the morning paper. It is "Do you think it a good thing to throw open Canada to the exploitation of American trusts and combines?"

THE FISH POACHERS.

The many and varied attempts to cast reflection upon the fisheries department of the Dominion government include the persistent circulation of rumors in effect that extensive poaching of fish is being carried on by American fishing vessels on the West Coast.

While admitting, as we did several days ago, that a small amount of poaching is probably being carried on, the Times is in a position to state positively that the reports appearing in the morning paper at frequent intervals are unskilled perversions of the truth.

For more than two months the whole west coast from Sooke and Pachen northward has been under constant patrol. The government vessels have made an average of 175 miles a day, as can be shown by the ships' logs.

It may be opportune to explain to those who do not already know, the instructions of the government are that all captured vessels must, while impounded, be held in fresh water, as tying them up in salt water depreciates their value and leaves the government responsible for the depreciation.

We make every excuse for heated campaign slurs on government officials or where criticism is deserved, but the manufacture of wholesale slanders utterly lacking foundation in truth is, in our mind, a poor method of building up confidence in one's personal integrity.

The Winnipeg Post, a weekly anti-reciprocity paper, publishes the following comment on the recent railway strike in Great Britain as an illustration of what happens under free trade conditions.

The proposal of Mr. J. Obed Smith to arrange for a party including the entire membership of the British House of Commons on a tour of Canada, will, if carried out, be a momentous undertaking.

Mr. Foster apologized to North Toronto last week because he had not had time to devote much attention to local matters in that riding.

HOME SWEET HOME

What a host of pleasant memories cluster round the word "Home." But a home is not a home unless you own it and unless it is built to conform to your highest ideals and the requirements of yourself and your family.

A beautiful, convenient home is impossible without good plans. The perfection of the finished work depends upon the skill, ability and experience of the architect to the extent he co-operates with his client.

We make a specialty of designing houses—houses that are HOMES. Are you thinking of building? If so, you are cordially invited to visit this office and look over the original and effective photographs, sketches and plans for cottages, bungalows and residences of every style and size, or send a postal for our magazine.

Guard of Honor for Opening Day—Competitions Arranged for Saturday

General orders for Victoria Boy Scouts during the B. C. Agricultural Society's show, September 5 to 9, are issued as follows:

All scouts in uniform will be admitted free on any day during the fair.

On Tuesday, September 5, the brigade will parade as a guard of honor for the opening by his honor the lieutenant-governor at 2 p. m. They will fall in with the band by troops, near the entrance, inside the grounds, at 1.45. It is desirable to parade as strong as possible. Dress: Uniform with staves.

An exposition of practical work in first aid and bandaging. The judges who will be asked to officiate will also award marks for general smart appearance and percentage of total strength on parade. Each competition limited to 10 minutes duration.

Scout-masters are requested to communicate with Mr. Hughes, secretary, V. B. S., by Monday, September 4, as to their intention of entering the competition, and it is hoped that all troops will do so.

C. H. R. SLINGSBY, Acting Commissioner Victoria Boy Scouts.

GRISELDA CONCERT

Takes Place in Alexandra Club on Friday, September 8.

A grand evening concert will be given in the Alexandra Club on Friday, September 8, at 8:30 p. m., by Madamne Griselda, the world's famous soprano. She will be assisted by E. H. Russell, piano, and Paul Edmunds, baritone.

The programme, in course of preparation, promises to be a rare one. Besides Madamne Griselda's numbers Mr. Edmunds will render the famous proglogue from "Paganini," and the well-known Torador song from "Carmen."

Madamne Griselda will have a list of Victoria's most representative and distinguished people as patrons and patronesses at her concert, who are looking forward with anticipations of pleasure to the programme that is to be rendered. That she should have a great house goes without saying, for this city boasts of many cultured people and lovers of music.

The fire which on Monday destroyed one of the K. P. Rithet barns at Royal Oak, 100 tons of hay stored in the building, a threshing machine belonging to J. Black, and two stacks of wheat, is thought to have been started from a spark from the threshing machine. Lack of water prevented a successful fight being made against the blaze. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars.

TORY CANDIDATE URGED RECIPROCITY

H. T. Clements, Now Running in Comox-Atlin, Persistently Championed It

The Times has made the interesting discovery that H. S. Clements, the Vancouver barrister, nominated in the Conservative interest to oppose Duncan Ross in Comox-Atlin, was for years an earnest advocate of reciprocity in natural products between Canada and the United States. Mr. Clements represented West Kent in the House of Commons from 1904 to 1908, during which he made many speeches in favor of a reciprocal arrangement by which farm products could pass from one country to the other free of duty. Now, only three years later, he opposes the very same thing he persistently advocated in the House of Commons. "We are the reason of the change? It is simply because he considers it his duty as a follower of Mr. Borden to oppose every policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier regardless of the fact that it is in the best interest of the country and that for thirty years" it was the policy of the very same party of which he is a member. Here are extracts from Mr. Clements' speeches in the House of Commons taken from Hansard, the official record:—"I remember how the Prime Minister (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) before he became Prime Minister, used to declare in every district where he spoke that if he and his party came into power they would cut across the border and with their sunny ways would make an arrangement by which we should get a mutual exchange with our American neighbors, not only of agricultural products, but of all other products as well. But these sunny ways have not fulfilled their promise; on the contrary the changes have been rather to our detriment than in our favor since this Government came into power. I will not take up time in quoting in detail the differences between Canadian and American duties. It will be enough to say generally as I have stated in the past that the American duties are about two and one-half times as high as our duties against them. The necessities of life are unduly dear to the disadvantage of every laborer and mechanic in Canada.

Indians Had to Hump Themselves to Win—Thorsen Pitched Fine Ball

The Islanders gave the Indians another awful battle at Spokane yesterday, and almost tied the score in the ninth. Thorsen pitched good ball and deserved to win, but mishaps in the field and misplays on the bases were responsible for the defeat. Cartwright's fielding was a feature. Clementson's home run was one of the hardest drives ever recorded on the Spokane field. The score:

HOCKEY MAGNATES IN EAST BREATHE EASY

Frank Patrick on Way to Coast—Almost Depleted Several Eastern Clubs

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Now that Frank Patrick, the western hockey promoter, has hit the high spots for a speedy trip to the coast, eastern hockey magnates are breathing easier, especially in view of the fact that very few of the N. H. A. stars have come out with their avowed intentions of jumping to the coast. It is also some relief to know that Patrick did not disrupt the eastern body and this little episode will serve the N. H. A. clubs as a good warning to prepare for eventualities that may arise in the attempt of the coast hockey moguls to kidnap a bunch of the easterners to get their league limber waxy.

Patrick spent some time in Ottawa getting a line on the local stars, also Fred Taylor, the Renfrew "Cyclone." He refuses to divulge the success of his offers, but it is well known that a couple of the Ottawa team have turned down the western contracts. The money looks good, but permanent positions sound a whole lot better to the Ottawa boys, and that is what they intend hanging on to. Lesueur, it is said, will go west, but Marty Walsh, Duble Kerr and Jack Darragh are a trio that have given the frozen stare to the western financiers.

Wanderers will lose Walter Small, Harry Hyland and probably Art Ross, who is looking after the upbuilding of a great sport goods house, and who would hardly object to this opportunity to tour the coast in addition to the big salary and a great amount of free advertising. Ernie Johnson is also slated for Joe Hall, Barney Holden, Tommie Dunderdale or Edgar Dey, all four being certainities for the western organization.

Renfrew will lose Lindsay Rowe, Donald Smith, the Coghorn boys, and probably Taylor, leaving them with one or two men of last year's seven. Toronto may buy Bruce Riddpath from Ottawa, and Percy Lesueur may jump, but otherwise the Stanley cupholders will remain intact.

It is a bold move on the part of the Patrick boys to create a hockey boom on the coast, and if they succeed they will do a great work for the game. If they lose, however, it will do the sport an incalculable amount of injury and well-nigh wreck the N. H. A.

reliable, seldom missing a catch and taking care of everything that comes his way.

Rudolph Waad, age 24—Who until 1909 played cricket with Gibbboro, New Jersey. He is a good, fast bowler, an aggressive run-getting bat, and a brilliant fielder. He is not over-sensitive takes orders in the proper spirit, and is altogether a very valuable man on any side. His bowling average for 1910 was the best in the club and reads 34 wickets, at a cost of 15.50, and batting average 17 for ten innings. He was selected to play for U. S. A. vs. Canada in 1910, and the various inter-city conditions.

J. W. Polts, age 27—Played his first cricket with the Germantown Athletic, where he remains five years. He played for the University of Pennsylvania in 1903. His highest Halifax batting average is 17.40 for ten innings, and bowling average 14.20. He is one of the most brilliant fielders in Philadelphia, a dashing bat, and ready to dislodge when once started. However, it is as a bowler that we like Joe the best. He has a graceful, easy motion and bowls a fast to medium ball, and has been the backbone of Frankford's attack for the last ten years. At times he is like his great rival (King) unplayable.

Batesman—Siddington, age 33—Migrated to this country from the "Tight Little Isle" when only 14 years old. He can bat, bowl, field, and keep wickets, and do all of them well; but is as a wicket-keeper that he is best known. He easily ranks 3rd as a wicket-keeper in Philadelphia. He has scored the coveted century on two occasions. He has played for Philadelphia vs. Canada vs. New York vs. Baltimore.

Aloysius Vaad, age 22—Has only played cricket the last five years, four years with Bibbboro, N. J. and in 1910 with Frankford. He has the true cricket spirit and ambition. His best work as present is as an untiring and clever fielder. With the bat he is a vigorous hitter, but not having a good defence seldom gets a chance to hit.

H. K. Fries, age 42—Has not played much cricket of late years. He was a tower of strength to his side, both as a bat and a deceptive leg-break bowler. His delivery is peculiar and puzzling, and was the means of undoing many a good batsman who was at a loss to explain how he got out.

W. S. Evans, aged 25—Played his first cricket with Central High School and in his fourth year captained the eleven. Later he played with the University of Pennsylvania, and with the latter team went to England in 1907 and 1908-09-10; and with the Gentlemen of Philadelphia to Jamaica (B. W. L.) in 1909; and represented U. S. A. against Canada in 1906. He played for the Gentlemen of Philadelphia vs. Gentlemen of Ireland at Haverford in 1909. He is a stylish bat and has made many good scores. His wicket-keeping while in England was highly rated.

Frank R. Hansell, aged 28—Was wicket-keeper for Frankford in its early days, and a wicket-keeper of unusual merit, as his selection by Pittsburg to keep wickets for them in a tournament bespeaks. He is a prince of good fellows and a steady bat, having the record for Frankford in a last wicket stand which yielded over 60 seldom seen nowadays, round arm with very low delivery, fast to medium, and altogether a very deceptive bowler. He has performed many wonderful bowling feats, and the writer regrets he has not the records at hand in order to be able to relate a few. As a fielder he has few superiors, and all the attributes we like a fielder to possess he possesses. His every action on the field is finished and graceful. He may be said to be a stylist on the field. With the bat he has no equal as an emergency man; a vigorous hitter, and rapid run-getter. In 1910 he and Fellows put on 90 runs for a last wicket stand; and in the same year he and R. W. Hillis came together in a last wicket stand when 86 runs were needed to win—and they made them.

Harvey M. Wilson, aged 25, has runs against All-Bermuda in 1907. He has been selected by the Associated Cricket Clubs to play inter-city games against New York and Baltimore. His best Halifax Cup average was 15.30 for ten innings. He is always a dependable man in emergencies, and never cast down by the gloomiest outlook.

A. L. Hillis, Jr., aged 30—Learned his first cricket at the famous Friends Select School of Philadelphia. He is a steady bat and a hard man to dislodge when set. His batting is not of the stylish kind, but he is a consistent run-getter, as his average in Halifax Cup cricket for 1909 will indicate—27.35 for ten innings. He is a good man in an emergency, and has pulled his side out of many a tight place. He is often selected by the Association Cricket Clubs to represent them in inter-city cricket.

F. S. Hillis, age 27—The youngest of the Hillis family of cricketers, and there are many such families in Philadelphia—to mention only a few that are household words—such as the Newhall, Patterson, Thayer, Clark, Graham, Pearson and White families. F. S. Hillis played school cricket with the Friends Select School and was captain of his last year at school. His best Halifax average was in 1908 and reads 18.60 for eight innings. He is a rapid run-getter, hits hard, and has a style of his own. In the field he is very

CORINTHIANS WIN AT VANCOUVER

Touring Association Football Players Take Game by Five Goals to One

Vancouver, Aug. 29.—Football enthusiasts to the number of 3,500 witnessed last evening's exhibition between the touring Corinthians, one of the leading amateur sides in England, and a team selected from among the various senior clubs of Vancouver. The result, five to one, just about indicates the play. To close followers of the game the display of the tourists was rather disappointing. Although they appear to be first class players, every one of them, their work was brilliant only in spots. Perhaps the fact that their opponents were not well conditioned for a hard match and consequently did not prove as formidable as they would had the players had ample time to prepare for the engagement, had something to do with the Corinthians' style of play. It was apparent soon after the start that the locals could not cope with the rushes of the Old Country footballers and the latter eased up in their attacks in the second half.

In the first period the Corinthians put up four goals, Vancouver failing to register. After the interval the Vancouver players steadied down and as the result of a combined rush were able to place the ball in the net, Teed scoring on a pretty shot which beat Newman completely. After the kick-off the Corinthians again rushed and notched another point, the final score being 5-1.

To-morrow the Corinthians will play a combined Nanaimo-Ladysmith team at Nanaimo, while on Saturday they are scheduled to play Victoria. The Island teams, as a rule, can be depended upon to put up a hard fight.

ABOUT BASEBALL

Ten Million has been hitting the ball hard this week. He was credited with three swats yesterday.

That little hot-headed stunt that Mike Lynch pulled off over in Spokane, when he marched his men off the field, following a decision by Umpire Jack McCarthy, is going to cost Mike and George Shreeder, either or both, $700, if reports are to be believed. First,

Mike has been fined $100 by the president of the league, and it is said that Shreeder will be fined $200 at the next meeting of the directors. Then Cohn will likely present a claim for loss in the issuance of rain checks, amounting to about $400. This will be allowed, if presented. Shreeder will have to pay it, although he may hold back on Mike's salary, and make his peppery leader stand the loss.

The owners of the Victoria club are taking a chance on Thorsen, and judging by yesterday's game they are not going to lose on him. If Thorsen can "come back" he is worth some money.

T. P. McConnell wired "Ducky" Holmes the other day placing the entire charge of the team in his hands. As long as Ducky keeps within the salary limit he can do just as he thinks best for the team.

It is expected that one or two of the apologies for pitchers at present attached to the Victoria club will be missing when the team returns.

Umpire Jewell did not last long, according to the official score.

Bill Goodman had just run through his twenty-fourth consecutive game without an error before he sprained his ankle.

The Odd Fellows' baseball team, which will play the combined Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Duncan team at Duncan on Labor Day, will have a practice to-morrow (Thursday) night at Beacon Hill at 8 o'clock. All players in the order are invited to this practice.

Jimmy Archer of the Chicago Cubs is proud of a feat which he thinks to be a world's record. When playing with the Atlantic Southern League team he caught three men napping off first, second and third base in one inning. The bags were filled and Jimmy picked off one at a time.

The standing of the Northwestern League teams is:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Vancouver	52	52	.500
Spokane	75	51	.595
Seattle	73	60	.548

FIRST TO HAZELTON.

Seattle Motor Company Yesterday Sent Out "Flanders 29."

In an effort to capture the Challenger & Mitchell "First to Hazelton" trophy, the E. M. F. Northwest Automobile Company, of Seattle, under the direction of Manager P. E. Sands, yesterday sent out a "Flanders 29" motor car, the driver of which has undertaken to make the trip from Seattle to Hazelton. Should he be successful, besides winning the "First to Hazelton" trophy, offered under the auspices of the Pacific Highway Association, he will secure the honors for the farthest north motor run ever made in America. At present the farthest north record is credited to a car which early in the season made its way through Saskatchewan to a point in the same latitude as Fort George.

The route comprises some 700 miles of practically wilderness country, in which no continuous thoroughfare, at present exists, and where way must be found by the pioneer car by means of detached stretches of short road, railroad construction roads and trails.

If successful it is expected that the trip will be made in a little over ten days. Mr. Sands is naturally keen on capturing for his car the honor of first making this run as it is one of the severest tests that can be imposed on a car, and will, in consequence, be a great boost for the Northwest Company. The victorious driver will be presented with the handsome gold trophy offered by Challenger & Mitchell, in the form of an automobile wheel, and bearing the inscription, "First to Hazelton via the Pacific highway."

SPORT NOTES

Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, is a slight favorite for his match to-night with "Knockout" Brown at Madison Square Garden, New York. Odds to-day ruled 5 to 1. The bout will be the most important thus far under the new state boxing law and the nearest approach to a championship battle here since the days of old Horton law. The bout is distinctly an international event with the two men representing the styles distinctive of their respective countries. Brown the slugger, and Wells the cautious boxer. The physician who examined both men, in accordance with the requirements of the new law, has certified that both are in excellent condition and that Wells shows no weakness as the result of the strain he has undergone to make the 133-pound weight limit. It is expected that the Briton will take on two or three pounds after the men weigh in at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Charley White will referee the fight, which will begin at 10:30 p. m.

Because Hackenschmidt burst into song, the training camp of the Russian Lion was in an optimistic frame of mind to-day, says a report from Chicago. Dr. Roller, the big fellow's trainer, said that he had been awaiting anxiously for the musical eruption, as it always indicated that the wrestler has reached the pink of condition. "I have been waiting for him to sing ever since we left England," said Dr. Roller, "as it indicates his frame of mind. If he were worried he would not emit that lyrical roar." Hackenschmidt did a bit of light road work to-day and indulged in a plunge in the surf.

"Porky" Flynn had a shade the better of Joe Jeannette, colored heavyweight, in a ten-round bout at the Fairmont Athletic Club, New York, last night. It was the first fight in this city under the new boxing laws, and for the first time in years the public witnessed a ring contest without the slightest danger of police interference. The bout, however, was something of a disappointment to the large crowd.

W. N. Kennedy, secretary of the J. B. A. rowing committee, is waiting anxiously for word from Vancouver regarding the date of the Vancouver Rowing Club's regatta. It is expected that it will be held on Labor Day but nothing definite has been heard as yet. The J. B. A. contemplates sending over two crews, a single and a double.

NEW RECORDS LIKELY FOR ORIENTAL TRIP

G. N. Liner Minnesota Making Passage From Yokohama to Seattle in 13 Days

With every indication that she will arrive in Seattle two days ahead of her schedule time, and with good prospects for breaking all of her previous speed records between Yokohama and Seattle, the big Hill liner Minnesota, Captain Thomas W. Garlick, is now racing across the Pacific bound for the Sound.

The vessel sailed from the Orient August 19, and was posted to arrive September 2, but when a wireless message was received from her Friday night giving her position at 2,000 miles from Seattle, officials of the Great Northern Steamship Company marked her arrival at Seattle for September 1.

Wireless messages from the vessel indicating that she is maintaining her speed, favored by fine weather, caused the company yesterday to post her arrival for to-morrow night, and if she makes port by that time she will have completed a remarkable voyage, covering the distance from Yokohama in thirteen days.

The Minnesota has aboard 1,000 bales of raw silk, 2,000 measurement tons of tea, and a passenger list of 100.

It is unofficially reported here that the big Hill liner Minnesota, will take the next scheduled steaming in the Canadian Pacific Company's line from Victoria to the Orient, replacing the wrecked steamer Empress of China. It is said the Minnesota will load as usual on the Sound, but in leaving will call at Vancouver and this city for Canadian Pacific passengers and freight, the schedule date being September 12.

CITY WELCOMES ADMIRAL TOGO

JAPAN'S NAVAL HERO SPENDS FEW HOURS HERE

Mayor Extends Good Wishes of Victorians and Japanese Present Gifts

Of medium height, with an imposing head resting on a broad pair of shoulders and as erect as a young man of twenty-one, although old age is rapidly creeping upon him, is Admiral Heihachiro Togo, the great Japanese naval hero, who for several hours yesterday was the guest of the sons and daughters of the Mikado residing in this city.

The strain of the long trip around the world has told a great deal on the strength of the Admiral, but yesterday he wore a genial smile upon his broad, square-featured face, which is deeply furrowed in places, worked partly by Old Father Time and the great amount of work which has come under his jurisdiction during the past fifteen years. Feeling indisposed Admiral Togo did not come ashore here but throughout the whole of the time the Tamba Maru was tied up at the outer wharf, he was kept busy shaking hands and receiving addresses and presents from the Japanese of this city. Being a man past his sixtieth milestone the trip across the North American continent has been a hard test of his physical strength. He has been tendered receptions at all the large cities, including New York, Montreal, Philadelphia, Boston, Vancouver and Seattle, but with a fifteen-day sea trip ahead of him the Admiral believes that he will be restored to good health before reaching Yokohama.

Although the grand old man of Japan should have been confined to his bed yesterday the indomitable spirit which he possesses, and which won for Japan the great naval battles against the Russians, kept him on his feet until the reception here was over. Knowing that he would be well received here, the Admiral did not wish to disappoint his fellow countrymen and women, and it must have lived his spirits to a high pitch when he witnessed the Japanese mingled with the English residents of this city, cheering and shouting their banal.

As the steamship came up to the dock Admiral Togo was seen on the deck with field glasses in hand, and surrounded by his subordinates. When some one noticed his figure upon the deck he was bombarded with a series of shouts and cheers. Gracefully he doffed his hat in acknowledgment of the greetings.

The ceremony was one of the most picturesque and notable that has been seen at the outer wharf for many years. The gaily decorated boats, the silk dresses of the Japanese ladies and the dress suits of the Japanese gentlemen all tended to make it a most brilliant spectacle. Unfortunately the weather man had not arranged for a nice, bright, sun-shiny day, there being a clouded sky and a light mist hanging over the waters of the straits, so that Admiral Togo was not enabled to form a proper opinion of Victoria's climate.

About 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Japanese residents of this city began to stream down to the C. P. R. docks to board the steamer Princess Beatrice, which had been chartered to carry them to meet the Tamba Maru in the Straits. At 3 o'clock they were about three hundred aboard and the ship gaily decorated, cast off her lines. When nearing Clover Point the Maru could be seen emerging from the mist with the two American battleships, West Virginia and Colorado, acting as escorts, some distance on her port. The Beatrice was turned about and as the big steamship passed to the port of her the flag was dipped and the city band, which played the national airs of Japan during the trip, struck up the national anthem and the little brown men from the east commenced to cheer vociferously. From then on until the Maru had been piloted up to the dock those on the Beatrice kept up a constant volley of cheers.

Hurriedly everyone disembarked from the Beatrice and crossed to the dock where the Maru had tied up. When the immigration and custom officials had pronounced the steamship clear, the reception committee proceeded aboard the vessel. On the promenade deck they assembled and in turn the members of it, including M. Nagano, head of the committee; K. Ishii, R. Kawawari, Y. Kishida, Rev. A. Kato, Mr. Nakano, of Cumberland, and Mr. Asada, together with their wives, were introduced by Mr. Yada, the Japanese Consul at Vancouver, to Admiral Togo.

Mayor Morley, as chief magistrate of Victoria, was also in attendance, and following his introduction to the Admiral, said: "I am exceedingly sorry to hear that you are indisposed and have decided not to come up town and see our beautiful city. Several years ago I had the honor of meeting Prince Fushimi on his visit to this city. If you see him on your return you might remember me to him. It is impossible for me to induce you to come ashore I hope that some other day you may again visit Victoria and will have more time at your disposal. We have a very beautiful city here indeed and I am exceedingly sorry you cannot see it now."

The mayor then asked the admiral if there was anything that he could do in order to make his stay here pleasant. Following the introduction, Admiral Togo, together with his aide-de-camp, Commander Taneguchi, was made the recipient of many beautiful presents. The Japanese residents of Victoria presented the Admiral with two magnificent panther rugs and his aide with one. From the residents in Cumberland the Admiral received a silver tea set and Commander Taneguchi a silver cake-basket. The Japanese at Steveston, mindful of the great assistance Togo had been to their home land in the broad Pacific, packed three cases of the choicest salmon to be obtained, and had them presented to him. There was a great crowd of people assembled on the deck awaiting to catch a better glimpse of the renowned Admiral and so accompanied by the mayor, he made his way to the gang plank. In a brief address Mayor Morley felicitated Admiral Togo and stated that he believed him to be one of the finest naval fighters that ever commanded a fleet. He wished him a pleasant voyage across the ocean and hoped that he would be spared for many years to assist Japan to solve her great national problem. In concluding the mayor called upon the great throng of people for three cheers for their great Japanese hero. The response echoed over the waters and a fiercer was given. Awaiting the cheering, Admiral Togo, Commander Taneguchi, stepping forward, said: "The Admiral thanks you for your kind greetings." Another round of cheers then followed as the old hero climbed the companionway on the promenade deck.

Conversing with a Times representative, Commander Taneguchi stated that their trip throughout had been a most pleasant one. They had been well received in every city they visited and he wished especially to thank the Canadians for their share in making the trip enjoyable.

"We left Japan five months ago," said the Commander, "to attend the funeral of King George V. Admiral Togo being appointed as Japan's representative. We journeyed to the Old Country via the Suez canal route and decided to return by way of Canada and the United States in order to familiarize ourselves with this great continent. This is not my first visit to Victoria, and what I can see of it from the ship here I certainly have made rapid progress during my absence. I have nothing further to say except that I again wish to thank the people for their kindness to us."

About 6 o'clock last evening the local pilot boarded the Tamba Maru and she glided from her moorings on her long journey. The Japanese residents again followed the steamship as far as Race Rocks. The band continued to play many selections, which make the hearts of the Japs feel glad, and as they said farewell to Togo-off the Race the national anthem was again played. The two warships, which escorted the Tamba Maru until she crossed into Canadian waters, waited off the Race Rocks until she made the call at Victoria. An Admiral's salute was fired as the Tamba passed them and then they proceeded, accompanying her as far as Cape Flattery, where they parted good friends at 10 o'clock.

Admiral Togo is known the world over as the greatest fighter Japan has ever produced. His scientific methods of dealing with his enemy and his indomitable courage has made him a dreaded foe in battle. At present he is at the head of the Japanese fleet and the high state of efficiency of that department of Japan's national life is in no small degree due to the hard efforts and unquenching spirit of Togo.

Born in 1847, Admiral Togo when he became a young man, was sent to England, where he obtained his education. In 1862 he joined the navy of Daimyo of Kagoshima, and five years later was appointed to the Kasuga, of the Imperial fleet. He was aboard that vessel when she defeated the Chinese warship Kialien. After following the sea for some years Togo again returned to England in 1871 and remained there until 1878, studying naval matters. He returned to Japan on the battleship Hiyel, one of the first warships built in England to the order of the Japanese government.

When the Japanese-Chinese war began Admiral Togo took on active part in the naval side of the question. Although negotiations between Japan and the head of the Flowering Kingdom were still in progress, Togo sank the Chinese transport Kowshing, which flew the British flag. Throughout that war he commanded the warship Naniwa. At the close of the conflict in 1895 Togo was promoted to the post of Rear-Admiral as a result of his pluck and courage in the various engagements he participated in. Another promotion awaited him in 1900, when he was given the rank of Vice-Admiral and four years later he was given command of the combined fleet of the Mikado with the title of first Admiral.

Following the outbreak of the war between Russia and Japan, Admiral Togo again figured prominently. He completed one of the most startling feats in the history of recent wars by effectively blockading Port Arthur. Although the outside world thought he would never accomplish his task, the little Admiral paced his bridge or sat in his cabin figuring out new schemes for the blockading of the entrance to Port Arthur and keeping the Russian fleet inside. After bottling up Port Arthur, Togo, who was aboard the flagship Mikasa, proceeded to the Japan Sea to meet the Russian fleet, which was on its way from St. Petersburg to assist the Russians on the Pacific in an attempt to defeat the Japs.

The battle in which Togo broke the maritime power of Russia and practically annihilated the Baltic fleet, is remembered by all. The decorations held by Admiral Togo are the Fourth Order Golden Kite, Order of Merit (British), and Grand Order.

EXPERIENCES MISTY WEATHER SOUTHBOUND

Prince George Arrived in Port From Rupert—Has Large Passenger List

Misty weather encountered in the narrow passages coming south from Prince Rupert and Stewart had a tendency to retard the progress of the big steamer Prince George, Capt. Frank Saunders, which arrived in port this morning. When the fog lifted, however, the vessel was able to pick up her lost time and reached Vancouver last night as punctual as ever. Outside of the foggy weather experienced the George had fair weather throughout her passage.

There was a record passenger list aboard the Prince George southbound, including a large number of people who made the round trip on her. Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Patterson, of Moran's Iron Works, Seattle, went north to Stewart and return. Among the other passengers who came south were the following: Sol. Cameron, George Bergs, L. P. Lindsay, M. L. Gordon, M. Coran, C. Rowe, Mrs. Van Elkins, C. C. Michener, Hon. Dr. Young, Dr. Kergin, A. C. Roberts, J. A. Owen, F. Ropes, A. C. Mitchell, A. W. Whitehall, F. A. Mitchell, W. M. Thompson, T. J. Marshall, J. W. Tupton, Mrs. E. Cox, and Miss Adams.

At 10 o'clock this morning the Prince George proceeded to Seattle, for which port she has a number of southbound passengers. The steamer will return here to-morrow morning at 7 o'clock and sail at 10 o'clock for Prince Rupert. She will not go any farther north than the G. T. P. terminal, having completed her schedule to Stewart.

W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent of the G. T. P., and W. E. Davis, passenger traffic manager, will arrive here on Sunday morning, from the north on the Prince Rupert and remain in this city for two days. The remainder of the party of G. T. P. officials will not arrive here until a week from to-day.

how arrived here and from that time to this the department of naval affairs at Ottawa has had control and has been responsible. Previous to that the British Admiralty had control and retained an agent on the station.

Construction on Pacific. Mr. Barnard discussed at some length at a former meeting here, as in the Victoria theatre last night, the building on the Pacific coast of a portion of Canada's navy. Here is what he says as reported in the Colonist. "When tenders were called every one provided for the establishment of a ship yard for construction on the Atlantic or the Pacific. In no single instance was anything mentioned to require construction on the Pacific Coast."

That is, it was stipulated that there should be yards on the Atlantic but none on the Pacific. That is a pretty clear cut statement and no matter how much Mr. Barnard tried he could not get farther away from the truth. The tenders called for in respect to the construction of the Canadian navy contained no stipulation as to the Atlantic or the Pacific. The only stipulation was that the fleet should be constructed in Canada, leaving it to the contractors to construct the vessels where they pleased of where they found it most advantageous to establish their works. It has been stated also that the contract had been let. Now as a matter of fact the contract has not been awarded. Invitations to tender were sent out and every firm in Canada capable of doing such work was invited to tender. There has not been one tender received from a Canadian builder; all are from the Old Country ship builders, such as Vickers-Maxim, Swan & Hunter, and others. They all propose building in Canada and they are at present trying to determine where.

Many Details to Decide. There is a great deal to do as to naval base, dockage and establishing plant which cannot be done in a day. The company which gets the contract will decide where the works will be established. The price will be considerably higher than if the ships were constructed in England, higher by from 30 to 40 per cent. How much higher it would be if construction takes place on the Pacific ocean I do not know, but it will be higher. There are all points which the government has yet to discuss and decide. I am not going to say because I am not in a position to say whether any portion of the navy will be built at Esquimalt or not. But I think it is possible that part of it may be.

Mr. Barnard has no right to say that the government is remiss, or that I representing British Columbia in the government have been remiss in pressing upon the council the advisability of building on this coast. The question is an open question yet.

Establishing Dry Dock. In order to put Esquimalt in the position it should enjoy the government decided some little time ago to subsidize a dry dock of large dimensions. A contract was entered into between the B. C. Marine Railway Company and the Dominion government, whereby the company agreed to build a dock 900 feet long, 100 feet wide, at a cost of $2,500,000, on which the Dominion government has promised to pay as a subsidy to the company 2 1/2 per cent, yearly for 35 years. In other words, this is a bonus to the company of $91,000 annually for 35 years.

If the dock were only to be occupied by mercantile vessels it would be hardly necessary to go to the enormous expense which the construction of a dock of those dimensions would entail. This is a naval dock, for use by vessels of the navy as well as by merchant men, and the subsidy would not have been granted at the present time if it were not for the fact that Esquimalt is a naval station, that a portion of the Canadian navy is going to be stationed here and that it was necessary that we should provide for the future. (Cheers.) The dock will be of sufficient capacity to accommodate two Dreadnoughts.

I repeat that the question as to place at which the vessels will be constructed and the possibility of portion of the work being done at Esquimalt has not yet been settled. There are no doubt those who are trying, quite naturally, to pull all they can for the Atlantic coast, and we on our part have an equal interest in trying to pull all we can for this coast, and it may be that we will not altogether fail to secure that recognition of Esquimalt's position as a naval station that it is entitled to receive. (Cheers.)

Mr. Barnard and the Colonist may profess to be very anxious to lead people aright, never desiring to misrepresent anything, but they have been laboring for six months to misrepresent, according to my view, the attitude of the Dominion government on the naval question. The need of Canada taking a part in the defence of the Empire has been under discussion for many years. It received considerable attention at the Imperial Conference in 1907 when the Admiralty propounded a scheme of Imperial defence, by which the overseas dominions were each to contribute a sum of money, but that was found not to meet the views of the overseas representatives. In 1907 Dr. Smart, one of the South African delegates, in a resolution proposed direct contribution. The other representatives, voicing their sentiments through Sir Wilfrid Laurier, held that a contribution in money was not the proper way for Canada or the other overseas dominions to assist the Imperial government in the defence of the Empire. Sir Wilfrid took the ground that Canada should protect herself and in protecting herself would be best defending the Empire. (Applause.)

So it was that in the discussion in the House of Commons in 1909 both parties, Conservatives and Liberals, agreed on a policy. The difference which afterwards arose was not in evidence at that time. In the session of 1909 a resolution was unanimously adopted by the House, affirming these principles: "This House fully recognizes the duty of the people of Canada, as they increase in numbers and wealth, to assume in larger measure the responsibilities of national defence. The House reaffirms the opinion, repeatedly expressed by representatives of Canada, that under the present constitutional relations between the Mother Country and the self-governing dominions the payment of any stated contribution to the Imperial treasury for naval and military purposes would not, so far as Canada is concerned, be a satisfactory solution of the question of defence. The House will cordially approve of any necessary expenditure designed to promote the organization of a Canadian naval service in co-operation with and in close relation to the Imperial navy, along the lines suggested by the Admiralty at the last Imperial Conference, and in full sympathy with the view that the naval supremacy of Great Britain is essential to the security, commerce, and safety of the Empire and the peace of the world."

The Policy Adopted. The original resolution was the handwork of Hon. George E. Foster and as amended was unanimously approved by the entire House. Mr. Borden, before the Canadian Club in London, and again later on in Halifax, said there was no question but Canada should build her own navy; that there should be no such thing as a contribution of money, that we should build and man our own ships. In 1909, Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. Mr. Broderick went to London and conferred with the Admiralty and on their return submitted the agreement arrived at, which was that a fleet of ten vessels, four Bristol and six destroyers, should be provided by Canada. The Bristol type is the latest type of the latest type, 430 feet in length, 47 feet beam and with a speed of 25 knots, costing some $2,000,000 each. The six destroyers are to be of the improved river class, costing about $400,000 each. This is the fleet which Mr. Barnard and other Conservatives in the House and out of it have been patrolling enough to describe as a tinpot navy, and which he said in his speech last night is a navy that will always run away from an enemy. (Shame on him! from several voices.) Each Bristol will have a complement of twenty officers and 371 men, and each destroyer five officers and 91 men or a total of some 2,200 men. Mr. Barnard said it was proposed to put two Bristol and no destroyers on the Pacific coast. My recollection of the matter is that there are at first to be three destroyers and one Bristol on this coast. But that is a detail subject to change, because what might be all right at the start might not be all right at a later date.

Only the Beginning. This is the initiation, the first installment of a Canadian navy. We are not going to stop there. It would be perfectly absurd to say that the ten vessels which we have decided to build should be all we would build. We are only beginning the construction of a navy. To undertake the building of four Bristol and six destroyers, to cost $11,000,000 to $12,000,000, and establishing fleets, small things though they be, on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, is a vast undertaking for the Dominion. I received a fair criticism by the Conservative press and speakers they should have been patriotic enough to support the government, as they practically promised to do in supporting the resolution I have read to you. (Hear, hear.) They have gone back on their policy of building a Canadian navy. Mr. Barnard and his friends have a resolution opposing the immediate construction of the navy.

An Unholy Alliance. Who are the friends and allies of the Conservatives in their opposition to the navy? Mr. Bourassa and his lieutenants. Mr. Bourassa has been making trouble ever since the South African contingent was sent to assist Britain in the Boer war, and has been agitating the public mind in regard to Canada taking part in the wars of the Empire. Mr. Bourassa is a former Liberal, a clever speaker and a born agitator, and he has for years been endeavoring to inflame the minds of the French Canadians. The by-election in Drummond-Athabaska a year ago was lost, as you will remember, on account of our naval policy. Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Monk, the Conservative leader in Quebec, joined hands to fight the government and their coalition on that occasion was really the initiation of the strenuous opposition by the Conservative party to the naval policy of the government.

The Conservative party thought it saw some hope of defeating the government through the help of Mr. Bourassa and his friends. There is to-day a close coalition between the ultra-loyal Conservative party—that extremely loyal Conservative party which is waving the old flag on the reciprocity issue—and Mr. Bourassa, the leader of the Nationalists of Quebec, who are making common cause in an attempt to defeat the government on its naval policy in the province of Quebec. (Shame.)

Mr. Bourassa is campaigning on the same platform as Mr. Monk. Mr. Bourassa takes the ground that not one dollar should be spent to build a navy for our own defence, let alone to help defend the Empire. Mr. Bourassa's ambition is the establishment of a French Canadian nation; at least his own words lead to that conclusion. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is fighting the combined conspirators. (Cheers.) The only strength the Conservatives have in Quebec to-day is through the disloyalty of the Bourassa party, and Mr. Borden, Mr. Barnard, and I suppose Mr. Shepherd, with their truly loyal Conservative supporters are in the same combination and working to the same end.

What Nationalists Say. To realize what sort of partners the Conservatives have allied themselves with, you have only to read what they say. Mr. Bourassa said, speaking of the election in Drummond-Athabaska: "They (the electors) have given to Mr. Monk and to the group of gunpointers who have valiantly backed him up, striking testimony of esteem and approbation. They have proved that the member for Jacques Cartier, alone gauged the thought of the nation when he called for the submission of this law to the people before it was passed. They have given Lord Grey and all the Imperialists to understand that it is not enough to beguile or intimidate party chiefs in order to rule over the heart of the people."

Then we have Mr. Borden, a Conservative member, saying: "The English have never done anything for the French-Canadians, and those who killed our fathers on the plains of Abraham ask you to-day to go and get killed for them." Tancred Marsil, commenting on the result in Drummond-Athabaska, said: "It is vengeance for the shots of St. Eustache. Those who were hung on the scaffold to defend our liberties are now consoling themselves with the thought that they are being killed for the Empire."

These people are fighting against any kind of navy whatever—no ships, no contribution, no soldiers, no sailors; that is the policy of the Nationalists, the allies of the Conservative party. (Shame.) Mr. Borden and his friends are willing to avail themselves of their help to get into power, and the Conservative party is in this terrible position to-day, that they are coaling with the very men who say there should be no navy, while in British Columbia the Conservative party is criticizing the government for what they claim is the inadequacy of our programme, and claiming that we should make a contribution in money. I think the men of Canada will approve of it, our naval policy; approve of it as an excellent start, approve of it because we have absolute control of it; approve of it because we are building it in Canada with our own money and controlling the people will approve our policy rather than a policy of coaling with the people who are practically hiring British seamen to fight for us. (Applause.)

An Imperial Policy. It is not so much that we are building these ships as that we are going to enlist Canadians in defence of the Empire, that Canadians in defence of the Empire, even more than ever soldiers of the King and fight for the Empire. (Cheers.) That we are going to train our own men and man our own ships is infinitely of greater value than the contribution of any number of millions of dollars towards the expenses of the British navy. (Renewed cheers.) In conclusion the minister remarked there had been a great deal of talk some time ago that Premier McBride, as a great Conservative leader, was going to Ottawa to oust Mr. Borden from his leadership. Mr. Hazen a Conservative premier in the East, was to join him, Sir James Whitney was another and "Bob" Rogers was also spoken of. When Mr. McBride was passing through Ottawa to the coronation he was acclaimed at a banquet by the Conservatives and Attorney-General Bowser practically offered him to the party whenever an election should come on. These gentlemen were all to be in the fight and were simply going to sweep the country. The fight was now on and where were they? Not one of them was in it; they had all faked. (Laughter and loud applause.)

Mr. Bowser had intimated that Mr. McBride would jump into the fray but he had not jumped. Mr. Rogers found that he could be more useful on the outside—and perhaps he could. (Laughter.) They were all like Artemus Ward, who was going to sacrifice all his wife's relations but objected to becoming a soldier himself. Concluding, Mr. Templeman said: Premier McBride promises to deliver a solid seven. Elections are proverbially uncertain but I do not think he will make good his boast. (Hear, hear.) There is no doubt the government will be returned and I would not like to see British Columbia without adequate representation on the government side. Mr. Smith has made a good representative, has the confidence of the premier and the government and it is the personal desire of Sir Wilfrid that he should again represent this constituency. (Applause.) If no tricks are played—they are beginning them already—and I am elected in Victoria, I will continue to pay the same close attention to the needs of Victoria and Esquimalt, and to the whole province as well, that I have always tried to do. (Cheers.) I am afraid that I will not be able to contradict the falsehoods of the other side as fast as they are uttered. But Mr. Smith and I have both lived long in this community, and I do not think that these falsehoods will do us any harm; even if we have not time to answer them. (Renewed cheers.)

Ralph Smith Chaired. Ralph Smith, on rising to address the audience, was accorded a great reception. He expressed his pleasure at being present and took the early opportunity of rebuking the interrupters by congratulating them upon their readiness to debate the points in dispute. That was more than the Conservative leaders were prepared to do. Personally he believed that everyone should have the opportunity of asking what questions they thought fit so long as they are pertinent to the issue at hand. He believed in free speech and free discussion, and that was exactly why he had sent a letter to the Conservative convention at Duncan the other day asking that joint meetings be held throughout the constituency so that the public would have an opportunity of hearing both candidates at one and the same time. He pointed out in the letter that not only would it save time, but it would also save money. He thought that his letter was a very modest one and not a little charitable in its purpose, but up to the present time he had never even received the favor of a reply. He gathered, therefore, that however ready his Conservative friends in the hall might be to discuss the subjects of the day, it was perfectly evident that the party representatives were not ready to do so. (Hear, hear.) Continuing, he said: Mr. Shepherd delivered his first speech last night, and he announced two propositions. In discussing reciprocity he said that wages were determined by the cost of living. That was an economic principle, he said, he can imagine that the majority of men here would be very pleased if that principle was correct, for the cost of living is very high. But if you compare wages for the last ten years and the increase in wages for the same period, I have no doubt that you will see the fallacy of the principle. (Applause.)

Shepherd's Economic Fallacy. If the wages of the workers were determined by the cost of living, then the condition of the wage-earners would never change at all. If his wages were regulated by the size of his grocery bill, his financial condition would always be the same despite the variations in that bill. He would never be any better off or any worse off. "Let well enough alone," said a Conservative in the audience. I was coming to that, continued Mr. Smith. It is an old Conservative cry. When the Liberals of England abolished the corn laws the Tories said let well enough alone; when the Liberal party of Canada inaugurated its great development policy in 1896 the Conservatives of this country said let well enough alone; when the Liberal government provided a trade preference for Great Britain and manifested by that very act their loyalty to Great Britain, the Tories said let well enough alone; when Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed to build a second great transcontinental railroad in this country the Tories said let well enough alone. (Applause.)

In 1900 when the position of England was considered to be dangerous in view of the aggression of Germany, the Tories said, "Here is a fine opportunity of stepping into the breach," and they brought in proposals indicating the serious condition of affairs represented by the rapid growth of the German navy and the tremendous strides made by that country, as a result of which the Liberal Conservative party in Quebec of the opposition got together, discussed the situation keenly, agreed to send the responsible ministers to England to consult with the British admiralty, but when they came back bent on ratifying these proposals for strengthening the hand of the Mother Country, the Tories who had initiated the movement to protect Great Britain against the aggression, or threatened aggression, of Germany, again said let well enough alone. (Applause.)

They changed their whole policy, yet these are the men who pose as the friends of Empire, the men who want to protect the old flag. The Bourassa Alliance. What are these imperialistic flag wavers doing to-day? We look over the situation and we find them closely allied with the Nationalist party in Quebec which is headed by Mr. Bourassa, the same Mr. Bourassa who got up in the House of Commons and repudiated Sir Wilfrid Laurier on account of his imperialism, repudiated him on account of his naval policy, and on account of everything that tended to place Canada in a position of self-defence. Yes, the great Conservative party which holds a corner on the patriotism of the Empire is in alliance with that Nationalist party in Quebec which has for its sole object the defeat of any imperialistic project whatsoever. (Applause.) While they are openly campaigning with the Nationalists in Quebec we have them here waving the old flag and taking up a very different attitude indeed. That position is insupportable and cannot be denied by anyone who cares to read the lessons of the fight. Inconsistent Tories. The inconsistency of the Conservatives is not confined to naval matters, however, or to any one or two questions. It exists in a very pronounced degree in regard to the question of reciprocity. Reciprocity is common to the history of this country. I carefully studied Canadian History before coming here—and I have only been here a modest nineteen years—and I will take it very seriously if I am not correct in saying that since confederation this country has been willing and anxious to enter into an agreement with the United States for better trade relations, especially in regard to natural and food products. In 1878 Sir John A. Macdonald made provision for reciprocity in his national policy. That was the mandate which the Liberal government had for negotiating on the question, say without hesitation, and without fear of contradiction that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his government received authority to negotiate with the United States for the present agreement from Sir John A. Macdonald. When he established his national policy he provided in it that whenever the United States was prepared to consider the question of better trade relations in regard to food and natural products, that Canada would be anxious and willing to associate in the movement. Sir Wilfrid Laurier therefore is only putting into active operation to-day that for which the power was provided by his predecessor in 1877, for it has never been withdrawn. (Applause.) A Pertinent Question. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier had come back to the House of Commons and said that he did not propose to deal with the question because Uncle Jonathan was too slippery and too clever, if he had come back and said that he was going to carry out the business of the country absolutely separate and apart from the United States, will any man tell you what position Mr. Borden would have taken up? His friends and predecessors right away to confederation had stood for reciprocity. He himself, we have reason to believe, right in his own party caucus at Ottawa, took a stand for reciprocity, and they had to take him by the throat in order to force him to raise a hostile voice against it. Mr. Borden pointed out that it was inconsistent, that they had all stood for it in this country, that provision had been made for it by his own friends; but his friends speedily pointed out that if they did not have an opposition to reciprocity they had nothing at all, and therefore in spite of having been in favor of it for so many years they come out now and opposed it in order to down the Laurier government. Had Sir Wilfrid come back to the country without reciprocity Mr. Borden would have been the first man to go stumping round complaining that the Liberals had failed to make reasonable arrangements with the United States for better trade relations. (Applause.) A Democratic Movement. We have entered into an agreement with the United States to take the duties of a considerable number of the food products of both countries and to reduce the tariff on certain natural products. How did that question arise? It is not a question that is confined to Canada and the United States. Why do we consider the necessity of reducing tariffs to-day? Take America.

Mr. Taft is suddenly confronted with an expression of public opinion in favour of the reduction of tariffs, especially on food products. In England they have had three elections in two years, and in every one of them the democracy of that great country has triumphed over the issue, which was to tax the food of the people even to a small degree. Three times in two years the democracy of England has positively refused to elect a party to power which has in its platform the imposition of a tax on the people's food. (Applause.)

In Germany to-day we have the so-called democratic party. Their cry is against high protection and the high cost of living. The protest is unanimous, and it is that this system of high protection which puts all the money into the pockets of a few individuals, which places in the hands of the manufacturers a weapon which the workmen cannot share, is against the interest of the consumers and the great masses of the people, and that that pernicious system must be brought to an end. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Taft saw the writing on the wall. The Liberal party in England have seen it for years. This question is going to separate the wheat from the chaff, the sheep from the goats. So far as I am concerned—and I make no bones about it—I could have swallowed a much larger dose of this reciprocity than they have chosen to give us in the treaty; but of course I am bound to accept even the smallest measure of that which is certain to reduce the cost of living for the people. (Hear, hear.)

It is a case of take that and seek for more. The man who says he will not accept anything until he can have the whole thing is never likely to get ahead. A beginning must be made somewhere, and the beginning to which I refer is to be found in this reciprocity pact with the United States. The great masses of the people have no protection. The Manufacturers Association of this country which is the strong influence behind the opposition on this question, not only wants reciprocity to be defeated, but is desirous of having the existing duties increased. These are the men, the most highly protected men in the country, who insist that there must always be free trade in labor in this country. (Applause.)

Government Must Be Returned.

I believe that when you take the duties off the food products grown by the farmers of this country it is not very consistent not to take the duties off the articles the farmers use in producing them. I am anxious that this agreement should be adopted. If you do not empower the Liberal party to do it you must not expect it from the Conservative party.

I would ask you to remember that the defeat of the Liberals on this occasion does not only mean the defeat of these proposals; it means a tremendous stimulant to the principle of protection in this country. Mr. Borden will see that the duties on every article shall be raised exactly to the level of the tariff wall of the United States. That is the logical policy for the Tory party to pursue. If it is important for the benefit and security of the Empire that we should keep away from Uncle Sam then it is perfectly logical that we should build a high tariff wall to keep him out. To follow out the conclusion Mr. McBride should say that he is not only opposed to reciprocity but that he is opposed to all kinds of trade with the United States.

McBride's Inconsistencies.

But does he take that position? Does the Tory party ever take that position? Mr. McBride said that reciprocity would surrender the natural resources of Canada to the Americans, and also that it would mean the end of the Empire. I regard these opinions as altogether too silly to be seriously considered. If the tariff wall is all that maintained the security of the natural resources of Canada then all the United States has to do in order to get at them is to take down their tariff and the resources of Canada would naturally flow over the border. Still Mr. McBride said so, and as you know he neither ever speaks with "one flag, one king, and one empire." (Laughter and applause.) He is carrying on a dual position in his political warfare. While he is deliberately fostering the Americanizing of Canada by handing over the resources of this province to the Yankee speculators he plays upon the passions of the people and endeavors to induce them to believe that reciprocity will be the first step in the dreaded direction whether his own policy is leading us. (Applause.) But I think that the people of this country are too intelligent to be deceived by such paltry subterfuges. It is now three weeks before the election and I think the Conservatives already realize the futility of their plans and that the public has penetrated the disguise.

The reciprocity treaty is more likely to retain the natural resources of the country than anything else that could be agreed upon. But I do not blame Mr. McBride for being scared of the Yankees. He knows more about them than anybody else. (Laughter.) He is the one man in the country who has made it possible for the Americans to own the natural resources of this province to-day. His policy is the one which brought them in and it is no wonder therefore that he should be afraid of its consequences.

He has made it impossible for the settler to come here and work in the good things of which this province boasts. A great portion of the lumber, coal and lands of the province is already in the hands of the Americans through the encouragement given them by Mr. McBride. (Hear, hear.)

I believe in free and friendly relationship between men and nations. Advancing intelligence is doing much. It is recognizing that hostility in commerce is leading to destruction, just as hostility in individuals and nations is leading to destruction, and that peace and harmony are to be maintained by the employment of amicable methods. (Applause.) I think that the people of this country and particularly of this province will see the foolishness of the Conservative appeal and mark their disapproval of them by returning seven Liberals to Ottawa. (Applause.)

Mr. Smith closed with a personal reference. He had, he said, been their representative on three successive occasions and he prized the honor very highly, but if he was returned this time he assured them that he would prize the honor still more highly because it would enable him to become associated with the ratification of the greatest policy it had ever been his privilege to be associated with. After that it was possible that he would get down and let a younger man follow him if his constituents so desired. On resuming his seat Mr. Smith was heartily cheered.

Dr. Lewis Hall made a short but effective speech, directing his attention to the effects of reciprocity on the household food bill. His question to the audience whether $3 a day now could purchase as much as $2.25 a few years ago was answered with a most emphatic negative.

Wm. Edgecumbe, a London, Ont., farmer, spoke in a patriotic strain. The gathering dispersed after giving rousing cheers for Sir Wilfrid, Mr. Templeman and Mr. Smith.

BUSINESS LOTS FOR BUSINESS MEN AT

Fort George

The big money in real estate is made by those who buy business lots at the beginning of a city. Knowing what you do now if you had the opportunity of buying at prices prevailing a few years ago, you would not hesitate to buy on Hastings or Granville streets, Vancouver; Main street or Portage avenue, Winnipeg; Jasper avenue, Edmonton; or Eighth avenue, Calgary.

Business Lots for Profit

Most people cannot afford to buy business lots in the streets mentioned above at present prices. It is possible, however, to get in at the starting point of what will be undoubtedly a place of as much importance.

In making an investment in real estate the necessary thing to do is to pick out the most promising of the prospective cities and examine into their possibilities.

What are their natural advantages? After you have looked them all over and considered the good and bad points, then you will find out that—

- Fort George has every natural advantage possessed by all the others combined.
- One of the prospective cities will be a railroad centre.
- Another has coal mines.
- This one has timber lands.
- Another will talk of the fine climate.
- They one is the centre of an agricultural district.
- Port-William and Fort Arthur will talk to you about their water transportation.
- Stewart will talk of her mines.
- Some other places may have a great water power.

Fort George Has Them All

Don't overlook this point. It means that Fort George has a combination of all the resources possessed by all the other cities of Western Canada (except that she is not an ocean port). Fort George is the geographical and strategic commercial centre of British Columbia. British Columbia is Canada's largest and richest province.

You should know all about Fort George and British Columbia. Let us send you map plans and official information free.

Send your name or call to-day. You can get in at the beginning if you hurry.

ANNEXATION TALK FOR USE IN CANADA

"This annexation stuff your Canadian papers are reproducing from the anti-reciprocity organs on our side is nothing but a clumsy plant," said one of the American editors who have been touring through western Canada.

The party was composed of 276 American newspaper writers. They went through the west as far as the Rockies and up to Edmonton. There were among them stand-pat Republicans, insurgent Republicans, Democrats of various types, and Independents. For many of them this was their first close touch with Canadian politics.

"I opened the eyes and illumined the minds of some of our party," said Hon. J. Z. Lantz, of Columbus, Ohio, "when we found the Big Interests in Canada putting up the very same arguments against reciprocity that our own Big Interests had put up in the United States. Our Republican editors lost a good deal of their enthusiasm for our home food-monopolies when they saw similar monopolies in Canada opposing free food. They all talk on both sides about losing their markets if the tariff is taken off. Most of our party began to see how the consumer would benefit if some of the profits of these monopolies went to the common people."

One of the editors said that few of the party knew much about the situation in Canada and were not interested until they found Canadian newspapers featuring articles from American journals advocating annexation. Then they put their heads together and steered up the case.

"Why, every one of those American papers from which this annexation stuff is taken is owned or controlled by the Big Interests that fought the reciprocity agreement in Congress. On our side they used the economic argument and failed. They yelled about Canadian competition in natural products killing their markets. The lumber men yelled, the pulp and paper men yelled. The farmers yelled loudest of all. They said they couldn't live if your Canadian wheat and barley and lumber and pulp came in free. But I guess they'll worry along."

"But now these fellows have changed their tune. Beaten at home, they are fighting reciprocity in Canada. A dozen newspapers, extending from Detroit to San Francisco, are putting up this annexation talk and sending marked copies to Conservative newspapers in Canada. Some of the stuff may be written in Canada and paid for in American newspapers. It was Bismarck's game when he had insulting anti-German articles published in French journals in order to have them reprinted in Germany to rouse the Germans to war with the French."

"This American annexation talk is just low politics," said Mr. Lantz, "and Canadians will have sense enough not to be caught with it. There is not one responsible public man of standing known to any of the 276 journalists in our party who either favors or desires the annexation of Canada. We have more territory now than we have interest in governing perfectly. I had no interest in your reciprocity campaign, but finding how the Big Interests in both countries are fighting it I hope I may still carry it with a decisive majority. But this annexation talk is a plant anyhow."

ALASKA COAL PROBLEM.

Valdez, Alaska, Aug. 30.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher reached here Monday, and under the escort of a citizens' reception committee set out over the Valdez-Fairbanks military road to Keystone canyon, the scene a few years ago of a battle between rival railroad construction crews. Returning, the party dined at Camp Comfort, a roadhouse ten miles from Valdez.

While at dinner Secretary Fisher asked the members of the committee for their opinions concerning the best method of handling the Alaska coal problem, and discussed freely such ideas of the situation.

Mr. Fisher said that he regarded the problem of opening the coal lands, while safeguarding against monopolistic control and excessive prices, as offering a choice between absolute government ownership and operation and a leasing system. The leasing system, he said, is in successful operation in the state-owned coal lands in Colorado and Montana. The Montana leases run only five years, with no covenant for renewal, merely offering a first option of renewal at the best bid offered. Yet, he said, the Montana lands find ready takers.

Conditions in the Behring river coal fields of Alaska are somewhat different, he said, owing to the existence of but one line of transportation to the seaboard. He conceded that the owners of that line might be the only bidders for a lease, and if thus free of competition might hold out for terms which the government could not grant. The uncertainty of a market for Alaska coal, other than for local domestic use, and perhaps for the naval and merchant marine, which is being cut into by the use of petroleum as fuel, might militate against securing competitive bids from those who either must submit to high freight rates or build a competing railroad. On the other hand, he said that he regarded

SHEPHERD HEARD IN NANAIMO DISTRICT

Meetings Held Yesterday at Colwood, Metchosin and Goldstream

Frank H. Shepherd, the Conservative candidate who is opposing Ralph Smith in the Nanaimo electoral district for the Dominion house at the election on September 21, spoke yesterday to electors at Metchosin, Goldstream and Colwood, and at all places he was given a good hearing. At Colwood, G. H. Barnard, the Conservative candidate for Victoria, and H. B. Thompson, M. P., assisted Mr. Shepherd. The candidate argued that as Ralph Smith had always won in a three-cornered fight there was no doubt of his defeat in a fight against a single opponent.

At Metchosin at 2:30 p. m. W. H. Hayward, M. P., spoke first, and John Jardine M. P. P. delivered an address. Each speaker supported the Conservative platform of the present campaign, opposing the reciprocity agreement and claiming that the United States are fighting for it because it will mean the annexation of Canada to that territory. Mr. Jardine held up the British watchword "What we have we'll hold," and Mr. Shepherd speaking fully of the Conservative views of the past. While he did not accuse the Liberal party with disloyalty he said its members were now juggling with a disloyal measure. He believed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party would be defeated at the coming election.

At Goldstream a gathering was addressed after dinner and the party then went on to the Colwood Hall where H. B. Thompson M. P. P., the candidate, and John Jardine M. P. P. spoke. George Heatherbell, another speaker, said as a fruit grower he did not want reciprocity and thought if it passed it would cripple the fruit industry of B. C.

Mr. Thompson said the past had been foisted on the public without mature consideration.

The meeting came to a close with cheers for the candidate, for R. L. Borden and Hon. Richard McBride.

SOME REASONS FOR RECIPROCIETY

It will lessen the cost of living. It will benefit the consumer. It will give a larger market for farm produce.

It will increase the trade of Canada.

It will open a market for British Columbia fish.

It will make the British Columbia fish industry the greatest in the world.

It will benefit the manufacturer through the general impetus to business and not jeopardize the protection he now enjoys.

It will give employment to a greater number of men through the general increase of business and the establishment of new industries.

It will increase rather than decrease wages through the greater demand for labor.

A VOTE FOR TEMPLEMAN MEANS A VOTE FOR RECIPROCIETY.

CURIOS MUSICAL INSTRUMENT.

Relic Hunters Find Obsolete Serpent in Concert Hall.

Collectors may search Britain up and down in all its concert rooms and museums, yet come across few examples of that interesting but almost obsolete musical instrument, the serpent.

Leaders of the Wessex novels will recall frequent allusions to this weird music maker, with the aptly descriptive designation. The serpent was always found in the village orchestra that accompanied the church singing before the use of American organs or full organs.

In one of the most humorous short stories penned by Thomas Hardy, "Absentmindedness in a Village Church," the serpent bore a part in the unexpected playing of the "Devil Among the Tailors," which electrified a Christmas congregation, instead of the expected hymn tune. It is explained that the rural musicians had previously attended too many dances; the sermon was long; they beguiled their tedium in the music gallery with hot ale, and fell asleep. So they awoke fuddled, and thought they were at the dance they had attended the night before. Hence the jig instead of the solemn hymn.

The serpent held a unique place among musical instruments. It is the only wood instrument in which the music is produced by the vibration of the lips on a moutpiece, as in a brass instrument. Its tone is a rich baritone, and modern conductors who have heard it are amazed that the serpent was ever allowed to fall into disuse. Nevertheless, it has not been used professionally since about 1886, when it formed part of every British military band.

WHAT IS GOING TO KEEP THIS UP?

A few days ago a pessimistic individual asked us this question. Of course we could not answer it in a word, but this is what we said:

It Hasn't Started Yet!

If you don't believe in the future of the Dominion of Canada—don't stay here. We are optimistic believers in the future of this, the greatest and richest country on earth, and particularly of BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Our coal, iron, timber, fisheries and agricultural resources can only be roughly estimated.

The world is our market.

VANCOUVER ISLAND alone can contribute largely to the demand for these products. VICTORIA—the capital—is the first port of call in Canada on the Pacific.

Her climate conditions are sufficient to centre an immense influx of Population within her boundaries, and every individual or family that comes here means something for the next one that comes along.

As a consequence, the value of real estate is steadily increasing. WHEN THE LAST MAN COMES IT MAY STOP BUT YOU WON'T SEE THAT DAY.

Meanwhile the opportunity for money making by real estate investment is yours.

Convicted of Selling Liquor to Indians — Boat and Contents Confiscated

Farmers Tell of Conditions in Fraser Valley — Looking for Higher Prices

Dominion Indian Officer Thomas O'Connell of Nanaimo made an important capture at Steveston, following up his good work at Cape Mudge. This is the busy season at Steveston, a time when the town is filled with Indians engaged in fishing and when the whisky peddlers prosecute their nefarious trade. One of the most notorious men of this stamp, a whisky peddler and smuggler, was captured by Mr. O'Connell and convicted on two charges of supplying liquor to Indians. On the first conviction he was fined $125 or in default four months hard labor, and on the second conviction fined $250 or in default six months hard labor. A large quantity of liquor found in his possession and also his boat were confiscated.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 29.—The farmers of this district report that harvesting and threshing are now in full swing throughout the Fraser valley. As soon as hay was completed a week ago, the oat crop was sufficiently advanced to absorb the attention of the farmers. Binders have been running steadily and the oat crop is practically all cut. Reports from every quarter agree that when the oats are threshed a very satisfactory yield will be recorded. While the majority of the farmers place their estimate at a ton and a half of oats to the acre, others believe that as high as two tons will be raised.

The prices offered by the dealers for the grain on the field are about the same as were paid last year, $25 per ton being the prevailing quotation. Little, however, can be bought at that price within a few weeks. What barley was raised this year has been harvested. It, however, was only a fair crop.

Potatoes will yield but a low average per acre on account of the damage done by the June frost. In many places the crop will be very largely a failure, while the more fortunate areas which escaped the frost will be but a good average. Altogether the yield is considerably lighter than that of last year.

The fruit growers of the valley report that their output will be limited both in quantity and quality. The apple crop is much smaller than usual and the fruit is, to a great extent, small. Plums, prunes and pears, too, will be offered on the market in reduced quantities. No reason in particular is given for the falling off of the supply.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 29.—The new secretary for the local Y. M. C. A., has arrived in the city and stepped into his harness on September 1. Since his graduation from the Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., in 1908, Mr. Johnson has taken a three-year course in the Chicago Y. M. C. A. training school and institute, which he finished this summer, at the summer school at Lake Geneva, Wis., receiving the degree of Bachelor of Association Science, a degree which has only recently been created. He had practical work in Winnipeg, where for a time he was assistant secretary to T. D. Patton.

NANAIMO, Aug. 29.—What proved to be a narrow escape from drowning, occurred the other afternoon while Mrs. McKay and three young ladies, Irene Morgan, Adelaide Hayward and Lulu Brown (Peachland), were bathing. The former being unable to swim were kept at a safe depth, when all at once Mrs. McKay stepped into deep water and reached to Miss Morgan, who reached out and grabbed her hand and attempted to hold on. At this time Miss Morgan came to assist but was grabbed by Miss McKay and went down. But Miss Hayward was more successful, for by this time the alarm had been sounded and help was at hand and all three ladies were rescued.

CHILLIWACK, Aug. 29.—It is stated on good authority that work on one of the largest cement manufacturing plants on the Pacific coast will soon be started at Elk creek, at the east end of the Chilliwack valley, and that within a year a branch of the British Columbia Electric railway will be built to that point from Chilliwack. A syndicate of capitalists have purchased, it is said, 250 acres of land at East Chilliwack, near the foot of Elk creek falls, and have secured options on other lands in that vicinity.

The proposed site of the factory is within a mile and a half of the Canadian, Northern and Great Northern railway.

PRINCE RUPERT BY-LAWS.
Prince Rupert, Aug. 29.—On Saturday, September 2, the by-law to ratify the Grand Trunk assessment settlement will be submitted to the vote of the citizens of Prince Rupert together with the hydro-electric by-law to cancel the borrowing of $200,000 for the purpose of constructing the Woodworth lake waterworks and electric power system.

Both by-laws have passed their third reading in council and will come into effect if favorably regarded by the citizens on September 12.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.
Nanaimo, Aug. 29.—What proved to be a narrow escape from drowning, occurred the other afternoon while Mrs. McKay and three young ladies, Irene Morgan, Adelaide Hayward and Lulu Brown (Peachland), were bathing. MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.
Rev. A. E. Roberts, pastor of the Methodist church, Chilliwack, has returned to that city from Port Simpson where he attended a conference of the Indian Missionary Society of this province. Every missionary working under the auspices of the Methodist church in this province was present except three, who were detained by family reasons. The general superintendent for the west, Rev. Dr. Chown; Rev. A. C. Farrell, foreign secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society; and Rev. Thompson Forster, superintendent of educational work among the Indians, were also present. Reports of the present status of the work were read and plans for future work discussed. The changing nature of the work owing to the crowding in of white settlers and the consequent lessening of the amount of land over which the Indian could roam, proved to be a real problem in successful missionary work. Reports of the conference will be made to the general board of missions of the Methodist church which meets in Toronto on September 29, and some changes will doubtless be made in the methods of work as a result of the conference.

BODY RECOVERED.
New Westminster, Aug. 29.—The body of Herbert Johnstone, aged 77, a member of the crew of the Passtreak, who fell overboard at the cranemakers wharf on August 19, was found by Martin Monk floating in the Fraser at the C. P. N. wharf about one hundred yards from where the unfortunate man was drowned. Information was sent to the detective and Chief Strachan with Sergeant Stanton required to the wharf and took charge of the remains. When taken from the water it was found that the unfortunate man was garbed lightly in a pair of trousers, with a shirt and a pair of tan shoes. The shirt was very much torn, which went to show that he had struggled vainly to regain possession of the boat. The remains are decomposed, and but for the tattoo marks on the dead man's arm, it would have been hard to identify Johnstone.

VICTORIA'S ROSES OF PROMISE

Talk about June's roses
Blooming so red and bright
Better fall of later blossoms
Blooming here at night.

Planted all so carefully
By order of the Engineer,
Kept in shining order
By a watchman near.

The night may be balmy
Or show a stormy face,
But bravely the roses
Swing in their proper place.

"Only dim red lanterns"
You say, with lofty scorn;
Kindly stop to remember
Every rose has its thorn.

Hang on of crossing and road side
All through the summer night,
These are Victoria's promise
Of a future easy and bright.

A future of perfect pavements,
City roads hard to be beat,
Unobstructed routes to business,
Boulevards broad and neat.

Overlook the lack of perfume
And the thorns along the way
In loudest praises of Victoria's Concrete "Milky Way."

I. WALLACE.

BURIED IN SAND.

Pathetic Fate of Little Girl Forgotten
in Excitement.

Four little girls were buried by a fall
of sand in a pit near Fairfield shipyard, Glasgow, one evening recently.
Three boys who saw the accident at once set to work, and bravely persevered until they had rescued three of the girls. They were not aware that there was a fourth child buried.

It was only with much difficulty that the boys succeeded in helping the three to their feet and getting them on the road for home. On arriving home they were somewhat recovered, and one of the girls suddenly recollected, after her own fright, that a fourth child, Mary Patterson, had been playing with them, and that she had not been seen since the fall of sand.

The mother of the missing girl hurried to the sandpit and dug deep into the sand for some time. Eventually she came upon the child, but she was too late. The little body was lifeless.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

Are you fond of cats?
If you are, whether you are moved to emulation or not, surely you will be interested to hear about the unique way in which one woman is trying to earn her living.

She has established what she calls the Kermit Kattery. It is, as the name has already suggested
to you, a boarding home for pet cats. In addition to boarding the animals she also raises Persian
cats, crates cats
for shipping out
of town, gives advice as to the care of well cats or treatment of sick
cats, sells cat remedies and such cat
specialties as flea combs, cat collars,
cat baskets, etc.

The work has not been extremely lucrative so far but she has reason to expect it will be much more so in the future.

Her story of how she happened to go into this unique work is as follows:

"Some three years ago last December a friend of mine asked me to take care of a black Persian kitten while
she was coming home with a doctor,
do and also to care for two of another woman's cream Persian males
which she was going to show at a cat
show and to comb them and brush them into 'show condition.' This friend was taken sick while away at a cat show and late one Sunday afternoon her husband telephoned me that
she was coming home with a doctor,
a nurse and five or six cats! And would I please take care of the cats until she was better?"

"We have been at the boarding business ever since, and now we feel lonesome if there are not at least twenty cats on the premises. We have raised the beautiful Angoras or Persians, though, so far, there has not been very much money in that. The boarding of pet cats, whose owners want a vacation or are going to close the house for some reason is the most profitable part of the business.
We have taken in some sick cats whose troubles were not contagious or infectious and in most cases have been successful in restoring them to their owners' arms and love.

"Of course, we have had to have a large yard wired in with chicken wire top and sides and divided so as to keep the cats separate, but that expense is practically ever now.

"For boarding well cats we have one dollar a week; if ill or needing extra care, we charge two dollars.

"I think that the prime requisite for success in this particular business, which is certainly well suited for women, is that one must first, last and all the time be a passionate lover of cats; not animals in general, but cats
as a class by themselves.

"To conduct a cat boarding business really means to give up
time and sleep and to eat when convenient and not on time. One must have plenty of antiseptics ready for instant use in case of bite or scratch, must eliminate fear absolutely from one's mind and put away rugs, cushions and all kinds of bric-a-brac, and find one's amusement and pleasure in the care of cats, and take for much of one's payment the satisfaction and pleasure that comes from knowing that one is preaching a daily sermon
from the text about the 'sparrow falling to the ground' and knowing that God has seen fit to create and place with us as we are doing His work just as truly as if we founded million dollar
libraries or hospitals."

MAJESTIC THEATRE

The Weekly News will be seen today and to-morrow, including the lock strike in London and many other events. "Her Sacrifice" is a biograph
picture showing a poor girl in love with a high born Mexican. The young man's mother persuades the girl that a marriage would mean loss of honor. Accordingly she fights attachment for another sweetheart and the man leaves her in anger.

"The Step-sisters" is a domestic drama presenting the life of a girl so unfortunate as to have a stepmother
and stepister who abuse her. "Her Son" a story of the western mines,
showing a young worthless fellow.
They are going to run him out of camp when his mother comes. They respect her worth so much that they give up some of their precious treasures to keep her from knowing what her son is. "A Fascinating Bachelor," this comedy presents the advantages of a rich bachelor who becomes the cyno-sore of the eyes of all the marriageable women in town.

Empress Theatre.

There is a rare example of the actor's skill at the Empress this week in the act entitled "Foreign folks as seen thro' American eyes." The eyes are those of John Terry and Mabel Lambert, and there are six foreign folk whom they see and reproduce upon the stage. Choosing numerous personalities from life's billboard and caricatur-ing their dress and habits, Mr. Terry and Miss Lambert proved again last night in stage language, a riot, a whirlwind, a top-liner.

John Geiger and Nellie Walters dispel any fear of a Dago act as soon as they appear, and render a snappy little musical comedy that carries the hall mark of art. Dan Mason, the German-comedian with J. M. Gorman and Bessie Bruce appearing in "The New

ANARCHY PREVAILS IN NORTHERN FRANCE

Demonstrations by Women as Protest Against High Prices of Provisions

Paris, Aug. 29.—Processions of women, numbering 2,000, are marching this evening in Northern France, protesting against the high prices of provisions.

At Lille, Cambria, Douai, Valenciennes, Bethune, Lens, and at many smaller places a species of anarchy prevails because the police cannot protect the dealers. The processions in some of the northern departments are marching from village to village running over farms and damaging dairies and vegetable gardens to indicate their sense of grievance.

As each village is descended on, the ranks of the manifestants are steadily augmented and occasional incidents are reported of conflicts between the manifestants and farmers armed with pitchforks.

GRAND TRUNK DIVIDEND

Montreal, Aug. 29.—The directors of the Grand Trunk Railway have declared a dividend at the full rate of 5 per cent, per annum on the first and second preference stocks in respect of the six months ending June 30, 1911, leaving $111,700 to be carried forward or $900 less than the corresponding figure twelve months ago. The gross receipts for the period under review amounted to $561,200, an increase of $239,800. Working expenses were, however, heavy, the total of $2,628,200 now shown representing an increase of $172,200. Income derived from rentals outside operations and other miscellaneous items amounted to $15,000, together $22,400, a decline of $35,700, and after deducting net revenue charges, less credits, $511,000 as against $507,000, at this time last year, there remains a net revenue balance of $144,400 in respect of the Grand Trunk main line, the corresponding figure twelve months ago having been $146,700, an increase of $2,300. Of this improvement a considerable proportion is absorbed by the working of subsidiary lines which have been more pronounced during the past half year than usual.

THROUGH BURNING TIMBER

Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 30.—Their eyes bloodshot, tired and worn from fighting their way through the burning woods to the railway track in the northwest section of Clark county, Dr. Robert Pierson, captain in the medical corps at Vancouver Barracks; his wife; Rev. O. E. Grey of Vancouver, and their guest, Miss N. Hall, have arrived in Vancouver minus a valuable camping outfit, clothing, and other accessories valued at $500.

Absent from their camp on the east fork of the Lewis River, near Horse-shoe Falls, they returned in the evening to find a fire had swept over the hills and destroyed their camp. The party spent the night in the hay of a deserted barn, and early next morning started on a four hours walk through the burning timber.

SECURES INDIAN RESERVE

Vancouver, Aug. 30.—It is understood that the provincial government has agreed to dispose of its reversionary rights to the Indian reserve at Port George to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which requires the land for yards and townsite purposes. The title will be transferred on payment of the usual price of crown lands, the deal being similar to one of several years in respect of the Metlakatla Indian reserve now forming a portion of the townsite of Prince Rupert.

Title to the Indian reserve at Port George has not yet been acquired from the federal government acting as trustees for the Indian residents, but negotiations between the Indian department, the Indians and the railway company are said to be proceeding satisfactorily, with the likelihood of an early settlement.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pain in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SARA MULLEN, 478 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

HOUSE OF COMMONS TO VISIT CANADA

Scheme on Foot to Bring Entire British Parliament to Four Dominions

The Ottawa Citizen publishes an interview giving an outline of the plans of Mr. J. Obed Smith, a brief telegraphic summary of which appeared in the Times last week.

"I hope to bring the entire British House of Commons on a sight-seeing tour of Canada within a year," said Mr. J. Obed Smith, assistant superintendent of emigration at London, to the Citizen.

Mr. Smith, who is at present engaged in plotting the British editors through Canada, was loath to discuss his plans further, declaring that he would prefer first to see them reach a decent stage of maturity. However, he inferred that Canadians may confidently look forward to John Bull's complete list of legislators swooping down on the country in a body at an early date. It is he, more than any other, who is responsible for bringing so many British journalists to Canada on sight-seeing tours. He is a great believer in publicity.

The members of the British press party slept rather late this morning, and are beginning to feel its effects. Most of them did not leave their private car until their departure for Toronto at 10.40.

A Citizen reporter had a short talk with Mr. Wilfred Rutherford of the Financial News, London, before he departed.

"If English capital doesn't pour into Canada in an ever-increasing amount I shall be greatly mistaken," said he. "The trouble with the British manufacturer and his Canadian affiliations at present is that he opens an office in one of your big cities like Montreal, Toronto or Ottawa and places an agent in charge. This agent makes a coast-to-coast tour of Canada once a year and lazes the balance of the time. But he makes big sales and is content with his salary and commission, while the head office feels tickled to death with the increased business it is getting. Money from Canada is like so much money found. But these agents in their once-a-year pilgrimages must and doubtless do realize that they can only touch the fringe of Canadian trade. They can't possibly do any more."

"That is a condition of to-day, but there will be a different condition tomorrow. The British manufacturer will gradually awaken to the fact that he can get far more business in Canada and consequently make a heap more money by establishing a branch of his factory at some important manufacturing centre such as Ottawa, where he would be adjacent to the markets. For the west he could make of Fort William, say, a distributing centre. This to my mind is what is coming."

"The more you boom Canada in England the better. South Africa hasn't panned out any too well; it is not the El Dorado that the English thought it was going to be, so it seems to be up to Canada, as you put it."

Another British pressman who is making a tour of Canada on his own account for a syndicate of British papers happened to drop off here yesterday also and he had no time in mixing up with his British confederates. He is Mr. L. Scheff, of London, and he has spent more than five months in investigating conditions in Canada. He couldn't get away before, he said, although he tried hard. "Canada proved too big and too wonderful for him. Before coming Mr. Scheff was himself somewhat of a doubter. He had heard big things about the country, but along with many others, along in fact with the multitude, he believed the subject of Canada to be a bit overdrawn. But he came and saw and is convinced.

"Our business men instead of taking their holiday jaunts to Paris and Monte Carlo should come to Canada," said Mr. Scheff to the Citizen. "The English people have no conception of what Canada is. They must come over and see it for themselves."

"A wonderful testimonial to the worth of Canada, to my way of thinking, is the large number of Americans who are emigrating to this country. They are bright, wide awake people, and if they were not pretty thoroughly convinced that Canada was a better country than the United States they wouldn't come. But we want this country for Britishers and it is up to Britishers to take it."

"Your methods of doing things, however, strike me as being somewhat fishy methods. The English have a lot to learn from you."

"A good many Englishmen coming to Canada can't see it that way," Mr. Scheff was told.

NEW SAYINGS OF CHRIST UNEARTHED

Chest of Papyrus Awaiting Translation of Scholars at Oxford

There is a huge box of papyrus in Oxford University at the present time awaiting the coming of editors and translators who expect to find in it new matter bearing on the life and teachings of Christ. Some parts of it have been translated already, and they indicate that further treasures may well be revealed when the great mass of papyrus, of which they are a fragment, have been examined. The chest of writings was unearthed by the Egyptian Exploration Fund in an excellent state of preservation at Oxyrynchus, in the Egyptian desert. It will be recalled that some fourteen years ago there were unearthed at this spot some writings that scholars generally attribute to Christ; and since a subsequent search in the same place has resulted in the finding of a great mass of buried manuscripts, the possibility of some new and beautiful sayings of Christ being among it is not a fanciful one.

From one fragment that has been translated it is plain that the author was either one of the apostles, or some other person in close touch with Christ, since he speaks as though an eye-witness of the scenes he describes.

The fragment in question purports to record a visit of Christ and some of his followers to the Temple at Jerusalem. Christ and his followers who are also a Pharisee, and dialogue ensues between them. The Chief Priest upbraids Christ and His followers for having failed to go through the Jewish rites of purification before presenting themselves at the holy place. Christ thereupon asks the Chief Priest if he is clean. The official in reply recounts the ceremonies he has undergone to fit him for proper worship. Then follows the crushing reply of Christ, who contrasts outward with spiritual cleanliness. Before the speech is concluded the fragment ends. The opinion of the experts who have examined the papyrus is that it must have been composed some time before the second century, and before the adoption of the Four Gospels.

We republish from the New York Times part of the translated fragment:

"And a certain Pharisee, a Chief Priest whose name was Levi (?), met them and said to the Saviour, Who gave Thee leave to walk in this place of purification and to see the holy vessels, when Thou hast not washed nor yet have Thy disciples bathed their feet? But he replied, Thou hast walked in this temple, which is a pure place, wherein no other man walks except he has washed himself and changed his garments, neither does he venture to see these holy vessels.

"And the Saviour straightway stood still, while His disciples and I put on white and clean garments, and then I came and looked upon these holy vessels.

"He said unto Him, I am clean; for I washed in the Pool of David, and having descended by one staircase I ascended by another, and I put on white and clean garments, and then I came and looked upon these holy vessels.

"The Saviour answered and said unto him, Woe, ye blind, who see not. Thou hast washed in these running waters wherein dogs and swine have been kept night and day, and hast cleansed and wiped the outside skin which also the harlots and flute girls anoint and wash and wipe and beautify for the lust of men; but within they are full of scorpions and all wickedness. But and my disciples, who thou sayest have not bathed, have been dipped in the waters of eternal life which come from . . . . . But woe unto the . . . . .

It is pointed out by Messrs. Grenfell and Hunt, the editors, that there are several strange discrepancies in the account. For instance, the "Pool of David" is not heard of elsewhere, and it is incredible that the priests would have bathed in any place so polluted as that described. The idea apparently was to emphasize a dramatic contrast, and the editors remark that the "Pool of David" was very like the stagnant pools seen in Egyptian villages. It is noted, too, that in this short extract, Christ is twice spoken of as the "Saviour," a word used only twice in the Four Gospels, although it is very common among the Gnostics. The fragment, however, does not appear to belong to the Gnostics, in the opinion of the learned editors. In their view it is the fragment of some Gospel that circulated in Egypt during the century after the death of Christ and was either rejected or lost. Even a layman might be struck by the similarity in style between the fragment quoted and that of the New Testament, though whether the original or the translators are responsible for this must remain, for the moment, undecided.

It is a matter of history that there were many Jews in Egypt about the time of Christ and for some centuries later. It is also known that there were many converts to Christianity among the early Egyptians, especially among the farming classes, who were remote from the culture of the courts and the cities. Therefore, if there remains anything to discover about the life and times of Christ, there is no likelihood for discoveries to be made than along the Upper Nile. The hoped-for papyrus have been found in the likely place, and it remains for the Higher Critics to discredit them. As far as the Egyptian Exploration scholars are concerned, they have no doubt that the documents are what they purport to be.—Mail and Empire.

SIR WILFRID'S TOUR IN NOVA SCOTIA

ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME TO PRIME MINISTER

Hon. W. S. Fielding Says Liberal Policy Will Reduce Taxes and Increase Trade

Digby, N. S., Aug. 30.—Nova Scotia vies with her sister province of New Brunswick in intensely enthusiastic alliance to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the larger markets. The scene of the great open air afternoon gathering yesterday, was picturesque. Towards the foot of a grass-covered slope, which extended to the water's edge, a decorated platform had been erected. On the rolling hills around thousands of enthusiastic people were assembled, white to the rear the feet of fishing vessels with flags flying lay at anchor in Digby harbor.

It was an ideal afternoon, the voyage of the prime minister across the Bay of Fundy this morning was a long and trying one. Heavy fogs hung over the water, and rain fell steadily. An ugly swell repeatedly swept the decks and drenched the passengers. Despite the inclement weather the piers and docks were lined with cheering people.

Sir Wilfrid was accorded an enthusias- tic reception. Within an hour after the arrival of the vessel the sun was shining and Digby was at its best. Four special trains brought big delegations to swell the crowd, which insisted upon the acclaiming of the prime minister wherever he went. The fishermen were particularly enthusiastic. Reciprocity is extremely popular with the "rollers of the deep."

Sir Wilfrid was joined here by Hon. W. S. Fielding, the "father of reciprocity," as the crowd affectionately designat- ed him. The minister of finance came over from Yarmouth and joined his leader for the balance of his mariti- me province tour. He shared with the prime minister the honors of the demonstration.

Sir Frederick Borden also joined the party last evening.

The minister of finance was cheered enthusiastically. He defined the Liberal policy as designed to reduce taxation and increase trade. The present cam- paign was not a party battle, Sir Wilfrid Laurier in this election was lead- ing the party for reciprocity. (Cheers.) To Conservatives he appealed to dis- card the advice of the Little Conserva- tives of the present and follow the policy of the Great Conservatives of the past. Even when the National Policy was promulgated in the maritime provinces it was necessary for Sir Charles Tupper to "kiss the pill with reciproc- ity." Hon. Mr. Fielding stated he was aware that many of the farmers and fishermen of Nova Scotia thought the reciprocity agreement did not go far enough, "but I believe you are big enough to know that there must be give and take." In the east the manu- facturers claim protection from the larger and better organized concerns engaged in manufacturing in the United States. We have to consider also those who work in these Canadian manufact- ures, so we said: "No, there are some things in which we are just as big and strong as you are, but not in manu- factured articles."

Realizing that the project might mean a great deal to the city as an advertising medium the mayor thought it well to consider also an- other side with that end in view the meeting of to-day was arranged for. The committee appointed to take over the scheme and stimulate public interest in it.

CUTTING GRAIN IN SASKATCHEWAN

Harvesting General in Prov- ince—No Definite Reports Regarding Damage

Regina, Aug. 30.—The ninth fort- nightly telegraph report of the Sas- katchewan department of agriculture indicates that cutting has commenced in all parts of the province, with the exception of some districts on the east central, the northeastern and the northwestern crop districts. The date at which harvesting will be general is given as August 30. The portion of crop already in stack is 12 per cent, divided unevenly, of course, between different localities. It is impossible to give any definite estimate as to the damage to the crops from hail, rain, wind, rust or frost, but reports indicate that damage from these causes is more widespread in that portion of the province lying east of the Soo line and south of township 22, than it is on the remainder of the settled area. With the exception of a couple of points where there is a surplus of grain and of one or two places where a few are needed it would appear that labor is sufficient in supply and evenly distri- buted.

ROCKEFELLER REUNION. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 30.—One hundred members of the Rockefeller Family Association, relatives of John D. Rockefeller, are here to-day for their annual reunion. Rockefeller of Denver, is president of the association and sev- eral other western members of the family are represented at the gather- ing.

MILLION DOLLARS IN A BRIGHT MUSICAL

SILK ON SADO MARU COMEDY AT THEATRE

Biggest Shipment Received for Many Months—Heavy Fogs Encountered Off Coast

With a silk shipment valued at nearly one million dollars, which is consigned to New York, and one of the largest passenger lists she has brought across the Pacific for some time, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Sado Maru, Capt. Richards, arrived at the outer wharf at 1 o'clock this afternoon from Yoko- hama and other Oriental ports. The steamship had a splendid run from the Orient until two days before reaching Victoria, when she encountered foggy weather. It was expected that the Maru would have been here at daylight this morning but in the dense fog it was necessary for the vessel to pro- ceed cautiously and she lost consid- erable time.

The silk cargo brought by the Maru is the largest that has been shipped across the Pacific for several months. The shipments of late have varied from a quarter of a million to half a million dollars. As soon as she has discharged her local cargo the Maru will speed for Seattle, where she will unload the Great Northern special train to New York.

POTLATCH FESTIVAL BEING FORWARDED

Project Brought Before Notice of Mayor—Committee May Be Appointed

The "Do it in Victoria" festival, which it is proposed to bring off here between September 11 and 16, was brought before the attention of the city officials this morning when the project was fully explained to His Worship the Mayor, and when as a result of the deliberations of the parties it was de- cided to call a meeting in a day or two in order that the business men of the city, who will of course be re- quested to contribute toward the ex- penses of carrying out the scheme, will have an opportunity of hearing its commercial advantages.

George Trumbull, who is mainly responsible for the idea, explained to the mayor and a few aldermen pre- sent that it was intended to spend a considerable sum of money in decorat- ing the business section of the city for the occasion and also in bringing in special vaudeville artists to take part in the various performances which will be given during the "pot- latch" festival. He stated that it was the intention of the committee to engage the ser- vices of the gentleman who arranged the decorations for the city of Seattle on the occasion of its recent potlatch festival. Realizing that the project might mean a great deal to the city as an advertising medium the mayor thought it well to consider also an- other side with that end in view the meeting of to-day was arranged for. The committee appointed to take over the scheme and stimulate public interest in it.

The use of these brushes is particularly good for the hair. The bristles penetrate to the scalp every stroke and give the scalp somewhat of a massage treatment, increasing the circulation and stimulating the roots of the hair.

"UP AGAINST IT"

To the Editor:—I am no longer a "working man." I have done my work fairly well and am now up in years a bit, trying to live on a "fixed income," like many others, which I earned with the sweat of my brow. But I must admit it is a "grind" in this country of ours, where "annexation" is a visionary, but bacon and cabbage as yet.

Where can I get a house right now to rent? If I chance to hit upon one, I can't think of taking it unless satisfied to "go under" altogether, by attempting to pay an exorbitant rent for its value, and run the risk of being curbed in a month or two to "get out" in four weeks' time.

Take a walk in and around the city and you find all very nice to outward appearance, but nearly every house and lot "for sale." Upon easy terms, you will be told by the "real-estate" trade (the best paid and softest job of the bunch). Yet it requires a long pocket to tackle even these "easy terms."

I know of many now struggling about looking vainly for a house to rent, who have had to get out to make room for the speculator, and others who are under orders to "get out" in a few days, without the remotest idea where to put their heads.

As my letter may have a depressing effect upon sympathetic readers, like all tragedies, I will conclude by staging an amusing little farce for their benefit. A lady from the Old Country was compelled, rudely, to "get out" from three houses by different owners in the course of 15 months or thereabouts. On the last occasion she was roughly told by the owner, who had been always paid up to time, she would have to "get out" on a certain date, giving a month's notice according to agreement. In a few days he had the amusing audacity to beg of the lady to "give up" the house ten days before the date fixed by his own agreement.

His tenant, who is gifted with a considerable sense of humor and the ridiculous, replied: "Mr. —, I am pleased to base it at last in my power to tell a native house at the smallest intention at present of doing so." Under the circumstances, how should such persons record their votes?

A VOICE FROM THE PAST.

To the Editor:—I am one of the few remaining that listened to the debate on the reciprocity bill that came in force in 1854, and on that occasion I listened to such eminent men as Sir Francis Hincks, Sir Alan McNab, George Brown and others. John A. Macdonald on that occasion, in answering some members who remarked that higher duty would be better for the country, said that it would never do to slip in the thin edge of the wedge, as it might be hard to get it out again. Though this debate took place in the early fifties, thirteen years after the rebellion of Upper and Lower Canada, and only four years after the burning of the parliament buildings in Montreal, by a mob under the guise of loyalty, the suggestion that if reciprocity came into force annexation would follow was never alluded to. Lord Elgin was the main promoter, assisted by Sir Francis Hincks. They both went to Washington and negotiated the treaty. Sir Francis was then leader of the Reform party, Sir Alan McNab came into power the following year, Sir John A. Macdonald as his attorney general. The bill was passed without one dissenting voice, showing that all parties agreed it would be a benefit to the country, and an endeavor has been made by man of peace, one would expect to see his election unanimous, which I think would please all parties. One would naturally think that as a matter of principle, not to say justice, it would be better to elect men who know the country and its needs than to go further afield and select a stranger from the old schools of learning and ecclesiasticism, to work in the new and active field of the Pacific Coast. The oldest bishop's see in western Canada is the diocese of British Columbia. It requires a man who knows the country to fill it worthily and with credit to the church.
