Do Something ! Get Busy!

Tell the World About Carmel

In Carmel, year in and year out, the business people and property - owners, those who have houses for rent, have gone along in the summer fairly well satisfied with the business they have done and the length of time their houses have been rented.

But about September first, when the sojourners become fewer and receipts begin to fall off we hear that business is "dull," and we receive letters asking "Why is my house vacant?"

The fault is right here. Very little attempt is made to inform the outside public and tourists that Carmel has the finest fall, winter and spring climate in the world.

There should be as many people here the year through as there are in June, July and August.

Hotel owners, real estate, owners of improved property and merchants should cooperate in a plan to spread broadcast the advantages of Carmel as a year-around resort.

If we sit back and wait for pety-tappeople and business to come, it never will come. If you want your cottage rented, your store busy, your hotel full, publicity is the thing to do it.

Suppose, for instance, five thousand attractive pamphlets were mailed to Pasadens, and as a result a hundred persons were induced to come here sooner or later. Suppose we worked ten cities. Wen, we might not get a thousand persons here, but we would get a large number,

INCAND

In breathless heat of mid-day The wide bare fields lie dead ; There's no green in the stubble, Thera's no shade for my head; But I can sense the forest-dark, And the wild cry of the sea, Because the pines of Carmel Once sang their song to me.

Along the dusty high-road No spring to meet my need, Even the lizard shelters Beneath a sun-dried weed; But I can feel a cool wind, And damp mists, salt and sweet. For once the waves of Carmel Broke foaming at my feet.

A Worthy Object

The conductor of the Zoological Park in New York is devoting much time to the establishment of a permanent wildlife protection fund to create sanctuaries for wild animals so their breed may be perpetuated. He points out that if something of the kind is not done there will be no hunting twenty years from now, and wild game will be practically extinct.

Millions and millions of acres of our national forests are now utterly destitute of game worth the mention, and over thousands of square miles in the East and West one can hunt until doomsday without finding a four-footed animal worth

The proposed plan is to help create an enormous increase in game that may legitimately be killed for food purposes.

Details of the scheme may be obtained by addressing Dr. W. T. Hornaday, Zoological Park, New York.

Lest We Forget

Now is the season of thanksgiving and praise. Every one of us has had or has something for which to be grateful. Not the least of these is the possession of loved ones and those whom we can call friends. These should be remembered. If you haven't the time for a letter, send a posteard.
