AH SAM RANDALL, THE HEATHEN CHINEE.

But the hands that were played
 By that heathen Chinee,
 And the points that he made,
 Were quite frightful to see.
 Then I looked up at Nye,

And he gazed upon me;
 And he rose with a sigh,
 And said, "Can this be?
 We are ruined by Randall Protection,
 And he went for that Heathen Chinee.

MR. BLAINE NEXT WEEK.

So much was said about Mr. Blaine's health that the JUDGE sent an artist to Florence to settle the question. This artist secured an excellent picture of the great statesman, and this picture will be given in the next issue of this paper. As the latest, and by all odds the best picture of Mr. Blaine yet had, it will just at this time be eagerly looked for, and the public may judge with accuracy the physical condition of the man who at all times commands a large portion of its attention and admiration.

LOCAL PATRIOTISM—When a man succeeds in business all his rivals want to have his property sold to the local government to fill a long felt public want.

MUST BRITANNIA RULE THE TARIFF?

John Bull—"Sam, don't you know since you have spread out more on your plantation, and have put in so many improvements, and gotten some credit for putting down the rumpus of some of your tenants who proposed to divide the property and set up a separate ranch of their own, that you are getting a little stiff and airish? A little vain, too, over the smart reduction of your war mortgage, and the considerable income that you are not using."

Uncle Sam—"Perhaps. John, does it trouble you?"

J. B.—"No, not exactly troubles me; but do you think, Sam, it is quite neighborly and right for one member of the family to allow himself to be threatened with this dreadful fatty degeneracy of the pocket without asking advice for its removal? I'll allow you have worked like Satan; see how thin you are, excepting that financial swelling. All that is needed for your solid prosperity is to go into the cheapest market, even if it be a foreign one, as you call it, for your wants."

U. Sam—"See here, John! You have grown pretty well off in trade and manufacturing. You never were much on farming, because you did not have land enough, or rather let a great lot of it lie waste for shooting and hunting ground. Your Christianity, so sadly helpful to Hindoostan, and opiumized China, didn't go far enough to let your own poor have any of the spare game. While you preached nicely in the pulpit, you kept up just the same a strong picket against poaching. When you made your start in life, didn't you begin by constructing a tariff bigger than any since thought of? Wasn't that the way you coaxed the best carpet-makers from Holland; the finest silk-weavers from France, and started your potteries in Staffordshire with foreign workmen? You found coal and iron not far apart. They naturally were reasonably close together, or they wouldn't have been on the island. You struck copper and tin pretty plenty, and made the best of your luck. So altogether, with lots of labor, plenty of minerals, and a good stiff protection on your own industries, a desperate sharp taste for trade, ships more plenty than plows, and more sea than acres, Providence, a great love for number one, and some pluck, have made you prosperous. Barter has made you the world's banker, and a banker gets all the richer by putting out at interest other folks' money, and paying little or nothing for the deposit. John, when your hive began to swarm, some of the workers leaving of their own accord, and others pushed out because you made it too hot for them, you tried hard to fix it so that your colonies should gather honey for the old bees. You haven't forgotten our first difference? Thomas Jefferson wrote an open letter on the subject; the world read it and remembers it. You didn't then want us to sail a boat (don't think you do now), make a nail or build a factory, and demanded that from hat to shoe you should do the making and we the wearing. Furthermore, you tried to padlock our lips from making a protest. No wonder we revolutionized. In about twenty years you started another fuss, because our shipping business was growing unpleasant. Fifty years after that you took part in an underhand and cowardly way in our domestic dispute, and tried your best to break up the family. I don't taunt you of this; don't care about it now anyway; mention it only just to show that it kind o' modifies any great appreciation of the sincerity of your advice. You see, if you drive a nail in a piece of timber, no matter if it is pulled out again, the hole is still left. I don't know that I blame you for wanting to do the most of the trading. It is easier to stand behind the counter, and more profitable than walking in the furrow. It is all right, your preferring to run the factory and the furnace rather than the farm. You have been a pretty successful banker, and probably can't resist a hankering desire for our surplus. Of course it is a temptation, you never having had any surplus of your own. That which bothers me the most is that some of our folks are so credulous and short-sighted. It is queer that any one should want to go thirty-five hundred miles for metals and material we have in plenty and close by; that New York and Kentucky editors, a lot of lawyers or Texan ranchmen or plantation overseers, a few pulpit men or college professors, or a graduate in Buffalo politics, all of whom know little or nothing of practical affairs, should be duped by your Jesuitical adroitness to follow your counsels. Let me read you this letter, just received from one of your own workmen. It tells its own story and needs no comment:

LONDON, ENGLAND, 186 Waterloo road, March 28, 1888.

Dear sir—Thanks for the papers you have sent me. I was in America for about two months last summer, sent over by our association to see for myself whether the working classes of your country were better off under protection than we are under free trade, and the conclusion I came to was this:

That any person who has to earn his living in America as a producer must become crazy before he becomes a free trader, and the farmers must be the craziest of the whole lot to think of such a thing. Before any of your working men (either engaged in manufacturing or agriculture) talk about free trade let them send one of their number over here, to see what it is doing for this country. Let him walk about for six months looking for a job, until his coat gets ragged and his shoes get thin, and he gets thinnest of all, and everywhere he asks for work he will be told that the Germans and the Belgians are doing the work cheaper than he can do it; then let them send for him home again, and hear what he says about free trade.

If it is the surplus revenue that is causing the trouble, send it to some free trade country. You never knew them to have a surplus. Or, if you don't like to do that, take it out to sea and sink it, or bury it, or burn it, or do anything, in fact, rather than adopt free trade—that is to say, if you do not want foreign competition to ruin your manufacturing industries, and by so doing ruin your farmers by robbing them of their home market.

Yours truly,
H. J. POTTIFER (Electro-plate worker),
Secretary Workman's association for defence of British industry.

OUR DEAD PRINCE.

Roscoe Conking bore himself like a prince in his relations with the country and individuals, and his death is the removal of very much in politics that was gallant, chivalrous and fascinating. That towering form, that blazing eye, that keen wit, that sharp satire, were at times misplaced, but were always interesting and always commanding respect; and now that the man is gone there is no glance at his grave which is not attended with the utmost sympathy and regret. Garfield, Grant, Arthur, Fenton, Folger—how many have preceded him within a little space of time! and what if the differences which they more or less represented were buried with them in their graves?

FROM BAD TO WORSE.

Literary man—"Mr. Rounds, I don't like to speak of it, but your little Harry nearly drives me crazy with his new drum."
Neighbor—"Yes, I was thinking some about changing it for a horn."

DIDN'T KNOW HIS RECORD.

Lady philanthropist—"Why do you beat that poor man on the head so with your club? Don't you know that a kiss will go further than a blow?"
New York policeman—"Yez ividently don't know me reputation wid de club."

PREPARING FOR THE SPORT.

Friend (to Bertie)—
 "I suppose you know your father and I are going fishing to-morrow, Bertie."
Bertie—"Oh, yes; pa is getting ready now."
Friend—"Is he? Digging bait, I presume."
Bertie—"No, sir; he's reading Munchausen."

PROBABLY SAVED MONEY AT THAT.

Bagley—"What did Lawyer Spriggs advise you about your $50 case?"
Bailey—"He advised me to settle without a suit."
Bagley—"That's peculiar. By the way, what did he charge you for the advice?"
Bailey—"Seventy-five dollars."

HE HAD NEVER NOTICED IT.

"Have you ever met Brown of Toledo?"
 "No; I have never had that pleasure, although I have corresponded with him about business matters for five years."
 "Brown is one of the worst stammerers I ever heard."
 "Funny I never noticed it in his letters."

THE NEWS ABOUT BLAINE.

I'm sorry to have to inform you that Blaine is daily and nightly distracted with pain; He is better and stronger than ever before And it's easy to see that he's near to death's door.
 His spirits are broken, he's moody, depressed;
 His liver is torpid, has pains in his chest;
 He's gay as a lark and as sound as a bell,
 And the midsummer tomtits will sing his death knell.
 His health is so poor that he's out of the race
 For president; and, were I but in your place,
 I would place my whole pile on the chance that again
 The G. O. P.'s hold will be healthy Jim Blaine.
 It is a little poem by the bard of the Buffalo Courier. The question as to the health of James Gillespie will be settled in a supplement to next week's JUDGE. We think the gentleman is doing pretty well, considering.

 "How was that?"
 "Brown said he saw an Italian organ-grinder playing the Bou-langer march in front of a German beer-saloon."

Theatrical manager—"Why, sir, this play won't go at all. Every character in the piece is killed in the first act. That's absurd!"
Playwright—"No, it isn't. You don't know what actors I've got in mind for the parts."

HER REQUEST.

"Are you posted, dear, in Volapuk?"
 The gushing maiden said,
 As she looked into her lover's eyes
 And tossed her pretty head.
 "Cold English words but half express
 The volumes of our love;
 Let's talk the universal volk
 And say, 'Ah-goo! Ah-goo!'"
 He loudly laughed, and tried to treat
 Her language as a joke,
 And stole a kiss from off her lips;
 She sighed, "Kharlie ah-uok!"
 He woke indeed, and looked her o'er,
 Then swiftly from her fled—
 And now she longs for English warmth:
 Cold Volapuk is dead.

HUM OF THE COURT.

The pen is mightier than the gloves.—J. L. Sullivan.

By a Persian philosopher—One never knows he has enough until he has had too much.

It will be demonstrated in next week's JUDGE that Mr. Blaine is pretty well, thank you.

Proverb—When a man is worth a few millions of dollars he is so honest that the law can never convict him.

There is a banner which says "America for the Irish," but A. S. Hewitt says it must not be displayed.

A prominent young western man, named Bang, who has just gone off, apparently didn't know he was loaded.

David to Grover, after having been knocked over with a club—"Say, you! can't we compromise this disturbance?"

James Owen O'Connor ought to be a good actor. He certainly has the requisite woman who belongs to somebody else.

It is well to take medicine in the spring, but that won't save you from those two-column accounts of movements in base ball.

Senator Stanford has two ambitions—one to be president and the other to occupy the finest mausoleum that money can buy.

We do not know whether Francis Bacon wrote Shakespeare, but it appears to be an undisputed fact that E. F. Shepard wrote the first chapter of Genesis.

It used to be the rule that a lawyer was entitled to merely the proceeds of all the things contended for; but now it is claimed that he has a right to his client's body, with the privilege of selling the same to the medical colleges.

Sluggo Sullivan was profoundly touched by the enthusiasm of his admirers when he sailed out of Liverpool, but hardly as much so as he had previously been by Sluggo Mitchell.

"Happy Bob," who was hanged in Wyoming, N. Y., recently, never meant to kill anybody; but somebody died of his weapon and it became necessary for him to bear the Van Brunt of the departure.

It is written in the later legal wisdom that when a lawyer shows superior ability he must have a guardian to save him from the wiles of unspirituelle frauds.

Mr. Cleveland is not for civil-service reform, as that term is used; but with Mr. Blaine and him in the field the mugwumps can vote for each other we hope.

It is a great principle of law that every man's crime is outlawed immediately on its commission, always providing the man has several millions in his own right.

When we read, in a cable dispatch to the Sun, that John Sullivan is America's principal pride we see what a fine thing it is to live and have a minor kind of being.

If the JUDGE has ever said anything against Mayor Hewitt it retracts the same with the utmost haste. That litter to the board of aldermin flagged the b'yes aff the track of which dey t'ought dey had sole possession.

We are pleased to note the statement, in an account of a recent society entertainment, that the dressing of the ladies was "a little above the average," because that means that it was pretty high in the neck.

IN HIS POWER.

BARBER (imperiously)—"Five dollars, sir."
 BACKWOODS VICTIM—"What! five dollars fur shaving off whiskers and ain't half done—no sirc!"
 BARBER—"All right. Only if you go out that way you'll be arrested and sent to a lunatic asylum. That's all."

JUDGE'S PHOTOGRAPHS.

THE INNOCENT BUD.

She trembles while tossing her tresses in pompadour turrets and rows, and smiles as she deftly unfastens the dearest and queerest of bows. A sparkle of infinite pleasure illumines her blue or brown eyes, while parting the dimity curtains and anxiously scanning the skies. She whispers to James at the carriage; James grins as he crackles his whip. Then she leans herself back on the cushions and nibbles a rose with her lip; while you and I, friend, on the pavement trudge wearily on through the rain, and, pard'ning her eagerness, wonder why we can't be young once again.

A blush mantles over her temples when first on her sensitive ear the music subdued and in rhythm floats out 'neath the hall chandelier. She bows to her hostess, and simpers a compliment mellow and vain, imbued with a positive languor from handling her very first train. The Major De Hulks is exhaustively civil; while Mr. Ned Stocks, who knows every filly or stallion that ever cut turf with their hocks, persuades her to trifle with truffles and fetches a salad or ice. Good-natured old Dr. Montressa prescribes her a waltz once or twice, and chuckles the pompous young rector (who chaunts from St. Michaelmas' rail), and angrily scowls at the spinster who fancies "she's awkward and pale." Chevalier Honore advances and chats with her chaperon grim, and—and—can it be her deep blushes are really intended for him? Young Nugent, who skillfully plays at the practice of voicing the law, sulks dismally, hid in a corner, and votes that she don't care a straw for the fellow who sent her the flowers now swinging, now pressed to her breast, and has doubtless forgotten their letters, their quarrels, and all of the rest. She chats where a musical fountain breaks through a botanical show; she leans on the balcony stairway and watches the gossips below; or smiles as Professor O'Connor relates how "historical France allied to the papal, etc." . . . yet longs to be tripping the dance.

Ah! Love is a difficult problem to every delectable bud—is it poverty, or is it money, or fame, degradation or blood? But, maybe the angel who hovers above her with guardian wings is watching young Nugent, for angels know lots of quite curious things.

DEWITT STERRY.

SOCIAL EXTREMITIES.

Their set, though very select, is somewhat limited, and it was the twenty-ninth "five o'clock" at which they had met.

Mrs. La Bland (trying ineffectually to look pleasantly surprised)—"Ah! Dear Mrs. De Bored! So glad to see you out and looking so charming."

Mrs. De Bored (in a spasm of frankness)—"You are not; you're tired to death of me, just as I am of you. Can't we assume five o'clock nommes de plume, or do something to freshen us up a little to each other?"

Mrs. La B. (meditatively)—"We might change houses, and names, and dogs. Then, you know, we could change each other's bric-a-brac all around for amusement, and make sweet new blankets and collars for our new pets."

Mrs. De B. (enthusiastically)—"Oh, you dear, let's!"

A BLOODED ANIMAL.

Mose — "Hi, dar, yo' Caesar, wha' yo' git dat ole nag, in de poun' er de bone yahd?"

Caesar (who has just appeared on the avenue in the new occupation of an ash-gatherer, with a gothic horse and a rickety cart)—"Dis yer steed, sah, am a descandan' ob some ob de bes' Kaintucky stock dat ebah run a race a blooded an'mal, sah, I'd hab yo' undahstan'!"

Mose—"Yah-ha-ha! Blooded, huh? I bet yo' dat yo' kin bury a jack-knife in um an' not git a drop!"

DOMESTIC INFELICITY.

She — "You may think it's very funny to come home at this time o' night, Mr. Smith, but what would you say if you came home some time and found I had returned to my father's?"

He — "Wha' 'd I shay, m' dear? I'd shay—how lucky f' the ole man that he's deaf."

IS MR. BLAINE A SICK MAN?

Well, not much! See next week's JUDGE for confirmation of this.

MR. WHIFFLE'S MASSAGE TREATMENT.

AN APRIL SHOWER.

Straight as shot from tower high
Falls the rain.
Leaden clouds in inky sky
Hanging, pall-like, heavily,
Add to pain.

Gutters running ankle deep,
Raging flood,
Splashing streams from cornice
steep,
Dripping awnings, trees that weep,
Sticky mud.

Sudden glory on the scene!
Sun at last?
Not exactly; but my queen,
Madge, the dainty, all serene,
Ambles past. J. S. G.

A SUFFICIENT REASON.

"But, Victorine, there's no kind of sense in your taking an hour and a half just to go to the butcher's and baker's."
"Yes, ma'am, I know I was gone a good while, but then men don't go and get run over in the street every day."

GETTING IT DOWN FINE.

One bon vivant had called upon another just as he was "putting away" an elaborate breakfast.

"And you call yourself a gourmand?" said No. 1 to No. 2.
"Why, you'd get away with this succulent meal in a single hour, while I should spend at least four over it."

"Well, that only proves that my pleasure is more refined than yours."

"How so?"

"Why, I have three times as long as you have to look forward to dinner."

GOT MIXED.

A druggist sent his clerk with a box of pills and sealed directions to a sick man, and at the same time instructed him to leave a cage with six canaries at the house of a friend.

Getting things mixed, the clerk left the birds and the directions for taking the medicine at the invalid's, who was somewhat puzzled on reading:

"Swallow two every half hour!"

MAGNANIMOUS.

In a cafe after a quarrel over cards.

"Sir, although I am the insulted party, I will be generous and leave you the choice of weapons."

"And I, sir, will be still more generous and choose forgetfulness of injuries."

GOING PREPARED.

LANDLADY (to boarder)—"Now, what earthly use have you for my coal-shovel in your room at this hour of the night?"

BOARDER—"Why, I had a dream last night of finding a buried treasure but didn't have a thing to dig it up with, so to-night I'm going to make sure of it."

SAFE FROM JURY DUTY.

Bobley—"Confound the luck! Here I have a summons to serve on a jury."

Wiggins—"Well, don't be worried, old man. The lawyers will never accept you."

Bobley—"Why?"

Wiggins—"Because two minutes' talk will show 'em you're no fool."

POOR FELLOW.

Jones is becoming philosophical.

"What a blessed dispensation of Providence that we don't know when we are to die! Why, if I knew that I had only a week to live I should be a dead man inside twenty-four hours."

SEVENTH AVENUE STYLES.

Yallerby—"Good ebenin', Mistah Solomons. Hab yo' got er good millionaire suit ob de prevailin' style?"

Solomons—"Right on der gounter here vas vun."

Yallerby—"Why, dat am de berry suit I sold yo' las' summer!"

SECOND-HAND.

ISAAC—"Abe, dit you hear dot Dinkelspiel, dot second-hand furniture man, has married Eselbaum's widow?"
ABE—"Yah."
ISAAC—"Vosn't you surprisid?"
ABE—"Nein. She vos joost his line of goods."

She is a sprightly little dame and cross upon occasion,
But then she frank and open is, and yields upon persuasion.
She has a jolly, pretty face, and sometimes she admires it;
But she will sacrifice her looks if any need requires it.
Her hands are small, and I confess they are 'most always lazy;
But they will press a poor man's palm so warm his eyes get hazy.
Her fingers, white and slender, do just nothing for a living,
But spend her money in a stream, one half of which is giving.
Her voice can rise both loud and high in argument on reason;
But never breathes in gossip's cause one word of female treason.
She is so proud she will not wear a thing that's not in fashion;
But to inferiors is so kind to serve her is their passion.
If anyone speaks ill of man or woman in her hearing,
A satire from her ready tongue will cure them quite of sneering.
Her temper rises if she sees or hears of unjust doing;
But if she be unjust herself she soon is pardon suing.
She is exacting in her love and very strict in honor,
And I must say this sense of right sits very well upon her.
So true her soul is and so pure, at times she seems not human;
But, thank the stars! her little faults proclaim her still a woman.
I love her? Yes! with all my heart. I mean to try and win her,
But know I am not worthy such a saint-like little sinner.

Ah, here she comes! "Pray read, dear heart, the fancies of your poet."
She reads, approves, and, smiling, signs her name by mine

CORA LINN DANIELS.

ONE CONSOLATION.

"Sad affair, this," said Wiggins, looking up from his paper—"a miner blown to atoms by dynamite; not a trace of him left."
"Sad indeed," returned Bobley. "But his family will have one consolation at least. They won't have to pay a hundred dollars for a fifteen-dollar coffin."

ONE THING LACKING.

"If it wasn't for one thing, John," said she, as they sat down to their frugal dinner, "I could have made some nice oyster soup."
"Indeed! What was that?"
"I didn't have anything towards it but the salt."

GAMBRINUS VS. THE CHURCH.

Parson Starvem—"Brother Bobley, I'm grieved to see you coming out of a beer-garden so soon after leaving church."
Bobley—"Well, fact is, I felt uncommonly hungry after the strawberry sociable; and they have a jolly good lunch in here."

ART IS LONG—LIFE SHORT.

A customer has been over half an hour in the hands of an awkward barber.
"Look here, my good fellow, you have parted my hair ten times, and haven't got it straight yet."
Barber (with great dignity)—"To criticise is easy; to part hair difficult."

In winter doth the plumber plumb;
In summer is the iceman known.
At all times doth the bum bum;
Like death, all seasons are his own.

Crooks work fer er livin'. Well, so do bible-bangers fer dat matter.

A watch in yer hand (when it don't jes' happen ter belong ter yer) is worth two stretches up to Sing twice.

Er man wot writes too many letters is bound ter git ink on his feelers wot he can't scrub off pretty easy.

When yer see er sleeper in de park don't wait till he snores afore yer collar his clock and leather. Snores ain't good fer some men.

When er feller smiles at yer 'n keeps it up, jes' sneak around 'n look behind his back. It's dollars ter doughnuts dat he's got er sticker or er gun waitin' fer yer.

Yer hev got ter turn up yer toes 'n croak sometime, so wot's de dif. wheder yer git it wid er sand-bag, which is nice 'n easy like, er whether yer go off in er poor-house?

Don't t'ink er feller's tellin' ye de dead troot jes' case he talks sweet 'n has er smooth mug. Confidence men an' some women has soft mugs 'n dey're both sweet warblers, but when dey goes gunnin' dey brings down de game.

Er yaller clock ain't allus gold. Dey sometimes washes silver supers ter make 'em look toney. It's de same wid er cheap dude. He's snide on de inside, but when yer sees him er sailin' up de ave. wid his wings wide open, 'n er flappin', he looks like er chromo wid er gilt frame.

DIDN'T CATCH THAT BOY.

Gentleman—"I suppose you make as many trips up as down during the day, don't you, sonny?"

New elevator boy—"Yes, sir; in the mornings when the people are going to work all the trips is up, and when they close up in the afternoons all the trips is down."

A TERRIERABLE RECEPTION.

MR. ROCKSBY (appearing at window)—"I took the liberty of coming around this way and surprising you, Miss Dorothy."
MISS DOROTHY—"How ingenious of you! Now let me see you jump in without touching your paw—er—hands. Fido always does."

...RY'S OWN STATE, BUT WHICH ONE CAN CARRY THE UNION?

SACKETT & WILHELM'S LITHO CO. N.Y.

UNDERSIZED CONTRIBUTIONS.

JUDGE is occasionally compelled to drop the diamond-pointed pen business and pry into some abuses with its crow-bar dipped in a pickling solution of carbolized vitriol.

This particular subject is not a funny one. It used to be, but the fun which it formerly contained has been squeezed by hydraulics in the shape of bitter tears, pounded by the anathemas of weary hunters in the field of amusement, and hammered over the head by the pick-axes of miners of thought, until it looks like a leaky stuffed snake in a Bowery museum.

To spring right at the throat of the abuse, here is a letter and enclosure which oozed out of the mail-bag this morning:—

“ LONE BAR, TEXAS, 1888.

“Gentlemen—My great grandfather on my mother's side took two lessons in drawing of Sir Joshua Reynolds, so that the enclosed sketch made by our little Pendexter does not surprise us. He is too young to leave home for good, but we are willing to allow him to do a certain amount of work for your paper, provided the question of payment for same can be amicably adjusted between us. We hold this particular sketch at $75, including the tasteful and elaborate frame which we have had made for it, or at $73.50 without the frame, and would suggest that in the event of the acceptance of our demand, remittance be made care Longhorn & Spurr, Bankers, Lone Bar, Texas. With a thoroughly appreciative feeling of the danger we run in launching the genius of our boy at such an early era in its existence, we remain,

Yours in art,

“ S. Q. RAWLINGS,
“ MRS. S. Q. RAWLINGS,
“ MRS. S. Q. RAWLINGS'S MOTHER.”

At the risk of bumping up against the provisions of a tyrannic copyright law, here is Master Rawlings's sketch:

Then comes another:

“ Dear sirs—I want to suggest a subject for a cartune. Make Grover Cleveland roasting over hot coals, and me, in the shape of a devil with a pitchfork, prodding him; while my wife, Mrs. Gormley, looks on and comes to the conclusion that Rufus E. Gormley can turn like a worm under big provocation, even if quiet and peaceful at home. Make the cartune as near like the drawing as possible, and if you ever come this way I will show you the town and treat you white.

A QUERY.

“Why are these men waiting on the curb of the muddy street?”

Respectfully yours,

“ RUFUS E. GORMLEY, Ex-Postmaster,
“ Three Ball River, Cumberland county, Maine.”

This death-warrant was followed in the newspaper mail by an empty paste-board box on which postage had to be paid at its destination, and then two days later came a roll in a tin telescope-case, which on being opened and spread forth developed this negative:

One more Bloomingdale rasper of the sixty-two which were contained in that Pandora-box-like mail-bag will serve to show why the tonic manufacturers of the United States are running their laboratories on extra time to supply the demand from this office, and we will drop the tongs with which we have been holding the “exhibits” in this case, and go on as well as we are able with more congenial work.

“ PORTLAND, OREGON (no date).

“POTTER JUDGE, Esq.—Dear sir: I take several papers and would like to stand in with you on a scheme which will increase your circulation (and parenthetically mine), elect a good Republican president, shut off the wind of Chauncey M. Allison, and boom a man who has been set on so hard that his ankles can't be picked out of his neck-vertebrae with any certainty. The racket is this:

“ Publish this sketch, which was made by a nephew of mine from memory, and offer a prize of $50,000 for the first correct solution. As soon as you find out who it is, send him $25,000 for a campaign fund, which properly soaped out will ensure his election. Send me a certified check for $30,000 for the idea, and keep $5,000 for yourself, which will amply pay you for the trouble you will have taken. If in any event you don't choose to adopt my suggestion, keep it mum, as I want to spring the same proposition on the Congressional Record and Lowell Times as a syndicate.

“ Let me hear from you!

“ Yours invariably,

“ CLARENCE C. BUSTARD,
“ Per JAMES S. GOODWIN.”

HE WANTED A SQUARE MEAL.

“ Is Mr. Hinman in?” inquired a seedy-looking fellow of the hotel clerk.

“ Yes, sir; but he's busy now and you can't see him. He's at dinner,” replied the clerk.

“ I couldn't see him at a more opportune moment. Will you be kind enough to show me the dining-room?”

AN ANSWER.

“ It is in Chicago, and they have been waiting to get across dry shod.”

Dont be a Clam

When you see your best porcelain piled on the rug,
And the catsup spilled into your lap,
And your stock of molasses poured out of the jug
In the eyes of the tortoise-shell cat;

When you doze on the lounge in post-prandial rest,
And are awakened to feel like a wreck,
With your medicine bottles piled up on your chest,
And a handful of salt down your neck;

When you see the gas globe o'er the floor swiftly rolled

Like a ball—there's abundance of proof
That a baby some eighteen or twenty months old
Is the busiest soul neath the roof.

—Harper's Bazar.

"DICKENS HAD ONE TRICK," remarked the professor, in a discussion of favorite authors, "which always struck me as an oddity. I mean his habit of pinning some distinctive word or phrase on a character, which must be uttered on all occasions. Now, people in real life don't iterate like parrots. At least, I know of only one person who is liable to such criticism—young Bowden, my neighbor. The picture of health, isn't he? Ruddy cheeks, sparkling eyes, ringing voice. Well, his pet phrase, which I've heard him repeat to perhaps a score of people suffering from coughs and weak lungs, is, 'Take Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.' No wonder, either, for it saved him from a consumptive's grave."

A FIENDISH SMILE OF GLEE.

Why does the re-port-er smile with that fiendish smile of glee? And why does he reach under the table for his gun?

Be cause the man by his side has just told him that there was no news in the pa-per yes-ter-day. But what is the re-port-er go-ing to do with his gun?

He is just go-ing to make a first-class i-tem. But no--he will not ei-ther, for the man has run away, be-fore the re-port-er could get his gun cock-ed.—National Weekly.

"TOOTH BRUSH REFORM."

(From the Scientific American.)

"The bristles of tooth brushes are extremely harsh and unpleasant, producing unnecessary friction and wear upon the enamel, and inducing diseases of the gums. The bristles tooth brush has been used for so many years as to render it difficult to realize that anything better could be provided for the same purpose, still we here present a cut of a brush which, although of recent invention, has come into extensive use, and is favorably known where introduced. It is a tooth brush, or polisher, formed of felt.

"This brush conforms to all surfaces of the teeth, thoroughly cleansing and polishing them without undue friction, and without in any way injuring the gums. When one of the serrated felt tablets becomes worn it may be instantly replaced by a new one at slight expense."

An economy in expenditure! A luxury in results! The Holder, Imperishable, costs 35 cents. Felt Polishers only need be renewed. 18, Boxed, 25 cents. Each good for ten days' beneficial use. Sold everywhere, or mailed by Horsey Manufacturing Company, Utica, N. Y.

The Sohmer piano received the First Medal of Merit and Diploma of Honor at the Centennial Exhibition. It has the endorsement of the leading artists in the United States and foreign countries.

$88 Solid Gold Watch Free!

This splendid, solid gold, hunting-case watch, is now sold for $88; at that price it is the best bargain in America; until lately it could not be purchased for less than $100. We have both ladies' and gents' sizes with works and cases of equal value. ONE PERSON in each locality can secure one of these elegant watches absolutely FREE. These watches may be depended on, not only as solid gold, but as standing among the most perfect, correct and reliable timekeepers in the world. You ask how is this wonderful offer possible? We answer—we want one person in each locality to keep in their homes, and show to those who call, a complete line of our valuable and very useful HOUSEHOLD SAMPLES; these samples, as well as the watch, we send ABSOLUTELY FREE, and after you have kept them in your home for 2 months, and shown them to those who may have called, they become entirely your own property; it is possible to make this great offer, sending the Solid Gold Watch and large line of valuable samples FREE, for the reason that the showing of the samples in any locality, always results in a large trade for us; after our samples have been in a locality for a month or two, we usually get from $1,000 to $5,000 in trade from the surrounding country. Those who write to us at once will receive a great benefit for scarcely any work and trouble. This, the most remarkable and liberal offer ever known, is made in order that our valuable Household Samples may be placed at once where they can be seen, all over America; reader, it will be hardly any trouble for you to show them to those who may call at your home, and your reward will be most satisfactory. A postal card, on which to write us, costs but 1 cent, and if, after you know all, you do not care to go further, why no harm is done. But if you do send your address at once, you can secure, FREE, AN ELIGANT $88, SOLID GOLD, HUNTING-CASE WATCH and our large, complete line of valuable HOUSEHOLD SAMPLES. We pay all express, freight, etc. Address, STINSON & CO., BOX 365 PORTLAND, MAINE

READ THIS.

Doubting the many rumors in circulation regarding the failing state of Mr. James G. Blaine's health, the publishers of JUDGE some few weeks ago sent an artist abroad with instructions to secure at all cost a portrait of Mr. Blaine from life. This the artist succeeded in doing at Florence, Italy. He has now just returned, and the portrait is to be published as a supplement to JUDGE No. 342. The picture will be printed in eight colors on the finest of chromo paper, and will be executed in the highest style of lithographic art. When done it will be one of the handsomest things in this line of work that has ever been issued by a journal of this character.

The demand for this number of JUDGE promises to be enormous, and to all who advertise in this issue good results are inevitable.

The last form for this special issue will close at 5 P.M. Tuesday, April 24th.

Address THE JUDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY (Potter Building), 38 Park Row, New York.
