INTRODUCTORY.

THE University of Edinburgh confers Degrees in Arts, Divinity, Law, Medicine and Surgery, and Science. The Regulations for Graduation are briefly stated in the following pages, but they will probably soon be materially altered in several respects under the powers conferred by the "Universities (Scotland) Act, 1889."

This volume contains a complete Alphabetical List of the Graduates from 1859 to 1888, both years included. The various Degrees are indicated by their initial letters appended to the names of the Graduates.<sup>1</sup>

Honorary Degrees.—The Degrees of Doctor of Divinity and Doctor of Laws are conferred honoris causâ tantum. The Degree of Master of Arts was also conferred honoris causâ tantum in a few cases previous to 30th April 1861, when it was enacted that the Degree in Arts should in no case be conferred except after due examination. All the other Degrees are conferred after Examination only.

The following outlines of the curricula and Examinations for Degrees are not intended as a guide for the future, but refer only to the subjects of study and of examination during the period embraced in the Lists.

Degrees in Arts.—The Degree of Bachelor of Arts was abolished by the Universities Commission in 1861. The course of study for this Degree extended over three academic years, and embraced attendance for one session on the classes of Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Logic and Metaphysics, and Moral Philosophy respectively; and candidates for the Degree were required to pass an Examination in these five subjects.

The present Regulations for Graduation in Arts were framed by the Scottish Universities Commission of 1858, and came into force at the beginning of the Winter Session 1861-62. It was, however, provided that any student who had completed part of his course at the time when the new Regulations came into force would be entitled to complete his course under the Regulations in force at the time, provided he passed the Examination or Examinations required under the new Regulations.

Previously to 1861 the course of study for the Degree of Master of Arts extended over four academic years, and embraced attendance on the following classes, viz.:—Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Logic and Metaphysics, Moral Philosophy, Natural Philosophy, and Rhetoric; and candidates for the Degree were required to pass an Examination in these seven subjects.

The Degree of Master of Arts under the present Regulations may be taken with or without Honours. The course of study for the Degree extends over four Winter Sessions, and includes attendance for not less than two Sessions in Latin, Greek, and Mathematics respectively, and for not less than one session in Logic and Metaphysics, Moral Philosophy, Natural Philosophy, and Rhetoric and English Literature respectively. Two sessions of the course may be taken in another Scottish University, provided the last two sessions be taken in this University. Candidates who pass the Three Years' Curriculum Examination in Latin and Greek, at the beginning of their course, are exempted from attendance on these subjects for a second session, and may complete their Curriculum in three Winter Sessions instead of four; and those who pass the Entrance Examination in Mathematics, are exempted from a second attendance on that subject.

Candidates for the Degree of M.A. are examined in three Departments, viz.:—Classical Literature (Latin and Greek), Philosophy (Logic and Metaphysics; Moral Philosophy; Rhetoric and English Literature), and Mathematics and Physics (Mathematics and Natural Philosophy); and they may appear for Examination in any Department or Departments when they have completed the necessary attendance on the classes. First and second class Honours are awarded in Classical Literature (Latin and Greek), Philosophy (Logic and Metaphysics, and Moral Philosophy), Mathematics and Physics (Pure Mathematics and Natural Philosophy); and Honours are awarded in Natural Science, viz.:—Geology, Zoology, Chemistry, and Botany, of which subjects candidates may select any two. Candidates may offer themselves for examination for Honours in any Department or Departments, after the necessary attendance, or they may offer themselves for further examination for Honours after they have passed the ordinary examinations for the Degree.

Degree in Divinity.—The Degree of Bachelor of Divinity was instituted in 1864, and has always been regarded as an Honours Degree, the standard of examination being unusually high. Candidates must be Graduates in Arts of a University of the United Kingdom, or of a Colonial University recognised for that purpose, and must have completed their Theological Curriculum in this University or elsewhere. If not Masters of Arts of this University, they must have attended two classes in one or more of the Faculties of this University.

The subjects of examination are arranged in two Departments, the first embracing—(1) Hebrew and (2) Apologetic Theology, or the Evidences of Natural and Revealed Religion; and the second Department embracing—(1) Ecclesiastical History, (2) Systematic Theology, and (3) Biblical Criticism and Biblical Antiquities.

Degrees in Law.—Two Degrees in Law are conferred after examination, viz.:—Bachelor of Laws, instituted in 1863, and Bachelor of Law, instituted in 1874. The Degree of LL.B. has also been regarded, since its institution, as an Honours Degree, the standard of examination being unusually high. Special distinction in the Law Examinations was instituted in 1885.

Candidates for the Degree of LL.B. must be graduates in Arts of a University of the United Kingdom or of a Colonial or Foreign University specially recognised for the purpose. The course of legal study extends over three academic years (two of which must be passed in this University), and includes attendance on a distinct course in each of the six following Departments, viz.:—Civil Law, Law of Scotland, Conveyancing (or, in the option of the Candidate, Political Economy), during Courses of not less than Eighty Lectures each; and Public Law, Constitutional Law and History, and Medical Jurisprudence, during courses of not less than Forty Lectures each. The examination for the Degree embraces these six subjects.

Candidates for the Degree of Bachelor of Law, if not Graduates in Arts, must have studied one or more of the subjects included in the course of study in the Faculty of Arts, during one academic year, in a University of the United Kingdom, or in a Colonial or Foreign University recognised for the purpose; and they must have passed a satisfactory examination in (1) Latin, (2) Greek, French, or German, and (3) any two of the following subjects—namely, Logic, Moral Philosophy, and Mathematics. The course of legal study extends over at least two academic years, and includes attendance on a Course in Civil Law, Scots Law, and Conveyancing, and in either Public Law, Constitutional Law and History, or Medical Jurisprudence. Two academic years of legal study must be passed in this University.

Degrees in Medicine and Surgery.—The present Regulations for Graduation in Medicine and Surgery were framed by the Scottish Universities Commission of 1858, and came into operation on 4th February 1861; but several alterations have been made from time to time by the University Authorities. Previously to the date mentioned this University conferred the Degree of Doctor of Medicine only. Candidates for that Degree were required to pass a Preliminary Examination in Latin. The attendance on classes in Medicine and Surgery extended over four years, and was similar to that required under the present Regulations as after-mentioned, except that only three months in Clinical Surgery and eighteen months of Hospital attendance were required; while Practical Chemistry, Practical Physiology, Practical Pathology, and Practical Midwifery were not compulsory. Candidates were examined in Anatomy, Chemistry, Botany, Institutes of Medicine, Natural History, Materia Medica, Pathology, Practice of Medicine, Surgery, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Each candidate was required to submit a Thesis composed by himself on some Medical Subject; and the Thesis required to be approved by the Faculty of Medicine. Gold Medals, High Commendation, and Commendation were awarded according to the merit displayed by the candidates in their Theses. It was provided that all candidates who had begun their Medical Studies before 4th February 1861, should be entitled to complete them under the Regulations then in force.

Under the present Regulations three Degrees are conferred, viz. :—Bachelor of Medicine, Master in Surgery, and Doctor of Medicine. Previously to 19th December 1881, the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine could be taken alone ; but the Degree of Master in Surgery could not be conferred on any person who had not taken that of M.B. Since that date both Degrees (M.B. and C.M.) must be taken at the same time.

Graduation with Honours in Medicine and Surgery was instituted in 1865 ; and in 1868 Honours were divided into First and Second Class.

Candidates for the Degrees of Bachelor of Medicine and Master in Surgery must either be Graduates in Arts of a University of the United Kingdom, or of a Colonial or Foreign University specially recognised for that purpose, or must pass a Preliminary Examination in General Education, either in this University, or under an Examining Board whose Examinations are recognised as equivalent to the University Examinations. This Preliminary Examination embraces the following compulsory subjects :—English, Latin, Arithmetic, the Elements of Mathematics, and the Elements of Mechanics ; and at least two of the following subjects :—Greek, French, German, Higher Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Logic, Moral Philosophy.

The course of study for the Degrees of Bachelor of Medicine and Master in Surgery extends over four years, and embraces attendance on each of the following departments of Medical Science, viz. :—

(a.) Anatomy, Chemistry, Materia Medica, Institutes of Medicine or Physiology, Practice of Medicine, Surgery, Midwifery and the Diseases of Women and Children, General Pathology (or in schools where there is no such Course, a Three Months' Course of Lectures on Morbid Anatomy, together with a Supplemental Course of Practice of Medicine or Clinical Medicine), during Courses including not less than One Hundred Lectures ; Practical Anatomy, during a Course of six months ; Courses of Clinical Medicine and Clinical Surgery of the same duration as those of not less than One Hundred Lectures above prescribed, Lectures being given at least twice a week ; Courses on Medical Jurisprudence, Botany, and Natural History (including Zoology), of not less than Fifty Lectures ; and Practical Chemistry for three months.

(b.) Practical Materia Medica and Pharmacy, Practical Physiology, and Practical Pathology, either in this University, or in Universities or Schools of Medicine, or under Teachers recognised for the purpose during Courses of not less than Fifty hours ; the Medical and Surgical Practice of a General Hospital (accommodating not fewer than eighty patients, and possessing a distinct staff of Physicians and Surgeons), for at least two years; the out-practice of an Hospital, or the practice of a Dispensary, Physician, Surgeon, or Member of the London or Dublin Society of Apothecaries, for six months; twelve cases of labour under the superintendence of a Registered Medical Practitioner, or six such cases together with three months' practice in a Midwifery Hospital in which practical instruction is regularly given; and a course of instruction in Vaccination by a recognised teacher.

The studies of candidates for the Degrees of Bachelor of Medicine and Master in Surgery are subject to the following Regulations:—

1. One of the four years of Medical and Surgical study of the subjects, as above stated under 'a,' must be in the University of Edinburgh.
2. Another of such four years of Medical and Surgical study must be either in the University of Edinburgh, or in some other University entitled to give the Degree of Doctor of Medicine.
3. Attendance during at least six winter months on the Medical or Surgical Practice of a General Hospital which accommodates at least eighty patients, and during the same period on a course of Practical Anatomy, may be reckoned as one of such four years, and to that extent shall be held equivalent to one year's attendance on Courses of Lectures as above prescribed.
4. One year's attendance on the Lectures of Teachers of Medicine in the Hospital Schools of London (including the Professors in the Faculty of Science, in subjects required for graduation, in King's College and University College, London), or in the School of the College of Surgeons in Dublin, or of such Teachers of Medicine in Edinburgh, or elsewhere, as shall from time to time be recognised by the University Court, may be reckoned as one of such four years, and to that extent shall be held as attendance on Courses of Lectures as above prescribed.
5. Candidates may, to the extent of four of the Departments 'a' of Medical Study, attend, in such year or years of their Medical and Surgical studies as may be most convenient to them, the Lectures of the Teachers of Medicine specified in the last paragraph.

Candidates are examined, both in writing and vivâ voce—First, in Chemistry, Botany, and Natural History; secondly, in Anatomy, Institutes of Medicine, Materia Medica, including Practical Pharmacy and Prescribing, and Pathology; thirdly, in Surgery, Practice of Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence; fourthly, Clinically in Medicine and in Surgery in a Hospital. The examinations in Anatomy, Chemistry, Institutes of Medicine, Botany, Natural History, Materia Medica, and Pathology are conducted, as far as possible, by demonstrations of objects placed before the candidates. Down to the end of 1866 each candidate for M.B. was also required to submit a Thesis composed by himself, which had to be approved by the Faculty of Medicine; and Gold Medals, High Commendation, and Commendation were awarded in the same way as for the degree of M.D.

The Degree of Doctor of Medicine is now only conferred on Bachelors of Medicine and Masters in Surgery, of twenty-four years of age, who have been engaged subsequently to obtaining these two Degrees, for at least two years in Medical and Surgical Practice. Candidates must either be Graduates in Arts (as above, p. 9), or must have passed a satisfactory examination in three of the optional subjects of Preliminary Examination, two of which must be Greek and either Logic or Moral Philosophy, and the third must be either French, German, Higher Mathematics, or Natural Philosophy.

Each candidate is also required to submit to the Faculty of Medicine a Thesis composed by himself on a branch of Medical Science, and the Thesis must be approved by the Faculty of Medicine. Gold Medals, High Commendation, and Commendation, are awarded to Doctors of Medicine on Graduation, according to the merit displayed in their Theses.

Degrees in Science.—Two Degrees in Science (i.e., Mental Science, Philology, Physical and Natural Science, Engineering, Public Health, and Agriculture) are conferred by the University of Edinburgh, viz. :—Bachelor of Science (B.Sc.) and Doctor of Science (D.Sc.). Both of these degrees are conferred in Physical and Natural Science, in Engineering, and in Public Health. In the Mental Sciences and in Philology the degree of Doctor alone is conferred. In Agriculture the degree of Bachelor only is conferred. In consequence of the high standard of examination, the degree of B.Sc. is regarded as an Honours Degree, and that of D.Sc. as one of the highest distinction.

The Degrees in the Departments of Mental Science, Philology, and Physical and Natural Science were instituted in 1864; the Degrees in Engineering in 1870; the Degrees in Public Health in 1874; and the Degree in Agriculture in 1886.

Candidates for the Degree of Doctor of Science in the Departments of the Mental Sciences and Philology must be Graduates by Examination of a British or recognised Indian or Colonial University, and must have attended at least two Classes in this University on the subjects embraced in the Examinations.

Mental Science.—Each candidate for the Degree of Doctor in the Mental Sciences must, before proceeding to Examination, lodge a Thesis affording evidence of original research, on a subject approved by the Science Degrees Committee. Candidates are admitted to examination only after this Thesis has been found satisfactory. The Examination includes Logic, Metaphysics, Moral Philosophy, and the History of Philosophy.

Philology.—Similarly each candidate for the Degree in Philology must lodge a Thesis giving evidence of original research on some subject in Philology or Archæology. When the Thesis has been approved, the candidate may offer himself for Examination in one of the following branches, viz.:—1. The Latin and Greek Languages. 2. The Semitic Languages. 3. The Sanskrit Language and Comparative Philology.

Physical and Natural Science.—Candidates for Degrees in Physical and Natural Science, in Engineering, and in Agriculture, unless Graduates in Arts of a University of the United Kingdom, or of a Colonial or Foreign University recognised for the purpose, must pass a Preliminary Examination in English, Latin, Arithmetic, the Elements of Mathematics, and the Elements of Mechanics; and in at least two of the following subjects:—Greek, French, German, Higher Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Logic, and Moral Philosophy, or other equivalent examination, either in this University or under an Examining Board whose Examinations are recognised as equivalent.

The course of study for the Degree of Bachelor of Science in the Departments of Physical and Natural Science, Engineering, and Agriculture respectively, extends over three academic years, one of which must be passed at this University, and the other two years either at this University, or at such Universities or Institutions, or in attending Lectures of such Teachers, as are specially recognised by this University for Graduation in Science. In the case of the Degree of B.Sc. in Agriculture, however, one of the three years may be spent on a farm or farms in pursuance of practical study.

For the Degree of Bachelor of Science in the Departments of Physical and Natural Science there are two Examinations, written, oral and practical; and candidates are required to attend qualifying Classes on all the subjects of the Examination which they intend to undergo. The First Examination is in Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Zoology (including Comparative Anatomy), and Botany. The Second Examination is divided into the following groups, one of which must be selected by the Candidate:—(a.) Mathematical Sciences, embracing Higher Mathematics and Natural Philosophy. (b.) Physical Experimental Sciences, embracing Experimental Physics and Chemistry. (c.) Natural Sciences, embracing Zoology, Botany, Physiology, and Geology.

Candidates may present themselves for the D.Sc. Examination twelve months after passing the Second B.Sc. Examination. Each candidate must show a thorough knowledge of one of the following branches:—Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Zoology and Comparative Anatomy, Animal Physiology, Botany, and Geology (including Palæontology and Mineralogy). He must submit a Thesis containing an account of original work done by him, or historical or critical research connected with the subjects of his Examination. The Thesis must be approved before the Candidate proceeds to Examination.

Engineering.—There are two Examinations, written, oral and practical, for the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Engineering. The First is in Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, and Chemistry. The Second Examination is in Dynamics, Engineering, and Drawing.

Candidates for the Degree of Doctor of Science in Engineering must have been engaged for at least two years under an engineer in actual practice. Each Candidate will be examined in one of the sub-divisions in each of the two following groups:—1. Practical Engineering—(a) Design of Machinery, &c., (b) Preparation of Designs, Specifications, &c. 2. Applied Science—(a) Applied Mathematics, (b) Technological Chemistry, (c) Geology, (d) one Branch of Natural Philosophy, (e) Telegraphy. Candidates must show their knowledge of the subjects in Group I. by submitting a complete set of drawings, specifications, and estimates for some proposed work.

Public Health.—Every candidate for Graduation in the Department of Public Health must be a Graduate in Medicine of a British University, or of a Colonial, Indian, or Foreign University specially recognised for the purpose. There are two Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Science, written, practical and oral. Candidates for the First must have passed the First Professional Examination for Graduation in Medicine in this University, or a corresponding Examination, which must include Chemistry, in a University recognised for this purpose, and must produce evidence that they have worked in a Laboratory where practical instruction is given in matters pertaining to Public Health. Candidates for the Second must be Graduates in Medicine, as above mentioned, and must have attended in this University at least two courses of instruction on the subjects of Examination, and also a course of lectures on Public Health. The subjects of the First Examination are:—1. Laboratory work. 2. Elements of Experimental Physics. Those of the Second Examination:—1. Medicine in its application to Public Health. 2. Practical Sanitation. 3. Sanitary Law and Vital Statistics. 4. Mensuration and Drawing.

Candidates for the Degree of Doctor of Science in Public Health must produce evidence that they have been engaged for at least one year in Practical Sanitation since they took the Degree of Bachelor of Science, and each Candidate must present a Thesis, composed by himself, on some subject in the Department of Public Health. The Thesis must be approved by the Science Degrees Committee.

Agriculture.—In the Department of Agriculture the Degree of Bachelor of Science only is conferred. There are two Examinations for this Degree, written, oral and practical. The first is in (1) Agriculture; (2) Chemistry; (3) Biology, either (a) Botany, or (b) Natural History, in the option of the Candidate; (4) Geology in so far as bearing on Agriculture; and (5) Economic Science. The second Examination is in (1) Agriculture and Rural Economy; (2) Chemistry as applied to Agriculture; (3) Veterinary Hygiene; and (4) Engineering.

It remains to be added that this volume has been compiled chiefly by Mr Thomas Gilbert, Registrar of the University and Clerk of Senatus, and Mr James O. Sinclair and Mr James Dowie, Assistant Clerks of Senatus, who have spared no pains to ensure its accuracy.

In the footnotes are mentioned public and important appointments now or formerly held by the Ordinary Graduates; and if time and funds had permitted more exhaustive inquiries, these notes would doubtless have been fuller. Footnotes are appended to the names of those Honorary Graduates only who hold or have held appointments in this University. Should readers observe any serious error or omission in the lists, they will oblige the Editor by intimating them to him immediately, in order that, if necessary, he may cause a list of Errata and Addenda to be prepared.

CONSTITUTION.

THE University of Edinburgh has grown into its present status out of what was originally a small College, called the "College of Edinburgh" or "The Town's College," which was founded in 1583 by the Town Council of Edinburgh, under the general powers to found educational institutions granted to them by the Charter of King James VI., dated 14th April 1582. No separate Charter of foundation is now extant; but from the first the College possessed the privilege of conferring degrees. This privilege was ratified by the "Act of Confirmation," an Act of Parliament passed in 1621, which secured to the "College of James VI." (as it had come to be called) all the rights, immunities, and privileges enjoyed by the Universities of Scotland. This ratification was renewed in the Treaty of Union between England and Scotland, and in the Act of Security. Gradually, in Acts of General Assembly, Acts of Town Council, and Acts of Parliament, the "College of James VI." came to be styled "The University of Edinburgh." But the institution remained under the absolute control and patronage of the Town Council of Edinburgh down to 1858, when, by the Universities (Scotland) Act, all the Universities of Scotland received new and autonomous constitutions.

The University of Edinburgh is now (1889) a Corporation, consisting of the Chancellor, Rector, Principal, Professors, Registered Graduates and Alumni, and Matriculated Students; and its government is vested in the Senatus Academicus, subject to the review and control of the University Court.

LABORATORIES AND MUSEUMS.

The University contains the following Laboratories and Museums, several of the latter belonging in part to the Professors of the respective subjects:—

I. LABORATORIES.

PHYSICAL LABORATORY, established with the view of affording Students a practical knowledge of the construction and use of Physical apparatus, and of the mode of conducting experimental inquiries.

ENGINEERING (FULTON) LABORATORY, for the practical instruction of Students in the processes employed by the Engineer in the experimental determination of the physical and economical constants of materials, machines, and prime movers, and in the practical illustration of electricity.

GEOLOGICAL LABORATORY, for practical instruction in the study of minerals, rocks, and fossils, and the methods of plotting and drawing geological maps and sections.

ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN and GOVERNMENT BOTANICAL MUSEUM AND LABORATORY.—These, as well as the Government Herbarium, with which is incorporated the Collection of dried plants belonging to the University, are used by University Students for the practical study of plants and for botanical research.

PHYSIOLOGICAL LABORATORY, for the prosecution of Physiological Research, and for the study of Practical Physiology.

PRACTICE OF PHYSIC LABORATORY, for the study of Medicine, and for research in connection with the Practice of Physic.

The new CHEMICAL LABORATORIES (distinct from the Practical Chemistry Room), completed in 1885, contain accommodation for forty Students. The Laboratories are fitted with all necessary apparatus for chemical analysis and research.

OBSTETRICAL AND GYNECOLOGICAL LABORATORY, for research and study of practical work.

NATURAL HISTORY LABORATORIES, for research and for study of the structure and development of Invertebrate and Vertebrate forms.

MATERIA MEDICA LABORATORIES, for the study of Practical Materia Medica and Practical Pharmacy, and for Pharmacological and Pharmaceutical research.

PUBLIC HEALTH LABORATORY, for Hygienic investigation, comprises three departments, viz. : a Chemical, a Bacteriological, and a Meteorological department.

SURGICAL LABORATORY, divided into two parts—(a) General Surgical Pathology, (b) Bacteriology,—is utilised for teaching Systematic Surgery, and every facility is afforded for investigation.

PATHOLOGICAL LABORATORY, for the study of Pathological Anatomy and for Pathological Research, including Histological and Bacteriological departments.

II. MUSEUMS.

The NATURAL PHILOSOPHY MUSEUM contains a large and very valuable collection of physical apparatus, chiefly of modern manufacture.

MUSEUM OF MUSIC and of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—A curious and valuable collection of historical character.

MUSEUM OF AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, &c., comprising (in the classroom) a collection of oil-paintings of animals, &c., some of them by eminent artists.

GEOLOGICAL MUSEUM.—This collection is for class purposes. It exhibits the character of minerals and rocks, and the typical fossils of the different geological systems.

FINE ART MUSEUM.—A small but choice collection of casts from the antique, models of buildings, &c.

PRACTICE OF PHYSIC MUSEUM, containing Pathological Specimens, drawings, models, diagrams, and charts, the property of the Professor.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM, founded in 1800 by Alexander Monro, secundus, who presented his own and his father's collection to the University. In 1859, Sir David Monro, M.D., presented the collection which had been formed by his father, Alexander Monro, tertius. Other additions have been made by gift and by purchase, and the Museum now contains several thousand Normal and Pathological Specimens of Human and Comparative Anatomy. The Conservator, the Professor of Anatomy, will be glad to receive contributions of rare and interesting specimens. He is especially desirous of making the collection thoroughly representative of the Osteology of the different races of men, and solicits donations of skulls and other bones of the skeleton.

CHEMISTRY MUSEUM.—Sir Lyon Playfair, on his resignation of the Chair of Chemistry, presented to the University the collection of Chemical Substances which he used in illustrating his lectures. This collection has been from time to time increased by presents from chemical manufacturers and others, and also by the addition of substances prepared in the University Laboratory.

The OBSTETRICAL MUSEUM, with the exception of a few wet and dry preparations left by Professor Hamilton, contains instruments, preparations, models, and diagrams, collected by Sir J. Y. Simpson, and added to by the present Professor of Midwifery, to whom they belong.

NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM.—This Museum, consisting largely of valuable collections transferred by the University to Government, and now preserved in the new Museum of Science and Art, is available for the educational purposes of the University, and is accessible to Students attending the classes of Natural History and Geology.

A ZOOLOGICAL MUSEUM is now being formed in the University. Graduates, Students, and others interested in the Natural History Department will greatly aid in this important undertaking by presenting specimens.

MATERIA MEDICA MUSEUM.—The Materia Medica Museum contains one of the most complete collections of medicinal and food substances in this country. The collection was founded by Professor Andrew Duncan. His successor, Sir Robert Christison, during his long incumbency of the Professorship, added a large number of valuable specimens, which were, for the most part, mounted by himself with singular neatness. The present occupant of the Chair, Professor Thomas R. Fraser, has made further extensive additions. The Museum has been greatly enriched by interesting donations from former members of the class in all parts of the world. Besides the general collection, there is a Students' Reading Museum, containing specimens of the medicinal substances usually employed in this country, which has been formed and arranged by the present Professor of Materia Medica.

SURGICAL MUSEUM.—This collection was founded by the late Professor Spence, and has been largely extended by his successor, Professor Chiene, to whom it now belongs. During the last five years many additions have been made, both of Pathological preparations and of plaster and gelatine casts illustrative of Surgical Anatomy and Pathology. A complete catalogue may, on application, be consulted by practitioners of medicine.

PATHOLOGICAL MUSEUM, containing a large collection of apparatus drawings, and pathological specimens, partly belonging to the University and partly to the Professor.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

In 1580 Mr Clement Littil or Little, left his books to "Edinbvrgh and Kirk of God thair to reman." This collection of about 300 volumes, chiefly theological (see list in Miscellany of the Maitland Club, vol. i. 1834), was a few years afterwards transferred by the Town Council to the University, and thus became the nucleus of the University Library, which was gradually augmented by donations from Citizens of Edinburgh and from alumni of the University, and by annual contributions of Students when they took the Degree of Master of Arts.

The celebrated Poet, Drummond of Hawthornden, bequeathed his library to the University in 1627; and the gift is valuable, both from the eminence of the donor's name, and from the rare specimens of early literature with which the collection is enriched (see Auctarium Bibliothecæ Edinburgensæ, 1627).

Among donors may be specified, for the extent and value of their benefactions: Principal Adamson; Dr Robert Johnston, a physician in London; the Rev. James Nairne of Wemyss, in Fife; Dr John Stevenson, Professor of Logic and Metaphysics in the University; and Dr William Thomson, Professor of Anatomy in the University of Oxford. In 1872, the Library received a valuable donation from J. O. Halliwell (-Phillipps), the eminent Shakespearean critic, of works relating to Shakespeare, collected at great cost. In 1875 a large collection of Persian and Arabic MSS. was presented by Mr J. B. Baillie of Leys. In 1879 the bequest of an extensive collection of MSS. was received from the executors of David Laing, LL.D. In 1880 the collection of works on Economic Science formed by Professor Hodgson were presented to the Library by Mrs Hodgson. In 1882 a valuable collection of works on Sanskrit Literature was presented by the family of Dr John Muir. In 1886 Mr Thomas Stratton bequeathed to the Library 110 works bearing on the study of Celtic; and in 1889 Sir William Mackinnon of Balmakill, having purchased the library of the late Dr Cameron of Brodick, an eminent Celtic scholar, at a cost of £600, placed the books at the disposal of the University. During the same year the Library was enriched with a bequest of a collection of MS. Shakespeariana by Mr Halliwell-Phillipps; by the presentation of a number of volumes from the library of the late Professor Wilson by his widow; and by a gift of several hundred German and other theological works by the Rev. Cunningham Geikie, D.D.

The University Library contains about 155,000 printed volumes, and about 2000 volumes of MSS., many of which are of great interest and value.

There is attached to the Reading-Room of the University Library a separate collection of books set apart for the consultation of Students.

The University New Buildings also contain a Reading-Room, with Books of Reference for Students in the Faculty of Medicine.

THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY.

This Library was founded in 1698 for the special use of Students in Theology. It contains above 10,000 volumes. The books are restricted to theological works, and works subservient to theological study.

BENEFACTORS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

A complete list of the Benefactors of the University of Edinburgh, about 200 in number, to whose generosity she is largely indebted for her present prosperity, is published annually in the University Calendar. Much, however, still remains to be done in order that the University may not fall behind the requirements of the age. Intending Benefactors are therefore respectfully reminded that additional Chairs, Lectureships, Supplementary Endowments for existing Chairs and Lectureships, Scholarships for many branches of scientific research, and contributions to the University Fund for general purposes, besides ordinary Bursaries and Prizes, are still urgently required. The wishes of Donors and Testators are in every case scrupulously observed, and their names, if so desired, may always be connected with any Chair, Lectureship, Scholarship, Bursary Fund, or other Benefac-tion which they may bestow. Such Benefactions may simply be conveyed to the "University of Edinburgh." All necessary information will be gladly afforded by the principal Office-bearers of the University.

PORTRAITS AND BUSTS.

The University possesses a very valuable collection of Portraits and Busts of Benefactors, Professors, and others, of which a complete list will be found in the University Calendar.

In order to honour and perpetuate the names of those who have founded Chairs, Scholarships, and Bursaries in the University, the Senatus Academicus have made arrangements for placing Busts or Portraits of such Benefactors in the Library and the University Court Room.

Regarding also as Benefactors the eminent Professors who have elevated the character of the University by their writings or discoveries, the Senatus is anxious to procure Portraits or Busts of James and David Gregory, Colin Maclaurin, Matthew Stewart, Dr Cullen, Joseph Black, Dr James Gregory, Dr Alison, Dr Chalmers, Sir Chas. Bell, Lord Woodhouselee, Dr Thos. Chas. Hope, Professor Miller, Professor Ross, and Professor Macdougall.

REGENTS AND PROFESSORS IN THE FACULTY OF ARTS SINCE 1583.

Regents of Philosophy from 1583 to 1708.

[The Regents of Philosophy taught in rotation the four classes in the Curriculum of Arts, the "Bajans," the "Semi-Bajans," the "Bachelors," and the "Magistrants," as the Students of the first, second, third, and fourth year were respectively styled. Each Regent therefore taught every subject in the Curriculum—the Regent of Humanity being subordinate to the Regent of Philosophy, and being employed as a tutor in Classics for Unmatriculated Students. In 1708 the system was changed, and separate Professors for Latin, Greek, Logic and Metaphysics, Moral Philosophy and Natural Philosophy, were substituted for the Regents. A Professorship of Mathematics had previously existed.]

UNIVERSITY SOCIETIES AND CLUBS RECOGNISED BY THE SENATUS ACADEMICUS.

STUDENTS' REPRESENTATIVE COUNCIL. FOUNDED 1884.

The aims of the Council are—(1) To represent the Students in matters affecting their interests ; (2) To afford a recognised means of communication between the students and the University authorities ; and (3) To promote social life and academic unity among the students. The Council is elected annually in November, partly by the students of the different Faculties, and partly by the recognised students' societies.

There is a Directory of Students' Lodgings, under the management of the Students' Representative Council, containing terms, references, and full particulars regarding Board and Lodgings.

THE EDINBURGH UNIVERSITY UNION.

The first Session of the University Union begins in October 1889. The Union will be a common meeting-ground for University Office-Bearers, Graduates, and Students. The Building, situated in Park Street, conveniently near the old and new University Buildings, contains a large hall, a reading-room and library, committee, luncheon, smoking, and billiard rooms, besides a large gymnasium, baths, &c.

UNIVERSITY HALL. FOUNDED 1887.

This Hall is designed to supply the long felt need in Scottish Universities of College life as understood in England, with its social advantages and avoidance of the drawbacks of solitary life in lodgings. The internal affairs are managed by a committee of residents elected monthly.

ROYAL MEDICAL SOCIETY, EDINBURGH.*

FOUNDED 1737. ROYAL CHARTER GRANTED 1778.

The Society meets on Friday evenings during the winter. Dissertations are given on medical subjects, and debated by the members present. Communications by members on subjects of interest are also discussed. The Society has a very fine library of about 30,000 volumes, which is constantly being added to. There are comfortable writing and reading-rooms, containing the medical journals and periodicals, books of reference, and text-books, specially useful for students reading for examination. The museum contains a complete set of Materia Medica specimens, microscopic sections, a herbarium, and a surgical model, on which bandaging, setting of fractures, &c., may be practised.
