Heath and Mountain.

Ere yet the golden sheaves we piled,
We went, a solitary pair,
My friend and I, across the heaths,
To wander on the mountains bary,
The misty mountains broad and wild.

We wandered where the streamlet twines
Its silver, round the mountain base,
Toiling through all that golden day,
Till on a rocky resting place
We passed above the golden pines.

We clambered up the misty Ben,
Half cloud, half sunshine, there, the while;
We skimmed the silver-sheeted loch,
We rambled round the sleeping isle,
Or loitered in a twilight glen.

Deep was our rapture where we slept,
And one gray lonely ruined found,
Till in each broken arch we stirred
The slumbering ivy into sound,
Disturbed the halls where ages slept,

We read our Ossian in the fern
Amid the mountain scenes he sung,
We revelled in his mists of gold,
Till grander seemed his mountain tongue
In that wild landscape bleak and stern.

We saw the little fishing town,
A dingy crescent round the bay,
The scaly prizes drifted in,
The morning breaking cold and gray
O'er ragged headlands bare and brown.

The bleating of the mountain flocks
That roam beyond a shepherd's care;
The wandering wild-fowls' lonely shriek,
Like murmurs of the dreaming air;
The seals half-sunned upon the rocks;

All haunt me yet. Were I to live
Untraveled till my latest hour,
These memories of the past would raise
A deathless charm, a quenchless power,
A sense of wild relief to give.

The Novice.

"I, in probation of a Sisterhood."
—Shakespeare.

The events I am about to relate took place at Paris, in the reign of Louis the Fifteenth: all, excepting the names, or rather titles of the parties—for their first names are those which actually delonged to the actors of the drama—being literally true.

The Count de Villeroi, a noble of high descent and great feudal possessions, had an only daughter, Henriette, who, almost in her childhood, evinced so decided a vocation for a conventual life, that, before attaining the age of sixteen, she entered upon her novitiate in the convent in which she had been educated. Returning home, in consequence of a severe illness, a few months after, she met at her father's, Adrien, Viscount de Mornay, a young man, her equal in birth, fortune, and endowments; a mutual attachment ensued, and they were on the point of marriage, when M. de Villeroi died, leaving his daughter under the guardianship of his only sister, the Marquise de Chamillart.

This lady, still young enough for coquetry, had, unfortunately, imbibed an attachment for de Mornay, and, in revenge for his neglect of her charms, resolved to separate the lovers; an opportunity for which purpose unluckily offered itself, in his being appointed secretary to an embassy at the court of St. Petersburg.

The marquise immediately placed her niece at the royal abbey of Panthemon rue de Grenville, in Paris; the abbess of which convent was nearly connected with her family, and joined her heartily in endeavoring to induce the fair novice to increase the already large number of illustrious ladies of the house of Villeroi, who had attained the highest honors of the church.

The marquise adopted the further precaution of sending to the Abbey of Panthemon partly as companion, partly as attendant upon her niece, a tenant's daughter, Eugenie Latour, whose vocation for a religious life she well knew, promising that if she succeeded in inducing Henriette to take the veil, she would herself furnish the money required for her entering the same convent. In addition to this, anonymous letters were dropped, by unknown hands, into the apartment of the fair maiden, announcing that Adrien was on the point of marriage to a Russian princess; and the marquise showed communications addressed to herself to the same effect; so that poor Henriette, hearing nothing from her false lover, and assailed on every side by persuasions and arguments in favor of a religious life was at last driven to resume the dress and duties of a novice, and to announce her intention of becoming a nun as soon as the requisite forms could be undergone.

Although, however, the marquise had, to a certain point, succeeded in her end, one of the means which she employed had completely failed her. Eugenie Latour, an affectionate, honest-hearted girl, had, with the quick sympathy of youth toward youth, become unfeignedly attached to her young lady, and seeing at once, and the more strongly from her own deeply seated religious feelings, that poor Henriette's vocation was the result rather of disappointed love than that of devotion, and mistrusting, most justly, the good faith of the marquise, who seemed, to her sense of simplicity, taking too much pains to establish that which, if true, needed not such reiterated proofs, suddenly demanded her dismissal and her wages, and set forth from the ruined Grenville, determined if possible, to return to the speech of the Viscount de Mornay.

Whether her pilgrimage might not have conducted her to St. Petersburg, there is no saying, had she not, luckily, bethought herself of repairing to the hotel of the nobleman in whose suite Adrien had revisited the court of the Czar, where she immediately ascertained that the secretary of the embassy had been unable to encounter the severity of the climate, and had been sent, under medical advice to his chateau, near Lyons.

Hither the faithful girl repaired, husbanding, as best she could, her own small means, and performing—partly on foot, and partly by the aid of good natured travelers—a journey whose duration and difficulty can hardly be adequately estimated in these days of steamboats and railways. She found the Viscount de Mornay, as expected, sick rather of grief than of disease. A similar system of deceit had been practiced with respect to him; and he, when Eugenie made her appearance in his apartment, fully believed that Mademoiselle de Villeroi, to whom he had written repeatedly, without receiving any answer, (letters which the marquise had taken good care should never reach the convent,) had already taken the veil.

The tidings which his unexpected visitor had to tell him gave him fresh life. He immediately dispatched her to the Princess Potocka, the Russian wife of a Polish nobleman, and the friend in Paris upon whose aid he most confidently relied, and proposed following himself as speedily as his health would permit.

Eugenie arrived at the Hotel Potocka on the very eve of the Profession. The fourteenth of March was the fatal time, and this was late on the evening—evening, do I say?—before the necessary explanations had taken place, it was deep in the night of the thirteenth; and the princess, as her only chance, resolved to set forth at once on her search for the archbishop.

The archbishop was, however, no where to be found. All that she could learn from the drowsy Swiss porters of the palace was, that he was either in retirement at the seminary of Saint Magloire, or he was gone to pass the fete of St. Bruno, with the holy fathers of the Chartreux in the rue d'Enfer, or he was resting himself at his country-house at Conflans sur Seine.

Baffled and disappointed, the princess drove back to her hotel. She retired to rest, after giving Eugenie to the care of her attendant. But, as her love of justice, her hatred of perfidy, and her affectionate pity for its amiable and innocent victims, made it impossible for her to sleep, while any means to prevent the meditated injury was yet untried, at seven o'clock Eugenie was summoned to the carriage, and they drove to the abbey.

"Let me see the address as soon as possible," was the message sent.

The answer, as might have been expected, was a positive refusal. The abbess was obliged to be in office at that hour in the church. She then asked if she might be permitted to enter the convent, to reveal something of the greatest importance.—The reply was:

"By no means, except by permission of the Archbishop of Paris."

And now almost in despair the princess re-entered the carriage, and established herself at the door of the church, there to await the arrival of the prelate.

The clock struck eleven, when one of the servants of the princess forced his way to her carriage.

"Madame," said he hastily, "the archbishop entered by the cloister-door; he is already at the altar, and the ceremony is going to begin."

The princess and Eugenie shuddered when they heard this intelligence; but, recovering her presence of mind, the princess wrote a few lines on her tablets, and then ordered her valet to make way for them through the crowd, and conduct her to the sacristy without loosing a moment; giving Eugenie, meanwhile, to the care of another servant, desiring him to see her safely seated in the church.

Never had a more brilliant assembly of royalty, nobility, and persons of varied claims to distinction, been gathered together on such an occasion. The pride of the aunt had led her to make the ceremony of her niece's profession as imposing and dignified as possible.

It did her sparkling dress, however, accord with the deadly whiteness of her cheek and the languor of her countenance, as she awaited, with the firmness of despair, the opening of the gates of the choir. As she rose from her knees a sort of loud murmuring was heard at the bottom of the church, amongst the servants in livery.

"Turn those footmen out!" cried a nobleman, in a very loud voice; but they were already departing unbidden, for they were bearing out a young man who had fainted, but was recovering, and struggling to remain where he was. This circumstance drew Henriette's attention to the spot, just as her aunt was leading her to kneel before the observant prelate.—She saw, she recognized her lover in the now passive youth whom they were bearing away, and who uttered an "Oh Dieu!" which thrilled to her very soul; but the angry pressure of her arm by her enraged and alarmed relation, recalled her to herself. What an expression of interest, love, anxiety and agony beamed from her glistening eye, as she turned to kneel at the feet of the archbishop! But when there, when the awful moment was really come, she felt that the ceremony must go on, though she would be a wretch for life. Neither that look of agony, nor that of humble resignation which succeeded, was lost on the benevolent prelate, who was holding in his hand tablets enameled in gold.

"Sister," said he, in the kindest tone, "what is your age?"

"She is nineteen," cried her aunt.

"You will have to answer me, madame, by and by," replied the archbishop; and he put the same question to Henriette again.

"I am just turned seventeen," faltered out the blushing novice.

"In what diocese did you receive the white veil?"

"In the diocese of Toul."

"How! in the diocese of Toul?" exclaimed the archbishop, in a very loud voice. "The seat of Toul is void; the bishop of Toul has been dead these fifteen months, and no one there can be authorized to receive novices. Your novitiate is null and void, young lady! and we refuse to receive your profession."

He then rose from his seat, assumed his mitre, took his crozier from the hands of an acolyte, and said, addressing the assembly:

"My very dear brethren, there is no necessity for us to examine and interrogate this young lady on the sincerity of her religious vocation. There is, at present, a canonical obstacle to her profession. As to any future impediments, we reserve to ourselves the means to ascertain whether any such exist. In the meanwhile, I forbid any other ecclesiastic whatever to assume the power of accepting her vows, on pain of interdiction, suspension and nullity, and this in virtue of our metropolitan rights, according to the bull cum proximus."

When he had pronounced these words a sound, as of approbation, was heard from many parts of the building, but the prelate instantly sung, in a grave and solemn voice: "Adjutorium nostrum in Nomine Domini;" and, turning to the altar, he proceeded to give the benediction of the holy sacrament, while Henriette, scarcely able to support herself, was led to the nearest seat, where she hid her face in her hands to conceal her varied emotion, among which thankfulness was predominant.

Meanwhile, though the considerate prelate, in order to avoid a public exposure of the nefarious proceedings of the marquise, that he might not disgrace a noble family, had taken advantage of a violation of form to annul the ceremony, that lady found herself so despised and avoided in the circles in which she hitherto moved, that she was forced to quit Paris; and, on pretense of illness, she set off travel in a foreign land. And in a happy marriage terminated this romance of real life.

PUTTING OFF.—The Rural New Yorker says: "To-morrow" is a bad day for farming. It is largely responsible for poor crops, poor stock, bad fences and loose land generally. What we intend to do, and could not be persuaded to abandon—necessary and indispensable—often utterly fails of accomplishment by being put off. We don't decide not to do it; we simply never "get at it." You would be shocked beyond measure if required to give away or destroy one-half of your apples and pumpkins—you do worse by gathering them "to-morrow"—alas, letting them freeze. He would be thought crazy who should apply a match and burn up his hay; put off cutting it three weeks too long, and that result is substantially arrived at, but the owner keeps clear of the lunatic asylum. The man who should throw his money into the fire, would have a guardian appointed by the civil authorities; but he may waste just as much by letting his timber lie on the ground and rot; and in the latter case he may get elected justice of the peace.

"UNION is not always strength," as the sailor said when he saw the pursur mixing his rum and water.

THE best bite we ever had on a fishing excursion was the bite we took along with us.

Marriage.

Nature never did betray the soul that loved her, and nature tells man and woman to marry. Just as the young man is entering upon life—just as he comes to independence and man's estate—just at the crisis of his being, is to be seen whether he decides with the good, and great, and true, or whether he sinks and be lost forever—matrimony gives him ballast and a right impulse.

War with nature and she takes a sure revenge. Tell a young man not to have a virtuous attachment, and he will have a vicious one. Virtuous love, the honest love of man for the woman he is about to marry, gives him an anchor for his heart; something pure and beautiful for which to labor and live. And the woman, what a pure light it sheds upon her path; it makes life for her no day dream, no ideal hour, no painful shadow, no passing show, but something real; earnest, worthy of heart and head. But the most of us are cowards, and dare not think so; we lack grace; are of little faith; our inward eye is deep and dark. The modern young lady must marry in style; the modern young gentleman marries a fortune. But in the meantime the girl grows an old maid, and the youth takes chambers—ogles the nursery maids, and becomes a man about town, a man whom it is dangerous to invite into your house, for his business is intrigue. The world might have had a happy couple; instead it gets a woman fretful, a plague to all around her. He becomes a skeptic in all virtue; a corrupter of the youth of both sexes; a curse in whatever domestic circle he may penetrate. Even worse may result. He may rush from one folly to another, associate only with the vicious and depraved; bring disgrace and sorrow upon himself and all around him and sink into an early grave.

Our cities show what become of men and women who do not marry. Worldly fathers and mothers advise not to marry till they can afford to support a wife; and the boys wickedly spend double the amt in bad company. Hence it is, all wise men (like Franklin) advocate early marriages; and that all our great men, with rare exceptions, marry young. Wordsworth had only one hundred pounds a year when he first married. Lord Eldon was so poor that he had to go to Clara market, London, to buy sprats for supper. Coleridge and Southey we can't find had any income at all when they got married. We question at any time whether Luther had more than fifty pounds a year. We blast humanity in its very dawn. Fathers, you say you teach your sons prudence—you do nothing of the kind, your worldly and clever son is already ruined for life. You will find him at faro tables and free love circles. Your wretched worldly wisdom taught him to avoid the snare of marrying young—and soon, if he's not involved in embarrassments which will last him a life, he is a base fellow—heartless, false, without a single generous sentiment or manly aim—the world "No God, no Heaven in the wide world."

MIND WHAT YOU SAY.—What children hear, they are apt to repeat; and as they have no discretion, and not sufficient knowledge of the world to disguise anything, it is generally found that children and fools speak the truth. See that boy's eyes glisten while you speak of a neighbor in language that you would not have repeated. He does not fully understand what you mean, but he will remember every word, and it will be strange if he does not cause you to blush by the repetition. A gentleman was in the habit of calling at a neighbor's house, and the lady had always expressed much pleasure in seeing him. One day, just after she had remarked to him her happiness from his visit, the little boy entered the room. The gentleman took him on his knee and asked:

"Are you glad to see me, George?"

"No, sir," replied the boy.

"Why not, my little man?"

"Because mother don't want you to come," said George.

Here the mother looked daggers at her little son, and her face crimsoned, but he saw nothing.

"Indeed, how do you know that?"

"Because she said yesterday she wished that old bore would not call again!" said the boy.

The gentleman's hat was soon in requisition, and he left with the impression that 'Truth is mighty, and will prevail.'

A GENTLEMAN at a ladies' fair, lately, being solicited to buy something by a fair creature who kept a table, said he wanted to buy what was not for sale—a lock of her hair. She promptly cut off the coveted curl and received the sum asked for it, $100. The purchaser was shown his trophy to a friend.

"She rather had you," said the friend, "to my certain knowledge, she only paid $8 for the whole wig."

PRIDE is a flower that grows in the devil's garden.

THE hopes of our farmers were rather disappointed at the small quantity of rain which fell on Wednesday afternoon and night. For two or three days preceding the wind had blown from the south, and Wednesday forenoon it rose almost to a gale, and the indications were that it would be followed by a heavy rain. But a small quantity, however, fell; but that little will, just at this time, be of incalculable benefit to the growing crops, though hardly sufficient, from what we learn, to save the volunteer crop, unless more rain falls soon. We learn that as a general thing the sowed grain looks well; it has not, so far, suffered for moisture, and one or two good rains at the proper time will suffice to make a good crop.

U. S. DEPUTY ASSESSOR.—C. J. Jennings who has been acting in the capacity of Deputy Assessor of the Internal Revenue for Yolo county, has been appointed Adjutant in Army California Volunteers. This will make a vacancy in the Assessor's department. We have heard the name of Charles W. Lewis mentioned in connection with the office thus made vacant. His appointment would give general satisfaction to the people of the county.

I. O. O. F.—The Grand Encampment will meet in San Francisco on Monday, May 4th. The Grand Lodge will meet on Tuesday, May 5th. The ceremonies of dedicating the new Odd Fellows' Hall in that city will take place on Wednesday, May 6th, and a ball and other festivities will be held on the evening of that day.

GREENBACKS.—A. L. Delaney, mail carrier from Sacramento to Colusa and Princeton, purchased property from S. W. Raveley, for which he gave his note payable in gold coin; at maturity he paid said note in legal tender notes instead of coin, as stipulated. Persons doing business with said A. L. Delaney had better do it on the cash principle.

HEUSTON, HASTINGS & CO., the great clothing firm of Lick House, corner of Sutter and Montgomery streets, San Francisco, are a little ahead of everything in their line in the Bay City. Their store is the handsomest in San Francisco, and their goods are superior to any imported. They have outstripped everybody in the clothing line, that's certain.

TWO TRIPS A WEEK.—The California Steam Navigation Co's steamer Victor, Captain Rogers, will make two trips a week from Sacramento to Red Bluff; leaving Sacramento every Wednesday and Saturday, and returning from Red Bluff every Thursday and Sunday.

QUICK TRIP.—The steamer Victor left this place on Wednesday last at 12 o'clock M., and returning on yesterday morning at 4 1/2 o'clock A. M., making the trip, including stopages, in one day sixteen and a half hours—a distance of 448 miles.

FLOWER SALE.—On Monday next there will be a sale of the finest variety of flowers and garden plants. See advertisement.

PREACHING.—The Rev. J. E. Barnes will preach at the Union Church, Woodland, to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

BEE GUMS.—Just received, at Raveley's, a fine lot of Bee Gums.

WE understand, says the Marysville Appeal, that Mr. Bausman, of the San Juan Press, will cease the publication of that paper, and betake himself to Reese River, where he has extensive and valuable interests.

A WILD man was caught in the woods of Amador county, a few days since. He was insane and had been running nude and wild for some time. He has been lodged in Stockton Asylum.

A. A. SARGENT has been invited by telegraph to deliver the oration at the ceremonies of opening the Odd Fellows' Hall, San Francisco, on May 6th.

STATE TREASURY.—At the close of business on Saturday last, the balance in the State Treasury was $339,331 61.

THE total indebtedness of Marysville is $165,289 76, all which is funded, save $500.

THE SUTTER CLAIM.—The land case entitled "The United States vs. John A. Sutter," involving the title to the city of Sacramento and vicinity, is set for final hearing on all exceptions, in the United States District Court, on Tuesday, the 21st inst.—Call.

Railroad Matters.

From present indications we are to have work resumed at an early day on the Marysville and Vallejo Railroad. We have seen a copy of a telegraphic dispatch from C. D. Huskins, the contractor, from New York, in which he says he has completed arrangements whereby he obtains funds sufficient for all purposes necessary to complete the road. This is good news for the people of this section of country. As the country develops, we feel more and more the great need of railroads, both to tide-water and also to the upper country. It has long surprised us that a project so so feasible as this line of road is, and investment which almost insures such vast returns of profits, should thus long have laid dormant, while other species of enterprises, much less feasible or attractive, have obtained all the capital and influence required. We can only account for it on the grounds that the projectors knew the value of the investment, and by strictly adhering to the principles of economy, and avoiding contracting debts, or obtaining money, where the terms were exorbitant. They have thus kept steadily in view this great railroad maximum for a road to be profitable, it must not be encumbered beyond half its value—and as we know these are the views of the contractors, and also a majority of the directors, we surmise this is the main cause of the delay in having the road pushed through to completion before this. Of course the present national troubles have had much to do with the delays, but only so far as they operated in inflating or depressing the stock and money markets. We presume, however, the contractor has at last obtained funds on easy terms, and every property holder from Vallejo to Marysville will be glad to hear it, as they will directly reap the profits resulting from a completion of the road.

COURT OF SESSIONS.—On Monday last the Court of Sessions met at Woodland, Judge L. R. Hopkins and Associates O'Neil and Tutt on the bench. The following named gentlemen E. R. Lowe, T. Willie, G. W. Chapman, Chas. W. Lewis, J. H. Harland, J. C. Murphey, Wm. Campbell, Ambrose Jones, C. G. McCormick, Alexander Powell, E. J. Drew, W. F. Read, James Logan, John Beatty, G. Spencer and D. Q. McCarty, were impaneled, and sworn as a Grand Jury for the term. The first case tried was that of The People vs. H. P. Hamblin, District Attorney, on a charge of malfeasance and misfeasance in office. The case was conducted by Sprague and Burnett for the county, and D. W. Welty for the defense. A verdict of acquittal was rendered.—John Carr was tried on a charge of grand larceny, in stealing two Government mules from Benicia, worth $800. Hamblin and Welty appeared for the prosecution, and J. W. Coffroth for the defense. The defendant was acquitted. Thomas Jackson was tried on a charge of grand larceny, in stealing a span of mules belonging to a resident of this county named Marston. Welty and Hamblin appeared for the prosecution, and J. C. Goods and J. W. Coffroth for the defense. The defendant was found guilty. The case of Keesebergh, charged with assault on murder, was continued for the term. In the case of W. W. Joseph, charged with assault on murder, a change of venue was granted to Sacramento county. Thursday, April 9th, Thomas Jackson was arraigned for judgment, and upon being asked if he had anything to say why the sentence of the law should not be pronounced against him. Sprague and Burnett appeared as his Attorneys, for the purposes of a motion only, and asked leave of the Court to reconsider the motion for an arrest of judgment, and after hearing the argument of Counsel, the Court granted a temporary arrest of judgment, and set Saturday, the 18th inst., to hear the argument on motion for new trial. Court then adjourned until Saturday, the 18th inst., at 10 o'clock A. M.

SWALLOWED HER TEETH.—A London paper says: On Saturday afternoon, lately, an inquiry was held at the Prince Regent Tavern, Globe road, Mile end, London, respecting the death of Mary Harrington, aged 56, which occurred from swallowing a plate of false teeth. James Stevens said that on Tuesday, deceased, while walking across the room, put both hands to her breast and uttered a piercing scream. He caught her and placed her on the sofa; he thought she was in a fit, and ran for help. She died almost immediately, in great agony. Dr. J. Reilly said that he was called in, and found deceased had just died. He took from the trachea a false tooth and a portion of the metal plate. There was the corresponding portion of the metal plate fixed to the palate. The metal was of the commonest material, and was so soft that the nail could be easily put through it.

Camp Fun.

A private in one of the Ohio regiments has amused himself with putting some of the experiences of a camp into the style of a distant and simpler age, for publication:

Chronicles of the One Hundred and Twenty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry.

1. Man that is born of woman, and enlisteth as a soldier in the One Hundred and Twenty-third Ohio, is of few days, and short of "rations."
2. He cometh forth at "reveille," is present also at "retreat," yea even at "tattoo," and retireth apparently at "taps."
3. He draweth his rations from the commissary, and devoureth the same. He striketh his teeth against much "hard tack," and is satisfied. He filleth his canteen with "apple jack," and clappeth the mouth thereof upon the bung of a whisky barrel, and after a little while goeth away rejoicing in his strategy.
4. Much soldiering has made him sharp; yea, even the seat of his breeches is in danger of being cut through.
5. He covenanteth with the credulous farmer for many turkeys and chickens; also at the same time, for milk and honey, to be paid for promptly at the end of each ten days, and lo! his regiment moveth on the ninth day to another post.
6. His tent is filled with potatoes, cabbage, turnips, krout and other delicate morsels of a delicious taste, which abound not in the Commissary Department.
7. And many other things not in the "returns," and which never will return; yet of a truth, it must be said of the soldier of the One Hundred and Twenty-third that he taketh nothing he cannot reach.
8. He fireth his Austrian rifle at midnight, and the whole camp is aroused and formed in line of battle, when lo! his mess come bearing a nice porker, which he solemnly declareth so resembled a secesh that he was compelled to pull trigger.
9. He giveth the Provost Guard much trouble, often capturing his guard, and possessing himself of the city.
10. At such times "lager" and pretzels flow like milk and honey from his generous hand. He giveth without stint to his own comrades; yea, and withholdeth not from the One Hundred and Sixteenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, or from the lean, lank, expectant Hoosier of the "87th Injanny."
11. He stretcheth forth his hand to deliver his fellow soldiers of the One Hundred and Sixteenth from the power of the enemy; yea, he starteth at early dawn from Petersburg, even on a "double quick" doth he go, and toileth on through much heat, suffering privation and much "vexation of spirit," until they are delivered. Verily I say unto you, after that he suffereth for want of tents and campkettles. Yea, on the heights of Moorfield his voice may be heard proclaiming loudly for "hard tack and coffee," yet he murmureth not.
12. But the grunt of a pig or the crowing of a cock awakeneth him from the soundest sleep, and he goes forth until halted by the guard, when he instantly clappeth his hands upon his "bread basket," and the guare, in commiseration, alloweth him to pass to the rear.
13. No sooner hath he pressed the centry's deat, than he striketh a "bee line" for the nearest hen roost, and seizing a pair of plump pullets, returneth soliloquizing: "The noise of a goose saved Rome," how much more the flesh of chickens preserveth the soldier.
14. He even playeth at euchre with the parson, to see whether or not there shall be preaching in camp the following Sabbath; and by dexterously drawing from the bottom a Jack, goeth away rejoicing that the service is postponed.
15. And many other things doeth he; and lo! are they not recorded in the "morning reports" of Company B?
Yea verily.

VALUE OF RAILWAYS.—The following is from an English writer on the subject of railways, to the people of California: "Railways have, when properly selected, been invariably attended with the following results: Increased Government revenue; increased value of all property; increased cultivation and produce, and expansion of manufacturers; increased accommodation to all classes of intercommunication; diminished cost of all description of goods to consumers, and increased consumption by accession of numbers: a measure of universal benefit without a drawback or objection, if selected and carried out under due provisions, with judgement and discretion."

A correspondent of the Westminster Review, speaking on the same subject, says: "Wherever railways are constructed—whether they cross the American Continent, and link the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, or line the banks of the Thames, the Rhine, the Danube, and the Euphrates; traverse the burning plains of Hindostan, or the snows of Siberia—the maxim enounced by Mr. Pease of Darlington, when railways were only experiments, on the success of which he had risked his fortune, will equally hold good, and remain unquestionable evidence of his largeness of view and soundness of judgment: 'Let the country but make the railroads and the railroads will make the country.'"

RAILROADS are only wanting to render California the richest and greatest State in North America; and the richer and greater California shall grow, the better for Washoe.—Washoe Times.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of April 8th:

HARTFORD, Conn., April 7.—Republican Congressmen are elected in the 1st and 4th Districts. The Democrats carry the 2d. It is believed that Gov. Buckingham's majority will be about 3,000 in the State. The Union men have elected 15 out of 21 Senators, and a large majority of the Representatives.

NEW YORK, April 7th.—Special dispatches from Washington say:

Two expeditions, sent out by General Stahl, returned yesterday evening. One proceeded to Warrenton and vicinity, and the other explored beyond Bull Run mountains to the Blue Ridge. They encountered a few scattered guerrilla parties, took 51 prisoners, and brought in a number of horses.

The Times' special dispatch says: The mails of the British steamer are expected here with considerable anxiety. It is needless to disguise the fact that, to the most prudent and intelligent statesmen connected with the Government, our relations with that of Great Britain are said to appear more precarious than they have been at any time since the Trent affair.

Gold, this morning, is 52.
The Richmond Examiner of Saturday, April 4th, received to-day, contains the following:

VICKSBURG, April 2d.—The enemy made a reconnaissance up the Yazoo yesterday, and threw a few shells at Snicker's Bluff. There is nothing in sight below that point to day.

CHATTANOOGA, April 2d.—The gunboats on the Tennessee have been driven back by our sharpshooters. The Iron clads attempted to land a force at Tusculum (Ala) this morning at daylight, and were attacked by our cavalry outposts. Heavy cannonading ensued, but without effect. The efforts to land were entirely unsuccessful, and the gunboats backed down the river. Heavy skirmishing has been going on at McMinnville, Tenn.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 2.—There are no signs thus far of the expected attack. There has been no landing in force on any of the islands below, as reported. The skirmish on Seabrook's island was between a few independent scouts a party from the gunboats.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Colonel Harrison, commanding at Fayette, Ark., telegraphs that Capt. Worthing, with two companies of the First Arkansas Cavalry, has returned from a scout in Carroll county, Ark., having had four skirmishes with the rebels, in which he killed 22 and took 7 prisoners. Two rebel Captains were killed. Our loss was one man wounded.

Col. King, who pursued the rebels who captured the steamer Sam Gaty, succeeded in overtaking them, and after a fight dispersed them, mortally wounding their chief.

CHICAGO, April 7.—A special Washington dispatch says the entire delegation of Federal officers at San Francisco have been finally removed. Ex-Congressman Low has been appointed Collector of the Port; R. B. Swain Superintendent of the Mint. New Appraisers have also been appointed. The removals were based on discoveries of fraud in each department, made by Special Agent Brown of the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Some of the Judges of the Territories are preparing to test before the U. S. Court of Claims, the question whether the President has the power to remove such officers at pleasure. Judge Cradlebaugh, whose case is fully made out, and which is included with the others, continued to act on the Supreme Court bench of Utah eighteen months after Buchanan appointed his successor. Judge Cradlebaugh's associates, however, acknowledged him to the exclusion of the latter.

The President and the party who accompanied him to the Army of the Potomac on Saturday will probably return to-day or to-morrow.

NEW YORK, April 7th.—Sterling exchange dull, at 166@168; Gold dull and lower, closing heavy at 50 1/2.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7.—Messengers from Major Ransom's battery of the Sixth Kan as regiment report several skirmishes with guerrillas, in which 25 were killed or wounded, and the notorious Todd captured, with a number of horses and equipments. Twenty five houses of Secessionists in this county were burned, and about 100 head of cattle taken.

CAIRO, April 7th.—Guerrillas having fired on transports while passing on the Cumberland river, a few days since, a force landed from one of the gunboats, and after notice given to the inhabitants to leave, every house was fired.

The steamer Gray Eagle, from Memphis on Sunday, April 5th, has arrived. From passengers we hear of two important expeditions, the objects of which may not yet be made public.

Reports in regard to the Yazoo Pass expedition are still conflicting. The preponderance of evidence is that it is not yet abandoned.

Last week, while the steamer Ad Hine was passing down the Coldwater, she was fired upon by guerrillas. Several deck hands and one engineer were killed, and the Captain mortally wounded.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 7.—Returns from all but one (?) town in the State foot up: Buckingham (Rep.), 38,309; Seymour, 35,836. The Senate stands 14 Union to 7 Dem.; the House 139 Union to 94 Dem. In two towns there is a tie. Three Republicans and one Democrat are elected to Congress.

CHICAGO, April 8th.—Wisconsin dispatches indicate the election of Cothran, Democratic candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court. The farm mortgage question, which was purely a local matter, largely influenced this result.

MARRIED.

In Woodland, April 7th, John O. Garrett, of Sacramento, to Martha Jane Thompson, of Sausal, Solano county.
In North Kingston, R. I., March 1st, by the Rev. B. Johnson, Wm. R. Dutemple, of Providence, to Mattie T., daughter of the late Z. Gardner, of Sacramento.

A CARD.

Editor Knight's Landing News: In the Good Templar, the official organ of the Temperance societies of this State, I see an article, signed by D. S. Cutter of Woodland, in which allusion is made to certain "hell holes" in this village, among which he has classed my saloon—the "Bella Union."

The precise language of this elegant writer I will not ask you to repeat in your columns, as it is such as ought to debar any newspaper from circulating among decent people; but I wish to say this much: When Mr. Cutter intimates that my saloon is not fully as respectable a place of resort for gentlemen as the place in which he himself does business, he is guilty of a falsehood, as I can prove by the most respectable people of this vicinity. With all due respect to the feelings of every honorable and sincere Good Templar, I am willing to compare my Bella Union, for intrinsic respectability, with the Drug store behind whose counter stands this delectable Mr. Cutter, ready and anxious to sell brandy and Port wine (for medicine!); and I am willing to compare the gentlemen who frequent my saloon with those who are Mr. Cutter's intimates. The public and private conduct and character of my patrons will compare favorably with that of Mr. Cutter's patrons; and as for Cutter himself, I know nothing against him, except that he is a Good Templar who sells strong drink, and is also the indecent and ungrammatical author of the abominably false and scurrilous article above mentioned—two facts which ought to render him a suspicious character.

If my saloon is so unfortunate as to be occasionally visited by a drunken rowdy, the Good Templars of this vicinity are equally unfortunate, as they have at least a dozen such foul-mouthed, unclean fanatics among them as Mr. Cutter. ISAAC LEWALD.

ODD FELLOWS IN SAN FRANCISCO.—The Order of Odd Fellows in this city, yesterday, made another payment of $17,000 on account of the purchase of Tucker's Hall, making a total of $62,000 in cash, paid thus far. The Order in this city is in an unprecedented state of prosperity. In addition to the new (Tucker's) Hall, they own the building on the corner of Bush and Kearny streets, for which, we are informed, they have been offered $30,000. They are also the owners of other valuable property in this city. They have a very select library, numbering upwards of 10,000 volumes, also a large and valuable cabinet of curiosities. A grand celebration on the occasion of the new hall will take place May 6th. There will be an oration by J. D. Dwinelle, Esq., together with other interesting and appropriate ceremonies. A grand procession is to take place, in which each Lodge and Encampment in the city will unite in full regalia, accompanied by a military escort; the whole to conclude with a grand levee and ball in the evening, at Union Hall, Howard street. The annual session of the Grand Lodge of this State will convene in this city on that day, and unite in the procession in full regalia. The Grand Lodge now numbers upward of 800 members, a majority of whom will be present. There are over 1,200 members of the Order in this city, and about 8,000 in the State.—S. F. Herald.

THE "CHAPMAN" PRISONERS.—We learn that four of the prisoners taken on board the Chapman will probably be tried by a Military Commission at Alcatraz, there being proof undeniable both of their having taken the oath of allegiance to the United States since the breaking out of the rebellion, and of the schooner's being intended to be used for piratical purposes. The remainder of the prisoners will be tried by the United States Courts here, or held in close confinement at Alcatraz until the termination of the war, as may be determined by the Government at Washington. In a few days it is expected that action will be taken, when the public will be informed of the particulars of evidence secured and probable disposition of the prisoners.—Bulletin.

COMING.—Messrs. Sargent and Low, ex-M. C.'s from California, sailed from New York in San Francisco on the 1st. Phelps will leave the former city on the 11th. Latham may take a trip to Europe for the benefit of his wife's health; and McDougall may not return until during the summer, if at all.—Bee.

TOM FISKE and HARRY LOGAN have made lots of money in stocks. Frank Baker has cleared a quarter of a million dollars.

THE Knight's Landing News.

A REAL GENTLEMAN—He never dresses in the extreme of fashion, but avoids singularity in his person or habits.

Is affable with his equals, and pleasant and attentive to his inferiors.

In conversation he avoids hasty, ill-tempered, insulting remarks.

Never pries into other people's affairs. Detests eves-dropping as among the most disgraceful of crimes.

Never slanders an acquaintance. Does never, under any circumstances, speak ill of woman.

Never cuts an acquaintance who has met with a reverse of fortune.

He always pays the postage on his letters of business, and in advance for his newspaper, and never orders it 'stopped' till paid for.

A GOOD cure for dyspepsia is to close all the outer doors of a four-story house, open the inner doors, then take a long switch, and chase a cat up and down stairs till she sweats.

A WESTERN editor speaks of the circumstances of a bird building its nest upon a ledge over the door of a doctor's office, as an attempt to rear its young in the very jaws of death.

It is a popular delusion to believe that powder on a lady's face has the same effect as in the barrel of a musket—assist her to go off.

WHY are our fashionable ladies like a certain class of city employees? Because they may be seen by scores on a fair day sweeping the streets.

STUPID people may eat, but shouldn't talk. Their mouths will do well enough as banks of deposit, but not of issue.

"How do you like the new minister?" "First rate; he meddles with neither politics nor religion," was the reply.

BAKER & HAMILTON, IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN Farming Implements & Machines, J STREET, BETWEEN FRONT AND 2D, SACRAMENTO.

VIZ: Threshing, reaping and mowing machines; horse rakes, cast and steel plows, plow castings, cultivators, harrows, harrow teeth, churns, cheese presses, grain cradles, seed sowers, corn planters, corn shellers, hoes, horse hoes, shovels, spades and trowels, garden shears, reels and lines, garden rakes, straw cutters, sugar mills, fan mills, hay and manure forks, hay knives, axes, hatchets, ax-handles, sickles, scythes, snathes, bush scythes, road scrapers, grind stones, wheel barrows, sausage cutters and stuffers, ox yokes and bows, patent bow pins, budding and pruning knives, well wheels and buckets, etc., etc.

PATENT COMBINED GANG PLOW, SEED SOWER AND HARROW.

We have purchased the right this great labor-saving implement for the State of California, and are having a number made in the Atlantic States for this market.

With this combined Machine one man, with six horses, can do the work of three twelve inch plows, besides sowing the grain, and harrowing it in as he proceeds, thus finishing his work in the best manner possible, without being obliged to travel over the plowed ground. This Machine was very thoroughly tested by the farmers of Santa Clara county, where some eighty are now in use; also, by the Messrs. Hensel & Kethley, of this county, and Messrs. Hoppin Brothers, near Cacheville, Yolo county. It is made very substantial; is not liable to get out of order, and being on large truck wheels, the Gang Plow, Seed Sower and Harrow, runs lighter than three plows would, cutting the same amount of land.

We are desirous of having these plows generally introduced throughout the State, and are therefore prepared to offer very favorable inducements to farmers and the trade. The following are some of the names of our customers who have used them for the past two seasons:

Sacramento county—Hensel & Kethley. Yolo county—Hoppin Brothers, L M Curtis, Caleb Davis, C Travers, A J Scroggins. Sutter county—M Boulware, A L Chandler. Colusa county—James Timothy, J Crouch. Butte county—Major J Bidwell. Placer county—E Miles.

...ALSO... Field, Grass, Herd, Flower AND GARDEN SEEDS

A large portion of which are imported by Express, and selected by experienced Seedsmen in the East, packed in hermetically sealed cases, and guaranteed.
