Culture of Gladioli

Gladioli will grow in any kind of soil from the lightest sand to the heaviest clay provided they have fertility and moisture and are not in the shade. But do not put any fresh manure near them. Plant the bulbs 4 to 8 inches apart and 5 or 6 inches deep. They will stand up much better planted deep than when planted shallow but if you want them to produce a lot of bulblets plant them shallower and stake them to keep them from falling over. If the ground gets dry give a good soaking that will reach below the roots and then scratch over the surface to hold the moisture in the ground.

For cut flowers cut when the first bloom opens, leaving at least 4 or 5 leaves on the plant to develop the bulb for the next year.

Before freezing weather, or sooner if the tops begin to die down, cut off the tops close to the bulbs and cure them in the sun or in an airy place for several days. In a few weeks the bulblets and old bulb can be taken off. Store the bulbs and bulblets in a cool place, about 40 degrees.

If you want to raise the bulblets plant them soon after the frost is out of the ground in the spring in trenches about 2 inches deep after soaking them 24 hours in warm water. Not all will grow but many will and in some varieties some will bloom the first year and nearly all the second year.

Plant the large bulbs 2 or 3 weeks before the regular time of the last hard freeze in your locality.

To have succession of bloom the whole season start in planting large bulbs of the early varieties as early as possible. Then follow with smaller bulbs of the same varieties and large bulbs of later varieties and finally plant small sizes of the late varieties about July 1st or a little later in the northern states. Make plantings a week or two apart.

Be sure to put a good strong label at least 12 inches long at each variety. It is very much more fun to know the varieties you are growing than to have just a mixture.

If you wish any more information do not hesitate to write me. Perhaps I can help you.

Join the American Gladiolus Society. Send $2 to John C. Davis, Sec'y, 77 South Ave., Rochester, N. Y., for membership. You will help the good cause along and will get the Gladiolus bulletin, a gladiolus magazine published every month.

If you want a good flower magazine subscribe to "The Flower Grower," the best flower magazine published. It is published in Calcium, N. Y. Subscription $2 a year from Jan. 1st, 1925. Before Jan. 1st the price is $1.50. If you will send me the money for a subscription I will send you 15 gladiolus bulbs free, all good varieties.

If you are interested in Delphiniums be sure to send 50 cents to Minnie T. Fallon, 230 Bay View, San Rafael, California, for a copy of the new magazine "For Better Delphiniums." It is a dandy.

READ CAREFULLY

Another year has gone by and the gladiolus has grown more popular than ever. The past year people have shown much more interest in them than ever before—and there is a reason. It is by far the best all-around garden flower. It has the greatest range of colors and shapes and the longest season of blooming, is a fine garden flower, the best cut flower, as it will last from one to two weeks in the house, is the easiest thing in the world to grow and is bothered by practically no insects or diseases. And they increase from year to year. In a few years you will have all you want of a variety and enough to give your friends.

Collections. I do not make up collections unless you want me to. But you may make up your own collections and on all orders of $2 or more you may add 20% extra in bulbs. Do not send 20% less money as a few did last year, but add 20% extra in bulbs.

Extras. On orders of $10 or over I will give a bulb of Mrs. Leon Douglas free and on orders of $20 or over I will give a Mrs. Leon Douglas and a Sweet Rose, two of the finest varieties grown.

Half size Bulbs will bloom well but the spikes and flowers will not be quite so large as from a full size bulb.

Guarantee. I guarantee satisfaction. Every bulb is guaranteed true to name and if it isn't or is not satisfactory I want to know it. The easiest way to get new customers is to satisfy my present ones and I am going to try to do that.

All bulbs are prepaid and insured in U. S. and Canada.

I have small quantities of many other kinds that are not listed here. If there is anything special that you want perhaps I have it and can make a satisfactory price.

Early orders will be very much appreciated. By ordering early you will be sure to get what you want and to get the Mrs. Douglas or Sweet Rose, which may not last through the season. Also I will give other extras in appreciation of early orders. There is everything to gain and nothing to lose by ordering early.

Dozen rate ten times single rate. On some of the cheaper varieties can make special price by the hundred.
