HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

MIDDLESEX.—TRINITY SITTINGS, 1888.

N.B.—This List contains all Actions entered in the Queen's Bench Division, and also all Actions in the Chancery Division, in which Notices has been given of Trial before a Judge and Jury, up to and including 10th April, 1888.

The Actions which have been entered but for various reasons are at present not ready for Trial are omitted from this List. Such of them as become ready during the present Sitting will be inserted as nearly as possible in their original positions.

When Actions are settled out of Court the Solicitors concerned are particularly requested to withdraw the Pleadings, as great expense and uncertainty are occasioned to the Sutors in other Causes, by the maintenance in the List of Actions not intended for Trial.

The attention of Students is requested to the following Rules:—

As an encouragement to Students to study Jurisprudence and Roman Civil Law, Twelve Studentships of One Hundred Guineas each shall be established, and divided equally into two classes; one class of such Studentships to continue for two years, and to be open for competition to any Student as to whom not more than four Terms shall have elapsed since he kept his first Term; and another class to continue for one year only, and to be open for competition to any Student, not then already entitled to a Studentship, as to whom not less than four and not more than eight Terms shall have elapsed since he kept his first Term; two of each class of such Studentships to be awarded by the Council, on the recommendation of the Committee, after every Examination before Hilary and Trinity Terms respectively, to the two Students of each set of competitors who shall have passed the best Examination in both Jurisprudence and Roman Civil Law. But the Committee shall not be obliged to recommend any Studentship to be awarded if the result of the Examination be such as in their opinion not to justify such recommendation. Where any Candidates appear to be equal or nearly equal in merit, the Council may, if they think fit, divide the Studentship between them equally, or in such proportions as they consider just. Where in any year a Studentship in either Class is not awarded by reason of the Candidates not appearing to deserve it, the Council may, if they think fit, appropriate it, or a portion of it for that year to the other Class, or may offer it for Competition in some other subject.

THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION.

By DR. RUDOLPH GNEIST,
Professor of Law in the University of Berlin.

Translated by PHILIP A. ASHWORTH,
Of the Inner Temple, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

The TIMES says:—

"No foreigner has done more than Professor Gneist to examine and make clear the history and nature of the English Constitution. . . . With a degree of perseverance to which all difficulties must succumb, he has for years investigated this subject. It has been the business of a long literary life. . . . The Constitutional struggles in Prussia brought into prominence many questions which had been settled, on the whole, successfully in England. . . . So minute has his examination been, so long has he been a student of English Constitutional history, so many changes has he, a careful observer, seen in his lifetime, that he speaks as an expert, and his writings have no small practical value for us. . . . He discusses such vital questions as—Whither are we drifting? How far do recent changes in the franchise accord with the old spirit of the Constitution? What is in store for us with democracy supreme? On such questions as these the opinion of a foreigner, who is a scholar, but no book-worm, and has sedulously studied our institutions, is certainly much more weighty than that of most Englishmen. . . . He recognizes the necessity of the first Reform Bill. . . . He recognizes the value of the reforms which came in its train—better trade, better finance, wiser administration, popular education, sanitary reforms. There was progress everywhere. . . . 'Only one thing had gone back—the internal cohesion of the members of the State and society, which are the vital essence of this Constitution.' . . . He fears that the custom of committing power to the leader of the majority for the time may cease; and 'then a time may recur in which the King in Council may have to undertake the actual leadership.' . . .

"It is worthy of note that a profound scholar, who has studied as closely as any living person the history of our Constitution, sees danger ahead, and that he has no belief in the efficacy of mechanical means of reform, and expects little from clever expedients for making the Parliamentary machine go somewhat more smoothly and swiftly. . . . Though the outlook seems to him gloomy, he does not despair. 'The thousand years of English history which lie behind us justify our confidence that this nation will rise triumphant out of the struggles before it, and, like the German nation, will find in its own past the best materials for the regeneration of this political system.' . . . To Englishmen his is, in many ways, the most instructive of histories, if only because it is well to see how our affairs look in the eyes of a foreigner who knows and admires England.

"Naturally these volumes recall Professor Dicey's work. . . . The contrast between them is great. Professor Dicey writes as a lawyer, and does not treat the subject historically. . . . Professor Gneist is at once a historian descending to minute details, a lawyer, and a political philosopher. He, too, emphasizes the truths on which Professor Dicey dwells; indeed, the latter does but reproduce Gneist's teaching on this head. But the investigation of the latter is wider and deeper. . . . Equally decided is his belief that our Constitution in its best and worst days has always been an aristocratic Government, 'certainly the best aristocratic Government in the history of mankind,' and he has no confident expectation as to the happy outcome of any deviation from this. . . . At this time these volumes are especially instructive. They cast light on almost all the great questions of current politics."

SATURDAY REVIEW.

"This book is a monument of German patience and industry. . . . Dr. Gneist's book, we may say in conclusion, ought to be on the shelves of every student of our constitutional history."

ACADEMY.

"Something like a national reproach is removed by this recognition of the great services which Dr. Gneist has rendered to the history of English institutions. . . . It has a special interest being the work of a foreigner, who looks at the subject from outside, and who throws upon it the fresh light of his comparative knowledge."

SCOTSMAN.

"There are two questions to which, especially during the fifty years, many learned and able writers, British and foreign, have laboured to furnish an answer. What is the English Constitution? . . . One of the most profound and exhaustive attempts ever made in this direction is undoubtedly furnished in the work before us. Professor Gneist approached his herculean task with very exceptional qualifications for its performance. . . . The heavy task of translating the book has been executed by Mr. Ashworth with taste and judgment."

LITERARY WORLD.

"Dr. Gneist's distinguished position as Professor of Law in the University of Berlin, and his world-wide fame as a writer on jurisprudence and history, give this, his latest work, an authority and value that can hardly be over-estimated. . . . The whole of the later chapters on the Parliamentary Government of the eighteenth century are full of interest. . . . Dr. Gneist is a warm champion of a Second Chamber, which he considers absolutely essential to progress and development. . . . We must reluctantly take leave of Gneist's admirable work."

JOHN BULL.

"It is no small thing for one who is not an Englishman to have written such a searching and exhaustive history of the English Constitution as is embodied in this work. . . . It is impossible to read such a book as this without learning a vast deal which is new to us. . . . The cordial thanks of all Englishmen who are interested in the constitutional history of their Fatherland are due to this painstaking and laborious writer."

BOOKSELLER.

"As a history of the Constitution, Professor Gneist's book will prove a dangerous rival to Hallam if it does not supersede it; the work is sure to receive the weight and respect due to one of the first of living jurists and historians."

PUBLISHERS' CIRCULAR.

"When all is so good, a selection is difficult, but of special value are the accounts of the development of the House of Commons (Third Period, Vols. i. and ii.), and of the struggle against the pretensions of the Stuart Kings in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries."

LAW JOURNAL.

"The book is of great interest and value to students of constitutional history."

Bankrupt to be discharged as from Mar 15, 1884. Secs. 28-1(A), (B), and (C). Stops, Wm, Ealing, Middlesex, Builder. County Ct, Brentford. (No. 3 of 1887.) Ord. May 11. Discharge suspended for six months. Bankrupt had omitted to keep such books of account as sufficiently to disclose his business transactions within the three years of his bankruptcy; had continued to trade after knowing him to be insolvent; and had contracted debts provable in bankruptcy, without having any reasonable or probable grounds of expectation of being able to pay same.
- Swelling, Chas L., Cheltenham, Auctioneer and House Agent. County Ct, Cheltenham. (No. 9.) Ord. June 8. Discharge suspended for six months. Bankrupt to be discharged as from Dec 8. Bankrupt had omitted to keep such books of account as are usual and proper in the business carried on by him, and as sufficiently disclose his business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding his bankruptcy.
- Warwick, Geo, 47, Poland-st, Oxford-st, Goldsmith and Jeweller. High Ct of Justice in Bkcy. (No. 807 of 1887.) Ord. June 5. Discharge suspended for one year. Bankrupt to be discharged as and from June 5, 1892. Bankrupt had omitted to keep such books of account as are usual and proper in his business, and as sufficiently show his business transactions and financial position within the three years immediately preceding his bankruptcy; had continued to trade after knowing him to be insolvent; had contracted a debt provable in the bankruptcy without having at the time of contracting it any reasonable or probable ground of expectation of being able to pay it; had brought on his bankruptcy by rash and hazardous speculations; and had been guilty of fraud, in that he obtained various loans of money from the father of a young lady, with whom he went through the ceremony of marriage, by representing himself to be unmarried and a person capable of contracting a legal marriage with such young lady, he having been previously married and his said first wife being then alive, which fact he fraudulently concealed from the said persons.

THE ROYAL PHRASEOLOGICAL FRENCH-ENGLISH AND ENGLISH-FRENCH DICTIONARY

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to him for the lighter French literature of this day — so full of vocabularies fresh from the camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns of phrase and expression of forty — which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly

CUSTOMS AND INLAND REVENUE ACT, 1888.

IMPORTANT NOTICE AS TO THE STAMPING OF UNSTAMPED OR INSUFFICIENTLY STAMPED INSTRUMENTS.

The Board of Inland Revenue give notice that, except as herein-after intimated, they are prepared to remit the penalty or penalties payable on stamping instruments executed prior to the passing of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888 (16th May 1888), which are presented to the Board for the purpose at any time before the 1st day of January, 1889.

This concession of course does not extend to instruments which are not in any case legally stamped after execution, or which cannot legally be stamped after execution without payment of a fixed statutory penalty, nor is it to apply to instruments in respect of which personal penalties have been incurred or to articles of clerkship.

The Board reserve to themselves the right of refusing the benefit of this concession in any case in which it may appear that the instrument is not voluntarily presented for stamping, but is presented in consequence of other circumstances, such as, for instance, the necessity of producing the instrument in Court, or of making good the title to property at the requisition of a purchaser.

In the consideration of applications for relief from penalties payable on stamping instruments executed prior to the passing of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, and not presented for the purpose until after the 1st of January next, the Board will have regard to the fact that the liability to the payment of such penalties might have been avoided had advantage been taken of the arrangement hereby notified.

W. H. COOMES,

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name any recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to him for the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the camp of guinguette, and lively audacious turns of phrase—such as chanson—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the mint of camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns de phrase convoyeur and underment of 'the forty'—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name a recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns phrases convenances understand of forty—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in ransacking the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the mill of camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns pourvu survenant undreamt of by the forty—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review

By DR. RUDOLPH GNEIST,

Professor of Law in the University of Berlin.

Translated by PHILIP A. ASHWORTH,

Of the Inner Temple, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

The TIMES says:—

"No foreigner has done more than Professor Gneist to examine and make clear the history and nature of the English Constitution. . . . With a degree of perseverance to which all difficulties must succumb, he has for years investigated this subject. It has been the business of a long literary life. . . . The Constitutional struggles in Prussia brought into prominence many questions which had been settled, on the whole, successfully in England. . . . So minute has his examination been, so long has he been a student of English Constitutional history, so many changes has he, a careful observer, seen in his lifetime, that he speaks as an expert, and his writings have no small practical value for us. . . . He discusses such vital questions as—Whither are we drifting? How far do recent changes in the franchise accord with the old spirit of the Constitution? What is in store for us with democracy supreme? On such questions as these the opinion of a foreigner, who is a scholar, but no book-worm, and has sedulously studied our institutions, is certainly much more weighty than that of most Englishmen. . . . He recognizes the necessity of the first Reform Bill. . . . He recognizes the value of the reforms which came in its train—better trade, better finance, wiser administration, popular education, sanitary reforms. There was progress everywhere. . . . 'Only one thing had gone back—the internal cohesion of the members of the State and society, which are the vital essence of this Constitution.' . . . He fears that the custom of committing power to the leader of the majority for the time may cease; and then a time may recur in which the King in Council may have to undertake the actual leadership.' . . .

"It is worthy of note that a profound scholar, who has studied as closely as any living person the history of our Constitution, sees danger ahead, and that he has no belief in the efficacy of mechanical means of reform, and expects little from clever expedients for making the Parliamentary machine go somewhat more smoothly and swiftly. . . . Though the outlook seems to him gloomy, he does not despair. 'The thousand years of English history which lie behind us justify our confidence that this nation will rise triumphant out of the struggles before it, and, like the German nation, will find in its own past the best materials for the regeneration of this political system.' . . . To Englishmen his is, in many ways, the most instructive of histories, if only because it is well to see how our affairs look in the eyes of a foreigner who knows and admires England.

"Naturally these volumes recall Professor Dicey's work. . . . The contrast between them is great. Professor Dicey writes as a lawyer, and does not treat the subject historically. . . . Professor Gneist is at once a historian descending to minute details, a lawyer, and a political philosopher. He, too, emphasizes the truths on which Professor Dicey dwells; indeed, the latter does but reproduce Gneist's teaching on this head. But the investigation of the latter is wider and deeper. . . . Equally decided is his belief that our Constitution in its best and worst days has always been an aristocratic Government, 'certainly the best aristocratic Government in the history of mankind,' and he has no confident expectation as to the happy outcome of any deviation from this. . . . At this time these volumes are especially instructive. They cast light on almost all the great questions of current politics."

SATURDAY REVIEW.

"This book is a monument of German patience and industry. . . . Dr. Gneist's book, we may say in conclusion, ought to be on the shelves of every student of our constitutional history."

ACADEMY.

"Something like a national reproach is removed by this recognition of the great services which Dr. Gneist has rendered to the history of English institutions. . . . It has a special interest being the work of a foreigner, who looks at the subject from outside, and who throws upon it the fresh light of his comparative knowledge."

SCOTSMAN.

"There are two questions to which, especially during the past fifty years, many learned and able writers, British and foreign, have laboured to furnish an answer. What is the English Constitution. . . . One of the most profound and exhaustive attempts ever made in this direction is undoubtedly furnished in the work before us. Professor Gneist approached his herculean task with very exceptional qualifications for its performance. . . . The heavy task of translating the book has been executed by Mr. Ashworth with taste and judgment."

LITERARY WORLD.

"Dr. Gneist's distinguished position as Professor of Law in the University of Berlin, and his world-wide fame as a writer on jurisprudence and history, give this, his latest work, an authority and value that can hardly be over-estimated. . . . The whole of the later chapters on the Parliamentary Government of the eighteenth century are full of interest. . . . Dr. Gneist is a warm champion of a Second Chamber, which he considers absolutely essential to progress and development. . . . We must reluctantly take leave of Gneist's admirable work."

JOHN BULL.

"It is no small thing for one who is not an Englishman to have written such a searching and exhaustive history of the English Constitution as is embodied in this work. . . . It is impossible to read such a book as this without learning a vast deal which is new. . . . The cordial thanks of all Englishmen who are interested in the constitutional history of their Fatherland are due to this painstaking and laborious writer."

BOOKSELLER.

"As a history of the Constitution, Professor Gneist's book will prove a dangerous rival to Hallam if it does not supersede it, and the work is sure to receive the weight and respect due to one of the first of living jurists and historians."

PUBLISHERS' CIRCULAR.

"When all is so good, a selection is difficult, but of special excellence are the accounts of the development of the House of Commons (Third Period, Vols. i. and ii.), and of the struggle against the pretensions of the Stuart Kings in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries."

LAW JOURNAL.

"The book is of great interest and value to students of constitutional history."

LAW SOCIETY'S HALL,
October, 1888.

ELEMENTARY LAW CLASSES, 1888-89.

BY

EDWARD HENRY BUSK, Esq., M.A., LL.B.

THE instruction given in the Classes is specially designed for Articled Clerks who have not passed the Intermediate Examination. The work selected by the Examiners for the Intermediate Examinations in the year 1889, is Stephen's "Commentaries on the Laws of England," with the exception of Books IV. and VI., 10th edition. The text-book of the classes will be so much of the 10th edition of Stephen's Commentaries as is required for the Intermediate Examination.

The Classes will be held from 5.30 to 6.30 every Tuesday and Friday (except during Vacations) from October to June.

At the Classes held on Tuesdays the Reader will treat of the following subjects:—

Stephen's Commentaries:

Introduction.—

- Sect. I. The Study of the Law.
- Sect. II. The Nature of Laws in general.
- Sect. III. The Laws of England.
- Sect. IV. The Countries subject to the Laws of England.

Book II. (except Chapters 6 and 7). The Rights of Property, both Real and Personal, and Conveyancing and the Law of Contracts.

At the Classes held on Fridays the Reader will treat of the following subjects:—

Stephen's Commentaries:

- Book I. Personal Rights.
 Book II. Chapters 6 and 7. Bankruptcy Law and Practice, and Probate and Administration.
 Book III. Rights in Private Relations (such as parent and child, husband and wife, guardian and ward, master and servant, principal and agent &c.).
 Book V. Civil Injuries and their Redress, including proceedings in Civil Actions in all branches of the Supreme Court of Judicature and in the Inferior Courts of Justice.

Conclusion in Volume 4.

Students are expected themselves to read the text-book, as the Reader, owing to the time at his disposal being limited, must necessarily confine himself to pointing out, elucidating, and illustrating such difficulties as the subject may present, and emphasizing what is of practical importance.

Students who attend both on Tuesdays and on Fridays will be able, in one year, to gain a complete introductory knowledge of all the branches of law and practice which are absolutely necessary for the education of a Solicitor. Those Students who have it in their power to give a longer time to the study of Elementary Law will have the opportunity of so doing afforded to them by attending, in one year, the Classes on Tuesdays only, and attending those on the Fridays in the following year; and it is recommended that all Students, who can do so, should thus extend their studies over two years, the fee for the second year's course being reduced in the case of Students who have already attended for one year, as will be seen below.

Printed papers of questions similar to those given at the Intermediate Examination will be set by the Reader from time to time, and the answers will be corrected by him and returned to the Students.

The subscriptions payable for the Elementary Law Classes are as follows:—

	For the Classes on Tuesdays or Fridays.	For all the Classes.
	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
By Clerks of Members	3 3 0	5 5 0
By Clerks of Non-Members	4 4 0	6 6 0
By all other persons not being Members	5 5 0	7 7 0

N.B.—Students who have attended the Class held on Tuesdays for one year may attend the Class held on Fridays in the following year, on payment of an additional fee of £2 2s.

THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION.

By DR. RUDOLPH GNEIST,
Professor of Law in the University of Berlin.

Translated by PHILIP A. ASHWORTH,
Of the Inner Temple, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

The TIMES says:—

"No foreigner has done more than Professor Gneist to examine and make clear the history and nature of the English Constitution. . . . With a degree of perseverance to which all difficulties must succumb, he has for years investigated this subject. It has been the business of a long literary life. . . . The Constitutional struggles in Prussia brought into prominence many questions which had been settled, on the whole, successfully in England. . . . So minute has his examination been, so long has he been a student of English Constitutional history, so many changes has he, a careful observer, seen in his lifetime, that he speaks as an expert, and his writings have no small practical value for us. . . . He discusses such vital questions as—Whither are we drifting? How far do recent changes in the franchise accord with the old spirit of the Constitution? What is in store for us with democracy supreme? On such questions as these the opinion of a foreigner, who is a scholar, but no book-worm, and has sedulously studied our institutions, is certainly much more weighty than that of most Englishmen. . . . He recognizes the necessity of the first Reform Bill. . . . He recognizes the value of the reforms which came in its train—better trade, better finance, wiser administration, popular education, sanitary reforms. There was progress everywhere. . . . 'Only one thing had gone back—the internal cohesion of the members of the State and society, which are the vital essence of this Constitution.' . . . He fears that the custom of committing power to the leader of the majority for the time may cease; and 'then a time may recur in which the King in Council may have to undertake the actual leadership.' . . .

"It is worthy of note that a profound scholar, who has studied as closely as any living person the history of our Constitution, sees danger ahead, and that he has no belief in the efficacy of mechanical means of reform, and expects little from clever expedients for making the Parliamentary machine go somewhat more smoothly and swiftly. . . . Though the outlook seems to him gloomy, he does not despair. 'The thousand years of English history which lie behind us justify our confidence that this nation will rise triumphant out of the struggles before it, and, like the German nation, will find in its own past the best materials for the regeneration of this political system.' . . . To Englishmen his is, in many ways, the most instructive of histories, if only because it is well to see how our affairs look in the eyes of a foreigner who knows and admires England.

"Naturally these volumes recall Professor Dicey's work. . . . The contrast between them is great. Professor Dicey writes as a lawyer, and does not treat the subject historically. . . . Professor Gneist is at once a historian descending to minute details, a lawyer, and a political philosopher. He, too, emphasizes the truths on which Professor Dicey dwells; indeed, the latter does but reproduce Gneist's teaching on this head. But the investigation of the latter is wider and deeper. . . . Equally decided is his belief that our Constitution in its best and worst days has always been an aristocratic Government, 'certainly the best aristocratic Government in the history of mankind,' and he has no confident expectation as to the happy outcome of any deviation from this. . . . At this time these volumes are especially instructive. They cast light on almost all the great questions of current politics."

SATURDAY REVIEW.

"This book is a monument of German patience and industry. . . . Dr. Gneist's book, we may say in conclusion, ought to be on the shelves of every student of our constitutional history."

ACADEMY.

"Something like a national reproach is removed by this truly recognition of the great services which Dr. Gneist has rendered to the history of English institutions. . . . It has a special interest in being the work of a foreigner, who looks at the subject from the outside, and who throws upon it the fresh light of his comparative knowledge."

SCOTSMAN.

"There are two questions to which, especially during the past fifty years, many learned and able writers, British and foreign, have laboured to furnish an answer. What is the English Constitution? . . . One of the most profound and exhaustive attempts ever made in this direction is undoubtedly furnished in the work before us. Professor Gneist approached his herculean task with very exceptional qualifications for its performance. . . . The heavy task of translating the book has been executed by Mr. Ashworth with taste and judgment."

LITERARY WORLD.

"Dr. Gneist's distinguished position as Professor of Law in the University of Berlin, and his world-wide fame as a writer on jurisprudence and history, give this, his latest work, an authority and a value that can hardly be over-estimated. . . . The whole of these later chapters on the Parliamentary Government of the eighteenth century are full of interest. . . . Dr. Gneist is a warm champion of a Second Chamber, which he considers absolutely essential to progress and development. . . . We must reluctantly take leave of Dr. Gneist's admirable work."

JOHN BULL.

"It is no small thing for one who is not an Englishman to have written such a searching and exhaustive history of the English Constitution as is embodied in this work. . . . It is impossible to read such a book as this without learning a vast deal which is new. . . . The cordial thanks of all Englishmen who are interested in the constitutional history of their Fatherland are due to this painstaking and laborious writer."

BOOKSELLER.

"As a history of the Constitution, Professor Gneist's book will prove a dangerous rival to Hallam if it does not supersede it, and the work is sure to receive the weight and respect due to one of the first of living jurists and historians."

PUBLISHERS' CIRCULAR.

"When all is so good, a selection is difficult, but of special excellence are the accounts of the development of the House of Commons (Third Period, Vols. i. and ii.), and of the struggle against the pretensions of the Stuart Kings in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries."

LAW JOURNAL.

"The book is of great interest and value to students of constitutional history."

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name a more recent one of its class which we found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it for making the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabularies fresh from the printing camp or généraliste, and lively audacious turns phrases superveneurs unpleasant of the forty—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French literature by M. Tarver. . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf as most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are glad to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocables fresh from the mint or camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns φωφάρτα σπυροισιν undreamt of by 'the forty'—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review.

CUSTOMS AND INLAND REVENUE ACT, 1888.

STAMP DUTIES.

Further Notice as to the Stamping of Unstamped or Insufficiently Stamped Instruments.

Stamp Duties on Equitable Mortgages, Transfers of Marketable Bonds, &c., and Agreements to Let.

The Board of Inland Revenue direct attention to the fact that the arrangement under which they are willing to grant a remission of the penalty or penalties payable on stamping unstamped or insufficiently stamped instruments executed prior to the passing of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888 (16th May, 1888), with the exceptions, and subject to the conditions, set forth in the Notice of the 2nd July last, will expire on the 31st instant.

In the consideration of applications for relief from penalties payable on stamping instruments which might have been voluntarily presented under the arrangement referred to, the Board will have regard to the circumstance that the liability to the payment of such penalties might have been avoided had advantage been taken of the concession in question.

Annexed to this notice is a form which may be used in the transmission to this office of any unstamped or insufficiently stamped instruments in respect of which it may be desired to obtain the remission of the penalty or penalties under the conditions prescribed in the Notice, a copy of which is printed at the back of the form.

The Board take this opportunity of directing attention to the law as to the stamp duty chargeable on the following instruments as to which there is reason to fear that some misapprehension exists on the part of the public:—

1. Equitable Mortgages.—By section 15 (1) of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, the duty chargeable upon an equitable mortgage effected by an agreement or memorandum under hand only relating to the deposit of any title deeds or instruments constituting or being evidence of the title of any property whatever (other than stock or marketable security), or creating a charge on such property, is reduced to 1s. for every 100l., and any fractional part of 100l. of the amount secured.

By virtue of the provisions of section 18 of the same Act, any failure to pay this duty before the expiration of 30 days after the agreement or memorandum is first executed renders the mortgagee liable to the payment of a penalty of 10l., in addition to the penalties of 10l., double stamp duty, and in some cases interest, payable by law on stamping the instrument.

An agreement or memorandum given on the occasion of a deposit of a life policy would be within the charge of duty as aforesaid.

2. Transfers of Marketable Bonds, &c., not transferable by delivery.—A transfer or assignment of any mortgage, bond, debenture or covenant—being a marketable security,—or of any security for money by or on behalf of any foreign or Colonial State, Government, municipal body, corporation, or company—being a marketable security—is now chargeable with stamp duty at the rate of 10s. per cent., if made on the occasion of sale, and with 10s. if made on any other occasion. A marketable security is defined by section 2 (10) of the Stamp Act, 1870, to be a security of such a description as to be capable of being sold in any stock market in the United Kingdom.

3. Agreements to let.—Section 96 of the Stamp Act, 1870, enacts that:—

(1) An agreement for a lease or tack, or with respect to the letting of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments for any term not exceeding thirty-five years, is to be charged with the same duty as if it were an actual lease or tack made for the term and consideration mentioned in the agreement.

(2) A lease or tack made subsequently to, and in conformity with, such an agreement duly stamped, is to be charged with the duty of sixpence only.

The Board are empowered by law to reward any person who may inform them of any offence against the Stamp Acts, or who may assist in the recovery of any penalty.

IMPORTANT NOTICE AS TO THE STAMPING OF UNSTAMPED OR INSUFFICIENTLY STAMPED INSTRUMENTS.

The Board of Inland Revenue give notice that, except as herein-after mentioned, they are prepared to remit the penalty or penalties payable on stamping instruments executed prior to the passing of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888 (16th May, 1888), which are presented to the Board for the purpose at any time before the 1st day of January, 1889.

This concession of course does not extend to instruments which cannot in any case legally be stamped after execution, or which cannot legally be stamped after execution without payment of a fixed statutory penalty, nor is it to apply to instruments in respect of which personal penalties have been incurred or to articles of clerkship.

The Board reserve to themselves the right of refusing the benefit of this concession in any case in which it may appear that the instrument is not voluntarily presented for stamping, but is presented in consequence of other circumstances, such as, for instance, the necessity of producing the instrument in court, or of making good the title to property at the requisition of a purchaser.

In the consideration of applications for relief from penalties payable on stamping instruments executed prior to the passing of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, and not presented for the purpose until after the 1st of January next, the Board will have regard to the fact that the liability to the payment of such penalties might have been avoided had advantage been taken of the arrangement hereby notified.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name any recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in using the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocabules fresh from the camp or gris-gris, and lively audacious turns pourra convenablement instead of il y a—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review

THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION.

By DR. RUDOLPH GNEIST,
Professor of Law in the University of Berlin.

Translated by PHILIP A. ASHWORTH,
Of the Inner Temple, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

The TIMES says:—

"No foreigner has done more than Professor Gneist to examine and make clear the history and nature of the English Constitution. . . . With a degree of perseverance to which all difficulties must succumb, he has for years investigated this subject. It has been the business of a long literary life. . . . The Constitutional struggles in Prussia brought into prominence many questions which had been settled, on the whole, successfully in England. . . . So minute has his examination been, so long has he been a student of English Constitutional history, so many changes has he, a careful observer, seen in his lifetime, that he speaks as an expert, and his writings have no small practical value for us. . . . He discusses such vital questions as—Whither are we drifting? How far do recent changes in the franchise accord with the old spirit of the Constitution? What is in store for us with democracy supreme? On such questions as these the opinion of a foreigner, who is a scholar, but no book-worm, and has sedulously studied our institutions, is certainly much more weighty than that of most Englishmen. . . . He recognizes the necessity of the first Reform Bill. . . . He recognizes the value of the reforms which came in its train—better trade, better finance, wiser administration, popular education, sanitary reforms. There was progress everywhere. . . . 'Only one thing had gone back—the internal cohesion of the members of the State and society, which are the vital essence of this Constitution.' . . . He fears that the custom of committing power to the leader of the majority for the time may cease; and 'then a time may recur in which the King in Council may have to undertake the actual leadership.' . . .

"It is worthy of note that a profound scholar, who has studied as closely as any living person the history of our Constitution, sees danger ahead, and that he has no belief in the efficacy of mechanical means of reform, and expects little from clever expedients for making the Parliamentary machine go somewhat more smoothly and swiftly. . . . Though the outlook seems to him gloomy, he does not despair. 'The thousand years of English history which lie behind us justify our confidence that this nation will rise triumphant out of the struggles before it, and, like the German nation, will find in its own past the best materials for the regeneration of this political system.' . . . To Englishmen his is, in many ways, the most instructive of histories, if only because it is well to see how our affairs look in the eyes of a foreigner who knows and admires England.

"Naturally these volumes recall Professor Dicey's work. . . . The contrast between them is great. Professor Dicey writes as a lawyer, and does not treat the subject historically. . . . Professor Gneist is at once a historian descending to minute details, a lawyer, and a political philosopher. He, too, emphasizes the truths on which Professor Dicey dwells; indeed, the latter does but reproduce Gneist's teaching on this head. But the investigation of the latter is wider and deeper. . . . Equally decided is his belief that our Constitution in its best and worst days has always been an aristocratic Government, 'certainly the best aristocratic Government in the history of mankind,' and he has no confident expectation as to the happy outcome of any deviation from this. . . . At this time these volumes are especially instructive. They cast light on almost all the great questions of current politics."

SATURDAY REVIEW.

"This book is a monument of German patience and industry. . . . Dr. Gneist's book, we may say in conclusion, ought to be on the shelves of every student of our constitutional history."

ACADEMY.

"Something like a national reproach is removed by this tacit recognition of the great services which Dr. Gneist has rendered to the history of English institutions. . . . It has a special interest being the work of a foreigner, who looks at the subject from the outside, and who throws upon it the fresh light of his comparative knowledge."

SCOTSMAN.

"There are two questions to which, especially during the past fifty years, many learned and able writers, British and foreign, have laboured to furnish an answer. What is the English Constitution? . . . One of the most profound and exhaustive attempts ever made in this direction is undoubtedly furnished in the work before us. Professor Gneist approached his herculean task with very exceptional qualifications for its performance. . . . The heavy task of translating the book has been executed by Mr. Ashworth with taste and judgment."

LITERARY WORLD.

"Dr. Gneist's distinguished position as Professor of Law in the University of Berlin, and his world-wide fame as a writer on jurisprudence and history, give this, his latest work, an authority and value that can hardly be over-estimated. . . . The whole of the later chapters on the Parliamentary Government of the eighteenth century are full of interest. . . . Dr. Gneist is a warm champion of a Second Chamber, which he considers absolutely essential to progress and development. . . . We must reluctantly take leave of Dr. Gneist's admirable work."

JOHN BULL.

"It is no small thing for one who is not an Englishman to have written such a searching and exhaustive history of the English Constitution as is embodied in this work. . . . It is impossible to read such a book as this without learning a vast deal which is new. . . . The cordial thanks of all Englishmen who are interested in the constitutional history of their Fatherland are due to this painstaking and laborious writer."

BOOKSELLER.

"As a history of the Constitution, Professor Gneist's book will prove a dangerous rival to Hallam if it does not supersede it, and the work is sure to receive the weight and respect due to one of the first of living jurists and historians."

PUBLISHERS' CIRCULAR.

"When all is so good, a selection is difficult, but of special excellence are the accounts of the development of the House of Commons (Third Period, Vols. i. and ii.), and of the struggle against the pretensions of the Stuart Kings in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries."

LAW JOURNAL.

"The book is of great interest and value to students of constitutional history."
