TRULY, WOMAN'S WORK.

(San Jose Times)

A woman's club in Sacramento, the Tuesday Club, has taken up the matter of child labor and is devoting the energies of its membership, cultured, representative women, to the amelioration of this crying evil.

At a late meeting of the club, child labor was extensively discussed by writers and speakers, and much information given regarding this insidious enemy that, if not checked, will undermine the foundation of our nation.

Mrs. J. B. McGarvin, who dealt with the "Causes Underlying Child Labor," told of a condition of things in Georgia—where she had lived—that is truly appalling. She stated that in the cotton mills of Georgia there are thousands of children under the age of 11 years that work ten hours a day for four cents an hour. They have never seen the inside of a school, and if they do not die before they have reached the eighteenth year they will be mental, physical and moral wrecks, a menace to society, and finally become inmates of asylums, hospitals or penitentiaries.

The slums of New York and of other large cities furnish examples of crimes against childhood that, if made public, would arouse national indignation. And all over the land the "cry of the children" is going up, asking that pity be taken upon their weakness, their helplessness, and they be given a chance in life.

It is essentially the work of women, this response to that cry, and the initiatory of the work that shall right this national wrong. And it is essentially the work of the men of this nation, legislators and others, to carry out the work, and cease not in their efforts until every child born into this nation shall have a chance to become a worthy American citizen.

This work of arousing and educating public sentiment in the matter of child labor has been recognized by the State Federation of Women's Clubs, as an important part of the work of the organization, and the committee having the subject in charge has done much during the past year to enlighten the public mind.

This work of the Federation should and will be encouraged by every public spirited or humane citizen of the State, and the efforts of the women, ably supplemented by that of the men, in legislative action, and otherwise.

While the howl is going up from Washington against San Francisco having separate schools for a few Japanese children in her midst; and governmental kindness is being extended to people of other nationalities and other races that have come to live amongst us, would it not be well to devote a measure of such aid and comfort to the poor little children who are born of our national bone, and flesh of our racial flesh. It would seem to a careful student of life that when the good Lord allowed them to be born to us He imposed upon us a greater responsibility for their welfare than He put upon us for that of Japanese, Chinese, or any other peoples. And, further, that this responsibility cannot be avoided by us without bringing serious evil upon us as a nation—even to the extent of national decay.

The financial column says that "money is easy." But the trouble is the men who have it are not.

Mrs. George Gould and all the little Goulds, have the whooping cough. In fact, everybody whoops but father.

Mr. Root's centralization idea is not taking very deep root in the South, the Pacific slope and a few other places.

Mr. Cleveland once wrote a message on the tariff alone. Mr. Roosevelt wrote one on every other subject in the world except the tariff.

Congress may not look at it in that light, but it is rather thoughtful of the President not to send in all his message in one day.

The prospective Carnegie heirs should do no worrying over an inheritance tax, since the old gentleman expects to die poor any how.

Of course, there are a number of curious people who would like to know whether Mr. Roosevelt is now adding, as a postscript, "Please burn this letter."

"For fifty years I had nothing but flattery and praise," says Senator Depew. Mighty lucky Senator. Only a limited few succeed in fooling 'em that long.

"The President is always happiest," says the Los Angeles Herald, "when he takes his pen in hand." Thought it was when he takes Congress in hand.

Senator Hansbrough says "we are threatened with national nervous prostration." Now some enterprising financier should proceed to syndicate the sanatoriums.

With the price of champagne advancing, diamonds going up, and the demand for a wage increase growing stronger, the rich are beginning to have trouble of their own.

In her application for divorce, a Pittsburg woman made use of 42,000 words. And before the case comes to trial, she will no doubt think of something else she left unsaid.

Secretary Shaw declares that every person in the nation is $6.25 better off than he was six years ago. Still some of them have not found it out and are making a noise like a populist.

At Great Bend, Kansas, an innocent bystander was killed by a bullet intended for a bank robber. The supply of innocent bystanders apparently never diminishes, however.

Some Republican candidates in Virginia, are being rounded up for failing to file accounts of their election expenses, notwithstanding the fact that running for office there on the Republican ticket is purely a labor of love.

An Ohio man stole a street car when the conductor got off to get a drink of water, ran the car four miles, collected all the fares, and then decamped. A Pennsylvania man would have ended by selling the car back to the company.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

OTHERS.

The man with the hoe is a downtrodden creature. For toil in his life is the principal feature. While others at pleasures are coming and going. He tends to his knitting, or, rather, his hoeing. But he as a sufferer's hardly a starter. The man with the lawn mower—there is the martyr.

The hours of the morning for toil he is using. While others more fortunate sweetly are snoozing. Unless—then he gloats—they're as mad as a hatter. Because they're aroused by his clattery clatter. But though they berate him and call it a scandal. Yet he is the one who must push at the handle.

The lawn which seemed small when he made the selection. Now seems as he mows it a full quarter section. And, although the distance in inches is reckoned. It seems to grow longer and longer each second. Until by the third or fourth time he's been round it. He mutters and says something worse than "Confound it!"

Nor does it make lighter the least bit the labor. To hear the remarks of some gay lawless neighbor. Who says he would make a museum attraction. Or pass as a mule if he had but good action. He forces a smile, springs a chestnut so handy. By saying, "This exercise, neighbor, is dandy."

If you have a heart that with love is overflowing. Save sympathy out for the man who is mowing. I think a society formed for prevention. Of cruelty here has a case for attention. Somewhere in the law of the land must be hidden. A clause saying torture like this is forbidden.

Keeping Well.

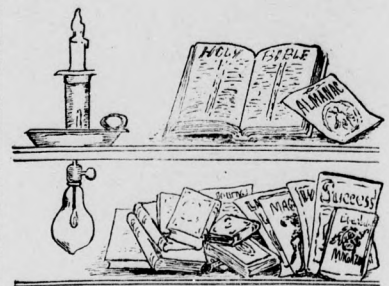

"What is the matter with the Jigsons?"
"Nothing, I guess. They appear to be healthy."
"But the whole family is taking medicine."
"Oh, the old man had to take a gross of a patent mixture on a debt, and they want to get their money back."

The Essential Thing.

"What do you do down here?"
"Dream."
"How do you manage it?"
"I cultivate my soul."
"Yes; that's all right. But what I want to know is who fills your pipe for you?"

Not He.

"Is he an honest business man?"
"Well, he isn't growing thin and pale worrying for fear that the public won't get fair play."

THEN and NOW

In the good old days of the tallow candle, the Bible and the almanac comprised most of the reading matter in many homes. But just think of the many books, papers and magazines nowadays. And then you wonder why so many eyes give out and so many people have to wear glasses? 'Tisn't work but overwork that kills. These are strenuous times in which we're living and if you feel your eyes giving out under the strain, remember we stand ready to help them to bear the burden with the best glasses that modern science and skill can supply.

Grip.

"Before we can sympathize with others we must have suffered ourselves." No one can realize the suffering attendant upon an attack of the grip, unless he has had the actual experience. There is probably no disease that causes so much physical and mental agony, or which so successfully defies medical aid. All danger from the grip, however, may be avoided by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy, not one case has ever been reported that has resulted in pneumonia or that has not recovered. For sale by Farmers Union, Agents.

Alta Gunsolus Passes Away.

Little Alta Gunsolus, who had been seriously ill for several weeks, passed away about one o'clock on Wednesday morning. Strong hopes having been entertained that she would recover, the sudden taking off of the little one came as a shock to the parents and friends. Alta was eight years, four months and one day old and had an unusual sweet disposition.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church Thursday at 2:30 p. m., a short service at the family home being held previous to going to the church.

The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. H. Needham, D. D., assisted by Rev. J. W. Lewis. Favorite hymns of the family were sung and the pall bearers were six girl friends—Mary and Mildred Beaver, Elmarie Hurlbert, Marie Page, Myrtle Dunham and Ruth Goddard. The attendance at the funeral was large and the floral pieces many and beautiful. The interment was at Los Gatos Cemetery.
