INTRODUCTION

In 1913 the Honorable Horace E. Deemer, who served as chairman of the book committee for seventeen years of the twenty-three of which he was a member of our Board of Trustees, requested of the Curator some scheme for disclosing whether there was any substance in the meaning of the phrase, then gaining currency, "Iowa authors and their works." There was submitted, in response, and approved by our Board of Trustees at the instance of Judge Deemer the following

SCHEME

Miss Marple, assistant and librarian:

Please assemble all information upon Iowa authors and their works, accessible in our collections or available elsewhere, upon a catalogue of cards after library methods, but so elaborated as to aid the amateur as well as expert searcher. Please disclose the existence of, and work done by any one fairly entitled to be regarded an author or writer of a book, and so connected with the state as to have been sometime within the meaning of the term "an Iowa author."

When your cards exhibit a reasonably complete list, they may be so copied as to serve the printer and be run as current matter in sections in the Annals of Iowa to the end that public criticism and suggestion may, by the time the list has all appeared, be relied upon to complete the list. When the entire alphabet has thus appeared the whole will be reprinted in book form and issued as the contribution of the Historical Department of Iowa toward a bibliography of Iowa authors and their work.

A tentative list of Iowa Authors and their works as a contribution toward a bibliography was issued in September, 1914, bearing the following

INTRODUCTION

Charles Aldrich, founder of the Historical Department of Iowa, regarded attainment in the arts as the equal in importance of military prowess or political achievement. His successors have observed that while scholarly attention has been turned to Iowa valor and statesmanship, the arts, including letters, have remained almost unnoticed.

To facilitate the study of Iowa literary effort, we have designed, first, a general list of Iowa writings, and second, a chronological list. The first—and by far the more laborious—has been prepared by Miss Alice Marple, Assistant Curator, and is here presented. Comprehensive as the list appears—presenting many times more information than appears in any other place—it is incomplete. To perfect it additions and corrections will be called from every source. It will be circulated in its present form and published in short sections, with corrections, serially in the Annals of Iowa. After the completion of the series it will be republished with full annotations showing the connection of each writer with our state.

The idea of such a list is not new. It remained, however, for Miss Marple to engage in its present exhaustive character. She has availed herself of the following aids: A list prepared by the late Hon. Theodore S. Parvin; a partial chronological list kindly loaned by Professor Selden L. Whitcomb, now of the University of Kansas; a list prepared by the Iowa Press and Authors Club; "Some Recent Publications by Iowa Authors," current in the Iowa Journal of History and Politics; "A list of books by Iowa Authors," by the Iowa Library Commission, 1904; the excellent collection of clippings upon, and of volumes by Iowa authors in the Iowa State Library. But her greatest aid was the books and pamphlets in the Historical Department itself, of which the collections of the Louisiana Purchase Commission, and the collection of Hon. Henry Stivers, of Osceola, Iowa, lately acquired, form a large portion.

It is not for the Historical Department to decide upon the worth or merit of the works of Iowa people in literature or elsewhere. Its function is to have at hand all the evidence, including the finished works, from which the critic himself may well decide. It is the effort, rather than the result we note, and it is for us to assemble everything embraced in the field of inquiry. We hold that whoever was of Iowa birth or worked in Iowa was an Iowa worker and without a record of him and his work our account with Iowa effort is not closed.

So "feeling our way by a series of tentatives" to a sound and comprehensive foundation, we present Miss Marple's "Iowa Authors and Their Works, a contribution toward a Bibliography." Through this warp the hands of others may weave the mass and color of a tapestry of Iowa Letters.

The present volume merely elaborates the Tentative List and adds to that and all other lists. But since the subject constantly expands by the retrieval of information of earlier writers, by current talent and by new, additions to the present volume will of course appear.

In pursuance of this scheme Miss Marple has done more work and employed more time than has been applied by any worker in the history of the institution upon any single task. It has been done incidentally to her administration of the library division of the Historical Department through an era of its growth and public use not equaled since its establishment. The book is her book. Except as above explained the thought is her thought. It is her bid for a place among those of our state who have adduced proof that Iowa achievement is entitled to the respect of the world and to greater admiration from the state itself.

Courtesies unstinted from those individuals and institutions who have made the effort a pleasure are acknowledged, and especially to Miss Ida M. Huntington, until recently of our staff, who read the proof, and to Mrs. Lizzie E. Jones and Miss Mattie A. Watson who classified the matter.

EDGAR R. HARLAN, Curator.

EXPLANATIONS.

Only the first word, proper names and proper adjectives are capitalized in the titles of the books, according to library usage.

Abbreviations of publishers' names follow the usage of the Cumulative Book Index published by the H. W. Wilson Company, New York.

The connection of an author with the state of Iowa is shown at page 341 and following, and in that group in which his works are classified by libraries under the Dewey decimal system.

The list of publishers shown at page 357 and following is made up from imprints upon the books by Iowa authors in the collections of the Historical Department of Iowa. It does not purport to be a complete list of present Iowa publishers.

Titles of the books are listed alphabetically after each author, followed by titles of books by the author as compiler, editor, joint author or translator. When we know the author better by his editorial work than by the books he has written, that is noted first.

Where a name or any fact bearing upon the right of any one to be denominated an Iowa author is not to be found in the present list nor its additions and corrections, such name or fact should be reported to the Historical Department of Iowa at Des Moines, for inclusion at present in the collections and in the future in published lists.

From this list no one is to infer that the inclusion or exclusion of a book implies our opinion of its merit. We possess, or greatly desire to acquire, every book intelligently mentioned as of Iowa authorship, and also all the evidence relating the author to the state. We hold that when an author has been intelligently mentioned as an Iowa author, or was of Iowa birth, or worked in Iowa, he is, for the purpose of our collections and of this list, an Iowa author.
