E. L. OSBORN TELLS ABOUT 3000-MILE MEXICO TRIP

With A. Sneve, Also of This City, Forms Corporation to Secure Land Title

A journey of over 3000 miles in length into Mexico has just been completed by E. L. Osborn of 406 West Wilson avenue, who remarked that the trip was quite an experience—and one which he would not care to repeat in a hurry.

He was accompanied from Glendale to Culiacan by A. Sneve, who has acquired 200 acres of land known as the San Antonio ranch. This is devoted to the cultivation of tomatoes, beans and corn. The crops are irrigated by a steam pumping plant and plenty of water is found twenty-five feet below the surface.

"In order for a foreigner to secure title to Mexican farm land within fifty kilometers of the sea, they are compelled to form a Mexican corporation," declared Mr. Osborn. "This is known as the Carranza land law. We proceeded to organize by naming one native Mexican, Mr. Sneve, and myself to form a Mexican corporation. It is quite an expensive procedure, but it seems to be the only course that a foreigner can pursue to obtain perfect title to agricultural land."

Delayed By Weather
"We started with a Franklin car March 1. A hard rain and six inches of snow laid us up in Nogales for six days. It took us all of one day to get our auto registered and branded through the custom house of Mexico."

"On account of the condition of the roads the auto was shipped on a flat car from Guaymas to Cajeme, a distance of about seventy-five miles.

"At Cajeme we found a colony of 250 Americans who are very successfully raising good crops of rice. This colony had an irrigation ditch taken from the Yaqui river which covers something like a thousand acres. They had been raising rice for two years and all claimed they were making good money.

LOCAL FOLK HELD PRISONERS BY SNOW

Thrilling Experience Is Had in Little Bear Lake Country by Glendale People

Snowbound in the Little Bear lake country of the San Bernardino mountains.

"That was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron DeHart Thom and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Livingston, who motored to the Thom cabin on Horse-shoe bend near Squirrel Inn last Sunday.

They made the ascent to the rim of the world through heavy clouds which made driving dangerous as many fishermen returning. The party had no more than gotten comfortably settled when it began to snow and "busily all the night" it piled both hill and highway with a fastness grim and white.

Fourteen inches of snow fell and Monday morning the roads were impossible. It was necessary to shovel a path for the car 500 feet to the highway where the snowplough was called into action yesterday and the road cleared.

Pretty Sight Provided
According to Mr. Thom, the evergreens were completely covered with snow and ice and provided a pretty sight for a native son. And yesterday when the sun began to melt the "scenery," it seemed as though the trees were raining, instead of the clouds.

P. C. Brown, salesman manager for the Glendale Realty company, 131 1/2 South Brand boulevard, of which Mr. Thom is principal, was quite worried over his employer's absence and was about to send supplies out over the radio phone.

Mrs. E. B. Moore New Federation President

At the meeting of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations, in charge of Mrs. John Robert White, at the Intermediate school yesterday the annual election of officers took place, with the following being chosen: Mrs. E. B. Moore, president; Mrs. E. S. McKee, first vice president; Mrs. Ford, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Leslie Tronsing, recording secretary; Mrs. P. J. Priault, treasurer; Mrs. H. V. Henry, auditor; Mrs. A. H. Morgan, historian.

Arrangements were made for the annual picnic to be held June 12 at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, Orange street and Lexington drive. There will be a luncheon on the lawn in front of the residence, followed by an indoor program. At that time the installation of all association and federation officers will take place. At yesterday's meeting it was voted that Mrs. White would represent the Glendale Federation at the state convention of Parent-Teacher associations to be held in San Diego May 23, 24, 25 and 26.

MAN FEEDS PETS, THEN TAKES POISON

E. W. Braman, On Eve of His Divorce, Lonely, Despondent, Commits Suicide

Premeditated suicide did not prevent E. W. Braman of 1229 Grand View avenue last night from giving a last thought to the care of his two pet airdales and chickens.

Final papers for his divorce were about to be issued. Love for his wife and loneliness are believed to have caused despondency.

His body was found this morning. Upon it chairs beside the bed was a loaded revolver. Nearby was a blue bottle. It was half full. In a glass beside it remained—one drop.

"Please notify the Glendale police" was scribbled upon a card on the table. This has been accepted as evidence that the act had been carefully planned with much forethought.

For some time Mr. Braman, who was about 60 years of age, had been living alone. This morning the house was found to be in perfect order, neat, immaculate, clean sheets and pillow cases had been played upon the bed—and everything is in readiness for a new tenant.

Makes Final Preparations
A small chicken ranch occupied the rear of the property. Last night Mr. Braman told his neighbor, P. W. Parsons of 1225 Grand View avenue that he intended to take the first car to Los Angeles. He asked him to come over and water the chickens and see that everything was all right.

This request was carried out by Mr. Parsons who was the first to find the body. He called the police department and Detective Sergeant G. J. Kincaid, who immediately dispatched to the home. A death certificate has been made out by Pulliam-Kiefer and Eyerick and W. A. Macdonald, deputy coroner, has endorsed an opinion of "suicide."

Girl Scouts on Hike To Top of Mt. Verdugo

A party of the Girl Scouts of Troop No. 1, enjoyed a hike to the top of Mt. Verdugo, last night. Taking their lunch, they left the end of the car line at 4:45 o'clock, arriving at the top about 6:45 o'clock. There they rested while they enjoyed their lunch, then, making the trip down by moonlight to the foot of the mountain, they were met by some of their parents, and motored to their homes.

Girls in the party were Margaret Longley, Alice Hill, Marjorie Hart, Frederica Browne, Beryl Goodale, Katherine Bender, Ruth Dana, Katherine Stoff, Evelyn Traver, Florence McLaughlin, Carolyn Ayars, Cecil Chase, Alice Carpenter, Alexandria Bagley, Margaret Brown, Sarah Chandler, and the captain, Miss Gladys Sharpe.

BOYS OF GLENDALE! WAR MOTHERS HOLD HERE'S CHANCE TO FITTING PROGRAM GOLD STAR DAY HAVE SOME FUN

Plenty of Prizes Secured for Great Athletic Contest to Be Staged Saturday

Seeing is believing—and the boys of Glendale are going to get the opportunity within the next twenty-four hours to see the $100 worth of prizes to be awarded Saturday morning at the Rotary club field meet on the Glendale Union high school athletic field.

W. E. Hewitt, chairman of the prize committee, with his able aids including A. T. Blanford, athletic director of the city schools, sallied forth in the storm Tuesday to see what they could buy that would be dear to the hearts of the boys.

"Hully gee, Mister," said one little lad. "Is you Santa Claus?" And he watched the proceedings from store to store with more and more enthusiasm until it is hard to presume that he will be teased up to so as to win a share of the score and more of athletic events which will be run off under the direction of members of the high school "G" club—older athletes who have won their letters for successful competition in track events.

Hey, Boys! Look Here!

There is a swimming suit, a flashlight, two tennis rackets, bats and league balls, a trout pole, baseball gloves, skull caps, indoor and hand balls, jack-knives, checkers, neckties, belts and the like for first, second and third places in each event.

According to the school officials, it is going to be a great event to have an open competitive meet such as is planned under the auspices of the Rotary club and conducted almost entirely by school boys. It will give each and every one equal opportunity.

The field day, however, is only a part of the program, for Friday afternoon every schoolboy in town will be the guest of Rotarian William A. Howe at a special matinee and on Sunday the pastors are going to welcome the youngsters into the various churches. Friday morning the Rotarians will personally invite them to participate in the program.

PENDROY STORE TO OPEN ON MAY 13

Public to Attend Reception on Saturday Night; No Goods to Be Sold Then

Four floors of fevered activity feature the finishing touches being placed in the Pendroy department store at Harvard street and Brand boulevard.

The beautiful three-story building, with its spacious basement, has been complete for weeks, every fixture in place, the rich carpets for the second floor have been laid, office equipment is installed and today more than two score employees are rushing like madmen, hither and yon, balancing boxes upon boxes of new stankered merchandise which will line the shelves, fill the cases or adorn the counters of the great systematically organized establishment.

Everything is departmentized, with each section headed by merchandise managers of ten to fifteen years' experience. For instance, there is the lingerie, gloves, hosiery, drug sundries, yard goods, handbags, linens, ready-to-wear, Land-nery, shoes, housefurnishings, rugs, art goods, bric-a-brac, trimmings and furs.

And that brief list of general lines only gives an inkling as to what the store will handle. You may rest assured by E. C. Pendroy and his associates, however, that nothing but quality merchandise at medium and special prices will be sold. He will not tolerate seconds' or unknown substitutions for nationally advertised goods.

The formal opening will be held Saturday night, May 13, from 7 to 11 o'clock with no goods for sale. Music and favors will be big drawing attractions as well as the thousands of dollars' worth of good goods. The prices you will see quoted in the Glendale Evening News advertising and the display windows will be sufficiently sensational to draw people from all parts of Glendale and vicinity.

The windows are being trimmed today, the stocks are practically complete, the scores of employees have brought many additional families to Glendale as well as employing members of many families here. An inkling of the budding rose it will blossom forth in the next few days into full bloom.

Watch for the announcements.

Impressive Ceremonies on First Official Date; Convention Delegates Are Named

The local chapter of the War Mothers of America fittingly observed the country's first official "gold star" day yesterday afternoon at the American Legion hall on East Broadway, when they entertained a group of Glendale and Los Angeles wearers of the sacred emblem as guests of honor.

The gathering, which was held in conjunction with the regular bi-monthly business and social meeting of the War Mothers, was the largest attended affair yet staged by the organization.

Rev. Harley G. Preston, pastor of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church and chaplain of the Glendale Post of the American Legion, after being introduced by Mrs. J. B. Sherwood, opened the meeting by reading the women in singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." He followed this with a short talk on "Home and Mother," telling of the continued longing for both which was constantly manifested by the boys while in France.

Mrs. A. McKee of Los Angeles gave a reading of "My Star," which was written by Caroline Tiecker of Boston. This poem has been given a considerable amount of publication in the newspapers throughout the country for the past few weeks.

Program Is Varied

Mrs. Ann Dick of this city then presented the reading, "Why Should the Lives of American War Mothers Live?" following which Miss Dorothy Peart, who is a member of the senior class of the Glendale high school, rendered two pleasing vocal solos. They were "Little Mother of Mine" and "Something Beautiful." Miss Peart was accompanied on the piano by Miss Marjorie Yarik, also a student of the local high school.

"The Proposal," a cleverly arranged story telling of the courtship of an American doughboy with his fiancée, was read by Mrs. Mary N. (Continued on Page 10)

At the business meeting the resignation of Mrs. Nell Maxwell as president was accepted with regrets and Mrs. Letitia Lusby was elected to fill that position.

An interesting program was given in the afternoon, under the direction of Mrs. A. L. Bryant, including a guessing contest of names of songs which were sung by Albert Bryant, Mrs. Donnelly of Chapter F of Orange was the guest of the local chapter at yesterday's meeting.

Ouinette of Harold Way, Hollywood, and Mrs. James O'Neill Farrell of Glendale were guests of honor at a surprise party given at the home of Mrs. Ouinette last night by a group of forty Hollywood and Glendale friends in celebration of the wedding anniversary of these two women. The evening was spent in dancing, music and games. About midnight a bountiful repast was served. Both Mrs. Ouinette and Mrs. Farrell were the recipients of many gifts from their friends. Mr. Ouinette, who is a moving picture producer and is in Montreal at present, sent a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

GREAT AIR FORCE PLAN OF CONGRESS, IS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, May 11.—With the army, navy and marine corps slashed to skeletons, congress will provide a great air force to be used as the "first line of defense" in future national emergencies, it was predicted today by senate leaders. The administration, turning to aerial defense when the disarmament treaties and need for national economy caused radical reduction in the military and naval establishments, has pending in congress requests for sharp increases in aviation appropriations. HAS EVIDENCE AGAINST 'HIGHER-UPS' IS CLAIMED

CHICAGO, May 11.—While attorneys for the 150 men thrown into cells in Chicago's police drive against labor terrorism were beseeching the courts this afternoon to release the prisoners, Chief of Police Charles C. Fitzmorris made the sensational announcement that he had "three wagon loads" of evidence against the "higher ups"—enough evidence to keep them behind the bars. The chief named "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred (Frenchy) Mader and "Con" Shea, all prominent in labor circles, as responsible for the reign of bombings and assassinations. "It's a war to a finish," declared the chief. "If they are released on writs, they will be arrested again and taken to outlying stations and held incommunicado." Chief Fitzmorris planned to take his evidence, which he had been gathering for the last month, before the grand jury, now in session. The wholesale roundup of labor leaders followed the slaying of two policemen Tuesday night.

MRS. ANNE U. STILLMAN IS BEING CROSS-EXAMINED

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 11.—Under cross-examination before Referee Daniel Gleason here today, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman stuck to her "straight from the shoulder" denial of charges of misconduct with Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, made by her banker husband, James A. Stillman, in his divorce suit. Her examination, conducted by Colonel William Rand, chief of counsel for Mr. Stillman, was marked by "snappy" questions and just as "snappy" answers by the defendant. Colonel Rand took up in detail her relations with Fred Beauvais from the time she first employed him as a guide in 1918, while she and her children were staying at the St. Maurice Fish and Game club at Lake Dawson. "Did you pay Fred Beauvais?" Colonel Rand asked. "You usually pay your servants," was Mrs. Stillman's quick rejoinder. The initials "F. B." in a small gold ring given to Mrs. Stillman by Fred Beauvais and which Mary Kelly, a witness for Mr. Stillman, said Mrs. Stillman cherished highly and wore continually, were not the initials of Beauvais, it was testified earlier in the day by Peter Kuhn, a Poughkeepsie jeweler. The initials constituted the trademark of "Farmer Brothers," jewelers of Montreal, where Beauvais is supposed to have bought the ring, Kuhn said. Anne Stillman, Mrs. Stillman's daughter, who returned from Europe yesterday, was not present today.

CIVIC CENTER SITE IS PROPOSED TO REALTY BOARD

Would Present High School Property Be Suitable for Purpose? Is Question

The creation of a civic center upon the present high school site was suggested yesterday noon by W. A. Horn of 221 North Louise street at the weekly luncheon in the banquet room of the Glen Inn of the Glendale Realty Board.

Mrs. Mabel L. Tight of 612 East Broadway called attention to a plan to have the property used for a junior high school. On account of its proximity to the business district, it would not be suitable for this purpose in the opinion of Mr. Horn.

To investigate the acquisition by the city of the site for civic purposes a committee was appointed consisting of Mr. Horn, Roy D. King, 246 North Brand boulevard, and William P. McMullin, 215 North Brand boulevard.

The Ellison-White Chautauqua, which opens in Glendale May 25, was emphasized in the impromptu talk by Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church.

Day of Co-operation
"We are all in favor of anything which will uplift the moral and intellectual life of the community," he remarked. "This is a day of co-operation. I feel that you are doing something worth while in selling Glendale real estate. I feel that you have something worth while to do in boosting Glendale. I am in sympathy with what you are doing. I am in sympathy with every enlargement of this city."

Besides those already mentioned the following realtors were present at the meeting: H. C. Yale, A. M. Yale, 219 North Brand boulevard; E. P. Hay and Harry E. McCartney, 142 South Brand boulevard; J. W. Parson, 108 North Brand boulevard; L. H. Wilson, 1024 South San Fernando Road; Dr. Jessie Russell, 208 South Brand boulevard; Mrs. Edith May Osborne, 210 West Doran street; Earl L. Schuyler, 124 West Broadway; W. B. Kelly, 106 West Colorado street; E. P. Hennes, 719 South Brand boulevard; Peter Hensen, 122 West Broadway; W. L. Tritt, 812 South Brand boulevard; Harry M. Miller, 114 East Broadway; Glen Moore, 201 North Brand boulevard, and O. F. Kroehle, 205 East Broadway.

EAGLE ROCK SETS BUILDING RECORD

About $200,000 Is Total Made In April; Demand for New Homes and Stores

Eagle Rock claims a distinction. For its area, population and class—which is strictly residential with only the necessary commercial—it leads the world in building, growth and advantages.

No one knows where Glendale's city line fades into the east and Eagle Rock begins. Further, no one cares except the taxpayer, for they are homogeneous communities. Each has some advantages the other has not, but that is beyond the point.

With its $200,000 building record last month, Eagle Rock made a record comparison with Glendale's million. As a result of this great growth new lumber yards, new mills, new stores and hundreds of new homes are to be found in the dahlia dotted community.

Demand for Property
Illustrative of the demand for Eagle Rock property, O. A. Arnold came to the community from Grand Junction, Colo., on January 26. He bought two lots and no sooner had he erected a house than it was sold. He had lived in it but three weeks. Immediately he went to work and built another at 116 Glen Eyre avenue, Eagle Rock, where the family is now happily domiciled.

The call of the open road also is being heard in Eagle Rock. F. H. Davis and family of 117 Highland avenue, including his son-in-law, Clarence Gurr, who is cost expert at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company plant, leave on May 19 for an extended trip to Lake Tahoe, Yosemite and other points of national interest within the bounds of California. They are planning on at least three weeks—and you know how those trips are. It will likely be a month before they return.

Westenders, those living in Eagle Rock near the Glendale city line, are urged to attend the improvement association meeting this Friday night at the West End school. It is called for 7:30 o'clock.

With A. Sneve, Also of This City, Forms Corporation to Secure Land Title

passed through was Navajo. We found one American store in this town. The principal crops raised were wheat and garbanzo or chick peas. Navajo is the shipping center for this valley, supporting four or five flour mills.

Hauled Across River
"Arriving at the Mayo river we found the water about eighteen inches deep and 100 feet wide with sandy banks on each side for another 200 feet. We hired a native with a small mule team to pull us across the river and sand banks, charging us two pesos.

"From San Blas there is a Mexican railroad running down to the coast town of Topolobampo. The valley seems to be very prosperous and is controlled largely by Mexicans. Good cleared farm land is held from $50 to $75 and very few acres are offered for sale.

"Our machine registered from Glendale to Culiacan 1450 miles. By the Southern Pacific railroad the distance is about 1300 miles, showing that we had to make detours of about 150 miles in order to travel what were reported to be the best roads. During the entire trip we found the roads extremely poor, there being nothing but old wood roads used by the natives for their two-wheeled ox carts. They were very sandy and very hard pulling for the auto, which averaged not over ten miles to the gallon of gasoline. We had no serious trouble—only a few punctured tires from cactus thorns.

Boards Steamship
"After spending four days in Mazatlan, I boarded a steamship that would touch points in Lower California. We spent one day at Cape San Lucas. This seems to be a very thriving valley. The principal crop is sugar cane, there being one or two sugar factories.

"The next day we passed the great Magdalena bay. The only inhabitants around it are a few Indians who devote their time mostly to fishing."

Mr. Osborn came to Tia Juana from Ensenada by stage. Despite the fact that fifteen or twenty bridges had been washed out, the trip was made in about five hours.

Students Enjoy Songs By Ellen Beach Yaw

Ellen Beach Yaw, coloratura soprano, now a resident of Covina, sang yesterday morning in a pay assembly at Glendale Union High school. She was accompanied by Miss Georgiella Lay, who played two piano numbers, one of which was "Venice and Naples" by Liszt.

The program consisted of the following selections: "When Celia Sings" by Moir, "The Lass with the Delicate Air" by Arne, "Ghosts" by Lang, "The Laughing Song" by Auher, "I Bring You Heartsease" by Branscomb, "Li' Boy," Hazard, "Rest," Cecil Forsythe, "My Menagerie," Fay Foster, "Lullaby," Cyril Scott.

Two of her own compositions also were sung by Mrs. Yaw, "Spring's Invitation" and "The Sky Lark."

The piano was sent from the display room at 211 North Brand boulevard by the Loomis-Shuck Music company. The auditorium was packed and the recital seemed to be much appreciated.

'The Sheikh's Wife' Is Attraction at T. D. L.

"The Sheikh's Wife," one of the biggest motion picture productions ever made, will be shown at the T. D. L. theatre for the last times today.

The scenes were actually filmed in Arabia. "The Sheikh's Wife" is regarded as the very cream of big film creations now available. "The Sheikh's Wife," by its very nature, would have been next to impossible to film to the best advantage in this country. A troupe of players and technical men made the voyage from Marseilles to Arabia, and then made the journey to the deserts of the interior by caravan. There a countless number of distinctly beautiful and really unique "shots" were made. The undulating sand-hills, the bare, treeless mountains in the hazy distance and the palm-studded oases make fitting backgrounds for this great story of love and lovers.

Local Rotarians at Meeting in Pasadena

Sixteen members out of a total of twenty-two in Glendale's Rotary club motored to Pasadena yesterday noon to attend the luncheon of the club there at which District Governor Charles Bills and International Convention Secretary William Graham were guests of honor.

Governor Bills made an inspiring address and urged all local members to register at the convention. He welcomed them into the fold of Rotary and told of twenty-five other clubs brought into being during his tenure in the twenty-third district, comprising the southwestern states and the Hawaiian Islands.

The Rotarian sisters' Trio, the Glendale club and the Pasadena quartet furnished musical numbers and Roy L. Kent, president of the local club, was among others who responded with brief talks.

RICH UNDEVELOPED OIL LANDS IN SO. AMERICA

Virgin Fields Hold Thirteen Billion Barrels, Asserts U. S. Geologist

By HARRY L. ROGERS. Written for International News Service WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11. Oil resources to the extent of more than 13,000,000,000 barrels, or about one-fifth of the world's total supply, await development in the practically virgin fields of South America, according to Dr. David White, of the United States Geological Survey.

With the possible exception of North America, Dr. White declares, the South American continent is richer in petroleum resources in proportion to its area than any other section of the world.

"Geological explorations have as yet advanced only a little way in South America," said Dr. White. "Thus far only a few regions have been tapped. Geologists have secured evidence, however, of the existence of high-grade petroleum deposits in the continent, and these deposits apparently are very widely disseminated."

American Statistics. The American oil expert places the figures for the South American oil deposits at 13,000,000,000 barrels, though he admits that this is a very conservative estimate. Provided the same methods of drilling were employed as those used in the United States, Dr. White believes the southern fields would produce 15,000,000,000 barrels.

The world's petroleum resources are estimated by Dr. White at about 60,000,000,000 barrels and with these figures most of the other eminent geologists agree. It therefore appears that approximately one-fifth of the world's estimated supply of petroleum awaits the exploitation of the South American fields.

Not Aware of Deposits. In many South American countries the inhabitants are not generally aware of the existence of the oil deposits, according to Dr. White. This is due to the fact that the work of exploration has been done for the most part by geologists retained by the great oil companies and that they have reported only to their employers.

Some indications of the presence of oil in paying quantities have been found in practically every country of South America, the doctor says, and he predicts that the whole continent is on the verge of an unexampled era of development.

Executive Board of Boy Scouts In Session

The Scout Executive Board meeting was held at the Verdugo Woodlands residence of Charles L. Chandler, president of the District Council, Monday night. A. R. Eastman reported that T. D. Watson and himself had sold nearly $600 worth of stock in the "future Citizenship of Glendale." Scout officials were confident that the $1400 still needed to complete Glendale's portion of the budget will be raised in short order. The resignation of Charles H. Kline of Burbank as third vice-president and chairman of the committee on camping, was acted upon and Peter L. Ferry of 614 East Acacia avenue, Glendale, was chosen as his successor on the executive board. The resignation of J. W. Andree from the council was read, but no formal action to replace him will be taken until the June meeting of the board. The report of the Scout Executive, H. F. Bender, for the month of April showed that at twenty-seven new boys had been taken into the organization during the past thirty days. Twenty-one Tenderfoot, seventy-five second-class and ten first-class tests were taken, as well as a merit badge in firemanship. The Verdugo Hills Scout was adopted as the official publication of the Council and tentative plans for the Catalina Boy Scout camp were discussed.

The Glendale Evening News Entered as second-class matter January 12, 1922, at the postoffice at Glendale, Calif., under act of congress of March 2, 1879. Published daily except Sunday.

Identity of 'Lost Boy' Is Puzzling to Police, Who Appeal for Public to Help

By JACK CARBERRY Written for International News Service KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Who is "Harry Wilson?"

Police, federal officials and welfare workers of the middle west have joined in an effort to answer that question.

For "Harry Wilson"—such is the name, given the four-year-old youngster found asleep on a doorstep here some weeks ago—claims to have two mammas and two daddies; one of them "just awful, awful kind, with an automobile and everything, while the other"—but that is "Harry Wilson's" story.

The dramatic tragedy of the little fellow's life as far as the solution of his true identity is concerned, opened on a doorstep here more than three weeks ago.

"A lost boy," police said when notified.

They questioned the lad. "My name's Harry Wilson," he said, adding—"that is, sometimes. But sometimes I'm Tohmy Taylor, and I used to be just Buster, and once, I remember, I had another name, but I don't remember it any more."

Then police found a Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson.

They were carnival people. The woman claimed the child as her son. Later the man was found.

"Sure, he's my kid," he said. Charles Edwards, police chief, and E. C. Gillham, chief of prohibition officers, questioned the couple.

Both were dark. The woman—with jet black hair, eyes that flashed—spoke broken English. She was a Russian, she said. The man also was dark. He had brown eyes. He, too, speaks with a foreign accent.

Little "Harry Wilson" is a striking blond type, with deep blue eyes. His English is perfect for a child of four. He does not resemble the couple who claimed him in any particular.

Edwards and Gillham brought the couple to the detention home to see the boy.

"Harry Wilson" upon sight of them fled. "No, no, no!" he cried. "I will never go to them—I do not love them—they are my second daddy and mamma. I don't want them!"

"I have another daddy and mamma," the youngster said. "I have not seen them for a long time. I used to live with my other daddy—he had an automobile, and I had a brother named Roy and a sister, too. I don't know her name."

"Where did you come from, Harry?" "I don't know," the boy replied. "I came here on a train."

Edwards and Gillham turned around to ask "Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson" for an explanation of the boy's remarks.

The couple had fled. That was several weeks ago. Police since have combed mid-western cities for the pair. They cannot be found. The child is exceptionally bright for his years.

He is tawny haired, blue eyed and very fair. He is coy and retiring. He answers best to the name "Buster." "My other daddy always called me that," he explains.

Gillham described the child's actions when he was brought into the presence of the woman who claimed to be "Mrs. Harry Wilson."

"I don't want to go with her—I won't go!" the little fellow said. "I want to go with my first mother."

Then the little fellow ran to the room given him at the detention home and buried his head in the pillows.

The English the child uses is nothing short of remarkable. He seldom lolls into baby talk and shows training in correct speech, in deep contrast to the language of the couple claiming him.

Unless "Harry Wilson" is identified by his pictures authorities believe he will remain "a lost boy."

Chief Edwards holds hope that some vagrant remembrance, some chance remark may recall to the little fellow his former home, or the name of "his first daddy and mamma."

"I feel confident this child has been stolen," Chief Edwards said. "Every indication points to that fact. I believe he is the son of some well-to-do couple, in some distant city. Whether he was stolen for ransom, or to satisfy the longing of a childless couple, I cannot say. "But I do feel that somewhere a father and mother are grieving their lives away for his tender embraces."

Polish Prima Donna Buys Glendale Home

Poland's great prima donna soprano, Mme. Pelicia Romanowska, has purchased a beautiful home in Glendale at 405 W. Windsor Road, which she has already occupied and where she will conduct a vocal studio. She formerly resided in Inglewood.

Mme. Romanowska is a native of Warsaw, and like her famous contemporary, Mme. Sembrich, manifested remarkable musical talent at a very early age. She first took up the study of piano, and after a preparatory course in Warsaw she was sent to the Vienna Conservatory, from which she graduated with the highest honors, winning the grand prize for piano playing. While studying piano in Vienna, it was discovered that Mme. Romanowska possessed a wonderful soprano voice which was carefully trained at the Vienna Conservatory. After her graduation she went immediately to Milan, where she placed herself in the hands of the great Lamperti (the elder) with whom she studied opera until a finished artist. She made her debut in Lucia de Lammermoor, and later appeared in Faust, Barber of Seville, Huguenots, Lucia, Traviata, etc. In all the principal opera houses of Italy. From Italy she went to Germany, where she appeared with great success in Italian opera and while there took up the study of the German repertoire with Stockhausen of Frankfurt-on-Main.

She also appeared with great success in concert and festivals at Dresden and Munich, where she was the object of universal esteem of the government circles, winning the true, heartfelt friendship of her countrymen. From Munich, Mme. Romanowska returned to Poland where she first appeared in the Philharmonic of Warsaw, and where she achieved her first great success within the confines of her Fatherland. After an extensive tour of Poland, Mme. Romanowska went to Paris where she met with such great success as to win the admiration and friendship of such authorities as Massenet and Diemer.

By EDNA LEE BOOKER Written for International News Service PEKING, May 11.—"Russia is striving to prevent further invasion by Japan within her (Russia's) borders and, if necessary, she will declare war upon Japan."

This declaration was made here by Colonel E. Roustenek, former aide to Ludwig H. K. Martens, while the latter was Bolshevik envoy to the United States.

Colonel Bek is in Peking upon an important mission for the Far Eastern Republic in Siberia, which is a subsidiary soviet to the Moscow soviet government.

"Revolutions, dangers of another world war, new encroachments of Japan upon China and Russia and the need of America to watch without sleeping" the moves of Japan, were among the predictions of future events in the Far East made by Colonel Bek.

"Japan, cunning as a fox, has not given up her idea of dominating the Far East," said Colonel Bek. "She is changing her tactics and America and England must follow vigilantly her every move."

"Japan will have the support of pro-Japanese in China and if she once secures the domination of the Siberia and Chinese markets and becomes the only power in the east, America must say goodbye to all her business interests in the Far East."

"The allies must fix their policy definitely regarding Russia and at once stop the advancement of Japan, or before the people know what it is all about there will be a second world war."

Princess Waha Waha Taysee, of the Dakota tribe, was a recent guest of the New York Camp Fire Girls at the Washington Irving High school, where she entertained them with recitals of Indian legends.

WILSON IS FIGHTING REED

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Former President Woodrow Wilson fired another shot in his opposition to the candidacy of Senator James A. Reed, who is seeking renomination, and referring to the Missouri senator as a "marplot," expressed the hope that Reed would be defeated at the primaries.

Breckenridge Long, former third assistant secretary of state under Wilson, is running against Reed for the nomination. Although Wilson has not given him expressed support, he is believed to favor his candidacy.

Wilson's letter was addressed to former Governor Lon V. Stephens, prominent in Democratic circles.

NAVY'S POWERFUL WIRELESS STATION AT ARLINGTON

This photograph shows a view of the workshop in the powerful Arlington (Va.) radio station, maintained by the United States Navy. Members of the station are seen working on the wireless set used by President Harding when he is aboard the Presidential yacht Mayflower. By means of this radio set the chief executive is enabled to keep in constant touch with Washington.

RADIO EXPLAINED

THE GROUND
The ground connection or "earth-ing" of an antenna system is quite important. The earth ground is, of course, a connection made to the earth itself. The counterpoise ground is a conductor or a system of conductors stretched beneath the antenna and either laid upon the ground or elevated slightly above it.
There are many methods of constructing counterpoise grounding systems. In either the case of the direct or counterpoise ground there is formed, in effect, a plate of a condenser which is opposite that formed by the antenna. The conductor connecting the apparatus to the grounding system is called the "ground lead."

The antenna and ground form an oscillatory circuit because of the capacity effect and the inductance due to length of the wires. In practice it is customary to include a coil in the system for the purpose of securing an electro-magnetic coupling with another circuit. This other circuit may be that in which oscillations are generated (in a sending set) or a circuit which is interposed between the antenna and a translating circuit (in a receiving set). The oscil-lating circuit thus comprises antenna, coupling coil and grounding system. The condenser effect between antenna and ground provides a circuit which is closed so far as oscil-lating currents are concerned. The resistance of this entire circuit must be kept as low as possible to avoid the loss of energy due to heating of the conductors. There may be considerable loss, even when the conductors do not appear to be heated.

Temperature as judged by feeling the conductors is absolutely no criterion. In the case of a receiving station, the greatest care should be taken that all connections are well soldered. All joints in the wires and the connection of the ground lead to the grounding system must be soldered in such a manner that there will be no corrosion in the contacts.
The wires used must not be too small, and No. 14 copper is not by any means too good. In fact, that size of wire is about the smallest that should be used in any case.
Copper should be used in preference to other materials because of its relatively superior ability to conduct electric current without loss.

At a receiving station it is usually convenient to connect the ground lead to a water pipe, so that the piping system provides the grounding.
This may best be a cold water pipe,
since there is less liability of too great resistance in the grounding system. If the hot water pipe were used the resistance in the connections at the boiler might be quite high. The same applies to the use of a heating system. Grounding on a steam pipe may be successfully accomplished, but there is greater liability of increased resistance.

AN EFFICIENT VARIABLE CONDENSER
If any condenser has high di-electric loss it is far from being efficient when used in a high frequency oscillating circuit. It is, in fact, not efficient in any alternating current circuit since the dielectric loss represents just so much actual ohmic resistance in series in the circuit. In a radio receiving circuit this always results in decreased signal strength.

To the end of reducing this dielectric loss as far as possible without actually cheapening the condenser, the one illustrated has been produced. The losses are kept low by using only a high grade of hard rubber for the dielectric in small quantity and so placed with respect to the electric field that the hysteresis losses are kept at a minimum.
A unique feature is the scale
which shows the capacity of the condenser in micromicrofarads, in addition to the regular degree graduations etched on the metal dial. The plates are of heavy sheet zinc and spaced to prevent short-circuiting.
Those of the stator or stationary unit are all soldered together, as are also those of the rotor (the movable plates). The construction is, therefore, rugged and the resistance between the plate connections is kept constant.

A special type spring bearing is used to insure good contact being made with the rotary plates. The tension always remains the same, so that there is no chance for the plates of the rotor to loosen as the bearing wears. The thrust is all on one bearing, and there is no danger of the condenser short-circuiting or changing its capacity if the distance between bearings becomes changed.
This is a valuable feature.
The capacity minimum is 20 micromicrofarads, a very low value, and makes tuning possible over a wide range of wave lengths. The maximum capacity is 1,000 micromicrofarads.

The rotor plates are grounded to the metal case to provide for shielding the condenser and eliminating body capacity effects due to unshielded plate leads. This metal case has a black crystalline finish which makes a very fine appearance. The one is shown in upper picture, while the lower shows the condenser itself.

Questions on Radio and Their Answers

Question: When I hook a second
"B" battery on to the first one for the plates of my amplifiers, it makes the signals weaker instead of stronger. What causes this?—B. L., Eagle Rock.
Answer: You are probably connecting a run-down battery in series with a good one, and the poor battery will cut down the strength of the good one. Two good "B" batteries connected in series with which to supply the plate voltage for your amplifiers should give greater amplification than when using only one
"B" battery.

Question: Will a Baldwin phone on a horn give as much volume as a magnavox when used with a radio-phone set?—E. G., Glendale.
Answer: No; a Baldwin receiver does not amplify at all, but usually will give enough volume for the average living room. With a magna-

Tube Just Starting

By GEORGE VAN SANDS
Radio Editor The Evening News
Have you ever stopped to think how quite a number of the old time fairy tales, based purely on myth and imagination, have actually turned out to become realities in these modern times? And, speaking of fairy tales, who has not read the "Arabian Nights" and all about the poor fisherman who was down and out, when he pulled in his net and found a bottle that contained a gen-ie, who for the mere asking would accomplish the most wonderful things.
This story about the poor fisherman
bears considerable likeness to a poor scientific fisherman of modern times,
who cast his net into the sea of scientific possibilities, and found a gen-ie who by comparison makes the poor old fisherman of "Arabian Nights" fame blush with shame. About the biggest difference between the two lies in the fact that the former is nothing but a fairy tale, while the latter is a sure enough reality.

As the story goes, and it's a fact,
it was a summer evening, along in the year 1900 and Dr. Lee de Forest, the scientific fisherman of modern times, had rigged up an old style electrolytic detector and had his receiving apparatus on a table over which was a Welshbach gas light. In a closet a few feet away he had his spark coil. It was one of those kind that make a big jump-spark and de Forest had the switch to this coil closed and the spark was jumping pretty strong. This gas light seemed to keep flickering and thinking of called for a new mantle de Forest opened the switch to the coil preparatory to laying his experiments aside for a few moments while he fixed the light. He looked up at it, and the light appeared to be absolutely O. K. and thinking that the flickering that had caused him this annoyance was simply due to the gas company pumping a little extra air through his meter, he resumed his experiments and again closed the switch to the spark coil. The light flickered just as bad as ever and de Forest was just in the act of applying some pet names to the gas company, when all of a sudden the reason for this flickering came to him, and he proved it by opening and closing this same switch. And it was right there that de Forest made one of the greatest discoveries of modern times, the genie spoke, and it was here that the vacuum tube was conceived. It was at first a crude affair, and gas was used to heat the grid, but this has now been superseded by the vacuum tube we see today and that light you see in it gives it the necessary heat that operates the tube. That is one of the reasons why you use a battery on your vacuum tube receiving sets, to heat up that little genie in the bottle which can then perform his wonderful stunts.
The wonders that this vacuum tube can accomplish is simply the start, and what it is doing today, and can be made to do tomorrow will be a story of actual reality that makes the fable of the "Arabian Nights", fisherman fade into insignificance,
and the peculiar part of it is, you can go into almost any electrical store in Glendale and buy this same gen-ie in a bottle, that we now call a detector vacuum tube, for a five-dollar bill cash money.

vox the signals can be amplified to any strength desired.
Question: What is meant by regeneration? Is it necessary to get the broadcasting from distant phone stations?—M. P., Eagle Rock.
Answer: Regeneration means that the rectified energy, or radio frequency energy, after having passed through the detector, is coupled or fed back to the input to the vacuum tube detector and is passed through the bulb a second time. This gives increased amplification and makes the receiver more sensitive.
Yes; but do not use any more regeneration than is necessary to hear the music and voice clearly.

The Short Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Coming as a bit of backwash from the athletic controversy now simmering among Harvard, Yale and Princeton, is the news today of an impending internal broil at Princeton between the alumni and the faculty for the control of athletics.

The first intimation of the split is contained in a letter from William H. Deyo, 1916, of Anniston, Ala., published in the Princeton alumni weekly today. Among other things, Mr. Deyo charges that Howard McClenahan, dean of the college, took action that was wholly arbitrary and uncalled for in barring certain athletes recently because they accepted letters in order to defray their collegiate expenses.

This violates a rule of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton agreement and the Deyo letter asserts that it was distorted by the dean "to a point where honest athletes were made to feel like criminals."

Deyo demands some reforms in the control of athletics at Princeton. Princeton men apparently looked for reciprocations from Harvard and Yale and were somewhat shocked when both raised a virtuous eyebrow and said they were doing very nicely. Since then there have been nasty allusions to the lack of athletic honesty among certain members of Harvard and Yale varsity teams, some of these going beyond the present-day outflits to the extent of insinuating that Eddie Casey, former all-American back at Harvard, was paid a salary for playing football there.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

While the Hawaiian A. A. U. branch at a meeting on April 17 decided by a unanimous decision that conditions were not "according to Hoyle" and that no records would be accepted, Charlie Paddock, world sprint champion, has taken a different view of his performances. He has made a statement that he will have the branch of the A. A. U. in his part of the country see to it that he is credited with records made in the Islands.

Such a procedure is not logical, and would hardly be countenanced by the A. A. U. headquarters in New York. The establishment of a record and its acceptance requires more than the actual showing of time made on watches, and the facts relating to records are in the hands of the branch of the A. A. U. in which the meet is held. If Hawaii says, and justly within its rights, that the records were not made under the proper conditions, the A. A. U. will accept the Hawaiian verdict. There must certainly have been something wrong or the Hawaiian branch would have passed the records. Some of the times applied for were so sensational that the A. A. U. itself would institute a very rigid investigation before such marks would be accepted and Hawaii knows it. That there was something wrong and a lack on the part of the Hawaiian officials to bring discredit on their association is best shown by a statement credited to one of the delegates who said, "We don't want to be taken for a bunch of hicks by the National A. A. U." From this we infer that Champion Charlie Paddock will have to run his aces again on soil other than Hawaiian to get his marks, and all praise is due the Hawaiian A. A. U. branch for the stand taken in the matter.

Swimming is starting to take its place in the outdoor sports world all over the country. On the Pacific coast the season is somewhat earlier than in the east and several meets have already been held at various points.

The visit of Johnny Weismuller, of the Illinois A. C. is to be the big activity on the Pacific coast this season. The Coronado Tent City through Manager E. A. Swanson, is endeavoring to have the latest aquatic world champion show his speed in the famous Glorietta Bay course near the famous Coronado hotel. The season at Coronado will open a little later this year than previously and swimming events will not be staged until June 1. With that date set for a big opening meet there will be no dearth of events thereafter.

There is a possibility that the annual Pacific coast outdoor swimming championships will again be held at the Coronado Tent City course. No better outdoor swimming course is to be found in the west and the history already made at the course through records made by such great swimmers as Duke Kahanamoku, Norman Ross, Ludy Langer, Clarence Kingston, Mike McDermott and a host of others will again entertain another world aquatic celebrity when Johnny Weismuller enters the Coronado events next month.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The intercollegiate national track and field athletic championships to be held at the Harvard University stadium the latter part of this month will draw to it strong teams from both the University of California, the present holders of the I. C. A. A. A. cup, and from Stanford University. Behind this fact lies an athletic tragedy, as far as the Pacific coast is concerned.

For years there has been a Pacific coast collegiate athletic conference in which the universities and colleges of California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Nevada states have taken part. Years ago it was expected that, with time, this athletic conference would become to the Pacific coast what the I. C. A. A. A. is to the Atlantic seaboard.

As a matter of fact, instead of gaining in importance, this far western conference has been losing ground so that at the present time it has become merely a shadow of the self it was a matter of nine or ten years ago. The potent attraction offered by the eastern blue ribbon track and field events has probably been the primary reason for the stunting of the Pacific organization.

When the large universities of the coast, such as California and Stanford, hitch their chariots to the star of the eastern athletic events, the coast organization has had to subsiding their energies to transcontinental trips in order to compete in the east, it must follow that the sinew and the marrow is taken from the coast event.

Naturally, the colleges of the Northwest do not like being left in the lurch by the California state universities, but the latter hold to the opinion that they are capable of bigger game than playing in their local puddle. The fact that the University of California won the eastern event last year is sufficient proof that there is an excellent reason for this belief. As a matter of fact, the Californians are making no bones about intimating that they intend to repeat last season's success.

One thing the eastern colleges may be sure of. In the California athletes they will run up against first class men and the far westerners are likely to intrude to such an extent that the east will have a hard time figuring out any sort of "dope" unless they are familiar with the performances of the westerners. There will be a considerable number of firsts and seconds brought back to the Pacific even though the Californians are not successful in carrying off the team honors.

In the meantime, as long as coast teams keep going back east to compete, the possibilities of developing a Pacific coast blue ribbon track and field meet similar to the eastern organization, will grow slimmer and slimmer. Whether or not it would be the best policy for the universities of the coast to stick to their local event and build it up is a matter of divided opinion. It is questionable if the Pacific event would draw eastern college athletes and so the west may be forced to go east to meet the foemen most worthy of their capabilities.

Georges Lets Himself In for Real Trouble

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Editor

NEW YORK, May 11.—Georges Carpentier stands to lose a tidy little fortune as a result of the scheduled business for tonight. He has let himself in for a bout with Ted "Kid" Lewis, a twenty-round affair to a decision and is very ill-advised. Like the man who permits himself to be drowned.

Wise men neither allow themselves to be inveigled into bad matches nor drowning episodes and tonight's match is a very bad one from the Frenchman's standpoint.

If the bout goes over ten rounds, Carpentier will lose caste to the extent that he no longer will be considered a big drawing card. If it goes the full distance, Georges will not be worth a promoter's trouble, win or lose. If Lewis lands a knockout punch—good-night. In other words, Carpentier has all to lose and little to gain by tomorrow night's activities.

To maintain his prestige he must knock Lewis for a series of goals and in one of the earlier rounds at that, and therein lies the dirt.

Lewis is no man's sp. He might be outweighed as much as eighteen pounds, but he is fast, clever, cunning, and by no chance a push-over for bigger and stronger men than Carpentier. The Kid will be in there to weather the storm through the first six or eight rounds with the idea of wearing the Frenchman down after the latter burns himself out trying for a K.O. It is not a bad idea at that, provided it works.

Tenor, With Voice-Box Like Caruso's to Drop Flat-Iron for Concert Program

By KENT WATSON

NEW YORK—Big-chested Giuseppe Caruso, Brooklyn laundry worker, is going to lay down his flat-iron for good. Giuseppe is happy as a lark—because he sings like one.

A new Caruso is in the making, declares Professor Jascha Bourg, who "found" Argentine trilling high "E" notes to his fellow flatiron wielders.

"I believe," asserted Prof. Bourg, "that with two or three years of training, Argentine will be the logical successor to Caruso. He can reach two notes higher than the highest known pitch ever taken by the human voice. Caruso only went to high 'C,' but Argentine can take high 'E' without apparent effort and sustain it as long as one could wish. Yet, with all this marvelous strength of voice, there is in it that same luscious, full-throated, golden quality that was characteristic of Caruso's voice a few years before his death. It is just as full and ringing at its highest pitch as it is at the lowest note of the scale."

"Strangely—and the fact is explained by the unusual construction of Argentine's throat, which is similar to that of Caruso—the higher note he takes the broader his voice becomes, despite the natural tendency of the voice to sharpen and become thin as it mounts the scale."

Giuseppe, smiling broadly, stood by as Prof. Bourg thus eulogized him.

"I sing all the time," he said, "but this is first time anybody tell me I sing good. Always I like to sing, but everybody tell me: 'Shut up, Giuseppe; you holler too much!'"

Argentine isn't fat, but he weighs 190 pounds. He is six feet tall and heavily built about the shoulders and neck. He is twenty-eight years old and has a wife and one daughter.

"It's his build," continued Prof. Bourg, "especially his throat, which gives him his remarkable voice. Caruso's chest expansion was five and a half inches, but Argentine can expand eight inches, showing the lung power which enables him to sustain a phrase for a long time, even longer than the remarkably long time Caruso could sustain one."

Setting aside his flatiron, with which he had been ironing the white bosom of an evening shirt, this robust tenor pitched high in impassioned notes of a Neapolitan love song which rose above the clang-clang of laundry machinery and the noises of the street.

High, clear notes swelled from him and filled the little laundry room, floating out into the street. His voice, a curious combination of sweetness and strength, soared to high "C" without apparent strain. There was, however, a certain "harshness" in the full-throated quality of his notes.

"That's caused by the steam in the laundry," Prof. Bourg quickly explained. "Rest will remove the harshness; he doesn't have it on days when he doesn't work. Oh, I have no hesitancy in predicting that he some time will succeed Caruso!"

Prof. Bourg, who discovered and trained Joseph Aronstein, house painter, who became a tenor with the Boston opera company; Enrico Arson, a tailor, who also became a tenor with the Boston opera company, and Bernard Olshansky, a bottle washer in the Essex street dispensary, who became a baritone with the Boston opera company, believes his latest "find" is the greatest of them all. He also was the teacher of Luca Botta.

So certain is Bourg of the powers of Argentine that he has arranged for him his "newest find" to appear with him in a public concert here.

Juvenile Delinquency Discussed at Circle

"Solving the Problem of Juvenile Delinquency" was the title of the review given at the meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle at the library yesterday by Mrs. H. V. Henry.

In an article from a current periodical Judge John T. Sims, himself the "legal father" of 3,000 boys, was quoted as giving some very pertinent facts on the subject of moral laxity among the children and the part played by parents in bringing about such conditions. He said:

"The average normal child repeats the history of the race, dividing his life into four periods that may be classified as follows: (1) Savagery, during which he digs a cave, builds fire outdoors and longs to live in the primitive life of the Indian; (2) The Barbarian stage, when the 'savage' idea is developed; (3) The Age of Chivalry, when womanhood is idealized; (4) The Age of Civilization. Parents should try to understand their children and realize that during these different stages of development boys and girls will do certain things and make allowance for them."

Judge Sims also stated that if this were done there would be little need for a juvenile court.

Next week the review will be "The Stranger Within Our Gates," to be given by Mrs. C. L. Viereck, and deals with the problem of immigration. At the afternoon session yesterday the reading of the book "Mother Love in Action" was resumed and the book finished by Mrs. E. B. Moore.

Plans for the reading circle picnic to be held June 14 were discussed. Mrs. A. A. Barton, president, appointed Mrs. C. L. Viereck as chairman of refreshments and Mrs. Rowe will have charge of decorations. The program will be in charge of Mrs. St. Clair Whytock. Through the courtesy of Mr. Swartz the use of La Ramada park has been secured for the event.

A short article on the subject of "Weight Versus Height in Children" was reviewed with Mrs. Barton. At the meeting yesterday it was announced that a class in parliamentary law would be organized, mainly for the benefit of new association officers, but all who are interested in the study may join. Mrs. J. L. Brown will give information to those interested. The class will be in charge of Mrs. P. S. McNutt.

Ohio Governorship

BEING SOUGHT BY 6 REPUBLICANS Prominent Members of Party In Contest; Harding Has 'Hands Off' Policy By WILLIAM J. HUSKE Written for International News Service CLEVELAND—Will the bitter fight for the Republican nomination for governor in Ohio this year endanger the success of the Republican party in the home state of President Harding? This question now is being asked by politicians of high and low degree throughout the state. The answer can only be given definitely as the campaign progresses and the six candidates entered in the "political derby" round into the home stretch with the selection of a candidate in the state-wide primaries August 5. These are the men who have announced their desire to head the president's party in his own state this year: Congressman Charles L. Knight, of Akron now serving his first term as representative of the Fourteenth Ohio District. Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, close personal friend of the chief executive, former treasurer of the United States and former secretary of the president. Harvey C. Smith, of Zanesville, now rounding out his second term as secretary of state of Ohio. Rupert R. Beetham, of Cadiz, the present speaker of the lower house of the Ohio General assembly. Senator Arthur H. Day, of Cleveland. C. Homer Durand, lawyer of Coshocton. While Colonel Thompson is regarded as the "administration candidate," President Harding has let it be known to friends in his home state that he will pursue a "hands off" policy so far as the nomination is concerned. Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty and W. E. Halley, clerk of the Ohio senate and active in national politics, however, both are supporting the gubernatorial aspirations of the Cleveland man. Colonel Thompson has had a long and varied political career, which started in his old home, Ironton, where he was city solicitor for several years, member of the general assembly, speaker of the house, secretary of state for four years. Later President Taft called him to Washington, where he served as assistant secretary of the Interior, secretary to the president and treasurer of the United States. He then managed the Hill iron interests in the Northwest, coming to Cleveland later as vice-president and general manager of the Todd-Stambaugh company, steel manufacturers. Congressman Charles L. Knight, of Akron, owner of the Beacon Journal and Springfield Sun, stood at "Armageddon" with Roosevelt in the progressive campaign of 1912. He has a gift of making telling phrases that almost equal that of his lamented leader. Only a few weeks ago, in paying his respects to the An-Ti-Saloon League, he told the leader of that powerful organization he would rather be a "yellow dog on a hillside baying at the moon" than take orders in the performance of his official duties. He was one of the handful of men in congress who voted against the Soldier Bonus bill, and again showed his independence of party in opposing the tariff bill passed by the house, denouncing the bill in a prepared speech. Harvey C. Smith, of Zanesville, secretary of state of Ohio, is appealing for votes on his official record. For years one of the leaders of his party, he has broken with Governor Davis, who decided some months ago not to seek re-election. As head of the state election machinery he has a large and influential following; however, among the organization men, and he is counted as a strong contender. Wet and Dry Question C. Homer Durand, of Coshocton, has injected the perennial "wet and dry" question into the race by his declaration in favor of such interpretation of the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution as will permit the manufacture and sale of alcohol and light wines. This he is making the principal issue in his appeal for votes. There now is pending before the voters of Ohio a constitutional amendment legalizing the sale of beers containing not more than 2 1/2 per cent alcohol by volume, but Durand has indicated that the measure does not meet his approval, as no provision is made for the use of light wines. Speaker Rupert R. Beetham, known as the "farmer candidate," is making a campaign on the issue "more business and less bunk." He proposes as a solution of the tax question, which has vexed Ohio legislators for years, the limitation of debts made by sub-divisions of the state. Senator Arthur H. Day, author of the Ohio soldier bonus legislation, under the provisions of which $25,000,000 "adjusted compensation" is now being paid out to Buckeye veterans, has presented a comprehensive platform dealing with state issues. Candidates For Senate So keen is the interest displayed in the six-cornered race for the governorship that comparatively little attention is being given to candidates for United States senator to oppose Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Canton, who will have the unanimous support of the Democrats for a third term. Congressman Simeon D. Fess, of Yellow Springs, is an avowed candidate, and the list may be increased by the entries of Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, at present serving as chairman of President Harding's reorganization committee in Washington; W. H. Boyd, Cleveland lawyer, who headed the Leonard Wood delegates at the last Republican National convention, and Congressman Theodore

'Century Kid' to Be Guest at Celebration

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Harry C. Peterson, of the historical department of the California State Library announced today that William Maxwell Harden, aged 102, an original 49er, probably will attend Sacramento's celebration of the days of '49 this month. Harden lives in Tuolumne county, where he is known as the "century kid." Answering Peterson's question as to what makes him live so long, the "century kid" replied: "Just lived a natural life, my boy. Never ate alfalfa hay, rolled on the floor or played golf. I chew, I smoke, but I don't drink whisky any more. It's too hard to get. Never hated a woman and never married any. I wear my B. V. D's in the summer and don't care to die. Heaven can't put up any better meals than Mrs. Phal cooks here."

POWER RATES REDUCED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—A reduction of agricultural rates of the Southern Sierras Power company, operating in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, was ordered by the Railroad commission today, effective on meter readings of May 1. The reduction for the average operation, it is estimated, will amount to as much as 20 per cent, while the general average reduction for agricultural service on the entire system is computed to be approximately 5 per cent. The new rates will benefit all agricultural consumers receiving service at 2200 volts or over and also those receiving service at 220 or 440 volts whose consumption exceeds 500 kilowatt hours a year. There will be no change in rates for those using less than 500 kilowatt hours a year.

PUBLIC HEALTH

"With Health everything is a source of pleasure; without it, nothing else, whatever it may be, is enjoyable; even the other personal blessings—a great mind, a happy temperament—are degraded and dwarfed for want of it. It follows from all this that the greatest of follies is to sacrifice health for any other kind of happiness, whatever it may be; for gain, advancement, learning or fame. Everything else should rather be subordinated to it."—Schopenhauer. Try a 100 Per Cent Sanitary Soda Today at the Broadway Pharmacy.

WAR MOTHERS HOLD FITTING PROGRAM GOLD STAR DAY

Impressive Ceremonies on First Official Date; Convention Delegates Are Named

(Continued from Page 1) Drake, a member of the Glendale War Mothers' society. Following this the ladies were served with refreshments, which concluded the afternoon's entertainment. At the regular business session of the chapter held prior to the entertainment it was announced that Mrs. Ann Dick and Mrs. J. N. McGillis had been appointed to act as delegate and alternate, respectively, at the first annual state convention of the organization, which is to be staged in Los Angeles on June 15, 16 and 17. It was also announced that the night of Friday, June 16, has been set aside by the convention officials as "Glendale night." At that time the local chapter will be in charge of the delegates in several novel entertainment schemes which are being planned.

Mrs. H. L. Heck, secretary of the organization, was selected as chairman of the entertainment and program committee, with the following named ladies acting as her assistants: Mrs. Mary N. Drake, Mrs. Katherine Rowe and Mrs. W. E. Heald.

At present the plans include an automobile ride through various parts of Glendale, a banquet and an entertainment of songs and speeches, although this is but a tentative arrangement. The Chamber of Commerce hall has been obtained as headquarters for the occasion. The poem referred to above follows:

MY STAR

I have a gold star on my breast,
A star of strife, a star of rest;
It marks a sword thrust through my heart,
It tells of glory and of pain,
Of bitter loss and wondrous gain,
Of youth that played the hero's part.
O, star of gold upon my breast,
Tell of those stars that he loved best;
He bore the stripes, he suffered all,
To keep our banner free from stain;
He hath not given all in vain
In answering his nation's call.
O, star of hope upon my breast,
Strengthen the faith I have professed,
He died that nations might be free;
Live for me to live for truth and right;
And with my woman's soul to fight
Nerved by his immortality.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Take Stock in Glendale Values Bound to Increase Millions Have Been Made Remember the Iron Trail?
By Gil A. Cowan

WITH the week-end several new subdivisions are to be offered the investing public. Probably there are a score or more of tracts now on the market which offer unusual opportunity. People who take advantage of the prevailing prices on vacant property are bound to prosper. It is paramount that every person who has an idle dollar should read the columns of The Glendale Evening News advertising, go out and view the offerings, make an immediate decision as to the greatest possibilities for a reasonable return on the money—and then buy!

In real estate there is something more tangible than in any other form of investment. You can not go far wrong when you take stock in the future of Glendale.

An incident comes to mind. The Little Landers co-operative store was organized years ago for service, not profit. It functioned in the days when provisions were hard to obtain in the hills. But a fire wiped out the stock and building.

The store was re-established with a heavy debt eating the profits of the concern. It ceased to be co-operative and was turned over to private enterprise. However, the building and land remained as assets. These were sold the other day and the stockholders paid off with a six per cent return on their money.

That was made possible only through the increased value in Tanager real estate—property that was practically given away as a store site in a then sparsely settled community.

Another incident worth knowing. Twenty some years ago the land lying between Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue, from Broadway south to Colorado street; also the block in which the Glendale Sanitarium is located, including the old Glendale hotel building; and several other parcels of property, were sold by an Ohican for the sum total of $30,000.

It is not known what the Adventist church paid for the sanitarium site and buildings, but today their property is worth $175,000 or more! This will more than pay for their new site and leave $145,000 to apply on their proposed half million dollar plant.

If you had owned the land that sold for $30,000 and were able to sell it today, it would take millions to buy you out. And you might be inclined not to sell at all!

Eight hundred pioneers, builders of the "Iron Trail" which linked the west with the east, gathered in San Francisco yesterday and celebrated the anniversary of driving the last spike at Promontory, Utah, May 10, 1869, which marked the completion of the transcontinental railroad line.

While only a brief news dispatch chronicles the event, there is a story, yes, a hundred stories, behind that celebration that would make the eyes glisten, the mouth open and the ears literally bent to hear.

The last spike was but a closing chapter of one of the first great transportation achievements in the world.

Wedding Breakfast Served Bridal Party

After the ceremony at the Catholic church yesterday morning that united Miss Rita Camargo and A. Marquez in marriage, a beautiful wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Camargo, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, at 327 East Maple avenue. The home was very prettily decorated with snowy syringa blossoms, with the bluebird motif appearing in the table appointments. The bride was charming in a white sarsal with a corsage bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Josefa Mares, was dressed in a gown of pink flowered georgette. G. Camargo attended the bridegroom.

The guests included Mrs. F. Camargo, mother of the bride; Mrs. C. Marquez, mother of the groom; Miss Josefa Mares, Miss Saturnina Mares, of Hollywood; Arturo Loya, of Los Angeles; Miss Arnelita Camargo and Miss Carmel Camargo, sisters of the bride; Ralph Camargo, brother of the bride; Mrs. Frank Patch and Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Camargo.

Mr. and Mrs. Marquez left by motor for a short honeymoon, and will later be at home to their friends at the former residence of the groom on Vine street.

Special Music Given At Life Conference

The Victorious Life Conference, according to Rev. W. E. Edmonds, is favored with specially fitting music at each session.

A young men's quartet from the First Methodist church sang last night. Among those who have sung have been Mrs. A. M. Draper of 534 North Kenwood street; Mrs. Zetta Gibbons, 237 North Belmont street; Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, 122 Arden avenue; Mrs. Fannie Marple Beets, 114 West Park avenue, and Clifford Riggs, 336 Salem street.

"The Great Divide" was the subject yesterday afternoon of Dr. J. A. Ramsey. He enlarged upon a comparison of "what ye were" and "what ye are," as transformed by the Holy Spirit. He also spoke last night.

Rev. Robert C. McQuilkin spoke in the afternoon of the testimony given at a meeting by a prosperous man who said that he had once been the lowest of the low but had been exalted through the power of the gospel.

May McAvoy Pleases On Glendale's Screen

May McAvoy scores again, this time in "A Virginia Courtship," which opened last night at the Glendale Theatre. Whoever made a star of this little girl had the right idea, for she combines brains, soul and beauty in exactly the proportions which spell success.

It's a corking good story, too, a cleverly modernized scenario from the well-known play of two decades ago, by Eugene Presbrey.

There is action a-plenty, clever characterization—and suspense. To return to Miss McAvoy—whether one's thoughts naturally stray—she depicts in a most intriguing manner the change brought about in the little girl whose playmate has been a treckle-faced lad younger than herself, when the young man of the house comes home from college.

"Bright Eyes," with Ben Turpin in the title role, convulses while the news and fables add to the zest of the program.

New Teachers Chosen For Grammar Grades

Seven new teachers were appointed for next term Tuesday night by the grammar school board of trustees.

They are: Miss Beth Nelson, 1303 North Brand boulevard; Miss Caroline Ainsworth, 827 North Pacific avenue; Miss Faith Tarling, 426 South Adams street; Miss Avis M. White, 2111 West Thirtieth street, Los Angeles; Miss Helen M. Buck, 6205 Crescent street, Los Angeles; William F. Marshall, 765 North Vermont avenue, Los Angeles, and Walter F. Hansen, Salinas.

The bid of the Jewel Electric company, 290 East Broadway, of $25 for installing stage lights at the Broadway school was accepted and the work ordered done. A bid submitted by this same company for the installation of a fan in the furnace room at the Central school was accepted also.

Offers Cash Prizes To Letters on Range

The Sanico letter contest being conducted by the Trice Furniture Company of 118 West Broadway and which closes Saturday night, is attracting much interest. It is declared. Any person in Glendale, excepting employees of the Trice Furniture Company, is eligible to participate. A grand prize of $25 cash will be given to the one who writes the best letter in the fewest possible words, stating why the Sanico is the best $33 range on the market. There will also be a second prize of $15 cash and a third prize of $10 cash for the next best letter.

E. POLSTER IN HOSPITAL

Ernest Polster of 119 West Broadway was operated upon this morning at the Glendale Research Hospital. The special display of the fashionable block prints in the window of the Irish Linen Store, are the work of Miss Josephine Laughlin. By special arrangement she will, for a few days, block patterns for $5 on materials bought at the Irish Linen Store, 117 North Brand Blvd.—Advertisement.

Demand for Programs In English Predicted
"The day is coming when people are going to ask for programs all in English and they're going to kick if they don't get them." So said Frances Ingram, the great contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, who appears in a special concert engagement on the second night of Chautauqua, in a recent interview given in New York. She continued: "Mark my words, the time isn't far off when the demand will be not for a group of Italian songs, a group of French songs, or a group of anything else but English—just as sure as I'm alive." The Chautauqua will appear in Glendale May 25 to 31, inclusive.

Doran, Geneva Streets Now Open to Traffic
East Doran street in the vicinity of Glendale avenue and N. Geneva street, in the same neighborhood, are now paved with a fine crushed rock surface over the substantial oil and rock base. Both streets are open to traffic this week-end and permits prospective buyers to conveniently see the slightly residential location, offered in the Thom Apricot Orchard tract.
