SUFFRAGETTE DISCHARGES PISTOL AND THROWS HOUSE OF COMMONS INTO PANIC

Mouse and Rat Traps Thrown From Strangers' Gallery on to Heads of Members; Pamphlets on Suffrage Question Dropped From Above

London, July 11.—The House of Commons was suddenly thrown into a state of violent panic to-day by the report of a pistol in the chamber. The report was accompanied by a disturbance made by suffragettes to whose friends is attributed the discharge of the weapon. There were yells of "Justice for Women" immediately following the report.

At the same time persons seated in the stranger's gallery, where the pistol was discharged, showered pamphlets in profusion on the members below. These bore the printed words "votes for women."

Members sitting below the stranger's gallery were further disturbed by a number of mouse and rat traps which were thrown from the gallery, evidently as a satire on the law made by the government in connection with the suffragette movement that has since become known by the term "cat and mouse law." The mouse traps were wrapped in copies of the pamphlet.

Immediately an investigation was instituted, and two persons were pointed out as having been concerned in firing the pistol and in distributing the suffrage literature. These were hustled from the gallery and were detained pending a further inquiry.

It developed that the pistol which started the commotion was only a toy pistol after all, but its unexpectedness seemed to make the sound of the report very great in volume.

Liverpool, July 11.—Militant suffragettes started a window-smashing demonstration during King George's visit here to-day. Armed with pokers, squads of women shattered several large windows along the route of the procession, but the police quickly rounded them up and order had been restored before His Majesty's arrival.

London, July 11.—Miss Clara Elizabeth Given, who with Kitty Marion, was sentenced on July 3 to three years' penal servitude for setting fire to the stands on Hurler Park race-course, was released from prison to-day in a serious condition resulting from a "hunger and thirst strike."

MEN FROM GRIMSBY TOURING IN CANADA

Visitors Coming to Victoria Are Seeking Information in Connection With Immigration.

Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—Councillor Henry Kitchen and H. W. Gill, of Grimsby, Eng., are here on their way to Regina and then direct to Vancouver. Councillor Kitchen is taking a trip through the country for the purpose of pleasure, and Mr. Gill is here to investigate labor conditions for emigration purposes. He represents a firm of passenger agents in Grimsby for the Great Northern Railway Company, driven by pressure of public demand into emigration business. He is making the trip that he may gain some knowledge that will be of service in advising intending emigrants.

Mr. Gill said that he had sent a large number of immigrants to Canada, and had received letters from several to the effect that they were doing well and were satisfied with their prospects.

The visitors have come from Toronto and are making for Victoria.

REPRESENT CANADA IN BRITISH TRADE CONGRESS

Delegate From Dominion Will Speak of Immigration and Issue Warning to Mechanics.

Ottawa, July 11.—To represent Canada for the first time at the British trades union congress, which opens on September 1, P. M. Draper, secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, will leave Ottawa on Saturday.

"I intend to bring before British labor men the fact that the class of immigration wanted in Canada are agriculturalists and domestic servants. I will warn skilled mechanics and immigrants of their class that are idly walking the streets of big cities. Take Vancouver, for instance," he said, "I have advised from the Trades and Labor Council that all trades are overcrowded, especially carpenter, and I will certainly advise this fact."

Mr. Draper will deliver the chief address at the convention.

MAN AWAKES AFTER SLEEPING SIX DAYS

Ice Cream and Cocktail Partaken of Before Sergeant Groghen Slumbered.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 11.—Awakening yesterday from a six-days' sleep, Signal Service Corps Sergeant Groghen is in a critical condition at the military hospital at Fort Worden.

On the night of July 4, Sergeant Groghen attended a dance. During the evening he drank a cocktail and later partook of a dish of ice cream. Shortly thereafter he became drowsy, falling asleep. He was taken to the hospital at Fort Worden and all efforts of the medical corps to arouse him proved futile.

Nourishment was injected by the use of tubes during his long sleep. His case baffles the medical corps at the fort. Sergeant Groghen has been in the service a number of years.

LADY SACKVILLE HAS JURORS DOWN TO TEA

London, July 11.—Lady Sackville, as proof of her gratitude to the jurors who established her right to the fortune left her by Sir John Murray Scott, has invited them to tea at Knole Park, Sevenoaks, Kent, on Saturday. This droll entertainment will permit the jury to inspect the famous country seat and its art treasures which were presented to Lord Sackville by Sir John's generous gift of money before his death.

Lady Sackville has asked many friends to assist in entertaining her guests, of whom none are of her station in society, as she said of a lady during the famous trial.

ROUMANIA WANTS TO SHARE IN DIVISION

King Charles Assumes Part of Belligerent for Purpose of Strengthening Claim

TROOPS ARE ACTIVE AND OCCUPY SILISTRIA

Greeks Obtain Victory Over Bulgarians Who Abandon Arms and Provisions

ST. PETERSBURG HAS VERY HOPEFUL VIEW

London, July 11.—The Roumanian declaration of war on Bulgaria is expected here to assist in bringing to an end the carnage in the Balkans, by forcing speedy action on the part of the powers who have been invited to intervene. The object of King Charles, of Roumania, in assuming the part of a belligerent, is to strengthen Roumania's claim to participate in the ultimate sharing out of territory in the Balkan Peninsula.

For the present Roumania, it is thought, will probably content herself with occupying the strip of Bulgarian territory from Tutukal, on the Danube, to Balchik, on the Black Sea, including the city of Silistria. She has coveted this for a long time and it is believed she will accomplish her object under the prevailing conditions without Bulgarian resistance.

Bucharest, July 11.—Roumanian troops occupied to-day the Bulgarian city of Silistria, on the right bank of the Danube. They were not opposed by the Bulgarians. Silistria is a very important point on the Danube and has been in existence as a city since the Roman era.

Until the conclusion of the Russo-Turkish war in 1878 it has been for about 500 years the main bulwark of the Ottoman Empire on its northern European frontier. It sustained many sieges through the centuries and always offered a stout resistance.

Even as late as the Crimean war it was able to defy a bombardment by the Russians, but after the last Russo-Turkish war the Turks retired and left it in the hands of the Bulgarians. It has over 12,000 inhabitants, many of whom are Mohammedans.

NEW YORK BUYS IN CANADIAN PACIFIC

Canada Centre of Attention by Active Speculators on World's Markets

New York, July 11.—The New York Sun's financial article says:—Apparently Canadian Pacific has assumed the position of the leading speculative and investment stock of the world. At least it now has the widest and most active market. Immense amounts of it are held in Europe and especially in England and Germany. But the latest figures show that the holdings in this country and in Canada have increased.

"Since American speculators burst their fingers in Canadian Pacific it rose from 195. Because they refused to believe that the British were not so well off, it has been left rather severely alone and has been held as an excellent foreign specialty. But if this opinion is adhered to, the tremendous market in Wall street during the few weeks became a good deal of a mystery. Since the beginning of June over half a million shares of Canadian Pacific have been traded in, representing a turnover of $100,000,000 worth of stock. Of this total 450,000 shares were dealt in, roughly speaking, within a range of ten points or between 220 and 231. At the moment, therefore, it would seem as if the big active speculators on both sides of the Atlantic were centering their attention upon Canada."

EDITOR OF JUSTICE IS TOLD TO LEAVE BANDON

Published Articles Against American Flag and in Sympathy With Industrial Workers.

Bandon, Ore., July 11.—Dr. Bailey Kay Leach, editor of a local weekly paper known as Justice, was ordered to leave Bandon late this afternoon by a gathering of nearly two hundred of the leading business men of the city. Afterwards Dr. Leach said on the street he would not leave at the specified time, so a meeting was called and it was determined to close all the stores of Bandon this afternoon and ask all business men to be at the wharf to see that the doctor left the city.

In a recent issue of Justice articles were published which were interpreted to be an attack upon the American flag and in sympathy with the I. W. W. In addition harsh names were applied to the two hundred business men of Marshfield who recently deported four members of the I. W. W.

COMMERCIAL BASIS FOR AIR SHIPS IN ENGLAND

London, July 11.—The recent announcement that the establishment of a passenger airship in England was in contemplation is now followed by a statement that a company is being formed with a capital of $1,500,000 for the purpose of running airships on commercial lines from London to Brighton, Manchester, Birmingham and other places as well as to Paris. The ships will be so constructed that they can be armed for war service if they should be desired.

REPORT NEW PLACER STRIKE ON SUSHANNA

Scores Outfitting at Cordova on Basis of Old-Time Information

Cordova, Alaska, July 11.—News of a placer strike on the Sushanna river, a tributary of the White river, where two men recently took out $300 in dust in one day, has caused a stampede to that section from Blackburn and Kennecott. So far no definite news has been received of the strike, yet scores are now outfitting to go there, and a number of people have already left.

For several reasons old-timers are ready to believe in the strike. It has been long predicted that some time there would be a stampede on the upper reaches of the Tanana river. Every year a few prospectors have been taking out grubstakes by sniping along the rim rock.

The great expense of getting outfitting into the country made extensive prospecting or the sinking of holes to bed-rock any distance, prohibitive. It is always easy to stampede in the spring time down the river, where the current will propel boats, but to pole up such a swift river as the Tanana from Fairbanks, has been too difficult and expensive to attract many prospectors.

Years ago, before Fairbanks was thought of, so the report goes, a man died in Chicago who drew a map of the place where he and a partner had taken out a large amount of placer gold. The partner had been killed by Indians. The map located the stream on which was afterward thought to be the Good Pasture branch of the upper Tanana, but subsequent gold-seekers failed to find gold to reach their expectations.

The new strike is fifty miles from the Copper River railway, at Blackburn or McCarthy.

OPPENHEIMER PAYS PENALTY OF DEATH

Man Hanged at Folsom To-day Spent Eighteen Years in Prison

Sacramento, Cal., July 11.—Jacob Oppenheimer was hanged at 10:30 this morning in Folsom prison.

Though he had killed two men, it was not for murder that Oppenheimer gave up his life, his crime being an attack on a fellow prisoner, and his is said to have been the first case in this country of a felon being executed for simple assault.

Oppenheimer when a messenger boy of fourteen tried to kill his superintendent and was given a workhouse sentence. Soon after he was released he was convicted of robbery and sent to Folsom prison for fifty years. A man named Ross who had been the principal witness for the prosecution, later was himself sent to prison.

Oppenheimer met him at the gate and murdered him. For that crime Oppenheimer's sentence was lengthened to life imprisonment and he was transferred to San Quentin. There he attacked a guard and later a fellow-prisoner and for the latter assault he was sentenced to death under California law enacted in 1907, making an attack by a convict on a guard or fellow-prisoner a capital offence.

Fourteen of his eighteen years in prison Oppenheimer spent in solitary confinement. An enemy, Francisco Quijada, a murderer awaiting execution, used the prison "telegraph" taps on the cell wall to taunt the inmate of the dungeon. Oppenheimer, nursing his wrath, managed to procure an old file and as he sharpened it pointed the file on the stone wall he would leave off to tap to Quijada "I'll get you yet, you." One day Quijada was led by Oppenheimer's arm shot through the bars and his file pierced his enemy's heart. After that Oppenheimer was the "human tiger." Oppenheimer's attorneys fought desperately for six years to save him. Three times the case was taken to the United States supreme court.

Folsom Prison, Cal., July 11.—"I am ready" was the reply last night of Jacob Oppenheimer, who was hanged at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Folsom prison. Neither the ghastly sight of the death watch nor the spectre of the morrow shook the nerve of the doomed convict.

Oppenheimer, known throughout California as the "human tiger," who has been staying off death by the gallows for nearly seven years, last night gave up all hope of further reprieve.

He is the first felon executed in the United States for simple assault. Under a California law enacted in 1907 assault upon a fellow convict by a "life-terminer" was made an offence punishable by death. He was allowed to have a photograph at his cell door last night.

"Play lively tunes," was the doomed man's request. He particularly enjoyed Sousa's band selections. His three favorite selections were "Somebody Else is Getting it Where the Chicken Got the Axe," W. J. Bryan's speech "Ideal Republic" and "Laoca."

SENATE COMMENCES ON TARIFF SCHEDULE

May Now Proceed to Business for Which President Called the Extra Session.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The senate may now proceed to the business for which President Wilson called the extra session of congress revision of the tariff. To-day, three months and four days after the special session began, Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee, was authorized to report the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill. The measure was passed upon in committee by a strict party vote, Republicans voting against it.

An it goes to the senate the bill retains the principal provisions of the House measure and those particularly advocated by President Wilson—free wool and a provision that sugar shall be free May 14, 1914.

The finance committee majority and the caucus have greatly extended the free list and reduced many rates, notably in the metal, wool and agricultural schedules. Sweeping changes, however, have been made in the administrative features and the income tax.

Cattle and wheat now are on the free list, the latter with a countervailing duty.

ELECTROCUTED ON WAY HOME

Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—Miss Jennie Mitchell was electrocuted last night while returning home from a visit to a friend on Armstrong's Point. Miss Mitchell came in contact with a live wire, which had been blown down during last night's rainstorm. She was found clutching the wire with one hand, while under the other laid an electrocuted toad. The body of Miss Mitchell was found this morning by a newsboy a few yards from the residence at which she had been visiting.

FOURTEEN SPENT IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT

Executed for Trying to Kill Fellow Prisoner Had Long Criminal Record

HEARD PHONOGRAPH ON LAST NIGHT ON EARTH

St. John, Nfld., July 11.—There is a possibility of a strike of the train crews of the Intercolonial, which might tie up the whole system. The trouble has arisen over the arrangement of new train schedules, which provides longer runs for the men.

At a recent conference between General Manager Gutelius and representatives of the brotherhood of conductors and railway trainmen, Mr. Gutelius offered increases of wages of 80 per cent for conductors and 80 per cent for brakemen, in consideration of longer runs, and this was referred to the members of the order for consideration. Now it is learned that the sentiment of the men is strongly against this proposition. They do not want the longer runs, but will insist on a moderate increase without extra work.

If their requests are not granted they will either strike or demand the appointment of an arbitration board.

BABY MORE VALUABLE THAN CLASSICS PRIZE

London, July 11.—"The possession of a baby by a woman is more valuable to the state than her ability to display a first-class certificate in classics or a silver trophy won at sport. The so-called higher education of woman is not a good ideal for woman, man or state."

This is the central idea of a magazine article by Marcus Zym Seymour Pembury, lecturer in physiology at Guy's Hospital Medical School, which has attracted attention here. This prominent biologist contends that the old-fashioned view of women's place in nature is supported by the latest biological knowledge.

UNIONISTS ARE AGAINST PAYMENT OF MEMBERS

London, July 11.—An influential movement has begun among Unionist members of parliament for the abolition of payment of members as instituted by the present government. At the last meeting of the Unionist association a discussion took place on the question, when it was decided to recommend that the party leaders should officially declare against salaries for members. This expression of opinion will be communicated to Lord Lansdowne and Bonar Law.

CANADA GAINS THIRD PLACE IN FIRST EMPIRE SHOOT AT BISLEY

British Team First in Ten Shots at Three Hundred Yards Range Fired in Light Fiftail Wind; Victoria Marksman Scores Forty-Six

Bisley, Eng., July 11.—The first days' shooting of the Empire match over three distances was concluded with Britain leading with a total of 1,198. Australia is second with a total of 1,110; Canada third with 1,085, and India fourth with 1,014.

Bisley, England, July 11.—Shooting to-day and will conclude tomorrow in the Empire match for the challenge trophy presented by the Australian Rifle Association for annual competition by teams of eight men representing the naval and military forces of the United Kingdom and the Overseas Dominions, and units of the British Empire. It is shot for over three, five and six hundred yards to-day and at eight and ten hundred and a thousand yards tomorrow, ten shots at each distance.

This match has been shot for on three previous occasions, in 1907, when it was won by Australia with 2,104 points, New Zealand second and Great Britain third; in 1909 when Australia won with 2,088 points, New Zealand second, and in 1910 when Great Britain won with 2,177 points, Canada being second with 2,165 points, and Australia third.

To-day, therefore, is Canada's second essay in this competition, which is held at the end of the week immediately preceding the opening of the N. E. A. meeting at Bisley. Following is the personnel of the British team defending the challenge trophy: Sgt. Barr, London Scottish Rifle Brigade; Private Fullton, Queen's Westminsters; Gray, London Scottish; W. A. Hall, Queen's Westminsters; Sgt. Ommundson, Queen's Regiment, Edinburgh; Corp. Mann, Honourable Artillery Co.; Pte. Weigman, London Scottish; and S. Martin, Glasgow Highlanders. Of these, Barr, Fullton and Ommundson are ex-King's prizemen.

At the opening range, ten shots at 300 yards, the weather was good but there was a light fiftail wind, and the Canadians could do no better than third place with a total of 353, Britain leading with 377, then Australia 354, Canada 352, and India 338.

At the next range, 500 yards, both Britain and Australia increased their leads over Canada, the totals being: Britain 386, Australia 385, Canada 379 and India 352.

In the 600 yards range Britain obtained 373, Australia 351, Canada 345, and India 328.

INTERCOLONIAL MEN MAY START STRIKE

New Schedule Which Provides Longer Runs for Crews Causing Dispute.

St. John, Nfld., July 11.—There is a possibility of a strike of the train crews of the Intercolonial, which might tie up the whole system. The trouble has arisen over the arrangement of new train schedules, which provides longer runs for the men.

DR. J. A. MACDONALD IS HEARD AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, July 11.—The church, controlled by the comfortable and well-to-do, is a futile instrument in the solution of the problems created by the relations of capital and labor. It is a conservator of vested interests and worships the god of things as they are, and until the church re-establishes Christ's principles and social relations human and industrial justice must remain a mere figure of speech.

In substance this was the declaration of Dr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, in the principal address to-day before the general assembly of the international Christian endeavour convention.

Chicago was chosen for the next biennial session of the international Christian Endeavor in July, 1915. The vote was unanimous after several ballots had been taken. Toronto at first was a strong competitor.

KARLUK WILL LEAVE NOME IN ONE WEEK

Nome, July 11.—Vilhjalmr Stefansson's polar exploring ship Karluk will sail for the Arctic in a week. Dogs are being purchased for the expedition. Scotty Allen, the well-known trainer and driver of racing dogs, is acting in an advisory capacity. Dogs will later be picked up also at East Cape, Siberia, and at Point Barrow. The Karluk party must complete its teams before it turns north in the Arctic to seek the polar continent, for if land is found it will contain no human inhabitants and therefore no dogs. The southern branch of the expedition will be in contact nearly all the time with Eskimo tribes that have an abundance of dogs.

COMMONS HAS VISIT FROM AFRICAN KING

Daudi Chiwa, Kapaka of Buganda, in Gold Embroidered Robe Sees Parliament

London, July 10.—King Daudi Chiwa, the Kapaka of Buganda, in the Uganda Protectorate, has paid a visit with his retinue to the House of Commons. It is seldom that the Commons have the privilege of seeing such a display of Oriental color in the galleries as was to be observed on this occasion.

The king, a tall young man with features of a European cast, wearing a wonderful purple robe with a collar heavily embroidered in gold, and a rimless white hat, sat in the diplomatic gallery while his more African looking retinue occupied the distinguished strangers' gallery. Mr. Harcourt, the colonial secretary, left the treasury bench to pay a visit to the distinguished visitor, and Cathcart Watson afterwards conducted the king and his retinue over the House.

Buganda, over which King Daudi (or David) Chiwa rules, formed part of the original Uganda Protectorate proclaimed in the London Gazette of June 18, 1894. Later the protectorate was considerably extended. Buganda at that time was subject to King Mwanga, father of King Daudi Chiwa, who in 1897 made an unsuccessful insurrectionary movement which was suppressed. King Mwanga fled to the neighboring German territory and his infant son Daudi Chiwa was then declared King of Uganda, with a native council of regency. Buganda province lies to the northwest of Lake Victoria and is about 800 miles from Mombasa, the coast port. The capital of Buganda and also of Uganda is Kampala, seven miles from Port Bell on Lake Victoria.

INTERIOR MINISTER ORDERS AN ARREST

Comment on Interference of Court Order is Made by Mr. Justice Murphy

Vancouver, July 11.—Strong comment on the minister of the interior attempting to interfere with the course of justice was made by Mr. Justice Murphy in supreme court chambers yesterday in the case of Roma Graham, who is applying on habeas corpus proceedings to prevent the immigration authorities deporting her to the United States on the ground that she is the wife of a British subject.

Her counsel claimed that despite the present proceedings the minister of the interior had seen fit to step in and order the arrest of the woman, who was out on bail allowed by the court. It was claimed that unless the application was at once proceeded with the woman would be arrested on leaving court.

Malcolm Reid, immigration inspector, said he had received instructions from the minister of the interior. "It is entirely wrong for anyone to step in at this period. The woman shall not go to jail until I have heard the application, even if I have to stay until 10 o'clock to-night."

W. H. D. Ladner, counsel for the Dominion authorities, in view of His Lordship's remarks, had a speedy conference with the immigration inspector and later stated that it had been agreed to suspend action regarding contemplated arrest until after the application had been disposed of. Owing to the press of business, the judge adjourned the application until next Thursday, allowing the woman to remain on bail until then.

For the woman it is contended that she is the wife of Geoffrey Wodehouse, a Canadian, and that by her marriage she becomes of the same nationality and therefore cannot be deported.

AMERICAN FOREIGN IS ABOUT FOUR BILLIONS

Aggregate Commerce of United States Shows Increase of Four Hundred Millions

Washington, July 11.—The detailed figures given out by the department of commerce show the aggregate trade of the United States with foreign countries for the 11 months ended May 31, 1913, to be in excess of $3,983,000,000, an increase in the total trade of over $300,000,000 compared with the corresponding period of 1912. During the 11 months the United States imported over $1,681,000,000 worth of goods and exported over $2,302,000,000 worth, making a balance of trade of over $620,988,000.

The United Kingdom is the largest customer, buying over $565,000,000 and selling a little over $275,000,000, an aggregate trade for the 11 months in excess of $290,000,000. Germany comes next, buying over $314,000,000 and selling $178,000,000, making a total trade in excess of $136,000,000. Canada is the third largest customer, purchasing over $377,000,000 and selling over $109,000,000, making a total trade in excess of $268,000,000. Fourth comes France, to whom we sold nearly $140,000,000 worth, and from whom we purchased over $129,000,000, making a total business with this republic of over $269,000,000 for the 11 month period.

Sales abroad of manufactured and partly manufactured articles during the 11 month period show a large increase (over $154,000,000) over the corresponding period of 1912, being in excess of $1,386,000,000, as compared with $1,231,000,000 last year.

The greatest increase in sales abroad is in finished manufactures, in which we show a gain of over $96,000,000 for the 11 month period. A gain is also made in manufacturing of over $62,000,000, whereas there is a decline in foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured of nearly $4,000,000.

Taking the import and export statistics for the three classes above enumerated, it will be seen that in each instance the balance of trade is in our favor. For instance, of foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured we sold nearly $297,000,000 worth and purchased a little over $178,000,000 worth, making a balance of trade in our favor in this group of over $119,000,000; of manufactures for further use in manufacturing we sold $377,500,000 worth and bought over $320,600,000 worth, leaving a balance of trade in our favor in excess of $56,900,000. Of manufactures ready for consumption we sold over $712,000,000 worth, and purchased a little over $383,000,000 worth, leaving the very respectable balance of over $329,000,000.

DAVIS WILL BE GIVEN LARGE DOCK CONTRACT

Government Work at St. Joseph de Levis Costing $2,700,000 Under Consideration.

Ottawa, July 11.—Tenders for one of the largest docks in America, to be constructed at St. Joseph de Levis, opposite Quebec, have been considered by the Department of Public Works for some time past, and it is stated that a contract would be awarded immediately. The successful bidder is said to be M. E. Davis, the big contractor, with headquarters in Montreal.

The contract price is said to be $2,700,000. This is considerably below the estimate of the engineers, but Mr. Davis has the advantage of having a plant and contracting equipment on the ground. The plans were the work of the Quebec bridge substructure, and also for the Transcontinental Railway in the Quebec district.

The dock is to be 1250 feet long and 120 feet wide. It will be so constructed that two ships of the largest type now in operation on the St. Lawrence may be accommodated at once. It is of sufficient size to accommodate a ship of the magnitude of the Imperator. The dock is being constructed by the government.

INDICTMENT FOUND AGAINST GOVERNOR

Arias Joined With General Asbert in Connection With Havana Shooting.

Havana, July 11.—The ceremonies in connection with the funeral of General Armando Riva yesterday were marked by great military pomp, thousands of officials and residents of Havana following the escort to the cemetery. Many women cast flowers from balconies and windows on the coffin, which was borne on a gun carriage.

Complete order was maintained, but a feeling of insecurity and apprehension is still general. The secretary of the interior, Col. Helvia, has suspended all licenses for carrying arms in the province of Havana.

All the prisoners in the city prison have been closely confined to their cells as a precautionary measure. The patrol of rurales and cavalry are still on duty in the city.

The supreme court found indictments to-night against General Asbert, governor of Havana province, and Rep. Arias on the charge of homicide, assault with firearms and resistance of authority.

The indicted men who are held responsible for the killing of General Riva were not given the option of bail.

The Surest Way

To affluence is by regular savings. 999 out of 1000 wealthy men, excepting only those who inherited wealth, got their start by regular savings.

Without doubt you have often realized this fact and intended to start a savings account. Why not do it to-day? One dollar is sufficient. You can get along just as well with just a little less than you now spend, and you will some day be very, very glad you made the small regular sacrifice.

We allow 4% on savings accounts and add the interest quarterly.

We make no charge for advice about investments. Our interests are intimately connected with the success of our depositors.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN SILICA SAND CASE

Mr. Justice Murphy Will Take Time to Decide Point of Law.

Vancouver, July 11.—Judgment was reserved yesterday by Mr. Justice Murphy in Supreme Court chambers on the application for an injunction made by the Silica Sand Company to restrain Champion & White and others removing sand from the Spanish banks in English Bay, on which the applicant claims exclusive right under a deed from the Dominion government.

The point at issue between the parties was stated to be whether the sand banks were within a public harbor. S. S. Taylor, K. C., counsel for the silica company, claimed that they were and therefore came under the jurisdiction of the Dominion government. This being the case he claimed that the company had the right to exercise its privileges and prevent any other firm using the territory. L. G. McPhillips, K. C., counsel for the attorney-general, claimed that the Spanish banks were not within the jurisdiction of the Dominion authorities, but belonged to the province of British Columbia, and therefore the deed granted at Ottawa to the sand company was worthless.

SYDNEY HAS TWENTY-ONE NEW SMALLPOX CASES

Sydney, N. S. W., July 11.—There were twenty-one new cases of smallpox registered yesterday, which indicates that the epidemic has not yet been successfully dealt with. The rash of fever-stricken persons to the city hall to be vaccinated is pathetic and the staff employed has been unable to cope with the crowds. It is expected to-day that at least 12,000 people will be vaccinated. Most of the cases isolated are mere contacts who have not actually been stricken. The number of patients exceeds 200.

WANT RESIGNATIONS IN SOUTH VANCOUVER

Want of Confidence Expressed in Reeve and Council and Road Superintendent

Vancouver, July 11.—Resolutions expressing want of confidence in the reeve and council of South Vancouver, demanding their resignations, insisting on a satisfactory water supply, recommending government by commission and demanding the dismissal of Road Superintendent Wylie were passed at a wildly excited meeting of ratepayers in the Kaleberg Hall, South Vancouver, last night. Reeve Kerr made his appearance on the platform, and by a determined effort secured a short hearing, but was ruled out of order and compelled to leave the platform by Chairman A. H. Lewis before he had had his say.

Preponderance of opinion at the meeting was evidently against the present administration as far as a show of hands went when the resolutions were put, but numbers who crammed themselves into the back of the hall did not vote. Towards its close the meeting became more settled and there was an enthusiastic response to the proposal to establish a citizens' league for South Vancouver. At least five hundred names were enrolled and as secretary Charles Ryner was unanimously appointed. No president was named, the election of this office-bearer being deferred.

TWO DEATHS AND FOUR INJURIES AT VANCOUVER

Yesterday Was Day of Fatality and Accident—Three Considered in Serious Condition.

Vancouver, July 11.—Two fatalities and four accidents, three of which are regarded as serious, form a chapter of disasters in the city of Vancouver yesterday. The dead are John Johnson, mate of the gasoline schooner Jinks, who fell overboard and was drowned in the First Narrows shortly before six o'clock, and Bedford L. Rushton, a resident of Port Moody, who was stricken with heart failure while in the Bijou Theatre.

The injured are A. Jones, a seaman aboard the steamer Comedian, who, falling from Johnson's wharf, sustained a fractured skull; James Callo, residing at 554 Cambie street, suffering from a broken neck received in a cave-in; Thomas Caldwell, of 737 Keefer street, injured in an automobile and motorcycle collision; and Wing Sang, a Chinese, who fell from a street car at the corner of Woodland drive and Hastings street.

The condition of Jones is considered very precarious, while Callo and Caldwell are both in serious condition.

INCREASE OF BETTING WITH ENGLISH PUBLIC

Working Man Objects to Law That Stops Him but Allows Wealthy to Wager.

London, July 11.—The spread of gambling among the English people, both men and women, is causing serious and growing concern. No measures yet have been devised to stop the habit, which rapidly is becoming more and more of a menace. On all but race practically everybody, from the newsboy on the street to the peer in his motor, has something on his favorite horse, and even on the everyday race an immense amount in the aggregate is wagered. Latterly it has been disclosed that women working in offices and restaurants in the city have become as inveterate gamblers as the men and boys. Nowadays both men and women, during the afternoon hours, are distracted from their work by their anxiety over the results of the races, and employers complain in vain.

The House of Commons, with a view of curbing this increase in the betting habit, passed a law prohibiting commission agents from accepting money on a bet, but this was easily evaded by the agents carrying wagers on a credit system, settling once a week. As the system works to-day any boy with a shilling to bet on a horse can go to almost any newspaper seller and get his money down. Another measure to overcome this condition was met by opposition from the workingman, who claimed for himself the same privileges and opportunities accorded his wealthy neighbor, who can wager as freely as he likes by either going to the track or telephoning his commission agent.

ANOTHER BODY RECOVERED.

Edmonton, Alta., July 11.—The body of Mrs. Everett Case was recovered from the Saakatchewan river at 7 o'clock this morning. Mr. Case, the sole survivor of the launch tragedy, positively identified the body. This leaves only the body of Patton to be recovered.

TEMPEST IS RAGING THROUGHOUT ITALY

Owing to Violence of Storm Pope Pius Does Not Take Usual Drive

Rome, July 11.—A terrific storm is raging throughout Italy, and in many places the country has been devastated and the crops destroyed. It is accompanied by remarkably cold weather for this time of year, the temperature in Rome to-day falling below 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Such weather in the middle of July has not been recorded in Italy since the year 1312, when superstitious persons attributed it to the repetition of the number thirteen.

Massina, July 11.—A violent tempest in the vicinity of the Strait of Messina, accompanied by heavy rainfall, has caused enormous damage in this region. Crops have been destroyed and floods have compelled the people to leave their huts in which they have been living since the great earthquake of a few years ago.

Cosenza, Italy, July 11.—Hurricanes, accompanied by slight earthquake shocks and underground rumblings have terrified the peasants in this region for the last two days. This is especially the case in the isolated villages where the people have not recovered from the fright caused by the earthquake which occurred at the end of June.

Naples, July 11.—Extraordinary falls of rain and hail have flooded the surrounding country for the last two days. Torrents of water mixed with mud and ashes from Vesuvius have inundated the villages along the Gulf of Turin. Owing to a strong cold wind from the north, accompanied by hurricanes, the temperature to-day fell almost to the freezing point. Snow is reported to have fallen in the Alps.

Rome, July 11.—The Pope's physicians to-day dissuaded him from taking his usual drive and walk in the gardens of the Vatican owing to the violence of the storm and the heavy rain. His Holiness continues perfectly well.

DANIELS ASKS WAS IT SAME COW 30 YEARS

Mrs. Spencer May Take Her Milker Twice Annually Across Portsmouth Navy Yard.

Washington, July 11.—Mrs. Phoebe Spencer, of Boston, who has a country home at Kittery, Me., in a letter to Secretary Daniels, of the navy department, wrote she had for thirty years been allowed twice each summer to lead her cow through the Portsmouth navy yard to her home in Kittery. She said she used the yard only once in taking the cow to Kittery in the early summer and once in bringing it away to be wintered on a farm in Massachusetts.

This year Capt. C. C. Rogers, commandant of the Portsmouth station, objected to having the cow taken through the navy yard. There is no other way to get the animal to her Kittery home, she wrote.

Secretary Daniels decided that Mrs. Spencer's cow should not be deprived of its privileges of crossing the Portsmouth navy yard in Kittery, and wrote Capt. Rogers that unless there was some clause in the constitution that forbade it, to let the cow proceed as usual. A postscript of the secretary's letter contained the following: "Please advise me if it has been the same cow all the thirty years."

GLOBE TRAVELERS. W. H. Hayward, M. P., chairman of the agricultural commission, is about to leave for Europe to study, we are informed, the co-operative system of farming and the collection of crop reports in some of the Old World countries.

Senator Ellis, however, was never extreme in his political views. While a pronounced and consistent Liberal and an able expounder of the doctrines of true Liberalism, he was more independent and conducted the newspaper with which he was connected for more than half a century in a far more independent manner than many of the Canadian journals professing to be out and out independents.

Mr. Hayward's trip to Europe should be abandoned for the same reason. The money it will cost might very appropriately be applied to the relief of the over-taxed farmers of Mr. Hayward's own district. It certainly will be wasted on a European tour. Conditions on the other side of the Atlantic are so fundamentally different from those prevailing in this country that the only result of the trip will be that Mr. Hayward will have had a good time under the most favorable financial conditions, and will have gathered some information which could easily be obtained by the provincial government communicating directly with the agricultural departments of the countries in question.

Mr. Lucas's trip to Australia and New Zealand stands on a different footing. There they have a system of state aid for agriculture which with some variation could be adopted here. Besides, we have most excellent reasons for getting all the first-hand information from that quarter we can. It will be worth the money Mr. Lucas's jaunt will cost to learn how they can ship meats and dairy produce to this country on terms so advantageous to the food-taxed consumers. Whatever it is, it must be a splendid system, and we believe the taxpayers, who will regard with disfavor the trip to Europe, will not grumble at the Antipodean tour.

The government may be sure that whatever else its wandering commissioners will report, there will be the familiar admonition to cut out the speculator. No system of aid to agriculture ever devised will be worth trying as long as individuals through dummy applicants can accumulate thousands of acres of land to be held for speculative prices. And the elimination of the speculator will involve the reformation of the political system so beneficial to the administration's fortune, but so damning to the country. Unless this is done the royal commission on agriculture will be nothing but an expensive joke.

Senator Ellis, whose death is announced in a dispatch from St. John, New Brunswick, was not, very well known in the West, except to a small circle of newspaper men. But the departed public man and editor was very well known at Ottawa, and particularly well known in the Maritime Provinces, and the better he was known the more highly was he respected. Probably no newspaper man in the history of Canada made more warm friendships, and that despite the fact that his most active work in the highly controversial field of politics was done at a time when political partisanship was very bitter. They did not use honeyed words in the days prior to and immediately succeeding confederation, and some time was required for the terrific heat engendered by such doughy fighters as Sir Charles Tupper to settle into the political atmosphere.

AGREEMENT WITH CHINA. In a speech before the Canadian Club yesterday H. H. Stevens, M. P., announced that the government contemplated proposing to the Chinese government an arrangement relative to immigration similar to the Lemieux agreement between Canada and Japan.

We hope there is more authority for this statement than there has been for most of the same gentleman's declarations on the Oriental immigration question. An arrangement as proposed has been strongly recommended by the Times for some time as the most effective remedy for the situation.

We are touched with the undisguised admiration of Mr. Stevens and his friends for the Lemieux agreement. When it was negotiated, and even after it had been several years in operation, these gentlemen assailed it in bitter terms; swore it was a gold brick, and Mr. Stevens time and time declared that thousands of Japanese were entering Canada in the face of it.

TAXATION AND HIGH COST OF LIVING. One cause of the high cost of living, which is creating a general wail throughout this country and some other countries, may possibly be found in the general disposition to clap taxes on everything, not only on what are considered luxuries, but on the necessities of life.

of the celebrated Committee of Forty. Reminds us of the story of Sodom and Gomorrah, but peradventure and surely more than ten righteous men can be found within the limits of Ontario's beautiful and enterprising capital. But that is not all. Another newspaper tells us that more than two million five hundred tons of water fell upon Toronto's streets within a very short space of time.

Mr. Richard McBride should lead Agricultural-Commissioner Hayward aside and point out that the expenses of his own European tour at the time of King George's coronation must not be considered a precedent. This is a rich country, but it could not survive many excursions on the magnificent scale of the Premier's trip of two years ago.

WE OBSERVE IN THE PROVINCIAL GAZETTE that W. H. Price is going in for oyster cultivation. Would one of the federal government's dredges be of any use in this direction?

HE HAD IT IN HIM. Newark Star. "Children," said the teacher, instructing the class in composition, "you should not attempt any flights of fancy, simply be yourselves and write what is in you. Do not imitate any other person's writings or draw inspiration from outside sources."

"I am a plain spoken man," remarked the applicant for a job. "I am afraid you won't do," replied the railroad official. "We are advertising for an experienced train announcer."

Resigns as Matron.—In a letter from England read at the monthly meeting of the board of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Mission, Store street, Miss Dorman tendered her resignation as matron, family matters preventing her return to Canada at present. The following were thanked for gifts: literature, Mrs. Johnstone, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Spencer; clothing, J. W. Stobarts; flowers, Miss Saunders; cash, Mr. Harris and two friends.

Phantom Works Well

That the phantom circuit between Vancouver and Nanaimo is working satisfactorily, thereby leaving two wires for the service between Victoria and Vancouver in the announcement of the B. C. Telephone Company, which recently spent $120,000 laying cables from Vancouver to Nanaimo.

Immigrants Coming.—Captain Tudge, head of the Salvation Army immigration department, will arrive here next week with a party of eighty settlers for the island. The party, more than a third of whom are domestic servants, is in charge of Staff Captain and Mrs. Pinchin, the embarkation agents at Liverpool for the Army. Mrs. Tudge is in Victoria now.

St. Mary's Church.—Funds are coming in well for the extension of St. Mary's church, Oak Bay, and there is enough in hand now to justify the churchwardens in going ahead with the work. Increasing the seating of the edifice, Bunting & Son have been awarded the contract, at an estimated cost of $4,500, and a building permit has been taken out to enable the contractors to proceed at once. Further extensions will be carried out as soon as funds for the purpose are in hand on within sight.

Crangemen Depart.—Victoria's Orange deputation to the 12th of July celebration in Vancouver, to-morrow leaves the city to-night. The members gather at Foresters' hall in Broad street at 10.30 and march to the dock. The picnic to-morrow will be held at Brockton Point and is expected to be exceptionally large.

Retailers' Picnic.—Victoria shoppers will do well to have all their purchases for July 30 made the day before, as on that day some 600 of the heads and members of the families of Victoria's retail merchants plan to embark at an early hour on the Princess Sophia and travel to New Westminster to take part in the annual picnic of the combined retail merchants' associations of Victoria, Cedar Cottage, Vancouver, Chemainus, New Westminster, Eburne, North Vancouver and other places. The day's sports will begin at 11 o'clock when the bands will march to the wharf to welcome the Victoria deputation.

Met Indian Commission.—An interview took place yesterday between D'Arcy Tate, vice-president of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the members of the Royal Commission on Indian Lands. He has made arrangements with them to visit the north shore of Burrard Inlet on July 16 for the purpose of inspecting the Mission reserve and the Capilano No. 5 reserve through which it is proposed the railway will run, and also the reserve which is situated at the head of Howe Sound.

Boy Scouts' Secretary Returns.—Rev. and Hon. T. R. Henegage, provincial secretary of the Boy Scouts, who has been visiting some of the battalions on the mainland, has returned to the city, and reports that the work is progressing well there. On Dominion Day he visited the Scouts at North Vancouver; the following day he was at New Westminster; on Thursday at Abbotsford; and on Friday at Chilliwack Monday, July 7, he visited Clayburn, where there is a growing town. He will return to the mainland again next week.

Christian Endeavor Convention.—The provincial convention of the Christian Endeavor societies will meet in Victoria this year on July 24, 25, 26 and 27. Every society in the Vancouver district expects to be represented, and the delegates from that centre should number in the neighborhood of 100. Victoria branches of the society will send additional delegates to the same number, and other points on the Island and Mainland are making up strong lists which will appreciably swell the numbers. The Manitoba delegates to the Los Angeles convention are being entertained this evening in Vancouver in the First Congressional Social rooms, when it is expected that about 80 Endeavorers will sit down to supper together.

Distinguished Party Coming.—A party of distinguished English people sails from England next Sunday for Canada whence they will depart for Australia in about a month. In the party are Lord Emmott, under secretary of State for the colonies, accompanied by Lady Emmott; Lord Castle-Maine, Viscount and Viscountess Hill, Lord Sheffield, Sir Stephen Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Norton-Griffiths, Donald Macmaster, K. C.; Sir Hildred Carlisle, Lady and Miss Carlisle, the Right Hon. Stuart Wortley, under secretary of state for the home department and deputy chairman of the House of Commons; the Right Hon. Thomas Lough, Mr. and Mrs. Hamar Greenwood, D. V.; Pirie and Miss Pirie, W. H. Cowan and Miss Cowan, Arthur Sharwell, William Crooks, who is affiliated with the Labor party; Mr. T. W. Black.

STORM ON PRAIRIES.
Disturbance Which Passed Over Province Now Being Felt in Middle West.

According to F. Napier Denison, of the local meteorological department, the unusual atmospheric disturbance which recently crossed this province and caused a gale on the coast together with a heavy general rainfall, has spread to the prairie provinces where it has developed into a severe wind and rainstorm extending even to Missouri and Mississippi valleys. Prince Albert reports one inch of rain in twenty-four hours, while both Winnipeg and Minnedosa have had one and a quarter inches this morning. Fine and increasingly warmer weather is expected to prevail on the coast for some days.

Nothing But Trucks

These three words go far to explain "Gramm" superiority. The Gramm factory is the oldest and largest truck factory on this continent. The Gramm Company started out to make commercial trucks, and have never been tempted to experiment with pleasure cars. This means that every part in a Gramm truck was designed for a commercial vehicle and is not merely a pleasure car part adapted for truck building.

THE EVER-NEW.

It may be there's nothing new under the sun.
It may be the great deeds are all of them done.
But nevertheless there is plenty to do.
In making the old things all over anew.
To bring a new strength to the arm of the weak;
To bring a new outlook to those in despair;
To bring a new joy to the spirit in care;
To bring a new dawn to those shrouded in night;
To bring a new faith to souls lost to the light;
Were deeds quite as great as the deeds that were done
When something lay new in the path of the sun,
And old they be, are as fair to achieve
As ever the love Adam offered to Eve!

TO BUILD OBSERVATORY

Government Lets Contract to Contractor of This City—Isolated Column for Telephone.

The contract for the observatory building of Victoria has been let to G. C. Hurrell, of this city, who tendered at the price of $11,900. The award was announced in a dispatch which arrived from Ottawa last evening and it is expected that work will commence on the building almost immediately, as the specifications call for the building being well advanced this fall.

The tender is for the building entire, and as soon as the contractor is finished work on it, the structure will be ready for the installation of instruments and apparatus. Practically the whole of the basement of the building will be devoted to those instruments which are necessary to the research work which F. Napier Denison, of the local meteorological department, has made peculiarly his own. Here will be found the seismographical machines of extreme delicacy, and other instruments for research; there will also be photographic rooms and laboratory in the basement, in addition to a special heating apparatus. The main floor will be devoted to office rooms, the meteorological instruments and the anemometers, or wind instruments. These will be operated by means of steel bars on the top of the building.

A revolving dome will surmount the building in order that observations of the whole of the heavens can be taken. To facilitate this there will be slant shutters in the dome to enable the operator to focus on any point in the zenith. This will be found especially useful for the operation of the equatorial telescope which will be the observatory's most prized possession. This will stand on a column of solid concrete completely isolated from the building in order that observations taken therewith may be of the extreme accuracy. For taking the stars in their passage across the meridian and thereby obtaining the exact time. There will be other living rooms in the building for the assistant to the meteorologist.

The edifice will be two stories in height and built of white concrete. It will look down on the sea from the imposing height of two hundred feet on the crown of Gonzales Hill, and will thus be able to ascertain with ease the weather condition over the sea and give storm signals whenever necessary. It is expected that Mr. Denison will continue his seismological research work as soon as the building provides the facilities for it. His work in this connection has already attracted much notice in the East and in London.

LOANS TO MUNICIPALITIES.
Vancouver Body Decides to Approach Government Upon Investment in Municipal Stock.

On a subject which has received considerable attention from various quarters recently, a discussion took place on Wednesday evening at the Progress Club in Vancouver. This was the proposal that the provincial government should be urged to use its cash surplus to buy the bonds of British Columbia municipalities in order that they may carry on necessary development work, a plan which has been endorsed by one or two local labor unions.

At the meeting it was pointed out that at the present time many of the municipalities of the province find it impossible to dispose of their bond issues, and as a consequence public work is held up and men are out of employment. The board passed a resolution that the government should be asked to take this course.

A communication was received also from the Board of Trade of Duncan asking for legislation to restrict the possession of land to white races. On this a committee was appointed. This resolution has been sent to the Victoria city council and by it referred to a committee for a report.

CHARGED WITH POSSESSION.
Herbert Hemming, Tod Inlet, Given Remand in Provincial Court.

In the provincial police court yesterday afternoon Herbert Hemming, Tod Inlet, was charged with being in possession of property belonging to Miss Day, Victoria. Hemming and Miss Day shipped goods from Calgary at the same time in boxes of match the same size and appearance, and in some way the addresses on two of these became transposed. When Miss Day found that she had got a quantity of small machinery that did not belong to her and was of no use to her she made a complaint and investigation

1-2-3-4-5 That's All Only $5 Down

And $5 a month until a total of $50 is paid. But as soon as you pay the first $5 a handsome Columbia "Regal" Cabinet Graphophone, complete, as illustrated, together with a gift from us of six double-disc records, 12 different selections, goes to your home.

This special midsummer offer won't last long. The instruments are going strong at this very special price and terms. Just think what an offer this is: The "Regal," one of the handsomest instruments made by the famous Columbia Phonograph Company, an instrument which is sold right along for $65, now offered here for a short time at only $50; $5 down and $5 a month, with six big double-disc records thrown in for good measure.

It's time you took advantage of this offer. A day or two will probably see the last of this special selling; then, if you want a "Regal," you will have to pay the regular price, $65.

The "Regal," just as pictured, except for the omission of the record cabinets beneath the sound box, may be had during the life of this special offer, for $45, on the same terms and with the same gift of six double-disc records.

This instrument is a winner for any purpose; for the home, summer home or camp it has no superior. A small investment now will insure you and yours of years of pleasure and educational benefit.

DOLLAR LINERS TO FLY CHINESE FLAG

Steamships Now Registered in Victoria Are to Be Transferred to Celestial Empire

FLEET TO FORM NUCLEUS OF A MERCHANT MARINE

Chinese Government is to Supply Liberal Subsidy; Charge Causes Interest

Reports have been frequently received to the effect that the steamships operated by Robert Dollar under the British flag are to be changed to Chinese registry, and it now appears as though the line will form the nucleus of a merchant marine of the Celestial Republic. Authentic information has come to hand stating that the big freighters, which have made Victoria their home port for many years, will within a very short time hoist the yellow flag of China to their masts.

Robert Dollar and his associates in the company have large interests in the Flowery Kingdom, and it is their intention to get in on the ground floor of China's merchant marine and there-by hold a pre-eminent position. All arrangements are now well under way for the making of the transfer.

To Receive Subsidy.

Prior to the great revolution in China the company was negotiating with the government of that country to place its vessels under the Chinese flag. The trouble interrupted the arrangements, but since the unrest was settled, the negotiators have continued the business and are reported to have come to a satisfactory termination. The Chinese republic is liberally to subsidize the company, which agrees to do its utmost to build up a mercantile fleet for the dragon country.

With the removal of these big freighters the amount of tonnage registered at Victoria will drop considerably. The Robert Dollar, a fine four-masted steamship of nearly 5,000 tons, the Hazel Dollar and M. S. Dollar, each of 2,550 tons, and four other vessels of smaller dimensions, will lower the British Jack in a short time and hoist the Chinese flag in its place.

In case of war China will be able to call on the Dollar boats for assistance as troopships. In case of war with an outside foe at the present time China is unable to attack the country of its enemy, due principally to the fact that she is unable to transport her soldiers.

MAY 24 HOURS LATE

Owing to trouble developing in one of her lat shafts, the C. P. R. steamer Princess May, Capt. McLeod, will be 24 hours late in departing on her trip to Prince Rupert and Skagway. She was due to depart to-night, but it will be about midnight to-morrow before she clears. The May will also be delayed in getting away from Vancouver. The Princess is now at the B. C. Marine yards undergoing the necessary repairs.

UNKNOWN SAILER IS DODGING OFF CAPE

Ship Spoken This Morning but Got Lost in Fog; May Be Bay of Biscay

Dodging about off the entrance to the strait of Juan de Fuca is a three-masted full-rigged ship, and shipping men have been trying all day to figure out what vessel it is. One of the two boats cruising off Cape Flattery looking for a tow sighted the ship this morning, but soon lost her in a heavy mist, which shut down. Up till late this afternoon nothing has been received by wireless as to whether the tug has got a line aboard the ship or not.

It is believed that the windjammer off the Cape is the British ship Bay of Biscay, Capt. Spencer, which is now out 28 days from Callao. The Biscay is a three-master and is coming to load a cargo of lumber at Vancouver. She is fully due from the south. The ship is well-known here, having been in the Royal Roads about two years ago. On her trip to Callao from the United Kingdom the Biscay was caught in a hurricane in the South Pacific and had to put in to Port Stanley, Falkland Island, for repairs.

If the windjammer off the entrance to the strait is not the Bay of Biscay, the only other vessel it is likely to be is the German ship Paul, which is also on her way up from Callao. She is out a few days longer than the Biscay.

SECOND SCHOONER TO PUT TO SEA SHORTLY

Victoria Will Head for West Coast Fishing Bank Within Two Weeks; Good Ship

Within two weeks the former sealing schooner Victoria will depart on her first trip as a fishing vessel. The craft is now being fitted out at the Victoria Machinery Depot and she will be ready to have her big gasoline engine, tried out in about ten days. The Victoria makes the second of the local sealers to be converted into fishing boats and operated out of this port. She is to work in conjunction with the Jessie and will fish off the west coast banks.

When the Victoria leaves, her appearance will be greatly altered. Both of her lofty masts have been cut down a great deal, which naturally means a smaller spread of canvas. Her deck arrangement is being changed and a wheel-house is being built aft. The fishermen are to have comfortable quarters forward and the captain's cabin will be located well aft. The fish locker, capable of holding 25,000 pounds, is just forward of the amidships and after of the locker is the engine room.

Another is Following. Shortly after the Victoria gets away the owners will start to fit out the schooner Ida Ekta for the fishing business. It is their intention to operate three vessels at present and if the

and it may yet turn out to be Paul. The tug Tysa is now out scouting for the Cape, and she may come across the sailer before darkness sets in to-night.

NINE PASSENGERS GOING ROUND SOUND ON CRUISE

Nine passengers joined the Pacific Coast steamship City of Puebla, Capt. Harris, at the first of the Puget Sound cruises. Those who embarked were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Grant, Miss Tilly Grant, Miss Charlotte Miles, Miss Gertrude, Miss Agnes Morris and Miss Florence Griffiths.

The Puebla arrived here last night from San Francisco, after a smart run. Fine weather has experienced throughout the run. At this point the Puebla discharged 20 tons of freight and she got away for the Sound at 11 o'clock. A big list of passengers came north from the Golden Gate and left the steamship at this port.

BRITISH SHIP BAY OF BISCAY

market demands additional fish then other craft will be at once fixed up and sent to sea. With an average fishing trip lasting for ten days the three schooners will bring in to Victoria over half a million pounds of halibut every month.

One year ago there was not a fishing vessel of any size operating out of Victoria, but within the past few months the great profits have appealed to many capitalists and they have decided to enter the fish business. The Alliance Fishing Company has just formed here and two of the schooners it has purchased are away on cruises. Three or four vessels will arrive soon. This will bring Victoria fishing fleet up to nine schooners. This port is now a strong competitor of Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver and Prince Rupert for the eastern markets.

FIFTY-TWO VESSELS TO TAKE OUT RIVER GRAIN

Portland, July 11.—Fifty-two ships, coming here for a total tonnage of 113,456 tons of grain out of Portland, are on their way to this port. The largest cargo of grain will be carried by the Brigavia, of the Hamburg-American fleet, which arrived at Malta June 29, and which is due here some time this month. The Harpaloo, a British steamer of 3,691 tons, is in San Francisco, and will leave for Portland soon, and the same is true of the Manchester Citizen, which arrived in San Francisco July 8. The Nokomis and Marco Polo are in port with their cargoes. The Marco Polo is a charter of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., and arrived here for 1,523 tons of wheat, and the Nokomis is an American schooner from Caleta Buena, which can accommodate 462 tons of grain.

OVERDUE RAIL SHIP ARRIVES FOR PILOT

Norwegian Steamship Herakles Here To-day After Long Trip From Sydney

Setting at rest what little uneasiness was felt for her safety, the Norwegian steamship Herakles, Capt. Berg, laden with a cargo of iron rails for Port Mann, arrived off Victoria late this afternoon to pick up a Fraser river pilot to take her up to the Canadian Northern town. The freighter was 21 days making the run across from Sydney, C. B., and established a record lengthy passage for the rail fleet.

The wireless message from Tatooah today which reported that the Herakles was heading into the Strait at 3:30 o'clock was welcomed by shipping men. Owing to the lengthy time she was out from Coronel and the fact that she had a bad cargo if anything happened to go wrong, seafaring men were getting a little anxious that the Herakles was 21 days steaming up the Pacific from Coronel, where she sailed. Head winds held her back a great deal.

In about two weeks the Herakles will have her rail cargo discharged and she will shift across the river to the Fraser Mills, where she will take on a cargo of lumber for Australia.

No other rail ships are at the present time en route or on berth. It is understood that the N. E. are looking for several other freighters to bring rails from Sydney to the Fraser.

DEEP-SEA MOVEMENTS

The Blue Funnel liner Talthybius, Capt. Allen, left port this afternoon at 3 o'clock for Vancouver to discharge 6,000 tons of freight. At this port the steamship unloaded 2,900 tons.

The steamship Comedian, Capt. Nathan, of the Harrison fleet, is due back in port to-morrow morning to load 300,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom.

With a cargo of oil for Vancouver, the oil-tanker Trinicola passed up this morning.

THE FOG HORN.

Blow, horn! Blow! From thy rock-based tower, Booming hour by hour; For many a wreck may be Of its hoarse hollow note: Oh, voice of the fog-bound sea!

Blow, horn! Blow! For the mist becloud Like a sable shroud, And the skipper peers, peers he, Through the clammy gloom, At still as the tower: Oh, voice of the fog-bound sea!

Blow, horn! Blow! For many a ship With her shrouds a-drip In groping to port by thee, With treasure rich stored, And with souls aboard: Oh, voice of the fog-bound sea!

Blow, horn! Blow! For hard by the shore, At her cottage door, A stranger's wife waits she, And arms through the haze, With a seaward gaze: Oh, voice of the fog-bound sea!

Blow, horn! Blow! For the comely waven Sweeps the countless graves Of the fearless and the free, And the surges swell An eternal knell: Oh, voice of the fog-bound sea!

Blow, horn! Blow! DUDLEY H. ANDERSON. Victoria, B. C., June, 1912.

96,000 DECKS OF CARDS LEAVING SOUND ON MARU

Seattle, July 11.—Ten tons of playing cards, approximately 96,000 decks, each with the requisite number of diamonds, spades, hearts, clubs and a joker to spare, are among the shipments being taken aboard the Japanese steamship Tamba Maru, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, now loading for ports in the Orient.

The cards arrived from the East by train a few days ago. They are for Hsiao, China, about two hours' ride from Hongkong, the Monte Carlo of the Orient, and the Mecca for devotees of the goddess of chance.

DOUBLE HEADER TO-MORROW'S CARD

Senior Lacrosse Teams Clash at Royal Athletic Park; Local Twelve Confident

Saturday will be a big day for lacrosse lovers at the Royal Athletic park when a double-header will be offered the local enthusiasts. New Westminster amateurs will be here for their second game of the season against the Victoria senior twelve, while the Lathers will play the Sidney team in the curtain raiser. The teams have completed their preparations for the match, and Messrs. Dinmore and Gorman will likely handle the whistles for the senior contest. The first match will start at one o'clock, the seniors taking the field at three, so that a continuous programme is offered.

Locals Improve.
Sam Lorimer is confident that his team can win over the Salmon Bellies in the feature of the afternoon, and last night he put his proteges through a hard practice match with the Lathers. The latter, an intermediate club, have been showing improvement right along, and they made the seniors step lively all the way. Improvement was shown in the passing and on the attack of the Victoria representatives, and Manager Lorimer looks for the locals to win by a comfortable margin. The Salmon Bellies rolled up a big score on the Victoria twice at New Westminster a couple of weeks ago, and the Victoria home are out to pile up as big a score as possible on the Westminster team.

Saturday's Teams.
It is absolutely necessary for the locals to win to-morrow's game if they are to wind up in second place, and plenty of action may be looked for. The local teams have been selected as follows:

CANADA ADVANCES TO THE SEMI-FINALS

Messrs. Powell and Schwengers Win in Doubles From Belgians

Folkestone, Eng., July 11.—Powell and Schwengers had an easy task beating Watson and Duvivier, the Belgian pair. They won the match in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Nottingham, Eng., July 11.—The prospects this morning were that the weather would be better than it was yesterday and that the doubles matches between the United States and German teams in the semi-final round for the selection of a challenger to meet England for the Davis trophy would be played under improved conditions. M. E. McLoughlin and H. Holt H. Hackett, the Americans, were chosen to meet Friedrich Wilhelm Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschroth, the German players, in to-day's match.

The American team won the doubles by three sets to one from the German team. The United States players consequently enter the final round, where they will meet the Canadians, winners of the Canadian-Belgian series. The scores for the doubles match between the United States and Germany were 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-6.

To-day's Games.

Folkestone, Eng., July 11.—The second day's play in the Davis lawn tennis finals to-day brought together R. B. Powell and B. P. Schwengers, of Canada, and A. G. Watson and W. H. Duvivier, of Belgium, in the doubles.

Folkestone, July 11.—The Canadian team to-day won the doubles match from the Belgians and thus qualified to enter the final round, where the United States and Canadian teams will compete for the right to challenge the English team for the Davis cup.

Folkestone, Eng., July 11.—Canada finished with two matches in hand the first day of the play in the semi-finals of the Davis Cup preliminary against Belgium, with every prospect of meeting in the final round at Wimbledon the winners of the United States series against Germany at Nottingham.

R. B. Powell, the Canadian captain, and B. P. Schwengers, the Canadian champion, won their matches against H. Dehman and A. C. Watson, respectively, without the loss of a single set. Powell winning by 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, and Schwengers by 6-4, 6-1, 6-0. The match between Schwengers and Watson was keenly contested in the first set. Watson obtained a brief lead, but the Canadian eventually secured an advantage, which he maintained, and outplayed his opponent throughout the rest of the match.

Americans Also.

Nottingham, July 11.—Maurice E. McLoughlin and R. Norris Williams both won their lawn tennis matches from the German Otto Froitzheim and Oscar Krutzler, and placed the United States' team in a favorable position for winning the semi-final round of the Davis Cup preliminary. It is only necessary for the American players to win one more match of the three still to be played in order to advance to the final, where they will meet either Canada or Belgium. McLoughlin had the more difficult task. He lost the first two sets to Froitzheim, and won three straight and the match by his superior lasting powers. The German crack won twenty-one games in the five sets to twenty-three for McLoughlin. Williams won from Krutzler three sets to one. He scored twenty-two games to the German's thirteen.

WILL IMPROVE LOCAL COURSE

Permanent improvements are planned by the Victoria Golf Club, the annual meeting of which was held last evening. His Honor Lieut.-Governor Paterson was elected president, with Mrs. Bigstaff Wilson vice-president and Mr. Harvey Combe secretary. A sum of money was voted towards the fencing of the entire course, while a committee was appointed to look into further work that will be done on the links. The woods area will be cleared up a bit, while the course will be lengthened. The committee is as follows: Messrs. J. A. Misset, E. W. Endwell, A. E. Coles, T. Criddale, Colonel Peter, G. C. Johnson, R. M. Hincks, A. Hault Horton and G. C. Talbot.

POLLARDS VS. VICTORIA.

The following line-up will represent the Pollards in their game with the Victoria theatre ball team at the North Ward Park on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock: Mackie, catcher; Kenny, pitcher; Martin, first base; Campbell, second base; McNamara, short-stop; Babe, third base; Chester, left field; Abery, centre field, and Denehy, right field.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD.

London, July 11.—The vegetarian, F. H. Grubb, made a world's record yesterday by riding on a bicycle a distance of 100 miles on the Bath road in 4 hours 43 minutes 33 seconds. He was unpaced.

BISHOP'S BETTING STORY.

The Bishop of Southwark, when appealing for funds for the cathedral, told an amusing story of a lady's idea of backing a horse. "Mackie, catcher; Kenny, pitcher; Martin, first base; Campbell, second base; McNamara, short-stop; Babe, third base; Chester, left field; Abery, centre field, and Denehy, right field."

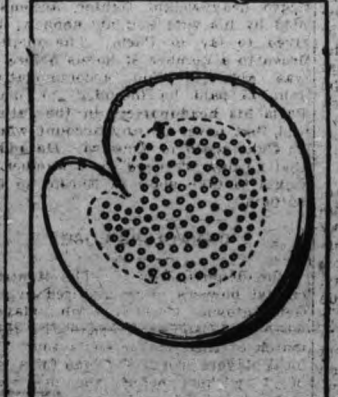

FISHLIKE.

So great is the flood of oratory that one sympathizes with the view expressed in a little story, which Mr. Hewart told at a luncheon at the Liberal Club, says the Daily Citizen. It was of Palmerston, who once attended a dinner at Greenwich. Looking at a dish of whitebait in front of him, and then at the less inviting faces of his fellow-diners, he said: "Gentlemen, let us follow the example of these little fish—drink a great deal and say nothing."

NEW BASEBALL GLOVE

Has Number of Small Perforations in the Palm.

Nowadays anything pertaining to baseball is of prime interest to several million people; so it is of importance to know that a Washington man has designed a new mitt. The secret of a good glove or mitt is that it be very strong, yet very flexible, and sometimes the two qualities are difficult to reconcile. In this case, however, an entirely new feature has been introduced in the shape of a perforated

MAKES PALM FLEXIBLE.

The entire palm is studded with tiny perforations and a reinforcing layer of flexible leather is mounted on the back of the palm portion. This construction results in an unusually pliable palm portion that is not nearly so liable to crack or split as when it is a solid piece of leather, that becomes kneaded into flexibility through use.

Clean Lacrosse Wanted in Victoria.

Now that steps are being taken to secure a professional lacrosse club for the Capital, it would be well for the backers of the local team to bear in mind that they must give the citizens of the Capital clean lacrosse. There is not a fair-minded sporting enthusiast in the world who will continue to patronize a sport in which foul tactics are resorted to to bring results, and clean lacrosse is the only game that will win a footing for that sport in this city. Victorians were opposed to professional hockey because of the pro. element that was connected with the game, but the clean playing and sportsmanlike conduct of the teams soon aroused an admiration that has established hockey firmly in this city. Lacrosse can be made just as strong by the adoption of the same methods. Any squabbling must be done in the committee rooms, also, for the fans are not anxious to hear of the personal differences between the clubs. The prospects are bright right now for a club in the Capital and here are a few suggestions that mean success to a pro. team in Victoria.

Will Ed, Steele Prove Another Hal. Chase.

Once again Victoria is sending a first-baseman into organized baseball. Ed Steele has been picked up by the Bees and will be given a thorough try-out, and from all reports the boy will turn out to be of big league calibre. He has youth, speed and fielding ability behind him, and with a little schooling ought to turn out a batsman of the highest order. Steele is very green, when it comes to professional baseball, but his brother made good in less than two months and there is no reason why Ed should not follow suit. First-basemen are as rare as hens' teeth, and with his prospects Steele should soon reach the big circuits. Victoria fans will be pleased to learn that Bob Steele is going up this season and it would seem as if this distinguished athletic family was going to boost Victoria as a hot-bed of baseball players. Here's hoping both boys make good with a rush.

Freddie Welsh Will Secure a Bout With Ritchie.

Before another week has elapsed Freddie Welsh will know whether or not he is to be given a bout with Willie Ritchie for the world's lightweight honors. Welsh has signed to meet the famous Frisco lightweight, and as Ritchie has already signified his satisfaction with the terms offered, little remains to be done to bring this noted pair together. Victorians will be interested mostly in the Bayley-Valse return bout, but there are a great number of Welsh's supporters in the city who would like to see the English champion win over Ritchie. The showing of the latter against Rivers was not so wonderful and there are scores who are willing to wager that Welsh can repeat his bout of 1911, when he secured a twenty-round decision over Ritchie. Welsh says that this will be the greatest bout of his life and is confident that he can win.

BOBBY STEELE FOR THE MAJORS; LOCAL STARS ENTER PRO. BALL

O'Grady and Ed. Steele Slated for Trials in Northwestern; Boes Win Again

Another of Victoria's crack amateur baseball players is slated for promotion to organized baseball. Ed. Steele, the husky first-sacker of the Moose team, will get a try-out with the Bees at Seattle this week.

It is probable that Bob Steele will be sold to a major league club this season. One of Ban Johnson's clubs has placed a price on the former Hill slapper.

O'Grady, the Moose right-hander, has been looked over by a scout representing the Portland club.

youngster when the Pippins come round again. O'Grady has all the stuff in the world, and may decide to give baseball a trial.

Seattle, July 11.—Narveson shut out the champions, Score 3 to 0. He pitched major league ball and had effective support on sundry occasions.

From all points of view, Narveson gave the finest exhibition of pitching he has ever shown in Seattle.

Raymond was responsible for the two runs Victoria captured in the first inning, as he fumbled Madden's grounder.

Fullerton was responsible for the other four runs, as Delmas hit for a homer in the fourth.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

Narveson twirled big league ball yesterday. An even break with Seattle will be about enough for the Bees.

Mike Lynch, surely broke in with the goods for the Indians. Bert Delmas has three safeties at Seattle, including a homer.

Here's hoping that Ed. Steele will prove as big a success as his brother yesterday. Tacoma division clubs won yesterday; Tacoma taking a game from Portland.

This fellow Fullerton is not such a terror against the Bees. Stralt appears to be the hoodoo, with his home run swalloper.

McQuilly is due for another shakeup in his team. It has won only one game this week.

Perhaps Brown will be glad to get rid of Spokane, now that Lynch has taken hold.

that there is some good material on the Spokane pitching staff.

Charlie Brooks will likely be back in the game next week, which will add batting strength to the locals.

There is no doubt that Johnny Rawlings will go up to the big leagues this season, he is hitting over the 300 mark now.

New York dropped a game to Chicago, but the Phillies lost their third straight to the Pirates and are as far behind as on Wednesday.

Tacoma, July 11.—The Tigers had their hitting clothes on and neither Hynes nor Martini could stop them, the locals winning by a score of 11 to 2.

Vancouver, B. C., July 11.—Spokane defeated Vancouver in both games of a doubleheader. In the first game Kraft pitched great ball and was given fine support.

Vancouver tennis stars will play a series against Victoria to-morrow afternoon on the Victoria Tennis Club's courts, Fort Street.

MUST BE EIGHT CHILDREN

Clo-oose Can Have School if Attendance Can Be Found.

If eight children between the ages of six and sixteen can be found at Clo-oose Hon. Dr. Young, minister of education informed a deputation from the Island Development League yesterday that he would open a school there. The residents must supply the building, however. The deputation consisted of J. L. Beckwith and E. G. McGaffey, and after seeing the minister of education they visited Deputy Minister Foster, of the public works department, to petition for a road from Albert to Long Beach. The reply was that the route had been surveyed and the cost found to be $72,000, which was too heavy to undertake this year as the sum had not been provided in the estimates.

ASK GOVERNMENT AID

Deputation Requests Support for Permanent Exhibit at Willows' Fair Building.

A deputation representing the Board of Trade and the local Agricultural Association visited upon the premier yesterday with a request for provincial aid for the permanent exhibit which it is proposed to institute at the Willows' fair ground. According to the deputation, $10,000 is required for the purpose of putting up a suitable structure, in which to house the exhibit. It will be remembered that the committee of the Board of Trade and the Agricultural Association put the matter before the city council, but could get no aid; an appeal to the provincial first minister is a result of this.

The deputation which interviewed the premier last evening consisted of J. J. Shallock, president of the Victoria Board of Trade, Dr. Tolmie, president of the Agricultural Association, and George Sangster, secretary of the same organization. All these men have taken a very deep interest in the exhibit which it is proposed to erect, and they explained fully to the premier the purposes which the exhibition might be presumed to serve and the advantages with which it would be certain to endow the province. From the point of view of publicity, they demonstrated, it would very soon repay whatever was expended upon it.

After hearing the arguments which were cited by the deputation the premier promised to give the matter his best consideration. He asked Mr. Sangster to provide him with all available data as to the size of the proposed exhibit, and as to the materials with which it is proposed to fill it. He promised to take the matter up with his brother ministers at the earliest convenient moment.

SUFFERING FOR HIS RELIGION.

This is the story of Hughie McGerraghty, of Belfast, as it was narrated in the Scottish Liberal Club, Edinburgh. Mrs. McGerraghty was asked why her son had emigrated.

"Poor Hughie," she explained, "worked on the island, and when he was gone till his work was done he met with a poor Papish boy, an' Hughie, that was always a good religious boy, knocked him down and then he kicked him. After that a policeman cum along an' poor Hughie was tuk up, an' 'wud ye believe it?'—he got a month! So when he cum out, 'Mother,' says he to me, 'A'm goan away,' says he, 'out o' this place altogether,' says he, 'A'm blowed,' says he, 'if A' cud stop any longer in a country where A hev till suffer for my religion.'"

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT
 By RUTH CAMERON

"We would rather lie down and die than think."

That, according to a well known modern writer, is the honest human being will admit.

This author thinks that she means it to stand for something besides the feeble, follow-the-leader, take-chances-for-granted process which goes on in the average human brain.

Do you admit the "soft impeachment" I do.

Especially if by thinking she means getting right down to first principles on any problem, and working the whole thing out from start to finish for one's self. When a man gets the habit of doing that he certainly lifts himself out of the average class.

A tremendously successful advertisement writer describes his method this way: "I try not to think in a groove or take anything for granted. When I am asked to write an advertisement about an article, I try not to think anything about how similar articles are advertised or what the customary line of thought is. Nor, on the other hand, do I try to be clever or original. I just do my best to begin at first principles, to start with the article to be advertised, and the kind of people who are to use it, and build the whole thing from those prime factors."

Now perhaps you think every good business man does that.

Does he?

Doesn't the average man take more things for granted than he realizes?

Every trade and profession has its pass words, its traditions, its established customs, which have become such an integral part of it that no one realizes they exist.

To illustrate from the business with which I am the most familiar—I often hear newspaper men talking about ways and means to improve their particular papers. They talk in terms of "lead story," and "important news," etc., and they think from the same newspaper viewpoint. Now, it seems to me that if a newspaper editor would try to forget newspaper traditions and to just think hard and all the time of people and what they want to read, he'd have a big start toward success.

Of course it is extremely difficult for anyone who is steeped in the viewpoint of any business to get away from it and get down to first principles. I suppose that is why those who do accomplish it tower above their fellows.

Now this habit of thinking from first principles is not valuable for business men alone; it helps everywhere.

For instance, if you have a church entertainment to get up and can think of people and what they like to do, instead of routine church entertainments, you will be more likely to produce something worth while.

The next problem you have to think out, try reducing everything to prime factors before you begin to think. And be very sure they are prime factors too, and not merely what the world has been in the habit of accepting as prime. It may make your head tired to think that way—I confess it makes mine—nevertheless I think it will pay.

HENRI ROCHEFORT IS DEAD AT AGE OF 83

Led Fight on Napoleon III, and Was Exiled From France Twice

Marquis Victor Henri de Rochefort-Lucy, known to the world as Henri Rochefort, politician, journalist, poet, playwright, revolutionist and fighter of duels, died July 11 at Aix-les-Bains in his eighty-third year. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Henri Rochefort was one of the most picturesque characters in modern French history. He was a leader in the fight against the Second Empire, but even after the fall of Napoleon III, he was constantly at odds with the French government on account of his extreme radicalism.

Henri Rochefort was born at Paris on January 30, 1831. As a youth at the College Louis le Grand he was popular with his teachers and fellow-students because of his ready wit and his independence. He took up writing poetry for a living after leaving school, but found that the occupation didn't pay and studied medicine. His parents were so poor, however, that he was obliged to abandon the idea of becoming a physician. He got a position as clerk of the town council of Paris. He contributed articles to the Manuel de la Conversation, the Charivari and the Figaro, in which his vigorous denunciations of the empire resulted in a systematic attempt of the government to squelch him. The publications for which he wrote were seized and Rochefort was thrown into prison.

For several years, even though Rochefort was obliged to do his writing in jail much of the time, he managed to make an income of $50,000 a year.

Rochefort decided in 1868 that he would have no collaborators and established La Lanterne, which came out once a week as a thirty-two page paper. Near the end of the third month of its existence the weekly was suppressed and its editor was sentenced to one year in prison and to pay a fine of 10,000 francs. With other political offenders he was pardoned on the Emperor's fete day.

Rochefort resumed at once the publication of La Lanterne in Brussels. It was more vigorous and denunciatory than ever. It is said that over 200,000 copies were smuggled every week into France.

Rochefort was elected to the Assembly in the First Parisian district over M. Cahot, the Government candidate. His new paper, La Marseillaise, was seized and he was thrown into jail. He was convicted of libel and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. But he did not stay there long. Following the proclamation of the republic the people attacked the jail and took him triumphantly from his cell at St. Pelagie to the Louvre. Rochefort became head of the Department of State and was an ardent Communist, serving as a gunner in the ranks. When things got too hot for him he tried to escape from Paris disguised as a market woman, but was caught. He was court-martialed on September 21, 1871, and sentenced to deportation to Cayenne for life.

There is nothing more thrilling in fiction than the escape of Rochefort in 1874, two years after he was sent to Cayenne. In company with Groussset, Gourde and Balliere Rochefort swam over three miles in a sea infested with sharks, many of which snapped at him and followed in his wake. They reached an English vessel which had been chartered by a friend and the refugees were taken to Ireland. Rochefort went to Switzerland, where he lived a quiet life and contributed articles to leading radical papers in France, England and Germany.

It was not until the general amnesty of July 11, 1880, that Rochefort was permitted to return to Paris. In that year he was badly wounded in a duel with a relative of a police officer who had insulted Rochefort's son.

He started the Intransigent in 1880 and the Boulangist movement owed much of its strength to his advocacy. He was prosecuted and again exiled. He left France with Gen. Boulanger to live in England.

Rochefort has been described as one of the most trenchant satirical writers France has produced. He wrote at times with virulence and his irony made wounds that didn't heal. Before politics embittered his heart most of his writings were full of delicious humor. Rochefort was fond of collecting objects of art and nothing pleased him more than articles which had belonged to royal personages.

PLAY OFFENDED GERMANS.

And Kaiser's Son Requests Its Prohibition—Nobel Prize-Winner in Trouble.

The storm that has been raging in Germany round "Festspiel," by the famous German author and Nobel prizeman, Gerhardt Hauptmann, has had the anticipated result. The play given at Breslau Festival celebrates the victories of 100 years ago, and the author, who is a great admirer of Napoleon, gave, in German opinion, too much praise to that personality and too little to the Prussian heroes. The people were up in arms against the play immediately after the first performance some days ago, and the Crown Prince declared that he would resign the patronage of the "Hundred Years' Festival" if the play were not prohibited.

The Ober-Bürgermeister, of Breslau, is now in Berlin, and he sent instructions to Breslau to-night to take the play off. These were received during the second performance, which was carried through to the end. Hauptmann has made himself one of the best-hated men in Germany, though a little time ago he was being honored on all hands as the winner of the Nobel Prize.

"A GREAT FRAUD."

To the Editor,—In Monday's issue of the Times there appeared the report of a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Cameron, of the Tabernacle Baptist church. The edifice was crowded to its capacity, all eager to hear Dr. Cameron's address on "Timely Topics," namely, unqualified abuse of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy and her cult.

The preacher took his text from II. Tim. iii, 7: "Ever learning and never coming to a knowledge of the truth." The preacher said that this text referred to women. "There never was a day," said he, "when it was as true as now. All sorts of women's clubs are formed to study anything and everything but the Word of God."

I believe that women are debarred from the professional study of God's Word, but the one woman who did make a special and life-long study of the Scriptures was the very person whom Dr. Cameron chose to attack and vilify.

If women sit at the feet of the clergy and accept their interpretation of the Scriptures as law and gospel, such humble students are classed as truly good, pious Christian women; they compare them to Mary, who sat at the feet of Jesus. But let any woman attempt to blaze a path by the light from within her own soul, immediately she is ostracized by the clerical profession and is classed as a black sheep, doomed to perdition. The clergy, more than any other profession, believe that women should follow, and not lead, particularly in religion.

I wonder if Dr. Cameron calls his sermon on "Trinity Topics" a study of God's Word. Evidently he does, as he begins his address by a text from the Bible. Surely a man who is paid to preach the Gospel of Christ dishonors his profession when he uses his pulpit to speak lightly of women in general and to defame the character of a woman that lies in her grave.

Speaking of Mrs. Eddy, Dr. Cameron says that she was a great fraud. Let me ask, was she as great a fraud as a man who professes to be a disciple of Jesus Christ and a teacher of His gospel of love, who, under cover of his profession, attracts a crowd to hear a Sunday evening discourse on the faults and follies of a woman he openly professes to despise, simply because she dared to become a religious leader who attracted many followers, and whose greatest crime in his eyes was her success.

Dr. Cameron says: "Could it be possible that God would leave the world six thousand years in ignorance, and then choose a woman whose life could not bear to be spoken of in polite society as the channel of His last word to the world."

We may rest assured that God has not yet spoken His last word to the world. While the world and humanity exists, God's word will always be revealed to those who have ears to hear and a mind to understand. I beg to remind the reverend gentleman that the most momentous message that was ever given to humanity came through a woman out of whom had been cast seven devils. I daresay that the "life of Mary Magdalene" could not bear to be spoken of in polite society, yet our Lord chose her as the channel for His first message, to the brethren, after His resurrection, and this message is the foundation of the Christian religion.

Another crime Dr. Cameron charges against Mrs. Eddy is that she married a humble bricklayer. Again I would remind the reverend gentleman that the mother of our Lord married a humble carpenter, but no true Christian despises Mary for her humble station. No doubt, in her lifetime, she, equally with her first-born son, met with scorn and contempt because of their lowly position in life; more particularly, according to religious history, from the church of that day, which looked upon itself as the sole depository of God's Word to the world.

The scribes and priesthood regarded the son of a carpenter as a blasphemous upstart without legal or spiritual authority, as Jesus was not a regularly ordained teacher or preacher.

The same attitude still prevails. The clergy believe that they alone are authorized to interpret the Scriptures, and all who would know God's Word must sit at their feet, as the church, and not Mrs. Eddy, is the woman clothed with the sun, the moon under her feet, and a crown of stars upon her head.

I am no Christian Scientist, but I am a lover of justice and truth. As such I make this slight defence of a sister woman, who, whatever may have been her faults, was a great woman, with the courage of her convictions, a clever organizer and an optimistic faith.

All the Corns

In America Could be Ended This Week

If all people used what millions are using, there would be no corns next week. Every corn would be treated at once with a little Blue-jay plaster. The pain would stop instantly. Then the B & B would gently loosen each corn. In 48 hours all the corns would come out.

You can prove this yourself in two days. Try a Blue-jay on that old, old corn. Note how it acts without any discomfort. Note the absence of pain or soreness. The corn is completely forgotten. Then note in two days how the whole corn lifts out. Blue-jay keeps millions free from corns. When you stop paring—stop old-time treatments—you will have freedom too. And all people sometime will know this.

A in the picture is the soft B & B wax. It loosens the corn.
B stops the pain and keeps the wax from spilling.
C wraps around the toe. It is narrowed to be comfortable.
D is rubber adhesive to fasten the plaster on.

COMMITTEE ARRANGES PLANS FOR WELCOME

Premier, Mayor and Randolph Stewart Draw Up the Programme for New Zealand

Sir Richard McBride, Mayor Morley and Randolph Stuart met this morning and definitely arranged the programme for the welcoming and entertaining of H. M. S. New Zealand, which is to arrive on the morning of July 25. As soon as the ship anchors in Esquimalt harbor the welcoming party will go aboard. Hon. J. D. Hassen will present the Dominion's greetings, after which Sir Richard will speak in behalf of the province. Reeve Saunders for Esquimalt and Mayor Morley for the city of Victoria.

Randolph Stuart has been asked to act as secretary of the committee of arrangements and he will invite the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, the Vancouver Yacht Club, and all private owners of yachts and other craft to go out in a fleet to meet the dreadnought and escort her from Race Rocks to the harbor. The C. F. R. is being asked to send a steamer along to carry them to the general public who wish to witness the arrival.

After the reception the officers and men will be taken for a motor drive about the city and in the evening the province will tender a dinner to the officers at 7.30 at the Empress hotel. There will be a public reception at 8.30 in the Parliament buildings the same evening.

The committee decided this morning to make arrangements with all the theatres to provide passes for the men of the New Zealand Friday evening. Saturday the officers will be taken for a motor drive up the Malahat road, luncheon at Shawnigan Lake being included in the programme. A cricket match between a local team and the crew of the New Zealand is being arranged for the afternoon, while the British Columbia Railway Company is to be approached with a view to having the Gorge park make special plans for entertaining the ship's company on that day. Saturday evening the minister of marine and fisheries will give his reception.

The New Zealand leaves Sunday for Vancouver, where suitable entertainment will be provided, and she returns on August 4, remain during Carnival week, when special entertainment will be provided for the officers and men in addition to the regular programme.

The committee composed of the premier and the mayor and Mr. Stuart especially request that the motor owners of the city co-operate in the providing of cars for the drives. Motorists willing to do so should communicate with Randolph Stuart at the office of the Real Estate Exchange in Government street.

The officers of H. M. S. New Zealand are: Captain Lionel Halsey; commander, H. E. Grace; lieutenants, E. R. Jones, D. B. N. North, R. T. Down, A. A. Lovett-Campbell, G. W. Walker, Jones, R. C. Upton, A. D. Boyle, J. E. Bonill; lieutenant (Royal Naval Reserve), C. Gore; engineer commander, J. H. Turner; engineer lieutenants, J. D. Grieve, E. McK. Phillips, H. G. Marshall; captain (Royal Marine Artillery), H. Blount; chaplain, Rev. J. J. Scott, M. A.; fleet surgeon, C. H. Rock; staff surgeon, J. R. A. Clark-Haley; staff paymaster, T. P. E. Hahham; sub-lieutenant, P. L. Bancroft, H. S. H. Prince George of Battenberg; assistant paymasters, A. C. A. Janlon, D. R. Thurstan; midshipmen, A. G. Cunard, Lord Burghersh (eldest son of the Earl of Westmorland), C. B. Graham Watson, P. E. V. Head, A. H. C. Baskley, H. B. Anderson, C. G. Vines, the Earl of Carlisle, G. T. A. Scott, T. A. R. Robertson, J. C. Armstrong, G. J. L. Symons, A. L. Poland, C. S. Miller, E. G. B. Coore, C. F. B. Bowly; warrant officers, Gunner, J. H. Mack, J. C. Willis, V. S. Robinson; boatswain, E. C. Legg, W. J. Reynolds, W. R. Head; signal boatswain, A. Lewis; royal marine gunner, A. E. Elliott; carpenter, R. Jett; artificer engineers, J. Lamond, R. K. Weir, P. R. Brooker.

HEALTH OF CHILDREN
Statistical Table Prepared to Show How Infectious Diseases Affect Public Schools.

A valuable and uncommon table has been presented to the school board by Dr. H. J. Wasson, school health officer, on the record of the infectious diseases in the Victoria public schools. The information is directed to show the percentage of children infected before and after attending school, with a view to affording proof as to how necessary it is that the medical inspection of children should be thorough.

He deals with six diseases—scarlet fever, measles, mumps, whooping cough, diphtheria and chicken-pox. He treats of 5,225 children in the record. He finds that 50 per cent. have been sufferers from measles, 40 per cent. before their school days. Whooping cough accounts for 44 per cent. in infancy, and 16 1/2 per cent. in school days. Chicken-pox is very prevalent, with 21 per cent. before, and 19 per cent. afterwards. Mumps account for 10 per cent. before and 26 afterwards in every hundred children. Five per cent. have been invalided from diphtheria, evenly divided between infancy and school age. Scarlet fever takes 1 per cent. in infancy and 7 1/2 per cent. in school days. He will thus be seen that the most common diseases in childhood are measles, whooping cough and chicken-pox.

"Sell these Homesites!"

Profit by My Imperative Orders to Close This Estate

YOU Can Buy Beautiful Homesites at Last Year's Prices on Easy Payments

"Sell these homesites!" That terse order constitutes my authority for offering to the public some of the greatest bargains in real homesites that Victoria has ever seen. This order was given to me two days ago, and covered a total of $30,000 worth of property in odd lots in Mount Tolmie Park and Wilkinson Road districts. In two days I have sold $7500 worth of the property and by the time this is in print the sales will have passed that figure. This fact speaks for itself, because it is of excellent quality at much less than market prices. The remainder will go just as readily. You want some of these lots. Don't stay away for lack of funds. I can fix terms that will surprise you.

Get Free Tickets For Big Excursion SUNDAY NEXT

CARS LEAVE TERMINUS AT 10.30 A.M.

Absolutely free, and a splendid opportunity to enjoy a pleasant outing and see some of this property at the same time. Cars will reach city on return at 1.30. Only takes a few hours, and you'll have a good time. Get free tickets at our office any day or evening before Sunday.

Lots in Mt. Tolmie Park District Every one of these lots is an inviting site for a home. Nice, grassy lots, all 60 feet frontage and all excellently located. The section in which these lots are located has built up with great rapidity and is still going ahead at a good rate. Since the present owner purchased this estate more than 30 fine homes have been built in the immediate neighborhood. This property is in the line of the Shelbourne street boulevard development. The boulevard passes through the neighborhood, and when the work on this magnificent thoroughfare is completed, it alone will cause higher values in this district. The lots I am offering you now are each and every one within a very few minutes' walk of school, churches, stores, post office and street car. Telephone service and electric light service are available now. The roads are all excellent highways, and the property is located on the 2 3/4-mile circle. WHILE THEY LAST, THESE FINE LOTS ONLY $375 and Up $25.00 DOWN AND $10.00 A MONTH	Lots in Wilkinson Road District These are especially nice lots, and the location is one that recommends itself to the thinking investor at once. These lots are clear, grassy plots, ready to build on, and situated in the centre of a fine district, which, since the opening of the suburban carline, is meeting with great popularity. Some of these lots have been set out in fruit, which adds to their value as homesites. The manner in which this fruit is flourishing shows the excellence of the soil. Wilkinson Road fronts these lots, and Glyn Road, another boundary highway, is also a splendid thoroughfare. All of these lots are high and have a gentle slope to the southeast, which renders them exceptionally desirable as homesites. A church, costing $7500, is in course of erection on property immediately adjoining the lots I am offering. This is proof of the growth of this district. These lots are 50x125, and are all within easy reach of store, church, post office and school, and within three minutes of either Wilkinson or Glyn station, on the electric line. WHILE THEY LAST, THESE FINE LOTS ONLY $375 and Up $25.00 DOWN AND $10.00 A MONTH

TURKEY HAS LOST ONE OF HER ABLEST MEN

The Assassination of Mahmud Shekret Was a Severe Blow to the "Sick Man of Europe"

It was but the other day that von der Goltz, the teacher of so many of the Turkish officers of the present generation, in addressing a "last appeal" to his Constantinople friends, implored them to preserve and to rally round the "best, the very best man they had," without distinction of party. The appeal has not been heeded: the "best man" of modern Turkey has fallen at the hand of an assassin. Verily Turkey is undergoing her doom. The death of Mahmud Shekret, even more than the death of Nazim Pasha, reveals the hand of the Nemesis which is pitilessly overtaking the once proud and mighty race of the Ottomans.

"Dogru bir adam"—an honest, straight-forward man, this is how Mahmud Shekret was judged even by his worst enemy. In Turkey, in those parts where the race has been preserved from contamination with the European habits and politics, the type of man described in this simple sentence is of common occurrence. He is not often to be met with at Constantinople, that quagmire of intrigue, corruption, and treachery. Mahmud Shekret was one of the few who stood out with clearness and purity against the general background of political and moral demoralisation. From the crown of his head to the skin of his soles he was a noble representative of the noble Arab race, both physical and morally; courageous in spirit, active in body, delicate and almost feminine in sensitiveness, and transparent in character.

Foresight of Ruin.

Four years ago no one in Europe seemed to know the man. Europe knew Abdul Hamid and his corrupt clique, but did not know anyone else. At that time Mahmud Shekret was Commander of the Third Army Corps, stationed at Salonica. He was at the time fifty years of age, and had behind him a brilliant military career. It was in 1907 that he was appointed in command of the Young Turks. Was he really a politician? Certainly not in the party sense. But he saw that the arbitrary regime of Abdul Hamid was spelling the ruin of the Empire, and he fervently believed and hoped that with the summoning of the nation to assume the political power it might yet save its present and its future. And he sided with the Young Turks. It does not seem, however, that he took any active part in the preparations for the revolution. One is inclined to surmise that all he did was to permit the revolutionary propaganda to be carried on by and among his officers, promising them more active assistance in case they should ever need it. And they did need it very soon. On April 13, 1909, the counter-revolution broke out, making, as it seemed, an end of the brief constitutional episode. "How I struggled at the time with myself," Mahmud Shekret afterwards admitted to a distinguished friend, "nobody will ever know who did not see my heart at the time." But the struggle was brief, there was no time to be lost, and a week later we find Mahmud Shekret marching, under the eyes of an astonished Europe, to Constantinople at the head of his faithful corps. The wonderful precision and organization with which that movement was executed delighted the expert and non-expert alike. The capital surrendered in a few days practically without a fight, and Abdul Hamid was deposed.

An Empire at His Feet.

Turkey lay at that moment at Mahmud Shekret's feet, and had he only wanted, he could have become the unlimited dictator of the Ottoman Empire, or at least a major domo to the new and inexperienced Sultan. Many a successful "saviour of society" had done so in the past; but Mahmud Shekret was the "dogru bir adam," the man with a singleness of purpose and the devoted servant of his country. Was it not a mistake on his part not to have made his ambition the instrument of the country's salvation? At this period of Turkish history many, no doubt, would be inclined to take this view, but Mahmud Shekret believed in the nation and preferred to join the first constitutional government as simple minister for war. The only privilege he demanded for himself was that of fixing the military budget in accordance with his own and not the chamber's judgment.

For three years he then remained at the head of the military organization of the Empire, working day and night with a disregard to health and all other interests, almost unknown in the corrupt and lazy atmosphere of the Porte. That this organization subsequently collapsed on the first touch of the enemy was not his fault. The heritage of the Hamidian regime weighed him down heavily, and three years could only supply three annual trained contingents. Even so, however, the war might have taken a different course had he been allowed to continue in office. He had assembled in 1912 an army of 150,000 of the best trained troops at Smyrna and the Dardanelles—ostensibly in order to be prepared for a landing of the Italians, but in reality in anticipation of an attack by the Balkan states. This army was disbanded by his successors in order to create a favorable atmosphere for the elections, and Turkey thus found herself without ready troops when the fateful war broke out.

A Victim of Duty.

Mahmud Shekret fell, the victim of the blindness of his own Young Turkism. When, in the summer of 1909, the Albanian officers once again, as in 1908, mutilated the government in its fatuity imagined that the revolt was chiefly directed against Mahmud Shekret, who, as war minister, was responsible for the state of military unpreparedness in Tripoli. Mahmud Shekret knew that the idea was preposterous, but, true to his loyalty and modest character, he went (July 9), but was followed a week later by the entire cabinet. It may safely be said that of all the members of the Young Turkish government he was the least hated by the Albanians, who remembered his conciliatory mission to the revolted mountaineers in 1910 and the part he had played in 1908.

For six months, the most tragic months in the history of the Ottoman Empire, Mahmud Shekret remained in retirement, almost forgotten by all but his former friends. Then, in January of the present year, the revolutionary stroke of the Young Turks, accompanied by the murder of the generalissimo, Nazim Pasha, brought him unexpectedly back to power, this time as grand vizier. Had he been cognizant of the plot, or did he simply, as his wont was, obey the call of duty and assume the heavy office for his country's sake? No one as yet has dared to implicate him directly in the coup d'etat and much less make him approve of the assassination of Nazim Pasha. He probably acted as a soldier would act at the moment of supreme danger—he stepped into the breach and fought on.

Turkey will not soon find another man of his calibre.—London News and Leader.

NEW VERSION OF BIBLE FOR PRIVATE READING

Is Being Issued by the Church of Rome Under Imprimatur of Cardinal Bourne

The searching effects of modern historical criticism into the text of Holy Writ has long been felt at Rome more than the Curia cares to admit. The first great step came when the Pope put in commission a new revision of the Vulgate and placed at the head of a learned group the Grand Provincial of English Benedictines, Dom Aidan Gasquet. This learned historian and theologian has now been in residence for some years past at the Benedictine monastery of San Anselmo, near Rome, and though the work may have been somewhat discouraged by authority in the past few years, it is still proceeding.

A new and important development affecting England is the announcement of a new "Westminster version of the Sacred Scriptures," edited with the imprimatur of Cardinal Bourne and the hierarchy under him. It is, as Messrs. Longmans' announcement, were merely an ordinary revision of Bible texts with annotations such as we have been accustomed to meet in recent years from one group of learned commentators or another, this would be of less account. But the admission of new lights and renderings upon the sacred text is distinctly a step in the direction of that advance for which modernists and others have been so freely contending under a heavy orthodox ban.

Advances in Criticism.
The new text, as the publishers explain, is not intended as a substitute for the familiar "Douay" version, which, being based upon the Vulgate, must still be used when the Epistles and Gospels are read in church, until the final revision of the Vulgate makes a new version imperative. The "Westminster Version" is undertaken, it is announced, in response to a widespread feeling, itself due to increased interest in Biblical studies, that the great advances made in textual criticism, the light thrown upon New Testament Greek by the Egyptian papyri and the existence of many needless obscurities and faults in the current version, all demand a more accurate translation, if the exhortations of the Holy See to a more frequent and fruitful perusal of the sacred Scriptures are to meet with general acceptance.

Of course, it is desirable to represent that the theologians of the Roman Church have done nothing to add to the accumulated results of exegetic criticism. A better way of putting it is that the Church has preferred to give all this honey of scholarship in her libraries and monasteries, in the very intelligible but old-fashioned view that the faithful laity have less concern with the niceties of text than the general spirit it conveys. But that she has an army of learned commentators and critics at her beck and call is apparent from the list of editors who have undertaken sections of the new series, and these, be it noted, belong to England alone without counting the personnel and resources of the Church abroad.

A Learned Group of Editors.
Among the more conspicuous editors who are dealing with various books of the Bible in the new series are:

The Rev. Cuthbert Lattey, a distinguished Jesuit scholar, who is Professor of Sacred Scripture at St. John's College, North Wales.
The Rev. Joseph Keating and the Rev. Joseph Rickaby, two more priests of the Society of Jesus, who are famous as controversialists and highly popular members of the community at Farm street, Berkeley square.

Monsignor Bernard Ward, president of St. Edmund's College at Ware, which was established in succession to Douay, after the relaxation of the proscriptive laws against Roman Catholics. The Monsignor is a distinguished member of a famous family, and uncle of the editor of the Dublin Review. He has written a voluminous and scholarly history of the Roman faith in England since the Reformation.

The Very Rev. Dr. John McIntyre, Bishop Auxiliary of the Birmingham Diocese, and for many years one of the chief professors of theology at Oscott College, the leading Roman seminary for the secular clergy. He is the author of a "Commentary on the Gospel of St. John," and although somewhat frail in physique, is an eloquent preacher. It is said that among many of the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the Midlands it was he who made most impression on Dr. Gore when the latter held the See of Birmingham before his transfer to Oxford.

It is proposed to issue the work continuously in separate books of the same handy size, varying in the number of pages and price, but so arranged as to be capable of being ultimately bound—in the case of the New Testament, with which the enterprise will begin—in four volumes. The Old Testament will be undertaken later. The Epistles of St. Paul will be issued first, "because by universal consent they stand most in need of being translated afresh." July 4 has been fixed for the publication of the first part—"The First and Second Epistles to the Thessalonians," newly translated from the original text, with introduction, critical and explanatory notes, appendices and map, by the general editor of the series—Paul Mall Gazette.

BURNED HISTORIC LETTER
Incident Revealed for First Time in Which Kaiser Destroys Dangerous Missive.

An entirely unknown historical incident, illustrative of the Emperor's keen sense of responsibility as a constitutional monarch, was revealed by Dr. Hintze in his lecture at the Berlin University recently in connection with the Kaiser's jubilee, says the London Chronicle.

On the day of the Emperor's accession he found on his desk a package left by his father, with the order that it was to be given to his son after his death. It contained a letter written by the Emperor's great-uncle, Frederick William IV., the first constitutional ruler of Prussia, which the monarch had ordered to be handed to each of his successors immediately on his accession, until one of them should give effect to the appeal contained in the letter.

This was that the new occupant of the Throne should overthrow the constitution before taking the accession oath. The Emperor's grandfather and father had received and disregarded the letter. The present Emperor went farther, as he told Dr. Hintze in relating the story some years ago. He weighed the possibility that some young and inexperienced monarch might one day receive the letter on whom it would exercise a fatal influence. "I felt," said His Majesty, "as if I had a powder barrel in the house and could not rest till the letter was destroyed." It was accordingly burnt by the Emperor's order.

WHEN THE DUKE SHOT WIDE.

Some good stories of the "Iron Duke" are told in the second volume, published recently, of "The Diary of Frances, Lady Shelley," edited by her grandson, Mr. Richard Edgcumbe. Here is one, the incident occurring when the Duke came to Maresfield, the country house of the Shelleys. At noon, when the shooting party had gone off, I began to breathe more freely. But Wellington could not shoot.

The hero of Waterloo was a very wild shot. After wounding a retriever early in the day, and later on peppering the keeper's gutters, he inadvertently sprinkled the bare arms of an old woman who chanced to be washing clothes at her cottage window. I was attracted by her screams and the fearful ejaculations caused by pain and fear. I took in the situation at a glance, and went to the cottage door.

"I'm wounded, milady," she cried. "My good woman," said I, "this ought to be the proudest moment of your life. You have the distinction of being shot by the great Duke of Wellington."

"Oh! La!" exclaimed the old woman as she glanced towards the duke with eyes full of tears, not knowing whether to be proud or angry.

ADVENTURE IN FINLAND.

British Army Officer Arrested for Alleged Insult—Subsequent Apology.

The London Chronicle relates a peculiar adventure which happened to a British officer while travelling in Finland.

"Captain Francis Hamilton, a well-known Hull territorial just returned from Russia, tells a remarkable adventure which befel him while he was staying at the principal hotel in Helsingfors. He was in conversation with two Finnish gentlemen in the smoking-room, when a troop of Russian soldiers passed the window.

Five minutes later four police sergeants and an inspector entered and accused one of the party of having shown their contempt of Russian soldiers by having spat upon them from the hotel window. Despite their indignant denials, Captain Hamilton and the other two were arrested, and marched through the streets to the police station, where they were charged with the offence.

After being detained some time they were released. Thereupon the captain placed the facts before the British consul, who communicated with the governor-general. Mr. Mark Sykes, M. P., got the foreign office to intervene, and Capt. Hamilton has now obtained an ample apology from the Russian officials.

NEW MARINE STATION

Area on Old Songhees Reserve to Be Reserved for Dominion Government.

Notice is given in the current issue of the British Columbia Gazette that an area of approximately 2 1/2 acres of the old Songhees Reserve, situated at the easterly end and to the extreme right of the proposed Johnson Street extension, as well as the foreshore abutting thereon, is reserved and set apart for the establishment of a marine station by the marine and fisheries department of the government of Canada, such reserve and setting apart to terminate when the area in question ceases to be used for the purpose of the building.

It was announced some time ago that when the other more pressing matters affecting the city had received attention from the Dominion authorities a grant would be secured for a new marine and fisheries building. The present quarters, which were formerly the custom house, need to be replaced, and the date when that change must come cannot be indefinitely delayed. When the shipping of the port increases, as it must inevitably with the expansion of business, the demand for new offices will become imperative.

The location is on the inner harbor, close to the new bridge.

ARRANGING BIG CONVENTION.

Commission Appointed by Protestant Episcopal Church Preparing for World Conference.

Circulars have been issued by the secretary of the World Conference on Faith and Order in connection with the steps which are being taken by this organization for the reunion of Christians. The date of a proposed conference has not yet been set, and as the circular points out, may not be held for a number of years. Meantime, however, the leaders of the movement are busy sending out circulars and literature to all parts of the world, in order to arouse interest in all communities.

The commission which is arranging the preliminary details was appointed by the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States in October, 1910, with the idea of bringing about a conference for the consideration of questions as to the faith and order of the Christian church, and ultimately, Christian Unity. Christian communions throughout the world are being asked to join, and already nearly twenty-five ministers and laymen in this province have been enrolled on the list of those who are using their efforts to interest others in the objects of the organization. The list includes members of the Church of England, Lutherans, and Roman Catholics, and the chairman of the Conference, the Rev. W. T. Manning, D. D., Rector of Trinity church, New York, urges members to hold local conferences in connection with the objects of the main organization. Full particulars of the work and circular literature may be obtained from the secretary, Robert H. Gardner, Gardner, Maine, U. S. A.

WANT WHARF IMMEDIATELY.

Residents of Gulf Islands Agitating for Ferry Connection With Deep Bay.

A strong agitation is going on among the people residing in the Gulf Islands and at the end of the Saanich peninsula for an early beginning of the erection of a wharf at Deep Bay by the Dominion government. The wharf is desired to serve as a landing place in connection with the ferry service recently established between that point and the Saanich interurban line of the British Columbia Electric Railway.

It is hoped by the people of the islands that the ferry service terminating at the new wharf and the electric line will afford them a much more easy method of transporting their produce to the Victoria market. Provision has been made in the estimates for the construction of the wharf, and the district engineer has already got the matter of immediate construction under his personal care.

The hope of all the residents concerned is to have the wharf erected as soon as possible, for the present means of communication with town are not commensurate with the ever-increasing amount of traffic between the islands and Victoria. The matter also affects Victorians in that a quicker service will entail largely increased business from a nearby point.

LEAVES FOR NANAIMO.

Minister of Labor Intends to Investigate Labor Conditions at Mines.

To-day Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, leaves for Nanaimo to make his investigations into the strike conditions there; from there he will pass on to Ladysmith and Cumberland, making short stays at each place. He leaves to-day in company with S. Price, Dominion labor commissioner. Yesterday the minister was entertained to luncheon by Sir Richard McBride, several of the provincial ministers being present at an informal function.

There is no word in the Chinese language that conveys an intimation of what we term public spirit, nor is there a synonym for patriotism.

The Whole City Aroused People Held Spellbound

The International Salvage Company's GREAT SELLING-OUT SALE is sweeping and shaking the city with an earthquake of bargains that is creating a regime of terror. Victoria has never seen the like of it before. Traffic was demoralized. Hundreds of women and children were among the eager crowds that packed the sidewalks, and fought and clamored for admittance long before the opening hour. Thousands of people were here and hundreds were turned away as the salespeople were unable to cope with the surging mass of humanity. It's a duty you owe yourself to investigate the economy a sale of this magnitude offers. Come to-morrow. Shop early (in the morning if possible). Sale starts at 9.30 a.m.

This picture only shows a part of the mammoth crowds that patiently braved the rain in order to participate in this monster sale.

BRITISH TRAITS IN KAISER'S CHARACTER

By G. H. Perris in the London Chronicle

I have never shared the idea that community of blood and character can be of itself a sufficient guarantee of friendship between individuals or nations. Kinship often covers acute antipathies, as well as acute divergencies of interest. Yet there must always be something repellent in an antipathy between blood relations. We ought to distinguish oftener between a man and his circumstances, between nations in themselves and their institutions and other kinds of outer clothing. The circumstances of German life, the institutions of the Empire, everything that has been imposed on the people by its peculiar geography and history differ enormously from the outer clothing of our own public life. In these differences there lie some occasion for prejudice and a much larger ground for profitable study. In the souls of the two peoples there is little or no difference, certainly no kind of acute opposition of experience or ideal.

And on this particular day when from the Baltic to the Alps and from Metz to Königsberg, drums are beating and flags are flying for the Kaiser's Jubilee, it is appropriate to point out that, in the strongest elements of his blood and character, in qualities both good and bad, but unmistakably marked, the most prominent of present-day Germans, the Emperor himself, is in simple fact, an Englishman.

"England's Daughter."

He has it in the first place, of course, from his English mother, and then from an undisguised admiration for certain sides of English life, which has more than once been the subject of criticism among his own people. To the present generation the Empress Frederick is no more than a name; the martyrdom of her husband, the tragic end of his 99 days' reign, the ultra-Toryism of the present Kaiser's youth, which made him a centre of intrigue—these facts are vaguely remembered, but little beyond them. Looking backward over half a century of German history some things begin to emerge from the dim perspective which could not be realized while men's attention was distracted by the young sovereign's encounters with Bismarck and the Socialists, his furious journeys, rash speeches, and sentimental sermons. Since the Emperor grew to full manhood it has become more plain how much he owes to the thwarted woman who, as a bright, sunny girl, was the darling of the Court of Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort, and was hailed by Richard Cobden as "England's daughter."

The whole story has a tang of magnificent irony. When the Princess Royal went into exile in Berlin, in 1858, she "must have felt," as Maximilian Harden has said, "like a harbingers of culture in a country of savages." She soon conceived great antipathies; her mother encouraged them, and for a time they were favored by the Liberal current in Germany. Then Bismarck, the scourge of Liberals, came on top. He at once recognized the Crown Princess as an enemy dangerous to all his plans, and for nearly 30 years he pursued her with the vicious hatred of which he was capable.

A Battle Royal.

Let us try to do them both justice in this long feud. Both of them represented a certain good and true thing; both of them ended in defeat and humiliation. Bismarck poisoned European statescraft, but he kicked the soft-natured Germans through a phase of jingoism into a kind of democratic hardihood they had never known before. He was in fact joint creator with the Marxists of the Socialist party, which is the strongest party in the Reichstag to-day. Like other tyrants he never could understand that it was his destiny to saw off the branch he was sitting on, and he died an embittered and neglected man, unable to comprehend the new power that had destroyed him. On her part the Empress Frederick had to learn amid the ruin of her hopes and plans, the lesson that every people must "dree its ain weird," must save itself by its own qualities, and that salvation cannot be imported, either in tabloids of the Victorian Liberalism or in any other form.

The battle royal between these two—with their respective fragments of truth which no one present was big enough to harmonise—had to be fought out. The "Englishwoman," as Bismarck scornfully called her—the foreign wife, with her English clothes and food, her English prejudices and ambitions—"Vicky" had to content her wild and active mind with works of charity, the encouragement of education and industrial art, and a salon influence. She had at length only one hope—her husband's crown. But the old Kaiser, William I., lived to be 90 years old, and the hand of death was on Frederick's shoulder when he reached the throne. Asked once why he did not defend the good name of the Princess Frederick, the Iron Chancellor replied, "I was sorry for the poor woman, but a gentleman who dabbles in politics herself forgets her rights as a 'gentlewoman.'"

Mother and Son.

Where should a widowed mother look for help? Perhaps environment tells most in youth, blood in middle age. At any rate, Prince William seemed to care much more in his youth for the Bismarcks and their partisans than for his own parents. Within an hour of his father's death on June 15, 1888, the Schloss Friedrichskron at Potsdam was surrounded by troops and everyone kept prisoner while the heir secured the dead sovereign's papers. A week later Prince Hohenlohe, a later Chancellor, called upon the Empress Frederick. "She could not speak at first," he tells us in his memoirs, "for crying." We spoke of the last days of the Emperor; then she roused herself, and spoke of the wickedness and meanness of men, hinting at certain personalities. . . . Herbert Bismarck had had the affrontery to say to the Prince of Wales (afterwards King Edward) that an Emperor who could not talk was not fit to reign. The Prince had said that, had he not valued the good relations between England and Germany, he would have thrown him out of the room."

An ominous beginning! But note the sequel. Bismarck, now 73 years old, was still full of fire and resource, unquestioned in prestige. The old King, whom he had made first Emperor of Germany, had never dared seriously to challenge his power. The second Kaiser had no time to do so, even if he had the will, which is doubtful. The third Kaiser was of different stuff. Before two years were over the invincible Chancellor, the hero of the three wars and a hundred crises, had been packed off to Varzin, the "Bismarck dynasty" and the Bismarck myth had been destroyed together.

The End of Bismarckism.

Of many dramatic incidents of this time I may mention two. Prince George of Wales (not King George) arrived in Berlin as the Kaiser was writing his famous "Full steam ahead!" message. In a speech welcoming him the Emperor mentioned, with satisfaction, his nomination as a British Admiral, recalled the comradeship in arms at Waterloo, and expressed the hope that the British fleet and the German army would always co-operate for the maintenance of peace. Meanwhile Bismarck had paid the necessary visit of farewell to the Empress Frederick. Perhaps in this moment of common failure these worthy foes came near to understanding each other. Moved generously, she asked if she could not do something for him. I imagine the tall figure stiffening, as with the fatal pride that will break but never bend, he replied, "I ask only for your sympathy."

Twenty years and more have passed. Old conditions have passed with them. Germany stands by right of numbers, of material and moral progress, as well as of armed power, in the forefront of the nations. She has asserted herself roughly at times; it is, unfortunately, by no means certain that France, England and Russia would have admitted her to equality if she had not done so. I am very far from desiring to justify these men or these events. History invites neither our praise nor our blame, equally petty, but only our understanding. That the Germans had to be kicked into self-respect, and have still to be kicked into self-government; that England had to be compelled to recognize Germany's equal place and rights in the world—these are the two major facts in the recent history of the two peoples. Such lessons are not learned without some bad temper; and the war-traders in both countries take full advantage of the situation. The temper is passing, now; both peoples are beginning to find out that the circle of armaments is, in the admirable metaphor of Sir Edward Grey, a prison "whose door is locked on the inside."

The Family Likeness.

The time has not come to sum up on the Kaiser's part in this development. But we are very blind if we do not see a family likeness in some of his most prominent traits, good and less good. He has his mother's versatility, energy, and ambition for a popular sovereignty—qualities little evident hitherto in the House of Hohenzollern. In his impetuosity, the personal charm with which he is credited, the bold, florid rhetoric in which he freely indulged until he was pulled up after the Telegraph interview and the Tweedmouth letter, he is far removed from the only dangerous German type, that of Bismarck. He talks of his army and navy very much as our generals and admirals talk of theirs. Things of the sea he first learned to love on English soil and in English company. The taste has cost us dear, but we need not misrepresent it.

He has never seen a battlefield, and I do not doubt the sincerity of his desire never to see one. He is too frank to be a conspirator, and a certain sourness that marked his youth has completely disappeared, leaving the appearance of an abounding and generous nature. There are contradictions in it—how could it be otherwise with such an ancestry? But there is also a certain pliancy which has enabled him to grow nearly as rapidly as his people. He is no mere figurehead, no guinea-pig director; he has the virtue of laying his job—a virtue none the less because the job is an impossible one, and the still greater virtue of recognizing that, when the last word is said, the supreme fact, the supreme mystery, is just manhood itself. I cannot do better than close by quoting a few words that he uttered in one of his addresses on practical religion (at Münster, on September 2, 1908):

"During my long reign—it is 20 years since I came to power—I have found myself in touch with many people; I have had to bear much, unconsciously, often, indeed, intentionally, they have made me suffer. And when, in such moments, anger threatened to carry me away, and the idea of reprisals rose in me, I asked myself what was the best way of dispelling anger, and strengthening kindness. The only one I have found consisted in saying to myself: 'They are all men like yourself, and while they have done you wrong, they have each a soul that comes from the serene regions above, and in their soul they have in them a portion of their Creator.'"

Lighthouses and lightships dot the coast of Great Britain at the average rate of one every fourteen miles.

THE RECLUSE.

Miss Mary Jane Smith, who in theatrical circles was known as Mademoiselle Franzuff, and whom the billboards and her advance-agent spoke of as "the world's leading emotional actress," was reclining on a divan, perusing the literature of the day. In other words, dressed in a faded wrapper, she was lying (she seemed particularly gifted that way) on a broken-down couch, scanning the advertisements in a theatrical paper. Enter a maid known as Marian.

"What is it, Marian?"
"A gentleman to see you."
"A gentleman to see me?"
"Yes, a newspaper man for an interview."
"But, Marian, I cannot see him in this shape." (Yet it is such a simple matter for an actress to change her shape!) "Strange that when one becomes a public character one cannot have a few minutes' peace and quiet."

"Yes, miss."

"Marian," eagerly, "is he young and handsome?"

"No, miss. Rather oldish and stern-looking."

"Then," disdainfully, "tell him I am very busy and have nothing to say for publication. And, Marian,"—as she was leaving—"you might tell him that I have recovered the diamond-studded watch that was lost, and that the latest thing missing is a valuable necklace worth several thousand dollars. And, of course, he will want to know something of my private life, and you may tell him that I rise at eight." (Marian concluded that nothing mattered now—might just as well make it strong) "go automobiling until ten, have bath and lunch, then rehearsal in the afternoon, and dinner at five. Tell him that I am seeking up flying in a monoplane as a pastime."

"Oh, yes, Marian, you might say, also, that my engagement with Charlie Footlites has been declared off, and that it is rumoured that I may wed Count Cashnot in the near future. Give him three of my latest photos and my regrets that I cannot grant him an interview this morning because I am busy preparing for a new play in which I am to star next season. That's all."

As Marian withdrew she called:—
"Marian, dear!"
"Yes, ma'am."

"Is he very old do you think?"
"No, ma'am, not very."

"Well, perhaps you'd better invite him in, and I'll dress right away. It's so annoying to be bothered this way."

"Unter den Linden, the famous Berlin thoroughfare, is 215 feet wide; the Ringstrasse, in Vienna, is 188 feet; the Paris Grand Boulevard 122 feet; and the Andrássystrasse, in Budapest, 135 feet wide."

"JAPAN AMONG NATIONS"

Admiral Mahan's Letter to the London Times

A short time ago Admiral A. T. Mahan, the famous authority on naval matters, recently contributed a letter to the London Times on "Japan Among the Nations," which attracted considerable attention. Aside from the eminence of the writer the letter was of interest because of the clarity and moderation with which it explained the situation. Admiral Mahan's contribution, written at Quogue, New York, is as follows:

Sir.—The three weeks or more of time involved makes it a far cry to criticize from this side of the Atlantic an argument in an English daily, but the communication of Sir Valentine Chirol in your issue of May 19, "Japan Among the Nations," is of such importance to the American world—in Canada no less than in the United States—and also of such enduring interest to the whole community of European civilization, because affecting the political conditions of territories to which their emigrant population may wish to remove, that it seems expedient to attempt some comment, even though inevitably retarded.

The question discussed by Sir Valentine is based by him upon the "Alien Land Bill" recently passed by the California legislature. Upon that particular measure I have no comment to make; it is in fitter hands than mine. It is to the "ultimate issue involved," he writes, "is whether Japan, who has made good her title to be treated on a footing of complete equality as one of the great powers of the world, is not also entitled to rank among the civilized nations whose citizens the American republic is ready to welcome, subject to a few well-defined exceptions, within its fold whenever they are prepared to transfer their allegiance to it." In brief, this means, I apprehend, whether the attainment by Japan of the position of a great power entitles her to claim for her citizens free immigration into the territories of any other great power, with accompanying naturalization.

While Sir Valentine does not give a decisive reply to this question, the whole tone of his paper implies an affirmative. In my own appreciation there is no necessary connection between a nation's status as a great power and her right to receive for her people the privileges of immigration and naturalization in the territory of another state; and the reasoning adduced in support of the proposition seem to me defective, both in some of their assertions and still more in ignoring certain conspicuous facts.

Primary among these facts is that of the popular will, upon which, in the fundamental conceptions of both British and American government, the policy of a nation must rest. Be the causes what they may—economic, industrial, social, racial, or all four; and if there be any other motives—the will of the people is the law of the government. So far as that has been expressed in America and in Canada, it is distinctly contrary to the concession of such immigration. With the question of immigration that of naturalization is inextricably involved. There cannot be naturalization without immigration; while immigration without concession of naturalization, though conceivable and possibly, is contrary to the genius of American institutions, which, as a general proposition, do not favor inhabitation without right to citizenship.

Another fact, assumption is that changes of governmental methods change also natural characteristics, to such an extent as to affect radically those qualities which make for beneficial citizenship in a foreign country. Stated concretely, this means that the adoption of Western methods by Japan has in two generations so changed the Japanese racial characteristics, as to make them readily assimilable with Europeans, so as to be easily absorbed. This the Japanese in their just pride of race would be the first to deny. It ignores also the whole background of European history, and the fact that European civilization (which includes America) grew up for untold centuries under influences of which Eastern Asia—including therein Japan—experienced nothing. The "Foundations of the Twentieth Century" are not only a succession of facts, or combination of factors. They are to be found chiefly in the moulding of character, national and individual, through sixty-odd generations.

It is I conceive, this deep impress of prolonged common experience which constitutes the possibility of assimilation, even among the unhappy, poverty-stricken mass often coming to us, which Sir Valentine stigmatizes as "ignorant and squalid." Undoubtedly they constitute a problem, but one with which the immense assimilative force of English institutions, especially when Americanized, has been able so far to deal successfully, and I believe will continue able. But there are those who greatly doubt whether, in view of the very different foundations of the Japanese 20th century, and of the recognized strength and tenacity of character of the Japanese people emphasized by strong racial marks, they could be so assimilated. We who so think—I am one—cordially recognize the great progress of Japan and admire her achievements of the past half-century; both civil and military; but we do not perceive in them the promise of ready adaptability to the spirit of our own institutions which would render naturalization expedient; and immigration, as I have said, with us implies naturalization. Whatever our doubts as to the effect upon national welfare of the presence of an unassimilable multitude of naturalized aliens, the presence of a like number of un-naturalized foreigners of the same type would be even worse.

The question is fundamentally that of assimilation, though it is idle to ignore that clear superficial evidence of difference, which inevitably sauteent aux yeux, due to marked racial types, do exasperate the difficulty. Personally, I entirely reject any assumption or belief that any race is superior to the Chinese, or to the Japanese. My own suits me better, probably because I am used to it; but I wholly disclaim, as unworthy of myself and of them, any thought of superiority. But with equal clearness I see and avow the difficulties of assimilation due to the formative influences of divergent pasts and races. What the racial difficulty entails, even where the past has been one of close contact and common experiences, let the present Austrian Empire testify; and Britons, too, may look to the French in Canada and to the Boers in South Africa, though these latter are of the same general Teuton stock.

Let me say here that Sir Valentine is mistaken in the statement that the United States "with living memory waged the greatest civil war of modern times in order to establish the claim of American negroes to equal rights of citizenship with the white population." With the statement falls necessarily his inference from it, that "a color bar cannot be logically pleaded as prohibitive." The United States did not wage the War of Secession even for the abolition of slavery; still less for equal rights of citizenship. Goldwin Smith, as a contemporary, held against us that the war, not being for abolition, was one of conquest. Lincoln said distinctly: "I will restore the Union with slavery or without slavery, as best can be."

Myself a contemporary and partaker, I can affirm this as a general truth, though there was a strong minority of abolition sentiment. The abolition proclamation came eighteen months after the war began, and purely as a measure of policy. The full rights of citizenship came after the war ended, as a partly political measure, though doubtless with this mingled much purely humanitarian feeling. Concerning this legislation, very acute American thinker, himself in the war, said to me within the past two years, "The great mistake of the men of that day was the unconscious assumption that the negro was a white man with the accidege of a black skin." That is, the question was not one of color, but of assimilation as involved in race character. Now, while recognizing what I clearly see to be the great superiority of the Japanese, as of the white over the negro, it appears to me reasonable that a great number of my fellow-citizens, knowing the problem we have in the colored race among us, should dread the introduction of what they believe will constitute another race problem, and one much more difficult, because the virile qualities of the Japanese will still more successfully withstand assimilation, constituting a homogeneous foreign mass, naturally acting together irrespective of the national welfare, and so will be a perennial cause of friction with Japan, even more dangerous than at present.

Sir Valentine poses the question, "Must the bar of race be permanent? Is her Asiatic descent permanently to disqualify Japan for the enjoyment of the full rights freely accorded to one another by the great nations, into whose comity she has already gained entrance on a footing of complete political equality?" The reply to this is that "permanent" is word so foreign to diplomatic experience that it means nothing. No statesman can look so very far ahead as "permanent" stretches. Each generation must settle its own problem, day by day, step by step.

As a conclusion to so much dissent, may I express my full accordance with the admiration which the long experience of Sir Valentine Chirol has brought him to feel for Japan? I myself in early life was in Japan for more than a year at the time of the revolution which immediately preceded the era of the Meiji. I saw much, though superficially, of the old Japan then on the point of passing away. I had experience of the charming gentility and courtesy of her people, which has endeared them to my recollection, and has been confirmed over and over again by the social occasions in which I have met repeatedly their military officers, diplomats, or private gentlemen. In the forty years that have elapsed I have followed their progress with sympathy and gladness, and with all admiration; which has been shared, I believe, by men of science and of politics in all nations, but which in men of the military professions must be peculiarly keen. Should these words fall under the eyes of any Japanese, I trust he will accept these sincere assurances, and will himself sympathize, as far as may be, with the difficulties of the United States in the particular instance. It is not a color question, though that may emphasize the difficulty. It is the recurrent problem which confronts Germany in Poland, Austria in her Slav provinces, Canada in her French population, South Africa in the Boers. Despite gigantic success up to the present in assimilative processes—due to English institutions inherited and Americanized, and to the prevalence among the children of our community of the common English tongue over all other idioms—America doubts her power to digest and assimilate the strong national and racial characteristics which distinguish the Japanese, which are the secret of much of their success, and which, if I am not mistaken, would constitute them continually a solid homogeneous body, essentially and unchangingly foreign.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

"Save your pennies," was the formula for success given by John D. Rockefeller, of magnitude, who passed his seventy-fourth birthday this week.

"Advertise," is the advice given to ambitious young business men by John Wanamaker, merchant prince, who celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday to-day.

Caveat emptor—let the buyer be careful—was the mercantile motto when John Wanamaker opened his first little store over half a century ago. He was the pioneer in the new morality that now characterizes retail merchandising the world over. He fathered the one-price system and the square deal. And he let the public know all about the new methods by a liberal use of newspaper space.

To-day the Wanamaker stores in Philadelphia and New York are among the greatest in the world—and still among the most liberal users of printer's ink, the principal ingredient in the Wanamaker recipe for success.

Mr. Wanamaker was born in Philadelphia, July 11, 1839. He was descended on his father's side from Germans who fled the Fatherland to escape religious persecution, and on his mother's side from Huguenots who left France for the same reason. His father was a brickmaker, and young John worked in the brickyard when not attending school.

At fourteen the future multi-millionaire merchant left school to become errand boy in a bookstore. His income was increased by bottling and selling cologne. He was a clothing salesman and Y. M. C. A. secretary in Philadelphia, and also made a trip to Indiana and through the south, before he started business for himself in his native city.

Mr. Wanamaker was twenty-three when he founded the clothing house of Wanamaker & Brown. It was then that he established the one-price system and the money-back-if-not-satisfied policy, things unheard of in the clothing business. His rivals, shedding crocodile tears, predicted speedy failure.

The new concern speedily gained an international reputation for its liberal advertising on a scale which few stores had equaled at that time. From the first, every statement made in the advertising was strictly true, and the public soon discovered that fact, and handsomely rewarded the young merchant who had capitalized the old proverb, "Honesty is the best policy."

The Philadelphia department store was started in 1876, and twenty years later Mr. Wanamaker invaded New York, succeeding A. T. Stewart, and vastly enlarging the business.

As postmaster-general in the cabinet of President Harrison, Mr. Wanamaker advocated the establishment of a parcel post, and urged the government ownership of all telegraph lines and their operation, as a part of the postal system.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Some of the leading men of Canada were the guests of Detroit forty-eight years ago to-day, when an international reciprocity convention was opened in the Michigan city. The purpose of the gathering was to plead for the continuation of the reciprocity treaty between Canada and the States, which had been negotiated by Lord Elgin in 1854, and which provided for a free exchange of the products of the farm, the forest, the sea, and the mine. The proposal of the United States to abrogate the treaty and re-establish a tariff wall along the border was due more to anti-British feeling growing out of the Trent affair than to any dissatisfaction with reciprocity. At the Detroit convention the commercial interests of many cities of the United States were represented, and joined with the Canadians in the resolutions asking for fresh negotiations and the renewal of the treaty. The British provinces were fearful of the result of a sudden stoppage of the close trade and transportation relations that had grown up during the dozen years of reciprocity, and there was much talk of business ruin, financial panic, and other dire possibilities. Joseph Howe made the most eloquent speech of his career at Detroit, and he was ably seconded by Sir Hugh Allan, Adam Brown, William McMaster, Isaac Buchanan, Charles Fisher, and other eminent Canadians. Afterward John A. Macdonald, George Brown, A. T. Galt and George E. Cartier went to London to appeal to the British government to avert the "great calamity." In 1858 delegates from Canada and the Maritime Provinces visited Washington for a final effort toward negotiating a renewal, but it was useless. The ministry headed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier was sworn into office on this date in 1896.

In 1764, upon this date was passed an Imperial order-in-council "approving of the recommendation of the Lords of Trade that should the Acadians take the oath of allegiance they should be allowed to settle in Nova Scotia," but they were to be "dispersed in small numbers, and to be placed in districts where they could not readily communicate with the inhabitants of the Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon." It was now nine years since the deportation of the hapless peasants from the neighborhood of Grande Pre—the little village which Longfellow has made famous—and some had contrived to return to their native land. But though in the meantime Louisiana and Quebec had fallen, and all Canada had been ceded to Great Britain, the British authorities still feared that the Acadians might cause trouble. Unquestionably they were still restless; and, only a month later, "several families of Acadians (about one hundred and fifty persons) residing about Canso, on being refused leave to go to the Island of St. Peter, had immediately departed for it." Many of them also signed a petition declaring that they acknowledged no sovereignty but the King of France, and asking to be sent to French dominions.

SCRAP BOOK

Semi-Centenary of New York's "Draft Riots."

Half a century ago Lee and his army, defeated on Gettysburg's bloody field, were retreating, and Vicksburg, with 37,000 prisoners, was in the possession of General Grant. These victories naturally caused great jubilation in the North, yet there were many to whom the news brought sorrow rather than joy. These northern foes of the union were enrolled in a secret society of "southern sympathizers" called the Knights of the Golden Circle, which had local branches or "castles" in both east and west, as well as in the south.

Just fifty years ago to-day, July 11, 1863, the western "knights" held a meeting in Springfield, Ill., when it was resolved to make the drafting of the United States between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, as provided in the Enrollment Act, the occasion of revolution. In the West the "knights" decided to aid Morgan, the Confederate officer who was then raiding Indiana and Ohio. It was supposed that the "knights" and the peace faction would join Morgan by thousands, but in this they were mistaken. Morgan was captured and confined in the Ohio penitentiary, from which he made a sensational escape, only to be recaptured the following year and shot.

In New York the propaganda of the Knights of the Golden Circle resulted in the draft riots. The provost-marshal of New York was instructed by the President to begin the drafting of men on July 11, 1863. The streets of the metropolis swarmed with police, as serious trouble was expected, but the eleventh passed quietly, without any serious disturbances. The newspapers of the following morning published the names of the conscripts. Among them were many poor men, the sole supports of large families, and such men quite naturally lent a sympathetic ear to the appeals of the "knights," of whom there were said to be 50,000 in New York. The first conscription took place on Saturday and the workingmen had Sunday to think it over to listen to the anti-union agitators. On Monday various processions of laboring men and "knights" marched to the place of conscription. The place was attacked and fired and the flames wiped out the entire block.

There were no troops at hand and the city was in the power of the mob. The incendiaries, now increased tenfold, began plundering and slaying. Private residences were looted, citizens were maltreated and some tortured to death. New York was in the throes of a reign of terror. Fifty marines bravely charged the mob, but were overpowered by the force of numbers and became the objects of the cruel sport of the rioters. The police were dealt with in the same way.

"Down with the niggers" was heard all over the city and the colored people were marked out for especially brutal treatment. Black women were stripped of their clothes and subjected to the grossest treatment. The Colored Orphan Asylum was burned and the children turned into the streets. "To hell with the Union!" and "Hurrah for Jeff Davis and Lee!" were other battle cries of the rioters.

Millitia from Pennsylvania were hastened to the city and aided the police in restoring order. During the three days of the terrible orgy nearly a thousand people were killed or wounded and property worth $2,000,000 destroyed. In the following month the draft was resumed and completed without further trouble.

Something for Nothing.—The difference between the regular and the July Stock Adjustment Sale prices of "Fiji Reform Clothes," cor. Yates and Broad.

Hitch took eleven wickets for 18 runs in the Surrey-Exeter match. This is indeed a Hitch-y coup.

FIRST THINGS

The first announcement of his discovery of glycerine was made by Karl Wilhelm Scheele, a Swedish chemist, 137 years ago to-day. The inventor described the substance as "the sweet principle of fats," and named it oleum. Later investigations by Chevreul, Berthelot and many other chemists, resulted in the perfecting of the glycerine which is now so largely used in manufactures, medicine and the arts. Scheele made many other important discoveries, including tartaric acid, chlorine and baryta. He discovered arsenicduretted hydrogen and the green color still known as "Scheele's green." Other researches were concerned with an animal concretion from which he got for the first time uric acid. He discovered a new method of making salicine, which was the most valued medicine of the physicians of his time. He discovered that the acidity of sour milk was due to lactic acid. Another of his discoveries was the composition of tungsten, since called scheelite. Prussic acid was another of his discoveries, and at first he was utterly unaware of its deadly poisonous character. Citric, malic, oxalic and gallic acids were also first described by this remarkable chemist.

To a man who was found drunk while in charge of a donkey and brank the West Ham magistrate said: "You are not justified in relying on the superior intelligence of a donkey."

"She called me a thief and a robber, and I want her to prove it," said an applicant at Tottenham. The Magistrate—"I'm sure you don't."

C. S. MACDONALD IS UNDER ARREST

Tells of Tragedy on Oak Bay Avenue When Thomas G. Procter Loses Life

CONFRONTED WITH PROOF HE MAKES CONFESSION

Chief Handley Quickly Unravels the Mystery of the Death of Mining Man

By the confession of Clifford Seymour MacDonald that it was his motor car that struck Thomas G. Procter, the mystery of the killing of that well known mining man was solved last evening after Chief Handley, of the Oak Bay force, and Detective F. R. Murray, of the city force, had spent the day upon it.

The difficulties of the case were rather involved during the earlier part of the day inasmuch as two friends who had dined with Mr. Procter at the Empress hotel earlier in the evening had themselves been injured while on their way home, and it looked as if the coincidence, as it turned out to be, was more than that. When the officers had demonstrated to their complete satisfaction that there was no connection between the two cases they were able to devote their attention to other clues.

It was not known to Chief Handley until late in the afternoon that Mr. MacDonald, who had reported that he had found Mr. Procter lying on the track, was himself the owner of a car, and that he had been in it the night before. When the scene was visited, although Mr. MacDonald was still there, it was noticed in the darkness that there was a car standing some distance away.

Clues as to damaged cars had been followed up by the chief and as soon as he learned of the MacDonald car he renewed his efforts along this line with the result that he found that the car had been placed in the garage of the Vancouver Island Motor Company on View street early that morning for repair, with a lamp glass broken and the guard bent. At eight o'clock last night he went to Mr. MacDonald's office, 1988 Oak Bay avenue, and casually asked him if he had any accidents to his motor lately. The reply was that he had had a couple a while ago, but he added that the night before, in some mysterious way, he had had a lamp glass broken and this he had repaired in a garage.

Chief Handley at once gave him the usual caution and told him he was under arrest on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mr. Procter. MacDonald broke down at that and told the chief everything he knew about the accident. He said that he had driven his sister to their home on Wilmut avenue, and had then started for his office, turning without a moment's delay towards the office, which is a little west of Poul Bay road. As he turned out of Wilmut avenue, he says, a car from town passed him on the way to the terminus of the line.

He asserts that he was going at a moderate speed. As he approached the Mitchell street he saw a dark form loom up suddenly in front of the car, and the form collided with the front on the left and side. He at once put on the emergency brakes and ran a little distance along Oak Bay avenue, getting out and running back to the fallen man, who was lying on the tracks. At first he did not know what to do as the man was too heavy for him to lift alone, but just then a returning car came in sight and this he stopped. While the car was coming on he rapidly thought up the story that he had found the body there when passing along the street, and this he told the car crew. With their assistance he got Mr. Procter to his office to call the police. He went back to the spot and gave his name and address when asked for it as a witness. As soon as he could slip away he went back to his car and brought it into the city, leaving it at the garage to have the repairs made. From there he walked home.

As to why he had stopped his thorough examination of the man whose death he had caused without telling the chief or anyone else that he had been to blame, MacDonald could only explain that he was so excited and alarmed at the result of the accident, and that he did not say anything at the time, and then having failed to give himself up at the moment, he was afraid to give himself into custody later. MacDonald was taken by the chief to the police station, and there he remained until later in the evening. He is now on bail in two sureties of $5,000 each, his father, Alexander MacDonald, and N. T. Burdick, going on his bonds. He will appear before Magistrate Jay in the Oak Bay police court at 4 o'clock this afternoon for preliminary hearing. At the request of Chief Handley for assistance on the case from the city end, Detective Murray was detailed to assist him, and the latter traced Mr. Procter's movements during the evening very thoroughly. There is no doubt as to the fact that Mr. Procter went home alone and by street car, as Conductor W. T. Bradley remembered stopping the car for him at Mitchell street. Mr. Procter boarded the car at 11:40 on Wednesday night and would have got off about midnight.

Macdonald is an electrician and a member of the firm of Macdonald Electric Company. He is 34 years of age and unmarried, living with his parents at the home on Wilmut avenue. Pending the conclusion of the inquest, which is in progress this afternoon, no arrangements have been

EDWARD GLEASON IS ACQUITTED BY COURT

No Grounds for the Charge That Goods Claimed by Mrs. Foote Were Stolen

Edward R. Gleason, the popular grandman of the Victoria Baseball Club, was this morning acquitted of all blame in the case brought against him on the complaint of Mrs. Barrington Foote that he had stolen certain rolls of stuff and rugs which were used in the recent Oriental pageant held at the Royal Athletic Park.

From a financial point of view the "Elle Marriage of the East" was not a success, and the evidence of the witnesses for the defence to-day showed that there were several people, after the performance came to an end half way through the week, who were looking for remuneration for their services. Mr. Gleason was given some of the material which had been used in the decoration of the grounds, and a rug which was claimed by Mrs. Foote he had picked up on the stage some days later, and it was lying around the premises unclaimed when the detectives searched the place.

Mrs. Blanche E. Foote, who described herself as in the theatrical business and living in Seattle for the past year or so, when she had given a performance at the Royal Athletic Park last month. She identified the remnants, bolts of goods and rugs as being either her property or loaned for the performance. On Wednesday she missed three rugs and a brass vase which had been placed in a small office on the grounds. Mr. Gleason, on being spoken to, said he had not seen them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Austin, Mrs. Foote said the bills had all been either paid or guaranteed. Detective Carlow spoke of himself and Detective Murray finding the goods in Mr. Gleason's residence on the grounds, lying loosely in the same shape in which they appeared in court. More of it was in the ticket office.

Mr. Gleason stated that the canvas and bunting had been given him by Mr. Howe, Mrs. Foote's manager, and the remnants were attached to the scenery. Howe told him he could have these for the wrecking. The rug he found under the platform on Friday when this was being wrecked by the carpenters and he took it over to his house. Mrs. Gleason would not allow it to be brought into the house and it was hung on the line until he left for Seattle, when he put it in the house for safekeeping. As soon as he got a telegram stating that his house had been searched he endeavored to get in touch with the detectives, and on coming over from Seattle he went to the office and was arrested.

The first night, he said, he got $3 from H. E. Bishop and paid three men $2 each. The next night he got $4 and paid another man $2. He was to have been paid $2 a night but that was all the money he got. The show people took all the money taken in on the last night, as the dancer had struck and threatened not to go on unless she was paid, and left the grounds at two o'clock Thursday morning.

Frank Redgrave, electrician, said that after the last performance, that of Wednesday night, he put a rug off the stage under the platform, in case he did not get paid, to hold it against his wages. City Prosecutor Harrison announced that he would lay a charge of theft against the lad.

"The boy was acting under a mistaken idea that he was securing his own claim in this way," remarked his worship. "He cannot be considered a thief." Mr. Harrison maintained that the act came within the law, and that it was his burden duty to have a charge laid when a witness admitted an offence.

Alfred Ward, sign-painter, told of hearing Howe tell Gleason that he could have the stuff. On the Sunday, while the Gleason brothers and others were having a bath Redgrave spoke of putting a rug under the stage. Ward said he had not yet been paid for the work he did.

"I have walked around the street enough after that money to have earned it over again," said Ward. Ralph Lee is another of the hands who has not been paid, and he told of seeing Howe and Gleason together taking down the bunting. Mrs. Foote made a further statement that when they were setting the goods off the stage that last night some of the men spoke of not getting their money and she told them that they would all get paid. Mr. Gleason told her at the time that some of the men were grabbing things and she had better get them off, which she proceeded to do.

Magistrate Jay, after listening to counsel, said there was no evidence at all to justify him in holding that the charge was proven. Here was a company undertaking to give a performance which was not a financial success. Everyone on the last night, was looking for his money and was excited, one of the principal performers threatening to leave the stage if she did not get paid before she went on with her dance. There was no reason to doubt that young Redgrave had placed a rug under the stage as he said, in some idea that it would secure the payment of his claim, or that it was found there by Mr. Gleason. The goods were not concealed and the rug had been hanging out in the open for some days. The case must be dismissed.

After he got outside "Eddie" was surrounded by his friends and warmly congratulated on his vindication. A bad boy, however, John Ritchie, was charged with stealing two rugs and a pillow belonging to Mrs. Foote. These were in a tightly-closed box in the shed on his mother's property and he took them down to a launch he and others had in the harbor. The lad pleaded guilty and was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Secretary Bryan will leave here July 15 for a six-week lecture tour, principally in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. In his absence John Bassett Moore, counselor of the department, will be acting secretary of state. Mr. Bryan expects to return about September 15.

One of the letters received by the Kingston police court missionary the other day from one of his probationers was addressed: "Police Court Missionary, Kingston Asses Court." The word "asses" was an heroic attempt to spell "assist."

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF NANAIMO IS DEAD

Mrs. Emily Bramley Dies Suddenly While Spending Afternoon With Friends.

Nanaimo, July 11.—Mrs. Emily Bramley, of Fry street, an old resident of Nanaimo and a woman very widely respected throughout the city, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon, dropping dead at the home of Robert Foggan, Gabriola Island, where she had gone with a number of friends to spend the afternoon. The body was brought into the city and is now lying at the Jenkins undertaking parlors. Dr. Ingham last night determined that heart disease was the cause of death.

Mrs. Bramley had just assisted in getting supper ready for the picnic party and was busily engaged in pouring tea when she fell backwards and almost immediately expired. Friends of Mrs. Bramley say she really died of a broken heart.

The deceased was a native of Rothwell, Yorkshire, Eng., and came to Nanaimo twenty-nine years ago next month. She was the widow of Jonathan Bramley, who was killed in the explosion in the Nanaimo mines some twenty-six years ago. A daughter, Mrs. Claire Gerrard, died about two months ago and the mother, who was deeply attached to her, told her daughter on the day of her death that she would not be long in following her. Friends of Mrs. Bramley say she really died of a broken heart.

The deceased is survived by one son, Joseph, of Vancouver.

TWO LOST IN VIOLENT STORM ON MOUNTAIN

Forty Persons Searching for Several Days Without Obtaining Slightest Trace.

Portland, Ore., July 11.—Forty men have been searching the slopes of Mount St. Helens, in Southern Washington, for several days for the bodies of C. B. Smith and wife, of Portland, who were lost in a violent storm on the snowpeak last Sunday while ascending the mountain with R. S. Carroll and Miss Bertie Monroe, also of Portland. The couple became separated from their companions, and have not since been seen.

When Carroll and Miss Monroe found their companions had disappeared they returned to the foot of the mountain and gave the alarm, Carroll heading a "searching party." No trace of the lost couple being found, more searchers were secured, and loggers and mountaineers numbering 40 have been sent up the slopes of the peak in the hope of finding the bodies.

It is feared that the couple perished long before this as they were not supplied with sufficient equipment, and provisions to hold out more than 24 hours.

BRYAN TO LECTURE. Washington, D. C., July 11.—Secretary Bryan will leave here July 15 for a six-week lecture tour, principally in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. In his absence John Bassett Moore, counselor of the department, will be acting secretary of state. Mr. Bryan expects to return about September 15.

WELL-KNOWN COUPLE MARRIED AT NANAIMO

Mr. Robert Smith and Miss Katherine Johnston Principals in Charming Ceremony

Yesterday afternoon at Nanaimo Rev. A. K. MacLennan united in wedlock Mr. Robert Smith, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, of Vancouver, and Miss Katherine Winifred, daughter of the late A. R. Johnston, for many years a prominent merchant of the island city, and Mrs. Johnston. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's mother in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The interior of the house and was prettily decorated for the happy occasion, ivy, smilax, lilies and roses predominating, and the young couple stood beneath a beautiful floral bell while the ceremony was being performed.

The bride, who was given away by her mother, was beautifully gowned in ivory duchesse satin trimmed with heavy Carrichmacross lace on bodice and skirt and train of silver brocaded cloth, with spray of white heather and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids, Miss Charlotte Spencer, of Victoria, and Miss Emma Johnston, were charmingly attired in pink silk brocaded crepe de chene with shadow lace on bodice and skirt and chic short coats of the same material. Picture hats with plumes completed two beautiful toilettes. Mr. E. C. Nicholas, of Victoria, officiated as groomsmen, and Mr. R. P. Stockton, of Vancouver, and H. F. Johnston acted as ushers.

Following a reception and buffet luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Smith boarded the Princess Patricia for Vancouver en route to Yellowstone park, where they will spend their honeymoon, and upon their return will make their home in the Terminal City.

The popularity of the young couple was attested in a measure by the large number of beautiful gifts from friends in Nanaimo, Victoria and Vancouver and elsewhere. The bride is one of Nanaimo's favorite daughters, a charming social gift and an accomplished musician. The bridegroom is associated with a prominent Vancouver legal firm, having been called to the bar of the province last year. Many friends from Victoria and Vancouver attended the ceremony.

MEETINGS

Gordon Head Social.—Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid for the new Presbyterian church fund, a strawberry and ice cream social will be held next Wednesday at the Gordon Head hall. A good programme of city talent is being prepared.

To Elect Officers.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will hold its monthly meeting next Monday at 8 p. m. in the A. O. F. hall. Nomination and election of officers will take place, after which there will be a social evening.

Victoria Club Reception.—The Victoria Club will hold a reception on Monday evening in the new headquarters of the club, sixth floor, Campbell building. This will be the first event of the kind to take place in the new premises, and members of each of whom will be allowed to bring two friends, will have an excellent opportunity of seeing over the club rooms which opened about a fortnight ago.

Religious Lecture.—Dr. C. E. Heard, a former Victorian, is to lecture at the Alexandra Club on Saturday at 8 p. m. He is touring Canada and the United States delivering free lectures in the large cities. He is said to be a deep student of the Bible.

British Campaigners.—The British Campaigners' Association will hold its next meeting at the Foresters' hall, on Thursday. An interesting programme has been arranged.

Christian Endeavor Excursion.—The Victoria Christian Endeavor unions are to hold a moonlight excursion on Friday evening, July 13.

To Open New Club.—Mrs. Paterson, honorary president of the Victoria Club, which has just recently removed to new premises in the Campbell building, will be present at the reception to be held there next Monday evening, and Sir Richard McBride, who will be accompanied by Lady McBride, has consented to perform the opening ceremony. Members and their friends are invited to attend. During the evening a programme of music will be given.

OBITUARY RECORD

The funeral of the late Mrs. Florence Caroline Graham took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from the family residence, 101 Oswego street, service being conducted by Mr. A. J. Watkinson. There was a large attendance of the deceased's friends, and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The following acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. O. Lowmy, W. Y. McCarter, F. Marvin, D. J. Miller, E. A. Graham and A. P. Blyth.

The funeral of the late Thomas G. Procter, who met death by accident the night before last, will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence, 288 Douglas street. The services will be under Masonic auspices.

Lay Concrete Floor.—A start was made today on laying a concrete floor for the No. 1 fire hall, a contract which Lumley Brothers will carry out. The work has been required for some time.

WILL NEED STEEL FOR PIPE TRESTLES

City Asks Tenders for Further Supplies for Waterworks; Time Extended for Pipe

In addition to the tenders for material which have been invited for Sooke Waterworks, tenders are now being asked for a supply of structural steel for some 49 trestles carrying the concrete pipe on the flow line between Sooke Lake and Humpback reservoir. These trestles are designed to meet the creek and ravine crossings, and will be either constructed by day labor or under a sub-contract. It is necessary to select some non-inflammable material in order that permanency may be secured. There are five siphons where the pipe will be under pressure and the Sooke river has to be crossed.

The date of the tender for the concrete pipe, which closed Tuesday, has also been extended and will expire on the same day as the rivetted steel line from Humpback to the city. This will give an extra two weeks to the contractors, numbers of whom intend to bid on the specification and will close all tenders on July 31. A special book of specifications has been prepared, with the usual schedules, based on the large volume which contained the original specifications upon which the bidding was made in December, 1911.

With regard to the telephone wire which is to be installed along the right of way, the intention of the engineers is to make it of a permanent character, so that when construction ceases it may be used for patrol work and for communication with the intake from the city through Humpback. All the necessary fittings are to be installed so that expeditious connections will be made between the camps.

At Humpback it will be necessary to do some clearing of second growth, which has sprung up since the work was abandoned last November, and then when the surface is in shape to commence the placing of six inches of gravel over the floor of the reservoir. This material will be secured near the work and distributed from an elevated track to the site. The city is fortunate in securing necessary material close at hand, which will remove the difficulties of hauling, which are very considerable under the conditions of the country roads.

MANY WILL COME TO CITY Christian Endeavor Convention Will Attract Delegates From Many Points.

The annual convention of the British Columbia Endeavor Unions will take place in the Metropolitan church on July 24, 25, 26 and 27. It is expected that 150 delegates will come here from outside points, while a similar number will attend from the local branches. The visiting members will be billeted on the Harvard plan, and a special executive committee meeting will be held on July 24 to make arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors. W. J. Shortt will preside at the convention as chairman, and one of the features of the session will be the appearance, for the first time in the history of the union, of the Young People's choir at several of the sessions. It is three years since the last convention of Christian Endeavors was held in the city, and the event is arousing considerable interest, as the organization has grown considerably since its last meeting here.

Some of the principal features of the convention will be the addresses to be given by specially invited speakers. On Thursday evening William Shaw, the international general secretary of the Christian Endeavor, Boston, will give an illustrated lecture. On Friday afternoon the Very Rev. the Dean of Columbia will speak, and in the evening Rev. F. H. Waring, of Fifth Avenue Baptist church, Vancouver, will deliver an address. The international general secretary will also speak on Sunday afternoon at a mass meeting to be held at 2:30 at the Metropolitan Methodist church, while Dr. C. T. Scott will address the delegates at 4 o'clock the same day at a mass meeting at the First Congregational church.

Some social events are being arranged in connection with the convention, the first official function of the kind to be a banquet to the delegates and ministers on Friday evening. On Saturday afternoon following the business incident to the election of officers, the whole delegation will be taken out in automobiles to view the city and its more immediate environs.

TO CONSIDER POLLUTION.

Question of Fouling of Inner Harbor Will Be Taken Up Tuesday.

The subject of harbor pollution has been receiving considerable attention of late. The medical officer of health dealt with the subject in his monthly report presented to the city council on Monday.

It has been resolved that a meeting will be held on Tuesday at 4 p. m., when the subject will be taken up in its various bearings. Alderman McCandless, chairman of the health committee, will preside, and the other members will be the chairman of the sewers committee, Alderman Humber. The officials summoned are the city engineer, medical officer and sanitary inspector.

They have several important subjects to take up. The city has been an offender in allowing sewerage to flow through drains into the causeway and at Rock Bay, which fact is objectionable, but what is mainly desired is to restrict the deposit of material from the steamers in the harbor. Old boxes and packing cases have been allowed to fall overboard and make the harbor untidy and dirt-

FINE SCHOOL FRONT

The illustration shows the attractive front of the Toimle school, Boleskine road, the most ambitious effort of the Saanich school board in the carrying out of its large construction programme. The design was prepared by H. J. Rous Cullin, the board's architect, and since the foundation stone was laid good progress has been made. The school will cost about $45,000.

INQUIRY ENDS

Commissioner Holds Last Hearing of Evidence About Quarantine Station.

The inquiry by Commissioner H. W. R. Moore into the housing, sanitation and administration of the William Head quarantine station was concluded yesterday afternoon in the Assize Court room, when Dr. Watt, the director of the station, completed his evidence before the commissioner. No other witnesses were called during the afternoon, and the doctor was examined in turn by H. B. Robertson, his own counsel, by E. E. Wootton as counsel for the Crown, and by Oscar Bass, appearing for Dr. Hunter, the assistant to Dr. Watt.

The evidence given at the previous inquiry by Salton, an ex-employee at the quarantine station, was again taken up with particular regard as it referred to Dr. Watt, who denied all of the allegations of neglect of the sick which the witness had given out. He also gave a full account, in response to questions, of his relations with Dr. Hunter, his assistant and bacteriologist at the station, and endeavored to show that though there had been disagreement between them, there had never been any suggestion on his part of insult or purposeful ignoring of that official.

Yesterday's sitting terminates the public working of the commissioner, who will now take all the exhibits and evidence that he has assembled and prepare an exhaustive report for submission to Ottawa, where the matter will no doubt be further gone into. It is, of course, impossible to anticipate the report, and the recommendations which will in all probability accompany it, but it seems fairly certain that some suggestion will be made to the effect that better accommodation is necessary for the housing of passengers who are obliged to spend several weeks immured in the station. Particularly might this have reference to the saloon cubicles, which have figured so largely in the evidence. According to the various witnesses which have appeared, the plant at the station for fumigating holds and for the disinfection of crew and passengers, leaves little to be desired; it is in the housing and perhaps in the modes of sanitation that changes may be expected.

CHINESE TAKE PART

Will Put Band and Floats in Carnival Parade and Take up Subscription.

A new development in the arrangements for Carnival week occurred this morning when Lim Bang called on Alderman Outhbert and said that the Chinese Benevolent Association would be glad to take an active part in the celebration. He promised a Chinese band and two or three floats for the grand parade and stated that a general decoration of the buildings of Chinatown will be undertaken. It is also possible that a subscription will be taken up among the Chinese to be contributed to the carnival fund.

A serious emergency arose this morning when the committee was notified that the burned area in Government street would possibly be not available for the big ceremonies and decorations planned for this space. Building operations are expected to be under way there before August 1.

The list of the latest contributions to the carnival fund up to July 8 follows: Overseas Investment Agency, $5; W. P. Dickson, $5; F. Kermode, $5; F. G. Hart & Co., $25; The Hub Realty Co., $25; Grand Pacific Cafe, $5; McKinnon, $25; Cameo & Calwell, $5; McDonald & Wilson, $100; Rennie & Taylor, $10; Wood Motor Co., $25; Chas. G. Gray, $5; Canadian Northern Railway, $200; Victoria Shingle Mill Co., $10; C. N. P. Fisheries Co., $25; Victoria Ice Co., $10; Economy Laundry, $5; Moore & Whittington, $10; Stanley Meat Market, $1; W. McTear, $5; Dr. S. J. Colmi, $5; Grimm Bros.,

LETTERS TO CHINAMAN.

Budget is Being Read in the Hearing of Charge of Vagrancy Against Chin Fat.

Chin Fat, a Chinaman who for the past eighteen months has been giving to the detective department information which generally proved valueless, is held on a charge of being a loose, idle and disorderly person. A portion of the case was heard this morning after he had pleaded not guilty through R. C. Lowe.

Detective Heather, who went to the room occupied by the accused on Esplanade street, produced a letter he had found pushed under the door and a bundle of letters that were on the table. Detective Edens said he had known Chin Fat for a year and a half. Chin Fat often came to the detective office and gave information which did not prove to be of any use when it was traced up. "His would come to the office and tell of some place running as an opium joint and he would then run back to the joint and tell them there that the detectives were coming.

June, the interpreter, took the letters and began to give the court the contents of them, but as this proved to be a long business because of the number of letters a postponement till tomorrow was had. The one found under the door said: "Some detective come tonight and search your room."

It would appear from this as if information comes through Chinatown in a swift and mysterious way. Before the detectives had gone to Chin's room they had been looking for him about his usual haunts and it looks as though someone scribbled the warning and slipped it under his door in the time before they reached the house.

The only other letter read will be used by the crown in the effort to prove that the defendant is engaged in a species of white slave traffic. It was a long one, addressed to Chun Fat.

FINE WEATHER NOW

Rainy Spell is Over Say Meteorological Experts Average Fall Exceeded.

Prospects are good now for a continued spell of fine weather according to the officers at the meteorological office. This is most gratifying in the light of the fact that the average rainfall in British Columbia for the month of July, based on the figures compiled during the past 24 years, has already been appreciably exceeded, although but a third of the month is over. There has also been a very heavy rainfall on the eastern prairie country within the past 24 hours accompanied by high winds. The fall was one inch in Winnipeg and Prince Albert, quite an exceptional amount for the season. The rain was comparable only to a heavy winter storm.

Charge Dismissed.—The charge of stealing laid against Mrs. A. E. Green was today withdrawn by the private prosecutor, Frank Crouch, who claimed that she had stolen a trunk belonging to him, which she was retaining against a board bill. E. E. Wootton, for Mr. Crouch, informed the magistrate that the trunk had been returned intact, and his client wished to withdraw the charge. Magistrate Jay said he could not allow a charge of such a serious nature to be withdrawn without the consent of the Attorney-General. This consent Mr. Wootton secured and the case was dismissed. W. R. Vaughan appeared for the defence.

THE POWER OF THE EARTH
It is in the fertility of the soil. Into the soil the seed is cast; from it springs the fruit, vegetables or crops that profit the grower. For him the Power of the Earth means wealth.
Whether you buy land to cultivate, or whether you buy it as an investment, it is the Power of the Earth that creates your profit.
Our 5-acre tracts in the Sooke District are rich in soil—are close to school and post office—are the best buy offered here or anywhere—are priced at only $600 for a complete five-acre block.

ONLY $50 CASH, BALANCE $10 MONTHLY
If you have a young son, wouldn't it be a good idea to buy him one of these 5-acre blocks and keep up his payments? What a nice little nest he'd have later on!

MARKET EXHIBITS
EXTREME DULLNESS
Relative Firmness to General List but Traders Await Some New Occurrence

New York, July 11.—Aside from some pressure on Southern Pacific, induced by reports to the effect that the Union Pacific holdings of that issue would be offered for subscription at a price considerably below that now prevailing, and some scattered selling in other issues, the market presented an exhibition of dullness not witnessed for a long period.
The relative firmness of the general list produced some favorable comment, but traders as a whole seemed disposed to await some new occurrence before extending commitments in either direction.

Foreign news was rather meagre and did not cause much comment, but there was quite a little discussion relative to the probable outcome of the wage controversy on eastern roads.

WHEAT PRICES DOWN ON WINNIPEG MARKET
July Sold at Dollar During First Hour and Dropped Lower
Winnipeg, July 11.—Wheat prices were on the down trend here, due to general rains over the spring wheat areas. July sold at $1 during the first hour of business. Opening prices were unchanged to 4 cent lower an enclosed 1 to 1 1/2 lower. The cash demand was very quiet. There were few offerings, but no export inquiry. Infections were 100 cars, and 300 in sight.

COUNCILMEN AGAINST MAYOR AT BELLINGHAM
Bellingham, Wash., July 11.—Mayor William Willison, of Blaine, has called for the resignation of City Marshal H. R. Nelson, supporting the demand with affidavits that Nelson accepted bribes of $10 to allow a Vancouver man to escape. Although the incident is alleged to have taken place last May, the matter did not come to a head until in council meeting the mayor introduced the resolution. Councilmen, however, refused to vote on the mayor's resolution and as a result Nelson is still serving as marshal.
A scientist has been making some observations in South Africa on the subject of the influence of repeated detonations on the ear. He examined the ears of twelve soldiers before and after a battle, and found marked changes in no fewer than forty-four, or nearly 50 per cent. In seven cases he found small hemorrhages in the ears, and in one case a large bleed- ing, while the firing caused the edge of the ear drum to become red in thirty-seven cases.

GLACIER CREEK HAS FURTHER RISE
Interest Focussed in That Property as First Affected by Tunnel

Victoria, July 11.—Glacier Creek sold at a still higher level with an excellent demand evident at the close. Two thousand Portland Canal was released at 2 1/2, a slightly lower figure than sales of a week ago, but interest is focussed chiefly in Glacier, that mine being the first to be affected by the tunnel scheme. The bid price in connection was some cents off and action was quiet and limited this morning, but disposition to sell at the 90-cent level was not apparent. Blackness dominated International Coal and inquiry at this time stands in need of further initiative. The rest of the list were steady but featureless.

WHEAT CONTINUED HEAVY ALL TO-DAY
Weakness Was in Spite of Good Deal of Bull News and Foreign Advances
(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Chicago, July 11.—The market continued heavy to-day in the face of a good deal of bull news. While Liverpool and Paris were closed there was advance of 1/4 at Antwerp and 1/4 at Budapest. Political news abroad unfavorable, and Roumania, it was reported, has prohibited the exportation of cereals. Rains northwest helped to take the edge off the market, and the buying demand was slack. Acceptances were light in the country, and the export demand was less keen, which was to be expected after the enormous rains of last few days. The situation is not weak, but for the present the expected heavy move of new grain is a depressing influence.
Prospects for rain over the corn belt with general precipitation in Iowa, Nebraska and the northern part of the belt with the weakness in wheat, gave corn a further decline. The cash demand was fair, and there were sales of 250,000 bushels. Receipts continue light, and the movement is likely to be small for some weeks.
The demand for oats was far from urgent, and while commission houses bought a little on the dips, there were heavy offerings on all the avels that served to check any advance.

EXAMINES MINERAL BELT OF HOWE SOUND
Official Gains Favorable Impression Which is Withheld for Official Report.
Vancouver, July 11.—A preliminary examination of the geological formation in the mineral belt on the east coast side of Howe Sound has just been made by R. G. McConnell, of Ottawa, a veteran member of the Dominion geological survey. He hopes to resume the work later on. He will leave Monday night for the Rainy Hollow copper district of Southern Yukon, spending a few weeks there and returning here in August to meet the visiting members of the International geological congress. Mr. McConnell did not conceal the favorable impression he formed about the outlook for the development of a large mining industry on Howe Sound, but stated that it would be withheld until published in an official report. He was met here last night by O. Lerof, a colleague in the same department. Mr. Lerof's visit is on business in connection with making arrangements for the coast visit of the European and American geologists next month. Valuable pamphlets dealing with the mineral resources of British Columbia have been prepared by the geological survey and will be distributed among the visitors. Mr. McConnell will also visit Granby Bay.

PRINT PAPER TARIFF ATTACKED BY SMOOT
Underwood Bill May Repeal Portion of Canadian Reciprocity Act of 1911.
Washington, D. C., July 11.—That the provision in the Underwood tariff bill levying a duty of twelve per cent. ad valorem on print paper valued at more than two and a half cents a pound and not more than four cents a pound, may repeal a portion of the Canadian reciprocity act of 1911, is contended in the measure proposed under the direction of Senator Smoot. If it does not operate to repeal the law, it was contended there would be two rates in controversy on this grade of paper.
Besides the duty of twelve per cent. ad valorem, the bill would impose a countervailing tax in retaliation for "An interesting point to consider," the Smoot analysis sets forth, "is the effect of the enactment of this paragraph on the Canadian reciprocity act, which admits to entry, free of duty, paper imported from Canada valued at not more than four cents per pound."

"With respect to printing paper valued at more than two and a half and not more than four cents per pound, it is manifest that there is a complete repugnance between the two statutes, for, by the terms of one, the act of 1911, it is free of duty, and by the terms of the tariff bill, it is subject to a duty of twelve per cent. ad valorem. Nor can the two statutes be so construed as to stand together. Under such circumstances the rule of law is that the statute of later date must prevail over the earlier statute as being the latest expression of the legislative will, and that consequently the earlier statute stands repealed by implication."
"Republican leaders will make a point of this on the floor of the senate."

NANAIMO DISTRICT'S CROPS IN GOOD SHAPE
Nanaimo, July 11.—The crops in the Nanaimo district are in good condition and given a few days of really fine weather the farmers will profit considerably. The hay crop should have been cut two weeks ago, but will be saved in entirety if a few days of fine weather sets in. The crop is heavy and if marketed will run three tons to the acre.
Vegetable are a good crop, as are also small berries, although the latter require a few days of sunshine to ripen them.
Grains are in good shape.

Dominion Engineer Says Legislation to Prevent Accidents Will Be Brought Down

Joseph G. Hudson, the mining engineer of the Department of Mines at Ottawa, is in the city to-day in the course of a tour of the various provincial mining departments. He is visiting the Capital of each province for the purpose of arranging with the various ministers, if possible, for the co-ordination of information collected with regard to mines and their activities. At the present time the Dominion collects its statistics for the Canada year, but some of the provinces only adopt this measure. Others collect their data for the fiscal year, so that the department at the Capital is sometimes confused in making its comparisons. The object of Mr. Hudson's visit is to arrange for a uniform manner of collecting mining statistics in order that the provincial departments and the Dominion department may all be in accord.

Mr. Hudson was here in Victoria a few years ago, when he made a tour of Canada accompanied by Captain Desborough, the chief inspector of explosives for the War Office of Great Britain. The captain was loaned by the British government to Canada to advise the latter with regard to legislation regulating the importing, manufacture and sale of explosives in the Dominion. This legislation was found necessary in view of the number of disastrous accidents which had taken place in Canada.

While here Captain Desborough inspected all the factories of Canada, accompanied by Mr. Hudson, who was the engineer chosen by the government to accompany the Britisher. Under the captain's direction a bill was prepared by the late government and introduced in the House, but the reciprocity debate and the subsequent dissolution of parliament prevented its presentation.

Mr. Hudson announces to the Times that the present government proposes to carry the same bill into law. They were unable to do so last session owing to the press of important national questions, but they intend nevertheless to proceed with the same next session, when the measure will no doubt be carried into effect, he says. This act provides, says Mr. Hudson, for the establishment of a testing station at Ottawa for explosives, at which very highly trained experts will examine the various brands of explosives coming into this country. It also provides for the inspection of all explosive factories in Canada.

The bill was drawn up closely on the lines of the British Act, which has been very effective in preventing fires and explosive accidents in the Old Country.

WORDS HUGO HATED.

The name of the Ragged School Union, of which Lord Northampton was president at the time of his death, struck Victor Hugo as a singularly unhappy choice. Sir William Butler records in his Journal, recalls the Chronicle, that, when stationed in Guernsey, he "breakfasted with Victor Hugo. He said that there were two English words which he hated; one was 'Respectable' and the other 'Ragged.' 'Ragged School! Think of that!' he went on. 'Does it not make you shiver?'"

THE LADY'S CIGAR.

Lord Lansdale sauntered along the line of coastmongers at the Olympia. Horse Show last night, offering his famous cigars to the drivers and tentatively to their ladies; and (says the Manchester Guardian) was obstinately taken aboard when a staid matron took the cigar, bit the end, and accepted a light from three hurrying gentlemen.

WOULD MAKE IT PARK

Deputation Lays Plan Before Government for Use of Old Vancouver Courthouse Site.

On an old subject, one which has engaged the attention of successive councils in Vancouver for several years, an influential deputation waited on the executive council this afternoon to urge the reservation of the old courthouse site for park purposes.

Three propositions were put forward by Mayor Baxter, who acted as one of the spokesmen.—That the government reserve the property for park purposes, that it be leased to the city at a nominal price, or falling either of these, that it be sold to the city for $250,000, a figure admittedly far below the real value of the land, situated, as it is, on one of the most important corners in Vancouver.

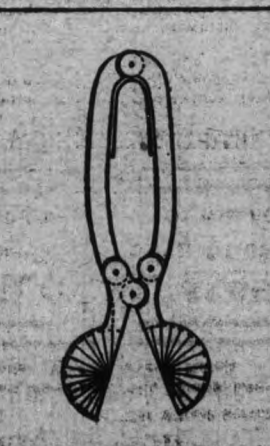

As a contract for the demolition of the courthouse was let yesterday to C. H. Avon, action on the matter has become imperative. While Mayor Baxter and members of the city council led the deputation, there were representatives of the Progress Club, the Canadian Club, North Vancouver, South Vancouver, Point Grey, Burnaby, all interested in the future of Greater Vancouver.

There was a meeting in Vancouver last evening to draw up a plan of campaign in connection with the presentation of the case of the deputation to the government. Most of the members arrived on the 2.30 boat this morning, but several came in this morning.

ICE-CREAM CONE FILLER

Separable Mold Brings Up Exact Amount in Right Form.

Now is the season when ice-cream cones come to the fore again. Consequently, the ice-cream cone filler designed by a Wisconsin man is of general interest. Two separable members are each shaped as one-half of a cone and when brought together they form the complete cone. A pair of pivotally mounted handles carry these members, and a spring between the handles forces them apart by its re-

SPRING OPENS HANDLES.

Normally, the spring holds the handles open and the other members closed, thus forming a cone-shaped receptacle, which is used to dip the cream out of the can. By pressing the handles together the members open and the cream drops from them into the cone, for which it is already accurately measured.

VENICE IN FLOOD.

A Venetian friend of mine (writes a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian), a member of one of the famous Doge families, was introduced to an American millionaire at a dinner party in London. As my friend's devotion to the Bride of the Adriatic is only less than his family pride, it was only natural that within a few minutes he should explain his identity and ask the American whether he had ever visited Venice. "Yes," replied the financier with perfect seriousness. "But I guess I hadn't the chance of doing your city, for when I got out of the station I found that there was an inundation, so I just took the next train back."

EVOLUTION OF POINT DUTY.

A correspondent of Notes and Queries recalls that about the year 1800 a semaphore signal-post carrying two arms was erected at the junction of Bridge street, Westminster and Parliament street, for the purpose of regulating the traffic. It was worked by the poles, but was much disliked by them. It was soon taken away, but I think that several years elapsed before the present simple method was adopted of using the constable as a living semaphore.
