You have brains in your head.
You have feet in your shoes.
You can steer yourself, any direction you choose.
My own presentation about public art will be shortly. I'm terribly nervous. #wikimania

@Anthere @Sarah_Stierch I don't mind saying I'm terribly nervous about the fundraising prez tomorrow, too. :-)
   --Philippewiki

sorry to say I will not be in your room. Will be too busy being nervous in another room myself :) @philippewiki

Public speaking is making most people nervous....
Getting shot for being too good a speaker?
A manhurls a shoe at U.S. President George W. Bush during a news conference al-Mali. (cc Associated Press)
What the speakers sees…
What the brain sees...

Focus on audience & and expectations
Clothing:

Wear appropriate & comfortable
Favor access over principles

I can use PDF, but it will destroy several slides... Wikimedia should just support odp! How can you expect #wikiversity to work?

Plan for the worst

Omg. Did I break the light bulb of my beamer in the Arbel room, right before starting? #wikimania #help

The final trap: Dealing with the audience’s tough questions @philippewiki You'll do an awesome job. I'll be there to cheer you on. I just did mine and did not fall over. :)

Special thanks to

• Sarah Stierch (for being nervous and saying it so)
• Philippe Beaudette (for the same reason)
• Guillaume Paumier (for the Daï Lama philosophy)
• Andrew Lih (for the trouble of taking a Cinemateque photo from stage rather than side. Whisky due this evening !)
• Tisza Gergő (who forwarded me the photo in spite of a hesitant internet connection)
• Dr Seuss (for his wisdom)
• Scott Berkun (for « confessions of a public speaker », sooo great and inspiring ;))
• The public (since 2004…)
• http://commons.wikimedia.org (for the lovely pictures)

• And for Liam Wyatt (for coming on stage with me)
