

Nairobi City Guide

Documentation online in Creative Commons attribution share-alike license (legal code, human readable, machine readable).

Uploads on Wikimedia projects

(i.e. Wikipedia and Wikimedia Commons).

coordinator	Technical University of Kenya Department of Spatial Planning and Design
partner	Strathmore University CIPIT Centre for IP and IT Law
partner	University of Cape Town IP Law Department partner	Latitude Platform
partner	Université Libre de Bruxelles Faculty of Architecture La Cambre Horta
partner	University of Bayreuth - Iwalewa-Haus
partner	SUPSI - Laboratory of Visual Culture

Content in Creative Commons attributions share-alike

Mobility

Orientation

Landmarks and places (parks, cemeteries, squares, memorials)

Toponymy

Private transport (drive, park, bike...)

Public transport (train, bus, taxi...)

By foot

Arts and entertainment

Culture, arts and entertainment

Museums, galleries, cultural centers, Cinemas, theaters

Nightlife, performing arts, street art

Calendar events

Sport

Buy (malls, shops, trading)

Eat and drink

Accommodation

Services

Post office, rentals

Media (Internet, radio, TV)

Education, schools, informal training

Libraries

Work

Religion (churches, temples...)

Stay safe

Health and Medical care, hospitals

Police, dangers

Resources

Data

Statistics

Maps

Photos

Scientific research

Repositories

Existing resources in Public domain, Creative Commons attribution and Creative Commons attribution share-alike

Existing resources made available in Creative Commons attribution share-alike.

Legal frame of urban studies

International treaties

European regulations

African regulations

Legal frame of urban studies in Nairobi

Photos

Regulated sites

Cultural heritage

Privacy

Panorama

Snap-shots from a selection of countries (i.e. Kenya, South Africa, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Nigeria, Senegal, Angola).

Guidelines and FAQ: How to make a city guide (what you can do, what you can not do and how to obtain the necessary authorizations).