The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

But the girl did not laugh with him. Instead she looked troubled.

"Wouldn't you rather be a 'highbrow' too?" she asked, "and live up on Riverside Drive, right across the street from me?"

"I don't belong," said the mucker gruffly.

"I don't belong," said the mucker gruffly.

"Wouldn't you rather belong?" insisted the girl.

All his life Billy had looked with contempt upon the hated, pusillanimous highbrows, and now to be asked if he would not rather be one of them, in a white shirt, and yet, strange to relate, he realized an odd longing to be like Theriere, and Billy Malory; yes, in some respects like Divine, even. He wanted to be more like the men that the woman he loved knew best.

"It's too late for me ever to be long now," he said ruefully. "Yeh gotta be borned to it. Gee! wouldn't I look funny in white pants, an' one o' dem dinky, little 'White-of-de-yacht' lids?"

Even Barbara had to laugh at the picture the man's words raised to her imagination.

"I didn't mean that," she hastened to explain. "I didn't mean that you must necessarily dress like them; but like them—act like them—talk like them, as Mr. Theriere did, you know. He was a gentleman."

"An' I'm not," said Billy.

"Oh, I didn't mean that," the girl hastened to explain.

"Well, whether you mean it or not, it's so," said the mucker. "I ain't no gent—I'm a mucker. I have your word for it, you know—yeh said so that time on de Halfmoon, an' I ain't forgot it; but youse was right—I am a mucker. I ain't never learned how to be anything else. I ain't never wanted to be anything un-til today. Now, I'd like to be a gent; but it's too late."

"Won't you try?" asked the girl. "For my sake?"

"Go to it!" returned the mucker cheerfully. "I'll even wear side whiskers for youse."

"Horror!" exclaimed Barbara Harding. "I couldn't look at you if you did."

"Well, then, tell me wot youse do want me to do."

Barbara discovered that her task was to be a difficult one if she were to accomplish it without wounding the man's feelings; but she determined to strike while the iron was hot and risk offending him—why she should be interested in the regeneration of Mr. Billy Byrne it never once occurred to her to ask herself. She hesitated a moment before speaking.

"One of the first things you must do, Mr. Byrne," she said, "is to learn to speak correctly. You mustn't say 'youse' for 'you,' or 'wot' for 'what'—you must try to talk as I talk. No one in the world speaks any language fault-lessly, but there are certain more

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S STONE SOUP

"Ho! Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed old Dog Percival one day.

"Why are you so jolly?" asked Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped up to where Percival was holding his sides because he was laughing so hard. "What's the joke?" asked the bunny rabbit.

"It's about a friend of mine—an old tramp dog," answered Percival. "He made some stone soup."

"Stone soup," interrupted Uncle Wiggily. "No one can make stone soup!"

"My friend the tramp dog did," said Percival. "I'll tell you about it. One day this old tramp dog was very hungry, but he had no money to buy food and no one would give him anything."

"If he had come to my holly stump bungalow Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy would have given him all he could eat!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily.

"Thank you, but he wasn't near your bungalow," went on Percival. "Anyhow, this tramp dog was very hungry, so he found an old tin can, filled it with water and then, sitting down in front of a rich dog lady's house, my friend the tramp dog began washing some stones."

"Out came the rich dog lady and asked the tramp why he was washing the stones so carefully. He said he was going to make stone soup of them. The rich dog lady said no one could make soup out of stones."

"Just you watch me," said my friend the poor dog. He began to boil the stones in hot water. Then he turned to the dog lady and said: "This stone soup would be all the better if I had a few scraps of meat to put in it." So she gave him some scraps of meat. After that had boiled a while the tramp dog said: "This stone soup would be all the better if I had a carrot to put in it."

"So the rich dog lady gave him a carrot and then the tramp dog said the stone soup would be very nice if he had an onion in it, so the rich dog lady gave him an onion. And when he had boiled up the scraps of meat, the carrot and the onion with stones, my friend, the tramp dog, had a fine stone soup," finished Percival.

"But the STONES had nothing to do with it!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "They didn't make soup at all—it was the meat, the onion and the carrot!"

"Exactly!" laughed Percival. "That's where the joke comes in, and that's why I'm laughing. Stone soup! The idea! Ha! Ha!"

Uncle Wiggily laughed also, and little did he think how soon a stone soup was going to save his ears. Old Dog Percival ran off to find some one else to whom to tell the story of the tramp dog, and Uncle Wiggily nipped over to the home of Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady.

Uncle Wiggily was going to borrow from Mrs. Twistytail a large iron pot that Nurse Jane wanted to use in making molasses candy. For next day Uncle Wiggily was going to have a party for the animal boys and girls, and nurse Jane had offered to make molasses candy.

"Only," said the muskrat lady, "I have no pot large enough in which to boil the molasses."

"I'll borrow Mrs. Twistytail's pot," said Uncle Wiggily, and he was on his way to do that when Percival told about the stone soup.

With the pot on one paw Uncle Wiggily was hopping back toward his hollow stump bungalow. Now and then he would stop and think of the jolly good times the animal boys and girls would have

Pacific-Southwest Review

By H. NELSON, Manager Glendale Avenue Branch Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

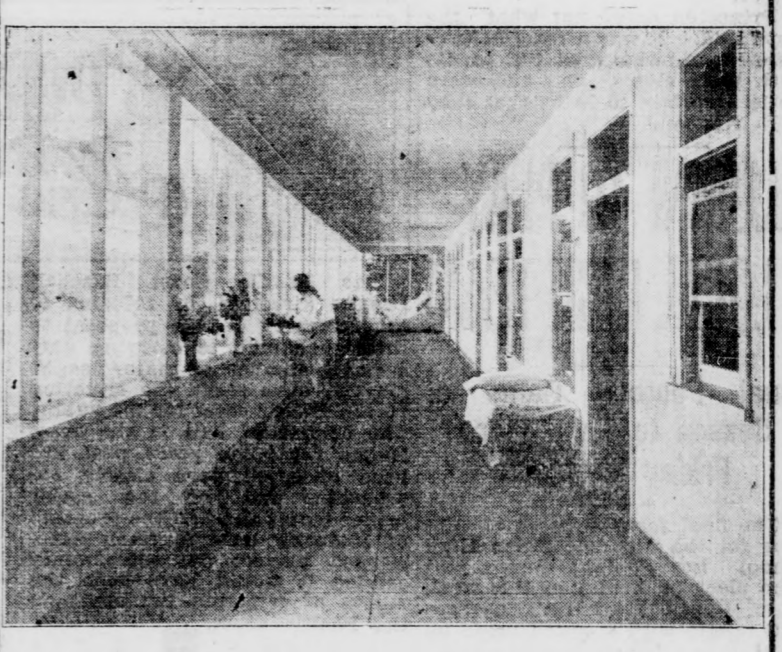

A little less than fifty years ago Eliza C. Tibbets brought to California two navel orange trees, which she imported from Brazil and planted at Riverside, at that time only a sheeping center.

That event was the beginning of a great California industry, and the first great factor since the days of the gold rush to bring fame and wealth to Southern California. These two trees proved to be the most valuable fruit introduction yet made into this country. Today the raising of navel and Valencia oranges, lemons and grapefruit constitutes an industry representing an investment of between 200 and 300 millions of dollars. According to the latest estimate of the State Department of Agriculture, there are now approximately 257,973 acres of California land planted to citrus fruits.

In the early days of the industry there was no attempt at co-operation or systematic marketing, and as a result the small speculative distributors were unable to handle the fruit properly. The constantly increasing production taxed these distributors to the limit, and a great deal of fruit was poorly packed, irregularly graded, and shipped indis-

LIMITING SPEED OF MOTORS.

Referring to the previous article, it might be expected that a shunt wound motor would speed up indefinitely, but actually it soon comes to a definite speed, and then continues to turn so fast but no faster. As soon as the armature begins to rotate, it generates an emf, according to the right hand rule, previously explained. This action is exactly the same as in a generator.

The emf, generated is opposite to the direction of current shown by the arrows, and is for that reason called a "counter electromotive force." The faster the armature turns, the greater the counter emf. becomes. It cannot turn so fast that the counter emf. is as great as the line voltage because then the two would balance, there would be nothing to make the current flow through the armature and consequently no pull to keep it turning. For example, suppose the armature of a certain motor is 0.25 ohm and suppose that a current of 4 amp. in the armature furnishes just enough pull to keep it rotating. If the speed is high enough to make the counter emf. 109 volts when the voltage is 110, the current is 4 amp.

Next, suppose the motor is driving machinery that calls for five times as great a pull. The speed falls off a little. When it has fallen enough to make the counter emf. 105 volts, the current is 20 amps. If that is enough to drive the load, the speed will be steady at the new rate. So, by changing its speed a very little, the motor automatically takes more or less current, but always just enough to drive its load.

The magnets are always of the same strength, regardless of load, because the current around them depends only on the line volts and the resistance of the field coils. It is entirely dependent of the current in the armature.

Five Bandits Raid Resort, Get $5000

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Five armed bandits swooped down early today on the Green Mills resort, well known Chicago dining palace, locked James Chamales, one of the owners, in an ice box, dynamited a safe and escaped with about $5000.

To correct and keep the mechanism of the body in a healthy, natural condition, hear Dr. Glover's Free Lectures at Chamber of Commerce Auditorium Nov. 21-22-23-24 at 8 p. m.—Advertisement.

Executive Board of Music Club to Meet

Plans for the December programs will occupy the time at the meeting of the executive board of the Glendale Music Club tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in the music room at the high school.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, club president, will be in charge of the meeting.

Small factories can produce a clear sirup of excellent flavor from sweet potatoes.

THEATRES

The Glendale

In "Under Two Flags" one of the great stories of the world has been filmed and opens at the Glendale Theatre today. The star is Priscilla Dean, famous in a dozen big Universal pictures. Against the background of romantic, colorful, tempestuous Algiers, playing the role of the spirited girl "Cigarette," idol of a French regiment, quartered there during the hectic time of the late '70's, she rises to the greatest dramatic and artistic heights of her career.

A love epic immortal, a tragedy sublime, "Under Two Flags" captured the hearts of all nations when it came as a novel from the inspired pen of Ouida (Louise de La Ramee) and its popularity was still further heightened when the great story reached the stage.

Tod Browning establishes himself as one of the outstanding film directors by his work on this picture.

The T. D. & L.

That sparkling dynamo of ever-changing emotions—Modern Woman—is revealed in all her strength and weakness by the unusual photoplay "What's Wrong with the Women?" which continues at the T. D. & L. Theatre. It is a big theme upon which this powerful screen drama is founded. Daniel Carlson Goodman, who wrote and produced the story, points out that women are essentially good but that when the forces of folly and extravagance enter the home and take the place of love and understanding, destiny imposes a heavy toll.

Among the prominent players in the cast are Wilton Lackaye, Barbara Castleton, Montague Love, Julia Swayne Gordon and Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein.

As an added feature, Capt. Lewis continues to guide patrons through "Chinatown After Midnight" with his special reels.

SOCIETY CIRCUS IS BIG SUCCESS

Tuesday Club Is Highly Pleased at Result of Saturday's 'Show'

Outstanding entertainment features of the circus was the dinner and cabaret and the psychic booths. Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth was dinner hostess and she was ably assisted by Albert Perry of the Chase and Sanborn Coffee company, and Albert Draper.

The aesthetic dancing by Miss Kathleen Wood, vaudeville artist, and George Eckland, recently with the Douglas dancers of Seattle, Wash., has been highly complimented. Miss Woods gave "La Zingana" (Carl Bohm), a gypsy dance, while Mr. Eckland's feature was an Oriental dance to "The Song of India." Music for these dances was furnished by Mrs. J. A. Wright, pianist; Dorothy Armstrong Welcome, violinist; and Frank Wilson, traps.

Attractive Features Between the dance numbers Jerry Parker's orchestra entertained.

Dr. Jessie Russell's psychics were one of the most popular features.

Mrs. Max Green was in charge of the bowling contests, for which prizes were awarded to Miss Alice McCoy, Mrs. A. L. Baird, Miss Leta McCoy, first, second and third prizes for women. Joe Fortunato, Mr. Violi, George Teaux, first, second and third prizes for men.

At the Arts and Crafts booth Mrs. Fred Deal presided and the hand-painted lamp shade was won by Albert Draper and the table decorations by Mrs. R. W. Meeker.

Mrs. Walter Jones arranged the program for the ball room dancing and secured as judges Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain, Miss Dorothy Woods and George Eckland. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Morris, Mr. Barker, first prizes; Mrs. O. P. Clark and Mr. Bode, second prizes. Music was furnished by the Beethoven orchestra.

Assisting greatly in the success of the affair were Mrs. Helen Campbell and Mrs. Paul Hoffman, who conducted the information booth and presided over the big Hazen Titus fruit cake, which was won by Mr. Heide.

The Walcott Beauty parlors also had a special booth.

Mrs. W. A. Tanner was in charge of the doll booth, where the dolls donated by the H. S. Webb company and dressed by high school girls, were displayed. Virginia Woodard won the big doll.

E. L. Young was in charge of the booth where the pink silk sweater donated by the Pendroy store was displayed. The sweater was awarded Mrs. C. W. Houston.

Proves Prosperous One of the most prosperous concessions was the cigar and soft drink booth directed by Mrs. A. H. Dibbern, assisted by Mr. Dibbern, James Apfel, Mrs. Apfel and Mrs. Herrick. Mrs. Dibbern wishes to thank particularly F. J. W. Henry of the Sierra Club Ginger Ale company for punch, and Mr. Brown of the Greenhill Ginger Ale company, and all merchants donating cigars and cigarettes. Prizes at her booth were won by William Hunter and Dr. C. W. Taylor.

The beautifully-made cake displayed by Mrs. Bert Woodard is still unclaimed. Mrs. Woodard announced this morning that No. 106 won the cake, but the owner is not yet found and the cake will be kept at her home until Wednesday morning and if still unclaimed it will be given to the second lucky number, 216.

Other booths were the candy and ice cream, Mrs. D. O. Holbrook and Mrs. Homer Lockwood; the Goose, Mrs. E. U. Emery; and the fish pond, Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw.

Mrs. Warren Roberts conducted the fancy work booth, where the blouse donated by the Betty Ellen shop was won by Mrs. E. L. Young.

Deserving of Praise Mrs. C. A. Parker and her bobbed haired shiners with their unique shoes, proved most entertaining.

Mrs. A. T. Findlay, Mrs. C. W. Houston and Mrs. Charles Barker, gowned in old-fashioned dresses, were the Old Book Shoppe hostesses.

At the cooked food booth, in charge of Mrs. Colin Cable, Mrs. J. T. Crampton received the large ham. Mrs. Cable has expressed appreciation to the assistance of Harry Rogers of Riverdale drive, and to Barton Lambert for the clever posters he contributed.

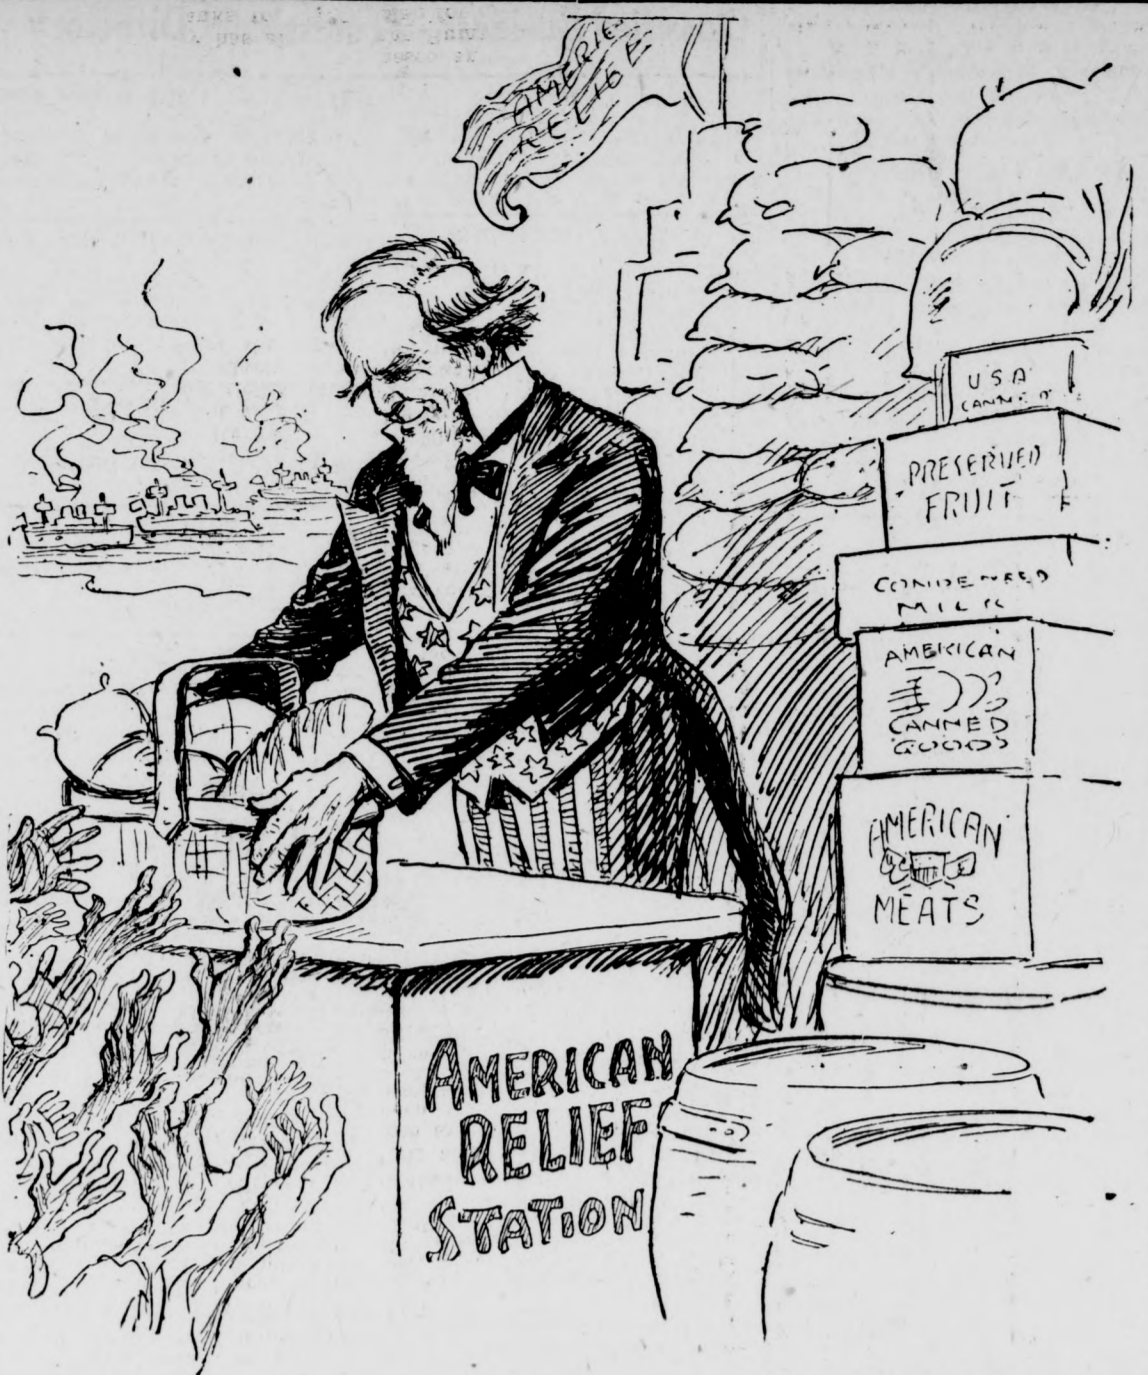

Mrs. W. W. Hamilton had the handkerchief booth and it was there that Mrs. E. W. Hayward won the sweater donated by Gordon's, and Mrs. C. A. Parker received the hand-embroidered dresser set.

Mrs. J. E. Sargent arranged the apron booth and Mrs. Walter Jones the parcel post booth. At the later attraction the luncheon set donated by Mrs. Daniel Campbell was won by Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Julian Hayward was hostess at the card games enjoyed in the club parlors during the afternoon and evening.

EVANGELIST HERE TO FIGHT SATAN

Dr. Dunlop Opened Initial Meeting Yesterday at Tropic Church

Satan is going to have a hard row to hoe for the next few weeks in his combat with Evangelist Dr. H. P. Dunlop, if the initial meeting yesterday indicates anything. Big crowds greeted the speaker at the Tropic Presbyterian church. The music is the old-fashioned kind and Mrs. Dunlop knows how to get everyone to enter into this part of the service. "I Will Exchange My Cross for a Starry Crown" and "There is Within my Heart a Melody" were two of the brightest ones sung.

Saturday night a complimentary church dinner was given to Dr. and Mrs. Dunlop, the evangelists, served by the young people of the church.

"This makes a fine introduction to a revival meeting," said Mr. Dunlop, "when the young people line up for work we always count on a successful meeting."

"We are told in the Bible to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." What is it to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ? To believe on a man means to put confidence in what he claims to be—whether a doctor, a merchant, a banker, a teacher, or what not. What then does Jesus claim to be? First, our sin bearer; second, a deliverer from the power of sin; third, an infallible teacher. Hence, to believe on Jesus means to put your trust in Him as your sin-bearer; your deliverer from the power of sin; your teacher and guide.

"Tonight's services will be between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock. The subject will be, 'When He saw their faith.' Dr. and Mrs. Dunlop will sing the duet, 'Can the World See Jesus in You?'"

Rumors of Quake at Hilo Not True

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—Advisors from Honolulu today definitely set at rest rumors originating in South America that the city of Hilo, Hawaii, had been badly damaged by an earthquake.

Shortly after midnight the Radio corporation was advised by its Honolulu station that they had been working with Hilo less than two hours before on regular schedule and nothing unusual had been reported.

To build a good speaking or singing voice, hear Dr. Glover's free lecture, Chamber of Commerce Auditorium, Nov. 21-22-23-24, 8 p. m.—Advertisement.

cure set donated by N. J. Hayes of the New York Hardware & Trading company, but as yet the holder of the lucky ticket, 527, has failed to claim the prize. The holder of the ticket may secure the prize by calling at the home of Mrs. C. B. Guitard at 524 Patterson avenue.

Mrs. Guitard announces that the order for a pair of shoes at the Buster Brown Shoe company, was won by Grace Starkey; the organ dress, hat, two pairs of silk gloves and belt, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Guitard were won by Marie Griggs, Elizabeth Ritchie, Marjorie Turner, Dorothy Robinson and Helen Harris.

WHAT IS MAN? IS SUNDAY SERMON

Rev. Edmonds Is Speaker at Presbyterian Church at Morning Service

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church on the subject—"What Is Man?"

"Man was created not evolved," he asserted. "In all literature there is nothing more impressive than the story of creation. God called into being things that were not. He said: 'Let there be light, and it was; and He called all the stars into place. The earth was prepared, and it was good.'"

"The three persons of the one Godhead counseled, 'Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; so God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him.' A perfect man, God's masterpiece, he stepped forth with his eyes toward the stars, fit to have conference with God. And God told him, 'You shall have dominion over all the creatures of the earth.' We hear jokes and jokes about Adam: he done with such! That is sacred history."

"We read God made man in His own image.—His spiritual image. In all creation man alone thinks God's thoughts after Him. This body is the home of the soul. This mortal body is going to be changed into the glorified body."

"And the man was made sinless, without knowledge of sin. But he was endowed with sovereign will. Innocence is sovereignty. He had not been tested. His testing time came; he yielded, he fell; and so he became initiated into experience of evil. God had been walking and talking with him, but now he hid, ashamed to look God in the face. And we have gone so ever since. He took all posterity down with him."

"But no sooner had Adam sinned than the Redeemer was foretold, redemption appears. When man fell he could no longer walk with God. When Christ died for him on the cross He put him back to stand exactly where Adam first stood, everything against him blotted out,—born not of corruptible things, but of the blood of Christ."

"If thus I have become a new creature, if thus God is my Father, no good thing will He withhold. I stand, through Christ, just where Adam stood; Jesus Christ is my elder brother."

"So, whose man am I? The ownership is changed. His servant you are to whom you obey. You are not your own, you are bought with a price. Suppose it is in a sense a commercial affair,—if you profess to believe on Jesus Christ, it is a question of honest belonging to Him."

"This is a universal question: He paid the price for every man. 'Is every man saved?' Not if you sit back and wait for God. But the moment you say, 'I will,' God says He does."

Rumania's Debt to U. S. Is Discussed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The American debt funding commission held a formal meeting here today for the first time in two months to receive from E. Antonesco and Constantin Antonade, the Rumanian representatives, a plan for deferring the payment of the principal and interest of the $41,000,000 debt to the United States.

Yank's Death 'Over Line' Investigated

CALEXICO, Cal., Nov. 20.—An investigation was underway today of the killing of Dick Newton, an American, of Williams, Cal., over the line near Mexicali, Mexico, Sunday.

Newton and a companion went across to Mexicali Sunday to "see the sights." According to the companion they engaged a Mexican taxi driver to take them for a ride. After they had gone a short distance into the country, the driver, he declared, demanded their money and when Newton attempted to remonstrate, shot him through the side. Newton started to run and was shot through the back. His body was found later. The companion succeeded in returning to this side of the border with his story.

Chinatown Guide Is Visiting In Glendale

Capt. H. J. Lewis, San Francisco's pioneer "Chinatown" guide, is in Glendale for a few days. For thirty years he conducted tourist parties through "Frisco's 'Underground Pekin.'" During that time he had ample opportunity to study the modes of living, customs and institutions of the Chinese in that sunless city. Thanks to the motion picture camera, he has been able to preserve in celluloid a great deal of what he has seen of this wonderful and mysterious section of our great northern city.

This film he is now showing, by special arrangement, at the T. D. & L. Theatre, he states, together with a descriptive lecture which carries the audiences along through the dim, winding streets with him almost as though he were actually conducting them on one of his famous sight-seeking tours.

Operators of Cotton Spindles Increases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The census bureau announced today that there were 37,128,659 cotton spinning spindles in place in the United States on October 31, 1922, of which 33,859,076 were in operation at some time during the month, compared with 33,296,513 in September. The aggregate number of spinning hours in October was 8,289,885,446.
