CITY COUNCIL TO FINANCE CLEAN-UP PROJECT

Administration, by Divided Vote, to Pay Cost of Rubbish Collection

The City Council last night decided to give the Chamber of Commerce its financial support as well as its moral support in the promotion of an annual clean-up week.

After some discussion on the subject, Councilman C. E. Kimlin moved that the city administration co-operate with the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce in this project and hire the necessary trucks to collect the rubbish.

Councilman A. H. Lapham seconded the motion and Mayor Spencer Robinson also voted for it. Both Councilman Sam Davis and Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson voted against it on grounds of economy.

City Manager W. H. Reeves reported that it would be necessary to hire four five-ton trucks, each with a driver and an assistant, and keep them busy a whole week in order to make the rubbish collections.

He commented on the fact that each truck would cost $3.50 per hour. He estimated that the total cost would be about $840. Mr. Davis immediately suggested that a city employ should be placed on each truck to see that it kept moving.

May Buy Dinner An offer to buy his present colleagues a dinner if the work should be completed for the sum mentioned was made by Councilman Dwight A. Stephenson. He expressed his regret that he would not be on the council when complaints begin to come in for next year's tax levy.

An attempt to pass an amendment specifying that building material refuse would not be collected as rubbish was made by Mr. Kimlin, but failed. An opinion was expressed that everything brought out to the curb would have to be carted away.

The subject of an annual clean-up week was brought up by R. S. Person of 247 North Louise street, who said that a daily clean-up day would be more practical. He expressed his belief that such a project was all right in the East, where filth and rubbish had accumulated during the winter, but that, in his opinion, there is no more reason for an annual clean-up day here than there is in setting aside September 15 as straw hat day or October 15 as a day upon which everybody is expected to get hay fever.

Booster Project R. E. Johnston of 444 South San Fernando road, member of the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce, emphasized the psychological effect of an annual clean-up week upon residents who have procrastinated in the disposal of their rubbish.

Although Mayor Robinson voted for the city's participation in the movement, he called attention to the fact that it seemed like making the tidy home owners pay to assist the untidy.

The civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce is completing plans for the clean-up week and, it is expected, announcement of details will be made shortly.

LOCAL ROTARIANS WIN APPLAUSE AT PASADENA PARLEY

Twenty-Eight Members Of Club Visit District Conference; Act As Host To Number Of Prominent Men

GLENDALE'S delegation of twenty-eight Rotarians to the Thursday session of the first annual conference of Rotary clubs of the second district, Rotary International, put in a snappy appearance yesterday morning at the Raymond Theatre, Pasadena, getting a "hand" from the 1500 assembled delegates as they filed down the aisle in their regalia of white trousers and hats, orange neckties and bands, and blue coats.

As they came in they were singing, "Glendale, Beautiful Glendale," a parody made up especially for the occasion, and which registered a distinct hit. They took their seats at about 10 o'clock, and thereafter, for about two hours, enjoyed an interesting program whose chief numbers were an address of welcome by President J. Herbert Hall of Pasadena; a response by Homer W. Woods of Petaluma; and a conference address by District Governor John R. Williams.

At noon the Glendale Rotarians entertained seventy-five guests from other clubs at luncheon in the grill room of the Hotel Maryland.

Prominent Visitors Among the visitors were John C. Williams of Long Beach, H. Stuart Johnson of the Hawaiian Islands, Leslie S. Everts of San Diego, Elliott B. Wyman of Los Angeles, J. Herbert Hall of Pasadena, Homer W. Wood of Petaluma, Walter E. Keefe and Leroy M. Morris, president and secretary of the Monrovia club, together with twenty other members; J. C. Crawford and W. S. Sandison, president and secretary of the Burbank club, together with twelve other members; Bru Brunner, past district governor, from San Francisco; J. H. Pilkington, from Hilo, Hawaiian Islands; and delegates from Spokane, Wash., Santa Rosa and other clubs.

District Governor Williams, in addressing the Glendale club and their guests, congratulated them on their fine attendance record of two successive 100 per cent months.

Francis J. W. Henry, who led the singing, came in for a lot of praise for his excellent work.

Conference Continues One of the Hawaiian delegates amused the group with a brief address in the native language of the country he represented.

In the afternoon the Raymond theatre was the scene of another admirable conference program, and about fifteen of the Glendale delegation stayed over to enjoy it.

The outstanding address of this session was "The Challenge of the Boy," by Frank Roach.

Music was furnished by the Pasadena Boy Scout orchestra.

The conference will continue on Friday and Saturday, with many Glendale Rotarians attending each session.

REV. O'NEILL APPOINTED PASTOR AT OXNARD

Popular Priest, in Charge of Parish Here for 16 Years, Leaves Wednesday

GLENDALE is to bid farewell Sunday to Rev. James S. O'Neill, who has faithfully served the Holy Family Catholic parish for the past sixteen years and leaves next Wednesday to assume the duties of pastor of St. Claire parish, Oxnard.

Father O'Neill came to Glendale in 1907, when the city was a town and strawberry patches and orchards lined either side of Brand boulevard.

It was in this little community that he founded the Holy Family parish, serving it and the Burbank parish.

As the city grew so the little Catholic church grew and under the guidance and service of Father O'Neill the present church and parish house were built and work started on the new parochial school building and the dormitory for the nuns.

Prominent in Work Father O'Neill's activities have not been limited to his parish, but he has taken a live interest in affairs of the city and has been an ardent booster for Glendale at all times. His circle of friends embraces every denomination and organization in the city and announcement of his departure will be received with keen regret.

He goes to take up the work left by the late Father James Reardon at Oxnard. Father Reardon had served the Long Beach parish for sixteen years and had been at Oxnard but one year when his death occurred.

Rev. Michael Galvin, priest of the Holy Family parish in South Pasadena, will come to Glendale to take up the work of the Holy Family parish here.

Jarois for the alleged murder of Fritz Mann, young entertainer and social favorite.

Carlson is expected to corroborate the day-long testimony of I. N. Inskip, also a Los Angeles handwriting expert, who yesterday analyzed the signature "Alvin Johnstone and wife, L. A." on the register of the Blue Sea cottages at La Jolla and declared positively that it was penned by the young army physician.

The state was said today to be nearing the end of its presentation of testimony. Following Carlson, two or three witnesses may be called but, unless something unforeseen occurs, the prosecution is believed ready to rest its case this evening, prior to adjournment for the week end.

BARONESS TELLS OF RUSSIAN LIFE
Thursday Afternoon Club Hears Graphic Tale of Persecution

"The Land of Whispers" is the somewhat sinister title sometimes applied to Russia, declared Baroness de Ropp in contrasting the freedom of America with that of her native land under the soviet regime. Her address of speech is denied, religious freedom unknown and "one's very thoughts seem under surveillance."
In an intensely interesting address before the open forum of the Thursday Afternoon club, yesterday at K. P. hall, Baroness de Ropp paid high tribute to American ideals and institutions and made a strong plea for the preservation of these from the attacks of those who would destroy the freedom enjoyed by our citizens.

Living conditions in Russia were described in contrast to the comforts found here. The Russian peasants, tricked by the soviet into leaving the Allies during the world war by the promise of land ownership, the thing desired above all else, went back to take possession of the land promised them, only to find that it was a mirage. The land was theirs as long as they personally were able to cultivate it. They lost their right if by chance they had to hire or have help.

On the other hand, when they did cultivate the land, the soviet said: "You have the land, we will take the crop, you have the chickens, we will take the eggs." In desperation the poor peasants retaliated and refused to plant for others to reap. The consequence was that millions have starved to death in Russian and America is called upon to help or millions more will perish.

Business Session
A brief business session was held with Mrs. W. C. Mabry, president of the club, presiding. Invitations were read from the Tuesday Afternoon and the West Ebbl clubs to their reciprocity days. Mrs. J. L. Wilbur reported that the proceeds from the card party at her home March 17 were $18, and from the food sale March 31, $21. The president, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, announced April 21 to 28 as community play week. Dr. Russell also spoke on the six amendments to the city charter to be voted on next week.

Dr. Russell, as chairman of the open forum, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Baroness de Ropp, in a few appreciative words.

Although the rain was falling outside, the hospitality committee, Mrs. E. J. Becker, Mrs. J. Wilbur and Mrs. W. C. Mabry, gathered the members around an open fire and served tea and delicious home-made cake which were effectual gloom-chasers. They were assisted by several members in serving a straw vote was taken at the close of the meeting to nominate officers for the ensuing year.

Build Fence to Hide Women Jurors' Ankles
EAU CLAIRE, Wis., April 5.—"Attending court" has lost all its glamour and "attractiveness" for the old timers of Eau Claire. The court has had a tight board fence erected around the jury box to shield the silk-clad ankles of women jurors from the gaze of the lookers-on.
According to the court, the fence serves a double purpose. It hides the cupids demanded by the male jurors from the sight of the court visitors.

SURPRISE AFFAIR
The home of Mrs. M. E. Fritz, 301 North Kenwood street, was the scene of a pretty affair Wednesday afternoon when Miss Esther Jones and Miss Clover Johnson were hostesses at a surprise shower for Miss Bess Vorwerk, who will soon become the bride of Burdette Rockhold.
It was a complete surprise to the honoree, who spent the morning in Los Angeles, returning to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Fritz, to find a number of friends and relatives assembled waiting her appearance.
The rooms were prettily decorated with carnations and breath of flowers. In a game in which guests were requested to write good wishes for the bride, using the word "well" the prize was awarded to the grandmother, Mrs. Fritz, who presented the prize, a handsome bud vase, to the honoree.
At the close of the afternoon, the bride-to-be, was given a small bucket with directions to go to the "well." These led her to a cleverly arranged "well" with an "old oaken bucket" where she discovered the many lovely gifts of which she was recipient. Dainty refreshments were served, and tiny "wells" were favored.

Included guests were Mrs. Herbert Cunningham of Los Angeles; Mrs. Lottie Hill of Silver City, New Mexico; Mrs. Anna Penney of Guatemala; Mrs. O. T. Nye and Mrs. Katherine of Eagle Rock; Mrs. E. W. THEATRES

THE GLENDALE
"The Toll of the Sea," which continues to thrill and amaze audiences at the Glendale Theatre, is a marvelous color film, made by a new patented process that it is said took seven years to develop.
"The Toll of the Sea" was produced by the Technicolor Motion Picture company, story by Frances Marion, direction of Chester M. Franklin, photography by J. A. Ball.
The inventions that make possible this marvelous process are the work of Professors Kalmus, Cowstock and Westcott. Metro pictures distribute the film, which is a weird, beautiful legend of the Sea, with a Japanese locale.
The splendid cast includes Kenneth Harlan, Anna May Wong, Baby Marian and Beatrice Bentley.
In addition, today's patrons of the Glendale Theatre will have another opportunity to witness what is claimed to be the most amazing vaudeville act ever shown before the citizens of Glendale—"The Miracle Girl," where a girl is tied inside a large box and dozens of knives and bayonets passed through it without harming her.

BOOTH TO WAGE FIGHT ON BONDS

Candidate for Council Is Opposed to Purchase of Airport Site

Editor of The Evening News:—In respect to the airport ground bond issue, there is a principle involved. I still adhere to the stand I have taken in the matter regarding the purchase of same by not bringing same before the electors in the first place to vote upon; secondly, I object to our city council launching out in the real estate business, whether it is going to prove a good investment or otherwise. If any private enterprise wants to purchase an airport station for profit, let him do it. There is plenty of vacant acreage that can be obtained at reasonable prices, also manufacturing concerns would lease from private owners for industrial purposes, after getting permission from city or county authorities.

I notice on the sample ballot sent out, airport is not mentioned, but is camouflaged by the words, "Water Bearing Ground Bonds." Are we sure that Glendale can use the water from this land, or does Los Angeles have any prior right to its use? I believe Glendale might get permission to use this water for only domestic purposes, if she could prove she really needed it, but could she bring it across the line without permission from Los Angeles. Anyway we have all the water we need here in Glendale, and the finest water at that.

Urge Defeat of Bonds I wonder what kind of water could be gotten from this airport ground when occupied by the various industrial concerns mentioned in the city manager's report, and also from the cesspools being made for the ever-growing population in that new district. Would not this tend to pollute a water supply used for domestic purposes? It might be used for irrigation. Therefore I hope the bond issue No. 3 will be defeated by a large majority.

I am heartily in favor of the amendment No. 7 being carried unanimously, for our soldier boys, as I think we cannot do too much for those that gave life and limb for our country's sake. I had eighteen nephews fighting in the great world war and lost one, just a year before its conclusion, blown to pieces at Vimy Ridge, and another relative shell shocked. Yours very truly, FRANK BOOTH, 111 S. Kenwood St. Glendale, Cal.

"Each must do his little bit, and do it with a will, But numbers count when pushing So, if you're working for a cause, and the cause is right, Unity for Service will make the burdens light."

Webb Pledged To Business Methods In Running City

DON H. WEBB, business man, who is a candidate for one of the two vacancies on the City Council of Glendale. The election will be held next Tuesday.

The support that has swung into line behind the candidacy of Don H. Webb in his race for a place on the city council at the election to be held on Tuesday, April 10, is taken as an assurance of his election by students of the political situation in Glendale, and predictions are freely made that he will run first in the list of those who are seeking the two vacancies that exist on the board.

Mr. Webb has been a resident of Glendale for the past eleven years, during the greater part of which he has been connected with the Glendale Hardware company, of which he is now manager. He stands squarely on a platform of a business administration for the business of the city of Glendale, and promises that his every effort, in the event of his election, will be devoted to promoting the interests of the city and of its people in every way consistent with the policy of a square deal for everyone and favoritism for nobody.

He possesses in a marked degree the vision that is needed to build Glendale up along the lines that will lead to her greatest development along sound and progressive lines, and he promises to scrutinize carefully every project that is laid before the board of trustees, of which he is a member, in order that the matter may be carried out to the best interests of Glendale, irrespective of the politics of its proponents or opponents.

Mr. Webb is a member of the Masonic lodge, the Elks, the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, the Glendale Credit association, and is now serving as secretary of the Kiwanis club, and through all these organizations he is in close touch with the needs of the city, and can aid in bringing about a solution of them.

A vote for Don H. Webb means a vote for a business administration for Glendale.

West Glendale Will Hear Candidates

The West Glendale Improvement Association meets at 8 o'clock tonight, at the Columbus avenue school, announces Rudolph Streit, president of the association.

The seven candidates for the two vacancies on the City Council will be present and make brief talks on their candidacy for the election of Tuesday, April 10. The association will then take up the matter of the amendments to the city charter, also up for vote at the election of next Tuesday, the proposition dealing with the proposed Airport being due for special consideration, it is reported.

Last night Mr. Jeter spoke on "Revival Power," while in the afternoon Mrs. Jeter talked on "How to Do Personal Work." Mr. Jeter promises a new thrill Sunday night, when he speaks on "The Sort of a Young Man a Young Woman Should Marry, and Vice Versa."

Clean-Spark Power

Automobile power is slowed up by a number of things, but none is any more important for consideration than the use of the right kind of gasoline to begin with. It is an error to imagine that a clean sparkplug and snappy ignition is all that is necessary to enforce complete combustion in the cylinder. Unless your gasoline reaches the spark in vapor form it will not deliver its full power content. Unless it vaporizes evenly, it does not give up its "kick." And, unless it is full of power units, your purchase of it is a purchase of so much liquid instead of POWER.

SLASH IN FARES WILL BE SOUGHT

City Attorney Will Appear Before Commission at Monday's Meeting

Another attempt to secure lower fares between Glendale and Los Angeles is to be made Monday by City Attorney Hartley Shaw when the State Railroad Commission meets in Los Angeles.

Request that such action be taken was made at last night's council meeting by Peter L. Ferry of 614 East Acacia avenue, chairman of the transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

According to Mr. Ferry, Pacific Electric officials recently intimated that they would not strenuously oppose a ruling lowering the rates. They asserted they could not reduce the rates themselves and suggested that the subject be taken before the railroad commission once more.

When inquiry was made as to whether a hearing would be likely to be held at this meeting, Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson replied no, that the petition probably merely would be filed—in the waste basket.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN
TUESDAY, APRIL 10TH

A City Government is like a business—either run at a profit or a loss. My 15 years as a successful business man in Glendale qualifies me to represent you on our Board of City Councilmen.

If I have the honor of being elected by you as your representative, I pledge my word of honor to adhere to my platform as stated here below:

- I am in favor of Public Comfort Stations centrally located.
- I am in favor of extending consideration to all parts of Glendale—North, South, East and West—all one Big Glendale.
- I am in favor of repairing our streets at the least possible expense to the property owners.
- I am in favor of taxing to the limit all outside peddling and soliciting.
- I am in favor of all forms of organized labor for the betterment of the working classes.
- I am in favor of Glendale city jobs for Glendale city men and city contracts for city merchants.
- I shall favor lower street car fares, telephones, gas, water and electricity.
- I shall endeavor to make the collection of garbage, tin cans, paper and junk self-sustaining.
- I shall favor well lighted streets and alleys. More light, less crime.
- I favor the old form of city government—each department to manage its own affairs, with promotion from the ranks.
- I am in favor of easy access to Griffith Park with a cheap city bus fare to and from.
- I shall oppose all forms of graft and bribery and all unnecessary expenditure of the taxpayers' money, by first bringing it before the electors.
- I shall oppose all fool ordinances with a live and let live policy.
- I shall favor a satisfactory solution for a sewer system.
- I am opposed to the bond issue respecting the purchase of the Airport Acreage; also the Verdugo Park—not so much the price paid for same, but the manner in which said purchase was made, by not bringing it before the people to vote on.

Your Interests shall be my Interests.
THANKS
Yours Truly, FRANK BOOTH.

ADD $400,000 TO BUDGET FIGURES

Governor Will Stand Pat on Keeping Expenses Inside Revenues

SACRAMENTO, April 6.—Budget increases of $400,000 above the amount originally included in that document are announced by Governor Friend W. Richardson.

In making this announcement the governor again reiterated that he would keep the expenses of the state within its estimated income of $89,000,000 and "the any attempt to place a direct tax upon the property of the people in the various counties would be resisted." The governor's statement follows:

"The governor has made a very careful study of all the suggestions in regard to changes in the budget and has held conferences with various officers, with the board of control, with Senator Gates, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, and with Assemblyman Kline, chairman of the ways and means committee of the assembly.

Will Stand Pat
"In this way he has been apprised of all of the objections to the budget and of various proposals for changes. The governor will stand firm for the budget as a whole and for its general plan and purpose. He wants to treat all state departments fairly and justly and insists that economy and efficiency must be practiced.

It can be definitely announced that increases will be made in the following departments: Civil service, state library, San Francisco, California school for girls, Sonoma home, criminal identification bureau, forestry department, department of agriculture and California school for deaf and blind."

Dagnet Is Spread for Belle of Yorba Linda

FULLERTON, Cal., April 6.—Police of Fullerton are extending a search through three states for 15 year old Myrtle Crosby, wealthy heiress and belle of Yorba Linda, near here, who disappeared from the home of her guardians, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, in the company of a strange young man of dashing appearance.

Putting a small trunk in the back of the stranger's automobile, the girl leaped into the car and the couple drove rapidly from the house during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Monday night, according to neighbors who witnessed the departure.

Authorities in towns and cities throughout California, Nevada and Arizona were requested to be on the lookout to apprehend the fleeing couple for the Fullerton police.

Judge Lindsay Boosts Sheppard-Towner Bill

SACRAMENTO, April 6.—Judge Ben B. Lindsay of Denver, the famous children's judge, spoke before the two houses of the legislature, taking for his theme the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill which the assembly passed here several days ago.

The measure has been adopted in Colorado, Judge Lindsay said, and was really a protective measure for children and not merely for the mothers.

Each year 300,000 babies die in this country that could be saved, he declared, and the duty of saving them rests upon the state. The three great causes of child mortality were "sin of the parents, poverty and ignorance."

BILL URGED FOR MAPPING OF U. S.

One-Third of Country's Area Is Adequately
Surveyed, Claim

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Ever since Captain John Smith charted Chesapeake Bay, 300 years ago, surveys and maps have been made in the United States.

But it is only in comparatively recent years, according to Congressman Henry W. Temple, of Pennsylvania, that the need of accurate maps has been felt keenly by those engaged in the industrial and commercial development of the country.

Temple introduced a bill in the House in the last Congress to authorize the president to complete a topographical survey of the United States within the next twenty years. Steps will be taken early in the new Congress to put this bill through.

It was about fifty years ago that the government first realized the necessity of a more systematic plan of map-making, after expeditions were sent to explore the country west of the Mississippi.
In 1879 Congress established the United States Geological Survey.

Physical Maps Needed
Soon afterward Congress recognized that a geological survey must be based on topographical maps, so each year since 1889 it has made specific appropriations for such surveys.

Despite these appropriations, however, only about forty-three per cent of continental United States, exclusive of Alaska, has been mapped. Some of these maps, made more than a quarter of a century ago, are now classed as reconnaissance maps, and officials of the Geological Survey estimate that only about thirty-five per cent of the country is adequately mapped.

"Most of the foremost countries of the world have long considered the surveying and mapping of their areas one of their major governmental functions," said Congressman Temple, in discussing his bill. "The nations of Europe have been far more progressive in this matter than the nations of America. The British Isles have been entirely surveyed. Maps of all of France and Belgium are available on several scales. All of Germany has been mapped. Switzerland is the best mapped country in the world.

"In Asia, Japan has completed a reconnaissance survey of its entire area and is now carrying out a systematic program of detailed topographic mapping. China, however, has lagged behind.

Canada Progressive
"In America, Canada has adopted a progressive mapping program, although she has large areas still unsurveyed. Mexico is not well surveyed. Several of the larger countries of South America, notably Chile, Brazil and Argentina, have surveyed most of their industrially important areas.

In knowledge of its physical geography, the United States, Temple declared, is behind all the countries he mentioned, except Mexico and China.

Although a large part of the area of the public-land states has been subdivided into sections, the surveys have been made with the single purpose of marking on the public-land divisions, so that settlers could be placed on the lands. The township plats do not show elevations.

A topographical map is a relief map, which not only shows the shapes and elevations of land and water features by contour lines, but also pictures the artificial features, such as railroads, highways and buildings.

Representative Temple said that the cost of one battleship—about $50,000,000—would complete the mapping of the country in twenty years if it were invested now and interest were allowed on unexpended balances.

DEBT POLICY OF BRITISH SCORED

Slash in Army and Navy
Funds Rouses Fear
Among English

By LUTHER A. HUSTON,
For International News Service
LONDON, April 6.—There is a growing conviction in the minds of many British taxpayers, which is energetically fostered by certain influential newspapers, that Great Britain is the only European nation that is paying for the war. Britons seem to feel that the programme of the Government for the reduction of military and naval forces, coupled with its arrangements for funding its debts, is in marked contrast to the course being followed by her continental allies.

Reduction of the army, navy and air estimates for the coming year has afforded the occasion for a renewal of the arguments that Britain alone of the European nations who fought against Germany is endeavoring to reduce her expenditures for military and naval purposes as near as conditions will permit to pre-war basis. England's agreement with the United States with respect to her debt is supplying fuel for those who desire to point out that Great Britain is the only European nation that is endeavoring to meet her liabilities.

Big Cuts Are Made
During 1923-1924 Great Britain proposes to spend for the upkeep of her army approximately $252,720,000 as compared with $136,080,000 for the pre-war years of 1913-1914. For the navy she will spend $281,880,000
as compared with $238,140,000
for the fiscal year of 1913-1914.

Colossal as the expenditures for the ensuing year seem to be they nevertheless represent cuts of approximately $59,000,000 for the army and $123,000,000 for the navy during the last twelve months.

England's total expenditure in 1923-1924 for her army, navy and air forces will approximate $407,- 500,000, according to official estimates of the Government.

The economies which England is effecting in her military expenditures, it is declared, have been inspired by two considerations. One is to fulfill the agreement entered into at the Washington arms conference—an agreement France has failed to ratify. The other is to enable her to meet the terms of the debt-funding agreement with the United States.

Army Is Much Reduced
The inequality between Great Britain's efforts at economy and the payment of her debts as compared with what her continental allies are doing is emphasized by a comparison of the manpower of England's army with that of France, Italy, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania. England next year will maintain an army of 171,- 000 men. France's army is estimated at 713,000 men; that of Italy at 210,000, Jugo-Slavia at 100,000 and Rumania at 160,000.

In the matter of air forces it is pointed out that Britain now has only 371 planes in commission, while France has 1,256.

While Britain has concluded an agreement with the United States, it is argued, her European allies have not made the slightest gesture toward payment of the sums they borrowed from England during the war. Practically the only good debts England has, it is declared, are the $729,000,000 owed her by her dominions.

Taxes Excessive Now
The programme of Great Britain next year will impose assessments of approximately $81 upon every man, woman and child in the British Isles.
France's burden of taxation, it is pointed out, is less than $25 for each man, woman and child.

There are those in England,
also, who argue that the nation has gone to the verge of the danger-point in the reduction of her military forces in the face of existing conditions in Europe. Some observers hint that a "mad race of armaments is to begin." In that event, they declare, England would be compelled, through the necessity of self-preservation, to keep up with the procession, and to do this, on top of the debt-paying and domestic taxation burdens, would mean ruin.

Those who take this more or less gloomy view of things have not thus far come forward with any remedial proposals, apparently preferring to leave the matter to the Government to adjust.
They are emphatic in asserting, however, that the situation is one which "cries aloud for attention."

Business Spells Doom
Of Old French Cafe

PARIS, April 6.—Things may come, but many go. The celebrated Restaurant Paillard, long familiar to Boulevardiers, with its heavy red curtains hiding its cozy salons from the eyes of the passerby, is to go the way of the Mardore, the Cafe Anglais and the famous Tortoni's.

A large foreign banking house is soon to take possession of this animated corner where, in the eighteenth century, stood the barracks of the French Guards, a training school for cadets, Emperor Joseph II., of Germany, inspected the place in 1777 and many famous leaders had their military training there.

In 1799 the barracks were torn down and the celebrated Cafe de Foy was going up when Louis XVI passed by one morning on his way to the trial before the national convention. That was the day after Christmas in 1792. This was then one of the most fashionable quarters of Paris. Madame Recamier lived in the house of Madame de Stael and had many newly-rich citizens as neighbors.

MIRACLE GIRL IS PUZZLE TO FANS

Bound in Cabinet, Pierced With Hardware, Comes Out Smiling

Professor Horace Sierak, whose
"Miracle Girl" is baffling audiences at the Glendale Theatre today, offers $500 to anyone who can solve the mystery.

What happens is this: The professor challenges a committee from the audience to come up on the stage and tie the girl in any way they please. He then places her in a tight-fitting box, on an open stand and in full view of the audience—whereupon he proceeds to thrust into the box from all sides a most vicious collection of cutlery, including twelve bayonets, fifteen large sickleknives and four sheets of steel.

Then, after turning the box around and showing every side to be thoroughly pierced, Professor Sierak opens the box and the girl is seen still securely bound and entirely unharmed.

This act caused such a sensation upon its previous appearance, states Manager William Howe of the Glendale Theatre, that he went to considerable trouble and expense to bring it back for two more days.

Anyone who thinks he might win
the prize of $500 for the correct solution to the problem, should be on hand to tell Professor Sierak how he does it.

Wood—the Everlasting Material

The early pioneers of this country did not use rocks for the construction of their cabins. They selected the choice trees—woods that they knew were noted for their Permanence—as the proper building material to protect themselves and their families from the elements.

And those cabins have lasted scores and scores of years.

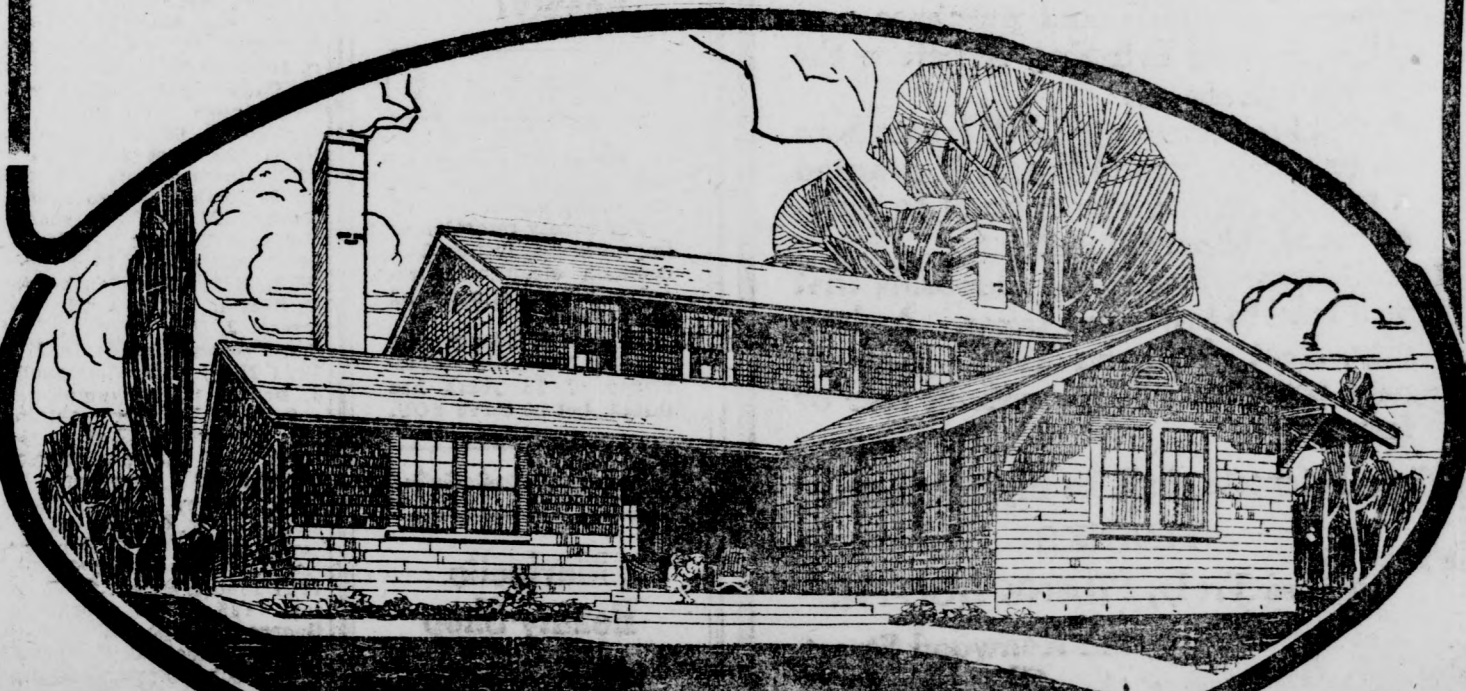

The same conditions hold good today. If you're going to build and build for Permanence—Build of Wood. But be sure that the Lumber you use is properly selected. You'll be assured of that when you buy here. Every board and every timber that leaves our yard is carefully inspected so that every customer is fully satisfied. And he will be with

C. E. UNION WILL MEET IN POMONA

Annual Convention Will Be Rallying Point for L. A. Societies

The thirty-first annual convention of the Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor Union will be held in Pomona, April 20, 21 and 22. From all over the county will come about 2000 delegates from all churches.

The program of the convention is one of the strongest ever presented. The speaker for the opening session will be "Fighting" Bob Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, Los Angeles, a man of rare ability.

Dr. John Marvin Dean, pastor of the First Baptist church, Pasadena, will address the evening session on Saturday night. At this session the prizes for the County Union's great Four Square Contest will be awarded.

On Sunday afternoon two great mass meetings will be held, when the two speakers will be Dr. R. A. Hadden and Rev. L. S. Bauman. At the closing session Sunday evening Dr. George M. Rourke of Long Beach will speak.

Saturday morning and afternoon will be devoted to classes and conferences on all phases of Christian Endeavor work. One of the features will be a symposium, or open forum, conducted by Paul C. Brown, Pacific coast secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. George Ellingswood Joy, director of religious education of Temple Baptist church, will speak on "Leadership—How to Acquire It," at the opening of the symposium. Rev. W. S. Buchanan, Broadway Christian church, Los Angeles, will speak at the afternoon session.

Three Banquets
There will be three big banquets Saturday evening, called "Rain-bow Banquets," having for the speakers Rev. Bruce V. Black, pastor of Wilshire Baptist church, Los Angeles; Paul C. Brown, and Dr. W. P. White, formerly pastor of the United Presbyterian church, Albany, Ore. Music for the banquets will be furnished by the Pomona Glee club and the Hawaiian Trio of Pomona college.

A Quiet Hour Sunrise service will be held Sunday morning in the Greek theatre in Ganesha park under the leadership of Roy E. Creighton.

Two Bible classes will be held both Saturday and Sunday mornings, to be taught by Dr. W. P. White and Dr. O. P. Gifford, two of the greatest Bible teachers in the country.

The song leader for the convention will be Byron L. Burditt, director of religious education of the First Christian church, Pomona. Those three master artists will preside at the pianos, Grace Creighton, Leslie Harlan and James Garth. The Harmony Quartette of Los Angeles and the Magnify Quartette will also be on the program.

As far as possible this is to be a Bible convention dealing with the inspiration of the Scripture, its power in the life and its relation to every-day affairs. Therefore, the theme for the convention is to be "The Infallible Word."

COMMENT That's All

Marry Early, Young Folk! Disappointment For Cecil Spirit of Americanism Opportunity for Big Men
By Gil A. Cowan

CURRENT reports have it that George Hearst, son of the noted publisher, ran away from the University of California over the week-end and married one of the campus co-eds.

Hurrah for George! We're for him. He has a mind of his own and from all that can be learned he exercised good judgment in his selection of a young fellow who today allow good opportunities to pass by in not showing the proper speed.

And we have reached the conclusion that in this age of haste the more quickly a young man and young woman marry the better for society, provided a bit of better judgment is displayed. Too many youngsters ignore their purpose in life, floating around like butterflies or humming birds and finally emanating the hawk which grabs its prey.

The United States leads the world in about everything except love. Education along that line is lacking, and it takes the exception like George Hearst to prove the rule. Most of us meander about in a restrained sort of a way, educated fools, always seeking, never attaining all we want. But George has a lifetime of happiness ahead of him if some unkind fate does not intervene.

And there is no real reason why it should.

Lord Cecil, nice name, has arrived in this country to convince Americans the United States should become a member of the league of nations.

His lordship may well expect to be disappointed. And, further, his advice is not needed, for this government has in its congress many men who are fitted to pass judgment on such a question without foreign interference.

It is to be admitted that Woodrow Wilson, demagogic democrat, was creator of the league, but it is not the league he had in mind when he first went to Versailles.

The league of nations as it stands today is a creature of autocracy. It is the British lion personified. And, worse still, it is a matter of no importance to anyone except international bankers who insist that the United States be a party to underwriting the bankrupt nations of the earth by subscribing to a covenant which guarantees that.

Of course, altruistic claims are made, such as promotion of world peace, but fundamentally today the league of nations reminds one of a bitter pill with a sugar coating; a poor piece of furniture with a fine veneer.

Real Americans want none of it. We will make and take our own medicine, but we absolutely refuse to allow doctors in Geneva to prescribe European doctrines for the United States to swallow as its part of the program in world affairs.

The spirit of Americanism needs must find its home on these Pacific shores, out where the west is best, and where the highest civilization of the twentieth century is fast developing.

We of the west must resist that which spells subservience. We must cherish that which was dear to the hearts of Washington and Lincoln and Roosevelt. Let the rest of the world roll by, but for us it is to build something bigger, many things better and all things more noble than that which has gone before in Athens or Rome or Paris or London.

It is the duty of the youth of California to turn their eyes toward world leadership, for four score and seven years from the close of the great war will find in this state and this nation the controlling force of the world.

The greatest opportunity for big men in government today presents itself. True, it is an unappreciated service. It is a work of love with little glory, except that which is written after mortal has passed from this earthly sphere.

In a speech before the University of California students recently Senator Arthur H. Breed endeavored to drive home to them the duty they owe their state by turning their knowledge to benefit of the commonwealth.

Were Abraham Lincoln alive today, his answer to the question of reappointment in California at the present time would be clothed in the language he once used in discussing "The Perpetuation of Our Political Institutions." He said:

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property, his sacred honor—let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his fathers, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty."

DAVIS PREDICTS LABOR'S FREEDOM

Secretary of Labor Offers Union Members Remedy In Industrial War

WARREN, Ohio, April 6.—"We are approaching the day when labor shall be really free, when industry shall be unshackled," Secretary of Labor James J. Davis told his fellow-members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America, assembled here in convention yesterday.

Workers everywhere, Secretary Davis said, are learning that they stand no longer in the relation of master and servant, "but that they are co-workers, partners, whose joint and mutual interests march side by side. They are coming to know that the prosperity of industry depends upon production and that industrial warfare is the greatest enemy of production."

Deprecates Strikes
Cautioning his fellow unionists to be slow to "use the strike weapon," Mr. Davis said:

"I am not one of those who believe you can force industrial peace into being by legal enactment," adding that the principle of compulsory arbitration did not appeal to him and that information came to him which "shows that wherever it has been tried, it is proved a failure."

The remedy, it was pointed out, "lies not in governmental interference between the employe and employer, but in direct negotiation and mutual understanding."

At this time no earthly thought should intrude. This is no time for jarring sound, no place for any accident, ill-advised movement or unforeseen interruption. The Heart of Ming Woy

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

New Year's in Chinatown is a day for the paying of debts and the presenting of li see to one's friends. It is a season when the provident may go about exchanging small amounts of money for family treasures, when hard bargains may be pushed, for the Chinese will part with his most prized possessions that he may balance his accounts with the world.

Everywhere in Chinatown the lilies and hawthorn blossoms, and men and women who hand the red packages of li see to those for whom they experience the feeling of friendship. Only for those who have lost in the gaming is the New Year's sad.

Ming Woy, widow, stands on the corner and watches the crowds pass. Old men with hands tucked in the fronts of their blouses shuffle by, looking neither to right nor left. Maidens with the silk trousers of the Orient and the high-heeled shoes of the Occident, laugh and giggle as do the girls the world over. Little boys, with hair slicked in the American cut, move by in small groups, their faces shining with soap and happiness. The heart of Ming Woy is sad and her face is set.

In her hand is a single red package, which she clasps to her breast. She is waiting for the one to whom it shall be given. Dan Carney, who has watched her on three New Year's days, watches again.

The Chinese woman steps away from the building against which she was leaning and her eyes are on a little boy who is led by an old man. In the boy's hands she places the package, and her eyes never leave his face. The old man grunts and tugs at the lad's arm and the two walk off. Ming Woy stands and watches until they are gone, and her expression is always the same. She turns and disappears. Dan Carney determines to find the story behind the ceremony, the tragedy he feels is behind the inscrutable face of the woman.

Four years ago Ming Woy, mother of little Ming Lee, who was blessed from birth with the certainty of a long and happy life, was stirred to provide for his future. Did not the wise man say, Ming Lee would be rich and wise? It was an omen of luck, and fortune was needed. Ming Woy started to play the lottery, and every evening marked a square of paper which was later placed

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

I, I, I, MYSELF, I THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME CHAPTER LI Chronic Constipation

I am not constipated because I am a normal healthy breast-fed baby and my mama eats the right kind of foods so that my milk is just wonderful for me and she herself is not constipated. If you don't know about what a nursing mama should eat, send the self-addressed, stamped envelope to my doctor and she will send you the list.

Constipation in our breast-fed babies is not as common as it is in artificially fed babies. One other reason why I am not constipated is because I have a regular time for my bowel movements. You know I was trained to use the little vessel held in my mama's lap before I was three months old and nothing is allowed to interfere with this important habit of mine. If you mamas whose babies are constipated will begin teaching your babies to have a regular time for the bowel movements, that may cure them of their constipation.

Sometimes constipation is caused by babies not getting enough water to drink. We should have some boiled water to drink every day, mamas. By the time we are two or three months old we can have from one to two ounces during the day. One drink given in the morning and one in the middle of the afternoon. By the time we are a year old we can have up to a whole glassful during the day.

Then there is another thing that helps keep both our fortunate breast-fed babies and the artificially fed babies from being constipated, and that is orange juice. If you begin in small enough quantities—as small as one-third of a teaspoonful in an ounce of water—and then increase it a few drops every day until we are getting a tablespoonful twice a day by the time we are six months old, you can begin giving us orange juice as early as the first month. By the time we are a year old we can have twice as much or more than that.

Sometimes prune juice is more laxative. The prune juice is made by washing some prunes thoroughly, just covering them with cold water and letting them soak overnight. In the morning cook slowly until tender. The juice can be

FILING RIDGY NAILS

Few women know the value of a pumice stone properly used. You can treat warts by rubbing them gently with a bit of pumice you can wear off superfluous hair from the skin, though, as this requires enough rubbing to make the skin slightly sore, I doubt its value as a treatment. The great use of pumice, in my mind, is to wear off bad stains from the fingers and to rub smooth edges on finger nails.

You must have a fine quality pumice, otherwise the nails will be too deeply scratched. First of all, soak the fingers in warm, soapy water. A few minutes' immersion is quite enough. In fact, you will save time if you use the pumice immediately after a bath or after washing the hands and face. Then take the pumice and go carefully over each nail, filling down the ridges until they seem smooth. It is remarkable how little you must take off to do away with what seems like a deep ridge. Wash the nails again and, if you are manicuring, finish this process without paying any attention to the nails' scratched surface.

Rub the nails with some good oil or cold cream, or better yet with vaseline and wipe it off, then rub your polisher quickly with a good cake or powder polish. And now polish the nails as hard as you can, going back and forth over each one separately with quick, firm strokes. It will take longer than the ordinary buffing, but even so in a remarkably short time you will have polished off every trace of a scratch. Then wash the cream and powder from the nail and polish again with a clean buffer.

This treatment need not be repeated more than once in a few months. As the new nail grows in new ridges will appear, and when these seem prominent they can be filed down also. As a matter of fact, keeping the nails well fed with oil will do much to prevent ridges.

A KNITTED SLIP-OVER FOR THE 14-YEAR-OLD GIRL

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Grapefruit, Cereal, Wholemeal Toast, Boiled Eggs, Coffee.

Luncheon: Baked Beans with Catsup, Lettuce, Wholewheat Bread and Butter, Tea, Jelly.

Dinner: Radishes, Corned Beef, Cabbage, Boiled Potatoes, Coffee, Fruit Salad, Raisin Pie.

While the following garment is intended for the 14-year-old girl, a small 16-year-old can wear it. Misses' Slip-over with Half Length Sleeves—Five balls of Columbia floss (or any floss of like weight), one pair of either bone or celluloid knitting needles size three, and four fancy bone buttons.

Back: Cast on 95 sts., work in a ribbing of k 5, p 5 for seven inches (this lower part of the sweater fits snugly over the hips). At the end of the seven inches, knit plain for seven more inches. Then bind off 2 sts. at each end and decrease 1 st. at each end of each rib three times. Knit three ribs plain.

Yoke: Knit across, decreasing by knitting together every fourth and fifth stitches. Row 2: P across. Row 3: K across. Repeat rows 2 and 3 for five inches. Then knit 25 sts., bind off 20 sts.

Front: Continuing with yoke stitch, knit four rows even. On the fifth row cast on 15 sts at front and k 5 inches; but on the purling rows k 5 sts. at front edge. (This is to prevent the edge from curling.) When yoke is finished, work across, increasing by knitting the front and back of every fourth stitch. K 3 ribs plain, increase 1 stitch at underarm each rib three times and finally cast on 5 sts. at underarm. K seven inches plain and leave on spare needle. Work other front to correspond and then k all across, working the center stitch from each needle together. Work border to match back and bind off on wrong side.

Sleeve: Pick up stitches around armhole, 1 stitch for each rib and 1 stitch for every other row of yoke stitch. Knit plain, decreasing 1 stitch at each end every third rib until there are 40 sts. left, and k even until there are 60 ribs from shoulder. K 5, p 5 for five inches and bind off.

Collar: Pick up stitches around neck, knit plain for five inches, and bind off.

The four buttons are placed in two pairs on either side of the lower opening of the V-neck, two knitted loops joining them when the wearer wishes to close her sweater over her chest.

PROTECTIVE THINKING

A woman I know is always taking occasion to say that she thinks the most important virtue in a properly fed baby is the ability to provide for her maternal wants. The husband who can't do that, she says, is no good no matter what his other virtues are.

She isn't at all the sort of woman whom you would expect to hold a view like that, and I used to wonder why she said such things. I think I understand now. And this is the line of reasoning that has helped me to understand the phrase "protective thinking."

Protective thinking explains her perfectly, and she illustrates protective thinking perfectly.

You know what the phrase means, doubtless, and anyhow it defines itself. Protective thinking is the thinking you do in unconscious self-protection.

His Own Virtue

This woman has a husband who is an excellent provider. That is his main, and in the eyes of most people, his only virtue. He was bad tempered and he drank. Her sisters married men who had many other charms and were well liked in the community but were not such good providers. She is too proud to admit that her married life is a failure, and so she puts standards by which it will seem a success.

She isn't simply trying to deceive the rest of us. I am convinced that it goes much deeper than that. She is trying to deceive herself, to protect herself from thinking that her marriage is a failure.

Either she has made a terrible mistake in marrying him or else her husband's one virtue is so important that it outweighs all his other grave faults. The first can not be true and, therefore, the second must.

Good Reasons vs. Real Reasons

In his fascinating book, "Mind in the Making," Robinson tells of a chairman who informed the gathering that a certain public man who had promised to speak to them was not able to speak for good reasons. The good reasons were, I believe, that some member of his family was ill. "But," says the chairman, "you may guess for yourself what the real reasons were."

This distinction between good reasons and real reasons, Robinson goes on to point out, is at the basis of protective thinking. We give ourselves good reasons in stead of real reasons for many of our acts and our beliefs.

TODAY—California may lose the distinction of being the only state in the union employing a professional "lion killer," writes Ellis H. Martin, San Francisco correspondent.

TOMORROW—Reiland Krebs, Chicago correspondent, puts the spotlight on the interesting night life of the lake metropolis.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—California may lose the distinction of employing the only paid "lion hunter" in the United States.

In four years past Jay Bruce, the state's official lion killer, has stalked and killed 127 mountain lions. No provision has been made for his retention in the new state budget, although game lovers and live stock owners in the isolated mountain regions are rallying to have Bruce's $25 a week salary reinstated in the budget.

Bruce is not working greatly over his future. He has had many offers to act as guide for private parties interested in the thrill of lion hunting, but has preferred to continue as state exterminator of the "beasts of the mountains."

According to statistics compiled by the state fish and game commission, mountain lions annually take a huge toll in game and live stock.

"The 600 lions in the state probably kill 20,000 deer each year," Bruce revealed in an interview, "or twice as many as hunters bag each year. The lions make a fresh kill for every meal if possible. Their depredations on live stock may be imagined from that fact that in August, 1919, I killed a male lion that had killed 300 goats in one year."

Bruce pursues his hazardous occupation alone, with the exception of his highly trained dogs, which are his constant companions, and which from long training can follow the trail of a mountain lion under almost impossible mountain conditions.

The latest exploit of Bruce was the killing of "Big Jim," a mountain lion which for eight years had been the terror of the Mt. Hamilton district, south of here. This mountain outlaw brought the avenging Bruce on his trail when he destroyed twenty head of pedigree stock valued at $2000.

The Santa Clara County Cattle-men's association reported depredations of "Big Jim" to the state fish and game commission. Bruce, packing a gun and accompanied by his trio of dogs, "Ranger," "Scout" and "Ely," was assigned to the task of bringing in the dead body of the killer.

"Fifteen miles southeast of Mt. Hamilton," said Bruce, "the trail was located. I followed it for six miles, when rain fell and obliterated the marks.

"Two days after the rain I again picked up tracks, and while following it there over rough brush-covered canyons and ridges, tracked and shot two lionesses, one weighing eighty-five pounds and the other seventy-five.

"Big Jim" made a kill and disappeared for several days, but on the morning of February 23, I again discovered the trail. A five-hour chase ensued, the animal crossing three 1000 feet deep canyons.

"Then the dogs brought the animal to bay on a limb of a large live oak tree on the east side of Coyote creek. When I arrived on the scene a few seconds later the lion was crouched on a limb forty feet above ground. A patch of the animal's chest showed through the concealing foliage.

"I tied my dogs to a tree to prevent them from charging on the lion when it fell. I stood directly under the lion and shot upward. The wounded beast plunged to the spot where I had stood a moment before. Seeking escape, the animal lunged toward the creek and disappeared. I followed. I trailed the lion for 100 yards, to find it hiding on a rock bluff.

"I worked my way into an open tunnel and approached the source of spitting growls. Peering around a ledge of rock I looked into the green eyes and snarling jaws of the animal. It raised its huge paw to strike as I shot. The bullet struck the lion between the eyes."

The lion was seven feet long and weighed 150 pounds, an unusually large specimen.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT BY LIEUT JOHN R. IRWIN U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

VACUUM TUBES Continuing the subject of our last article. Suppose that the filament temperature is kept constant, then a definite number of electrons will flow or be sent out per second. The number of electrons that travel across the tube and reach the plate per second determines the magnitude of the current through the plate circuit. The number of electrons that reach the plate increases as the voltage of the "B" battery increases. If this voltage is continuously increased a value will be reached at what is termed the "saturation" current, as no further increase of the electron flow can be obtained by increasing the voltage.

Suppose now that the voltage of the "B" battery is kept at a constant value, the filament temperature gradually raised by increasing the current from the heating battery, known also as the "A" battery. The number of electrons sent out will continue to increase as the temperature rises. The electric field intensity, due to the pressure of negative electrons in the space between the filament and the plate, may at last equal and neutralize that due to the positive potential of the plate so that there is no force acting on the electrons near the filament. This effect of the electrons in the space is called the "space charge effect." It must not be supposed that the space charge effect is caused by the same electrons all the time. Electrons near the plate are constantly entering it, but new electrons emitted by the filament are entering the space, so that the total number between filament and plate remains constant at a given temperature. After the temperature of the filament has reached the point where the effect of the electrons present in the space between the filament and plate neutralizes the effect of the plate voltage, any further increase of the filament temperature is unable to cause an increase in the current. The tendency of the filament to emit more electrons per second because of the increased temperature is offset by the increase in space charge effect, which would result if electrons were emitted more rapidly, or, to put it more exactly, for any extra electrons emitted an equal number of those in space are repelled back into the filament.

Thus whether the "A" battery is kept at a constant value and the "B" battery varied, or vice versa, in either case we find that the electron flow or plate current can only rise to a certain value.

Miles Poindexter Sails For Peruvian Post

NEW YORK, April 6.—Miles Poindexter, former United States senator from the state of Washington and newly appointed ambassador to Peru, with his wife and secretary, Miss Hattie Leek, sailed for South America, the Grace liner, Santa Elisa.

Mrs. Poindexter refused to discuss her writings in which she alleged there was considerable drinking and gambling in official diplomatic circles at Washington.

"I am looking forward with much pleasure to my trip to Peru," Poindexter said. "I have never been there and I am quite sure I will like it. The interest of the people of the United States in Peru is growing and the important trade and social relations between the two countries will keep my time occupied while I am there. I believe that our relations with Peru and with all the countries of South America are more important than our relations with any other part of the world."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PUNCTURED TIRE

The Woolly Wolf was trotting along the woodland path and he was singing. This was so unusual for the Wolf scarcely ever sang, that his friend, the Fuzzy Fox, curried his tail in surprise and asked: "Why are you so jolly, Mr. Wolf?" "Because I am going to catch Uncle Wiggily and nibble his ears—that's why I'm jolly," answered the Wolf, and he sang again. I can not call it good singing, but it was the best the Wolf could manage.

"How are you going to catch that rabbit gentleman?" asked the Fox. "I have tried many times, but he always gets away. Yesterday the Bob Cat tried to get Uncle Wiggily by beating a pie tin and making believe it was a fire alarm. But all that happened was that the Bob Cat and I were soaked with water. How can you catch the bunny?" "With these," and the Wolf held out a paper of tacks. "With those!" laughed the Fox. "You are silly; I suppose you think you can get Uncle Wiggily to come in your den to help you tack down your parlor rug—that is, if you have such a thing, which you haven't. And you think if he comes in you can nibble his ears! Ho! Ho! How silly you are!"

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" said the Wolf slowly. "You have it all wrong, I'm not going to catch Uncle Wiggily that way at all. What I am going to do is this. The next time he starts out in his automobile for a ride I will scatter these sharp tacks along the road. One of them will puncture his tire."

"When his tire goes flat he'll have to stop to make a change, and when he is doing that and pumping up his old tire, in case he has no spare, I'll jump out and nibble his ears."

"Hum," said the Fox slowly. "It sounds like a good trick. I'll watch you play it and if it works I'll get some tacks for myself and puncture another tire for him next day."

So the Wolf sneaked along until he reached the road which he knew Uncle Wiggily must come sooner or later. And, surely enough, the Wolf did not have long to wait. The Fuzzy Fox hid in the bushes to see what he said would be "fun."

In the road the Wolf scattered the tacks, with their sharp points up. Soon along came the bunny gentleman's auto.

"Whee-ze! whizz!" Suddenly the tire was struck by a tack, it was punctured and out hissed the air.

"Oh, ho!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily stopping his car. "An accident! Well, perhaps it may mean an adventure. I'll have to stop and change tire." But as it happened he had no spare tire, so he had to take out the punctured tube, mend it, put it back in the shoe and pump it up full of air again.

Uncle Wiggily started to do this when the Wolf, who was hiding in the bushes beside the road, began sneaking down to do his ear nibbling. The hidden Fox, who was also watching, whispered to himself.

"This time I believe Uncle Wiggily is going to be caught! Oh, I hope the Wolf saves some ear nibbles for me!"

Nearer and nearer crept the Wolf. Uncle Wiggily had finished

Dramatic Finish of Prelate's Trial Told

WARSAW, April 6.—Dramatic details of the execution of the Rev. Father Bukiwicz, vicar-general of the Catholic church in Russia, were received from Moscow today.

After he had been sentenced to death, the prelate addressed the tribunal. In a remarkable and sensational speech he denounced hatred, calling upon Heaven to eradicate it from all men's hearts.

"Strife—that is the word upon which these proceedings are based," exclaimed the vicar-general, raising his hands above his head. "We priests had no secret society. Our only society is the holy Roman Catholic church of the whole world."

At this point the prosecuting attorney, Krylenko, interfered. He rose to his feet and faced the prisoner, exclaiming in a loud voice: "The priest lies."

BRITAIN ORDERS HUGE AIRSHIPS

Flying Force Expanded in New Budget to Be Submitted Soon

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, April 6.—Great expansion in the British air forces will be disclosed when the annual budget is announced in May, it is learned on excellent authority.

Torpedo planes are reported to have been ordered in large numbers, and it is believed by some aerial experts that the British air ministry, after long experimentation, has decided that torpedo planes are the most effective type of aerial fighters now available.

Long-Range Bombers
Long-range bombing machines also will be provided for in quantity in the next budget. These "ships" will be equipped with metal wings and will have longer range of flying than any bombers now in use.

What Other Legion Posts And Cities Are Doing

APPRECIATIVE PEOPLE ASSIST LEGION EFFORTS TO BUILD PATRIOTIC HOMES

TUJUNGA POST numbers thirty-five men. They bought a big lot and a fine stone building which had been built for a community center for $7,000.

The clubhouse is being paid for by the Legion's Moon Festival and other entertainments, backed and supported by the entire community. The Legion fills a great niche in Tujunga civil life.

A workman must have tools—the better tools he has the better work he can do.

San Fernando Post has acquired a desirable lot and their future home is not far in the future, according to San Fernando boosters.

Alhambra is a progressive city booming along in the Glendale class. Alhambra Post had some money, made a payment down on a big lot and the balance secured by one of Alhambra's business men.

Every organization must have a nucleus to become strong. Every worthwhile society grows rapidly when it has a home. An organization's service can be measured by its strength.

Venice of America Post, No. 177, has acquired a fine lot right in the heart of Venice, on the Lagoon, and is rushing a $20,000 clubhouse which will be in artistic harmony with civic architecture.

South Pasadena gave its Legion Post an elegant building site in one of the city parks, voted a bond issue of $12,000, and then got out and raised the balance necessary to put up the building.

SHOWS SUPREME CRISIS OF WORLD W. F. TOWER FOR AIRPORT BONDS

Adventist Pastor Tells of Tragedy of Calvary in Sunday Address
Good Purchase for Future of City, Is Opinion of Glendale Citizen

"The Tragedy of Calvary," the supreme crisis in the great controversy between the kingdom of Christ and the kingdom of Satan for the mastery of the world, was the theme of Rev. C. S. Prout at the Seventh Day Adventist tabernacle, on Myrtle avenue, Eagle Rock, Sunday evening.

This great controversy began in Eden, where Satan seduced the parents of the human family from their allegiance to God. Having overcome Adam, Satan set up his kingdom on the earth and undertook to bring all mankind into harmony with himself.

World's Greatest Battle
The great, supreme battle of the ages was not fought by contending millions of men amidst the roar of cannon and the clash of swords, but between Christ and Satan amidst the silent shadows of Gethsemane, while the world slumbered, unconscious that the issue of life or death for all mankind was trembling in the balance.

MONTROSE AWARD CONTRACT ON STREET WORK

Peter L. Ferry Starts Work On Improvements at Sparr Heights

A hundred thousand dollars' worth of street work is now in process in the first unit of Sparr Heights.

That is, $100,000 worth of contracts have been awarded to one contractor alone, Peter L. Ferry, of 614 East Acacia avenue, Glendale, the pioneer in this field in Glendale.

The improvement of Montrose boulevard, which is a continuation of Verdugo road, is regarded as the most important project contemplated by Barnum & Walters Co. This thoroughfare is to be made the Brand boulevard of Sparr Heights.

The present width of this highway is about fifty feet. This lies entirely on the east side of the right-of-way of the Glendale & Montrose railway.

Plans include the paving of the street on the west side of the right-of-way to a width of thirty-six feet and the transformation of the mile of this street, which passes through Sparr Heights, into a magnificent boulevard 120 feet wide.

Work is Started

With this idea in mind, work has been commenced already and is expected to continue steadily until this vision has become a reality. As one step in the progress the Glendale & Montrose railway is now completing the lowering of its spur track into the yard of the Montrose Lumber Company. Within a short time the actual work of grading and paving the west half of this boulevard will be actively under way.

The importance of Montrose boulevard cannot be overestimated, in the opinion of Will E. Chapin of Barnum & Walters.

"This is the only artery of travel between Sunland, Tujunga, La Crescenta, La Canada, Alta Canada, Flintridge and Glendale," he remarked. "All traffic from this up-country to Los Angeles and the beaches is obliged to use this highway."

The present population of the Tujunga district is estimated by Mr. Chapin at 15,000. He is confident that it will increase to many times this number within a very few years. He points to the fact that Los Angeles has maintained a growth of at least 1 1/2 per cent a year for the past thirty-one years.

Cites L. A. Growth

"In twenty-five years it has increased fourteen times," he stated. "It has never had such a rapid growth as it is having at the present time. At this rate of increase, the population of Los Angeles in another generation will be ten million."

The growth of Montrose cannot help but increase in conjunction with the growth of Los Angeles, according to Mr. Chapin. He believes that this is inevitable. He has every reason to believe that this district will have a population of at least 250,000 before long.

"The manifest destiny of man has always been westward," he remarked. "It is here and here alone that civilization can exist under the most favorable conditions."

"With the development of the up-country, the development of Montrose boulevard can not possibly be prevented. It is bound to become one of the most important business streets of the entire San Fernando valley. It is essentially desirable that it should be improved now, while there is a splendid opportunity, instead of attempting to do so later after it is too late."

To Pave Boulevard

Just as Mr. Chapin believes the business houses will line Bram boulevard and Glendale avenue all the way into the center of Los Angeles so does he believe that Verdugo road and Montrose boulevard and Glendale avenue before many years will be lined with stores all the way between Montrose and the heart of Glendale.

But the improvement of Montrose boulevard is not the only paving job being paid for by Barnum & Walters.

"Come around the middle of the month and see the checks that go out of this office," suggested Mr. Walters recently. "Improvements surely cost real money."

One of the other important street jobs under consideration is the paving of Sparr boulevard with solid concrete. This avenue is to wind around the hills on the east side of Montrose boulevard and form a connecting link between Verdugo road and Michigan avenue which leads to Flintridge.

Sparr boulevard is not intended to become a business street but is expected to become one of the most beautiful residential streets in southern California. Before long it is expected to be lined with beautiful homes. As proof of his belief in the future, H. E. Barnum has his own $18,000 home already under construction near it.

More Improvements

Ocean View avenue is to be another important street, according to the civic plan. This will unite by the closest route Montrose boulevard and Honolulu avenue. It is to be paved with three-inch macadam. Although this street is only half a mile long, it is believed that it is destined to be second in importance as a business street only to Montrose boulevard.

Five miles of street work altogether are now under way in Sparr Heights under direction of Contractor Peter L. Ferry. Of this mileage, three miles have been graded already while active work is under way to grade the remaining two miles. Sixteen men and thirty mules have been at work in

TUJUNGA LEGION TO BACK MOON FESTIVAL

Definite Plans Soon to Be Started for Celebration; Tujunga Personals

Some time ago there was formed an organization to be known as The Tujunga Moon Festival Association, the members being representatives appointed by the various business and club organizations. This association was to have relieved the Monte Vista Post of the American Legion of staging the annual fall festival, assuming the planning and responsibility incidental to such an undertaking. At a recent meeting it was decided to abandon this plan and the legion was again taken the initiative and is working on plans for again carrying out this year the staging of what has come to be an annual classic.

One of the obstacles encountered by the association was the question of financial responsibility. No one cared to assume this yet all desired a voice in the management, with the result that the Legion was asked to again take charge. Post 250 originated the idea and promoted the scheme heretofore with the cooperation of the citizens and citizens. The first festival held in 1921 was for the purpose of raising funds to purchase Bolton all, Monte Vista Post's headquarters and club rooms, but this purpose has since evolved into something bigger. It is planned to make the Moon Festival of Tujunga a distinctive emblematic of the Tujunga Valley.

At the next meeting of the American Legion definite plans will be started. It is very probable that one of the features of the festival will be a pageant or play to be written by John S. McGroarty, especially for the occasion.

Lured By Climate

That the fame of the salubrious climate of the Verdugo hills is not confined to this part, or even the middle west is evidenced by the previous residence addresses given by the latest home seekers in Tujunga.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Spaulding of Oroon, Canada, and Mrs. Mary Lovegrove of New York are the latest arrivals to seek succor from the rigors of ice and snow and winters. Mrs. Lovegrove is making plans to build on her eleven-acre property.

The tract known as Hillhaven was placed on the market only a few weeks ago and sold off rapidly. Several attractive residences have been completed and others are in the course of construction.

An attractive feature of this neighborhood is the amphitheatre, a shady, secluded glen, with stone ovens for picnic parties. This is a favorite spot with picnickers who would avoid the beaten paths and crowded public parks.

Buys Rabbit Stock

Peter Desjardin has just bought D. J. Warnick's rabbit stock, in which is included several fine specimens of the Flemish Giant variety. Mr. Desjardin is one of Tujunga's liveliest young hustlers and has been engaged in the poultry and rabbit business there for the past eighteen months, coming from Riverside, where his parents make their home. He bought one acre and proceeded to clear it of brush and stones entirely unaided and then built his string of chicken houses, also unaided. To these have been added a brooder der to reduce the feed man's profit to a minimum. Desjardin planted a small patch of alfalfa and one of ale, which make excellent chicken and rabbit feed. Then, to bring his own profits up to a maximum he sold the rocks he had cleared from his acre for building stone.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gerow moved up from Redondo Beach and spent Easter Sunday with Mrs. Stella Graham. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Gerow are with Mrs. Graham, who formerly made her home with them at the beach city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moore of Monte Vista boulevard are preparing to move into the new home they have just purchased on Marshall street.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pasha, formerly of Tujunga but now residing in Altadena, spent Monday evening visiting the former's father in Tujunga.

Mrs. J. C. Hoffman of Hollywood spent the Easter week-end with her sister, Mrs. Iva Crabtree.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Weidenhamer and small daughter, newcomers from Los Angeles, have purchased the Manning place on Monte Vista boulevard.

Jim Blaine, formerly of Glendale, is now Tujunga representative for Chas. B. Hoffman, Ford dealer of San Fernando. Mr. Blaine is an attorney by profession and practiced law in Houston, Texas, for nine years before coming west.

The streets in this tract since November, it is expected that the present street building program will be completed about the first of August.

"However, that does not mean that street work up here will end at that time," remarked Mr. Barnum. "No, indeed, we will have a new program of street improvement all ready by that time."

BURBANK TAKES COUNT OF MOTOR VEHICLES

2700 Automobiles Passing Through Burbank Each Business Day

A count of motor vehicles passing the corner of Olive avenue and San Fernando boulevard, Burbank, shows that 2700 pass this corner during business hours every day, at the rate of sixty cars every five minutes or 720 per hour.

The curtain rose at 8:15 o'clock, the first playlet to be produced being "The Trimplet," by Stuart Walker. It proved to be a very colorful and diverting trifle, the scene "partly then and partly nowadays." For those who may not know the story, it is a beautiful plot, Mr. Walker explains that it is "the hole a sunbeam makes in a shadow."

The cast of "The Trimplet" follows: The lady Bobolara, Bessie Morrison; The Marquis of Strenathos, Samuel Ratliff; The Lady Carolina, Wilda Bowlsby; The Baron Wilton-Maurice, Mr. Starbuck; The Person Passing By, Carter Moore; You (in the audience), Edmund Brady; The Wild Bird, Hope Taylor; Memory, Bessie Morrison; Prologue, Samuel Ratliff; Device-Bearer, Harwin Mann.

The second play of the evening was "As Ye Sow," by Marjorie Sinclair, presented by the Smith-King Players, of Pasadena, under the direction of Hugh Metcalf, with the following cast: Michel Slovac, Hugh Metcalf; Anna (Michel's wife), Marjorie Sinclair (the author); Luca Prochodika, Jack Marchon.

This play proved to be a very dramatic bit of realism, admirably portrayed.

Prize Winning Play

The final number on the program, however, "Other People's Husbands" was the hit of the evening. The author, Margaret Penney, lives in Pasadena. This is the play that won first prize in the recent national contest and is full of the most brilliant dialogue, cleverly put together. It kept the audience in roars of laughter from first to last.

The cast follows: Sally Westbourne, Mildred Lerchen; Hannah, (her servant) hours-long Esther Smith; Jack Orent, Arvid Lunde; Jim Douglas, Samuel Ratliff; Harrison Ward Brewster, Carter Moore; Alice Orent, Ruth Pollock; Mary Douglas, Jim's wife, Harriet Benson; Annette Brewster, Harriet's wife, Solbrig Lambertson; Dick Underwood, Larry B. Wilson; Polly Oliver, Bessie Morrison. Time: the present. A Saturday evening after dinner. Place: The living-room of Sally's California bungalow. Scene: The room lived in by Miss Westbourne, together with other very fine numbers.

Miss Irene Renison scored a distinct hit in "Other People's Husbands."

The music for all three playlets was furnished by the Community Players orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Volpe. Solbrig Lambertson, J. Lowry Fischer, Mrs. Fischer's son, had charge of the art effects. The lighting was in the hands of Walter H. Dorrance; costumes by Mrs. J. B. Squire, assisted by Misses Alice Parker and Wanda Morrow; make-up, Mrs. A. H. Hester; clock, assisted by Edna, Edmund Brady and Misses Alice Parker, Wanda Morrow and Dorothy Squire; furniture loaned by courtesy of the Eagle Rock Hardware and Furniture Company.

Club News and Notes

The nominating committee of the Sunrise Civic club meets tonight at the home of Mrs. Mabel M. Runge, chairman, 116 Floristan avenue, to elect officers for the coming year. Others on the committee are Mrs. Laura Thompson, Mrs. A. Labrum, George C. Fatters and H. L. DuVal.

Postpones Meeting

The Thursday Morning Music club has postponed its meeting of April 12, so that members can attend the yearly convention of the California Federation of Music clubs, to be held at Santa Ana on that date.

The Junior and Juvenile music clubs will also attend the convention, it is understood.

Four members from the Eagle Rock American Legion auxiliary met this afternoon at the county council, 337 1/2 South Hill street, Los Angeles. They were Mrs. T. E. Prindle, past president; and Mesdames L. E. Hammond, J. B. Squire and A. R. Rose, the latter president of the local organization at this time.

Mrs. Myrtle Cunningham, a writer, has come from Oakland to make her home in Eagle Rock and is living at 721 South Central avenue.

Big Building Program

Glen Court, the east side building project, for which a $50,000 permit has come from Oakland, is progressing rapidly. Five beautiful stucco houses, rising on the property, which is in the 1200 block on East Colorado boulevard.

The builder is Henry Michaels, of Glendale. The houses are being built on both sides of a court street at that location, and the total investment is understood to be ready to have considerably exceeded the $50,000 mark, the houses costing not less than $6000 each.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Claytor, of 677 Verdugo avenue, have been enjoying a visit from Mrs. G. E. Kirkpatrick and Miss Grace Claytor, from San Diego.

Mrs. M. Galvin, of Chicago, was the recent house guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mulla, of Olive avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman are now living at 139 South Providencia avenue.

EAGLE ROCK ONE-ACT PLAYS PROVE POPULAR

Community Players Present Final Program; Building Continues Brisk

Last night in the auditorium of the Central avenue school, the Eagle Rock Community Players presented for the second and final time their interesting program of three one-act plays, under the direction of Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer.

The curtain rose at 8:15 o'clock, the first playlet to be produced being "The Trimplet," by Stuart Walker. TUJUNGA STORM HOLDS UP THEATRE CHAIRS

Opening of Motion Picture House Delayed by Eastern Snows

Tujunga residents are eagerly anticipating the opening, April 14, of the Valley Motion Picture Theatre. The opening was originally planned for April 4, but heavy snows in the mid-western states held up the shipment of seats en route from the factory in Michigan, so the date has to be postponed ten days. The first attraction at the new theatre will be "The Kentucky Derby."

Encouraging business has been enjoyed by Taylor & Davis, who recently opened the new and second-hand store. They report that business has been fine since the opening, and they are looking for an increase in the future.

A steady and constant growth of business is the opinion on business from the Day and Night Garage. The owners state that they have more work than they can handle.

B. A. Smith, formerly of the National Shoe Company in St. Louis, largest makers of shoes in the world, doing a business of $125,000,000 yearly, says he has spent $15,000 on asthma troubles and finds Tujunga climate most helpful of any place in the world.

Night work is the order of things at the Independent Lumber yard in order to keep up with the growth and business activity of the town.

The Premier Laundry of Glendale now has an agency at 315 Sunset boulevard, with a delivery covering Tujunga as well as Sunland. H. A. Marek is supervising this route.

A close observer working in this section finds that any parties moving nearer to Los Angeles invariably select Glendale as the goal for a future home and in the majority of instances preferring the shops there also. Glendale merchants will do well to heed this, as The Glendale Evening news is delivered daily all over Tujunga and vicinity.

The Valley Garage has broken ground for an addition to house the office furniture. Work was started this morning and by night the framework of the addition will be well on the way to completion.

Baldness and Obesity Ancient Complaints

LIMA, Ohio, April 5.—Cures for baldness and systems for reducing waists were advertised so far back as 1755. A medical book compiled by John Wesley, of Methodism fame, on display in the Hardin County Courthouse, gives the following advice to bald men of long ago:

"Rub the bald part morning and evening with onions till it is red and rub it afterwards with honey."

The following recommendation to fat men and women, wishing to reduce, is contained in the aged book:

"Use a total vegetable diet. I know one who was entirely cured of this by living thus. She breakfasted and supped milk and water (with bread) and dined on turnips, carrots and other roots, drinking water."

Nevada University to Install Whipping Post

RENO, Nev., April 6.—A whipping post is soon to be established at the University of Nevada.

Sophomores who have the task of instilling Nevada traditions in the hearts of refractory freshmen have voted to abandon the practice of throwing them in the lake when they are caught "queening" with the women. Hereafter punishment by paddle will be the vogue.

K-L Pills

For Kidney and Liver Troubles, Constipation, Intestinal Indigestion and Kindred Ailments

Liver trouble leads to serious illness. And a sure sign of liver trouble is biliousness. If you have attacks of headache, if you have a coated tongue, if you have a sickle appetite, you probably are bilious—which may lead to derangement of the liver and to serious and quite often fatal results. Read this strong endorsement of Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills. Mrs. J. H. Stone, Route No. 3, Baxley Ga., writes:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with my kidneys, liver and also my heart. I had Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills as a wonderful remedy. They certainly are the finest I ever used. They will not let me without them in my home and take great pleasure in recommending them to my friends."

You can buy Dr. Chase's K-L Pills at all drug stores. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, M.D., are on each box—your protection against imitation.

SCIENTIST PLANS LECTURE COURSE

Character Analyst Will Start Study Class Soon in Psychology

The announcement of the course of four free lectures that are to be given here next week by Floyd Foster Barnes, the noted American psychologist and character analyst, has aroused intense enthusiasm among many people in Glendale who have been interested in these subjects, especially since the recent advances made in these branches of human knowledge by American and European scientists and educators have attracted increased attention to the effect that a comprehensive knowledge of such subjects exercises on human destiny.

Mr. Barnes comes to Glendale fresh from a course of lectures at Seattle and other west coast cities, where his success is said to have been phenomenal, and it is his intention to inaugurate a class in advanced study of practical psychology, character and vocational analysis, and biological chemistry at the close of his series of lectures, which begin Monday, April 9, and continue daily until Friday, April 13, with the exception of Thursday night. These lectures will be free, and the subjects that will be treated by Mr. Barnes during the series will, it is claimed, teach those who attend how to read character at sight, to develop the idle portion of one's brain, and to turn one's footsteps from the paths of failure to those of success in life.

Demonstrations of character reading will be given from the platform of the auditorium of the Citizens' Building, 159 South Brand boulevard, each evening during the lectures, and the magnetic personality of Mr. Barnes is such as to impress his teachings on the minds of all who hear him.

AVENUE PAVING AGAIN DISCUSSED

Glendale Highway Will Be One of Main Roads in South, Predicted

Glendale avenue is destined to become one of the main boulevards of southern California.

This prediction was made yesterday noon by E. E. East of Los Angeles, highway engineer for the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The paving of Glendale avenue was the principal subject of consideration at the well attended weekly luncheon in the Harriet Mae tea room, 201 East Harvard street, of the Glendale Advancement Association.

"In view of the fact that Glendale boulevard is destined to become one of the main traveled highways of California," remarked Mr. East, "it is necessary that, whatever improvement is made there, should be made with this fact in mind."

The Automobile Club now has several projects under discussion, according to Mr. East, which will directly affect Glendale. He stated that one of them is the paving of Glendale boulevard on the east side of the Pacific Electric between the Southern Pacific and the Ivanhoe bridges. He mentioned the connection of Glendale and Santa Monica by Hyperion avenue and the installation of a new bridge over the Los Angeles river as other desirable improvements.

Inspects Much Work
"As an employee of the Automobile Club of Southern California," said Mr. East, "I have visited and inspected a good many miles of paving. The only conclusion that I have reached is that there is no best type of paving. If you people do this, you are going to find one best type of paving, you will be disappointed."

The two general types of paving utilized in the west, according to Mr. East, are concrete and bituminous. He said that either type would prove satisfactory provided it were properly laid. He expressed no preference to either type.

"In the study of paving," he declared, "we have come to the conclusion that the foundation is the most important part of the whole pavement."

In substantiation of this theory, he mentioned the fact that the only heavily traveled highway in England which was able to stand up during the entire war was 12 miles directly north out of London which has a thick foundation of rock and which was built by the Romans.

Careful Inspection
Mr. East asserted that it was not so much of a question of selecting the best type of paving as of seeing that the type of paving selected is properly built. He emphasized the importance of proper specifications and careful inspections.

H. W. Bohman of Los Angeles, representative of the Portland Cement Association, made a sales talk in favor of concrete paving.

"One thing about a concrete pavement," he remarked, "is that, if it is built right and you give it a chance, it stands there like a wall of rock."

Mr. Bohman stated that it was unreasonable to expect a concrete pavement only two and a half inches thick, or no thicker than a sidewalk, to stand the weight of a twenty ton load.

"Our roads do not get wavy and out of shape," he remarked. "I leave it to you, when you are sitting in your automobile and want a pleasant ride, what type of paving do you prefer?"

On account of the competition for concrete paving contracts, in Mr. Bohman's opinion, it is possible to get more for the money expended. He commented upon the cheapness with which concrete roads may be repaired.

Airport Project
H. M. Butts of 204 South Brand boulevard called attention to the importance of approving the municipal airport site at the approaching election both from an aviation and water supply standpoint. He said that some people might not realize the future of aviation but that everybody should be able to appreciate the necessity of a growing community having an adequate acreage of water-bearing land.

"It is with pleasure that I meet so many of you here on a proposition that means so much to Glendale," he declared. "We hope that you will not only give this project your own votes but will get as many more as you can to help put Glendale on the air map."

The improvement of California avenue between Glendale avenue and Geneva street in order to form a connecting link with the new bridge over the wash at Geneva street was suggested by S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard. Upon his recommendation the subject was turned over to C. F. Stuart of 638 East Broadway and his paving committee.

FATHERS PLEASE IN SCHOOL SHOW

Entertainment at Colorado Street Is Marked by Novel Features

The fathers of the Colorado street school put on a fine program at the schoolhouse last night, following a brief business session presided over by Mrs. E. S. McKee, president of the Parent-Teacher association.

Bert Woodard, who had charge of the program, first presented Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, who talked briefly on the duties of fathers to their children and to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard then rendered a delightful vocal duet, followed by an encore, after which Joseph V. Griffin gave two amusing readings, "Casey at the Bat" and "The Cat."

A. R. Tubensin, a magician from Los Angeles, then kept the audience in a state of bewilderment for a half-hour, with his rapidly moving hands.

Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, president of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, then gave two readings.

Teacher Is Tried
The feature of the program was Mr. Woodard's much-heralded "Mock Trial" of Miss Ida Waite, principal of the Colorado Street school, Bert acting as judge, while "grave" charges were preferred against Miss Waite.

These charges were that her work in the school had been extremely satisfactory and the jury brought in a verdict of "guilty"—guilty of winning the admiration of the entire district by her patient and capable work with the children.

Following this ceremony, Miss Waite was presented by the fathers with a lovely basket of flowers. She responded with a brief speech of thanks.

At the conclusion of the program, the men served refreshments to the women, after which they organized into a permanent association, electing Bert Woodard temporary chairman.

Wet Pavements Cause Of Several Accidents

Wet streets yesterday caused several collisions.

Porter and Colorado streets was the scene of a collision about 5:15 yesterday afternoon between a truck driven by H. R. Lewis for the Calla Lilly Dairy company of 1245 East Windsor Road and an automobile driven by Albert A. Crosson of Sierra Madre. The passenger car had its right front mud guard bent, its right running board smashed and its front axle slightly bent. It was driven over against the curb.

Skidding caused an automobile driven by Mrs. W. Q. Widdows of 1246 Winchester avenue to strike the left rear side of an automobile belonging to Attorney John Everson of 103-A North Brand boulevard, which was parked on Broadway near Glendale avenue.

"I was crossing the intersec-
