THE UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 20, 1833.

FOR GOVERNOR:

J. B. DAWSON.

By yesterday's mail we have received but few papers from New-York to the 3d of May, (which date we had already received via Philadelphia,) and Baltimore of the 4th—of course nothing new.

LATE FROM FRANCE.

We have obtained by the arrival of the ship Warsaw, from Havre, up to the 27th March, from which we have made several translations. From England there was nothing of any moment.

PARIS, March 26.

A house of commerce of our city has received a letter from Lisbon, under date of the 2d March, of which we give the following extract:

"Our funds are in a complete stagnation. No paper, bills or military bonds can be discounted at any rate of interest.

On the day before yesterday, a meeting of all the foreign consuls took place at the residence of the French consul, Mr. Lesseps. It seems it had for its object to contradict the rumors of cholera spread by the Miguelites, to prevent the arrival of the reinforcements destined for the army of Don Pedro. The Spanish ambassador Mr. de Cordova, by his incessant demands and his threats to leave Lisbon, has at last obtained from Don Miguel the release of 35 Spanish refugees, who were detained in castle St. George. These prisoners, men of merit and energy, were, for the most part, members of the old Cortes, and it is thought they will be a powerful reinforcement to the young queen of Spain.

A letter from Algiers, mentions that an inveterate affection compels the general-in-chief duke of Rovigo, to return immediately to Paris. General Arisard is to take the command of the army, per interim. It was reported in Paris that Gen. Clauzel has been requested to resume the command, but was little disposed to return to Algiers at this season.

PARIS, March 25.

Our latest news from Constantinople by the ordinary courier is to the 25th of February. They announce the occupation of Magnesia and Smyrna, by an Egyptian corps, but represent this movement merely as a combination necessary to assure the subsistence of the Egyptian army, and not at all as connected with the subsequent march of Ibrahim; who, on the contrary, has ordered a retrograde motion of his army from Kiutaya to Koushinar. The occupation of Brousa by that general is not therefore confirmed, and the motive so artfully drawn from the uninterrupted march of the Egyptian troops, to foretell the failure of the mediation of France, and the pretext of the armed intervention of Russia, are utterly unfounded. We may add that the last advices from Moldavia and Valachia, which are to last days of February, state that not one corps of the Russian army had yet been put in motion to enter Turkey, though the regiment stationed on that line were ordered to be ready to march on the first signal. It is therefore obvious that the movement of the Sebastopol fleet was not combined or accompanied with a march of troops, as it had been asserted, and mere good sense is enough to satisfy us that if the regiments were not ordered to march on when the Porte hogged the assistance of Emperor Nicholas, much less are they to receive that order after that assistance has been refused as useless.

We know that among the dispatches of which Mr. Van Zuylen was bearer, there is a letter of lord Palmerston proposing to abolish all the projects and all the proposals which have been made during the mission of that gentleman, as well as the treaty of the 15th November, and to resume the negotiation with Mr. Dedel, as if nothing had been done. I may assure you that proposal shall be agreed to if our prisoners are given back to us. In the early part of next week I shall be able to send you the text of those different pieces, as at that time communication of them shall be given to both chambers.

HOLLAND.—Hague 23d March.

Private correspondence.—The English packet arrived yesterday from London.—Among the passengers were Baron Van Zuylen, returning from his mission to London, and an English gentleman from the office of foreign affairs, bearer of despatches from lord Palmerston for the English agent at Hague.

Mr. Van Zuylen called immediately on baron Willstock, to give him communication of his despatches, after a long conference, both went to the palace and were admitted to a private audience by the king.

It is supposed the king asked Mr. Van Zuylen many questions—the definitive intention of lord Palmerston to that nobility. Mr. Van Zuylen answered the best he could the pressing questions of his sovereign, and insisted on Mr. Talleyrand's veracity, who desired to settle the Belgian question, according to the views expressed in the first protocol, and particularly in the treaty of the 15th November, 1831.

King William seemed to startle at this answer, he then rose in a passion; "Talleyrand is but an ambassador, said he, and I am a king; if he wants to settle our affairs according to his own views, I want to have them settled for the honor of Holland. We have already suffered two years, and are ready to languish two years more, if it is necessary."

We may consider these words actually authentic. They were reported in the evening by Mr. Van Zuylen himself.

The state of our negotiation with London is still the same. Mr. Van Zuylen, as a man of energy and an able diplomatist, has not transgressed in the least the instructions successively transmitted him by his government.

PARIS, March 25.

News from Poland continues very sad—commerce in Warsaw is paralized, and the garrison alone give some activity to affairs. Never at any time was the capital so much abandoned as at this moment. Almost every body has retired to the country. They are afraid of reaction, and continue adverse to the Russians. The merchants and the Jews complain of this state of things, because the revolution has greatly impoverished them. Stubbia Mercury, the gazette of Augsbourg of the 15th March, says:

According to all appearance the cholera is transformed into a great number of other epidemies, which are not without danger. The influenza with which every body has been afflicted in St. Petersburg, has already reached Konisburg, accompanied with a particular fever which rages at Berlin. The symptoms of the Asiatic cholera has been recently traced in Silesia, in the neighborhood of Schirmedebury, but the disease soon transformed into a nervous intermittent fever. It is reported that more than 1200 persons have been attacked with epidemic fever in the month of February, an evident proof that in all places where the cholera has once appeared, it tends to develope itself again by intervals under other forms.

An ordinance of the king of the French, dated 23d March, has appointed Gen. Sebastiani, member of the cabinet, without having the direction of any department. The opposition papers complains angrily of what they call an "illegal appointment," as the general will probably have the direction of the cabinet, and is by his situation free from all ministerial responsibility. By the friends of government this nomination is viewed quite differently. General Sebastiani having been ambassador at the Ottoman Porte, it is held out his counsel upon the affairs of the east is very available.

Political exchange.—The first instalment of five millions of francs under the French treaty of indemnity having fallen due, our secretary of the treasury availed himself of the delay as he had a good right to do, by the mercantile practice of a bill of exchange. The bill was negotiated by the Bank of the United States, and remitted to Baring, Brothers & Co., who sent it over to Paris for acceptance and payment. It was presented at the French Exchequer, but the chambers not having made a specific appropriation for the purpose, it could not be paid with mercantile promptness, and was dealt with according to the custom of merchants, and protested. Hottenguer & Co., however, to protect the mercantile honor of the United States Bank, paid the five millions of francs, and so took the bill out of the hands of the agents of Baring, Brothers & Co.; but the United States' government having no friend at hand to protect it by the same liberal process, the bill has come back with the protest against them, and is we presume entitled to damages of ten per cent. We do not see a plane can be attached to any one in the transaction, unless it be to some departments of the French government for not having carried the business thro' the necessary forms at an earlier period. The affair is not attributable in the least to any hesitancy on the part of that government to carry the treaty into effect. The value of the five millions of francs is very near $1,000,000.—N. Y. Jour. of Com.

Commercial.

From Levy's Price Current, of May 18.

REMARKS.—Business is rapidly drawing to a close, the stands are no longer filled by a busy crowd as in winter, but all those engaged in trade remark, that there is a little falling off. The weather is very warm, and every day has a light shower of rain. The Mississippi recedes slowly and was yesterday near five feet below high water mark. The crops so far as we have learned, is healthy as usual.

COTTON.—Arrived since the 10th instant, of Louisiana and Mississippi 1353 bales, North Alabama and Tennessee 2346, Arkansas 66; together 3761 bales. Cleared in the same time, for Liverpool 7115, Havre 2801, Marseilles 783 Nantz 871, Barcelona 300, New York 1257, Providence 397, Philadelphia 500, Baltimore 355; together 13,928 bales —making a reduction in stock of 5964, and leaving on hand, exclusive of all on ship board not cleared on the 16th inst. a stock (corrected) of 47,937 bales. The demand for the middling and inferior qualities of Louisiana and Mississippi, and for Alabama and Tennessee cotton, generally, is very good, and fairer rates are fully maintained; but holders of good Louisiana and Mississippi inform us, that they find it difficult to effect sales at the rate we quote 13¼ a 14 cents per lb., however, they continue firmly to demand them, and permit the quotation to remain, continuing the qualifications noted, as in last report. The sales of the week are, viz: 600 bales at 12, 350 at 12½, 900 at 12¾, 200 at 12¾, 31 at 10¾, 11 at 10¾ and 19 at 11 cents per lb., all round sales; and all Louisiana and Mississippi cotton—also, of Tennessee and Alabama, 100 at 11, 700 at 10¾, 600 at 10¾, 350 at 9¾, and 350 bales Florida at 11¼ cents per lb. The stock of Louisiana and Mississippi cotton is now so small that the Liverpool classification, (applicable alone to these descriptions) will be discontinued until the new crop shall be in market in sufficient quantity to require its further use.

SUGAR is scarce, as before remarked—the demand is very good, and the sales of the week, whether on plantation or in the city, have been at a full ¼ cent advance that of good quality. Cleared this week, for New York 397 hhds 2 bbls, Baltimore 446 hhds 62 bbls, Philadelphia 786 hhds 11 bbls, Richmond, Va. 12 hhds; together 1206 hhds 75 bbls brown, and 29 hhds 16 tierces refined for New York.

MOLASSES—There is none for sale, and so little on hand that quotations are hardly necessary. The last sales on the levee, casks included, were at 25 cents per gallon. Cleared this week, for New York 46 hhds, Baltimore 383 hhds, Philadelphia 49 bbls, New Haven 103 hhds; together 531 hhds 61 barrels.

TOBACCO finds purchasers on arrival, at 3, 4 and 5 cts. per lb. for crossed, second and first qualities—fine lots have been sold at an advance on these rates, and fair parcels obtain them without difficulty—yesterday there was none in first hands for sale. Want of sufficient depth of water in the smaller streams tributary to the Ohio, has kept back a large portion of the crop, and it is now very doubtful whether, at this late moment of the season, there will be more, a rise of water sufficient to bring the residue of the crop to market. Arrives this week, 1319 hhds. Cleared, for New York 349 hhds, Philadelphia 67, Richmond 123; together 545 hhds. Stock on hand, inclusive of all on ship board not cleared on the 15th instant, 675 hhds.

FLOUR has been selling this week at $5 25 a $5 50 per bbl, and is in fair demand—the stock on hand small. rived this week, 6451 bbls.

Pork is scarce and has advanced in price, mess $13 prime $11 per bbl, cargo, none. Arrived this week, barrels.

WHISKEY is looking up—sales have been at 30, and 32 cents per gallon, progressively, and the article fair demand.

BAGGING and BALE ROPE are much inquired for the demand for Mobile has given life to our market, and both articles have advanced, bagging 19¼ a 21 cents per yard, and bale rope 7¼ a 8 cents per lb. Arrived this week 142 pieces bagging and 77 coils rope.

LARD is in somewhat better demand than it was, but is yet dull at 8 a 8¼ cents per lb. Arrived this week, 1714 kegs and 38 barrels.
