

PERMITS FOR MONTH

MONTH OF MAY SHOWS SLIGHT INCREASE IN BUILDING OVER APRIL

As far as building goes the month of May has never been very much better than the month of April and both have shown, as a rule, a very moderate average. If we except May, 1914, when the building value for the month was increased $60,000 by the erection of the new buildings of the Glendale Union High School, we find that the average value of building for the month has run about $10,000.

May 1916 shows $10,825. There were 14 permits. The month of May 1915 showed 21 permits with a value of $8810. May 1914 had 19 permits with a total value of $68,600. April 1916 had 16 permits with a total value of $10,395.

She will read what is certain to prove an intensely interesting paper on "How Philadelphia Makes $38,000 off Its Vacant Lots." The subject of the erection of bird houses, which is at present interesting many cities in the East, will be taken up. It is believed that the erection of such structures in Glendale would greatly interest the children of the community and also widely advertise the city.

BAD AUTO ACCIDENT

H. A. McPHERSON AND MARGARET McPHERSON INJURED IN ACCIDENT

What might have been a fatal accident took place when H. A. McPherson, the well-known contractor, of 1516 Pioneer Drive, and his daughter, Margaret, were caught under their auto as it turned turtle, Tuesday, while they were on their way to Hermosa Beach. The rest of the family have been residing at the beach for some time and Mr. McPherson and his daughter started out Tuesday morning early to spend the day with them. They had reached a point on the road near Inglewood, when suddenly the car turned turtle.

Mr. McPherson and his daughter were thrown out and the car fell on them. The car pinioned Mr. McPherson and he was in a very dangerous condition when fortunately two other cars arrived on the scene. The car was lifted off the injured man and he was taken to his family at the beach and thence brought home to Glendale in an ambulance.

Drs. Thompson and Ritchie are in attendance on the injured man. Three of his ribs are broken and he is injured internally. The medical men state that he is resting comfortably and is in a fair way to recovery. Miss Margaret McPherson was slightly injured on one of her elbows and is able to go about with her arm in a sling. She also sustained a few bruises.

Mr. McPherson, himself, states that if he had not obtained prompt assistance from the parties who came up in the two automobiles he could not have endured long the continued weight of the car on his body.

COOKING SCHOOL FREE TO PUBLIC

Were you at the Globe Mills Free Cooking School which opened in the building at 318 Brand boulevard this afternoon?

If you were not you missed an original and pleasing demonstration of modern cooking by a practical chef.

Chef Wyman deftly showed the large gathering of Glendale women (even mere man was on hand too) how to make the new Bran Scenes from: 2 cups Globe A1 flour; 2 cups Globe Health Bran, 5 level teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 2-3 cup milk, 5 tablespoons Violet Brand Shortening. Sift dry ingredients, add bran, rub in Violet shortening with fingers, add egg yolks well beaten with the milk, roll out on floured board, cut in squares, brush with the egg whites and bake in hot oven. He also treated his spectators with Combination Salad Mayonnaise Dressing, Orange Cake and Coffee Butter Cream.

Tomorrow the demonstration will start promptly at 2:30 p. m. and will consist of the preparation and serving of Jewel City Salad, Cream Salad Dressing, Lady Baltimore Cake, Fruit and Nut Filling and Southern Corn Bread. This cooking school is free as well as instructive, and every woman in the valley should take advantage of Chef A. L. Wyman's culinary demonstrations.

TRUSTEES' MEETING

PACIFIC AVENUE IMPROVEMENT PROTESTS HEARD—MANY COMMUNICATIONS

The board of trustees met in regular session at the city hall at 7:55 p. m., May 29, 1916. All members present at roll call.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

At 8 o'clock the regular order of business was suspended for the hearing of protests called for in opposition to the improvement of Pacific avenue. The clerk read the protest on file and the city engineer made a report on frontage.

There were a number of citizens present to protest in person against the improvement, and the chairman of the board explained the circumstances under which the proposed improvement was initiated and the plan of the work and its necessity in connection with the taking care of storm water in that section.

Speakers among the protestants represented that the signers of the petition for the improvement had in some cases signed under a misapprehension and are now opposed to the work; further they believed it bad policy to improve a small portion of the street when the work only would last for a year or two.

On motion of Trustee Muhleman, the matter was continued for one week to be taken up at the next regular meeting at 8 o'clock p. m. in order to give an opportunity for the securing of signatures to a protest.

Mr. S. L. Borthick presented a communication signed by himself, also a protest signed by himself and six other property owners against the proposed extension of the sidewalk to the curb line in front of Lots 7 and 8, Glendale Boulevard tract. Mr. J. E. Peters spoke in favor of the improvement.

The city attorney stated that as far as the legal right of protest exists, that concerns the owners of lots 7 and 8 only, and no other protests could be legally recognized.

Mr. Boyd, the owner of Lot 8 had expressed himself informally as in favor of the work.

The city attorney advised that the board has not under the circumstances any right to arbitrarily order in the work. On motion of Trustee Grist, petitions in regard to the matter were ordered to be filed.

Mr. Collins addressed the board in reference to sidewalk on Dayton Court, north of Third street, permission for the construction of which was asked at the last meeting. He requested that he be allowed to put in a four-foot walk instead of a five foot, as stated in the permit granted at the last meeting of the board. On motion of Trustee Grist, the matter was referred to the chairman of the Public Works committee and the city engineer.

The clerk read two telegrams addressed to the mayor of Glendale, one from Venice and one from Redondo Beach, asking that the City of Glendale be represented at a conference to be held in Mayor Sebastian's office, Los Angeles, at 7:30 p. m. this date.

On motion of Trustee Grist they were ordered to be filed, and the clerk instructed to acknowledge receipt of the same.

A communication was read from Mrs. Nanno Woods, president of the Garden society, inviting the members of the board to attend the next regular meeting of the Garden society, to be held Thursday evening, June 1st, at the Chamber of Commerce.

Another communication was read from the president of the Garden society asking the favorable consideration of the board to the granting of an appropriation of $350 towards the expense of a free flower show to be held in the spring of 1917. On motion of Trustee Grist, the latter communication was referred to the finance committee.

A communication was read from the health officer, Dr. R. E. Chase, addressed to City Manager Watson, as follows: Mr. T. W. Watson, City Manager, Dear Sir:

In answer to your communication of the 24th, concerning the presence of typhoid fever in Glendale, I will say there has been none reported. Typhoid is a reportable disease, so I would learn of it if there were any cases.

I have interviewed the local physicians and they deny having any cases.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) R. E. CHASE.

Another communication was read from the health officer, stating that there have been no contagious diseases other than mumps and whooping cough within the city recently. (Continued on Page 4)

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 1916

DEATH OF JAMES J. HILL

With the death of James J. Hill passes away one of the few remaining pioneer empire builders of the United States. Hill was a Canadian, the son of a farmer who died, leaving the boy at the age of fifteen to manage the farm. The lad migrated to the United States and learned all about transportation, finally building the Great Northern railway and opening up the continent to the Pacific coast.

Hill was a man who thought in big ideas. He foresaw the rising importance of the Pacific trade and built the big transpacific steamships which have carried so large a share of the trade on that ocean. He was the foe of extravagance and used to say that economy was the secret of success. Hill was a staunch supporter of the Allies, being interested specially in Belgium. He was personally acquainted with King Albert and is known to have sent to that gallant monarch large sums of money to enable him to continue his struggle and also to have induced others to do likewise.

Hill's position in the world of finance was never better made manifest than when the Allies sought the famous $500,000,000 loan in this country. He was the first man sent for by Morgan when the question of floating that loan had to be settled. The undertaking of Hill for himself and his friends that they would take their share of the loan was a very great help to the financial powers in carrying out their undertaking.

When a man like Hill dies the world is able to measure the advance it has made. During the 78 years of the railroad magnate's life east and west of the United States have joined hands and the continent has been traversed by the big railroads of which men like Hill were the projectors and developers. Before Hill started in to build the Great Northern the country was still in the first decade of railroad development. From a small bankrupt road which he purchased for $100,000 Hill managed to develop a trans-continental line with a yearly net profit of $66,000,000. The work he did lives after him. He labored and other men enter into and profit by his labors.

Annually in the United States 70,000 infants under two years of age die from diarrhea and enteritis. Both these diseases are highly infectious. Bacteria of various kinds are known to be responsible for the disease. The sources of infection are much the same as in typhoid, the causative organisms, reaching the alimentary tract as a result of uncleanness, infected food and very possibly by contamination of hands or food through the activities of flies. The evidence against the fly as a conveyor of the infection is largely circumstantial, yet it is so conclusive that no one would fail to place the responsibility upon this insect. When the flies increase summer diarrhea increases. The flies frequent the localities where infective organisms are deposited and when measures are taken to get rid of the flies the diarrhea vanishes also. The decrease in the disease keeps pace with the decrease in the number of flies. It would seem reasonable to conclude then that if we desire to save the lives of the babies annually killed by this disease we must begin to wage an unceasing war on the fly which is the certain distributor of the infection.

WHY DO GASOLINE PRICES SOAR?

In the course of the hearings before the subcommittee of the Congressional committee on Mines and Mining a resolution submitted by Mr. Randall of California was taken under consideration. Congressman Randall spoke in favor of his resolution which provides that the secretary of the interior be directed to furnish statements concerning the area of oil-bearing land owned by the United States, with a description of the various grades of oil which can be produced, and also an estimate of the fuel needs of the navy for a term of ten years and the effect upon the navy if such oil lands are permitted to remain in private ownership and in the hands of speculators. The resolution contemplates government production of gasoline by the Rittman process, and asks for a report from the Secretary of the Interior on the advisability of government ownership of the entire oil-producing area of the United States.

In the course of the discussion of this resolution Mr. Randall submitted a further statement to the effect that the most commonly accepted defense of the increase in the price of gasoline is that the war in Europe has caused an enormous export demand. The California congressman speaking of this as a fallacy showed that if export conditions did not sustain claims made in that direction and that if suspicion that the dissolution decree has made the Standard Oil a more powerful combination than before then it could be reasonably argued that this corporation is responsible entirely for the alarming situation confronting 3,000,000 users of gasoline.

Congressman Randall pointed out that the increase in the domestic price of gasoline during the year ending April 1, 1916, approximated 75 per cent. He also showed that export statistics thoroughly discredited the argument that export demand was responsible for the increase in domestic prices of gasoline. Instead of the increased export demand acting as a cause to increase domestic prices, the present situation points clearly to the proposition that a rapid increase of American prices is reducing foreign demand.

While all this increase in price is going on the increase in value of Standard Oil stocks—about 65 per cent of the Standard Oil total—is $274,000,000 for the twelve months ending April 8, 1916, during which the prices of oils of all kinds has been steadily rising.

Mr. Randall very pertinently urges Congress to aid the oil industry and so benefit the public by creating a petroleum bureau, where all matters pertaining to petroleum would be centered, in charge of thoroughly competent men. This bureau also would disseminate accurate and comprehensive information concerning the industry, and would gather complete statistics regarding petroleum and its products. He also advocates the creation of a chemical and mechanical research department to exploit petroleum and its products. This, it is believed, would result in the discovery of many valuable products contained in petroleum and not yet known.

STARTS NEW PLAY

Owen Rhodes, author of "The Voice of Conscience," not content to rest on his laurels, is hard at work on a new play. It is to be a comedy this time, built for a female lead. "The Fair Dragon," which is the title, sounds paradoxical enough to be interesting.

At the earnest behest of his friends, Mr. Rhodes has applied for a copyright to "The Voice of Conscience," which comes back to the Palace Grand on June 2. The author said he thought it would be quite a compliment if anyone considered his plot worth stealing, but he was convinced that compliments are easy to get and plays hard to write.

Mr. Randall has many other excellent recommendations for the aid of the petroleum industry and of the public. His activity in this respect is deserving of commendation and to a community such as that of Southern California, profoundly interested in all that concerns the oil industry, his services are of high value.

SELF RESTRAINT IN TROUBLE

There are many people who get along very easily and comfortably for the better part of their lifetime. They are sheltered from the world's hardships and difficulties. Everything goes smoothly with them. Everything they touch seems to turn to gold. They accumulate a competence at least. They have property. They have friends and reputation. Their characters appear to be strong and well balanced, but the moment there is some little friction anywhere they show up as weak and incompetent.

When trouble comes, failure in business, a panic, or a great crisis, in which they lose their all they are overwhelmed. The truth of the matter seems to be that the only possession such people have is their money. When that is gone they are found to be poor and ignorant, and wretched and blind and naked. They have never had heart or courage or manhood. They have had no faith, no trust, no conscience, no real creed. They despair; they lose heart; they lose even the ability to try again and everything goes down in the abyss into which they find themselves thrown.

What is needed in time of trouble is self-restraint. Some manhood that will come forth with reduplicating power at the moment of need and lift up the man in his own eyes and in the eyes of others. Material loss can never wholly overcome spiritual courage. The possession of that courage is half the new battle that must be begun. When a man loses hope he has failed indeed. As long as he has hope, nothing short of death or the hand of God can wholly overcome him.

There is hope even for an ignorant man who cannot write his own name if he has stamina and backbone. There is hope for one who is suffering from physical disability if he has courage. The history of the world has many instances of such men. When hemmed in by circumstances that apparently gave them no chance they still held on and finally emerged triumphant.

There is no hope for a man who cannot or will not stand up after he falls; but loses heart when opposition strikes him and lays down his arms in token of defeat. Self-restraint; keeping one's head; holding to your ideal of manhood or womanhood will stand you in good stead when all else seems to have left you. A real man or woman can never be really defeated.

THE LATEST GOLD CAMP—GOLDSTONE

By I. H. RUSSELL

The lure of gold—that indefinable, intangible, something that leads with irresistible urge to the spot where hope holds out inducements of wealth and ease to be found in the inexhaustible storehouse of nature, has drawn the miner, the prospector, the investor and the business man to the newest of camps—the now flourishing camp of Goldstone.

This youngest of infants is located in San Bernardino county, about 33 miles north of Barstow, and easily accessible to automobiles. In fact, an automobile stage line is now operating, making daily trips from Barstow at $5.00 the round trip.

The writer has talked with miners and mining engineers who have investigated every mining camp on the Pacific slope: Goldfield, Rhyolite, Chloride, Searchlight, Oatman, and many others, and they all agree that the showing already made and the proven values now in evidence at Goldstone mark it for one of the very best of them all. While many camps are low-grade, or for various reasons cannot be developed until the man with the long sack and the loose purse-strings invests a fortune, Goldstone is strictly a high-grade camp and holds out to the man of limited means a welcome opportunity.

The first development of any size is the Goldstone mine, where about 75 feet of work has been done, and out of which it is claimed the entire purchase price of $50,000 has been fully paid. This property is a short mile from the Red-Bridge and assays from the latter mine, which is as yet merely a 15 foot open cut, indicate a value of around $1,000 per ton. These figures are indeed startling, and will no doubt bring a smile of incredulity from Mr. Skeptic of Camp Doubtful, but you need take no man's word for it—go to the camp yourself; select your own sample; do your own panning, as I did, and the result will soon convince you that the startling figures here quoted are not exaggerated.

There are probably 75 men in Goldstone at this writing, May 29th, and the population is increasing daily. Everything bears the stamp of newness—new tents, new tent-houses, new canvas bunk houses and new tent house dining rooms.

Townsite lots, at $50 up, are rapidly being sold, and there is every indication that the ever-increasing population is coming in prepared to stay.

The entire country surrounding the camp has been located, but, at this writing, several valuable leases may be acquired; but these are going rapidly and to procrastinate means to lose even this opportunity.

Lumber has already been shipped for the erection of a $10,000 club house, and a general store will also be doing business within the next two weeks. I make mention of but two of many contemplated improvements.

All of the Goldstone ores are free-milling, and I am advised that arrangements are now being made for the installation of a stamp mill to do custom work. This will mean a large saving to the mine owner.

If the history of other gold camps is any indication of what may be expected, the new camp of Goldstone will certainly be a strenuous rival of Goldfield and Oatman in but a few short months, and the latter camps would better look well to their laurels.

ST. MARK'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Tomorrow, Thursday, June 1st, is "Ascension" Day, and there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion in the church at 10:00 a. m. There will be a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary on Friday, June 2, at the home of Mrs. Robert Morris at 2:30 p. m.

A RANDALL MEETING

Will be held in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters next Monday evening, June 5. A good attendance is desired.

A few days ago Chronic Complainer said: "Look at the conditions of the workman today! Where is he? One tinner after another has gone up the spout; plumbers are in the gutters; paper hangers have gone to the wall; policemen are on the beat; clockmakers are on tick and shoe-makers are on their uppers."

The largest teapot in the world has been made at Shigaraki, 200 miles from Tokyo, Japan. It measures three and one-fourth feet in diameter and is three and one-half feet high.

The Glendale Laundry was one of the local institutions that found it impossible to close up on Memorial day. The exigencies of the laundry business made it imperative that the staff should be at work in the interests of customers.
