CITY INTELLIGENCE.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The Girls' School on Rampart street, under Mrs. M. C. DuBois, principal, with Mrs. F. V. Hooper, 1st Assistant, Misses Barran and Schlarum, 2d Assistant, Misses B. Lavillebert and E. McCarthy, 3d Assistants, took place yesterday, and as it is spoken with much candor Mrs. DuBois' administration, the examinations were very thorough and satisfactory, and the accompanying exercises very interesting. The average attendance of the school has numbered 320 pupils, and, of course, so large a number has required great assiduity and devotion on the part of Mrs. DuBois and her corps of assistants, the duties of whom, Mrs. Hooper, in particularly qualified for the delicate avocations of a teacher. Mrs. DuBois is so well known as one of the supplemental principals in our schools as to have no occasion for our commendation. As the thereafter ladies the examinations, from what we saw and learned, amply attested their qualifications.

We should add that usually these are quiet affairs, and a delay of the pupils learning Pound under Miss Adrian, and Miss Ida Johnstating her to some extent, in connection with her own classes as Principal. Vocal music is taught by Miss Schlarum, who, we should judge, must also have a full share of duty to perform. Among the objections of interest which particularly pleased us, were recitations of popular harmonic compositions by Misses Anna Bickel and Gussie Bloomfield, who really acquitted themselves with rare credit for girls of any age. Their declamation was characterized by a correctness of enunciation and pleasancy of gesticulation that pleased the audience highly, and was truly refreshing in girls who are generally permitted to become so artificial in speaking.

The boys' school, on Bourbon street, two or more, about equally thorough and interesting. The teachers in the Sixth School are F. Fyfer, principal, and Mrs. M. F. Clark, Mrs. M. L. Shaw, Miss C. Peck and Mrs. E. Flynn assistants. In the Fish School, J. J. Patterson, principal, and Mr. J. C. Peters, Miss J. D. McElhinney, Mrs. M. A. Peugnet and Misses C. Kamm, M. E. Wood, E. Coyne and A. Finch assistants. Average number of pupils, 400.

The examination of the "Upper Boys' High School," corner of Camp and Melpomene streets, and of the Paulding Boys' and Girls' School, corner of Constance and Calliope streets, commence this morning.

BALL AT CARROLLTON.—A grand night festival and ball is to be given on St. John's eve, at Wingert's Garden, opposite to the railroad depot, on Saturday evening, the 23d of June. In case of bad weather it will be postponed till the following Saturday.

Board of Assistant Aldermen.—Special Meeting.—There was a special meeting last evening to fix up amendments.

A resolution was adopted to raise the assessment on the property of Mr. Davidson, corner of Peydras and Hagedorn streets.

Also, one to increase the assessment of the new Custom House for buying the indigent land and carting the soil.

The Committee was authorized to warrant an appropriation for $699 75 in favor of Mr. W. Ryan, and in favor of policeman Downing for $50 40.

A resolution was concurred in, requiring the contractors granting P. Drumm the right to run the Prytania District Ferry, and to install the cars and horses on the Prytania line. The same action was taken relative to Mr. W. Pitcher and the Third District Ferry.

Mayor Monroe, in accordance with a previous resolution, to employ negroes over policemen.

A resolution to appropriate $1,000 out of the sub-divisions of the Fort, and to allow the hundred feet as a coal yard landing, was adopted.

The ordinance to limit the rate of the ferriages between the Bend and Vegetable Markets was finally adopted.

The ordinance granting Dennis Conway the authority to construct a bridge on Tchoupitoulas street was read in the judicial journal for sale, and giving the Board three days in which to act.

Mr. Moore discussed the proposition as a rebuke, whereupon Mr. Cronan who was absent, "if he was present, would, quickly and fast it was "a d——d lie" and left in high dudgeon.

Board was prepared to the petition to the Streets and Landing Committee, but now is often to lay on the table, provided.

The appointments of Messrs. Fuchy and Keyes on the Health Committee to act with a similar committee from the Board of Health for the consideration of sanitary regulations, were confirmed.

Board adjourned.

Daring Robbery.—The James Brown, corner of Dubois and St. Charles streets, occupied by Philip Kellogg and Generals Granger and Mc-Clellan, was entered within forty and robbed recently of considerable money and jewelry. Those walking up the companion, although in the house was very thoroughly ransacked. Gen. Granger lost $150, and Gen. Clellan a watch and $200. Another entry was subsequently effected in the same way, doubtless by the same parties, in which they were less successful, only little success in the way of booty. The rascals have thus far escaped detection.

Register from Missouri.—John Jones, alias John Oliver, alias John O'Brien, arrested as a fugitive from justice in Missouri, was arraigned before Recorder Ahern, yesterday, and requested to procure a writ, a requisition from the Governor of that State. Mr. Jones has been a prisoner in the calaboose, although he has been a close of guerrillas who have been committed most open cards deserve going serving a short term.

Dangerous.—The Surgeon in charge at the Charity Hospital pronounces the wound of George White, driver of City car No. 81, which was inflicted by one Alex Reverez, Wednesday night, to be of a very dangerous character, likewise is under arrest.

Sunday Excursions and Statistics.

We are, says the Hartford Times, the greatest, wisest and most enlightened people the world ever saw now and then have exhibitions of weak and pitiful in the street that fills an observer's soul short of pardon. Recently, during the sensible nature of the fair sex, we have and then notice that they like to walk three abreast. Comment on the side-walk, with their expanded skirts occupying the whole available reserve for pedestrians. As we are growing and sensible we do not mind a step off from the gaze into the gutter, in order to let the redundant

Movement of the Chief Commissioner of the Army of America.

(From the Saint Public, of Lyons, May 24.)

The most highly distinguished leaders of the American army are few in number, and recently all were advanced in years. They served in 1812 with Jackson, Harrison, Scott, Taylor, during the campaign of Hungary in 1849; that of Italy under Charles Albert, and that of 1859, the most important of all. In case of war, three men appear destined to the principal command, are the following. The Archduke Albert, son of the immortal Prince Charles. Marshal Hendon Hesse, Benedek, Schwartzenberg, and Haynau.

Marshal de Hesse is seventy-three years of age, spare in person, and of active mind and habits. His career dates from the battle of Wagram, in which he took part, being then in his seventeenth year. It was he who decided the Austrian victory over the Piedmontese in 1848 by the strategical movement from Verona, and he took a very active part in the battle of Novara. The Italians regard him as a formidable enemy, and admit that he will give them no little trouble.

Prince Schwartzenberg is tall, well made and very vigorous, notwithstanding his seventy-two years. In 1848 he commanded the cavalry in Italy, he distinguished himself at Goito, Peschiera, Mantua, his cavalry performing, with his division, the important duty of holding the right bank of the Danube. At the battle of Mantua he commanded the third corps of the army, which he secured the retreat of the Austrians. At Solferino he was in the left wing, opposed to General Neil. He is one of the most brilliant officers of the Austrian army, and is, moreover, an orator.

General Benedek is only fifty-eight. While a colonel in 1848, he fought in the campaign against the Piedmontese. In 1859 he commanded the Eighth corps at San Martino. Since Gyulay's defeat he has been first warrior of Austria. It is probable that he will be charged to oppose the Prussians. The Six of Count Clam-Gallas has been very active. he has been successful in the Duchy of Parma in 1848. In Hungary, however, he only succeeded in vanquishing the aged General Bem through the aid of the Czar. At present he commands the First corps of the Austrian army at Prague.

We must not omit to mention General Gabrenz, who commanded the Austrians in the war against Denmark, and General Ramming, to whom Austria was indebted in the Hungarian campaign for the decisive success obtained at Temesvar.

Pope Pius IX has just lost his youngest sister, who was married to a rich patrician at Arig, family. He has two brothers now living, and he and they have passed the "three-score and ten," allotted to Man's existence.
