Bill Was Framed by Allies on Basis of German Prosperity

Premier Lloyd George, Speaking at Birmingham, Refers to Difficulties in the Way of Making Germany Pay in Full For Wanton Damage Inflicted.

Birmingham, Eng., Feb. 5.—Premier Lloyd George, in a speech here to-day dealing with the recent meeting in Paris of the Allied Supreme Council, said that before the last election he laid it down that Germany was morally bound to pay for the wanton damage she had inflicted, but that one could only get from a debtor what he was capable of paying.

Problem of Exchanges. The Premier pointed out, with regard to the problem of exchanges, that Germany being temporarily bankrupt, represented a baffling difficulty to the experts when it came to the question of her paying outside her own frontiers.

PROCEEDINGS WERE ABRUPTLY HALTED

Legal Tilt Causes Adjournment of Arbitration Sitings

Montreal, Feb. 5.—An abrupt halt to the proceedings of the Grand Trunk Arbitration Commission, that was seeking to ascertain the value of the preferred and common stock of the company prior to its being taken over by the Government, occurred yesterday afternoon, which led to an unexpected adjournment till Monday next.

Advised to Accept. Mr. Lloyd George said his advice to Germany would be to accept the Bill and not allow herself to be misled by passion and repeat the follies of 1914.

The burden imposed upon Germany by the Allied Council, he said, was not extravagant. For the first few years, the Premier declared, it was not equal to the Penalties Bills of England and France.

Alternative proposal. Mr. Lloyd George conceded, but if these proposals represented a mere attempt to avoid payment, the Allies would not tolerate them.

Must Fulfill Obligations. The Prime Minister declared that Germany must fulfill her obligations as to disarmament.

Violent Protests. Paris, Feb. 5.—Violent protests against the decisions of the Supreme Council regarding reparations are still being published in Berlin newspapers, says the Petit Parisien's correspondent that city.

EVER SOARING COSTS FORCE AMALGAMATION

Newsprint and Wages Cause British Paper Mergers

London, Feb. 5.—The amalgamation of The Mail, Gazette and The Globe, which was announced yesterday, comes in consequence of the crisis through which the British newsprint industry is passing.

While Mr. Pringle has not had an opportunity yet of going into the whole question fully, he believes that the transfer of the B. C. Electric assets to the Vancouver Fraser Valley and Southern Railway Company would automatically transfer the control of the B. C. Electric Company from the Provincial to the Dominion Government.

CITY TO ACT TO PROTECT PRESENT ELECTRIC PACTS

Alarmed at the possibility of results which might follow the transfer of all the assets of the B. C. Electric Railway Company to the Vancouver, Fraser Valley and Southern Railway Company, for which parliamentary sanction will be sought, the civic authorities will consider immediately the advisability of opposing the transfer or at least of making certain that Victoria's interests in the matter are protected.

MYSTERY OF MISSING MAGNATE DEEPENS

Kemptville, Ont., Feb. 5.—The town was all agog last night following the telegraphic dispatch sent to Toronto by Mrs. W. E. James, who lives on the South Gower Road about three miles from this place, that she believes a stranger whom she has been harboring for the last few days is Ambrose J. Small, the missing Toronto theatrical magnate.

Police Investigate. Ottawa, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Talking with the Canadian Press over the long distance telephone this morning, P. T. Smith, Chief of Police at Kemptville, said his men were still working to locate the mysterious stranger who has been taken for the missing theatrical magnate.

AUTHORIZES START ON SYNOD HALL

Institution to Cost $105,000; Sunday School and Gymnasium Planned

Increased accommodation urgently necessary for the Sunday school and other parish activities of Christ Church Cathedral, and better equipment for the work of the Anglican Church among young people of the city, are secured by the action of the Synod of the Diocese in endorsing by a unanimous vote the revised plans of the New Cathedral Building scheme.

Not a single delegate spoke against the revised plans or the proposal to launch this scheme in the name of the synod. Great satisfaction was expressed at the number of delegates, both clerical and lay, from parishes outside Victoria, who supported the proposed action, and enthusiasm rose high when a unanimous vote finally gave official authorization and sanction.

Liquor Bill Leads In Interest as B. C. House Opening Nears

Big Fight to Be Waged Over Liquor Privileges In Soldiers' and Other Clubs; Chiropractors and Doctors to Stage Lobby Battle.

The first session of the fifteenth Legislature of British Columbia, which will open Tuesday, promises to be an interesting one.

- Here are some features of the session: 1. Introduction of the new liquor control measure to take the place of the present Prohibition Act. 2. Question of increased aid to municipalities. 3. Provision for superannuation of and pensions for civil servants. 4. Efforts of chiropractors to break the professional monopoly of regularly qualified and licensed doctors. 5. Proposals of Premier Oliver to amend the Elections Act so as to make it a punishable offence for any person to register names of voters and then fail to turn in the names. Many persons have been disfranchised through this practice.

MUNICIPALITIES TO SEEK FINANCIAL AID

MARTENS IS ABOUT TO ENTER RUSSIA

Stockholm, Feb. 5.—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, and 124 companions as undesirable, sailed from Gothenburg yesterday for Libau.

PROBLEM OF MRS. SMITH

Another feature of the session is the possibility that Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, M.P.P.-elect, of Vancouver, may be elected Speaker of the House.

From what is said at the Parliament Buildings, it is felt that Mrs. Smith should have recognition for her triumph in Vancouver. Her friends declare that she should be given cabinet rank.

Only other office open is that of Speaker, which carries a salary of $1,800 a year in addition to the $1,600 indemnity. The disadvantage in making her Speaker, it is felt, would be the loss of her ability on the floor of the House in social legislation.

Big Fight Over Liquor Act. It is understood that the Government has completed its draft of the Moderation Act, which will be the big problem of the session, but there is no guarantee that it will prove to be the model in any way for the Act that will finally emerge from the Legislature.

Members fear that as soon as the liquor bill comes up the House will be besieged by a group of the most determined lobbyists that have operated here since prohibition was introduced.

Rumors About Clubs. Club men are also beginning to show unusual interest. For a while it has been commonly reported that clubs were to get some sort of a limited license, chiefly because the Legislature dare not take away the privileges from the returned soldiers' organizations and in allowing them to sell liquor would have to treat other clubs the same and give them also the privilege.

Geneva, Feb. 5.—A sensational international case involving Count Igor de Tiliuski, a friend of the former Emperor of Russia, and the sum of 60,000,000 yen is to be tried shortly in Berne.

The Count is declared to have told how he negotiated with the Japanese Government and how during the Russo-Japanese War he succeeded in the destruction of the battleship Petropavlovsk by changing the mine charts aboard the battleship.

He is alleged to have received for this reward of sixty million yen, with a promise of a similar sum in ten years if Japan was not at war.

GERMANY REVIVING BRITISH ARE TOLD

Industry Said to Be Sound If Bankruptcy Can Be Avoided

London, Feb. 4.—(Associated Press)—In an official report to the Board of Trade from the British Embassy in Berlin on the industrial and economic situation in Germany, Secretary Thelwell declares that, reviewing the last two years, it is impossible not to be struck by the denseness of improvement in all departments of public and private life, with the important exception of State finance.

Germany's chief weakness, he says, is her inability to arrest the outflow of paper money, and if ultimate financial collapses is to be avoided the question arises as to how she can be saved. The time has passed when an international loan or credit would suffice.

Secretary Thelwell thinks that though it still shows signs of weakness, the Government's authority has steadily increased and that the Socialists are the greatest element of strength outside, than inside, the Cabinet. The State machine is described as too cumbersome, but the country is slowly getting accustomed to the new rule and is more inclined to obey it.

"It is impossible not to admire the skill with which traders and manufacturers have not only survived the trying times, violent fluctuations and disturbances, but have done good business despite them," continues the report. "The outstanding feature in 1920 was the establishment of combines and co-operation with foreign groups of capitalists. The inclination to create syndicates, already marked before the war, has during the last two years spread to every branch of industry and trade, while the great banks are not only participating in these transactions, but are busy opening up new branches. The motive of this is the development of mutual assistance and strength to face the heavy increase in commercial trading risks."

Remarking that it is impossible to estimate the extent to which Germany is restoring foreign trade while she refuses to publish official trade figures, the report says: "It cannot be doubted that German competition will be found and must be reckoned with from South America to Japan, there being ample neutral and allied shipping to carry it. Moreover, Germany starts with the initial advantage of lower cost of production as compared with other European goods."

Dealing with the question of labor and socialization, Secretary Thelwell is of the opinion that the workers have had sufficient experience with revolution to realize that it is possible to possess authority and yet to be badly off. They are therefore likely, he holds, to prefer economic stability, insuring employment and a modicum of comfort, to political power, and not bother to saddle themselves with the responsibilities of administration, in which case a compromise with the employers on the question of socialization is likely to be reached without political and industrial disturbances.

In conclusion, he considers that German trade and industry are sound in themselves if national bankruptcy can be avoided, and neither Germany herself nor any one else has any interest in bringing this about.

SWIMMING BATH.

To the Editor:—I have been asked by several persons to write a letter regarding the most suitable location for a salt-water swimming bath in this city.

I suppose there are very few persons who seriously consider the proposal for a swimming bath outside the Causeway, as lately proposed.

In the first place, the water in front of the Causeway is filthy beyond words. And no amount of filtration could remove the dissolved impurities that are in the water. Chlorine is suggested as a means of killing the germs, etc. But we all know of the constant expenditure in an attempt to use chlorine in the "Crystal Pool" at Seattle, where the chlorine in the water and atmosphere of the bath building irritates the throats and inflames the eyes of swimmers and spectators.

In the second place, a building intended to be hidden below the retaining wall of the swimming bath, and could have no architectural merit.

Thirdly, the cost of the foundations, and the requisite excavation, would be $30,000 according to the figures of the city engineer.

This is more than the total estimated cost of the salt-water swimming bath designed by Messrs. Keith & MacLure.

If Victoria is to have a salt-water swimming bath we should insist on getting the very best that can be built at a moderate cost.

With regard to site, the best available is no doubt the lower half of the (Dr.) Helmcken property, that faces on Belleville Street opposite the Empress Hotel grounds. The next in value as a site for a swimming bath is the land opposite the stadium, between Bannard Street and Douglas, this lot also faces on Belleville Street. Then there is suitable land belonging to the city, that would not have to be purchased.

The site of the Beacon Hill Park could be made to serve.

All these sites have the advantage of good water swimming, also, is the water close at hand for use in the showers, etc.; clean sea-water from the Dallas Road pier is readily brought to any of these sites by means of an electric pump located at the beach. The cost of piping to the water and no affluvia would be noticeable. It may be mentioned that if the objectionable mud was transformed into a very valuable fertilizer.

THE PROHIBITION ATTITUDE.

To the Editor:—The "Times" appears determined to leave no stone unturned, to persuade Prohibitionists that it is their bounden duty to be ready to help in the enforcement of liquor law or "Government Control." Of course up to the present the Prohibition Association has not been so far as I am aware. But even whether invited or not, how can they be expected to help in taking a hand in framing the new measure? Did we not denounce "Government Control" as a mere and an impossibility. When the supporters of "Government Control" trotted out their big bogey of bootlegging and dressing about when the chief business of Prohibitionists at that juncture is to arm themselves for a determined and persistent campaign of education, going forward with the unwavering assurance that sooner or later the walls of this ancient Jericho of king alcohol will tumble down and the people be freed for ever from a custom which has notoriously stood in the path of human advancement.

To Cure Russia by "Absent Treatment"

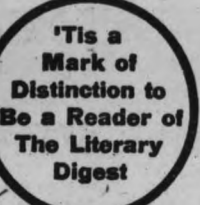

The Washington Herald declares that "until the Allied Powers have at least a semblance of an agreed Russian policy, chaos is certain to continue. President Wilson proposes a policy of hands off, and this may help clear the air." Both Bolshevik and anti-Bolshevik spokesmen in this country, it is interesting to note, find something to praise in the President's proposal, but correspondents report that it is received coldly by the French press, and with a mingling of praise and criticism by the English papers. "Does Mr. Wilson think America can join the League for five or ten minutes whenever it wishes something, and then get out before it is called on to assume responsibilities?" asks the Paris Journal des Debats; and the London Westminster Gazette conceding that the President's proposal "contains much sound sense," goes on to say: "But when he asks the Allies jointly to guarantee the territorial integrity of Russia, we are compelled to remark that America refuses to share not only in that guaranty but in a guaranty of the integrity of other European states which are members of the League."

RESTORING CONFIDENCE TO REALTY VALUES.

Property holders will probably derive more than comfort from the solution of Victoria's reverted land problem which has been quietly accomplished at the City Hall during the last few weeks. Protection of community property values appears to have been happily combined with protection to the city's financial interest.

When the city at the end of last year had to take over 700 pieces of property because owners had given up paying taxes, members of the Council realized that they faced one of the big tasks of their term and realty owners and agents looked on almost helpless and dismayed. There were prospects that the city, to clear itself as rapidly as possible, might throw these lots on the market for what they would bring. Such a move would have meant demoralization of all values. So well are the city's lots distributed they would control the market as long as any remained unsold. Private owners to make sales would have to meet cut-rate prices at the City Hall.

As members of the Reverted Lands Committee, Aldermen Todd, Sangster and Fullerton and W. G. Cameron, immediately saw how this would have meant competitive destruction of realty values. With the city underbidding to cut its losses and unload its accumulations, there would be still less incentive for the private owner to hold on. Without some support to values against municipal real estate dumping, the process would have ended only with the city coming into possession of most of the unused land in the municipality, a complete demoralization of values and a further restriction of the number of taxpayers.

The privilege of the city in the crisis removing uncertainty as to land values was discovered and immediately grasped by members of the committee. Under their decision all city land is offered only at the market price of surrounding privately owned land. The price of one protects and stimulates the price of the other. A public sales catalogue shows the market quotation of every city lot. It is true that although the assessed value of the lots catalogued is $788,135, the committee places their market price at only $454,420, which is even less than the $499,089 of back taxes, interest and other accumulated charges against them. But in this, an unselfish committee is not peculiar. One would scarcely be open to the charge of pessimism by volunteering to sell almost any property to-day at less than what it is valued at on the rolls of the assessor.

As an inducement to purchasers the city is offering terms of one-quarter cash, the balance over five years at 6 per cent., or 5 per cent. discount for cash. If a building equal to the value of the lot is erected within a year there is an additional discount of 5 per cent. Real estate agents selling city property are allowed the usual 5 per cent. commission.

This seems to be the first real effort to solve the depressing feature of this city's land delinquency problem and to get property back on the tax lists. It means that one great uncertainty over the realty market has been removed. It is as if a minimum price has been established as was done in the bond market when prices were uncertain. The way is cleared for the return of confidence. If it comes and land values rise, there is provision for the city to revise its prices upwards. Realty owners are hardly likely to begrudge the city an early chance for a little such "profiteering" on its holdings.

SOUTH AFRICA.

One of the prime uncertainties of next Tuesday's elections in South Africa is the manner in which the Labor Party will interpret its duty to itself and the Union in the polling booths. It desires to defeat the Government because it looks upon its policies as inimical to the welfare of the workingman. But it regards the Hertzog programme as equally dangerous for the reason that a Nationalist victory would spell industrial stagnation and the loss of bread and butter to themselves.

The apparently equal balance in the two appeals is tipped in the Government's favor by the fact that on more than one occasion in Parliament the Labor Party has voted with the Unionists. But the continuation of that support is somewhat problematic at this stage by virtue of the Unionist-South African Party merger which it interprets as an attempt to get rid of the Laborites and give a new lease of life to what their leader describes the "old Unionist profiteering crowd."

It may be gathered, therefore, that while the principal question to be decided on Tuesday is whether the Union shall retain its membership in the British Commonwealth or whether it shall revert to the status of a republic, the Labor Party may assist Hertzog's election against its will because it refuses to recognize that any other save an economic issue is involved.

This is the danger which General Smuts faces and the only hope of support from individual members of Trades Unions lies in the fact that they will record their objection to republicanism by voting for the Government candidate rather than the Laborite.

ASKING FOR TROUBLE.

At a time when practically every reasonably large community in Canada is grappling with a serious unemployed situation the Prime Minister calls the attention of the Mayor of Toronto to the fact that the Province of Ontario is looking for fifty thousand farm workers and domestic servants in the towns and villages of the Old Country. While this may be the business of the Province concerned it is pointed out in the official warning from Ottawa that if the provincial authorities find at a later date that their estimate of available employment was overdrawn it would be useless to take their troubles to the Prime Minister.

Everybody knows that Ontario is in a position to absorb a tremendous amount of labor in the Spring and Summer months. The farm and the kitchen may need the number mentioned in a few weeks. But it ought to be remembered that the "green un" usually gets his conception of Canada's great out of doors from the glowing picture which decorates the cover of the average advertising pamphlet. True conditions may be set forth in the mass of detail with which he is provided; but in nine cases out of ten the intending emigrant retains the impression implanted by the pictorial art of the printer and takes the plunge.

If the new arrival could be depended upon to stick to the farm the Prime Minister's obvious apprehension of a growing list of unemployed in the cities would vanish. But in some cases the immigrant arrives and discovers the roseate hue of the advertising literature a little smudged by stern realities. He has not had sufficient time to realize that the land offers him a competence. He has been caught in the trek citywards and the waving corn knows him no more.

CONFERENCE ASSURED.

It is now announced that President-elect Harding will issue a call for an international conference to discuss disarmament proposals as soon as he assumes his official duties. If such a development takes place—and there would appear to be nothing to prevent it—it does not matter whether the Secretary of Naval Affairs favors the continuation of the American construction programme or not. His term of office comes to an end in a month. And it should be remembered that if Great Britain's supremacy is challenged by no other nation except the United States it is scarcely likely that her future course will be determined upon the assumption that her blood relation is an enemy. With that much accomplished those millions of people on this side of the Atlantic who have but a very vague conception of what a battleship looks like in reality will think twice before they provide the money to build a navy for the sole purpose of "lording it" over Great Britain. In any case a conference should succeed in putting an end to the idiotic race even if it may take ten years to create a list of unemployed Admirals and Generals.

MET CREDITOR WITH IRON HAND IS CHARGE LAID

Chinese Merchant Lays Serious Charge Against Fellow Countryman

Some of the perils incurred by debt collectors were outlined in the city police court this morning, when Fong Young and Yip Sim were charged with assaulting with actual bodily harm another Chinaman, Wong Gong, and were remanded until Tuesday on $500 bail, in order that J. A. Aikman, retained at the moment the case was called, might make inquiries on which to base a defence.

Before admitting the two accused to bail, Magistrate Jay demanded information as to the nature of the crime alleged to have been committed, and City Prosecutor Harrison and Constable Jones thereupon outlined the charge as follows:—

It is stated by Wong Gong that he had called upon the two accused for payment of an account, and while one man held him firmly the other had mounted a chair, and taking a two-pound iron weight, in his hand had pounded Wong Gong upon the head until he became insensible, when he was thrown out of the premises.

City Prosecutor Harrison said he understood the complaint was not well enough to appear this morning, "but I understand the allegation is that he was struck upon the head with something metallic." This not being satisfactory to Magistrate Jay, the further details were added to build the completed story of a bill collecting expedition and the way financial emergencies are on occasion dealt with in Chinatown.

OTHER PAPERS' VIEWS

WHAT THE "EX-SERVICE MAN" IS.

(From The Manchester Guardian) The average ex-soldier or ex-sailor, being a well-meaning citizen, must read with some concern and dislike a good deal of what he sees carelessly suggested in the press about the formation of a vast trade union or federation of ex-service men, to promote their interests as distinct from those of their countrymen and countrywomen. The average ex-service man has no wish to join anything of the kind. Once back at work, he has no separate interest that he wants to push; he is only too glad to be a civilian again and to forget that he was ever anything else, and he resents the imputation that he makes any claim for preferential treatment of any sort at the expense of those who kept the country going and his needs supplied while he was at the war.

PLAN IS SUGGESTED TO BEAUTIFY CITY

Spring Cleaning-up and House Painting Campaign Recommended

A clean-up and painting campaign for Victoria is suggested by a prominent business man who writes to the Victoria and Island Development Association complimenting them on the good work done by the Association during the past year and recommending that one of the greatest attractions Victoria could have as a tourist resort is the beautiful appearance of houses and gardens.

"To this end," he writes, "would it not be wise for your Association, in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce to go right after a 'Cleaning Up Victoria' campaign. The City Council might be induced to tear down and clean up many of the disreputable old shacks scattered over the city.

Vigorous lobbies are likely to be found operating when the chiropractors bring up their medical freedom bill. The Medical Council will be down here in force to lead the corridor attack on the bill, while for the chiropractors it will be a fight for life.

It is expected that there will not be much opposition to superannuation allowances for civil servants. The only discussion to develop will likely be over working out the details of the scheme. This superannuation scheme will include all Provincial Government and municipal employees, with employers and employees each paying 50 per cent. of the annual premiums and the Government administering and standing the cost of administering the funds.

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1921.
(Copyright, 1921, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is a fortunate day, according to astrology. Jupiter, Saturn, Mars and the Sun are all in benefic aspect. It is a time for progressive effort in every line, but especially in commercial enterprises. Buying and selling are subject to the best direction.

Saturn gives great promise to those who deal in lands and precious profit in real estate investments.

Building is subject to the sway of stars making for many large and small undertakings.

Again colonization on a new scale is foreshadowed and there will be assistance given by the government.

Farmers continue subject to planetary influences. Buying and selling are those who have the good of their country at heart, for they are to attain immense power, political and financial, through organization.

The stars promise much to those who are to assume control of the Government. This year will be advantageous, but they are warned of new national problems that menace the country.

Mars seems to prestage necessary interest in military affairs, beneficial especially to soldiers and those who make a profession of protecting the nation.

Uranus again gives warning that there will be a great deal of wrong thinking that will harm the peaceful plans of all peoples.

Who is not a lucky day for the meetings of men and women, if romance guides them. Even in business affairs there may be serious misunderstandings.

For many months the seers have predicted that women would become modest and sensible in dress. The prognostication is that fashions will be greatly modified within the year.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful to avoid accident this year. An active and prosperous year in business is forecast for both men and women.

Children born on this day have the augury of success and happiness, but all through life they may be liable to accidents.

TEN MILE SPEED DECLARED TOO FAST IN FOG

Court of Appeals Finds Automobile Driver Responsible For Accident

On grounds that pedestrians have at least equal rights with vehicular traffic on roadways, the Court of Appeal, with Chief Justice Macdonald and Justices Galliber, McPhillips and Eberts sitting, yesterday dismissed the appeal of W. J. Savory against the decision of Mr. Justice Morrison, in the Supreme Court, awarding Mrs. Beauchamp $300 damages for injuries resulting from an automobile accident which took place on the Gorge Road last Fall, on an extremely foggy night. The cross appeal for increased damages or a new trial was not allowed, the Court being evenly divided on the question.

Not Cautious Enough

The Chief Justice said that in some respects this was an exceptional case. The Court had been referred to none that was exactly analogous. The evidence was that the defendant was driving the car at nine or ten miles an hour. The night was wet and very foggy. The grade was down-hill at the place of the accident. He had no hesitation in saying that the driver of the motor car was guilty of negligence. It was his duty to have gone very slowly indeed. Had he had that degree of control over his car which the conditions of the night and the road demanded, the accident could have been averted.

As to the alleged negligence of the plaintiff, continued the Chief Justice, what could the lady do? She had a right to be where she was—as much right as the defendant. It was idle to say that she should have turned round every moment to beware of overtaking traffic. Neither a pedestrian or the driver of a motor car, was under no obligation to turn round repeatedly to see what was behind. The fact was that the new highway conditions created by the preponderance of motor traffic on the roads had permitted them all rather lightly to accept new standards of safe speeds for traffic. Under the conditions prevailing on that night ten miles an hour was an excessive and dangerous speed.

Would Increase Damages

As to the question of damages, said His Lordship, while it was always difficult to interfere with the award of another court, in this case he had no hesitation in saying that either a new trial should be ordered, or it should be made a condition of the new trial that the damages should be increased. As to this phase of the case, he had consulted his colleagues, and found that the court was equally divided. He would, therefore, withhold his judgment to the appeal of defendant, which should be dismissed.

Negligent, Not Reckless

Mr. Justice Galliber concurred in the judgment that the appeal should be dismissed; but did not associate himself with all the views of the Chief Justice. He found that the defendant had been negligent, but not recklessly negligent. As to the duty of the plaintiff on that night, Mr. Justice Galliber dissented from the views of both the learned trial judge and the Chief Justice. The conditions of the night demanded from the plaintiff no more than ordinary care, more than the evidence before them would indicate had been shown. But in view of all the circumstances he would dismiss the appeal.

Mr. Justice McPhillips said it was not without considerable hesitation that he had come to the conclusion that the judgment of the lower court could not be disturbed. The case came very close to that line in damage suits where no liability for damage existed on either side. The plaintiff had accepted the chances of a great risk by walking where she had done on that night. The defendant, however, had plainly not exercised sufficient care. Had it not been for that one fact, His Lordship would hold that the plaintiff's case must fail. As it was, the balance was against the defendant. He would dismiss the appeal.

Mr. Justice Eberts having intimated that he concurred with the views of the Chief Justice, judgment of the court was formally given, dismissing the appeal and the cross appeal.

Demise of Luxury Tax Saved Victorians More Than That During January

More than $10,000 less in taxes was collected from Victoria by the Dominion Government during January than in previous months because of the dropping of the luxury tax.

FAMOUS IRON CHINK NOW HAS RELATIVE IN IRON SPLITTER

Two Members of Mechanical Fish Cleaning Family Now on Market

Seattle, Feb. 5.—Enlarging its field to help keep outside gold coming into Seattle, the Smith Cannery Machines Company, famous all over the world as the developer and manufacturer of the Iron Chink for the canned salmon industry, is preparing to make its first shipments of a new machine, known as the Iron Splitter, to the codfish industry of Newfoundland and Labrador. The new machine dresses cod and similar fish for sale, and is being manufactured in two models, one for shore stations and the other for use aboard the fishing vessels.

The machine has been developed after two years' of experimental work. Experts of the codfish industry in Great Britain, France, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Newfoundland and Japan. The districts and countries mentioned form the Seattle company's market for the new device. Heretofore the work of the Iron Splitter has been done wholly by hand, the man performing the work being known as the splitter.

Does Work of Sixty Men.
 The Iron Splitter has a capacity of one codfish each second, or sixty codfish a minute. Operated by two men, it does the work of sixty to seventy-five men and because of the enormous financial saving, it is expected that the device will play an even greater role than the Iron Chink in the world's fishing industry. The Iron Chink is used by virtually every salmon packing plant in the world, but the salmon industry is largely confined to the North Pacific and Alaska, while the codfish industry is one of the great industries of the Atlantic Coast and Northwestern Europe. Both machines originated in Seattle and are manufactured in Seattle.

Four hundred Iron Chinks are now installed in the canneries of the Pacific Coast, Alaska and Siberia, their manufacture and sale having added an enormous amount of outside money to Seattle's capital resources. The company developed and began manufacturing the Chink in 1905. The Iron Splitter is expected to be an even greater factor in bringing new money into Seattle.

FAMOUS OLD RECIPE FOR COUGH SYRUP
 Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly Pinex penetrates through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually, but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your drugist for Pinex with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Americans Fighting Hard to Continue Aerial Mail Service

Move to Throw Out Appropriations Is Meeting Extensive Opposition; Effect Will Be to Check Saving of Day Between Victoria and Seattle.

Recent advances to the effect that the aerial mail services of the United States was about to be curtailed by their Congress, has caused a furore of comment from all quarters. In light of the fact that the Seattle-Victoria U. S. Aerial Mail Service has proved such a dependable and brilliant feature of the mail carriage on this coast the question is of intense interest to this port.

On days when the largest transpacific passenger liners could not dock at this port, owing to adverse winds of great velocity, Eddie Hubbard, the pilot in the Seattle-Victoria aerial mail route, flew over from Lake Union and snuggled down into the waters of the Inner Harbor without further trouble than a little care to land in the lee of the wharves.

Faced Gales
 On two occasions within the past six weeks the P. O. S. Empress of Asia has dropped her mail in Esquimalt Harbor, as she would not dock at the Outer Wharf in the wind and sea running. On both occasions the Eddie Hubbard brought his flying boat across the 80 odd miles that separates the two ports and landing, Bracknell, for the Company's wharf—took the mail from the trans-Pacific liner and returned via the broad air route, to Lake Union with his pick of the fastest letter mail for the United States.

This service was inaugurated in October 15 last, on a six-months' contract basis, mainly through the efforts of Messrs. O. Praeger and McGrath, Washington postal officials. Hubbard undertook to make ten trips per month, serving both outgoing and incoming boats to the Orient, with express letter mail matter up to a total weight of 600 pounds per trip. The pilot fulfilled his engagement to the very letter for the past three months and has not yet missed a single trip, coming here in weather that was thought impossible for him to face in either of his two craft—the fast horsepower flying boat, or the 120 horse seaplane.

American Comment
 Speaking of the proposed curtailment of this and other aerial mail routes in the United States the current number of Literary Digest has this to say:
Extent of Service
 "A hundred million letters were carried by air-mail pilots last year, at a saving on the Washington-New York route of $42,500 and on the New York-Chicago route of more than $100,000, yet the utter destruction of the air-mail service was threatened recently in the House of Representatives when the $1,450,000 appropriation for the service was eliminated.

"The air-mail service was started in May, 1918, and is now in operation between New York, Cleveland, Washington, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and San Francisco, with stops at North Platte, Neb., Sacramento, Cal., and other places. Other contracts for service in operation are those between Key West, Fla., and Havana, Cuba, which advances the delivery of mail 24 hours, and the Seattle-Victoria route, which saves a day by delivering mail to and receiving mail from, Oriental steamships. Contracts have been let by the Post Office Department, after a thorough study of the possibilities, for the delivery of mail to St. Louis, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Atlanta, Raleigh, Harrisburg and Fort Wayne, Ind., most of these lesser cities being on a direct route to larger cities. It has also been recommended that extensions of service be made to Detroit, Los Angeles, Buffalo, Kansas City, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Memphis and New Orleans. But no routes will be established, maintains Mr. Otto H. Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster-General, who is in charge of the service, supporting. "It costs no more to send mail by airplane than it does to send the same class of matter by train," he adds. "The cost of carrying mail to St. Louis, for example, by air mail on each trip, the total average performance is better than 24 per cent perfect, and the actual saving in expenditures has warranted the Post Office Department in establishing present routes and reducing the postage to two cents an ounce."

Alternative Course
 "An independent air-mail service over long routes, is suggested, rather than the present one, in which the air-mail supplements the railway-mail service, and, according to statistics, advances the delivery of mail from 16 to 24 hours. When night flying is made possible by well-lighted landing fields, mail will be carried from New York to San Francisco in 36 hours, and from Chicago to San Francisco in 24 hours. Chief of the Chamber of Commerce, who is looking over possible mail routes at Esquimalt, the company being willing to return the ship to its former moorings in Thetis Cove.

EXPORTER TO VANCOUVER
 The freighter Canadian Exporter is expected late in the day from Union Bay where she has been taking on bunkers. The ship was at Ocean Falls taking on 500 tons of pulp. She will complete her cargo for Australia here and sail about February 17.

PASSENGERS OF KIAMATH SAVED AFTER WRECKING

Excitement Prevailed With Lives Feared Lost For While

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—The passengers and crew of the steam schooner Kiamath, driven ashore near Point Arena early to-day have been landed safely, according to a wireless message received from Captain Hall, of the steamer Curacao, which is standing by, to The San Francisco Call.

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—The Kiamath, a steam schooner, was driven ashore at Point Arena last night for Columbia River ports. She grounded at 2:15 a. m. The Curacao, northbound, proceeded to her assistance. Her cargo also was picked up by the steamers Queen and Alaska, but they were too far distant to render aid.

Four of the Kiamath's passengers were bound for Seattle, the remainder for Portland. Their home addresses are not known by the steamship company.

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—According to the Marine Department, the weather here is expected to be a fishy one where the Kiamath grounded. Fish rock is a notoriously dangerous spot along the rocky northern California coast.

ARABIA MARU IN LIGHT FROM ORIENT

O.S.K. Vessel Failed to Make William Head by Sundown

Fifteen days out from Yokohama, the Arabia Maru, Captain M. K. Komiyu, made port here today, after arrival at quarantine overnight. The Arabia came alongside at 9 a. m. She was trying to reach William Head and clear before sundown, at 5:17 p. m., but just missed making the time limit.

For this port the Arabia, which is one of the new type O.S.K. vessels, carried 17 steerage, and a very light shipment of freight. For Seattle the ship had 26 cabin passengers, and 43 steerage, but no Europeans. Her cargo totalled 2663 tons, made up of 355 tons for Vancouver, 875 for Seattle, 1500 tons for Tacoma, and the balance for discharge here. A fair mail was carried.

The cargo comprises the usual eastbound movement of freight, including a good shipment of raw silk, for the silk train, copra cake, matted, porcelain, tea, peanuts, and other general merchandise. The ship rode light in the water, her line being ten feet above the sea level. Among her cargo was 1000 cases of cod fish.

Captain Komiyu, who was here many times on the Mexico Maru, and the Panama Maru, the old class type O.S.K. vessel, reported a good run, with the exception of two days about the 18th meridian, when she dipped into a two day gale, and heavy seas. She cleared for Seattle before noon.

OFFICERS OF BLUE FUNNEL LINER FACE SERIOUS CHARGES

Tyndareus Feature in Court Action For Alleged Neglect

Vancouver, Feb. 5.—With improper and negligent navigation alleged against her officers, the steamer Tyndareus is defendant in an action proceeding in the exchequer court of Canada, British Columbia admiralty district, before Mr. Justice Martin at the suit of Peers and Anderson. The plaintiffs, Ross R. Peers and Arthur David Anderson, are shingle manufacturers of Vancouver. The steamer Tyndareus, registered at the port of Liverpool, is owned by the Alfred Holt Co., managers of the Ocean Steamship Company. The case for the plaintiffs is that about 11 a. m. August 15 last, the tug Alcevo, Captain J. H. Seeley in charge, was towing a crib of shinglebolts, of which Messrs. Peers and Anderson were owners, and the Tyndareus collided with the crib between Prospect Point and Point Atkinson. There was no wind, the weather was hazy, the tide was low, nearly at slack, and the Alcevo was proceeding at the rate of one mile per hour. The tug was carrying all necessary lights, two at the masthead, red and green for port and starboard, a light at the stern, and another on the crib. The first intimation of the Tyndareus was when she was discovered twenty-five yards away. The engines of the Alcevo were put full speed ahead to try to avoid the accident, but the big ocean steamer vessel smashed into the crib. She stopped and then continued on her course to Union Bay.

Many of the shingle bolts were lost and the crib was badly damaged. The damage is assessed at $5,493.

The plaintiffs allege there was no proper lookout on the Tyndareus that she did not comply with the rules of the road, and that there was faulty navigation. The Tyndareus was proceeding at full speed at the time and in addition was assisted by a six-knot tide. The defence is that there were no proper lights on the crib or tug.

PLANNING REVIVAL OF GERMAN COMMERCE IN OCEANIC TRADE

German Interests Investing Money in Steamship Services

Hamburg, Germany, Feb. 5.—Despite lack of tonnage, shortage of coal, labor troubles and a depreciated currency, German shipping interests have begun an intensive campaign to revive pre-war sea trade. Millions of marks have already gone into important shipbuilding contracts.

Hugo Stinnes, reputed to be the wealthiest man in the new republic, and a heavy shareholder in a number of shipping companies, is reported to be attempting to extend his influence, which is now the controlling factor in the German East Africa line and the Woermann line, and an important factor in the affairs of the Hamburg-American line.

Regular steamship services with America, South America, East Africa, Mexico, Cuba, Spain, Portugal, Australia and Mediterranean and Scandinavian ports, have been re-established, and the North Sea, Baltic and Rhine traffic has assumed a new and lively aspect. Handicapped by shortage of ships the Germans have turned their attention to conversion of warships to commercial usages, to construction of motor ships out of sailing vessels, and to the study of oil-fuel as a substitute for the more expensive coal fuel.

Revival of German commerce is indicated by the increased number of ships calling at the more important ports. During the first eleven months of 1920, 3,369 vessels of a tonnage of 2,822,240 arrived at Hamburg, as compared with 1,854 vessels and 1,303,629 tons in 1919, and 13,875 vessels of 13,066,426 tons in the first eleven months of 1915.

The majority of these vessels, however, are sailing under foreign flags.

Washington, Feb. 5.—At least $25,000,000 will be lost in the operation of the Government Merchant Marine fleet in the first six months of 1921, according to the estimate of Alonzo Tweedale, general controller of the shipping board in the report of hearings made public today by the subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee. Present conditions will probably continue for two or three months thereafter, Mr. Tweedale said, but then conditions, in his opinion, would get back to normal and the government would begin to make a profit on its fleet.

SATURNIA CLEARING.
 Halifax, Feb. 5.—The Anchor Donaldson liner Saturnia arrived here Friday morning from Portland, en route to Liverpool and Glasgow, after being delayed off the harbor by a snowstorm. She is taking on passengers and cargo.

B. C. SHIPBUILDING.
 The steel ship construction industry in British Columbia continued to flourish during the past year. The output amounted to $5,400,000 tons, which is in excess of the output of any previous year, says Railway and Marine News. Vancouver shipyards turned out 70,200 tons of steel shipbuilding, while Victoria launched two ships with a tonnage of 16,200 tons. Despite the fact that the Dominion Government orders for steel ships was discontinued early last year, the industry was maintained through J. Coughlan & Sons of Vancouver, building vessels to their own account. This firm contracted for the steel steamships, which they disposed of to outside interests.

NORTHERN CITY IS AROUSED OVER CHANGE
 Prince Rupert, Feb. 5.—Citizens here are protesting against the reported placing of the Prince Rupert and Prince George on the San Francisco run, and the Board of Trade is seeking confirmation of the rumor. Shipping men feel that the boats are not suitable for the southern service.

WANT WORD OF TANKER HEWITT
 New York, Feb. 5.—The tank steamer Hewitt, formerly the Pacific, from Sabin, with a cargo of sulphur, according to the estimate of Alonzo Tweedale, general controller of the shipping board in the report of hearings made public today by the subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee. Present conditions will probably continue for two or three months thereafter, Mr. Tweedale said, but then conditions, in his opinion, would get back to normal and the government would begin to make a profit on its fleet.

REPORT CLAIMS LARGE DEFICIT FOR U. S. SHIPPING
 Washington, Feb. 5.—At least $25,000,000 will be lost in the operation of the Government Merchant Marine fleet in the first six months of 1921, according to the estimate of Alonzo Tweedale, general controller of the shipping board in the report of hearings made public today by the subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee. Present conditions will probably continue for two or three months thereafter, Mr. Tweedale said, but then conditions, in his opinion, would get back to normal and the government would begin to make a profit on its fleet.

"SWAT THE COLD"

NOW HEALTH SLOGAN

Health Authorities Are Back of Campaign to Prevent Disease

The familiar "swat the fly" slogan is now being revised by health authorities and the public is being advised to "swat the cold" in winter as heartily as they "swat the fly" in summer.

Behind the movement is the desire to check the possible spread of influenza and lung diseases by the prompt treatment of every case of cold. "If every person would get busy as soon as a cold develops, we would do wonders in preventing disease," says an Eastern official.

Colds and grippe are promptly and effectively treated at home by the use of Grip-Pix. As a combination of drugs such as would be used by any physician, Grip-Pix, in its capsule form, relieves a cold in a night and acts promptly in the case of grippe. Sold by all druggists at 25c a box. Vancouver Drug Co., Fort and Douglas Streets, special agents.

The election of officers for the coming year, together with the customary reports and financial statements will comprise the main portion of the agenda.

Dangerous Rubbish Fire.—Wah Lung, otherwise Wong Kong, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs in the city police court this morning for having permitted a rubbish fire to burn after sunset last Saturday, when the great gale was blowing. He explained that the fire was in charge of a Chinese workman who had absented himself for a few moments when the fire department arrived at 6 o'clock at night, to find that sparks were flying thirty feet. The necessary permit had been issued, but does not allow of fires after sunset.

Chamber of Commerce.—G. E. Ayland will leave for Vancouver next week to attend the convention of the B. C. It also objected to any increase in salaries for school teachers until further efficiency was secured. The meeting also recommended that the School Board that until better school accommodation is secured the courses in manual training, domestic science and school gardening shall be suspended.

Veterans Entertained.—The Women's Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. were hostesses at a very successful five hundred persons last evening at the G.W.V.A. Club, when a large party of veterans and their friends enjoyed the ladies' hospitality. Mrs. Thomas Palmer was the efficient convenor of the general arrangements, and exerted every effort to ensure the pleasure of the guests; F. Waller ably directed the card games and Miss E. Pinchback furnished the music for dancing. These informal entertainments are arranged by the Auxiliary as part of its programme of work on behalf of the ex-service men. The next of the series will be held on February 16.

Fire on Lund Wharf.—Fire at the warehouse on the Government wharf at Lund on Sunday morning last destroyed forty cases of settlers' effects and for a time imperilled the nearby hotel. Charles Thulin, owner of the hotel, who is in the city for a few days, describes the fire as extremely dangerous at times, requiring the services of four lines of hose before being subdued. Much of the danger was due to the proximity of sheds used as gasoline and hay warehouses, which were only saved because the heavy gale was blowing the flames in the opposite direction.

HERE ON MILL PROJECT

Eight Million Dollar Plant Will Have Output of 200 Tons a Day.

A pulp and paper mill costing between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 is to be established at Prince George, according to plans now being completed here with Government officials by Robert Tyhurst, of Dome Creek, who is an officer of an Eastern timber and paper syndicate. The mill will turn out 200 tons of paper a day.

Fort George has been chosen for the site of the mill because of the big pulpwood deposit in the interior of B. C., and the advantage in freight rates to the Prairies that a mill there will have over Coast mills.

Arrangements that are being made now are the completion of plans made here last December when Mr. Tyhurst and other members of the syndicate went to Victoria in connection with Government officials.

Others in the syndicate include: Frank P. Jones, Montreal financier; Angus McLean, of Bathurst, N.B., lumber manufacturer; M. B. Frelsich, of Buffalo, president of a New York lumber company, and several Ottawa Valley lumbermen.

FOREST REVENUE GROWS

Total Last Month Shows 25 Per Cent. Increase Over Last Year.

Government revenue from British Columbia forests continues to increase, despite reported dullness in the lumber industry.

The total forest branch revenue for January, 1921, was $258,044.52, according to figures issued to-day by the Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands. For January, 1920, the total was $192,272.20.

Scotland's Poetry.—An address on the poets of Scotland, with special reference to the home and works of Robert Burns, will be given by the Rev. J. G. Inkster at the First Presbyterian Church at 8 o'clock on Tuesday, February 15. Miss Iona Robertson will render Gaelic selections during the evening.

Children's Fancy Dress Ball.—The ladies auxiliary to the Grand Army of United Veterans is arranging to give a children's fancy dress ball on February 14. An energetic committee is very busy. The dance will be held in the Labor Hall, Broad Street, commencing at 6 p.m., continuing till 9 p.m. Adults will be admitted at 9 o'clock and dancing is to continue until twelve. Good music will be supplied, and refreshments served. Everyone is assured of spending an enjoyable evening.

Thanks Congregational Choir.—First Congregational Choir, under the able leadership of Mr. King, gave a very fine concert at the Shelburne Street Hall on Tuesday in aid of the work there. The twenty-eight choir members gave their services with a warmth of sympathy that made the concert a success in every way. The workers at the hall wish to publicly express their appreciation of the very kind spirit which prompted such a splendid evening's entertainment.

GAINED 15 POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

Mrs. Manor Says She Can't Praise the Medicine Enough For Restoring Her Health

"Words can't express my gratitude to Tanlac, for the medicine restored my health and built me up fifteen pounds in weight," was the enthusiastic statement made by Mrs. Gertrude Manor, of Emerson, Minn., wife of a well-known farmer, while in Winnipeg recently.

"Four years ago my health began to break down, and I got in such a weak condition that two years ago I became a victim of the influenza and was confined to my bed for more than a month. For over a week it was a question whether I would pull through, and when I did get up I was nothing but a shadow of my former self. I didn't have strength enough to dress myself, and for months to follow couldn't do a stroke of housework. I finally regained strength enough to do little light work around the house, but could find nothing to put me in good health. Then, a few months ago my health began going down in leaps and bounds, and I was in such a miserable condition that I began to fade away to nothing. I had no appetite, and suffered terribly from indigestion, bloating, nervousness, palpitation, and shortness of breath. I was in distress at the time, and I began to think I would never be well again.

"I read the statements of so many others praising Tanlac that I began taking it, and six bottles of the medicine have made me feel like a new person. As I said, I have gained fifteen pounds in weight, and am always ready for a good day's work. I'm feeling fine in every way, and can never praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is sold in Victoria by D. E. Campbell, corner Fort and Douglas, and Lang's Drug Store, Esquimalt Road.

Aristocrats' Dying Rally Fails To Produce the Tying Tally and Vancouver Wins Very Fast Game

Despite Strenuous Overtime Clash In Seattle, Local Players Skated Stroke For Stroke With Millionaires; Adams Scored Winning Goal Shortly After Third Period Opened; Vics Tried Hard to Equalize; Wish-Bone Was of No Use.

Vancouver, 4; Victoria, 3.

Thirty-seven seconds after Dunderdale had tied up the score for Victoria in the third period, Jack Adams and Alf Skinner broke quickly from centre ice. Skinner speeded down the boards and made a quick, short pass to the front of Victoria's net. Adams pounced upon the puck like a hungry hound after a porthouse. Like a flash he lifted the rubber from the ice and it sailed into the cage under Fowler's stick.

This was the goal which gave the Millionaires the verdict in last night's titanic hockey struggle at the Arena. The winning score came shortly after the third period had commenced and during the last ten minutes the Aristocrats maintained a very intense bombardment and attempted to even the score, but Hughie Lehman was in superb form and took no chances. On one occasion he tossed Dunderdale's shot into the gallery again, he scrambled about on the ice after the elusive puck and on securing it hurled it to the boards.

Things Did not Blossom

The dramatic finish staged by Victoria kept the fans at a high nervous tension. They expected the tying goal to fall Lehman's way in the moment they came from behind. Twice before Vancouver had jumped into the lead only to have the locals climb back to even terms and when the yellow hornets in the fading moment leaped around the Millionaires' goal like a drove of unemployed hammering at the seat of the Cabinet, things looked very rosy, but unfortunately they did not blossom out.

Victoria staged a most remarkable fight. It was expected that the strenuous overtime battle in Seattle on Wednesday would have taken much of the sap out of them and that they would have stepped about on the ice like a man suffering from the palsy. But after the first face-off the Millionaires fresh from their five-day rest, tried to force the pace and wear down the Vics in the opening period. But the home team stroke stroke stroke and the visitors and back-checked furiously.

When the second period opened the Aristocrats still showed no signs of stalling. They tied up the score while Lehman was watching the game from the fence. Then in the third period, Fowler made three splendid saves in a row from Jack Adams, and a few seconds later Hec carried the puck into the net. Cook and MacKay had pulled out in front of the net and Cook pulled the puck out of the net. Fowler made several remarkable clearances from the fat boy. Half way through the period, Victoria got into action. Oatman hit the net and started hard for the goal. Cook and MacKay were busy as a dog after a flea, but he was always quick enough to prevent damage. As the Aristocrats were buzzing about the Millionaires looking for a chance to throw in a sting the bell rang and the fans went home to get a hot drink.

Another Goal. Vancouver was on top of Fowler who scored well with his body. The Millionaires were in again, and Johnson in his ambition to break up the attack fell across Fowler and the puck went down net and made a pass to Skinner, who forced the rubber in for the equalizing goal. Victoria attacked in force, Fredrickson shot and Clem Loughlin shooting nicely. Fowler then saved from Cook and twice from MacKay. The Aristocrats tried to score alone, but Fredrickson's pass was bad. Oatman came back and made the post ring with a hot shot. Will Loughlin shot and Oatman skated in on Lehman. He gave Dunderdale a pass and Victoria had two shots, but they stopped both.

Jack Adams shoved Vancouver ahead with a shot from the corner. MacKay scooped a pass to him and Fowler nearly upset the cage trying to stop the pass.

Victoria was pressing hard when the bell rang. Fredrickson had a great chance to score, but shot directly into the net. A little side-stepping and he might have been through. In the second period the Aristocrats resumed their offensive tactics. Oatman failed on a pass from Johnson when in front. The Moose came back again and tried to score alone. After Johnson had broken up a dangerous rush by Vancouver he set the forward in motion. Dunderdale followed with a pair of shots and Oatman and Fredrickson took turns at testing Hughie, but to no avail. Vancouver was strongly for a few minutes and then Victoria waited the play right back at them.

Lehman Goes Off. Fredrickson missed another splendid opening. Johnson gave him a perfect pass right in front and "Freddie" shot straight into Lehman. Johnson tried a shot from centre ice and Lehman almost let it squeak in. Then Will Loughlin shot the puck into the stand when but a few feet from Lehman. Johnson tore in on Lehman and incurred Hughie's displeasure. A few seconds later the Moose was again on top of Lehman, and this time the irate goalie smacked the invader across the back. Referee Ion ordered Hughie to the fence to cool off. This was the second penalty drawn by Lehman here this year.

Victoria Beats Cook. Victoria tried hard to capitalize on the goal which gave the Millionaires the verdict in last night's titanic hockey struggle at the Arena. THIS FAT 'UN PUT SKIDS UNDER VICS

This peppery Vancouver player was in form last night and forced about his rough tactics. He scored the winning goal in last night's fracas.

Lehman's absence. The Millionaires threw out a five-man defence and Cook dropped back to goal. Will Loughlin went through like an aerial shot and shot from the blue line. Cook let the puck glide through his hands and legs and again the score was tied up. Victoria could not gain any further advantage, and when Lehman returned to the ice MacKay put Vancouver in the lead on a pass from Skinner.

The Vics forced the play again and Fredrickson in his ambition to get a rebound flattened out Lehman. Hughie had to leave the ice to have a plaster put on his forehead. Both teams skated hard and fast in the opening minutes of the third period. Fowler marked several notable saves from Jack Adams and Skinner. Fredrickson went right through but lost the puck at the goal-mouth.

Tommy Scores. Dunderdale shoved Victoria up to the same level as Vancouver when he gobbled a pass from Fredrickson when close in and shot from a few feet.

Thirty-seven seconds afterwards Jack Adams and Skinner staged their sensational rush and the winning goal was netted.

For a few moments it looked as if the Millionaires would increase their lead. Cook and MacKay broke up Victoria's rushes and staged fast combination plays with the forwards. Jack Adams was right in the line-up. Cook and Fowler made several remarkable clearances from the fat boy. Half way through the period, Victoria got into action. Oatman hit the net and started hard for the goal. Cook and MacKay were busy as a dog after a flea, but he was always quick enough to prevent damage. Few Heavyweights Have Been World Champions

Jim Figg, of England, Was First Man to Annex Honors, to Which Other Britishers Succeeded; Sullivan, Fitzsimmons and Corbett Never Won Highest Laurels Despite Belief to That Effect.

(By Charles F. Mathison)

New York, Feb. 5.—The question as to the heavyweight pugilists, past and present, entitled to the honor of inscribing "world's champion" on their visiting cards makes its interrogatory appearance as regularly as the four seasons. This recurrence of the problem is due largely to the admirers of John L. Sullivan, who, out of personal regard for the Bostonian and without the slightest basis of fact, emphatically assert that he was the greatest pugilist of all times and was the champion of the world.

The latest crop of queries includes one from Hoboken, as follows: "Who was the first champion of the world? A says John L. Sullivan. B claims Jim Corbett. Sullivan did not beat Charlie Mitchell, champion of England. Corbett beat them both. Please settle."

Proof that the dispute is not confined to any section of the country is furnished by another missive, also as follows: "Please let me know if John L. Sullivan was champion of the world or not."

Replying to the Hoboken query, Sullivan never had the world's championship and therefore was not the first man to hold the title. The first champion of the world was, unquestionably, James Figg, of England, who flourished in 1719. The reason that Figg was champion of the world is that he was the champion of England, and as no other country in the world gave attention to boxing at those days, Figg was pugilistic monarch of the world.

For the same reason the long line of English pugilists, including the time of Figg down to Sayers and including Broughton, Cribb and other famous fighters, were world's champions, no other country had a champion at those days.

Sayers Goes Under. With 1860 there was a sharp break in the pugilistic succession due to the fact that John C. Heenan, the American champion, administered a terrific beating to Tom Sayers, the English title-holder, April 17, 1860, at Farnborough, England. Sayers was unable to answer the call of time for the forty-third round, and his friends cut the ropes and stopped the fight. Heenan, who had retired from the ring in the thirty-eighth round, declared later that the battle was drawn. Sayers did no more fighting after that battle, and Heenan also retired shortly afterward.

The next international battle for the world's championship took place at Kennerville, La., May 10, 1870. Tom Allen, an Englishman, who had settled in America, and won the American title, met Jim Mace, the English champion, and the latter won in ten rounds. Mace retired undefeated, and the world's title was again open to competition.

Jackson Not Wanted. Peter Jackson, undisputed champion of England and Australia, who he won by knocking out Jim Smith, British titleholder, and Frank Slavin, who claimed the Australian championship, tried hard to get a title match with Sullivan, then in his prime, and the holder of the American championship refused a match.

Jeffries was the next world's champion, as he defeated Peter Fitzsimmons for the American title in check and the score at half time was 10-8 in favor of the "Huskies." In the last half the "Huskies" opened an attack by netting five free shots in a row. The old-timers also shot extremely well from various parts of the floor.

And, incidentally, Ray took our golf cup back with him. Duncan is the fastest man on the links today. He doesn't waste time in making his shots, but walks up to the ball and cracks it. He goes round the course like a comet.

"HUSKIES" WINNERS OF SPEEDY MATCH

Victoria's veteran basketball team, the "Huskies," upset the speedy High School quintette at the High gymnasium last evening in a very fast game. The "Huskies" emerged victorious by 25-18.

A fair crowd of spectators gathered to witness the three games which were played. In the preliminaries the First Presbyterian bantams defeated the High School ones by three points, 18-15, and the Normal School girls won with their game with the Normal School co-eds.

The main game of the evening was a real speeded affair. The "Huskies" went out to avenge their last defeat at the hands of the High School. In the first half the High School lads held their heavier and older opponents in check and the score at half time was 10-8 in favor of the "Huskies." In the last half the "Huskies" opened an attack by netting five free shots in a row. The old-timers also shot extremely well from various parts of the floor.

FAMOUS VETERAN PUG RECEIVES LAST K. O.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 5.—The death of John J. (Jack) Fogarty, a well known middleweight pugilist a generation ago, was announced to-day. In February, 1888, he fought Jack Dempsey, the "Nonpareil," for a purse of $2,500 a side and a purse of $1,000, and lost after 27 rounds.

When the second period opened the Aristocrats still showed no signs of stalling. They tied up the score while Lehman was watching the game from the fence. Then in the third period, Fowler made three splendid saves in a row from Jack Adams, and a few seconds later Hec carried the puck into the net. Running 'em Wild

These little things will happen in the best regulated hockey team! The old fighting spirit was perfectly willing but the flesh was wornout by that terrible ordeal in Seattle.

All credit to the Millionaires, though. That furious, deadly red line, led by Mickey Mackay, was one well-oiled, neat piece of machinery. And scarce a week ago that fat boy lapsed into the ways of righteousness as is their wont.

Lots of bright spots shone through the dark on the Victoria horizon, too. The shiniest was Heck Fowler, who out-Lehmaned old "Eagle Eye" himself. Hughie played a better game than the Silent One served up.

Outside of Mr. Hohenzollern, the most miserable mortal in this vale of tears to-day is a certain Frank Fredrickson. "Simply can't get going," Freddie gasped after the first frame—more effects of that little affair at Seattle.

And after he had pulled the champion bone-head play of the night, by missing an open goal with no one but Lehman in his neighborhood. And same, the handsome youngster is still the main gear in the machinery.

Clem Loughlin tried a little too much individual work. No one denies he's one of the real top-notchers of the league, but he certainly spoiled several rushes by trying to stick hands through when there was a uncovered wing man on either side.

A little more of the combination dished up in every department a few weeks back would have saved the situation.

Anyways, it was a grand little game of hockey and the fans will pack the Arena again next week to see the hornets sting Seattle for this third time in succession.

For the old stung is still there, though it was a little used up on the South.

When the second period opened the Aristocrats still showed no signs of stalling. They tied up the score while Lehman was watching the game from the fence. Then in the third period, Fowler made three splendid saves in a row from

PRINCESS

"Sylvia Runs Away," the delightful comedy now playing at the Princess Theatre, is without doubt, as clever a comedy as any yet produced by these popular players. The "grown up" gussing contest, with the enlarged portrait of Miss Page as the prize, has met with such approval that the management has decided to give others of their patrons a chance to try their luck, and another portrait like those given before will be given on Wednesday next to the one guessing nearest the correct number of words spoken by Miss Page in the part of Sally in "Sylvia Runs Away" this week. The next offering at the Princess will be a splendid comedy-drama, entitled "The New Morality," by Don Mullaly (Miss Page's brother), who wrote the nameless play produced some six months ago at the Princess.

ROYAL VICTORIA

After finishing work in "Harriet and the Piper" in which she wins two cinema husbands, Anita Stewart left California on a trip to New York and Long Island with her real husband, Rudolph Cameron. The picture, which is Anita Stewart's latest First National release, will be shown at the Royal Victoria Theatre for the last time to-night. It is based on the story of the same name written by Kathleen Norris and was adapted to the screen by Monte M. Katterjohn. Playing opposite Miss Stewart are Charles Richman and Ward Crane.

DOMINION

It's no easy matter to raise ten thousand dollars on an idea, but Wallace Reid shows how it can be done in his latest Paramount picture, "The Charm School." In the role of Austins Behan, he inherits a young lady's school from his aunt. He wants to change the institution into a "charm" school, wherein all the pupils will be taught how to make themselves charming, instead of qualifying for the business world, but he runs out over the new idea, he needs ten thousand dollars. He gets the money and from the tightest man in town. See how he does it at the Dominion Theatre, to-day. Lila Lee is leading woman.

PANTAGES

"Almost an exact parallel to post-war conditions to-day may be seen in "Hitchin' Post," said Frank Mayo, discussing the film in which he appears on the Pantages Theatre screen next Monday and Tuesday. "Although the story of "Hitchin' Post" occurs in 1870, just a half a century ago, it was then the reconstruction period following the devastating war, just as it is to-day. "Some had gained riches because of the war, some in the North had gained confiscated lands of the Southerners. Those who had lost their possessions were seeking to start life over. Just as now heroes who sacrificed their business to serve their government found the great, discouraging work of rebuilding ahead of them. "In those days there came welcome news to the penniless ones of rich lands to be opened up in a country to the west. Oil was found on some of the land, and the result was a rush only equalled by those to Alaska and the California gold fields. "Even that condition is being paralleled to-day in the present oil fever that is impelling thousands to take their money and themselves to the fields that promise to make millionaires or paupers of any who wish to play the game. "Hitchin' Post" is from the pen of H. W. Shumate and was made into picture form by George Hill. The cast supporting Frank Mayo in this Universal feature includes Beatrice Burnham, Dagnar Godowsky, Joseph Harris, J. Farrell McDonald, Mark Fenton and many others.

COLUMBIA

Dustin Farnum, the most recent of the popular movie idols to be added to the Robertson-Cole list of stars, will make his appearance in his first production under the Robertson-Cole management at the Columbia Theatre. As a number of inaccurate reports are in circulation in regard to the illness of Sir John Martin Harvey, who will be seen at the Royal Victoria Theatre shortly, it is desirable that the theatregoing public should be made acquainted with the actual facts. Sir John contracted a chill while crossing the Atlantic which developed into influenza and caused him to delay his Montreal opening. He played the balance of the week in Montreal to houses which taxed the capacity of His Majesty's Theatre to the utmost at every performance, and which included a largest matinee to which he has ever played throughout his long and brilliant career. He appeared in all the performances in Ottawa, drawing enormous audiences at the Capital. In Toronto, however, where the Royal Alexandra Theatre was sold out for the entire week before he opened, he was compelled to relinquish his performances from the Wednesday matinee to the end of the week, owing to septic poisoning having developed in his foot, which he hurt aboard ship on the way over from England. This is now cured, and Sir John is in good health and looking forward eagerly to fulfilling all his engagements across Canada to the Pacific Coast and back to Montreal. Sir John's performance of "Garrick" proved a revelation even to those who have known his work for years, and in "The Burgomaster of Stillemonde" he created a veritable sensation, and the drama proved a tremendous hit. As a sheer masterpiece of make-up alone, it is a triumph comparable only to that of Sir Herbert Tree in "Colonel Newcombe," and the sombre, gripping tragedy is given a remarkable interpretation by the famous actor and his company, which is incomparably the finest aggregation of artists from the English stage that has ever been brought across the Atlantic by any great actor in our time.

Music in Victoria And the Larger World

Musical Training for Business and Professional Men in Youth; Tragic End of Singer; More Revivals of Ancient British Comedies.
(By George J. Dyke)

There is a growing desire—and parents, too, are becoming quite keen on the subject—to have music taught in all public schools, and that curriculum to all the subjects taught in public schools all the children of all the people should be brought into contact with the arts as their instincts demand. The object is to train the future business or professional man and not alone the future musician so that through the whole community population. And when the boy becomes a man of business he will have had that training which stands him in good stead in all communal affairs. With all business and professional men taking part in music study, whether at the school, at the club, or at social gatherings, and the like, there will surely be the happiness and spirit of good fellowship which is the goal of every music lover. Everybody feels all the better when music is: life is more livable; the tired feeling is overcome; the petty worries, the cost of living, the necessity of doing, and the obtainable ideals of youth are all forgotten or two in the background, and for a time we find it is after all a lot better world than we have been led to suspect. Let us then give the past school music fought for its educational existence against narrow-sighted policy of educators a narrow-limbed, but it was either a fad, or a luxury. For many years even musicians throughout the country looked upon school music with disfavor. They were not in sympathy with the work because they failed wholly to understand what education meant in its broadest sense. Why it is not so long ago that many there were who did not believe that music was a part of everyone's life—they held that only those who were specially gifted could ever hope to understand the real meaning of music. But things are rapidly changing. To-day we all know differently.

Gervase Elwes
Gervase Elwes, the celebrated English tenor was born in Billing, Northants, November 15, 1866, and met with his tragic end in Boston, A. being struck by a train at the Back Bay Station, and died shortly afterwards from the injuries received. The accident occurred after Mr. Elwes and his wife, Lady Winifred Elwes had alighted from the New York train. On leaving the pullman the English tenor stepped off the train and mistaking a fellow passenger's overcoat, and to correct his inadvertence he halted the train conductor. The train driver, however, was not in sympathy with the conductor, who was standing on the platform of the car, he lost his balance, or leaned too closely to the moving train, and was struck with such force that it was subsequently found to be a fatal one. The collar bone, fractured ribs one of which punctured the lungs and possibly a fracture of the skull. Lady Winifred, who endeavored to aid her husband, was thrown down but happily escaped injury. The tenor was to have appeared professionally later in Boston, and was engaged as a diplomat and while serving at Vienna from 1891 to 1895 studied composition, and later in Paris had his voice cultivated by Bouhy. He further studied at Brussels and in London. He made his first appearance in May 1903, at the Westmoreland Festival and had since appeared at all the important British festivals. He toured Germany in 1907, and the U. S. A. in 1909. His specialty was oratorio and he was an excellent interpreter of Brahms.

Origin of Sally in Our Alley
The author of "Sally in Our Alley," one of the very prettiest of London love songs, was Henry Carey, who lived and died at his house in Great Warner Street, London. Carey, by profession, was a music-master and song-writer. For a long time he was supposed to have written "God Save the King," but the composition has now been traced much farther back. The origin of this great hit was a pre-tenure day's holiday, witnessed and enjoyed by Carey himself. A Shoemaker's apprentice, making good, with his sweetheart, treated her with a sight of Bedlam, the puppet shows, the flying chairs (ups and downs), and all the regimens of Moorfields, and from thence proceeding to the Parthing Pye House, he gave her a collation of buns, chesscakes, stuffed with beef, and bottled ale, through all of which scenes Carey watched. Charmed with the simplicity of their courtship, he wrote his charming song "Sally in Our Alley" which has been well described as one of the most perfect little pictures of humble life in the English language. Through poverty or death, by some unknown cause Carey hanged himself in 1743. One halfpenny (one cent) was found in his pocket.

Renowned Diva
Mary Garden, renowned diva has been appointed the new director of the Chicago Opera Association. She is the first to fill the lofty, vacant position of the Association's director, and she creates a precedent in Operatic History. Miss Garden is now in sole and absolute control of all the affairs of the Association. Big-hearted, persuasive, enthusiastic and admirably fitted to be an impresario, there is nothing about opera which does not know her. Her most famous roles are "Flora," "Thais" and "Aphrodite." If she were a man the impresario would be described as "Mary Garden," although newspaper matchmakers have made many attempts to marry her.

Bach's Salary $65.00 Per Year
When Bach was thirty-eight years old he taught music pupils and directed the music in four churches, all at a salary of $65.00 per year, with lodging and fuel thrown in. Imagine the great creator of fugues, the only John Sebastian in his wig and lace collar with such an insignificant income.

Ancient Comedy Revived
One of the most interesting productions that London has seen for many a year was that of Nicolas Udall's "Ralph Roister Doister," a "wordy" interlude with music and ay lights, which ran recently for a few nights within the precincts of Westminster Abbey. The author was the versatile headmaster of Westminster School, and the performance took place in the Abbot's Dining Hall, Westminster, a place of memories. It was here that the Abbot of Westminster received Elizabeth Woodville and her youngest son when they were flying from Richard Crouchback. Here Henry IV. died in one of the rooms of the Jerusalem Chamber. The play of "Ralph Roister Doister" stands out pre-eminently amongst the earliest of comedies; its date being about the year 1527. Plays of this kind form a link between the earlier kinds of drama, which we know as "Moralities," and the later and more sophisticated comedies which we discriminate as Comedies. Tragedy began in the Moralities, and comedy also came from the Moralities, the transition phase of interludes. In "Ralph Roister Doister," the names of the characters indicate the particular quality which they stood for, and the most interesting of interludes. In "Ralph Roister Doister," the names of the characters indicate the particular quality which they stood for, and the most interesting of interludes. Little Slips
The sentences are now and not as appeared last Saturday. "I was glad to see Alderman Andros, a frequent attendant, also present, and I am glad you see as I do that the people of this community, given the opportunity, will support musical projects.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN AND THE HOME

MAKING THE MOST OF SPACE IN HOME

Handy Man Can Make Built-in Fixtures

Living conditions to-day are so crowded that any means of securing even a trifle more room is worthy of attention. One of the best ways in which the home owner may solve this problem is with built-in bookcases and china closets. One of the most attractive of closets is in a dining room where the furniture is of fanciful design. The closet is built in on the north end of the room, and in this instance was done by the husband, the home carpenter, who attributes his cleverly handied job to his training in the technical schools.

The closet has six wide shelves, the lower side of the middle shelves with screws inserted, on which cups and small pitchers are suspended. The young housewife is so fortunate as to have, besides a set of Haviland, a number of old pieces, some of which is Canton, and her china makes a very delightful spot of color in the rather dull dining room.

Built-in Cupboard.

In the living room her husband has built-in bookcases which reach on one side almost from floor to ceiling, and in these many treasures from the family libraries of both are stored, as well as the necessary books. Another convenience which he has built is a newspaper rack. Any careful housekeeper with a family of newspapers knows the despair of reaching the place constantly harried up with old newspapers, which "on no account must be thrown away." He has built for these a rack much like a music cabinet, very much wider and higher, and this, stained in imitation mahogany, as are the bookcases, takes care of both papers and magazines.

He also utilized the space under one of the living room windows, which are very wide, for a built-in case of two shelves, which contains some treasured volumes. This case is glass covered. These books are old bound copies of rare editions, now out of print, which he has gathered from the far ends of the earth.

Telling Economy.

Built-in shelves are found to be most convenient in the small kitchen, as they take up little room—and the careful cook can hardly find room enough in these days of contracted space.

The man or woman who is clever with tools can add many a piece of furniture, which will not cost more than a bill, but will be fitted to some certain need.

A bachelor girl who came to New York last week has a story to tell about her some very attractive furnishings at a very small cost. Many of these pieces she had made herself, while with some of them she has had the aid of a handy man who knows how to handle his tools. Several pieces she has discovered in second-hand shops and renovated herself. One piece, a very nice, modern, elegant, wonderful in texture, with grain like a splendid fern.

Least of These.

With the deep polish that has been given it it is very beautiful. She brought it from an old woman on the east side who was using it as a stand for a water bucket. One of the leaves is entirely gone but the other is intact, and it is against the wall. It is most attractive. It cost her originally $5, and she renovated it herself, first giving it a chemical bath, then sandpapering, and later polishing it with a good polish. Prepared wax to be found in any department store.

To be sure, the pieces made by herself are somewhat crude, but his crudeness she has hidden with chintzes of a most pleasing pattern. One of these is particularly worthy of mention. It is a "highboy" made of three shallow boxes, which she placed one on top of the other, making them secure by means of strong bands of heavy homespun and brass headed tacks. Over this she has tightly stretched heavy dark green denim on all three sides, leaving the front open. The denim is tacked on. The front is open and curtained with the denim, and the top is covered with a runner of light green denim, over which is a throw of white linen. In this little home-made cupboard she keeps her shirts-washes and her lingerie.

Homemade But Attractive.

It is of the crudest construction, but it is most useful and attractive. And the best part of it is that she can change her covers each season and have a new cupboard at will. It took her just two afternoons to make it.

There are many simple things that one can make if one has just a bit of originality and a lot of energy. And there is probably nothink that gives greater pleasure than the making of something all oneself for one's very own room or one's own home. Try it and see.

MOUTH AND TEETH.

A solution of one tablespoonful of baking soda to a pint of water is an excellent wash for keeping the mouth sweet in sickness and in health.

A few drops of tincture of myrrh applied daily to the gums will keep them hard and in good condition.

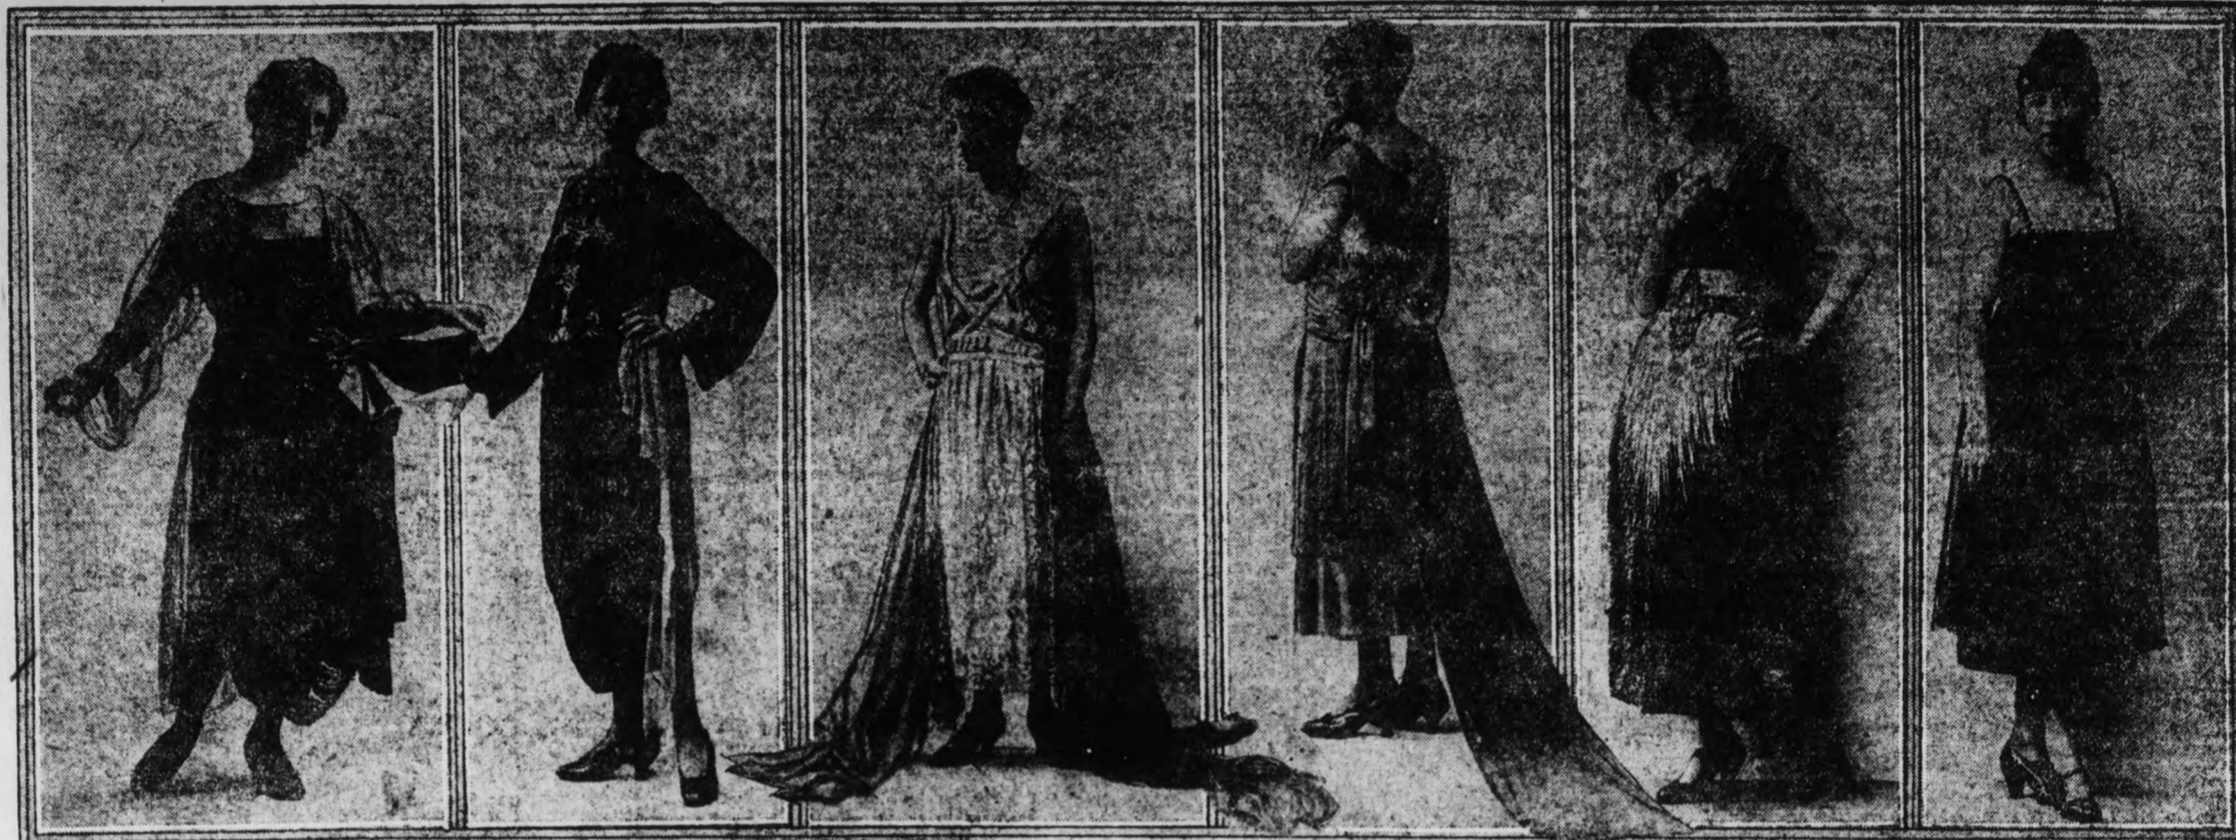

If the teeth are regularly brushed after each meal, using a good powder, it will do much towards preventing the deposit of the tartar which is so injurious.

A good powder, smooth and free from grit, is made by combining equal parts of powdered iris root and precipitated chalk.

AN OVERSHOE ECONOMY.

Rubbers wear out more quickly at the heels than in any of the other parts. To prevent this, cut heavy cardboard exactly fit the heel and place them there when the rubber is new. You will be surprised to find how much longer the rubber will last.

Picturesque, Wonderfully Lavish, a Bit Stately, Scintillating and Barbaric Describe These New Creations

A triple alliance! Not one of the three materials—satin, tulle nor jet—have "fallen down" in their efforts to make effective this all-black gown. Ribbon girlie may not be essential, but 'tis smart.

Opposites attract, and generally they are attractive. Here a length of sheerser grey silk has attached itself to substantial dark blue velvet. Embroidery is responsible for the picturesque bodice.

Full value for money received! This is the first impression one might gain from a glance at this evening frock in whose development the designer has been so wonderfully lavish with silver lace and tulle.

It is not so much whether or no madame shall have a train as how she shall wear it. There is something a bit stately about a long affair square as to cut that falls from the shoulders and is centred.

Some things beggar description, and this gown is one of them. In all its scintillating splendour it needs must be seen to be appreciated. Suffice it to say that its blue and gold color scheme verges on the barbaric.

Simple, but oh, my! The initiated know that 'tis the simplicity for which its sponsor pays dearly. Much faith has been reposed in the narrow jet shoulder straps. Lacy overskirt ruffles the bodice unadorned.

POSSIBILITIES OF BRINE

Green peppers and celery can be preserved for future use by brining. If properly done peppers so prepared can be used as substitute for fresh peppers in pickles or salads, or after freshening in water can be used for stuffed peppers. Properly prepared they can hardly be told from fresh peppers. The method of brining is as follows:

Remove the stems and seed and pack noses down into a watertight, non-metallic receptacle, such as a keg, barrel, crock or glass fruit jar. Cover with a brine made by adding two pounds of salt to each gallon of water. If a keg, barrel or crock is used, suspend a wooden cover in the brine so that it will keep the peppers well below the surface. Add more salt to the cover until no more will dissolve. If put into fruit jars or other containers that can be sealed, no more salt need be added. In this case allow to stand for three or four days to allow gas to escape, then fill perfectly full with brine and seal tight.

Kegs or barrels that have a good head can be filled full with peppers and brine and headed up. Fresh peppers can be added from time to time as they mature. Before use freshen in water to remove salt and then use like fresh peppers.

FACTS TO REMEMBER

Save your left-over coffee or tea, mix with blacking, and your range will have a fine polish.

When kerosene is spilled, the stain may be entirely removed by the application of lime water.

When making starch, pour the cold starch into the hot water and a great deal of time will be saved.

If your gravy happens to be lumpy, the egg beater will make it nice and smooth in a very short time.

When you have stone sealing jars which have no rubbers, you will find an inner tube of an automobile tire just the thing. Cut around the tube leaving it circular, having strips about four inches wide; place these on covers, leaving about half an inch and have the other half on the outside of the cover. When clamped down it will be air-tight as well as new rubbers, which are very hard to find in small stores.

When canning, especially in the oven (as of meats), you will find if you wash the outside of your glass jars in hot water and soap you will find no trouble getting the jars clean.

A small brush is very useful in washing milk pails, almost a necessity if you would keep the seams and around cans clean. If milk gathers there the flies are liable to make the milk unwholesome.

TIME, PLACE AND FRUIT

The old saying that "fruit in the morning is golden, but in the evening lead," has no basis in the light of modern science. Fruit may be eaten at any time of the day, the example of eating only apples at noon being followed by ex-presidents Taft and many other notables. But several small points may be borne in mind. It is best not to eat a very acid fruit like grapefruit and you follow with milk dishes like cereal or cocoa, because the acid curdles the milk.

Again, pineapple, which contains a natural pepsin capable of digesting meat, should follow a meal instead of being taken on an empty stomach. Bananas, a perfect form of starch when ripe, should be eaten only when the skins are black or when they are cooked and never given to children under six years of age.

Late Gaby Deslys' Sumptuous London Home Up For Sale

The house in Kensington Gore, owned and occupied by the late Mlle. Gaby Deslys, the dancer, with its contents is for sale. In the hall hangs a water-clock with the quaint verse: As time and hours passeth so doth ye life of man decay. As time can be redeemed with no cost. Bestow it well and let no hour be lost.

One bedroom is kept religiously locked. Except those responsible for the settling of Mlle. Deslys's estate nobody knows what it contains.

The smoking lounge, with ceiling scintillating with stars and crescent moons, windows veiled, and lighting reduced to a restful glow, might belong to a Moorish harem.

Two floors above, in the dancer's bedroom, is the great gilt Italian bedstead carved with Cupids and having a coverlet said to be fringed with monkeys' hair. Behind is a great tripe-branch candelabrum representing the sun. Writing Indian images guard the approach, and a shrine devoutly decorated with little offerings hangs near.

The bathroom is decorated in black and blue, but the famous "golden" bath is only gilded and now sterile metal.

Englishwoman's Long Career of Adventure as Polish Army Nurse

London, Feb. 5.—After spending eight months in twenty-nine Russian prisons, Miss Letitia Bowler has come to Warsaw, Hertfordshire, England.

She was sentenced to death by the Bolsheviks, taken into the woods at night to be shot, removed back to prison, and subsequently marched from goal to goal, walking in all 500 miles.

In eleven years' residence on the Continent, Miss Bowler has many other novel experiences.

She dined with the ex-Kaiser at Wurtemberg in 1903, played Blind Man's Buff with the Emperor Franz Josef at Budapest in 1911, and was the only European among 3,000 women presented to Abdul Medjed after the great fast at Constantinople in 1912.

She was acquainted with Franz Ferdinand, the Austrian Archduke, whose murder caused the war, and from the palace of the son of the Sultan Abdul Aziz at Constantinople, she heard the first shot fired at the Dardanelles.

She was captured by the Bolsheviks while a nurse with the Polish Army.

NEW CUTTING TABLE

Being without a cutting table and not wishing to mar the top of her dining-room table, one woman used the top of the stationary tub in a table, because the tubs are higher, all the pieces from cutting are easily gathered from the linoleum on the floor.

According to statistics compiled by the Philadelphia police department, women are the most careful drivers of automobiles.

Mrs. Jane Johnson, aged 65 years, recently elected sheriff of Rosecompton County, Mich., will appoint her husband as her deputy.

HOW TO FEED BABY

Hints to the Young Mother on the Feeding For the First Few Months.

A new-born baby needs very little food for the first day or two. The first feedings should be made of one ounce of milk to two or three ounces of water and no sugar. No food or substance other than cool boiled water should be given except by the direction of the physician.

After the first day a weak baby is fed at two-hour intervals during the day and twice during the night, at ten p.m. and two a.m.

At one week the average child requires fifteen ounces of diluted milk daily. To five ounces of milk add ten ounces of water and one and a half tablespoonful of sugar of milk.

Quality and Quantity.

Dextrimalose, one-half to one teaspoonful, may be added to each feeding, instead of sugar. This is given in seven feedings at three-hour intervals during the day and two feedings at night.

At six months the average baby requires thirty-six ounces of diluted milk. To twenty-four ounces of milk add twelve ounces of water or barley water and three even tablespoonful of sugar of milk. This is given in five feedings during the day, the night feeding being discontinued.

At nine months the average child requires forty ounces daily. To thirty ounces of milk add ten ounces of water or barley water and three even tablespoonful of sugar. This is given in five feedings.

Drinking Water.

Boil a pint of water every morning and put in a clean bottle. Keep in cool place. Offer the baby plenty of water between feedings, beginning with one-half ounce twice a day during the first few days after birth. The quantity should be gradually increased until the infant is taking from five to six ounces of water daily.

It must be remembered that the infant cannot ask for water and that he is apt to become thirsty more often during the summer months than in winter.

Barley Water—After baby is six months old barley water may be used to dilute milk instead of plain water. Add one-half level tablespoonful of barley flour to one pint of water and cook for twenty minutes. As it boils keep adding enough water to make one pint, strain and cool. At six months, one and a half even tablespoonful of barley may be used, cooked in eight ounces of water.

After Six Months.

Opange Juice—Not later than one month after being put on the bottle or at any time from three months of age up, the infant should be given orange juice, beginning with one tablespoonful mixed with equal quantity of cooled boiled water and gradually increasing the quantity to two or three tablespoonful. The best time to give orange juice is just before the bath in the morning. Strained tomato juice may be given in like proportion when oranges are not available. The use of these juices will prevent scurvy.

Other Foods—At six months the baby is beginning to be able to digest starch; therefore, at this time small amounts of barley or oatmeal water may be given with the milk.

WASHABLE GLOVES

In cleaning white wash gloves the black or colored stitching and the chamois colored fabric often cause streaks on the glove itself, or fade. There are two ways of stopping this. Use only cool water for washing, and when the glove is squeezed as dry as possible, stuff it with crushed paper so that no thicknesses touch each other. Dry the gloves in the shade.

Embroidered sleeves are as much featured as are embroidered bodices with plain tunics and embroidered underslips in smart Spring taffeta frocks.

One who took Maeterlinck many years ago to see Barrie in his flat tells how the great Belgian wrote his name on the white-washed wall and added above his signature: Au pere de Peter Pan, et au grand pere de L'Oiseau Bleu. (To the father of Peter Pan and the grandfather of the Bluebird.)

The Paris designer, Beer, declares that for next season the general lines will remain supple, and the waistline low, because women refuse to wear complicated dresses with distended effects on the hips.

Light pulled himself together sharply, and switched on the electric light; then he opened the door.

An excited night-porter rushed in, followed by two or three other people in varying stages of undress, and stopped in amazement at the scene. The heavy cupboard, with a great crack across the back, lay face downwards on the floor; the native still lay curled up and motionless.

"One of the hotel pets?" queried Hugh pleasantly, lighting a cigarette. "If it's all the same to you, I wish you'd remove him. He was—ah—finding it uncomfortable on the top of the cupboard."

It appeared that the night-porter could speak English; it also appeared that the lady occupying the room believed had rushed forth demanding to be led to the basement, under the misapprehension that war had again been declared and the Germans were bombing Paris. It still further appeared that there was something most irregular about the whole proceeding—the best people at the Ritz did not do these things. And then, to crown everything, while the native was at its height, the native on the floor, opening one heavily and somewhat dazed eye, realized that things looked unhealthy. Unnoticed, he lay "doggo" for a while; then, like a rabbit which had almost been trodden on, he dodged between the legs of the men in the room, and vanished through the open door.

Taken by surprise for a moment no one moved; then, simultaneously, they dashed for one scandalized old gentleman in a nightcap, who was peering out of the room opposite angrily demanding the cause of the lifeless din.

Had he seen a native—a black man? He had seen no native, and if other people only drank water, they wouldn't either. In fact the whole affair was scandalous, and he should write to the papers about it. Still that mattering, he withdrew, banging his door, and Hugh, glancing up, saw the American detective advancing towards them along the corridor.

"What's the trouble, Captain?" he asked as he joined the group.

"A friend of the management elected to spend the night on the top of my cupboard, Mr. Green, answered Drummond, "and got cramp half-way through."

The American gazed at the wreckage in silence. Then he looked at Hugh and what he saw on that worthy's face apparently decided him to maintain that policy. In fact, it was not till the night-porter and his attendant minions had at last, and very dubiously, withdrawn, that he again opened his mouth.

"Looks like a hectic night," he murmured. "What happened?" Briefly Hugh told him what had occurred and the detective whistled softly.

"Blowpipe and poisoned darts," he said shortly, returning the tube to Drummond. "Narrow escape—d—narrow look at your plow."

Hugh looked; embedded in the linoleum were four splinters similar to the one he held in his hand; by the door were three more, lying on the floor.

"An engaging little bird," he laughed; "but nasty to look at."

He extracted the little pieces of wood and carefully placed them in an empty match-box; the little tube he put into his cigarette case.

"Might come in handy; you never know," he remarked casually.

"They might if you stand quite still," said the American, with a sudden, sharp command in his voice. "Don't move."

Hugh stood motionless, staring at the speaker, who with eyes fixed on his right forearm, had stepped forward from the loose sleeve of his pyjama coat the detective gently pulled another dart and dropped it into the match box.

"Not far from getting you that time, Captain," he cried cheerfully. "Now you've got the whole blamed outfit."

It was Comte de Guy who boarded the boat express at the Gare du Nord the next day; it was Carl Peterson who stepped off the boat express at Boulogne. And it was only Drummond's positive assurance which convinced the American that the two characters were the same man.

COLORED WORSTEDS

The colors of the worsteds in the shops are lovelier than ever before. This is partly because the weave and finish of the wools themselves are so interesting. The different mixtures of silk and wool, of fibre silk and wool, and of cotton and wool, as well as the different hues of the faces of the wools, all make the colors interesting. But now, as ever before, it is difficult to match wools. They seem to be dyed in small lots, and if you buy a few skeins or balls for a sweater, you have difficulty when you return a week or two later to get more wool in matching shades. It is better to get a lot more than you need and then return the skeins or balls unopened—that is always permitted—than to buy a few skeins or balls of a sweater all finished but the lower end of one front, with no more wool that matches the rest.

THOUGHTFUL CHILD

Even very little children should be taught by their mothers to be careful of their clothing—saving it from tears and soiling as much as possible. Again each child should be taught to hang up his or her garments when retiring at night—to hang up their shoes, toys and all other articles which they use and are within their reach of putting away.

Children should be taught the use of a toothbrush and comb when very young.

If the children are taught these things you will see how much it will save mothers' steps and form a good habit with the child.

THE CHILD'S ROOM

Perhaps the two most important points to bear in mind when planning a child's room are simplicity and durability. Select a plain or two-toned paper giving a pleasing effect; figures, stripes, and decidedly patterned surface, are tiring, particularly in a small or much used room. Dull buffs, soft yellows, tans and grays make the most agreeable background, and sufficient gaiety can be given by the use of some rich, contrasting color for cushions, curtains and floor covering. Chintzes and cretonnes, brightly patterned, are pleasing against a plain wall.

BLACK VELVET COAT

Some of the black velvet coats are made with wide, flaring sleeves, which can be used at will for a muff. These same flaring sleeves are fitted with little shirred inner silk sleeves—wind sleeves, they are picturesquely called—which keep the wrists and arms warm in spite of the wide lower edge of the sleeve.

GOOD ROADS SPELL

GOOD LAND VALUES

Property Values Enhanced by Superior Type of Highways

Good roads raise land values to almost unbelievable heights and noteworthy examples are to be found to prove this assertion. One instance of great land value increases which lately came to light was called to the attention of head of an American motor concern recently. Down in Mississippi County, Missouri, "I found the people obsessed with the idea of building up the roads system," he said. "The county is one of the most fertile and one of the richest territories of Missouri. Through its road system, land in the county has been increased invariably from $50 to $100 per acre, and the townships three or four times that amount. Mississippi County is one of the banner counties of Missouri in good road work and rapidly growing to be an example for other counties of the state. It will, in fact, when known to the counties of other states, be a model to go by. The county is now working on plans for three direct lines of trunk roads, of which the first is already completed. In July, 1917, the county voted $375,000 to build gravel roads and was the first county to vote bonds under the Hawes road law. The vote was won after a campaign by 8 to 1, but war conditions then delayed start of road building. It was in 1919 that a party of men who had graduated to the county from Indiana entered into the roads movement and they campaigned against gravel roads because of their wear and tear, but they preferred to concrete. Their work won out although much more money was needed. The extra amount was largely raised by popular subscription. This took care of the added cost. Land owners along the line of the road and more than 200 business men of the towns entered into the subscription so great was their interest aroused. Now it is reported that Mississippi County went almost 100 per cent for Amendment No. 6 to the State Constitution to make continuation of good roads building certain."

HAS BULLETIN FOR ITS CLUB MEMBERS

Victoria Automobile Club Issues Monthly Sheet

The Victoria Automobile Club issued its first monthly bulletin for the convenience of members, who will be kept posted through this medium of what is doing in the motoring affairs of the club. The bulletin is issued from the club headquarters in the Winch Building by Secretary R. R. Webb. The membership is now about 150, and a drive is now on for new members, applications being signed up rapidly. Among other things, the bulletin has the following to say: "Two strong committees are working on matters pertaining to city traffic regulations and up-land roads. As we go to press these committees are having interviews with the authorities concerned and there is every indication that they are going to attain some very excellent results. "Members Wallace Williams and H. McLorrie, made trips over the Island Highway recently, and report that the roads are not in as bad condition as might be expected, considering the amount of rain and snow. The Malahat is quite passable, but should be driven with greatest care. The road from Courtenay to Cumberland is in very bad shape, but can be negotiated with difficulty. Since the snow has melted it has washed out chucks holes and ruts on all the up-land roads and extraordinary care is needed in driving them. "The secretary is getting enquiries every day regarding road conditions. If the members, when returning from a trip up the island, or from any of the outlying districts, will phone in to the office a short report on the roads, it will facilitate matters a great deal. It won't take a minute to do it, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that the next fellow starting will be able to ascertain just what he is going up against. Now help us establish this service for the benefit of all."

SUGGESTS CHANGES IN TRAFFIC LAWS

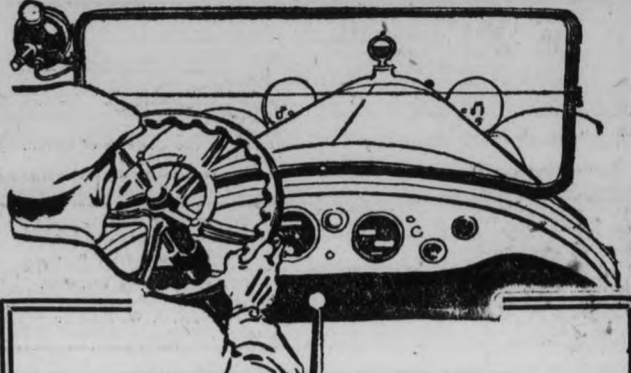

Victoria Automobile Club to Make Recommendations to City Council

The following changes in the traffic laws will be submitted to the City Council by the Victoria Automobile Club for consideration: (1) That the City of Victoria's present traffic regulations, with such amendments as may be made, be consolidated into convenient book form, and publicity given to such fact, in order that our own citizens and strangers visiting here may procure same, and familiarize themselves with the regulations. This we found has been adopted in all the larger centres, and a specimen copy of the City of Victoria's traffic regulations is herewith enclosed. (2) That with regard to the parking regulations contained in the present regulations, in the City of Victoria, Section 10, it could be made a little more comprehensive, as contained in the City of Portland's regulations, which read in effect as follows: It shall be unlawful to stop or park any vehicle in any restricted area for longer than actually required to take on or let off passengers, or load and unload merchandise, to obstruct any sidewalk opening into any basement, or fuel intake or the freight entrance to any building, or the entrance of any driveway into any lot upon which a building is located, provided that such opening, fuel intake, freight entrance, or driveway is plainly marked in the manner prescribed in the regulations, or by the Chief of Police, or in front of the entrance to any office building, public building, hotel, theatre or church. (3) That the business district as defined by said by-law, 2110 Section 1 Subsection B, to be amended to read, on the north by the north side of Johnson Street, and on the south by the south side of Port Street, on the west by the west side of Government Street, and that cars and other vehicles parked in this area in the following manner: On Yates Street between Douglas and Blanchard Streets at an angle of 45 degrees with the left hand wheel touching the curb, and not less than three feet from another parked car or vehicle, and on Douglas and Johnson Streets in a similar manner, and on other streets in the business district, except those portions thereof specifically restricted in this by-law, by being parked parallel to and not more than one foot from the curb, and not less than four feet from another parked car or vehicle. (4) That those areas where parking of cars is restricted be marked by painting the curbstone white. (5) That the prohibited distance from a fire hydrant be ten feet and from the property line at an intersection five feet. (6) That the necessity of maintaining tail lights burning on cars parked on streets lighted by cluster lights be abolished, except that if a car is parked on a street lighted by standing cars or other vehicles shall conform to the requirement of showing tail lights burning.

CAUSES OF POWER LOSS IS EXPLAINED

Overheating and Difficulty in Fuel System Means Trouble

When all cylinders fire evenly without skipping, the engine loses power. One may look for trouble external to the individual cylinders. This difficulty may be mechanical and entirely foreign to the engine. If the engine seems sluggish and unresponsive, look first to see if the emergency brake is released. You may be an experienced driver, and yet the best of us will frequently drive for miles with the emergency brake set for the last stop. The foot brake may also be stiff and fail to release itself. An overheated engine will soon lose power. The cause of the overheating should be determined, however, long before it begins to affect the power developed by the engine—otherwise you may suffer from a burned-out bearing. The lack of the proper lubricant, however, in the engine itself or in a transmission or rear axle bearing will produce the same effect. The car were being constantly driven up a moderate grade. Difficulty in the fuel system may often produce a power evenly distributed over all cylinders. An obstruction in the fuel line will cause various cylinders to miss firing, and a rich mixture will inasmuch as it burns slowly, will not offer the "snap" furnished by a mixture composed of the proper combination of gasoline, vapor and air. A lean mixture may help to produce the same effect, although it will, as a rule, be accompanied by popping and explosions through the carburetor. Pronounced Knock Carbon in the cylinders will cause an engine to lose power and will also

VICTORIA AUTO CLUB DEVELOPING SERVICE

Affiliation With Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain Under Way

Secretary Webb, of the Victoria Auto Club, announces that local motorists are showing their appreciation of the advantages to be gained by a good strong organization by joining the local club. Clubs in some cities have grown from a very modest beginning and every owner of a car should be a member of a club, for without the co-operation and support of all those interested the desired service can not be given nor the objects of such associations accomplished. Mr. Webb recalls that The Royal Automobile Club of London was founded in 1897. It has grown from a membership of 163 to nearly 20,000 and its connection and influence extends not only over the whole of the British Empire but into foreign countries also. The club maintains its own building in Pall Mall where every service to be desired by motorists can be obtained. During the war the club headquarters were placed at the disposal of officers from overseas. Rooms, meals, etc., were provided for thousands of our own officers besides those from the other Dominions, and in addition a continual scheme of entertainment was provided for these men and their families. Negotiations are now under way for the affiliation of the Victoria Automobile Club with The Royal Automobile Club. The secretary has received all the particulars in this regard from Sir Julian Orde, Kt., secretary of the club, and this will be brought before the executive at their next meeting for action. Affiliation with the Royal Automobile Club will have a far reaching effect, inasmuch as members will have the benefits and service of a world-wide organization at their disposal, and will be entitled to all the privileges of membership while visiting in the British Isles. PAINT IS ESSENTIAL TO PRESERVATION "A new coat of paint is just as essential as an overhauling of the engine," says an automobile dealer. "The outward appearance of an automobile and the condition of its body and chassis plays a large part in determining the value of the car. This is especially true in these days when it behoves the automobile owner to keep the value of his car up to its highest figure. "I fear motorists often are too prone to go to extremes. Either they polish the finish of the car excessively and neglect the motor, or they pay strict attention to the machinery and let the outward appearance take care of itself. Both demand and should receive careful attention if the owner wishes his car to have a minimum depreciation." Lenis Von M. work in perfect harmony with us. Boys' Work "Our Boys' Naval Brigade is in a high state of efficiency and I must take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Tribbs, the First Lieutenant of the Brigade, on the work that he has done. "In my opinion the chief work of the Navy League must always be the work in the schools. From them we shall continue to draw recruits for our Boys' Naval Brigades, and as we are desirous now of only accepting boys who wish to go to sea, it is perfectly obvious that to keep up the number of the boys in the true meaning of sea power in its relation to this great Dominion of ours is taught to our school children at their most impressionable age. "Enough has been said to justify your Executive in claiming that 1920 has been the best year, so far, for Navy League work in Victoria. In spite of all the trouble at the start of the year, the public confidence has gradually been regained, and a very substantial sum raised. "You owe a great deal to our Hon. Treasurer, H. J. Davis, for his presence on our Executive has largely helped in our appeal for funds. "Before ending, I should like to express to the members of the Executive my deep appreciation to the kindness and consideration always extended to me. I have always looked forward to our meetings. "Our office work has, for the past six months, been carried out most efficiently, and Mrs. Churchill has proved herself capable of being entrusted with much greater responsibility." Financial Statement The treasurer's report audited by Ismay, Bolton and Grimson showed a satisfactory balance, it being stated in part, dealing with donations received: "To take the receipts first:—Included in the amount given are the sums of 3,000, which was a grant made by the Dominion Council at my request, to the Institutes when they were at a low ebb in the early part of 1920, this amount, of course, is also included in the disbursements. There is also included in the receipts an amount of $2,500, being the amount allocated from the general purposes: an amount of $1,500 loaned by the Provincial Division to the branch and shown as repaid in the disbursements; and an amount of $1,432.23, which represented payment by the Provincial Division of the cost of the very successful Provincial Boys' Naval Brigade camp held in Victoria last Summer. "Actual subscriptions and donations made to this branch during the year amounted to $3,138.90, which sum includes receipts from tag day and other solicitations. Special donations to the Boys' Naval Brigade amounted to $961.50, and the sum of $7,053 was realized by an envelope collection that was made during the year. The sum of $1,157.74 was also realized from entertainments during the year on behalf of our work. Disbursements "Among the disbursements were the discharge of old accounts, total-

NAVY LEAGUE SELECTS ITS 1921 OFFICERS

Major W. H. Langley Will Succeed H. T. Ravenhill As Chairman

Major W. H. Langley was chosen presiding officer of the Victoria Branch of the Navy League at the annual meeting yesterday. The panel of officers now is as follows: Vice-chairman—B. C. Nicholas. Honorary treasurer—H. J. Davis. Members of the executive committee—J. B. Clearidge, M.P.P.—Elect; A. D. Crease, Commander Graves, H. W. Hart and Capt. C. D. Neeroutos. The regents of the Municipal and Navy League Chapters, I. O. D. E., are also members of the committee. Sixty members attended the meeting and fitting tribute was paid to H. T. Ravenhill, the retiring chairman, for his services. "Tribute was paid Lieut. H. F. Helmsing for his work in the interests of the Navy League in British Columbia by several speakers. The meeting passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Helmsing and also instructed the committee to draw up a letter of appreciation of his services to be presented prior to his departure East. P. F. Kaynor, the organizing secretary, was also thanked for his excellent work in connection with the branch. Better Showing. Mr. Ravenhill dealt in an interesting report with the local position and standing of the organization, saying in part: "I am glad to say that we can meet our members with a much better financial showing than twelve months ago. Our Hon. Treasurer will cover all this ground very fully but now is the time for you to realize that in future this Branch will have to be self-supporting. A letter read at our last Provincial Executive Meeting from the Dominion Secretary makes it quite clear that no more help can be looked for from them, and the Provincial Treasury is nearly empty. "You will remember that at our last annual meeting a separate committee, consisting of the officers of the Victoria Seamen's Institute, was formed to care for the Connaught Seamen's Institute and Sailors' Club, Esquimalt, this committee to be responsible for the management of, and the collection of funds for their work. The Dominion Council of the Navy League most generously provided $3,000 towards the annual upkeep, but on following a visit from Mr. Justice Craig, of the Canadian National Council of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society, a meeting of Institute supporters was held and a resolution was passed severing entirely their connection with the Navy League. There is no reason, however, why they should not continue to chant Marine and Canadian Robert Dollar Co. The boys all look us up when in port and promising well, and we succeeded in our efforts to have the time of the Brigade boys included in their sea time. "In October we formed a sub-division at Sooke Harbor. It consists of 22 boys and has aroused great interest in the district in Navy League work. "I must express a deep appreciation of the work done by W. Miller Higgs, J. P. and Mr. Hammon, who both give their services." VISITING PREACHER AT CHRIST CHURCH

Services For Men Only and Women Only Next Week

Well known throughout the Church of England as a clergyman of unusually wide experience and deep spirituality, the Rev. Cyril Bickersteth, of the Community of the Resurrection, Mirfield, Yorkshire, is expected to arrive in Victoria to-morrow afternoon to conduct a series of special services next week in Christ Church Cathedral.

Begins To-morrow.

The opening services of what is practically a four days' teaching mission will be held to-morrow night at seven o'clock in the Cathedral, when the visiting missioner will deliver his first address.

On Monday night, a service for men only will be conducted by Mr. Bickersteth at eight o'clock, and on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock a service for women only will be held, with an address by the missioner.

On Ash Wednesday, Mr. Bickersteth will deliver a series of addresses at services open to all to be held at 10.30 a. m., 4 p. m., and 8 p. m.

The missioner is engaged in a tour of the Dominion and is visiting several cities in Western Canada. His visit to the Cathedral church of Columbia diocese at this time affords excellent preparation for Lent, and will doubtless prove of benefit to others, as the missioner's addresses will be in all probability aim at strengthening and deepening the faith of Christians here.

Service of Praise at St. John's—On Sunday evening the monthly service of praise will be held at St. John's Church. Well known times will be selected for the chants and hymns, so that the whole congregation may be encouraged to join. The choir will, in addition, give a special programme of music which will include the anthem, "Sing, O Heavens," by Arthur Sullivan, and the anthem, "Come, Holy Ghost," by Attwood, in which the soprano solo will be taken by Miss M. Purdy, and also an unaccompanied quartet. Several organ numbers will be rendered by the organist G. J. Burnett. The Bishop of Columbia will be present at the morning service to celebrate the Holy Communion for the first time since the consecration of the new memorial redos which was dedicated last Summer by Bishop de Pencier.

FIRST CHURCH ANNIVERSARY SET

Induction of Rev. J. G. Inkster to Be Marked in Special Services

This week First Church will celebrate the eighth anniversary of their minister's induction. Rev. Richmond Craig is the special preacher on Sunday.

Tuesday evening the Ladies' Aid are providing for a reception supper and public meeting. The following committees have charge of the affair. General convener, Mrs. A. S. Christie; kitchen committee, Mrs. J. McKinnon and Mrs. J. G. Brown; tables committee, Mrs. D. Fair and Mrs. T. Lumsden; reception committee, Mrs. J. G. Inkster, Mrs. J. G. Inkster; flower committee, Mrs. J. A. Gould.

The guests will be received and a running buffet supper will be served from 8 to 9 p. m. The large hall upstairs will be decorated and fitted up as a reception room where an orchestra will be playing during the two hours. Afterwards a public meeting will be held when ex-Mayor Alex. Stewart will preside. Miss Buckler and Mr. Pettie will sing and addresses will be given by Premier John Oliver of British Columbia and Premier W. M. Martin and ex-Premier Walter Scott of Saskatchewan.

A small charge is to be made for the supper, so that all friends and visitors especially prairie people will feel at liberty to come.

GORDON HEAD PRESBYTERIAN TO BE SEPARATED

The first annual meeting of the Gordon Head congregation was held Thursday night in the hall, Rev. D. D. Lister presiding over a good attendance. The reports presented were of a highly satisfactory character denoting much progress. The chairman reviewed the history of the mission since its inception less than a year ago and suggested several possible plans for the effective carrying on of the work.

After a full and frank discussion it was unanimously decided on the motion of Capt. K. Campbell seconded by Mr. Warren that the congregation should become a distinct congregation of the Presbyterian Church and that it be pledged to raise a certain sum towards the minister's stipend. It was also agreed on the motion of Mr. Bowerman that the name of the newly-formed congregation be Gordon Head Presbyterian Church. Thereafter a board of managers was chosen consisting of Messrs. Campbell Bowerman Fleming, Macdonald, Clark and Taylor.

Mr. Taylor was appointed leader of praise and all others were continued in office.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation made to Miss Mary Clark of a beautiful necklace of pearls in recognition of her services as organist in Sunday school and services. Mrs. Campbell read a highly appreciative address and the presentation was gratefully made by Miss Yarna Mitchell. Miss Clark suitably replied and thereafter a social time was spent. Rev. Dr. Smith, Vancouver, will conduct the service on Sunday evening next.

Elementary Theosophy—A lecture will be given in the rooms of the Theosophical Society, 101 Union Bank Building, on Sunday at 3 p. m., by Will Griffiths, F. T. S., president of the local lodge. The subject presented will be "Elementary Theosophy," and it is hoped that much misconception concerning Theosophy will be removed. It is claimed that the elements of Theosophy are few, simple and in no wise contrary to the teachings of the founder of the Christian faith. Time will be given for questions and discussion.

St. Paul's Lutheran—Special Mission Lenten services will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, corner of Princess Avenue and Chambers Street, Ash Wednesday evening at 7:45. During these Lenten services the pastor will preach a series of seven sermons on the seven words from the cross. On Good Friday evening he will preach on John 11:16. The subject for Wednesday evening's sermon is: "Divine Intercession." These services will be of unusual interest to Lutherans in Victoria, as well as to those of the immediate community, since they will be Lenten mission services. Let Mother "Out" To enjoy Life

SPRING is almost here! A faint stirring's in the air. The buds are shooting. February, we'll have the snowdrop and the crocus showing their welcome faces. And, before we know where we are, the birds will be nesting. Touring will begin in real earnest; we shall be away again to the great out-o'-doors. All but mother! Or will you let her out to enjoy life this Spring—free her from those tying household duties—like baking bread? Why should she stay at home toiling? Has she not enough to do without baking bread? Why SHELLY'S 4-X BREAD can be delivered to her daily—fresh, sweet; thin and crackly in crust; with texture fine and even; and tender milk-white crumb? Persuade her to quit her baking. Do You Know why Your Street Was Given Its Name?

Is there any historical reason for the name that has been given to the street upon which you live, or did it just "grow"? Nine times out of ten if you take the trouble to inquire it will be found that there is not only a very good reason for perpetuating that name, but it is a name that should mean a great deal to the connection with the history of this community, island, province, Dominion or Empire as the case may be.

Last week the subject of the next competition, that is now open to readers of this page, was mentioned under the heading of street names. The idea of what the new contest will be, you know, of course, that most of the street names given to the highways of this city and the Island at large mean something, and you will find that most of those names have very interesting history attached to them.

To outline briefly but a few of the different names that are now perpetuated through the ages, some streets were named after famous explorers, for instance, Vancouver street, after Captain George Vancouver, a famous officer in the Royal Navy who made an extensive voyage of exploration along this coast and around this Island between the years 1792 to 1794. The island was first named after the gallant commander of the H.M.S. Discovery, as is the street in many other places in B. C. geographical annals.

Captain George Vancouver came to this coast under orders from the Admiralty in the year 1792 and met Captain Quadra, a Spanish commander, Don Juan Francisco de la Bodega Quadra, to give that gallant captain his full name, and signed articles of agreement between the two nations in relation to this territory.

This island was at first known as Quadra and Vancouver Island, but usage has dropped the first name leaving only that which commemorates to us that famous commander of the expedition, Captain George Vancouver. In this manner the street Vancouver was designated and should mean something worth while to the community that has the honor to uphold the honor of a name that meant so much to the development of this territory under the Union Jack.

Similarly, Menzies street commemorates Archibald Menzies, a noted surgeon and botanist, who accompanied Captain Vancouver as ship's surgeon on the Discovery, but whose chief interest in this island was in the excellent botanical record he established of the flora and fauna of this section of the Canadian Far West. His name, too, means a good deal to the history of this Island.

The street obtained its title after John Sebastian Helmcken, M. R. C. S., a medical officer here in company, coming to this island as medical officer on the ship Norman Morrison, in 1850. Dr. Helmcken, so the story goes was on the Hudson Bay company's steamer Beavertail when in the Johnstone Strait sighted the island that there bears his name. Ascertaining from the captain that the island was named, he was in naming the island after him, and as Helmcken Island, so the street of that name bears a relation closely allied to one of the earliest pioneers of this community.

You can see from all this that names of streets were not made up out of the imaginations of the civic fathers at different times, but were allocated to that highway to commemorate some particular person, place or event that had a bearing on the history of our Empire. The study of these names will, if it has no other result, amply reward all for their efforts in looking up the necessary details by a great wealth of interesting knowledge that is not as a rule to be found in text books, and yet that which has something of interest to all.

Almost everybody has a telephone directory in their homes; take the directory and look over the names of the various streets from this will be granted a wealth of selection among which you may take your pick; look up the origin of that particular name, what it stands for and how it came to be given, and then write a short essay on the result, not over 350 words. This competition will be subject to the same general rules that prevailed in the one just completed, and will prove of interest to the greater number of those who in return for but a few moments with a reference book will be rewarded with some little items of real interest and which have come to his attention before. It will be open to all fifteen years of age and under. Write legibly, in ink, and on one side of the paper only, addressing all communications to The Editor, Children's Page, The Daily Times. All communications in this contest must be submitted prior to March 15. Take one name only and relate the history of that name in what manner you please, judging, as before being in the hands of this paper solely.

Blue-Eyes and Grannie Visit Nature's Fairyland

(Little Nature Stories by A. B. M.)

It was bedtime in the nursery—sleeping in the garden, where purple lilacs hung their scented heads, and marigolds, quite drowsy, winked their golden eyes quite unable to keep them open so sleep were they, the pink daisies standing in prim rows had shut up long ago and looked like modest little babies in clean night-gowns saying "I'm fast asleep, I'm fast asleep—yet in the big nursery, where the setting sun was making funny patterns on the carpet, two very round blue eyes were open and a small chubby finger leaning against Grannie's knee declared rebelliously, it would not go to bed without another story—a "new" story—not silly ones like Mother Goose, but stories like my Daddie used to tell of fish and bears and fluffy ducks and ships and "fings" what lived."

was sleeping off a surfeit of slugs eggs and slowly and carefully had brought all he had not eaten away. How Grannie and Blue-Eyes laughed to see the patient, upward thing nosing a hole for treasures, right at the root of a pale wood violet and covering them up safely with tiny twigs and fallen leaves.

Suddenly the sails caught sight of them and rang them out a welcome on their dainty pink bells, so vigorously did they ring, that a fat bumblebee, gathering honey from their luscious depths, fell off on his back grumbling indignantly at so much fuss being made over an old Grannie and a small blue-eyed boy.

"What ever is the noise about," said the old man, who was whisked up the tree to get away from the noise the bells were making, saucily cocking his tail over his back as he scampered from branch to branch. When he reached his nest's cozy little hole quite close to the stem of the tree, where Mrs. Squirri and two little fluffy babies waited for him, he began scolding solemnly and huskily fir cones from his winter store, not caring how many they ate for it was Spring and all the way green branches round him were loaded with juicy little steam-baking downy nuts to join the river below and would ripen later for his Autumn larder.

By this time the travelers had met a noisy little steam-bus coming down the hill to join the river below and the big ships away off yonder.

By the stream Grannie built a shelter of fir boughs and cut sweet ferns and made a bed so soft and springy the cross-eyed old German could not have found a bump in it; then she rolled up a dry log and lighted a fire against the crackled and snapped so cheerily the gay old dame must needs pick up the frying pan and beat out a tune on it with a tin spoon, whilst Blue-Eyes, capering to the merry sounds, upset so many things Grannie almost wished for a dictionary to learn some new words.

"What are they cooking? Dough boys baked on hot stones, lighter and crispier than the king's baker could make; bacon, twisting into delicious curls, in the bright tin frying pan; coffee, foaming and bubbling in a brand new billy, smelling so nice and spicy that the bears came out of the woods to smell it and when home came into it and said: "Watch the sparks as they float up through the pine tops till they reach the sky and

When the Great Were Young

No. 2

OLIVER CROMWELL

The life-long adventures of the great English general and statesman, Oliver Cromwell, began before he was old enough to walk, and certainly long before the time when he commenced to remember things. When he was a baby, only a few months old, a big, pet monkey seized him out of his cradle and carried him to the top of an old ruined tower nearby. Here the playful animal dangled Baby Oliver in the air, while the child's frantic parents and the rest of the excited household stood beneath, fearing every moment that the child would be dropped and killed. Some of them stretched a sheet at the bottom of the tower to catch the baby; others tried to scale the walls; and one old lady rushed to the scene with a pillow upon which she hoped Oliver would fall. After about half an hour the monkey, who enjoyed the fun very much indeed, brought Oliver down safely and the boy grew up to be one of the greatest figures of history.

the stars stoop down and catch them."

"Is that what makes the stars wink at me?" asked Blue-Eyes, staring wide-eyed at the starry sky overhead, but he was too sleepy to hear Grannie murmuring, "No, no laddie, it's because so many of us hitch our wagons to them and when the ropes break the sly, bright things look down and wink and laugh at our turbles."

Very soon Grannie, too, was fast asleep, whilst the forest and wood things kept guard and the soft wind in the trees crooned a slumber song; not a sound to be heard but the hoot of Mother Owl as she flew from tree to tree hunting for moths for her supper and some belated little Wood Mouse, who was hurrying home in a fright to explain to his wife why he was so late for dinner. In the end he never told her at all because he had become a dinner himself you see, which saved a lot of silly excuses and a great deal of ill feeling.

News and Notes of Victoria Boy Scouts

What is a patrol leader, and why do we call him by that name? The answer strikes a deeper note than as at first appears on the surface. He is the leader of the patrol, the leader of six, seven, or eight scouts, as the case may be,—one who is followed by other boys, for a leader must go ahead in order to lead. To be a patrol leader you must be able to set an example to your

"Robinson Crusoe" Contest Brought Excellent Essays

ROBINSON CRUSOE

Miss Margaret Pollard, 1142 View Street, who has been awarded a copy of that well-known English "Chatterbox."

The second prize, Cassell's Annual, has been awarded to Miss Eleanor McLeod, 350 Simcoe Street. The books may be exchanged if desired.

Produced by the excellent results judged by the first essay contest held under the title, no lack of interest was aroused in the ever-popular tale of Robinson Crusoe. The essays on the whole showed that the contributors had taken the time to read the story carefully and that they had combined both originality and interest in their accounts.

The first prize has been awarded to Margaret Pollard, 1142 View Street—a thirteen-year-old girl, whose contribution is given below. Miss Pollard wrote an essay that was characterized alike for its excellent and accurate summary of the story—presented in a most attractive style. Though older writers contributed noteworthy essays Miss Pollard has been awarded the first prize as contributing most closely to the simple rules laid down for the contest.

The second prize—and second only by virtue of the fact that the contestant was two years younger than the winner—comes from the pen of Eleanor McLeod, 350 Simcoe Street, who at the age of twelve years contributed an excellent example of much careful thought and wonderful execution. The writer selected the main points in the story and adhered to the rules, while little discrepancies did appear—practice makes for perfection in all. Miss McLeod too is to be congratulated along with many of the contributors on excellent handwriting.

tools and firearms, before the ship fell to pieces.

He put up a tent but finding it no protection against the weather, Robinson made a cave in a rock, where he managed to live for twenty-five years. Each day he wrote the events of the day in a journal and he always learned something new of the island he was cast upon.

After living many years on this deserted spot, a wrecked ship was washed ashore with many things of which Robinson was in need. They took the form of food, gold and clothes. This last was very useful for Robinson Crusoe had been obliged to wear skins of animals, which he had shot. There was also a little dog who was a companion for him on all his expeditions.

One day Robinson Crusoe rescued a blackamoor from some cannibals, who had already killed two of this blackamoor's friends. He was very grateful to Robinson and from that time on was his faithful slave. Robinson called his servant Friday, because it was on a Friday that he had rescued him from the cannibals. With the companionship of Friday, Robinson was very much more happy and was overjoyed when he saw an English ship anchored off the island. The crew of this ship had become rebellious and were going to leave the captain, his mate and a passenger on this island. With the help of Friday, Robinson was able to rescue the captain and his friends, to leave the crew on the island and set sail for home.

Reaching there Robinson found that his parents had died and also all of his relations and that he was very wealthy. This did not keep him home very long and soon he set out for more adventures, with his faithful servant, Friday.

ELEANOR McLEOD, Age 12,
350 Simcoe Street, Victoria, B. C.

Other contributors presented excellent stories—which were with great regret left outside the scope of awards—because of the impossibility of satisfying all essays with the merit they deserved. Among these Ulrica Norie, Cowichan, deserves great credit for which paid a little too much attention to the events of the wandering Crusoe before he arrived at his highest excitement on the Desert Isle. Doris Rines, a pupil of the Monterey School was the author of another excellent work, and with Helen Riley, Cedar Hill Road, Edith Green, 347 Poul Bay Road and Stanley Scott, 760 Hillside Avenue, deserves special mention for contributions that contained much that was desirable and charming. Many other competitors rendered noteworthy accounts of themselves, but space does not permit of a more detailed reference in the light of the numerous and extremely creditable essays contributed.

Those who contributed—and who were not successful in pushing into the front rank on this occasion need not feel discouraged, for it is a very real axiom that practice makes perfect, and that there is nothing more worth while in the affairs of life than to try—and if not successful try and try again. The essays awarded honors are here given.

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY.

Robinson Crusoe, against the wishes of his parents, managed to sea at the age of eighteen. He went on a ship bound for the Gold Coast, which was wrecked. Crusoe was the only person to survive, and he thanked God. A wave washed him ashore, and as he was half drowned, he lay on the sand until he recovered, which took him some time. Then he climbed a tree to sleep, being afraid there might be wild beasts on the island.

When he awoke he found the sea calm, and saw the ship not far from shore, and swimming out to it, he made a raft of planks and other things, and carried supplies of food and tools, etc., for his use. A dog and cat were on board, and these went ashore. Crusoe now had a tent and made a hammock to sleep in. One day he found some goats, which he tamed. This enabled him to have milk and butter, and he also found a parrot, which he bred, and also found a parrot, which he trained to talk.

One day he saw a foot-print on the sand, and discovered some savages eating a blackamoor, while another was running away. Crusoe rescued him, and kept him for a companion. He was named Friday, because he was found on that day. At last one day Crusoe saw a ship approaching the island. He told Friday to hide until they saw what kind of people were on the boat. They turned out to be English sailors who were going to maroon their captain and mate, and pass on. They put the prisoners on the sand and went to search for food, and while they were gone Crusoe and Friday rescued the prisoners and getting into the ship, sailed away, leaving the prisoners marooned.

After a pleasant journey, Crusoe with Friday reached England safely, and going to his former home, found that his parents and most of his relatives were dead. He found himself very wealthy, and after a few years he and Friday went in search of further adventures.

MARGARET POLLARD, Age 13,
1142 View Street, Victoria, B. C.

SECOND PRIZE ESSAY.

Robinson Crusoe was a lad of an adventurous mind. In spite of the protests of his mother and father—Robinson, at the age of eighteen, set off on the first of his many eventful voyages.

On one of these trips his ship was wrecked off an island. Robinson and Crusoe was washed ashore and the rest of his companions were drowned. By working very hard he was able to save many provisions such as food,

Junior Marksmen Making Progress In Rifle Club

Inaugurated in the first of this year, the Pimley and Ritchie Rifle range, under the auspices of the Winchester Junior Rifle Association has already enrolled sixty members among boys of this district between the ages of 10 and 18 years. The club was started with the primary idea of teaching fire discipline and marksmanship to the younger boys of the district, and its growth has been very rapid.

Major Richardson, one of the Victorians who represented Canada at Bisley, the mecca of all marksmen, is chief instructor to the club, while G. McEwen is acting as active instructor in charge of the work on the range, in the basement of the Pimley and Ritchie premises on View Street. Here shooting at a 50 foot range is free to all, and are conducted twice weekly, under competent instructors, and the parents of the boys are invited to see these

May Organize Girls' Club

The success of the boys' club has been so outstanding that the organizers plan to start another club, along similar lines for girls. All at the age of ten and over, and with the sole proviso that they pay for their ammunition, and arrange for the use of the rifle.

One of the reasons that this rifle club is trying, and with success, to instill into the growing manhood of this district is the care of firearms, to the end that the hunting seasons of the future may be without the regrettable accidents that have taken place in the past. Fire control and discipline are taught to the boys, who are more than taught to learn, and some first class shots are developing at the bi-weekly practices.

Every member is made to learn and rigidly practice the following code—which speaks for itself:

1. I will never, under any circumstances, point a gun, whether it is loaded or not, at anyone.
2. I will never point a gun at anything which I do not intend to shoot at.
3. I will never load my gun when anyone is in front of me.
4. I will never stand in front of anyone who is loading a gun.
5. I will always keep my face away from the muzzle of a gun.
6. I will never cock and pull the trigger for fun.
7. I will when loading my gun keep the muzzle pointing toward the ground and in safe direction.
8. I will remember that a .22 bullet will go 3/4 of a mile.
9. I will remember that a .22 bullet will ricochet (glance) from a bottle or other hard surface.
10. I will remember that a bullet may glance up off the surface of water.
11. I will never shoot directly at a flat hard surface, as the bullet will probably glance from it.
12. I will always carry my gun over my shoulder or with the stock under my arm.
13. I will only carry my gun loaded when hunting and then at half cock.
14. I will never shoot at a song bird or harmless animal for sport.
15. I will always be sure that no wounded animal or bird is left to suffer.
16. I will when walking along the side of a hill, always carry my gun on the side toward the hill.
17. I will always put my gun over first before I climb a fence.
18. Shots are held on Wednesday and Thursday at the range from 7.30 p. m. to 9.30 p. m., when parents are made cordially welcome.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil). The inventor, O. W. Johnson, 370 Donald Street, Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 day's FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month. Adv.

Chronic Case of Bronchial Asthma Relieved by Wonder Health Restorer

Sufferer recommended to use the great Herbal Remedy by prominent Vancouver physician.

Read This Letter

Remedy does its work after physicians was unavailing.

"I desire to express the high regard in which I hold Wonder Health Restorer as a remedy for Bronchial Asthma. Have been subject to the trouble periodically all my life, the case becoming permanently chronic for the last 6 years. For months I could not lie down, day or night, without a preparation for burning which gave relief for the time but with detrimental after effects.

"Being a graduate of Hospitals on two continents and later Supervisor of various said institutions, it is hardly necessary to say that I came in contact with some of the world's best physicians, but obtained no permanent relief by using drugs. Finally climatic change was advised, Calgary being suggested. I came West only to suffer more intensely last Summer than before.

"While on a visit to Vancouver I was advised by a prominent physician to try Wonder Health Restorer. He honestly admitted it had benefited patients he could do nothing for. While unable to go out of doors I sent for a treatment. The result is that for over four months I have had no return attack and have gained 18 pounds. The period since taking Wonder Health Restorer is the only time I have been absolutely free from this most distressing disease since June, 1915.

Apartment 24, McTavish Block, Calgary, January 26, 1921.

LIEUT. HELMSING TO TAKE NEW POST

Late Provincial Secretary, Navy League, Transferring to Ontario

With the announcement to-day that Lieut. H. F. Helmsing, R.N.V.R., for some time provincial secretary of the Navy League in this Province, had been appointed district organizer for the Navy League in the Province of Ontario, came word that his new post might call him at any moment, and that Mrs. H. F. Helmsing and family would go to Ontario. Lieut. Helmsing has had a noted career in Navy League circles in this Province, where he gained widespread popularity for his energetic support of the chairmanship of the annual general meeting of the Victoria branch, held Friday night, Lieut. Helmsing was one of three nominated for the chairmanship of that branch, but declined owing to the new appointment which will necessitate his return to the East, and take all his time and energy in a very much larger field of activity, with unlimited scope for his administrative ability.

Went Overseas in 1916. Lieut. Helmsing left this city for services overseas in the Spring of 1916, and served as lieutenant in the R. N. V. R., being engaged with notable success in mine sweeping operations in the English Channel. He was invalided out of the service in 1917, when he returned to this city, and was for some time engaged as supervisor of military police in this garrison. In November, 1918, he became identified with the Navy League, and was appointed provincial secretary, in which work he has made himself known all over the Province.

While engaged in this capacity he toured every community of the Province, in the interest of the Navy League and performed much useful and invaluable work for the furtherance of the movement. He delivered over 200 illustrated lectures on the Zeebrugge raid, addressed 98 Navy League units in the Province, and spoke to approximately 70,000 children in connection with this work. He was instrumental in forming no less than seven new branches of the Navy League, and re-opened five more that had become inactive. It is perhaps among the membership circles that the results of this energetic work was most noticeable, securing five life members for the Navy League and over 1,200 ordinary members.

Active Collector. To aid the funds of the League he collected, or was directly instrumental in collecting $6,000, $2,000 of which was in two grants from the Provincial Government. In declining the honor offered to him at the Navy League meeting, Lieut. Helmsing gave word of his promotion in the annals of the Navy League movement, and stated that he much regretted being unable by virtue of the new post, to take advantage of the honor thus proffered in the local branch of the League. Her use of them leads her to believe there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the many minor ailments of childhood. I am so well satisfied with the Tablets that I lose no opportunity in recommending them to other mothers." WHY MRS. MARKLAND PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

She suffered terribly and lost sixty pounds, but Dodd's Kidney Pills started her on the road to health. Pictou, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Special).—Enthusiastic in her praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Finlay Markland, a well-known and highly respected resident here. And Mrs. Markland is always willing to tell why she pins her faith to the great Canadian Kidney remedy. "Two years ago I had a bad attack of flu and pneumonia," she states, "and the poison in my system all went to my kidneys and gave me diabetes. I had it for nearly a year before I knew it, but last Fall I broke out all over with boils. "I suffered something terrible. I went down in flesh till I lost 60 pounds. The doctor put me on starvation diet. I could not even put my shoes on. My husband and all my friends thought I was going to die.

"Reading of what Dodd's Kidney Pills had done for another woman with kidney trouble led my husband to get some for me. After I had taken two boxes I began to feel better. I have taken 21 boxes and feel splendid. I can do my work and eat almost anything. I have gained 29 pounds. I tell all my friends what grand pills Dodd's Kidney Pills are. My neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the best remedy for sick kidneys.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN WORKS BRANCH

Dominion, Public Works Department Negotiating Reorganization

No definite information can be obtained as to the effect on the local situation of the changes proposed in the Dominion Public Works Department. The service is being reorganized and the general idea is to reduce the existing thirty-three districts in Canada to about thirteen. This, of course, means that the existing areas will be very greatly enlarged. It is understood that the plan is to cut down the British Columbia districts from five to two, although it has just been reported that the intention of closing the Nelson office has been abandoned, and that area will not be brought under the jurisdiction of the New Westminster office, as planned. The representatives of R. F. Green, M. P., are responsible for this decision, and Nelson will therefore administer the Yale and Cariboo sections. C. C. Westfield will remain in charge at New Westminster and the Chase district. A general discussion would be brought under the jurisdiction of the New Westminster office, it is believed. An agitation may also be started respecting the proposed closing of the Prince Rupert office, and the removal of J. P. Forde to Victoria to administer the Prince Rupert district from the capital. He has recently had charge of the Kootenay, Yale and Cariboo districts, with headquarters at Nelson. "Just what staff readjustments will be made is problematical, but it is not believed that there will be any reduction at Victoria owing to the large district covered. Reorganization of the department had been discussed for the past eighteen months and the removal of Mr. Forde has been spoken of for the past three months. He is, however, expected in Victoria in the near future.

First Bronchitis Then Lung Trouble

It Frequently Rouses Latent Consumption Into Activity, and Should be Treated Now.

Is Your Cough Bronchial?

The symptoms of Bronchitis vary according to the progress of the disease. In the early stages it is usually, irritating, and distressing; usually after coughing there is soreness in the chest and aching in the breast. As the disease progresses the expectoration becomes thicker, the pulse grows weaker, the breathing short, then rapid and feeble. Unless checked this condition runs into consumption. Bronchitis is very prevalent, but is not incurable. Catarrhose Inhaler is the worst case. Catarrhose Inhaler sends the healing medicated air into every air passage in head, bronchial tubes, and lungs; reaches the germ and kills it; Catarrhose soothes and cools the inflamed membranes, quickly relieves the dry cough and feverishness, and the Federal Department is relieved at once. When Catarrhose is inhaled, Bronchitis is relieved in one to five days. It has been extensively used, and never once failed. Even cases of 5, 10, and 20 years' standing that have baffled the skill of the best physicians have been relieved by Catarrhose. Your doctor can tell you that Catarrhose is one of the greatest discoveries of the century, and that he prescribes it for Bronchitis, Asthma, and Catarrh. Get it to-day, and you will see the size Catarrhose contains 2 months' treatment; price $1.00; small size, 50c. All dealers, or the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N. Y., or Kingston, Canada.

PLACE BUILDING PLAN BEFORE CITY

Syndicate Would Build Houses If Given Land

A house-building programme which, it is claimed, would cost the city nothing and would provide a considerable amount of employment immediately, was laid before Acting Mayor Todd and members of the City Council this morning by a representative of a local syndicate. It is proposed that the city place at the disposal of the syndicate a number of vacant lots, taken over by the Corporation at recent tax sales, and that the syndicate build houses upon them. These houses would range in value from $1,500. To show the sincerity of its intentions the syndicate offered to do a reasonable amount of building before the lots were needed over. It is proposed to build ten houses. It is planned to meet a special committee of the Council on the matter next Wednesday. Members of the syndicate claim that the city would be providing employment, approving the scheme and, moreover, would be making the vacant land revenue producing by placing in the possession of ratepayers.

PLAN TO COPE WITH DISTRESS HERE COMPLETED

City to Co-operate With Great War Veterans

Plans calculated to relieve the present unemployment situation here were completed at a two-hour conference this morning between representatives of the City Council and of public organizations in Acting Mayor A. E. Todd's office. Following the conference it was announced that relief in the shape of food and clothing would be distributed to unemployed men after their needs had been certified by the Great War Veterans Association. It was stated also that some fifty or sixty additional men would be put to work by the city at the beginning of next week in connection with sewer installations and street improvement. Paving of Government Street, it was stated, would commence as soon as the B. C. Electric Railway Company had agreed to do its share of the work.

Outlines Plans. A full outline of the plans decided upon by the conference was given out in a statement by Alderman Todd: "The conference commenced at half-past nine. Acting Mayor Todd, Alderman Woodward, Alderman Fullerton, Alderman Harvey, Alderman Sangster and myself, Colonel Winsby and several others represented the Great War Veterans' Association, Mrs. Fleming, the president of the Red Cross, and Major Okell, the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. A general discussion took place, and it was decided that any relief work done by the city would be done so as not to interfere with the operations of the S. C. R. or the Red Cross. "The method of procedure decided upon for applicants for relief, who are known to the G. W. V. A., would be that these applicants should apply through the offices of the G. W. V. A., which, in its turn, would furnish either the Mayor or the official appointed by the Mayor with a written requisition. This requisition would then be checked up by the said official and the necessary relief provided from the stores from which the city is purchasing its supplies. "Government Street. "Some discussion took place concerning the delay proceeding with the paving of Government street, and anxious queries were made as to whether work had been received from Mayor Porter as to his success in his way to Vancouver. No word, however, has been received from the Mayor so far. The city representatives pointed out that immediately the consent of the City Council to the paving work is received, a start will be made. This work would employ a large number of men. "At the conclusion of the meeting Alderman Sangster, Chairman of the Civic Streets Committee, stated that on Monday or Tuesday next the city would be able to take on additional men in connection with street sewer and other works. "All applicants for jobs will have to register with the Provincial Government, financed by the loan of $25,000, which the Provincial Government has agreed to extend to us and which must be formally ratified by the Council on Monday night. The sewer work is to be done in different parts of the city where it is needed—mostly in the outskirts. "Borrowed Money. "There seems to be an impression at present," said Alderman Todd, "that the Provincial Government is giving us $25,000 to proceed with work. This is not so. We are borrowing the money at six per cent. I take pleasure in stating that the money is being made by the civic authorities and which disparaged the efforts of the Provincial Government in regard to the unemployment problem. So far I know the Provincial Government in regard to its policy on unemployment. "We are doing everything we can to put men to work," Alderman Sangster stated after the conference. "The street work we proposed to do will be in various parts of the city where it is most needed. One detail of this programme will be work on upper Pandora Avenue between Cook and Chambers Streets. We propose to spend $1,000 leveling off and improving the park area there. "Employing More Men. "At the present moment we are employing a number of men on engineering work that we were employing this time last year. Forty men are working in connection with the new Johnson Street Bridge gang of men, in addition, working on the Esquimalt and Esquimalt Road. Moreover, over 100 men are now cutting wood under the city's wood cutting scheme, and we are prepared to employ more men in this connection next week. Only four additional men turned up for work this morning and all were given jobs. We are making arrangements now so that the wood will be cut in a way suitable for use in stoves and we would appeal to the public strongly to co-operate with us in relieving present distress by purchasing this wood, which is of an excellent quality. As soon as this shorter length wood is ready we will reduce the fact and the prices to be charged. If the public wants to help in the present situation and at the same

Terrible Weeping ECZEMA

One of the most serious phases of the situation, the aldermen agreed, is the fact that large numbers of men are pouring into the city from outside points. Men even are coming from Vancouver, they declare, where they got the idea that there is plenty of work here is a mystery," said Alderman Fullerton. "We want it clearly understood that we are taking care of the bona fide citizens of Victoria," Alderman Todd stated. "We were informed by Hon. Dr. King, Minister of Public Works, yesterday that his Department intends, in the near future, to do some work on the Malahat and the Sooke Roads. This work would be of extreme value at present as it would take men out of the city."

NEW INVENTION AUTOMATICALLY DELIVERS OLD STOCK

F. G. Madison, of Victoria, Solves Problem of Handling Retail Package Stocks

A novel showcase which is expected to be of great value to tobacconists and dealers in small package goods, has been invented by Frederick G. Madison, one of Victoria's returned soldiers, who has just received his patent papers from Ottawa and Washington. Mr. Madison is the owner of a store on Pembroke Street, and being in need of a simple method of selling the stock from the bottom of displays, evolved in his spare time a showcase which, by a peculiarly shaped drawer, delivers the bottom package every time it is withdrawn, without disturbing the stock replenished from the top of the fixture. "When working on the device Mr. Madison had no thought of his simple idea having provided a solution of a problem which has always been troublesome, and it was not until a friend remarked 'someone will steal that idea from you' that he thought of applying for the patent. "The new fixture is a handsome dust-free glass fronted affair, and will be manufactured by one of the large store fixture manufacturing firms. It will be placed on the market in units designed to accommodate a large number of different articles. "The drawer which is the crux of the invention is made accurately to handle only the one designed line of goods, but a number of these drawers are assembled in each unit. A change in the stock requires only the changing of the drawer to answer a large variety of purposes. "Old Maid's Convention.—A Junior Auxiliary has been formed in connection with St. Aidan's Presbyterian Church, and is showing considerable activity. On Tuesday next it will give its first concert in the Parish Hall, which promises to be a big success. It will take the form of a humorous sketch entitled "The Old Maid's Con-

Scientia Vanishes Instantly
If Nervine Is Used

CAN YOU BEAT THIS CASE?

No ordinary liniment will even relieve Sciatica. Nothing but the most powerful kind of a remedy can penetrate through the tissues and finally reach the Sciatic Nerve. You can always depend on the old-time "Nervine." Nothing made to-day is as good for Sciatica as Nervine was when first produced, about forty years ago. All this time the same old "Nervine" has been relieving Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, and is considered to be without an equal in relieving pain or soreness anywhere. "Nervine" couldn't be made stronger or better," writes James E. Edwards. "The way it relieves Sciatica is so simple a miracle. For years I suffered frightfully. I ruined my stomach with internal dosing. I rubbed in gullions of oils and liniments—none were strong enough. One good rubbing with Nervine relieved. I kept on rubbing and shortly was relieved. My father relieved rheumatism in his right arm and shoulder with Nervine, and my mother relieved herself of chronic lumbago with Nervine. Our family simply swears by Nervine and we are never without a 50c. family size bottle in our home. We find that for external pain, for coughs, colds, headache, such minor ills it is a veritable family physician."

News of Markets and Finance

STOCKS STRONGER AT CLOSE TO-DAY

(By Burdick Brothers, Ltd.)
New York, Feb. 5.—The tone was firm and somewhat active with prices as a rule higher. Nothing particular in the news developments indicated that the street seems to be awaiting some fresh developments that will stimulate the initiative of the trading element.

There seemed to be a little more call than yesterday and there is a feeling in some quarters that the tension in the local money situation will ease somewhat next week. Petroleum prices are adjusting themselves to lower levels and reaction in the commodity market should have its beneficial effects in certain lines of industry now that oil is used in such large quantities by enterprises that formerly did not consume it in a preferential way.

While there are no signs of any material betterment in general trade, still there is a more optimistic feeling with respect to the future status of business now that in practically all lines of business deflation seems to have spent the greater part of its force.

CANADIAN SCOTTISH GAINING STRENGTH

Active Organization of Victoria's Noted Kilted Battalion Now Well Under Way

Wayfarers on Government Street during the week have been attracted to the show windows of Fyvie Bros., tailors and clothiers, 909 Government Street, which has been established as the recruiting office of the 16th Battalion, Canadian Scottish. In the windows is an excellent collection of war trophies and photographs, paintings, and so forth, to which is to be added a unique collection of cap badges of British regiments.

Excellent progress has been made in the recruiting rallies of the Canadian Scottish during the week, and the work of organization is proceeding well. The four companies are gradually enrolling their numbers, and the rank and file, sergeants and officers have formed their messes and committees for the work of the battalion. Several nights during the past weeks the pipers of the battalion have held parades in connection with the recruiting rally and have attracted much attention.

Many at Parade

On Thursday night, the weekly battalion parade night, there was quite a gathering at the comfortable men's rooms in the new Drill Hall, and an energetic committee was then formed by the men of the battalion at a meeting held in the main room. The rooms have been well furnished, with reading and card tables, billiard tables and so forth, and the canteen adjoining is under way. Basketball and indoor baseball games were held, the miniature shooting galleries in the basement were in use and a number enjoyed a swim in the big plunge bath in the basement.

In the sergeants' mess, Battalion Sergeant Major Miller presided over a sergeants' meeting at which Sergeant Fyvie was elected president of the mess and C. S. Major T. Birch vice president; Sergt. Dunlop, secretary, and Sergt. M. J. Anderson treasurer. The following were elected to the executive, C. Q. M. S. Griffiths, Hon. Sergt. McPhail and Sergt. Cox, Mr. L. M. Gouger (the Lounge), who was a member of the sergeants' mess of the 102nd Battalion, C. E. F. overseas, was elected an honorary member. Votes of thanks were passed to the sergeants who did so much to making the mess rooms comfortable, and it was decided to see what could be done to secure a collection of the photographs of commanding officers of the 16th and also of the four winners of the Victoria Cross, and to prepare a roll of honor of the battalion.

An appeal was made for books and pictures. All who are willing to contribute books for the men's and sergeants' libraries, and pictures for their messes, are asked by the sergeants to leave them at the store of Fyvie Bros.

GOOD HEALTH AND GOOD SPIRITS

Depend Upon the Condition of the Blood—Keep it Rich, Red and Pure.

When a doctor tells you that you are anaemic, he simply means, in plain English, that your blood is weak and watery. But this condition, which may easily pass into a hopeless decline if prompt steps are not taken to enrich the blood. Poor blood, weak, watery blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, poor digestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous, irritability and many other troubles. To poor blood is due the pimples and blotches, the muddy complexion that disfigures so many faces. To have good health, a good complexion and a cheerful manner, the blood must be kept rich, red and pure. This is easily done through the use of a blood enriching tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to help enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bringing with it health, strength and new activity. That is why people who occasionally use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always feel bright, active and strong.

Mrs. E. E. Cook, Simcoe, Ont., gives strong testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the blood is in an anaemic condition, she says: "I have been a sufferer for some years from a run down condition of the system. I suffered from pains in the back, twitching of the nerves and muscles, my appetite was poor, I had indigestion and would get drowsy after eating. My hands and feet were almost always cold, and though I was constantly doctoring, the medicine I took did not help me. I had practically given up hope of good health, until a friend from Hamilton came to visit me, and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It took some persuasion, but finally I consented to try them. I have reason to be grateful that I did, for after using seven boxes I felt like a new person. I have gained in weight, have a better color and my work is now pleasure. For this condition my thanks are due Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I cannot praise them too highly."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TEACHES PRINCIPLE OF BROTHERHOOD FOR ALL NATIONALITIES

Dr. Mazandarani Talks Here to Large Audience

There was a splendid audience at the New Thought Temple last evening to hear Dr. Mazandarani speak, as a representative of the Bahai movement in the establishment of a universal religion.

Dr. Butler introduced the speaker, and in doing so called attention to the fact of the similarity between the New Thought movement and Bahaiism, showing that the only difference was in the fact that one came through the avenue of the Orient and the other through the Occident, but that in principle both were one and the same in purpose and effort.

Dr. Mazandarani spoke through his interpreter, Ahmad Sohrab, and said in part:

Modern Thought.

"The fact is axiomatic that all over the world the broad minds are ready to meet on a universal platform. It seems to have been the working of the law of God that the minds of the people might become ripened and brought into a mutual understanding between the East and the West, so that they might eliminate those things which have kept men apart. We can really say from a higher standpoint that all the modern inventions, such as railroads, telegraphs, telephones and so forth, were the outcome of the thoughts of God for man in the outer world as He has also planned for them a period of time when there would be an international agreement, or reciprocity, in the hearts of men. The materialists, the inventors, the so-called agnostics do not realize that God has been using them from a state of infancy up to the present day for bringing about this plan for man.

"All prophets, all manifestations have had for their home the Orient. Universal Brotherhood.

"The ancient races are like unto children. The world has been growing from a state of infancy up to the present state. Jesus was a great prophet and saviour, who taught the same great truths that those before him had taught, but gave His truth in the light and thought of his own time. The teaching of the Baha' o'liah are the same in essence as that of all saviours and teachers, but put into the thought and form of present day needs, with the purpose in view to unify all religions and all races of men and to bring about a universal love and brotherhood of all mankind and bring peace and happiness to the world."

The doctor's address was well received and heartily applauded by the audience.

He left subsequently by the night boat for the Mainland.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS BY Firelighter

STUNT NIGHT AT THE "Y"

The C.S.E.T. classes of the city, including the Y.M.C.A. clubs, held a very interesting event last Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. Each group had to put on a stunt, and fourteen different groups took part. A stage was set up in the gymnasium with footlights, spotlight, curtain, all complete. Some of the stunts were splendid and showed that considerable time and trouble had been spent on them.

The first prize was won by the Tuscaroras, who put on a series of tableaux, representing Indian life. The make-up of the boys was splendid, and their stage effects made the scenes very realistic. The Hustlers of Centennial Church were a close second, with a very clever shadow-graph stunt. The scene was laid in "Dr. Killum's" office and showed in shadow the operations performed upon an unfortunate patient, including sawing off a foot. The Tuscaroras were third with a short sketch, "The Detective Correspondence School." A number of pyramids by the Belmont Huskies, a fine conjuring exhibition by Ford Verrinder of the Cathedral Crescents, shadowgraphy by the Rovers, a camp scene by the First Presbyterian Gays and a comedy by the Knox Tillucums were all good.

C. S. E. T. Basketball

A Tuxis section of seven teams and Trail Rangers A & B sections with seven teams each are now in full swing. All games are played in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. The Trail Rangers' games are Saturday afternoons from 1.30 to 4.20 o'clock and all boys are invited to see the fun.

Fire caused by an overheated stove destroyed the grocery store of T. P. Michand, Trenton; also the home of T. L. Shaw and the bars belonging to B. Bowers was damaged.

There will be three assisting artists, and a very promising programme of Band numbers at the G. W.V.A. Band Concert, Sunday evening at the Royal Victoria.
