Board of Trustees Monthly Meeting

Last Tuesday evening, following the reading of the minutes of the previous Board of Trustees session, a communication was read from the Martin Estate, calling attention to the wash of debris from Carmel streets on to the estate lands. The matter was referred to Trustee Murphy.

In reference to the recently enacted electricity ordinance, H. P. Larouette stated that he did not see wherein the ordinance worked a hardship on any interest, but in order that the matter be more thoroughly looked into, the board suspended the operation of the ordinance for 90 days.

Reading of reports, payment of bills, and remarks by Mr. Squires of the Grant Smith & Co., concerning natural bitumen paving, took up the balance of the evening.

The board adjourned to meet on Thursday evening of next week, at which time it is expected that data relating to the change of Ocean avenue grade will be presented by City Engineer Henry Fisher. Upon this data will be based proposed sidewalk legislation.

The following resolution was passed at a recent adjourned meeting of the board:

The Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea sorrowfully record the passing of the Honorable Frank H. Powers, whose death occurred on Monday, November 14, 1920.

Mr. Powers was one of the city's pioneers, and was interested in its welfare and improvement.

We would, therefore, incorporate this record in the minutes of our meeting for a perpetual memorial.

Still Working

Strange looking priests, foreign soldiers, dukes and duchesses, continue to appear on the streets of Carmel in the early morning and at dusk.

The work of filming scenes in "Foolish Wives" still goes on. The Monte Carlo "set" at Point Lobos remains standing through rain and wind, and it seems as if the elements are favoring the picture-makers, for the rains have come mostly at night and the days have been sunny.

Director Eric Von Stroheim states that the exterior pictures of the scenario will be completed this week. As most of the interiors have been made, it will not be long before the public will get a glimpse of the big production.

Estimable Lady Passes Away

On November 26th, the day after Thanksgiving, Miss Alta S. Adams, aunt of Birney W. Adams and great aunt of Floyd Adams, passed away at Morgan Hill, Santa Clara county, and was buried in the family plot at Oak Hill cemetery in San Jose. For some years Miss Adams was a resident of Carmel and was highly esteemed. She was a native of Medina county, Ohio, and 74 years of age at the time of her death.

If you read it in the Pine Cone you may safely repeat it.

Pine           Needles

Miss Eleanor Garrison is visiting here with Mrs. F. B. Cominos of Santa Barbara. Miss Garrison is a granddaughter of William Floyd Garrison of Civil War fame.

Carmel is soon to have another school for classic dancing and its related arts—swimming and walking—conducted by Portia Mansfield Swett and Charlotte Perry. Both of these ladies are favorably known here and will doubtless receive much patronage.

Rev. E. Bayard Smith and his daughter, Miss Frances Stryker Smith, have returned from their year's trip abroad, and are occupying the Gray cottage here.

W. K. Brown and wife are here from Fort Klamath, Oregon. They have taken the Rigney cottage in north Carmel for four months.

During a hurried visit to Carmel last week, Dell H. Munger informed friends here that the "movie" rights to "The Wind Before the Dawn" had been applied for by a prominent producing company.

Grace Sartwell-Mason has purchased a villa site at Carmel Highlands, where she will soon erect a picturesque residence.

Local Monterey high school students are jubilant over the victories of the boys' also the girls' basketball teams. The former won 39 to 10 over Gonzales, and the girls won 17 to 7 over Salinas.

Bob Leidig was seen going down Ocean avenue Monday morning, carrying a stove on each shoulder. Holman located a live one when he discovered Bob.

Many callers at the sanctum expressed gratification over the resumption of Pine Inn as the name of Ocean avenue's pioneer hostelry.

Miss Sara Featherstone, who formerly occupied the Lloyd cottage on San Carlos street, and now engaged in conducting Sunshine school at Del Monte, recently had her charges photographed by the "movie" staff at Point Lobos.

Mrs. Jennie F. Wing of Los Angeles, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albert Otey, has returned to her home. She is very much in love with Carmel and its surrounding beautiful scenery, and no doubt will be a frequent visitor here in the future.

At a Casanova street residence the unusual spectacle of quail fraternizing with chickens at feeding and other times is regularly observed. The 15th of November has no terrors for Carmel quail.

Floyd Adams, Wallace Morse, Chauncey Martin and Patrickson Greene, local boys, and three Monterey boys, spent Saturday and Sunday in Salinas, representatives of the Monterey Union High School at a Y. M. C. A. convention.

F. H. Davis and wife, who have a ranch down the coast near Palo Colorado, were here for a brief stay last week. Mr. Davis, who is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, is the inventor of the Calyx core drill, a contrivance used for mine prospecting.

H. K. Busey and family of Carmel Valley are in Bakersfield for a brief visit.

Mrs. G. M. Eadie has returned from New York and is residing at the Cole cottage or San Carlos avenue.

Mrs. M. L. Hamlin, proprietor of Hotel El Monte Verde, has returned after a months absence in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

It is rumored that Julian Eltinge, female impersonator, and cast are shortly to come to Carmel to make a movie picture.

Dr. and Mrs. Vard H. Hulen of Berkeley, who have been spending the past week at Carmel Highlands Inn, have returned to their home. Mrs. Hulen is a talented reader, and at a recent benefit tea, at St. Mark's Guild Hall in Berkeley, she gave two readings by Vachel Lindsay, "The Congo," a study of the race, and "The Santa Fe Trail."

Young David Prince made a hurry trip to the city and return last Saturday, leaving here in the morning and arriving home at 9 in the evening.

"Budge" Fverrett, well-known by the younger set here, is to be married at St. John's Episcopal Church at San Mateo on December 29 to Miss Elzamarie McFarland of San Mateo.

Mrs. George Ross, following her custom of making an annual visit to Carmel, is again registered at the Pine Inn.

The Bay school, down the coast, near Point Lobos, opened last week, with Miss Mariaus Ausley of Santa Cruz as teacher. She resides in Carmel.

The teachers of our Sunset school, with co-operation of the trustees, appreciating the fact that many attending pupils are distant from their homes at lunch time, have inaugurated a system of ~~hot~~ ~~chicken~~ ~~to~~ ~~them~~ ~~at~~ ~~a~~ ~~table~~ ~~thereby~~ conserving their physical and mental welfare.

Dickens Affair a Successful Event

The annual entertainment of the local Dickens devotees took place last Friday evening at Arts and Crafts Hall, and a more interesting aggregation of costumes and impersonations have seldom been seen.

After a short outline of the scene about to be enacted was sketched by Mrs. Sydney Yard, the principals were transported to the scene of Mrs. Leo Hunter's reception, in which we were introduced to Mr. Pickwick and his contemporaries. Mrs. Hunter was most convincingly played by Mrs. Yvonne Narvas, and her rendition of "The Expiring Frog" was most amusing.

The boarding house scene was so realistic that one scarcely got over being sorry for Mr. Pickwick, when he got into the wrong room. Miss E. A. McLean and E. S. Solomons were at their best in this scene, which called for expert portrayals.

Laughter over the foregoing scenes had not subsided when Mrs. Bardle, Mrs. Cluppins and Mrs. Sanders at tea were shown. It was hard to believe the characters were assumed, so convincingly were they played.

The court scenes was a triumph in facial expression, and during the long speech of plaintiff's counsel the acting was perfect. The part of Mrs. Bardle was played by Mrs. Clara B. Leidig in her usual excellent manner. Mrs. Cluppins was convincingly portrayed by Mrs. I. C. Bunting, whose bobbing plumes added to the emphatic manner in which she gave her testimony.

Mrs. Noel was the radiant Widow Sanders, and well might Sam Weller have admonished, "beware of vid-ders."

The scene from David Copperfield was charming. Again we renewed our acquaintance with dear old Mr. Pegotty, David, Steerforth, Little Emily, Ham, and the "Lone Lorn Creetur."

There were many handsome costumes, shawls and scarf, notably interesting was the little bride costume worn by Jeanette Rickey, the Marchioness of Mrs. L. S. Steven, and the Snodgrass of J. W. Hand.

Our Water Supply

The officers and directors of the Del Monte Properties Company will make their annual inspection of the company's holdings on the Monterey Peninsula December 10th to 12th. The president and general manager, S. F. Morse will head the party.

One of the principal points to be visited by the directors will be the new San Clemente dam up the Carmel Valley. Work has been in progress on this dam since last summer and it is now taking definite form. C. S. Amstutz, engineer for the company, confidently expects to have the dam completed by January, in order to catch a part of the season's rainfall. The dam, when completed, will create a storage of 275,000,000 gallons of water. The reservoir is used to supply Carmel and other Peninsula cities with water, and is one of the biggest engineering feats in this section of the State. It will cost upwards of $150,000.

The Pine Cone does good Job Printing.

THE PINE CONE is devoted to Art, Letters, Music and the Drama, as well as to the business and social affairs of Carmel and vicinity. News items pertaining to these subjects will be welcomed by the News Editor, as well as your subscription, which will be increased to two dollars per year on after New Years.

SALT CAUSES SUIT

Hears Most Noted Irrigation and Equity Lawyers of State.

Judge A. F. St. Sure of the Superior Court of Alameda County, California has had the promise of judicial fame thrust upon him by the assignment to his court of the great river water case begun by the town of Antioch and aimed at the rice growers of the Sacramento river country.

After forty days of evidence and argument conducted by the most noted irrigation and equity lawyers of the state—thirty-five attorneys appearing—Judge St. Sure has taken under advisement a motion for a temporary injunction.

California irrigation law—like Topsoy—"just grow." It sprang from customs inaugurated by the miners of '49 and has been adjusted by many legislatures and courts since the mining days. The influence of other western states has been felt to a degree, but California has, largely, held to doctrines supported by civil law—allowing riparian lands to own the adjoining waters as a property right.

Development of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys caused a steady increase of water with a constant reduction of the remaining flow in the river. But, up to 1918, there was apparently enough water for all.

In that season the cultivation of rice began to be important and this has doubled each year since. In 1920 the rice-growers used water sufficient, according to John S. Partridge, the leading plaintiff's attorney, to store a lake 85 miles long, 25 miles wide and a foot deep.

Because of this withdrawal of the water from the Sacramento, or from some other of the many causes suggested by the defendants as possibly contributing, the salty waters of the sea moved in to the river, reaching at the height of the dry season, Sacramento on the one river and Stockton on the other. The flow of salt through the hundred or more islands which form the great delta region was sufficient to cause irrigation to cease as early as the first of August this year.

The salt remained in the lower river waters until late in October—becoming fresh at a date which the plaintiff town says was suspiciously coincident with the stopping of the vice pumps 150 miles up stream.

Antioch sued for an injunction at a time when her entire city water system was flushed with salty water of about the consistency of the sea. She claimed a right to fresh water, based on riparian situation and on appropriation of about a cubic foot per second of time.

The delta has long been known as the "bread-basket" of California and produces the greater part of all the vegetables, celery, asparagus, potatoes, etc., grown in the west.

On the other hand, the great up river districts affected are also of extreme value, though of more recent settlement.

Judge to Divide Waters

To the Oakland judge falls the duty now of determining the exact nature and standing of each claim to water on both rivers. On the main trial—expected to require a year or two to complete taking of evidence—the court will decide which lands are riparian and how much water they can have; which are non-riparian but have right to water by long use; and which must yield in dry years, going uncultivated until such time as the completion of contemplated reservoirs throughout the mountains can store flood waters for summer flow.

It is the greatest water case ever brought before any court from the standpoint of values involved—far exceeding a billion dollars—and from the novel points to be decided. The principal of these are: Can a town claim riparian rights for all its citizens; is rice-growing an unreasonable and wasteful use of water in California; and, can an upstream water-user be allowed to withdraw so much water that the sea rushes into the lower stretches of the river below him?

Election of directors for the Forest Theater will take place at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, December 21, at Arts and Crafts Hall. All members should attend.

Development of Radiolife

Concerning the development of radiolife, mention of which was made in last week's Pine Cone, the following will be of interest:

In 1896 Professor Becquerel of Paris discovered that certain uranium preparations emitted a radiation resembling the X-rays observed by Roentgen in 1895, this led to the discovery of radium in 1896 by Marie Curie and G. Bismont.

The stored energy of radium is entirely different from and is more than 300,000 times greater than that of any other known substance. The energy of coal and other ordinary substances is exerted by the atoms of which they are composed, that of radium by the separation of these atoms into smaller bodies and the liberation of the energy of these particles.

As a result of this great difference radium can perform work only of a totally different character from that performed by ordinary substances. It is the dream of the physicist to discover a method by which the energy of radium be exerted without the dissolution of its atoms, the effect of which would be revolutionary in the mechanical world.

So far as the scientific world knows the effects of radium are wholly exerted by the separation of its atoms into inconceivably minute bodies, of three kinds, which dart off with extreme velocity, penetrating and passing through almost all substances and producing their effects as they go, one of these kinds of rays consists of negatively charged particles (electrons) traveling with a velocity about one-third that of light, i. e., about 60,000 miles per second.

Plants for Christmas.

Other things being equal, it is better to buy plants near one's home than to travel afar. Do not be tempted even by cheap offers, to go miles away, for counting car fares, packing, expressage and lost time, the ultimate cost is very likely to be more than if you paid a good deal higher price at home. Of course it may happen that one grower or florist has a large stock of some one thing and can sell at a low rate, but dealers usually have an understanding with one another, especially regarding holiday prices, and for weeks before the holiday season they have been balancing stock with each other, so that the better quality plants are of an almost fixed value.

Forest Theatre

Ideals and Achievements

SHOULD the spirit of Padre Serra still hover about his beloved Mission del Carmelo, voices of mortals engaged in dramatic and musical discourse must often be audible to it, as, within a short distance of that historic shrine, in a natural amphitheatre, among the stately pines of Carmel's hills, is the home of the Forest Theatre.

Instituted in the early part of 1910, this open air play house, seemingly planned by nature, has become widely known and cherished by lovers of the drama and its allied arts at home and abroad, for its unique and beautiful setting.

Its founder, Herbert Heron, still resides a stone's throw from the site of his efforts and scene of his dramatic triumphs; Mary Austin, from whom the founder received the inspiration of the woodland stage, no longer lives within its hail, but frequently responds to the call of the artistic haven of Carmel.

For a short period professional producers were called upon to assist in its productions, but soon their services were rendered unnecessary by the development of local directors, chief among them Mary Austin, Herbert Heron, Perry Newberry and John Northern Hilliard.

During the eleven years of its life, fifty plays have been produced by the Forest Theatre, thirteen of which

Lecture by Clayton Hamilton

"The New Art of Making Plays" was the subject of a lecture by Clayton Hamilton before the members of the San Francisco University of Fine Arts Society at a meeting in the St. Francis last week. Among the audience were Mrs. Hunt, wife of Professor Samuel J. Hunt, head of the department of dramatics at the University of California, and George Sterling, Bohemian Club poet, formerly a resident of Carmel.

were written for and played by children; thirty-two were of three or more acts, with eighteen short plays; twenty-eight had been produced elsewhere; twenty-two were first productions; seventeen were written by Carmel authors; eleven by other Californians; seven by other Americans; thirteen by other writers of the English language, and two were translations.

Eleven plays dealt with Western subjects; sixteen were purely imaginative and twenty-three were on miscellaneous subjects.

Thirty-five productions were staged by local producers.

Original music has been written for many of the productions.

The stage settings conceived and realized by Daniel W. Willard and others, have been notably excellent, and the costumes, made in Carmel, superior to importations. The home-made wood-cut posters were a pleasing addition to the artistic ensemble.

The achievements of The Forest Theatre justify the belief that its ideal "to aid in the promotion of American drama in its higher form, with special reference to the work of California," is attained, and that the many predictions that the name and fame of Carmel's Forest Theatre will continue to spread broadcast until known in all communities that venerate the exponents of Thespis, will be verified.

HERBERT HERON

"The Man From Mexico"

When de Souchet wrote the above comedy Uncle Sam's relations with our sister republic, under Diaz, were most cordial. Then came a long period of distrust and misunderstanding. Now, when it appears that the two nations are again to resume friendly attitudes, comes our local Arts and Crafts Club with the announcement that this bright and witty comedy is to have two presentations here—December 31st and January 1st, at Arts and Crafts. Do not miss this if you want to laugh.

Observations

FROM THE

Editorial Sanctum

That the Pine Cone struck a popular chord in suggesting that the Point Lobos tract of land should be owned by the United States or California and thrown open to lovers of nature, without a toll charge, was evidenced by the many voluntary voices of approval heard on the streets of Carmel and in the Pine Cone office during the past week.

That the vice and crime wave that is startling all communities today is the logical result of the "blue laws" now on and being put on the statute books of our country is the opinion of many students of sociology and criminology, urged there by well-meaning but misdirected zealots. Parental legislation never has and never will permanently reform humanity. Vice hunted in one direction quickly finds another path. The lesson of history is that reformation waits on education.

"Never again," was emphatically ejaculated in the director's quarters of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company on the evening of Sunday, November 27th. That remark, we should say remarks, as was often repeated, was the aftermath of the unusual effort called for in staging "Foolish Wives." The delays, a most serious matter when sunlight is essential, were caused by the many attempts to properly pose the society folks, who arrived on the scene imbued with the thought that they required no direction in acting their parts. Amateurs have always been the despair of stage managers, particularly those who are not amenable to discipline, because of an independent attitude toward the work they attempt, for ulterior reasons. Actor folks, not society folks, best serve play producers and the public.

Perhaps the Railroad Commission will grant the petition, now before it, for an auto passenger service between the Monterey Peninsula and San Francisco, as an auxiliary to the present inadequate and unsatisfactory service, and perhaps it will not. Should the petition be granted, it will gladden railway passengers who have had to stand during that trip or pay the exorbitant price demanded for a seat.

"for clean oil in a clean engine"

How many miles have you driven your car?

HOW many miles—without changing engine oil?

Dirt accumulates in the oil of every engine—carbon, road dust, fine particles of metal, and gasoline that has escaped past the pistons. This dirty, diluted oil circulating through your engine causes unnecessary wear on bearing surfaces.

Have it drained out—now—and fresh oil put in the crankcase.

We can do that for you conveniently, quickly, economically—with Modern Crankcase Cleaning Service. We use Calol Flushing Oil, the new, scientific flushing agent, which cleanses thoroughly without danger of contaminating the supply of fresh oil. And to assure correct lubrication we refill the cleaned crankcase with Zerolene of the correct grade.

Bring in your car today. Modern Crankcase Cleaning Service will give immediate better engine performance. Done regularly it will lengthen your car's useful life.

Nature's Panorama

BY ANNE CLUTE.

As you come down the hill, And see the bay, With its glorious blue, On a summer's day—

No bay of Venice, Could ever compare, With Monterey Bay And the white sand there.

Mt. Fremont looms in the distance— Its snow-capped peak held high, And here and there and around it, The smaller mountains lie.

At these beauties we gaze enraptured, And wonder at nature's display; Of sea, sand, and pine-clad mountains, That are shown near Monterey Bay.

About Books

A number of valuable books from the library of Ambrose Bierce will be given to the University of California library, according to advices received on the campus. Bierce, whose writings are well-known, was a former resident of Berkeley. The volumes which the university will receive are from the first editions of the works and are autographed.

In "Popular Studies of California Wild Flowers," Bertha M. Rice and Roland Rice tells the story of our best loved native flowers—poppy, mariposa lily, manzanita, lupine and numerous others—describing their appearance and habitat and quoting verses in their honor. Each sketch is accompanied by a full page photographic illustration. The authors are directors of the annual State wild-flower exhibit.

Under the title "Roses and Rain," Annie Laurie has collected her news paper sketches of California life—of the harvest moon rising over San Joaquin Valley, of the messages to be read in the pungent fire of eucalyptus boughs, little stories of express trees and birds and neighbors and children. Annie Laurie is a true lover of our bay region, and her closing adjuration fitly expresses the mood of the little book: "Let every one of us here in San Francisco look out upon the blue bay and mark again with new and deep appreciation the purple splendor of our guarding mountains, and lift up our hearts in a prayer of thanksgiving that we, too, are citizens of no mean city—and let's be thankful that we are alive—in California today."

Carmel Christmas Carols

The euphony of the "head" of these remarks it is hoped will remind Carmelites that a proper number of rehearsals are essential to the annual production by our choral talent, that is at present partially latent, because of lack of organization, of the delightful and impressive music dedicated to and in commemoration of the birth of the savior of humanity.

The Yuletide message delivered in song by Carmel's musical artists will be an event looked forward to by all residents and visitors and it, as suggested, it should be transmitted at a central and announced assembling center, perhaps at the square adjacent to the postoffice, where a very suitable setting now exists, that created event might be more vividly celebrated.

Interesting Art News

The local art exhibition at the Arts and Crafts Club is drawing a good patronage. Many interesting subjects are shown and a number of sales are reported.

Mrs. Jennie V. Cannon, an artist well known here, announces an exhibition of her paintings at the Thomas Welton Stanford Art Gallery, Stanford University, for the entire month of December.

Plans for the holiday season are under way at the California Camera Club, the first event announced being a combined vaudeville entertainment and dance to be held on December 17th at Native Sons' Hall, San Francisco.

The National Academy of Design announces its ninety-sixth annual exhibition to take place in 1921 from March 5th to April 3rd. It will be held in the reconstructed galleries of the American Fine Arts Society, 215 West Fifty seventh street, New York, and exhibits will be received there on February 10th and 11th only. The only exhibits which are eligible to the Academy are original works in oil, sculpture, etchings, engravings, drawings and prints which have never before been publicly exhibited in New York City.

Slender, clean cut and with a polished, winning humor, Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, now on a lecture tour, captivates his auditors. His message is not of the war, but of the spirit that won it. And as the Captain sees it, it was the spirit of humor that was spread over the mud and on top of all wretchedness which enabled the men to keep going through.

This spirit, Captain Bairnsfather holds, inspired and animated the characters which appeared by the thousands in cartoons to hearten those at home and give the men in the line their inimitable philosophy, and the artist Captain fame and fortune. Four more lectures only will Bairnsfather deliver in the United States. Then he departs for London.

Constance Peters, with a group of views at the Arthur Baken Studios; Bertha Stringer Lee's work on exhibit at the Fairmount, and Mary J. Coulter's pictures at the Print Shop, gives these three women artists a monopoly of the attention of the San Francisco art world during the current two weeks. They are all Californians, to the extent of being familiar with the personality of our scenes, and each shows her individuality of interpretation.
