

ANNUAL EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION

THE near approach of the annual convention of the Pasadena District Epworth League, which will be held in the First Methodist church of this city Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 10th, 11th and 12th, has stimulated interest in this big and popular religious organization of young people. There are 43 Senior Epworth League Chapters in the Pasadena District and 3600 "leaguers." Officers who are arranging for the coming meeting expect one thousand delegates.

The Pasadena District extends east from this city, taking in Pasadena, Monrovia, Azusa, Glendora, Ontario, Upland, Pomona, San Bernardino, Redlands and Victorville, and territory adjacent to these cities.

The history of the founding of the national organization of the Epworth League is the result of the amalgamation of five other societies: Young People's Methodist Alliance, Oxford League, Methodist Young People's Union, and Young People's Methodist Episcopal Alliance. Of these the oldest was the Young People's Methodist Alliance which came into existence on the historic Desplaines Camp Ground sixteen miles from Chicago, August 25th, 1883, in a beautiful grove on the banks of the Desplaines river where Methodists from far and near gathered once a year for a pleasant outing and religious feast.

Dr. John H. Vincent, a brilliant leader among Methodists, was the founder of the Oxford League in 1876. Dr. J. H. Twombly, who dreamed of a big organization of young people, was the founder of the Young People's Christian League. The Methodist Young People's Union was organized by a group were organic parts of the church activities and negotiations had been going on for some time looking to a unification of these varied interests. Leaders in the separate organizations were called together and a two days' conference was held at which plans and purposes were discussed and final organization took place of the Epworth League as the successor of its five predecessors.

The League has three great cardinal principles: democracy, initiative and fellowship, and its chapters, both large and small, have been true to the ideals of its founders. It has been a powerful influence in the Methodist Church in attracting young people and drawing them into the life of the church for service and fellowship. "Epworth," the home of the Wesley family which gave to the world the founders of Methodism, Charles and John Wesley, furnished the name of the organization.

This sixteenth annual convention will put much work and responsibility onto the shoulders of Methodist young people of Glendale, but they are fully equal to the task.

Miss Ethel M. Murphy, the First Vice-President of the District, who is a resident of this city, assisted by Miss Woods, Elwood Ingledue and others, has charge of the many details of preparation for the meetings which will open Friday at 4 p. m. in the First Methodist church.

All citizens of Glendale unite in extending a cordial welcome to the delegates and their visiting friends. Mayor Woodberry in a welcome address will present the visitors with a key to the city's gates that all may come and go at their pleasure. The full program will be published in Thursday's issue of the Evening News. Preserve it for reference.

VOCATIONAL WORK

MRS. TOLL VISITS ANN STREET SCHOOL AND IS PLEASED WITH WORK OF CHILDREN

Following is a paper prepared by Mrs. Charles H. Toll of this city, member of the Board of Trustees of Grammar Schools, in which the interesting vocational work carried on in the Ann Street School of Los Angeles is described. Believing that it will be read with enjoyment by many patrons of this paper, it is published in full:

Knowing that shoes in all stages of wear are more or less valuable at this time, and hearing that they are especially asked for in the poorer schools in Los Angeles, we asked the women of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle to bring all the old shoes they could find to the meetings, and we would see that they were taken in where they could be utilized.

When a large load of these had been collected, we went with them one day to the Ann street school of Los Angeles. This is a school of about twenty rooms situated in the district bounded by the Los Angeles River and the old Southern Pacific freight depot. One has but to drive through the streets in its vicinity to realize the needs of its inhabitants. The population is almost entirely foreign. The principal told me that twenty or more nationalities are there represented, mainly Mexican and Italian.

I spent some time while there going about through the building, as conditions there are unusually interesting. They have an excellently equipped and kept kitchen, run under the supervision of the Domestic Science teacher. With the assistance of those students taking cooking (and there are boys in this group), a noon meal is prepared every school day, and served for a penny to those who have the wherewithal to buy; to those in real need the food is served gratis. The students prepare (always under the eye of the teacher) great caldrons of deliciously steaming and smelling soup, and in so doing learn how to buy and serve this and similar inexpensive dishes in their own homes. They are being taught the cost of food, and its nutritive values, with the hope that coffee, tea and sour bread may not form the staple food of the school children of the homes in the district.

A sewing room in which are many machines, some run by foot power and some by motors, is full every hour of the day. The girls are taught simple draughting and cutting, and are encouraged to make their own clothing. I saw several layettes for Belgian babies, ready for shipment.

In an adjoining room the girls are taught how to make bobbin lace and how to weave carpets and rugs of the rag variety on small looms. Some are very proficient in lace-making, and are encouraged to make this for sale. One girl told me she had bought

MRS. NICHOLS LEAVES

EFFICIENT CHAIRMAN OF CONSERVATION DEPARTMENT WILL GO NORTH

Mrs. Ben Nichols, who has had charge of the conservation work inaugurated under the Junior Red Cross, is to leave for the north to join her husband and son in about a week. She is a very busy lady, but is sacrificing her own affairs to insure as far as possible the thorough organization of this branch of the Red Cross service to which she has given so much time and effort that it may go on to greater usefulness when she steps out of the harness. To that end she has secured chairmen for the different departments as far as possible and is hoping that women will come forward to volunteer for those chairmanships which are still vacant.

It is quite possible that Glendale may hold women who do not know what an interesting and important work is being carried on in the Conservation Headquarters, which are located on Broadway opposite the Fire House. In this department are reconstructed the fabrics which are

PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWER

One of the most delightful social events of the season was the pre-nuptial shower given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Reid, 423 Orange Grove avenue, Tuesday evening, May 7th, in honor of Miss Mary T. Wilkes, whose marriage to Myron Lowe will be solemnized in the near future. Music and games furnished amusement for the evening and at a late hour delicious refreshments were served. The bride-to-be was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts. Among those present were Mrs. S. E. Wilkes, Mrs. H. C. Reid, Mrs. J. S. Settles, Mrs. G. Hollingsworth, Mrs. N. Sunkes, Mrs. F. Reed, Mrs. Nettie Turner, Misses Alice Watson, May Jepson, Nora Rancier, Irene Wilkes, Frankie Wilkes and Jennie Allen.

CORPORAL GRIST IN HOSPITAL

Corporal Grist has been laid low, but he is not at all discouraged. He has gone from San Pedro where he has been stationed with other members of Company 9, Coast Artillery, to the hospital at Burbank for a remedial operation. It could have been performed later at the base hospital at camp, but the demands upon the hospital services are so great he would have had to wait for possibly several months. He was impatient to have it over with and so, with the approval of his parents, he secured a 30-day furlough and the privilege of placing himself under the care of the Grist family physician. He underwent the operation Tuesday morning and at last reports was doing well. It was a special concession on the part of army officials, but his parents are glad to have it done in this way and to stand the extra expense.

THEATRE PARTY

MRS. WARREN ROBERTS COMPLIMENTS MRS. TOWER AT FAREWELL LUNCHEON

Mrs. A. W. Tower was the complimented guest and Mrs. Warren Q. Roberts the hostess at a delightful matinee party at the Orpheum Tuesday afternoon. The affair was in the nature of a farewell for Mrs. Tower, who with her small daughter Ruth leaves soon for an extended visit with relatives and friends in eastern states. The performance was very much enjoyed, especially the reference to Glendale which was aimed at the box where this party was seated and was heartily applauded by the ladies. The guests were Mesdames E. U. Emery, Charles Farnham, H. H. Martin, C. H. Temple, Albert Pearce, Walter Stamps, Edward M. Lynch, Lawrence Ellis, H. D. Goss, J. G. Hunchberger, C. W. McFadden, W. E. Evans, Harry Goodwin, A. L. Weaver, H. R. Boyer and the guest of honor.

PICNIC FOR NEW YORKERS

Here is an open invitation for all the people of Southern California who ever lived in the State of New York to attend a jolly all-day picnic reunion in Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles, Saturday, May 18th, 1918.

There will be county headquarters where you can meet friends, basket dinners at noon, coffee provided, and a program opening about two o'clock with songs and patriotic addresses. Each one who reads this notice is asked to pass it on to all the New York folks possible. Take a day off and have a regular family reunion and good time, for this is the main object of our picnic. Honor the old home state with a patriotic remembrance rally.

Tourists and visitors will be warmly welcomed.

MAYOR WOODBERRY MAKES REQUEST

I respectfully suggest that the people of Glendale decorate their places of business and residence, displaying the National colors in honor of the Pasadena District Epworth League convention to be held in the First Methodist church May 10, 11 and 12, and as a welcome to the hundreds of visitors who will be with us on those days.

G. B. WOODBERRY,
President Board of Trustees.

CORPORAL ALVIN SANDERS

Alvin E. Sanders of Glendale, who is stationed at the present time with the 869th Aero Squadron of the Aviation Section Signal Corps at Kelly Field, South San Antonio, Texas, has recently been given a rating as corporal with that organization.

WEATHER FORECAST—Unsettled tonight and Thursday. Probably showers. Light southwesterly winds.

FAREWELL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Goodwin, of 142 West Tenth street, entertained Tuesday evening with a dinner at the University Club in Los Angeles in honor of the host's brother, Donald T. Goodwin, who is here on a ten-day leave. He has just been graduated from the officers' training course at Camp Lewis and has received his commission as Second Lieutenant. He will leave for Camp Gordon, Georgia, Thursday morning, accompanied by his wife. Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodwin, Mrs. G. H. A. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. David Gordon Phinney, Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Goodwin.

MISS IMLER RETURNS

Miss Marjorie Imler returned Tuesday from Berkeley, where she has been a student at the U. of C. the past year, and from the time of her arrival until late in the evening held an informal reception at her home, Palm Villa, her many young friends being anxious to welcome her home. Miss Imler wonderfully enjoyed her year's work and her associations in the Sigma Kappa sorority, but is very happy to be home. She comes imbued with the spirit of patriotism which is especially prevalent at the University and expects to spend her five months' vacation in study and preparation for her next year's work.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 8, 1918

RICHMOND P. HOBSON'S VIEWS ON PREPAREDNESS AS A PERMANENT PEACE POLICY

A nation is like a living organism, and like every living thing must make adequate provision for self defense, if it is to survive.

Collective protection like that which individuals enjoy through civilized government, is more effective in the end and more economical, like all co-operative enterprises, but until a government over the nations is finally established that demonstrates its ability to protect the individual nations, these nations must make their own individual provision for protection.

Of these two kinds naval forces and air forces are preferable, especially for a country with free institutions. The republics of history have been founded upon naval power, like Anglo-Saxon institutions, permitting the population to dispense with militarism and the centralized institutions based on the same.

The great nations of continental Europe, however, with land frontiers, have naturally been compelled to keep their public organized into armies, and their examples have been followed by Japan with its territorial ambitions extending to continental Asia. In this way, America finds herself in the midst of an armed world at the very climax of the period of militarism, ourselves unarmed, without organized armies and without a navy adequate to control the sea in the face of the military nations whose armies are ready on short notice to cross the ocean in a few weeks and destroy our ship yards, our navy yards, our principal arsenals, and levy ransom and tribute upon nearly half the wealth of the nation without serious resistance on our part.

Such a calamity would plunge America into a long period of preparation, a full generation in length, during which militarism would sink its roots deep into the vitals of the nation, leading to a second bloody war, from which we would emerge as military as the military nations from which we sprang, and our cherished civilization of peace and industrialism would have reverted back to the type of military civilization of Europe, the old civilization of the bayonet, and there would then be no great peace nation left. Militarism would be holding the world in its grasp. If we do not wish to become a military nation with great standing armies, we must maintain the biggest navy in the world to stand between our peaceful shores and the world's great armies. At the present stage of history our fleet in the Atlantic must be maintained superior to the German navy; our fleet in the Pacific superior to the Japanese navy and our two fleets combined superior to the British navy. Then we could live in peace and security and our rights would be respected abroad.

In control of the seas we would insure without protest from abroad the effectiveness of the Monroe doctrine in the Atlantic and the open door policy in the Pacific, ultimately insuring the extension over all the high seas of the principle of equal opportunity to all nations in the competition for the commerce and wealth of the world. In such a competition the great armaments would become a handicap. Then the military nations would probably join American leadership in developing an international government for the collective protection of the nations. The Hague conference could then evolve itself into an international parliament, the Hague court into an international tribunal and a league or council into an international executive. When at last this international government finally proved able to protect the individual nations and to settle their difficulties by regular recourse to justice, then these individual nations would voluntarily lay aside their unprofitable and unnecessary armaments just as individuals under the development of civil government on the frontier finally laid aside their weapons.

Thus America's control of the seas is not only our own best means of protection in case of war, our real guarantee against war, whether direct or indirect, when others are at war, but it is a firm means for the protection of the rights of the weak, the rights of humanity, and it is the real road leading to justice between nations and ultimately to peace upon earth and the brotherhood of man.

Any living organism to survive must remain in harmony with the laws of nature, the most fundamental of which is the law of development or evolution. Science has recently discovered that alcohol is the specific for degeneracy and causes any living thing to go backward, bringing down the curse of nature, the shortening of the life and the blighting of the offspring.

A young man starting at the age of 20 and living a total abstainer attains the average age of 65; as a temperate drinker he dies at 51; as a heavy drinker he dies at the age of 35. Twice as many men die between the ages of 25 and 35 as would die if there were no liquor. The nation needs these young men. Three times as many men die between 35 and 45 as would die if there were no liquor. The nation needs these men in their prime.

If both parents are total abstainers, nine out of ten of their children are normal. If they are both alcoholic only one out of six is normal. A nation debauched by alcohol must perish. Every civilized government now realizes that real preparedness demands first of all that a nation be sober.

PAY FARM HANDS ON PROFIT SHARING BASIS

Farmers of South Dakota are arranging to pay their help on the profit sharing basis. The average wage scale for farm hands now runs $55 a month, with board, room and laundry. In wheat growing sections a sliding scale of $50 minimum; $55 for wheat of ten bushels to the acre; $60 if it goes over $15 bushels to the acre and $65 if it goes over 20 bushels is being considered.

E. C. Carter, in charge of Y. M. C. A. work in France, cables that the leadership of a hut in France has greater possibilities of national service than most of the bank and college presidents in America and urges that only red-blooded men of high moral character be sent abroad to do war work for the Y. M. C. A.

WILL INCREASE FREIGHT AND PASSENGER RATES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News) WASHINGTON, May 8.—To meet a deficit which will amount to $800,000,000, the Railroad administration is planning to increase passenger and freight rates. While this is undetermined, officials predict an increase of 2 3/4 per cent on passenger rates and 7 1/2 per cent on freight rates. Increase in fuel cost and pay rolls and decline in net revenue is responsible for this move.

BRITISH LINE ADVANCES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News) LONDON, May 8.—General Haig reports that the British have again advanced their lines between the Somme and the Ancre by local operations. Enemy artillery activity is increasing in Northern Flanders, especially in the Meteren and Kemmel sectors and north-east of Ypres.

HINDENBURG READY TO STRIKE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News) WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 8.—The Australians advanced west of Sailly-la-See taking one-fourth of a mile of territory in each field on a 500-yard front. The sun is shining and war planes are swarming everywhere. Hindenburg is apparently ready to strike again. Troops and guns are in readiness and he has bridges and roads ready for movement of men and materials, say aviators. He will probably use eighty fresh divisions in his next blow.

QUARTERLY REGISTRATION MAY BE REQUIRED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News) WASHINGTON, May 8.—Provost Marshal General Crowder today told the House Military committee that a quarterly draft registration of men reaching 21 next year may be necessitated by the army expansion program.

SUGGESTION FOR NAMING OF STREETS AND AVENUES

Continue the using of the names of Brand and Broadway and then proceed to teach youngsters American history incidentally. Of course, this will not apply to grown-ups as they all know (?) American history.

First—Start north or south of Broadway or east or west from Brand, whichever you elect, and name the streets or avenues after the presidents of the U. S. in the order in which they served. The dates of their incumbency can follow the name if desired. Short streets to be called "places" and could be named after the vice-president who served under the president whose name is given the preceding street.

Second—Start again as above indicated and name the streets after the names of the states of the Union, commencing with the names of the thirteen original colonies and follow with the other states' names in the order of their admission into the Union. Places to be named after the capital of the state whose name is given to the preceding street.

Third—Start in another direction with the names of the counties of California. Places to be named from the leading product of the county whose name is given to the preceding street.

Fourth—Use the county seat names of California counties, using the order given in the third instance. If county seat name is same as county name, an important town or city name of county could be used.

In this way we would have constantly before us reminders of the political geography and history of our State and Nation.

Respectfully submitted,

S. C. KINCH, 314 South Orange street.

American soldiers in Paris clocked the shells from the German long range gun, according to Albert Ogden, a Y. M. C. A. war work secretary. They found that a shell arrived every fifteen minutes.

UP FROM THE VALLEY

Mrs. H. H. Clark, mother of Luther G. Brown of 128 North Louise street, this city, arrived recently from Calipatria, Imperial Valley, and will be the guest of her son for a few weeks. Mr. Clark is the manager of the North End Lands at Calipatria, and is an old resident of that country, having been there three years. He and Mrs. Clark have a home surrounded by a eucalyptus grove which they planted themselves and in which the trees now tower above the house. She says that although it is undeniably hot in summer, it is not at all a bad place to live; that while you perspire and get a little thin, you feel perfectly well, and the nights after nine or ten o'clock are always cool. The drawbacks to the climate are the things that make for prosperity. If you want to raise seven, eight or nine crops of alfalfa a year, you must have heat and water, and you must stay with your job. She states that the country is filling up very fast around Calipatria and that the buildings which have been erected are all of a substantial sort. Farmers are specializing on cotton, alfalfa and kafir corn and will also put in quite an acreage of the white corn or Feterita.

Mrs. George Herald spent the week end at Artesia as the guest of Mrs. Wilcox, formerly of Glendale.

W. F. Crawford of 916 Central avenue (Tropico District), who injured his foot at the ship yards at San Pedro, is now convalescent and expects to be out in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Scantling of Trinidad, Colorado, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. John H. English, 885 Damasco Court. This is their first visit to Southern California, and they are in love with Glendale.

Mrs. Maude B. Butts, wife of Henry W. Butts of the B. and B. Grocery, is in the Clara Barton Hospital in Los Angeles recuperating from an operation. She is said to be doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Burns of Glendale entertained as dinner guests on Monday, Mrs. E. A. Brininstool of Los Angeles and Mrs. Peiser of Chicago, in honor of their house guest, Mrs. I. B. Smith of Warsaw, N. Y.

Mrs. Charles Klamm of Central avenue spent the week end with friends in Gardena and visited the camp at San Pedro Sunday, where she saw Clarence Klamm, her brother-in-law. Clarence had a leave Monday which he spent with his parents in Glendale.

S. A. Roberson, who will celebrate his seventieth birthday in August and who for many years has been in the employ of the Southern Pacific Railroad as section boss, has retired from the service on account of ill health and moved from Los Feliz road to his own house at 227 Cerritos avenue, this city.

Last Friday H. Edgar Fry of 233 West Cerritos avenue, who is Y. M. C. A. Secretary at the naval base at San Pedro, came home to participate in the celebration of the 75th birthday of G. W. Bancroft, father of Mrs. Fry. Mr. and Mrs. Fry and Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft went to Griffith Park and there enjoyed a picnic dinner with proper birthday accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Carmack of 715 Central avenue have been entertaining for a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pollock and their daughter Pearl from Hereford, Texas. Mrs. Pollock is a sister of Mr. Carmack and she and her family like Glendale so well that they have bought a home on Arden avenue near Brand boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bancroft are the happy parents of a daughter born Monday at Thornycroft hospital. The little girl has not yet been named as it is difficult for her friends to agree upon one good enough for her. Her little brother, Peter Bancroft, is the guest of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Bancroft of 119 South Brand boulevard, Tropico District.

Mrs. Louis D. Baker of Brand boulevard has had letters from her son Roger, stationed at Camp Lewis in the Canteen Department, that he is very well and enjoying his military life. Troops are to be sent from the camp to the French front in the near future, but Roger does not know whether he is to go or stay. His wife is with her parents in Tacoma.

Mrs. Wilbur Reynolds, a former resident on Mira Loma venue, spent a day with old friends and neighbors last week while en route for New York City, where her parents reside and where she will stay during the absence of Mr. Reynolds. He is in France in the recreation department of the Y. M. C. A. She reports that in his last letter he told her he was with the American boys about ten miles from one of the fronts.

FOR GARDENERS

Congressman Charles H. Randall is mailing a pamphlet entitled, "City and Suburban Vegetable Garden," which is invaluable to the amateur and even to the experienced gardener. Mr. Randall writes that he will be glad to furnish a copy of this booklet to any reader of this paper on request.

LITERARY SECTION

The Literary Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club held an unusually interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Bartlett Tuesday afternoon at 2:15. The subjects discussed were "The Women Poets of India" and "Tagore." The first was given by Mrs. Edgar W. Pack. She spoke of the poems of Mankumari—her poems of natural beauty, her essays of excellent craftsmanship, all teeming with exquisite choice of words and intensely humanistic. Anangamohini Berman, another poetess of Hindu fame mentioned as especially artistic and at a very early age showed great possibilities as a writer. All her books seek to inspire the young men to a higher sense of national idealism.

The influence of Tagore's works of poetic genius were most ably handled by Mrs. Danford, our efficient librarian. "Every thought expressed by Tagore," she said, "is capable of being translated into our lives by deep, profound meditation. No one can for a moment lightly read Tagore to receive any possible benefits therefrom. A joyous spirit breathes in every line he wrote, and to become a student of Tagore means to become a better individual, with higher ideals of living."

An informal discussion followed these talks.

SACRED CONCERT GREAT SUCCESS

The West Glendale Methodist church was packed to the doors by a very appreciative audience last Sunday evening, when the choir rendered some of the best music of the old masters under the direction of E. D. Baker.

The feature of the evening was a quartette by Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Kreck of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Baker of Glendale. The selection, Dudley Buck's "Festival Te Deum No. 7," is one of the most famous anthems ever written.

Dr. Kreck's rich bass voice gave an inspiring interpretation of the beautiful solo in "Hark, Hark, My Soul," especially well rendered by the choir. The pastor, Rev. E. M. Crandall, made a splendid patriotic address based on the Scripture story of the Good Samaritan and focusing down on the thought of fighting, if need be, for righteousness. After this the choir sang "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," which caused a burst of applause.

While the choir plans to give a similar concert every month, it will also render special music each Sunday evening.

AUSTRALIAN TEA

Friday afternoon at the Jewel City cafe, corner Broadway and Glendale avenue, an Australian tea will be given under the auspices of the British Ambulance society. Mrs. William Lindsay and Mrs. G. O. Levinge of Glendale Heights will be the hostesses. They will be assisted by Mesdames Freeman Kelley, Alex Mitchell, John Hornsey and Helen Campbell and the Misses Ina Whitaker, Barbara Mitchell, Helen and Ruth Begg, June Huskyns and Alice Bornecamp. Also by the following artists who will give a delightful program: Miss May Lahey, mezzo soprano, niece of Mrs. Lindsay; Miss Lulu Lanterman of La Canada, contralto; Alex Downe of Los Angeles, baritone; and Miss Divina Woods of Glendale, dancer. The charge is only fifty cents and the proceeds go to the wool fund.

FURNISH AUTOMOBILES

Citizens of Glendale are kindly asked to furnish autos and drivers to take the Epworth League Convention visitors from Glendale to Griffith Park, where a picnic dinner will be served to the visitors. The autos should be at the High School at 5 o'clock p. m. Saturday. The visitors will be ready to return from the park at 7:30 o'clock. More than 100 automobiles will be needed. All persons who can furnish cars should phone Prof. H. D. Harkness, Glen. 1289-W, or notify Will Peart, 1440 West Broadway.

WILL PEART,
Chairman Transportation Committee.

THE STREET NAMING

MOTHER'S DAY OBSERVANCE

A special program of recitation and song with address on "Zebedee, or the Call from the Hearthstone" will be given in the English Lutheran church, corner of Fifth and Maryland, at 11 o'clock on this coming Sunday morning. This is an invitation to all who are infirm, crippled, or aged, and cannot of themselves attend, to have them present and enjoy the happy occasion. Call up Sunset 1218-J, the pastor, Rev. R. W. Mottern, and arrangements will be made to have them present. It matters not who you are, whether in the Church or out of the Church, you are welcome to this and all other services. Only come.

FLAGPOLE AND MAYPOLE

At the Pacific avenue P-T. A. meeting on Thursday, May 9th, the little kindergarten pupils under direction of Miss Ida Corey will give a splendid program at 2:15 which will include a maypole dance around the flagpole. This program will be followed by the annual reports of chairmen and the election of officers for the coming year. All mothers and friends are cordially invited to attend.

PROFESSOR HOUDYSHEL'S OFFER

Professor C. E. Houdyshel, well-known bulb specialist, has offered a large portion of his stock of famous bulbs to be sold on behalf of the Red Cross through the Glendale Garden Society. The management of the Glendale News has consented to publish from day to day a list of these bulbs. Amaryllis, Crinum, Cannas, Day Lilies and about 40 different species of Iris will be included in this generous offer. These bulbs range in price from 15 cents to $10 each. Persons interested in choice bulbs are requested to cut out and preserve the lists as they appear in the Glendale News. Orders will be taken for these bulbs by Mrs. Frank Hester, 1023 Maple avenue, Sunset 388-W; Mrs. Nanno Woods, 1222 Milford street, Sunset 394; and Mrs. H. C. Ackley, 210 South Kenwood street, Sunset 648-J.

As soon as a new location for the Plant and Flower Department has been secured by the Red Cross, a drive at the new premises for these bulbs will be conducted.

NANNO WOODS,
President Glendale Garden Society

GARDEN SOCIETY

The Glendale Garden Society will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. H. C. Ackley at 210 South Kenwood street, when the report of the plant and flower committee which has been working for the Red Cross will be read.

THE SALVAGE DRIVE

Reports of the salvage drive made last Saturday by pupils and friends of the Central avenue and the Pacific avenue schools show that a large amount of excellent material was collected. The work at headquarters was somewhat hampered for lack of a sufficient number of automobiles to make the collections fast enough to keep workers constantly employed. They find it a very great help when patrons are thoughtful enough to gather their paper donations into bundles and place them on the sidewalk where they can be easily gathered and handled; also there is great saving of labor when the bottles turned in have been previously washed. These things are slight when performed in small lots, but mean heavy work when done in quantity and under conditions which are inconvenient.

Mrs. F. O. Stone, principal of the Pacific avenue school, speaks gratefully of the service of one of the mothers, Mrs. W. C. Alvord, who spent the afternoon at the salvage department and rendered most efficient aid. If more mothers would help, their service would be greatly appreciated by the teachers, who cheerfully give their own holidays to this arduous task. Teachers from the Central avenue school who helped Saturday were Miss McIntyre, principal, and Misses Edwards, Cooper, Saxton and McPherson.

From the Pacific avenue school came Mrs. F. O. Stone, principal, and Misses Mary L. Circle, Nellie E. Todd, Margaret C. Longley, Edith Watanen, also Mr. Sarrand. As already mentioned, Mrs. Alvord contributed much appreciated service.

For automobiles the schools were indebted to Mrs. J. West, Maurice Hartmann, Mrs. Hartley Shaw, Harry Bullinger and A. R. Randolph.

Next Saturday collections will be made on the east side of Brand boulevard by the Colorado and Broadway schools.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Bull's Eye Garage

The Garage at 428 Glendale avenue will be open for business on and after Monday, May 6, under the management of G. Haniquet, who has worked in garages about town for over two years. He has been identified with the automobile business for many years, holding a New York City license for a Locomobile steamer dated 1900, and during all these years he has worked on many different makes of cars. All those who have had cars repaired by Mr. Haniquet endorse his work highly. If you want high grade work on that overhaul job, remember the BULL'S EYE GARAGE. 20713*

The Woman's Relief Corps of N. P. Banks Post will hold its regular meeting at G. A. R. hall Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church will meet Thursday afternoon, May 9th, at 2:30 o'clock in the primary room of the church. All friends are invited to be present.

herself a new school dress with money she had received from the sale of lace made in a few hours at school. The boys have contributed some of the equipment for this work through the sloyd room.

In the basement is a large modern laundry. Here the girls do most, if not all, of the home washing and ironing, and are taught how to do it in a scientific manner. The mothers of the neighborhood are cordially encouraged to bring their laundry here after school hours and on Saturdays, and are made to feel in every possible way that the entire school and its equipment are theirs just as much as they are the children's. In fact, on every hand, I saw the wise and far-seeing effort to link the school and the home as closely together as possible, that mutual benefit might thereby accrue. I was reminded of how Angelo Patri, in his intensely interesting book, "A Schoolmaster of the Great City," solved the difficult problems with which he met under much the same conditions, and made his school a power for good in the community.

In referring to how an effort to bind home and school closely together is being made successfully here, I might mention several other features of the school: The evening social clubs with the meeting-place in the school, frequently held in a large auditorium with a piano and a stage, and a large seating capacity; the night classes, where the parents are taught the English language, and where the younger people come in order that they may earn money through the day; the clinic, where teeth and eyes are treated, the roof school, where physically sub-normal children are kept throughout the school hours, and are taxed only so far as their vitality will permit, and where they take sun-baths on comfortable cots for as long a period as their poor little bodies may seem to require; and last, but in my opinion not by any means the least, the numerous shower and tub baths, where the children are required on certain days to refresh and cleanse themselves, and which are open to the adults in the evening. To those inmates of the poor little homes unable to boast of a bath-tub, this privilege must be a veritable god-send.

There has been a great effort made to equip the school-grounds with desirable apparatus, and to keep them open through the daylight hours for the benefit of the juvenile population. On the occasion of my visit, I saw three mothers with little tots, some of whom were being given a swing or a teeter, and others of whom were enjoying a sand-pile. Contrast this spirit with that of those who live in the vicinity of school-grounds that are closed to the public after school hours, and upon which the parents would not venture to trespass.

You may perhaps wonder, while I have been telling of the numerous activities of a useful sort open for the girls of the school, why I have not spoken of what the boys have done for their future citizens and heads of families. Of course they have a good-sized sloyd room, pretty well equipped. I should say, but inadequate to the needs of the numbers of boys in the large school. I saw a small room full of interesting things which these same small foreign boys have made for the shop operated for the Junior Red Cross. Apropos of this subject, I should not neglect to say that the principal proudly told me that they would have no difficulty in securing a hundred percent membership, as one could not find or desire a more enthusiastic set of youngsters working for a desirable object than right in this same Ann street school. Indeed, I was the recipient of a not too brilliant shoe shine, bestowed at the hands of a curly-headed Italian lad of twelve (not so large or well-developed as my own eight year old son). His thin little hands worked as vigorously as they were capable, in order that he might earn a dime toward the coveted membership. The big-hearted principal had this same bootblack stand installed in her office, and when a shine was demanded, she knew exactly which boy to call, as she was in touch with the boys and knew just which ones were finding it hard to earn the necessary money. "Really," said she, "we teachers are always contriving how we may help these youngsters, and at the same time not make patent the fact that we are manufacturing jobs of work for them." And she told me of a remarkable attempt that three of the boys had made to clean her Ford machine. She was a big enough woman to add that the loss of the shine on the body of the machine was amply compensated for by witnessing the efforts of the boys, and their pride in the fact that they had been entrusted with a serious piece of business.

But a great big disappointment was apparent in the principal's face and voice when, after showing me all the features of her school which have been the outgrowth of thought and knowledge of the needs of her community, she turned a key in the door of an unused room and sadly remarked, "This is one of my disappointments." She told me that she had been the principal of the school at the time the old building had burned; and when they came to rebuild, she was consulted as to the features of the new building. A cobbler shop for the boys had been long a dream of hers. She had thought that such a place would be a boon to the community, as in it the boys would be given manual training which would be helpful in keeping them engaged and in school, and at the same time be developing the manual dexterity especially essential to those whose life work would probably be that of the hands. Idle machines, tables and other equipment were there. When I asked the reason why this was as it was, she told me that a teacher could not be found who was able to meet the requirements of the "powers that be." Either the standard of education for such a teacher is set rather too high, or the remuneration is not sufficiently great to attract the men capable of doing such useful work.

At the present time there is, so far as I was able to find out, but one school in Los Angeles operating a cobbler shop, and that is in the Amelia street school, which is situated in another foreign and poor quarter of the town. The cobbler in charge there, to whom subsequently I have taken several loads of shoes, told me that not a scrap of the leather is wasted. The boys, of course, are in various stages of cobbling experience and dexterity; and he assigns the work accordingly. No shoe is so far gone as to be useless. Many that are brought are repaired by the boys and sold to the neighborhood for a nominal sum, while to those who can not afford a small amount of money but are in need of shoes, many are given outright. I asked him if the boys were capable of proceeding alone when they left his tuition. He said that, of course, as in any other line of work, there are those who are specially capable, and those who could never make a success of that line. But he said that there are very frequently calls from the larger cobbling establishments for his boys, and many of them, upon leaving school, have secured employment in such places. It seemed good to me that our grammar schools could give a boy a trade so that he could become a respectable, bread-winning citizen.

In reporting to the women of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle the disposition of the shoes that they had brought, I mentioned the state of affairs which has deprived the boys of the Ann street school of this educational opportunity. Your president at once suggested that this is a matter with which all parent-teacher organizations by virtue of their oft-mentioned and splendid object—"To rouse the whole country to a sense of its duty and responsibility to childhood"—should be concerned. She asked that I should investigate the matter and report the same to your Association.

Accordingly, I talked with Mr. Mark Keppel, Superintendent of Schools for the County of Los Angeles, and he referred me to Mr. Edwin R. Snyder, Commissioner of Vocational Education for the State of California. I append his letter herewith:

Office Commissioner of Vocational Education, Sacramento
February 25, 1918.

Mrs. Eleanor J. Toll,
1635 Kenneth Road,
North Glendale, California.

My dear Mrs. Toll:
In reply to your communication of February 21st concerning the certification of a shoe maker, would state that the first consideration is that he shall be a real shoe maker; second that he shall have more culture than the average shoe maker, and that he shall have more education than the average shoe maker.

It is impossible for any one to set a definite education standard for the certification of persons to instruct in the trades and industries. I am of the opinion that if a shoe maker meets the other qualifications required he can be granted a certificate upon an education which does not exceed that of the elementary school. We expect the shoe maker to "stick to his last." He is not an English teacher, nor a history teacher, nor a teacher of mathematics. We expect him to know more about his own trade than the average school teacher knows about any subject he or she teaches. We do not expect such a person to know any more about other school subjects than the average school teacher knows about shoe making.

Hoping that I have answered your communication, I remain
Yours very truly,
E. R. SNYDER,
Commissioner, Vocational Education.

I presume that Dr. Snyder has answered my questions just as explicitly as he possibly could. Still, the conditions are somewhat hazy and uncertain.

At the present time, if there were urgent need in any branch of the army service for instructors, I feel sure that the Government would not long leave its needs unprovided for. They would surely be unable to let valuable time pass. To me it seems more urgent than ever before that we give our young people every possible educational facility which shall help in inculcating thrift and independence. I should like to see the Parent-Teacher Associations demand that (1) unnecessarily rigid qualifications in cobbler teachers be done away with, so that it could be possible to find men who can do this work; and (2) that it be made sufficiently remunerative to attract competent men to these places where they are needed.

If our Association can help by inaugurating an effort which shall result in securing this needful instruction, it will surely have accomplished that of which it may well be proud.

MONROVIA'S WATER PROBLEM

Monrovia citizens have just voted for a bonded indebtedness of $42,500 to develop an additional supply of water. A careful study and investigation of the possible sources of water supply were made by Willis S. Jones, a hydraulic engineer of Claremont, and Henry Gierlich, city engineer of Monrovia. Various sources were considered, including the mountain water sheds where water might be obtained by gravity flow, high water planes where water could be pumped directly into the mains without much boosting and the San Gabriel basin, where water, though abundant, will require boosting to reach the reservoir. San Gabriel basin was selected as the best and most reliable source of water supply. Water will be pumped from a well 450 feet deep, driven into this great underground reservoir. Mr. Jones, in a statement to the citizens of Monrovia, explains the plans for water development which are to be carried out under the bond issue, as follows:

The reasons we have recommended the San Gabriel basin as a source of water supply are:
First. The supply is inexhaustible. The area of the basin is about one hundred square miles. The gap at the Paso de Bartolo is two miles wide at its narrowest point and two hundred feet deep to bedrock. This constitutes a dam to hold back the underground water. The depth of the basin is unknown, but it is more than one thousand feet deep. One well of twelve hundred and fifty feet did not reach bedrock. The slope of the water plane from the northern border to rising water in the Rio Hondo is only fifty feet.

The extent of this basin is so great that in order to lower the height of the water along the northern border fifty feet would require the extraction of eight hundred thousand acre feet, or two hundred and sixty million gallons in excess of the annual replenishment.

Second. The fluctuations of the water are small. Along the northern border from the lowest water known in 1904 to the highest level reached in the wells in 1914 is only thirty-five feet.

Third. Wells in the favored portion of this basin are characterized by large yields. Known wells are today furnishing by pumping from one hundred and twenty-five to over four hundred miner's inches for a single well.

Fourth. The best wells have a very high specific capacity; that is they show a large yield for each foot the water is lowered by pumping.

The Chapman well yields two and one-tenth miner's inches per foot. The Walnut Grove Mutual well, near the site we have recommended for your new well, yields nineteen inches per foot, or nine times the amount furnished by the Chapman well.

Fifth. The site selected has been chosen after a very careful study of the water conditions of the entire valley.

The best water-bearing gravel will probably be found at a depth of three hundred and sixty-five feet and should be about fifty feet thick, making a total depth of well four hundred and fifteen feet. We have recommended a well four hundred and fifty feet deep, one hundred and twenty-five feet to be twenty-six inches in diameter, which will permit the installation of a pump having a capacity of three hundred miner's inches, and three hundred and twenty-five feet of sixteen inch well or sufficient to penetrate the water-bearing gravel. Such a well properly constructed will yield three hundred miner's inches.

Sixth. A pump having the submergence of one hundred and twenty-five feet from the surface of the ground will be below rising water in the Rio Hondo at El Monte.

Seventh. The cost for electric power to boost and pump from the new plant into the Lime Avenue reservoir will be one cent per inch hour, which is not excessive.

An option has been secured on a sufficient acreage to make a desirable location for the new plant, which will be of the best type procurable today.

PATRIOTIC DUARTE SCHOOL

Since February 11 the pupils at Duarte school have contributed $3000 to various war work funds, including Thrift and War Savings Stamps, three issues of Liberty Bonds, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., W. C. T. U. and Armenian war relief work. There are 110 pupils in the school, about 75 per cent of whom are actively engaged in one phase or another of war activity. The pupils represent approximately forty families.

In addition to their cash contributions, students and teachers are doing considerable war work. The school referred to is a district school of four rooms in a settlement of orange growers adjacent to Monrovia. When such contributions to war needs can be made by a country school within a period of three months, it is evident that America is aroused.

MONROVIA DAY

Monrovia is making great preparations for its annual celebration of the birthday of the city, May 17th. The dedication of a beautiful new service flag 12x18 feet in dimensions studded with 128 stars, will be a feature of Monrovia Day. Judge William F. Bledsoe, famous as a public speaker and the youngest United States Judge on the Federal Bench, will be the principal speaker.

BEEF FOR ARMY

The following statement is authorized by the War Department:

The inspection of fresh beef for Army consumption is receiving comprehensive attention by the inspection branch of the Subsistence Division of the Army. New possibilities of food inferiorities daily are being uncovered, resulting in the application of stringent preventive methods designed to check these possibilities before corrective steps actually become necessary.

The army consumes about 2,000,000 pounds per day of fresh beef. This necessitates the slaughter daily of 4000 cattle. Official inspectors scrutinize every part of this supply from the time it comes on the hoof to the abattoir until it vanishes from the mess tin of the soldier.

Inspection begins in the stock yards, where the living animals undergo the examination of an official for any evidences of physical defect which might be difficult of detection later. Where there is doubt the questionable animals are separated for closer examination. Where there is certainty the animal is rejected as unfit for food supply.

Next comes a rigid examination of the carcass. Only when found "sound, healthful, and wholesome" is the meat passed as acceptable for food and duly branded with a non-poisonous vegetable ink "United States Inspected and Passed." The unfit carcasses are destroyed.

Fresh meats thus indorsed go forward in regular shipments, but those which are to undergo curing, canning, or manufacture into sausages, lard, oleomargarine, etc., are subjected to re-inspections at each step. For these there is a final inspection just previous to their dispatch for army use. Samples are regularly collected for chemical analysis in the Government laboratories.

When the meats arrive at the army stations they are again inspected either by inspectors of the Bureau of Animal Industry or by veterinary officers of the army. They must also obtain the approval of the officer of the Quartermaster Corps receiving them. And they undergo their final test when the soldier's immediate organization commander looks them over before he permits them to be served to his men.

While these precautions make it seemingly impossible for meats not of the most wholesome quality to find their way into the soldier's menu, nevertheless, the heads of the inspection service are on the alert for improvement in their system. It is not improbable that the inspections will eventually be made even more searching.

BREAD RESTRICTIONS IN SWEDEN

Minister Morris of Stockholm reports:

A decree has been issued putting the following restrictions on bread making:

Only nine types of bread are permitted, including dry, hard bread and weight and price are prescribed by law. In making bread only wheat, rye, barley or oat flour may be used, and flour substitutes are prohibited. For ordinary bread no butter, lard or other fat, milk or cream may be used. Soft bread may not be sold until it is at least 12 hours old.

collected in the salvage drives which are made weekly by the schools in turn. Whole garments which need only a little patching or a few darns or the addition of a button or two receive the needed attention of some needlewoman and are then put in the ready-to-wear stock; garments which are practically rags and good for nothing else have their buttons removed and are put into stocks to be used for machine wipers; garments which contain some good material and a balance that is worthless are ripped and cleansed and made into clothing for children. New pieces, particularly of wool, are much prized and those who visit the Conservation Rooms will be astonished to see what wonderful clothes can be made by women who are ingenious in piecing together such scraps received from contributors to the work. When too small for other uses the scraps are made into quilts, of which there can not be too many. Combinations of different materials are made which add to the beauty of the garments and aid in conserving all the salvage that comes to the hands of the workers.

The rooms are open every working afternoon and visitors are always welcome. It will pay any house-mother to go and see the ingenious things which are being done for the French and Belgian people. It should also be understood that this war enterprise is carried on in co-operation with the relief department of the Parent-Teacher Federation; that it has first choice of all salvage garments brought in and selects those which can be used at home.

As at first stated, Mrs. Nichols has succeeded in filling most of the committee chairmanships and hopes to have volunteers for the vacancies. The list of workers as at present made up is as follows:

Fumigation—Mrs. C. H. Thompson, Tel. Gl. 459-W.

Shoes—Mrs. Fred K. Myton, Tel. 476-R.

Wool Dresses for Women—Mrs. Warren Roberts, Tel. 1506-R.

Cotton Dresses—

Wool Dresses for Children—

Cotton Dresses for Children—Mrs. Rees.

Stocking Garments—Ruth Richards, Tel. 94-J.

Boys' Clothing—Mrs. W. J. Jeter, Tel. 248-J.

Men's Clothing—

Hoods and Bonnets—Mrs. McPeck, Tel. 1342.

Quilts and Booties—Mrs. W. W. Hamilton, Tel. 565-W.

Women's Cloaks—High School Sewing Department.

Sweaters—Mrs. Fred H. Roberts, Tel. Home 132.

Concerning the needs of the department not yet supplied, Mrs. Nichols says:
"First and foremost, workers in these various departments, particularly those for whom no chairmen have been selected, are greatly needed. We also need scissors and several low rockers.

"The free use of a pleasant store room at 1005 West Broadway has been given the department, where ladies can go to sew either singly or in groups, the key to be secured at Conservation Headquarters opposite the fire house. Ladies who will be in charge of the headquarters on the different days of the week are:

Monday—Mrs. Rees.

Tuesday—Miss Leppelman.

Wednesday—Mrs. Jeter.

Thursday—Mrs. Dewey.

Friday—

Saturday—Mrs. Dewey.

Girls of the High School have signed up for work on the following days:

Monday—Sybil Munn, Elizabeth Borchamp, Louise Storer.

Tuesday—Ivy Mills, Irene Ward, Gladys Goddard.

Wednesday—Ruth Wood, Madeline Love, Eileen Grist.

Thursday—Marie Oliver, Harriett Barnes, Mary Logan, Erma Patterson.

Friday—F. Marlean, Jessie Tippet, Sybil Jangocian.

"The ladies who will be in charge of the work on the different days will give out work from any department that the chairman of that department has made ready. All chairmen are therefore requested to keep work ahead that can be given out.

"The rooms are advertised to be open from one to five every afternoon, and it is suggested that parties having clothing to donate carry it direct to the Conservation Headquarters instead of sending it through the Salvage Department, which will save handling and keep it from the dust and wear and tear of salvage department. We are grateful to all who are helping in this work, but more help is needed."

BUSINESS MEETING

fully as chairman of the salvage and Red Cross shop, was read and upon motion was accepted. Miss Douglass stated in her resignation that the work had become so strenuous that it was impossible to do justice to it and to her school work. She said it is her intention to prepare to go to France that she may take some part in the war activities. She asked that the officers of the Glendale Chapter assist her to realize her ambition. A vote of thanks was extended to Miss Douglass for her untiring efforts in working for the interests of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Jack Boettner, who for some time had been assisting Miss Douglass with the Red Cross shop work, was elected to take charge of the work.

Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, on account of ill health, tendered her resignation as chairman of the Red Cross membership committee. The same was accepted with a vote of thanks for the interest she has taken in her work. Mrs. E. R. Blackburn, cashier of the Red Cross office, was elected as Mrs. Ocker's successor.

Vice-Chairman Lawshe announced the Red Cross Membership Drive which will open on May 20. He said it will be conducted much upon the same plan as the Liberty Loan drive. Glendale's quota is $6,000 and it was suggested by some one that a large part of this amount should be contributed by persons who have thus far not spent any money in behalf of war activities. Manager Lawshe read several very interesting reports which are published elsewhere in this issue of the Evening News.

At a very appropriate time in the evening's program Mrs. Braly gave those present a happy surprise by serving delicious refreshments. The Braly home has been headquarters for business meetings of the Glendale Chapter of the American Red Cross ever since its organization and it is always with pleasure that the officers look forward to these business meetings in this hospitable home.
