BURGLAR'S BULLET FAILS TO REACH OFFICER NUNN

Failure of Cartridge to Explode Probably Saves Glendale Man's Life

Failure of a loaded revolver, which was aimed directly at him, to explode, probably saved the life of Officer Louis Nunn, about 3:45 o'clock this morning.

Excitement reigned at the Glendale police station this morning over the capture of two burglars last night in the act of ransacking the Cerritos school.

As a result James Bennett, who gave his address as Tacoma, Washington, and Rorack Vaughn, who said that he was from Plain View, Texas, spent the balance of the night in local cells and were taken about noon to the county jail.

Officer Louis Nunn was patrolling his beat in Southern Glendale last night when he observed the rays of a flashlight darting about the interior of the Cerritos school. After becoming convinced that someone was inside the school house, he hurried to the nearest call box and sent in a call for someone to come and help him surround the place.

Fails to Explode

Upon returning to the school house, Officer Nunn entered the building. Bennett crouched down behind one of the school desks and leveled his revolver at Officer Nunn. He pulled the trigger but it stuck and the gun, which was loaded in every chamber, failed to go off.

Bennett then ran out of the school house and down the street. Meanwhile, Officers B. H. Connors and A. Kerns had arrived on the scene in one of the police department's automobiles.

Hit Over Head

Officer Connors observed Bennett dart out of the school house and ordered him to halt. He failed to do so and started to run down the street. Connors fired five shots but still Bennett did not stop. It was necessary for Connors to overtake Bennett and hit him over the head with his revolver before he would stop and allow a pair of handcuffs to be fitted.

Meanwhile, Rorack Vaughn, who had been behaving himself quietly, had been taken into custody by Officers Nunn and Kerns and placed in the police automobile.

Sergeant Kerns returned to the school house and found that entrance had been gained by jimmying a front window. The lock on the front door had then been broken from the inside so that the burglars might have a ready means of escape.

Seek Past Records

A large chisel, which was confiscated, was being used as a jimmy. Practically every drawer and locker in the school had been broken open.

Two large pillow slips were found in the possession of these two men. It is believed that these were to have been used to carry away the loot.

About seventy-five pennies were found in the pockets of Bennett and it is believed that a slot machine had been robbed earlier in the evening. Two baggage checks were confiscated also and the baggage is being investigated with the expectancy of connecting the two men arrested with other burglaries.

MOTHER AND BOY DROWNED WHEN BOAT UPSETS

Mrs. Ernest Metcalf and Her Son, La Canada Residents, Lose Lives

Inspired by mother love, Mrs. Ernest Metcalf, 30, of La Canada, was drowned at Newport Bay, near Balboa Beach, yesterday when she attempted to save the life of her son, Kenneth, when the boat in which they had been rowing in the bay was caught in a strong tide.

Harry D. Rutan, 55, of 793 North Marengo street, Pasadena, who was an occupant of the boat, was drowned, too. Six other occupants of the boat were rescued.

Mrs. Metcalf, according to witnesses, died while struggling desperately to save the life of her small son. Had she chose to have fought for her own life she probably would have reached safety, they said.

Others in Party

Six other members of the party which journeyed to the beach for a New Year's outing were: Ernest G. Metcalf and David Metcalf, husband and son of the drowned woman; Mrs. Harry Rutan, widow of the drowned man; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walton and their daughter, Dorothy, also of La Canada.

All of the foregoing narrowly escaped death in the treacherous sea. They are reported to be suffering from shock and exhaustion. The point at the edge of the surf where the boat capsized is only six feet deep. Strong currents and high waves are said to have made the rescue work doubly difficult.

The party departed from Balboa in the rowboat shortly after enjoying a dinner at the Rutan seaside cottage. As the small craft headed toward the mouth of Newport Bay, its occupants were in joyous spirits. The tide was out and the current was strong. On and on the frail boat crept toward its doom. Finally, on reaching the edge of the surf, it was swamped without warning.

Many Witness Accident

A large number of people witnessed the tragedy from the shore. The latter shouted for help and attracted the attention of Floyd Gage and Harvey Webster, of Balboa, who went to the aid of the party in speed boats. They succeeded in picking up six of the nine in the party.

The bodies of Mrs. Metcalf, her son, and Mr. Rutan, were recovered immediately after the accident. Physicians working over the bodies were unable to determine the cause of death.

Mr. Rutan was a prominent real estate dealer of Pasadena. Mrs. Metcalf, well known grocer, of La Canada. Both families or the victims are well known throughout this section.

The bodies were removed to Santa Ana. Coroner Brown rendered a verdict of accidental death.

GLENDALE'S FLOAT IS BIRD!

The upper picture shows Glendale's peacock, which was awarded first prize at the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena yesterday. The lower picture shows Randolph Bennett, 127 East Chestnut street, seated in the wagon which was drawn by Glendale's glorious bird. The peacock will be escorted this afternoon to Sid Grauman's Egyptian theatre courtyard in Hollywood. There it will be left on display for several weeks, to be viewed by thousands of persons. The float was designed by L. W. Chobe of this city. The upper picture was taken by Dolberg's Studio and the lower picture by B. D. Jackson.

THIS CITY SCORES ONCE AGAIN IN ROSE TOURNEY

Glendale Wins First Prize With Display: Peacock Is Unique Design

"Twas a mammoth peacock, majestic in its floral plumage, that strutted forth yesterday to greet 1923 in Pasadena's annual Tournament of Roses and win for Glendale the honor of first prize. This is the fifth time in the history of the Tourneyments that Glendale has won prizes and the arrival of the Glendale float in yesterday's parade was keenly anticipated by the 250,000 or more people who lined the streets of the Crown City.

And Glendale did not fail to maintain her past record, for, as the great bird, the clever work of L. W. Chobe of 1201 Sierra avenue, stepped proudly along the line of march, drawn with ropes of smilax by little Randolph Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Bennett of 217 East Chestnut street, Pasadena streets rang with applause.

Beauty Is There

There were other floats more costly and many showing as expert work as Glendale's entry, but there were none that got so entirely away from the inanimate as did the great peacock, which was perfect in proportion, natural in figure and movement and realistic with its floral plumage.

To Mr. Chobe goes first honors for the bird masterpiece. Even the peacock seemed conscious of its beauty as its marigold eyes looked laughingly down upon the throngs of spectators, and it delayed the long floral parade to spread its gorgeous feathers in the bright California sun, its admirers would not have been surprised.

But the big bird was not given an opportunity to stop, for little Randolph Bennett, attired in a cunning suit of peacock blue satin, firmly held the smilax reins in the tiny wagon bearing the trophies of past years.

Float Shown Here

At the close of the Tournament and the awarding of honors, the peacock was brought back to Glendale and stationed at the northeast corner of Broadway and Brand boulevard, where its beauty was admired last night and today by those who did not reach Pasadena yesterday.

URGES REDUCTION IN PAYMENT OF GERMAN DEBT

Indemnity, Moratorium and International Loan With Approval of U. S.

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service
PARIS, Jan. 2.—Reduction of German reparations to 30,000,000,000 in gold marks, (about $7,500,000,000), a four-year indemnity moratorium and an international loan are proposed in the new reparations plans submitted to the allied premiers' conference this afternoon by Premier A. Bonar Law of England.

Reduction of reparations to approximately 30,000,000,000 gold marks was based on condition that Germany obtain an international loan and paid up promptly the obligations imposed upon her.

The British plan is subject to approval by the United States as well as the allies and Germany. This was made necessary by the suggestion that America as well as Great Britain and France accept first series bonds, based upon German reparations payments, in payment of the war debt owed by Belgium.

The British proposed that the present German bonds, issued by the allied reparations commission, be cancelled and replaced by a so called first series of 30 billion francs 5 per cent bonds renewable in 1924 and a second series of 5 per cent returnable in 1925.

New Clue to 'Tiger Girl' Is Uncovered

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—With the finding of a note in a deserted cabin in lonely Beverly Glen which is believed to have been written by her aides and that she may have hidden in the cabin for four days after her escape, deputy sheriffs searching for Clara Phillips, escaped "hammer murderer," declared today they were working on the best "lead" since her daring break from the county jail a month ago.

"The note reads: 'Clara, will meet you here Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. For God's sake be careful. Your friend.'

Whether or not the message was written to Mrs. Phillips or by one of her friends the officers said they did not know.

"That a man bought hot sandwiches and coffee at the nearest barbecue stand to the cabin for several nights after her escape was learned, it is said. Near the cabin entrance Deputy Sheriff Frank Dewar, who has been working on the case, found an old paper bag and tissue paper in which the sandwiches are thought to have been taken to the cabin.

The questioning of the few neighbors who live near the cabin will be the next move by the sheriff's office, was announced, to ascertain whether or not a woman answering the description of Mrs. Phillips was seen at the shack.

GLENDALE'S FLOAT

There was a little peacock; he lived in Glendale. His head was sixteen feet high, but no end to his tail. His legs were round and wobbly, his propeller run by gas. Was never known to lay an egg or sit down on the grass.

The people who looked upon him, strutted far more than he. The children danced about him, full of New Year's glee. As all peacocks are so proud, he started for a show. And landed in Pasadena where beautiful flowers grow.

Among the floats and flowers he marched so proud along. He never raised his tail, or bowed, to the thousands in the throng.

There were bands of music, great and small, that played to show respect. But he could not stop for little things—marched on with head erect.

Of all the birds from far or near, who were trying for a prize. There was none to compare with him, or look one half so wise.

The judges said he was so fine, his prize was dollars fifty. In all their lives, from days of yore, no bird was half so nifty.

He put his money in his purse, and started home to roost. The Glendaleites saw him coming! O, you gave us such a boost.

We welcome you back, old bird, you did us proud we're sure. We knew Glendale would take the lead, she will for evermore!

353 W. Broadway, Glendale.

She says she is going to wait until after the January sales in the Glendale stores is over for she's sure to be some awful good bargains offered and when she gets ready to buy a car she don't want nothing else on her mind. It's no use for me to try to hurry her. When that woman makes up her mind heaven and earth can't change it.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

West Is Triumphant Encouraging Optimism Bosses Must Be Beaten Speed And More Of It

By Gil A. Cowan

FOR once the West has triumphed over the East in a football game. That will make the University of California feel famous for a year to come. However, as a contest Penn state proved a poor opponent, according to critics, and in another year, perhaps, there will be something better seen on New Year's Day at Pasadena.

There was one victory won which should prove memorable. That was Old Sol conquering the clouds and making the New Year event the brightest in history. Also, Glendale scored first prize again in the matter of civic floats, the strutting floral peacock being the work of the master designer, L. W. Chobe, and to him the credit is due for this city's consistent victories.

It has been encouraging to read the papers the last few days with all of the optimistic predictions for the New Year from the business leaders of America. There is no question but what 1923 will be equally as prosperous, if not more so, than the year preceding. Such is not a prediction, but a fact established by the projects already under way.

If you are a wise merchant or builder or business man or producer of commodities you will prepare to meet a normal increase during the twelve months now started. Be not afraid of the future for it holds forth success for those who will build on solid foundation or produce at a profit—and what else can be asked? In another week the legislature of this state will get busy on a program of economy and efficiency and—there are going to be results.

Of course, it will take time for the new governor to act, for many appointments are being made at the last moment by the passing administration. Indeed, it would seem that William Stephens has aspirations, but he will be ably cared for by the voters and so will those who appointing and trying to block early accomplishments on the part of Friend Richardson.

The second largest accomplishment for this coming legislature to attain is the re-appointment of the state in order that the more populous south will have its legal right to representation, not alone in the California senate and house, but in the national congress.

New motor vehicle regulations, appropriations for state education and a score more important bills of legislation must be attended to, yet the paramount issue remains that of returning the government to the people and kicking out the "bosses" who have held the power of forty senators!

With speed boats traveling seventy-five miles an hour, airplanes now doing 250 miles per hour, and automobiles—limited only by the ability of machinery to hold together—it seems that this world has reached the nth power in the matter of speed. Actually, one can look forward to the day not far distant when commuters will be shuttled in and out of the city in pneumatic tubes traveling two or three hundred miles an hour. In another decade the business man will think nothing of flying between New York and Los Angeles in a day.

C. OF C. LAYING PLANS FOR 1923 CAMPAIGN

Executive Committee Meets Tonight to Discuss Advertising City

One of the civic organizations of Eagle Rock that expects to accomplish results worth while the coming year is the reorganized Chamber of Commerce. The idea of first forming such an organization occurred to a few public spirited citizens of the city about ten years ago. The organization was perfected, and the good things accomplished, but the growth was not as rapid as was anticipated.

Some time ago the subject of reorganization was brought up, new officers were elected and the Chamber of Commerce began to function in reality. The members feel that many good things have been done during the past year and have formulated plans for "carrying on" during 1923. The membership is growing and the outlook, says the president, is very bright for the coming year.

Plan Small Booklet
In an effort to put forth the advantages of the city as a place to make a home, a committee was appointed at a recent meeting of the board to draft a tentative prospectus for a small booklet, setting forth the strong points. The members of this committee are now engaged in collaborating and making ready for publication this little booklet.

The officers of the Chamber of Commerce are: O. J. Root, president; Dr. H. B. Crawford, H. G. Warren and A. L. McCamman, vice presidents; George Van Sands, secretary; Fred B. Biles, treasurer; Dr. J. C. Sheehy, H. H. Maxson and C. W. Jones, executive committee.

The executive committee will meet tonight in special session and take up the subject of the booklet and other matters requiring consideration.

CHURCH PRESENTS NEW YEAR'S EVE ENTERTAINMENT

Musical Program Given by Methodist Congregation Well Attended

An unusually large and elaborate program was presented to a large audience at the Methodist church in Eagle Rock last Sunday evening by the members of the church, assisted by the Metropolitan club of Los Angeles. Some of the especially fine features were a rendition of songs and American musical numbers by a Japanese string band; an oration by an Indian student; the songs of a Chinese tenor and other interesting numbers by members of the Metropolitan club.

After light refreshments at 10 o'clock and a general social time the congregation made ready to watch the old year out and the new in. It was well along on New Year's morning when the happy crowd started homeward.

Large Crew Worked Over Floral Float

Mrs. F. M. Runge and her corps of assistants put the finishing touches to the Eagle Rock float last Sunday evening, having worked faithfully and energetically for the last three or four days of last week, all day Sunday and late the same night. The float was built at the Caddell garage and an air of mystery surrounded those engaged in its creation up to Sunday morning, when those who gathered to help in its construction and others passing by, saw that it was to represent a mammoth rose. Several thousand pink and red roses were required in its construction. The whole was mounted on a square base of acacia foliage. Much ingenuity was required in fashioning the blossom, stem and leaves and many favorable comments were made on the design and the designer. The float was taken to Pasadena early New Year's morning.

WHAT DID HE BRING?

RATS BLAMED AS PARALYSIS CAUSE

Fleas Also Called Carriers of Malady; Nation Is Told Of Epidemic

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 1.—The conviction that infantile paralysis is spread by rats and fleas, just as the bubonic plague is spread, was expressed by Prof. Charles T. Brues of Harvard University in an address before the Medical Science section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He indicated that there may be another serious outbreak in the United States soon, possibly during 1923.

The animal reservoir to which the finger of suspicion points is the rat, and the insect intermediary, the flea; exactly the combination which we know to be responsible for the perpetuation of the bubonic plague," said Professor Brues. The epidemic prevalence of paralysis, he said, had been strangely intermittent, "with a tendency to exacerbation every second or, more notably, every seventh year. Practically all epidemics of the disease, said Dr. Brues, occur during the summer.

Eagle Rock Locals POSSIBLY YOU

The "Masque of Christmas," put on by the children of Eagle Rock and the community players last Friday and Saturday evenings, under the direction of Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer, proved to be everything that was expected. A very large crowd of Eagle Rock parents was present at both performances. The receipts for the two evenings' entertainments were very satisfactory.

Practically every business house in Eagle Rock closed its doors New Year's day, the proprietors and assistants joining the big throng that witnessed the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena.

A number of articles left at the Gift Shop by friends and members of the P. T. A. when it closed were left at the office of the Eagle Rock Daily News and can be had by the owners any time between the hours of 7.30 a. m. and 6 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills B. Clapp are returning today to their home at Oak Glen near Redlands after two weeks' visit here and in Glendale with relatives. Mrs. Clapp is a sister of Mrs. P. W. Blumer.

Rev. E. Morgan Isaac delivered an especially strong sermon to a large congregation in the Congregational church at Eagle Rock Sunday evening, December 31. His subject was "Is the American Home in Danger?" Mr. Isaac's address was prepared especially for parents and for young men and women. Children under the age of 15 were not allowed to attend the service, as the message was for those of more mature years.

Ray Rees and wife drove to Santa Barbara Sunday, returning New Year's day. They went up the inland route and returned by another. They report a very pleasant two days' trip.

G. G. Welty is a recent arrival from Illinois. He has purchased a home in Eagle Rock for his son, Murray, and has planned to remain with him and his wife until March when he will return to his home in Illinois.

Murray J. Welty and wife of Los Angeles have purchased the Lewis J. Ohlman residence at 340 Linden Way, and will take possession at once. The deal was closed by Hunt & Jones, realtors.

Huge Sum Handled By State Treasurer

This is an increase of 142 per cent in the business of the treasurer's office in six years. Expenditures for the biennium, as represented by the claims passing through the office, totaled $146,170,511.87, an increase of $36,546,665.37 over the previous two years.

Bonded indebtedness of the state on June 30 amounted to $75,960,500. Richardson recommends in his report immediate redemption of funded debt bonds of 1873 for $1,526,500, held by the state for the benefit of the school fund, and $751,000 for the benefit of the University of California. He intimates that during his administration he will ask for the adoption of an amended state deposit act to permit the deposit of state money in private banks.

C. S. Prout, Evangelist, Says Edifice Will Cost $12,000

C. S. Prout, who has conducted a series of evangelistic services in Eagle Rock during the summer, announces that the members of the church are soon to build a home of their own. The edifice will be located on the corner of Central and Myrtle avenue, and will cost in the neighborhood of $12,000. The seating capacity of the new church will care for more than 500 people. At the present time, Mr. Prout says, there are more than 100 members in the city.

Services are held Saturday of each week at the Masonic Temple on South Central avenue. Prayer meetings are held each Tuesday.

Dr. Keplinger Will Appeal City's Case

Dr. Keplinger has notified City Attorney McNitt of Eagle Rock that he has taken appeal to a higher court. This is a case wherein the city has charged that Dr. Keplinger has conducted a sanitarium on East Adams avenue contrary to the city ordinances. The case was to have been called in Judge Harold Ide Cruzan's court. It was formerly tried in superior court before Judge B. C. Weil, the position of the city being sustained at that time.

Eagle Rock Trustees Hold Meet Tonight

The board of trustees of the City of Eagle Rock will hold its usual weekly meeting in the city hall this evening, having passed over the regular meeting night Monday, because of its being New Year's.

Numerous things of interest to the citizens are expected to come before the city fathers this evening, among them being the matter of annexation. The trustees have given no intimation as to whether or not they will act on this question, but the general supposition seems to be that such will be the case.

FRENCH PHONE IS POOR AND COSTLY

Parisian 'Allo' Girls Too Busy Powdering Noses To Answer Calls

By ALICE LANGELIER
For International News Service
PARIS, Jan. 2.—Wrong numbers, long minutes of waiting for "Central" to answer, "cut-offs" and bad connections—in a word, very bad telephone service in general—are causing Parisians to turn their wrath against the "Allo" girls.

"France has undoubtedly the poorest telephone service in all of Europe," says l'Oeuvre. "The slowness of our long-distance communications is proverbial. In all of France there are about 375,000 telephone stations, less than one-half the number one finds in the city of New York alone—a figure almost derisive for a country so important commercially."

Americans arriving in Paris have few words of praise for the French telephonists. For the most part they are insolent and extremely slow. They seem to be busy powdering their little noses or rouging their lips, for very often one waits all of five minutes for "Jecoute," which is the French girl's way of saying "Number, please?"

To receive two wrong numbers is an ordinary circumstance, and as many cut-offs, which are even more annoying; for no matter how one pleads the telephonist will not re-establish the broken-off connection. She simply closes her key and leaves one end hanging on the line. In the end it is really much quicker to walk, and most Parisians do it.

While Germany is busy laying a line of long distance underground cables, which will have a strategic commercial importance, France realizes that she has not a single cable of great distance. Outside of public telephone stations in small hamlets, the telephone is almost unknown in the outlying country districts. The mayor and public officials are often the only ones who have ever made use of a telephone in small towns. The cost is prohibitive for all but the comfortably rich.

Costly to Install
To install a telephone costs nearly $100 in round figures, aside from the apparatus, which adds another $25 or more to the amount. One may have an old apparatus, which would serve as well and cost much less, but one is obliged to purchase a new and usually expensive outfit from one of the numerous companies which are working together with the telephone concern. If he shows any signs of not wishing to cooperate he is politely told that there is no available free number for the moment, or he is kept waiting an eternity.

Then, once installed, the telephone is a luxury, for the subscription price is not a small item—a matter of $7 a year and long distance calls at a high rate.

"Our telephone service has need of many reforms," continued Mr. l'Oeuvre. "Besides a competent and efficient management, we must procure new and modern machinery and, above all, telephonists who are attentive and capable."

One smart mediocrity in the Rue Duphot has found a method of bettering her telephone service. "Every season I present 'her' with a fine new hat," she says, "and thus I have peace and my telephone communications." Oh, corruption!

HARD WINTER COMING
An Indianapolis young man asked a girl to marry him, one beautiful night last summer, when everything seemed bright for him. The first cool day this month the young man wrote the following note to his betrothed:

"Dear: Postpone wedding until next summer. Winter is coming, no coal, no new clothes, no raise in salary and lots of bills coming in."

MARY PICKFORD BACK IN RAGS THAT LED TO RICHES

Mary Pickford as the Tess of tattered raiment in the memorable "Tess of the Storm Country" is back again. America's Sweetheart has re-enacted the role which made her famous eight years ago and presents the world's theatre-goers with a most elaborate revival of a photoplay which bids fair never to die. Once more this most popular of all screen stars wears the rags which led to such great riches for her, and it is a foregone conclusion her enterprise in restoring her most cherished characterization to the silver-sheet constitutes a veritable gift to present-day devotees to the cinema and to posterity as well.

When Miss Pickford first essayed this role before the motion picture camera nearly a decade ago, she was recognized as a star in her own right, but no one could possibly foresee the heights to which she would rise as the result of a single dramatic effort. Within a few weeks after this initial version of Grace Miller White's

Ford Gets Forest For Auto Bodies

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The recent announcement by E. G. Kingsford, one of the principals in the great Ford motor industry, that Henry Ford had bought a 400,000-acre forest in Michigan so that the increasing shortage of timber will not interfere with the production of wood bodies for his automobiles, was declared today by William Schlake, head of the largest brick company in the world, to be a striking commentary on the national waste of forest products.

"Mr. Ford does not desire to have his business in any way dependent upon a disappearing supply of raw wood," read the announcement from Detroit, and it is announcements like this that will eventually rouse the American public to the inevitable disaster of ruthlessly destroying our timber supply," commented Schlake.

"Using less wood for building purposes would leave an ample supply for industries in which wood is indispensable. Many millions of feet of lumber are still used annually for wood houses and other structures, and statistics show that such buildings are replaced at intervals of about 30 to 40 years. Making the outside walls of stone, brick or other masonry not only conserves the nation's wood supply but also trebles and quadruples the life of every piece of wood inside the building."

Use Electric Engine On Freight Service

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—As a forerunner of future electrification of the heavily graded main line of the Pennsylvania railroad over the Alleghenies, one of the largest electric locomotives for freight service in the world is being tested out by the road on the stiff grades between Philadelphia and Pottsville, Pa.

The locomotive was built in the company's own shops to the design of their engineers and develops a tractive effort of 87,200 pounds, which makes it necessary to use it only as a "pusher." If it pulled a train it would jerk the drawbar couplings out of the cars with its tremendous strength.

An idea of its power can be gained from the fact that it frequently takes the place of two steam pusher engines. Its trains have not been without their humorous features, due to the immense tractive effort. Recently, while pushing a freight train near Narberth, Pa., the steam locomotive at the head of the train stopped for a danger signal. The big electric engine, however, did not receive the "stop" indication in time, with the result that three freight cars were crushed like aceditions before its brakes took hold. On other occasions it has squeezed cars out of trains on sharp curves when the steam engine at the front of the train was not pulling hard enough.

The locomotive operates on a single phase current of 11,000 volts, 25 cycles, through an overhead trolley. It has four motors, developing a total of 4800 horse power. There are six driving axles, with 2-inch wheels, and two speeds at which it operates—10 and 20 miles an hour. The huge gear mounted above the running gear is 72½ feet long and 10 feet wide.

University Starts Building Campaign

SAN JOSE, Jan. 2.—A building campaign has been started at Santa Clara University here, the first number on the program being the erection of a science hall to cost $148,000. Rev. Z. J. Maher, president of the university, has announced that the contract for the new building has already been awarded to the J. S. Sampson Company of San Fernando and work will begin immediately.

The building, which will be known as Alumni Science Hall, will house laboratories and lecture rooms for the chemistry and physics department, and a drafting room for the college of engineering. With concrete construction the science hall will be arranged so as to be up-to-date in every respect. It is hoped that it will be ready for use by the opening of the fall semester in 1923.

Upon the completion of the new science hall the old science building, erected in 1861 and one of the landmarks of the campus, will be wrecked.

VOLCANOES MEAN MUCH TO PEOPLE

All Human Beings Under Their Power, According To New Information

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—How much volcanoes mean in the lives of all human beings, even if they never have been within sight or sound of an eruption, is told graphically in a new volume just issued by the National Geographic society.

A wealth of new information in this little developed field of science is contained in this first complete summary of the findings of six expeditions sent to the region of Mt. Katmai and the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes in Alaska and of the results of several years' careful compilation of observations made by the expeditions.

The book, "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," is written by Dr. Robert F. Griggs, and has a foreword by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society which sent out the expeditions. Within recent years the fascination and romance of science have begun to capture the popular imagination and this book adds a chapter to the wonder story of modern exploration and scientific study with many new facts about phenomena which hitherto have largely eluded careful observation.

River That Flowed on Ridge
Not only does the book reveal the tremendous upheaval by which Katmai blew from its top forty times the amount of earth and rock dug up to build the Panama canal, leaving a hole big enough to contain all the buildings in fifteen cities of New York's size, but it also deals with the world encircling climatic effects of volcanic eruption and with that vast, fermenting Inferno, from which it takes its title. In addition, it describes the Alice-in-Wonderland phenomena in the wake of the eruption—such phenomena as a temporary giant river that cruised long on top of a ridge of streams that shifted their courses, ash showers that formed great thermal blankets to preserve "permanent" snowdrifts, and a flood which had one million times the destructive power of the Johnstown dam-burst.

Thrills of personal adventure, told in matter-of-fact fashion by the explorer-author, relate how members of the party walked over acres where a misstep would have plunged them to a parboiled death in seething cauldrons of the Valley, with the ever-present fear that a chance gust might snuff out their lives with some gas that was more poisonous, if less odorous, than those among which they advanced.

Set Aside by President
Yet this region, now that it has been studied, would seem safer than Broadway or Michigan avenue, since not a life was lost during the explorations, and reports and pictures brought back from an early trip were so impressive that the President of the United States immediately set it aside as a National Monument, some day to become a park for the American people comparable only to Yellowstone in its natural beauty, and like nothing else on earth in its amazing wonders.

The writer, after apologizing for his necessary use of superlatives, admits the fear that he, like Jim Bridger, hero of the Yellowstone's marvels, might be set down a Munchausen until future generations should vindicate him, as they did Jim Bridger, he says:

"Many times also I have been thankful for the tools which modern invention had placed in our hands. With kodaks and half-tones and motion pictures to record our discoveries, our advantage over the old-time explorer, who could supplement his accounts with nothing better than sketches, was enormous."

The 262 halftones and color plates in the book tell the scenic story of this new American wonder of the world better than verbal description.

Chemist Counts "Smokes"
The text of the book offers a valuable contribution to the scientist's store of information about volcanism, mountain slides, floods, and kindred phenomena, and is no less accurate for being written so that the lay reader will be fascinated by its word pictures. An amusing instance of this careful checking of all facts is related by Dr. Griggs, who tells how a skeptical chemist, after learning of the proposed name, the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, set out methodically to count the columns of hissing steam over the panoramic cauldron, for fear the name was an exaggeration. He returned to camp to soberly report that the name had been an error—it ought to have been called the Valley of a Million Smokes.

Singer's Voice Is Carried 1500 Miles
LANSDALE, Pa., Jan. 2.—Sitting comfortably in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Franklin of Lansdale, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Schellenberger and daughter, Miss Ethel Schellenberger, heard the voice of their son and brother transmitted through the air from a distance of 1500 miles.

When Mr. Schellenberger, Sr. who is assistant cashier at the First National bank here, received a letter from his son, stating that his solo would be broadcasted from Denver, the father made arrangements to "listen in." The singer's voice was heard as though it came from an adjoining room.

Expose of Narcotic Ring Now Awaited

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—Evidence of a concrete nature in connection with the "higher ups" in the narcotic rings of Hollywood and Los Angeles is in the hands of United States District Attorney Joe Burke, it was learned today.

Mr. Burke admitted that he is carefully preparing cases against "the men we really want," and believed that he will soon have enough evidence to place under arrest certain men in Hollywood and Los Angeles whose prominence will startle the country.

Mr. Burke has been in conference with Ed Roberts, author of the "Sins of Hollywood," a volume of spicy stories of the movie colony, who is under indictment for alleged misuse of the mails in distributing the book.

It is understood that Roberts, formerly a confidential agent for the big movie producers, has placed before Mr. Burke many "inside tips" concerning the manner in which dope is purveyed in the film colony, and has given names in connection with his information.

At the same time, further sensations were predicted for Roberts' trial, when Rev. Gustav Briebleg, leader of the "blue law" campaign in Los Angeles, announced that Roberts had last summer given him the actual names of the film stars around whom he wove thinly veiled "fiction" tales of both the gay and sordid sides of movieland.

That both Dr. Briebleg and the stars in question may be called as witnesses in Roberts' trial was considered highly probable. The trial is set for the latter part of January, and it is known that Roberts is planning to make a thorough expose of the film colony in order to attempt to prove that his stories were not exaggerated and were not fiction yarns written with immortal intent.

It was reported today that Mr. Burke, in his investigation has discovered that a number of mansions in the wealthy districts of Los Angeles and Hollywood, where "retired business men" were supposed to live and entertain many friends, are in reality the headquarters of dope peddlers and that the many limousines and fine cars that rolled up for short visits each day contained unfortunate victims of "dope."

"We hope to land at least a half dozen heads of these rings in jail in the next few weeks," Mr. Burke declared today. "It takes time and positive evidence to get the men we really want, and be sure of sending them to the federal penitentiary where they belong."

SPANIARDS AND MAHOGANY
From the day of the earliest settlements in America the Spaniards used mahogany. They utilized it for building ships as early as 1521, and until 1540, when the first allusion to that kind of wood is made by Cortez in connection with further voyages of discovery after the conquest of Mexico.

THE TWO SISTERS

Once upon a time there were two sisters.

Of course there ought to have been three to match up with that "once upon a time," for somehow in fairy tales everything seemed to come by threes—the bears, three little pigs, and always three princes or princesses.

But this isn't a fairy tale. It's true. And, as a matter of fact, there were only two sisters.

Furthermore, the two sisters are still living and I don't know why I used that "once upon a time" at all except that it seemed like a good jumping off place.

Now of course there's nothing remarkable about two sisters. Lots of families have them. But the noteworthy thing about these two sisters was their total difference in character.

She Went After It

One of the sisters was very selfish. She knew what she wanted and she always went for it hard. Her face looked it. It was stamped all over with selfishness and ruthlessness.

The other sister should, of course, have been unselfish to make the picture you are expecting. But she wasn't. She was selfish in another way. Selfish, but not ruthless. She wanted things, she wanted people to do things for her, she wanted pleasures but she wasn't so ruthless about getting them. She wouldn't fight for what she wanted. She would watch other people get it and then she would feel bitter. She would tell herself that she was unselfish and that the rest of the world, especially her sister, was very selfish, and self-pity would begin to work in her. Out of this self-pity and self-abnegation and bitterness there has finally grown a kind of malignancy that marks her face and makes it even less attractive than her sister's selfishness has made hers.

Many people who know them both prefer the one who is openly and ruthlessly selfish.

And the other one cannot understand it.

Not because they are unselfish. People like her never can understand why they are not loved. They know they are not getting what they want out of life, and they think that failure is because they are unselfish when, as a matter of fact, it may be simply because they are not forceful.

Besides, even if one is really unselfish, one cannot win love by it if one is at the same time self-pitying and morose. Now can one be popular. People are drawn to a person who is a good smiler even if he is selfish in his private relations. What difference

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Martha T. L.—A simple treatment for a dry skin is to massage into the pores a cleansing cream or a vegetable oil, such as olive or almond, then follow this up with the usual face bath, using warm water. This method of feeding the skin will keep it from being depleted through the use of strong soaps and water. Always finish with dashes of very cold water to close the pores and harden the skin. It will be left clear and invigorated without feeling drawn as is so often the case after using soap and water for a complexion inclined to drying.

John Henry—Pimples and blackheads are usually the results of a clogged system. One way to rid yourself of these blemishes is to take a hot bath every night followed by a cold shower the first thing in the morning. Always rub the body into a glow with a coarse towel. The skin is then in a condition to do much toward eliminating the trouble. Drink plenty of water and simplify the diet for a time.

Mrs. Catharine S. W.—The eyelash tonic cannot be printed at this writing. I shall be glad to mail you the formula on receipt of a s. a. e.

Eleanor May F.—Vanishing cream may be used on the nails with much satisfaction, since it does not dry the nails. A suggestion is to use this cream at the time during the day when you are hurried; however the regular feeding of the nails, after bathing or at night, should be with nourishing and oily cream.

Mary T. K.—Never use any perfume unless it is very fine and with a most delicate odor. If you cannot afford perfume substitute the best quality of sachet powders. These may be sprinkled be-

AUTHOR IN FAVOR OF CAVE MAN TALK

Universal Tongue Unfeasible, Says Joseph Conrad, Writer of Sea

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Modern man hasn't enough respect for his cave man ancestors.

This is the belief of Joseph Conrad, whose books of the sea and life in the raw are accepted as among the best in modern literature.

Conversation with regard to the feasibility of a universal language led up to Conrad's observations on our primitive ancestors. He had been discussing the manner in which he learned English and the methods which he followed in bringing himself to cast aside his native Polish tongue to become a writer of most beautiful English. It was suggested to the author that perhaps a universal language might aid in bringing about a community of nations.

"I do not think that will ever be possible," said Conrad. "I am certainly inclined to be afraid of any such experiment. There are so many shades of meaning in every language. Besides, I do not think that language is the big barrier between nations. And language must possess an individual genius."

Cave Men Right

"Those old cave men ancestors were quite right. They simply used language to express themselves, whether the people in the next cave could understand or not. I am often quite shocked at the disrespect we show our primitive ancestors. They may have possessed genius equal to ours, though perhaps they did generally use it in a different manner from force of circumstances. No, a universal language does not sound possible. Every people should be proud of its own language."

Although his books are many, Conrad, at the age of 65, has just completed his first play, and it has been produced in London.

Unlike most authors, Conrad failed to attend the first performance of his first play. Mrs. Conrad did the family honors, while Conrad sat in the smoking room of his hotel and poured out clouds of smoke. He awaited the verdict of the critics on "The Secret Agent." The verdict was kindly, but not too fulsome; some of the critics admitted that they felt Conrad's efforts would be better if directed to literature rather than the drama.

Doesn't Like Theatre

Conrad himself admits that he doesn't like the theatre, and he is not enthusiastic about the work of a playwright. In fact, he hints that it is his belief that "The Secret Agent" was spoiled when he made it into a play from a book, at least he says that it meant "cutting all the flesh off the book." "Play-writing," he says, "is an exercise in ingenuity."

The author showed little interest in the rehearsals of his play, although he did go occasionally to the theatre, the first time in many years. "I am a prose writer," he would say, with a wave of his hand, when the producers suggested that he interest himself in changes in the drama. His interest was aroused, however, when he saw the dress rehearsal. But it was not the lines of the play that aroused him, nor the acting. It was an old type of sailor cap worn by one of the actors. "I must have that hat," I haven't seen one for years, not since I myself wore one at sea," Conrad said. He has the hat and doesn't seem to care whether the play thrives without it or not.

Marriage Preventer Seeks Retirement

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A man who claims responsibility for preventing 50,000 marriages and promoting 547,853 asked to be retired from the city's service because of his 70 years. He is Edward Hart, chief of the Manhattan marriage license bureau.

Hart said that as a youth he worked for the fire department as a night watchman and learned, through observation of the flirtations of the firemen, how to tell when a courtship was advanced to the point of matrimony.

While he co-operated with the parents of many hasty youngsters and balked at elopements he thought were foolish, he was ever a champion of true love and boasts of having started many a "happy-ever-after."

Crime Wave Cause Of Law Campaign

SYDNEY, Jan. 2.—So accustomed is Australia to having a law-abiding citizenry that a total of 654 persons charged with crime in six months in a city of 800,000—Sydney—is considered a crime wave, and the premier of the state has called a conference to deal with the problem.

It will be proposed that no crime shall be punishable by a jail sentence of less than six months. Although all but 184 of the 654 persons arraigned were convicted or pleaded guilty, it is felt that the judiciary has shown undue leniency in dealing with criminal cases.

ABSENT TREATMENT

My Dear Followers:—I have a new plan to help you. I am going to open a new department. I am inspired to do so by the following letter:

"My Dear Doctor:—These low calorie days are very hard for me as I set a good table. The only way I can keep up is by writing to you. I know you are too busy to answer me personally and I don't expect it, but write I must. It soothes my appetite like a couple of pork chops. I hate myself for my 40 pounds excess weight. Will power? I've none at all. If a slice of the meatest pie or poorest cake were put in front of me this minute I would have to start praying or write to you. So I have decided to write to you and I am going to do so regularly.—Mrs. U. S."

Now if writing regularly to me helps Mrs. S., perhaps it will help you and I'll tell you what we'll do. I love to get the letters telling me how you are getting along and when I read them I shall concentrate on you and send you my strongest, most positive and most hopeful thoughts that you are going to succeed.

I wish it were physically possible for me to send a personal reply by letter to you all. But as it is not, the absent treatment will help you as much—if you believe it will!

Crime Wave Cause Of Law Campaign

SYDNEY, Jan. 2.—So accustomed is Australia to having a law-abiding citizenry that a total of 654 persons charged with crime in six months in a city of 800,000—Sydney—is considered a crime wave, and the premier of the state has called a conference to deal with the problem.

It will be proposed that no crime shall be punishable by a jail sentence of less than six months. Although all but 184 of the 654 persons arraigned were convicted or pleaded guilty, it is felt that the judiciary has shown undue leniency in dealing with criminal cases.

ABSENT TREATMENT

My Dear Followers:—I have a new plan to help you. I am going to open a new department. I am inspired to do so by the following letter:

"My Dear Doctor:—These low calorie days are very hard for me as I set a good table. The only way I can keep up is by writing to you. I know you are too busy to answer me personally and I don't expect it, but write I must. It soothes my appetite like a couple of pork chops. I hate myself for my 40 pounds excess weight. Will power? I've none at all. If a slice of the meatest pie or poorest cake were put in front of me this minute I would have to start praying or write to you. So I have decided to write to you and I am going to do so regularly.—Mrs. U. S."

Now if writing regularly to me helps Mrs. S., perhaps it will help you and I'll tell you what we'll do. THE SINS OF SCIATICA ARE JUST AS GREAT

(Weekly Health Talk No. 12)
(By Drs. Eble & Eble, D.S.C.)

The sins of sciatica are just as great whether you call it rheumatism or neuralgia. The average sufferer calls it rheumatism, but the proper description undoubtedly is "a neuritis or neuralgia of the sciatic nerve." In neuralgia or neuritis, if the pain and inflammation is prolonged there is destruction of nerve cells and consequent paralysis. In this respect it is more dangerous than if it were rheumatism.

In sciatica there is inflammation of the nerve sheath. Excessive heat causes swelling and filling with serum of the blood vessels of the nerve cells, making them soft. If this inflammation is prolonged the serum dries up and there is degeneration of the nerve cells. Strength and control over the tissue areas following the course of the sciatic nerve down the back of the leg is gone, and the victim becomes permanently injured. For this reason chiropractic spinal adjustments are necessary immediately. They get at and remove the cause, the inflammation is reduced, and no destruction of cell tissues takes place.

SCIATICA RHEUMATISM YIELDS TO CHIROPRACTIC

"I feel that I have given chiropractic a thorough test. My little girl was cured of a severe case of pneumonia, and I have been cured of sciatica rheumatism. I have had no return of the disease, and my daughter is as sound and sturdy as she can be.—H. C. MONEY, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Sworn State-ment No. 139154, John B. Atkinson, Notary Public.

THE COUNCIL TABLE QUESTION: Can you tell why cooking makes starchy foods easier to digest?

ANSWER: Starch is made more digestible by cooking because the cells of which it is composed are burst open by the heat, and the molecules are more directly subject to the action of digestive fluids.

QUESTION: Do you consider broiling better than frying as a means of cooking steaks and chops?

ANSWER: Broiling is the best method of cooking small cuts of meat, such as steaks and chops, because they are exposed to the direct, intense heat of coal or hot plates of the gas stove, and the process is completed in a short time. The high temperature coagulates the albumen of the surface immediately, and the juices that are produced during the cooking of the inner portions cannot easily escape. These juices are highly flavored and contain the mineral constituents. A properly cooked steak or chop presents a "puffed" appearance due to the expanding action of the steam that cannot

CONFIDENCE

Big Factor

WHY is Confidence a more important factor in plumbing work than in almost any other purchase or contract?

In a majority of selections made in the building or furnishing of a home you know what is wanted, how to select it, where it should go, what its quality and value are.

But when it comes to plumbing, remember that one-half of it is out of sight; hidden behind walls, under floors, where it cannot be seen.

That is where CONFIDENCE comes in. If the plumber is RIGHT the job will be RIGHT. It will contain the right kind of workmanship and materials.

Therefore, select the RIGHT plumber. There is one SURE way of doing this. Pick out a member of the Sanitary Development League which is composed of 200 leading plumbing concerns in Southern California.

These plumbers stand pledged to uphold the lofty ideals and business standards of the industry. They are successful, high class business men who have established reputations. They stand behind their work. CONFIDENCE can be placed in them.

JACK BERNSTEIN

YOUNG YONKERS LIGHTWEIGHT WHO HAS BEEN FIGHTING IN GREAT FORM LATELY

AS A WICKED PUNCH IN EITHER HAND

SOCKED FLORES, THE CRACK PULPINO LIGHTWEIGHT, ALL OVER THE RING IN THEIR LAST MEETING AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

JACK CAN TAKE IT AND COMEBACK FOR MORE

Leonard has proved in the past year that he stands supreme among the present-day lightweights who are at the top of their ring careers. Tendler, White, Mitchell, and one or two others who have met defeat at the hands of the champion, can give him a mighty close call, but we doubt whether Benny will ever be uncrowned by any one of them. For the champion of this division is still young enough to keep pace and retain his youth with them.

Yet the lightweight crown is the only one that is in line for a change. And it will be a youngster who will turn the trick, to our way of thinking. There are a number of mighty fine prospects coming up fast. One of the best among these is Jack Bernstein of Yonkers.

This boy has been fighting in great form lately. By K. O'ing Jimmy Carroll he administered the first defeat of that youngster's career. Then, in turn, he scored victories over Tony Caponi, Jimmy Coone and Joe Mandel, and he made Babe Herman look like a third rater. Jack's fighting against Flores, the crack Filipino lightweight, was one of the fastest bouts we have seen at the Garden this year. Bernstein socked Flores all over the ring. Pal Moore of New Orleans is another victim who lost a decision to the Yonkers thumper. And Kid Wagner, the tough Quaker City boy, lost a hard fought battle to the Yonkers youth at Madison Square Garden just last month.

Bernstein is not an overly clever boxer but he carries a punch in either hand and has a jaw of steel.

Jack can give and take—and the prize that can't take it and come back for more will never gain the heights in pugilism. He is a two-fisted fighter who goes after his opponent every second of every round. After all, that's what the fans like, so around the east Bernstein is a very popular mauler. When he is on the bill the fans get his money's worth of action.

Of 75 ring battles Jack has won 45 by knockouts, and there are but two defeats chalked up against him. Benny Valger and Archie Kalker have both won decisions over him. But in a return bout Bernstein thumped Walker plenty.

Bernstein's real name is John Dodick. In turn he has taken the names "Battling Kiggy," "Kid Murphy" and, finally, "Jack Bernstein" because he wished to honor

Joe Bernstein, the old fighter whom he greatly admired.

This lightweight comer is 23 years old. He is 5 ft. 4 1/2 ins. tall and weighs around 130 in fighting trim. Has an ideal build for a fighter—slim waist, narrow hips, slender legs, broad, thick chest with most of his weight above the waist. With well muscled back and stout arms, whose reach is consistent with his height. Jack has all the earmarks of a hard hitter, and is sturdy enough to take a lot of punishment.

Bernstein is a native New Yorker. He was born next door to Benny Leonard, the present lightweight king, and the two ran in the same gang as kids. "Knockout" Brown tutored Leonard as a kid and Jack, fired by his friend's success, took up the ring game himself.

SPORTS CHATTER

No great race, horse is more fussed over and groomed than is a bit of ground at Coronado, Calif. Members of the Coronado country club pride themselves on their polo field, which they claim is the finest in the country. If infinite pains and care count for anything, it ought to be—for it is literally hand picked.

For weeks past a squad of men have been working on this beautiful bit of turf preparing it for the annual polo season. Every inch of ground is groomed over so that the entire field is as perfect as the bit of green about a hole on a golf course.

Much money has been spent in years past for experimentation in the endeavor to find the most perfect blend of grasses containing durability, beauty and the property of quick replacement. As a result, Coronado has a formula for the mixing in certain quantities of certain seeds, the product of which is a grass best suited both from the standpoint of the soil and climate of that locality.

The same scientific measures have been adopted in the matter of producing a grass best suited for the soil of the Coronado golf course.

Few persons figured that Gonzaga would make the showing it did recently against the team of West Virginia which won the post season game by a score of 21 to 13. Gonzaga's showing last fall was not particularly imposing and adherents of the Easterners are prone to suggest that it is another instance of the deleterious effects of a long transcontinental ride and a change into a semi-tropical climate.

Jess Willard is a sticker, if nothing else. He still is going about trying to convince folks that he is capable of taking on Jack Dempsey again. He showed recently in Portland, Oregon, and he seems to have impressed at least one writer in that neck of the woods, that he can do a comeback. Incidentally, those who figure that Willard stands a chance of making good are few and far between, so it's a cinch that there will be at least one clipping that will go into the former champion's scrap book. On this basis, however, the scrap book probably is not filling up very fast. On the other hand, if Jess is filling away clippings that do not flatter his chances, it is likely that he has rather an imposing volume.

Scott High School Beats Corvallis, 32-0

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 2.—Scott high school's brilliant football team is speeding home to Toledo, Ohio, after decisively beating Corvallis High school, 32 to 0, at Corvallis, Ore., yesterday. A superior offense ripped big holes in the Corvallis line and scored five touchdowns. The Scott line was far too strong and powerful for the Oregonians. Captain Hunt, Toledo fullback, was the individual star of the game.

THEATRES

The Glendale

Johnny Hines, America's champion juvenile screen comedian, demonstrates in "Sure Fire Flint," now playing at the Glendale Theatre, that he is one hundred per cent sure fire funny. Those who remember Johnny in "Burn 'Em Up Barnes" will certainly welcome him in this worthy successor which is even more uproarious, if possible.

Moreover, the present film is ram-cram full of thrills, especially where he races his auto across a railway crossing only to have it demolished by a passing express train; and where, in a scene from the trenches, he holds up a card and has it punctured by an alert Heinie sharp-shooter. Also, there is a big cabaret scene where Johnny proves himself a regular Vernon Castle.

The T. D. & L.

Mary Pickford, in her new version of the great story, "Tess of the Storm Country," is the attraction at the T. D. & L. Theatre today, a United Artists' release that has heretofore shown only at the largest playhouses in the country.

It is said that Miss Pickford reaches the zenith of her dramatic powers in the present interpretation of this sympathy-winning heroine known and loved by millions of the reading public. The wonderful ability of "Little Mary" to run the gamut of human emotions before our eyes, making us weep one moment and laugh the next, has long made her supreme in her field, but in the present instance she surpasses herself.

Famous Athletes to Meet at Olympics

PARIS, Jan. 2.—"The Olympic Games of 1924 will bring together the largest contingent of international athletes the world has ever seen," Allan Muhr, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Eighth Olympiad, told International News Service. "I have just returned from America," continues Mr. Muhr, "where I have been assured that the United States will send three hundred men."

South American countries, such as Argentina, Chile and Brazil, that have never before been represented in Olympic Games will send large teams to Paris. A Chinese representation of over 100 will be on hand, as well as a team of Japanese soccer players. The Japs will be seen for the first time on the soccer field, and Nippon is putting forth great efforts to make its team winners. There will be no less than sixty soccer teams contending for honors.

The running track at the new stadium in Colombes, two miles out of Paris, is receiving special attention, and the promoters promise to make it the fastest track in Europe. It is larger than any track in the United States—555 yards around. This makes it possible to run the quarter in one turn. There are six lanes for the sprints, each four feet wide.

The field is 170 yards by 77. Included here are four high and broad jumps, shot puts and pole vaults, as well as two hammer, javelin and discus throws.

Sixty thousand spectators will be accommodated. For the first time on an athletic field all seating sections will be entirely covered. Therefore rain, so common in Paris, will not interfere with carrying out the events. The swimming pool, adjoining the field, is to be 160 feet long and 60 feet wide. There will be places for 1,000 people to watch the aquatic events. Eight tennis courts will be constructed, five for the prelims and three in the center for the finals.

If sufficient guarantee can be had from the competitors small houses will be built for their use, enabling the athletes to be near the scene of their activities, where they may try out at will. The rent will be minimum, to save expenses for the respective teams.

Pomona Beaten by Hawaii, 20 to 14

HONOLULU, Jan. 2.—Battered by a team fifteen pounds to the man heavier than the Pomona college eleven, the Californians were defeated by the Hawaii all-star eleven 20 to 14 here New Year's day in a game which the losers outplayed their opponents most of the time.

In the first quarter Pomona swept down the field from the kickoff with a series of brilliant passes, Clark going over for a touchdown and Doughty kicking goal. Hawaii made two touchdowns in the second quarter as a result of two long runs by Centello, the first for seventy-five yards and the last for forty-three yards.

Pomona came back strong, and after carrying the ball down the field on end runs and passes, Doughty slipped over for a touchdown and then converted for the additional point just as the whistle blew.

In the third quarter Hawaii took the ball to Pomona's two yard line, but were unable to put it over. However, in the fourth quarter a forty-yard dash, by Fernandez placed the ball on the visitors' twenty-yard line and from that point Hawaii shoved it over for victory.

Penn State Unable To Handle Trojans

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—"The East does not appreciate the calibre of football that is played on the Pacific coast."

This was the reply of Andy Smith, coach of the California Bears, admitted leaders in western football for the past three seasons when asked today what conclusions were to be drawn from the three international football games played on the coast this season, the third of which resulted yesterday in the defeat of Penn State at Pasadena by University of Southern California 14 to 3. Gonzaga and Stanford were defeated in the other two games by West Virginia and Pitt.

"Having coached in the east for eight years and three years in the middle west, I believe the best football as I see it is played on the Pacific coast."

Football experts who witnessed the game today were unanimous in handling the palm to the Trojans for the manner in which they outplayed the eastern visitors who were troublesome at but one period of the game.

Ray Long Is Easy For Jimmy Duffy

OAKLAND, Jan. 2.—Approximately 8000 fans packed the municipal auditorium here yesterday and saw Jimmy Duffy, welterweight champion of the Pacific coast, defeat Ray Long in the main event. Long impressed in the first two cantos, but Duffy handed him the well-known boxing lesson in the final rounds.

"Battling" Ortega, former middleweight sensation, returned to the ring and won from Frankie Denny.

Last Night's Fights

At Brooklyn—Herman Ship, Brooklyn, won decision over George Nuigna, Manila, P. I., six rounds; Sonny Smith won decision over Frankie Coster, ten rounds.

At Canton—Frankie Schoel, Buffalo welterweight, wins from Billy Ryan, Cincinnati, twelve rounds.

At Pittsburg—Harry Greb, Pittsburg, won a newspaper decision over Bob Roper of Roanoke, Va., ten rounds.

Willie Keeler, Noted Ball Player, Dead

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Funeral arrangements for "Wee Willie" Keeler, one of the greatest ballplayers of all time, who died yesterday at his home in Brooklyn, the victim of tuberculosis and poverty, were being made today. He was 51 years old. He played with the Dodgers, the Yankees, the Giants and the old Orioles of Baltimore and still holds several major league records in hitting. He was a great "place hitter."

Christmas stockings containing candies and nuts were then removed from the tree and passed around. Whereafter the balance of the evening was spent in playing "five hundred." Prizes were won by Mrs. Mary L. Root and E. O. Carlisle.

Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Overton, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Koontz and daughter Emily, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Greet New Year

Mrs. A. E. Gies, of 823 North Brand boulevard, was hostess on New Year's eve to a number of guests who gathered at her home to witness the exit of 1922 and the entry of his little brother, the bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked 1923.

A feature enjoyed by everyone was the five by eight foot platform built about the Christmas tree, which has amused both kiddies and grown-ups of the neighborhood for the past week. On this platform is a replica of a Swiss village, a farmyard, a circus, two lakes, mountains of snow, and many other modeled objects in keeping with the concept, the whole harmonized by a miniature electric railroad with trackage winding in and around, and a little train gliding swiftly about the circuit.

Toward the hour of midnight a buffet luncheon was served, after which the New Year was heard approaching and everyone paused to greet him.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Heustis, the latter a daughter of Mrs. Gies, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Willis, the latter another daughter, and R. F. Gies, a son, in addition to Miss Ada Josephine Hunt.

She served a delicious turkey dinner with all the "fixins." Included in the menu was a fruit cake sent from Chicago by a friend, J. J. Jacobsen, and a beautiful birthday cake, which was a gift from Mrs. Hirsch and daughter, May, of La Canada, who were unable to be present.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Mary Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Haddsell and daughter, Alva, Mrs. Martha Barnette, Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Oliver, Mrs. Hirsch and Mrs. Jensen are sisters of Mr. Jacobson donor of the delicious fruit cake. The hostess was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Betty was 14 on Christmas day, but as Santa Claus had plans of his own that day, her parents thought it was no more than right she should be given a birthday party of her very own.

Hence the brightly-lit Christmas tree in the Heutis home Thursday night at and after 8 o'clock, and hence the many laughing children, the games, the dancing, the delightful buffet luncheon and a host of other interesting features.

Those attending were, in addition to the little hostess and her parents, the Misses Josephine Franklin, Marion Duxey, Grace Thompson, Mary Baxter, Bernadette Becker, Margaret Farmer, Marjorie Phillips, Winona Neilson, eslie Prouser, Francis Morgan, Graham Young, Nathan Finch, George Buttery and James Moffat.

A miniature Christmas tree surrounded by mistletoe and poinsettias was the centerpiece of the dinner table. At each place was a tiny sleigh for a place card and attached to this by streamers were cap, horn and balloon favors. The places were also marked with nut and candy favor baskets.

Glendale Takes First Prize With Display; Peacock Is Unique Design

The great bird measures thirty-six feet in length, while from its head to the ground is a distance of fourteen feet. Other interesting measurements are from the back of the head to the beak, three feet; tail spread, nine feet; each wing fifteen feet; tail has extension without support of twenty-one feet; body and front has nine-foot extension.

Unique Feature
The entire length of the float is fifty-two feet. This fifty-two feet includes the peacock and the small wagon the bird pulls.

A unique feature of the float was that there are no visible signs of any one driving it, the driver being inside the bird's body, where he is directed by an observer located in the bird's neck.

An idea of the great task accomplished by Mr. Chobe may be gained from the following information with regard to the flowers and greenery used.

There are 10,000 blue corn flowers and fifty bunches of violets used on the breast of the peacock. The wings are of Oregon grape vines and the foundation of the tail of heaver with spots of corn flowers, violets and maiden hair fern. Yellow pompons and smilax are used on the back. The beak and feet are made of heather, while the eyes are of marigolds surrounded with white carnations. The crest is made of corn flowers and violets.

Prize Cups Displayed
The little wagon is covered with corn flowers and filled with 100 dark red roses. In the wagon are four pedestals for the four trophy cups won by Glendale in the past.

Two first prize cups won at the Tournaments of Roses in 1920 and 1921, and the second prize and special prize for the most unique float won in the 1922 Tournament of Roses.

The disc wheels of the wagon are solid with marigold blossoms. There are 1,000 white carnations in the lettering on the side of the wagon. In completion of the float 100 bunches of asparagus fern and 100 strings of smilax were used.

Glendale won first prize in class A and other prizes in this class went to: Beverly Hills, second; Monrovia Chamber of Commerce, third; Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, fourth; city of South Pasadena, fifth; Orange Chamber of Commerce, sixth; San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce, seventh.

PASTOR PREACHES ON 'FORGETTING'

Rev. Edmonds Says We Should Leave Past Behind for Future Goal

The Presbyterian church Sunday morning heard Rev. W. E. Edmonds preach on the topic, "Looking Back to Forget." Don't guess, there's too much at stake. There are people who settle down and stop, but that child that does not grow, there were better a funeral. Grow! But, looking back, some things we would be glad to forget; be careful what you do—your life is with that the rest of your life.

"Let us tie up some packages of forgetting and take them down and drop them in the sea. Let us forget disappointments. I am disappointed in myself—haven't measured up. But yet nevertheless, we face the new year with confidence, for God overrules and makes all things work together for good for His own. Look back to forget discontent. Have you been whining? Be anxious for nothing. Again, look back to forget your failures, and if you have failed, be charitable with the others who have failed. Let's bring in all the failures and let Jesus touch them.

Should Look Back
"Should we look back to forget our success? There is the place where many have broken down; success is dangerous. There are churches that have failed with prosperity. May this church continue with the same old gospel, through all that is ahead of us. God forbid that we side-step. Have you also stepped? Then forget the success. And forget the wrong deeds of others. The devil delights in the remembering of wrongs. "We here are a family. God has placed us every one as He has seen fit. I don't get fussed up if yours isn't the top place. God did not make us alike—we had to be different.

"We used to forget our experiences. You know people who have 'arrived' and stopped. No, our experience must develop and grow with our living. God has all that there is to give. He can give all that you need or want. "This closing day of the old year let us forget the self-life and remember the prize of putting Christ first."

Special Meets Are Started by Church
The special meetings at the Pacific avenue Methodist church began Sunday with large attendance and fine interest, the Watch Night meeting proving to be of special interest, many remaining for this final service.

The Conner trio captured general interest with their reading and singing. Wednesday night they will present a program of patriotic character, in which Mrs. Helen Conner-Nern will appear in pantomime as the Goddess of Liberty.

Veterans of all organizations and their women's auxiliaries are invited as the guests of the church for this program.

Mrs. Dunn Surprises Intruder in Home
A burglar was surprised in the act of sneaking the home of Mrs. John Dunn, 446 West Colorado street, about 6:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Returning home, Mrs. Dunn noticed that the lights were turned on in the house. When she went to the garage, a man jumped from a rear window and ran away, leaving some very plain footprints behind him.

H. Girard to Head K. of C. Program
Grand Knight Harry Girard is to preside at the Knights of Columbus meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the new clubhouse, 330 East Lomita avenue. Plans will be made for the progress for the next three months.

Following the recent membership drive the local chapter now has 250 members and they are taking great pleasure in the clubhouse they have just opened.

Stocks, Markets
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The stock market closed irregular today, many issues reacting about 1 point from the high level, while others continued in demand. Republic Steel moved up over 3 points on large buying. U. S. Steel recovered nearly 1 point from its afternoon reaction. Corn Products was also a strong feature, that stock rising above 128. Studebaker hung around 118.

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds strong.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Decided bearishness characterized the grain market today. The market followed a downward course from the opening. Wheat, corn and rye gave every appearance all day of being liquidated. The strong support so apparent on the break Saturday was conspicuous by its absence.

Wheat closed 3 1-4 to 4 1-8 lower than the finish last week; corn, 1 1-4 to 2 1-4 off, and oats, 2 1-2 to 3c lower.

Provisions, however, closed higher.
