NEW ORLEANS:

FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 27, 1837.

☞ The recent insurrectionary movements among the servile population of Alexandria, ought certainly to place in New Orleans, and evade to improve upon our means the indispensable necessity of providing, in some effectual manner, for the safety discovery and prompt suppression of any conspiracy that may be formed among the slaves, for the purpose of effecting their emancipation. Several arrests have already been made, and the most active measures are taken to prevent the escape of the guilty. Should any of the fugitives be apprehended in this city, they will be committed to the jail of the county, and there remain until their owners shall have had time to come for them. For passage apply to the captain on board or to

J. ELSHAM, agent.
