ACTS.

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TWENTY-SIXTH DAY OF MAY, A. D. 1742.

CHAPTER 1.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING THE SUM OF TWO THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY POUNDS FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNOUR.

WHEREAS there have been sundry grants made for his excellency's support, which alth[ough] pass[ed] both houses, have not been consented to by him, nor has his excellency received any thing for his support, since the arrival of the royal commission to him,—

Preamble.

*Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,**

That the sum of two thousand three hundred and fifty pounds in bills of credit, equal to those of the last emission, be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty to be paid out of the publick treasury to his excellency, William Shirley, Esq<sup>[1]</sup>, captain-general and governour-in-chief in and over this his majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay, for his past services since his taking upon himself the administration of the government; and further to enable him to go on in managing the publick affairs. [Passed June 4.]

£2,350 granted to the governor

* The eleventh article of instructions issued to Governor Dudley, March 5, 1701-2, is as follows: "Art. 11. The style of enacting laws to be 'by the Governor, Council and Assembly' and no other."

This instruction, in substance, was renewed to every succeeding governor. It was the eleventh of Burgess's and Shute's instructions, the seventh of Burnet's and Shirley's, the eighth of Belcher's, the fifth of Bernard's, and the sixth of Pownal's, Huttelinson's and Gage's. In Belcher's, and his successors', however, the word "Assembly" was dropped, and "House of Representatives" substituted therefor.

The objectionable words, "and by the authority of the same," by which, in the enacting clause of the first act under the charter, the colonists had appeared to assert their autonomy, were from this time omitted, as a concession to Governor Shirley, who, accordingly, in a letter dated November 11, 1742, reported to the Duke of Newcastle his success in securing this compliance with the royal instructions.

This change, it will be observed, was first made towards the close of the last session of the previous year (1741-42, chapters 18, 20, 23 and 24); but, except in chapter 20, the objectionable words, though omitted before the leading enacting clause, were retained before certain sections of those acts.

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT FOR ALLOWING NECESSARY SUPPLIES TO THE EASTERN AND WESTERN INDIANS, AND FOR REGULATING TRADE W[IT]H THEM.

Preamble. 1737-38, chap. 7. 1740-41, chap. 11.

WHEREAS the Indians in the eastern and western parts of this province have many years since acknowledged their subjection and obedience to the crown of Great Britain, and have their dependance on this government for supplies of cloathing and other necessaries; to the intent, therefore, that they may be furnished with the same at such easy rates and prices as may oblige them to a firm adherence to his maj[es]ty's interest, several truck-houses having been erected and set up for that purpose,—

Clothing, provisions, &c., to be prepared for the trade with the Indians.

[SECT. 1.] That provisions, cloathing and other supplies suitable for a trade with the said Indians be procured with the several sums that have been, now are, or shall be hereafter granted for that purpose by the general court, and the produce thereof applied, from time to time, for the supplying the said Indians as aforesaid, by such person or persons as shall annually be chosen by this court, who shall proceed according to the instructions they shall receive from this court, or from the governour and council on any emergency in the recess of this court: provided, such instructions and directions be consistent with the instructions they receive from the general court; which person or persons so chosen shall annually lay before this court fair accounts of his or their proceedings herein; and all supplies of cloathing, provisions and other things shall be lodged at such places, to the eastward and elsewhere, as the general court have heretofore ordered, or as they shall from time to time order and appoint.

Accounts of the trade to be annually laid before the General Court.

And be it further enacted,

Truck-masters to be appointed by the General Court.

[SECT. 2.] That a suitable person be appointed by this court for each of the places where any of the goods aforesaid are lodged, as a truck-master, to have the care and management of the trade with the Indians, the said truck-masters to draw commissions for their service at the rate of five per cent only, both for sales and returns, on the goods they shall trade with; which truck-masters shall be under oath, and shall give sufficient security for the faithful discharge of that trust, and attending such instructions as shall be from time to time given them by this court, and, in the recess of the court, by the governo[ur] and council as aforesaid; and the said truck-masters shall keep fair acco[un]ts of their trade and dealing with the s[ai]d Indians, and shall return the same, together with the produce thereof, from time to time, to the person or persons who shall be appointed to supply them with the goods as afores[ai]d, the said accounts to be laid before the court. And neither the truck-master, nor any officer or soldier residing at any of the truck-houses, either on account of themselves, or any other person or persons, shall be suffered to trade with or barter for any goods, wares or merchandize, or other thing whatsoever, with any Indian or Indians, upon pain that every truck-master, officer or soldier so offending, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay the sum of twenty-five pounds for each offence, to be recovered by bill, plaint or information in any of his majesty's courts of record[s] within this province; and any officer or truck-master so offending, is hereby disqualified and declared incapable of serving as an officer or truck-master in the pay and service of this province ever after such offence; and in case of the death of any truck-master, or mismanagem[en]t in that trust, during the recess of the court, another shall be put in his place by the governo<sup>[u]</sup>r, w<sup>[i]</sup>th the advice of the council, until<sup>[1]</sup> the next session of the general court.

To be allowed five per cent for their service.

Truck-masters not to trade on their own account.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said truck-masters shall sell the goods to the Indians at the price set in the invoice sent them from time to time, without any advance thereon, and shall allow the Indians for their fur<sup>[r]</sup>s and other goods as the market shall be in Boston, according to the latest advices they shall receive from the person or persons that shall supply them for the same commodities of equal goodness; and that the truck-masters do supply the Indians with rum in moderate quantities, as they shall in prudence judge convenient and necessary, at the rate as charged in the invoices from time to time.

Goods to be sold according to invoice.

[SECT. 4.] And in case any of the said truck-masters shall presume to sell any goods at higher rates than they are set at by the government, or shall charge to the governm<sup>[en]</sup>t more for any furs or other goods than they allowed the Indians for the same, such truck-master, being convicted thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds; and the more effectually to prevent such fraud, and also all private trading with said Indians, each and every truck-master, when and so often as he shall settle and adjust his account with the officer appointed by this court for supplying the Indians, shall make oath before the s<sup>[ai]</sup>d officer, who is hereby authorized and required to administer the same in manner following:—

You, A. B., do swear that the goods committed to you for the supply of the Indians, have been sold at no higher rates than they were set at by the government, and that you have charged for the furs and other goods you have made returns of, no more than you paid the Indians for the same; and that you have not, directly <sup>[n]</sup>or indirectly, been concerned in any trade with said Indians on your private or particular acco<sup>[un]</sup>t, and have not countenanced or connived at any such trade managed or transacted by any person under you. So help you God.

Oath.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons whatsoever, other than the truck-masters that shall be appointed in manner as is before provided, shall or may presume, by themselves or any other for them, directly or indirectly, to sell, give, truck, barter or exchange to any of the aforesaid Indians, any strong beer, ale, cyder, perry, wine, rum, brandy, or any other strong liquor, by what name or names soever called or known, on penalty of forfeiting the sum of twenty-five pounds for each offence; and in case any rum or strong liquor shall be sold or traded with on board any vessel, or transported into those parts for sale, the person or persons so trading with the Indians in rum and other strong liquors, shall forfeit <sup>[and pay]</sup> the sum of one hundred pounds for each offence; and the offences aforesaid shall be tried at any of his majesty's courts of record within this province; and the justices of the said courts are accordingly impow<sup>[e]</sup>red and directed to hear and determine thereon, the plaintiff or complainant filing his information at least fourteen days before the sitting of the court, in the clerk's office of said court before whom the matter is to be heard and tried; and the plaintiff shall also summon or notify the defendant thereof according to law: one moiety of all fines and forfeitures arising by virtue of this act, to be laid out in procuring supplies for carrying on the trade with the Indians, the other moiety to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same in any of the courts aforesaid.

Private persons not to sell strong drink to the Indians.

Penalty.

[SECT. 6.] This act to continue and be in force till the end of the session of the general assembly in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, and no longer. [Passed July 1.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF FIFTEEN THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c[AL], AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN, AND FOR STATING THEIR VALUE IN DISCHARGING OF PUBLICK AND PRIVATE DEBTS.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£15,000 in bills of credit to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That there be forthwith imprinted a certain number of bills of credit of this province of the same tenor and form with the bills last emitted by this court at their sessions in November last, and to be always valued and taken in all publick payments as those of the last emission by law are or shall be, which in the whole shall amount to the sum of fifteen thousand pounds and no more; the said bills to be signed by the committee already appointed by this court for that purpose; and the said committee are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision, so soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them.

Appropriations of this emission.

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered to issue forth and emit the said sum of fifteen thousand pounds for the necessary support and defence of the government, and the protection and preservation of the inhabitants thereof; viz<sup>tl</sup>, the sum of five thousand six hundred and fifty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the wages that now are or that hereafter may be due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-House, Saco Truck-House, Brunswick Fort, the block-house above Northfield, the sloop in the country's service, and the province snow, and the treasurer's usual disbursements; the sum of two thousand six hundred and fifty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of a grant made to his excellency, William Shirley, Esq<sup>tl</sup>, captain-general and governour-in-chief, and to pay the members of his majesty's council; the sum of three thousand and two hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of such other grants as are or shall be made by this court, and for the payment of stipends, bounties and premiums established by law, and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have or shall, either by law or orders, provide for the payment of, out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever; the sum of twelve hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons who have served or shall serve them, by order of this court, in such matters [and] [or] things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned for such service; and for paper, printing and writing for this court, the expences of committees of council, or of the house, or of both houses, entertainment of Indians, and presents made them by this court, the surgeon of Castle William, and wooding of said castle; and the sum of eighteen hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifteen thousand pounds, shall be applied to the payment of the members of the house of representatives serving in the general court, during their several sessions this present year until May next.

£5,650 for wages of officers, soldiers, and seamen, and the treasurer's disbursements.

£2,650 for the governor and council.

£3,200 for grants, &c.

£1,200 for debts, where there is no establishment.

£1,800 for the representatives.

And whereas, there are, sometimes, publick entertainments, and, from time to time, contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the sum of five hundred pounds, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of fifteen thousand pounds, be applied to defrey and pay such entertainments and contingent charges, and for no other use whatsoever. £500 for contin-gent charges.

And be it enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall lie in the treasury for the further order of this court. Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and that the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they shall direct, all such muster rolls and accompts after payment thereof. Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of fifteen thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court in their present session, and paid into the treasury on or before the last day of December next. £3,750 to be brought in, in the year 1742.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the remaining part of the said sum of fifteen thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after. £3,750 in 1743.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the remaining part of the said sum of fifteen thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the great and general court or assembly at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and paid into the publick treasury again on or before the last day of December then next after. £3,750 in 1744

And as a further fund and security for drawing the remaining part of the said sum of fifteen thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

£1,950 in 1745.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made for what is paid to the representatives.

[SECT. 10.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns according to what their respective representatives shall so receive, which sums shall be set on the said towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by act of the general assembly, for assessing the next province tax; and the constables in their respective districts shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year: of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and sep<sup>[e]</sup><sup>[a]</sup>rate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l<sup>[y]</sup><sup>[i]</sup>e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 11.] That in case the general court shall not in their present sessions, and at their respective sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which by this act is engaged shall be in each of these several years apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay (by a tax to be levied on the polls and estates, both real and personal, within their districts) the same part and proportion of the said sums as the said towns or districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the present session, and some time in the month of June in each of these years, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, in manner as aforementioned in this act, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their respective towns or districts for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assess<sup>[e]</sup>'d by this act, and the assessors, as also persons assess<sup>[e]</sup>'d, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the said next preceding tax act.

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

according to their several denominations; or in coined silver, at six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in coined gold, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refin[e]d bar-iron, bloomery-iron, h[o][u]ll-low iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oyl, beeswax, baberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tann[e]d sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assemblies of the present year and of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest counsellor, for the time being, of each of those count[ry]s in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and empower[e]d to do it; and in their setting of the prices and rating the value of those commodit[ies], to state so much of them, respectively, at six shillings and eightpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

[SECT. 13.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as conveniently may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as it will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold; which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for six shillings and eightpence, and pro ratâ for a greater or less sum. And if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of fifteen thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That any debt contracted before the thirty-first day of October last, which might have been paid and discharged in and by province bills of the old tenor, and also any debt contracted between the said thirty-first day of October and the first day of April last (where the contracting parties have not expressly otherwise agreed) may be discharged by the bills by this act to be emitted, in proportion as one to four; that is to say, that a debt of twenty-six shillings and eightpence, dischargeable or contracted as aforesaid, may be discharged by six shillings and eightpence in bills by this act to be emitted, or by one ounce of silver, and so in proportion for a greater or less sum.

Rules for paying private debts.

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AND FOR REND[ER]ING MORE EFFECTUAL AN ACT FOR REGULATING THE ASSIZE OF CASK, AND PREVENTING DECEIT IN PACKING OF FISH, BEEF AND PORK, FOR SALE, MADE IN THE FOURTH YEAR OF THE REIGN OF KING WILLIAM AND QUEEN MARY; AND ALSO FOR THE PREVENTING FRAUD AND INJUSTICE IN THE MEASURING OF GRAIN.

Preamble.

1692-3, chap. 17.
1718-19, chap. 16.
1722-23, chap. 4.
1730-31, chap. 5.
1737-38, chap. 12.

WHEREAS there does daily appear great fraud and deceit in the packing of beef and pork and other provisions, the produce of other colonies vended or consumed in this province; and whereas the act or law already made for preventing such fraud and deceit hath been found ineffectual for that purpose, so that a further provision is necessary to be made,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governo[u]r, Council and House of Repres[entati]ves,

Pork, beef, and fish to be repacked and pickled.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the first day of October next, all barrels and other casks of pork, beef, fish or other provision imported into this province shall be repacked and pickled before the same shall be sold or exposed to sale to any person whatsoever; which repacking and pickling shall be performed and done by fit persons appointed for that purpose, for every town where such provisions are usually brought for sale, or from whence they are exported for a foreign market. And the justices of the peace in the several counties are hereby impowered and directed, at their first general quarter-sessions to be holden in each respective county in this province, yearly, to appoint a suitable number of persons for each town as aforesaid, and to swear them to the due and faithful[ly] execution of their office; and any such person so appointed refusing to officiate, shall be liable and subject as in and by the act of the fourth of King William and Queen Mary.

Packer to be chosen and sworn.

1692-3, chap. 17.

And be it further enacted,

Assize of cask and quantity of meat, &c.

[SECT. 2.] That all cask used for packing fish, beef, pork or any other commodity imported as aforesaid within this province, being of the full assize required in the aforesaid act, and as free of sap as may be, each and every barrel of merchantable pork imported here, when exposed to sale, in any town or place within this province where such officers or packers shall have been appointed as aforesaid, after being repacked and pickled as aforesaid, shall contain at least two hundred and twenty pounds of pork; and there shall not be pack'd in any barrel more than four legs, four shoulders and four half-heads, and every half-barrel and greater or lesser cask shall be in proportion; and each and every barrel of merchantable beef shall contain no more than three legs or shins; and the packer shall be allowed sixpence per barrel for every barrel repack'd as aforesaid, and in proportion for larger cask.

And be it further enacted,

Cask to be marked after repacking.

[SECT. 3.] That every packer to be appointed as aforesaid, after repacking and pickling any beef, pork, fish or other commodities, shall set a brand or mark with the first letters of his Christian and surname, and the town where he dwells at length, on all such cask, barrels or half-barrels, wherein he hath repack[ed] and pickled any beef, pork, fish or other provisions. And in case any such packer, appointed and sworn as aforesaid, shall be guilty of any fraud or deceit in packing or repacking any beef, pork, fish, or other provision, or any cask used for packing or repacking the same, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings for every cask or barrel of provision so deceitfully packed or repacked: one half to the Penalty for packers not doing their duty.

informer, who shall sue for the same in any of his majesty's courts of record within this province proper to try the same, the other half to the poor of the town where such offence is committed.

And for rend[e]ring the said act more effectual,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That whosoever shall sell or expose to sale any barrels or other casks of beef, pork or any other provisions imported into any town within this province where such packers shall be appointed as aforesaid, before the same shall be repack[']*[e]*d and pickled and branded by the packer thereof as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty shillings per barrel for every offence: one half to the informer, who shall sue for the same before any of his majesty's courts of record proper to try the same, the other half to the poor of the town where such offence is committed.

Penalty for selling provisions not repacked.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be a suitable number of measurers of corn, and all sort of grain, in every seaport town within this province, to be appointed as aforesaid, wh[o*] being likewise sworn for the faithful discharge of that office, at the request of the purchaser, shall measure all corn and grain that shall be imported and sold out of any ship or other vessel, and shall have and receive of him one farthing per bushel for every bushel of corn or grain by him so measured, when the quantity measured exceeds ten bushels, and one halfpenny per bushel when the quantity be less than ten bushels.

Measurers of corn, their duty and fee.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That whosoever shall expose to sale within the said province any corn or other grain, and shall refuse to suffer the same to be measured as aforesaid, being requested thereto by the purchaser, shall forfeit and pay forty shillings to such person or persons as shall make proof thereof to any of his majesty's justices of the peace.

Penalty for refusing to have grain measured as above.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That every such measurer of corn and grain as aforesaid, shall, at the expence of the respective towns they belong to, be provided each with two half-bushels, Winchester measure, which shall on the top thereof have two strips of iron, each crossing the same on a level, to prevent any deceit in striking the said measure when full of grain; and in case any such measurer of grain shall be guilty of any fraud or deceit in measuring any sort of grain, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds; and in case of his refusal to attend the aforesaid service when he shall be thereto requested, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five shillings for each and every offence, to be recovered and disposed of as aforesaid.

Winchester measure to be used for grain.

Penalty on the measurers.

Neglect of their duty.

[SECT. 8.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed July 1; published July 5.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON WINES, LIQUORS AND OTHER STRONG DRINK SOLD BY RETAIL, AND UPON LEMMONS AND LIMES.

Preamble.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in general court assembled, being desirous to lessen the present debt of the province, by drawing in a number of the bills of credit in pursuance of several grants of this court heretofore made, have cheerfully and unanimously granted, and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty for the ends and uses above mentioned, and for no other uses, an excise upon all brandy, rum and other spirit[t]s distilled, and upon all wines whatsoever sold by retail, and upon lemons and limes taken in or used in making of punch or other liquors mixed for sale, or otherwise consumed in taverns or other licensed houses within this province, to be raised, levied, collected and paid by and upon every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer within each respective county, in manner following,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

Time of this act's continuance.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, for the space of three years, every person licensed for retailing brandy, rum or other spirits, or wine, shall pay the duties following; viz<sup>[1]</sup>,—

For every gallon of brandy, rum and spirits distilled, threepence. Rates of excise.

For every gallon of wine of every sort, threepence.

—a pipe of wine to be accounted one hundred gallons.

For every hundred of lemmons, two shillings and one penny.

For every hundred of limes, ninepence.

And so proportionably for any other quantity or number.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That there be one or more collectors in each county annually appointed by the general court, or by the court of general sessions of the peace where it shall happen that such collectors refuse to accept said office, or be removed by death or for mismanagement, to take charge of this duty of excise, who shall have power to inspect the houses of all such as are licensed, and of such as are suspected to sell without license, which collectors shall be upon oath to take care of the execution of this law, and to prosecute the breakers of it, and have power to appoint under-officers upon oath; and the said collectors shall carefully examine the accompts of every licensed person in their respective counties, and demand, sue for and receive the several sums due from them by this act, and shall give in an account, under their hands, of the particular sums they receive, together with the names of the persons of whom received, unto the treasurer, upon oath, which oath the treasurer is hereby impowered and directed to administer, in the words following; viz<sup>[1]</sup>,—

Collectors to be appointed.

To give account upon oath.

You, A. B., do swear this is a just and true accompt of the excise upon all liquors by you received in the county of _____, and that the persons of whom you received the same were also upon oath. So help you God.

Form of the oath.

[SECT. 3.] And at the time of receiving any money, the said collector shall give two receipts of the same tenor and date, mentioning what sum or sums they have received from any taverner, innholder, common victualler or retailer, one of which receipts to be by the said taverner, innholder, common victualler or retailer returned to the court of general sessions of the peace within their respective counties at the next session of such court, and the clerks of the said court[s] shall, within twenty days after receipt thereof, transmit the same to the treasurer or receiver-general; and such collectors shall pay into the publick treasury of this province all such sums as they shall receive, within six months from the date of their commission, and so from time to time within the space of six months, as long as they shall continue in such office, on pain of forfeiting the reward given such collectors by this act, who shall be allowed five per cent on all money by them collected and paid into the treasury as aforesaid; each collector before he enter into the said office to give bond for double the sum that is usually received for excise annually in said county, to the treasurer of this province for the time being, and his successo[u]rs in said office, with sufficient sureties, for the faithful[ ] discharge of his duty, and that he will duly pay in the money that he shall collect to the treasurer of the province for the time being; which bond shall be executed before the court of general sessions of the peace in the respective counties where the said collectors live, and be transmitted to the treasurer of the province, by the clerk of the peace within such county, within three months after the bond is executed. And the said treasurer shall put in suit the bonds of all such collectors who shall neglect to make due payment within sixty days after the expiration of the year.

Five per cent for collecting.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Account to be taken.

[SECT. 4.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer shall, after the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven and forty-two, take an exact account of all rum, brandy and other distilled spirits and wine, then by him, and give an account of the same unto the said collector upon oath; and such other persons as shall be licensed during the continuance of the said act shall also give an account as aforesaid, upon oath, of what rum, brandy and other distill[e]d spirits and wine he or they shall have by him or them at the time of his or their license; which oath the collector shall have power to administer in the words following; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

You, A. B., do swear, that the account exhibited by you is a true and just account of all the rum, brandy and distilled spirits, and wine, now by you. So help you God.

And be it further enacted,

Within six months, accounts to be delivered.

[SECT. 5.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler, and retailer, shall make a fair entry in a book of all such rum, brandy, and other distilled spirits, and wine, as he or they or any for him or them shall buy, distill, or take in for sale after such account taken, and at the end of every six months deliver the same in writing, under his or their hands, to the collector, who is to administer an oath to him or them, that the said account is, bonâ fide, just and true, and that he or they do not know of any rum, brandy, or distilled spirits, or wine, sold directly or indirectly by him or them, or any under him or them, or by his or their privity or consent, but what is contained in the account now exhibited, and shall pay him the duty thereof, excepting such part as the collector shall find is still remaining by him or them: twenty per cent to be allowed for leakage and other waste, for which no duty is to be paid.

Twenty per cent allowed for leakage.

Penalty on collectors not administering the oath.

[SECT. 6.] And every collector who shall neglect or refuse to administer such oath in manner as aforesaid, being thereof convict by due course of law, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds, for the use of the province, to be recovered in manner as by this act is provided, and so toties quoties.

General sessions to take recognizance.

[SECT. 7.] And the justices in their general sessions of the peace shall take recognizances with sufficient sureties, of all persons by them licen[s][c]ed, both as to their keeping good rule and order, and duly observing the laws relating to persons so licen[s][c]ed, as also for their duly and truly rendering an account in writing under their hands as aforesaid, and paying their excise in manner as aforesaid; which recognizance shall be taken within the space of thirty days after the granting such licen[c][s]es, otherwise the person licensed shall lose the benefit of his or her said licence; nor shall any person be licen[s][c]ed by said justices that hath not accounted with the collector of excise, and produced his receipt in full at the time for such licen[s][c]e.

Penalty on giving a false account.

[SECT. 8.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler, or retailer, who shall be found to give a false acco[mp][un]t of any brandy, distilled spirits, or wine, by him or her at the time of his or her taken licence, or bought, distilled or taken in for sale afterwards, or refuse to give in an account on oath as aforesaid, shall be rendered incapable of having a licence afterwards, and be prosecuted by the collector for his or her neglect, and ordered by the general sessions of the peace to pay such sum of money as they may conclude that the excise of liquors, &c[a]. by him or her sold within such time, would have amounted to, to be paid to the collector for the use of the province.

And it is the true intent and meaning of this act,

[SECT. 9.] That if any taverner, retailer, or common victualler, Proviso. shall buy of another taverner, or retailer, such small quantities of liquors as the law obliges him to account to the collector for and pay the excise, the taverner, retailer, or common victualler shall, notwithstanding, be accountable and pay the excise, as if none had been paid by the person he bought the same of.

And whereas notwithstanding the laws made against selling strong drink without licence, many persons not regarding the penalties and forfeitures in the said act, do receive and entertain persons in their houses, and sell great quantities of spirits and other strong drink without licence so to do first had and obtained, by reason whereof great debaucheries are committed and kept secret, the end of this law in a great measure frustrated, and such as take licen[s][c]es and pay the excise greatly wronged and injured. Preamble.

[SECT. 10.] That whosoever after the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, shall presume to sell any brandy, rum, or other distilled spirits, wine, beer, cyder, perry, or any other strong drink in any smaller quantity than a quarter-cask (twenty gallons to be accounted a quarter-cask), without licence first had and obtained from the general sessions of the peace, and recognizing in manner as aforesaid, shall forfeit the sum of three pounds, one half whereof to be for the use and benefit of the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed, and the other half to him who shall inform and sue for the same, and costs of prosecution; and all such as shall refuse or neglect to pay the fine aforesaid, shall stand closely and strictly committed in the common goal of the county for forty days at least, and not to have the liberty of the goaler's house or yard; and any goaler giving any person liberty contrary to this act, shall forfeit and pay three pounds, to be employed in manner as aforesaid, and pay costs of prosecution as aforesaid. And if any person or persons not licen[s][c]ed as aforesaid, shall order, allow, permit, or connive at the selling of any strong drink contrary to the true intent and meaning of this law, by his or her child or children, servant or servants, or any other person or persons belonging to, or in his or her house or family, and be thereof convict, he, she or they shall be reputed the offender or offenders, and shall suffer the same penalties as if he, she or they had sold such drink themselves, unless such person or persons will, bonâ fide, swear that he, she or they did not order, allow or permit thereof, or connive thereat. Forfeiture of £3 for selling without license.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That two credible persons declaring upon oath what they know of any facts that may be judged to be against this law forbidding unlicen[s][c]ed persons to sell strong drink, shall be sufficient to convict such person or persons thereof, altho[ugh] their testimony be to two different facts: provided, there be not more than the space of twenty days between the facts concerning which they declare. Two persons' evidence sufficient.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That all fines, forfeitures and penalties arising by this act, shall and may be recovered by presentment of the grand jury, at the court of sessions, or by bill, plaint or information before any three of his majesty's justices of the peace, quorum unus, in the respective counties where such offence shall be committed, which said three justices are hereby empowered to try and determine the same: saving always, to any person or persons who shall think him, her or themselves aggrieved by the sentence or determination of the said three justices as aforesaid, How fines shall be recovered.

liberty of appeal therefrom to the next court of general sessions of the peace to be holden in and for said county, at which court such offence shall be finally determined: provided, that in said appeal the same rules be observed as are already by law required in appeals from one or more justices to the court of general sessions of the peace.

And be it further enacted,

Evidence, if before three justices, to be in writing.

[SECT. 13.] That all evidences relating to the aforesaid offence of selling strong drink without licence, when the trial shall be before three justices of the peace as aforesaid, shall be taken in writing; and in case the witnesses cannot be had and obtained to appear on appeal before the court of sessions, that then and in such case the said written evidence shall be deem'd as valid, to all intents and purposes, by the said court of sessions, as if the said witnesses had appeared, and there given in their evidence viva voce. And the said justices shall make a fair entry or record of all such their proceedings, such record to be lodged with the justice who is of the quorum.

Houses not licensed.

[SECT. 14.] That when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected to sell strong drink without licence, any justice of the peace shall have full power to convene such persons before him, and examine them upon oath touching the person suspected of selling or retailing strong drink in such houses, and [upon] just grounds of suspicion, such justice shall call to his assistance two other justices, qualified as aforesaid, who shall proceed to hear and adjudge said offence agreeable to such rules and directions as are in this act before provided, and if upon such examination had, any person shall be convicted of such offence, the whole of the penalty of three pounds in this act before provided for selling strong drink without licence, shall be to and for the use of the poor of the town where such offence shall be committed.

Penalty on persons refusing to give evidence.

[SECT. 15.] That if any person or persons shall be summoned to appear before the grand jury to give evidence relating to any person's selling strong drink without licence, or to appear before the court of general sessions of the peace, or three justices as aforesaid, to give evidence on the trial of any person informed against, presented, or indicted for the selling strong drink without licence, and shall neglect or refuse to appear or to give evidence in that behalf, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of three pounds, for the use of the county where the offence shall be committed.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all the rates, fines and forfeitures heretofore mentioned, shall be in the bills of the last emission, or other bills equivalent thereto. [Passed July 1; published July 5.]

CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING A SUM FOR THE PAY OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES IN GENERAL COURT ASSEMBLED, AND FOR ESTABLISHING THE WAGES, &c., OF SUNDRY PERSONS IN THE SERVICE OF THE PROVINCE.

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL ACTS OR LAWS OF THIS PROVINCE FOR THE SETTLEMENT AND SUPPORT OF MINISTERS.

WHEREAS the professed members of the Church of England have complained that they are unreasonably taxed for the support of divine worship in the manner established by the laws of this province, while they and their families constantly attend the worship of God according to the usage and order of the Church of England, either within their own or some neighbouring town, parish or precinct,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the members of the Church of England and their estates shall be taxed to the support of the publick worship of God with the other estates and inhabitants within the bounds of any town, parish or precinct, according to the laws of this province. And the treasurer of such town, parish or precinct, as he receiveth any such tax, shall deliver the taxes collected of every profess[t]’[d] member of the Church of England unto the minister of the said church with whom he usually and frequently attends the publick worship of God on the Lord’s days, which minister shall have power to receive, and if need be to recover the same in the law, to support him in the place whereunto he is duly designed and sent; and if by that means any deficiency happeneth in the salary of any minister settled by the laws of this province, such town, parish or precinct, within two months after such deficiency appeareth, shall make good the same: provided, nevertheless, that all such professed members of the Church of England shall be [e]’[i]ntirely excused from paying any taxes toward[s] the settlement of any minister or building any meeting-house pursuant and according to the direction and orders of the laws of this province, and utterly debarred from voting any ways concerning such ministers or meeting-houses.

Provided, also,

[SECT. 2.] That no person shall be exempted, or his tax paid over to any minister of the Church of England, unless such minister and his church-wardens shall first certify to the treasurer of such town or parish where he lives that such person is a member of the Church of England, and usually and frequently attends the publick worship of God with them on the Lord’s days as aforesaid. ## CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT FOR HOLDING A COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER IN AND FOR THE ISLAND OF NANTUCKET.

WHEREAS there now stands committed in his majesty’s goal in the island of Nantucket one Harry Jude, an Indian man, charged with the murder of Mercy Moab, an Indian woman, who ought, as the law now stands, to be tried by a special court of assize and general goal delivery; but forasmuch as the judges of the court of assize and general goal delivery cannot attend that service, the summer months being taken up with the several superio[u]r courts of judicature, courts of assize and [goal] general [goal] delivery, as they are now established,

Preamble.

besides the great charge and trouble of the judges' repairing thither, and a court of oyer and terminer (noticed in the royal charter) have and can exercise the same jurisdiction and authority in all capital offences,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governo[u]r, Council and House of Represent[at]ives, for the reasons above mentioned, and that speedy justice may be done,—

Special court to be held at Nantucket for the trial of Harry Jude, &c.

That the inquiry, hearing and tryal of the said Harry Jude for the murder of the said Mercy Moab, and any other capital offences upon the said island of Nantucket already committed, may, with all convenient speed, be had at Nantucket aforesaid, by special commissioners of oyer and terminer, to be appointed by his excellency the governo[u]r, with the advice and consent of the council; any law, usage or custom to the contrary thereof notwithstanding. [Passed July 1.]

AN ACT FOR ALTERING THE TIME FOR HOLDING THE INFERIO[U]R COURT OF COMMON PLEAS IN THE COUNTY OF SUFFOLK, AND ALSO THE COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS OF THE PEACE AND INFERIOR COURT OF COMMON PLEAS IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS by law the time appointed for holding the inferio[u]r court of common pleas for the county of Suffolk on the third Tuesday of March, annually, and also the court of general sessions of the peace and inferio[u]r court[s] of common pleas for the county of Hampshire on the first Tuesdays of March and December, annually, is found on many accounts very inconvenient,—

Courts in Suffolk and Hampshire altered. 1740-41, chap. 13. 1699-1700, chap. 2, § 2.

That the inferio[u]r court of common pleas held at Boston for the county of Suffolk on the third Tuesday of March annually, shall be henceforth held and kept at Boston aforesaid, on the first Tuesday of April yearly, and also that the court of general sessions of the peace and inferio[u]r court of common pleas holden at Northampton for the county of Hampshire on the first Tuesdays of March and December, annually, shall be henceforth held and kept at Northampton on the second Tuesdays of February and November yearly. [Passed July 1.]

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAM[M]AGE BEING DONE UNTO BILLINGSGATE BAY IN THE TOWN OF EASTHAM, BY CATTLE AND HORSE-KIND AND SHEEP FEEDING ON THE BEACH AND ISLANDS ADJOINING THERETO.

Preamble.

WHEREAS many persons frequently drive numbers of neat cattle, horse-kind and sheep to feed upon the beach and islands adjoining to Billingsgate Bay, whereby the ground is much broken and damnified, and the sand blown into the bay, to the great dam[m]age not only of private persons in their employment of getting oysters, but also to the publick, by filling up said bay, which is often used by seamen in stress of weather,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Govern[er], Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, to or upon the islands or beach lying westerly of Billingsgate Bay and south of Griffin's Island (so called) in the town of Eastham, to feed thereon, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for all neat cattle, and for every horse or mare, and two shillings and sixpence for each sheep that shall be turned or found feeding on said islands and beach which l[y][ie] south of Griffin's Island; which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or treasurer of the said town of Eastham, or any other person that shall inform and sue for the same, the one half of the said forfeiture to him or them who shall inform and sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of the said town.

Horses, cattle, and sheep not to feed on Billingsgate Beach, &c.

Penalty.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, shall at any time hereafter be found feeding on the said islands and beach south of Griffin's Island, that it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, immediately giving notice to the owners, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof in the said town of Eastham and the two next adjoining towns; and the impounder shall relieve the said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay the sum of two shillings and sixpence to the impounders for each neat beast and horse-kind, and eightpence for each sheep, and the reasonable cost of relieving them, besides the pound-keeper's fees. And if no owner appear within the space of six days to redeem the said cattle or horse-kind or sheep so impounded, and to pay the dam[m]ages and costs occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case, the person or persons impounding such cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, to pay the cost and charges arising about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale to be given in the said town of Eastham and in the town of Truro forty-eight hours beforehand); and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner of such cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep at any time within twelve months next after, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appear within the said twelve months, then the said overplus shall be, one half to the party impounding, and the other half to the use of the poor of the said town of Eastham.

Cattle to be impounded if found feeding on the beach, &c.

Rules referring to such impounded cattle.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said town of Eastham, at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and impow[er]ed to chuse one or more meet person or persons, whose duty it [shall be*] to see [that*] this act be observed, and prosecute the breakers thereof, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay ten shillings to the poor of the said town of Eastham, and the said town of Eastham, at a town meeting warned for that purpose, may at any time before March next chuse such officers, who shall continue until their annual meeting in March next.

Officers may be chosen to put this act in execution.

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT TO PREVENT INCUMBRANCES ABOUT THE DOORS OF THE COURT-HOUSE IN BOSTON.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the doors of the court-house in the town of Boston, are often incumbered by teams and other ways, so as very much to obstruct the members of the general court in their passage to and from the said house,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

Penalty for encumbering the doors of the court-house.

[SECT. 1.] That no person or persons whatsoever shall presume to incumber the said house by stopping, or suffering to stand, any coach, chaise, chair, team, cart, sled, truck or wheelbarrow, or by laying any lumber, stones, mud, dirt or other incumbrance whatsoever within the distance of twenty-four feet from the west end, thirty feet from the bottom of the steps at the east end, and ten feet from either side of the said house, upon pain of forfeiting five shillings unto the door-keeper to the general court for the time being, and by him to be recovered before a justice of the peace.

Penalty for offending, after warning by the doorkeeper.

[SECT. 2.] And in case any person or persons offending in either of the particulars before mentioned, after being thereto required by the doorkeeper, shall not forthwith remove any such incumbrance, he or they shall forfeit the sum of twenty shillings, to be recovered in like manner as aforesaid.

Provided nevertheless,

Proviso.

[SECT. 3.] That this act shall not be construed so as to hinder any coach, chariot, chaise, or chair from standing within the limits aforesaid, which shall be used by the governour, lieutenant-governo[ur], or any of the members of the general court for the time being. [Passed and published January 6, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING UNNECESSARY EXPENSE IN THE ATTENDANCE OF PETIT JURORS ON THE SEVERAL COURTS OF JUSTICE WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble.
1738-9, chap. 4.

WHEREAS petit jurors are oftentimes detained at the tr[ial] and hearing of causes which are not committed to them by reason of the agreement of parties, abatement of the writ, or discontinuance; whereby the plaintiff becomes nonsuit, and frequently (especially in the inferior court of common pleas) judgment is entred up against the defendant by default, whereby great part of the jury's time is taken up, without their being allowed any benefit by law, notwithstanding their being obliged to give their constant attendance during the time of the courts' sitting, until[1] all the actions depending there are finished; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That petit jurors, in the court of general sessions of the peace and inferior court of common pleas to be held within and for the county of Suffolk, shall not be obliged to give their attendance until[1] the second Tuesday of said courts' sitting; and at the said courts that are to be held within all other counties within this province, on the second day of the said courts' sitting; to the end that the said courts may proceed upon and determine all pleas in bar and abatement[er]t of writ[ts] and all other matters and things that relate to such actions as are not committed to the jury; so that their time and attendance be not unnecessarily taken up and delayed. And the clerks of the respective courts aforesaid are hereby ordered and directed, in making out writs of venire facias for the choice of petit jurors, to give directions accordingly.

The time of attendance of petit jurors stated.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That no action be entred in any of the courts aforesaid after the first day of their sitting; and all pleas in bar of the action or abatement[er]t of the writ be either entred thereon or filed with the clerk of the said court before the jury be [e][i]mpaneled; and if the defendant in any action suffer default and comes into court and moves for a re-entry of his action, after the jury be [e][i]mpaneled, on paying the plaintiff or his attorney such legal cost as shall then have arose, and half fees to the petit jury, to whom the same shall be ordered by said court, he shall be admitted to a re-entry of his action, and to all such privileges as by law he was [e][i]ntitled to on his first entry.
[Passed January 15, 1742-43.]

No action to be entred after the first day of the courts' sitting, &c.

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN, AND FOR STATING THEIR VALUE IN DISCHARGING OF PUBLICK AND PRIVATE DEBTS.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That there be forthwith imprinted a certain number of bills of credit of this province of the same tenor and form with the bills emitted by this court at their sessions in November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, and at their sessions in May last, and to be always valued and taken in all publick payments as the aforesaid bills of the same form and tenor already extant, are or shall be valued and taken, which in the whole shall amount to the sum of twelve thousand pounds and no more; the said bills to be signed by such committee as shall be chosen by this court for that purpose; and the said committee are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision, so soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful[1] performance of the trust by this act reposed in them.

And be it further enacted,

Appropriations
of this emission.

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered to issue forth and emit the said sum of twelve thousand pounds for the necessary support and defence of the government, and the protection and preservation of the inhabitants thereof; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, the sum of four thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twelve thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the wages that now are or that hereafter may be due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-house, Saco Truck-house, Brunswick Fort, the block-house above Northfield, the sloop in the country's service, and the province snow, and the treasurer's usual disbursements; and the sum of eleven hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twelve thousand pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed towards the compleating the repairs and works begun and carried on at Castle William, pursuant to such grants as or shall be made by this court; and the sum of four thousand five hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twelve thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of such other grants as are or shall be made by this court, and for the payment of stipends, bount[y][ie]s and premiums established by law, and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have or shall either by law or orders provide for the payment of, out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever: the sum of sixteen hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twelve thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons who have served or shall serve them by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned for such service; and for paper, printing and writing for this court, the expences of committees of council, or of the house, or of both houses, entertainment of Indians and presents made them by this court, the surgeon of Castle William, and wooding of said castle; and the sum of eight hundred pounds, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of twelve thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the members of the house of representatives serving in the general court, during their several sessions this present year and until November next.

£4,000 for wages of officers, soldiers, and seamen, and the treasurer's disbursements.

£1,100 for repairs, &c., at Castle William.

£4,500 for grants, &c.

£1,600 for debts
where there is no establishment.

£800 for the
representatives.

And be it enacted,

Surplusage to
lie in the treasury.

[SECT. 3.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][ie] in the treasury for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Warrants to express the appropriations.

[SECT. 4.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as are draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct acco[un]t[mp]ts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and that the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of twelve thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of seven thousand five hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£7,500 to be brought in, in the year 1743.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the remaining part of the said sum of twelve thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of three thousand five hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the great and general court or assembly at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and paid into the publick treasury again on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their respective representatives shall so receive; which sums shall be set on the said towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by act of the general assembly for assessing the next province tax, and the constables, in their respective districts, shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplussage, the same shall l[y] [i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

Tax to be made for what is paid to the representatives.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not at their respective sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which by this act is engaged shall be, in each of these several years, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province, shall pay (by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts) the same part and proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed some time in the month of June in each of these years, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, in manner as aforementioned in this act, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their respective towns [or] [and] districts, for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the said next preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hallow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train oyl, beeswax, baberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tann'[e]d sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assembl[y][ie]s of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembl[y][ie]s shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest councello[u]r, for the time being, of each of those count[y][ie]s in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their setting of the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at six shillings and eightpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

[SECT. 10.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as conveniently may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as it will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for six shillings and eightpence, and pro ratâ for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of twelve thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

Rule for paying private débits.

[SECT. 11.] That any debt contracted before the thirty-first day of October, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, which might have been paid and discharged in and by province bills of the old tenor, and also any debt contracted between the said thirty-first day of October and the first day of April last (where the contracting part[y][ie]s have not expresly otherwise agreed) may be discharged by the bills by this act to be emitted, in proportion as one to four; that is to say, tha<sup>t</sup> a debt of twenty-six shillings and eightpence, dischargeable or contracted as aforesaid, may be discharged by six shillings and eightpence in bills by this act to be emitted, or by one ounce of silver, and so in proportion for a greater or less sum. [Passed January 12; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF EIGHT THOUSAND POUNDS IN BILLS OF THE TENOR AND FORM LAST EMITTED.

WHEREAS the general court or assembly of the province of the Massachusetts Bay have in their present sessions ordered the province treasurer, impost officer, the several constables and collectors in all publick payments, to receive twenty shillings in bills of the first new tenor in discharge of twenty shillings tax or duty in bills of the form and tenor last emitted by the said court, and so in proportion for a greater or less sum, and hereby a deficiency is occasioned in the funds for drawing in the publick bills of credit. Wherefore, to preserve and maintain the credit of the bills of this province, and effectually to draw in such sum or sums as may be deficient as aforesaid, we, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, pray that it may be enacted. Preamble.

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty for the ends aforesaid, and for no other purpose whatsoever, a tax of eight thousand pounds to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed on and ordered by this court at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, to be paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December next after. £8,000 to be paid the last of December, 1746.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum of eight thousand pounds, which by this act is engaged shall be in said year apportioned, assessed, and lev[y][i]ed, that each town and district within this province, shall pay, by a tax to be lev[y][i]ed on the polls, and estates real and personal, within their respective districts, the same part and proportion of said sum as the said towns or districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next prece[e]ding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and required, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, to issue [out] and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates real and personal, within their respective towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the said sum of eight thousand pounds, as before directed by this act; and the assessors and all persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the said next preceding tax act. To be levied by the last tax act.
Warrants to issue for it in June.

CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT FOR MAKING MORE EFFECTUAL AN ACT [E][I]NTITLED, "AN ACT FOR REGULATING THE MILITIA."

Preamble.
1693-94, chap. 3.

WHEREAS the several penalties set or ordered to be imposed by the said act [e][i]ntitled, "An Act for regulating the militia," made and pass[e]d in the fifth year of the reign of King William and Queen Mary, do not answer the good design proposed in said act; for remedy whereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[at]ives,

Clerks may distrain or sue for fines.

[SECT. 1.] That the clerk of each respective [troop or] company may, ex officio, distrain for any fine or penalty, for breach of any of the clauses or paragraphs in the aforesaid act, for breach of which he might have distrained by force of said act, or may recover the same by action of debt before a justice of the peace, or any court of record proper to try the same; all the said forfeitures to be applied to the uses mentioned in said act.

And for preventing the misapplication of the money to be levied and collected for breach of said act,— accounts.

Be it further enacted,

Shall keep fair

[SECT. 2.] That the clerk of each troop or company shall make and fairly enter in a book, to be kept for that purpose, a particular account of the several fines and forfeitures collected and recovered as aforesaid; and of the mon[ey][ie]s so collected, he shall lay out and improve so much as shall be necessary (his own fees, as by law established, being first deducted) for purchasing of drums, colours, halberds, and other necessaries for the use of the troop or company whereunto he belongs, as from time to time he shall receive orders from the captain or chief officer, in writing, under his hand; and every such clerk shall likewise make a fair entry of his several disburse[m]en[ts] of the money by him collected, setting forth the use to which the same has been applied, and, some time in the month of March, yearly, if required, deliver to the captain, and to such others as are or may be concerned in ordering the disposition of any part of the mon[ey][ie]s so collected, an attested copy of such account of his receipts and disburse[m]en[ts], and shall receive, for his trouble therein (to be paid out of the fines), such recompence as the commission officers of such company shall judge reasonable; and the overplus, if any be, on ballance of such account shall, in the month of March, annually, render to the treasurer of the town where such company is, to be improved for the purchasing of arms, powder, bullets, and such other ammunition for a town stock, as by said act is required; and every military clerk shall be under oath, to be administered to him by a justice of the peace for the same county, for the faithful[1] discharge of his duty and trust in every of the particulars before mentioned; and upon conviction, before the court of general sessions of the peace (upon complaint made), of neglect therein, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds, to be laid out and improved for the purposes aforesaid.

Purchase drums, &c., by the captain's order.

Account to the captain, &c.,
in March annually;—

and render the overplus to the town treasurer;—

and be sworn to faithfulness in his office.

And be it further enacted,

Succeeding
clerk to recover what is not accounted for.

[SECT. 3.] That upon the death or removal of any military clerk, his successor in the said office shall have power, and is hereby authorized to demand, sue for, and recover of such clerk, if living, and of the executors or administrators of any clerk deceased, such sum or sums of money, collected as aforesaid, as remained in his hands at the time of his death or removal, and not applied to the use of such company, according to the directions of the law.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That when any servant, apprentice or other person, under the age of twenty-one years, liable by law to train, and, having been duly warned (not less than four day's notice beforehand to be accounted sufficient, unless in case of an alarm or other extraordinary occasion), shall not attend on military exercises on training days, or on military watches, the master, parent or other person who hath the immediate care and governm<sup>[en]</sup>t of such delinquent, shall be answerable for such neglect, and be obliged to satisfy and pay the fine by law imposed for such delinquency, and shall be liable to a suit for the same, as above provided.

Masters and parents shall answer the fines of minors.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That every person listed and orderly admitted into any company, shall so continue and attend his duty there, unless such person, by name, be dismiss'd, by writing, under the hand of the chief officer of the company or regiment to which he belongs, or of the captain-general or commander-in-chief of the province, or be removed out of the town or precinct, on pain of incurring, for each offence or neglect, the penalty by law already provided in case of non-appearance on training days.

How soldiers of any company may be dismissed.

[SECT. 6.] This act to continue and be in force for the term of seven years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE SPREADING OF THE SMALL-POX AND OTHER INFECTIOUS SICKNESS, AND TO PREVENT THE CONCEALING OF THE SAME.

WHEREAS the inhabitants of sundry towns in this province are often exposed to the infection of the small-pox and other malignant, contagious distempers, by persons coming from the neighbouring governments visited with such infectious sickness, and by goods transported hither that carry infection with them,— Preamble.

1739-40, chap. 1.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent<sup>[ati]</sup>ves,

[SECT. 1.] That any person or persons, coming from any place, in either of the neighbouring colonies or provinces, where the small-pox or other malignant, infectious distemper is prevailing, into any town within this province, who shall not, within the space of two hours from their first coming, or from the time they shall first be informed of their duty by law in this particular, give notice to one or more of the selectmen or town clerk of such town, of their coming thither, and of the place from whence they came, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds; and if any person or persons, coming into any town of this province from any such place visited with the small-pox or other infectious sickness, shall not, within the space of two hours (after warning given him or them for that purpose by the selectmen of such town), depart out of this province, in such case it shall and may be lawful [1] for any justice of the peace of such county, by warrant, directed to a constable or other proper officer, to cause such person or persons to be removed, with any their goods that may probably give infection, unto the colony or government from whence they came; and any person removed by warrant as aforesaid, who, during the prevalency of such distemper, shall presume to return into any town of this province without liberty first obtained from such justice, or from the selectmen of such town, shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds.

And be it further enacted,

He that entertains him shall forfeit £20.

[SECT. 2.] That any inhabitant of this province who shall entertain in his house any person warned to depart as aforesaid, by the space of two hours after notice given him or her by one or more of the selectmen, of such warning, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds.

And be it further enacted,

Persons to be appointed to examine travellers, &c., and stay them from travelling, on pain of £20.

[SECT. 3.] That it shall and may be lawful [ ] for the selectmen of any town or towns near to or bordering on either of the neighbouring governments, to appoint, by writing, under their hands, some meet person or persons to attend at ferries or other places by or over which passengers and travellers, coming from such infected places, may pass or be transported; which person or persons so appointed, shall have power to examine such passengers and travellers as they may suspect to bring infection with them, and, if need be, to hinder and restrain them from travelling, 'till licen[s][c]ed thereto by a justice of the peace within such county, or by the selectmen of the town into which such person or persons shall come; and any passenger who, coming from such infected place, shall, without licence as aforesaid, presume to travel or abide in this province after they shall have been cautioned and admonished, by the person or persons appointed as aforesaid, to depart, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds, and be removed thence by warrant as aforesaid.

Use of the fines.

[SECT. 4.] The several forfeitures arising by virtue of this act, to be, one moiety to and for the use of the town where the offence shall be committed, the other moiety to him or them who shall inform and sue for the same in any of his majesty's courts of record within this province.

And be it further enacted,

A pole and red cloth to be hung out of an infected house, on pain of £50.

[SECT. 5.] That from and after the publication of this act, when any person is visited with the small-pox in any town of this province, immediately, upon knowledge thereof, the head of the family in which such person is sick, shall acquaint the selectmen of the town therewith, and also hang out, on a pole at least six feet in length, a red cloth not under one yard long and half a yard wide, from the most publick part of the infected house, the said sign thus to continue 'till the house, in the judgment of the selectmen, is thoroughly aired and cleansed, upon penalty of forfeiting and paying the sum of fifty pounds for each offence, one half for the informer, and the other half for the use of the poor of the town where such offence shall be committed, to be sued for and recovered by the treasurer of the town, or the informer, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record; and if the party be unable, or refuses to pay such fine, then to be punished by whipping, not exceeding thirty stripes.

To inform the selectmen of symptoms, on penalty of £50.

[SECT. 6.] That when the small-pox is in any town of this province, and any person in said town (not having had the same) shall then be taken sick, and any pestilous eruptions appear, the head of that family wherein such person is, shall immediately acquaint one or more of the selectmen of the town therewith, that so the said selectmen may give directions therein, upon penalty of forfeiting the sum of fifty pounds, to be recovered and applied for the uses aforesaid, the whole charge to be born by the person thus visited, if able to defray the same; but if, in the judgment of the selectmen of the town, such person is indigent and unable, then the said charge to be born by the town whereto he or she belongs.

Provided, always,—

[SECT. 7.] That this act shall not be understood to extend to persons in any town where more than twenty families are known to be visited with the small-pox at one and the same time.

[SECT. 8.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of seven years, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL LAWS OF THIS PROVINCE RELATING TO THE SUPPORT OF POOR AND INDIGENT PERSONS.

WHEREAS it has sometimes so happened, and may hereafter happen, that persons that are poor and unable to support themselves, have and may greatly suffer by reason of the neglect of the selectmen or overseers of the poor of the town which, by law, is chargeable with their support, by reason of doubts and disputes touching what town or persons are, by law, liable to be at charge for their support, or on supposition or pretence that the condition and circumstances of such poor persons are not so necessitous as to require relief from the town, or to render them a proper town charge; for remedy whereof for the future,—

1699-1700, ch. 8.
1735-36, chap. 4.
1740-41, chap. 20.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That every such doubt, controversy or dispute, as aforementioned, shall be determined by the justices of the court of general sessions of the peace, in the county to which such poor person doth belong; and the said justices are hereby fully authorized and impowered fully to determine the same, upon application to them made for that purpose.

The justices to determine who are the poor of a town.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That in case the selectmen or overseers of the poor in any town, where there are such chosen and specially appointed for that purpose, shall refuse or neglect to take the care of, and afford the necessary relief to any poor and indigent person or persons that shall have been deemed and adjudged (by the justices in sessions) to stand in need of such relief, and to be the proper charge of the town to which such selectmen or overseers do belong, every such delinquent selectman or overseer shall, on each conviction, before the justices of the court aforesaid, of such refusal or neglect, be by them amerced in a sum not exceeding forty shillings, at the discretion of the court, regard being had to the circumstances extenuating or aggravating the offence; such sum to be levied by distress and sale of such offenders' goods, and to be applied for the support of the poor of the town where such delinquent selectmen or overseers dwell.

The overseers of the poor shall conform, on penalty of 40s.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That when any town shall refuse or neglect to defray the charges heretofore arisen, or that shall arise and accrue for the support of such indigent person or persons as ought to be supported at such town's proper charge; in such case the said justices are hereby impowered to assess the inhabitants of such town therefor, and to cause the same to be added to such town's proportion of the county tax, and therewith to be collected and paid into the county treasury, and to be disposed of, by order of said justices, for defr[a][e]ying the charges incurred for the support of such indigent person or persons as aforementioned.

And be it further enacted,

Such as have been at charge shall be refunded by the town.

[SECT. 4.] That whosoever hath been, or hereafter shall be at charge for the rel[ei][ie]f of such necessitous and indigent person or persons, who ought to be rel[ei][ie]ved and supported by the town or towns to which they respectively belong, during the time or part of the time that the selectmen or overseers of the poor have or shall neglect their duty in that behalf, the person or persons that have been or shall be at charge for their rel[ei][ie]f shall be refunded by such town or towns by order of the justices as afores[ai]d, and the same shall be assessed and collected in manner as before-mentioned.

Limitation.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the term of three years, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT TO PREVENT UNNECESSARY LAWSUITS.

Preamble.

1734-35, chap. 4.
7 Mass. 143.

WHEREAS it frequently happens in controversies upon book-debts or single contracts, that when the action comes upon trial the defendant pleads and urges payment, and, as an evidence, produces his acco[un][mp]t; and whereas the common practice is to give judgm[en]t without admitting any account in favour of the defendant, whereby he is necessitated to bring forward a suit himself, which occasions a further cost, and sometimes exposeth him to the loss of his debt, by reason of the original plaintiff's poverty or absconding,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled,

The defendant on single contract may give his account in evidence to balance the demand and prove it, as the plaintiff may his.

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any person is or shall be served with an original process in any action or plea, either of debt or of the case, for any sum of money due upon single contract between the parties for any goods sold or service done, due by account, whether such account be open or a ballance thereof be made and sign'd by the parties, to appear before any justice of the peace or inferio[u]r court of common pleas, before whom such case is cognizable, he shall be allowed by the court either to plead specially, or upon the general issue give his account in evidence by way of ballance to the plaintiff's demand, and be admitted to all such method and course of proving his account as any plaintiff upon his suit might; and the court or justice before whom such trial shall be, are hereby directed and impowered to compare and ballance the accounts of plaintiff and defendant, and to give judgm[en]t for so much only as shall appear upon such ballance due to the plaintiff; and if nothing appear due to the plaintiff on such ballance, to give judgment for costs to the defendant.

And to the intent the plaintiff may have sufficient opportunity to examine and make all just objections to the defendant's account,—

Be it further enacted,

And shall therefore file his account before-hand.

[SECT. 2.] That no defendant shall be admitted to produce or give his account in evidence upon any suit or trial as above, in a cause triable before a justice of the peace, unless he shall have left a copy of such account four days at least before the day of trial with the justice before whom the same is to be tried; and if the cause be before the inferior court of common pleas, then a copy of his account as above shall be left with the clerk of the court at least seven days before the day of the court's sitting; and the justice of the peace and clerk of the court, respectively, are hereby directed and required, at the desire of the plaintiff or his attorney, to grant a copy of such account.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of Limitation. seven years from the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the next session of the gen[era]l court, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 20.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL ACTS FOR REGULATING THE ASSIZE OF CASKS, AND PREVENTING DECEIT IN THE PACKING OF FISH, BEEF AND PORK FOR SALE.

WHEREAS it is required in and by the several acts for regulating the assize of cask, and preventing deceit in the packing of fish, beef and pork for sale, that the cask used for packing provisions should be made free of sap; which may occasion some difficulty to the packers, who may apprehend themselves obliged to refuse some cask which may be every way sufficient, tho' not exactly conformable to the words of the law as it now stands,— Preamble. 1742-43, chap. 4.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, the packers of fish, beef and pork be and hereby are allowed to pass as merchantable and according to law any cask used in packing the commodities aforesaid which they in their best judgment shall think sufficient to hold pickle without danger of leaking, altho' the staves of which the said cask are made may not be intirely free from sap. The packers to allow cask.

And as the allowance by law to the packers is found insufficient,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That for packing or repacking and pickling each barrel of pork, beef or fish, the packer shall be allowed twelvence, and in proportion for greater or less cask, except where the buyer and seller shall agree that the pork, beef or fish shall not be pickled (as not being for exportation) in which case the allowance shall be ninepence only, and the packer shall be paid by the person selling the commodities aforesaid. Allowed 12d. or 9d.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force until [1] the fifth day of July, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and no longer. Limitation. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE PROPRIETORS OF HASSANAMISCO LANDS IN THE TOWNSHIP OF GRAFTON TO RAISE MON[ET]S FOR SUPPORTING THE MINISTRY, AND DEFRAYING THE OTHER CHARGES ARISEN AND ARISING THERE.

WHEREAS the proprietors of Hassanamisco lands in the township of Grafton, by an act of this governm[en]t pass'd in the first year of his Preamble. 1727-28, chap. 14. 1734-35, chap. 20.

present majesty's reign, are obliged to erect a meeting-house and school-house, and to support a minister and schoolmaster there, and four-fifths of the charge thereby arising was by said act ordered to be defr[a][e]yed by forty persons, to whom liberty was granted to purchase said lands, the other fifth part by nine families before that time set[t]led there, and that the afores[ai]d proportion of charges, together with the method then assigned for raising and collecting mon[ey][ie]s to defr[a][e]y the same should continue and be observed until[l] those lands should be made a township; and whereas said lands have since been erected into a township, and that before the whole of the charges so incurred were collected in pursuance of said act; wherefore, to enable said proprietors to collect the same,—

Manner of the assessment.

That the assessors of the propriety of Grafton, alias Hassanamisco, be and hereby are enabled to assess the several proprietors of the said tract of land purchased by said forty persons, and set[t]led or possessed by said nine families, for all charges which may still be behind and unpaid, and which arose or were occasioned by the compliance of said proprietors with the duties required of them by the aforesaid act; four-fifths thereof to be apportioned upon the present proprietors of the lands petitioned for and purchased by the aforesaid forty persons, the other fifth on the present proprietors of the lands which were possessed by said nine English persons or families before the said act. And the collector or collectors of the said proprietors of Grafton, alias Hassanamisco, are hereby enabled and impowered to gather and collect such taxes as shall be committed to him or them by the assessors as aforesaid, and upon the refusal of any of the proprietors who shall be assessed as aforesaid, to pay such sum or sums as shall be set upon and required of them, the collector or collectors to whom the said tax is committed are hereby impowered and directed to make sale to the highest bidder of so much of the said proprietor's land, who shall so refuse to pay, as shall satisfy his part of said assessm[en]t, the overplus, if any there be, to be returned to the said proprietor; and the said collector or collectors shall post up a notification in some publick place in said Hassanamisco, and also give notice of the intended sale in one or more of the publick newspapers at least thirty days before the time appointed for said sale. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

Collectors to sell the lands of such as pay not their tax.

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT TO PREVENT FIRING THE WOODS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is found by experience that the burning of the woods does greatly impoverish the lands, prevent the growth of wood, and destroys much fence, to the great detriment of the owners; for prevention whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[at]ives,

None to fire the woods lying in common, without leave, on pain of 40s., and answer the damage to the proprietors.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall wittingly and willingly set fire in any woods or land lying in common within the bounds of any town, without leave first had from the town or proprietors, respectively, owners of such land lying in common, by a major vote, at a meeting for that purpose.

appointed, under the penalty of forty shillings, to be recovered by action or information, before any justice of the peace in the county where the offence is committed, such penalty to be for the use of the person or persons who shall prosecute or sue for the same; and the party offending shall be further liable to the action of the town, proprietors or particular persons damnified by such fire; and in case such fire shall be set or kindled by any person under age, such penalty shall be recovered of the parent or master, respectively, of such person under age, unless it shall appear such person under age was employed or directed by some person other than the parent or master, in which case the person so employing or directing shall be liable thereunto.

In case of infants.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That it shall and may be lawful [1] for any town or proprietors of any such lands as aforesaid, to give order for the setting fire in the lands to them respectively belonging, and to ch[oo][u]se two or more persons for that service, who shall appoint times for that purpose, and give seasonable notice thereof in the town where such lands l[y][i]e, and to the selectmen of such adjacent town, near the borders whereof the woods may be that are to be set on fire as aforesaid.

The town or proprietors may give leave, first giving public notice to such as may be affected by it.

And inasmuch as it is oftentimes impossible to prove such facts by direct testimonies,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That upon process brought for setting fire as aforesaid, where proof cannot be made in the ordinary method and course of the law, if the plaintiff, complainant or other credible person, shall swear that fire has been kindled as is declared in the writ, and there does appear such circumstances as shall render it highly probable, in the judgment of the court or justice before whom the trial is, that the fire was kindled by the defendant, his child or servant, or by some other child or person under the age of fourteen years, directed or employed by the defendant for that purpose, then, and in such case, unless the person charged (being of the age of fourteen years or upwards) will acquit himself, upon oath administered to him by the court or justice before whom the trial is, the plaintiff or complainant shall recover against the defendant, the penalty by this act imposed, and costs; but if the defendant shall acquit himself upon oath as aforesaid, judgment shall be entred up for the defendant, his costs against the plaintiff.

Manner of conviction.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING TO THOMAS SYMMES, GENTLEMAN, AND GRACE PARKER, WIDOW, BOTH OF CHARLESTOWN, IN THE COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX, THE SOLE PRIVILEGE OF MAKING STONE-WARE.

WHEREAS Thomas Symmes, gentleman, and Grace Parker, widow, both of Charlestown, in the county of Middlesex, have represented to this court, that, having procured a person well skilled in the art or mystery of making stone-ware, and engaged him to instruct them therein, they are willing to undertake the making that kind of ware within this province, and have thereupon prayed that they may enjoy the sole privilege of making the same for such term of time as they govern, in consideration of the expensiveness and risque of the undertaking, shall judge reasonable; and this court, being willing to give due encouragement<sup>[en]</sup> to undertakings likely to prove beneficial to the publick; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Term of the privilege, fifteen years.

[SECT. 1.] That the sole right, privile<sup>[d]</sup>ge, and advantage of making the kind of ware commonly called stone-ware, be and hereby is granted to the said Thomas Symmes and Grace Parker, and to their respective heirs and assigns, to have and to hold to their only use, benefit, and behoof, for and during the full space and term of fifteen years, to commence on and from the publication of this act.

And be it further enacted,

Prohibition to others: penalty, £20.

[SECT. 2.] That all and every other person and persons whosoever, be and hereby are strictly forbidden to make the said ware within this province at any time or times during the term aforesaid; and every person offending against this act shall, on each conviction, forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds, to be recovered by the said Thomas Symmes and Grace Parker, their heirs or assigns, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record in the county where the offence shall be committed.

And be it further enacted,

And their buildings for that purpose a common nuisance.

[SECT. 3.] That every kiln, house or other edifice that shall be used in the making or burning any ware of the kind aforementioned, within the term aforesaid, whether the same be already erected, or shall hereafter be erected (unless by allowance and permission of the said Thomas Symmes and Grace Parker, or their heirs, or by special order of this governm<sup>[en]</sup>t, to be made in case of the said grantees failing to carry on the aforesaid business with effect during the term aforementioned), shall be deemed a common nuisance, and the court of general sessions of the peace in the county where such nuisance may be, shall cause the same to be demolished, and the charge of so doing to be answered and paid by disposing of so much of the materials as shall be necessary to satisfy the same. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 24.

AN ACT FOR THE MORE EASY PARTITION OF LANDS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the partition of lands is often delayed by reason that the parties concerned therein are very numerous, and live remote from each other, and sometimes in parts beyond the seas, and are, as to some of them, unknown, to the hind<sup>[e]</sup>rance and retarding of improvem<sup>[en]</sup>t and settlements of lands in this province; for remedy whereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Any partner may petition the superior court, and have a partition by five freeholders.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, any person or persons interested with any others in any lot or grant of land, or other real estate, making application, either by themselves or their lawful<sup>[l]</sup> agents, attorneys or guardians, to the superio<sup>[u]</sup>r court of judicature, holden for and within the respective counties of this province where such lot, grant or estate lies, the said court is hereby authorized and empowered to cause partition of such estate to be made, and the share or shares of the party or parties applying for the same, to be set off and divided from the rest, such petition to be made upon oath by five freeholders, or the major part of them, to be appointed by said court, and a return of such partition to be made to the clerk's office of said court; and the partition or division so made, being accepted by the said court, and there recorded, shall be valid and effectual to all intents and purposes.

[SECT. 2.] That before such partition be made, where any infants or persons under age, or non compos, are interested, guardians shall be appointed for all such persons, according to law. And if any person interested in any such estate, happen, at the time when such application shall be made, to be beyond sea, or out of the province, and has no sufficient attorney within the same, that then, and in such cases, the justices of said court shall appoint some discreet and indifferent person as agent for such absent party, and, on his or her behalf, to be advising in the making of such partition.

Guardians shall first be appointed to any infant or non compos, interested, and agents for persons out of the province.

Provided, also,—

[SECT. 3.] That before such partition be made, due notice, by special order of said court, be given to all concerned that are known and within this province, that so they may be present, if they see meet, at the time of making the same.

Notice to persons absent, before the partition is made.

Provided, also,—

[SECT. 4.] That if any partners should have a larger share set off than what is such partners' true and real interest, or if any share set off should be more than equal in value to the proportion it was set off for, then, and in every such case, upon complaint made within three years next after such partition, by any aggrieved partner or partners, who, at the time of making such partition, were out of the province, and not notified thereof as aforesaid, a partition as aforesaid shall be made de novo; and in such new partition, every partner shall be allowed for all the improvements he or they shall have made on any of their respective parts, and so much, and no more, taken off from any share, as such share shall be adjudged more than the proportion of the whole it was designed for, estimating all the lands, or other real estate, as in its original state, or in the state wherein it was when first divided.

If more is set off to any one than is his due, a new partition may be made upon complaint thereof within three years, allowing for improvements made.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 14; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 25.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE MULTIPLICITY OF LAWSUITS.

WHEREAS of late it hath been the practice of some of the sheriffs, undersheriffs, or their deputies, within this province, to receive from some of the justices of the peace, and the clerks of the courts within the respective counties, blank writs, and then fill them up and serve them, and sometimes appear, by virtue of a power of attorney, to pursue the same; which practice has a tendency very much to increase the number of lawsuits, and to a partial administration of justice; for remedy whereof,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That no sheriff, undersheriff, or deputy sheriff within this province, from and after the publication of this act, shall presume to draw or fill up any writ[t] for any matter or thing whatsoever, triable before any of his majesty's justices of the peace or courts of record within this province, or be any ways of advice or assistance therein, unless in cases where he or they are concerned as plaintiff; and in case it appears to the justice or court to whom such writ[t] is returned, that any writ[t] was so drawn or fill'd up as aforesaid, such justice or court shall dismiss the same, and allow costs for the defendant.

Sheriffs not to fill up writs.

And be it further enacted,

Nor appear by power of attorney, &c.

[SECT. 2.] That no appearance of any sheriff, his undersheriff, or deputy, before any justice of the peace or court of record, by virtue of a power of attorney, shall be allowed good to any intent or purpose whatsoever, in the county where he is an officer, except where the party giving the power lives out of the province, and in this case his appearance shall not be allowed if he filled the writ.

Limitation.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of seven years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 26.

AN ACT FOR INLISTING THE INHABITANTS OF DORCHESTER INTO HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE FOR THE DEFENCE OF CASTLE WILLIAM, AS OCCASION SHALL REQUIRE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the safety of this province in a great measure depends on the strength of his majesty's Castle William, and it being necessary that a good number of men skilful[1] in the management of the great artillery, should be always ready there,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

The militia of Dorchester to be enlisted for the castle.

[SECT. 1.] That the inhabitants of the town of Dorchester, who are by law subject to common musters and military exercises there, not exceeding fifty years of age, shall be [e][i]nlisted under the present captains or other officers as the captain-general shall commissionate, who shall repair to Dorchester Neck, and be transported over to Castle William eight days in each year, in such months as the captain-general shall order, and shall on the said days be, by the gunner and quarter-gunners, exercised in the mounting, dismounting, level[ing], traversing and firing the great guns, and shall be obliged hereunto, and the observance of such orders as shall be given them in this exercise, under the like pains and penalties that soldiers are under to obey their officers in said castle in time of service.

Fine on the delinquents, &c.

[SECT. 2.] That if any of the men in the town of Dorchester [e][i]nlisted as aforesaid shall neglect, absent, or refuse to attend at time and place for the exercise of the great artillery as aforesaid, being thereof notified and warned to appear, for every such day's neglect such soldier shall pay to the clerk of the company for the use thereof the sum of five shillings.

And whereas the soldiers of the militia in this province are obliged to train but four days in a year, extraordinary musters excepted,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Those that attend shall be paid for it, &c.,—

[SECT. 3.] That the officers and soldiers that shall appear the eight days at Castle William, as is provided for in this act, shall be paid for four of the said days after the rates following: the captain, five shillings; lieutenant, four shillings; ensign, three shillings and sixpence; serjeants and clerks, three shillings; drummers and corporals, two shillings and ninepence : private centinels, two shillings and sixpence per diem each, out of the province treasury : and that such officers and soldiers be allowed subsistence, as the other officers and soldiers have, during their service at said castle.

And for the further encouragement of the said men enlisted and exercised as aforesaid, and that they may be expert in the management of the great artillery,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all and every man shall be excused from all other military service, and from all impresses into other service that other soldiers by law are liable to.

and be exempted from other duties.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That upon any alarm at Castle William, every man, able of body, as well those [e][i]nlisted by virtue of this act, as others, within the town of Dorchester, except such persons as are by law obliged to attend upon the governo[u]r for the time being, shall forthwith appear compleat with their arms and ammunition according to law, at the said Castle William, there to attend and follow such commands as shall be given for his majesty's service, and that on the penalty of paying five pounds to the clerk of the said company ; the said fines to be recovered before any justice of peace or court proper to hear and try the same.

Upon an alarm at Castle William, they shall attend, upon pain of £5.

[SECT. 6.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years. [Passed January 15 ; published January 17, 1742-43.]

Limitation.

AN ACT TO PREVENT GAMING FOR MONEY OR OTHER GAIN.

WHEREAS games and exercises, although lawful, should not be otherwise used than as innocent and moderate recreations, and not as trades or callings to gain a living, or make unlawful[1] advantage thereby,—

Preamble.
1736-37, chap. 17.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the twenty-fifth day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, all notes, bills, bonds, judgments, mortgages, or other securities or conveyances whatsoever given, granted, drawn, or enter'd into, or executed by any person or persons whatsoever, where the whole or any part of the consideration of such conveyances or securities shall be for any money or other valuable thing whatsoever, won by gaming, or playing at cards, dice, tables, tennis, bowles, or other game or games whatsoever ; or by betting on the side or hands of such as do game at any of the games aforesaid, or for the reimbursing or repaying any money knowingly lent or advanced for such gaming or betting as aforesaid, or lent or advanced at the time and place of such play to any person or persons so gaming or betting as aforesaid ; or that shall during such play, so play or bett, shall be utterly void, frustrate, and of none effect, to all intents and purposes whatsoever ; and that where such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances shall be of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or shall be such as incumber or affect the same, such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances shall enure and be to and for the sole use and benefit of and shall devolve upon such person or persons as should or might have or be [e][i]ntitled to such lands, tenements, or hereditam[en]ts in case the said grantor or grantors thereof, or the person or persons so incumbering the same, had been naturally dead; and as if such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances had been made to such person or persons so to be [e][i]ntitled after the decease of the person or persons so incumbering the same; and that all grants or conveyances to be made for the preventing of such lands, tenements, or hereditaments from coming to or devolving upon such person or persons hereby intended to enjoy the same as afores[ai]d, shall be deemed fraudulent and void and of none effect, to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

[SECT. 2.] That from and after the said twenty-fifth day of March, any person or persons whatsoever who shall at any time, or sitting, by playing at cards, dice, tables, or other game or games whatsoever, or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do play at any game or games as aforesaid, lose to any one or more person or persons so playing or betting, any sum or sums of money, or any other valuable thing [or things] whatsoever, and shall pay or deliver the same or any part thereof, the person or persons so losing and paying or delivering the same shall be at liberty, within three months then next after, to sue for and recover the money or goods so lost and paid, or delivered, or any part thereof, from the respective winner or winners thereof, with costs of suit, by action of debt founded on this act, to be prosecuted in any of his maj[es]ty's courts of record, in w[hi]ch actions or suits no essoign, protection, wager of law, or more than one imparlance, shall be allowed; in w[hi]ch actions it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to alledge that the defendant or defendants are indebted to the plaintiff, or received to the plaintiff's use, the mon[ey][ie]s so lost and paid, or converted the goods won of the plaintiffs to the defendant's use, whereby the plaintiff's action accrued to him according to the form of this act, without setting forth the special matter. And in case the person or persons who shall lose such money or other thing as aforesaid, shall not within the time afores[ai]d really and bonâ fide, and without coven or collusion sue, and with effect prosecute, for the money or other thing so by him or them lost and paid, or delivered as afores[ai]d, it shall and may be lawful[1] to and for any person or persons, by any such action or suit as aforesaid, to sue for and recover the same and treble the value thereof, with costs of suit, against such winner or winners as afores[ai]d; the one moiety thereof to the use of the person or persons that will sue for the same, and the other moiety to the use of the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed.

And for the better discovery of the mon[ey][ie]s or other thing so won, and to be sued for and recovered as aforesaid,—

It is hereby further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all and every the person or persons, who by virtue of this present act shall and may be liable to be sued for the same, shall be obliged and compellable to answer upon oath such bill or bills as shall be preferred against him or them in any of the courts of record within this province, for discovering the sum and sums of money or other thing so won at play as afores[ai]d.

And be it, nevertheless, enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That upon the discovery and repaym[en]t of the money or other thing to be so discovered and repaid as afores[ai]d, the person or persons who shall so discover and repay the same as aforesaid, shall be acquitted, indemnified, and discharged from any other or further punishm[en]t, forfeiture, or penalty, which he or they may have incurred by the playing for or winning such money or other thing so discovered and repaid as aforesaid; anything in this present act contained to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

The loser, after payment, may recover it back.

In default thereof, any other person may sue and recover treble the value of the winner.

The winner shall discover upon oath the sum or thing so won.

And such repayment shall excuse the winner from any other penalty.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of seven years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 28.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AND EXPLANATION OF [THE] [AN] ACT [E][I]NTITLED AN "ACT FOR REGULATING TOWNSHIPS, CHOICE OF TOWN OFFICERS," &c.

WHEREAS in and by an act made in the fourth year of the reign of King William and Queen Mary, [e][t]htitled "An Act for regulating of townships, choice of town officers, and setting forth their power," the freeholders and inhabitants of each town who are rateable at twenty pounds estate to one single rate besides the poll, are impow[er]ed to assemble and to give their votes in choice of town officers in the month of March annually, but no rule of valuation is therein prescribed, whereby such estate, qualifying to vote as aforesaid, shall be estimated, nor is it declared whether the like estate shall qualify a voter in other town affairs; and there being no law of this province expressly setting forth and ascertaining the qualification of voters in precincts and parishes, by reason of which many doubts and controversies have arisen; for preventing whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Govern[or], Council and House of Represent[at]ives, [SECT. 1.] That henceforward no person shall be deemed duly qualified or be admitted to vote in the choice of officers, or in the other affairs to be transacted at any meeting of the town, precinct or parish where he dwells, but such only who are personally present at such meeting, and have a rateable estate in such town or district, besides the poll, amounting to the value of twenty pounds, by the following method of estimation; viz<sup>[1]</sup>, real estate to be set at so much only as the rents or income thereof for the space of six years would amount to were it let at a reasonable rate; and personal estate and faculty to be estimated according to the rule of valuation prescribed in the act from time to time made for apportioning and assessing publick taxes.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That when any dispute shall arise respecting the qualifications of any person offering his vote in any such publick meeting, the same shall be determined by the moderator of such meeting according to the list and valuation of estates and faculties of persons, in such town or district, last made by assessors under oath; and if it thereby appear that such person is not qualified as by this act is provided, his vote shall not be received: provided, that the value of lands leased shall not be reckoned to qualify the ter-tenant, but to qualify the lessor if he be an inhabitant in such town, precinct or parish.

Provided also,—

[SECT. 3.] That when such dispute shall happen to arise in any town, precinct or parish meeting, before a moderator shall be chosen, in such case the major part of the selectmen then present, or of the precinct or parish committee, shall, respectively, determine the same in manner as aforesaid; and the assessors of each town and district are hereby required to lodge with the clerk of their respective towns and districts an attested copy of such their list and valuation from year to year, which he shall produce for the purpose aforesaid as there shall be occasion; and every assessor, belonging to such town or precinct where the inhabitants are not usually doomed, neglecting his duty herein, shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings, to be recovered before any of his majesty's justices of the peace of the same county.

And be it further enacted,

The moderator permitting a person unqualified to vote, forfeits,— and he that puts in more than one vote, forfeits.

[SECT. 4.] That if the moderator of any such meeting shall countenance and permit any person not qualified as aforesaid, whose qualification for voting has been called in question, to give his voice in any such meeting, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds; and whosoever shall presume to put in more than one vote at a time shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds; one moiety of the said forfeitures to be for the use of the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed, and the other moiety to him or them that shall inform or sue for the same in any of his majesty's courts of record.

And whereas several towns of the province do not give in an exact account of their rateable estate, and so the assessors are obliged to doom the inhabitants according to the best of their skill and judgment, whereby the qualification of voters in such places may be more difficult to come at; wherefore,—

Be it enacted,

The qualification of voters.

[SECT. 5.] That where a full invoice and valuation of the rateable estates in any town or district is not taken, and the assessors, on oath, do doom the inhabitants, those persons only shall be allowed to vote who are rated two-third parts so much for their estates and faculties as for one single poll, in the last tax of such town or district, respectively.

Provided always,—

Saving the voters for representatives.

[SECT. 6.] That nothing in this act shall be interpreted to exclude any person[s] from the privilege of voting in the choice of representatives, who are duly qualified therefor according to the royal charter.

Limitation.

CHAPTER 29.

AN ACT FOR THE MORE EASY PARTITION OF LANDS OR OTHER REAL ESTATE GIVEN BY WILL, AND HELD IN COMMON AND UNDIVIDED AMONG THE DEVISEES.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is usual for persons by their last wills to devise their real estates to sundry of their children or others, to be divided to and amongst them in some certain proportion, a division whereof cannot be obtained by the act of the parties, by reason of their disagree[en]t or some legal incapacity that some of them are under, and other methods for obtaining such partition are attended with charge, delay and other inconveniences, to the prejudice of such estate; for remedy whereof,—

The judge of probates to order a division of lands, &c., devised.

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any devisee, or his guardian, who holds any real estate in partnership with any other person or persons by force of any last will and testament, shall make application to the judge of probate of wills, &c., in the county where such estates lie[s], for a division thereof, it shall and may be lawful[ly] for such judge of probate to order the whole of the real estate so devised (or that part of it the partition whereof is requested) to be divided to and amongst the devisees in proportion according to the will of the testator, by five good and discreet freeholders of the same county, to be appointed by the judge of probate, and to be sworn to the due performance of that service by the said judge, or by a justice of the peace of the same county, in case the estate to be divided be not within ten miles from the town where the judge himself dwells, notice being first given to all parties concerned to be present at the making such partition, if they see cause; which partition or division being returned into the probate office and approved by the judge, and there recorded, shall be valid in the law to all intents and purposes, unless upon the appeal of any party aggr[ei][ie]ved at the partition so made, the same should be reversed or altered by the governour and council.

Notice to be given to all parties.

An appeal.

Provided,

[SECT. 2.] That no partition of such estate shall be made where the proportion belonging to the devisees or any of them shall appear by the tenor of the devise[e] to be disputable and uncertain.

Except the proportion of the devisees be doubtful.

Provided also,

[SECT. 3.] That where any of the devisees are minors or out of this province, guardians be first appointed for such minors according to law, and some discreet and indifferent person be appointed by said judge to represent and act for such absent party, who shall be allowed six months after his return into the province to appeal to the gov[ernou]r and council from such judgm[en]t.

Guardians shall be first appointed, &c.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the term of three years, and no longer. [Passed January 15; published January 17, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 30.

AN ACT FOR ERECTING A TRACT OF LAND COMMONLY CALLED NEW LISBORN, LYING IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE, INTO A TOWNSHIP BY THE NAME OF PELHAM.

WHEREAS there are a considerable number of families settled on a tract of land commonly called New Lisburn, lying in the county of Hampshire, who have represented to this court that they labour under great difficulties, by reason of their not being incorporated into a township,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the lands afores<sup>d</sup> be and hereby are erected into a seperate and distinct township, by the name of Pelham, the bounds whereof to be as follows; viz<sup>t</sup>, bounding easterly on a tract of land commonly called Quabin, granted to a number of Canada and Narraganset soldiers; southerly, on a lot of equivalent land, so called, belonging to the Reverend Mr. Edwards and Mrs. Rebecca Hanley; westerly, on the east bounds of the town of Hadley; and northerly, partly on a new township commonly called Road Town, and partly on a new township commonly called New Salem; and that the inhabitants on the land afores<sup>d</sup> be and hereby are vested with all the powers, privileges and immunities which the inhabitants of other towns within this province are, or, by law, ought to be vested with. [Passed January 15, 1742-43.]

CHAPTER 31.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS IN BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE TENOR AND FORM LAST EMITTED; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A FURTHER TAX OF ONE THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED AND THIRTY-EIGHT POUNDS AND THREEPENCE ONE FARTHING, IN BILLS OF CREDIT OF SAID TENOR AND FORM PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN GENERAL COURT, AND TRAVEL.

1741-42, chap. 11, § 29.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of the province of the Massachusetts Bay did, at their session in November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, pass an act for the levying a tax of seven thousand five hundred pounds in bills by the said act emitted, and for the levying a tax of twenty thousand pounds in bills before current in the province, said twenty thousand pounds being equal to five thousand pounds of the bills emitted by said act; and said sums of seven thousand five hundred pounds, and three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds,* were ordered by said act to be assessed this present year; and, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, did pass an act for the levying a tax of three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds in bills emitted by said act, to be assessed this present year; and also a tax of three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, to be assessed in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, the whole of the several sums aforesaid amounting to the sum of twenty thousand pounds: and by the several aforesaid acts, provision was made, that the general court might, in the several years, apportion the several sums on the several towns in the province, if they thought fit; and the assembly aforesaid have likewise ordered that the sum of one thousand six hundred and thirty-eight pounds and threepence farthing, being the one half of such sums or sums as were paid the representatives in the years one thousand seven hundred and thirty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and forty, should be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their respective representatives have received; wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectual drawing in the sum of sixteen thousand two hundred and fifty pounds, pursuant to the funds and grants aforesaid, and for removing or bringing forward the fund for three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds laid on the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-three as aforesaid, and laying the same on this present year, and drawing the said sum into the treasury according to the apportionment now agreed to by this court; and also for drawing in the sum of one thousand six hundred and thirty-eight pounds and threepence one farthing, paid the representatives as aforesaid; all which is unanimously approved, ratified and confirmed; we, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That each town and district within this province be assessed and pay as such town's and district's proportion of the sum of twenty thousand pounds in bills of the tenor last emitted, as also for the fines laid on them, and their representatives' pay, the several sums following; that is to say,—

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or district in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years at four shillings and twopence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum receiv'd out of the treasury, for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governour and their families, the president, fellows and students of Harvard College, settled ministers and grammar school-masters who are hereby exempted, as well from being taxed for their polls as for their estates, being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro' age, infirmity, or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed in making an assessment to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation, or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits, which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business, or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound, and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and in making their assessments to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate Indian, negro and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every goat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate and income by trade or faculty; and the list or lists so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, sometime before the last day of January.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowred and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of May next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, sometime in the month of March next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accompts of the whole, at or before the last day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-three.

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring into the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty. And if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion to this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving, to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of polls, rateable estate, or income by any trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assess'd; such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

Preamble.

And forasmuch as oftentimes sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade and traffick is finished and deliver'd to the constable or collector, and before the next year's assessment are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho', in the time of their residing there, they reap'd considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[SECT. 7.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town of this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade and deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowred to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act providen, tho' the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, inhabitant of some one town within this province, shall transact or carry on trade and business in some other town in the province, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods or merchandize, for carrying on such trade and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act.

[SECT. 9.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assess'd on persons who are not of this province, or are inhabitants of any other town as aforesaid, and pay the same into the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they may respectively be assess'd at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, in bills of credit of the last emission, or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at the rate of six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight; or in gold coin, at the rate of four pounds eighteen shillings per ounce; or in good, merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or merchantable flax, at fivepence per pound; or in good, merchantable, winter, Isle-of-Sable codfish, at ten shillings per quintal; or in good, refined bar-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton; or bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good, hollow iron-ware, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and threepence per bushel; or good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel; or good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel; or good barrel pork, at two pounds per barrel; or in barrel beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound; or merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred; or in good train-oyl, at one pound ten shillings per barrel; or in good bees-wax, at tenpence per pound; or in bayberry-wax, at sixpence per pound; or in tryed tallow, at fourpence per pound; or in good pease, at three shillings per bushel; or in good sheepswool, at ninepence per pound; or good, tann'd sole-leather, at fourpence per pound: all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold; and the several persons who pay their taxes in any of the commodities before mentioned, shall run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the same to the province treasury.

Tax may be paid in other species, besides the bills emitted.

[SECT. 11.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of any of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in treasury. [Passed January 6, 1742-43.]

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL ACTS FOR REGULATING FENCES.

WHEREAS the several laws already made are ineffectual for obliging persons to make and maintain partition-fences between their lands under improvement, whereby the aggrieved parties are put to great expence and charge in forcing a compliance by the rules of the law,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the first day of May next, that the respective proprietors of all lands enclosed with fence, shall keep up and maintain partition-fences between their and the next adjoining enclosures, in equal halves according to law, so long as both parties continue to improve the same, and in case either party lay his enclosure common, the party improving shall allow for his half of said partition-fence what the same shall be judged worth, in the estimation of two or more of the fence-viewers of such town; and if any person shall enclose such land afterwards, or, by joining fences with another, enclose his lands before lying common, he shall thereupon pay to the person who owns the partition-fence the value of one half of the same, in the judgment of the fence-viewers as aforesaid; and all partition-fences hereafter to be made, shall be in like manner done and maintained by the improving parties in equal halves; and in case either party refuse, after six days' notice, to make up his half thereof, the aggrieved party shall forthwith apply himself to two or more of the fence-viewers of such town, who hereby are impowered and enabled to make up the same according to law, and upon such person's refusal, who ought to pay for the same, with their costs and charges thereon, to prosecute and sue for it in any court of law proper to try the same. And in case any dispute shall arise about the respective owner's right to any part of such fence, and his or their obligation to maintain the same, upon application made to two or more of the fence-viewers of such town where the land lies, they are hereby impowered to assign to each party his share thereof; and such settlement being recorded in the town-clerk's office, shall be binding upon such persons, and they obliged always thereafter to maintain their part of said fence as aforesaid; and in case any of the parties aforesaid refuse or neglect, after six days' notice given, to erect, keep up and maintain the partition-fences as is by this act prescribed, upon application made to two or more of the fence-viewers aforesaid, they shall do or cause the same to be done at the cost of the person neglecting his duty, who, in case of refusal, shall be liable to the suit of such fence-viewers for the recovery

CHAPTER 34.

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE TOWN OF WEYMOUTH TO REGULATE AND ORDER THE TAKING AND DISPOSING OF THE FISH CALLED SHADD AND ALEWIVES, WITHIN THE LIMITS OF THAT TOWN.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the town of Weymouth, in the county of Suffolk, have been at considerable expence and charge in purchasing and opening a water passage for the fish called shadd and alewives from the sea into a pond called Whitman's Pond and Great Pond, being wholly within the bounds of said town, it seems reasonable and but just that the sole ordering the taking of said fish, and the disposition of them when taken, should be wholly vested in said town of Weymouth; to w[hi]ch purpose,—

Town of Weymouth to regulate the fishing at Whitman's Pond.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, it shall and may be lawful[l] for the inhabitants of the said town of Weymouth, at a meeting regularly assembled for that purpose, from time to time during the continuance of this act, to determine and order how, in what manner, by whom and what place or places, time or times in the year, the said fish may be taken within the town aforesaid, and shall cause a copy of such order, attested by the town clerk, to be posted up in some publick place in s[ai]d town of Weymouth, whereunto all persons shall conform with respect to the taking and disposing of said fish, on penalty that the offender against the same shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten shillings for each offence, to be recovered before any justice of the peace, by the treas[ure]r of the town of Weymouth, and applied, the one moiety to the poor of the town of Weymouth, and the other to him or them that may sue for the same.

Provided,

Proviso for the neighboring towns.

[SECT. 2.] The said town of Weymouth do, for the benefit of the neighbouring towns, appoint one or more meet person or persons to fish for their supply during the usual season, and give publick notice on or before the twentieth of this instant April, and, for the future, on or before the first day of April annually, of time, place, person or persons by which they are to be supplied, and for such fish so supplied and delivered, that the said town of Weymouth, or those employed by them, shall demand or receive no more than fourpence per hundred for alewives, and six shillings per hundred for shadd, and so in proportion for a greater or lesser quantity.

And provided, also,

Justices to appoint persons for the neighboring towns.

[SECT. 3.] That if the person or persons appointed by the s[ai]d town of Weymouth for the purpose afores[ai]d, shall neglect or refuse that service, upon application of any two or more persons aggr[ei][ie]ved to the two next justices in the neighbouring towns, they may appoint one or more meet person or persons, which shall be subject to the general orders of said town respecting the fishery aforesaid, and who shall give sufficient security, to the acceptance of the aforesaid justices, to render and pay to the treasurer of the said town of Weymouth the full produce of his or their fishing, at the rates aforesaid, after a reasonable deduction being made at the discretion of the justices aforesaid for the said person or persons' time and labour therein; saving, always, to the Indians the right of fishing in the ponds aforesaid, and the water-passages leading thereto.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed April 23; published April 30, 1743.]

NOTES.—There were four sessions of the General Court this year; but no acts were passed at the second session, which began September 2, and ended September 10.

The engrossments of all the acts of this year are preserved, except of chapters 31 and 33, and all the public acts were printed, except chapter 30.

The following is the title of the only private act passed this year:—

“An Act to take off the Entail from certain Lands in Ipswich in the County of Essex, late the Estate of John Wainwright, Esqr, Deceased, & to enable Christain Wainwright, his Relict, Widow, to sell the same.” [Passed June 18.]

This was disallowed by the Privy Council.

The acts of the first session, and also chapter 31, were delivered by Mr. Kilby, the agent of the province, to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, July 8, 1743. The acts of the first session had been duly certified for transmission, at Boston, on the 13th of October, 1742, and chapter 31 was certified, in like manner, January 25, 1742-43. They were laid before the lords justices four days after their reception, and immediately referred to a committee, upon whose report they were submitted to the Board of Trade, July 24, 1743. The Board of Trade, in turn, referred them to Mr. Fane for his opinion in point of law, who, February 29, 1743-44, reported them back as unobjectionable. From time to time, during the month of November, 1745, they were discussed by the Board of Trade. The Board agreed upon a report, April 10, 1746, a draught of which was prepared and signed seven days later.

In this report, chapters 1, 4, 5, 6, and 7 are declared to have expired, and the purposes for which chapters 2, 3, and 31 were enacted are declared to have been completed. With regard to chapters 8, 9, 10, and 11, “relating to the Oeconomy of the Province,” the Board say, they “are enacted for the private convenience” of the Province, “and we see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them.”

The acts of the third session were filed with the clerk of the Privy Council, August 24, 1743, read, and referred to a committee, September 8, 1743, and, seven days later, read in committee, and referred to the Board of Trade, by whom they were submitted, in regular course, to Mr. Fane. Mr. Fane reported, on the second day of February following, that, as these acts “relate to the Affairs of the Province, and seem calculated for the well ordering and governing the same, I have no objection to any of them.”

The Board of Trade reported, April 30, 1746, that chapters 14, 18, 20, 21, 22, 24, 26, and 29 “were for a temporary service and are either expired or the purposes for which they were enacted have been completed,” that chapters 12, 13, 15, 16, 17, 19, 23, 25, 27, and 28, “relating to the private Oeconomy of the Province, are enacted for the better convenience thereof, and We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them.” Chapter 30 was specially reported upon, as shown in the note to that chapter, post.

In accordance with this report, the Privy Council passed an order, May 28, 1746, confirming chapters 8, 9, 10, 11, 15, 16, 17, 19, 23, 25, 27, and 30.

No record of any action of the Home Government, on the acts of the fourth session, has been discovered. The Lords of Trade, in their report, June 4, 1752, on chapter 16 of the acts of 1749-50, reviving chapter 34 of the acts of 1742-43, represented that the latter act did not appear to them “to have been ever laid before His Majesty.” It is important to observe, however, that, in the records of the Board of Trade, a similar representation is minuted against chapters 18 and 22, which were revived and continued by chapter 17 of the acts of 1745-46—the act then under consideration—notwithstanding those chapters had, unquestionably, been laid before the Privy Council, and formally acted upon by them, as stated above.

Chap. 5. “April 13, 1742. An Ordinance for the present Regulation of Fees:—Having been read Three several times in the House of Representatives and by them Pass'd to be an Ordinance of this Court and to be held valid for and during the time limited therein and no longer. In Council: Read Three times & Pass'd a concurrence.”—Council Records, vol. XVII., b. 3, p. 335.

“June 23, 1743. In council Whereas the Act entitled an Act for establishing and better regulating Fees within this Province, passed in the Sixteenth Year of this present Majestys Reign, will expire the fifth day of July next; and it is apprehended the Court will speedily rise so that there will not be opportunity to revive the said Act or make the provision which is necessary in that case until the next Session of this Court: Therefore Ordered that the several Officers in said Act mentioned be and hereby are directed to take no other Fees than what is directed to in said Act, for the respective services therein mentioned.

"June 8 1743. In the House of Representatives; Whereas it appears to this court that from the Year One Thousand seven hundred and twelve to the Year One Thousand seven Hundred and forty two, it has been the uninterrupted practice of the Executive courts within this Province, in chancering penalties upon all Bonds and Mortgages, the condition of which has been the payment of Bills of credit or lawful Money, to make up Judgment for the nominal sum express'd in the condition of such Bonds, with the addition of Interest due thereon; and executions awarded on said Judgments have been levied by the Sheriff for the value of the nominal sum, in Bills of credit of the Old Tenor; and said sum in said Bills have been continually accepted by the creditor in satisfaction of his Debt:

And whereas it further appears, that the Intent and Expectation of those persons who have from time to time borrowed and lent any sum or sums of Bills of credit on penal Bonds and Mortgages (except where the value of the Bills of credit has been fixed and ascertained) has been to pay and be paid the same nominal sum in Bills of credit again, and to run the risque of their rising and falling in value: and the aforesaid practice of the courts, and the said Intent and Expectation of the Parties, have had an influence upon all trade and dealing throughout the Province:

And whereas the aforesaid practice of the Executive courts in making up Judgments on such Bonds & Mortgages being known to be established as aforesaid, this court did in and by two several acts made & passed in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth years of His present Majesty, the first of which is entitled an Act for supplying the Treasury with the sum of Fifteen Thousand Pounds &c and the other an Act for supplying the Treasury with the sum of Twelve Thousand Pounds &c enact and declare that any Debt contracted before the thirty first day of October 1741 which might have been paid and discharged by Province Bills of the Old Tenor, and also any Debt contracted between the said thirty first of October 1741 and the first of April 1742, where the contracting parties have not expressly otherwise agreed, may be discharged by Bills by the said Acts emitted, in proportion of one to four.

And whereas the Judges of some of the Inferior Courts of Common Pleas and of His Majesty's Superior Court of Judicature have of late, in making up Judgments for debts upon such Bonds and Mortgages, made an allowance to the creditor for the depreciating of the Bills of credit mentioned in the condition or Proviso of such Bonds or Mortgages from the value they were of at the time of contracting the debt, contrary to the common construction of such Bonds and Mortgages and course of judicial proceedings as aforesaid:—

And whereas it appears that the alteration thus made by the courts of Judicature in their practice in chancering the forfeitures of Bonds and Mortgages, conditioned as aforesaid, and their departure from that which they have heretofore judged to be the most equal rule for chancering the just debt and damage upon such Bonds, will, if pursued, be attended with manifest Injustice and Oppression: Therefore

Resolved that it be and hereby is recommended to the Justices of His Majesty's Superior Court of Judicature and they are hereby enabled and impowered at their next Term in their respective Counties, to reconsider such Judgments as they have already given for debts due upon Bonds and Mortgages, conditioned as aforesaid, since the second Tuesday of August last and execution on all such Judgments is staid in the mean time. And it is further recommended to the Justices of the several courts afove mentioned to govern themselves in the future chancering of the penalties of all such Bonds and Mortgages entered into and made before the last day of October, One Thousand seven Hundred and Forty one, by the Intent of the Parties according to the construction thereof which has heretofore been settled and established in the Superior Court, as well as in the Inferior Courts within this Province. In council; Read and Concur'd Consented to W<sup>m</sup> SHIRLEY."

—Ibid., b. 4, p. 45.

"June 17. 1743. In the House of Representatives; Ordered that the Printer be directed to print the Resolve lately passed this Court relating to the equitable Payment of Debts, and deliver a Duplicate to each Member of the General Court, one for himself, the other for the Town he represents. In council; Read and Concur'd, Consented to W. SHIRLEY."

—Ibid., p. 84.

Chap. 23. “Septem: 10. 1742. A Petition of Isaac Parker of Charlestown, Potter, shewing that he has with great expence learned the art of making Stone Ware, which may be much for the benefit of the Province; but as he has not a stock to carry on the said trade; therefore Praying that this Court would lend him One hundred and twenty five pounds in Bills of the new Emission, without Interest, for carrying on the said business, he giving good security for paying in the money at the time assigned, and that the Petitioner may have the sole privilege of the said manufacture.—

In the House of Representatives; Read and in answer hereto

Ordered that the Petitioner be allowed to receive out of the Appropriation for Premiums now in the Province Treasury, for his encouragement in making Stone Ware, the sum of One hundred and twenty five Pounds, he giving Land Security to the value of Two Hundred Pounds for the Payment of Three Hundred seventy five ounces of Silver into the said Treasury in lieu thereof with lawful Interest of the same, at or before the last Day of December 1746; provided nevertheless that if the money be improved for the purposes aforesaid no Interest shall be taken; Provided also that if he pay in the Bills within the time limited therefor, they shall be received in full discharge of his mortgage instead of the Silver; Provided further that the repayment of the whole sum be made within one year from this time, in case the Petitioner does not proceed in the work aforesaid; the Security to be to the satisfaction of the Treasurer. In Council: Read and Concur'd.

Consented to, W: SHIRLEY.”

In the House of Representatives; read & Whereas the making of Stone Ware might have been of great advantage to the Publick had the Petitioners Father lived & Succeeded in that Business as well as to himself & his Heirs; but notwithstanding the great Cost & Charge they have been at in their Attempts all their Schemes have in a great measure failed and proved unsuccessful, by means whereof the Petitioners said Fathers Estate has been greatly Injured—Therefore Ordered that the Prayer of this Petition be granted; And the Sum mentioned of Three hundred Pounds Old tenor said to be due to the Province be & hereby is remitted, and no Demand hereafter shall be made of the said sum or any part thereof In Council; Read & Concur'd.”—Ibid., vol. XXI., p. 125.

Chap. 30. “In our Report to your Lordships dated the 8th of June 1743, We gave our opinion against this method of erecting & settling Townships since which His Majesty has been pleased to send an Instruction to His Governor of the Massachusetts Bay directing him not to give his Assent for the future to any Bill for erecting a new Town or dividing an old one, without a suspending Clause be inserted therein, However as His Majesty's pleasure in this case could not be known at the time when this Act passed, and as there is reason to believe the same may have been carried into execution and that a Precept or Writ may have been issued to the Town thereby erected to send Representatives to the

My Lords, The Secretary having laid before me at the last Session of the General Court three Ingross'd Bills for the dividing three old Townships and erecting three new ones out of 'em ["A bill for erecting the northerly part of Shrewsbury, &c., into a township named—"; "A bill for erecting the easterly part of Attleboro', &c., into a township named—"; "A bill for erecting New Lisborn into a township named—"] whereby the number of Representatives for those Towns in the Gen<sup>l</sup> Court would be doubled; I was led upon this occasion to examine what increase of new Towns and consequently of Representatives had arisen from this Practise since the date of the present Charter in 1692; And find that since that time thirty three new Towns have been erected by this means, each of which that consist of 120 Voters are by the Province Law intitled to send two Representatives, and all under that number of voters, tho' they should not even exceed 20 are entitled to send one: This practice of splitting one Town into two and sometimes three, has been of late so frequent that sixteen of the thirty three towns were made during M<sup>r</sup> Belcher's Administration and the three abovementioned Bills for the like purpose were laid before me for my consent in the first year of my Government; But as this method of multiplying Towns and dividing 'em is entirely unnecessary, since all the inconveniences arising from the large extent of the old ones might as well have been remedied by dividing 'em into different Precincts and Parishes (which is the case of the old Towns here) as by dividing 'em into several Towns; I have refused my Consent to the three above mention'd Bills, and propose to put an end to this way of increasing the number of Representatives, which seems to promise no good effect for his Majesty's service And as I find by the transactions of the General Court for several years past that the present number of the House of Representatives hath been sufficient to embarrass his Maj<sup>ty's</sup> Govern<sup>t</sup> here in some points, tho' the most reasonable for them to comply with, and recommended to 'em in the strongest manner from his Majesty, I would submit it to the consideration of your Lordships whether it might not be for His Maj<sup>ty's</sup> service that his Governours in this Province sh<sup>d</sup> for the future use due means to prevent that House from increasing and particularly by the practice of splitting Townships. The expediency of confining the number of Representatives I am apt to think, may further appear to your Lordships from considering the constitution of the Province Charter, whereby another Branch of the Legislative (the Councillors or Assistants, the number of which is limited to twenty eight) are annually chosen by the General Court in which case, notwithstanding the Governour has a Negative Voice in the Election, the Councillors who it is possible may all be chosen out of the House and entirely by the Members of the House, who are a great Majority of the General Court, may be reasonably supposed from their Dependency upon their electors to have some check, if not a wrong Byass upon 'em in Disputes between the House and the Governour to the prejudice of his Majesty's Government—If your Lordships upon such consideration should think it would be for His Majesty's service to prevent the further increase of Representatives which may arise not only from the practice of splitting the old Townships but from erecting any Plantations of new Settlers into Townships I would submit it to Your Lordships whether that might not be effected by erecting such new Plantations into Precincts, Parishes or Villages with all the Officers and Privileges of a Township except that of sending Representatives which I apprehend would not be attended with the least inconvenience or discouragement to the propagating of new Settlements, since all the new Towns at present seem to think the maintenance of a Representative a burthen to 'em

As your Lordships may possibly apprehend from what I have said that all the Towns actually use their privilege of sending one or more Representatives to the General Court according to their number of voters, it will be necessary for me to observe that tho' there are at present 160 Towns, most of which are qualified to send two Representatives, yet they do not generally send more than from 109 (the number of the present House) to 120 at most which arises from hence, that none of those Towns which are entitled to send two Representatives ever send above one, except the Towns of Boston, Salem, Ipswich & Newbury and very few or none of the new Towns ever send any; But still they have it in their power upon an extraordinary Emergency to double and almost treble their numbers, which they would not fail to do, if they should be desirous of disputing any point with his Majesty's Governour, which they might suspect their ordinary Members would not carry against his Influence in the House.

To apprise your Lordships fully of this affair I have inclosed a particular state of the Constitution of the Province with regard to its number of Representatives and if the House can be led into any act which may limit the number of 'em to what the Towns have usually sent, I shall not fail to embrace the opportunity of doing it; and should be glad of the Honour of knowing your Lordships sentiments upon this matter for the better regulation of my conduct in it.

W. SHIRLEY."

"State of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, as to it's Number of Representatives. By the Province Charter granted by their late Majesties K. William and Q. Mary in 1692 (pa. 6.) It is ordain'd that there shall be twenty eight Assistants or Counsellors to be advising and assisting to the Governor of the Province for the time being; which Counsellors (pa. 7) are to be elected yearly by the Great and General Court or Assembly, And (pa. 10) the Gov<sup>r</sup> has a negative in such Elections.

Pa. 7. It is ordain'd that a Great & General Court or Assembly shall be conven'd and held by the Gov<sup>r</sup> for the time being, upon every last Wednesday in the Month of May and at such other times as the Gov<sup>r</sup> shall think fit and appoint, which Court is to consist of the Gov<sup>r</sup> and twenty eight Counsellors for the time being and of such Frecholders of the Province, as shall be from time to time elected by the major part of the frecholders and other inhabitants of the respective Towns or other places who shall be present at such Elections; each of said Towns and places being thereby impowered to elect two persons and no more to serve for and represent them in said Great and General Court, To which Court, to be held as aforesaid, power and authority is given from time to time to direct, appoint and declare what number each County, Town and Place shall elect to serve for and represent them in said Court: Provided that no Frecholder or other person shall have a vote in the election of Members to serve in said Court, who at the time of such Election shall not have an estate of Frechold in Land within the Province to the value of forty shillings per annum at least, or other estate to the value of fifty pounds sterling.

By the Province Law pass'd in 1693 pa. 32 of the Law Book, It is enacted that thenceforth every Town within this Province consisting of the number of forty freeholders and other Inhabitants qualify'd by Charter to elect, shall and hereby are enjoined to choose and send one Freeholder as their Representative, and every Town consisting of the number of one hundred and twenty freeholders and other Inhabitants qualified as afores<sup>d</sup> or upwards, may send two such Representatives; and each Town of the number of thirty freeholders and other Inhabitants qualify'd as aforesaid or upwards under forty, are at liberty to send one or not, but may choose and send one Representative, if they think fit, to serve for and represent them respectively in every Session of the Great and General Court or Assembly from time to time: And all Towns under thirty freeholders may send one Representative, or join with the next Town in the choice of their Representatives, they paying a proportionable part of the Charge: And no Town shall at any time send more than two Representatives, except Boston who are hereby granted to choose and send four.

At the time of passing this Law there were 113 Towns within the Province and by virtue of it the Town of Boston has constantly sent four Representatives to the General Court and the Towns of Salem, Ipswich and Newbury two apiece and none of the other Towns above one apiece tho' much the greatest part of 'em duely qualify'd to send two.

By the Province Law pass'd in 1694 (pa. 54 of the Law Book) no persons are qualified to be chosen Representative of any Town unless they are Freeholders and Residents in the Town where they are chosen.

By the Province Law pass'd in 1726 (pa. 351, 352 of the Province Law Book) the clause in the Act of 4th W & M. obliging every Town consisting of forty families, to send a Representative to the General Court is repeal'd and no Town under the number of sixty families shall be obliged (unless they think fit) to send a Representative—This Act to continue for three years.—Ibid.

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT FOR HOLDING A COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER IN AND FOR THE ISLAND OF NANTUCKET.

Preamble.

WHEREAS there now stands committed in his majesty's goal in the island of Nantucket, one Simon Hew, an Indian man, charged with the murder of Margaret, an Indian woman, who ought as the law now stands to be tried by a special court of assize and general goal delivery; but forasmuch as the judges of the court of assize and general goal delivery cannot attend that service, the summer months being taken up with the several superiour courts of judicature, courts of assize and general goal delivery as they are now established, besides the great charge and trouble of the judges repairing thither, and a court of oyer and terminer (noticed in the royal charter) have and can exercise the same jurisdiction and authority in all capital offences,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, for the reasons above mentioned, and that speedy justice may be done,

That the inquiry, hearing and tr[y][i]al of the said Simon Hew for the murder of the said Margaret, and any other capital offences upon the said island of Nantucket already committed, may with all convenient speed be had at Nantucket aforesaid, by special commissioners of oyer and terminer, to be appointed by his excellency the governour, with the advice and consent of the council, any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed June 17; published June 27.]

Court of Oyer and Terminer to be held at Nantucket.

CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO, AND IN EXPLANATION OF SUNDRY CLAUSES OF, AN ACT, [E] [J] N T I T [U] L E D “AN ACT TO ASCERTAIN THE VALUE OF MONEY, AND OF THE BILLS OF PUBLICK CREDIT OF THIS PROVINCE,” &c [A], MADE AND PASS'D IN THE FIFTEENTH YEAR OF HIS MAJESTY'S REIGN.

Preamble.

1741-42, chap. 12,
§ 3.

WHEREAS in the law for ascertaining the value of money, and of the bills of publick credit of this province, passed in the fifteenth year of his majesty's reign, it is enacted, that all debts contracted after the last day of March, A. D. 1742, specialties and express contracts excepted, should be deemed equal to lawful [1] money, and every debt of six shillings and eightpence value so contracted, should or might be discharged by one ounce of silver, or six shillings and eightpence of the bills of publick credit emitted that year, or that should thereafter be emitted, equal in value to an ounce of silver: provided, nevertheless, that in case such bills should be depreciated below the value they were stated at by said act, that an addition should be made of so much more as would make them equal to the then fixed value afores[ai]d. And the judges of the superio[u]r court, agreeable to the directions of the afores[ai]d law, have made inquiry by a committee for that purpose appointed, who have certified into the secretary's office that seven shillings and twopence of the bills of credit, of the last form and teno[u]r, is equal to one ounce of silver; in consequence whereof, judgments have been made up in several courts on debts contracted since the last [day] of March afores[ai]d at that rate, whereby an addition of sixpence is made to the creditor on every debt of six shillings and eightpence value; and whereas, by s[ai]d certificate, compared with the rates of bills of exchange in March afores[ai]d, it is manifest that the said bills are not depreciated below the value they passed at when first emitted, inasmuch as six shill[ing]s and eightpence in said bills will now go as far, in purchasing bills of exchange, as when said act was made, and the aforesaid loss has happened to the debtor from his not strictly attending the direction of said law, whereby every debt of six shillings and eightpence is deemed equal to an ounce of silver (specialties and express contracts excepted), and should have been considered by the debtor, at the time of contracting such debt, as if the same had been payable in lawful [1] money; and whereas the bills of publick credit current in this province, are at present the only medium of the common trade and business within it, there will be continual danger of the debtor's computing his debt according to the depreciated value of such bills, whilst it is deemed by said law to be contracted for lawful [1] money; and thereby great damage may ensue to debtors, contrary to the true intent and meaning of the said law; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives.

That all debts contracted since the last of March, A. D. one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, or that shall hereafter be contracted (specialties and express contracts excepted), shall be deemed and adjudged equal to the real value only such bills have passed or shall pass at when such debt was or shall be contracted; and every debt of twenty shillings contracted as afores[ai]d, shall or may be always hereafter discharged by twenty shillings in said bills, and so pro rata for a greater or less sum, unless such bills [shall] have already or should hereafter be depreciated below the value they passed at when such debt was or shall be contracted; and in such case, so much shall always be allowed

All debts to be deemed according to value of the bills when contracted.

Saving an allowance for bills depreciating.

by the respective courts in this province, as shall make said bills equal in value to such debt when contracted, anything contained in the aforesaid law to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed June 25; published June 27.]

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTYS OF IMPOST AND TUNNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutifull subjects, the representatives of his majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a collateral fund and security for drawing in the bills of credit on this province, have chearfully and unanimously given and granted and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty to the end and use aforesaid, and for no other use, the several dutys of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province, and tunnage of shipping hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the last day of the present session, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton wool, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England excepted), the several rates or dutys of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>.,—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, eight shillings.

For every pipe of Canary, twelve shillings.

For every pipe of Madeira, nine shillings and sixpence.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, nine shillings and sixpence.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, eight shillings.

For every hogshead of sugar, sevenpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, four shillings and sixpence.

For every ton of logwood, ninepence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares, merchandize, &c<sup>a</sup>., that shall be imported into this province, &c<sup>a</sup>., frō any other port than the places of their growth and produce there shall be paid by the importer double the value of impost appointed by this act to be received for every species abovementioned, unless they do, bonâ fide, belong to the inhabitants of this province and came upon their risque from the port of their growth and produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all the aforesaid impost rates and dutys shall be paid in current money or bills of credit of this province of the last emission by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize unto the commissioner to be appointed as is hereinafter to be directed for entering and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize : only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons where his or their duty of impost in one ship or vessell doth exceed the sum of three pounds ; and in case where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall settle and ballance his accompts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accompts may be ready to be presented to this court in May next. And all entries where the impost or duty to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer, and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all masters of ships or other vessells coming into any harbour or port within this province from beyond sea, or from any other province or colony, before bulk be broken and within twenty-four hours after his arrival at such harbour or port, shall make a report to the commissioner or receiver of the impost, to be appointed as is hereinafter mentioned, of the contents of the lading of such ship or vessell, without any charge or fee to be demanded or paid for the same ; which report said master shall give into the commissioner or receiver, under his hand, and shall therein sett down and express the quantities and species of the wines, liquors, goods and merchandize laden on board such ship or vessell, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same is consigned ; and also make oath that the said report or manifest of the contents of his lading, so to be by him given in under his hand as afores<sup>d</sup>, contains a just and true accompt, to the best of his knowledge, of the whole lading taken on board and imported in the s<sup>d</sup> vessell from the port or ports such vessell came from, and that he hath not broken bulk nor delivered any of the wines, rum or other distilled liquors or merchandize laden on board the said ship or vessell, directly or indirectly ; and if he shall know of any more wines, liquors, goods or merchandize to be imported therein, before the landing thereof he will cause it to be added to his manifest ; which manifest shall be agreeable to a printed form made for that purpose, which is to be fill'd up by the s<sup>d</sup> commissioner or receiver according to each particular person's entry ; which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby empowered to administer : after which such master may unload, and not before, on pain of five hundred pounds, to be forfeited and paid by each master that shall neglect his duty on this behalf.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That all merchants, factors and other persons, importers, being owners of or having any of the wines, liquors, goods or merchandize consign'd to them, that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall, by themselves or order, make entry thereof in writing under their hands, with the said commissioner or receiver, and produce unto him an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath thereto in maner following :—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibit the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, it is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which above oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby empower'd to administer ; and they shall pay the duty and impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessell in which the same shall be imported, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize so landed or taken out of the vessell in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 6.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharf, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the daytime only, and that after sunrise and before sunsett, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or receiver, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize and the lighter, boat and vessell out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consign'd, then the cask wherein the same is shall be gaged at the charge of the importer, that the quantities thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province shall be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines have not been filled up on board; and that every hogshead, but or pipe of wine that hath two parts thereof leak'd out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty or impost for the same. And no master of any ship or vessell shall suffer any wines to be fill'd up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 9.] And if it be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessell be decay'd at the time of unlading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wine shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the master of any ship or vessell importing any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof contained in his manifest as shall not be duly enter'd, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawfull to and for the master of every ship or other vessell to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported in any ship or vessell, untill he shall receive a certificate from the commissioner or receiver of the impost that the duty for the same is paid and untill he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as are not entred unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port or his order, who is hereby impowered and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, untill the impost thereof, with the charge, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the commissioner or receiver of the impost in each port shall be and hereby is impower'd to sue the master of any ship or vessell for the impost or duty for so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, and shall remain not entred and the duty of impost thereof not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master for the same cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consign'd, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the ship or vessell, with her tackle, apparel and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be lyable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not entered as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessell, with so much of the tackle or appurtenances thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgment, may be taken in execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby empowered to make seizure of such ship or vessell, and detain the same under seizure untill judgement be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or impost; to the intent that if judgement be rendered for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessell and appurtenances may be exposed to sale for satisfaction thereof as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing such ship or vessell from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and dutys, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss and damage unto his owners, through his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes to any master of any ship or other vessell, outward bound, untill he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the dutys and impost for the goods last imported in such ship or vessell are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 14.] And the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby empower'd to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessell importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventurers as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or other vessell, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act for such wines or liquors, in such bills of store mentioned and express'd, shall be abated.

And whereas, many persons have heretofore caused to be imported, from the neighbouring government, into this province, by land carriage, large quantities of wine, rum and other merchandize, subjected to duty by this act, but have made no report thereof to the officer of impost, or any of his deputies, nor have paid any duty therefor, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act.

Be it therefore further enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That whenssoever any rum, wine or other merchandize, by this act subjected to any duty, shall be hereafter imported from any of the neighbouring governments, by land, into any town of this province, the owner thereof, or person importing the same, shall make report thereof to the s<sup>d</sup> officer, or some one of his deputies, and pay the duties hereby required therefor, on pain and penalty of forfeiting the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all penaltys, fines and forfeitures accrewing and arising by virtue of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the aforementioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge of the prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

[SECT. 17.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessell, coming into any port or ports in this province to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessells as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pensilvania, West and East Jersey, New York, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessell does make, the sum of two shillings per ton, or one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessell is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the duties of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 18.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessell, to take the exact measure or tunnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessell doth not express and sett forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessell, before she be clear'd, in case she shall appear to be of greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessell, until he be also certified, by the said commissioner, that the duty of tunnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessell for which none is payable according to this act.

[SECT. 19.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the afores<sup>d</sup> dutys of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatsoever relates thereto, to receive commission for the same from the governour or commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the s<sup>d</sup> place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entries and duties arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessell, so that the dutys of impost and tunnage arising on the said vessell may appear; and the same to lye open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer and receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such moneys as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputies, before their entering upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from nine to twelve of the clock in the forenoon, and from two to five of the clock in the afternoon.

[SECT. 20.] And the s<sup>d</sup> commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of twenty-five pounds, the present emission, per annum; and his deputy or deputies to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding seven pounds ten shillings each. And the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accompts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or sallarys, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputy or deputies.

Provided,

[SECT. 21.] That this act shall be and continue in force from the last day of the present session untill the thirty-first day of May, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and to the end of the next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed June 25.]

CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS, IN BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE TENO[U]R AND FORM LAST EMITTED; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A FURTHER TAX OF THREE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY-EIGHT POUNDS FOUR SHILLINGS AND NINEPENCE THREE FARTHING, IN BILLS OF CREDIT OF SAID TENOR AND FORM, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN GENERAL COURT, AND TRAVEL, AND TO DISCHARGE A FINE LAID THIS PRESENT YEAR ON THE TOWNS OF MEDFIELD, TIVERTON AND FREETOWN, FOR NOT SENDING A REPRESENTATIVE.

§ 27.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of the province of the Massachuset[t]s Bay, did, at their session in November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, pass an act for the levying a tax of fifty thousand pounds, in bills before current in the province (said fifty thousand pounds being equal to twelve thousand five hundred pounds of the bills emitted by said act), and, at their sessions in November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, did pass an act for the levying a tax of seven thousand five hundred pounds, in bills emitted by said act, to be assess'd this present year,—the whole of the two sums aforesaid amounting to the sum of twenty thousand pounds; and by the aforesaid acts, provision was made that the general court might, in the several years, apportion the several sums on the several towns in the province, if they thought fit: and the assembly aforesaid have likewise

1742-43, chap. 14.
§ 5.

1741-42, chap. 11,
§ 29.

ordered that the sum of one thousand six hundred and thirty-eight pounds and threepence farthing, being the one half of such sum or sums as were paid the representatives in the years one thousand seven hundred and thirty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and forty, and also the sum of twenty-one hundred pounds four shillings and sixpence halfpenny, paid the representatives the last year, and laid as a fine on several towns—the said two sums amounting to three thousand seven hundred and thirty-eight pounds four shillings and ninepence three farthings—should be levied and assess'd, on this present year, on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their respective representatives have received; wherefore, for the ordering, directing, and effectual drawing in the sum of twenty thousand pounds, pursuant to the funds and grants aforesaid, and drawing the said sum into the treasury, according to the appointment now agreed to by this court; and also for drawing in the sum of three thousand seven hundred and thirty-eight pounds four shillings and ninepence three farthings, paid the representatives, and laid as a fine on the several towns, as aforesaid; all which is unanimously approved, ratif[y][i]ed, and confirmed; we, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

[SECT. 1.] That each town and district within this province be assess[e]d and pay, as such town's and district's proportion of the sum of twenty thousand pounds, in bills of the tenor last emitted, as also for the fines laid on them, and their representatives' pay, the several sums following; that is to say,—

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years, at four shillings and twopence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum receiv'd out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governour and their families, the president, fellows and students of Harvard Colledge, settled ministers and grammar school-masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being tax[e]d for their polls, [*as for**] their estates being in their own hands and under their actual manag[e]ment and improvement); and [*other persons, if**] such there be, who, through age, infirmity or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons (except as before excepted) do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assess'd, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound, and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and, in making their assessments, to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate Indian, negro and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every goat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, set[t]ing forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assess[e]d at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate and income by trade or faculty; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit[t] to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of January.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assess[e]’d on each particular person, before the last day of March next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, some time in the month of January next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accmpts of the whole, at or before the last day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-four.

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give reasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest. And if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion to this tax, as near as they can, agre[e]able to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving, to the party aggriev’d at the judgment of the assessors in set[ti]ng forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for rel[ief], as in case of being over-rated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of polls, rateable estate, or income by any trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assess’d, such list shall be a rule for such person’s proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as oftentimes sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable [*trade**] and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to [*trade and tra**]ffick is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next [*year’s assess**]ment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho’, in the time of their residing there, they reap’d considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town of this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade and deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impow- Transient traders to be rated.

ered to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act provided, thou[gh] the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, inhabitant of some one town within this province, shall transact or carry on trade and business in some other town in the province, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods or merchandize, for carrying on such trade, and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act. And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoyned to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assess'd on persons who are not of this province, or are inhabitants of any other town as aforesaid, and pay the same into the town treasury.

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they may respectively be assess'd at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of twenty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty-eight pounds, four shillings and ninepence three farthings in bills of credit of the last emission, or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coin[e]d silver, at the rate of six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight; or in gold coin, at the rate of four pounds eighteen shillings per ounce; or in good merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or merchantable flax, at fivepence per pound; or in good, merchantable, Isle-of-Sable codfish, at ten shillings per quintal; or in good refined bar-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton; or bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good, hollow iron-ware, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and threepence per bushel; or good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel; or good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel; or good barrel pork, at two pounds per barrel; or in barrel beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound; or merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred; or in good train-oyl[e], at one pound ten shillings per barrel; or in good beeswax, at tenpence per pound; or in bayber[r]y-wax, at sixpence per pound; or in tried tallow, at fourpence per pound; or in good peas[e], at three shillings per bushel; or in good sheepswool, at ninepence per pound; or good, tann'd sole-leather, at fourpence per pound: all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may be, dispos[e]d of by the treasurer to the best advantage, [and] for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold; and the several persons who pay their taxes in any of the commodities before mentioned, shall run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the same to the province treasury.

[SECT. 10.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of any of the aforesaid species, it shall [be] made good by a tax the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.
[Passed June 25.]

Tax may be paid in other species besides the bills emitted.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE EIGHTH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, A. D. 1743.

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT FOR ESTABLISHING AND REGULATING FEES WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

WHEREAS some services of a publick nature have no fees stated by law, and others which have been established by two acts, made in the fourth and thirteenth years of King William the Third, by reason of the alteration of circumstances, are become unequal,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, the following fees, in bills of credit emitted for the supply of the treasury in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, or in other province bills, or gold or silver in proportion, at the choice of the payer, may be taken for the future; viz<sup>ty</sup>.,—

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT FOR SECURING THE SEASONABLE PAYMENT OF TOWN AND PRECINCT RATES OR ASSESSMENTS.

WHEREAS the method directed to by law, and heretofore practiced by the receivers [or] [of] treasurers of towns and precincts, hath been to sue for and recover town and precinct rates and assessments, or the arrears thereof, by mean process against the constable[s] or collectors to whom they were committed to be gathered, who neglected their duty therein, whereby the payments of such rates or assessments into the respective town or precinct treasuries hath been greatly delayed, to the greivous damage of many places; to prevent which for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, if the constable or collector of any town or precinct within this province (to whom any town or precinct rates or assessments have been committed to collect), shall be remiss in his duty by law required, and neglect to collect such rates and assessments as have been committed to him to collect, and to pay in the same to the treasurer or receiver of such town or precinct by the time fixed in the warrant to him directed, or within one month next after the expiration thereof, such treasurer or receiver is hereby impowered, by warrant, under his hand and seal, directed to the sheriff of the county or his deputy (who are hereby respectively directed and impowered to execute the same), to cause such sum or sums of money as such constable or collector hath not paid in, to be levied by distress and sale of his estate, real or personal, returning the overplus, if any there be, and for want of such estate, to take the body of such constable or collector, and to imprison him until[1] he pay the same: provided.—

[SECT. 2.] This act shall continue and be in force for the space of ten years from and after the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the then next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed September 15; published September 19.]

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT FOR ERECTING OF WORKHOUSES FOR THE RECEPTION AND EMPLOYMENT OF THE IDLE AND INDIGENT.

Preamble.

1699-1700, chap. 8.
1703-4, chap. 14.
1710-11, chap. 6.
1730-31, chap. 3.
1740-41, chap. 20.

WHEREAS the erecting of houses for the entertainment and employment of idle and slothful[1] persons who refuse to exercise any lawful[1] calling or business, whereby to support themselves and famil[y][ie]s, and of the poor and indigent that want means to employ themselves, may be of great advantage to the publick, and more especially to the towns that shall be concern'd in such an undertaking,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Any single town may erect a workhouse, appoint overseers, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That whensoever any town within [the] [this] province shall see meet to erect or provide an house for the purpose before mentioned, such town shall be and hereby is authorized and impower[e]d so to do; as also, at their publick meetings for the choice of town officers, in the month of March, annually, to ch[oo][u]se five, seven or nine overseers of said house, who shall have the inspection, ordering, and government thereof, with power of appointing a master and needful[1] assistants for the more immediate care and oversight of the persons received into, or employed in said house; which overseers, once in every month, and at other times as occasion shall require, shall assemble together to consider and determine of the most proper methods for the discharge of their office, and at their stated monthly meetings, shall have power to make needful[1] orders for the regulation of such house, which orders shall be binding till the next publick meeting of the inhabitants of such town, to whom such orders shall be presented for approbation, and when by them approved, shall be obligatory until[1] revoked by said town.

Overseers may make needful orders for regulating such house.

And be it further enacted,

Two or more towns may erect a workhouse.

[SECT. 2.] That when any number of towns shall agree, at their joint charge and for their common benefit, to erect or provide a workhouse for the employment of persons residing in such towns, that are indigent or idle, or to purchase land whereon to erect such house, and for the accommodation of it, they shall be and hereby are vested with authority so to do; and the regulation, inspection, and government of such house, when erected, ordering the needful[1] repairs of it—with power of appointing a master and other assistants, and him or them, in case of any irregular behaviour, incapacity or other just cause, to remove from their respective offices or trusts—shall be in the hands of the overseers, to be from year to year specially appointed or chosen by the several towns concerned, at their anniversary publick meetings in the month of March; each town to choose five, unless all the towns engaged in the undertaking shall agree upon any other number or proportions: and in case of the death of any overseer, or his removal out of the town for which he was appointed, the vacancy thereby made may be supply'd by such town at any other publick meeting; and if any town or towns concern[e]d, shall neglect to ch[oo][u]se such overseers, in such case, the person or persons chosen by the other towns, may proceed in all affairs of said house, any such neglect or refusal notwithstanding.

May appoint overseers to inspect the house, and order the affairs of it.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That there be stated quarterly meetings of all the overseers, on the first Tuesday of the months of April, July, October, and January, from year to year, to be held at the workhouse, in order to inspect the management thereof, and for the ordering the affairs of said house; and besides these stated meetings, intermediate meetings, to be held at the workhouse, may be called, when need requires, by the overseers of any town concern[e]d, due notice of the time and occasion thereof being given to the rest in such way and manner as shall be agreed on by the overseers at any general stated meeting.

Overseers to hold quarterly meetings.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the overseers, when duly assembled, may ch[oo][u]se a moderator to regulate the business of the meeting, who shall have a voice in matters voted or transacted by the overseers, in case only of an equi-vote; and, at their first gen[era]l meeting in every year, shall likewise cho[ose] a clerk to enter and record all votes and orders that from time to time shall be made and passed by the overseers, who shall be sworn to the faithful[l] discharge of his trust.

May choose a moderator, clerk, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the overseers for the time being, at a general quarterly meeting, whereat one-half at least of the whole number of overseers shall be present, shall have power to make needful[l] and reasonable orders and by-laws, not repu[n]gnant to the laws of this province, for the better and more decent regulating the said house, and well-ordering the affairs of it; which orders shall be binding until[l] the expiration of the year for which such overseers shall be chosen, or until[l] they shall be by them revoked; and at such meeting may likewise agree with the master or other assistants, and order meet allowance, for their care and service during the term for which such overseers shall be chosen, or such further term as the towns concern[e]d shall agree: all other matters of less importance relating to the said house, may be transacted at any other meetings duly warned, when but seven of the overseers are present; subject, nevertheless, to be altered or reversed at any general stated meeting.

May make orders and by-laws.

May order a meet allowance to the master and assistants.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the yearly stipend or allowance to the master and assistants, over and above what is provided for by this act for their care and trouble, together with the charge of keeping the house in repair, shall be paid by the several towns concerned, in proportion as they are set or rated in the province tax at the time when such repairs shall be made, or such allowance stated by the overseers, or in such other proportion as all the towns concern[e]d shall agree; and the town or towns refusing or neglecting to advance their respective proportion of such allowance, or other charges before mentioned, after they shall have been stated and adjusted by the overseers, the same may be recovered of such delinquent town or towns, in any court proper to try the same, by action to be brought by the person or persons whom the overseers may appoint for that purpose.

By whom, and in what proportion, the allowance to the master and charge of repairing the house shall be defrayed.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That any three or more of the overseers in any town already provided with such a house, and of the overseers in any town that (either by themselves or in conjunction with other towns) shall hereafter erect a workhouse, be and they are hereby directed and impowered to commit[t] to such house, by writing under the hands of the s[ai]d overseers, to be employ[e]d and governed according to the rules and orders of the house, any person or persons, residing in such town, that hereafter in this act are declared liable to be sent thither: provided, that no greater number of persons belonging to any town be received into the house than such towns proportion of said house (to be allotted them) can accommodate, when the receiving them will exclude or incom[m]od[ate][e] such as belong to other towns.

Overseers of each town concerned empowered to commit persons to the workhouse.

And be it further enacted,

Qualification of persons liable to be sent thither.

[SECT. 8.] That the persons who shall be liable to be sent to, employed, and governed in any workhouse erected or to be erected by one or more towns, pursuant to this or any former act, are all poor and indigent persons, that are maintained by or receive alms from the town; also all persons able of body to work, and not having estate or means otherways to maintain themselves, who refuse or neglect so to do, live a dissolute or vagrant life, and exercise no ordinary or lawful[1] business or calling whereby to gain an honest livelihood; and all such as, having some rat[e]able estate, but not enough to qualify [th]em to vote in town affairs, do neglect the due care and improvement of it, and, by consuming their time and money in publick houses to the neglect of their proper business, or by other ways mispending what they earn, to the impoverishment of themselves or famil[y][ie]s, are likely to become chargeable to the town.

And it is hereby further provided and enacted,

Towns neglecting to provide their proportion of materials, &c., deprived of the privilege of sending persons thither.

[SECT. 9.] That if any town shall refuse or neglect to provide their proportion of the needful[1] furniture for such house, or of the materials, implements, and other necessaries for carrying on the work there to be performed, according to their agreement, or as shall be ordered by the overseers, such town shall be deprived of the privilege of sending any person thither until[1] such time as they shall comply with such order or agreement.

And be it further enacted,

The master to keep the materials sent by each town apart from those sent by other towns.

[SECT. 10.] That besides the afores[ai]d proportion of materials, &c<sup>[a]</sup>, to be found by the towns concerned, each town may likewise provide such materials, implements, and tools for work as the overseers for such town shall judge any person by them committed to said house can be employed about, with most profit and advantage, during his or her abode there; and the master of the house shall receive such materials, and keep them sep[a][e]rate and apart from those that shall be sent by any other town, and shall be accountable to the overseers of each town concerned, as well for the prime stock as for all profits and earnings that shall be made by the labour of those, belonging to such town, under his care; and shall keep a register of the names of the persons committed to such workhouse, with the time of their being received into and discharged from it, and of their earnings by their labour, that so the same may appear to any of the overseers whensoever they shall see cause to inspect them; and all controversies between the master or keeper of such house and the overseers of any town touching his acco[m]p[un]ts or other affairs whatsoever, may be determined by the overseers of the house at a general meeting.

To be accountable for the prime stock and earnings.

To keep a register, &c.

Controversies betwixt the master and overseers of any town, how to be determined.

And be it further enacted,

Each town to bear the charge of supporting such as they commit to the house.

How persons committed may be discharged.

Persons committed to be kept to labor.

[SECT. 11.] That no town shall be at charge for the support or relief of any person committed to said house, who was not sent thither by the overseers belonging to such town; nor any person orderly committed to it shall be discharged from it but by the overseers by whom he was committed, or by the overseers, at a general meeting, or otherwise by the justices of the court of general sessions of the peace, in the same county, upon application to them made for that purpose; and every person so committed, if fit and able to work, shall be held and kept stric[k]tly and dil[1]igently [i][e]mployed in labour during his or her abode there; and in case they be idle, and shall not duly perform such task or stint as shall be reasonably assign'd them, or shall be stubborn and disorderly, shall be punish[e]d according to the orders that shall be made for the ruling, governing, and punishing of the persons there to be committed, not repugnant to the laws of this province.

In case they be idle or disorderly, to be punished.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That one-third part of the profits or earnings of the work done by the persons detained in such house, shall be to the master for and towards his support, over and above such further annual stipend as the overseers see meet to order and allow him as before mentioned for his care and service.

The master to have one-third of the earnings.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the prime stock, together with the other two-thirds of the profits or incomes of the labour of the persons [i][e]mployed there, shall be disposed of by the overseers of the respective towns to whom it belongs, either to the master in satisfaction for his service, care, and expence about the persons by them committed to him, and at such rate as the said overseers and master shall agree, or for the support of the famil[y][ie]s of the persons there detained, if any such they have, or otherwise for the use of such town as occasion shall require.

How the other two-thirds of the earnings and the prime stock shall be disposed of.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That any workhouse erected as aforesaid may be discontinued or appl[y][i]ed to any other use whensoever the town or towns concerned shall find or judge their circumstances require it, and shall agree so to do.

Any workhouse may be discontinued, in case.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[SECT. 15.] That nothing herein contained shall be construed or understood to abridge the town of Boston, or the overseers of the poor thereof, any priviledge or power, with relation to a workhouse, already granted them by a late law of this province for that purpose made and provided. [Passed September 17.]

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£20,000 in bills
of credit to be emitted.

Appropriation of this emission.

£7,000 for putting the province
into better posture of defence.

£2,800 for grants, &c.

£1,000 for debts
where is no

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of twenty thousand pounds in bills of credit of the newest form and tenor now lying in his hands and received for taxes, impost and excise, or, if there shall not be a sufficiency, in new bills of the same form and tenor, which this court may hereafter order, to be always valued and taken as the bills of credit of the last emission are or shall be valued and taken; and the said sum of twenty thousand pounds shall be issued out of the treasury in manner and for the purposes following; vizth, the sum of eight thousand one hundred and thirty-one pounds fourteen shillings and threepence, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, to be applied for the payment of wages that now are or that hereafter may be due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-house, Saco Truck-house, Brunswick Fort, the block-house above Northfield, the sloop in the countr[e]y's service, the province snow, and the treasurer's usual disbursements; and the sum of seven thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for put[t]ing the province into a better posture of defence, for completing the repairs of Castle William and other forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes, and two thousand eight hundred pounds for the payment of such other grants as are or shall be made by this court, and for the payment of stipends, bounties and premiums established by law, and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have or shall, either by law or orders, provide for the payment of out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever: the sum of one thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons who have served or shall serve them by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment nor any certain sum assigned for such service, and for paper, printing and writing for this court, the expences of committees of council, or of the house, or of both houses, entertainment of Indians, and presents made them by this court, the surgeon of Castle William, and wooding of said castle; and the sum of eight hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the members of the house of representatives serving in the general court, during their several sessions this present year and until November next.

representatives.

And whereas there are sometimes publick entertainments, and, from time to time, contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the sum of two hundred and sixty-eight pounds five shillings and ninepence, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, be applied to defray and pay such entertainments and contingent charges, and for no other use whatsoever.

£268 5s. 9d. for entertainments,
&c.

And be it enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][ie] in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to
lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the
appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of eight thousand and eighty-three pounds six shillings and eightpence, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£8,083 6s. 8d.
in 1744.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of eight thousand five hundred and eighty-three pounds six shillings and eightpence, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£8,583 6s. 8d.
in 1745.

And, as a fund and security for drawing the remaining part of the said sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£2,533 6s. 8d.

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of two thousand five hundred and thirty-three pounds six shillings and eightpence, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the great and general court or assembly at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, and paid into the publick treasury again on or before the last day of December then next after.

And, as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made
for what is paid to the representatives.

[SECT. 8.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives shall so receive; which sums shall be set on the said towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by act of the general assembly for assessing the next province tax, and the constables, in their respective districts, shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate accompt; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l[y][ie] in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding
tax act, in case.

[SECT. 9.] That in case the general court shall not at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums, which by this act is engaged shall be, in each of these several years, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay (by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts) the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully empowered and directed, some time in the month of June in each of these years, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, [in manner as aforementioned in this act*] requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be govern[ed] by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 10.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, h[a][o]llow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oyl, bees-wax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty six shall set[t] them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set[t] the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and empowered to do it; and in their set[t]ling the prices and rat[e]-ing the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at six shillings and eightpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

[SECT. 11.] And the aforesaid commodities, so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as it will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills, in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for six shillings and eightpence, and pro ratâ for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of twenty thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That any debt contracted before the thirty-first day of October, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, which might have been paid and discharged in and by province bills of the old tenor, and also any debt contracted between the said thirty-first day of October and the first day of April, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two (where the contracting parties have not expressly otherwise agreed), may be discharged by the bills by this act to be emitted, in proportion as one to four; that is to say, that a debt of twenty-six shillings and eightpence, dischargeable or contracted as aforesaid, may be discharged by six shillings and eightpence in bills by this act to be emitted, or by one ounce of silver, and so in proportion for a greater or less sum.

Rule for paying private debts.

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING THE DESTRUCTION OF WHITE-PINE TREES WITHIN THIS PROVINCE, AND FOR ENCOURAGING THE PRESERVATION OF THEM FOR THE USE OF THE ROYAL NAVY.

Preamble.

WHEREAS their late majesties, King William and Queen Mary, in and by their royal charter granted to this province, bearing date the seventh day of October in the third year of their reign, did, for the better providing and furnishing of masts for the royal navy, reserve to themselves, their heirs [and] successors “all trees of the diameter of twenty-four inches, and upwards, of twelve inches from the ground, growing upon any soil or tract of land within” the said province or territory before that not granted to any private persons, and also thereby did restrain and forbid “all persons whatsoever from felling, cutting or destroying any such trees without the royal licence” of them, their heirs and successors, first had and obtained; and whereas the white-pine trees are more especially fit for masting the royal navy; therefore, to render the afores[ai]d reservation more effectual to the good purposes intended [t]hereby,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Offence of cutting off pine-trees fit for masts, to be tried in his majesty's courts, if the prosecutor see cause.

[SECT. 1.] That no person shall, at any time after the publication of this act, presume to cut, fell or destroy any white-pine trees which are or shall, at the time of felling the same, be of the diameter of twenty-four inches, or upwards, of* twelve inches from the ground, growing or standing in any soil or tract of land within this province not granted to any private person or persons before the date of the aforesaid charter (without his majesty's royal licence for so doing first had and obtained) or to be aiding or assisting therein, or in drawing away the said pine trees after the same shall have been so cut, felled or destroyed, on pain of being prosecuted as well in any of his majesty's courts of record within this province, for the penalty already by law inflicted for such offence, as by law they already may in the court of vice-admiralty, at the election of the prosecutor, but not in both: provided, such prosecution be commenced within six months from the time when the offence shall be committed; which penalty, when recovered, shall be applied in such manner as by law is already provided.

Preamble.

And whereas the hind[e]ring and obstructing the workmen who may be employed by virtue of his maj[es]ty's royal licence to fell such trees as is aforesaid, growing upon any such tract of land as is before mentioned, for the use of the royal navy, or vexing them with groundless suits for what they shall do in that business, will be very prejudicial to his majesty's aforesaid service by discouraging workmen from being concerned therein; now, for prevention thereof,—

Be it enacted,

Provision against causeless actions brought against those that cut white pines by the king's license.

[SECT. 2.] That, from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to hinder or obstruct any workmen or workman, employed in the afores[ai]d service upon any soil or tract of land within this province not granted to any private person or persons before the date of the afores[ai]d charter. And in case any workman employ[e]d in the afores[ai]d service shall be sued, in any action, in any of his maj[es]ty's courts of judicature, for felling or haling away any such tree or trees, growing or being upon any soil or tract of land not granted to any private person or persons before the date afores[ai]d, and being of the diameter of twenty-four inches, and upwards, of* twelve inches from the ground, at the time of felling the same, the defendant in such action shall be admitted to plead the general issue, and to give the special matter in evidence; and in case, after issue joined, judgment<sup>[en]</sup> shall be given against the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such action, then the justices of the court where the action shall be brought shall allow to the defendant double costs of suit, to be taxed at the same court.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force from the publication thereof three years, and no longer. • [Passed November 11; published November 12.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE PROPRIETORS OF PRIVATE WAYS TO REPAIR THEM IN AN EQUAL MANNER.

WHEREAS there are many private ways in this province, which are seldom used but by the purchasers or proprietors of them, or the owners of the lands to which such ways lead, and are therefore not repaired by the towns in which they respectively lie, nor have the proprietors or rightful occupants of such ways any power, by the laws of this province, to compel their being repaired by or among themselves; to prevent, therefore, the inconveniences which do or may thence arise,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That one-fourth part of the proprietors and rightful occupants of any private way (where there are four or more of them) may at any time, when they shall apprehend there is occasion therefor, call a meeting of all the proprietors and rightful occupants, by posting up a notification in some publick place or places in the town or towns where such way is, seven days before the time appointed for such meeting, signifying the time, place, and business of such meeting; and the major part of the proprietors and rightful occupants so assembled, shall have full power to choose a clerk, a committee to call meetings, and a surveyor who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of his trust, as town officers are, and have the same power with respect to such ways as the surveyors of other ways are by law invested with, and shall be governed by the same rules as are prescribed by law for their direction; each proprietor's and occupant's proportion of labour to be determined by a major vote of those present at such meeting; and in case of the default of any proprietor or occupant in attending said work, by himself, or other sufficient person in his stead, to be subject to the same fines and penalties as in case of highways, and be recovered in the same manner, and applied to the like uses.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from and after the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed November 11; published November 12.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AND FOR RENDERING MORE EFFECTUAL AN ACT MADE IN THE FOURTEENTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE TO THE HARBOUR OF CAPE COD BY CATTLE AND HORSE-KIND FEEDING ON PROVINCETOWN LAND."

WHEREAS it is represented, that, since the making of the act passed in the fourteenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Preamble.
1740-41, chap. 15.

Act to prevent dam[m]age being done to the harbour of Cape Cod by cattle and horsekind feeding on Provincetown land," so many of the inhabitants of said town have withdrawn from thence as to leave a number there insufficient to transact affairs as a town, whereby the good intention of said act for preserving the said important harbour may be frustrated.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

The present inhabitants of Provincetown enabled to act for preventing damage to the harbor of Cape Cod.

That the present inhabitants of the aforesaid town be and hereby are enabled to choose officers and transact all other matters, whatsoever, necessary for the executing the said act, according to the true design and meaning thereof, as fully, to all intents and purposes, as thō[ugh] none of the said inhabitants had withdrawn; and William Rotch, one of the principal inhabitants of said town, is appointed to call a meeting of said inhabitants for the purposes aforesaid. [Passed November 11; published November 13.]

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT FOR THE MORE SPEEDY FINISHING OF THE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY SCHEME.

Preamble.

WHEREAS notwithstanding the directors and partners of the late Land-bank Company have, in general, publickly renounced their scheme, and great numbers of them have redeemed their just proportions of the said late company's bills, and delivered them up to be consumed; yet many of the partners still neglect to do it, by means whereof those who have paid a due obedience to the law, in this regard, still remain exposed to the actions of the possessors of the said late company's bills, commonly called the manufactory bills, which are now outstanding, and many of them have suffered great loss thro[ugh] the default of their partners, who contemptuously refuse to redeem their due proportions of the said bills; now, for the more speedy finishing of the said scheme in as equitable a manner as may be, and preventing such of the directors and partners as have compl[y][i]ed with the law, from suffering ruin or damage thro[ugh] the obstinacy or neglect of their delinquent partners,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Commissioners for finishing the land bank scheme.

Their power.

[SECT. 1.] That John Jeffries, Samuel Danforth, and John Chandler, Esqrs., be commissioners to receive commission for the purposes hereafter mentioned from the governour; and the said commissioners, or any two of them, shall, by virtue of this act, have full power effectually to order and adjust all the affairs and business necessary for the just and equal finishing of the said Land-bank and Manufactory Scheme: which commissioners, before their entering upon the execution of the said trust, shall take the following oath; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

Commissioners' oath.

I, A. B., do swear, that I will faithfully, honestly, and impartially manage and discharge the trust reposed in me by the commission for ordering and adjusting all the affairs necessary for the finishing of the Land-bank Scheme, without favour or affection, prejudice or malice, to the best of my skill. So help me God.

[SECT. 2.] And the said commissioners, or any two of them, shall have full power to call before them and examine upon oath any persons whomsoever, touching the affairs and trade of the said late company, and to order all the effects, books, papers, and writings, relating to the said scheme and trade, to be delivered up to them, that they may discover all the debts and credits of the said late company, and the quantity of their bills emitted; how many of them are redeemed and consumed, or lying ready to be consumed, and by whom they were redeemed; how many are still outstanding; what loss and charge hath already incurred upon them; and what is the proportion of every director and partner of the said late company for the redemption of the outstanding bills.

And, for preventing any fraudulent alienations or conveyances of the estates of such of the aforesaid late directors and partners who have not redeemed their just proportions of the said bills, in order to defraud the said late company's creditors, and avoid the effect of this act,—

For preventing fraudulent conveyances.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That, from and after the publication of this act, the estate of each and every such director and partner shall be thereby bound and subjected to the payment of such sum or sums of money as shall be assessed upon him by the said commissioners, or any two of them, with the approbation and allowance of the great and general court of this province (as is hereinafter mentioned) for the redemption of their respective proportions of the bills of the said late company, and their equitable part and share of all loss and charges arising by the said scheme, in such manner as the same or any part of it would be bound and subjected by the actual service of process of attachment upon it at the suit of any creditor, according to the ordinary course of the law and the usage within this province; and the said commissioners, or any two of them, are hereby enabled in their own names to demand and receive such sums of money as shall be so assessed upon any of the delinquent directors or partners, and allowed by the general court as aforesaid, and also to raise the same by mortgaging, in their own names, that part of any delinquent director's or partner's estate which he had mortgaged to the said late company for performance of his covenants and agreements with them; or, if need be, in their own names to sue for and recover the aforesaid sums, or any part thereof, in any of his majesty's courts within the county of Suffolk, by such actions as the nature of the case shall require.

Commissioners'

[SECT. 4.] And the said commissioners, or any two of them, are hereby likewise enabled, in their own names, to demand and receive of and from any person or persons whatsoever, any money, goods or effects, whatsoever, due or owing from them to the said late Land-bank Company, and if need be in their own names to sue for and recover the same in any of his majesty's courts within the county of Suffolk, by such action as the nature of the case shall require; and shall apply all such sums of money, goods, and effects as they shall receive and recover of and from the said delinquent directors and partners, and the debtors of the said late company, or any of them, together with such sums of money as they shall raise by mortgaging the aforesaid estates of the said delinquent directors and partners, or any of them, towards the redemption of the outstanding bills of the said late company, and shall from time to time give publick notice in the "Boston Gazette" of what sums of money they shall so receive, that the possessors of the said bills may bring the same in to them to be redeemed.

[SECT. 5.] And the said commissioners, or any two of them, are hereby enabled equitably to apportion whatsoever loss shall finally appear to arise by the said scheme or trade to the said late company in general, or to any of the said directors or partners in particular, either thro' the insolvency of any of the said late directors and partners, or by means of the charge attending the said late Manufactory Scheme, or otherwise, howsoever, among the said late directors and partners in general, as the justice of the case shall require; so as that each of them may bear, as near as may be, his equitable proportion of the loss and burthen arising by their said late scheme or trade; and are hereby enabled, in their own names, to demand, sue for, and recover, in any of his majesty's courts within the county of Suffolk, in such manner as is aforesaid, of and from each and every of the said late directors and partners, such sum and sums of money as shall be so assessed upon any of them with the approbation and allowance of the great and general court, for their respective shares of the aforesaid loss and burthen, from time to time, till the aforesaid scheme shall be finished, and thereupon all the said manufactory bills which shall be received by the said commissioners shall be burnt, and the plates of the said late company, from whence they were struck, be defaced and broken; and all the securities given by any of the said late directors and partners, to the said late company, shall be cancelled by the said commissioners, or any two of them, in their own names.

[SECT. 6.] That this act shall not be adjudged or construed to be intended to hinder the possessors of any of the manufactory bills from making the same demands upon any of the late directors and partners of the said late manufactory company, for the redemption of the said bills, as they might have made upon them before the publication of this act; and that the estates of the said directors and partners shall be as liable to be attach[e]d at such suits of the possessors of the said bills, or of any other just creditor, as they were before the making of this act, anything herein contained to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

Provided, also,—

[SECT. 7.] That the said commissioners shall make a report of their proceedings, in the execution of their aforesaid trust, to the great and general court, at their session which will begin and be held in May next, for their approbation and allowance or disallowance thereof, either in whole or in part; and that any of the said late directors and partners who shall think himself aggrieved by such proceedings of the said commissioners, may file his appeal, from their determination to the said court at their aforesaid session, in the secretary's office, at any time before the said session of the said court; and in case the receipt of any sum in the said manufactory bills, charged upon any of the said late directors and partners by the said commissioners, shall be denied in such appeal, or the redemption of any of the said bills, or the payment of any sum of money to the said late company, for which no allowance has been made by the commissioners, shall be insisted upon in such appeal, or any person upon whom the commissioners shall assess any sum of money to be paid, shall deny, in such appeal, that he was either a partner or director, or anyways concerned in the said late manufactory scheme, and the appellant, in any of these cases, pray that a feigned issue at law may be directed to be tr[y][i]ed for the determination of any of the said matters of fact, in one of his majesty's courts of judicature, then the great and general court shall, upon the appellant's depositing ten pounds, lawful money, in the secretary's office, as caution money for the payment of costs, if the verdict upon the tr[y][i]al of such issue shall be found against him, direct an issue at law, accordingly, to be tr[y][i]ed at the superiour court of judicature to be held, for the county of Suffolk, next after such order made; which tr[y][i]al shall be a final determination of such matter: and in case the verdict in the same shall be for the appellant, then his aforesaid caution money, deposited in the secretary's office, shall be returned to him; and the Directors and partners liable to the suits of the possessors of the bills, and others.

Provision for an appeal to the governor and council.

Matters to be tried in the superior court.

Caution to be given in the secretary's office.

clerk of the superiour court of judicature is hereby directed to return a copy of the record of such tr[an]sac[t]ion into the secretary's office as soon as may be, for the information of the great and general court therein, which shall thereupon proceed to the determination of the appeal.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That all mortgages of any lands or tenements of any of the said late directors or partners, made by the said commissioners, or any two of them as aforesaid, shall be good and effectual to all intents and purposes in the law; and the former mortgages thereof made by the owners to the said late company, shall be thereupon cancelled and discharged by the said commissioners, or any two of them, in their own names.

Mortgages to be made by the commissioners, to be good.

And whereas several parcels of the said manufactory bills may be lodged in some or other of his majesty's courts of judicature within this province, upon judgments obtained there by some of the possessors of such bills against some of the directors or partners of the late Land-bank Company; for the redemption of the said bills,—

Preamble.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That the justices of such courts shall, within thirty days after the publication of this act, cause such bills to be delivered up to the aforesaid commissioners, with a certificate of the names of the possessors who lodged the said bills in court, and of the directors or partners of the said late company against whom judgment was obtained for the redemption of the said bills.

Bills lodged in the courts to be delivered to the commissioners.

[SECT. 10.] And the said commissioners shall be allowed each ten shillings for every day of their attendance upon the execution of their said trust, and no more, to be paid by the late directors and partners of the aforesaid scheme, as also all other necessary charges which they may be at in prosecuting the affair aforesaid, out of the effects of the said late company, and shall render an account of their proceedings to the great and general court, when and so often as thereunto required, and shall sit three days at least in a week for the dispatch of said business, until the same shall be finished.

Allowance to the commissioners.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That in case of the death or refusal of any of the commissioners aforesaid, such vacancy shall be supply'ed by the great and general court. [Passed November 10; published November 11.]

Provision in case of a vacancy.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE EIGHTH DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1743—44.

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE GREAT INJURY AND INJUSTICE ARISING TO THE INHABITANTS OF THIS PROVINCE BY THE FREQUENT AND VERY LARGE EMISSIONS OF BILLS OF PUBLIC CREDIT IN THE NEIGHBOURING GOVERNMENTS.

Preamble.

1738-39, chap. 14,
§ 1.

WHEREAS the bills of this and the neighbouring governments are and have been the principal medium of trade and commerce in this province, and some of those governments, more especially that of Rhode Island, have frequently made extravagant emissions of their bills, which, by as frequent experience, have been found a great means of depreciating all the bills of public credit current among us, whereby great injustice hath been introduced; and should the same practice be continued, it would be greatly injurious to the inhabitants of this province, and ruinous to many,—

Penalty for paying or receiving bills of Rhode Island government issued since 1742, and bills of other neighboring governments hereafter issued.

[SECT. 1.] That no person or persons whosoever shall within this province, wittingly and wilfully utter, offer to put off, take or receive any bill or bills of credit of the colony of Rhode Island, emitted since the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, or of that or any other of the neighbouring governments, that shall hereafter be emitted, in payment of any debt, for purchase of any goods, or for any valuable consideration whatsoever, on pain of forfeiting for each bill so uttered, offered or received, the sum of three pounds, and of being ever after disabled from bearing any office of honour or profit under this government.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for officers' passing or receiving such bills.

[SECT. 2.] That any person in this government bearing any office or offices of profit or honour, that shall be convicted of having wilfully and wittingly uttered, offered to put off, taken or received any such bill or bills in payment of any debt, or for purchase of any goods, or for any valuable consideration whatsoever, shall for such offence be ipso facto discharged from such his office or offices, and shall be thereby utterly disabled to have or hold any office of profit or honour within this province, and shall likewise forfeit for each such bill by him uttered, offered or received, the sum of ten pounds.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty to innholders, &c., for such offence.

[SECT. 3.] That any innholder, retailer or common victualler, who after the publication of this act shall wittingly and wilfully utter, offer to put off, taken or received any such bill or bills in payment of any debt, or for purchase of any goods, or for any victuals or liquors bought or sold, or to be bought or sold, or for any entertainment given or to be given, or for any other valuable consideration whatsoever, such innholder, retailer or common victualler, beside his being liable to the fine first beforementioned, shall forfeit his licence, and be disabled from holding or using any such employment for the future.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That every mortgage, bill, bond, other assurance or instrument in writing, whatever, that hereafter shall be executed, for the consideration whereof, in whole or in part, such bills shall be received or paid, and legal proof hereof be made, such mortgage, bill, bond, assurance or instrument in writing, whatever, shall be deemed a fraudulent bargain, and shall be utterly void in law.

Bonds and mortgages for such bills to be void.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That any person that shall receive or pay any such bill or bills, and shall first inform against and prosecute the other party concerned with him or her therein, so that he or she be convict of receiving or paying such bill or bills for any valuable consideration whatever, such prosecutor shall be indemnified from the penalty in this act, and shall likewise be intitled to one half of the forfeiture aforesaid.

Witnesses to be indemnified, and have one-half of the forfeiture.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That every merchant, shopkeeper or trader shall be answerable for every offence against this act, committed either by him or herself, or any of his or her household or family that are under his or her immediate care and government, and be obliged to satisfy and pay the sum of ten pounds for every such offence; unless such merchant, shopkeeper or trader shall make oath, bonâ fide, that such an offence was committed without his or her privity, countenance or connivance.

Penalty to merchants and traders.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That any justice of the peace shall have power, and is hereby authorized, upon information or complaint to him made of any breach of this act, to convene before him the person or persons so complained of, and to grant summons for witnesses to appear before him to be examined on oath as to their knowledge touching the fact or facts refer'd to in such complaint, and, upon just ground, to bind over the person or persons complained of or informed against, and to require sufficient security for his or her appearance at the next court of general sessions of the peace in the county where the offence is alledged to be committed, to answer such complaint; and any person refusing to give evidence at the tryal of such as may be sued, presented, indicted or complained of for any violation of this act, shall be liable to the same penalty as the person presented or complained of is liable to in case he shall be convict; but shall not be subject to any damage by any discovery he might make by his oath, in case he should take it.

Justices to proceed against offenders by binding them over, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the courts of general sessions of the peace, in the respective counties, be and they hereby are impowered and directed, at their next term for sitting, and so, from time to time, during the continuance of this act, to appoint five meet persons in each town within their respective counties, to inform against and prosecute the violaters of this act; and, in the town of Boston, the number of persons to be appointed to that office and duty, shall be fifteen, which officers shall have and enjoy the same benefit and advantage as other informers; and if any person so appointed shall refuse or neglect, after due notice given him for that purpose, to take his oath (to be administred to him by such court, or a justice of the peace), and to serve in said office, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds.

Persons to be appointed to inform against the breach of this act.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty of officers' neglecting their duty.

[SECT. 9.] That if any justice of the peace, grand juror or other officer, shall wilfully and wittingly omit the performance of his duty in the execution of this act, such officer shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds.

Forfeitures, how to be disposed of.

[SECT. 10.] The several forfeitures before mentioned to be applied, the one moiety thereof to the use of the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed, the other moiety to him or them who shall inform or sue for the same (and in case there be no informer that shall prosecute such offender, in such case the whole of the forfeiture shall be applied to the use first mentioned), and may be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record within the same county, or by presentment of the grand jury, who are hereby strictly enjoined to present all breaches of this act; and no essoign, privilege, protection or wager of law, shall be allowed in any such suit or prosecution as aforesaid.

How to be recovered.

Provided nevertheless,

Proviso.

[SECT. 11.] That all suits or prosecutions for the breach of this act, shall commence within twelve months from the time of committing the offence.

And be it further enacted,

This act to be publicly read in the courts, and grand jurors to be charged.

[SECT. 12.] That the justices of the respective courts of general sessions of the peace within this province, shall cause this act to be publicly read at opening their courts, from time to time, and shall give in charge to the grand jury duly to enquire after, and make presentment of, all persons that shall presume to offend in violation of this act; and the selectmen of each town within this province, are alike required to cause this act to be publicly read at their several town meetings in May next, for the choice of representatives.

Limitation.

[SECT. 13.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of two years from the publication hereof, and to the end of the May session then next after, and no longer. [Passed and published March 17, 1743-44.]

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT FOR REGULATING THE HOSPITAL ON RAINSFORD[S] ISLAND, AND FURTHER PROVIDING IN CASE OF SICKNESS.

Preamble.
1738-39, chap. 8.

WHEREAS a good and convenient house hath been provided at the charge of the province, on the island called Rainsford's Island, for the reception of such persons as shall be visited with any contagious sickness,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives<sup>ves</sup>,

Masters of infected vessels to be notified where to come to anchor.

[SECT. 1.] That the commanding officer at Castle William, and the keeper of the lighthouse, shall notify and direct the masters of all vessels coming near them, wherein any infectious sickness is or hath lately been, at their coming in, to come to anchor as near the beforementioned house as may be, that the sick persons, and everything else on board said ship that may give infection (proper to be put into the said house), may be removed into it with the greater ease and safety.

And be it further enacted,

Leave to be had of the selectmen for landing passengers or goods.

[SECT. 2.] That upon application made by said master or commander, to the selectmen of the town of Boston, the said selectmen are hereby impowered to permit such passengers, goods or lading as they shall judge free from infection, to come on shore, or be taken out and disposed of as the owners shall see meet; and such passengers and goods as shall not be permitted as afore[ai]<sup>d</sup>, shall remain on board, or be put into the said hospital.

[SECT. 3.] And if any master or immediate commander of any such vessel for the time being, shall come on shore, or suffer any of his people or passengers to come on shore, or any boats to come on board, or suffer any goods to be taken out of his vessel, unless permitted as aforesaid, or shall come up with his vessel, until[1], by a certificate, under the hands of the selectmen as aforesaid, it shall appear to the captain-general that the said vessel, company and goods are clear of infection, and the orders for stopping and detaining the same be removed and taken off, he shall, for every such offence, forfeit the sum of fifty pounds; and in case he be not able to pay that sum, he shall suffer six months' impriso[n]ment. And if any sailors or passengers, coming in said vessel, shall, without the knowledge or consent of the master, presume to come on shore, or up above the said castle, or if any person from town or country presume to go on board such vessel, or to go to the aforesaid house or hospital in time of infection there, without leave from the authority afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>; or if any person, put sick into the said house, or sent there on suspicion of being infected, shall presume to go off the island without leave as aforesaid; every person offending in any of the above mentioned particulars, shall forfeit the sum of ten pounds; and in case any person be not able to pay the said sum, he shall suffer two months' imprisonm[en].

Forfeiture for contempt by the master.

Penalty for sick or suspected persons offending against this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That when and so often as any ship or other vessel, wherein any infection or infectious sickness hath lately been, shall come to any port or harbour within this province; or when and so often as any person or persons belonging to, or that may, either by sea or land, come into, any town or place near the publick hospital within this province, shall be visited, or who lately before may have been visited, with any infectious sickness, two of the justices of the peace, and selectmen of such place, be impowered immediately to order the said vessel and sick persons to the province hospital or house afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>, there to be taken care of according to the direction of this act; and where any such ship, vessel or persons cannot, without any great inconvenience and dam[m]age, be ordered to the afores[ai]<sup>d</sup> house or hospital, in every such case the rules and directions are to be observed, which are already made in and by the act pass'd in the thirteenth year of the reign of his late majesty King William the Third, [e][t]intituled, "An act providing

Two justices and selectmen to order sick persons to the hospital.

1701-2, chap. 9.

in case of sickness."

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That if any master, seaman or passenger belonging to any ship on board which any infection is or hath lately been, or is suspected to have lately been, or coming from any port where any infectious mortal distemper prevails, shall refuse to make answer upon oath to such questions as may be asked by the selectmen of the town to which such ship shall come, relating to such infection, such master, seaman or passenger shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds; and in case he be not able to pay said sum, he shall suffer six months' imprisonment; all the above mentioned fines to be sued for and recovered by the province treasurer for the time being; one third of the fines to be to his majesty, for the use of this governm[en], one third to the informer, and one third to the province treasurer for the time being. And where any person shall be convicted of any offence against this act, and suffer the pains of imprisonment, and shall be unable to pay the costs of prosecution, such costs shall be allowed and paid out of the province treasury.

Penalty for not answering on examination.

Selectmen of Boston to provide nurses, &c.

[SECT. 6.] And the selectmen of Boston are directed and impowered to provide nurses, assistance and other necessaries for the comfort and relief of such sick persons sent to said hospital as aforesaid, the charge thereof to be born by the said persons themselves if able, or if poor and indigent, then at the immediate charge of the province.

Limitation.

[SECT. 7.] This act to continue in force five years from the publication thereof, and to the end of the session of the general court next after, and no longer. [Passed and published March 5, 1743—44.]

CHAPTER 20.

AN ACT PROVIDING THAT THE SOLEMN AFFIRMATION OF THE PEOPLE CALLED QUAKERS SHALL, IN CERTAIN CASES, BE ACCEPTED INSTEAD OF AN OATH IN THE USUAL FORM; AND FOR PREVENTING INCONVENIENCIES BY MEANS OF THEIR HAVING HERETOFORE ACTED IN SOME TOWN OFFICES WITHOUT TAKING THE OATHS BY LAW REQUIRED FOR SUCH OFFICES.

Preamble.
1719-20, chap. 11.

WHEREAS the people called Quakers profess to be in their consciences scrupulous of taking an oath in the form by law required,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That, from and after the publication of this act, every Quaker within this province who shall be required upon any lawful occasion to take an oath where, by law, an oath is required, shall, instead of the usual form, be permitted to make his, or her, solemn affirmation or declaration in the words following; viz<sup>[1]</sup>,—

Form of the affirmation to be taken by Quakers.

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely affirm and declare under the pains and penalties of perjury.

—which said solemn affirmation or declaration shall be adjudged and taken,—

And it is hereby enacted and declared,

[SECT. 2.] To be of the same force and effect to all intents and purposes in all courts of justice and other places where by law an oath is required within this province, as if such Quaker had taken an oath in the usual form.

And be it further enacted,

Quakers' acting contrary to the said affirmation to be deemed wilful and corrupt perjury.

[SECT. 3.] That if any Quaker making such solemn affirmation or declaration shall be lawfully convicted, wilfully, falsely, and corruptly, to have affirmed or declared any matter or thing which, if the same had been in the usual form, would have amounted to wilful and corrupt perjury, every such Quaker so offending shall incur the same penalties and forfeitures as, by the laws of this province, are enacted against persons convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Provided always, and be it enacted,

Proviso.

[SECT. 4.] That no Quaker or reputed Quaker shall by virtue of this act be qualified or permitted to give evidence in any criminal causes, or serve on any juries in any of the courts within this province (without taking the oath by law required, except in civil causes only; and in such causes such person shall be liable to serve as a juror on taking the affirmation aforementioned, and on refusing to take the same, shall be subjected to the same fine that others are by law subjected to for not serving as jurors), nor bear any office in this governm<sup>[en]</sup> where an oath is by law required to qualify a person for the discharge of such office, except in town offices only, and in such case not to serve as an assessor or collector for any rate or tax to be made for the support of the minister or ministers in any town, or for building or repairing of any house for the publick worship of God within the same.

And it is therefore further provided and enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That where one half or more of the assessors or collectors of any town shall be of the people called Quakers, such of the inhabitants of s[ai]<sup>d</sup> town who are not Quakers may and shall at the same meeting, at which such assessors or collectors, being Quakers, are chosen, proceed to the choice of an equal number of other persons who are not Quakers; and such assessors and collectors so chosen shall be as fully qualified by themselves, where the whole number of the first-chosen assessors are Quakers, or together with the other assessors who are not Quakers, when any such there be, to make rates and taxes for the settlem[en]<sup>t</sup> and support of the ministry, and for building and repairing any house or houses for the publick worship of God within such town, and for no other purposes; and such collector shall be as fully impowered to collect the same as they, the s[ai]<sup>d</sup> assessors and collectors, would have been had no other assessors or collectors been before chosen: and any assessor or collector so chosen shall be liable to the same penalty for refusing to serve in their respective office as he would have been had he been chosen and refused to serve as assessor or collector of all the rates and taxes in s[ai]<sup>d</sup> town.

Provision made where one-half or more of the assessors or collectors are Quakers.

And whereas in sundry towns within this province the town clerk and other town officers, being of the people called Quakers, have neglected or refused to qualify themselves by taking the oaths to the execution of such office by law annexed, and yet have continued to serve in said offices, and should the consequent proceedings of such town be called in question as illegal and so set aside, many and great inconvenienc[es] and much confusion would arise,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That all the acts and proceedings of any town within this province, where all or any of the officers, being Quakers, have neglected or refused to take the oaths to such offices by law annexed, and yet have continued in the execution of their respective offices, be and hereby are as fully established and confirmed as such acts and proceedings would have been had such officers been under oath as by law required.

Proceedings of Quakers made valid.

[SECT. 7.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the then next session of the general court, and no longer. [*Passed March 1; published March 5, 1743-44.**]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT TO REGULATE THE EXPENCE OF PRIVATE BRIDGES.

WHEREAS it sometimes happens that some particular person or persons, for his or their own private advantage, build and erect a bridge or bridges across some river or stream, and, after, neglect or refuse to keep such bridge or bridges in repair, by means whereof the town or towns in which such bridge or bridges are erected have been presented, and suffered loss and dam[m]age, althô such town was not consenting to the building thereof, nor receive general and common advantage thereby; wherefore,—

Court of general sessions to determine as to private bridges.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,
 [SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, upon application made to the court of general sessions of the peace by any person or persons, setting forth that any bridge or bridges that have already been erected, or that may hereafter, be erected by any particular person or persons for his or their private advantage, either in or adjacent to the town where such person or persons live, or any other town, for the building of which there was not the especial consent of the town or towns where such bridge or bridges l[y][i]e, or to which they are adjacent, nor the order of the s[ai]d court for building the same, nor any order nor special agreement for keeping such bridge or bridges in repair, that such bridge or bridges are neglected and not kept in due repair; in every such case, upon application made as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful[1] for the said court either to discontinue such bridge or bridges (if the person or persons erecting them shall neglect to keep them in due repair), or otherwise finally to determine how, in what manner, and by whom such bridge or bridges shall be repaired and maintained, whether at the charge of the person or persons that built the same, their heirs, or such other person or persons as live near and reap the principal advantage of such bridge or bridges, as the said court shall judge most reasonable, and make out such orders and assessments on any particular person, persons or towns as shall be found necessary for effecting such repairs from time to time, and, if need be, to award execution thereon in such manner as the circumstances of the case may require; to which orders, assessments and executions all proper officers and other persons are hereby directed to conform.

Limitation.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years, and no longer. [*Passed March 21; published March 24, 1743-44.**]

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT FOR RENDRING MORE EFFECTUAL THE LAWS ALREADY IN BEING RELATING TO THE ADMEASUREMENT OF BOARDS, PLANK AND TIMBER, AND FOR PREVENTING FRAUD AND ABUSE IN SHINGLES, BEEF AND PORK EXPORTED FROM THIS PROVINCE, AND ALSO FOR REGULATING THE ASSIZE OF STAVES AND HOOPS.

Preamble.

1695-6, chap. 5.
 1710-11, chap. 7.
 1727, chap. 7.

WHEREAS, in and by an act pass'd in the ninth year of her late majesty, Queen Ann[e], [e][i]ntituled, “ An Act for the admeasurement of boards, plank and timber, and regulating the tale of shingles,” it is declared, “ That in each maritime town within this province where boards, plank, timber and slit-work are usually imported or brought to sale, or exported beyond sea, there be two or more honest, skilful[1] persons annually elected by such town, at the time of their anniversary choice of town officers, to be surveyors and measurers of boards, plank, timber and slit-work and surveyors of shingles, who shall be sworn in manner as other town officers to the faithful[1] performance of the duty of their office”; but no provision is made for the admeasurement and view thereof in the places where such boards, plank, timber and slit-work are usually cut or brought to the water-side where the same may be ship[t][d], rafted or floated off, which by experience has been found very inconvenient; for remedy whereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That in each and every town within this province where boards, plank and timber are rafted off or brought for sale by land- or water-carriage, from whence the same may be rafted or floated, there shall be one or more honest, skillful person or persons, elected by such town sometime before the tenth of June next, and at the time of the choice of other town officers, annually, to be surveyors and measurers of timber, who shall be sworn, in manner as other town officers, to the faithful[1] performance of the duty of his or their office.

Persons to be annually elected surveyors and measurers of timber, &c.

[SECT. 2.] And all boards, plank, timber and slit-work imported or brought by land- or water-carriage for sale, before their delivery upon sale or their being rafted or floated off, shall be viewed, surveyed and measured by one of the said officers, having consideration for drying and shrinking, and also marked anew to the just contents, making reasonable allowance for rots, splits and wains, and each end of each piece of timber shall be marked with the brand of the town where such timber is measured as aforesaid; the buyer to pay the officer three-pence per t[u][o]n for viewing, measuring and marking, and so pro rata for a greater or less quantity.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if any person or persons shall presume to ship, raft or float off any boards, plank or timber, unless the same shall first have been viewed, surveyed, measured and marked by a sworn surveyor as afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>, he or they shall forfeit the value thereof; two-thirds of the same to the use of the poor of the town where the offence is committed, and the other third to the surveyor or any other person or persons who shall sue for the same, which he or they are hereby enabled to do by action, bill, plaint or information, in any court proper to try the same.

Penalty for shipping of boards, plank, and timber not surveyed.

[SECT. 4.] And whereas great fraud and abuse is practi[c][s]ed in making and packing of shingles and hoops, and also in making and cutting of staves exported from this province; for preventing the same for the future,—

Preamble.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That, from and after the tenth day of June next, no shingles, staves nor hoops shall be exported to a foreign market from any town in this province, that shall be under the following assize; viz<sup>ch</sup>, each shingle to bear eighteen inches or fifteen inches in length (according to which of those lengths they are sold for), and not less than three inches broad exclusive of sap, except cedar shingles only, w[hi]<sup>ch</sup> shall be of the afores[ai]<sup>d</sup> breadth, the sap included, and half an inch thick at the thick end, and well shaved and free from winding; and every bundle of shingles shall hold out, one with another, at least four inches in breadth; and all pipe-staves shall be at least four feet eight inches in length, three inches broad clear of sap, at least half an inch thick on the heart or thinnest edge and every part thereof; and all white oak hogshead staves shall be three feet and four inches in length, three inches broad clear of sap, and at least half an inch thick on the heart or thinnest edge and every part thereof; and all red-oak hogshead staves shall be three feet and an half in length, three inches broad, and at least half an inch thick on the heart or thinnest edge and every part thereof; and all barrel staves shall be thirty inches in length, three inches broad, clear of sap, and at least half an inch thick on the heart or thinnest edge and every part thereof, and all well and propor-tionably split; and all hogshead hoops that are exported beyond sea from any town w<sup>[i]</sup>th in this province shall be made of white oak or walnut, and from twelve to fourteen feet in length, and of good and sufficient substance, and well shaved, and one-half, at least, of the hoops in each bundle shall be fourteen feet long.

And be it further enacted,

Shingles to be surveyed in the towns where they are made, &c.

[SECT. 6.] That each town where shingles are made or sold may and shall chuse one or more surveyors of shingles, to be under oath, who shall be allowed by the buyer twopence per thousand for his service in surveying and telling. And before any shingles are sent from the town where they are made, or at the place of first sale, before their delivery they shall be viewed, surveyed and measured by a sworn surveyor, and the town brand set upon the hoop of the bundle; and all shingles offer'd to sale without being surveyed and marked as aforesaid shall be forfeited.

Cullers of staves and hoops to be chosen in the maritime towns.

[SECT. 7.] And in each maritime town, within this province, from whence staves or hoops are usually exported beyond sea, there shall be two or more suitable persons chosen by such towns sometime before the tenth of June next, and at their meeting in March, annually, to be viewers and cullers of staves and hoops, who shall be under oath faithfully to discharge their office, and shall be allowed for their time and service therein as follows; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, for pipe staves, one shill<sup>[in]</sup><sup>s</sup> and threepence per thous<sup>[an]</sup><sup>d</sup>; for hogsh<sup>[ea]</sup><sup>d</sup> staves, one shill<sup>[in]</sup><sup>s</sup> per thousand; and for barrel staves, ninepence per thous<sup>[an]</sup><sup>d</sup>, as well refuse, as merchantable; the merchantable to be paid by the person buying the same and the refuse by the seller; and for surveying hoops, one penny halfpenny per hundred, to be paid by the buyer.

And be it further enacted,

Staves and hoops to be surveyed before shipped.

[SECT. 8.] That from and after the tenth day of June next, all staves that shall be exported from this province beyond sea shall be first culled, and all hoops first viewed and surveyed by one of the officers afores<sup>[ai]</sup><sup>d</sup>, and certificate given by the culler or surveyor to the master or comm<sup>[ande]</sup> of the ship or vessel on board which they are laden of the quantity by him so culled or surveyed; and the wyths or hoops with which the bundles of hoops are packed shall be sealed w<sup>[i]</sup>th the brand of the town from whence they are exported; and that all shingles that shall be exported beyond sea shall likewise be certified, by one of the survey<sup>[o]</sup><sup>s</sup> already required by law to be chosen in the maritime towns of the province, to have been by him surveyed or viewed and approved, and the number or quantity thereof; who shall be allowed by the shipper twopence per thousand for surveying and certifying as afores<sup>[ai]</sup><sup>d</sup>.

Preamble.

And whereas, notwithstanding the laws already in being, great quantities of pork and beef are exported beyond sea, w<sup>[hi]</sup><sup>ch</sup> have not been packed or repacked by the officers by law required to be chosen for that purpose,—

Be it further enacted,

Pork and beef to be packed by the sworn packer.

[SECT. 9.] That from and after the tenth day of June aforesaid, no pork or beef of the produce of this province or any other of his majesty's American plantations, shall be exported beyond sea that shall not first have been certified by the packer to have been by him packed or repacked according to law.

And [be] it further enacted,

Certificate of staves, hoops, shingles, beef and pork, to be given in to the impost office.

[SECT. 10.] That from and after the said tenth day of June, all vessels having any staves, hoops or shingles aboard for their cargo, and also any pork or beef, whether for their cargo or provision for their voyage, before any such vessel shall be cleared at the impost office, the master or comm<sup>[ande]</sup> of such vessel shall deliver into the impost officer a certificate of such staves, hoops, shingles, beef and pork's having been culled, surveyed or packed as afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>; and shall likewise make oath, before the said impost officer, who is hereby impowered and required to administer the same, that the staves, hoops, shingles, beef and pork on board his vessel are, bonâ fide, the same staves, hoops, shingles, beef and pork certified to have been culled, surveyed or packed as afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>. And the impost officer, for the service afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>, shall be allowed one shilling for each vessel[1].

[SECT. 11.] This act to continue and be in force until[1] the tenth day of June, one thous[an]<sup>d</sup> seven hund[re]<sup>d</sup> and forty-seven, and to the end of the session of the gen[era]<sup>l</sup> court then next after. [Passed March 22; published March 24, 1743-44.*] Limitation.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT TO PREVENT UNNECESSARY EXPENCE IN SUITS AT LAW.

WHEREAS divers promisory notes, bills or other obligations for payment of mon[ey][ie]s [or] [and] other things therein specified, when they are executed by the same party, and made payable to one and the same person, and the possessor or obligee has put them in suit at the same time, hav[e][ing] usually been included in one writ[t], and may ordinarily be so (where the promises or obligations are of the same kind) without dam[m]age or inconvenience to the plaintiff, and with much less cost and expence than what would be incurred by so many several and distinct suits; notwithstanding which some ill-disposed persons, for the recovery of what was due to them on such several notes or other obligations, have purchased as many distinct writ[t]s, and thereby multiplied their suits at the same court with intent only to burthen the defendant with great and unnecessary cost and charge; therefore, to discourage and prevent such practices for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That where several actions shall hereafter be brought in any court of record within this province against the same person or persons jointly, and at the same term, on several instruments of the same kind, whether notes, bills or bonds, that might conveniently have been included in one and the same writ[t], in such case if it shall be suggested or appear to the court probable that such actions were severed and multiplied with intent only to vex the defendant or defendants, or to put him or them to needless cost and charge, unless the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall shew forth such reasonable cause for bringing such several and distinct suits as to the justices of such court shall be satisfactory, the plaintiff or plaintiffs recovering judgm[en]<sup>t</sup> thereon shall be allowed costs in one of such actions only. When divers actions are brought on several notes or bonds from the same persons, costs to be given only for one, in case.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed March 22; published March 24, 1743-44.*] Limitation.

CHAPTER 24.

AN ACT TO IMPOWER JUSTICES OF THE PEACE TO SUMMON WITNESSES.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it often happens that when disputes of a civil nature arise between parties, the matter is submitted to the arbitrament and determination of persons mutually chosen between them, or, where actions are commenced, the parties enter into a rule of court, whereby much cost and long contentions in the law are prevented, but for want of proper authority to summon witnesses before the arbitrators and referees, such submissions, references and peaceable settlements of disputes are not so easy as otherwise they might be; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Justices empowered to summon witnesses in arbitrations, references, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That, when any such dispute or difference arising between parties, shall, by them, be submitted to the arbitrament and determination of persons mutually chosen between them, or where actions are commenced, and the parties have entered into a rule of court, it shall and may be lawful [1] for any one of his majesty's justices of the peace within this province, in the respective counties, on application of either of the parties, or of the persons arbitrating, to grant subpoenas to summon and cause to appear, before the arbitrators or referees, such person or persons as shall be named, for evidences in the premises, as fully and in the same manner as, by law, he might in cases depending before himself; and every person so summoned that shall refuse or neglect to appear and make oath before a justice of the peace, in the presence of the arbitrators or referees, as aforesaid, having first been paid as in civil causes is allowed to witnesses, shall be subject to the same forfeiture and damage as, by law, he might be were he summoned to appear before any court of record, and should refuse or neglect obedience thereto.

Penalty for witnesses refusing to give evidence.

And be it further enacted,

How witnesses going abroad are to be sworn.

[SECT. 2.] That when any witness may be going to sea, or lives more than thirty miles from the place of the sitting of the referees or arbitrators, or, by reason of age, sickness or other bodily infirmities, is incapable of travelling and appearing in person, then any justice of the peace, to whom application may, in such case, be made, is hereby empowered and directed to proceed in taking such person's evidence according to the law made for taking affidavits out of court. [Passed March 22; published March 24, 1743-44.]

CHAPTER 25.

AN ACT FOR THE PRESERVATION OF AND TO PROMOTE THE GROWTH OF A CERTAIN PARCEL OF WOOD AND TIMBER IN THE TOWNSHIP OF IPSWICH, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX.

Preamble.

WHEREAS there is a large tract or parcel of wood land lying in the said township of Ipswich, commonly known by the name of Chebacco Woods, situate more particularly between Chebacco Ponds and Manchester town line; which wood land is lotted, laid out and owned by a considerable number of persons: and whereas it would be of great advantage to said town, as well as to the particular owners of the said wood and timber, that the growth thereof should be preserved from the feeding and browsing of cattle and sheep, which are frequently turn'd and kept there in considerable numbers; and the laws already in force for imbodying proprietors of common fields, not reaching this case, there needs a further provision; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That, after the publication of this act, it shall and may be lawful for any five of the proprietors of said woodland to apply to a justice of the peace within the same county, setting forth in writing the intended bounds by which they would limit their proposed propriety, together with their intention for imbodying for that purpose, with the time and place of their intended meeting, on which application the justice shall make out his warrant to one of the principal proprietors so applying, to notify the said owners and proprietors to assemble and meet, by posting up a notification for that end, on one publick house in each of the parishes in said town, twenty day[s] at least before the time of such meeting, at which time and place it shall be lawful for the said proprietors to meet to choose a moderator and clerk; and if two-thirds of the whole proprietors, to be reckoned by interest, shall see meet, they may by a vote imbody themselves into a society, in which society the whole proprietors owning lands within the proposed limits shall be concluded, and may at said meeting agree upon some proper methods for calling proprietors' meetings for the future; and the said proprietors so imbodyed shall have and enjoy all the powers and privilege[s] for the ordering and managing the affairs of the said wood, and for the preservation and increase thereof, as fully and amply to all intents and purposes, as any proprietors of common or general fields already imbodyed, do or may enjoy by laws of this province already in force respecting any improvements.

Method for calling a meeting of the proprietors of Chebaeco Woods.

Power of the said proprietors in their meeting.

Provided nevertheless,—

[SECT. 2.] That if any one of the said proprietors shall think himself aggrieved by their imbodying as aforesaid, and shall then enter his dissent with the clerk of said meeting, he may apply for relief to the court of general sessions of the peace next to be holden within the said county; and the said court may thereupon appoint three persons indifferent and disinterested to hear the part[y][ie]s, duly weigh and consider the circumstances, and report their opinion to the said court what may be reasonable to be done between the said part[y][ie]s; which report being returned, the court shall enter up judgm[en]t thereon, and such judgm[en]t shall be binding, anything herein contained notwithstanding. And the said proprietors shall observe the same rules and methods in ordering and managing their whole affairs, in all respects, as the laws have provided in cases of common or general fields. [Passed March 22; published March 24, 1743-44.]

Aggrieved persons may apply to the general sessions of the peace.

CHAPTER 26.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE IN THE FIFTEENTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, INTITULED "AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE TO PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION OF THE FISH CALLED ALEWIVES, AND OTHER FISH."

WHEREAS in and by an act made in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act in addition to an act made to prevent the destruction of alewives and other fish," it is provided, that all persons that should thereafter build any mill-dam or dams, or that had,

Preamble.
1741-42, chap. 16.

before the time of the passing of the same, built any such dam across any river or stream where the salmon, shad, alewives or other fish usually pass up into the natural ponds to cast their spawn, shall make or open a sufficient passage-way for the fish to pass up such river or stream through or round such dam, and shall keep it open for the free passage of the fish, from the first day of April to the last day of May, annually; and also, that a sufficient water-passage round, through or over such dams, should be made for the passage of such fish, or their young spawn, in the season of their going down such river or stream, on penalty of fifty pounds for every offence; but, by reason that no direction is therein given with respect to the sufficiency of the sluice or passage so to be made or left open, there arises great difficulty to the owner or occupant of such dams in complying therewith: and, whereas, by reason that in some streams and rivers the said fish pass sooner, and, in others, later, in the year than the time prescribed in said additional act, as well as that the time of their passing up and down is, in some streams and rivers, longer, and, in some, shorter, so that it is found by experience that the general rule, in the aforesaid cases, by law provided, does not only fail of the good ends proposed thereby, but also exposes the owners and occupants of such dams to trouble and damage not necessary to answer the good purposes of said additional act; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Owners or occupants of dams may apply to the sessions to order the passages for fish, and the circumstances thereof.

[SECT. 1.] That it shall and may be lawful for any owner or occupant of any such dam or dams already built, or that may hereafter be built, and who are or may be obliged by said additional act, to open or leave open such passage as aforesaid, to apply to the next court of general sessions of the peace, to be holden in and for the county where such mill-dam is; and the justices of the court respectively, on such application, are empowered and directed to appoint a committee of three sufficient, and, as much as may be, disinterested, persons, under oath to repair to the dam where the passage is proposed to be opened, and carefully view the same, and, in the best manner they are able, to inform themselves of the most proper place for the passage of such fish up and down stream, of what dimensions the same shall be made, or appointed to be, and what part of each year, and how long the same shall be kept open, and return the same, under their hands, or the hands of the major part of them, to the said court for their acceptance; which return, so made and accepted, shall be deemed and adjudged the lawful rule of proceeding in making and keeping open the passage and passages for the fish in passing up and down the rivers and streams for the future, anything contained to the contrary in said additional act notwithstanding.

Provided, nevertheless,

Parties aggrieved by such order to apply to the sessions for relief.

[SECT. 2.] That if, at any time after such determination, either party shall think themselves aggrieved by such determination, it shall and may be lawful for the owner or owners, occupant or occupants, of such mill-dam or dams, or any other five persons of the other party, who may expect benefit by said fish passing up such rivers or streams, once more to apply to the said court for a new view and report on the premises in manner aforesaid, which, being by said court accepted, shall be final; the charge of such application to be born by the persons applying, in case no material alteration on the first return is made, but, otherways, be born by the owners of the dam, in proportion to their interest, to be first stated and allowed by the said court of general sessions, and may be recovered by action or actions of debt in any court proper to try the same. [Passed February 27, 1743-44.]

Charge, how to be borne.

CHAPTER 27.

AN ACT TO CONFIRM SEVERAL VOTES OF THE PROPRIETORS OF THE WESTERLY HALF OF LEICESTER.

WHEREAS the proprietors of the westerly half of the town of Leicester, at their meeting on the second of November last, voted that their lands be subjected to a tax of twopence, old tenor, per acre, for the year 1744, and a further tax of twopence, old tenor, per acre, yearly, for the four next years, for and towards the support of a learned, orthodox minister in that part of the said town; and also that their said lands shall be subjected to a further tax of a penny, old tenor, per acre, for the first year; viz<sup>[d]</sup>, the year 1744, to pay contingent charges; and that the said proprietors, at their meeting on the fifteenth of this instant February, chose Mr. Samuel Hunt their treasurer, and voted that the lands shall be subjected to a further tax of a penny, new tenor, per acre, towards the set[tl]ement of a minister: provided, always, that those of the proprietors and settlers that have subscribed a writing, dated the 27th of December last, for that purpose, shall pay to Mr. Treasurer Hunt the several sums therein set against their names, amounting together to the sum of a hundred and seven pounds, old tenor; and at both the meetings aforesaid, the said proprietors voted, that Mess[ieu]rs James Wilson, John Stebbins, and Moses Smith, inhabitants of the westerly half of Leicester, be assessors of the monies voted as aforesaid, and that Mess[ieu]rs John Cunningham, Samuel Bemus, Jun<sup>[r]</sup>, and Joshua Barton be collectors to collect the monies that shall be assess[e]d on the said proprietors by the said assessors; and also that the clerk be desired to make application to the great and general court to confirm the votes aforesaid: and whereas Samuel Tyley, Jun<sup>[r]</sup>, clerk of the said proprietors, hath prefer'd his humble petition in behalf of the said proprietors to the great and general court now sit[ti]ng, praying them to pass an act or law for confirming the votes aforesaid, and enabling the said assessors to assess, and the said collectors to collect, and the said treasurer to receive the monies aforesaid; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the votes aforesaid, made by the said proprietors in manner as aforesaid, be and hereby are confirmed, and that the said assessors, or any two of them, and the said collectors, after they have been duly sworn for those purposes, be and hereby are empowered and enabled to assess the said inhabitants, and collect and receive the mone[ie][y]s aforesaid, in the same manner as other towns or precincts have heretofore assess[e]d and collected their rates and taxes; and that the said treasurer, or his successors, be and hereby is enabled to receive the same: which the said collectors are to pay to the said treasurer accordingly. Votes of the proprietors of the west part of Leicester confirmed.

CHAPTER 28.

AN ACT TO EXPLAIN A PARAGRAPH IN AN ACT OF THIS PROVINCE, MADE IN THE PRESENT YEAR OF HIS MAJESTY'S REIGN, FOR THE MORE SPEEDY FINISHING THE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY SCHEME.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd at the session of this court, held the twentieth day of October last, [e][n]titl[u]led “An Act

Preamble.
1743-44, chap. 17.

for the more speedy finishing the land-bank or manufactory scheme," it is, among other things, provided that the said act "shall not be adjudged or construed to be intended to hinder the possessors of any of the manufactory bills from making the same demands upon any of the late directors and partners of the said late manufactory company for the redemption of the said bills, as they might have made upon them before the publication of the said act, and that the estates of the said directors and partners shall be as liable to be attached at such suits of the possessors of the said bills, or of any other just creditor, as they were before the making of the said act, anything therein contained to the contrary therefore in anywise notwithstanding"; and in and by another clause of the said act, it is enacted, "that whereas several parcels of the said manufactory bills may be lodged in some or other of his majesty's courts of judicature within this province, upon judgments obtained there, by some of the possessors of such bills, against some of the directors or partners of the late land-bank company, for the redemption of the said bills; the justices of the said courts shall, within thirty days after the publication of that act, cause such bills to be delivered up to the aforesaid commissioners, with a certificate of the names of the possessors who lodged the said bills in court, and of the directors or partners of the said late company, against whom judgment was obtained for the redemption of the said bills"; and whereas it may have happened that some of the possessors of the said manufactory bills, who had, before the making of the aforesaid act, obtained judgments in some or other of his majesty's courts of judicature within this province, against some of the directors or partners of the said late manufactory company, for the value of some of the said bills and interest due thereon, pursuant to the act of parliament in that case made and provided, and had thereupon lodged such bills in the court where they had obtained such judgments, but had not then, nor have yet received satisfaction upon those judgments; and whereas some doubt has arisen whether the justices of his majesty's courts of judicature, where any of the said manufactory bills are lodged as aforesaid, are not directed and bound by the last-recited clause of the aforesaid act of this court, to deliver up all the same without exception to the aforesaid commiss[i]oners, as well in cases where the late possessors of the said bills, who have obtained judgment in their court for the value of the same, and interest due thereon, with cost[s] of suit[s], have not received full satisfaction upon such judgments, as in cases where they have received satisfaction upon the same, which construction of the said clause is contrary to, and inconsistent with, the plain sense of the hereinbefore first-recited clause of the same act, and to the intent and meaning of the said act in general; now, for removing the said doubt, and preventing any misconstruction of the said act in the case before mentioned,—

Be it enacted and declared by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the true intent and meaning of the hereinbefore recited clauses of the aforesaid act for the more speedy finishing of the land-bank or manufactory scheme, was, at the time of passing the said act, and shall be, adjudged, construed and taken to be, that such only of the said manufactory bills, for the value of which judgments as aforesaid have been obtained, and the late possessors have received full satisfaction, according to such judgments (and it so appears by the records of the said courts), shall be delivered out of any of the said courts of judicature, to the aforesaid commissioners, anything in the afore-recited act to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed and published February 28, 1743-44.]

Manufactory bills, for which value has been received, only, to be delivered to the commissioners.

CHAPTER 29.

AN ACT TO ENABLE JUSTICES OF THE PEACE AND TOWN CLERKS TO ADMINISTER AN OATH TO SEALERS OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES, &c. &c., AND TO ESTABLISH THEIR FEES.

WHEREAS by law it is provided that sealers of weights and measures when chosen shall be presented to the court of general sessions of the peace to be sworn, which by reason of the distance of many towns in this province from any such court, often occasions great delay and unnecessary trouble; for preventing of which for the future,—

Preamble. 1692-93, chap. 30, § 1.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, it shall and may be lawful [1] for any one of his majesty's justices of the peace in the respective counties to administer an oath to any sealer of weights and measures that may be chosen (as by law already provided) in any town within the county where such justice lives, or the town clerk in such towns where no justice dwells, and such sealer so chosen and sworn shall be deemed legally qualified for his trust.

Justices of peace and town clerks to administer the oath to sealers of weights and measures.

And whereas, in the late law for establishing fees, no provision is made for such offices, and by the alteration of the value of money the former fees are become unequal,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That for the future the fees for the first sealing any weight, measure, scale or beam shall be one penny halfpenny, and for each after-sealing any such weight, measure, scale or beam, one penny, which the sealer may demand and take, and no more; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed March 5; published March 17, 1743-44.]

Fees for sealers fixed.

NOTES.—There were four sessions of the General Court this year. The second session was held, by adjournment, September 8, and continued ten days. No proclamation of prorogation, during this year, has been discovered, although Mr. Secretary Willard certified that the second session was prorogued to October 20; and it clearly appears that the General Court sat again from February 8, to March 22, 1743-44. The fourth session was adjourned to April 4, 1744. On the next day it was adjourned to April 18, and again, on that day, to April 24, and was dissolved April 28.

The engrossments of all the acts of this year are preserved, except of chapters 18 and 26; and all were printed with the sessions acts, except chapters 8 and 9.

Chapter 7 was transmitted to the Lords of Trade, by Governor Shirley, in July of this year; chapter 17 was forwarded, in like manner, on the 7th of November following, and chapter 14 a week later. The action of the Home Government upon those acts will be found in the notes to the respective chapters, post.

With the exception of chapter 7, no trace has been found of the reception of the acts of the first session. The acts of the last three sessions were regularly certified to the Lords of Trade, by Secretary Willard, August 9, 1744, and were received October 26, and read on the 14th of November following. They were referred to Mr. Fane for his opinion, in point of law, but, excepting chapters 14 and 17, have not been traced further in the records of the Lords of Trade or of the Privy Council.

The approval of these last-named acts was certified to Governor Shirley by the Lords of Trade in a letter bearing date August 9, 1744.

Chap. 13. “Sept. 10, 1743. In the House of Representatives; Whereas the Appropriation for grants in the late Act for supplying the Treasury is exhausted, and sundry grants have been made by this court which are not yet paid, & other grants necessary for the service of the Province may hereafter be made, and the attendance of the Members of the Court at this season of the year, in order to prepare and pass a Bill for the supply of the Treasury, will be extremely prejudicial to their affairs: And whereas part of several other appropriations remains in the Treasury, which may not be necessary to be drawn out till the Court shall sit again:

It is therefore Ordered that the sum of Forty three pounds five shillings and seven pence three farthings, being the surplus of the Five Thousand Pounds—appropriation for the service of His Majesty in the late Expedition to the West Indies, and the sum of Four Hundred and eighty pounds ten shillings and ten pence remaining of the Seven Hundred Pounds formerly taken from the Five Thousand Pounds—appropriation aforesaid, and the sum of Three Hundred pounds part of the Five Hundred Pounds appropriation for payment of contingent charges, and the sum of Eleven Hundred and Ninety two pounds sixteen shillings and nine pence half penny, being the surplus of the Four Thousand Pounds—appropriation for payment of Forts and Garrisons &c the whole of the several sums aforesaid amounting to Two Thousand and sixteen pounds thirteen shillings and three pence one farthing be taken from the several Appropriations to which they respectively belong and applied or appropriated for the payment of such Grants as are or shall be made by this Court the several sums, taken as aforesaid, to be restored or made good to their respective appropriations by the next act for supply of the Treasury that shall pass this court. Chap. 14. This was one of the acts included in Mr. Fane's report of February 4, 1743-4, quoted in note to chap. 7, ante. It was submitted to him by the Board of Trade on the 27th of the previous month; and on the 24th of February a draught of a representation for the King's assent thereto was prepared and signed by the Board.

“Order in Council confirming an Act passed in Nov. 1743.”

At the Court at St. James's the 9th day of May 1744 Present The King's most Excellent Majesty in Council

Whereas by Commission under the Great Seal of Great Britain the Governor, Council and Assembly of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England are authorized and empowered to constitute and ordain Laws which are to continue and be in force unless His Majesty's pleasure be signified to the contrary—And whereas in pursuance of the said Commission an Act was past in the said Province in November 1743 in the Words following Viz:

An Act for preventing the destruction of White Pine Trees within this Province and for encouraging the preservation of them for the use of the Royal Navy.

Which said Law having been under the consideration of the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations and also of a Committee of the Lords of His Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council, the said Lords of the Committee this day presented the said Law to His Majesty at this Board with their opinion that the same was proper to be approved—His Majesty taking the same into consideration was pleased with the advice of His Privy Council to declare his approbation of the said Law And pursuant to His Majesty's Royal Pleasure thereupon expressed the said Law is hereby confirmed finally enacted and ratified accordingly Whereof the Governor or Commander in Chief of the said Province for the time being and all others whom it may concern are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

I now transmit to your Lordships an Act of an Equitable nature, which I believe will be effectual for the purposes design'd by the late Bill (if it shall have his Majesty's Royal Approbation) and which is so framed as that I hope it may appear to your Lordships, as it does to me, to stand clear of all the Objections against that Bill.

The extraordinary powers given by the late Bill to the Commissioners were a power by their Warrant to the Sheriff to break open doors, chests &c in order to seize the effects, books & papers of the late Directors; an absolute power to assess any sum upon any of the Delinquent Directors or Partners without liberty of appealing from their determination in case of any grievance as also to apportion the general Loss among 'em without any appeal, likewise to sell that part of any Delinquent Directors or Partners Estate which had been before mortgaged to the Company at their discretion for payment of the sums assess'd upon 'em and those Delinquent Partners & Directors were made incapable of alienating such part of their Estates from and after the Publication of the Act without special leave from the Governour and Council and all the Acts of the Commissioners in general were to be final except that they were to be accountable to the General Court for their Receipts and Payments—Whereas this Act has no other effect for binding and subjecting the Estates of the Delinquent Directors and Partners from and after the Publication of it to the payment of such sums as shall be assess'd upon 'em by the Commissioners with the allowance of the General Court, than the actual service of an ordinary Writ of Attachment at the suit of any Creditor would have upon their Estates for subjecting 'em to the payment of any common Debt, according to the common course of the Law—and usage within the Province: The Commissioners have no power to break open Locks, no absolute power to assess any sums of money upon any Partner or Director, but they are oblig'd to make a Report of their Assessments and all their other Acts to the General Court which must give a sanction to 'em before they are binding and may disallow 'em: And such Partners or Directors who think themselves aggrieved by any of their Determinations, may appeal from 'em to the General Court; and if they choose to have any material facts not agreed between them and the Commissioners try'd in a Court of Law upon an issue to be directed by the Genl Court such issue is to be directed for the Trial of 'em by a jury in his Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Superior Court of Judicature; so that no party can lose the benefit of a Trial at Law, if he desires it; And the Commissioners have no power to make sale of that part of any Delinquent Partner's or Director's Estate, which was before mortgag'd to the Company, as was before given 'em by the late Bill, but only to mortgage it; And it is expressly provided by the Act that notwithstanding anything contained in it, or done in pursuance of it, the persons and estates of the Partners and Directors shall be liable to the same Demands and Attachments of the Possessors of the Bills as they were before the making of the Act; So that this Act of the General Court does not in the least interfere with the Act of Parliament by taking away the Remedy which that gave the Possessors of the Bills against the Partners or Directors, and substituting another in lieu of it, unless the Possessors choose to bring in their bills to the Commissioners to be redeem'd by them, which is in their favour; nor does it in the least clash with the Act of Parliament by declaring or supposing any of the Agreements or Covenants between the Partners and Directors in forming and executing their late scheme to be good in Law, which the Act of Parliament declares to be illegal and void; but is manifestly calculated to carry the Act of Parliament into Execution according to its full intent, which I suppose was to punish and burthen the whole Company and not that such of 'em, who should pay a due obedience to the Act, should be ruin'd in their Estates and Families, and those who were dishonest and refractory should avoid their part of the Loss and Burthen by their obstinacy, which among so great a number as eight hundred, of which the Company consisted, must have been the fate of some if this Act had not been made; besides their being subjected to the Oppression of such persons as buying up the Bills of some ignorant possessors at a great discount, either out of avarice in pique against particular persons, harrass 'em with demands in order to exact sums of money from 'em to let their suits drop and contribute to keep such of the Bills as are now outstanding in a Circulation—And it seems to me upon the whole that this Act of the General Court is so well guarded and that it is framed in such manner, as that, if any Act effectual to answer the ends design'd by this and consistent with the Act of Parliament can be devis'd, this is such a one.

And your Lordships perceive that this Act provides that in case of the Death or refusal of any of the Commissioners, such Vacancy is not to be filled up by the Governor and Council, as was provided by the former Bill, and which I understand was excepted to by your Lordships, but is to be supply'd by the General Court.

And I would particularly observe to your Lordships that I have taken care that the Commissioners shall only proceed to audit the accounts of the Company and make report of their proceedings to the Genl Court (at their next May Sessions) which must give sanction to all that they do, so that I have it absolutely in my power to hinder the Act from being carried into execution, 'till I know his Maj<sup>ty</sup>s pleasure upon it, and I shall accordingly suspend the execution of it till then; and I hope that the steps, which the Commissioners will take in the meantime in auditing and settling the affairs of the Company and in apportioning the loss which will arise from the whole scheme, in order to be lay'd before the General Court, may tend to check several mischievous practises, one of which is an endeavour to influence some Members of the Assembly, who have been lately active in his Maj<sup>ty</sup>s service by intimidating 'em with Demands of large sums of Manufactory Bills, in order to make 'em oppose the measures of the Government for the sake of getting rid of such demands; for which special purpose some sums of those Bills have been purchased of the Possessors, which is a vile abuse of the Act of Parliament.

As it appears to me that this Act would be for the service of his Maj<sup>ty</sup>s Govern<sup>t</sup> here, as well as very much for that of the Country and correct several abuses of the Act of Parliament, I hope your Lordships will not find anything so exceptionable in it as to hinder his Majesty's approbation of it; And if your Lordships would be pleased to signify to me his Maj<sup>ty</sup>s pleasure upon it as early as may be consistent with your conveniency, so that I may know how to act upon it by the beginning of next June I should esteem it a singular mark of your Goodness & Favour to me.

I shall observe your Commands relating to the Lands between Nova Scotia and the River of Sagadahock, and an account of the state of the Paper Currency and all other matters in your last letter not answer'd here, and am with the highest respect

My Lords

Your obedient and most humble Servant

W. SHIRLEY.

[SECT. 1.] That the officers and ship's company of the province snow, or such vessels of war as shall be commissioned and fitted out by this government during the present war, shall have the sole interest and property of and in all and every ship, vessel, goods, and merchandize, as they or either of them, since the first day of June instant, have seized or taken, or shall hereafter seize or take, from the French king, his vassals or subjects, during the present war with France.

Vessels and cargo taken from the French allowed to the captors, being in vessels of war commissioned from this Government.

And, as a further encouragement to the officers, seamen, and others aboard said vessels of war, to attack, take, and destroy any ships of war or privateers belonging to the enemy,—

[SECT. 2.] That there shall be paid unto the officer, seamen, and others, that shall have been actually on board such of the before-mentioned vessels of war, in any action where any vessel or vessels of war, or privateers, shall have been taken from the enemy, sunk, burnt or otherwise destroyed, three pounds for every man which was living on board any vessel or vessels so taken, sunk, burnt or otherwise destroyed, at the beginning of the engagement between them; the number of such men to be proved by the oaths of three or more of the chief officers or men which were belonging to the said vessel or vessels of war, or privateer, of the enemy, at the time of her or their being taken as prize, sunk, burnt or otherwise destroyed, before the governour, lieutenant-governour or one or more of his majesty's council of this province, and by either of them certified; the said prizes, with the goods and merchandize on board the same, after having paid the duties of impost, with the premiums aforesaid, shall be divided among the captors as follows: to the captain, two-eighths; to the lieutenant and master, one-eighth; to the warrant-officers, one-eighth; to the petty officers, one-eighth; and to the ship's company, three-eighths: and the captain, officers, and ship's company shall appoint their respective agents for the receiving, management, and distribution of their particular shares accordingly.

£3 allowed for each prisoner and person killed in any vessel of war.

Manner of proof of persons killed, &c.

In what proportion the booty and premium is to be divided.

See note to chap. 16, post.

And, for the encouragement of vessels of war commissioned and fitted out by any of his majesty's colonies, and all private vessels of war and trading vessels that have letters of marque or commissions as private vessels of war from this or any of his majesty's aforesaid governments, against the subjects of the French king during this present war, to attack, take, burn, sink or otherwise destroy any ships of force belonging to the enemy,—

Be it further enacted,

Vessels and cargo and premium of £3 for each prisoner, &c., to be allowed to the captors commissioned in the neighboring Governments; and vessels taken within certain limits.

[SECT. 3.] That there shall be paid unto the officers, seamen, and others that shall have been actually on board such of the before-mentioned vessels of war, in any action where any ship or ships of war, or privateer, shall have been taken from the enemy, sunk, burnt or otherwise destroyed on the coast of this province within the following limits; viz., from Nantucket and Seconnet on the south, to Canso on the north-east, three pounds in bills of this province for every man which was living on board any such vessel or vessels so sunk, taken, burnt, or otherwise destroyed, at the beginning of the engagement between them; the number of such men to be proved and certified in manner as before mentioned: the premiums aforesaid to be distributed to such persons, and in such proportions, as prizes respectively taken by the vessels aforesaid are or ought to be distributed; all which premiums shall be duly and seasonably paid out of this province treasury in course as all other payments are made. [Passed June 19; published June 23.]

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT FOR LEVYING SOLDIERS.

Preamble.

For the more speedy and effectual levying of soldiers for his majesty's service, when and so often as there shall be occasion for the same, for the preservation and defence of his majesty's subjects and interests, and the prosecuting, encoutring, repelling or subduing such as shall at any time attempt, in hostile manner, to enterprize the destruction, invasion, detriment or annoyance of this his majesty's province, or any of his majesty's subjects therein; and for the better preventing disappointments, thro' default of any employed in levying of such soldiers, or by the non-appearance of such as shall be levied,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Duty of the chief officers of the regiments in levying soldiers.

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as the chief officer of any regiment of militia within this province shall receive orders from the captain-general or commander-in-chief, for the time being, of the said province, for the impressing or causing to be impressed for his majesty's service, out of the regiment under his command, so many soldiers as in such orders shall be mentioned, such chief officer of the regiment shall forthwith thereupon issue forth his warrants to the captains or chief officers of the companies or troops within his regiment, or such of them as he shall think fit, requiring them respectively to impress out of the militia, in the companies or troops under their command, so many able soldiers, furnished and provided as the law directs, and in the whole shall make up the number which by the orders of the captain-general or commander-in-chief he shall be directed to impress, on pain that every chief officer of a regiment that shall neglect or not do his utmost to send forth his warrants seasonably (having orders for the same as above mention'd) shall forfeit and pay a fine of fifty pounds.

Penalty for not doing his duty.

Duty of the chief officer of a company or troop.

[SECT. 2.] And every captain or other chief officer of any company or troop that shall receive any warrant from the chief officer of the regiment whereto such company or troop belongs, for the impressing out of the same any soldier or soldiers for his majesty's service, shall thereupon use his utmost endeavour to impress, or cause to be impressed, so many soldiers as by such warrant he shall be required to impress, and to have them at the place of rendezvous in time as therein shall be mentioned, on pain that every captain or chief officer of any company or troop that shall neglect, or not do his utmost, to comply with and perform any warrant to be by him received as aforesaid from the chief officer of the regiment, shall, for such neglect and default, pay a fine of twenty pounds.

[SECT. 3.] And every officer or soldier that shall receive a warrant from his captain, or the chief officer of the company or troop in which he is enlisted, for the impressing of men, shall forthwith attend and perform the same, on pain of paying a fine of five pounds.

Penalty for not doing his duty.

[SECT. 4.] And all persons are required to be aiding and assisting to him in the execution of such warrant, on pain of forfeiting the sum of three pounds.

Penalty for other persons' neglect.

[SECT. 5.] And if any person, authorized as aforesaid to impress any soldier or soldiers for his majesty's service, shall exact or take any reward to discharge or spare any from said service, he shall forfeit ten pounds for every twenty shillings he shall so exact or take, and so pro rata.

Penalty for taking a reward to discharge soldiers.

[SECT. 6.] All which fines and penalties aforesaid shall be, one moiety thereof unto his majesty, for and towards the support of the government of this province, and the other moiety to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any court of record.

Disposition of the fines.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That every person, liable and fit for service, being orderly impressed as aforesaid for his majesty's service, by being commanded in his majesty's name to attend said service, shall, by himself or other meet person in his room (to the acceptance of his captain or chief officer), attend the same at time and place appointed, compleat with arms and ammunition, if such he have, or is able to purchase the same, on pain of suffering six months' imprisonment, without bail or mainprize, to be committed by mittimus from any justice of the peace, or chief officer of the company or troop, where no justice of the peace lives in the town, upon conviction before one of his majesty's justices of the peace of such neglect, unless such person, within the space of twenty-four hours next after being impressed, shall either procure some meet person, or, in default thereof, pay to his captain or chief officer, by whose warrant he shall be impressed, the sum of ten pounds, to be employed for the procuring and fitting out of a suitable person in the stead of him so paying the said sum, for the service for which he was impressed, if such other suitable person be timely to be had, otherwise to be paid to the selectmen of the town to which such impressed person belongs, for and towards procuring of arms for such persons as are unable to purchase the same for themselves, and for which such indigent soldier shall be answerable.

Duty of persons impressed.

Penalty.

[SECT. 8.] And if the captain or officer to whom the said sum of ten pounds shall be paid as aforesaid by any person impressed, cannot seasonably procure another suitable person to serve in the stead of him that was before impressed, he shall renew his warrants as often as there shall be occasion, until the number sent for from him be compleated. And all persons paying the said sum of ten pounds as before mentioned, shall be esteemed as persons that have served, and be no further or otherwise liable to any after impress than those that actually go forth in that service.

In what case impressed persons may be excused.

[SECT. 9.] And all persons lawfully impowered to impress, may pursue any person that absconds from the impress, or makes his escape,

Penalty for escaping or absconding from the impress.

and may impress such person in any place within the province; and if any person impressed as aforesaid for his majesty's service, being so duly returned, shall remove or go out of the province, and not attend the service as required, such person, at his return, shall be apprehended, by warrant from any justice of the peace, and be by him committed to prison, unless such person give sufficient security to answer it at the next court of general sessions of the peace; and upon due conviction of the said offence, by the oath of him that impressed him, shall suffer six months' imprisonment, or pay a fine of fifteen pounds, to be paid to the selectmen of the town where such person belonged at the time of his being impress'd, for purchasing arms.

[SECT. 10.] And if any person, directly or indirectly, by counsel or otherwise, shall prevent the impressing, conceal any person impressed, or, knowingly, further his escape, such person shall pay as a fine, three pounds.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That all soldiers shall be in pay from the time of their being impressed, till they be orderly discharged, and have reasonable time allowed them to repair to their usual places of abode.

[SECT. 12.] And if any captain or other chief officer shall dismiss any soldier retained in his majesty's service, and assume another, for gain, such captain or other chief officer shall forfeit the sum of ten pounds for every twenty shillings he shall so exact, to be recovered and disposed of in manner as is before provided for the fine or penalty on officers neglecting to execute warrants for impressing of soldiers.

[SECT. 13.] And every person who hath or shall impress any soldiers for his majesty's service, shall transmit a list of them to the chief officer of the regiment or troop, particularly mentioning servants, if any such there be, and to whom they belong, that so their masters may receive their wages, who are hereby impowered so to do.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That all such soldiers and seamen that, from the commencement of the present war, have been, or, during the continuance thereof, may be, wounded in his majesty's service within this province, and are thereby maimed or otherwise disabled, shall be relieved out of the publick treasury, as the great and general court or assembly shall order.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That any impress'd man or men appearing at the place of rendezvous, being actually destitute of arms and ammunition of his own, and unable to purchase the same, he or they shall be furnished out of the town stock, if any there be, otherwise it shall be in the power of the captain or chief officer of the company or troop by whom he is impress'd, to impress arms and ammunition for him or them, the value of which shall be paid out of the publick treasury, as the great and general court shall order. And every soldier thus furnished with arms, shall allow, out of his wages, fourpence per week for the same, and return such arms, or otherwise pay for the same. And if any soldier shall lose his arms in his majesty's service, not through his own neglect or default, such loss shall be born by the province.

Provided,

[SECT. 16.] That this act shall continue in force unto the end of the sessions of the general assembly, to be begun and held on the last Wednesday in May, which will be in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, and no longer. [Passed June 18; published June 23.]

When the pay of soldiers is to begin.

Penalty for officers exchanging soldiers for gain.

Maimed soldiers and seamen to be relieved by the public.

Soldiers to be furnished with arms.

To allow 4d. per week for province arms.

Limitation.

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT TO PREVENT SOLDIERS AND SEAMEN IN HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE BEING ARRESTED FOR DEBT.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That if any person whatsoever, other than the commissary, shall trust or give credit to any soldier, mariner, or sailor, during his being actually in his majesty's service, for cloathing or other things whatsoever, no process shall be granted or served on such soldier for any debt so contracted until he be dismiss'd the service; and every writ or process granted or served contrary hereto shall be deemed and adjudged, ipso facto, void. And any justice of the peace within the county, where any such soldier or mariner is committed or restrained, upon process granted for debt or pretention of debt contracted as aforesaid, shall, upon certificate given to him from the captain or chief officer under whose command such soldier or mariner is, setting forth that at the time of such debt contracted he then was and still continues a soldier or mariner in his majesty's pay, forthwith order his release from confinement and return to his duty.

Soldier, mariner, or sailor, not to be trusted by any, except the commissary.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That no person who is or shall be impressed, hired, or voluntarily inlisted into his majesty's service either by sea or land, shall, during his continuance therein, be liable to be taken out of his majesty's service by any process or execution, unless for some criminal matter, for any sum under the value of twenty pounds bills of credit of the last emission, nor for any greater sum, until oath shall be made by the plaintiff or plaintiffs, before one of the justices of the court out of which the execution or process shall issue, or before two justices of the peace, quorum unus, in the county where the plaintiff may happen to be, that to his or their knowledge there is, bona fide, due from such person as the process or execution is desired to issue against, twenty pounds of the currency aforesaid at least.

No person impressed, hired, or enlisted to be arrested for less than £20, unless for criminal matters.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That no person in his majesty's service shall pawn, truck, barter, or sell his arms, ammunition, or cloathing, on penalty of being punished by riding the wooden horse, running the gantlet, or other like military punishment; and the person accepting or receiving the same shall be compelled to restore and make good the same without price or redemption, and shall further (if in his majesty's service) suffer military punishment as aforesaid.

Persons in his majesty's service not to sell their arms.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all debts contracted for strong or spirituous liquors by any soldier or mariner while in his majesty's service shall be void, and the creditor forever debarred from any process or benefit of the law for recovery of the same.

Soldier or mariner not to be trusted for strong liquors.

[SECT. 5.] This act to be in force for the space of two years: provided the present war with the French king, his allies and vassals, continue so long, and not otherwise, and no longer. [Passed and published June 23.]

Limitation.

[SECT. 9.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of nine thousand seven hundred and sixty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules, and in such proportions, on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the great and general court or assembly, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, and paid into the publick treasury again on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made
for what is paid to the representatives.

[SECT. 10.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives shall so receive; which sums shall be set on the towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by act of the general assembly, for assessing the next province tax, and the constables, in their respective districts, shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall lie in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That in case the general court shall not at their sessions in May, in the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which by this act is engaged shall be in each of these several years apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowred and directed, some time in the month of June in each of these years, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act, and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceeding tax act, in case.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in bills of the last emission, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coin'd silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prizes as the respective general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the last day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prizes, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowred to do it; and in their settling the prizes and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prizes and rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

[SECT. 13.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver and gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and pro ratâ for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the next year following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of twenty-six thousand thirty-seven pounds ten shillings in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed June 20; published June 23.]

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT TO PREVENT ALL TRAITEROUS CORRESPONDENCE WITH HIS MAJESTY'S ENEMIES.

For preventing all traiterous correspondence with the French king or his subjects, or such of the Indians who are or shall be in alliance with him, and supplying them with warlike or other stores,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Correspondence with his majesty's enemies, by letters or otherwise, forbidden on pain of death.

1706-7, chap. 8.

[SECT. 1.] That if at any time after the publication of this act any person or persons shall hold a correspondence with any of his majesty's enemies, by letters or otherwise, whereby they shall give them intelligence tending to their aid and comfort in carrying on the war against his majesty, and to the damage of his majesty's subjects or interests, or to the benefit or advantage of the enemy; or shall send or load, or transport or deliver, or cause to be sent or loaded, or transported or delivered unto or for the use of the said French king, or any of his subjects residing within his dominions, or any town or territory in his possession, or into or for any port or place within his said dominions, or within this province, or any of the neighbouring provinces or colonies, or on the seas adjoining thereto, unto or for the use of such of the Indians who are or shall be in alliance with him, or enemies to his majesty and the government of this his majesty's province, inhabiting or being in any of the places aforesaid, any arms, ordnance, powder, bullets, shot, lead, pitch, tar, hemp, masts, cordage, iron, steel, brass, pewter (wrought or unwrought), saltpetre, or any sort of provisions, or cloathing of any kind, or any other supplies, every person or persons offending as aforesaid, and being thereof convicted or attainted by due course of law, shall be deemed, declared and adjudged to be a traitor or traitors, and suffer the pains of death, and also lose and forfeit as in cases of high treason.

And be it further enacted,

Persons not to depart out of the province with intent to reside among the king's enemies, on pain of death.

[SECT. 2.] That if any of his majesty's subjects within this province shall, from and after the publication of this act, without licence from his majesty's governour or commander-in-chief of this his majesty's province, for the time being, by and with the consent of the council, voluntarily go, repair or embark in any vessel or vessels, with an intent to go into, reside or inhabit in any of the dominions or territories of the said French king, or amongst any of the Indians who are or shall be in alliance with him, or enemies as aforesaid, and be upon full proof convicted thereof, every person or persons so offending shall be taken, deemed and adjudged to be a felon, and suffer the pains of death.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That where any of the offences against this act shall be committed out of this province, or without the body of any county within the province, where the judges of assize and general goal delivery are directed by law to sit, every such offence may and shall be alleged and laid to be perpetrated and done in any place and county within the same, and shall be accordingly inquired of and tried in such county.

Offences done out of the province to be laid as done in some county in the province.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all and every person or persons who shall hereafter be accused, indicted or prosecuted for anything made or declared treason by this act, shall be intitled to the benefit of the act of parliament made in the seventh year of the reign of King William the Third, intituled "An Act for regulating trials in cases of treason and misprision of treason."

Act of parliament of the 7th of King William III. may be pleaded.

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT TO REMOVE THE TRIAL OF JEREMY JUDE, SO CALLED, FROM THE COUNTY OF NANTUCKET TO THE COUNTY OF BARNSTABLE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS one Jeremy Jude, so called, stands committed to his majesty's goal in Edgartown, in Dukes County, for murdering one Simon Aaron at Sherbourn, in the island and county of Nantucket, in the month of January last; and whereas the appointing a special court of assize, to be held by the justices of that court on said island, in this time of war and danger, may be very prejudicial to the interest of this government,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the trial of the said Jeremy Jude for the offence aforesaid, or any other capital offence he may have been guilty of, be had at Barnstable, in the county of Barnstable, at the next court of assize to be held there in the month of July next; and the justices of said court are hereby impowred to issue out all processes necessary thereto; and that six grand jurors, and four petty jurors for the said trial, be of the inhabitants of Nantucket. [Passed June 30; published July 5.]

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years, at five shillings and threepence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governour and their families, the president, fellows and students of Harvard College, settled ministers and grammar school-masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as for their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro' age, infirmity or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and, in making their assessments, to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate Indian, negro and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion: as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swiue of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every goat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed, at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of October.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of May next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, some time in the month of March next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accompts of the whole, at or before the last day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-five.

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give reasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion to this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of polls, rateable estate, or income by any trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assess'd, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And whereas there are number of English inhabitants in the plantation of Natick, in the county of Middlesex, who have not been heretofore assessed towards the payment of the province tax,—

Be it therefore enacted,

The assessors of Sherburn to assess £25 upon the English inhabitants of Natick.

[SECT. 7.] That the sum of twenty-five pounds, part of the said sum of twenty-five thousand pounds, be assessed upon the said inhabitants, and the assessors of the town of Sherbourn are hereby impowered and required to make the said assessment upon them, after giving reasonable warning to the inhabitants of said plantation, in some one method prescribed in this act, and to follow the other directions herein; and the said inhabitants are hereby also required to conform to the rules prescribed by this act, and subjected to the penalties of it: saving to them liberty of appeal, as to other inhabitants of the province; and the constables or collectors of the town of Sherbourn are hereby enjoyned to levy or collect all such sums committed to them and assessed upon the said inhabitants, and pay the same into the province treasury.

How to be collected and paid.

And forasmuch as oftentimes sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade and traffick is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho', in the time of their residing there, they reap'd considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[SECT. 8.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town of this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade and deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act provided, tho' the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, inhabitant of some one town within this province, shall transact or carry on trade and business in some other town in the province, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandize, for carrying on such trade, and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act.

[SECT. 10.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoyned to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assess'd on persons who are not of this province, or are inhabitants of any other town as aforesaid, and pay the same into the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

Tax may be paid in other species besides the bills emitted.

[SECT. 11.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they may respectively be assess'd at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of twenty-five thousand pounds, one-fifth part thereof, and no more, in bills of the last emission, or the whole in bills of credit emitted in the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, or in coined silver, at the rate of six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight; or in gold coin, at the rate of four pounds eighteen shillings per ounce; or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their denominations; or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in good merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or merchantable flax, at fivepence per pound; or in good, merchantable,

Isle-of-Sable codfish, at ten shillings per quintal ; or in good refined bar-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton ; or bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton ; or in good, hollow iron-ware, at twelve pounds per ton ; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and threepence per bushel ; or good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel ; or good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel ; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel ; or in good barrel pork, at two pounds per barrel ; or in barrel beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel ; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds ; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound ; or merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred ; or in good train-oyl, at one pound ten shillings per barrel ; or in good beeswax, at tenpence per pound ; or in bayberry-wax, at sixpence per pound ; or in tryed tallow, at fourpence per pound ; or in good pease, at three shillings per bushel ; or in good sheepswool, at ninepence per pound ; or in good, tann'd sole-leather, at fourpence per pound : all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may be, disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold ; and the several persons who pay their taxes in any of the commodities before mentioned, shall run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the same to the province treasury.

[SECT. 12.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of any of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax of the next year ; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

ACTS,

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE NINTH DAY OF AUGUST, A. D. 1744.

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT FOR ENLISTING INTO HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE A NUMBER OF THE INHABITANTS OF THE TOWNS OF WEYMOUTH AND CHARLESTOWN, SO AS TO MAKE TWO INDEPENDENT COMPANIES OF SIXTY MEN EACH, EXCLUSIVE OF OFFICERS, FOR THE DEFENCE OF CASTLE WILLIAM, AS OCCASION SHALL REQUIRE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the safety of this province in a great measure depends on the strength of his majesty's Castle William, and it being necessary that a sufficient number of men skilful in the management of the great artillery, should be always ready there,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Two companies for Castle William to be taken out of the towns of Weymouth and Charlestown.

[SECT. 1.] That such of the inhabitants of the said towns of Weymouth and Charlestown, who are by law subject to common musters and military exercises there, not exceeding fifty years of age, as are willing to be enlisted into the service aforesaid, shall be enlisted, not exceeding the number of one hundred and twenty in the whole, under such officers as the captain-general shall commissionate, who shall repair to Castle William eight days in each year, in such months as the captain-general shall order, and shall on the said days be, by the gunner and quarter-gunners, exercised in the mounting, dismounting, levelling, traversing and firing the great guns, and shall be obliged hereunto, and the observance of such orders as shall be given them in this exercise, under the like pains and penalties that soldiers are under to obey their officers in said castle in time of service.

And be it further enacted,

Fine for non-attendance.

[SECT. 2.] That if any of the men enlisted as aforesaid shall neglect, absent, or refuse to attend at time and place for the exercise of the great artillery as aforesaid, being thereof notified and warned to appear, for every such day's neglect such soldier shall pay to the clerk of the company, for the use thereof, the sum of five shillings.

And be it further enacted,

Subsistence to be allowed during attendance.

[SECT. 3.] That such officers and soldiers be allowed subsistence, as the officers and soldiers have, during their service at said castle.

And for the encouragement of the said men enlisted and exercised as aforesaid, and that they may be expert in the management of the great artillery,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all and every man shall be excused from all other military service, and from all impresses into other service that other soldiers by law are liable to. Soldiers to be exempt from other duties.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That upon any alarm at Castle William, all the men enlisted by virtue of this act shall forthwith appear compleat with their arms and ammunition according to law, at the said Castle William, there to attend and follow such commands as shall be given for his majesty's service, and that on the penalty of paying five pounds each man, for non-attendance as aforesaid, to the clerk of the said company for the use thereof; the said fines to be recovered before any justice of the peace or court proper to hear and try the same. Penalty for not appearing at alarms.

[SECT. 6.] This act to continue and be in force until January seventeenth, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and no longer. Limitation.
[Passed and published August 18.]

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT FOR PUNISHING OF OFFICERS OR SOLDIERS WHO SHALL MUTINY, OR DESERT HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE.

WHEREAS the raising and levying of forces is necessary in time of actual war, or common danger by insurrection or rebellion, for the safety and defence of this province, and of his majesty's subjects and interests therein, and in the neighbouring provinces or colonies; and whereas no man may be forejudged of life or limb, or subjected to any kind of punishment by martial law, or in any other manner than by the judgment of his peers, and according to the known and established laws of the province; yet, nevertheless, it being requisite for retaining such forces as shall be raised for his majesty's service, on occasion as before mentioned, in their duty, that an exact discipline be observed, and that soldiers who shall mutiny or stir up sedition, or shall desert his majesty's service, be brought to a more exemplary and speedy punishment than the usual forms of law will allow,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That every person that shall be in his majesty's service, being mustered and in pay as an officer or soldier, who shall at any time during the continuance of this act, excite, cause or join in any mutiny or sedition in the army, company, fortress or garrison whereto such officer or soldier belongs, or shall desert his majesty's service in the army, company, fortress or garrison, shall suffer death or such other punishment as by a court-martial shall be inflicted. Punishment for mutiny and desertion.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the captain-general or commander-in-chief of this province, for the time being, may, by virtue of this act, and during the continuance thereof, have full power and authority, by and with the advice and consent of the council, to grant commission to any colonel or other field-officer in his majesty's service and under pay, from time to time, to call and assemble courts-martial for punishing such offences as aforesaid. Courts-martial to be called.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That no court-martial, which shall have power to inflict any punishment, by virtue of this act, for any of the offences aforesaid, Constitution of the said court.

shall consist of fewer than eleven, whereof none to be under the degree of a commission-officer, and the president of such court-martial not to be under the degree of a field-officer, or the then commander-in-chief of the forces under pay, where the offender is to be tried; and that such court-martial shall have power and authority to summon evidences, and to administer an oath to any witness, in order to the examination or trial of the offences aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Method of the court's proceedings.

[SECT. 4.] That in all trials of offenders by courts-martial, to be held by virtue of this act, where the offence may be punished by death, every officer present at such trial, before any proceeding be had thereupon, shall take an oath before the court, and a justice of the peace, if any such be there present; otherwise the president of such court, being first sworn by two of the other members thereof, shall administer the oath unto the others; and the president of such court, and any two other members thereof, are hereby respectively authorized to administer the same in these words; that is to say,—

You shall well and truly try and determine, according to your evidence, the matter now before you, between our sovereign lord the king, and the prisoner to be tried. So help you God.

[SECT. 5.] And no sentence of death shall be given against any offender in such case by any court-martial, unless nine of the eleven officers present shall concur therein; and if there be a greater number of officers present, then the judgment shall pass by the concurrence of the greater part of them so sworn, provided such major part shall not be less than nine; nor shall any sentence of death pass'd by courts-martial, by virtue of this act, upon any offender, be put in execution, until report be made of the whole matter, by the president of such court, unto the captain-general or commander-in-chief of this province, for the time being, in order to receive his directions therein; and the prisoner shall be kept in safe custody in the mean time, and the provost-marshal shall have a warrant, signed by the president of the court, to cause execution to be done according to sentence, before the same be executed.

Provided always,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 6.] That nothing in this act contained shall extend, or be construed, to exempt any officer or soldier whatsoever from the ordinary process of law.

Limitation.

[SECT. 7.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of two years from the publication thereof, in case the war with France continue so long, or otherwise to the end of the said war, and no longer. [Passed August 18; published August 30.]

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AND EXPLANATION OF THE ACT FOR THE MORE SPEEDY FINISHING OF THE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY SCHEME.

Preamble.
1743-44, chap. 17.

WHEREAS in and by an act passed in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act for the more speedy finishing of the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme," it is provided that the commissioners therein named should make a report of their proceedings, in the execution of their trust, to this court at their present session, for their approbation and allowance or disallowance thereof, either in whole or in part, and that any of the late directors and partners of the late Land-bank or Manufactory Company who should think himself aggrieved by the proceedings of the said commissioners, might file his appeal from their determination to the court, in the secretary's office, at any time before the present session thereof; and whereas the affairs of the said late company have been since found to be so circumstanced that an assessment on all the late directors and partners for their respective proportions of the whole of the charge and loss that has arisen on said scheme and trade could not be made before the present session of this court; but the said commissioners have, during the present session thereof, assessed such of the delinquent partners in said scheme as have paid no part of what is due from them to the said late company, nor have otherwise redeemed any part of the bills which they borrowed and received of the said late company in divers sums of money, consisting of the principal sums by the said delinquent partners respectively received from the said late company in Land-bank or Manufactory bills, and the interest due thereon, together with the further sums of six pounds on every hundred of the original sum drawn out of the said late company's stock, or borrowed out of the same by such of the said assessed partners as were concerned in trade, and three pounds on the hundred as the proportion of the other assessed partners, and pro ratâ for any greater or less sum; and have made a report of their said proceedings to this court, which report is dated sixteenth of August, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four; but inasmuch as the parties so assessed have had no opportunity, in case they should think themselves aggrieved by the said proceedings, of filing their appeal from the aforesaid determination of the said commissioners to this court, at their present session, as in and by the before, in part, recited act it is provided they should have liberty to do,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the said partners of the said late Manufactory Company, who have been assessed by the said commissioners in manner aforesaid, and every of them, shall have liberty, in case they or any of them shall think themselves aggrieved by the beforementioned determination and assessment, to appeal from the same to this court at their next session, provided they shall file such appeal or appeals in the secretary's office on or before the seventh day of September next ensuing; and such appeals, and the matters arising thereon, shall be wholly governed, tried and determined by the rules prescribed touching appeals by the said, in part, recited act. And the aforesaid proceedings of the said commissioners, and every part thereof, are hereby declared to be allowed and approved of by this court against such of the partners' assessed as aforesaid, who shall not file their appeals from the same as aforesaid within the term herein before limited for that purpose; and such of the said partners shall be chargeable to pay to the said commissioners the respective sum or sums assessed upon them; and on neglect of payment thereof, the said commissioners may, in their own names, raise, sue for, and recover the same in such manner as in and by the said former act is provided.

Provided nevertheless,

[SECT. 2.] That the said commissioners shall give notice to the late partners of the late Manufactory Company by them assessed as aforesaid, of the several beforementioned assessments, by causing a list or schedule of the same, together with a copy of this act, to be inserted in the four weekly prints, called, the "Boston Weekly Postboy," the "Boston Evening Post," the "Boston Gazette, or Weekly Journal," and the Appeal allowed to the partners of the Land-bank to the general court, from the commissioners' determination.

Commissioners to give notice of their assessments in the Boston newspapers.

“Boston Weekly News-Letter,” which shall be next published after the publication of this act.

Preamble.

And whereas the affairs of the said late company are under such circumstances that the same cannot be adjusted and finished in an equitable manner by one single assessment, but divers assessments by the said commissioners on the late directors and partners of the said late company, and divers reports of their proceedings to this court, are requisite for that purpose,—

Be it further enacted,

Commissioners to make divers assessments if they judge fit.

[SECT. 3.] That the said commissioners, or any two of them, shall and may, from time to time, until the affairs of the said late company be wholly settled and finished, as often as there shall be occasion, make such assessments on any of the said late directors and partners as they shall judge necessary for finishing the said Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme in the most equitable manner, pursuant to the directions of the said, in part, recited act; and upon every such assessment's being made, the said commissioners shall give the parties thereby assessed, notice thereof, by causing lists or schedules of such assessments to be inserted in the beforemention'd weekly prints, which shall be next published after the making the said assessment; and that any of the said late directors or partners, who shall think himself aggrieved by any such determination and assessment, to be made by the said commissioners, may, at any time within fourteen days next after, notice thereof being published in the four beforemention'd weekly prints, file his appeal from the same to this court, in the secretary's office; and all such appeals, and the matters arising thereon, shall be wholly governed, tried and determined by the rules prescribed touching appeals by the said, in part, recited act.

Appeal to be allowed from them.

And be it further enacted,

Assessment to be lodged in the commissioners' chamber.

[SECT. 4.] That every further assessment made by the said commissioners, shall remain in the chamber of the court-house in Boston, wherein the said commissioners usually meet for the execution of their trust, until the expiration of the said fourteen days hereinbefore limited for the filing of appeals, ready for the inspection of such of the parties therein assessed as shall desire the same, and copies thereof, attested by the clerk of the said commissioners, shall be delivered to them upon their request, and at their proper charge; and that the said commissioners shall make report of their proceedings in every such assessment, to this court, as soon afterwards as may be, for their approbation and allowance or disallowance thereof, in whole or in part; and each and every of the said late directors and partners shall be chargeable to pay to the said commissioners the sum or sums in which he or they shall be from time to time assessed by the said commissioners, with the approbation of this court; and on neglect of payment thereof, the said commissioners may, in their own names, raise, sue for, and recover the same in such manner as by the said former act is provided.

Directors and partners chargeable to pay the sums assessed.

Commissioners empowered to sue.

And be it further enacted,

Copies of assessments to be delivered out of the secretary's office.

[SECT. 5.] That attested copies of the assessment hereinbefore mentioned to be already made by the said commissioners, shall be delivered out of the secretary's office to any of the parties therein assessed, upon their request, and at their proper charge.

Preamble.

And whereas in and by the before-mentioned act, the said commissioners are obliged to sit three days in a week for the dispatch of the affairs of said scheme, until the same shall be finished; and whereas their attendance for so great a part of the week may not be necessary after they shall have made their next assessment, and reported the same,—

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the said commissioners shall not be obliged, after they shall have presented their next assessment on the aforesaid Manufactory Company to this court, for their allowance, to sit more than one day in a week, unless when they shall judge that the affairs of said company shall require more frequent attendance. [Passed August 18.

Commissioners
not obliged to sit more than one day in the week.

AN ACT FOR APPROPRIATING A PART OF THE ISLAND CALLED GOVERNOUR'S ISLAND, IN THE HARBOUR OF BOSTON, TO THE PUBLIC USE OF THIS GOVERNMENT.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it has been represented by the captain-general, and it appears to this court, that it is of great importance to the safety of this his majesty's province, that two batteries, with a suitable number of cannon to be planted thereon, be, without delay, built and erected on the island called Governour's Island, situate and lying in Boston harbour, and easterly of his majesty's Castle William, which island is now the property and in the possession of Mrs. Anne Winthrop, of said Boston, in the county of Suffolk, widow, and after her decease is, by the indenture of Adam Winthrop, of Boston, merchant, of the one part, and John Wainwright, of Ipswich, Esq., on the other part, bearing date the twenty-seventh day of December, one thousand seven hundred, to descend to the use and behoof of the heirs begotten of the bodies of Adam Winthrop, late of said Boston, Esq., deceased, and the said Anne Winthrop, forever; and in default of such heirs, to the use and behoof of the next and right heirs of him, the said Adam Winthrop, forever, and to no other use, intent or purpose whatsoever; and whereas, by reason of said indenture it is found impracticable to obtain a sufficient deed of conveyance of a suitable part of said island, from the said Anne Winthrop or any other person, whereon to erect and build the said batteries, and, consequently, for the captain-general to proceed in erecting and building the same without the interposition of this court, altho' it is judged by them of absolute necessity for the publick safety; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, and it is hereby enacted, Sheriff of Suffolk to lay out land for the province, on Governour's Island, and take possession of it.

[Secr. 1.] That it shall and may be lawful for the captain-general and governour-in-chief in and over his majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay, to issue his order, directed to the high sheriff of the county of Suffolk, requiring him forthwith to repair to the said island, and in the name and behalf of this government, to bound out in such place thereof and in such form as the captain-general shall direct, the full quantity of three acres and an half thereof, and in the name and for the use of this government to take possession of the said three acres and an half he shall so bound out, with the flatts before the same; and the said sheriff shall certify his proceedings herein, with the bounds of the said three acres and an half laid out as aforesaid, into the secretary's office, by him to be recorded in the book of records of this province.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the said three acres and an half of said island so bounded out, possession thereof being taken, and return and record thereof being made as aforesaid, and also the flatts before the same, shall thenceforward, by virtue and force of this act, be adjudged and deemed the lawful right and property of this government, and shall be and remain to their use for the building and improving the said batteries, and for other defensible preparations, forever hereafter.

Said land to be appropriated for building batteries thereon.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if any action or actions, of what name or nature soever, shall at any time hereafter be brought by any person or persons for the recovery of the said three acres and an half of the said island, and the flatts, out of the hands of this government, or for damages for the improvement of the same, or against any particular person or persons, such action or actions tending to defeat or in anywise to interrupt or impede the plain and necessary intent and design of this act, or against the said sheriff for any matter or thing he shall do in consequence hereof, this act may be pleaded in bar to all and every such action or actions respectively, and the same shall be barr'd and made void accordingly.

Any action to be brought for recovery of the said land, or against the sheriff, to be barr'd by this act.

And to the intent that full satisfaction may be made by this government to the said Anne and the heirs before mentioned,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That six prudent and sufficient persons shall be appointed, three thereof by the secretary of this province, and three by the said Anne Winthrop, or in case of her neglect or refusal, by his majesty's justices of the superiour court, or any three of them; and in case the major part of said appraisers shall not agree, they shall have power to chuse a seventh, and said appraisers shall be under oath to estimate and apprise the said three acres and an half of land, and the flatts aforesaid, in lawful money; and the appraisement and value so made and taken by them, or the major part of them, shall be returned to the said secretary, and shall by him be recorded in the aforesaid book, for the benefit and behoof of the said Anne Winthrop and heirs aforesaid, in manner following; viz., the lawful interest of the whole sum shall be annually paid by the treasurer of this province, for the time being, out of the appropriations that are or may be made for satisfying of grants, to the said Anne Winthrop during her natural life, and at her decease the principal shall be paid to the said heirs in such proportion as the remaining part of said island shall be lawfully distributed and settled on them in consequence of the indenture aforesaid. [Passed October 26.]

Persons to be appointed for appraising the said land.

Satisfaction to be made to the proprietor out of the public treasury.

CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TUNNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of his majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a collateral fund and security for drawing in the bills of credit on this province, have cheerfully and unanimously given and granted and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty to the end and use aforesaid, and for no other use, the several duties of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province, and tannage of shipping hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the last day of the present session, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and also all prize goods condemned in any port of this province excepted), the several rates or duties of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, eight shillings.

For every pipe of Madera, nine shillings and sixpence.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, nine shillings and sixpence.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, eight shillings.

For every hogshead of sugar, sevenpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, four shillings and sixpence.

For every ton of logwood, ninepence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares, merchandize, &c., that shall be imported into this province, &c., from any other port than the places of their growth and produce, there shall be paid by the importer double the value of impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned, unless they do, bonâ fide, belong to the inhabitants of this province and came upon their risque from the port of their growth and produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all the aforesaid impost rates and duties shall be paid in current money or bills of credit of this province of the last emission by the importer of any wines, goods, liquors or merchandize unto the commissioner to be appointed as is hereinafter to be directed for entring and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons where his or their duty of impost in one ship or vessel doth exceed the sum of three pounds; and in case where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall settle and ballance his accompts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accompts may be ready to be presented to this court in May next. And all entries where the impost or duty doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer, and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all masters of ships or other vessels coming into any harbour or port within this province from beyond sea, or from any other province or colony, before bulk be broken and within twenty-four hours after his arrival at such harbour or port, shall make a report to the commissioner or receiver of the impost, to be appointed as hereinafter mentioned, of the contents of the lading of such ship or vessel, without any charge or fee to be demanded or paid for the same; which report said master shall give in to the commissioner or receiver, under his hand, and shall therein set down and express the quantities and species of the wines, liquors, goods, and merchandize laden on board such ship or vessel, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same is consign'd; and also make oath that the said report or manifest of the contents of his lading, so to be by him given in under his hand as aforesaid, contains a just and true account, to the best of his knowledge, of the whole lading taken on board and imported in the said vessel from the port or ports such vessel came from, and that he hath not broken bulk nor delivered any of the wines, rum or other distilled liquors or merchandize laden on board the said ship or vessel, directly or indirectly; and if he shall know of any more wines, liquors, goods or merchandize to be imported therein, before the landing thereof he will cause it to be added to his manifest; which manifest shall be agreeable to a printed form made for that purpose, which is to be filled up by the said commissioner or receiver according to each particular person's entry; which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby empowered to administer: after which s'd master may unload, and not before, on pain of five hundred pounds, to be forfeited and paid by each master that shall neglect his duty in this behalf.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That all merchants, factors and other persons, importers, being owners thereof, or having any of the wines, liquors, goods or merchandize consigned to them, that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall, by themselves or order, make entry thereof in writing, under their hands, with the said commissioner or receiver, and produce unto him an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath thereto in manner following:—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibit the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, it is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which above oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby empowered to administer; and they shall pay the duty and impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessel in which the same shall be imported, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize so landed and taken out of the vessel in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 6.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharff, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the daytime only, and that after sunrise or before sunset, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or receiver, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessel out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consigned, then the cask wherein the same is shall be gaged at the charge of the importer, that the quantities thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province shall be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines have not been filled up on board; and that every hogshead, butt or pipe of wine that hath two parts thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty or impost for the same. And no master of any ship or vessel shall suffer any wines to be filled up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his own hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 9.] And if it may be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessel be decayed at the time of unlading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repayed unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the master of every ship or vessel importing any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof, contained in his manifest, as shall not be duly entred, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons by whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawful, to and for the master of every ship or other vessel, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported in any ship or vessel, until he shall receive a certificate, from the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and until he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes as are not entred, unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port or his order, who is hereby empowered and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, until the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as the master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the commissioner or receiver of the impost in each port, shall be and hereby is empowered to sue the master of any ship or vessel, for the impost or duty for so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not entred and the duty of impost thereof not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the ship or vessel, with her tackle, apparel and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not entred as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessel, with so much of the tackle or appurtenances thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgment, may be taken in execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to make seizure of such ship or vessel, and detain the same under seizure until judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or impost; to the intent that if judgment be rendred for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessel and appurtenances may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for releasing such ship or vessel from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and duties, with the charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss and damage unto his owners, through his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes unto any master of any ship or other vessel, outward bound, until he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duties and impost for the goods last imported in such ship or vessel are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 14.] And the commissioner or receiver of impost is hereby impowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or other vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act for such wines or liquors, in the bills of store mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And whereas, many persons have heretofore caused to be imported, from the neighbouring governments, into this province, by land carriage, large quantities of wine, rum and other merchandize, subjected to duty by this act, but have made no report thereof to the officer of impost, or any of his deputies, nor have paid any duty therefor, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act,—

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That whensoever any rum, wine or other merchandize, by this act subjected to any duty, shall be hereafter imported from any of the neighbouring governments, by land, into any town of this province, the owner thereof, or person importing the same, shall make report thereof to the said officer, or some one of his deputies, hereby required therefor, on pain and penalty of forfeiting the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all penalties, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the aforementioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge of the prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming into any port or ports in this province to trade and traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessels as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pennsylvania, West and East Jersey, New York, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessel is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the duties of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 18.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and sutable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure and tonnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessel, before she be cleared, in case she shall appear to be of greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel, until he be also certified, by the said commissioner, that the duty of tunnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatsoever relates thereto, to receive commission for the same from the governour or commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the accompt thereof, and pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entries and duties arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessel, so that the duties of impost and tunnage arising on the said vessel may appear; and the same to lye open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer and receiver-general of this province, (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint,) with whom he shall accompt for all collections and payments; and pay all such monies as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general may demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputies, before their entering upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from nine to twelve of the clock in the forenoon, and from two to five a-clock in the afternoon.

[SECT. 20.] And the said commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of twenty-five pounds, the present emission, per annum; and his deputy or deputies to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding seven pounds ten shillings each. And the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accompts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputy or deputies.

Provided,

[SECT. 21.] That this act shall be and continue in force one year from the last day of the present session, and from thence to the end of the session of the general court then next after, and no longer.

[SECT. 2.] That the sum of one hundred and thirty-four pounds two shillings and ninepence, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of ten thousand pounds, be applied to defrey and pay such entertainments and contingent charges, and for no other use whatsoever.

£134 2s. 9d. for entertainments, &c.

And be it enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall lie in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-roll and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of ten thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of five thousand two hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£5,200 in 1745.

And as a further fund and security for drawing in the said sum of ten thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of four thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions

£4,000 in 1746

on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made for what is paid the representatives.

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assess[e]’d on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their several representatives shall so receive; which sums shall be set on the towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rules that shall be prescribed by the act of the general assembly for assessing the next province tax, and the constables, in their respective districts, shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l[y][i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum, which by this act is engaged shall be, in those years, apportioned, assess[e]’d and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assess[e]’d by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and teno[u]r by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas, sheepswool, or tann’d sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, in each year, agree upon and set[t] the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price[s], that then the eldest councello[u]r[s], for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their set[t]ling the prices and rat[c]ing the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in each year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT TO ENCOURAGE THE [E][I]NLISTING SOLDIERS INTO HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE, IN THE INTENDED EXPEDITION AGAINST CAPE BRETON.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Volunteers in his majesty's service, not to be arrested, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That whoever has entred or shall enter or [e][i]nlist into his majesty's service as a voluntier in the intended expedition against the French settlements [of] [at] Cape Breton, shall not be liable to be taken out of his majesty's service aforesaid by any process or execution, unless for some criminal matter, for any sum whatsoever; and every soldier whose body shall be arrested by mean process or execution after his [e][i]nlistment into said service, may and shall be set at liberty by two justices of the peace, quorum unus, in the county where such soldier is taken, upon application made [by] him or his superio[u]r officer, upon proof made of his [e][i]nlistment into the service afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>.

Proviso.

Provided, always,—

[SECT. 2.] This act shall not be construed to stay the process of any creditor of such [e][i]nlisted soldier, after his return from the said expedition, or his dismissal from the s[ai]<sup>d</sup> service; nor at all to stay any process or execution against a deficient constable or collector, for any taxes committed to him to collect. ## CHAPTER 20.

AN ACT FOR RAISING, BY A LOTTERY, THE SUM OF SEVEN THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED POUNDS, FOR THE SERVICE OF THIS PROVINCE IN THE PRESENT YEAR.

WHEREAS his majesty's subjects in this province have been at great charges in the year current, not only for the protection of the seacoast, but for the defence of the frontier of New England, and also for the protection of his majesty's province of Nova Scotia, and the inhabitants having already been subjected to a heavy tax on polls and estates the present year, and a debt still remaining which the representatives of the said province are desirous should be provided for in a manner the least burthensome to the inhabitants,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governo[u]r, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons, inhabitants of this province, or any other of his majesty's subjects, or for[r]eigners, to adventure, advance and pay to the managers or directors hereinafter appointed, the sum of thirty shillings, or divers entire sums of thirty shillings, one-fifth thereof in bills of credit of this province, of the new teno[u]r, so called, or in the old teno[u]r bills, accounting four for one; the other four-fifths either in like bills, or in bills of credit of the other governments of New England, the currency of which are not prohibited by law. And every such adventurer, for every such sum of thirty shillings which he, she or they shall so advance, shall have such right, interest and lot in the lottery by this act allowed and established, as is hereinafter mentioned.

Persons allowed to take out tickets.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That Samuel Watts, John Quincy, James Bowdoin, Robert Hale and Thomas Hutchinson, esq[ui]r[e]s, or any three of them, shall be managers or directors for preparing and delivering out tickets, and to oversee the drawing of lots, and to order, do and perform such other matters and things as are hereafter, in and by this act, directed and appointed by such managers or directors to be done and performed; and that such managers and directors shall meet together, from time to time, for the execution of the powers and trusts in them reposed by this act; and they shall cause books to be prepared, in which every leaf shall be divided into three columns, and upon the innermost of said three columns, there shall be printed twenty-five thousand tickets, number[e]d one, two, three, and so on, progressively, till they arrive to the number of twenty-five thousand; and upon the middle column, in every of the said books, shall be printed twenty-five thousand tickets, of the same breadth and form, and number[e]d in like manner; and in the extreme column of the said books, there shall be printed a third rank or series of tickets, of the same number of those of the other two columns: which tickets shall severally be of an oblong figure, and, in the said books, shall be joined with oblique lines, flourishes or devices, in such manner as the said managers and directors, or the major part of them, shall think most safe and convenient, and that every ticket in the third or extreme column of the said books, shall have written or printed thereupon, besides the number of such ticket and the present year of our Lord, these words, "MASSACHUSETTS GOVERNMENT LOTTERY."

Names of the managers or directors.

Number of tickets, and form.

And it is further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said managers and directors shall, upon payment of thirty shillings, as aforesaid, for a ticket, from any person or persons adventuring in this lottery, cut out of the said book or books, so as to be put into his or their custody, through the said oblique lines, flourishes or devices, indentwise, one of the tickets in the said extreme columns, which shall be signed by one of the said managers or directors; and the ticket so cut off shall be delivered to such adventurer as afores[ai]<sup>d</sup>.

How tickets are to be delivered.

And be it further enacted,

Tickets to be incited, rolled up, and put in boxes, &c.

[SECT. 4.] That the said managers and directors, or the major part of them, shall, in the presence of such of the adventurers as may attend, cause all the tickets in the middle column of the books aforesaid, to be cut off, indentwise, thro[ugh] the said oblique lines, flourishes or devices, and to be carefully roll'd up, and made fast with thread or silk, and to be put into a box to be prepared for that purpose, and to be mark[e]d with the letter "A," which is presently to be put into another strong box, and to be locked up with five different locks and keys,—one to be kept by each of the said managers and directors,—and sealed with their seals, until[1] the said tickets are to be drawn as is hereinafter mentioned; and that the tickets in the first or innermost columns of the said books, shall remain still in the books for discovering any mistake or fraud, if any should happen to be committed contrary to the true meaning of this act.

And be it further enacted,

Books to be prepared, and tickets printed therein.

[SECT. 5.] That the said managers, or the major part of them, shall also prepare, or cause to be prepared, other books, in which every leaf shall be divided or distinguished into two columns, and upon the innermost of those two columns there shall be printed twenty-five thousand tickets, and upon the outermost of the said two columns there shall be printed twenty-five thousand tickets, all which shall be of equal length and breadth, as near as may be,—which two columns in the said books shall be joined with some flourish or device through which the outermost ticket may be cut off indentwise; and that five thousand four hundred and twenty-two tickets, part of those to be contained in the outermost columns of the books last mentioned, shall be and be called the "benefit tickets," to which extraordinary benefits shall belong, as hereinafter mentioned. And the said managers and directors shall cause the said benefit tickets to be written upon or otherwise expressed, as well in figures as in words at length, in manner following; that is to say, upon two of them, one thousand two hundred and fifty pounds; upon four of them severally, six hundred and twenty-five pounds; upon six of them severally, three hundred and seventy-five pounds; upon eight of them severally, two hundred and fifty pounds; upon sixteen of them severally, one hundred and twenty-five pounds; upon every one of thirty-six of them severally, sixty-two pounds ten shillings; upon every one of one hundred and fifty of them severally, thirty pounds; upon every one of five thousand two hundred, three pounds fifteen shillings; which several sums make, in the whole, the sum of thirty-seven thousand five hundred pounds. And the said managers shall cause all the said tickets contained in the outermost column of the last-mentioned books to be, in the presence of such of the said adventurers as may be there, to be * carefully cut out, indentwise, through the said flourish or device, and carefully roll[e]d up, and fastened with thread or silk, and to be put into another box to be prepared for that purpose, and to be mark[e]d with the letter "B," which box shall be presently put into another strong box, and locked up with five different locks and keys,—one key to be kept by each of said managers, and to be sealed up with their seals, until[1] these tickets shall also be drawn in the manner and form hereinafter mentioned. And the whole business of cutting off and rolling up, and putting into the said boxes, shall be performed by the said managers and directors, within six days, at the least, before the drawing of the said lottery shall begin.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That on or before the ninth day of April, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five (notice of the time being given in the public prints at least fourteen days before), the said managers and directors shall cause the said several boxes, with all the tickets therein, to be brought into Faneuil Hall, or such other convenient place in the town of Boston, as shall be agreed upon by the major part of the directors, by nine of the clock in the forenoon of the same day, and placed on a table, there for that purpose, and shall then and there severally attend this service, and cause the two boxes containing the tickets to be severally taken out of the other two boxes in which they shall have been locked up, and the tickets or lots in the respective innermost boxes being, in the presence of such adventurers as will be there for the satisfaction of themselves, well shaken and mingled in each box distinctly; and some one fit person, to be appointed and directed by the managers aforesaid, or the major part of them, shall take out and draw one ticket from the box where the said number[e]d tickets shall be put as aforesaid, and one other indifferent and fit person, to be appointed and directed in like manner, shall presently take out a ticket or lot from the box where the said five thousand four hundred and twenty-two benefit, and nineteen thousand five hundred and seventy-eight blank, tickets shall be promiscuously put as aforesaid, and immediately both the tickets so drawn shall be opened, and the number of the benefit, as well as blank, tickets, shall be named aloud; and if the ticket taken or drawn from the box containing the benefit, and blank, lots, shall appear to be a blank, then the numbered ticket so drawn with the said blank at the same time, shall both be put on one file; and if the ticket so drawn or taken from the box containing the benefit, and blank, lots, shall appear to be one of the benefit tickets, then the principal sum written upon such benefit ticket[s], whatever it be, shall be entred, by such clerk or clerks as the said managers, or the major part of them, shall employ and oversee for this purpose, being first sworn to a faithful discharge of his or their office, into a book to be kept for entering the numbers coming up with the said benefit tickets; and the said benefit, and numbered, tickets so drawn together shall be put upon another file; and so the said drawing of the tickets shall continue, by taking one ticket at a time out of each box, and with opening, naming aloud and filing the same, and by entering the benefit lots in such method as is before mentioned, until[1] the whole number be compleatly drawn; and if the same cannot be performed in one day's time, the said managers shall cause the boxes to be locked up and sealed in manner as aforesaid, and adjourn till next day, and so from day to day, and every day, except on the Lord's day; and then open the same and proceed as above, till the said whole number shall be drawn as aforesaid; and afterwards the said numbered tickets so drawn, with the benefit tickets drawn against the same, shall be and remain in a strong box, locked up as aforesaid, and under the custody of the said managers, until[1] they shall take them out to examine, adjust and set[t]le the property thereof. And, as soon as conveniently may be after the drawing is over, the said managers are required to cause to be printed and published, the number of the ticket drawn against each benefit ticket, and the principal sum written on the same, and if any contention or dispute shall arise in adjusting the property of the said benefit tickets, the major part of the said managers agre[e]ing therein, shall determine to whom it doth or ought to belong.

Time and place of drawing tickets.

Benefit tickets to be entered by the managers' clerk or clerks.

Managers may adjourn from day to day until all are drawn.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person shall forge or counterfeit any ticket or tickets to be made forth on this act, or alter any of the numbers thereof,

Penalty for persons who forge or counterfeit tickets, &c.

or utter, vend, barter or dispose of, or offer to dispose of, any false, altered, forged or counterfeit ticket or tickets, or bring any forged or counterfeit ticket or tickets, the number whereof is altered, knowing the same to be altered, to the said managers, or any of them, or to any other person, to the intent to defraud this province, or any adventurer upon this act, that then every such person or persons, being thereof convicted in due form of law, shall suffer such pains and penalties as is by law provided in cases of forgery.

The managers to commit such to prison.

[SECT. 8.] And the said managers or directors, or any two of them, are hereby authorized, required and impowered to cause any person or persons bringing or uttering such forged or counterfeit ticket or tickets as aforesaid, to be apprehended and committed to close goal, to be proceeded against according to law.

Provided always,—

And it is hereby enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That each manager and director for putting this act in execution, before his acting in such commission, shall take the following oath; viz<sup>[1]</sup>,

Directors' oath.

I, A. B., do swear that I will faithfully execute the trust reposed in me, and that I will not use any indirect act or means to obtain a prize or benefit lot for myself or any other person whatsoever, and that I will do the utmost of my endeavour to prevent any undue or sinister practice to be done by any person whatsoever, and that I will, to the best of my judgment, declare to whom any prize, lot or ticket does of right belong, according to the true intent and meaning of the act of this province, made in the eighteenth year of his majesty's reign in that behalf. So help me God.

—which shall and may be administered by any two or more of the other managers and directors.

And be it further enacted,

Four-fifths of the benefit tickets to be paid the owners or proprietors.

[SECT. 10.] That from each benefit ticket there shall be deducted twenty per cent, or one-fifth part, to and for the use and service of this government; and the managers or directors as aforesaid, shall, within forty days after the drawing of said lottery is finished, pay to each owner or proprietor of the said benefit tickets, the remaining four-fifths of the full sum wrote or expressed as aforesaid on the said tickets, which will make, in the whole, the sum of thirty thousand pounds; and the remaining sum of seven thousand five hundred pounds, after deducting such necessary charges as shall be allowed by the governour and council (any allowance to the directors and managers for their service excepted), shall be paid in to the province treasury in bills of this province, there to remain until[1] the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Undisposed tickets to remain as the interest, share and lot of the province.

[SECT. 11.] That if any of the aforesaid number[e]'d tickets shall remain in the hands of the directors or managers, undispos[e]'d of when the time set by this act for drawing said lottery shall be arrived, that then, and in such case, all and every such ticket shall be and remain as the interest, share and lot of this province, and the number of the said remaining undispos[e]'d tickets shall be, by the directors or managers, given out to the province treasurer, in order to be drawn for the province.

Provided, notwithstanding,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 12.] That if there shall not be at least twenty thousand tickets disposed of at the time appointed for drawing the lottery, the managers and directors aforesaid shall wholly desist from any further proceedings until[1] they shall receive further orders from the general court, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the directors or managers by this act appointed, shall have such allowance[s] for their services as the general court shall hereafter order*, and in case of the death, refusal or incapacity of attendance of any one or more of said managers, the vacancy shall be fill[e]d up by the governour and council. [Passed January 9; published February 4, 1744—45.]

Directors' allowances to be made by the general court.

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF FIFTY THOUSAND POUNDS FOR PUTTING THE PROVINCE IN A BETTER POSTURE OF DEFENCE, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLIC DEBTS, &c., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of fifty thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands and received in for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all public payments equal to other new tenor bills emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision so soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, or so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same, and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of fifty thousand pounds shall be issued out of the treasury in manner and for the purposes following; viz., the sum of thirty thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of officers and soldiers, transports and wages of seamen, and for purchasing provisions and all needful warlike stores for the carrying on an expedition against Cape Breton, pursuant to such grants as this court shall hereafter make for that purpose; or in case the expedition should be prevented, that then the remaining part of the said thirty thousand pounds shall be applied for payment of grants made by this court; and the sum of eight thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds, shall be applied for purchasing of a ship of force for the preservation and defence of the trade of this province, as this court in their present sessions shall agree upon; the sum of ten thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of such other grants as are and shall be made by this court, and for the payment of stipends, bounties, premiums established by law, and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have, or shall, either by law or orders, provide for the payment of out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever; and the sum of one thousand and four hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons who have served or shall serve them by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned

£50,000 in bills of credit, to be emitted.

Appropriation of this emission.

£3,000 for purchasing a ship of force.

£10,000 for grants, &c.

£1,400 for debts where is no establishment.

* Parchment injured.

£600 for representatives. for such service, and for paper, printing, and writing for this court, and the expences of committees; and the sum of six hundred pounds, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the members of the house of representatives serving in the general court the several sessions during this year.

And be it enacted,

Surplusage to lie in the treasury. [SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall lie in the treasury for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Warrants to express the appropriations. [SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of fifty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£20,700 in 1747. [SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted to his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a sum of twenty thousand and seven hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of fifty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£20,700 in 1748. [SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of twenty thousand and seven hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towus and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a fund and security for drawing in the sum of eight thousand pounds, appropriated in this act for the purchasing a ship of force for the preservation and defence of the trade of this province (being the remaining part of the said sum of fifty thousand pounds), into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

£8,000 on ships and other vessels. 1744-45, chap. 22. [SECT. 6.] That the tax or duty laid upon ships and other vessels in and by an act made and passed by this court at their present sessions, intituled "An Act for granting to his majesty a duty on tonnage," shall be the fund and security for sinking and effectually drawing in said sum of eight thousand pounds, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made for what is paid the representatives. [SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid the representatives aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives shall so receive; which sums shall be set on the towns in the province tax, in the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight; and the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by act of the general assembly for assessing the province tax in the years above-said; and the constables in their respective districts shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the years aforesaid, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall lie in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not, at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which by this act is engaged shall be in each of these several years apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully empowered and directed, some time in the month of June in each of these years one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and empowered to do it; and in their settling the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro rata. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-quoted commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

Commodities brought into the treasury, how to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

[SECT. 10.] And the aforesaid commodities, so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as it will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or any of the bills of credit aforementioned, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro rata for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the sum of forty-two thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted, and for which a tax on polls and estates is in this act laid as a fund; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. ### AN ACT FOR GRANTING TO HIS MAJESTY A DUTY OF TONNAGE ON SHIPPING.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it appears necessary for his majesty's service, and for the preservation and defence of the trade of this province, that a ship of force, mounting twenty carriage-guns, be provided and made for that purpose as soon as possible, and that in order to purchasing such a ship, the treasury be forthwith supplied with the sum of eight thousand pounds in bills of the last emission, which sum, considering the heavy burthen of publick taxes the province now lays under, and the increase thereof that will be occasioned by the yearly support and maintenance of said ship, over and above the usual charge, also that the advantage of such a ship will chiefly accrue to the trade, it appears but equal and just that the same should be repaid into the treasury by a tax or duty on shipping; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£8,000 to be paid on vessels entering into port or harbor within this province, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, until the end of seven years, and as much longer as the war shall continue, there be and hereby is granted to his most excellent majesty, for the drawing in and sinking the said sum of eight thousand pounds, as also towards the charge of maintaining such a ship during the war (if it should continue after the said sum of eight thousand pounds is paid) the sum of sixpence a ton in silver money, at six shillings and eightpence per ounce, or in lieu thereof, equivalent in bills of credit of this province, on all ships and other vessels (excepting common coasters and fishing vessels) entering into port or harbour within this province, other than such as shall clear out of some other port or harbour within the same; and on all coasters trading from harbour to harbour within this province, and fishing vessels, the like sum of sixpence per ton a year.

And to render this act effectual,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the tonnage of all vessels, except fishing and coasting vessels, shall be measured and taken in manner as is directed in the act for building the lighthouse, passed in the first year of King George the First, chapter the third; and the commissioner of impost, or his deputy, is hereby directed and impowered, before he enters any ship or vessel that is by law required to enter, to demand and receive the duty by this act intended to be paid, and shall certify the same to the naval officer, and the said naval officer is hereby strictly forbidden to clear out any ship or other vessel until the master or owner of such ship or vessel shall produce a certificate that he has paid the duty by this act designed to be paid; and in case the master of any ship or vessel refuse to enter at the custom-house office as by law obliged, or to pay the duty by this act provided, any such delinquent or refusing master, over and above the penalty by law already provided, shall be liable to the action or actions of the impost-officer for the time being, for the recovery of the duty by this act imposed, in any of his majesty's courts of record, or before any justice of the peace, as the nature of the case shall require; to prosecute which action or actions the said impost-officer or officers are hereby respectively impowered.

Tonnage of vessels to be measured
1715-16, chap. 4.

Vessels not to be cleared until the duty is paid.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the selectmen or assessors of every town within this province, where any fishing and coasting vessels may belong, are hereby impowered and directed to assess and tax the vessels aforesaid, according to the direction of this act hereinbefore expressed; the measure of the vessel, in case of doubt, to be taken at the cost of the respective owners or masters, by the said assessors, unless the account of their measure first given in, be just and true (in which cases the charge to be born by the respective towns); and the said assessment and tax, when made, to commit to the constable or collectors of their towns respectively, who are hereby impowered and obliged to collect the same of the master or other person having the principal care thereof, and pay it into the province treasury; and the said assessors are further required and directed to transmit to the province treasurer, yearly, a list of every vessel by them, according to the tenor of this act, assessed and taxed, together with a certificate of the name or names of the constable or collectors to whom the said assessment shall have been by them committed to collect: and the province treasurer is hereby impowered and directed to issue out his warrants for the recovery of the said duty or tax assessed as aforesaid on any coasting and fishing vessels against any delinquent constables or collectors as is by law in other cases made and provided.

Selectmen or assessors impowered to tax coasting vessels

Provided, nevertheless,

[SECT. 4.] This act shall not be construed to exempt any vessel aforesaid from being taxed as vessels heretofore. [Passed April 5; published April 6, 1745.]

Proviso.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF FIFTY THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLIC[K] DEBTS, &c., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£50,000 in bills of credit, to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of fifty thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands, and received for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all public[k] payments, equal to other new-tenor bills emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty, or if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, or so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them. And the said sum of fifty thousand pounds shall be issued out of the public[k] treasury in [the] manner and for the purposes following; viz<sup>l</sup>., for the payment of officers and soldiers, transports and wages of seamen, and for purchasing provisions and all needful warlike stores for the carrying on an expedition against Cape Breton, pursuant to such grants as this court hath or shall hereafter make for that purpose, or in case the expedition should be prevented, that then the remaining part of the said sum of fifty thousand pounds shall be applied for the payment of grants made by this court.

Appropriation of this emission.

And be it enacted,

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in any of this sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][ie] in the treasury for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Warrants to express the appropriations.

[SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing this money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of the aforesaid sum as is directed, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of the aforesaid sum. And the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts, after payment thereof.

And as a fund and security for drawing the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£25,000 in 1749.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the aforesaid sum of fifty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£25,000 in 1750.

sand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions, on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That in case the general court shall not, at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which by this act is engaged shall be, in each of these several years, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding. And the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the month of June in each of these years, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, of sterling alloy, or in gold coin proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas[e], sheepswool, or tan[n]d sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactories of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in and of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembl[y][ie]s shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twent[y][i]eth day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, in each of those counties of the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who [are] hereby [are] directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in [their] setting the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them either by the general assembly, or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act.

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

Commodities brought into the treasury, how to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

[SECT. 8.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as it will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or any of the bills of credit aforesaid, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro rata for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the sum of fifty thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted, and for which a tax on polls and estates is in this act laid as a fund; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed March 9, 1744-45; published April 6, 1745.]

CHAPTER 24.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING A SUM FOR THE PAY OF THE MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, IN GENERAL COURT ASSEMBLED, AND FOR ESTABLISHING THE WAGES, &c[A.], OF SUNDRY PERSONS IN THE SERVICE OF THE PROVINCE.

CHAPTER 25.

AN ACT TO PREVENT MISCHIEF BEING DONE BY UNRULY DOGS.

Preamble.
1737-38, chap. 10.

WHEREAS much dam[m]age has been done by unruly dogs in worrying, wounding, and killing neat cattle, sheep and lambs within this province, to the great loss of many persons, the owners of such creatures; for the preventing whereof,—

Dog or bitch to be killed when found out of the inspection of the owner.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, it shall and may be lawful to and for any person or persons within this province, to kill and destroy any dog or bitch whatsoever that shall be found, out of the immediate care and inspection of its owner or keeper, within or crossing over any common land, field or inclosure (excepting the land of the owner of such dog or bitch), in the day-time; or that shall be found, between sunset[t] and sunrise, anywhere out of the care and inspection of its owners as aforesaid; and if the owner of such dog or bitch, being known and informed, within eight hours next after, of his or her dog or bitch's being seen out of the care and inspection as aforesaid, and oath made thereof before some one justice of the peace (or town clerk, who is hereby impowered to administer and certify the same), and shall refuse to kill, or cause to be kill[e]d, his dog or bitch forthwith, shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings to the person who shall inform and sue for the same by bill, plaint or information, before any of his majesty's justices of the peace in the county where the owner of such dog or bitch dwells.

And be it further enacted,

Owners of any dog or bitch to pay damages.

[SECT. 2.] That the owner of any dog or bitch that shall tear or kill any calves or neat cattle, sheep or lambs, shall be liable to pay treble dam[m]ages to the person or persons injured, to be heard and tried before any of his majesty's justices of the peace in the county where the owner of such misch[ei][ie]vous dog or bitch dwells, if the dam[m]age exceeds not forty shillings; and where the dam[m]age exceeds that sum, before any of his majesty's courts of record in the county where the owner dwells as aforesaid, upon bill, plaint, writ[t] or information as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Action not to be brought, &c.

[SECT. 3.] That no action shall l[y][i]e, be heard or tried at any court within this province against such person who shall or may kill or destroy any dog or bitch found as aforesaid; but shall be utterly barred by virtue of this act.

Provided, nevertheless,

Proviso.

[SECT. 4.] That this act shall not extend to or be in force in any town in the county of York, anything before therein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Limitation.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of ten years from the publication thereof, and thence to the end of the then next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed April 5; published April 6, 1745.]

CHAPTER 26.

AN ACT TO PREVENT NEAT CATTLE AND HORSES RUNNING AT LARGE AND FEEDING ON THE BEACHES ADJOINING TO EASTERN-HARBOUR MEADOWS, IN THE TOWN OF TRURO.*

WHEREAS there are certain meadow-lands within the township of Truro, in the county of Barnstable, called Eastern-Harbour Meadows, on which many of the inhabitants of said town depend for their hay, and the said meadow-land lies adjoining to two long, sandy beaches, on which no fence can well be made to stand, and by reason of cattle and horses trampling and feeding there the beach grass, which was wont to prevent the driving of the sand from the beaches to the meadows, is destroyed, and a great part of the meadows already covered with sand, and become useless for grass, and the whole in danger of being buried with the sands, if not timely prevented,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle or horses upon the said beaches or meadows to feed, or leave them at large there, on the penalty of ten shillings a head for all neat cattle and for every horse-kind so turn[ed] upon any of the said beaches or meadows to feed, or that shall be found at large there; which penalty may be recovered by any of the proprietors of said beaches or meadows, one moiety thereof to be to the informer that shall sue for the same, and the other moiety to be to and for the use of the poor of the town of Truro.

Preamble.
1738-39, chap. 18.
Penalty for leaving cattle or horse-kind to feed at large on the meadows in Truro.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That it shall be lawful for any owner or proprietor of the said meadows or beaches, or other person, finding any cattle or horse-kind feeding or going at large upon the beaches or meadows aforesaid, or any of them, to impound the same; and the person or persons impounding them shall give public[k] notice thereof in the town of Truro and in the two next adjoining towns; and shall rel[ei]ve said creatures whilst impounded, with suitable meat and water; and the owner thereof appearing, he shall pay to the impounder two shillings and sixpence dam[m]ages for each head of neat cattle or horse-kind so impounded, and costs of impounding them; and if the owner do not appear within the space of six days and pay the dam[m]age and costs occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case, the person or persons impounding such cattle or horse-kind shall cause them to be sold at publick vendue for paying such dam[m]ages and costs, and the charge arising by such sale (public[k] notice of the time and place of such sale being given forty-eight hours beforehand) and the overplus, if any be, to be returned to the owner of such cattle or horse-kind, on his demand, at any time within twelve months next after the sale; and if no owner shall appear within the said twelve months, then one moiety of the overplus shall be to the party impounding, and the other moiety thereof to the use of the poor of the town of Truro.

Cattle, &c., to be impounded, if found feeding at large.

To be sold if no owner appears.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the proprietors of the said meadows and beaches, and the proprietors of the lotted land on the Cape, shall make and

Proprietors of the meadows, &c., to make

* See note to chapter 27, post.

and maintain fences.

maintain a sufficient fence, in equal proportion betwixt them, or otherwise prevent their cattle from passing to the eastward of the westerly part of Strout's Meadow, so called, and the proprietors of the aforesaid meadows, with the proprietors of Truro, not having right in said meadows, that turn horses or cattle on the commons there, be likewise obliged to erect and maintain a fence that shall prevent horses and cattle from passing to the westward of the east end of Eastern-Harbour Meadows, or otherwise to restrain them from feeding or going at large there, on pain of incurring the penalty aforesaid for each head of cattle or horse-kind that shall be found there, and of having them impounded and otherwise proceeded with in manner as before mentioned.

Limitation.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue in force five years from the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed April 5; published April 6, 1745.]

CHAPTER 27.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE ACT FOR PREVENTING DAM[M]AGE TO THE HARBOUR OF CAPE COD, BY CATTLE AND HORSE-KIND FEEDING ON PROVINCETOWN LANDS.

Preamble.
1740-41, chap. 15.

WHEREAS the provision made in and by the act [e][i]ntitled "An Act to prevent dam[m]age being done to the harbour of Cape Cod," made and pass[e]d in the fourteenth year of his present majesty's reign, has been found ineffectual for that end,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[at]ives,

Pound to be kept and maintained by the selectmen of Provincetown.

[SECT. 1.] That a sufficient pound be kept and maintained by the selectmen of Provincetown, in such part of said town as they shall judge most commodious for the inhabitants, for impounding of creatures that shall be suffered to feed on the lands there, whether upland, meadow or beach, contrary to the aforesaid act; and that the reasonable charge of the erecting and maintaining the same be repaid them out of the publick treasury by warrant from the governour, with the advice and consent of the council.

And be it further enacted,

Constable to make search for horses, &c.

[SECT. 2.] That the constable of Provincetown for the time being shall, and he is hereby strictly required to, take effectual care that the aforesaid act be put in execution for preventing dam[m]age to the harbour aforesaid; as also one day in every week, from the first of April to the last of Octo[be]r, to make diligent search for horses and cattle on Provincetown lands, and to cause such of them to be impounded as by this act are not allowed to feed there; and such constable, for every day he shall faithfully attend said service and make oath thereof before a justice of the peace, shall be allowed one shilling and threepence, to be paid out of the publick treasury.

What cattle may feed on the lands.

[SECT. 3.] And the inhabitants of said Provincetown are hereby allowed to keep and to suffer to feed on the lands there, one bull and three yoke of oxen amongst the inhabitants in general, as also one horse and one cow for each family, and no more; save that such person as shall have licence to keep an house of publick entertainment, shall have liberty to keep two cows during the continuance of such his licence.

And be it further enacted,

Forfeiture for cutting or carrying off brush.

[SECT. 4.] That whosoever, after the publication of this act, shall presume to cut down or carry off any trees, poles or brush from any part of the land within the bounds of Provincetown or Cape Cod, standing or growing there within one hundred and sixty pole from high-water mark, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five shillings for every tree or pole, and one shilling for every bush so cut or carried off; the one-half of said forfeiture to be to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same, and the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of the said town of Provincetown, to be recovered before a justice of the peace of the same county.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force one year from the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed April 5; published April 6, 1745.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 28.

AN ACT TO REGULATE THE PAY OF SOLDIERS AND MARINERS, AND TO PREVENT FRAUD THEREIN.

WHEREAS no direction is given in the law how soldiers and mariners, serving his majesty in the pay of this province, shall receive their wages,— Preamble. 1744-45, chap. 7.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That during the next two years after the publication of this act, when any muster-roll for the wages of the soldiers and mariners serving this province is pass[e]’d and allowed, and a warrant granted for the payment thereof, the province treasurer shall pay to the soldiers and mariners born thereon the sums respectively due to them, either to him or them in person, or to his or their express order in writing, and not otherwise. How soldiers’ and mariners’ wages are to be paid.

And to prevent the said treasurer being imposed on by counterfeit orders, or by persons who may pretend to have been in the publick service when they have not,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That no soldier or mariner appearing in person, or sending his order as afores[ai]’d, shall be allowed to receive his wages until[1] he produce a certificate either from under the hand of the captain or chief commanding officer that impressed, or inlisted and sent him out, or under the hand of one or other of the commission officers under whom he served, setting forth that he was impressed, or inlisted and sent out, or that he did actually serve his majesty as aforesaid, which certificate shall be given by the afores[ai]’d officers without fee or demand. Certificate to be produced before payment.

And to enable parents, guardians, and masters to receive the wages due for their sons under age, wards or servants, as also to prevent such sons, wards or servants from receiving or mispending the same,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That when and so often as any son under age, ward or servant, consequent on the captain-general’s order, during the time afores[ai]’d, shall be impress[e]’d, or inlisted and sent out, the commanding officer or officers, out of whose regiment or company they shall be taken, shall certify in writing, and cause to be transmitted to the chief commanding officer or officers to whom they are sent, by him or them to be transferred to the officer or officers under whom they are to serve, not only the names of such sons, wards or servants, but that they are sons, wards or servants, and what towns or places their fathers, guar- Commanding officers to be certified who are sons, wards, or servants.

dians or masters then live in; and the commanding officer or officers under whom they serve shall, from time to time, specify the same on the muster-roll when it is presented for allowance; and every father, guardian or master of any such son, ward or servant may demand and receive the same, either in person or by his order, in manner as aforesaid; and no such son, ward or servant, employed as aforesaid, shall be allowed to receive, either in person or by his order, any part of his wages of said treasurer without express allowance, in writing, from his parent, guardian or master for that purpose.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 4.] That any captain or chief commanding officer, under whom such son under age, ward or servant shall serve, may, if he sees it needful, allow him or them to receive and take up, of him or some other person, things necessary for his comfortable subsistence, in cloathing, &c<sup>[a]</sup>, at reasonable prices, the one-half of his wages as they shall become due from time to time. ## CHAPTER 29.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AN ACT ASCERTAINING THE VALUE OF MONEY, AND OF THE BILLS OF PUBLIC[K] CREDIT OF THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble.

1741-42, chap. 12.

WHEREAS notwithstanding the provision that is made in and by an act pass'd in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]n-titled "An Act to ascertain the value of money, and of the bills of publick credit of this province, granted this present year for the supply of the treasury, and for securing the credit of said bills," for securing to any creditor or creditors what the bills of credit might sink or depreciate in their value between the time of contracting the debt and the payment thereof, it has been a frequent practice for creditors to exact and take of their debtors, for the loan of any sum or sums of money lent, and for forbearance of their debts, more than six per cent, by which practice some of the good and wholesome laws of this province, and the equitable intent and designs of them, are eluded, and great oppression and injustice introduced, to the reproach of this government; now, for the prevention thereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

No allowance to be made for the depreciating of the bills where anything has been allowed already for it.

[SECT. 1.] That in all actions hereafter to be brought for the recovering any debt or sum due upon bond, or otherwise contracted and payable in bills of credit since the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, or that may be contracted within five years of that date, if the debtor will tender his oath in court that the creditor has received anything for the loan or forbearance of such debt, either in money, bills, goods, or by any new bond, bill, note of hand, order, or under colour of being paid for any service or thing, or by keeping back any part of the sum specified to be paid in the condition of any bond or other specialty, or by any other way or means whatsoever, either directly or indirectly, more than six pounds for the loan or forbearance of one hundred pounds for a year, and so after that rate for a greater or less sum, or for a longer or shorter time, then and in such case, unless the [creditor] [owner] will make oath to the contrary, judgment shall be made up only for the exact nominal sum received by or due from the debtor, with lawful interest for the same, if it be payable with interest, but if the creditor will tender and actually give his oath as aforesaid, then judgment shall be entered up for the full value of said debt, as it was at the time of contracting the same.

And whereas there may be debts and sums payable in bills of credit or lawful money yet due and owing from man to man, that were contracted before the said [31st] [thirty-first] day of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, and no provision made in the law for making good to the creditors what the bills, in which such debts or sums might be discharged, have depreciated or fallen; and inasmuch as it appears just and equal that the loss and damage arising to such creditors by the falling and depreciating of the bills of credit since the said thirty-first day of March, should be made good,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That in all such cases it shall be in the power of the justices of the several courts within this province, to make up judgment for such additional sum or sums as the said bills shall be found to have depreciated from the said [31st] [thirty-first] day of March, until [1] the time of making up such judgment, but not for any other or longer time; in which judgment the same rule shall be observed as in case of debts contracted after the said thirty-first day of March, as in this act is before provided: saving always to the debtor the same relief in case he has in any manner or way, directly or indirectly, paid or allowed more than six per cent as aforesaid, as is provided for him in this act respecting any debt or sum that was contracted or agreed upon after the said thirty-first day of March.

Preamble.

And whereas many of his majesty's subjects in this province, from an apprehension that the bills of credit of the new tenor were to be valued, taken and esteemed as lawful money, from which apprehensions many persons have obliged themselves, by their bonds and other ways, to pay lawful money where nothing but said bills were received, or goods for which the creditor would have received bills in payment, nor was anything else intended or expected by either party at the time of contracting the debt; notwithstanding which, some of the executive courts of this province have, contrary to the expectation and intention of the parties as aforesaid, made up their judgments on said debts for lawful money only, and construed the same not to be payable in said bills, whereby the debtor has been capable of discharging or satisfying the execution only with silver, the extreme scarcity of which renders it almost impracticable to satisfy the debt without paying such additional sum to the creditor as he will be pleased to take in said bills, much to the debtor's oppression, which this government ought to prevent; wherefore,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That when any sum or sums of money, due or contracted for since the first emission of the said new-tenor bills, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, or that shall be contracted for within the space of five years from that date, on bond, bill, note, or otherwise, whether with interest or without, if the debtor will tender his oath that he received of the creditor no silver on which said debt or sum then sued for arose, or that it was not agreed by the parties that silver should be paid in discharge of such debt or sum due, that then and in every such case, unless the creditor will, bonâ fide, make oath that silver was received or agreed for, and understood, and intended to be paid by the parties at the time of contracting the said debt or agreement for the sum sued for, the judgment shall be given for bills of credit or lawful money at the debtor's election, allowing in such judgment for what the said bills may have depreciated from

Judgment to be given only for bills where silver was not lent or received the [31st] [thirty-first] day of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, to the time the judgm[en]t is made up: saving always to the debtor the same rel[ei][ie]f in cases of this nature which is by this act already provided for him where more than six per cent has been paid for the loan or forbearance of any sum as aforesaid. [Passed January 9, 1744—45.]

Saving.

CHAPTER 30.

AN ACT FOR THE MORE SPEEDY EXTINGUISHMENT OF FIRE, AND PRESERVING GOODS [E][J]NDANGERED BY IT.

Preamble.
1711-12, chap. 5.

WHEREAS the contiguity or nearness of houses in many towns in this province makes it difficult, when they accidentally take fire, to preserve them, and prevent its spreading, by reason of the inhabitants being terrified by so grievous a calamity, and the want of proper persons appointed to direct such as may be ready to assist; and moreover ill-minded persons take the advantage of the hurry and confusion attending such accidents to plunder, and to embezzle the goods of their distressed neighbours; wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and House of Represent[ati]ves,

All towns empowered to choose fire-wards.

[SECT. 1.] That the several towns within this province may, if they see fit, at their anniversary meeting in March, annually appoint a suitable number of persons, not exceeding ten, who shall be denominated fire-wards, and have each, for a distinguishing badge of the office, a staff of five feet long, painted red, and headed with a bright brass spire six inches long.

Their duty.

[SECT. 2.] And the fire-wards aforementioned are hereby required, upon notice of the breaking forth of fire, taking with them their badges respectively, immediately to repair to the place, and vigo[u]ously exert themselves in requiring and procuring assistance to extinguish and prevent the spreading of the fire, and for the pulling down or blowing up any houses, or any other service relating thereto, as they may be directed by two or three of the chief civil or military officers of the town, to put a stop to the fire, and in removing hous[e]hold stuff, goods, and merchandizes out of any dwelling-houses, storehouses or other buildings actually on fire, or in danger thereof, in appointing guards to secure and take care of the same, and to suppress all tumults and disorders; and due obedience is required to be yielded to them, and each of them accordingly, for that service.

Penalty for refusing to assist them in extinguishing of fire.

[SECT. 3.] And all disobedience, neglect or refusal in any shall be inform[e]d of to some of his majesty's justices of the peace within two days next after, and the offenders therein, upon conviction thereof before any two justices, quorum unus, shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings each, to be levied and distributed by the discretion of the selectmen among the poor, most distressed by the fire; and in case the offender or offenders are unable to satisfy the fine, then to suffer ten days' imprisonment.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for persons' purloining or concealing goods saved from the fire.

[SECT. 4.] That if any evil-minded persons shall take advantage of such calamity to rob, plunder, purloin, [i][e]mbez[z]le, convey away or conceal any goods, merchandizes or effects of the distressed inhabitants, whose houses are on fire, or endangered thereby, and put upon removing their goods, and shall not restore and give notice thereof to the owner or owners, if known, or bring them into such publick place as shall be appointed and assigned by the governour and council, within the space of two days next after proclamation made for that purpose, the person or persons so offending, and being thereof convicted, shall be deemed th[ei][ie]ves, and suffer the utmost severities of the pains and penalties by law provided against such. [Passed April 5; published April 6.]

CHAPTER 31.

AN ACT FOR ASCERTAINING THE BOUNDS OF THE TOWN OF DIGHTON, AND FOR THE CONFIRMATION OF THEIR POWERS AND PRIVILEGES.

WHEREAS in the year one thousand seven hundred and twelve the South Precinct in Taunton was erected into a township by the name of Dighton, but the bounds thereof were not fully ascertained, and by reason thereof of late there have some disputes arisen, and application hath been made to this court to ascertain the bounds,—

Preamble.
1734-35, chap. 19.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the bounds of the said town of Dighton shall be as follows; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, beginning at a heap of stones by a rock near the water-side on the westerly side of Broad Cove, and from thence running westerly to a heap of stones near Bristol old path; and from thence westerly to a heap of stones near two miles from said Broad Cove, and then running northerly about two miles to a stump of an ash tree; thence west and by north, to Rehoboth ancient line, to a stake and stones about it, being the north corner of the town of Swanzey, and the southwest corner of the said town of Dighton; thence northerly on a straight line to a marked tree, commonly called the “Horseshoe”; thence easterly by marked trees down to the Three-Mile River, so called; then with said river to Taunton Great River; then down Taunton Great River ’till it comes to the bounds first mentioned, together with Assonet[t] Neck, so far northerly as to come to the northerly bound of the land that was Mr. Edward Shove’s; and that the land included withiu the bounds aforesaid shall always hereafter be deemed a township by the name of Dighton as aforesaid, and that the inhabitants thereof be invested with the powers, privileges, and immunities that the inhabitants of any of the towns within this province by law are or ought to be invested with, any law, order or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Bounds of the town of Dighton stated.

Inhabitants vested with the powers of a town.

[SECT. 2.] And all former acts and proceedings of the inhabitants of the said town of Dighton are hereby declared, to all intents and purposes, as valid, and of as full effect as if the said town had by an act of this court been incorporated and invested with the powers and privileges of a township at the time of their being taken off from Taunton, or sep[e][a]rated as aforesaid.

Former acts of the said town confirmed.

Provided always,—

[SECTION 3.] That property shall not be affected by this act, any construction thereof, or of any part thereof, to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed January 8, 1744-45.]

Proviso.

NOTES.—There were four sessions of the General Court this year, at each of which acts were passed. The engrossments of all the acts of the first and second sessions, and also of chapters 13, 15, 16, 21, and 22, are lost; but all these were, fortunately, printed, with the other acts of the sessions, except chapter 16, which is here printed from a MS record of acts, in the Secretary’s office. The chapters not mentioned above were also printed.

The acts of the first three sessions were transmitted to the Board of Trade by Governor Shirley, and were laid before the Board, Nov. 1, 1745. The acts of the fourth session were forwarded by Secretary Willard, July 30, 1745, and were received by the Board of Trade September 17, following, and read before them October 24.

Chapters 1 and 6 were duly certified to the Privy Council, by the Governor's order, July 7, 1744, and were received, and referred to a committee, on the ninth of August following. They were reported back, October 5, read again, October 10, and immediately referred to the Board of Trade. From the Board they went, in the usual course, the same day, to Mr. Fane, who reported, two days later, that he had "no objection" to them "in point of law." Some difficulties arising in the course of the consideration of these acts by the Board, chapter 1 was again referred to Mr. Fane, whose report, as well as other proceedings relating to that act, will be found in the note to chapter 1, post.

Chap. 1. "June 2, 1744. His Majesty's Declaration of War against the French King was published about Five o'clock this afternoon out of the Balcony of the Council Chamber, the Governor, Council, and House of Representatives, His Majesty's Justices of the Peace and other officers attending the same; the Regiment of Militia of the Town of Boston being under arms. At the same time His Majesty's Proclamation for encouraging the prosecution of the War by his Majesty's Ships of War, Privateers, &c was also published."—Council Records, vol. XVII., b. 4, p. 391.

"To Francis Fane, Esq<sup>r</sup>

Sir, I am directed by my Lords Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for Trade & Plantations to send you back and to desire you to reconsider the first of the two inclosed Acts passed in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in June last, on which you lately made your Report, Entit<sup>d</sup> "An Act for the more effectual guarding and securing our Sea Coasts &c." and to compare the same with the several Acts of Parliament passed here, since the commencement of the War with Spain and France for the better encouragement of Seamen in His Majesty's service, as likewise with His Majesty's Declaration & Proclamation for the distribution of Prizes & give the Board your opinion whether the Province Snow & the other Vessels mentioned in the said Act to be equip'd by other Governments are to be deem'd ships of War or Privateers & whether in either case they are entituled to the Bounties given by the said British Acts.

The Committee to whom this Petition was refer'd, as also the Petition of James Bowdoin Esq<sup>r</sup>, & others merchants, relating to Cape Cod Harbour, are of Opinion that for the better understanding the Facts alleged in the Petitions a Committee be appointed to repair to Cape Cod, view the Harbour, consider the Facts alleged in the Petition, and report their Opinion thereon at the next Session of this Court. All which is humbly submitted.

By JOHN CUSHING per Order.

In Council; Read and Accepted, and Ordered that Thomas Berry Esq<sup>r</sup> with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House shall join, be a committee for the purposes in the Report mentioned.

In the House of Representatives; Read and Concur'd, and Coll Miller and M<sup>r</sup> Skinner are joined in the affair. And the Committee are directed to repair to Cape Cod on or before the tenth of May and to give notice to the Inhabitants of Truro that they do not drive any Cattle on the Beach to the Northward of Eastern Harbour Meadows in the mean time. In Council; Read and Concur'd Consented to W. SHIRLEY."

"Aug. 17 1744 Thomas Berry Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Committee on the affair of Cape Cod Harbour and Eastern Harbour Meadows gave in the following Report, viz<sup>t</sup>—

The Committee appointed on this Petition, after having notified the Town of Truro, repaired to said Town and Province Town, and thence proceeded to view the Beaches, Sands and Harbour of Cape Cod; and upon the best information find that little or no alteration hath been made in the Harbour for the last thirty or forty years, accepting the Western Creek or Cove, which is nigh filled up. We find the Wood all gone from the Wood End, so called, and a very long flat Beach which lies much exposed and hath nothing to keep the Sands from blowing, unless the Beach Grass be allowed to grow, the only thing that can prevent those sands from driving into the Harbour. We learn that the sands to the Northward of Race Point are greatly blown in upon the Upland, and that it is of the greatest consequence to the Province that all possible care be taken to prevent the Woods being cut off on the back of Province Town, and that nothing be allowed to be done that may any ways tend to prevent the Beach Grass growing on the Sand Banks, the only thing that can be thought of to prevent the Sands blowing, and thereby the Harbour secured from all apprehended danger—We have also viewed the Eastern Harbour Meadows and Beach, and find a large quantity of good Salt Meadow covered and destroyed with the Sand which blew from the Beach. We also observe that where the Beach Grass is permitted to grow it prevents the sand from blowing; and where Cattle and Horses have been kept off, the Beach Grass comes in, in most places. We further observed that at the Head of Strouts Creek Northward the Sand is blown in a great way among the Trees and lies very high, and may in a little while blow over into said Creek. We also find that in the lotted Lands to the North Westward of Strouts Creek, belonging to Truro, there is little else than Cranberry Swamps, nothing to induce any person to turn any creatures there, were it not for a prospect from the Province Town Lands. Wherefore the Committee are of Opinion that the Constable of Province Town be strictly enjoined to put in execution the Act to prevent damage being done to the Harbour of Cape Cod by Cattle &c and that a Pound be built there at the Province Charge, & that the Constable be obliged one day every week from the first of March to the last of October to search Province Town Woods and Beaches for Cattle and Horses, and impound all others but what belongs to the Inhabitants of said Town, and that said Inhabitants be allowed one Cow to a family and one Bull to go with said Cows, and that said Constable be allowed one shilling and three pence for every day he shall faithfully attend said service, and make Oath thereof before one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace in the County of Barnstable; and that an act be made (exclusive of the lotted Lands) of the same tenour with the late act made for preventing Cattle and Horses feeding on Eastern Harbour Meadows, and of the lotted Lands making and keeping up a sufficient fence in equal proportion or watching the Cattle and preventing them from passing to the Westward of Strouts Creek. And the Proprietors of the aforesaid Meadow with the Proprietors of Truro (not having right in said Meadows, and that turn cattle or horses on the common) be obliged to make and maintain a fence or keep the cattle from going West of the East end of Eastern Harbour Meadow. All which is humbly submitted.

By Order of the Committee.

THO BERRY.

In Council; Read and Ordered that the Report be accepted, and that Samuel Danforth Esq<sup>r</sup> with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House of Representatives shall join, be a Committee to prepare a Bill or Bills accordingly.

In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Read and Concur'd and Mr Prout and Major Cushing are joined in the affair."—Ibid., p. 487.

Chap. 31. "May 30, 1712. "Upon Reading a Petition of Cpt. Jared Talbot Agent for the South Precinct in Taunton, Praying in the name and Behalf of the Inhabitants of said precinct that they may be made a Town, as prayed for in a Former Petition :

Ordered that the Prayer of the Petition be granted for a Township; The town to be named Dighton : There having been a Hearing betwixt the Petitioner and the Agents for the Town of Taunton before this Court in a former Session some Time since, And that upon the Application of the Selectmen of Taunton or of Dighton, the former Committee assigned to survey or propose a Line for the Precinct be desired and impowered to perfect, describe, and fully ascertain the Line throughout, and Report the same to this Court not including any Lands but what is properly within the Township of Taunton; Saving the determining the Charge of the Building and Repairing of Bridges upon a Hearing at any Time before this Court, As also a Proportion of all Arrearages or Town Charges accruing, whilst Taunton Township remained entire before division; And that a Plat of this Township be presented.

Concur'd by the Representatives.

Consented to, J DUDLEY."

—Ibid., vol. LX., p. 195.

"March 2, 1743. John Cushing Esq<sup>r</sup>; from the Committee of both Houses on the Petition of the Town of Dighton, gave in the following Report, viz,

The Committee to whom was refer'd the Petition of Sylvester Richmond Esq<sup>r</sup> in behalf of the Town of Dighton, have repaired to Dighton, heard the parties, considered their Original Grants and Purchases, viewed the said Township, and have taken a Plat thereof, which is herewith humbly presented; and thereupon beg leave to say; First that the Red Lines on the said Plat delineated, set forth the contents of the four miles square from the River belonging to the Town of Dighton by their Indian Deed; secondly, the pricked Lines in the said Plat describe the Southerly and Westerly extent of what is contained in Governor Hickeys Deed of Confirmation, with allowance of eight Degrees for Variation of the Compass : Thirdly, the Black Lines describe the Town of Dighton according to their Perambulations with Swanzy, Rehoboth, & Taunton, under the hands of the Select men of each Town at divers times since the Year 1700. By which it appears that the Black Lines aforesaid contain Two Thousand six hundred and eighty four acres more than the Contents of four miles square, and five hundred and fifty acres less than what is contained in Governor Hincleys Confirmation Deed. Wherefore upon the whole the Committee are of Opinion that the lands contained within the Black Lines aforesaid, which are agreeable to their Perambulation for many years past, be at all times accounted to be within the Jurisdiction of the Town of Dighton, but not to effect the property thereof on any account whatsoever. All which is humbly submitted.

By JOHN CUSHING Per Order.

In Council; Read and Ordered that this Report be accepted, and that the Account of the Committes time and expence, amounting to the sum of Twenty eight Pounds eighteen shillings and two pence, be paid by the parties, viz: One half by the Town of Dighton, and the other half by Charles Church Esq<sup>r</sup>; and others the Respondents. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup>; Read and Concur'd Consented to

W. SHIRLEY."

CHAPTER 1.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF THIRTY THOUSAND POUNDS, IN BILLS OF CREDIT; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A FURTHER TAX OF TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY-ONE POUNDS EIGHT SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE, IN BILLS OF CREDIT, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN GENERAL COURT, AND TRAVEL; AND ALSO THE SUM OF TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIVE POUNDS, FINES LAID UPON SEVERAL TOWNS FOR NOT SENDING A REPRESENTATIVE.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, did, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, pass an act for the levying a tax of six thousand six hundred and sixty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence, in bills emitted by said act; and, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, did pass an act for the levying a tax of one thousand nine hundred and fifty pounds, in bills emitted by said act; and, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, did pass an act for the levying a tax of eight thousand and eighty-three pounds six shillings and eightpence,* in bills emitted by said act; and at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, did pass an act for the levying a tax of ten thousand two hundred and sixty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence, in bills emitted by said act; and at their session in November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, did pass an act for the levying a tax of five thousand two hundred pounds, in bills emitted by said act; each of the several sums aforesaid to be assess[e]d this present year,—amounting in the whole to thirty-two thousand one hundred and sixty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence; and by the aforesaid acts, provision was made that the general court might, in the present year, apportion the several sums on the several towns in the province, if they thought fit: and the assembly aforesaid have likewise ordered that the sum of two hundred thirty-five pounds, fines on several towns, and the sum of two thousand four hundred and twenty-one pounds eight shillings and sixpence, paid the representatives the last year, should be levied and assessed, on this present year, on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their respective representatives have received; wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectual drawing in the sum of thirty thousand

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or [districts] [districts], or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town, at six shillings and threepence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum receiv[e]’d out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governor[u]r and their famil[y][ie]s, the president, fellows and students of Harvard College, sefled ministers and grammar school-masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as for their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro’ age, infirmity or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit[t] and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes [and] [or] profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and, in making their assessments, to estimate houses and lands at six years’ income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set[t] upon such houses and lands; and to estimate Indian, negro and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every goat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth, in distinct col[un]m[n]s, against each particular person’s name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of October.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of May next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, some time in the month of March next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accompts of the whole, at or before the last day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-six.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion to this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be lev[y][e]d by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of polls, rateable estate, or income by any trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assess[e]d, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And whereas there are a number of English inhabitants in the plantation of Natick, in the county of Middlesex, belonging to no particular town,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the sum of thirty pounds, part of the said sum of thirty thousand pounds, be assessed upon the said inhabitants, and the assessors of the town of Sherb[o]urn are hereby impowered and required to make the said assessment upon them, after giving seasonable warning to the inhabitants of [the] said plantation, in some one method prescribed in this act, and to follow the other directions herein; and the said inhabitants are hereby also required to conform to the rules prescribed in this act, and subjected to the penalties of it: saving to them liberty of appeal, as to other inhabitants of the province. And the constables or collectors of the town of Sherb[o]urn are hereby enjoyed to levy or collect all such sums committed to them and assessed upon the said inhabitants, and pay the same into the province treasury.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho', in the time of their residing there, they reap[e]d considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town of this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade and deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act provided, tho' the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, inhabitant of some one town within this province, shall transact or carry on trade and business in some other town in the province, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandize, for carrying on such trade, and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act.

[SECT. 10.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoyed to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assess[e]d on persons who are not of this province, or are inhabitants of any other town as aforesaid, and pay the same into the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the inhabitants of this province [shall] have liberty, if they see fit[t], to pay the several sums for which they may respectively be assess[e]d at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of thirty thousand pounds in bills of the last emission, or the bills of credit emitted in the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, or in coined silver, at the rate of six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight; or in gold coin, at the rate of four pounds eighteen shillings per ounce; or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their denominations; or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in good merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or merchantable flax, at fivepence per pound; or in good, merchantable, Isle-of-Sable[s] codfish, at ten shillings per quintal; or in good refined bar-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton; or bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good, hollow iron-ware, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and threepence per bushel; or good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel; or good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel; or [in] good barrel pork, at two pounds per barrel; or in barrel beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound; or merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred; or in good train-o[i][y], at one pound ten shillings per barrel; or in good beeswax, at tenpence per pound; or in bayberry-wax, at sixpence per pound; or in try[e]d tallow, at fourpence per pound; or in good pease, at three shillings per bushel; or in good sheepswool, at ninepence per pound; or in good, tann'd sole-leather, at fourpence per pound: all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold; and the several persons who pay their taxes in any of the commodities before mentioned, shall run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the same to the province treasury.

[SECT. 12.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of any of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax of the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON WINES AND SPIRITS DISTILLED, SOLD BY RETAIL, AND UPON LIMES AND LEMMONS.

Preamble.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in general court assembled, being desirous to lessen the present debt of the province, by drawing in a number of the bills of credit, have cheerfully and unanimously granted, and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses above mentioned, and for no other uses, an excise upon all brandy, rum and other spirits distilled, and upon all wines whatsoever sold by retail, and upon lemons and limes taken in and used in making of punch or other liquors mixed for sale, or otherwise consumed, in taverns, or other licensed houses within this province, to be raised, lev[y][i]ed, collected and paid by and upon every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer within each respective county, in manner following:—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Excise granted for three years.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, for the space of three years, every person licensed for retailing brandy, rum or other spirits, or wine, shall pay the dut[y][ie]s following:—

Rates of excise.

For every gallon of brandy, rum and spirits distilled, threepence.

For every gallon of wine of every sort, threepence.

For every hundred of lemons, two shillings and a penny.

For every hundred of limes, ninepence.

And so proportionably for any other quantity or number.

And be it further enacted,

Taverners, &c., to take an account of liquors, &c., and give an account thereof to the farmers to be appointed.

[SECT. 2.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer, shall, upon the said twenty-ninth day of June, take an exact account of all brandy, rum and other distilled spirits, and wine, and of all lemons and limes then by him or her, and give an account of the same, upon oath, if required, unto the person or persons to whom the dut[y][ie]s of excise in the respective count[y][ie]s shall be lett or farmed, as in and by this act is hereafter directed; and such other person as shall be licensed during the continuance of this act, shall also give an account, upon oath, as aforesaid, of what brandy, rum and other distilled spirits, and wine, and of what lemons or limes he or they shall have by him or them at the time of his or their licen[s][c]e; which oath the person or persons farming the dut[y][ie]s aforesaid shall have power to administer in the words following; viz<sup>ed</sup>.—

You, A. B., do swear that the account exhibited by you is a true and just Oath. account of all brandy, rum and other distilled spirits, and wine, lemmons and limes you had by you on the twenty-ninth day of June last. So help you God.

And where such person shall not have been licen[s][c]ed on said twenty-ninth day of June, the form of the oath shall be so far var[y][ie]d, as that instead of those words, “on the twenty-ninth day of June last,” these words shall be inserted and used; “at the time of taking your licen[s][c]e.”

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer, shall make a fair entry in a book, of all such rum, brandy and other distilled spirit, and wine, as he or they, or any for him or them, shall buy, distil[1], or take in for sale after such account taken, and of all lemmons and limes taken in and consumed or used as aforesaid, and at the end of every six months, deliver the same, in writing, under their hands, to the farmer or farmers of the dut[y][ie]s aforesaid, who are empowered to administer an oath to him or them, that the said account is bonâ fide, just and true, and that he or they do not know of any brandy, rum or other distilled spirits, or wine, sold, directly or indirectly, or of any lemmons or limes used in punch or otherwise, by him or them, or any under him or them, or by his or their privity or consent, but what is contained in the account now exhibited, and shall pay him the duty thereof, excepting such part as the farmer shall find is still remaining by him or them; twenty per cent to be allowed on the liquors aforementioned for leakage and other wast[e], for which no duty is to be paid.

Within six months accounts to be delivered.

Twenty per cent allowed for leakage.

[SECT. 4.] That if any taverner, retailer or common victualler, shall buy of another taverner or retailer such small quantity of liquors as this act obliges him to account for to the farmer, and pay the excise, the taverner, retailer or common victualler shall, notwithstanding, be accountable and pay the excise, as if none had been paid by the person he bought the same of.

Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler or retailer, who shall be found to give a false account of any brandy, distilled spirits, wine, or other the commodities aforesaid, by him or her on the said twenty-ninth of June, or at the time of his or her taking licence, or bought, distilled or taken in for sale afterwards, or used as aforesaid, or refuse to give in an account, on oath, as aforesaid, shall be rendered incapable of having a licence afterwards, and shall be prosecuted by the farmer of the excise in the same county, for his or her neglect, and ordered by the general sessions of the peace to pay double the sum of money as they may judge that the excise of liquors, &c<sup>ed</sup>., by him or her sold within such time, would have amounted to, to be paid to the said farmer.

Penalty on giving a false account.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the justices in their general sessions of the peace shall take recognizances, with sufficient sureties, of all persons by them licen[s][c]ed, both as to their keeping good rule and order, and duly observing the laws relating to persons so licen[s][c]ed, and for their duly and truly rendering an account in writing under their hands as aforesaid, and paying their excise in manner as aforesaid; as also that they shall not use their licen[s][c]e in any house besides that wherein they dwell; which recognizance shall be taken within the space of thirty days after the granting of such licence, otherwise the persons licen[s][c]ed shall lose the benefit of his or her said licence; and no person shall be licen[s][c]ed by the said justices that hath not accounted with the farmer, and paid him the excise due to him from such person at the time of his asking for such licen[s][c]e.

General sessions to take recognizance.

Preamble.

And whereas, notwithstanding the laws made against selling strong drink without licence, many persons not regarding the penalt[y][ie]s and forfeitures in the said act, do receive and entertain persons in their houses, and sell great quantit[y][ie]s of spirits and other strong drink, without licence so to do first had and obtained, by reason whereof great debaucheries are committed and kept secret, the end of this law in a great measure frustrated, and such as take licences and pay the excise greatly wrong[e]d and injured,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

Forfeiture of £3 for selling without licence.

[SECT. 7.] That whosoever, after the said twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, shall presume, directly or indirectly, to sell any brandy, rum or other distilled spirits, wine, beer, cyder, perry or any other strong drink, in any smaller quantity than a quarter cask (twenty gallons to be accounted a quarter cask, and all delivered to one person without drawing any part of it off), without licence first had and obtained from the court of general sessions of the peace, and recognizing in manner as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay for each offence, the sum of three pounds to the farmer, and costs of prosecution; and all such as shall refuse or neglect to pay the fine aforesaid, shall stand closely and strictly committed in the common goal of the county for three months at least, and not to have the liberty of the goaler's house or yard; and any goaler giving any person liberty contrary to this act, shall forfeit and pay three pounds, and pay costs of prosecution as aforesaid; and if any person or persons, not licenced as aforesaid, shall order, allow, permit or connive at the selling of any strong drink, contrary to the true intent or meaning of this act, by his or her child or children, servant or servants, or any other person or persons belonging to or in his or her house or family, and be thereof convict, he, she or they shall be reputed the offender or offenders, and shall suffer the same penalt[y][ie]s as if he, she or they had sold such drink themselves.

And be it further enacted,

One evidence sufficient.

[SECT. 8.] That when any person shall be complained of for selling any strong drink without licence, one witness produced to one such fact, and another produced to another, shall be sufficient conviction, provided there be not more than the space of forty days between the facts concerning which such witnesses declare. And when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected to sell strong drink without licence, any justice of the peace shall have full power to convene such persons before him, and examine them upon oath concerning the person suspected of selling or retailing strong drink in such houses, outhouses or other dependencies thereof, and on just ground to bind over the person suspected, and the witnesses, to the next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where such person shall dwell.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty on persons refusing to give evidence.

person informed against, presented or indicted for the selling strong drink without licence, and shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to give evidence in that behalf, every person so offending shall forfeit the sum of twenty pounds; the one half to be for his majesty, the other half to and for the use of him or them who shall sue for the same as aforesaid. And when it shall so happen that witnesses are bound to sea before the sitting of the court where any person or persons informed against for selling strong drink without licence is or are to be prosecuted for the same, in every such case, the deposition of any witness or witnesses in writing, taken before any two of his majesty's justices of the peace, quorum unus, and sealed up and delivered into court, the adverse party having first had a notification in writing sent to him or her of the time and place of caption, shall be esteemed as sufficient evidence in the law to convict any person or persons offending against this act, as if such witness or witnesses had been present at the time of trial, and given his, her or their deposition viva voce; and every person or persons who shall be summoned to give evidence before two justices of the peace in manner as aforesaid, and shall neglect or refuse to appear or to give evidence relating to the facts he or she shall be [e][i]nquired of, shall be liable and subject to the same penalty as he or she would have been by virtue of this act, for not appearing, or neglecting or refusing to give his or her evidence before the grand jury or court as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That all fines, forfeitures, and penalt[y][ie]s arising by this act shall and may be recovered by presentment of the grand jury at the court of sessions, or by bill, plaint, complaint or information, where the sum forfeited does not exceed three pounds, before any one of his majesty's justices of the peace in the respective count[y][ie]s where such offence shall be committed; which said justice is hereby impow[er]ed to try and determine the same. And such justice shall make a fair entry or record of all such his proceedings: saving always to any person or persons who shall think him, her or themselves aggrieved by the sentence or determination of the said justice as aforesaid, liberty of appeal therefrom to the next court of general sessions of the peace to be holden in and for said county, at which court such offence shall be finally determined: provided that in said appeal the same rules be observed as are already by law required in appeal from justices to the court of general sessions of the peace.

How fines shall be recovered.

And to the end the revenue arising from the aforesaid dut[y][ie]s of excise may be advanced for the greater benefit and advantage of the publick,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That one or more persons to be nominated and appointed by the general court for and within the several counties within this province, timely publick notice being first given of the time, place, and occasion of their meeting, shall have power, and are hereby authorized, from time to time, to contract and agree with any person for or concerning the farming the dut[y][ie]s in this act mentioned, upon brandy, rum, or other the liquors and commodities aforesaid, in the respective count[y][ie]s for which they shall be appointed, as may be for the greatest profit and advantage of the publick, so as the same exceed not the term of three years after the commencement of this act; and every person to whom the dut[y][ie]s of excise in any county shall be let[t] or farmed, shall have power to inspect the houses of all such as are licen[s][c]ed, and of such as are suspected to sell without licence, and to demand, sue for, and recover the excise due from licen[s][c]ed persons by virtue of this act.

Persons chosen by the general court have power to farm out the excise.

And be it further enacted,

Farmers to give bond with sureties, to the province treasurer.

[SECT. 12.] That the farmer shall give bond with two sufficient suret[y][ie]s, to the province treasurer for the time being, and his successors in said office, in double the sum of money that shall be contracted for, with condition that the sum agreed be paid into the province treasury for the use of the province, at the expiration of one year from the date of such bond, which bond the person or persons to be appointed as aforesaid a committee for such county are to take, and the same to lodge with the treasurer aforesaid, within twenty days after such bond is executed, and the said treasurer, upon failure or neglect of payment at the time therein limit[t]ed, shall and hereby is impow[e]red and directed to put such bond in suit, and to receive the money due thereon for the use aforesaid; and the said committees shall render an account of their proceedings touching the farming this duty on rum, wine, and other the liquors and species aforesaid in their respective count[y][ie]s to the general court in the first week of their fall sessions, and shall receive such sum or sums for their trouble and expenses in said affair as said court shall think fit[t] to allow them.

Farmers may constitute deputies.

[SECT. 13.] And every person farming the excise in any county may substitute and appoint one or more deput[y][ie]s under him, upon oath, to collect and receive the excise aforesaid, which shall become due in such county, and pay in the same to the farmer; which deputy or deput[y][ie]s shall have, use and exercise all such powers and authority[y][ie]s as in and by this act is given or committed to the farmers for the better collecting the dut[y][ie]s aforesaid, or prosecuting of offenders against this act.

And be it further enacted, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding,

Farmers may compound and agree with retailers or innholders for their whole excise by the year.

[SECT. 14.] That it shall and may be lawful to and for the said farmers, and every of them, to compound and agree with any retailer or innholder within their respective divisions, from time to time, for his or her excise for the whole year in one entire sum, as they in their discretion shall think fit[t] to agree for, without making any entry thereof, as is before directed; and all and every person or persons, to whom the said excise or any part thereof shall be let[t] or farmed by themselves or their lawful substitutes, may and hereby are impow[e]red to sue for and recover in any of his majesty's courts of record, or before a justice of the peace where the matter is not above his cognizance, any sum or sums that shall grow due from any of the aforesaid duties of excise, where the party or part[y][ie]s for whom the same is or shall become due shall refuse or neglect to pay the same.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for farmer's conniving at persons not licensed selling strong drink.

[SECT. 15.] That in case any person farming the excise as aforesaid, or his deputy, shall at any time during their continuance in said office, wittingly and willingly connive at, or allow, any person or persons within their respective divisions, not licenced by the court of general sessions of the peace, their selling any brandy, wine, rum, or other liquors by this act forbidden, such farmer or deputy, for every such offence, shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds, one half whereof shall be to his majesty for the use of the province, the other half to him or them that shall inform or sue for the same, and shall thenceforward be forever disabled from serving in said office. charge, and affix his own seal thereto, and is hereby ordered to deliver so many unto the selectmen of each town or place respectively, or some one of them, as shall be necessary for the use of such town or place.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants to be assessed for the premiums.

[SECT. 5.] That the selectmen of each town respectively shall be and hereby are sufficiently authorized and impow[e]red to assess the inhabitants of [*their**] town yearly, in due proportion as near as they can, such sum and sums as they shall judge necessary to answer the payments to [*be**] made out of the town stock as aforesaid, together with the other charges of the town, and to cause the same to be collected in manner as [*is**] by law directed for the gathering of town rates.

And for preventing any persons receiving a premium for any grown or you[*ng**] wolf, bear, wildeat[t] or cat[t] amount, killed without the bounds of this province,—

Be it enacted,

Oath to be made that the creatures were killed within the province.

[SECT. 6.] That when and so often as any person shall bring the head of any grown or young wolf[e], bear, wildeat[t] or cattamount, to the constable of any town or distr[*ict**] within this province, and it be suspected that it was not killed within the same, such person shall not be [e][i]ntitled to the reward in [*this**] act provided, until he makes oath before one of his majesty's justices of the peace, or selectmen of the town, in such town where [*no**] justice of the peace dwells, who are hereby impow[e]red to administer the same, that such wolf[e], bear, wildeat[t] or cattamount, [*was**] bonâ fide killed within this province.

And be it further enacted,

Indians to be entitled to the premiums.

[SECT. 7.] That if any Indian shall kill any wolf, bear, [*wild**]cat or cattamount, or wol[f][ve]'s wildeat[t]s', or cattamounts' whelp[s] or bear's cub[b] within this province, he shall be [e][i]ntitled to the [*same**] reward in this act provided for killing thereof, in case such Indian bring the head of such wolf, bear, wildeat[t] or cattamo[*unt**], or wolf[e]'s, wildeat[t]'s or cattamount's whelp, or bear's cubb to a constable, and satisfy the selectmen of the town where the sa[*me**] is brought, that it was killed within this province.

Limitation.

[SECT. 8.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 9.]

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF SEVENTY THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLIC DEBTS, &c. &c., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and House of Representatives,

£70,000 bills of credit to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impow[e]red and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of seventy thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands, and receiv[e]'d in for taxes, impost, and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments equal to other new-tenor bills, emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or, if there shall not be a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills are hereby directed and impow[e]red to take care and make effect-

And the said sum of seventy thousand pounds shall be issued out of the treasury in manner and for the purposes following; viz<sup>[1]</sup>, the sum of five thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds, be appl[y][i]ed for the payment of wages that now are, or that hereafter may be, due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Frederick Fort, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-house, Saco Truck-house, Brunswick Fort, the sloop in the countr[e]y's service, and the treasurer's usual disbursements; and the sum of six thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed for putting the province into a better posture of defence, for compleating the repairs of Castle William and other forts, for paying of such officers and soldiers as have done service for the province, whose wages are now due, which officers and soldiers shall be paid out of this appropriation preferable to any other service; and for such officers and soldiers as are and may be in the province service, according to the several establishments for that purpose, for purchasing all needful[1] warlike stores for the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the sum of eleven thousand five hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds for the payment of his majesty's council, and such other grants as are or shall be made by this court; and for the payment of stipends, bounties, and premiums established by law; and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have or shall, either by law or orders, provide for the payment of out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever: the sum of one thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons that have served or shall serve them, by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned for such service, and for paper, printing, and writing for this court, the expences of the committees of council, or of the house, or of both houses, the surgeon of Castle William, and wooding of said castle; and the sum of two thousand four hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed for the payment of the house of representatives serving in the general court during their several sessions this present year; and the sum of forty-three thousand eight hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds, shall be applied to defr[e][a]y the charges of the expedition against his majesty's enem[y][i]es at Cape Breton and parts adjacent.

And whereas there are sometimes publick entertainments, and, from time to time, contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the sum of three hundred pounds, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds, be applied to defrey and pay such entertainments and contingent charges, and for no other use whatsoever.

And be it enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][i]e in the treasury for the further order of this court.

£5,000 for wages at Castle William and other garrisons, &c.

£6,000 for putting the province into a better posture of defence, &c.

£11,500 for payment of his majesty's council, and other grants, &c.

£1,000 for debts where there is no establishment.

£2,400 for the pay of the representatives.

£43,800 for the charges of the expedition against Cape Breton.

£300 for entertainments, &c.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

Warrants to express the
appropriations.

[SECT. 4.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriation as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of seventy thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£33,800 in 1751.

And as a further fund and security for drawing in the said sum of seventy thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£33,800 in 1752.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made
for what is paid
the representatives.

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be lev[y][i]ed and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their several representatives shall so receive, which sums shall be set[t] on the towns in the next province tax; and the assessors of the said town shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rules that shall be prescribed by the act of the general assembly for assessing the next province tax; and the constables in their respective districts shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l[y][i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the
money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding
tax act, in case.

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be in those years apportioned, assessed and lev[y][i]ed, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be lev[y][i]ed on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportions of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impow[er]ed and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before direc[t]ed* and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be govern[ed by*], and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceedin[g*] tax act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall [have*] liberty, if [they see fit, to pay the s*] several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of th[is act,*] be assessed [in bills of credit of the form a*] and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, [or in*] bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and [of*] sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sab[le*] codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas[e], sheepswo[o]l[l], or tan[n]d sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the year[s] one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, shall set[t] them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June in each year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certai[n*] price, that then the eldest councillors, for the time being, of each of those count[ry][ie]s in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and empowered to do it; and in their set[t]ing the p[rices*] and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpen[ce*] as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro rata. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of [the] taxes in each y[ear*], with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set[t] on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

[SECT. 10.] And the aforesaid commodities, so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of seventy thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. ## CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT TO PREVENT UNNECESSARY COST BEING A[LLOWED*] TO PARTIES AND WITNESSES IN THE SEVERAL COURTS OF JUSTICE WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS oftentimes there are several plaintiffs or defendants in one and the same action, brought either to the superio[u]r court, or the inferio[u]r court of common pleas within the respective counties, and in taxing the bills of cost arising on said actions, all the plaintiffs or defendants mentioned in the writ so brought are allowed for their attendance, altho' it frequently happens that only one of the plaintiffs or defendants do actually attend, and sometimes neither of them; and inasmuch as an allowance is sometimes made for witnesses not summoned, or when summoned for much longer time than such witnesses have actually attended the court, by which means bills of cost are exorbitantly enhanced; for the prevention whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, neither the justices of the superio[u]r court, nor the justices of the inferio[u]r court of common pleas in the respective counties within this province, shall, in taxing any bills of cost, allow for the attendance of more than one person as plaintiff or defendant, altho' there are more plaintiffs or defendants than one, in any suit or action, and appear by themselves or by their attorney or attorneys, except where the defendants plead severally; and in case of the actual attendance of either plaintiff or defendant, they shall be allowed in the bill of cost for no longer time than they make evident to the court the number of miles they travel, and time of their attendance as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That no person filing a complaint in the superio[u]r court or inferio[u]r court respectively for the affirmation of a former judgment, shall be allowed at any time more than three days' attendance in the bills of costs to be taxed by said courts.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That no witness giving his or her deposition in any case, who shall not be served with a subpoena, shall be allowed in the bill of cost[s] any more than one day's attendance, nor shall any witness summoned to appear be allowed for more days than such witness shall actually attend and make it evident to the court where the action shall be commenced, by their certifying on the subpoena the number of miles of their travel, and time that he or she has actually attended.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication hereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 11.]

* The parchment is mutilated.

Justices of the several courts to allow cost but for one person as plaintiff or defendant, except.

No person filing a complaint to be allowed for more than three days' attendance.

No witness, not served with a subpoena, to be allowed more than one day's attendance, &c.

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF SEVENTY THOUSAND POUNDS FOR THE USE AND SERVICE OF HIS MAJESTY'S GARRISON AT LOUISBOURG, AND FOR REPAIRING THE FORTRESSES AND OTHER BUILDINGS THERE, AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowred and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of seventy thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date now lying in his hands, and receiv'd for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments equal to the other new-tenor bills, emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee for signing bills are hereby directed and impowred to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, or so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of seventy thousand pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury for the purpose following; viz., for the use and service of his majesty's garrison at Louisbourg, and for repairing the fortresses and other buildings there.

£70,000 bills
of credit to be emitted.

And be it enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in the sum appropriated as aforesaid, such surplusage shall lie in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to
lie in the treasury.

And as a fund or security for drawing the aforesaid sum of seventy thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of thirty-five thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

[SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty; for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of thirty-five thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-four, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby omitted to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 5.] That in case the general court shall not at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-four, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which by this act is engaged shall be in each of those years apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowred and directed, some time in the month of June in each of those years, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-four, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sums before directed and engaged by this act to be assessed; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 6.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in any other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas[e], sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactories of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-four shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, in each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully authorized and impowred to do it; and in their setting the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro rata. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT TO SUBJECT THE UNIMPROVED LANDS WITHIN THIS PROVINCE TO BE SOLD FOR PAYMENT OF TAXES ASSESSED ON THEM BY ORDER OF THE GREAT AND GENERAL COURT AND VOTES AND AGREEMENTS OF THE PROPRIETORS THEREOF.

WHEREAS it frequently happens that the proprietors of unimproved lands within the several towns, precincts, new plantations and propriet[ie][or]s within this province, neglect or delay to pay their proportions of the sums from time to time assessed on such lands by order of the great and general court, and according to their own agreements, towards defr[a][e]ying the publick charges arising within such towns, precincts, new plantations and proprietries,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That if the assessors of any of the towns, precincts, new plantations or proprietries within this province, have, or at any time to come shall, pursuant to the direction or orders of the general court, levy or assess a tax upon the unimproved lands of the proprietors, situate in any of the towns within this province, for defraying the publick charges arising in the said towns, precincts, new plantations or proprietries, or if the assessors chosen by the proprietors of the common and undivided land in any of the towns or new plantations within this province, pursuant to the votes and agreements of such propriety, have or shall levy or assess a tax upon such proprietors by them thought necessary to carry on and prosecute any actions or suits that may be brought by or against them, or for the carrying on and managing of any other publick affair relating to such proprietors, or performance of the conditions of their grant respectively; and such proprietors shall neglect or delay to pay to the collector or collectors the sums from time to time levied or assessed upon their lands as aforesaid, for sixty days after such assessment is made, and published by posting up the same in the town or pre-town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportions of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-five. and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 7.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hallow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, in each year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest cancellor, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their settling the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in each year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of fifty thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE AND PASS'D IN THE EIGHTEENTH AND NINETEENTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY, [E][L]N-TITLED "AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON WINES AND SPIRITS DISTILLED, SOLD BY RETAIL, AND UPON LIMES AND LEMMONS."

WHEREAS notwithstanding the provision made in and by an act made and pass'd in the eighteenth and nineteenth year of his present majesty, [e][i]ntituled "An Act for granting unto his majesty an excise upon wines and spirits distilled, sold by retail, and upon limes and lemmons," many persons, in violation of said act, do, in a private and clandestine manner, sell without licence, wines and spirituous liquors by retail, and in order to prevent the means of detection and conviction, Indian, negro and molatto slaves, children and others under age of discretion, are employed and sent to receive such wines and spirituous liquors, and by this and other means the good intent of the afores[ai]d law has, in a great measure, been frustrated; for the more effectual prevention of all offences against s[ai]d act for the future,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any person shall be complained of for selling any strong drink without licence to any Indian, negro or molatto slave, or to any child or other person under the age of discretion, and upon the declaration of any such Indian, negro or molatto slaves, child or other person under the age of discretion, and other circumstances concurring, it shall appear to be highly probable, in the judgment of the court or justice before whom the trial shall be, that the person complained of is guilty, then and in every such case, unless the defendant shall acquit him- or herself upon oath, to be administered to him or her by the court or justice that shall try the cause, such defendant shall forfeit and pay three pounds to the farmer of excise, and costs of prosecution; but if the defendant shall acquit him- or herself upon oath as afores[ai]d, the court or justice may and shall enter up judgment for the defendant to recover costs.

And whereas in and by the afores[ai]d act it is provided, that "when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected to sell strong drink without licence, any justice of the peace shall have full power to convene such persons before him, and examine them upon oath concerning the person suspected of selling or retailing strong drink in such houses, out-houses or other dependenc[ies] thereof, and on just grounds to bind over the person suspected, and the witnesses, to the next court of general sessions of the peace in the county where such person shall dwell,"—and the afores[ai]d clause has been construed and understood to restrain such justice from proceeding to trial, and giving judgment in the case of such suspected person,—

Preamble.

1745-46, chap. 2.

Penalty for selling strong drink to any Indian, negro, &c.

Recitation of a former act.

Be it further enacted,

Justice's power to make up judgment against suspected persons.

[SECT. 2.] That if, upon such examination of such witnesses, and hearing the defence of such suspected person, it shall appear to the justice there is sufficient proof of the violation of the aforesaid act by selling strong drink without licence, judgment shall thereupon be made up against such person, and he shall forfeit and pay in like manner as if process had been commenced, by bill, plaint or information before the said justice.

And be it further enacted,

Offending persons to enter into bonds after first conviction.

[SECT. 3.] That after any person shall have been once convicted of selling strong liquors without licence, contrary to said act, or to this additional act, he shall, upon every such offence after such first conviction, be obliged to enter into bonds, with one or more sureties, in the penalty of twenty pounds, to his majesty, for the use of this government, that he will not in like manner offend or be guilty of any breach of the said acts; and upon refusal to give such bond, he shall be committed to prison until he shall comply therewith.

And in order to discourage and prevent any groundless or vexatious suits that may be brought against the farmer of excise,—

Be it enacted,

Farmer's liberty to plead the general issue.

[SECT. 4.] That in all actions that may be brought against the farmer of excise for any breach or neglect of his duty in the execution of his office and trust, he shall have liberty to plead the general issue, and thereupon give any special matter in evidence; and in case judgment shall be for the defendant, he shall recover treble costs.

And whereas sower oranges are frequently used in punch and other mixt liquors, as well as lemons [or] [and] limes,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Duty on sour oranges.

[SECT. 5.] That every person who shall, after the publication of this act, be licensed, or shall renew their licence as a taverner or retailer, shall pay as a duty, for every hundred of sower oranges, two shillings and a penny, and so pro rata for any less or greater number, to be recovered in like manner as is provided for the recovering the duty laid on lemons and limes.

And be it further enacted,

Provision in case of the death of any farmer.

[SECT. 6.] That in case of the death of the farmer of excise in any county, the executors or administrators of such farmer shall, upon their taking such trust of executor or administrator upon them, have and enjoy all the powers, and be subject to all the duties the farmer had or might enjoy, or was subject to, by force of the act aforesaid or of this additional act.

Limitation.

[SECT. 7.] This act to continue and be in force until the twentieth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and no longer. [Passed January 31; published February 3, 1745-46.]

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT FOR ENLISTING THE INHABITANTS OF DORCHESTER, WEYMOUTH AND CHARLESTOWN INTO HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE FOR THE DEFENCE OF CASTLE WILLIAM, AS OCCASION SHALL REQUIRE.

Preamble.

1742-43, chap. 26.

WHEREAS the safety of this province in a great measure depends on the strength of his majesty's Castle William, and it is necessary that a great number of men, skilful in the management of the great artillery, should be always ready to attend there,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives.

[SECT. 1.] That all the inhabitants of the town of Dorchester who are by law subject to common musters and military exercises, not exceeding fifty years of age, and such of the inhabitants of the towns of Weymouth and Charlestown as are willing to be [e][i]nlisted, not exceeding one hundred and twenty in the whole from the two last towns, shall be [e][i]nlisted under the present captains or such other officers as the captain-general shall commissionate, who shall repair to Dorchester Neck and be transported over to Castle William four days in each year, in such months as the captain-general shall order, and shall on the said days be, by the gunner and quarter-gunners, exercised in the mounting, dismounting, levelling, traversing and firing the great guns, and shall be obliged hereunto, and to the observance of such orders as shall be given them in this exercise, under the like pains and penalties that soldiers are under to obey their officers in said castle in time of service.

Enlisted inhabitants of Dorchester, Weymouth, and Charlestown to appear at Castle William on occasion.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if any of the men [e][i]nlisted as aforesaid shall not duly attend at time and place for the exercise of the great artillery as aforesaid, being thereof notified and warned to appear, for every such day's neglect of attendance, such soldier shall pay to the clerk of the company, for the use thereof, five shillings.

Penalty for not attending.

And for the encouragement of the said men that shall be [e][i]nlisted and exercised as aforesaid,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That every person so inlisted shall be excused from all other military service, and from all impresses into other service that other soldiers by law are liable to.

Enlisted persons exempted other military service, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That upon any alarm at Castle William every man able of body, as well those [e][i]nlisted by virtue of this act, as also all others within the town of Dorchester, except such persons as are by law obliged to attend upon the governour for the time being, shall forthwith appear, compleat with their arms and ammunition according to law, at the said Castle William, there to attend and follow such commands as shall be given for his majesty's service, and that on the penalty of paying five pounds to the clerk of the said company for the use of the province: the aforesaid fines to be recovered before any justice of the peace or court proper to hear and try the same.

Inhabitants of Dorchester to appear at Castle William upon an alarm.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force unto the end of the sessions of the general assembly to be begun and held on the last Wednesday in May, which will be in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and no longer. [Passed January 25; published March 11, 1745-46.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING THE UNNECESSARY DESTRUCTION OF ALEWIVES IN THE TOWN OF SANDWICH.

WHEREAS the laws already provided against the destruction of the fish called alewives, do not in divers circumstances reach the case of Herring River, in the town of Sandwich, so that nevertheless great waste is made of them by ill-minded persons, to the great damage of the publick; to prevent which,—

Preamble.
1745-46, chap. 24.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

No person to set or draw any seine, net, &c., for catching alewives in Herring River in Sandwich, without obtaining license.

Penalty for offence.

Preamble.

Method of conviction, &c.
1726-27, chap. 3.

Limitation.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons whomsoever shall, on any pretence, presume to stretch, set or draw any seine or drag-net, or set up any wares or other fishing engines in any part of the river known by the name of Herring River, in the town of Sandwich, or use any other instrument for the catching alewives but dip-nets or scoop-nets, without first obtaining special licence therefor by a vote of the inhabitants of said Sandwich legally assembled at their anniversary meeting in March, nor in any manner whatever, at any time or times, place or places thereof, but such as shall be determined and appointed at such meeting, on penalty of a fine of five pounds for each offence; to be paid by every person concerned in taking said fish in either of the ways forbidden by this act, or in any other place than such as shall be assigned by the said town as aforesaid, and be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information in any court proper to try the same: all fines and forfeitures arising by this act to be disposed of, one half for the benefit of the poor of said town, the other to him or them who shall inform and sue for the same.

And whereas a considerable part of the banks of said river is covered with thick woods, and thereby so obscured as that persons may frequently offend against this act without being discovered, and thereby the good design of it be defeated, unless special provision be made therefor,—

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 2.] That the manner, rules and methods of conviction of offenders against this act be the same as are directed and provided in and by an act [e][i]ntitled “An Act in addition to and for rendring more effectual an act made in the tenth year of the reign of King William the Third, [e][i]ntitled ‘An Act for preventing of trespasses,’” made in the twelfth year of the reign of his late majesty, King George.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 29; published March 11, 1745-46.]

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the large sums with which the treasury has already been suppl[y][i]ed for defreying the expence of the expedition against Cape Breton, and the necessary charges consequent thereupon, have been found insufficient for those purposes, and a considerable sum still remains due from this province,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£20,000 bills of credit to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of twenty thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands and received for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments equal to other new-tenor bills emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or, if there [shall not] be [not] a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills, are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, or so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of twenty thousand pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury pursuant to such grants as this court hath or shall hereafter make, for discharging such debts as are or may be due from this province in consequence of the late expedition against Cape Breton.

And be it enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in any of this sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][i]e in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing this money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of the aforesaid sum as is directed, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct acco[un][mp]ts of all payments made out of the aforesaid sum; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accounts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they shall direct, all such muster-rolls and accounts after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted [un]to his most excellent majesty for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of ten thousand pounds, to be lev[y][i]ed on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-five, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£10,000 in 1755.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of ten thousand pounds, to be lev[y][i]ed on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£10,000 in 1756.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums which, by this act, is engaged shall be in each of these several years apportioned, assessed, and lev[y][i]ed, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be lev[y][i]ed on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in each of these years, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, to issue and send forth his warrants directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estate[s] both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the several sums before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hallow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas[e], sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assembl[y][ie]s of the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty-five, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembl[y][ie]s shall not, at their sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set[t] the aforesaid species or commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, in each of those counties of the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their setting the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver at that time will purchase in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly, or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

[SECT. 8.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for the most it will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or any of the bills of credit aforementioned, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted, and for which a tax on polls and estates is in this act laid as a fund; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed February 8; published March 11, 1745-46.]

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said commodities.

CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE ACT, [E][I]NTITLED “AN ACT FOR APPOINTING COMMISSIONERS OF SEWERS.”

WHEREAS the water in some rivers or streams is raised and kept at such height, by mill-dams erected across the same, that it has been found difficult to discover, and impracticable to remove, the obstructions that occasion the overflowing of meadows, whilst the owners of such dams have refused to empty their mill-ponds by opening the flood-gates or other sufficient passage for the water, that had been raised by such dams, to flow out, by means whereof commissioners of sewers have been much hindered in the execution of their trust, and the owners of such meadows have thereby, in great measure, lost the benefit intended by said act; [w*][t]herefore, for preventing the like inconvenience for the future,—

Preamble.
1702, chap. 11.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That when and so often as commissioners of sewers shall judge it necessary, in order to the well executing their trust in discovering or removing the natural obstructions in rivers or streams over which any mill-dam is erected, that the water, which had thereby been stopt and raised above its usual height, should flow out; in such case it shall be lawful, and such commissioners are hereby impowered, to open, or cause to be opened, the flood-gates, and to cause to be made and opened other needful sluices or passages in or about such dam or dams, and such passages to keep open whilst they are using the proper means for discovering or removing such obstructions; as also for the more speedy draining of meadows in time of great floods; and in such manner as that the owner or owners of such mill-dam or dams may suffer as little inconvenience or dam[m]age thereby as may be.

Commissioners of sewers empowered to open flood-gates, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if the owner of such mill-dam shall suffer dam[m]age by the opening or keeping open such sluices or passages as afores[ai]d, the s[ai]d commissioners shall order him reasonable satisfaction, by their estimation, for such dam[m]age, and shall assess the same on the proprietors of the overflowed lands or meadows, at whose request and for whose benefit such commissioners were appointed, and to cause the same to be collected in manner as in and by the s[ai]d act is provided for collecting of other charges.

Owners of mill-dams opened, to be allowed damages.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the owner or owners of any dam or dams, or other person whosoever, that directly or indirectly shall molest or hinder any such commissioners, or others employed by them, in the execution of the power or trust reposed in them by this or any former act, by shutting up or stopping any passage made or opened by them or by their order for any the purposes afores[ai]d, shall, for each offence, forfeit and pay, as a fine to his majesty, for the use of this governm[en]t, the sum of twenty pounds; to be recovered by bill, plaint or information, in any court proper to try the same, after the manner of conviction, and by the same rules and methods as are provided and directed to in an act [e][i]ntitled “An Act in addition to and for rendering more effectual an act made in the tenth year of the reign of King William the Third, [e][i]ntitled ‘An Act for preventing of trespasses.’”

Penalty for owners of mill-dams who shall molest or hinder commissioners in the execution of their power.

1726-27, chap. 3.

And whereas it has been found necessary, in order to remove the Preamble.

natural obstructions in rivers and streams, that the course of the water there be stopt, by dams erected for that purpose, during the time that workmen are employed in removing them,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

Commissioners
empowered to erect dams, provided, &c.

[SECT. 4.] That it shall be lawful for commissioners of sewers, when and so often as they shall find it needful, to erect or cause to be erected, any dam or dams upon or across any river or stream wherein such obstructions are found, for the greater ease and dispatch in removing them; provided such dam or dams be taken down as soon as conveniently may be after the work is finished, and meet recompence be made, in manner as aforesaid, for any dam[m]ages that may thereby accrue to the owner or owners of the land against or over which such dam or dams shall abutt or be erected, or which, by occasion of such dam, may happen for a time to be overflowed with water: saving always, the liberty of appeal from any orders or determinations of the said commissioners, to the governour and council, as by the afore-mentioned act in that behalf is provided.

Saving.

Limitation.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed February 6, 1745—46; published March 27, 1746.]

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT FOR REVIVING AND CONTINUING SUNDRY LAWS OF THIS PROVINCE IN THIS ACT MENTIONED, EXPIRED, OR NEAR EXPIRING.

Preamble.

1740-41, chap. 19.

1742-43, chap. 18.

1742-43, chap. 22.

1742-43, chap. 29.

WHEREAS an act was made and pass[e]d in the fourteenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]ntitled "An Act in further addition to an act for regulating of fences, &c<sup>a</sup>."; and another act was made and pass[e]d in the sixteenth year of his present majesty, [e][i]ntitled "An Act in addition to the several laws of this province relating to the supporting of poor and indigent persons;" and another act was made and pass[e]d in the same year, [e][i]ntitled "An Act to prevent firing the woods;" and another act was made and pass'd in the same year, [e][i]ntitled "An Act for the more easy partition of lands or other real estate given by will, and held in common and undivided among the devisees;"—all which several laws are expired or near expiring: and whereas the afores[ai]d laws have, by experience, been found beneficial and necessary for the several purposes for which they were pass[e]d,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Limitation of sundry laws.

That all and every of the afores[ai]d acts, and every matter and clause therein contained, be and hereby are revived, and shall continue and remain in force until[1] the last day of December, which will be in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, and to the end of the session of the general court then next after. [Passed January 29, 1745—46; published March 27, 1746.]

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT IMPOWERING THE SUPERIO[U]R COURT OF JUDICATURE, COURT OF ASSIZE AND GENERAL GOAL DELIVERY, AT THEIR PRESENT TERM, TO PROCEED TO THE TRIAL OF SUNDRY PRISONERS NOW IN HIS MAJESTY'S GOAL IN THE COUNTY OF SUFFOLK.

WHEREAS there are divers persons now in goal in the county of Suffolk, who were committed on suspicion of murders, felonies, or other high crimes and misdemeanors perpetrated within the body of that county, whereof if due inquiry be not speedily made, great inconvenienc[i]es may arise; and whereas the grand jury impanel[le]d and sworn at the sup[*er*iou]r court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, holden at Boston for and within the county of Suffolk, on the third Tuesday of February last, is, by the said court, dismiss[e]d, but the said court is not yet adjourned without day,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the said court may and shall without delay, cause the usual process to be made out for choosing and summoning a suitable number of good and lawful men of such of the towns in the said county of Suffolk as have been accustomed to send grand jurors to the said court, or of such towns as the s[ai]d court shall think most proper to send their venires unto, to serve as grand jurors at the said court now holden at Boston afores[ai]d; and every person duly chosen and return[e]d on such venire, shall be and hereby is obliged to give his immediate attendance accordingly, under the penalty by law already provided in case of grand jurors upon their default of attendance: and the s[ai]d court shall impanel, swear and charge them to inquire of, and present all murders and other felonies, high crimes and misdemeanors, committed or done within the said county, and may proceed to the trial of any person or persons that shall by such grand jury be presented or indicted of or for any murder or other felony, high crime or misdemeanour, and give judgm[en]t, and award execution thereupon, according to the usual course of the law. [Passed April 24; published April 26, 1746.]

Court's power to proceed to the trial of sundry criminals.

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT, [E][i]NTITLED "AN ACT DIRECTING HOW RATES AND TAXES TO BE GRANTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, AS ALSO COUNTY, TOWN, AND PRECINCT RATES, SHALL BE ASSESSED AND COLLECTED," MADE AND PASS'D IN THE FOURTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN.

WHEREAS no provision is made, in the act [e][i]ntitled "An Act directing how rates and taxes granted by the general assembly, as also county, town, and precinct rates, shall be assessed and collected," for appointing collectors or constables, where towns neglect to choose them; whereby, unless there be some remedy, the good design of said act, to secure the payment of the taxes granted by the general assembly, will be frustrated,—

Preamble.

1730, chap. 1.
1743-44, chap. 11.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That where any town or towns have neglected or shall neglect to choose constables or collectors to gather the rates or taxes

Sheriff empowered to collect rates or taxes in towns that have or shall neglect to choose constables or collectors.

granted by the general court, that in such case the sheriff of the county shall be and hereby is impow[er]ed and directed to collect such rates or taxes, having received an assessment made of the proportion of the several persons rateable in such town, together with a warrant under the hands of such assessors as shall be appointed by the court of general sessions of the peace in the county where such deficient town l[y]e[s], according to the aforesaid act of the fourth year of his present majesty's reign; and the said assessors are hereby directed, where any town has for divers[e] years past, or shall for several years together hereafter, neglect to choose assessors or constables and collectors, to add together the several sums annually due, as also the several fines of twenty pounds due for each year's neglect, and their own allowance by law establish[er]ed, to be proportioned among the several inhabitants and others rateable in such town according to their best judgment.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Sheriff to post up copy of assessment and warrant.

[SECT. 2.] That the sheriff, upon receiving the aforesaid assessment, and warrant for collecting it, shall forthwith post up in some publick place of the town assessed, an attested copy of such assessment and warrant, and shall make no distress for any of the sums so assessed till after thirty days from his posting it up; and any person or persons paying the sum or sums respectively assessed on him or them, to the sheriff before the expiration of the aforesaid thirty days, shall pay at the rate of five per cent over and above, to the sheriff for his fees, and no more; but all such as shall neglect to pay the sum or sums assessed for the space of thirty days or longer from the aforesaid posting up the copy of the assessment, shall be proceeded against by the sheriff in way of distress, as collectors by law are impow[er]ed, and may require suitable aid for that purpose; and they shall each one pay the fees for the sheriff's service and travel, as in other cases where distraint is made.

And to the intent the courts of general sessions of the peace, in the several counties where such deficient towns shall respectively belong, may, from time to time, seasonably appoint assessors as needful[ly],—

Be it enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Treasurer to send a certificate to the clerk of the court of general sessions of the county where deficient towns belong.

[SECT. 3.] That the province treasurer, for the time being, shall, as soon as may be, after he hath issued his warrants to the assessors of the several towns, for assessing and collecting the rates and taxes granted by the general assembly, for the space of sixty days, without any account of such town's choice of collectors or constables, whether it be a town that hath neglected to make such choice, or that hereafter shall neglect so to do, in every such case the said treasurer shall send a certificate to the clerk of the court of general sessions of the peace for the county whereto the deficient town belongs, of such their deficiency, who shall lay it before said court of sessions at their next sitting; whereupon the said court shall forthwith proceed to appoint assessors to assess and proportion the rates and taxes granted as aforesaid; and the assessors so appointed, shall, as soon as may be, take an oath to the faithful[ly] discharge of their trust, before the said court or some one or more of the justices by the court of sessions to be appointed for that purpose; and if any person appointed an assessor as aforesaid shall refuse to serve, he shall forfeit the sum of twenty pounds to his majesty for the use of the province; and the court of sessions shall immediately proceed to appoint others. [Passed February 8, 1745-46.]

CHAPTER 20.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO, AND FOR RENDRING MORE EFFECTUAL, THE LAWS ALREADY IN BEING FOR PREVENTING THE DESTRUCTION OF THE FISH CALLED ALEWIVES, AND OTHER FISH.

WHEREAS in and by an act made in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]ntitled "An Act in addition to an act made to prevent the destruction of alewives, and other fish," it is provided, that all persons that should hereafter build any mill-dam or dams, or that had, before the time of passing the same, built any dam across any such river or stream where the salmon, shadd, alewives, or other fish, usually pass up into the natural ponds to cast their spawn, shall make or open "a sufficient passage-way for the fish to pass up such river or stream through or round such dam, and shall keep it open for the free passage of the fish, from the first day of April to the last day of May, annually," and also, that a sufficient water-passage round, thro[ugh] or over such dam, should be made for the passage of such fish, or their young spawn, in the season of their going down such river or stream, on penalty of fifty pounds for every offence; and in and by an act made in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]ntitled "An Act in addition to an act made in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]ntitled 'An Act in addition to an act made to prevent the destruction of the fish called alewives, and other fish,'" it is provided, "That it shall and may be lawful for any owner or occupant of any such dam or dams already built, or that may hereafter be built, and who are or may be obliged by said additional act to open or leave open such passage as afores[ai]d, to apply to the next court of general sessions of the peace to be holden in and for the county where such mill-dam is; and the justices of the court respectively, on such application, are impowered and directed to appoint a committee of three sufficient, and, as much as may be, disinterested, persons, under oath to repair to the dam where such passage is proposed to be opened, and carefully view the same, and in the best manner they are able, to inform themselves of the most proper place for the passage of such fish up and down stream, of what dimensions the same shall be, or be appointed to be made, and what part of each year, and how long the same shall be kept open, and return the same, under their hands, or the hands of the major part of them, to the said court for their acceptance; which return so made and accepted, shall be deemed and adjudged the lawful rule of proceeding in making and keeping open the passage and passages for the fish in passing up and down the rivers and streams for the future, anything contained to the contrary in s[ai]d additional act notwithstanding."—

And whereas it may happen that in some rivers or streams, across which dams are built, it may be doubtful whether the fish may be said usually to pass or cast their spawn, and so as to render it necessary that a way should be left open in such dams for their free passage, and many inconvenienc[ie]s may arise from such doubt or uncertainty,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as application shall be made to the court of sessions, by the owner or occupant of any mill-dam or dams, either of such dams as have no passage-way, or of such dams thro[ugh] which a passage-way has already been made, and a committee shall thereupon be appointed by such court, pursuant to the last-recited act, and such committee shall repair to any dam or dams, and it shall appear to them, upon inquiry, that the fish do not, or in case of a passage being made or kept open, would not, usually pass up the river or stream, across which such dam is or shall be built, in such numbers as that it is necessary a passage-way thro[ugh] such dam should be made or kept open, or that the passing of the fish up such river will not be of greater general benefit than the leaving open of passage-ways in such dams will be of dam[m]age to the owners of the mills, and other persons, then and in either of such cases, said committee shall be impowered to make a report that such passage-way is not necessary, and such report, being accepted by the court of sessions, the owner or occupant of such dam shall thereupon be freed from all obligation to make or keep open any passage, anything in the aforementioned acts to the contrary notwithstanding; and the charge of the application that shall be made by the owner or occupant of any mill-dam or dams, and all proceedings of the court thereupon, pursuant to this act, or to the said last-recited act, shall be born and paid by such owner or occupant.

Court of general sessions to determine the expediency of dams, &c., upon the report of a committee.

Provided always,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 2.] That if, at any time after such determination, any person, apprehending it necessary that a passage-way should be opened in such dam, shall thereupon make application to the court of sessions, said court shall be impowered to appoint a new committee, who shall have the same power the first committee by law had, or might have had; and upon such committee's reporting that a passage-way is necessary in such dam or dams, and the dimensions thereof, and the time it shall be kept open; and upon such report being accepted by the court of sessions, the owner or occupant of such mill or dam shall be as fully obliged to keep open such passage as if the former report had never been made and accepted, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding; the charge of such application, and all proceedings thereupon, to be paid by the person or persons making the same, or by the owner or occupant of such dam, as the court of sessions shall order.

Preamble.

And whereas in some counties within this province, the justices of the court of sessions have refused to admit any application from the owner or occupant of any mill or mill-dam, by reason that such application has not been made at the court next immediately following the publication of the last-recited act,—

Be it further enacted,

Further power of the court of sessions.

[SECT. 3.] That the several courts of sessions within this province be and hereby are impowered and directed to admit, proceed and determine upon any such application at any court at any time held for the county; and all such proceedings shall be deemed as valid to all intents and purposes as if they had been acted upon at the court next immediately following the publication of said act.

Preamble.

And whereas in many rivers or streams within this province, neither shad, salmon nor alewives usually swim, or would pass up such river or stream, although a passage-way was made and kept open through the several dams built across such rivers or streams, and the advantage of other fish that pass up such rivers or streams is not equal to the dam[m]age that may arise by keeping open a passage-way thro[ugh] such dams,—

Be it therefore enacted,

In what case mill-dam or dams are to be kept open.

[SECT. 4.] That no owner or occupant of any mill-dam or dams built or to be built within this province, shall be liable to any penalty for not making or keeping open a passage-way through such dam or dams, except those dams only which are built across those rivers or streams where either of the aforementioned fish; viz<sup>t</sup>, shad, salmon or alewives, usually swim or pass; any former law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Provided always,

[SECT. 5.] That it shall be in the power of any person at any time to make application to the court of sessions, setting forth that the passage of other fish up such rivers or streams is of such advantage as to render a passage-way through any dam or dams necessary, and the justices of the court of sessions are impowered on such application to appoint a committee to repair to such dam or dams, and upon such committee's reporting that a passage-way or ways for the fish is necessary, the dimensions thereof, and the time for keeping it open, and upon such report's being accepted, the owner or occupant of such dam or dams shall be as fully obliged to make and keep open such passage-way or ways as if shad, salmon or alewives usually pass[e]d up such river or stream.

Application may be made to the court of sessions relating to dams, &c.

And whereas the mill-dam in the town of Watertown, refer[re]d to in the afores[ai]d act of the [15th] [fifteenth] of his present majesty, has not been subjected in like manner with the other mill-dams within this province,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That if any person or persons whatsoever shall cause the dam of said mill to be raised, so as to prevent the passage of the fish over the same at any time between the breaking up of the ice in the winter or spring and the first day of May annually, and in any year hereafter, without the express leave or consent of the selectmen of the towns of Watertown and Newtown, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds for each offence, to be recovered in any court of record proper to try the same, and for the use of him or them that shall inform and sue therefor. [Passed March 22, 1745-46.]

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT FOR ALTERING THE TIMES FOR HOLDING THE SUPERIOUR COURT OF JUDICATURE, COURT OF ASSIZE, AND GENERAL GOAL DELIVERY WITHIN THE COUNTIES OF ESSEX AND YORK.

WHEREAS the time by law appointed for holding the superiour courts for the counties of Essex and York is found on some accounts inconvenient,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the superiour court of judicature, court of assize, and general goal delivery, that was by law to be holden at Ipswich, for the county of Essex, on the second Tuesday of May yearly, shall be held at Ipswich aforesaid, for said county of Essex, on the first Tuesday of June yearly; and the superiour court of judicature, court of assize, and general goal delivery, that was by law to have been holden within and for the county of York, at York, on the third Wednesday in June yearly, shall be held at York aforesaid, for the said county of York, on the second Tuesday of June yearly.

Alteration of the time for holding the superior court in the counties of Essex and York. 1742-43, chap. 32, § 2.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That all appeals, reviews, recognizances, warrants or other processes, already issued, taken, and filed, which were to be heard and tried at either of the courts aforesaid, shall not fail or be discontinued, but be obligatory, continued over, held good and valid to all intents and purposes in the law, and may be pleaded, heard, and proceeded on, at the next respective courts appointed by this act to be held in the several counties aforesaid; and all officers and other persons concerned therein are to conform themselves accordingly.

All appeals already issued not to be discontinued, but proceeded upon.

Provided, also,

[SECT. 3.] That all executions, returnable to the respective courts formerly established, be returned at the times therein mentioned, the alterations aforesaid notwithstanding. [Passed April 26, 1746.]

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT FOR THE EXPLANATION AND FURTHER ENFORCEM[EN]T OF THE LAWS MADE FOR THE OBSERVATION OF THE LORD'S DAY.

Preamble.
1741-42, chap. 7.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign. [e][i]ntitled "An Act in further addition to the several acts for the observation and keeping of the Lord's Day," it is enacted, that his majesty's justices of the peace shall bind over the offenders against that act to appear before "the next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where the offence shall be committed," &c.; and whereas it so happens that divers such offenders are strangers, and not inhabitants in the town where the offence is committed, nor of any other town in this province, and persons so mean and obscure that they cannot afterwards be found, so that without a speedy way of proceeding against them, they will have an advantage to avoid justice, and with respect to such person[s] the good intent of the said law may be thereby wholly frustrated and defeated; and whereas a doubt has arisen in divers persons, who are enjoined by law to put in execution the laws made for the due observation of the Lord's Day, whether the act above mentioned does not repeal some clauses in an act made in the fourth year of King William and Queen Mary, for the better observation and keeping of the Lord's Day, and other subsequent acts made for the same good purposes; and thro[ugh] these means there have been great neglects of prosecuting and punishing persons guilty of the prophanation of the Sab[b]ath; now, to prevent the evil consequences of such wrong constructions of the laws in that case made and provided,—

1692-3, chap. 22.

It is hereby declared by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves, Precedent laws relating to the Lord's day not repealed, but remain in full force and virtue.

[SECT. 1.] That it is not the true intent and meaning of the first-mention[e]d act, made in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, to repeal any of the precedent laws made for the observation of the Lord's Day, or any paragraphs or clauses thereof, but that the same ought to remain in full force and virtue.

And it is hereby accordingly enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the s[ai]d precedent laws do and shall remain in full force and virtue, as if the s[ai]d act of the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign had never been made: saving that by the s[ai]d act his majesty's justices of the peace have liberty given them to prosecute the offences therein mentioned in the manner as is therein directed, if they judge it will best answer the general intention of the laws for the better observation of the Lord's Day. [Passed April 24, 1746.]

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TUNNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a collateral fund and security for drawing in the bills of credit on this province, have cheerfully and unanimously given and granted and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty to the end and use aforesaid, and for no other use, the several duties of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province, and tonnage of shipping hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the last day of the last session of this court, and during the space of one year, and from thence to the end of the then next session of the general court, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and and* also all prize goods condemned in any port of this province, excepted), the several rates or duties of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>,—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, eight shillings.

For every pipe of Madeira, nine shillings and sixpence.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, nine shillings and sixpence.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, eight shillings.

For every hogshead of sugar, sevenpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, four shillings and sixpence.

For every ton of logwood, ninepence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares, merchandize, &c<sup>a</sup>., that shall be imported into this province, &c<sup>a</sup>., from any other port than the places of their growth and produce, their shall be paid by the importer double the value of impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned, unless they do, bonâ fide, belong to the inhabitants of this province and came upon their risque from the port of their growth and produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all the aforesaid impost rates and duties shall be paid in current money or bills of credit of this province of the last emission, by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize, unto the commissioner to be appointed as is hereinafter to be directed for entring and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons where his or their duty of impost, in one ship or vessel, doth exceed the sum of three pounds; and in cases where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall settle and ballance his accounts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accounts may be ready to be presented to this court in May next after. And all entries where the impost or duty to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer, and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all masters of ships or other vessels coming into any harbour or port within this province from beyond sea, or from any other province or colony, before bulk be broken and within twenty-four hours after his arrival at such harbour or port, shall make a report to the commissioner or receiver of the impost, to be appointed as is hereinafter mentioned, of the contents of the lading of such ship or vessel, without any charge or fee to be demanded or paid for the same; which report said master shall give in to the commissioner or receiver, under his hand, and shall therein set down and express the quantities and species of the wines, liquors, goods and merchandize laden on board such ship or vessel, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same is consigned; and also make oath that the said report or manifest of the contents of his lading, so to be by him given in under his hand as afores'd, contains a just and true account, to the best of his knowledge, of the whole lading taken on board and imported in the said vessel from the port or ports such vessel came from, and that he hath not broken bulk, nor delivered any of the wines, rum or other distilled liquors or merchandize laden on board the said ship or vessel, directly or indirectly; and if he shall know of any more wines, liquors, goods or merchandize to be imported therein, before the landing thereof he will cause it to be added to his manifest; which manifest shall be agreeable to a printed form for that purpose, which is to be filled up by the said commissioner or receiver according to each particular person's entry; which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby empowered to administer: after which said master may unload, and not before, on pain of five hundred pounds, to be forfeited and paid by each master that shall neglect his duty in this behalf.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That all merchants, factors and other persons, importers, being owners thereof, or having any of the wines, liquors, goods or merchandize consigned to them, that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall, by themselves or order, make entry thereof in writing, under their hands, with the said commissioner or receiver, and produce unto him an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath thereto in manner following:—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibits the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, it is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which above oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby empowered to administer; and they shall pay the duty and impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessel in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 6.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharff, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the daytime only, and that after sunrise and before sunset, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or receiver, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessel out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consigned, then the cask wherein the same is shall be gaged at the charge of the importer, that the quantities thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province shall be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines shall not have been filled up on board; and that every hogshead, butt or pipe of wine that hath two parts thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty for the same. And no master of any ship or vessel shall suffer any wines to be filled up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 9.] And if it be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessel be decayed at the time of unloading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the master of every ship or vessel importing any liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof contained in his manifest, as shall not be duly entred, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawful, to and for the master of every ship or other vessel, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported in any ship or vessel, untill he shall receive a certificate, from the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and untill he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandizé as are not entred, unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port, or his order, who is hereby empowered and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, untill the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the commissioner or the receiver of the impost in each port, shall be and hereby is empowered to sue the master of any ship or vessel, for the impost or duty for so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not entred and the duty of impost thereof not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the Dmpost* and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

* Sic.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the ship or vessel, with her tackle, apparel and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not entred as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessel, with so much of the tackle or appurtenances thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgment, may be taken in execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to make seizure of such ship or vessel, and detain the same under seizure untill judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or impost; to the intent that, if judgment be rendred for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessel and appurtenances may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing such ship or vessel from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and duties, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss or damage unto his owners, thro' his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes unto any master of any ship or other vessel, outward bound, untill he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duties and impost for the goods last imported in such ship or vessel are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 14.] And the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act for such wines or liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And whereas, many persons heretofore have caused to be imported, from the neighbouring governments, into this province, by land-carriage, large quantities of wine, rum and other merchandize, subjected to duty by this act, but have made no report thereof to the officer of impost, or any of his deputies, nor have paid any duty therefor, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act,—

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That, whensoever any rum, wine or other merchandize, by this act subjected to any duty, shall be hereafter imported from any of the neighbouring governments, by land, into any town of this province, the owner thereof, or person importing the same, shall make report thereof to the said officer, or some one of his deputies, and pay the duties hereby required therefor, on pain and penalty of forfeiting the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all penalties, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the aforementioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge of the prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming into any port or ports in this province, to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessels as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pensilvania, West and East Jersey, New York, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessel is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the duties of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 18.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure or tonnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessel, before she be cleared, and in case she shall appear to be of greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accounts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel, untill he be also certified, by the commissioner, that the duty of tonnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the afores<sup>d</sup> duties of impost and tonnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and managem<sup>t</sup> of the said office, and whatsoever relates thereto, to receive commission for the same from the governor or commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the s<sup>d</sup> place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping afores<sup>d</sup> that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entries and duties arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessel, so that the duties of impost and tonnage arising on the said vessell may appear; and the same to lye open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer and receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such moneys as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the s<sup>d</sup> commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputies, before their entring upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from nine to twelve of the clock in the forenoon, and from two to five a-clock in the afternoon.

[SECT. 20.] And the s<sup>d</sup> commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of twenty-five pounds, per annum; and his deputy or deputies to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the

said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding seven pounds ten shillings each. And the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accounts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputy or deputies. [Passed January 10, 1745-46.]

NOTES.—There were five sessions of the General Court this year; but no acts were passed at the third session. The engrossments of chapters 3, 8, and 11 are not in the Secretary's office, and are supposed to have been destroyed in the great fire of 1747. All the acts of this year were printed with the sessions-acts, except chapters 1 and 23, which, being a tax-act and impost-act, respectively, were printed separately.

All the acts of this year were duly certified to the Privy Council, by Governor Shirley, under the province seal, September 30, 1746. They were laid before the Council by Mr. Kilby, the agent of the province, January 1, 1746-47, and on the 27th of the same month, were referred to the Board of Trade. By the Board of Trade they were next submitted to Matthew Lamb, the successor of Mr. Fane, "for his opinion thereon in point of law." The letter from Thomas Hill, Secretary of the Board of Trade, transmitting the acts to Mr. Lamb, is dated June 18, 1747; and Mr. Lamb's report on these acts bears date from "Lincolnes Inn, 14th November, 1747."

In this report, "no objection" is made to chapters 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23; and the list is indorsed "No objection. With observations on some." These observations are given hereunder in notes to the respective chapters.

The acts again came up for consideration in the Board of Trade, upon the report of Mr. Lamb, on different days during the month of November, 1749; and on the 27th of that month, the Board agreed upon a report, in which chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, and 23 are declared to have been "for a Temporary Service and are either expired, or the purposes for which they were enacted have been completed"; and chapters 5, 7, 9, 16, 19, 20, 21, and 22 are declared to "relate to the Economy of the Province and are enacted for their private convenience, and We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them." The report concludes with comments on chapter 17, which are given in the note to that chapter, post.—See, also, note to 1746-47, chapter 8, post.

On the 14th of December, 1749, an order in Council was passed confirming chapters 5, 7, 9, 16, 19, 20, 21, 22.

This report was on the above chapter, and chapter 8, of the acts of 1746-47. The act to prevent mischief by unruly dogs, &c., was revived by the latter act, and hence it follows that the Lords of Trade were satisfied, at the date of the above report, that all the acts revived by the act of this year, had been confirmed by the Crown; yet, as late as 1754, a minute appears in the files of the Board of Trade, to the effect that, chapter 19 of the acts of 1740-41, and chapter 18, of the acts of 1742-43, had never been laid before the King in Council.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY OF MAY, A. D. 1746.

CHAPTER 1.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF TWENTY-EIGHT THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND NINETY-NINE POUNDS SEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE, IN BILLS OF CREDIT; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A FURTHER TAX OF TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO POUNDS THREE SHILLINGS AND NINEPENCE, IN BILLS OF CREDIT, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT, AND TRAVEL; AND ALSO THE SUM OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SEVEN POUNDS TEN SHILLINGS, FINES LAID UPON SEVERAL TOWNS FOR NOT SENDING A REPRESENTATIVE.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, did, at their session in May,* one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, pass an act for levying a tax of six thousand six hundred and sixty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence, in bills of credit by said act emitted; and, at their session in May,* one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, did pass an act for levying a tax of eight thousand pounds, in bills of credit emitted by said act; and, at their session in May,† one thousand seven hundred and forty-three, did pass an act for the levying a tax of two thousand five hundred and thirty-three pounds six shillings and eightpence, in bills of credit emitted by said act; and, at their session in May,‡ in the same year, did pass an act for levying a tax of four thousand pounds, in bills of credit emitted by said act; each of the several sums aforesaid to be assessed this present year,—amounting in the whole to the sum of thirty thousand nine hundred and sixty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fourpence; and by the aforesaid acts provision was made that the general court might, this present year, apportion the same on the several towns in this province, if they thought fit: and the assembly aforesaid have likewise ordered that the sum of one hundred and twenty-seven pounds ten shillings, fines laid on several towns, and the sum of two thousand four hundred and forty-two pounds three shillings and sixpence, paid the representatives the last year, should be levied and assessed, this present year, on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives have respectively received; wherefore, for the ordering, directing, and effectual drawing

‡ November, 1744.

The sum of the taxes levied in the acts referred to above, falls short of the total sum apportioned in this act, by £9,766 13s. 4d., which is the amount of the tax granted by chapter 5 of the acts of 1744-45, § 9,—a reference omitted in the above preamble, undoubtedly, by mistake.

the sum of thirty-three thousand five hundred and thirty-six pounds six shillings and tenpence, pursuant to the funds and grants aforesaid, into the treasury, according to the apportion now agreed to by this court, the sum of two thousand four hundred sixty-seven pounds five shillings and tenpence, arising by the duties of impost, tunnage of shipping and excise, first deducted, there remains the sum of thirty-one thousand and sixty-nine pounds one shilling, to be drawn into the treasury in the following manner; viz., twenty-eight thousand four hundred and ninety-nine pounds seven shillings and sixpence, by a tax on polls and estates on the several towns, and two thousand four hundred and forty-two pounds three shillings and sixpence, paid the representatives the last year; and the further sum of one hundred and twenty-seven pounds ten shillings, fines laid on several towns for not sending a representative, by this act, amounting in the whole to thirty-one thousand and sixty-nine pounds one shilling: all which is unanimously approved, ratified, and confirmed; we, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That each town and district within this province be assessed and pay, as such town's and district's proportion of the sum of thirty-one thousand and sixty-nine pounds one shilling, in bills of credit, as also for the fines laid on them, and their representatives' pay, the several sums following; that is to say,—

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or districts, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town, at six shillings and threepence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governor and their families, the president, fellows and students of Harvard College, settled ministers and grammar-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as for their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro' age, infirmity or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and, in making their assessments, to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every goat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and if as guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement in trust, to be distinctly express'd; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of October.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of May next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, some time in March next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accompts of the whole, at or before the last day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate, as aforesaid, to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of polls, rateable estate, or income by any trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, though, in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade, to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

[SECT. 8.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoyned to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, and pay the same into the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they may respectively be assess'd at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of thirty-one thousand and sixty-nine pounds one shilling, in bills of credit emitted in and since the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, according to their denominations; or in coined silver at the rate of six shillings and eightpence per ounce, troy weight; or in gold coin, at the rate of four pounds eighteen shillings per ounce; or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their denominations; or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in good merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or in good, merchantable, Isle-of-Sable codfish, at ten shillings per quintal; or in good refined bar-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton; or in bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton; or in hollow iron-ware, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and threepence per bushel; or in good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel; or in good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel; or in good barrel pork, at two pounds per barrel; or in barrel beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound; or in merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred; or in good train-oyl, at one pound ten shillings per barrel; or in good beeswax, at tenpence per pound; or in bayberry-wax, at sixpence per pound; or in tryed tallow, at fourpence per pound; or in good pease, at three shillings per bushel; or in good sheepswool, at ninepence per pound; or in good, tann'd sole-leather, at fourpence per pound: all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold; and the several persons that pay their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the same to the province treasury.

[SECT. 10.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax of the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed June 26; published July 1.]

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT TO PREVENT SOLDIERS AND SEAMEN IN HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE FROM BEING ARRESTED FOR DEBT.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

No person, except the commissary, to trust or give credit to any soldier,

[SECT. 1.] That if any person whatsoever, other than the commissary, shall trust or give credit to any soldier, mariner or sailor, during his being actually in his majesty's service, for cloathing or other things whatsoever, no process shall be granted or served on such soldier for any debt so contracted until he be dismiss'd the service, and every writ or process granted or served contrary hereto shall be deemed and adjudged, ipso facto, void; and any justices of the peace within the county where any such soldier or mariner is committed or restrained upon process granted for debt or pretension of debt contracted as aforesaid, shall, upon certificate given to him from the captain or chief officer under whose command such soldier or mariner is, setting forth that at the time of such debt contracted, he then was and still continues a soldier or mariner in his majesty's pay, forthwith order his release from confinement and return to his duty.

mariner, or sailor, during their being in the service.

1744-45, chap. 3.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That no person who is or shall be impressed, hired or voluntarily inlisted into his majesty's service, either by sea or land, shall, during his continuance therein, be liable to be taken out of his majesty's service by any process or execution, unless for some criminal matter, for any sum under the value of twenty pounds, bills of credit of the last emission, nor for any greater sum until oath shall be made by the plaintiff or plaintiffs, before one of the justices of the court out of which the execution or process shall issue, or before two justices of the peace, quorum unus, in the county where the plaintiff may happen to be, that to his or their knowledge there is, bonâ fide, due from such person as the process or execution is desired to issue against, twenty pounds of the currency aforesaid at least. And every soldier whose body shall contrary to the intent of this act be arrested by mean process or execution after his inlistment into said service, may and shall be set at liberty by two justices of the peace, quorum unus, in the county where such soldier is taken, upon application made by him or his superior officer, and proof of his being entred into the service aforesaid.

Persons impressed, hired, or enlisted, either by sea or land, not to be taken out of the service, unless.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That no person in his majesty's service shall pawn, truck, barter or sell his arms, ammunition or cloathing, on penalty of being punished by riding the wooden horse, running the gantlet, or other like military punishment, and the person accepting or receiving the same shall be compel'd to restore and make good the same without price or redemption, and shall further, if in his majesty's service, suffer military punishment as aforesaid.

No person in the service to pawn or sell his arms, &c., on penalty, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all debts contracted for strong or spirituous liquors, by any soldier or mariner while in his majesty's service, shall be void, and the creditor forever debarred from any process or benefit of the law for recovery of the same.

Debts contracted for strong drink forfeited.

Provided always,

[SECT. 5.] That this act shall not be construed to stay the process of any creditor of such soldier or sailor as aforesaid, after his dismissal from the said service, nor at all to stay any process or execution against a defective constable or collector, for any tax or taxes committed to him to collect.

Process not to be stayed after dismission from service, &c.

[SECT. 6.] This act to be in force for the space of two years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 28; published July 1.

Limitation.

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF EIGHTY-TWO THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR CARRYING ON THE EXPEDITION PROPOSED AGAINST CANADA, AND FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£82,000 bills of credit to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands and received in for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments equal to other new-tenor bills emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty, or if there shall not be a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee to be appointed by this court for signing bills are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be to imprint so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of eighty-two thousand pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury in manner and for the purposes following; viz., the sum of five thousand seven hundred and ninety pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of wages that now are or that hereafter may be due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Frederick Fort, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-house, Saco Truck-house, Brunswick Fort, and the sloop in the country's service; and the sum of sixteen thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied for putting the province into a better posture of defence, for compleatting the repairs at Castle William and other forts, for paying such officers and soldiers as have done service for the province whose wages are now due; which officers and soldiers shall be paid out of this appropriation preferable to any other service, and for such officers and soldiers as are or may be in the province service according to the several establishments for that purpose, for purchasing all needful warlike stores, and for the commissary's necessary disbursements for the service of the several forts and garrisons and other forts within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the sum of twelve thousand £12,000 for payment of his majesty's council, &c.

£16,000 for putting the province into a better posture of defence, &c.

pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of his majesty's council and such other grants as are or shall be made by this court, and for the payment of stipends, bounties and præmiums established by law, and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have or shall, either by law or orders, provide for the payment of out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever; and the sum of twelve hundred and ten pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons that have served or shall serve them by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned for such service, and for paper, printing and writing for this court, the surgeon of Castle William, and wooding of the said castle; and the sum of twenty-five thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied to pay the bounty and procure blankets and beds given by this court to encourage men to enlist into his majesty's service for the intended expedition against Canada; and the sum of twenty thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied towards defreying the charge of the late expedition against his majesty's enemies at Cape Breton; and the remaining sum of two thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighty-two thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the house of representatives, serving in the general court during their several sessions this present year.

£1,210 for debts where there is no establishment.

£25,000 for the charges of the intended expedition against Canada.

£20,000 for the late expedition against Cape Breton.

£2,000 for the pay of the representatives

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall lie in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherways pay, and to keep exact and distinct accounts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts, after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of eighty-two thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of twenty thousand pounds, to be levyed on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£20,000 in 1757.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of eighty-two thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of twenty thousand pounds, to be levyed on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£20,000 in 1758.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of eighty-two thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of twenty thousand pounds, to be levyed on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£20,000 in 1759.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of eighty-two thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£20,000 in 1760.

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of twenty thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

Tax to be made for what is paid the representatives.

[SECT. 8.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their several representatives shall so receive, which sums shall be set on the towns in the next province tax; and the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rules that shall be prescribed by the act of the general court for assessing the next province tax, and the constables in their respective districts shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall lie in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 9.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and sixty, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be, in those years, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case, each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowred and directed, some time in the month of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and sixty, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the assessors or selectmen of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 10.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, of sterling alloy, or in gold coin proportionably ; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prizes as the general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and sixty shall set them at ; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury ; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their session in May, some time before the twentieth day of June in each year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the councillors is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowred to do it ; and in their settling the prizes and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in each year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities and the several prizes or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

[SECT. 11.] And the aforesaid commodities, so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessors of said bills in exchange for them ; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or less sum ; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of eighty-two thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted ; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed June 10 ; published July 1.]

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT RELATING TO VIEWS BY A JURY, IN CIVIL ACTIONS.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Courts may allow jurors to have the view of messages, lands, &c., in question, and to be tried.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, in all actions brought in any of his majesty's courts of record, within this province, where it shall appear to the court in which such actions are depending, that it will be proper and necessary that the jurors who are to try the issues in any such actions should have the view of the messages, lands or place in question, in order to their better understanding the evidence that will be given upon the trial of such issues; in every such case, the respective courts in which such actions shall be depending may order the jury to the place in question, who, then and there, shall have the matters in question shewn them by two persons to be appointed by the court, and the special cost of all such views as allowed by the court shall, before the trial, be paid by the party who moved for the view (the adverse party not consenting thereto), and shall, at the taxation of the bill of cost, have the same allowed him upon his recovering judgment on such trial; and upon all views, with the consent of parties, ordered by the court, the costs thereof as allowed by the court, shall, before trial, be equally paid by the said parties; and in the taxation of the bill of costs, the party recovering judgment shall have the sum by him paid allowed to him; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

By whom cost of view is to be paid.

Limitation.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and to the end of the session of the general court next after, and no longer. [Passed June 28; published July 1.]

CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT FOR HOLDING A COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER, IN AND FOR THE ISLAND OF NANTUCKET.

Preamble.

WHEREAS one Jeremy Jude, an Indian man, now stands committed to his majesty's goal in the island of Nantucket, charged with the murder of Simon Aaron, an Indian man, who ought, as the law now stands, to be tried by a special court of assize and general goal delivery, but forasmuch as the judges of the said court of assize and general goal delivery cannot attend that service, the summer months being taken up with the several superiour courts of judicature, courts of assize and general goal delivery, as they are now established, beside the great charge and trouble of the judges repairing thither, and a court of oyer and terminer have and can exercise the same jurisdiction and authority in all capital offences,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Trial of Jeremy Jude, &c., by five commissioners.

For the reasons above mentioned, and that speedy justice may be done, that the inquiry, hearing and trial of the said Jeremy Jude for the murder of the said Simon Aaron, and any other capital offences upon the said island of Nantucket already committed, may, with all convenient speed, be had at Nantucket aforesaid, by five special commissioners of oyer and terminer, to be appointed by his excellency the governour, with the advice and consent of the council, three of whom to be a quorum; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed June 28; published July 1.]

WHEREAS by the indiscreet firing of guns laden with shot[t] and ball within the town and harbour of Boston, the lives and limbs of many persons have been lost, and others have been in great danger, as well as other damage has been sustained; for the prevention thereof for the future,—

Preamble.
1713-14, chap. 6.

* The bill was passed to be enacted, by both branches, August 12, but was signed by the Governor as above, and was printed with the acts of this session.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Penalty for firing off loaded cannon.

[SECT. 1.] That no person or persons, from and after the publication of this act, shall presume to discharge or fire off any cannon laden with shot[t], from any wharf[f]e or vessel in that part of the harbour of said town which is above the castle, on pain of forfeiting the sum of fifteen pounds for each gun so fired or discharged; one moiety of said penalty to be to and for the use of the poor of said town of Boston, and the other moiety to him or them who shall inform, complain and sue for the same, to be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information, before any of his majesty's courts of record within the county of Suffolk; and upon refusal thereof, such person shall suffer three months' imprisonment[en]t without bail or mainprize.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for discharging guns or pistols loaded with shot or ball.

[SECT. 2.] That no person shall, from and after the publication of this act, discharge any gun or pistol, charged with shot[t] or ball, in the town of Boston (the islands thereto belonging excepted), or in any part of the harbour between the castle and said town, on pain of forfeiting forty shillings [for] each gun or pistol so fired or discharged, to be recovered before one or more of his majesty's justices of the peace for the county of Suffolk, and disposed of in manner as aforesaid; or shall suffer ten days' imprisonment. And for the more effectual conviction of any person or persons so offending, it shall be lawful for any person to seize and take into custody any gun so fired off, and deliver the same to one of the next justices of the peace in said town of Boston, in order to its being produced at time of trial.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 3.] That this law shall not be so construed or understood as to prevent soldiers, in their common-training days, with the leave and by order of the commission officers of the company to which they belong, or other persons, at other times, with the leave of one or more of the field-officers of the regiment in Boston, from firing at a mark or target[t], for the exercise of their skill and judgment, provided it be done at the lower end of the common; nor from firing at a mark, from the several batteries in the town of Boston, with the leave of the captain-general, and nowhere else.

Limitation.

[SECT. 4.] This law to continue and be in force for the space of three years, and no longer. [Passed and published September 13.]

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL ACTS FOR THE BETTER REGULATING THE INDIANS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the several laws already in force are insufficient for the well regulating of the Indian natives of this province in their several plantations,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and House of Representatives,

Three proper persons to be appointed as guardians to the Indians in their respective plantations.

[SECT. 1.] That there be three proper persons appointed, for the future, by this court, near to every Indian plantation in this province, guardians to the said Indians in their respective plantations, who are hereby empowered to take into their hands the said Indians' lands, and allot to the several Indians of the several plantations such parts of the said lands and meadows as shall be sufficient for their particular improvement, from time to time, during the continuance of this act; and the remainder, if any there be, shall be let out by the guardians of the said respective plantations to suitable persons for a term not exceeding the continuance of this act; and such part of the income thereof as is necessary shall be applied for the support of such of the proprietors, in their respective plantations, as may be sick or unable to support themselves, and the surplusage thereof, if any there be, shall be distributed amongst them, according to their respective rights or interest, for providing necessaries for themselves and families and for the payment of their just debts, at the discretion of their said guardians; and that the respective guardians aforesaid be hereby impowered and enabled, in their own names and in their capacities as guardians, to bring forward and maintain any action or actions for any trespass or trespasses that may be committed on the said Indian land, and that any liberty, or pretended liberty, obtained from any Indian or Indians, for cutting off any timber, wood, hay, milking pine-trees, carrying off any o[a]r[e], or planting of, or improving, said lands, shall not be any bar to said guardians in their said action or actions: provided that nothing in this act shall be understood to bar any person or persons from letting creatures run upon the said Indians' unimprov'd lands that lye common and contiguous to other towns or proprietors. Proviso.

And it is also further provided,

[SECT. 2.] That nothing in this act shall be understood to bar any Indian or Indians from selling their lands, where there is any former patent or court grant for the same. Further proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That no action shall be brought against any of the said Indians for any debt hereafter to be by them contracted with any English persons, for any sum exceeding ten shillings, except the same be first examined and allowed by the court of general sessions of the peace for the county where such Indian or Indians live, or the respective guardians of such plantations where such Indian or Indians live, except specialties, approbated according to the law of this province made in the fourth and fifth year of the reign of his majesty King George the First, intitled "An Act in addition to the act for preventing abuses to the Indians, made in the twelfth year of King William." No action to be brought against any Indian for more than ten shillings, except.
1718-19, chap. 9.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the several guardians aforesaid shall keep a fair account of their proceedings in the abovesaid affair, to be by them laid before the general court from year to year, by said court to be adjusted and allowed of. Guardians to keep a fair account, &c.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of seven years from the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed and published September 13.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE GREAT INJURY AND INJUSTICE ARISING TO THE INHABITANTS OF THIS PROVINCE BY THE FREQUENT AND VERY LARGE EMISSIONS OF BILLS OF PUBLICK CREDIT IN THE GOVERNMENT OF RHODE ISLAND.

WHEREAS the bills of this and the neighbouring governments are, and have been, the principal medium of trade and commerce in this province, and some of those governments, more especially that of Rhode Island, have frequently made extravagant emissions of their bills, Preamble.
1743-44, chap. 13.

which by as frequent experience have been found a great means of depreciating all the bills of publick credit current among us, whereby great injustice hath been introduced; and, should the same practice be continued, it would be greatly injurious to the inhabitants of this province, and ruinous to many,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

Penalty for paying or receiving bills of Rhode Island government, issued since 1742, or hereafter emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That no person or persons whosoever shall, within this province, wittingly and wilfully utter, offer to put off, take or receive any bill or bills of credit of the colony of Rhode Island, emitted since the year one thous[an]d seven hundred and forty-two, or that shall hereafter be emitted, in payment of any debt, for purchase of any goods, or for any valuable consideration whatsoever, on pain of forfeiting, for each bill so uttered, offered or receiv[e]d, the sum of three pounds, and of being ever after disabled from bearing any office of honour or proff[it] under this governm[en]t.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for officers passing or receiving such bills.

[SECT. 2.] That any person in this governm[en]t, bearing any office or offices of profit or honour, that shall be convicted of having wilfully and wittingly uttered, offered to put off, taken or received any such bill or bills, in payment of any debt, or for purchase of any goods, or for any valuable consideration whatsoever, shall for such offence be, ipso facto, discharged from such his office or offices, and shall be thereby utterly disabled to have or hold any office of proff[it] or honour within this province, and shall likewise forfeit for each such bill by him utter[e]d, offer[e]d or receiv[e]d, the sum of ten pounds.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty to innholders, &c., for such offence.

[SECT. 3.] That any in[n]holder, retailer or common victualer, who, after the publication of this act, shall wittingly and wilfully utter, offer to put off, take or receive any such bill or bills, in paym[en]t of any debt, or for purchase of any goods, or for any victuals or liquors bought or sold, or to be bought or sold, or for any entertainm[en]t given or to be given, or for any other valuable consideration whatsoever, such in[n]-holder, retailer or common victualer, beside his being liable to the fine first before ment[i]one[d], shall forfeit his licen[s]e, and be disabled from holding or using any such employm[en]t for the future.

And be it further enacted,

Bonds and mortgages for such bills, to be void.

[SECT. 4.] That every mortgage, bill, bond, instrument of insurance, or other instrument in writing whatsoever, that shall hereafter be executed, for the consideration whereof, in whole or in part, such bills shall be received or paid, and legal proof hereof be made, such mortgage, bill, bond, assurance or instrument in writing, whatsoever, shall be deemed a fraudulent bargain, and utterly void in law.

And be it further enacted,

Witnesses to be indemnified, &c.

[SECT. 5.] That any person that shall receive or pay any such bill or bills, and shall first inform against and prosecute the other party concerned with him or her therein, so that he or she be convicted of receiving or paying such bill or bills, for any valuable consideration whatever, such prosecutor shall be indemnified from the penalty in this act, and shall likewise be intitled to one-half the forfeiture aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty to merchants and traders.

[SECT. 6.] That every merchant, shopkeeper or trader shall be answerable for every offence against this act committed either by him or herself, or any of his or her household or family that are under his or her im[m]ediate care or government, and be obliged to satisfy and pay the sum of ten pounds for every such offence, unless such merchant, shopkeeper or trader shall make oath, boná fide, that such offence was committed without his or her privity, countenance or connivance.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That any justice of the peace shall have power, and is hereby authorized, upon information or complaint to him made of any breach of this act, to convene before him the person or persons so complained of, and to grant summons for witnesses to appear before him to be examined upon oath as to their knowledge touching the fact or facts refer[r]ed to in such complaint, and upon just ground to bind over the person or persons complained of or informed against, and to require sufficient security for his or her appearance at the next court of general sessions of the peace in the county where the offence is alledged to be committed, to answer such complaint; and any person refusing to give evidence at the trial of such as may be sued, presented, indicted or complained of for any violation of this act, shall be liable to the same penalty as the person presented or complained of is liable to in case he shall be convict, but shall not be subject to any dam[m]age by any discovery he might make by his oath, in case he should take it.

Justices to proceed against offenders by binding them over, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the courts of general sessions of the peace in the respective counties be, and they hereby are, directed and impowered, at their next term for sitting, and so from time to time, annually, during the continuance of this act, to appoint five meet persons in each town within their respective counties to inform against and prosecute the violators of this act (and in the town of Boston the number of persons to be appointed to that office and duty shall be fifteen), which officers shall have and enjoy the same benefit and advantage as other informers; and if any person so appointed shall refuse or neglect, after due notice given him for that purpose, to take his oath (to be administred to him by such court or a justice of the peace), and to serve in that office, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds.

Persons to be appointed to inform against the breach of this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That if any justice of the peace, grand juror or other officer shall wilfully and wittingly omit the performance of his duty in the execution of this act, such officer shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds.

Penalty of officers neglecting their duty.

[SECT. 10.] The several forfeitures afore mentioned to be applied, the one moiety thereof to the use of the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed, the other moiety to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same (and in case there be no informer that shall prosecute such offender, then the whole of the forfeiture shall be applied to the use first mentioned), and may be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record within the same county, or by presentment of the grand jury, who are hereby strictly enjoined to present all breaches of this act; and no essoign, privilege, protection or wager of law shall be allowed in any such suit or prosecution as aforesaid.

Forfeitures, how to be disposed of.

How to be recovered.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[SECT. 11.] That all suits or prosecutions for the breach of this act shall commence within twelve months from the time of committing the offence.

Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the justices of the respective courts of general sessions of the peace, within this province, shall cause this act to be publicly read at opening their courts, from time to time, and shall give in charge to the grand jury duly to enquire after, and make presentment of, all persons that shall presume to offend in violation of this act; and the selectmen of each town within this province are alike required to cause this act to be publicly read at their several town meetings in March, annually, during the continuance of this act.

This act to be publicly read in the courts, and grand jurors to be charged.

Limitation.

[SECT. 13.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years, and no longer. [Passed and published September 13.]

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF TEN THOUSAND POUNDS FOR THE EXPEDITION AGAINST CANADA, AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£10,000 in bills of credit to be emitted for the intended expedition to Canada.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to emit and issue forth the sum of ten thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands and received for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments equal to other new-tenor bills emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or, if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee already appointed for signing bills, are hereby directed and impowered to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint the said bills, or so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of ten thousand pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury for the necessary service of the intended expedition to Canada, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made for that purpose.

And be it further enacted,

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in the sum appropriated as aforesaid, such surplusage shall lie in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of ten thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£5,000 in 1747.

[SECT. 3.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of five thousand pounds, to be lev[y][e]d on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of ten thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

£5,000 in 1748.

[SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of five thousand pounds, to be lev[y][e]d on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 5.] That in case the general court shall not, at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the several sums, which by this act is engaged shall be, in each of those years, apportioned, assessed and lev[y][i]ed, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding ; and the province treasurer is hereby directed and fully empowered, some time in the month of June in each of those years, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sums before directed and engaged by this act to be assessed ; and that the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see cause, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one ; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably ; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the respective general assemblies of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, shall set[t] them at ; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury ; but if the aforesaid general assemblies shall not, at their respective sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest councill[e][o]r, for the time being, in each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully empowered and authorized to do it ; and in their set[t]ling the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the collectors of the taxes in those years, respectively, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

[SECT. 7.] And the aforesaid commodities, so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit afore mentioned, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them ; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or less sum ; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such d[i][e]f[f]iciency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of ten thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted, and for which a tax on polls and estates is in this act laid as a fund ; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed and published September 13.]

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D. 1746.

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR MAKING THE TOWN OF TAUNTON THE SHIRE OR COUNTY TOWN OF THE COUNTY OF BRISTOL, INSTEAD OF THE TOWN OF BRISTOL, AND FOR REMOVING THE BOOKS OF RECORDS, AND PAPERS, OF THE COUNTY OF BRISTOL, THAT ARE IN THE TOWN OF BRISTOL, TO THE SAID TOWN OF TAUNTON.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the thirteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, the town of Taunton shall be and hereby is made and established the county or shire town of the county of Bristol, instead of the town of Bristol, and that the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, and the court of general sessions of the peace, and inferiour court of common pleas, which by law were heretofore to be held and kept at the said town of Bristol for the said county, shall forever hereafter be held and kept at the said town of Taunton, within and for said county, on such days respectively, from time to time, as are now by law established for said county, and for the same respective ends and purposes, and with the same authority, respectively, as, heretofore, the said courts were held and kept in the town of Bristol; and all causes, suits and actions depending and to have been heard in the several courts in said town of Bristol, for said county, shall be heard and tr[y][i]ed at Taunton, by the said courts respectively, on the same days on which they should have been heard and tried at Bristol before the passing of this act.

Taunton made and established the shire town in the county of Bristol.

Courts to be hereafter kept at Taunton.

Actions depending to be heard and tried at Taunton.

[SECT. 2.] And all writs, whether original or of execution, informations, presentments, venires for jurymen, and all other writings and instruments that by law were returnable to the several courts or offices in Bristol, shall be and hereby are made returnable to the same courts and offices, respectively, in the town of Taunton.

Writs, &c., made returnable to Taunton.

[SECT. 3.] And all the records and papers of the court of general sessions of the peace, inferiour court of common pleas, court of probate of wills and for granting letters of administration, and of the register of deeds, now in the said town of Bristol, shall be forthwith delivered to George Leonard, Esq<sup>[1]</sup>, Mr. Thomas Foster and John Shephard, Esq<sup>[2]</sup>, or the major part of them, who shall cause them immediately to be conveyed to the said town of Taunton, and there safely deposited under the care of the same persons as heretofore, or others, as the said committee shall judge best, who shall serve in these offices with full power, and shall give the same obligations and be under the like penalties as they or others had or were under heretofore, until this court shall further order, or others shall be duly appointed in their stead.

Records, &c., to be delivered to a committee and conveyed to Taunton.

[SECT. 4.] And the said committee are also directed to demand and receive of the treasurer of said county, now living in the town of Bristol, all money, records and papers to said county belonging, which they are also directed to remove and deposit at Taunton, in the same manner as is before directed concerning the records and papers to the said courts belonging; and the several clerks, treasurer, register, and all other persons who are possessed of any records, books, papers, money or other things belonging to said county (such person or persons living now in said town of Bristol), are hereby impowered and required to deliver them forthwith to the said committee.

Sheriff directed to convey prisoners to Taunton.

[SECT. 5.] And the sheriff of the said county is hereby directed to cause all prisoners now in his majesty's goal in the county of Bristol, to be conveyed to said town of Taunton, and there put under safe custody, in some proper place to be kept for that purpose, 'till said county shall provide a proper goal in said town of Taunton, or 'till they shall be delivered by due course of law. [Passed November 13; published November 14.]

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 9.] That in case the general court shall not at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and sixty, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be in those years apportioned, assessed and lev[y][i]ed, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be lev[y][i]ed on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully empowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and sixty, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 10.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assess[e][']d, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tan[n]’d sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembl[y][ie]s of the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, and one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, and one thousand seven hundred and sixty, shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembl[y][ies] shall not, at their session in May, some time before the twentieth day of June in each year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their set[t]ling the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro rata. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in each year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

[SECT. 11.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is, to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro rata for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of twenty thousand two hundred pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be emitted; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TWENTY-FOURTH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D.
1746.

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT MORE EFFECTUALLY TO PREVENT PROFANE CURSING AND SWEARING.

Preamble.

FORASMUCH as the horrible, impious and execrable vices of profane cursing and swearing, so highly displeasing to Almighty God, and offensive to every Christian, are become so frequent and notorious, that unless speedily and effectually punished, they may justly provoke the divine vengeance to increase the many calamities this people now labour under. And whereas the laws now in being for punishing those crimes have not answered the good intentions for which they were designed,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Penalty for profane cursing or swearing.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the twentieth day of February, instant, if any person or persons that have arrived at discretion, in the judgment of the justice before whom the conviction may be, shall profanely curse or swear in the hearing of any justice of the peace, or, being charged therewith, shall confess such offence, or be otherwise convicted thereof on the oath of any sheriff, deputy-sheriff, coroner, constable, grand juror or tythingman, where such evidence shall be satisfactory to the justice that shall take cognizance of the offence, or on the oath of any one or more witness or witnesses, where the evidence shall be satisfactory as aforesaid, every person so offending, shall forfeit and pay, for the use of the poor of the town where such offence is committed, a sum not exceeding eight shillings, nor less than four, according to the aggravations of the offence and the quality and circumstances of the offender, in the judgment of the justice or court before whom the conviction is; and in case the same person or persons shall, after conviction, offend a second time, such offender or offenders shall forfeit and pay double, and if a third time, treble the sum forfeited on the first conviction, and the like sum on every conviction afterwards. And if, on any trial and conviction, proof shall be made that more than one profane oath or curse were uttered by the same person at the same time, and in the presence or hearing of the same witness or witnesses, the person so offending, for every profane oath or curse so uttered, after the first, shall forfeit and pay a sum not under one shilling, nor exceeding two shillings. And in case any person convicted of profane cursing or swearing, shall not immediately pay the sum or sums so forfeited, he shall be committed to the common goal or house of correction, there to remain not exceeding ten days, nor less than five days.

Provided always,—

And it is hereby enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That in case any common soldier in his majesty's service, or any common sailer or seamen belonging to any ship or vessel, shall be convicted of profane cursing or swearing as aforesaid, and shall not immediately pay down the penalty by him forfeited, such common soldier or seaman, instead of being committed as aforesaid, shall, by the said justice of the peace, be ordered to be publickly set in the stocks or cage, for the first offence not exceeding three hours, and for the second or any after offence, shall be publickly whipt, not exceeding twenty nor less than ten stripes. And if any Indian, negro or molatto slave, shall be convicted of profane swearing and cursing, and the fine is not immediately paid, such slave shall be publickly whipt by order of such justice, not exceeding twenty stripes, nor less than ten.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if any person or persons shall profanely swear or curse in the hearing of any sheriff, deputy-sheriff or constable, they and each of them are hereby authorized and required to apprehend and secure such offender or offenders, being unknown to them, and to require suitable aid therein, and him or them forthwith to carry before some justice of the peace for the same county, that so such offender or offenders may be convicted and punished for the said offence. And in case any person profanely swearing or cursing in the hearing of any sheriff, deputy-sheriff, coroner, constable, grand juror or tythingman, shall be known to any or either of them, such sheriff, under-sheriff, coroner, constable, grand juror or tythingman, shall and is hereby required forthwith to give information thereof to some justice of the peace of the same county, in order that the offender or offenders may be convicted and punished for the same in manner and form as in and by this act is directed.

Sheriff, &c., to apprehend and secure offenders against this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That every justice of the peace before whom any person or persons shall be convicted of profane cursing or swearing, shall cause the conviction to be drawn up in the form following:—

Suffolk ss. BE IT REMEMBERED, that on the _____ day of _____, in the _____ year of his majesty's reign, A. B. was convicted before me, one of his majesty's justices of the peace for the county of _____, of swearing one [or more] profane oath [or oaths], or of uttering one [or more] profane curse or curses [as the case shall be]. Given under my hand and seal the day and year aforesaid.

in Form of conviction.

—which said form and conviction shall be deemed and taken to be final to all intents and purposes, saving as herein after is expressed; and the said justice before whom such conviction shall be, shall cause the same to be fairly wrote over, and returned to the then next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where the offence is committed, there to be read in open court, and to be filed by the clerk of the peace, and remain and be kept amongst the records of said court.

Saving always,—

And it is hereby provided and enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That when any person shall be convicted before a justice of the peace of profane cursing or swearing, if the defendant shall confess the words alledged to have been uttered, and shall plead specially that the words spoken do not amount to or import a profane oath or curse within the meaning and intention of this act, in such case it shall and may be lawful for such defendant to appeal from the sentence of the justice before whom he was convicted, to the justices of the same county in their then next general sessions of the peace, who shall hear and finally determine the same, the appellant claiming his appeal at the time of declaring the said sentence, and recognizing with sureties in a reasonable sum, not exceeding five pounds, to prosecute his appeal with effect, and to perform the order of the said court thereon.

Saving.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for justices' neglecting their duty.

[SECT. 6.] That if any justice of the peace, upon due information and complaint made against any person or persons for profane cursing or swearing, shall wittingly and wilfully omit the performance of his duty in the execution of this act, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds; one moiety thereof to the informer that shall sue for the same, and the other moiety to the use of the poor of the town where he resides, to be recovered by action or information in any of his majesty's courts of record within the respective counties where such offence is committed; and no essoin, protection or wager of law shall be allowed, or more than one imparlance.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for constables, &c., omitting their duty.

[SECT. 7.] That if any constable, grand juror, tythingman, or other officer enjoined by this act to inform against the violaters of it, shall wittingly and willingly omit the performance of his duty in the execution of this act, and be thereof duly convicted before any justice of the peace for the county where such offence is committed, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings, to be levied and recovered by distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels by virtue of a warrant, under the hand and seal of such justice, to be disposed of, one moiety thereof to the informer, the other moiety to the use of the poor of the town where the offence is committed; and in case such offender shall not have sufficient goods and chattels whereon to levy the said penalty, it shall and may be lawful for such justice of the peace to commit the offender to goal for the space of six days, there to remain without bail or mainprize.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for such who shall neglect to give aid, &c.

[SECT. 8.] That if any person being required to give aid to any sheriff, deputy-sheriff or constable, as by this act is provided, shall neglect or refuse the same, and be thereof convict before any justice of the peace, by the oath of any such sheriff, deputy-sheriff or constable, or other legal witness or witnesses to the satisfaction of such justice, such person so refusing shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings; the one-half to the informer, and the other half to the poor of the town where the offence is committed; and every person giving aid, as before is provided in this act, shall receive the same allowance therefor as is by law made to witnesses in civil causes.

Provided always,—

And it is hereby enacted,

Proviso.

[SECT. 9.] That no person shall be prosecuted or troubled for any offence against this law, unless the same be proved or prosecuted within twenty days next after the offence is committed.

And, that no person may plead ignorance of this law, but that it may be generally known,—

Be it further enacted,

This act recommended to be read, &c.

[SECT. 10.] That immediately after the publication of it from the court-house in Boston, a printed copy of this act shall be transmitted to every minister within the government, to whom it is hereby recommended to read, or cause the same to be publickly read, before their several congregations immediately on his receiving the same; and also on the Lord's Day next succeeding the choice of town officers, yearly during the continuance of this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the justices of the court of assize and general goal delivery, and the justices of the peace for the several counties within this province at their general sessions, shall cause this act to be publickly read at the opening of their respective courts from time to time. This act to be read at the opening of the courts.

[SECT. 12.] This act to continue and be in force for the term of three years from the publication thereof, and to the end of the then next session of the general court, and no longer. Limitation. [Passed February 10; published February 13, 1746-47.]

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE PROPRIETORS OF PRIVATE WAYS TO REPAIR THEM IN AN EQUAL MANNER.

WHEREAS there are many private ways in this province which are seldom used but by the purchasers or proprietors of them, or the owners of the lands to which such ways lead, and are therefore not repaired by the towns in which they respectively lie; nor have the proprietors or rightful occupants of such ways any power by the laws of this province to compel their being repaired by or among themselves; to prevent, therefore, the inconvenienc[i]es which do or may thence arise,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any number of the proprietors and rightful occupants of any private way, where there are more than four of them, shall judge a proprietors' meeting necessary, three of them applying to a justice of the peace in the county where said way lies, such justice is hereby impowered to grant a warrant for calling the same, or otherwise one-fourth part of the said proprietors may of themselves call such meeting; in either case to be done by warrant under the hand of said justice or fourth part respectively, posted up in some publick place or places in the town or towns where such way is, seven days before the time appointed for such meeting, signifying the time, place, and business thereof; and the major part of the proprietors and rightful occupants so assembled shall have full power to agree on any other way of calling future meetings, to choose a clerk and a surveyor, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their respective trusts as town officers are; and such surveyor shall have the same power with respect to such ways as the surveyors of highways are by law invested with, and shall be governed by the same rules as are prescribed by law for their direction; each proprietor's and occupant's proportion of labour to be determined by a major vote of those present at such meeting. And in case of the default of any proprietor or occupant in attending said work by himself or other sufficient person in his stead, to be subject to the same fines and penalties as in case of highways, and be recovered in the same manner, and applied to the same uses. Preamble.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from and after the publication thereof, and no longer. Major part may agree for calling future meetings. Penalty for not attending. Limitation. [Passed February 13; published March 2, 1746-47.]

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING THE SUM OF NINETEEN HUNDRED POUNDS FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNOUR.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,
That the sum of nineteen hundred pounds in bills of credit of the last emission, be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, to be paid out of the publick treasury unto his excellency William Shirley, Esq<sup>[t]</sup>., captain-general and governour-in-chief in and over his majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay, for his past services, and further to enable him to manage the publick affairs of the province. [Passed January 29 ; published March 2, 1746-47.]

CHAPTER 20.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF EIGHT THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, FOR DEFREYING THE CHARGE OF THE LATE INTENDED EXPEDITION AGAINST CANADA, AND FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c<sup>[t]</sup>., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

£3,200 to be emitted.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,
[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to issue forth the sum of eight thousand two hundred pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands, and received in for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass, in all publick payments, equal to other new-tenor bills issued since one thousand seven hundred and forty, or, if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills are hereby directed and impow[er]ed to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful[ly] performance of the trust by this act reposed in them. And the said sum of eight thousand two hundred pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury for the purposes and in manner following; viz<sup>[t]</sup>., the sum of five thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eight thousand and two hundred pounds, shall be appl[y]ed for discharging what is due for putting the province into a better state of defence, for paying off such officers and soldiers as are or may be in the province service, according to the several establishments for that purpose, for purchasing needful[ly] warlike stores for the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the sum of three thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eight thousand two hundred pounds, shall be appl[y]ed for defreying the charge of the late intended expedition against Canada.

And whereas there are sometimes publick entertainments, and, from time to time, contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

£200 for entertainments, &c.

[SECT. 2.] That the sum of two hundred pounds, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of eight thousand two hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed to defrey and pay such entertainments and contingent charges, and for no other use whatsoever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the drafts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriation as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of eight thousand two hundred pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of eight thousand two hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£8,200 in 1747.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That in case the general court shall not at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be in that year apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully empowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

Tax for the money hereby emitted to be made according to the preceeding tax act, in case.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit[t], to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, [pork], beef, [pork], duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas[e], sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, shall set[t] them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities before mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their session in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, in said year, agree upon and set[t] the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest coun[cil][e][ll][e][o]r, for the time being, in each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their set[t]ling the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of [the] taxes in said year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

[SECT. 8.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasur[er][y] to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or less sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of eight thousand two hundred pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be issued; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed January 29; published March 2, 1746-47.]

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT TO REVIVE AND AMEND AN ACT MADE IN THE EIGHTEENTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR LEVYING SOLDIERS."

Preamble.
1744-45, chap. 2.

WHEREAS an act made in the eighteenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for levying soldiers," which was to continue in force from the publication thereof to the end of the session of the general court in May, 1746, is near expiring,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

All matters and things in the former law for levying soldiers revived, saving.

[SECT. 1.] That the said act, and all the matters and things therein contained, shall be and are [herein and] hereby enacted, declared and appointed to be and continue in full force, power and virtue until[1] the first day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and from thence to the end of the session of the general court then next after: provided the war with the French king, his allies and vassals, shall continue so long; save in such particulars as by this present act is or are hereinafter altered or amended.

And whereas in and by a clause in the aforesaid act, it is enacted and declared, “That every person liable and fit for service, being orderly impressed as aforesaid for his majesty’s service, by being commanded, in his majesty’s name, to attend said service, shall, by himself or other meet person in his room, to the acceptance of his captain or chief officer, attend the same at time and place appointed, compleat with arms and ammunition, if such he have, or is able to purchase the same, on pain of suffering six months’ imprisonment without bail or mainprize, or * be committed by mittimus from any justice of the peace, or chief officer of the company or troop, where no justice of the peace lives in the town, upon conviction, before one of his majesty’s justices of the peace, of such neglect, unless such person, within the space of twenty-four hours next after being impressed, shall either procure some meet person, or, in default thereof, pay to his captain or chief officer, by whose warrant he shall be impressed, the sum of ten pounds, to be employed for the procuring and fitting out of a suitable person in the stead of him so paying the said sum, for the service for which he was impressed, if such other suitable person be timely to be had, otherwise to be paid to the selectmen of the town to which such impressed person belongs, for and towards procuring of arms for such person[s] as are unable to purchase the same for themselves, and for which such indigent soldiers shall be answerable,”—

Clause in the former act recited and enacted.

1744-45, chap. 2, § 7.

Be it enacted and declared,

[SECT. 2.] That the aforesaid clause be and hereby is so far altered and amended, as that the said penalty of imprisonment shall be for the term of twelve months; and all sums that shall be paid, by any person impressed, to the chief officer of any companies, and which shall not be employed for procuring and fitting out a suitable person in the stead of him so paying, shall, by such officer, be paid into the town treasury sometime before the annual meeting of such town in March in each and every year, for the use of such town; and such officer shall give in to the treasurer of said town an attested account of the sums by him received and paid; and upon such officer’s neglecting to render such account and pay such sum as shall be due, the said town treasurer is hereby empowered to demand and sue therefor accordingly; anything in the said recited act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And whereas in and by another clause in the aforesaid act it is provided, “That all persons lawfully empowered to impress, may pursue any person that absconds from the impress, or makes his escape, and may impress such person in any place within the province; and if any person impressed as aforesaid for his majesty’s service, being so duly returned, shall remove or go out of the province, and not attend the service as required, such person, at his return, shall be apprehended by warrant from any justice of the peace,† and upon due conviction of the said offence by the oath of him that impressed him, shall suffer six months’ imprisonment, or pay a fine of fifteen pounds,”—

Clause in the former act recited and enacted.

1744-45, chap. 2, § 9.

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That during the continuance of this act, the said penalty of imprisonment shall be for and during the term of twelve months, and the said fine shall be twenty pounds; anything in the said recited clause to the contrary notwithstanding.

* “to,” in the former act, omitted here.

† “and be by him committed to prison unless such person give sufficient security to answer it at the next court of general sessions of the peace” omitted here.

Clause in the former act recited and enacted.

1744-45, chap. 2, § 13.

And whereas in and by another clause in said act it is provided and declared, “That every person who hath or shall impress any soldiers for his majesty’s service, shall transmit a list of them to the chief officer of the regiment or troop[s], particularly mentioning servants, if any such there be, and to whom they belong, that so their masters may receive their wages, who are hereby impowered so to do,”—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That in any and every such list there shall likewise be particularly mentioned all such as are sons under age, that so their parents may receive such wages as may be due for their service. [*Passed February 13 ; published March 2, 1746-47.**]

WHEREAS an act was made and pass’d in the ninth and tenth year of his present majesty’s reign, intituled “An Act to enable the overseers of the poor, and selectmen, to take care of idle and disorderly persons”; and another act was made and pass’d in the fourteenth year of his said majesty’s reign, intituled “An Act to prevent dam[m]age being done to the harbour of Cape Cod by cattle and horse-kind feeding on Provincetown lands”; in addition whereto, and for rendring the said act more effectual, there were two other acts pass’d, one in the seventeenth and the other in the eighteenth year of his said majesty’s reign; and another act was made and pass’d in the sixteenth year of his said majesty’s reign, intituled “An Act in further addition to and explanation of an act for regulating townships, choice of town officers, &c.”; and another act was made and passed in the same year, intituled “An Act to prevent dam[m]age being done to Billingsgate Bay, in the town of Eastham, by cattle, horse-kind, and sheep feeding on the beach and islands adjoining thereto”; and another act was made and pass’d in the seventeenth year of his said majesty’s reign, intituled “An Act to prevent the destruction of white-pine trees within this province, and to encourage the preservation of the same for the use of the royal navy”; and another act was made and pass’d in the same year, intituled “An Act to regulate the expence of private bridges”: which laws are expired or near expiring; and whereas the aforesaid laws have by experience been found beneficial and necessary for the several purposes for which they were pass’d,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

The foregoing laws revived enacted.

That all and every of the aforesaid acts, and every matter and clause therein contained, be, and hereby are, revived, and shall continue and remain in force until[1] the last day of January, whi[1l][ch] will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, and to the end of the session of the general court then next after. [Passed February 5 ; published March 2, 1746-47.]

* The bill was passed to be enacted, by both branches, September 5, but was signed by the Governor as above, and was printed with the acts of this session.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT FOR REVIVING AND CONTINUING A LAW OF THIS PROVINCE, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR PUNISHING OF OFFICERS OR SOLDIERS WHO SHALL MUTINY OR DESERT HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE."

WHEREAS an act was made and pass'd in the eighteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act for punishing of officers or soldiers who shall mutiny or desert his majesty's service," which law hath been found beneficial, and is judged necessary, but is now expired,—

Preamble.
1744-45, chap. 11.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the said act, and every matter and clause therein contained, be and hereby is revived, and shall continue and remain in full force for the space of three years from the publication hereof, in case the war with France continue so long, or otherwise to the end of the said war, and no longer. [Passed February 10 ; published March 2, 1746-47.]

Act against mutiny and desertion

CHAPTER 25.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS, IN BILLS OF CREDIT, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, AND FOR DRAWING THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£20,000 bills
of credit, to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to issue forth the sum of twenty thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands and received in for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick and private payments equal to other new-tenor bills issued since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or, if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills, are hereby directed and impow[er]ed to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful[ly] performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of twenty thousand pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury for the purposes and in manner following; viz<sup>t</sup>., the sum of twelve thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for discharging such debts as are or may be due for putting the province into a better posture of defence, compleating the repairs at Castle William and other fortifications, and for paying the officers and soldiers employ[er]d for the defence of the province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court; and the sum of one thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be apply[er]d for the discharge of debts owing from this province to persons that have served or shall serve them by order of this court, in such matters and things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned for such services; and the sum of three thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for defr[er] [a]ying the charge of the late intended expedition against Canada; and the sum of three thousand five hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of grants made or to be made by this court, and any other matters and things which this court have or shall by law or order provide for the payment of out of the publick treasury, and for no other service whatsoever; and the sum of five hundred pounds, the remainder of the said sum of twenty thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the members of the house of representatives, during the present year.

And be it further enacted,

Surplusage to
lie in the treasury.

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y] [i]e in the treasury for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Warrants to express the
appropriations.

[SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the drafts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of nine thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after. £9,750 in 1747.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of twenty thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of nine thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after. £9,750 in 1748.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their several representatives shall receive; which sums shall be set on the towns in the next province tax, and the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rules that shall be prescribed by the act of the general court for assessing the next province tax; and the constables in their respective districts shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l[y][i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court. Tax for the sum paid the representatives.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which, by this act, is engaged shall be in those years apportioned, assessed, and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, to issue and send forth his warrant, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceeding tax act, in case.

polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 8.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or carvis, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembl[ie][y]s of the years one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities before mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembl[ies][y] shall not, at their sessions in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, in each year, agree upon and set[t] the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the councillors is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who hereby are directed and fully authorized and impowered to do it; and in their set[t]ling the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in each year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, and the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

* This date is according to the record, but the date of signing, according to the engrossment, is April 8.

CHAPTER 26.

AN ACT FOR THE BETTER REGULATING SWINE.

*Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent-
[ati]ves,*

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no swine shall be suffered to go at large, or be out of the inclosure of the owner thereof, under the penalty of one shilling for each swine, for the first offence, and two shillings for each offence after the first, together with costs of prosecution, to be forfeited and paid by the owner of such swine found going at large, as aforesaid; which fine or forfeiture, together with the charge of prosecution, may be recovered by the proper hogreeves or any other person, by bill, plaint or information, before any one of his majesty's justices of the peace in such county where such forfeiture shall arise, or by impounding such swine, and proceeding with them as the law hath directed in case of impounding.

Swine not to go at large, on penalty. 1736-37, chap. 22.

And whereas it may so happen that the owner of such swine as go at large may not be known,—

[SECT. 2.] In such case the party that finds any swine going at large shall have power to impound them; and if no owner appear within forty-eight hours, or appearing, do neglect or refuse to pay the forfeiture, together with the charges, that then the party impounding them shall cause them to be cried or posted up in the town where they are impounded, and in the [two] towns next adjoining; and shall likewise cause the marks of the swine to be entred with the town clerk, and shall rel[ei][ie]ve such swine with necessary food during the time they are in pound; and if no owner appear, and pay the said penalty and charges, within ten days after such impounding, then such swine shall be sold at an outcry to the highest bidder, by two suitable persons, to be appointed and sworn to the faithful discharge of their trust by the next justice of the peace, or town clerk where no justice dwells; which sellers shall give publick notice of the time and place of such sale twenty-four hours before hand; and out of the proceeds of such sale shall pay unto the party the said forfeiture and costs, as by bill allowed by said justice or town clerk, and the surplusage thereof he shall deliver to the treasurer of such town, to be kept for the unknown owner; and if no owner do appear within the space of one year, then the town treasurer shall deliver the one half of the surplusage to the prosecutor, and the other half to the overseers of the poor, for the use of the poor of such town: provided, nevertheless, that it shall be in the power of any town, in a town meeting for that purpose appointed, from time to time, by a vote, to give liberty for swine going at large within the bounds of such town; and in such case it shall be lawful for any and every person or persons to suffer his or their swine to go at large, anything in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding: provided, always, that every person suffering his swine to go at large by virtue of such town vote, shall, before he suffer his swine to go at large, as aforesaid, cause each of them to be well and sufficiently ringed in the nose and yoked, and constantly kept so ringed and yoked; otherwise he shall be liable to, and shall pay, the forfeiture and cost, as is by this act before mentioned and provided; saving, that they may go unyoked from the last day of October to the first day of April.

Swine to be impounded and sold, if no owner appear.

Proviso.

Swine going at large to be yoked.

And to the intent all persons may know what a sufficient yoking doth mean,— the full depth of the swine's neck above the neck, and half so much below the neck, and the soal or bottom of the yoke three times as long as the breadth or thickness of the swine's neck.

And for the rendring this act more effectual,—

Be it further enacted,

Hog-reeves to be annually chosen.

[SECT. 4.] That every town within the province, at their annual meeting in March, for the choice of town officers, shall chuse two or more hogreeves, but not the same persons more than once in four years; and in case any town shall at any time hereafter neglect to ch[u][oo]se hogreeves at such meeting, that in every such case the selectmen of the town are impow[er]ed and [re][in]quired to appoint hogreeves, until [1] a suitable number do accept and are sworn, whose duty it shall be, upon complaints to them or either of them made, to take due care that this act be duly observed, and to prosecute the breakers thereof; which hogreeves shall be sworn to the faithful and impartial discharge of their office; and if any person so chosen or appointed shall refuse or neglect forthwith to be sworn as afores[ai]d, or neglect his duty in s[ai]d office, he shall forfeit and pay twenty shillings to the use of the poor of such town; and upon his refusal, another shall be forthwith appointed in his room by the selectmen, to be under the like penalty, and so 'till others will accept the s[ai]d office; w[hi]ch penalty shall be recovered by a prosecution before one of his majesty's justices of the peace in the county where such person dwells. And if, upon neglect of any town to chuse according as by this act they are required, the selectmen of such town shall fail of appointing hogreeves; as they are by this act directed, they shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds for such neglect; the one half to his majesty, for and towards the support of the governm[en]t, the other half to him or them that shall prosecute for such neglect in any of his maj[es]ty's courts of record within this province; and if it shall appear that any of the selectmen were ready and willing to do their duty required by this act, the penalty or forfeiture shall be laid on those only who shall be negligent of their duty by this act required.

Penalty for neglect or refusal.

Provided,

Limitation.

[SECT. 5.] That this act continue and be in force for the space of ten years from the publication thereof, and to the end of the then next sitting of the general court, and no longer. [Passed April 25; published April 27, 1747.]

CHAPTER 27.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMMAGE BEING DONE UNTO NOSSETT MEADOW, BY CATTLE AND HORSE-KIND FEEDING ON THE BEACH ADJOINING THERETO.

Preamble.

WHEREAS many persons frequently drive numbers of neat-cattle and horse-kind to feed upon the beach called Nossett Beach, adjoining to Nossett Meadow, in Eastham, whereby the ground is much broken, and the sand blown away, so that the said beach is in great danger of being totally broke away, and by that means the meadow adjoining will be greatly damnified, if not wholly lost,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Proprietors empowered to erect and maintain a fence.

[SECT. 1.] That the proprietors of the meadow and beach, called Nossett Beach and Meadow, are hereby impowered, at their own cost and charge, according to each one's interest, to erect and maintain a fence, such a one as they shall agree upon, from the enclosed land of Joseph Mayo to the southerly end of the land called the Table-land at the seaside, for the preservation of said beach and meadow.

And it is further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle or horse-kind upon said meadow or beach between the first of March and the last of November annually, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for all neat cattle and horse-kind that shall be turned or found feeding on said beach and meadow between the said first of March and last day of November aforesaid; which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or treasurer of the said town of Eastham, or any other person that shall inform and sue for the same, the one-half of the said forfeiture to him or them who shall inform and sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of said town.

Penalty for turning or driving cattle to feed on Nossett Meadow, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if any ne[c][a]t cattle or horse-kind shall, at any time hereafter, be found feeding on the said beach or meadow, between the first of March and last of November as aforesaid, that it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, and to proceed in every other respect agre[e]able to an act made in the sixteenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to prevent damage being done unto Billingsgate Bay, in the town of Eastham, by cattle and horse-kind and sheep feeding on the beach and islands adjoining thereto"; and also said town to proceed in the method mentioned in the aforesaid act in their choice of officers, to look after said Nossett Meadow and Beach.

Cattle found feeding contrary to this act, to be impounded, &c.

1742-43, chap. 11.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. Passed April 25; published April 27, 1747.

CHAPTER 28.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION OF THE MEADOW[S] CALLED SANDY-NECK MEADOW, IN BARNSTABLE, AND FOR THE BETTER PRESERVATION OF THE HARBOUR THERE.

WHEREAS there is a certain parcel[l] of salt meadow call[e]d Sandy-Neck Meadow, in the township of Barnstable, on which many of the inhabitants of that and other towns, greatly depend for their hay, and the said meadow lies adjoining to a sandy beach near six miles in length, on which no fence can be made to stand; and by reason of neat cattle and horses being turned thereon to feed, the beach grass is destroyed, and the said beach trod loose, by reason whereof in high winds and storms the sand blows upon said meadow, and into said harbour, and the whole of said meadows are in great danger of being covered with sand, and also said harbour in great danger of being spoiled, by the sand's blowing therein, if not timely prevented,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle or horse-kind, to or upon said Sandy Neck, any where to the eastward of Sandwich line, to feed thereon, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for all neat cattle and horse-kind that shall be turned or found feeding on s[ai]d neck or meadow adjoining, which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or treasurer of said town of Barnstable, or any other person that shall inform and sue for the same; the one half of the said forfeiture to him or them who shall inform and sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of the said town.

No person to turn or drive cattle, &c., on Sandy Neck, on penalty.

And be it further enacted,

Cattle, &c., found feeding contrary to this act, to be impounded, &c.

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle or horse-kind shall, at any time hereafter, be found feeding on the s[ai]d Sandy Neck and meadows adjoining east of Sandwich line as afores[ai]d, that it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, immediately giving notice to the owners, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof in the s[ai]d town of Barnstable, and the two next adjoining towns; and the impounder shall rel[ei][ie]ve the said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay the sum of two shillings and sixpence to the impounder for each neat-beast and horse-kind, and the reasonable cost of rel[ei][ie]ving them, besides the pound-keeper's fees; and if no owner appear within the space of six days to redeem the said cattle or horse-kind so impounded, and to pay the dam[m]ages and costs occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case, the person or persons impounding such cattle or horse-kind, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, to pay the costs and charges arising about the same, publick notice of the time and place of such sale to be given in s[ai]d town of Barnstable and in the town of Sandwich, forty-eight hours beforehand, and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner of such cattle or horse-kind, at any time within twelve months next after, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appear within said twelve months, then the overplus shall be one half to the party impounding, and the other half to the use of the poor of the s[ai]d town of Barnstable.

And be it further enacted,

Officers to be annually chosen.

[SECT. 3.] That the s[ai]d town of Barnstable, at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and impow[er]ed to ch[ui]se one or more meet person or persons, whose duty it shall be to see that this act be observed, and prosecute the breakers thereof; who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office: and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay ten shillings to the poor of s[ai]d town of Barnstable, and said town to proceed to ch[ui]se others in their room; and the said town of Barnstable, at a town meeting, warned for that purpose, may, at any time before March next, ch[ui]se such officers, who shall continue [untill] [to] their annual meeting in March next.

Penalty for refusing.

Limitation.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed April 25; published April 27, 1747.]

NOTES.—There were eight sittings of the General Court this year; but at the fourth and seventh no acts were passed. The May session was adjourned from June 28 to July 15; but this adjournment seems not to have been regarded as terminating the session, since chapter 8, which was passed July 25, was printed as the last act of the first session. The acts passed after July were printed under distinct captions; and the periods between the recesses of the Assembly are not distinguishable from other and regular sessions, except that, in each, the Assembly met after an adjournment, and not after a prorogation. According to the rule followed in this edition of the laws, these different periods of the Assembly's sitting are to be regarded as separate sessions.

The engrossments of all the acts of this year, except of the first seven chapters, are preserved; and all were printed with the session-acts, except chapter 1, which, being a tax-act, was printed separately.

The acts of the first three sessions were duly certified to the Privy Council, November 1, 1746. On the 27th of January they were referred to the Lords of Trade, and on the 18th of June, 1747, they were sent, by the latter, to Mr. Lamb, for his opinion thereon in point of law. This opinion was given in a report dated November 14, 1747, which is indorsed, "No objection. With observations on some." The report of the Lords of Trade is dated November 27, 1749, and sets forth that chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10, 11, 13, and 14 "were for a Temporary service and are either expired, or the purposes for which they were enacted have been completed"; that chapters 6 and 12 "relate to the Economy of the Province and are enacted for their private Convenience and We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them." Chapter 8 was included with chapter 7 of the acts of 1745—46, in a special report, which has been printed in the note to that chapter, ante.

In accordance with the recommendations of the Lords of Trade, an order in Council was passed 14 December, 1749, confirming chapters 6, 8, and 12.

The five acts of the last session were enclosed, with a letter from Secretary Willard, to Secretary Hill, November 1, 1748. The minutes of the Privy Council show that these acts were received January 5, 1748—49. They reached the Board of Trade by the 8th of the next month. There, an order was passed that they be sent to Mr. Lamb. No further trace of these acts has been discovered in the Public-Record Office, and, as late as 1753, the records of the Board of Trade contain a memorandum that chapters 27 and 28 had "not been laid before the Crown."

As to the acts of the intervening sessions, it may be inferred that they were received by the Lords of Trade, from the following statement of Secretary Willard, in his letter of November 1, 1748, transmitting the acts of the 8th session: "The Minutes of the Assembly and the Laws are a continuation of what were sent you home by His Majesty's ship the Mermaid in the Summer 1747 without any interruption, the General Court Book for that time being accidentally saved out of the fire when the Court House was burnt," &c.

Chap. 24. "February 14, 1746. The Secretary delivered the following Message from his Excellency to both Houses—Gentlemen of the Council & House of Represent<sup>ees</sup>

When I first entered upon the Administration of the Government I found the Province overwhelmed with Law suits occasioned principally by the cheapness of the Law the pernicious mischiefs of which to the whole Community I pointed out to the two Houses in my Speech of the 2<sup>d</sup> April 1742 to which I must refer you and thereupon induced them to pass an Act for stating the fees of the Courts of Judicature at double the value they were then of: which has had the Effect to reduce the number of Law Suits in the Province to considerably less than one half of what they amounted to before as you will perceive by the difference between the Entries in the Inferior Court of the County of Suffolk in the year 1740 & in the years 1745 & 1746 which will serve to shew you the decrease of them in the other Counties where I am informed the number of Actions is proportionably lessened. And I am sorry Gentlemen that the Province should so suddenly relapse into the same Evil with it's eyes open; as it will do if the Value of the fees of the Courts of Judicature is suffered to sink as low as it was in the year 1740 & 1741 which they are in a fair way of doing by the Depretiation of the bills of credit and perhaps lower by the end of three years—For these Reasons Gentlemen I think it would be wrong for me to consent to the Engros't Bill now lying before entitled an Act for reviving an Act for the establishing & regulating Fees within this Province, made & pass'd in the eighteenth year of his present Majesty's Reign; and hope you will agree with me that this matter deserves your farther consideration at your next Meeting—There are also some other things in the last Law for stating the fees which will require an Amendment and which I shall point out to you at your next Session."—Ibid., p. 76.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY OF MAY, A. D. 1747.

CHAPTER 1.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF THIRTY-NINE THOUSAND ONE HUNDRED AND THREE POUNDS THIRTEEN SHILLINGS AND SEVENPENCE; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A FURTHER TAX OF TWO THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT POUNDS ELEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT, AND TRAVEL; AMOUNTING IN THE WHOLE TO FORTY-ONE THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-TWO POUNDS FIVE SHILLINGS AND [A] [ONE] PENNY.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, did, at their session in February, one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, pass an act for levying a tax of twenty thousand [and] seven hundred pounds, in bills of credit by said act emitted, and, at their session in September,* one thousand seven hundred and forty-six, did pass an act for levying a tax of five thousand pounds, in bills of credit emitted by said act; and, at their session in March,† the same year, did pass an act for levying a tax of eight thousand two hundred pounds, in bills of credit emitted by said act; and, at their session in April, one thousand seven hundred and forty-seven, did pass an act for levying a tax of nine thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds, in bills of credit emitted by said act;—each of the several sums aforesaid to be assessed this present year,—amounting in the whole to the sum of forty-three thousand six hundred and fifty pounds; and by the aforesaid acts, provision was made that the general court might, this present year, apportion the same on the several towns in this province, if they thought fit: and the assembly aforesaid have likewise ordered the sum of two thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight pounds eleven shillings and sixpence, paid the representatives the last year, should be levied and assessed, this present year, on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives have respectively received; wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectual drawing the sum of forty-six thousand five hundred and twenty-eight pounds eleven shillings and sixpence, pursuant to the funds and grants aforesaid, into the treasury, according to the apportion now agreed to by this court; the sum of four thousand four hundred and four pounds twelve shillings and eightpence, arising by the

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set on such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or districts, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town, at eight shillings and fourpence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governour and their famil[y][ie]s, the president, fellows and students of Harvard Colle[d]ge, set[t]led ministers and gramm[e][a]-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as for their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro' age, infirmity or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estate as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been [paid] out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and, in making their assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare at three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every goat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth, in distinct column[s], against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty, and if as guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expres[se]d; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of October.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of May next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, some time in March next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the acco[un][mp]ts of the whole, at or before the last day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho[ugh], in the time of their residing here, they reap[er]d considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade, to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act provided, tho the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid; and the constable[s] or collectors are hereby enjoyned to levy and collect all such sums committed to them and assessed on persons who are not of this province, and pay the same into the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the inhabitants of this province have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may be assessed at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of thirty-nine thousand one hundred and three pounds thirteen shillings and sevenpence, in bills of credit emitted in and since the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, according to their denominations; or in coined silver, at the rate of seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, or in gold coin in proportion; or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their several denominations; or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in good merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or in good merchantable Isle-of-Sable codfish, at ten shillings per quintal; or in good refined bar-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton; or in bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton; or in hollow iron-ware, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel[1]; or in good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel[1]; or in good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel[1]; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel[1]; or in good barrel[1] pork, at two pounds per barrel[1]; or in barrel[1] beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel[1]; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound; or in merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred; in good train-o[y][z], at one pound ten shillings per barrel[z]; or in good beeswax, at tenpence per pound; or in good bayberry-wax, at sixpence per pound; or in try[e]’d tallow, at fourpence per pound; or in good pease, at three shillings per bushel[1]; or in [good] sheepswool, at ninepence per pound; or in good tann’d sole-leather, at fourpence per pound: all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold; and the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasurer.

[SECT. 9.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax of the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

And whereas by the late determination and order of his majesty in council, the town of Bristol falls within the colony of Rhode Island, and part of the town[s] of Little Compton, Swan[s][z]ey, Tiverton and Barrington, by said determination, likewise fall[s] within said colony; and altho[ugh] it be just and equitable that a proportion of the debts contracted by this government while the said towns were under the jurisdiction of it, should be paid by the inhabitants and estates of that part of said towns which falls within the colony of Rhode Island, yet, inasmuch as no provision is made by the aforesaid order of his majesty for raising and assessing the same,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the treasurer be and hereby is discharged from any part of the tax laid on said town of Bristol, and on that part of the said towns of Little Compton, Swan[s][z]ey, Tiverton and Barrington, which now falls within the colony of Rhode Island, apportioned in this tax-act, until his majesty's pleasure shall be signified thereupon.

And it is further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That all proceedings with respect to the tax on that part of the said towns of Little Compton, Swan[s][z]ey, Tiverton and Barrington, which remains within this province, be regulated agreeable to such orders as have pass[e]'d or shall hereafter pass this court, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed June 29.]

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF EIGHT THOUSAND POUNDS FOR DEFRE[E][A]YING THE CHARGE OF THE LATE INTENDED EXPEDITION AGAINST CANADA, AND FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c., AND FOR DRAWING IN THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impowered and ordered to issue forth the sum of eight thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands, and received in for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments equal to other new-tenor bills, issued since one thousand seven hundred and forty; or, if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills are hereby directed and impow[e]red to take care and make effectual provision, as soon as may be, to imprint so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the [f]faithful[l] performance of the trust by this act reposed in them; and the said sum of eight thousand pounds shall be issued out of the publick treasury for the purposes and in manner following; viz<sup>t</sup>., the sum of five thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eight thousand pounds, shall be appl[y][i]e[d] for discharging what is due for putting the province into a better state of defence, for paying off such officers and soldiers as are or may be in the province service, according to the several establishments for that purpose, for purchas[e]ing needful[l] warlike stores, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes: the sum of three thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eight thousand pounds, shall be applied for discharging and paying such grants that are or may be made by this court.

£8,000 bills of credit to be emitted.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectiv[e]ly appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the drafts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriation as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and acco[mp][un]ts after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of eight thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

£8,000 in 1748.

[SECT. 3.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, to the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of eight thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 4.] That in case the general court shall not at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be in that year apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully empowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requir[e]ing them to assess the polls, and estates both real[1] and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be govern[e]d by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 5.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectiv[e]ly may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, h[a][o]llow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, beef, pork, duck or canv[a][e]s, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheeps-wool[7], or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufact[u][o]r[e]s of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight shall set[t] them at[t]; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their session in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, in said year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest councillor, for the time being, in each of those count[ry][ie]s in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby authorized and fully impow[e]red to do it; and in their set[tl]ing the prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectiv[e]ly, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in said year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

[SECT. 6.] And the aforesaid commodities, so brought into the treasury, shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver and gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin[e], and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or less[or] sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of eight thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be issued; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION OF WILD FOWL.

WHEREAS the water-fowl of divers[e] kinds which were wont in former years, in great numbers, to frequent the mar[i][a]time towns of this province, were of great service and benefit to the inhabitants, both for meat and feathers, but are now in great measure affrighted and driven away by many persons, who have made use of floats, or rafts, therein to go off as well by night as by day, to shoot them at a distance from the shoar upon the flat[t]s and feeding-grounds, and from the land, by night; which practices, if continued, are likely to have the ill-effect to cause the fowl wholly to desert and disuse the said towns; for prevention whereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That if any person or persons shall at any time after one month from the publication of this act, make use of any float, raft, or canoe, any ways trim'd or dress'd up, wherewith, by night or by day, to approach and shoot at any water-fowl in any part of this province, or shoot at any such fowl by night, from the land, or from out of any boat, canoe, float or other vessel[1], he or they so offending shall each of them forfeit and pay for the first offence the sum of twenty shillings to the informer, to be recovered before one of his majesty's justices of the peace for the county where the fact shall be committed, and forty-five shillings for every offence afterwards, to be recovered before the justices of the court of general sessions of the peace, by bill, plaint or information; the one-half to the informer and the other half for the use of the poor of the town where the fact shall be committed.

Preamble.
1737-38, chap. 16.
Penalty for using floats trimmed or dressed.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE DISTURBANCE GIVEN THE GENERAL COURT, BY COACHES, CHAISES, CHAIRS, CARTS, TRUCKS, AND OTHER CARRIAGES, PASSING BY THE PROVINCE COURT-HOUSE IN THE TIME OF THEIR SITTING.

Preamble.

1742-43, chap. 12.

FORASMUCH as the passing of coaches, chaises, chairs, carts, trucks and other carriages, on the south and north side of the court-house in Boston, gives great interruption to the debates and proceedings of the general court in the time of their sitting; for preventing of which,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Penalty for coaches, &c., passing by either side of the court-house, in the time of the sitting of the general court.

[SECT. 1.] That after five days from the publication of this act, any person or persons presuming to drive or pass any coach, chaise, chair, cart, truck, or other carriage, by one or more horses or cattle (sleds and slays only excepted), in King[']s Street, either on the south side or on the north side of the province court-house in Boston, during any sitting of the general court, between the hours of nine in the morning and one in the afternoon, or between the hours of three and seven in the afternoon (either house then actually sitting), shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay, as a fine, for the use of the doorkeeper for the time being, the sum of five shillings, to be immediately paid him by the offender, or offenders; and in case of refusal, it shall be in the power of the doorkeeper to require sufficient assistance to arrest and seize the offender or offenders, and him or them to carry before a justice of the peace, who is hereby impowered and directed, on proof of the offence, to commit the offender or offenders to prison, until he or they shall pay the said fine, and cost arising thereon; and in case the doorkeeper shall not arrest and seize the refusing offender as aforesaid, he, the said doorkeeper, may recover the fine by warrant from any one of his majesty's justices of the peace.

Provided,

[SECT. 2.] That this act shall not be construed or understood to relate to any coach, chariot, chaise or chair, belonging to his excellency the governour, the lieutenant-governour, or any of the members of the general court.

Provided, also,

[SECT. 3.] That nothing in this act shall be understood or construed to restrain any of the hous[e]holders, or inhabitants living in King[']s Street in Boston, on either side of the court-house, or any person improving any of the cellars under the court-house, from causing any coach, chaise, chair, cart or trucks, in the service of such hous[e]holder or inhabitant, or person improving as aforesaid, to be brought to or carried from their respective dwellings, or the said cellars, during the sitting of the general court.

Limitation.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for one year from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

CHAPTER 5.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAM[M]AGE BEING DONE ON THE MEADOWS AND BEACHES LYING IN THE TOWNSHIP OF BARNSTABLE, ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE HARBOUR, CONTIGUOUS TO THE [LATE] COMMON FIELDS IN SAID TOWN.

WHEREAS many persons frequently drive numbers of neat cattle, horses, sheep and swine, to feed upon the beaches, meadows and shoars adjoining to the late common fields in said Barnstable, between said fields and the harbour, whereby the ground is much broken and damaged and the sand blown on said meadows and uplands adjoining, to the great dam[m]age not only of private persons in their property, but also to the said town in general, so far as relates to said town's meadow appropriated to maintain a pound,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any ne[c][a]t cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, or swine, to or upon any of the beaches, meadows or shoars that lye between the late common fields in said Barnstable, anywhere from Calves'-Pasture Point, to Yarmouth line, round as the shoar goes, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for ne[c][a]t cattle, horses or mares, and two shillings and sixpence for each sheep and swine, that shall be turned and found on said beaches, meadows or shoars, within the limits aforesaid; which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or treasurer of the said town of Barnstable, or any other person that shall inform and sue for the same: the one half of the said forfeiture to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of the said town.

No person to turn or drive any cattle, &c., on the beaches, &c., of Barnstable.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, or swine, shall, at any time hereafter, be found feeding on the said beaches, meadows or shoars, that l[y][i]e between the late common fields and the harbour, in said Barnstable, any where from Calves'-Pasture Point to Yarmouth line, [b][r]ound as the shoar goes, that it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, immediately giving notice to the owners, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof in the said town of Barnstable, and the two next adjoining towns; and the impounder shall rel[ei][ie]ve the said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay the sum of two shillings and sixpence to the impounder, for each neat beast and horse-kind, and eight pence for each sheep and swine, and the re[a]sonable cost of relieving them, besides the pound-keeper's fees. And if no owner appear within the space of six days to redeem the said cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine so impounded, and to pay the costs and dam[m]ages occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case the person or persons impounding such cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, and pay the cost and charges arising about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale, to be given in the said town of Barnstable and in the town of Yarmouth, forty-eight hours before hand), and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner of such cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine, at any time within twelve months next after, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appear within the said twelve months, then the said overplus shall be one half to the party impounding, and the other half to the use of the poor of the said town of Barnstable.

Cattle found feeding on the beaches aforesaid, to be impounded, &c.

And be it further enacted,

Persons to be annually chosen to see this act observed.

[SECT. 3.] That the said town of Barnstable, at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and empowered to chuse one or more meet person or persons whose duty it shall be to see this act observed, and to prosecute the breakers thereof, and who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay ten shillings for the use of the poor of the said town of Barnstable; and upon such refusal, said town from time to time to proceed to a new choice of such officer or officers; and the said town of Barnstable, at a town-meeting warned for that purpose, may, at any time before March next, chuse such officers, who shall continue until their annual meeting in March next.

Limitation.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT FOR REVIVING AND CONTINUING SUNDRY LAWS OF THIS PROVINCE, EXPIRED OR NEAR EXPIRING.

Preamble.

1737-38, chap. 6. WHEREAS an act was made and pass'd in the tenth and eleventh years of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act further to exempt persons commonly called Quakers, within this province, from being 1737-38, chap. 8. taxed for and towards the support of ministers"; and another act made and pass'd in the same year, [i][e]ntitled "An Act in further addition to an act made and pass'd in the first year of his present majesty's reign, entitled 'An Act to prevent coparceners, joint tenants and tenants in common, from committing strip and waste upon lands by them
1740-41, chap. 6. held in common and undivided"; and another act made and pass'd in the thirteenth and fourteenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act further to exempt persons commonly called Annabap-1743-44, chap. 20. tists, within this province, from being taxed for and towards the support of ministers"; and another act made and pass'd in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for providing that the solemn affirmation of the people called Quakers, shall in certain cases be accepted instead of an oath in the usual form, and for preventing inconvenienc[i]es by means of their having heretofore acted in some town offices, without taking the oaths by law required for such offices";
1743-44, chap. 22. and another act made and pass'd in the same year, entitled "An Act for rendering more effectual the laws already in being relating to the admeasurement[s] of boards, plank, and timber, and for preventing fraud and abuse in shingles, beef and pork, exported from this province, and also for regulating the assize of staves and hoops";—all which several laws are expired or near expiring: and whereas the aforesaid laws have, by experience, been found beneficial and necessary for the several purposes for which they were passed.—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Reviving of several acts.

That all and every of the aforesaid acts, and every matter and clause therein contained, be and hereby are continued and revived, and shall continue and remain in full force ten years from the publication of this act, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DECEIT IN THE GAGE OF CASK.

WHEREAS his majesty's good subjects within this province, are greatly damaged in the make and measure of their cask, and particularly those of rum and molasses, inasmuch as the hogsheads and other cask, which ought to answer the gage by the rod, have been proved, and upon trial in their drawing off, there hath been wanting seven or eight gallons, and sometimes more, in a hogshead; which persons are obliged to pay for more than they really receive; for remedy whereof,—

Preamble.
1737-38, chap. 12.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

[SECT. 1.] That all rum and molasses in casks of all sorts, from a barrel and upwards, that shall be exposed to sale, be mathematically gaged by Gunter-scale, and the quantity said cask can contain, being full, to be set and marked on one head by the gager with a marking-iron; and the said gager shall demand and receive of the owner or owners of such rum or molasses threepence for every cask by him gaged as aforesaid, and no more.

Rum and molasses to be mathematically gaged.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the justices of the peace, at their first general sessions in each respective county of this province, from the publication of this act, and afterwards yearly, shall in every town where there shall be occasion, chuse and appoint a fit person or persons to be a gager or gagers, who shall be sworn to the due execution of their office by one of his majesty's justices of the peace within the same county, in the words following; viz[<sup>t</sup>].,—

Justices in their sessions yearly to appoint a gager or gagers.

You, A. B., being appointed a gager, according to law, do swear that you will, from time to time, diligently and faithfully discharge and execute the office of a gager, within the limits whereto you are appointed, for the ensuing year and until [ ] another be chosen and sworn in your place; and that by and in all the particulars mentioned in the law whereto your office hath relation and you will do therein impartially without fear or favour. So help you God.

Gauger's oath.

[SECT. 3.] And every person or persons who shall presume to sell any rum or molasses without being gaged as this act directs, and having the gager's mark upon it, shall forfeit and pay for every cask by him or them sold contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, the sum of five pounds; one half to the poor of the town where the offence is committed, and the other half to the informer, who shall inform and sue for the same in any of his majesty's courts of record within this province.

Penalty for selling without the gauger's mark.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of ten years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TONNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a colateral fund and security for drawing in the bills of credit on this province, have chearfully and unanimously given and granted and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty to the end and use aforesaid, and for no other use, the several duties of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province, and tunnage of shipping hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, and during the space of one year, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandizes that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and also all prize goods condemned in any part of this province, excepted), the several rates or duties of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>.,—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, one pound.

For every pipe of Madera, one pound five shillings.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, one pound five shillings.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, one pound.

For every hogshead of sugar, sevenpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, four shillings and sixpence.

For every ton of logwood, ninepence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, &c., that shall be imported into this province from any other port than the places of their growth and produce, there shall be paid by the importer double the value of impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned, unless they do, bonâ fide, belong to the inhabitants of this province and came upon their risque from the port of their growth and produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all the aforesaid impost rates and duties shall be paid in current money or bills of credit of this province of the last emission, by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize, unto the commissioners to be appointed as is hereinafter to be directed for entring and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons where his or their duty of impost, in one ship or vessel, doth exceed the sum of three pounds; and in case where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall settle and ballance his accompts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accounts may be ready to be presented to this court in May next after. And all entries where the impost or duty to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer, and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all masters of ships or other vessells coming into any harbour or port within the province from beyond sea, or from any other province or colony, before bulk be broken and within twenty-four hours after his arrival at such harbour or port, shall make a report to the commissioner or receiver of the impost, to be appointed as is hereinafter mentioned, of the contents of the lading of such ship or vessell, without any charge or fee to be demanded or paid for the same; which report said master shall give in to the commissioner or receiver, under his hand, and shall therein set down and express the quantities and species of the wines, liquors, goods and merchandize laden on board such ship or vessell, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same is consigned; and also make oath that the said report or manifest of the contents of his lading, so to be by him given in, under his hand as aforesaid, contains a just and true accompt, to the best of his knowledge, of the whole lading taken on board and imported in the said vessell from the port or ports such vessell came from, and that he hath not broken bulk, nor delivered any of the wines, rum or other distill'd liquors or merchandize laden on board the said ship or vessell, directly or indirectly; and if he shall know of any more wines, liquors, goods or merchandize to be imported therein, before the landing thereof he will cause it to be added to his manifest; which manifest shall be agreeable to a printed form for that purpose, which is to be filled up by the said commissioner or receiver according to each particular person's entry; which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowered to administer: after which said master may unload, and not before, on pain of five hundred pounds, to be forfeited and paid by each master that shall neglect his duty in this behalf.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That all merchants, factors and other persons, importers, being owners thereof, or having any of the wines, liquors, goods or merchandize consigned to them, that by this act are lyable to pay impost or duty, shall, by themselves or order, make entry thereof in writing, under their hands, with the said commissioner or receiver, and produce unto him an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath thereto in manner following:—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibits the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, it is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which above oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowered to administer; and they shall pay the duty and impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessell in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 6.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharffe, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the daytime only, and that after sunrise and before sunsett, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or receiver, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessell out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consigned, then the cask wherein the same is shall be gaged at the charge of the importer, that the quantities thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province shall be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines shall not have been filled up on board; and that every hogshead, butt or pipe of wine that hath two parts thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for out, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty for the same. And no master of any ship or vessell shall suffer any wines to be filled up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 9.] And if it be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessell be decayed at the time of unlading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the master of every ship or vessell importing any liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof, contained in his manifest, as shall not be duly entred, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawfull, to and for the master of every ship or other vessell, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported in any ship or vessell, until he shall receive a certificate, from the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and until he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as are not entred, unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port, or his order, who is hereby empowered and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, until the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the commissioner or the receiver of the impost in each port, shall be and hereby is empowered to sue the master of any ship or vessell, for the impost or duty for so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not entred and the duty of impost thereof not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof are not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the ship or vessell, with her tackle, apparrell and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not entred as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessell, with so much of the tackle or appur̄ces thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgment, may be taken in execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby empowered to make seizure of such ship or vessell, and detain the same under seizure until judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or impost; to the intent that, if judgment be rendered for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessel and appurtes may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing such ship or vessel from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and duties, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss and damage unto his owners, thro his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes unto any master of any ship or other vessel, outward bound, until he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duties and impost for the goods last imported in such ship or vessel are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 14.] And the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act for such wines or liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And whereas, many persons heretofore have caused to be imported, from the neighbouring governments, into this province, by land-carriage, large quantities of wine, rum and other merchandize, subjected to duty by this act, but have made no report thereof to the officer of impost, or any of his deputies, nor have paid any duty therefor, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act,—

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That, whensoever any rum, wine or other merchandize, by this act subjected to any duties, shall be hereafter imported from any of the neighbouring governments, by land, into any town of this province, the owner thereof, or person importing the same, shall make report thereof to the said officer, or some one of his deputies, and pay the duties hereby required therefor, on pain and penalty of forfeiting the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all penalties, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the aforementioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge of prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming into any port or ports into this province, to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessels as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pensilvania, West and East Jersy, New York, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessel is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the duties of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 18.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure or tonnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessel, before she be cleared, and in case she shall appear to be of greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel, until he be also certified, by the commissioner, that the duty of tonnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That when and so often as any wine or rum imported into this province, the duty of impost upon which shall have been paid agreeable to this act, shall be reship'd and exported from this government to any other part of the world (the governments of New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island excepted) that then, and in every such case, if the exporter of such wine or rum shall make oath, at the time of shipping, before the receiver of impost, or his deputy, that the whole of the wine or rum so ship'd has, bonâ fide, had the aforesaid duty of impost paid on the same, and shall afterwards produce a certificate, from some officer of the customs, that the same has been landed out of this government,—or otherwise, in case such rum or wines be exported to any place where there is no officer of the customs, or to any foreign port, the master of the vessel in which the same shall be exported shall make oath that the same has been landed out of the government, and the exporter shall, upon producing such certificate, or upon such oath of the master, make oath that he verily believes no part of said wine or rum has been relanded in this province,—such exporter shall be allowed to draw back from the receiver of impost as follows; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of Western Island wine, fifteen shillings.

For every pipe of Madeira and other sorts, eighteen shillings.

And for every hoghead of rum, fifteen shillings.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 20.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatsoever relates thereto, to receive commission for the same from the governour or commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tonnage of shipping as aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entrys and duties arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessel, so that the duties of impost and tonnage arising on the said vessel may appear; and the same to lye open, at all reasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer and receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall accompt for all collections and payments, and pay all such moneys as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputies, before their entring upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from nine to twelve of the clock in the forenoon, and from two to five a'clock in the afternoon.

[SECT. 21.] And the said commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of twenty-five pounds, per annum; and his deputy or deputies to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding seven pounds ten shillings each. And the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accounts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputies.

Provided,

[SECT. 22.] That no duties of impost shall be demanded for any goods imported after the publication of this act, by vertue of any former act for granting unto his majesty any rates, duties of impost, &c. [Passed June 29; published July 2.]

past services, and further to enable him to manage the publick affairs of the province. [*Passed August 12**; published September 14.]

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE PROPRIETORS OF SUNCOOK TO RAISE MONEY FOR THE SUPPORT OF THEIR PRESENT MINISTER.

Presamble.

WHEREAS the proprietors of Suncook are under a special covenant to support the Rev<sup>d</sup>. Mr. Whittemore, the present pastor of the church there, but by reason of the late order of his majesty in council respecting the northern boundary of this province, a difficulty has arisen in assessing and collecting money for the purposes aforesaid, whereby considerable inconvenience[s] has arisen, for the removal of which the aid of this court is necessary,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Suncook proprietors empowered to assemble and meet to choose officers, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That it shall be in the power of said proprietors of Suncook to assemble and meet at the dwelling-house of Henry Abbot[t] of Andover, in the county of Essex, in[n]holder, on the third Tuesday of October next, at two a'clock in the afternoon, to choose a moderator and clerk, and raise money on said proprietors, necessary to enable them to fulfil[l] the said covenant, and to defrey the charge of the lawsuit that has already been brought by the said minister against the said proprietors, and the necessary expence of assessing and collecting the same; also, to choose assessors, collectors, and a treasurer, for assessing, collecting and receiving the sum and sums so raised; and to choose a committee to call the said proprietors together in March yearly, and at such other times as shall be found necessary for raising money to enable them, from time to time, to fulfill the covenant aforesaid, and to defrey other necessary ministerial charges for the future; and to choose other officers, as occasion may require: the said officers to observe the same rules, in assessing and collecting the respective sums that may be granted to be raised as aforesaid, as the parish assessors and collectors are by law obliged to observe, and to be vested with the same power.

And to the intent the said meeting in October next may be seasonably known,—

Ordered,

[SECT. 2.] That Benjamin Johnson of Woburn be directed to give notice thereof in the "Boston Weekly Gazette[e]," on each of the four weeks that shall next succeed the publication of this act, setting forth the time, place and business of their said meeting.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed September 8†; published September 14.]

* This bill was passed to be enacted at the first session, but was not signed by the Governour until the above date. According to the record the date of signing was September 8.

† So according to the record; but according to the engrossment the Governour signed the bill September 5.

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AND FOR EXPLANATION OF CERTAIN CLAUSES IN THREE SEVERAL ACTS HEREINAFTER MENTION'D, MADE AND PASS'D IN THE [SIXTEENTH] [FIFTEENTH] SEVENTEENTH AND EIGHTEENTH YEARS OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, FOR ASCERTAINING THE VALUE OF MONEY, AND OF THE BILLS OF PUBLIC CREDIT OF THIS PROVINCE.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]ntit[u]led "An Act to ascertain the value of money, and of the bills of publick credit of this province, granted this present year for the supply of the treasury, and for securing the credit of said bills," the several courts of judicature are directed, in making up judgments for debts that should be contracted within the term of five years therein limit[ed], except as therein excepted, in case the province bills by said act emitted, or that should thereafter be emitted, should be depreciated below the value they were set at by said act, to allow the creditor so much in said bills as should make amends for their depreciation below their then stated value, or the value at which such other bills should be stated; and whereas in the rule by said act prescribed for determining the value of such bills, from time to time, for the purpose aforesaid, only silver and bills of exchange are made the standard whereby said bills are to be estimated in order to the paym[en]t of private debts to be contracted within the time aforesaid; which rule, by experience, has been found to be unequal, and not to answer the good intention of the said act, inasmuch as the bills of credit, being the only medium of trade and commerce in this and the other governm[en]ts in New England, their value cannot be truly estimated by the prices of any one or two particular commodities or merchandizes, such as bills of exchange and silver now are, and have for several years past been, within this and the aforesaid other colonies, and the prices of which in bills of publick credit have been found liable to be very suddenly and immoderately increased by a few persons for the sake of serving their own particular trade or interest, whereby the bills of credit have often been, to the great gr[ei]vance of debtors, much depreciated with respect to bills of exchange and silver, tho', at the same time, they have kept their value with respect to all other commodities and merchandizes in this province: now, for preventing any future inconvenience which may arise to the debtor from estimating the value of bills of credit by comparing them with the prices of bills of exchange, and silver, alone,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That when any valuation shall be made of the bills of publick credit on this province, in pursuance of said act and for the purposes therein mentioned, regard shall be had not only to silver and bills of exchange, but to the prices of provisions and other necessaries of life, and to the difference that may arise from the plenty or scarcity of them, or other circumstances which may casually occasion the rise or fall of them, at the respective seasons wherein such valuation shall be made as aforesaid.

And whereas the aforementioned act directs that the valuation of the bills of publick credit as aforesaid, for the purposes aforesaid, shall be made once in every six months by the general assembly, and in want thereof by a com[mit]tee consisting of the eldest councello[r] for the time being, in each of those counties where any member of his majesty's council is an inhabitant; and whereas the said act doth not expressly declare that the determination made by any number of the said committee short of the whole, shall be accounted valid for the purposes aforesaid, and doubts and disputes have thereupon arisen; for prevention whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Five councillors to be a quorum for valuing the bills.

[SECT. 2.] That any five of the said councillors shall be a quorum; and every valuation of the bills of publick credit to be made by the whole number of the said councillors, or the major part of such of them as shall convene and be present at the time of making the same (provided the number present be not less than five, and that due notice has been previously given to the rest that shall then be within this province, of the time, place and occasion of their meeting), shall be deemed and counted valid in the law for the purposes in said act mention'd.

Preamble.

And whereas in and by an act made and pass'd in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act in addition to and in 1743-44, chap. 7. explanation of sundry clauses of an act, entitled 'An Act to ascertain the value of money, and of the bills of publick credit of this province,' made and pass'd in the [15th] [fifteenth] year of his maj[es]ty's reign, it is enacted "That all debts contracted since the last of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, or that shall thereafter be contracted, specialties and express contracts excepted, shall be deemed and adjudged equal to the real value only such bills have passed, or shall pass, at when such debt was or shall be contracted; and every debt of twenty shillings, contracted as aforesaid, shall or may be always hereafter discharged by twenty shillings in said bills; and so pro ratâ for a greater or less sum, unless such bills have already, or should hereafter be, depreciated below the value they passed at when such debt was or shall be contracted; and in such case so much shall always be allowed by the respective courts in this province as shall make said bills equal in value to such debt when contracted."

And whereas the debts referred to in the said act appear, by the purview thereof, to be such only as then had been or should be contracted within five years from the last day of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, yet as the said act has by some been construed to extend to debts to be contracted after the expiration of said term, and in consequence of such construction, if admitted, many inconveniencies may arise; wherefore, for prevention thereof, and for removing any doubts or disputes touching the meaning of said act in the case before mentioned,—

Be it enacted and declared by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 4.] That the debts referred to and intended in the last herein-before-recited act are such only as had been or should be contracted within the before-mentioned term of five years, from the last day of March one thousand seven hundred and forty-two; and that the rule therein given to the courts of judicature, respecting the allowance to be made for the depreciation of the bills of publick credit, was intended and shall be adjudged, construed and taken to be restrained to debts contracted within the term aforesaid, and not to extend to any other whatsoever. PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE SEVENTEENTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D.
1747.

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF THIRTY-FOUR THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c., AND FOR DRAWING THE SAID BILLS INTO THE TREASURY AGAIN.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

£34,000 bills of credit to be emitted.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and is hereby impow[e]red and ordered to issue forth the sum of thirty-four thousand pounds in bills of credit of the last tenor and date, now lying in his hands, and received in for taxes, impost and excise, which shall pass in all publick payments, equal to other new-tenor bills emitted since one thousand seven hundred and forty, or if there be not a sufficiency of such bills, that then the committee appointed by this court for signing bills be hereby directed and empowered to take care and make effectual provision to imprint the said bills, or so many as may be needed to compleat the said sum, and to sign and deliver the same to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same; and the said committee shall be under oath for the faithful performance of the trust by this act reposed in them. And the said sum of thirty-four thousand pounds shall be issued out of the [publick] treasury for the purposes and in the manner following; viz<sup>(1)</sup>, the sum of fourteen thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of thirty-four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of wages that now are or hereafter may be due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Frederick Fort, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-house, Saco Truck-house, Brunswick Fort, the ship "Massachusetts Frigate," brigantine "Boston Packet," the sloop in the countr[e]y's service, and the commissary's usual disbursements; and the sum of eleven thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of thirty-four thousand pounds, shall be applied for putting the province into a better posture of defence, for paying off the officers and soldiers in the province service according to the several establishments for that purpose, for purchasing all needful warlike stores for the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the sum of five thousand eight hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of thirty-four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of his majesty's council, and for the payment of all other matters and things for which any grant has been or shall be made by this court, and for all [other] stipends, bount[y][ie]s and premiums, established by law, or order of court, and for no other purpose whatever.

£14,000 for wages at Castle
William and other garrisons,
&c.

£11,000 for putting the province
into a better posture of defence, &c.

£5,800 for payment of his majesty's council, &c.

And whereas there are sometimes publick entertainments, and, from time to time, contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the sum of two hundred pounds, part of the said sum of thirty-four thousand pounds, shall be applied to defray and pay such entertainments and contingent charges that demand prompt payment; and the sum of three thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of thirty-four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the house of representatives in the general court during their several sessions this present year.

£200 contingent charges, &c.

£3,000 for the pay of the representatives.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall lye in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the drafts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed to pay such money out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of thirty-four thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of twenty-one thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£21,000 in 1748.

And as a further fund and security for drawing in the said sum of thirty-four thousand pounds,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the sum of ten thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of thirty-four thousand pounds, be brought in by impost and excise in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight.

£10,000 in 1748.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the representatives aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their several representatives shall so receive; which sums shall be set on the towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rules that shall be prescribed by the act of the general court for assessing the next province tax, and the constables, in their respective districts, shall pay in the same when they pay in the next province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate accompt; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall lye in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

Tax to be made for what is paid the representatives.

And be it further enacted,

Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, agree and conclude upon an act for raising the aforesaid sum of ten thousand pounds, by impost and excise, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, and also upon an act apportioning the aforesaid sum of twenty-one thousand pounds, which by this act is engaged shall be, in said year, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums of ten thousand pounds and twenty-one thousand pounds as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby directed and fully impowered, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the said sums of ten thousand pounds and twenty-one thousand pounds before directed and engaged to be raised and assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and I[s][z]le-of-Sable codfish, refined bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, beef, pork, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, tallow, peas[e], sheeps-wool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and pri[c][z]es as the aforesaid general assembly of the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their session in May, some time before the twentieth day of June, in said year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain price, that then the eldest counsellor, for the time being, in each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully authorized and impow[er]ed to do it; and in their settling the prizes and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, at seven shillings and sixpence as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro rata. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of the taxes in said year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several rates or prices which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

[SECT. 10.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit hereby to be emitted, or for silver or gold, which silver or gold shall be delivered to the possessor of said bills in exchange for them; that is to say, one ounce of silver coin, and so gold in proportion, for seven shillings and sixpence, and so pro ratâ for a greater or lesser sum; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to call in the whole sum of thirty-four thousand pounds in said bills hereby ordered to be issued; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

[Passed December 12.]

Treasurer to sell the said
commodities.

* This bill was passed to be enacted at the third session, but was not signed by the Governor until the above date.

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR ALTERING THE TIMES APPOINTED FOR HOLDING THE SUPERIOUR COURT OF JUDICATURE, COURT OF ASSIZE AND GENERAL GOAL DELIVERY, WITHIN AND FOR THE COUNTIES OF ESSEX AND BRISTOL.

Preamble.

1699-1700, chap. 3, § 2.
1742-43, chap. 32, § 2.
1745-46, chap. 21.
1746-47, chap. 15.

WHEREAS the times by law appointed for holding the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery at Salem, within and for the county of Essex, and at Taunton, within and for the county of Bristol, are found to be inconvenient,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Alteration of courts at Salem and Taunton.

[SECT. 1.] That the time for holding the said superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery at Salem, for the county of Essex, shall henceforth be the third Tuesday in October annually; and the time for holding the said court at Taunton, for the county of Bristol, shall henceforth be the second Tuesday in May annually; and all officers and other persons concerned are required to conform themselves accordingly.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That all appeals, writs of rev[ei][ie]w, recognizances, warrants and other process already issued, taken or depending in the said county of Bristol, which were to have been returned or proceeded on at the time heretofore appointed by law for holding the said court at Taunton, shall be valid and stand good, to all intents and purposes in the law, and shall be returned and proceeded on at the time appointed by this act for holding the same. [Passed February 23, 1747-48; published March 31, 1748.]

CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT FOR EXPLAINING AN ACT, [E][J]NTIT[U]LED “AN ACT TO PREVENT AND MAKE VOID CLANDESTINE AND ILLEGAL PURCHASES OF LANDS FROM [THE] INDIANS,” SO FAR AS RELATES TO THE DEVI[C][S]E OR BEQUEST OF ANY REAL ESTATE BY THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF ANY INDIANS.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen, whether the act pass'd in the thirteenth year of King William the Third, [e][i]ntit[u]led “An Act to prevent and make void clandestine and illegal purchases of lands from the Indians,” doth extend to any devise or bequest of real estate made by the last will and testament of any Indian,—

Be it therefore declared and enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

That the said act was intended to extend, and did, doth and ought to be understood to extend, to all devises of real estates made by the last wills and testaments of any of the said Indians; and all such devises of lands or other real estate, whatsoever, by any last will and testament from any Indian or Indians inhabiting within this province, to any English person or persons, that have been heretofore made and have not been approved by the general court, and also all such as shall hereafter be made, unless the approbation of the general court shall be obtained, are hereby declared utterly void and of no effect. Explanation of an act relating to Indians' selling lands.

NOTES.—There were six sessions of the General Court this year; but no acts were passed at the third and sixth sessions.

The engrossments of all the acts of this year are preserved, and all were printed with the sessions-acts, except chapters 1 and 8, which being, respectively, the tax act and impost act, were printed separately.

Secretary Willard enclosed all the acts of this year with his letter to Secretary Hill, dated November 1, 1748. On the 8th of February, following, these acts were referred by the Board of Trade to Mr. Lamb for his opinion thereon in point of law, but no evidence has been discovered that they were ever laid before the Privy Council. As late as June, 1754, a memorandum in the records of the Board of Trade states that chapters 3 and 5 were never laid before the Crown.

On the morning of the 9th of December, O. S., this year, the court-house in Boston was destroyed by fire, and with it a large part of the records of the Province. The following is the record of the course taken by the Assembly to replace the lost records:—

“Decr 9, 1747. [SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set on such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or districts, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town, at nineteen shillings and sixpence per poll[e][t], and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, lieutenant-governour and their families, the president, fellows and students of Harvard College, set[t]led ministers and gramm[e][a]r-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as for their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro' [ugh] age, infirmity or extre[a]m[e] poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not cap[e]able to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in the general sessions, in the respective count[y][ie]s assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of such town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or [i][e]mployment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cunning, at one penny on the pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for such town or district to pay; and, in making their assessments, to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, in the bills last emitted, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and [to] estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings in bills of the last emission; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; every g[r]oat and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and if as guardian, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly express[e]d; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors or constables of such town or district, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of October.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or district, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of May next; and of the inhabitants of the town of Boston, some time in March next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accompts of the whole, at or before the last day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and district, respectively, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give reasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or district, or notify the inhabitants to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rateable estate[s], and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or district where the delinquent lives, to be lev[y][i]ed by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constable, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasury or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving to the party ag[g]rieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate, as aforesaid, to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho'[ugh], in the time of their residing there, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade, to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rule and directions in this act provided, tho' the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid: and the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, and pay the same in to the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the inhabitants of this province have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may be assessed at, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of ninety-four thousand five hundred and eight pounds five shillings, in bills of credit emitted in and since the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-one, according to their denominations; or in coined silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, or in gold coin in proportion; or in bills of credit of the middle tenor, so called, according to their several denominations; or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in good merchantable hemp, at fourpence per pound; or in good, merchantable, Isle-of-Sable codfish, at ten shillings per quintal; or in good refined bar[r]-iron, at fifteen pounds per ton; or in bloomery-iron, at twelve pounds per ton; or in h[a][o]llow ironware, at twelve pounds per ton; or in good Indian corn, at two shillings and threepence per bushel[1]; or in good winter rye, at two shillings and sixpence per bushel[1]; or in good winter wheat, at three shillings per bushel[1]; or in good barley, at two shillings per bushel[1]; or in good barrel[1] pork, at two pounds per barrel[1]; or in barrel[1] beef, at one pound five shillings per barrel[1]; or in duck or canvas, at two pounds ten shillings per bolt, each bolt to weigh forty-three pounds; or in long whalebone, at two shillings and threepence per pound; or in merchantable cordage, at one pound five shillings per hundred; or in good train-o[i][y]l, at one pound ten shillings per barrel[1]; or in good be[a][e]swax, at tenpence per pound; or in good bayberry-wax, at sixpence per pound; or in good tried tallow, at fourpence per pound; or in good pease, at three shillings per bushel[1]; or in good sheepswool, at ninepence per pound; or in good, tann[e]d sole-leather, at fourpence per pound: all which aforesaid commodities shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in bills of credit, or for silver and gold; and the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury.

[SECT. 9.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax of the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

And whereas by the late determination and order of his majesty in council, the town of Bristol falls within the colony of Rhode Island; and part of the towns of Little Compton, Swan[s][z]ey, Tiverton and Barrington, by said determination, likewise falls within said colony; and altho it be just and equitable that a proportion of the debts contracted by this government while the said towns were under the jurisdiction of it, should be paid by the inhabitants and estates of that part of said towns which falls within the colony of Rhode Island, [and] [yet], inasmuch as no provision is made, by the aforesaid order of his majesty, for raising and assessing the same,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the treasurer be and hereby is discharged from any part of the tax on said town of Bristol, and that part of the said town[s] of Little Compton, Swanzey, Tiverton and Barrington, which now falls within the colony of Rhode Island, apportioned [in] this tax-act, until his majesty's pleasure shall be signifi[y][e]d thereupon.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That all proceedings with respect to the tax on that part of the said towns of Little Compton, Swan[s][z]ey, Tiverton and Barrington, which remains within this province, be regulated agreeable to such orders as have passed or shall hereafter pass this court, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. ## CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TUNNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a colateral fund and security for drawing in the bills of credit on this province, have cheerfully and unanimously given and granted, and do hereby give and grant, unto his most excellent majesty, to the end and use aforesaid, and for no other use, the several duties of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandizes that shall be imported into this province, and tonnage of shipping, hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of of* this act, and during the space of one year, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and also all prize goods condemned in any part of this province, excepted), the several rates or duties of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Island, one pound.

For every pipe of Maderia, one pound five shillings.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, one pound five shillings.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, one pound.

For every hogshead of sugar, sixpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, ten shillings.

For every ton of logwood, ninepence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, &c<sup>e</sup>., that shall be imported into this province from any other port than the places of their growth and produce, there shall be paid by the importer double the value of impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned, unless they do, bonâ fide, belong to the inhabitants of this province and came upon their risque from the port of their growth and produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all the aforesaid impost rates and duties shall be paid in current money or bills of credit of this province of the last emission, by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize, unto

the commissioner to be appointed, as is hereinafter to be directed, for entering and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons, where his or their duty of impost, in one ship or vessell, doth exceed the sum of three pounds; and in cases where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall settle and balance his accounts with every person, on or before the last day of April, so that the same accounts may be ready to be presented to this court in May next after. And all entries, where the impost or duty to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer; and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry, to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all masters of ships or other vessells, coming into any harbour or port within this province, from beyond sea, or from any other province or colony, before bulk be broken, and within twenty-four hours after his arrival at such harbour or port, shall make a report, to the commissioner or receiver of the impost, to be appointed as is hereinafter mentioned, of the contents of the lading of such ship or vessell, without any charge or fee to be demanded or paid for the same; which report said master shall give in to the commissioner or receiver, under his hand, and shall therein set down and express the quantities and species of the wines, liquors, goods and merchandize laden on board such ship or vessell, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same is consigned; and also make oath that the said report or manifest of the contents of his lading, so to be by him given in under his hand, as aforesaid, contains a just and true account, to the best of his knowledge, of the whole lading taken on board and imported in the said vessell from the port or ports such vessell came from, and that he hath not broken bulk, nor delivered any of the wines, rum or other distilled liquors or merchandize, laden on board the said ship or vessell, directly or indirectly; and if he shall know of any more wines, liquors, goods or merchandize to be imported therein, before the landing thereof he will cause it to be added to his manifest; which manifest shall be agreeable to a printed form for that purpose, which is to be filled up by the said commissioner or receiver according to each particular person's entry; which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowered to administer: after which said master may unload, and not before, on pain of five hundred pounds, to be forfeited and paid by each master that shall neglect his duty in that behalf.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That all merchants, factors and other persons, importers, being owners thereof, or having any of the wines, liquors, goods or merchandize consigned to them, that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall, by themselves or order, make entry thereof in writing, under their hands, with the commissioner or receiver, and produce unto him an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorum,* and make oath thereto in manner following:—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibits the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which above oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowered to administer; and they shall pay the duty or impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessell in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 6.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharffe, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the daytime only, and that after sunrise and before sunset, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or receiver, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessell out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consigned, then the cask wherein the same is, shall be gaig'd at the charge of the importer, that the quantities thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province, shall be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided such wines shall not have been filled up on board; and that every hogshead, butt or pipe of wine that hath two third parts thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty for the same. And no master of any ship or vessell that shall suffer any wines to be filled up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 9.] And if it may be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessell be decayed at the time of unlading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the master of every ship or vessell importing any liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof, contained in his manifest, as shall not be duly entered, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawful, to and for the master of every ship or other vessell, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported in any ship or vessell, until he shall receive a certificate, from the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and until he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as are not entred, unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port, or his order, who is hereby empowered and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, until the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the commissioner or receiver of the impost in each port, shall be and hereby is empowered to sue the master of any ship or vessell, for the impost or duty for so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not entred and the duty of impost therefor not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the ship or vessell, with her tackle, apparrell and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not entred as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessell, with so much of the tackle or appurtenances thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgment, may be taken in execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to make seizure of the said ship or vessell, and detain the same under seizure till judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or impost; to the intent that, if judgment be rendered for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessell and appurtenances may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing of such ship or vessell from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and duties, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss or damage unto his owners, thro his default or neglect, shall be liable to their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes to any master of any ship or other vessel, outward bound, until he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty and impost for the goods last imported in said ship or vessel are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 14.] And the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act for such wines or liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And for the more effectually preventing any wines, rum or other distilled spirits being brought into this province from the neighbouring governments, by land, or in small boats and vessells, or any other way, and also to prevent wines, rum and other distilled spirits being first sent out of this province, to save the duty of impost, and afterwards brought into this government again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That the commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost shall, and he is hereby impowered and enjoyned to, appoint some suitable person or persons as his deputy or deputys, in all such places in this province where it is likely that wine, rum and other distilled spirits will be brought out of other governments into this; which officers shall have power to seize the same, unless the owner shall make it appear that the duty of impost has been paid therefor since their being brought into or relanded in this government; and such officer or officers are also impowered to search, in all suspected places, for such wines, rum and distilled spirits brought or relanded in this government, where the duty is not paid as aforesaid, and to seize and secure the same for the ends and uses as in this act is hereafter provided.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all penalties, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of this act shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the aforementioned dutys of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed; the whole charge of prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming into any port or ports of this province, to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessels as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pennsylvania, West and East Jersey, New York, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessel is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the dutys of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 18.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure or tunnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessel, before she shall be cleared, in case she shall appear to be of greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel, until he be also certified, by the commissioner, that the duty of tonnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That when and so often as any wine or rum imported into this province, the duty of impost upon which shall have been paid agreeable to this act, shall be reshipped and exported from this government to any other part of the world, that then, and in every such case, the exporter of such wine or rum shall make oath, at the time of shipping, before the receiver of impost, or his deputy, that the whole of the wine or rum so shipped has, bonâ fide, had the aforesaid duty of impost paid on the same, and shall afterwards produce a certificate, from some officer of the customs, that the same has been landed out of this government,—or otherwise, in case such rum or wines shall be exported to any place where there is no officer of the customs, or to any foreign port, the master of the vessel in which the same shall be exported shall make oath that the same has been landed out of the government, and the exporter shall, upon producing such certificate, or upon such oath of the master, make oath that he verily believes no part of said wines or rum has been relanded in this province,—such exporter shall be allowed to draw back from the receiver of impost as follows; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of Western-Island wine, fifteen shillings.

For every pipe of Madeira and other sorts, eighteen shillings.

And for every hogshead of rum, fifteen shillings.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 20.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatsoever relates thereto, to receive commission for the same from the governour and commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping as aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the accompt thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entrys and dutys arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessel, so that the dutys of impost and tunnage arising on the said vessel may appear; and the same to lye open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer and receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such monys as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputys, before their entering upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from ten of the clock in the forenoon, until one in the afternoon.

[SECT. 21.] And the said commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of fifty pounds per annum; and his deputy or deputys to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding ten pounds, per annum, each; and the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accompts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputys.

Provided,

[SECT. 22.] That no duties of impost shall be demanded for any goods imported after the publication of this act, by virtue of any former act for granting unto his majesty any rates and duties of impost, &c.<sup>s</sup>. [Passed June 23; published June 27.]

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if there be a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][i]e in the treasury for the further order of this court.

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the draughts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay such money out of such appropriation[s] as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accounts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accounts of charge, shall lay before the house, when they direct, all such muster-rolls and acco[un]ts, after payment thereof.

Warrants to express the appropriations.

And as a fund and security for drawing the said sum of one hundred thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses aforesaid, a tax of ninety-five thousand five hundred pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall

£95,500 in 1749.

be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

And as a fund and security for drawing in such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives shall so receive, which sums shall be set on the said towns in the next province tax; and the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by act of the general assembly for assessing the next province tax, and the constables in their respective districts shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the next year, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l[y][i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be, in this year, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case, each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the towns and districts aforesaid shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then next preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impow[er]ed and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed by this act; and the assessors, as also all persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in bills of credit of the form and tenor by this act emitted, or in other new-tenor bills, or in bills of the middle tenor, according to their several denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one; or in coin'd silver, at seven shillings and sixpence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refin'd bar-iron, bloomery-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvas, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, peas[e], sheepswool, or tann'd sole-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufactures of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities aforementioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their session in

sell the said
commodities.

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON WINES AND SPIRITS DISTILLED, SOLD BY RETAIL, AND UPON LIMES, LEMMONS AND ORANGES.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in general court assembled, being desirous to lessen the present debt of the province, by drawing in a number of the bills of credit, have cheerfully and unanimously granted, and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses above mentioned, and for no other uses, an excise upon all brandy, rum and other spirits distilled, and upon all wines whatsoever sold by retail, and upon lemmons, limes and oranges taken in and used in making of punch or other liquors mixed for sale, or otherwise consumed, in taverns or other licen[s][c]ed houses within this province, to be raised, levied, collected and paid by and upon every taverner, in[n]holder, common victualler and retailer within each respective county, in manner following:—

Preamble.

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, for the space of three years, every person licen[s][c]ed for retailing rum, brandy or other spirits, or wine, shall pay the duties following:—

Time of this act's continuance.

For every gallon of brandy, rum and spirits distilled, sixpence.

Rates of excise.

For every gallon of wine of every sort, sixpence.

For every hundred of lemmons or oranges, five shillings.

For every hundred of limes, two shillings.

—And so proportionably for any other quantity or number.

And be it further enacted,

Account to be taken.

[SECT. 2.] That every taverner, in[n]holder, common victual[l]er and retailer, shall, upon the said twenty-ninth day of June, take an exact account of all brandy, rum and other distilled spirits, and wine, and of all lemmons, oranges and limes then by him or her, and give an account of the same, upon oath, if required, unto the person or persons to whom the duties of excise in the respective counties shall be let or farmed, as in and by this act is hereafter directed; and such other person[s] as shall be licen[s][c]ed during the continuance of this act, shall also give an account, as aforesaid, upon what brandy, rum or other distilled spirits, and wine, and of what lemmons, oranges or limes he or they shall have by him or them at the time of his or their licen[s][c]e; which oath the person or persons farming the duties aforesaid shall have power to administer in the words following; viz.,—

Form of oath.

You, A. B., do swear that the account exhibited by you is a just and true account of all brandy, rum and other distilled spirits, and wine, lemmons, oranges and limes you had by you on the twenty-ninth day of June last. So help you God.

And where such person shall not have been licen[s][c]ed on said twenty-ninth day of June, the form of the oath shall be so varied as that instead of those words, “on the twenty-ninth day of June last,” these words shall be inserted and used, “at the time of taking your licence.”

And be it further enacted,

Within six months, accounts to be delivered.

[SECT. 3.] That every taverner, in[n]holder, common victual[l]er and retailer shall make a fair entry in a book, of all such rum, brandy and other distilled spirits, and wine, as he or they, or any for him or them, shall buy, distill and take in for sale after such account taken, and of all lemmons, oranges and limes taken in, consumed or used as aforesaid, and at the end of every six months, deliver the same, in writing, under their hands, to the farmer or farmers of the duties aforesaid, who are impow[er]ed to administer an oath to him or them, that the said account is, bonâ fide, just and true, and that he or they do not know of any rum, brandy or other distilled spirits, or wine, sold, directly or indirectly, or of any lemmons, oranges or limes used in punch or otherwise, by him or them, or any under him or them, or by his or their privity or consent, but what is contained in the account now exhibited, and shall pay him the duty thereof, excepting such part as the fa[rmer*] shall find is still remaining by him or them; twenty per cent to be allowed on the liquors aforementioned[e]d for leakage and other waste, for which no duty is to be paid.

Twenty per cent. allowed for leakage.

Provided always, and it is the true intent and meaning of this act,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 4.] That if any taverner, retailer or common victualler, shall buy of another taverner or retailer such small quantity of liquors as this act obliges him to account for to the farmer, and pay the excise, the taverner, retailer or common victual[l]er shall, notwithstanding, be accountable and pay the excise, as if none had been paid by the person he bought the same of.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty on giving a false account.

[SECT. 5.] That every taverner, in[n]holder, common victual[l]er or retailer, who shall be found to give a false account of any brandy,

* The parchment is injured here.

distilled spirits, wine, or other the commodities aforesaid, by him or her on the said twenty-ninth of June, or at the time of his or her taking licen[s][c]e, or bought, distilled, or taken in for sale afterwards, or used as aforesaid, or refuse to give in an acco[mp][un]t, on oath, as aforesaid, shall be rendered incapable of having a licen[s][c]e afterwards, and shall be prosecuted by the farmer of the excise in the same county, for his or her neglect, and ordered by the general sessions of the peace to pay double the sum of money as they may judge that the excise of liquors, &c<sup>d</sup>, by him or her sold within such time, would have amounted to, to be paid to the said farmer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the justices in their general sessions of the peace shall take recognizances, with sufficient sureties, of all persons by them licen[s][c]ed, both as to their keeping good rule and order, and duly observing the laws relating to persons so licen[s][c]ed, and for their duly and truly rendering an account in writing under their hands as aforesaid, and paying their excise in manner as aforesaid; as also that they shall not use their licen[s][c]e in any house besides that wherein they dwell; which recognizance shall be taken within the space of thirty days after the granting of such licen[s][c]e, otherways the persons licen[s][c]ed shall lose the benefit of his or her said licen[s][c]e; and no persons shall be licen[s][c]ed by the said justices that hath not accounted with the farmer, and paid him the excise due to him from such person at the time of his asking for such licen[s][c]e.

General sessions to take recognizance.

And whereas, notwithstanding the laws made against selling strong drink without licen[s][c]e, many persons not regarding the penalties and forfeitures in the said act, do receive and entertain persons in their houses, and sell great quantities of spirits and other strong drink, without licen[s][c]e so to do first had and obtained, by reason whereof great debaucheries are committed and kept secret, the end of this law in a great measure frustrated, and such as take licen[s][c]es and pay the excise greatly wronged and injured,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That whosoever, after the said twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, shall presume, directly or indirectly, to sell any brandy, rum or other distilled spirits, wine, beer, cyder, perry or any other strong drink, in any smaller quantity than a quarter cask (twenty gallons to be accounted a quarter cask, and all delivered to one person without drawing any part of it off), without licen[s][c]e first had and obtained from the court of general sessions of the peace, and recognizing in manner as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay for each offence, the sum of three pounds to the farmer, and costs of prosecution; and all such as shall refuse or neglect to pay the fine aforesaid, shall stand closely and strictly committed in the common goal of the county for three months at least, and not to have the liberty of the goaler's house or yard; and any goaler giving any person liberty contrary to this act, shall forfeit and pay three pounds, and pay costs of prosecution as aforesaid: and if any person or persons, not licen[s][c]ed as aforesaid, shall order, allow, permit or connive at the selling of any strong drink, contrary to the true intent or meaning of this act, by his or her child or children, servant or servants, or any other person or persons belonging to or in his or her house or family, and be thereof convict, he, she or they shall be reputed the offender or offenders, and shall suffer the same penalties as if he, she or they had sold such drink themselves.

Forfeiture of £3 for selling without license, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That when any person shall be complained of for selling any strong drink without licen[s][c]e, one witness produced to one such fact, and another produced to another, shall be sufficient conviction, provided that there be not more than the space of forty days between the facts concerning which such witnesses declare. And when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected to sell strong drink without licen[s][c]e, any justice of the peace shall have full power to convene such persons before him, and examine them upon oath concerning the person suspected of selling or retailing strong drink in such houses, out-houses or other dependencies thereof; and if upon examination of such witnesses, and hearing the defence of such suspected person, it shall appear to the justice there is sufficient proof of the violation of this act by selling strong drink without licence, judgment may thereupon be made up against such person, and he shall forfeit and pay in like manner as if process had been commenced by bill, plaint or information before the said justice, or otherwise said justice may bind over the person suspected and the witnesses, to the next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where such person shall dwell.

One witness sufficient for conviction.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That when and so often as any person shall be complained of for selling any strong drink without licence to any Indian, negro or molatto slave, or to any child or other person under the age of discretion, and upon the declaration of any such Indian, negro or molatto slaves, child or other person under the age of discretion, and other circumstances concurring, it shall appear to be highly probable in the judgm[en]t of the court or justice before whom the trial shall be, that the person complained of is guilty, then, and in every such case, unless the defendent shall acquit him- or herself upon oath (to be administered to him or her by the court or justice that shall try the cause), such defendant shall forf[ie][ei]t and pay three pounds to the farmer of excise and costs of prosecution; but if the defendant shall acquit him- or herself upon oath as afores[ai]d, the court or justice may and shall enter up judgment for the defend[an]t to recover costs.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That after any person shall have been once convicted of selling strong liquors without licence, contrary to this act, he shall, upon every offence after such first conviction, be obliged to enter into bonds, with one or more sureties, in the penalty of twenty pounds, to his majesty, for the use of this governm[en]t, that he will not, in like manner, offend or be guilty of any breach of this act; and upon refusal to give such bond, he shall be committed to prison until[1] he shall comply therewith.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That if any person or persons shall be summoned to appear before a justice of the peace, or the grand jury, to give evidence relating to any person's selling strong drink without licence, or to appear before the court of general sessions of the peace, or other court proper to try the same, to give evidence on the tr[y][i]al of any person informed against, presented or indicted for the selling strong drink without licence, and shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to give evidence in that behalf, every person so offending shall forfeit the sum of twenty pounds; the one half to be for his majesty, the other half to and for the use of him or them who shall sue for the same as afores[ai]d. And when it shall so happen that witnesses are bound to sea before the sitting of the court where any person or persons informed against, for selling strong drink without licence, is or are to be prosecuted for the same, in every such case, the deposition of any witness or witnesses in writing, taken before any two of his majesty's justices of the peace, quorum unus, and sealed up and delivered into court, the adverse party having first had a notification in writing sent to him or her of the time and place of caption, shall be esteemed as sufficient evidence, in the law, to convict any person or persons offending against this act, as if such witness or witnesses had been present at the time of tr[y][i]al, and given his, her or their deposition viva voce; and every person or persons who shall be summoned to give evidence before two justices of the peace, in manner as aforesaid, and shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to give evidence relating to the facts he or she shall be inquired of, shall be liable and subject to the same penalty as he or she would have been by virtue of this act, for not appearing, or neglecting or refusing to give his or her evidence before the grand jury or court as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That all fines, forfeitures and penalties arising by this act shall and may be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information, before any court of record proper to try the same; and where the sum forfeited does not exceed three pounds, by action or complaint before any one of his majesty's justices of the peace in the respective counties where such offence shall be committed; which said justice is hereby impow[e]red to try and determine the same. And such justice shall make a fair entry or record of all such his proceeding: saving always to any person or persons who shall think him-, her- or themselves agg[e][i]ved by the sentence or determination of the said justice, as aforesaid, liberty of appeal therefrom to the next court of general sessions of the peace to be holden in and for said county, at which court such offence shall be finally determined: provided that in said appeal the same rules be observed as are already by law required in appeals from justices to the court of general sessions of the peace.

How fines are to be recovered.

And to the end the revenue arising from the aforesaid duties of excise may be advanced for the greater benefit and advantage of the publick,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That one or more persons, to be nominated and appointed by the general court, for and within the several counties within this province, publick notice being first given of the time and place and occasion of their meeting, shall have power, and are hereby authorized, from time to time, to contract and agree with any person for or concerning the farming the duties in this act mentioned, upon brandy, rum, or other the liquors and commodities aforesaid, in the respective counties for which they shall be appointed, as may be for the greatest prof[f]it and advantage of the publick, so as the same exceed not the term of three years after the commencement of this act; and every person to whom the duties of excise in any county shall be let or farmed, shall have power to inspect the houses of all such as are licen[s][c]ed, and of such as are suspected to sell without licence, and to demand, sue for, and recover the excise due from licen[s][c]ed persons by virtue of this act.

Persons empowered to farm out the excise.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That the farmer shall give bond with two sufficient sueties, to the province treasurer for the time being, and his successors in said office, in double the sum of money that shall be contracted for, with condition that the sum agreed be paid into the province treasury, for the use of the province, at the expiration of one year from the date of such bond; which bond the person or persons to be appointed a committee of such county are to take, and the same to lodge with the treasurer as aforesaid, within twenty days after such bond is executed. And the said treasurer, upon failure or neglect of payment at the time therein limit[e]d, shall and hereby is impow[e]red and directed to put such bond in suit, and to receive the money due thereon for the use afore mentioned; and the said committee shall render an account of their proceedings touching the farming this duty on rum, wine and other the liquors and species afore mentioned, in their respective counties, to the general court in the first week of their fall sessions, and shall receive such sum or sums for their trouble and expences in said affair as said court shall think fit to allow them.

[SECT. 15.] And every person farming the excise in any county may substitute and appoint one or more deputies under him, upon oath, to collect and receive the excise aforesaid, which shall become due in such county, and pay in the same to the farmer; which deputy or deputies shall have, use and exercise all such powers and authorities as in and by this act are given or committed to the farmers for the better collecting the duties aforesaid, or prosecuting of offenders against this act.

And be it further enacted, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding,

Farmers may compound with any retailer or innholder.

[SECT. 16.] That it shall and may be lawful to and for the said farmers, and every of them, to compound and agree with any retailer or innholder within their respective divisions, from time to time, for his or her excise for the whole year, in one entire sum, as they in their discretion shall think fit to agree for, without making any entry thereof as is before directed; and all and every person or persons, to whom the said excise or any part thereof shall be let or farmed, by themselves or their lawful substitutes, may and hereby are impow[er]ed to sue for and recover, in any of his majesty's courts of record (or before a justice of the peace where the matter is not above his cognizance), any sum or sums that shall grow due from any of the aforesaid duties of excise, where the party or parties for whom the same is or shall become due shall refuse or neglect to pay the same.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for farmers or their deputies offending.

[SECT. 17.] That in case any person farming the excise as aforesaid, or his deputy, shall, at any time during their continuance in said office, wittingly and willingly connive at, or allow, any person or persons within their respective divisions, not licen[s]c[e]d by the court of general sessions of the peace, their selling any brandy, wine, rum or other liquors by this act forbidden, such farmer or deputy, for every such offence, shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds; one half [w]h[er]eof shall be to his majesty for the use of the province, the other half to him or them that shall inform or sue for the same, and shall thenceforward be forever disabled from serving in said office.

And in order to discourage and prevent any groundless or vexatious suits that may be brought against the farmer of excise,—

Be it enacted,

Farmer's liberty to plead, &c.

[SECT. 18.] That in all actions that may be brought against the farmer of excise for any breach or neglect of his duty in the execution of his office and trust, he shall have liberty to plead the general issue, and thereupon give any special matter in evidence; and in case judgment shall be for the defendant he shall recover treble costs.

And be it further enacted,

Provision in case of death, &c.

[SECT. 19.] That in case of the death of the farmers of excise in any county the executors or administrators of such farmer shall, upon their taking such trust of executor or administrator upon them, have and enjoy all the powers, and be subject to all the duties, the farmer had or might enjoy or was subject to by force of this act. ## CHAPTER 5.

AN ACT FOR LEVYING SOLDIERS.

FOR the more speedy and effectual levying of soldiers for his majesty's service, when and so often as there shall be occasion for the same, for the preservation and defence of his majesty's subjects and interests, and the prosecuting, encouraging, repelling or subduing such as shall at any time attempt, in hostile manner, to enterprize the destruction, invasion, detriment or annoyance of this his majesty's province, or any of his majesty's subjects therein; and for the better preventing disappointments, thro' the default of any employed in levying such soldiers, or by the non-appearance of such as shall be levyed,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any chief officer of any regiment of militia within this province shall receive orders from the captain-general or commander-in-chief, for the time being, of the said province, for the [im]pressing or causing to be impressed for his majesty's service, out of the regiment under his command, so many soldiers as in such orders shall be mentioned, such chief officer of the regiment shall forthwith thereupon issue forth his warrants to the captains or chief officers of the companies or troops within his regiment, or such of them as he shall think fit, requiring them respectively to impress out of the militia, in the companies or troops under their command, so many able soldiers, furnished and provided as the law directs, and in the whole shall make up the number which by the orders of the captain-general or commander-in-chief he shall be directed to impress, on pain that every chief officer of a regiment that shall neglect or not do his utmost to send forth his warrants seasonably (having orders for the same as above mentioned), shall forfeit and pay a fine of fifty pounds.

[SECT. 2.] And every captain or other chief officer of any company or troop that shall receive any warrant from the chief officer of the regiment whereto such company or troops belongs, for the impressing out of the same any soldier or soldiers for his majesty's service, shall thereupon use his utmost endeavour to impress, or cause to be impressed, so many soldiers as by such warrant he shall be required to impress, and to have them at the place of rendezvous in time as therein shall be mentioned, on pain that every captain or chief officer of any company or troop that shall neglect, or not do his utmost, to comply with and perform any warrant to be by him received as aforesaid from the chief officer of the regiment, shall, for such neglect and default, pay a fine of twenty pounds.

[SECT. 3.] And every officer or soldier that shall receive a warrant from his captain, or the chief officer of the company or troop in which he is enlisted, for the impressing of men, shall forthwith attend and perform the same, on [pain of] paying a fine of five pounds.

[SECT. 4.] And all persons are required to be aiding and assisting to him in the execution of such warrant, on pain of forfeiting the sum of three pounds.

[SECT. 5.] And if any person, authorized as aforesaid to impress any soldier or soldiers for his majesty's service, shall exact or take any reward to discharge or spare any from said service, he shall forfeit ten pounds for every twenty shillings he shall so exact or take, and so pro rata.

[SECT. 6.] All which fines and penalties aforesaid shall be, one moiety thereof unto his majesty, for and towards the support of the government of this province, and the other moiety to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any court of record.

And be it further enacted,

Duty of persons impressed.

[SECT. 7.] That every person, liable and fit for service, being orderly impressed as aforesaid for his majesty's service, by being commanded in his majesty's name to attend the said service, shall, by himself or other meet person in his room (to the acceptance of his captain or chief officer), attend the same at time and place appointed, compleat with arms and ammunition, if such he have, or is able to purchase the same, on pain of forfeiting and paying to his captain or chief officer, by whose warrant he was impressed, within twenty-four hours next after such impressment, the sum of ten pounds, who, on payment thereof, shall give a receipt therefor; and in default of such payment, or of procuring some meet person in his stead, to the acceptance of said officer, the said sum shall be lev[i][y]ed by distress and sale of the goods or chattles of such offender, or of the goods and chattles of his parent or master, in case such impressed person be a son under age or a servant; and the officer, by whose warrant he was impressed, shall be and hereby is fully impowered and required to levy and collect the said sum in such manner as constables of towns within this province are impowered to levy the publick taxes; and for want of goods or chattles whereon to make distress, such offender shall suffer six months' imprisonment, without bail or mainprize, to be committed by mittimus from any justice of the peace of the same county, upon due conviction of such neglect.

Fines to be levied on goods and chattles, &c.

[SECT. 8.] And of the mon[i]e[y]s to be so lev[i][y]ed or collected, such captain or chief officer shall lay out and improve so much as shall be necessary for the procuring and fitting out of one or more suitable person or persons, as there may be occasion, to perform the service for which any soldier or soldiers, forfeiting as aforesaid, shall have been impressed, the overplus of such mon[i]e[y]s to be paid into the town treasury, some time before the annual meeting of such town in March, in each and every year, for the use of such town; and such officer shall give in to the treasurer of said town an attested account of the sums by him received and paid; and upon such officer's neglecting to render such account and pay such sum as shall be due, the said town treasurer is hereby impowered to demand and sue therefor accordingly.

In what case impressed persons may be excused.

[SECT. 9.] And if the captain or officer to whom the said sum of ten pounds shall be paid as aforesaid by any person impressed, cannot seasonably procure another suitable person to serve in the stead of him that was before impressed, or if any person impressed shall suffer imprisonment or shall make his escape, in each and every such case the said captain or officer shall renew his warrants as often as there shall be occasion, until the number sent for from him be compleated; and all persons paying the said sum of ten pounds as before mentioned, shall be esteemed as persons that have served, and be no further or otherwise liable to any after impress than those that actually go forth in that service.

Penalty for escaping or absconding from the impress.

[SECT. 10.] And all persons lawfully impow[er]ed to impress, may pursue any person that absconds from the impress, or makes his escape, and may impress such person in any place within the province; and if any person impressed as aforesaid for his majesty's service [being so duly returned, shall remove or go out of the province, and not attend the service] as required, such person, at his return, shall be apprehended, by warrant from any justice of the peace, and be by him committed to prison, unless such person give sufficient security to answer it at the next court of general sessions of the peace; and upon due conviction of the said offence, by the oath of him that impressed him, shall suffer twelve months' imprisonment, or pay a fine of twenty pounds, to be paid to the selectmen of the town where such person belonged to at the time of his being impressed, for purchasing arms.

[SECT. 11.] And if any person, directly or indirectly, by coun-
[ci][se]l or otherwise, shall prevent the impressing, conceal any person impressed, or, knowingly, further his escape, such person shall pay, as a fine, three pounds.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That all soldiers shall be in pay from the time of their being impressed, till they be orderly discharged, and have reasonable time allowed them to repair to their usual places of abode.

When the pay of soldiers is to begin.

[SECT. 13.] And if any captain or other chief officer shall dismiss any soldier retained in his majesty's service, and assume another, for gain, such captain or other chief officer shall forfeit the sum of ten pounds for every twenty shillings he shall so exact, to be recovered and disposed of in manner as is before provided for the fine or penalty on officers neglecting to execute warrants for impressing of soldiers.

[SECT. 14.] And every person who shall impress any soldiers for his majesty's service, shall transmit a list of them to the chief officer of the regiment or troop, particularly mentioning sons under age, or servants, if any such there be, and to whom they belong, that so their fathers or masters may receive their wages, who are hereby impowered so to do.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That all such soldiers and seamen that, from the commencement of the present war, have been, or, during the continuance thereof, may be, wounded in his majesty's service within this province, and are thereby maimed or otherwise disabled, shall be relieved out of the public treasury, as the great and general court or assembly shall order.

Maimed soldiers and seamen to be relieved.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That any impressed man or men appearing at the place of rendezvous, being actually destitute of arms and ammunition of his own, and unable to purchase the same, he or they shall be furnished out of the town stock, if any there be, otherwise it shall be in the power of the captain or chief officer of the company or troop by whom he is impressed, to impress arms and ammunition for him or them, the value of which shall be paid out of his wages, fourpence per week for the same, and return such arms, or otherwise pay for the same. And if any soldier shall lose his arms in his majesty's service, not thro' his own neglect or default, such loss shall be born by the province.

Soldiers to be furnished with arms.

Provided,—

[SECT. 17.] That this act shall continue in force unto the end of the sessions of the general assembly, to be begun and holden on the last Wednesday in May, which will be in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, and no longer. [Passed June 24; published June 27.]

CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT FOR ENLISTING THE INHABITANTS OF DORCHESTER, WEYMOUTH AND CHARLESTOWN INTO HIS MAJESTY'S SERVICE FOR THE DEFENCE OF CASTLE WILLIAM, AS OCCASION SHALL REQUIRE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the safety of this province in a great measure depends on the strength of his majesty's Castle William, and it is necessary that a great number of men skilful in the management of the great artillery should be always ready to attend there,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and House of Representatives,

Enlisted inhabitants of Dorchester, Weymouth, and Charlestown, to appear at Castle William, on occasion.

[SECT. 1.] That all the inhabitants of the town of Dorchester who are by law subject to common musters and military exercises, not exceeding fifty years of age, and such of the inhabitants of the towns of Weymouth and Charlestown as are willing to be enlisted, not exceeding one hundred and twenty in the whole from the two last towns, shall be enlisted under the present captains, or such other officers as the captain-general shall commissionate, who shall repair to Dorchester Neck, and be transported over to Castle William, four days in each year, in such months as the captain-general shall order; and shall on the said days be, by the gunner and quarter-gunners, exercised in the mounting, dismounting, levelling, traversing and firing the great guns, and shall be obliged hereunto, and to the observance of such orders as shall be given them in this exercise, under the like pains and penalties that soldiers are under to obey their officers in said castle in time of service.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for not attending.

[SECT. 2.] That if any of the men enlisted as aforesaid shall not duly attend at time and place for the exercise of the great artillery, as aforesaid, being thereof notified and warned to appear, for every such day's neglect of attendance such soldier shall pay to the clerk of the company, for the use thereof, ten shillings.

And for the encouragem[en]t of the said men that shall be enlisted and exercised as aforesaid,—

Be it further enacted,

Enlisted persons excused other military service,
&c.

[SECT. 3.] That every person so [e]nlisted shall be excused from all other military service, and from all impresses into other service that other soldiers by law are liable to.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants of Dorchester to appear at Castle

[SECT. 4.] That upon any alarm at Castle William, every man able of body, as well those enlisted by virtue of this act as also all others within the town of Dorchester, except such persons as are by law obliged to attend upon the governour for the time being, shall forthwith appear, compleat with their arms and ammunition according to law, at the said Castle William, there to attend and follow such commands as shall be given for his majesty's service, and that on the penalty of paying five pounds to the clerk of the said company, for the use of the province; the afores[a]d fines to be recovered before any justice of the peace or court proper to hear and try the same. AN ACT FOR GRANTING THE SUM OF TWENTY-FOUR HUNDRED POUNDS, FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNOUR.

Grant to the Governor.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,
That the sum of twenty-four hundred pounds, in bills of credit of the form and tenor last emitted, be and hereby is granted to his most excellent majesty, to be paid out of the publick treasury to his excellency William Shirley, Esq., captain-general and governour-in-chief in and over his majesty's province of the Massachusetts-Bay, for his past services and further to enable him to manage the publick affairs of the province. [Passed November 18; published November 28.]

CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT FOR THE EASE OF PRISONERS FOR DEBT.

Preamble.
1740-41, chap. 22.

FORASMUCH as, in divers counties within this province, the prisons are so small, that, when there are any numbers of prisoners, there are not rooms or apartments sufficient for the receiving and securing of them, without lodging felons and other criminals and prisoners for debt together in one and the same room; which is very inconvenient,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Prisons to be made with convenient apartments.

[SECT. 1.] That, in the several counties within this province, the prisons that are or shall be erected within the said counties, shall be made so large as that there may be sufficient and convenient apartments for the receiving and lodging of prisoners for debt, seperate and distinct from felons and other criminals.

And be it further enacted,

Debtors to have separate apartments.

[SECT. 2.] That any person imprisoned for debt, either upon mean process or execution, shall be permitted and allowed to have a chamber and lodging in any of the houses or apartments belonging to such prisons, and liberty of the yard within the same in the daytime, but not to pass without the limits of the prison, upon reasonable payment to be made for chamber room, not exceeding one shilling and sixpence per week; such prisoner giving bond to the sheriff, with two sufficient sureties, being freeholders, bound jointly and severally, in double the sum for which he is imprisoned, with the condition under-written in form following; viz.,—

“That, if the above-bounden A. B., now prisoner in his majesty’s goal in B., within the county of S., at the suit of C. D., do and shall from henceforth continue and be a true prisoner in the custody, guard and safe keeping of J. S., keeper of the same prison, and in the custody, guard and safe keeping of his deputy, officers and servants, or some one of them, within the limits of the said prison, until he shall be lawfully discharged, without committing any manner of escape or escapes during the time of his restraint, then this obligation to be void, or else to abide in full force and virtue.”

Form of the bond to be given.

[SECT. 3.] And in case of any escape, the whole penalty of such bond shall be to and for the use of the creditor, and such bond shall be transferred and assigned over to the creditor by the sheriff, with full power to enable him to put the same in suit; and the creditor shall recover the whole sum therein expressed, and the court shall make up judgment accordingly; and the sheriff delivering up such bond to the creditor, so assigned as aforesaid, shall not be liable to any action of escape for any prisoner enlarged upon security given in manner as aforesaid.

Forfeitures for the creditors.

Provided always,

[SECT. 4.] That the sureties be approved as sufficient by the justices of that court before whom the cause upon such commitment is to be tried, or from whence execution issued, or any two of them being together, or by two justices of the county, quorum unus, as aforesaid, where the debtor is imprisoned, and no other surety to be accepted.

Proviso.

[SECT. 5.] This act shall continue and be in force for the space of ten years from the publication thereof, and from thence to the end of the session of the general court then next after, and no longer. [Passed November 11; published November 28.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT APPOINTING WILLIAM COFFIN, FARMER OF EXCISE FOR THE COUNTY OF SUFFOLK, IN THE ROOM OF JEFFRY BEDGOOD.

WHEREAS the committee appointed to farm out the excise on wines and distilled spirits sold by retail, and on limes, lemmons and oranges, for the county of Suffolk, on the twenty-fourth day of June last, let the same to farm for the term of three years, commencing from the twenty-ninth of June last, for two thousand five hundred pounds, new tenor, per annum, to Mr. Jeffry Bedgood; and whereas the said Jeffry Bedgood and William Coffin have, by their several petitions, represented that the said Bedgood appeared to hire the same only for the said Coffin, and not for himself, and prayed that the said Bedgood might be discharged of and from said undertaking, and his bonds be cancelled, and that the said Coffin might be put in his place, with all the benefits, powers and trusts of said office of farmer of excise, and give his own bonds, with security, to be accepted in lieu of those given by the said Bedgood,—

Preamble.
1748.49, chap. 4,
§ 13.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That Jacob Wendell, James Allen and Adam Cushing, Esqrs., be directed and impowred to take bonds of the said William Coffin, with security, for the same sum and of the same tenor with the bonds, aforesaid, given by the said Jeffry Bedgood, in lieu of those given by said Bedgood; and thereupon to deliver to the said Bedgood his aforesaid bonds or cause the same to be discharged and cancelled.

William Coffin to give bond as farmer of excise, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That upon the said William Coffin’s giving bonds as aforesaid, the said William Coffin shall be vested with all the rights, benefits, Vested with the rights and powers of said office.

priviledges and powers, of a farmer of said excise for said county, that have and shall accrue to the farmer of the excise aforesaid, for said county, from the twenty-ninth day of June last until three years, commencing therefrom, shall be compleat and ended, and with the same power and right of prosecuting in his own name, as farmer of said excise, any offenders against any laws relating to such excise, or any branch thereof, and the same benefit in, and share of, the forfeitures such offenders shall incur, whether such offences were committed before or after the making of this act, so that it be within the three years commencing from the twenty-ninth day of June last; and likewise to demand an account of, and receive, excise, from said twenty-ninth day of June last, of any person or persons from whom the same, by law, is or shall become due within the county and term aforesaid; and to sue any such persons for the penalty for not accounting to him therefor, in the same manner as the said Jeffry Bedgood might have done had he continued to be farmer of said excise; and enabled and impowered to transact any and everything relating to the duty or interest of a farmer of said excise, to all intents and purposes, as fully, and in the same manner, as he could or might have done had he, and not the said Jeffry Bedgood, been made farmer of said excise on the said twenty-fourth day of June last, anything in any other law to the contrary notwithstanding. ON THE TWENTY-FIRST DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D.
1748.

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT FOR INQUIRING INTO THE RATEABLE ESTATE OF THE PROVINCE.

WHEREAS the rateable estate of the several towns in this province Preamble. may be very much altered since the last valuation taken by this 1741-42, chap. 9.
court,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the assessors of each town within this province, who shall be chosen for the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, shall, on oath, take and lodge in the secretary's office, by the last Wednesday of May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, a true and perfect list, according to their best skill and understanding, and conformable to a list settled and agreed on by the general court, and to be recorded in the secretary's office, a printed copy thereof to be sent by the treasurer to the clerk of each town and district which has heretofore been assessed to the province tax, therein to set forth an account of all male polls of sixteen years old and upwards, whether at home or abroad, distinguishing such as are exempt from rates through age or otherwise, and of all rateable estates, both real and personal, within their respective towns, and to whom the same belongs, and of all Indian, negro and molatto servants, whether for life or for a term of years, and of all farms or parcels of land lying adjacent to and rated in such town ; and an account of what any farm or house within the town, that is improved by hire, rents for by the year, and who was the occupant thereof in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight ; also, what number of vessels, and of what burthen, have sailed from their respective ports to any other, except those in New England, in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight ; and the said assessors, in taking such valuation, shall distinguish the different improvements of the real estate into the following parts ; viz., houses, pasture and tillageland, salt, fresh and English mowing-land, with the number of acres of orchard, and what stock the pasture ordinarily is capable of feeding, and what quantity of produce the said tillage-, mowing- and orchard-land yearly affords, one year with another : excepting the governour, lieutenant-governour, president, fellows and tutors of Harvard College, settled ministers and grammar-school masters, with their families, who,
for their polls and estates in their own actual improvement, shall be exempted out of this act. And the said assessors, before they enter on this work, shall take the following oath ; viz.,—

List of polls and estates to be lodged in the secretary's office.

Printed form thereof to be recorded.

Direction to the assessors in the valuation.

Form of the assessors' oath.

You, A. B., being chosen assessors for the town of B. for the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, do severally swear that you will faithfully and impartially, according to your best skill and judgment, do and perform the whole duty of an assessor, as directed and enjoined by an act of this province of the present year, intituled "An Act for inquiring into the rateable estate of the province," without favour or prejudice. So help you God.

—Which oath, in such town where no justice dwells, shall be administered by the town clerk.

Penalty for refusing the oath, or neglect of duty.

[SECT. 2.] And every assessor who is chosen by any town in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, accepting such choice, that shall refuse to take the said oath, or, taking the same, shall neglect or refuse to take the list aforesaid, or shall any way prevaricate therein, shall, for each of those offences, forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding forty pounds. And every person refusing or neglecting to give such assessor or assessors a true account of his rateable estate, improvements or rent, agreeable to the true intent of this act, shall, for each offence, forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds.

Penalty for giving a false account of polls and estate.

[SECT. 3.] And in case any account given by any person, in pursuance of this act, shall be, by the assessor or assessors taking the same, suspected of falshood, it shall be in the power of either of such assessors to administer an oath to the truth of said account; and if such suspected person shall refuse to swear to the truth of such account, according to his best judgment, when thereto required by any one of the assessors, such refusal shall be deem'd a refusal to give an account of his rateable estate, and the person so refusing, shall be subject to the fine in that case by this act provided, without further or other evidence for his conviction on trial. And every assessor shall be allowed out of the treasury of his respective town, the sum of five shillings for every day he shall be necessarily employed in taking the lists afore mentioned.

And be it further enacted,

Assessors to give into the secretary's office a list for the year 1748.

[SECT. 4.] That the assessors of each town within this province for the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, shall, by the said last Wednesday in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, on oath, transmit to the secretary's office true and perfect copies of their province tax-lists for the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight, on penalty that each assessor neglecting his duty therein, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds: provided, that the town of Boston, if they find it impracticable to form such a list of valuation, and so represent it to this court at the session in May next, shall be excused from the penalty for such omission, at the same time laying before the court copies of their tax-lists for the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-eight.

Fines, how to be recovered and applied.

[SECT. 5.] All fines and forfeitures arising by this act may be recovered by bill, plaint or information, or by action of debt, in any of his majesty's courts within this province proper to try the same, and shall be applied, two thirds to him or them that shall inform or sue for the same, and the other third to his majesty, to and for the use of this government. ## CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT FOR THE MORE EASY PARTITION OF LANDS.

Preamble.

1742-43, chap. 24.
9 Mass., 374.

WHEREAS the partition of lands is often delayed by reason that the parties concerned therein are very numerous, and live remote from each other, and sometimes in parts beyond the seas, and are some of them, unknown, to the hindrance and retarding of the improvement and settlement of lands in this province; for remedy whereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, any person or persons interested with any others in any lot or grant of land, making application, either by themselves or their lawful agents, attorneys or guardians, to the superiour court of judicature, the said court, whether then holden in the county where such lands lie, or in any other county within this province, is hereby authorized and impowred to cause partition to be made of such lands, with the buildings thereon, if any such there be, and the share or shares of the party or parties applying for the same, to be set off and divided from the rest, such partition to be made by five frecholders, under oath, or the major part of them, to be appointed by said court, and a return of such partition to be made into the clerk's office of said court; and the partition or division so made, being accepted by the said court, and there recorded, and also recorded in the registry of deeds in the county where such estate lies, shall be valid and effectual to all intents and purposes.

Superior court upon application to make partition of lands.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[SECT. 2.] That before such partition be made, where any infants or persons under age, or non compos mentis, are interested, guardians shall be appointed for all such persons, according to law, if they live within this province. And if any person or persons interested in any such estate, happen, at the time when such application shall be made, to have been beyond sea or out of this province for the space of one year, and not expected to return into the same within the space of six months more, and have no sufficient attorney within the same, that then, and in such cases, the justices of said court shall appoint some discreet and indifferent person or persons as agent or agents for such absent party or parties, and on his, her or their behalf to be advising in making such partition; and due notice to all concerned, that are known and within this province, shall be given before such partition be made, that so they may be present, if they see meet, at the time of making the same.

Exception where any persons are non compos or out of the province.

Provided also,—

[SECT. 3.] That no partition be made where any partner shall be beyond sea, and shall not have been absent twelve months, or shall be expected to return within six months; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Proviso.

Provided also,—

[SECT. 4.] That if any partner should have a larger share set off than is such partner's true and real interest, or if any share set off should be more than equal in value to the proportion it was set off for, then, and in every such case, upon complaint to the court which caused said partition to be made, within three years of the making thereof, by any aggrieved partner or partners, who, at the time of making such partition, were out of the province, and not notified thereof as aforesaid in time for them to be present at the same, the said court shall cause a partition thereof to be made de novo.

Case where the partition may be made de novo.

[SECT. 5.] And in such new partition, so much and no more shall be taken off from any share, as such share shall be adjudg'd more than the proportion of the whole it was design'd for, estimating such lands as in their original state, or the state they were in when first divided; and in case any improvements shall have been made on the part that may by such new partition be taken off as aforesaid, the partner who made such improvements shall have reasonable satisfaction made them by the partner or partners to whose share the same shall be added, by the estimation of the freeholders employ'd in making such new partition, or the major part of them.

Limitation.

[SECT. 6.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of seven years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed February 1; published February 2, 1748-49.]

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE ON THE BEACH AND MEADOWS IN PLYMOUTH, ADJOINING TO SAID BEACH, COMMONLY KNOWN BY THE NAME OF PLYMOUTH BEACH.

Preamble.

WHEREAS persons frequently drive numbers of neat cattle, horses and sheep, to feed upon Plymouth Beach and the meadows adjoining to said beach, whereby the said beach is much broken, and the sea breaks over it and carries the sand into the harbour and upon the meadows; and there is great danger, if such practices are not prevented, that the harbours in said town will be intirely ruined, and the meadows within said beach utterly spoiled, to the great damage of the owners thereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

No neat cattle, horses, or sheep to be turned on Plymouth beach or meadows.
Penalty.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive on any neat cattle, horse-kind or sheep, upon the beach called Plymouth Beach, or upon the meadows adjoining, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for neat cattle or horses, and three shillings for each sheep, that shall be turned or found on said beach or meadows; which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or town treasurer of said town of Plymouth, or any other person that shall inform or sue for the same: the one half of said forfeiture to him or them that shall inform or sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of said town of Plymouth.

And be it further enacted,

Creatures turned on said beach, &c., to be impounded.

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, horse-kind or sheep shall, at any time, be found feeding on said beach, meadows or shores adjoining to said beach, that it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, immediately giving notice to the owner or owners of the same, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof in said town of Plymouth; and the impounder shall relieve said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay two shillings and sixpence for each neat beast or horse-kind, and eightpence for each sheep, and the reasonable cost of relieving them, besides the pound-keeper's fees. And if no owner appear within the space of three days to redeem the said cattle, horse-kind or sheep so impounded, and to pay the cost and damage occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case the person or persons impounding such cattle, horse-kind or sheep, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, and pay the cost and charges arising about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale being given in the said town of Plymouth and the two neighbouring towns, forty-eight hours beforehand), and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner or owners of such cattle, horse-kind or sheep, at any time within two months next after such sale, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appears within said two months, then the said overplus shall be one half to the person impounding, and the other half to be returned to the town treasurer of said town of Plymouth, for the use of the poor of said town.

Owners thereof to pay a fine and cost of relieving.

Creatures to be sold, in case.

Provided,—

[SECT. 3.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent any of the owner or owners of said beach or meadows, or any improving under them; from turning on their horses they ride, or cattle improved in their teams, to feed on said beach or meadows, while they are cutting or carting their hay off said beach or meadows adjoining. Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the said town of Plymouth, at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and empowered to chose one or more meet person or persons whose duty it shall be to see this act observed, and to prosecute the breakers thereof, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty shillings for the use of the poor of the town of Plymouth; and upon said refusal, said town may, from time to time, proceed to a new choice of such officer or officers: and said town of Plymouth, at a town meeting warned for that purpose, may at any time choose such officers, who shall continue 'till their annual meeting in March next. Officers to be chosen to see this act executed.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of seven years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed January 24; published February 2, 1748—49. Penalty for refusing the oath. Limitation.

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BY FIRE IN THE TOWNS OF BOSTON AND CHARLESTOWN.

WHEREAS great damage has many times arisen from fires which have begun in sailmakers' and riggers' lofts, and spread to the buildings adjacent,— Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the first day of September, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, it shall not be lawful for any person to occupy or improve any tenement or building whatsoever, in any part of the towns of Boston or Charlestown, for the business or employment of a sailmaker or rigger, save only in such parts of the town as the selectmen of the said towns, respectively, or the major part of them, shall determine convenient,—such determination to be certified under the hand of the town clerk. Sailmakers' lofts in Boston and Charlestown to be allowed of by the selectmen.

[SECT. 2.] And if any person shall offend against this act, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds for every six months, and so in proportion for a greater or less time, he shall so occupy or improve any tenement or building that shall not be licensed or allowed as aforesaid; one half thereof to and for the use of the poor of the town of Boston or Charlestown, respectively, the other half to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same,—to be recovered before the court of general sessions of the peace for the county where the offence shall be committed. Penalty for offending.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force until the first day of September, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, and no longer. [Passed January 31; published February 2, 1748—49. Limitation.

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR DRAWING IN THE BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE SEVERAL DENOMINATIONS WHICH HAVE AT ANY TIME BEEN ISSUED BY THIS GOVERNMENT AND ARE STILL OUTSTANDING, AND FOR ASCERTAINING THE RATE OF COIN'D SILVER IN THIS PROVINCE FOR THE FUTURE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the sum of one hundred and eighty-three thousand six hundred and forty-nine pounds two shillings and sevenpence halfpenny, sterling money, has been granted by the parliament of Great Britain, for reimbursing to this province their expences in taking and securing Cape Breton,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Persons empowered to act for the province in taking care of the money granted by parliament for the charge at Cape Breton.

[SECT. 1.] That the Honourable Sir Peter Warren, Knight of the Bath, William Bollan, Esq., agent for this province, and Eliakim Palmer, Esq., of London, merchant, they or two of them,—the said William Bollan, agent, as aforesaid, except in case of his death, always to be one,—be and are hereby authorized and impowred to give a full discharge to the right honourable the lords commissioners of the treasury, for the sum granted as aforesaid, whensoever the same shall have been issued; or to the Bank of England, in case the same shall have been there deposited; or to any person or persons in whose possession or custody soever the same is or shall be; to prefer the humble address of the general court of this province to the king's most excellent majesty, that he would be graciously pleased to order the said sum to be transported to this government in foreign coin'd silver, on board some one or more of his majesty's ships; and to pursue such instructions as the said general court shall judge necessary concerning the transportation of the said granted sum to this province.

And be it further enacted,

The province treasurer empowered to receive said money on its arrival.

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer of the province for the time being, be and hereby is fully authorized and impowred to demand and receive the whole and every part of the money aforesaid from the commander of any vessel or vessels on board of which the same shall be ship'd, upon the arrival thereof within this government.

And be it further enacted,

The said money to be exchanged for bills of credit.

[SECT. 3.] That from and after the thirty-first day of March, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty, the possessor and possessors of each and every of the bills of credit of this province which shall then be outstanding, upon bringing such bill or bills to the treasurer aforesaid, shall be intitled to and receive, in exchange for every such bill or bills, silver at the rate following; viz., for every forty-five shillings in bills commonly known and understood by bills of the old form and tenor, one piece of eight; and for every eleven shillings and threepence in bills of the new form and tenor, and also of the middle form and tenor, one piece of eight; and so proportionably for a greater or less sum in the bills of each and any of the forms and tenors aforesaid: provided, nevertheless, that if the possessors aforesaid shall not offer such bills in exchange within one year from and after the said thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, all right or claim to the redemption or exchange thereof shall determine and cease.

Provided always,—

Provide respecting bills of the neighboring governments.

[SECT. 4.] That such of the bills of credit of this province as shall be the property of the inhabitants of Connecticut, New Hampshire and

Rhode Island, may and shall be redeemed or exchanged by the bills of credit of each of those governments, respectively, that may be in the hands of the inhabitants of this government; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And whereas all debts, dues, demands, bargains and contracts whatsoever, unless otherwise specially agreed or contracted, are now understood to be payable and may be discharged by the publick bills of credit of this province; and upon any action or actions being brought in the courts of judicature within this province, and judgment being made upon such action, and execution issued, such execution may be now satisfied and discharged by the publick bills of credit as aforesaid, with the addition of a greater or less sum according to the time when such debts were contracted,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That from and after the thirty-first day of March, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty, all debts, dues, demands, bargains and contracts payable in bills of credit as aforesaid, shall be understood to be payable in coin'd silver only; and all executions in consequence of any judgment of court in all actions heretofore brought or that may at any time hereafter be brought for the recovery of such debts, dues, demands, bargains and contracts made and contracted as aforesaid, shall and may be then discharged by silver at the rate following; viz., every forty-five shillings of such debts, dues or demands which were payable or might be discharged by bills of the old tenor, shall and may be discharged by one mill'd piece-of-eight; and every eleven shillings and threepence of such debts, dues or demands which were payable or might be discharged by bills of the middle tenor, or by bills of the new tenor, shall and may be discharged by one mill'd piece-of-eight, with such addition, according to the time of contracting, as the laws of this province do or shall require; and so proportionably of any debt or demand of greater or less value.

Contracts after March 31, 1750, to be understood to be in silver money.

And whereas in and by the several acts of this government for issuing the publick bills of credit, provision has been made for drawing said bills into the publick treasury again by certain taxes which it is provided by said acts shall be laid on the several towns in this government in each of the several years from this present year until the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the several clauses in the acts aforesaid, providing for the bringing into the province treasury, by taxes, the several sums, in bills of credit issued by virtue of such acts, be and hereby are repealed, and declared null and void.

Repeal of the clauses in divers acts for taxes.

And whereas the sum granted by parliament as aforesaid, may prove insufficient to redeem or exchange the whole sum which is now outstanding in said bills of credit, at the rates aforesaid,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of seventy-five thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, to be paid into the publick treasury on or before the last of December then next ensuing; and the tax aforesaid is hereby declared to be payable in bills of credit of the new form and tenor, or of the middle form and tenor, according to their respective denominations, or in bills of the old tenor, accounting four for one, or in Spanish mill'd dollars, at the rate of eleven shillings and threepence each.

Tax for £75,000 to be levied in 1749.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not, at their sessions in May. and before the twentieth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be in said year apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case, each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax-act then last preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowred and directed, some time in the month of June in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed;* and the assessors, as Treasurer to issue his warrants in case there be no act for apportioning said tax.

* So much of this chapter as authorized the apportionment of this tax, was printed, together with the apportionment, in pamphlet form, and distributed by the authority of the General Assembly. Copies of this pamphlet are still in existence, but are extremely rare; and, as the act is important, it has been deemed proper to subjoin the apportionment, in the margin, omitting the extracts from the act.

No act having been agreed upon and passed, during the May session of the year 1749, for apportioning the tax, the Treasurer issued his warrants to the selectmen or assessors of the several towns and districts, in conformity with the provisions of this chapter, having calculated the apportionment upon the basis of the tax-act of the year 1748—49. In these warrants, however, he inadvertently exceeded the rate of poll-tax prescribed by law, which was the cause of much difficulty and delay in collecting. To provide a remedy in this emergency, the following resolve was passed:—

“Decem<sup>r</sup> 14, 1749. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Whereas the Province Treasurer in Consequence of the Law of this Province, made & pass'd by the Great & General Court, at their Session, & Session, begun & held at Boston, upon Wednesday the 25th of May 1748, & Continued by Prorogation & Adjournm<sup>ts</sup> to Wednesday the 21st day of December following & then met, Entitled An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of the several Denominations which have at any Time been issued by this Govern<sup>t</sup> & are still Out standing, & for Ascertainin<sup>g</sup> the Rate of coined Silver in this Province for the future, did in June last issue his Warrants directed to the several Selectmen or Assessors of the several Towns in this Province requiring them to Assess the Polls & Estates of the Inhabitants of the said Town, as he apprehended agreeable to the Rules & Directions of the said Act; But being afterwards sensible of the Mistake in the Sums by said Warrants directed to be levied upon the Polls, did on the first day of Aug<sup>r</sup> last under his hand notify most or all of the said Assessors of the said Mistake & therein direct that the Sum to be levied on each Poll towards the said Tax should be sixteen Shillings & one penny, which Sum was agreeable to the said Act & true Intent thereof. Therefore Resolved that the Select Men or Assessors of the several Towns in this Province, who have not made their Assessments conformable to the said Direction of the said Treasurer, that they forthwith make their respective Assessments, & that they therein conform themselves to the said Warrants & Direction in Explanation thereof; And all Persons are hereby enjoined to conform themselves thereto, as thò the said Warrants had been originally issued according to the true Intent of the Law; And where such Assessments have been made by any of the Select Men or Assessors of the Towns of this Province, agreeable to the said Warrants & After Directions in Explanation thereof, It is hereby Ordered that the same be held good & valid; And all persons are enjoined to conform themselves accordingly. In Council, Read & Concur'd. Consented to by the Lieut<sup>g</sup> Governour.”—Council Records, vol. XIX., p. 89.

Other difficulties were encountered in the assessment and collection of this tax, the most notable instances of which occurred in the town of Salem, where the assessors through “a misapprehension of the law” assessed not only all stock in trade, and the principal of money loaned, but also the profits of the former, and lawful interest on the latter

On the petition of Benjamin Lynde, the younger, afterwards chief justice of the Superior Court of Judicature, and others, this assessment was set aside by the General Assembly: the money collected was ordered to be paid into the town treasury, and provision was made for correcting all inequalities, by allowing to the parties who had already overpaid to the collectors, credits in the settlement of their taxes for the next year.

Efforts were made to have the assessment ratified and confirmed by a resolve of the general court; but these proved unavailing. New embarrassments arose in subsequent attempts to comply with the order of the General Court. To avoid these, agreements were made among the tax-payers, in town-meeting, with the understanding that they were to be ratified by the general court.

The case was still further complicated by the act, which was passed before the tax had been collected, erecting a part of the town of Salem into the district of Danvers; and also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the last preceding tax-act; and if there be any surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

And whereas it is provided by this act that the whole sum now outstanding in bills of credit, which have been the medium and instrument of trade and commerce for many years past, shall be sunk, partly by a tax, and partly by being exchanged for the sum granted by parliament as aforesaid,—which sum may prove sufficient to serve as a medium instead of said bills,—and it being of great importance that all possible means should be us'd for establishing an invariable silver currency for the future,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That all bargains and contracts, debts and dues whatsoever which shall be agreed, contracted or made after the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, shall be understood again the authority of the Legislature had to be invoked to determine the proportion of tax to be paid by the town of Salem, and the new district, respectively.

Contracts and debts to be paid after March 31, 1750, in silver money.

The full records relating to this matter are reserved for publication in the Appendix, with other resolves and orders of the General Court, of a declaratory nature.

The apportionment above referred to, is as follows:—

N.B. The part, or proportion, agreeable to the last preceding tax-act, which each town or district within this province is to be assessed, and pay, of the abovesaid seventy-five thousand pounds in bills of credit, this present year, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, as also their representatives pay, three thousand five hundred and seventy-two pounds, seventeen shillings and six pence, is the several sums following; that is to say,—

CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AN ACT ENTITLED “AN ACT FOR THE MORE SPEEDY FINISHING THE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY SCHEME.”

Preamble.

1744-45, chap. 12.

It appearing to this court, notwithstanding the provision made for the speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme, in the act of the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, intitled “An Act for the more speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme,” that there are great difficulties in the way of the commissioners, by said act appointed to finish said scheme without the further aid of this court, more especially occasioned by the destruction of the books and papers of the said late Land-bank Company, and of the said commissioners, in the late burning of the court-house in Boston,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and Representatives,

Commissioners empowered and directed to assess persons according to the list.

[SECT. 1.] That the said commissioners, or a major part of them, be directed and impowered, and hereby they are directed and impowered, as soon as may be, to make an assessment on those persons mentioned in a list printed in the supplement of the “Boston Gazette,” 1745; which list is hereby declared to contain a true and exact account of the partners in said late Land-bank Scheme; and the said assessment shall be made for the full sum in said list, printed in said “Gazette,” and such further sum as said commissioners shall judge necessary to redeem all the outstanding bills of said company, principal and interest, make good deficiencies by the failing of any partners, and to defrey the just incidental charges; and every receipt from said commissioners, or other satisfactory evidence, of payment on the aforesaid assessment lately printed in the “Boston Gazette,” shall be taken and received by said commissioners as payment for the sum or sums they amount to, in the assessment now directed to; upon and according to which assessment now ordered (being first approved by the general court, after being inserted in all the weekly newspapers printed in Boston, sixty days before its presentation to the general court, that all concerned may object if they see cause) the said commissioners shall issue their warrants of distress against such partners as shall neglect to pay for sixty days after the general court's approbation: which warrant of distress shall be in the form following; viz.,—

Warrants of distress to be issued.

PROVINCE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY.

Form thereof.

JOHN JEFFRIES, SAMUEL DANFORTH, JOHN CHANDLER, Esqrs., Commissioners for the more speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme,—

To the Sheriff of the County of A, his undersheriff or deputy, or either of the constables of B,—Greeting:

By vertue of an act of the great and general court or assembly of said province, made at their session begun and held at Boston, upon Wednesday, the twenty-sixth day of October, 1748, entituled “An Act in further addition to an act entituled ‘An Act for the more speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme,’” there was an assessment made on the late directors and partners in said scheme, for the drawing in the remainder of the outstanding bills emitted on said scheme, which assessment has been duly published in all the publick newspapers in Boston, agreeable to said act, and passed the approbation of the general court; since which more than sixty days are passed: in which assessment A. B., of C., in the county of E., a late partner in said scheme, was assessed the sum of _____, in lawful money or Manufactory bills, as his part or proportion; and altho' publick notice has been given of said assessment, as aforesaid, yet the said A. B. hitherto neglects to pay in the same, as is by said act required:—

Wherefore, by virtue of the authority to us given in and by the aforesaid act, these are, in his majesty's name, to require you to levy by distress and sale of the estate, real and personal, of the said A. B., the above sum of _____, lawful money, and bring the same to us, at our office in Boston, forthwith, returning the overplus, if any be, to the said A. B.; and if there cannot be found in your precinct estate sufficient to discharge the same, then you are to commit the said A. B., if to be found in your precinct, to the common goal of the county of E., there to remain until he has paid the said sum of _____, lawful money, and charges; for all which this shall be your sufficient warrant: save, only, that if you shall take the real estate of the said A. B., that then the said A. B., his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, shall have liberty, for three months thereafter, to redeem the same, and if the same shall not be redeemed within three months as aforesaid, by paying said sum of _____, and charges, then you are required to sell the same as aforesaid, and return this warrant, and your doings thereon, into the office of the register of deeds for the county of E., there to be recorded.

Given, under our hands and seals, at Boston, the _____ day of _____, 174 _____, in the _____ year of our Sovereign Lord, _____, by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, &c.

J. J.
S. D.
J. C.

[SECT. 2.] And all sheriffs, their undersheriffs and deputies, and, where they are interested, all coroners, and, where the sum exceeds not ten pounds, all constables, are impowred and required to execute them on the persons whose names are contained in said list, or their estates, real or personal.

Direction to the sheriffs, coroners and constables, for executing the warrants.

And as some of said partners are or may be deceased, or out of the province, before such warrants of distress shall be issued,—

[SECT. 3.] The said sheriffs, coroners and constables are hereby impowred and directed to take such estate as they may find belonged to such deceased person, or was by law liable to be taken if such deceased person or persons were then living, and in the province; the estate taken, whether real or personal, to be sold, and the overplus, if any, to be returned as by law required in ordinary cases of execution or distress: save only that the liberty of redeeming the real estate shall extend to three months only, after being taken; upon the expiration of which term of three months, if the same be not redeemed, the sheriff or other officer who took the same, shall return the warrant of distress, with his doings thereon, into the office of the register of deeds, in the county where the lands lie, there to be recorded.

[SECT. 4.] And if there shall be a surplus in the hands of the commissioners, after redeeming said bills and paying the necessary charges, the said commissioners shall divide and pay the same equitably to and among the said late partners, said division being first approved by the general court.

Surplus, how to be disposed of.

And to the intent all possessors of said Land-bank bills may more readily and easily receive such sum or sums as may be due upon or for their bills,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the said commissioners, or a major part of them, shall, as soon as they are enabled to redeem them, give publick notice in all the said weekly newspapers, of the time or times, and place or places in the town of Boston, when and where they will attend to redeem them; which publick notice, being inserted six weeks successively in all the weekly newspapers printed in Boston, hereby is made and declared to be a legal tender to all and every possessor and possessors of said bills.

Time and place of the commissioners' meeting for redeeming the bills to be publicly notified.

And forasmuch as, by the said burning, many papers and evidences were lost, whereby said commissioners may be much embarrass'd, which might be eased by papers, books or receipts in other persons' hands,—

Be it enacted and declared,

Commissioners
empowered to demand papers.

[SECT. 6.] That said commissioners be and hereby they are authorized and impowred to demand and receive of the late directors, treasurer, endorser, partners and clerks of the said late company, any and all papers they shall judge needful, giving receipt for them, and to examine the said persons on oath touching the affairs of said late company. And the said commissioners, or a major part of them, are directed to meet, for the first four weeks after the publication of this act, two days in each week, and for the next four weeks, one day in each week, and after that, one day each alternate or every other week, 'till the scheme be finished, and no oftener, unless, on a representation made to the governour and council, they shall direct the commissioners to meet more frequently. [Passed January 3, 1748—49.]

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO, AND FOR EXPLANATION OF, AN ACT ENTITLED "AN ACT FOR LIMITATION OF ACTIONS, AND FOR AVOIDING SUITS AT LAW, WHERE THE MATTER IS OF LONG STANDING."

Preamble.

1740-41, chap. 4,
§ 1.

WHEREAS, in and by an act made in the thirteenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for limitation of actions, and for avoiding suits in law where the matter is of long standing," it is, among other things, enacted, "That all actions for arrearages of rent, or grounded on any lending or contract, without specialty, should be brought within four years next after the cause of such action, in cases where the cause of action should arise after the publication of the said act, and, in those cases where the cause of action had arisen before, within four years after the publication thereof, and not afterwards"; and whereas the latter part of the said clause was, at the time of making the said act, generally understood to be meant and intended only of such actions grounded on lending or contract, without specialty, as are express'd in the act of parliament, which was pass'd in the twenty-first year of the reign of King James the First, entituled "An Act for limitation of actions and avoiding suits at law"; from which act the before-recited law of this province is, with respect to the actions therein mentioned, in a great measure copied; but yet the same, construed in it's utmost latitude, may be understood to include actions of the case upon bill or note of hand, and has lately been so adjudged by some of the courts of judicature within this province; and by the like construction may be deem'd to extend to all actions of account and upon the case, whatsoever, not excepting such accounts as concern the trade of merchandize between merchant and merchant, their factors or servants;—by which construction, in the courts of judicature, very many creditors have been greatly surprized and injured, who, upon the aforesaid general understanding of the said clause of the aforesaid provincial act, and thro' lenity to their debtors, have foreborn to bring actions for the recovery of debts due to them by promissary note, or otherwise howsoever, upon simple contract, within the time limited in the aforesaid law of this province for bringing actions grounded upon lending or contract, without specialty, and will thereby, upon the aforesaid construction of the latter part of said recited clause, be barr'd from bringing actions for the recovery of the same, and great mischief and inconvenience may arise in the trade of merchandize, and dealings between merchant and merchant, and other traders within this province: now, for remedying and preventing the same,—

Be it declared and enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That all actions of account, or upon the case, grounded on any lending or contract or otherwise howsoever, in which the cause of action has arisen before the publication of this act, and which have not yet been commenced or prosecuted to effect, may be brought and prosecuted at any time within four years after the publication hereof; and in cases where such actions have been commenced, and judgment hath been given upon plea in bar, or on tryal, for the defendant, the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such action, their executors or administrators, may bring and prosecute a writ of review of the said action in such court where the same was tried,—within three years after the making up such judgments,—for the reversing the same, and recovering of their debt, anything in the aforesaid act contain'd to the contrary notwithstanding; and shall have the like advantage for recovering the same, as if the said act had never been made: and that all actions of account, and upon the case, other than such accounts as concern the trade of merchandize between merchant and merchant, their factors or servants (the cause whereof shall arise after the publication of this act), shall be brought within the term of four years next after the cause of such actions, and not afterwards; and that all actions of account, which concern the trade of merchandize between merchant and merchant, their factors or servants, as aforesaid, may be brought and prosecuted at any time after the cause of such action, at the pleasure of such persons as may be concerned; anything in the aforesaid act to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

Further time allowed for bringing actions of account and on the case.

Time limited for bringing actions of account and on the case.

Provided always, and be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That this act shall not be understood to bar any infant, feme-covert, person imprisoned, beyond the seas, or non compos mentis, from bringing either of the actions before mentioned within the term before set and limited for bringing such actions, reckoning from the time that such impediment shall be removed.

Proviso.

And whereas it may happen that some debtors may be out of this province during the whole or some considerable part of the term of time by this act allowed and limited for bringing such actions as aforesaid, and the creditors in such case not have like advantage with other creditors for recovering their debts,—

Preamble.

It is therefore hereby further provided and enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if any debtor shall continue out of this province more than twelve months within the aforesaid term, in such case the creditor shall be allowed such further time for bringing his action and recovering his debt as shall appear, to the satisfaction of the court in which such action shall be brought, that the debtor had continued out of the province within the four years before mentioned. [Passed February 1, 1748-49.]

Proviso where debtor continues out of the province.

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE ON THE BEACH IN BIDDEFORD, AND MEADOWS ADJOINING TO SAID BEACH, COMMONLY KNOWN BY THE NAME OF WINTER HARBOUR-BEACH.

Preamble.

WHEREAS by the frequent numbers of neat cattle, horses and sheep feeding upon said beach and the meadows adjoining thereto, the said beach is much broken, and the sea breaks over it and carries the sand into the harbour and upon the meadows; and there is great danger, if such practices are not prevented, that the harbour in said town will be intirely ruined, and the meadows within said beach utterly spoiled, to the great damage of the owners thereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

No neat cattle, horses or sheep to be turned on Winter-Harbor Beach or meadows.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle, horse-kind or sheep, upon the beach called Winter Harbour Beach, in Biddeford, or upon the meadows adjoining, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for neat cattle or horses, and three shillings for each sheep, that shall be turned or found on said beach or meadows: the one half of said forfeiture to be to the informer, and the other half to and for the use of the poor of said town of Biddeford.

Penalty.

And be it further enacted,

Creatures turned on said beach, &c., to be impounded.

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, horse-kind or sheep, shall, at any time, be found feeding on said beach, meadows or shores adjoining to said beach, it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound them, immediately giving notice to the owner or owners of the same, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof in said town of Biddeford; and the impounder shall relieve said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay two shillings for each neat beast or horse-kind, and eightpence for each sheep, and the reasonable cost of relieving them, besides the pound-keeper's fees. And if no owner appear within the space of three days to redeem the said cattle, horse-kind or sheep so impounded, and to pay the cost and damage occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case the person or persons impounding such cattle, horse-kind or sheep, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, and pay the cost and charges about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale being given in the said town of Biddeford and the two neighbouring towns, forty-eight hours before hand), and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner or owners of such cattle, horse-kind or sheep, at any time within two months next after such sale, upon his demanding the same; but if

Owners to pay a fine, and cost of relieving.

Creatures to be sold, in case.

no owner appears within said two months, then the said overplus shall be one half to the persons impounding, and the other half to be returned to the town treasurer of said town of Biddeford, for the use of the poor of said town.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the inhabitants of the said town of Biddeford shall and may, from time to time, have liberty of setting up two fences in the most convenient places across the country road, in order the more effectually to prevent cattle, horses and sheep going and feeding on said beach: provided a gate be made in each fence sufficient for the passage of carts and other carriages.

Fences may be erected.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the said town of Biddeford, at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and empowered to chuse one or more meet person or persons whose duty it shall be to see this act observed, and to prosecute the breakers thereof, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty shillings for the use of the poor of the town of Biddeford; and upon said refusal, said town may from time to time proceed to a new choice of such officer or officers: and said town of Biddeford, at a town-meeting warned for that purpose, may, at any time, chuse such officers, who shall continue 'till their annual meeting in March next.

Officers to be chosen to see this act executed.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed April 22; published April 27, 1749.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT FOR CONTINUING TWO LAWS OF THIS PROVINCE, IN THIS ACT MENTIONED, WHICH ARE NEAR EXPIRING.

WHEREAS an act was made and pass'd in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intitl'd "An Act for the better regulating the choice of petit jurors"; and another act was made and pass'd in the nineteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intitl'd "An Act for preventing the unnecessary destruction of alewives in the town of Sandwich," both which laws are near expiring; and the said laws have by experience been found beneficial and necessary for the several purposes for which they were passed,—

Destruction of alewives in Sandwich.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That each of the afore-recited acts, and every matter and clause therein contained, be and hereby are continued and revived, and shall continue and remain in full force five years from the publication of this act, and no longer. [Passed April 22; published April 27, 1749.]

NOTES.—There were four sessions of the General Court this year, at all of which acts were passed. The engrossments of the acts of the first session, only, are preserved. All the acts, however, were printed as of the sessions in which they were, respectively, enacted except chapters 1 and 2, which were printed separately.

The acts of the first session were received by the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, June 28, 1749, having been regularly certified for forwarding, on the 7th of October previous. On the 29th of June they were referred to the Lords of Trade, by whom they were received on the 6th of July, and sent the next day to Mr. Lamb, for his opinion thereon. Mr. Lamb's report to the Board is dated December 6, 1751, and concludes as follows: "Upon perusal & consideration of the aforementioned Acts I have no objection to make thereto in point of Law."

The acts of the last three sessions were despatched from Boston under date of September 8, 1749, and had reached the Privy Council by the 4th of December following, when they were referred to a committee. By this committee they were ordered to be sent to the Lords of Trade, December 8; and were received by the Board, January 17, 1749—50. On the 3d of April, 1750, they were sent to Mr. Lamb, in the usual course, and were reported back by him December 6, 1751. In this report, "no objection" is entered against chapters 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 18 and 19; but special comments are made on chapters 15, 16 and 17, which are hereunder given, in full, in the notes to those chapters, respectively. Mr. Lamb concludes his report in the same language used by him at the close of his report, of the same date, on the acts of the first session.

On the 4th of June, 1752, the Lords of Trade signed their report to the Privy Council. In this report, chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8 and 10 are represented as "for a temporary service, and are either expired or the purposes for which they were granted have been completed." Chapters 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 18 are represented as appearing "to have been enacted for the particular convenience and benefit of the Province, and," the report continues, "as Mr. Lamb has no objection to any of them in point of Law, We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them"; and chapters 6, 15 and 19 are commented upon in the language given hereunder in notes to those chapters.

Upon this report an order in Council was passed, June 30, 1752, confirming chapters 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18 and 19.

Chapter 15 was separately acted upon by the Home Government, and confirmed, by an order in Council, June 28, 1749, the particulars of which are given in the note to that chapter, post.

In the list certified by Secretary Willard, and acted upon by the Lords of Trade and the Privy Council, the acts, after chapter 7, are treated as of one session, and chapters 18 and 19, which were passed at the session held, by adjournment, April 5, 1749, are placed before chapters 15, 16 and 17, which were passed at the session held, by adjournment, December 21, 1748. There seems to be no good reason for this grouping of the acts, unless the convening of the Assembly in October, after a prorogation, was considered the proper commencement of a session that could only be terminated by another prorogation, or dissolution. As records of many, if not most, of the prorogations have not been preserved, it would be impracticable to adopt this rule in dividing the sessions at this day; and even if such a division could be strictly made, it would be far more convenient, for historical purposes, at least, to group the acts according to the several sittings during which they were passed. See, also, preface, pp. xx. and xxi.

Chap. 3. "As to the Bill for the Supply of the Treasury, tho' I am still of the mind that it would have been much more, for the General Good of the Province to have Stop'd your Hands as to Issuing more Paper Money, & to have gone into some Safer Way for the supply of the Treasury, Yet considering the present Exigency, And the great Hardships that some Persons might be put to by delaying the Supply, I have thought proper to sign my Consent to the Bill."—Message of Governor Shirley to the Assembly, June 23, 1748: Council Records, vol. XVIII., pp. 369—70.

Chap. 4. "June 24. 1748. “June 28. 1750. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Whereas in the Act made & pass'd in the twenty first Year of His present Majesty's Reign intitled an Act for granting unto his Majesty an Excise upon Wine & Spirits distilled, sold by Retail & upon Limes Lemmons & Oranges, mention is made of certain Sums, to be paid for the Duties of Excise on Brandy Rum & other Commodities therein mentioned, as also of certain Sums to be forfeited & paid for the Violation or Non Observance of said Act; But no Discrimination is therein made betwixt lawful Money & Bills of publick Credit, nor is it declared whether those Sums shall be paid (according to their Nominal Value) in the one or in the other determinately; By reason whereof some Doubts & Disputes have arisen, & may arise unless prevented by this Court.

Therefore. Resolved that by the several Sums in said Act mentioned (either as a Duty of Excise or as a Penalty) were intended so much in Bills of publick Credit then last Emitted or Value there of, & no more, And the said Act, ought so to be understood & Construed & put in Execution accordingly. In Council; Read & Concur'd—Consented to by the Lieut-Govern<sup>r</sup>.”—Ibid., vol. XIX., p 224.

An Act for continuing two Laws of this Province in this Act mentioned which are near expiring.

1747-50, chap. 16.

An Act for reviving and continuing of sundry Laws that are expired or near expiring

1742-43, chap. 34.

We beg leave to acquaint Your Lordships that all the several Laws, thereby revived or continued have been confirmed by His Majesty except the Act to enable the Town of Weymouth to regulate and order the taking and disposing of the fish called Shadd and Alewives within the limits of that Town, and the Act to enable Creditors to receive their just debts out of the effects of their absent or absconding Debtors, which acts do not appear to us to have been ever laid before His Majesty as they ought to have been pursuant to the directions of the Charter of the said Province granted by King William & Queen Mary.

1738-39, chap. 15.

As it appears however from the annex'd Copies of the said Acts, transmitted to us by the Secretary of the said Province that they were enacted only for their private convenience, We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm the above-mentioned three Acts.”—Report of the Lords of Trade: “Mass. Bay, B. T.” vol. 84. p. 262, in Public-Record Office.

By referring to the notes at the end of the year 1738-39, it will be seen that the above-named act of that year reached the Board of Trade, and was submitted to, and reported upon by, Mr. Fane. Nothing further, however, has been discovered tending to show that this act, or the acts of the fourth session of the year 1742-43, including chapter 34 above mentioned, were ever formally laid before the Privy Council.

Chap. 7. “April 21. 1749. His Excellency sent the following Message to both Houses by the Secretary.

Gentlemen of the Council & House of Representatives One of the Members of his Majesty's Council has laid before me a villanous Paper importing a wicked Conspiracy for robbing him of part of his Estate, by extorting a sum of Money from him, & threatening him with the burning of his House, Warehouses and Vessells & the murdering of his Person in case of his refusal to comply with their Demands.

Gentlemen, This being the first Instance of this Kind of execrable Villany attempted in this Province, it highly imports this Legislature to make Provision for Preventing & punishing the same Attempts for the future; Wherefore I desire you would immediately take the matter into Consideration & do what you judge Necessary before you Rise.

In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Read together with the Paper referred to, and Ordered that Mr. Speaker, Colo. Heath, Col<sup>o</sup> Otis, Col<sup>o</sup> Dwight, & Col<sup>o</sup> Buckminster, with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall join be a Committee to consider this Message & Paper referred to, & report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon; the Committee to sit forthwith. “April 22<sup>d</sup> 1749. Samuel Welles, Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Committee on his Excellency’s Message referring to the threatening Letter sent to one of his Majesty’s Council gave in the following Report

The Committee appointed to Consider of his Excellency’s Message of this Day are of Opinion, that all possible means should be used to detect & punish the horrid Crimes his Excellency refers to, & to prevent such heinous & detestable Practices for the future; And therefore they humbly Apprehend it to be proper for the two Houses to desire & advise his Excellency to issue a Proclamation promising a Reward of two hundred Pounds, Bills of the last Emission to any Person or Persons who shall inform or discover one or more concerned in this Wicked Conspiracy so that he or they may be Convicted; And if the Informer shall have been an Accomplice or engaged in said Crime, he shall be forgiven, And to the End the greater Horror & Detestation may be raised in the minds of his Majesty’s good Subjects with respect to this atrocious & execrable Design: The Committee humbly report as their Opinion that the two Houses desire his Excellency to insert in the Proclamation, the sum & substance of the Anonymous Letter referred to in the Message & Some of the impious, insolent inhuman Message verbatim that thereby all his Majesty’s good Subjects may see how reasonable & necessary it is that they join Universally in their Endeavours to bring forward to Exemplary Punishment the profligate & abandon’d Wretches concerned in this Wicked & impudent Combination: The Committee would propose that some Gentlemen of each House be appointed to prepare the Draught of a Bill for the more easy & effectual preventing or detecting such Abominable & dangerous Crimes hereafter to be laid before this Court at the beginning of their Session in May next

Consented to by the Governour.—Ibid., p. 470.

Chap. 8. On the 10th of June, a bill appropriating £1900 for the support of the Governour was passed to be enacted by both branches of the Assembly, and on the 14th the Governour sent the following message to both branches:—

“The Secretary has laid before me, for my signing, an Engross’d Bill (pass’d to be Enacted by both Houses) for granting the sum of Nineteen Hundred Pounds for my Support. I am very sorry I have this Occasion to continue, or, rather, revive the Dispute between his Majesty & this Province, concerning the support of his Governour, after his Majesty’s gracious Condescension Manifested in his Instruction to me on that Head, at my Entrance upon the Government. By this Instruction I was commanded first to recommend it to the Assembly in the most pressing & effectual manner, to pass an act for the settlement of one Thousand Pounds Sterling pr Annum on my self & my Successors in the Government or at least upon my self, during the whole Time of my Government. But in case the assembly should not readily comply, with this his Majesty’s reasonable Recommendation I was Impowred in the Mean Time, for the Support of my Dignity, as his Majesty’s Governour to give my Consent to such Bill as should be annually pass’d for paying me a Salary of one Thousand Pounds Sterling, or the Value thereof in Money of this Province until his Majesty’s Royal Pleasure should be signified to the Contrary &c. Provided such Act be the first that shall be pass’d by the Assembly of the Province before they proceed upon the other Business of that Session.

By Vertue of the Indulgence given me in the latter part of this Instruction I have from Time to Time, accepted the Grants made for my support by former assemblies (all w<sup>ch</sup> excepting the last were about the Value of one Thousand Pounds Sterling) without engaging in any considerable disputes; which would have been Extremely contrary to my Disposition. As to the Grant w<sup>ch</sup> was made me last Year, tho’ it was considerably short of the sum which his Majesty insists upon, yet as I was loth at so Critical a Juncture as that was to enter into Any Controversy with the last assembly, least it should have had a bad Effect upon our affairs depending in great Britain, by giving a Disgust to the Government there, I acquies’d in it not doubting but the succeeding assemblies would have a proper Consideration of what I should suffer by my acceptance of that Grant.

But now Gentlemen, that you should still proceed to make a Defalcation from my Salary of at least one quarter part of the sum which his Majesty expects should be allowed for the Support of his Governour, & that at a Time when the Cares & Burthens of Government are so great in this Province, as in no degree to be parralled in Any other of his Majesty’s Plantations, & w<sup>ch</sup> the Extravagant Prices of all necessaries of Life in this Province do so much Exceed even the Ordinary Exchange between Great Britain & this Place, I am perswaded must be highly displeasing to his Majesty & looked upon by him as an Instance of yr Ingratitude to him for his late favour in promoting y<sup>r</sup> Reimbursement for the Expences of the Late Expedition against Cape Breton, w<sup>ch</sup> there can be no doubt now of their being secured to you.

Upon these Considerations, Gentlemen of the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup>, I must desire you would reconsider the Bill for my support & make such Alterations therein as may make me some Amends for the Deficiency in the last Year’s Grant, & put it into my Power to sign my Consent to it consistently with his Majesty’s Instructions”—Ibid., pp. 357-8.

Four days later the House of Representatives sent to the Governour the following message in reply:—

“ May it please y<sup>r</sup> Excellency—The House having taken under their mature Consideration y<sup>r</sup> message to both Houses of the 14th Instant, moving the House to reconsider & make some Alterations in the Bill which has pass’d both Houses this Session for your Exce<sup>y</sup>’s Support beg Leave thereupon humbly to say, that it is with Pleasure the House observes y<sup>r</sup> Exce<sup>y</sup>’s expresses a Reluctancy at Reviving a Dispute Relating to fixing a salary on the Governour for any certain Time; A Dispute which in some former Administrations, has been attended with the most uncomfortable Consequences, & which if Reviv’d, might endanger the peace & Harmony, that has hitherto subsisted in the present, & which this House most earnestly desire, may still continue, & can assure your Excellency that we should be very loth to give your Excellency the least ground of meanness by withholding such an Ample & honorable support as is agreeable to the Dignity of your Station, & the Ability of the People we represent, which we think ought to be the Rule of our Proceeding in this Affair. On these Principles former Assemblies (as this House apprehend) have proceeded in the several Grants they have from Time to Time made for your Excellency’s Support; which tho’ not always the same in Value, you have been pleas’d to accept; and it appears Evident to this House, that it was on the Assurance formerly given to his Majesty, that future assemblies would make the Dignity of the Governour’s Station & the Ability of the People considered together, the Rule of their Proceedings in this affair that the controversy about fixing the salary was discontinued, & Leave given to receive the same Accordingly.

The Grant of Nineteen Hundred Pounds for your Excellency’s Support now under Consideration on the most carefull Survey of the Circumstances of the People; we can’t but apprehend equal to Any ever yet made to y<sup>r</sup> Excellency for that Purpose; And if S<sup>r</sup> there be Any Difference in its real Value (of which the House are not convinc’d) yet that difference is abundantly more than Ballanced by the different Circumstances of disadvantage that this People Labour under. True it is & we Acknowledged it with hearts full of Gratitude to our most Gracious Sovereign, his Parliament & Ministry that there is now a hopeful Prospect, if not a Certainty of a Great Part of that Load of Debt arising by the Reduction of Cape Breton &c. being paid from Home; but then your Excellency will please to Consider that this is but a partial Deliverance & Freedom from Total Ruin & Despair only; & that notwithstanding this, we are under very heavy & distressing Circumstances not only in Comparison of other Governments on the Continent, to whom we are a Cover in this Time of War but also (and which we take to be more directly to our purpose) if compared with our selves a few Years past, which appears evident from the following Instances

First, A Yearly Expence of ab<sup>t</sup> Four Hundred Thousand Pounds Old Tenor is occasioned by the War, & this Sum laid as a Tax on this People this present Year,—Secondly, A great Number of our valuable Towns & Inhabitants in our Northern & Southern Boundaries, have been taken from us & annexed to other Governments,—Thirdly many Thousands of our Rateable Inhabitants have been carried from us by the Expedition against Louisbourg the forming & Recruiting the two American Regiments there, the Protection of Nova Scotia, the manning of the King’s Ships, & the Defence of our Frontiers, besides considerable Numbers, who from the Peculiar Distresses of this Province are daily removing into other Governments, by which both our Trade & Husbandry are very much Stagnated & discouraged:—These things greatly Lessen our Ability & render the present Grant to y<sup>r</sup> Excellency, more in proportion thereto, than any other heretofore made:—And on these Accounts the House have Voted to make no Alteration there.

The House therefore most Earnestly pray y<sup>r</sup> Excellency to Accept the same (which was cheerfully made you) as equal to the present Ability of this People; In whose Burthens & Distresses your Excellency can have no Delight.”—Ibid., pp. 364-5.

On the 22<sup>d</sup> of June the Governour sent back the following message:—

“ Gentlemen of the House of Represent<sup>es</sup>—Yesterday your Committee delivered me your Message in Answer to mine of the 14th Instant to both Houses, concerning the Bill lately pass’d for my support, wherein you express your earnest Desire that I would accept the Grant that you have therein made me,—As to the reasons set forth in your Message why you have Voted not to make any alterations in your present Grant, I shall not now make any further Answer to them, than by saying, I don’t think them sufficient to Justify me in Accepting it. I would only observe upon what you mention of my acceptance from Time to Time of the several former Grants made me as not being all of them the same in Value; That the Difference between Any of them in Value except the last, was so trifling, that I did not think fit to Enter into any Dispute about it, & that all of them the last only excepted were of about the Value of one Thousand Pounds Sterling each. And as to the last Grant, Gentlemen, I have before told you That I declined Entering into Any Dispute concerning it, because such a Dispute on your Part would have been disagreeable to his Majesty, & might have had a very Ill Effect upon the Interests of the Province then depending, for the Consideration of Parliament, which I don’t think should be urged as an Argument for my accepting this present Grant likewise, the case being now much altered in that respect.

Upon the whole Gentlemen I look upon my self restrained by his Majesty’s Instructions from Accepting y<sup>r</sup> Grant, & am therefore determin’d not to sign my Consent to the Bill.”—Ibid., p. 368.

On the 11th of November, following, a new bill was passed to be enacted by both branches of the Assembly granting the Governour the sum of £2,000 for his support. To this bill the Governour expressed his objections in the following message to both branches:—

“ The Secretary has laid before me a Bill pass’d to be Enacted by both Houses for granting the sum of Two Thousand Pounds for my Support. I was in Hopes that upon further Consideration of my Refusal of the Grant of Nineteen Hundred Pounds pass’d the last Session, your present Grant would have been so Much Increased as to have made it unnecessary for me (Gentlemen of the House of Represent<sup>es</sup>) to make reply to your Message of the 15th of June, wherein you assign your Reasons for not then Enlarging your Grant of Nineteen Hundred Pounds; But since the Addition, you have made to that sum in your Present Grant, is so Small that it Still falls greatly Short of a Support for me Suitable to my Station. I shall Enter upon the Consideration of your Message.

You then say Gentlemen you should be very loth to give me the least ground of Uneasiness by with'olding such An Ample & honorable Support as is Agreeable to the Dignity of My Station & the Ability of the People you represent, which you think ought to be the Rule of your Proceeding in this Affair: That you Apprehend former Assemblys have Proceeded on these Principles in their Several Grants. And that it appears Evident to this House that it was on the Assurance formerly given to his Majesty that future Assemblys would make the Dignity of the Governour's Station & the Ability of the People considered together the Rule of their Proceeding in this Affair, that the Controversy About fixing the Salary was discontinued & Leave given to receive the same Accordingly. I shall therefore Gentlemen consider the Matter in Dispute between us in the same Light with you, so that the Question will be, whether you have in yr present Grant, for my Support conformed to what you say ought to be the Rule of your Proceedings, to the Principles upon which former Assemblys have Acted, & to the Assurance they have given to his Majesty in this case & w<sup>ch</sup> we apprehend to have been his Majesty's Inducement for discontinuing his Demand of a fixed Salary for his Governour. The Resolving of this Gentlemen will depend upon the determination of two Points viz. what sum may be deemed under the present Circumstances of the Country An Ample & honorable Support for his Majesty's Governour of this Province, suitable to the Dignity of his Station, and the Abilities of the People, & whether the Sum you have granted for my Support is of that Value.

As to the first of these points; upon tracing the Disputes concerning a fixed Salary back to Mr Burnet's Administration in 1728. it appears that Three Thousand Pounds in the Province Bills of the old Tenor according to their real Value of that Year in the Judgment of the Assembly who gave his Majesty the Assurance referred to in your Message, viz. that succeeding Assemblys according to the Ability of the Province, would Grant his Governour As Ample a Support, as the Grant then made by them thought no more than what was requisite for the Governour's Support & what the Ability of the Province could then Afford. Now Gentlemen, if the Three Thousand Pounds in Bills of Credit then Granted Governour Burnet, Compared with the Prices of Provisions & other Necessaries of Life, was at that Time equall to Three Thousand Pounds in Bills of Credit of the last Emission, Compared with the present Prices of Provisions & Necessaries of Life as is the Case, supposing the Prices of them Computed in Bills of the Old Tenor to be only four Times as much now as they were in the Year 1728. which is a Computation of their Rise, & of that of the Price of Labour too Moderate to Admit of Any reasonable Doubt; then it undeniably follows, upon the Assurance that was given to his Majesty by former Assemblys & induced him to discontinue his Demand of a fixed Salary for his Governour, and the Principles you Acknowledge other Assemblys have Acted upon, as also the Rule which you Profess you are bound to are bound to govern yourselves by, that Three Thousand Pounds in Bills of the last Emission is the Sum which ought to be granted for my Support, if the Circumstances of your Constituents can afford it.

As to the Computation I have made of the Proportion between the Value of Three Thousand Pounds in Bills of Credit of the Old Tenor 1728, & of Three Thousand Pounds in Bills of the last Emission at this Time it will appear to be a very Moderate one, if the present Bills are compared with the Price of Silver as well as that of Provisions; The Price of which former is known to be at the Rate of 5s Sterls 4<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> ounce in Bills of Credit of the Old Tenor, & of the latter compared with the present Price of Silver to be one quarter part at the least more than what the Price of Provisions in 1728, Compared likewise with the current Price of Silver, at that Time was, which would make the Value of Three Thousand Pounds in Bills of the Old Tenor to have been in 1728, equal to the present Value of Three Thousand one Hundred & twenty five Pounds in Bills of the last Emission; To this Computation of the Value of the Bills of Credit now Compared with the Present Price of Silver, your own & that of the former Assemblys in the Bill & Letter transmitted to your Agents in England agrees: But if this Computation of the Value of Bills of Credit is Compared with their present Settled Value in private Bills of Exchange then it will appear to be still more Moderate.

As to the Abilities of the People, Gentlemen, you say that evidently Appears that your Constituents are under distressing Circumstances if Compared with themselves a few Years past from the following particulars, viz. 1st The Public Debt. 2<sup>dy</sup> The great Number of your valuable Towns & Inhabitants in your Northern & Southern Boundaries which have been taken from you & annexed to other Governments, 3<sup>dy</sup> The many Thousand of your Rateable Inhabitants which have been carried off from you by the Expedition against the Spanish Settlements in the West Indies & Cape Breton; by the forming & recruiting the two American Regiments there; the Protection of Nova Scotia; The Manning the Kings Ships, & the Defence of our own Territories, besides Considerable Numbers who are daily removing into other Governments by which your Trade & Husbandry are very much Stagnated & Diminished.

Now Gentlemen, as to your present Number of Rateable Polls Compared with the Number of them in 1728. It appears by the Several Valuations begun in the Year 1727, 1735 & 1741. & ended 1728, 1736 & 1742, that in the Year 1728 the Rateable Polls did not exceed—30,000. That in 1736 they were increased to—34,000. & in 1742 to—41,000. & if the same proportionable Increase is allowed between the Year 1742 & the present Time as was in the preceding six Years without Any Deduction for the Losses you Mention, then they would Amount now to 48,000 at least out of which if you Deduct for the rateable Polls carried off from you with the Towns that have been Annexed to other Governments a 1000, for those taken off in the two Expeditions, 1900, (as to those which were last sent to Annapolis which were about 270, they will return this winter) for those lost in the protection of Nova Scotia 150, for those lost in the Defence of your own Frontiers 100, & for those taken from you by Removals into the Other Colonies 100 more, which are I apprehend Sufficient Allowances for these Deductions & Amount in the whole to 3250, then your Increase of rateable Polls since the Year 1728. will remain 14750, or near one half of what the Number within the Province then was.

What Number of Inhabitants may have been taken off from you in forming & Recruiting the Two American Regiments is uncertain but with respect to the forming & Recruiting my own I can say, that I have raised in the whole upwards of a 1000 men, about 170 of which were enlisted at Lunenburg out of the New England Soldiers employed in the Defence of the Place, & what Number of these belonged to this Province I can't say, but I don't reckon that I have Enlisted 250 out of this Province, & as to recruiting within it I have wholly Abstain'd from that, & none have been Enlisted for my Regiment within it since the Beginning of the Expedition against Canada, except a few Scattering Men who have voluntarily offered themselves to one or other of my officers; what Number of Men you may likewise have lost by Manning the Kings Ships I can't say, the Burthen of that I know Gentlemen has lain very hard upon this Province, and tho. I believe the Kings Ships have left many Deserters here yet I am sensible that the Trade & Privateers of other Colonies have had the Benefit of their Service. But for the two last Articles, I dare say 750 Men will be a large Allowance for your Loss of Inhabitants this way, during the late War, which will leave your Increase of Rateable Polls, within these last 20 years 14000. And in this Calculation I have Omitted to make many Deductions out of the Men taken from you in the two Expeditions, & for the Protection of Nova Scotia, & by forming & Recruiting the two American Regiments, for transient Persons not settled Among you, idle Vagrants better Spared than Kept in a Community. And such a Number of the Men as might probably According to the common Course of Mortality in the Country have died at home.

As to the Quantity of improved Lands or Rateable Estate taken from the Province in the Controverted Towns in the Northern & Southern Boundaries which have been adjudged to Belong & have been Annexed to other Governments, it appears by the Act for Apportioning the Tax, when these Towns remained with the Province, that the Proportion of the Tax assessed upon them was not one fortieth Part of the Whole, from which Proportion I would observe to you I collected the aforementioned Number of Rateable Polls then within them: And as to what the Increase of that & other Improvements within the Province has been since the Year 1728. I will not take upon me to determine, but doubtless Gentlemen, it has been very considerable. In the Year 1728. you had 128 Towns capable of sending Representatives & in the present Year 153, which is An Increase of 25 Towns, most of which were Erected out of New Plantations & the rest branched out of other Towns, I am informed there are other Plantations will be rated the next Valuation. It may be difficult to make an Exact Valuation of the Increase of Rateable Estates within the 153 Townships now remaining with the Province, but as I have before Observed, it is doubtless Gentlemen very Considerable.

As to the Present Public Debt, Gentlemen, the Sum Granted by Parliament, for the reimbursement of your Charges in the Expedition against Cape Breton, which is £183,000 Sterl. will upon the Scheme of Redeeming the Outstanding Bills (for drawing in which the Treasurer has now issued his Warrants) at the Rate of £10 in the Bills for one Pound Sterling, sink the whole Debt, except about £50,000 in Bills of the last Emission, which making An Allowance for the Difference between the Value of the Bills of Credit in the Year 1744, at the Commencement of the War with France, & their present Value does not exceed one sixth part of what the Province's Debt was at That Time, & holds no Proportion with the Debt of the Succeeding Years; Notwithstanding which & the Lopping off the Controverted Towns & loss of Inhabitants, which you Observe in your Message, former Assemblies Never pleaded the Inability of their Constituents against Continuing to make the same Grants for my Support which were made before the Rupture with France, And as to the public Debt in the Year 1728, it is well known that it was much heavier than the present one will be, when reduced by the Reimbursement, I have Mentioned, which may now be certainly depended upon.

It therefore seems most evident, Gentlemen, upon the whole, that the Ability of the People is not less'ned, but considerably increased Since the Year 1728 in which Case according to the Assurance then given to his Majesty that succeeding Assemblies should Grant his Governour "as Ample a Support in Proportion to the Ability of the Province as that Assembly had done then" which is the Rule you Acknowledge you ought to be governed by, that is in your own Words "that the Dignity of the Governour's Station & the Ability of the People, considered together, ought to be the Rule of your Proceeding in this Affair" it plainly follows, that my Support ought to be enlarged in Proportion to the increase of the Province's Ability, instead of being Lessned in the Same Proportion; which is done by your last Grant if the Intrinsic Value of it not the Nominal Sum only is Considered.

This being the State of the Case Gentlemen, & when the Grants to the Other Officers of the Governments are raised on Account of the Dearness of Provisions & the Depreciation of the Bills of Credit & for Extraordinary Services; as is also the Pay of your own House from 3 s. in Bills of the last Emission of 4<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> Diem at which it was Settled in 1742 to 5 s. in Bills of the same Tenor in 1747, all which has been done since Any Considerable nominal Addition has been made to my Salary; How you can reasonably deny to do me the like Justice I can't discover.—You Complain Gentlemen of the Burden & Distress of the Province, & that the Reimbursement granted by the Parliament is but a partial deliverance from total Ruin"—War is a Calamity greater or less whenever it befalls a Country; but has not the late Wars been Attended likewise with unparallald Successes & most Signal Deliverances to this Province, & was it ever known that at the End of a War was less in Debt than when it entered into it, which will be this Province's Case upon the Remittance of the Reimbursement, which will besides put An End to the paper Currency, a great Evil in the Time of Peace & an unsupportable one in the Time of War; And at the same Time at once introduce into the Province Such a Medium of Commerce as will lay a Lasting Foundation for its future Prosperity; & do you call this Gentlemen a partial Deliverance only from total Ruin: What had been the State of the Province if instead of the Acquisition of Cape Breton & the Preservation of Nova Scotia the Enemy had held Possession of the first during the War And his Majesty had lost the latter to them? You might then Gentlemen have more justly looked upon the Province as under distressed Circumstances & total Ruin.

And if you duly Consider the Part I have Acted in this Affair, as Candidly as former Assemblies have done, you will I'm perswaded think, I have had my full Share of the Burthen of the War & that you have no reason to insinuate in your Message that I take Delight in the Burdens & Distresses of the People, because I refuse a Grant of a diminish'd Value, which is not a bare Subsistence for my Family much less An Ample & Honorable Support, suitable to the Dignity of my Station & the Ability of your Constituents which you agree ought to be the measure of my Salary.

Gentlemen, I have forbore Entering into a Dispute with you for Some Time out of a Tenderness to the Interests of the Province that have been lately depending in England which I hope will not be looked upon by you in a different Light; & it is now with regret that I enter into it, I could have told you in a very few Words that my determined Resolution is not to Accept of your Grant but I thought it more proper to reason the Matter with you in your own way of Considering it. I have only to add that tho' his Majesty's Instructions are not binding upon you they are upon me; And I can't but think your own Assurances given his Majesty are Obligatory upon you, tho' his Majesty's Instructions to us are not so; And if any disagreeable Consequences should happen from a Dispute of this Kind with him to your Constituents, be this Message a Standing Witness between me & your House to which of us this People and their Posterity are to impute such consequences.—Ibid., pp. 392-396.

On the 17th of November, the bill granting £2,400 for the support of the Governor was passed to be engrossed in both branches, and, on the next day, it was passed to be enacted by the Council and House of Representatives.

Chap. 10. See note to chapter 4, ante.

Chap. 15. The interest excited by this act, and by the important events which led to its passage,—an interest which will continue to be felt, in some degree, until the unanimity of the public, on questions involved in the issuing and redemption of paper currency, leaves no ground for debate,—seems to justify the following very full publication of records of the progress of this act both in the Assembly, and in England, where it was carefully considered by the ministers of the Crown, upon whose representation it was confirmed:—

“March 6. 1746. In Council Ordered that John Osborne Josiah Willard & And<sup>w</sup> Oliver Esq<sup>s</sup> with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House shall join be a Committee to prepare the Draft of an humble Memorial to his Majesty further to represent to him the distressed circumstances occasioned by the present war & the vast expences arising therefrom especially in relation to the late Expedition against Cape Breton & the designed Expedition against Canada, & earnestly to request his Majesty's fav<sup>r</sup> for our Relief. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Read & Nonconcur'd.”—Council Records, vol. XVIII., p. 83.

“February 16, 1747-8 A Memorial of Tho<sup>s</sup> Hutchinson of Boston Esq<sup>r</sup> offering proposals to the Consideration of the Court Referring to the Medium of Trade within this Province.

“Febr'y 26. 1747 The Comm<sup>tee</sup> appointed to take under Consideration the Memorial of Tho<sup>s</sup>. Hutchinson Esq<sup>r</sup> and to make Report have maturely considered the same & are unanimously of Opinion that the Proposals in the Memorial may prove very salutary to this Province; & the Comm<sup>tee</sup> have prepar'd a Bill w<sup>ch</sup> is herewith humbly offer'd: a Copy whereof they are of Opinion should be sent to the Governments of Connecticut New Hampshire & Rhode Island & that it should be propos'd to each of these Governments to appoint Commissioners to meet in this Province the 12th of Aprill next or as soon after as may be to treat with such Commissioners as shall be appointed by this Government in Order to the bringing to a Period the Bills of all these several Governments in like manner as is propos'd for the Bills of this & also to settle the Rates & Value of Money in the several Governments for the future.—JACOB WENDELL by Order

In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Read & Ordered that this Report be accepted. In Council; Read & Concur'd Consented to by the Governour.”—Ibid., p. 288.

The following is the only record during this session relating to the passage of this bill; yet it will be observed that Governor Shirley distinctly states in his speech at the beginning of the October session that it has “passed both Houses”:—

“Febr'y 26, 1747. A Bill intituled, an Act for calling in & Exchanging the Bills of Credit of the several Denominations which have at any Time been Issued by this Government & are still outstanding & for Ascertaining the Rate of Coin'd Silver in this Province for the future. Read in both Houses.”—Ibid.

“Febr'y 27. 1747. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Voted that Mr Speaker & John Choate Esq<sup>r</sup> with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall appoint be a Comm<sup>tee</sup> to treat with such Gentlemen as shall be appointed by the other Governments, pursuant to the Vote of this Court of acceptance of the Report of both Houses upon the Memorial of Thomas Hutchinson Esq<sup>r</sup>.

In Council Read & Concur'd & Sam<sup>l</sup> Watts Esq<sup>r</sup> is join'd in the Affair Consented to by the Governour.”—Ibid., p. 289.

“March 5. 1747. A Draught of a letter to the Neighbouring Governments on the Subject of the Bills for sinking the Bills of Credit, reported by the Committee on that affair was accepted by both Houses & signed by the Governour.”—Ibid., p. 298.

“June 20, 1748. The Secretary laid before the Board a Letter he had Rec<sup>d</sup> from Mr Agent Kilbey dated March 6, 1747 relating to the proceedings of the House of Commons referring to the Charge of the Expedition against Cape Breton—Which was read & sent down to the House.”—Ibid., p. 366.

“Octo<sup>r</sup> 27. 1748. The Secretary went down on a Message from his Excellency to the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> to inform them that as the Council Chamber was not sufficient to receive them, He should deliver his Speech to the Court in Fanucil Hall, & therefore desired that their House might be so dispos'd as to receive him & the Council. Which being done his Excellency & the Council went & seated themselves in the Hall, And there his Excellency delivered the following Speech to both Houses.

Gentlemen of the Council & House of Representatives I have given the General Court as long a Recess for the Conveniency of the Members attending their own affairs in the Country as the public Business would admitt of; But there being Matters of Moment which require your immediate Consideration, I have thought Proper to meet you without further Delay:—By the Advices I have received from Great Britain, I have reason to think that the Bill transmitted to your Agents, containing a Scheme for sinking the whole Paper Currency of this Province by means of the late Reimbursement voted by Parliament & which pass'd both Houses of the last Assembly have induced his Majesty's Ministers, to whose Consideration the manner of paying the Money Voted for the Benefit of the Colonies concern'd is referred, to determine it shall be paid in such manner as will put an End to the Paper Currency in New England; so that That seems to be [no longer ?] a matter of Doubt. And as various Schemes have been formed by Gentlemen in England, & offered to the Government upon the Subject of the Reimbursement, many of which have a Manifest Tendency to Lessen the Benefit of it to the Province; It is doubtless a Matter of the utmost Importance that the General Assembly should be very speedy in persuing those Measures which they have Entered into in Order to prevent Any bad Schemes taking Effect, & which would also be acceptable to the Government, And might speed the remittance of the money. For Compassing all which, if you are of Opinion that anything can be added to the Scheme already propos'd, for the manner of the Reimbursement being made wherein your concurrence is necessary, I shall most readily join with you in doing what may be proper & for the Benefit of the Province, and as it's probable the Parliament will meet early in the Winter no Time should be lost for sending our Dispatches Home upon this weighty affair.

The perticular Project I refer to, you will be informed of from the Letter of one of your Agents to the two Houses, & you will find by the Extract of a letter from your other Agent to me dated Agust 9th. which I have Ordered the Secretary to Lay before you, that the Injustice of most of them with regard to the Province has been duly remark'd & oppos'd by him, that there is a good Prospect of his defeating them, & that the Reimbursement will be made in the most Beneficial Manner for the Colonies, which encourages me in Another Letter of the 27th of August, to hope he shall be able to write to the Two Houses upon by the next Ships to their Satisfaction; In the mean Time has desired me to let you know the Reasons of his not doing it by these Last Ships, which you will find express'd by himself in the Extract of a Letter."—Ibid., pp. 373, 374.

"Novr 2<sup>d</sup> 1748. John Osborn from the Comm<sup>tee</sup> of both Houses on the Affair of the Reimbursement of the Charges at Cape Breton reported as follows, viz.

The Committee appointed to Consider that part of his Excellencys Speech which relates to the Money granted by Parliament, for Reimbursing the Expence of Taking & Keeping Cape Breton, having attended that Service, report as their Opinion, That Messengers be forthwith dispatch'd to the Governments of Connecticut New Hampshire & Rhode Island, again desiring them to Appoint Commissioners to meet the last Wednesday of this Month, or as soon after as may be at Boston to treat with Commissioners from this Court upon the best Method of applying the Money granted by Parliament, to the Redemption of the Bills of Credit, & upon ways & means effectually to regulate the Currencies of these Governments for the future. And that a proper Letter be prepared to be sent home by the first Ship signifying the Courts Continuing in their Resolution, to apply the Grant of Parliament to the Redemption of the Bills, so far as it shall be sufficient for that purpose, & to sink the Remainder of the Bills at the same Time in the Manner proposed by the Bill sent from this Court or in other such effectual Way as shall be agreed on. In the House of Representatives Read & Accepted, & the Committee are directed to prepare a Letter Accordingly. In Council Read & Concured—Consented to by the Governour."—Ibid., p. 379.

"November 5. 1748. John Osborn Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Comm<sup>tee</sup> of both Houses appointed to prepare a Letter to be sent Home on the Affair of the Reimbursement of the charges in taking & Keeping Cape Breton Reported a Draught thereof—In the House of Representatives Read & Accepted & Ordered that the Secretary be directed to sign the same in the Name of this Court & forward the same to Will<sup>m</sup> Bollan & Christopher Kilby Esq<sup>rs</sup>."—Ibid., p. 383.

"Novr 17 1748. In the House of Representatives Voted, that Christopher Kilby Esq<sup>r</sup> one of the Agents of this Province at the Court of Great Britain be dismissed from said Agency, And his power to appear for & in behalf of the Province is hereby vacated & declared to determine & cease In Council Read & Concured. Consented to by the Governour."—Ibid., p. 400.

"Novr 17. 1748. In the House of Representatives Voted that the Secretary be directed forthwith to Cause the Letter Ordered by this Court in their present Session to be sent to William Bollan & Christopher Kilby Esq<sup>rs</sup> (then joint Agents of this Province, to be Copied & sent by Express to Portsmouth in Order to its being forwarded to Great Britain by the Mast Fleet, & that said Letter & such Copies as may be necessary, be now directed to William Bollan Esq<sup>r</sup> & that the first Letter or Copies directed jointly as aforesaid be Stayed from going forward.

In Council: Read & Concured. Consented to by the Governour."—Ibid.

"Novr 17. 1748. In the House of Representatives Ordered that the Secretary be directed to inclose to Christopher Kilby Esq<sup>r</sup> a Copy of the Vote of the Court for dismissing him from the Agency of this Province: In Council Read & Concured. Consented to by the Governour."—Ibid.

"Novr 18th 1748. The Comm<sup>tee</sup> to whom was referred the Consideration of the Letter to Mr Agent Bollan reported the Draught of a Petition from the General Court to the Right Hon<sup>ble</sup> the Lords Commissioners Respecting the payment of the money granted by Parliament to this Province, to reimburse their Charge in the Reduction of Cape Breton. In the House of Representatives Read & Accepted & Ordered that the Speaker be directed to sign the same in Name of this House.—In Council Read & Concured & Ordered that the Secretary sign the same in the name of the Council. Consented to by the Governour.”—Ibid., p. 403.

Gentlemen of the Council & House of Representatives As the Principal End of your Meeting at this Time is to take under Consideration what is further Necessary to be done by this Court for Redeeming our Bills of Credit and bringing to a Period the Paper Currency of this Province, & for Applying to those Purposes in the best Manner, the Grant made by Parliament for Reimbursing the Expence of taking and keeping Cape Breton, I hope you will apply your selves to this weighty Affair; upon the Success of which the well being of this Province does depend with all diligence & not suffer yourselves to be diverted from it by any Business Whatsoever, the Matter requiring the utmost Dispatch, lest thro’ your Delay Any Measures should be taken that may not be so well Calculated for the Interest of the Province as the Provision of an Act of Assembly would be. The Proposal which we made to the Neighbouring Governments to join with us in consulting upon this important Affair, And our Appointment of a meeting of Commiss<sup>rs</sup> for that End made this short Delay Necessary. But there being now no Prospect of having Any Assistance from them, no Time should be lost for your Proceeding on this Business. And I am perswaded if we now take Effectual Care (according to our repeated Professions) that this money when received shall be applied for putting a Period to the Paper Currency of this Province by Enacting a Law for that Purpose, all Obstacles to our receiving it may be wholly removed.”—Ibid., p. 415.

“January 6th 1748. The Committee appointed to Consider his Excellency’s Message to both Houses of the Twenty first of last Month referring to the Money allowed by Parliament &c gave in their Report. To which both Houses Voted a Non Acceptance.”—Ibid., p. 424.

“January 18th 1748. A Bill entitled An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit, of the several Denominations which have at any Time been issued by this Government & are still out standing, & for ascertaining the Rate of coined Silver in this Province for the future. (Reported by the Committee of both Houses) Having been Read three Times in the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> & there pass<sup>d</sup> to be Engross’d. In Council Read a first Time.”—Ibid., p. 432.

“January 19. 1748. The Bill entitled An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of several Denominations which have at any Time been issued by this Government & are still outstanding & for ascertaining the Rate of Coined Silver in this Province for the Future. In Council, Read a Second time & passed a Concurrence to be Engross’d.”—Ibid.

“Jan<sup>y</sup> 21. 1748. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Voted, that the Engross’d Bill entitled An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of the several Denominations which have at any Time been issued by this Government, & are still Out standing & for ascertaining the Rate of Coined Silver in the Province for the future be forthwith Printed, & that a Copy thereof be delivered to each Member of the Court, & a Copy sent to the Selectmen of Every Town in this Province, who are hereby required to lay the same before their respective Towns at the Anniversary Meeting in March for their Opinion thereon, if they see Cause & to give Notice thereof in the Warrant, for such meeting, & to make a Return to this Court the next Sitting After.

In Council Read & Non Concured.”—Ibid., p. 433.

“Jan<sup>y</sup> 26. 1748. An Engross’d Bill Entitled An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of the Several Denominations, which have at Any Time been issued by this Government, & are still outstanding & for ascertaining the Rate of Coined Silver in this Province for the future. Having been Read three several Times in the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> & in Council. Passed to be Enacted by both Houses & signed by the Governour.”—Ibid., p. 435.

“Jan<sup>y</sup> 26. 1748. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Ordered that the Committee appointed to prepare Instructions to the Agents be directed to sit forthwith on that Affair & Also that they prepare the Form of An Address to his Majesty to accompany the same. In Council Read & Concured.”—Ibid., p. 436.

“Jan<sup>y</sup> 27. 1748. John Osborn Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Committee appointed to prepare a Draught of an Address to his Majesty referring to the Reimbursment: Reported the same, Which was Read & accepted by both Houses.”—Ibid.

“Jan<sup>y</sup>. 27. 1748. In Council Ordered that the Comm<sup>tee</sup> appointed to draw up an Address to his Majesty, & the Instructions to the Agents be likewise directed to prepare a Letter to be sent to the three Governments of Connecticut, Rhode Island & New Hampshire, respecting the Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of this Province & ascertaining the Rate of Coined Silver & report the same as soon as may be.—In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Read & Concured.”—Ibid.

“January 28. 1748. John Osborn Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Comm<sup>tee</sup> appointed to prepare instructions to the Agents, gave in the Draught of two Letters of Instruction to all the Agents on the affair of the Grant of Parliament for the Charges of Cape Breton. As also two separate Letters to S<sup>r</sup> Peter Warren & Eliakim Palmer Esq<sup>rs</sup> All which Letters were accepted by the whole Court.

The said Comm<sup>tee</sup> likewise reported the Draught of a Circular Letter to be sent to the Governments of Connecticut New Hampshire & Rhode Island. which was also accepted by the whole Court.”—Ibid., p. 437.

“January 28. 1748. In Council Voted, that the Secretary take Care that the Act lately passed this Court for drawing in the Bills of Credit &c be forthwith printed separately: and that a Number of the Copies be taken off. Sufficient to furnish every Member of this Court with one for each Town in the Government.—In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Read & Concured. Consented to by the Governour.”—Ibid.

“January 31. 1748. The Secretary was Ordered to sign the Address to his Majesty referring to the Reimbursment of the Charge at Cape Breton, in the name of the Council.”—Ibid., p. 440.

“Novem<sup>r</sup> 23<sup>d</sup> 1749. I congratulate you, Gentlemen, upon the favour of Divine Providence in the safe Arrival of the Money allowed by the Parliament of Great Britain for our Expence in reducing Cape Breton, whereby we are enabled in a good Measure to pay off the great Debt contracted by the Charge of the late War, & now lying upon this Province; And We by the Blessing of God upon Our wise & faithful Management of this Advantage, deliver this Province from the Evils & Mischiefs (particularly the Injustice & Oppression) arising from the uncertain & sinking value of the Paper Medium.”—Extract from the Speech of Lieutenant-Governor Phips: Ibid., vol. XIX., p. 67.

“Tuesday, January 24th 1748-9.

Earl of Halifax

Mr Pitt.
Mr Grenville.

Mr Leveson Gower
Lord Dupplin

Mr Fane

Mr Bolla, Agent for the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, attending as had been desired, their Lordships acquainted him that Mr Shirley Governor of the said Province having in a Speech lately made by him to the Council and Assembly thereof informed them that a Bill, which they had prepared and had passed through both Houses and had been transmitted to him the Agent relating to the calling in and sinking the Bills of Credit, had induced the Govern<sup>t</sup> here to determine upon the method of reimbursing to the said Province their Expences in the Louisbourg Expedition, and no such Bill having been laid before this Board or as they were informed before any other of His Majesty's Ministers who had the direction of these matters, they thought proper to require of him some information with respect to the said Bill and to acquaint him with the mischiefs and difficulties that might arise from the Government's not being informed of the sense of the Province upon an Affair, the determination of which was now under consideration; Whereupon Mr Bolla informed their Lordships, that the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, having in February last come into measures with respect to the application of the Money granted to them by Parliament, and the Speaker of the Assembly having drawn up a Memorial with proposals to reduce the outstanding Bills by this Money and other sums to be borrowed for that purpose the General Assembly appointed a Committee of both Houses to consider thereof, who reported that these Proposals were beneficial to the Province and a Bill agreeable thereto was accordingly ordered to be drawn, and persons were appointed to join with the other Provinces who had engaged in the Expedition, to consider in what manner to take up the whole Paper Credit, that he believed Commissioners were sent for this purpose, but that some or one of the Governments declined it—That this Bill was sent to him, with Instructions containing (as he understood them) discretionary power of either laying or not laying it before the Government, as he should judge proper, that he not thinking the Bill compleat and finding there was likely to be great difficulty in borrowing the money proposed thereby, did not care to lay the same before the Government, but transmitted a state of the Paper Credit to the Province and desired positive orders about it, but the orders he has received in consequence thereof, do still leave it to his discretion. That as to what Mr Shirley had asserted in his Speech, he was mistaken and he believes, never did receive such information as he mentioned, but might have been induced to go so far as he did in order to strengthen and give credit to the Proposals & thereby engage persons (disinclined) to come into them—That this was a matter wherein Property was greatly concerned and if the Transactions of the Province thereupon were made publick advantages might be made thereof by particular persons, prejudicial to the interests of the Province and therefore he did not think proper to lay them before the Board, but was very willing to communicate them to any Member of the Board or to any other of His Majesty's Ministers who had the direction of these matters.

“Report of Mat. Lamb on an Act passed in January 1749.”

To the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

My Lords,

In pursuance of your Lordships Comands signified to me by Mr Pownall's letter, wherein you are pleased to desire my opinion in point of Law upon the following Act passed in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in January 1748 I have perused and considered the same (viz. )

An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of the severall denominations which have at any time been issued by this Government and are still outstanding And for ascertaining the rate of coined silver in this Province for the future.

This Act is imperfectly worded concerning the receipt of the money which has been granted by Parliament for the use of this Province, for there are no expresse words that authorize Sir Peter Warren and the others to receive the money, but they are authorized and impowered to give a full discharge for it whensoever the same shall have been issued without mentioning to whom it is to be issued. They are also authorized to address his Majesty to order the money to be transported in Foreign Coined Silver on board His Majesty's ships, And to pursue such Instructions as the Generall Court of the said Province shall think necessary concerning the transporting the said Money. Since this Act has been before me, in order to have the same explained, I have applied for the Instructions given to Sir Peter Warren &c And find thereby that the Act was thus worded with a design to have the money transported by his Majesty's Order according to the Address rather then to be received by Sir Peter Warren &c to save the charges of freight and insurance and the risque of the money being transported And in case they do not succeed in getting the Money transported that way, Then Sir Peter Warren &c are directed by their Instructs to receive the money themselves, and transport the same in such manner as is therein directed. I thought it proper to make this observation to your Lordships to explain the reasons for the Act being so worded, But I make no objection thereto as it will be the concern of the Treasury to settle this matter when the Money is paid.

This Act settles the rate of Spanish Coin which has been heretofore settled by the Act of the sixth of Queen Anne But this Act goes further by setting a value upon Silver which may be done by a new Law if thought to be necessary.

I have no objection to make to this Act in point of Law and am

“Report of Lords of Trade on Act passed in January 1749.”

To the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of His Majesty’s most honorable Privy Council.

My Lords,

Pursuant to your Lordships Order of the 13th Ult. We have had under our consideration An Act passed in His Majesty’s Province of the Massachusetts Bay in January last, Entitled

An Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of the several denominations, which have at any time been issued by this Government, and are still outstanding and for ascertaining the rates of Coined Silver in this Province for the Future

We have also consulted M<sup>r</sup> Lamb, one of His Majesty’s Counsel at Law upon this Act, who has reported to us “that the said Act is imperfectly worded concerning the receipt of the money which has been granted by Parliament for the use of this Province for there are no express words that authorize Sir Peter Warren and the others to receive the money, but they are authorized and empowered to give a full discharge for it, whensoever the same shall have been issued, without mentioning to whom it is to be issued, they are also authorized to address his Majesty to order the Money to be transported in Foreign coined silver on board His Majesty’s ships and to pursue such Instructions as the General Court of the said Province shall think necessary concerning the transporting the said Money and that he had applied for the Instructions given to Sir Peter Warren &c and found thereby that the Act was thus worded, with a design to have the Money transported by his Majesty’s Order according to the Address rather than to be received by Sir Peter Warren &c to save the charges of Freight & Insurance and the risque of the Money being transported And in case they do not succeed in getting the money transported that way, then Sir Peter Warren &c are directed by their Instructions to receive the Money themselves and transport the same in such manner as is therein directed.” But that he has no objection thereto in point of Law; However we shall take leave to lay before your Lordships Our Observations upon such other parts of the said Act as appear to us to deserve your Lordships consideration

The two great objects of this Act are;

1st Entirely to sink and abolish all the paper Bills of Credit at present outstanding in the said Province; And

2<sup>dly</sup> By means of the Money granted by Parliament for reimbursing to the said Province their Expences in taking & securing to the Crown of Great Britain the Island of Cape Breton and its Dependencies to substitute in lieu of the Bills of Credit an invariable silver currency for the future.

The Legislature of the said Province in order to carry the beneficial purposes of this Act into execution in a manner as effectual and as equitable as the circumstances of their situation will admit, have thought it necessary to exchange their outstanding Bills for silver at the rate of ten Pounds in Bills of what is called the old Tenor, for one Pound sterling (which is less than half the nominal value affixed to the said Bills by the several Acts for creating them) at which rate the whole Paper Currency will be sunk except the sum of seventy five thousand pounds new Tenor, for the sinking of which, provision is made by a tax to be levied in the present year, so that the whole will be entirely abolished within the year 1750, provided the Money granted by Parliament arrives in the Province within that time.

But as the alteration made by this Act in the nominal value so set upon the said Bills of Credit, may appear to your Lordships at the first view to be in some degree a breach of the public faith of the Province and an injustice to the Possessors of the said Bills, We think proper to observe to your Lordships, that the said Bills of Credit have by frequent and large emissions of them, both before and since the breaking out of the late War, as well as by many other concurrent circumstances, been from time to time greatly depreciated, and that it is represented to us, that by far the greatest part thereof have passed from Hand to Hand, and been received by the present Possessors at even a lower rate than is set upon them by this Act, therefore should they be redeemed at their nominal value (which at the very time of their Emission they never really bore) as the first possessors never did or could receive near that nominal value, so it would be unreasonable that the present Possessors should avail themselves of a Benefit which they have never purchased, and cannot in equity be entitled to; If to these are added the following considerations—the exhausted condition of this Province; the great scarcity or rather total want of silver there;—the excessive quantity of Bills now current;—the distance of the periods for calling them in by Taxes;—the little Expectations the Possessors of the Bills could entertain and indeed the absolute improbability of their being exchanged for silver by any other means than the application of the money granted by Parliament to that purpose, this must seem to us to be the most equal rate that could be fixed between the Debtor and Creditor, as also between the Possessors of the Bills and the Government, and so it is represented to us by M<sup>r</sup> Shirley the Governor of that Province.

In order to establish a silver currency for the future in lieu of the said Bills of Credit, there is a Clause in the Act which declares that all Bargains, Contracts, Debts, Dues &c which shall be made or agreed after the 31st of March 1750 shall be in silver at six shillings and eight pence per ounce, and that all Spanish milled Pieces of Eight of full weight shall be accounted taken and paid at the rate of six shillings per piece for the discharge of every contract or bargain after the said 31st of March 1750, and the halves, quarters and other lesser pieces of the same coin to be taken or paid in the same proportion, with a penalty of fifty Pounds upon any person taking or paying them at a higher rate, which said Rates are agreeable to the Act of the 6th of Queen Anne for ascertaining the rates of Foreign Coins in the Plantations in America.

We must likewise acquaint your Lordships that Provision is made by this Act to prevent the Bills of Credit of the Neighbouring Governors of Rhode Island Connecticut and New Hampshire, who have not yet taken any steps to abolish them, from passing current in the Massachusetts Bay, and tho' the Oaths and penalties imposed to prevent the same, may appear of an extraordinary nature, yet as the Governor of that Province has represented to us, that all pecuniary penalties alone, tho' imposed in the strictest manner, have been found by experience to have had no effect in this case, several Penal Laws for that purpose having proved ineffectual and that there seems to be a necessity for having recourse to other provisions which may be effectual and that the Provisions of this Act are no more than what the nature of the case requires, in order to suppress an evil which prevails so strongly and the continuation of which will defeat the good intentions of this Province in sinking their own Bills; We hope they will appear to your Lordships to be necessary for the effectual executions of this Act, and your Lordships will likewise observe that these provisions are only temporary from March 1750 to March 1754.

We must further observe to your Lordships that this Act repeals several Clauses in former Acts, which have been confirmed by His Majesty, whereby these Bills of Credit were to have been called in by Taxes to be levied in certain years, without having a clause inserted therein suspending the execution of it until His Majesty's pleasure be known, but as that Repeal is only conditional in case the money granted by Parliament arrives within the time limited, in which case the whole end and intended operation of those Clauses will be performed in a more beneficial manner, and if that condition should not happen, then those Clauses will continue in force and the outstanding Bills of Credit will be drawn into the Treasury and sunk by the Taxes laid on the several years till 1760, in the same manner as if this Act had not been made; We submit it to Your Lordships judgment whether the not having such a Clause inserted therein may not be dispensed with, and the rather as His Majesty's Governor of the said Province has represented to us, that a Dispute with the Assembly on that subject would have prevented the passing of this Act so advantageous to the welfare of that Province and so necessary for the commerce of this Kingdom.

Upon the whole, We are of opinion that it may be adviseable for your Lordships to lay the said Act before His Majesty for His Royal Confirmation

"The provision made by this act for the exchange of the bills and for establishing a silver currency was altogether conditional, and depended upon a grant of Parliament for reimbursement of the charge of the Cape Breton expedition. This being at a distance and not absolutely certain, the act had no sudden effect upon the minds of the people, but when the news of the grant arrived the discontent appeared more visible, and upon the arrival of the money there were some beginnings of tumults, and the authors and promoters of the measure were threatened. The government passed an act with a severe penalty against riots, and appeared determined to carry the other act for exchanging the [1749-50, chap. 7.]

bills into execution. The apprehension of a shock to trade proved groundless; the bills being dispersed through every part of the province, the silver took place instead of them, a good business was insensibly substituted in the room of a bad one, and every branch of business was carried on to greater advantage than before. The other governments, especially Connecticut and Rhode Island, who refused, upon being invited, to conform their currency to the Massachusetts, felt a shock in their trade which they have not yet recovered. The latter had been the importers, for the Massachusetts, of West India goods for many years, which ceased at once. New Hampshire, after some years, revived its business, and increased their trade in English goods, which formerly they had been supplied with from the Massachusetts. Perhaps they have rather exceeded.”—Hutchinson's Hist. Mass. (Ed. 1767) vol. II., p. 440.—See, also, note to 1750-51, chapter 17, post.

Different use of the boats.

* June 24 is given, on the engrossment, as the date of the Governor's signature; but on the record it appears as stated above.

And be it further enacted,

Rates of ferri-
age.

[SECT. 2.] That it shall and may be lawful for the ferrymen to demand and receive for each passenger over said ferry an halfpenny, sterling; for a man and horse, fourpence halfpenny, in bills of the last emission; for an horse and chaise or chair, fifteen pence, in like bills; and for other luggage of fifty pounds' weight or upward, the fare or price for carriage to be at the rate of an halfpenny, sterling, for every hundred weight, and no more.

And for the greater convenience of passing to and from the boats,—
Be it enacted,

Ferry-ways to be enlarged.

[SECT. 3.] That the ways for landing on either side of the said ferry be enlarged or widened to double their present w[i][e]dth; and that until[1] such enlargement be made, and the afore[mentioned] [said] number of boats provided, nothing more be demanded for ferriage than heretofore has been usual.

And whereas the number of boats by law heretofore assigned for the ferry betwixt Boston and Winnisimmet is found insufficient,—

Be it further enacted,

Four boats to be at Winnisimmet Ferry, two with sails, and two row-boats.

[SECT. 4.] That from and after the first day of October next, there be four sufficient boats provided and maintained for the more speedy transportation of passengers over said ferry, with two sober, able-bodied men (one whereof to be a white man) constantly to attend each boat; two of the said boats to be equip[t][d] with good sails and two good oars, the other two to be row[e]-boats or barges, and furnished with four oars each.

And be it further enacted,

Time for passing.

[SECT. 5.] That two of the said boats (whereof one to be a row[e]-boat) shall be constantly passing on the water, from side to side, in such seasons wherein they may with safety, from sunrise until[1] nine of the clock at night, from the first day of April until[1] the first day of November, annually; and from eight o'clock in the morning [un]til[1] eight o'clock at night during the remainder of the year. And when any one of the said boats shall land on either shoar, the other boat on the same side shall immediately put off; and one or more of the ferrymen shall, within the hours before mentioned, constantly abide at or near each boat, to keep them from grounding, and to attend on passengers.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for ferrymen's neglect of duty.

[SECT. 6.] That every ferryman or other person or persons [i][e]mployed to attend either of the said ferries, who shall neglect his duty, in violation of this act, in either of the particulars herein mentioned, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten shillings; one half whereof to be to the informer, and the other half to and for the use of the poor of the town, either of Boston, Charlestown or Chelsea, respectively, in whichsoever the offender shall dwell.

And be it further enacted,

Rates of ferri-
age.

[SECT. 7.] That the fare of said ferry, from and after the said first day of October next, be as follows; viz<sup>l</sup>, for each passenger in one of the said row[e]-boats, ninepence; for a horse, eighteen pence; for a horse and chaise or chair, with two wheels, three shillings; for other luggage, exceeding fifty pounds' weight, at the rate of fourpence halfpenny per hund[re]d, in bills of publick credit of the last emission, and no more; and for each passenger in one of the [sd] sail-boats, sixpence; for a horse, eighteen pence; for an horse and chaise or chair, with two wheels, three shill[in]gs; for other luggage, exceeding [50<sup>l</sup>] [fifty pounds'] weight, at the rate of threepence per hund[re]d, in bills of publick credit of the last emission, and no more.

Limitation.

[SECT. 8.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed June 29; published July 1.]

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE DISTURBANCE GIVEN THE GENERAL COURT BY THE PASSING OF COACHES, CHAISES, CARTS, TRUCKS AND OTHER CARRIAGES BY THE PROVINCE COURT-HOUSE.

FORASMUCH as the noise occasioned by the passing of coaches, chaises, carts, trucks and other carriages on the south and north side of the court-house, in King Street in Boston, gives great interruption to the debates and proceedings of the general court in the time of their sitting; for preventing of which for the future,—

Preamble.
1747-48, chap. 4.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That an iron chain be properly fix[t][’d] to a post to be set in the ground within six feet of the south-west corner of the house late in the possession of Samuel Rand, deceased, on the north side of the said court-house, and that the said chain be extended across the street, at four feet distance from the pavements in the highest place, and fast[e]ned by a lock, to a post to be set in the ground within six feet of the north-west corner of the said court-house; and that one other iron chain be in like manner fix[t][’d] to a post to be set in the ground within six feet of the south-west corner of the said court-house; and that the said chain be extended across the street at four feet in height from the pavement, at least, and fast[e]ned by a lock to another post to be set in the ground within six feet of the buildings opposite to the said south-west corner; and that the doorkeeper of this court be and hereby is directed, from day to day, during the sitting of this court, to extend and fix the said chains across the said street, there to be continued until[1] the adjournment of the same from time to time; and upon the adjournment, the said doorkeeper is directed to take away the said chain.

Chains to be set up to prevent the general court's being disturbed by coaches, carts, &c.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of one year from the publication, and no longer. [Passed June 23; published July 1.]

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTYS OF IMPOST AND TUNNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyall and dutifull subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a colateral fund and security for drawing in the bills of credit on this province, have chearfully and unanimously given and granted and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty to the end and use aforesaid, and for no other use, the several dutys of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandizes that shall be imported into this province, and tunnage of shipping hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, and during the space of one year, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and also all prize goods condemned in any part of this province, excepted), the several rates or dutys of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, one pound.

For every pipe of Madeira, one pound five shillings.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, one pound five shillings.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, one pound.

For every hogshead of sugar, sixpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, ten shillings.

For every tun of logwood, ninepence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commoditys, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain, and hogshead and barrell staves and heads from any of his majesty's colonies and provinces on this continent excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, &c., that shall be imported into this province from any other port than the places of their growth and produce, there shall be paid by the importer double the value of impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned, unless they do, bonâ fide, belong to the inhabitants of this province and come upon their risque from the port of their growth and produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That all the aforesaid impost rates and dutys shall be paid in currant money or bills of credit of the last emission, by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize, unto the commissioner to be appointed as is hereinafter to be directed for entring and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons where his or their duty of impost, in one ship or vessell, doth exceed the sum of three pounds; and in cases where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall settle and ballance his accompts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accompts may be ready to be presented to this court in May next after. And all entries where the impost or duty to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer, and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That all masters of ships or other vessells coming into any harbour or port within this province from beyond sea, or from any other province or colony, before bulk be broken and within twenty-four hours after his arrival at such harbour or port, shall make a report to the commissioner or receiver of the impost, to be appointed as is hereinafter mentioned, of the contents of the lading of such ship or vessell, without any charge or fee to be demanded or paid for the same; which report said master shall give in to the commissioner or receiver, under his hand, and shall therein set down and express the quantities and species of the wines, liquors, goods and merchandize laden on board such ship or vessell, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same is consigned; and also make oath that the said report or manifest of the contents of his lading, so to be by him given in, under his hand as aforesaid, contains a just and true account, to the best of his knowledge, of the whole lading taken on board and imported in the said vessell from the port or ports such vessell came from, and that he hath not broken bulk, nor delivered any of the wines, rum or other distilled liquors or merchandize laden on board the said ship or vessell, directly or indirectly; and if he shall know of any more wines, liquors, goods or merchandize to be imported therein, before the landing thereof he will cause it to be added to his manifest; which manifest shall be agreeable to a printed form for that purpose, which is to be filled up by the said commissioner or receiver according to each particular person's entry; which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowred to administer: after which said master may unload, and not before, on pain of five hundred pounds, to be forfeited and paid by each master that shall neglect his duty in that behalf.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That all merchants, factors and other persons, importers, being owners thereof, or having any of the wines, liquors, goods or merchandizes consigned to them, that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall, by themselves or order, make entry thereof in writing, under their hands, with the commissioner or receiver, and produce unto him an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath thereto in manner following:—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibits the present price of said goods at this marktett, and that, bonâ fidè, according to your best skill and judgment, is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which above oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowred to administer; [and they sh*] all pay the duty or impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be [landed or take*]n out of the vessell in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 6.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that [by this act a*]re liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharff, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the day[time only,*] and that after sunrise and before sunsett, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or [receiver*], on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessell out of [which*] the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 7.] And if any person or persons shall not have and [pr*]oduce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consigned, then the cask wherein the same is shall be [g*]aged at the charge of the importer, that the quantities thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province [sh*]all be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines shall not have been filled up on board; and that every [hogs*]head, butt or pipe of wine that hath two third parts thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or [imp*]orter to pay no duty for the same. And no master of any ship or vessell shall suffer any wines to be filled up on board without [givin*]g a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of [imp*]ost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 9.] And if it may be made to appear that any wines [im*]-ported in any ship or vessell be decayed at the time of unloading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made [be*]fore the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

* The parchment is mutilated here.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the master of every ship or vessel importing any liquors, goods, wares or merchandize, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof, contained in his manifest, as shall not be duly entred, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawful, to and for the master of every ship or other vessel, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported in any ship or vessel, until he shall receive a certificate, from the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and until he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as are not entred, unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port, or his order, who is hereby impowred and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, until the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandizes as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That the commissioner or receiver of the impost in each port, shall be and is hereby impowred to sue the master of any ship or vessel, for the impost or duty for so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not entred and the duty of impost therefor not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the ship or vessel, with her tackle, apparrell and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not entred as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessel, with so much of the tackle or appurcees thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfie said judgment, may be taken in execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowred to make seizure of the said ship or vessel, and detain the same under seizure until judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or imposts; to the intent that, if judgment be rendered for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessel and appurcees may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing of such ship or vessel from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and duties, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss or damage unto his owners, through his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes unto any master of any ship or other vessel, outward bound, until he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty and impost for the goods last imported in said ship or vessel are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 14.] And the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowred to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the dutys payable by this act for such wines or liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And for the more effectually preventing any wines, rum or other distilled spirits being brought into this province from the neighbouring governments, by land, or in small boats and vessells, or any other way, and also to prevent wines, rum and other distilled spirits being first sent out of this province, to save the duty of impost, and afterwards brought into this government again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That the commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid dutys of impost shall and he is hereby impowred and enjoyned to appoint some suitable person or persons as his deputy or deputies in all such places in this province where it is likely that wine, rum, and other distilled spirits will be brought out of other governments into this, which officers shall have power to seize the same, unless the owner shall make it appear that the duty of impost has been paid therefor since their being brought into or reloaded in this government; and such officer or officers are also impowred to search in all suspected places for such wines, rum and distilled spirits brought or reloaded in this government, where the duty is not paid as aforesaid, and to seize and secure the same for the ends and uses as is in this act hereafter provided.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 16.] That all penaltys, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the aforementioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge [of the*] prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

*[An*]d be it further enacted,*

[SECT. 17.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming [into any p*]ort or ports of this province, to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such [vessells as*] belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonys of Pensylvania, West and East Jersey, New York, Connecticut, [New H*]ampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every [ton su*]ch ship or vessel is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid [g*]overnments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the dutys of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 18.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowred to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure or tunnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessell doth not express and sett forth the full burthen of the same ; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessell, before she shall be cleared, in case she shall appear to be of greater burthen : otherwise, to [be*] paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer, in [h*]is accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessell, untill he be also certified, by the commissioner, that the duty of [tu*]nnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessell for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That when and so often as any wine or rum imported into this province, the duty of impost on which shall have been paid agreeable to this act, shall be reshipped and exported from this government to any other part of the world, that then and in every such case, the exporter of such wine or rum shall make oath, at the time of shipping, before the receiver of impost, or his deputy, that the whole of the wine or rum so shipped has, bonâ fide, had the aforesaid duty of impost paid on the same, and shall afterwards produce a certificate, from some officer of the customs, that the same has been landed out of this government,—or otherwise, in case such rum or wines shall be exported to any place where there is no officer of the customs, or to any foreign port, the master of the vessell in which the same shall be exported shall make oath that the same has been landed out of the government, and the exporter shall, upon producing such certificate, or upon such oath of the master, make oath that he verily believes no part of said wines or rum has been relanded in this province,—such exporter shall be allowed to draw back from the receiver of impost as follows ; vizt.,—

For every pipe of Western Island wine, fifteen shillings.

For every pipe of Madeira and other sorts, eighteen shillings.

And for an hogshead of rum, fifteen shillings.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 20.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid dutys of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and managment of the said office, and whatsoever thereto relates, to receive commission for the same from the governour and commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping as aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver : which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entrys and dutys arising by virtue of this act ; also, a particular account of every vessell, so that the dutys of impost and tunnage arising on the said vessell may appear ; and the same to lye open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer and receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such moneys as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputys, before their entring upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from ten of the clock in the forenoon, untill one in the afternoon.

[SECT. 21.] And the said commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of fifty pounds, per annum; and his deputy or deputys to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding ten pounds per annum each. And the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accounts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputys.

Provided,

[SECT. 22.] That no dutys of impost shall be demanded for any goods imported after the publication of this act, by virtue of any former act for granting unto his majesty any rates and dutys of impost, &c<sup>a</sup>. [*Passed June 23**; published July 1.]

* On the engrossment this act appears to have been signed by the Governor, June 24; but the record has been followed above.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE SECOND DAY OF AUGUST, A. D. 1749.

CHAPTER 5.

AN ACT FOR THE BETTER REGULATING THE CHOICE OF PETIT JURORS.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Lists of persons liable to serve on juries, to be taken by the selectmen.

[SECT. 1.] That the selectmen of each town within this province shall, within their respective [to*]wns, some time before the first day of December, take a list of the persons liable by law, and which they shall judge able and well qualified, to serve on the [pet*]it juries, and lay the same before the town at a meeting to be immediately called for that purpose, and the towns shall, respectively, at such meeting select out of [t*]he list one-quarter of the number so laid before them, such as they judge most suitable to serve as jurors at the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, and put their names, written on seperate p[ei][ie]ces of paper, in one box, and the remainder of such of them as the town shall think suitable, in the same manner into another box, to serve as jurors in the inferiour court of common pleas and court of general sessions of the peace, to be provided by the selectmen for that purpose, and deliver the same to the town clerk, to be by him kept under lock and key.

Persons to be distinguished for the superior and inferior courts, and their names put into separate boxes.

And be it further enacted,

Names to be drawn, and such persons to serve on the juries.

[SECT. 2.] That when at any time after the first of December next, during the continuance of this act, any venire facias shall issue forth for the choice of petit jurors, and the inhabitants of each town shall be assembled for that purpose, the town clerk, or one or more of the selectmen in case of his absence or sickness, shall carry into the meeting the box wherein the names of those persons are put who are designed to serve at the court from whence the venire facias issued, which shall be unlock'd in the meeting, and the major part of the selectmen, who are hereby enjo[y][i]ned to be present, and the constable who shall warn said meeting shall particularly notify them and the town clerk for that purpose; and the town clerk, or in his absence one or more of the selectmen, shall draw out so many tickets as there are jurors required by the venire, who shall be the persons that shall be returned to serve as jurors: saving, that if any whose names are so drawn are sick or otherwise unable to serve at that time, in the judgment of the town, their names shall be returned into the box, and others drawn in their stead.

Persons to serve on juries but once in three years.

[SECT. 3.] And to the intent the same persons may not serve too often, the clerk or selectmen who shall draw the ticket or name of any person returned to serve as aforesaid, shall enter on the back thereof the date of such draft, and return the same into the box again, and said person or persons shall not be obliged, altho' drawn at any time, to serve as jurors oftener than once in three years, and no person who has served as a petit juror within two years past shall be obliged to serve again until three years be compleated from the time of his last serving, notwithstanding his name's being drawn as aforesaid.

[SECT. 4.] And the selectmen shall, in the same manner, once in every year during the continuance of this act, take a new list of such other persons as may become suitable and qualified, and lay the same before the town, whose names being first by them allowed, shall be put into their respective boxes in manner as aforesaid. And as well that all may do duty, as that the deficiency that may have happened by death or otherwise may be supplied at such time, the town may, if they think fit, make a new regulation of the list before received, and transfer the names from one box to another, as they judge needful[1].

And whereas it often happens that the persons returned to serve as petit jurors [o][a]bscond, and the respective constables are put to great difficulty, and frequently prevented from notifying them,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That from and after the first of December next, and during the continuance of this act, the clerks of the respective courts in this province, shall and hereby are obliged to issue out their venires from their respective offices thirty days at least before the return day; and the respective constables, upon receipt of the said venires, are hereby obliged to notify their towns thereof, so that the several meetings may be held six days at least before the sitting of the court from whence the venire[s] issue[s], and the constables are hereby directed, in case they cannot personally notify those who are so drawn, upon their leaving a certificate of their being drawn as aforesaid, with the time and place of their respective courts sitting, at the usual place of such person's abode, four days before the sitting thereof; and it shall be deemed a sufficient notification.

Preamble.
Rules for notification and issuing venires.

[SECT. 6.] And if any person drawn and notified as aforesaid, shall neglect to attend and serve accordingly, unless reasonable excuse be made to the justices of the respective courts, he shall be fined in a sum not exceeding forty shillings of the last emission; and if such jurors belong to the town of Boston, they shall be fined in a sum not exceeding twenty pounds of the same emission for the superiour court only, to be divided between the petit jurors drawn as aforesaid and serving at such court.

Penalty for persons not attending as jurors.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the justices of the respective courts aforesaid are hereby directed, upon motion from either party in any cause that shall be tried after the first of December next, and during the continuance of this act, to put any juror to answer upon oath, whether returned as aforesaid or a talisman "whether he doth[e] expect to gain or loose by the issue of the cause then depending; whether he is any way[s] related to either party; and whether he hath been of council to either party; or directly or indirectly given his opinion, or is sensible of any prejudice in the cause"? And if it shall then appear to said court that such juror does not stand indifferent in said cause, he shall be set aside from the trial of that cause, and another appointed in his stead.

Method for preventing partial jurors.

And whereas it frequently happens that many of the jurors so chosen to serve in the several courts of judicature within this province fail of attendance, and by reason of challenges made by parties to several of said jurors, the number of returned jurors are too few to serve at said courts; for remedy whereof,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted,

New venires to be issued, in case.

[SECT. 8.] That from and after the first of December next, and during the continuance of this act, it shall and may be lawful for the justices of the courts aforesaid, when sitting, and as they shall judge there is occasion, to cause new writs of venire facias to be forthwith issued out and directed to the constables of the several towns in the county in which said court is held, for the appointment and return of so many good and lawful men to serve upon the jury at said court as shall be directed in the writ, which jurors shall be forthwith appointed, and being notified and returned to the said court, shall be and hereby are obliged to give their immediate attendance accordingly, under the penalty by this act provided for non-appearance of jurors.

And be it further enacted,

Jurors' fees.

[SECT. 9.] That the fees for the petit jurors in the county of Suffolk, at the superiour court, shall be twenty-six shillings a case, the foreman to have four shillings and the other jurors two shillings each.

And be it further enacted,

The act of the 15th of his present majesty, relating to jurors, revived.
1741-42, chap. 18.

[SECT. 10.] That the law made and passed in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, [e][i]ntit[u]led "An Act for the better regulating the choice of petit jurors, be and hereby is revived, and all and every part thereof declared to be and continue in full force and virtue, until the first day of December next, and no longer: saving only, that whereas, in and by said act it is provided that when any person shall neglect to attend and serve as a juror, being drawn and notified, unless reasonable excuse be made to the justices of the respective courts, he shall be fined in a sum not exceeding forty shillings,—it is hereby provided, enacted and declared that when any juror, being an inhabitant of the town of Boston, altho' such juror may already have been drawn for and notified to serve at the superiour court, shall neglect to attend and serve accordingly, unless reasonable excuse be made as aforesaid, he shall be fined in a sum not exceeding twenty pounds, to be divided between the petit jurors drawn as aforesaid, serving at [said*] court.

Limitation.

[SECT. 11.] [This*] act to continue and be in force until the first of September, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, and [to the e*]nd of the session of the general court next after, and no longer. [Passed August 12; published August 22.]

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT FOR REGULATING THE HOSPITAL ON RAINSFORD ISLAND, AND FURTHER PROVIDING IN CASE OF SICKNESS.

Preamble.

1743-44, chap. 19.

WHEREAS a good and convenient house hath been provided, at the charge of the province, on the island called Rainsford's Island, for the reception of such persons as shall be visited with any contagious sickness,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Inquiry to be made at the castle respecting infectious vessels.

[SECT. 1.] That inquiry shall be made by the officer or other person on duty at Castle William, of every vessel coming from sea and passing by said castle, whether they are all well on board, and also whether any infectious sickness has been on board since they left the port from whence they last came; and if any vessel inquired of as aforesaid shall have any sickness on board, and upon further inquiry the same shall appear to be the plague, small-pox or any other malignant, infectious distemper, in such case order shall be given to the master or commander of such vessel forthwith to go down with his vessel, and anchor as near the hospital at Rainsford's Island as conveniently may be; or if any vessel inquired of as aforesaid shall have had any infectious sickness on board since they left the port from whence they last came, in such case orders shall be given to the master or commander of such vessel immediately to anchor, and to remain at anchor until [1] a certificate shall be obtained from the major part of the selectmen of the town of Boston, that they are of opinion such vessel may come up to town without danger to the inhabitants, or until [1] the said master shall receive orders from the said selectmen to go with his vessel and anchor near the hospital aforesaid; and in case any master or commander shall, by himself or people on board, make false answer when hail'd by the castle, or, after orders given as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to anchor near the castle as aforesaid, or come on shoar, or suffer any passengers or persons belonging to the vessel to come on shoar, or any goods to be taken out before the vessel shall have anchor'd, or without liberty from the selectmen as aforesaid, or in case any master or commander, ordered to anchor near the hospital aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse so to do, in every such case every master or commander so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds, or suffer six months' imprisonment.

Selectmen to certify the safety of vessels coming into the harbor.

Penalty for the master's offence.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That upon application made to the selectmen of the town of Boston by any master or commander of any vessel at anchor near the hospital aforesaid, the said selectmen are hereby impow[er]ed to permit such passengers, goods or lading, as they shall judge free from infection, to come on shoar, or be taken out and disposed of as the owners shall see meet; and such passengers and goods as shall not be permitted as aforesaid, shall remain on board, or be landed on said island.

Leave to be had of the selectmen for landing passengers or goods.

[SECT. 3.] And if any master or immediate commander of any such vessel, for the time being, shall come on shoar, or suffer any of his people or passengers to come on shoar, or any boats to come on board, or suffer any goods to be taken out of his vessel, unless permitted as aforesaid, or shall come up with his vessel, until [1], by a certificate under the hands of the selectmen or major part of them as aforesaid, it shall appear to the captain-general that the said vessel, company and goods are clear of infection, and the orders for stopping and detaining the same be removed and taken off, he shall for every such offence for[fe]it the sum of fifty pounds; and in case he be not able to pay that sum, he shall suffer three months' imprisonment: and if any sailors or passengers coming in said vessel shall, without the knowle[d]ge or consent of the master, presume to come on shoar, or up above the said castle, or if any person from town or country shall, knowingly, presume to go on board such vessel, or go to the aforesaid house or island in time of infection there, without leave as aforesaid; or if any person put sick into the said house, or sent there on suspicion of being infected, shall presume to go off the island, without leave as aforesaid,—every person offending in any of the particulars above mentioned, shall forfeit the sum of forty pounds; and in case any person be not able to pay the said sum, he shall suffer two months' imprisonment: all the before-mentioned fines to be sued for and recovered by the selectmen of the town of Boston, for the time being; one moiety thereof to be to his majesty for the use of this governm[en]t, the other moiety to the informer.

Forfeiture for contempt by the master and others.

And be it further enacted,

Justices of the peace to order infectious vessels or persons to the hospital.

1701-2, chap. 9.

Penalty for not answering, on oath, referring to infection.

[SECT. 4.] That when and so often as any ship or other vessel, wherein any infection or infectious sickness hath lately been, shall come to any port or harbour within this province; or when and so often as any person or persons belonging to, or that may either by sea or land come into, any town or place near the publick hospital within this province, shall be visited, or who lately before may have been visited with any infectious sickness, two of the justices of the peace or selectmen of such place be and hereby are impow[er]ed immediatly to order the said vessel and sick persons to the province hospital or house aforesaid, there to be taken care of according to the direction of this act; and where any such ship, vessel or persons cannot, without great inconvenience and damage, be ordered to the aforesaid house or hospital, in every such case the rules and directions are to be observed which are already made in and by the act pass'd in the thirteenth year of the reign of his late majesty King William the Third, [e][i]ntit[u]led "An Act providing in case of sickness."

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That if any master, seaman or passenger belonging to any ship, on board which any infection is or hath lately been, or is suspected to have lately been, or coming from any port where any infectious, mortal distemper prevails, shall refuse to make answer upon oath to such questions as may be asked by the selectmen of the town, who are hereby impow[er]ed to administer the same, to which such ship shall come, relating to such infection, such master, seaman or passenger shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds; and in case he be not able to pay said sum, he shall suffer six months' imprisonment; the above-mention[e]d fine to be sued for and recovered by the selectmen of the respective towns where the offence shall be committed: one moiety thereof to be to his majesty for the use of this government, and the other moiety to the informer. And where any person shall be convicted of any offence against this act, and suffer the pains of imprisonment, and shall be unable to pay the costs of prosecution, such costs shall be paid by the several towns to which such persons respectively belong; or, if not inhabitants, shall be allowed and paid out of the province treasury.

[SECT. 6.] And the selectmen of Boston are directed and impow[er]ed to provide nurses, assistance and other necessaries for the comfort and rel[ie]f of such sick persons sent to said hospital as aforesaid; the charge thereof to be born by the said persons themselves, if able; or, if poor and indigent, by the towns to which they respectively belong; or, if not inhabitants, then at the immediate charge of the province.

Continuance of the act.

[SECT. 7.] This act to be and continue in force until[1] the first day of September, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thous[an]d seven hundred and fifty-six, and to the end of the session of the general court next after, and no longer. [*Passed August 12; published August 26.**]

CHAPTER 7.

AN ACT FOR THE PUNISHING SUCH OFFENDERS AS SHALL BE ANY WAYS CONCERNED IN CONTRIVING, WRITING OR SENDING ANY INCENDIARY OR MENACING LETTERS IN ORDER TO EXTORT SUMS OF MONEY OR OTHER THINGS OF VALUE FROM ANY OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOOD SUBJECTS.

WHEREAS there has been, of late, divers letters without a name, sent to several of his majesty's good subjects of this and some of the neighbouring governments by abandoned villains, demanding from them large sums of money, and threatening ruin and destruction to their persons and estates, in case they should fail of a compliance with their demands; therefore, for the deterring and punishing such offenders and their accomplices,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That if any person or persons shall send any such letter or letters without a name subscribed, or signed with a fictitious or counterfeit name, requiring or demanding any sum or sums of money, or any other valuable thing, knowing the purport thereof, or that shall counsel, advise or contrive any such letter as aforesaid, or that shall indite or write the same, and be convicted thereof, such person or persons shall be punished by sitting on the gallows for the space of one hour, with a rope about his, her or their neck, and afterwards shall be set upon the pillory, and there have one of his, her or their ears cut off, and be further punished by imprisonment for the space of three years, during all which time such person or persons shall be kept to hard work, and shall, every three months from the commitment, be brought out and whipt twenty stripes on the naked back, at the publick whipping-post.

Penalty for sending threatening letters to extort money.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if any person shall be knowing to the contriving any such letter as aforesaid, or to the writing, carrying or sending the same, tho' not concerned therein, and shall not immediately discover the same to some lawful authority, such person shall be deemed guilty of an high misdemeanour.

Penalty for contriving, writing, &c., such letters.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That this act shall be publickly read by the town clerk in each town through this province, at their meetings in March, annually.

Act to be read in town meetings.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [*Passed August 18**; published August 22.]

Limitation.

* This is according to the record; but the engrossment gives the date August 19.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TWENTY-SECOND DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D.
1749.

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO, AND RENDRING MORE EFFECTUAL, AN ACT INTITLED "AN ACT FOR DRAWING IN THE BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE SEVERAL DENOMINATIONS WHICH HAVE AT ANY TIME BEEN ISSUED BY THIS GOVERNMENT, AND ARE STILL OUTSTANDING, AND FOR ASCERTAINING THE RATE OF COINED SILVER IN THIS PROVINCE FOR THE FUTURE," MADE IN THE TWENTY-SECOND YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN.

Preamble.

1748-49, chap. 15.

WHEREAS it is declared and provided in said act in the words following: "And whereas the sum of one hundred and eighty-three thousand six hundred and forty-nine pounds two shillings and sevenpence halfpenny, sterling, granted by parliament as aforesaid; and the further sum of seventy-five thousand pounds, now granted to be assessed in bills of credit in the year [1749] [one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine], on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of this province, are by this act become the sole fund and security for the whole sum in bills of credit outstanding, and in case the said sterling sum, granted as aforesaid, be not imported into this province before the said thirty-first day of March, [1750] [one thousand seven hundred and fifty], the exchanging the bills of credit, as is above intended, will be rendred impracticable, and, the former funds and securities being made void, there will remain a fund for seventy-five thousand pounds only, and the remainder of said bills of credit will become of no value to the possessors: Be it therefore provided, and it is accordingly hereby enacted, that if the sum granted by parliament as aforesaid, shall not be received within this government on or before the thirty-first day of March, [1750] [one thousand seven hundred and fifty], then and in such case, the several acts of this province for drawing in the said bills, and all and every part of said acts, shall be and continue in full force, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding; and all and every part of this act shall be void, and have no further effect,"—

And whereas certain deductions and stoppages have been made from the aforesaid sum of one hundred and eighty-three thousand six hundred and forty-nine pounds two shillings and sevenpence halfpenny, sterling, by means whereof the whole and every part of said sum has not yet been, and cannot be, received within this government before the said thirty-first of March, [1750] [one thousand seven hundred and fifty], which has occasioned doubts and uncertainty in the minds of some, whether the said act is not or may not thereby become void and of no effect,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That the said act be and hereby is declared to be in as full force, and shall have the same effect, to all intents and purposes, as if the exact sum of one hundred eighty-three thousand six hundred and forty-nine pounds two shillings and sevenpence halfpenny, sterling, had been received within this government without any deductions or stoppages made as aforesaid; any construction that has been or may be put on the aforesaid paragraph to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed January 18; published January 22, 1749-50.]

Act for drawing in the bills of credit, &c., confirmed.

CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT TO PREVENT VEXATIOUS LAWSUITS.

WHEREAS it is the practice of divers persons in this government to vex their neighbours, and put them to excessive costs, by suing them to some distant court in some county of the province where neither plaintiff nor defendant is an inhabitant; and such suits are frequently sustained, notwithstanding the law of this province enables the several inferior courts of common pleas, and the superior court of judicature, to try matters only that happen and arise within the county where the court is held, by reason whereof many inconveni[en]ces have arisen: for prevention whereof,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That from and after the publication of this act, no personal action or suit shall be brought by any plaintiff or plaintiffs, that are inhabitants of this government, to any inferior court of common pleas in any of the counties within this province, where neither the plaintiff nor plaintiffs by whom such suit is brought, nor the defendant nor defendants against whom such suit is brought, shall be an inhabitant within such county where such suit is brought as aforesaid, but all such actions or suits shall be barred, and the defendant or defendants so sued, shall recover double costs of the suit; saving where such defendant or defendants against whom such suit is brought are not inhabitants of this province, in such case such action or suit may be brought in any of the counties within this province: provided, nevertheless, in cases of trespass vi et armis, and debts due by bond that by the face of said bond are made local, those actions may be tried where the trespass shall have been committed, or where said bonds [shall] have been given. [Passed December 29, 1749; published January 9, 1749-50.]

No personal action to be tried at the inferior court, &c., in any county where neither party is an inhabitant.

adjourn a court upon special occasions," any two of his majesty's justices of the superiour court of judicature, &c<sup>[a]</sup>, and inferiour court of common pleas, respectively, whenever such courts, by any providential, necessary and unavoidable let or hindrance of their attendance, cannot be held and kept on the day by law appointed for holding the same, are impow[er]ed, by writ under their hands and seals, directed to the sheriff of the county, to adjourn such court unto a further day; but no provision is made in and by said act for any further adjournment, which may be found necessary for the same reasons,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That when and so often as it shall happen that either of the said courts cannot, for any of the reasons mentioned in the said act, be held and kept on the day to which, by virtue of the aforesaid act, the same may have been adjourned, or on any day to which the justices of the respective courts, at their session, may have adjourned the same, or on any day to which the same may be adjourned by the general court, it shall and may be lawful for any two of the justices of such court, in like manner as in the said act is mentioned, to adjourn the same to some further day; and the sheriff, upon receipt of such justice's writ for that purpose, shall conform himself to the directions of the former law.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That whenever, by reason of any extraordinary let or hindrance, such two justices cannot, without extream difficulty, transmit any writ for the adjournment of such court, to the sheriff, they may cause a notification of such adjournm[en]t or adjournments to be posted up on the house where the court was to have been held, and at such other publick places as they may judge most suitable to give speedy notice thereof to the county; and such adjournment shall be adjudged good to all intents and purposes. [Passed January 22; published February 26, 1749-50.]

Two justices empowered to adjourn a court after a first adjournment, in case.

Manner of notifying such adjournments.

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT TO ALLOW THE TOWN OF SWANZEY, IN THE COUNTY OF BRISTOL, TO SET UP AND CARRY ON A LOTTERY FOR THE REBUILDING AND KEEPING IN REPAIR MILES' BRIDGE, IN SAID TOWN.

Preamble.

1719-20, chap. 8.
1732-33, chap. 14.

WHEREAS by a law of this province made in the sixth year of the reign of his late majesty King George the First, intituled "An Act to suppress lotteries"; and another law made in the sixth year of his present majesty's reign, in addition to the aforesaid act, the setting up or carrying on lotteries are suppressed, unless allowed by act of parliament or law of this province; and whereas the said town of Swanzey have represented their inability of rebuilding and keeping in repair the great bridge and causeway in said town, called Miles' Bridge, by reason great part of said town is taken off to Rhode Island by the late settlement of the boundary-line betwixt the two governments, and pray the allowance of setting up and carrying on a lottery in said town for that purpose,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the said town of Swanzey be and hereby is allowed and authorized to set up and carry on a lottery within said town, for the use and purpose aforesaid, of the amount of twenty-five thousand pounds, old tenor, drawing out of each prize ten per cent., and said town be impow[er]ed to make rules for the regular and practicable proceeding in said affair, and to appoint times and places, and meet persons for managers therein, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their trust.

Town of Swanzey empowered to have a lottery for repairing Miles' Bridge.

And in order to prevent any bubble or cheat's happening to the purchasers or drawers of the tickets,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That said Swanzy shall be answerable to the purchasers or drawers of the tickets for any deficiency or misconduct of the managers, according to the true intent of lotteries. [Passed December 11, 1749; published January 9, 1749-50.]

Town of Swanzy to be answerable for any deficiency or mismanagement.

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE UNNECESSARY DESTRUCTION OF ALEWIVES IN THE TOWN OF MIDDLEBOROUGH.

WHEREAS there are great quantities of the fish called alewives, that pass up the rivers and brooks in the town of Middleborough to cast their spawn; and notwithstanding the penalties annexed to the many good and wholesome laws of this province already made to prevent the destruction of alewives, yet many ill-minded and disorderly persons are not deterred therefrom,—

Preamble. 1745-46, chap. 20.

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That whoever shall presume to take any of the said fish in the aforesaid rivers or brooks, or any part thereof, by any ways or means whatever, at any other place than at the old Stone Ware, so called, in Namasket River in said town, and at such place in the brook called Assawampset Brook, in said town, as the inhabitants thereof shall vote and order, such person shall forfeit the sum of forty shillings; and the scoop-net or other instruments with which such person may take the said fish, shall be forfeited.

Places where the fish are to be taken.

And whereas some persons who may disguise themselves, and others who may be unknown, may take or attempt to take the said fish at other places than at the aforesaid Stone Ware and Assawampsett Brook, and may refuse to discover their names, places of abode and occupations, by which means the prosecution of such offenders may be prevented, and the good design of this act be defeated; and there being some passages of said rivers and brooks that are much narrower than others, and by reason thereof the course of the said fish may be more easily stopped by cances and other obstructions,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if any person or persons, who may be unknown, shall take or attempt to take any of the aforesaid fish in any other part of said rivers and brooks than those before mentioned, it shall be in the power of any of his majesty's justices of the peace of the county of Pi[er]mouth, on his own view, to examine such person or persons concerning their names, places of abode and occupations; or in case no justice of the peace may be present, then it shall be lawful for any sheriff or deputy sheriff of said county, or constable of the aforesaid town, or two or more persons who may be present at their so taking or attempting to take the said fish, to convey such offender immediately before any of his majesty's justices of the peace for the said county, to be examined as aforesaid; and on such offender's refusal to give an account of his or their names, places of abode and occupations, such justice may commit him or them to his majesty's goal in said county, until[1] they give such account, unless such offenders will forthwith pay the aforesaid penalty of forty shillings. And whoever shall presume to fasten or keep any canoe or canoes or other obstructions within or nigh any narrow passage, or the middle of said river[s] or brooks, so that it may be reasonably thought that the course of the said fish may be thereby obstructed, such person or persons shall forfeit the sum of ten shillings for every hour such obstruction shall continue; and in case it doth not appear how it might have been made, then it shall be in the power of any justice of the peace of said county to order it to be removed.

Penalty for taking fish in other places.

Penalty for giving obstructions to the fish.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants may be witnesses.

[SECT. 3.] That no person shall be disqualified as a witness in order to any conviction upon this act, by reason of his or her being an inhabitant of said town.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for servants and children offending.

[SECT. 4.] That when any children or servants shall offend against this act, or any part thereof, they shall be punished by whipping, not exceeding five stripes, setting in the stocks not exceeding two hours, or imprisonment not exceeding twenty-four hours, at the discretion of the court or justices before whom the conviction may be, unless such offenders, by themselves, their parents or masters, or others on their behalf, shall forthwith pay the forfeiture aforesaid: such parents or masters being notified of such conviction forty-eight hours before said punishment be inflicted.

Disposition of forfeitures.

[SECT. 5.] All the penalties and forfeitures in this act mentioned to be disposed of. one moiety to the use of the poor of the said town, and the other moiety to the informer, to be recovered on information or complaint before any justice of the peace of the aforesaid county, where the penalty may not exceed forty shillings. And such justice is hereby impow[er]ed to issue his warrant for apprehending such offender or offenders, and upon conviction, to restrain or commit the offender or offenders to his majesty's goal aforesaid, until[1] the fine imposed for such offence be satisfied, or cause the same to be levied by distress and sale of the offender's goods, returning the overplus, if any there be. And where the penalty may exceed the sum of forty shillings, then it may be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information, in any court proper to try the same.

And be it further enacted,

Rule of conviction.

[SECT. 6.] That the manner, rules and methods of conviction of offenders against this act, may be the same as are directed and provided in and by an act made in the twelfth year of the reign of his late majesty King George, [c][i]ntitled "An Act in addition to and for rendring more effectual an act made in the tenth year of the reign of King William the Third, [c][i]ntitled 'An Act for preventing of trespasses.'"

1723-24, chap. 10.

Limitation.

[SECT. 7.] This act to continue in force for the space of three years from its publication, and no longer. [*Passed December 23,* 1749; published January 9, 1749-50.*]

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT TO PREVENT ANY PERSON'S OBSTRUCTING THE FISH IN THEIR PASSING UP INTO MONATIQUOT RIVER, WITHIN THE TOWN OF BRAINTRE[Y][E].

WHEREAS the act made and passed in the fourteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent any person's obstructing the fish in their passing up into Monatiquot River, within the town of Braintre[y][e], hath been found beneficial to the said town and towns adjacent, but is now expired,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Lieut[enan]t-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That no person or persons whosoever, from the first day February next, to the last day of May, yearly, during the continuance of this act, shall presume to take, kill or hale ashoar any fish with seines or drag-nets in the said river Monatiquot, or in any part of the river between the town of Weymouth and said town of Braintre[y][e], through which they pass into the same, upon pain of forfeiting for each and every offence, on due conviction thereof, the sum of ten pounds, to be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information in any of his majesty's courts of record proper to try the same; the one half of the said forfeitures to be to and for the use of the towns of Weymouth and Braintre[y][e] in equal proportion, the other half to him or them who shall inform and sue for the same.

Season for taking fish, limited.

Penalty for breach of this act.

[SECT. 2.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the first day of February next, and no longer. [Passed December 12, 1749; published January 9, 1749-50.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE ON THE BEACH, HUMOCKS AND MEADOWS BELONGING TO THE TOWN OF SCITUATE, LYING BETWEEN THE SOUTHERLY END OF THE "THIRD CLIFF," SO CALLED, AND THE MOUTH OF THE NORTH RIVER.

WHEREAS persons frequently drive numbers of neat cattle and horses, and sometimes sheep, and may also drive goats, if not restrained, to feed on the beach, humocks and meadows in Scituate, lying between the Third Cliff and the mouth of the North River, and oftentimes cut down trees and shrubs in said humocks, and carry them away, whereby said beach is broken, and the land made loose, and by the winds and storms is drove on the said meadow and flat[t]s or sedge-ground; and there is great danger, if such practices are not prevented, that the said meadows and sedge ground will be utterly ruined, and the river greatly damnified,—

Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governo[u]r, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats, upon said beach, humocks or sedge-ground adjoining to said beach, to feed thereon, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for all neat cattle and for every horse-kind, and two shillings for every sheep or goat, that shall be turned or found feeding on said beach,

Cattle, horses, &c., not to be driven on the beach.

humocks or sedge-ground adjoining to said beach; which penalty shall be recovered from him or them that shall so drive said cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats, or from the owner or owners of said cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats, that shall so order them to be driven, by the selectmen or treasurer of the town of Scituate, or any other person that shall inform or sue for the same: the one half of the said forfeiture to him or them who shall inform or sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of the said town.

And be it further enacted,

Cattle, &c., to be impounded.

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats shall be found feeding on said beach, humocks or sedge ground adjoining to said beach, it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, forthwith giving notice to the owner or owners, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof by posting up notifications in some publick place in said town of Scituate; and the impounder shall rel[ei][ie]ve said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay the reasonable cost for rel[ei][ie]ving them, besides the lawful fees to the pound-keeper. And if no owner appear within three days to redeem the said creatures so impounded, and pay as aforesaid, then and in every such case the person or persons impounding such creatures, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, and pay the penalty as afores[ai]d, with all other cost and charges arising about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale being first given in the said town of Scituate, and the two next adjacent towns three several days beforehand), and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner or owners of such creatures, if he or they appear within two months next after such sale, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appears within said two months to demand the same, then the said overplus shall be one half to the person impounding, and the other half to be returned to the town treasurer for the use of the poor of the said town of Scituate.

Impounded, to be sold, in case.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for cutting down trees or shrubs.

[SECT. 3.] That if any person or persons shall presume to cut down any tree or shrub standing or growing on said beach or humocks, without leave or licence first had and obtained of said town of Scituate, he or they so offending shall forfeit and pay to the use of the said town the sum of twenty shillings for each tree or shrub so cut down; and all such methods of proof shall be allowed in any action to be brought by said town therefor, as is provided in an act made in the twelfth year of King George the First, in addition to an act made for preventing of trespasses.

1726-27, chap. 3.

Limitation.

[SECT. 4.] This act to be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed December 13, 1749; published January 9, 1749–50.]

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE ON THE MEADOWS LYING IN THE TOWNSHIP OF YARMOUTH, CALLED NOBSCUSSET MEADOW.

Preamble.

WHEREAS many persons frequently drive numbers of neat cattle, horses, sheep and swine, to feed upon the beaches and shoars adjoining to said Nobscusset meadows in said Yarmouth, between said meadow and the harbour, whereby the ground is much broken and damnified, and the sand blown on said meadows, and [s][t]ands adjoining, to the great damage not only of private persons in their property, but also to the said town in general, so far as relates to said meadow, harbour and the lands adjoining,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn or drive any neat cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, or swine, to or upon any of the beaches, meadows or sho[a]r[e]s at said Nobsensset, south-west of a place called “Black Earth,” in said Yarmouth, from the first day of March to the last [day] of November, annually, upon the penalty of ten shillings a head for neat cattle, horses or mares, and one shilling for each sheep and swine, that shall be turned and found on said beaches, meadows or sho[a]r[e]s, within the time and limits aforesaid; which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or treasurer of the said town of Yarmouth, or any other person that shall inform and sue for the same: the one half of the said forfeiture to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of the said town.

Persons forbidden to drive cattle, &c., on Nobsensset Meadow.

Penalty.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, or horse-kind, or sheep, or swine, shall, at any time hereafter, be found feeding on the said beaches, meadows or sho[a]r[e]s, south-west of Black Earth aforesaid, within the times aforesaid, that it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, immediately giving notice to the owners, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof in the said town of Yarmouth, and the two next adjoining towns; and the impounder shall rel[ei]v[e] the said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear, he shall pay the sum of two shillings and sixpence to the impounder, for each neat beast and horse-kind, and sixpence for each sheep and swine, and the reasonable cost of rel[ei]v[ing] them, besides the pound-keeper's fees. And if no owner appear within the space of six days to redeem the said cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine so impounded, and to pay the costs and damages occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case the person or persons impounding such cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, and to pay the cost and charges arising about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale, to be given in the said town of Yarmouth, forty-eight hours beforehand), and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner of such cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine, at any time within twelve months next after, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appear within the said twelve months, then the said overplus shall be one half to the party impounding, and the other half to the use of the poor of the said town of Yarmouth.

Cattle to be impounded, in case.

Cattle to be sold, in case.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said town of Yarmouth, at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and impow[er]ed to choose one or more meet person or persons whose duty it shall be to see this act observed, and to prosecute the breakers thereof, and who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay, for the use of the poor of the said town of Yarmouth, the sum of forty shillings; and upon such refusal, said town from time to time to proceed to a new choice of such officer or officers.

Officers to be chosen to put this act in execution.

Penalty for not serving.

Provided nevertheless, and it is hereby declared,—

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF EIGHTEEN THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED POUNDS, LAWFUL MONEY, FOR DISCHARGING THE PUBLICK DEBTS, &c[<sup>d</sup>].

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, in General Court assembled,

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and hereby is impow[er]ed and ordered to emit and issue forth, at such time and in such manner as is hereinafter directed, the sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, lawful money, now lying in his hands; and the said sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, lawful money, shall be issued out of the treasury in the manner and for the purposes following; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, the sum of seven thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed for the payment of wages that now are or that hereafter may be due by virtue of the establishment of Castle William, Frederick Fort, Richmond Fort, George's Truck-house, Saco Truck-house, and the sloop in the country's service, and the forces that are and have been upon the eastern and western frontiers; and the sum of three thousand five hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed for purchasing provisions, and for the commissary's other necessary disbursements for the service of the several forts and garrisons and other forces within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the sum of five thousand five hundred and ten pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed for the payment of his majesty's council, and such other grants as are or shall be made by this court, and for the payment of stipends, bounties and premiums, established by law, and for the payment of all other matters and things which this court have or shall, either by law or orders, provide for the payment of out of the publick treasury, and for no other purpose whatsoever; and the sum of two hundred and ten pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed to the discharge of other debts owing from this province to persons that have served or that shall serve them by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment nor any certain sum assigned for such service; and for paper, printing and writing for this court, the surgeon of Castle William, and wooding of said castle; and the sum of two hundred and eighty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed to defr[a][e]y any contingent unforeseen charges that may demand prompt payment, and for no other use whatsoever; and the sum of nineteen hundred pounds, the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, shall be appl[y][i]ed for the payment of the members of the house of representatives serving in the general court during their several sessions this present year.

£1,900 for representatives' pay.

And be it further enacted,

Surplusage to lie in the treasury.

[SECT. 2.] That if there [be] a surplusage in any sum appropriated, such surplusage shall l[y][i]e in the treasury for the further order of this court.

And be it further enacted,

Money to be paid out of the proper appropriations.

[SECT. 3.] That each and every warrant for drawing money out of the treasury, shall direct the treasurer to take the same out of such sums as are respectively appropriated for the payment of such publick debts as the drafts are made to discharge; and the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay the same out of such appropriations as directed to, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay, and to keep exact and distinct accompts of all payments made out of such appropriated sums; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house of representatives, when they direct, [all] [lay] such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

And whereas divers grants have been made by this court payable in bills of the last emission, and the debts due and owing from this province have been understood to be payable in the same,—

Be it further enacted,

Proportion between bills of the last emission and lawful money.

[SECT. 4.] That every debt of eleven shillings and threepence in bills aforesaid, that is now due and owing, or that may become due from this province before the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, shall and may be discharged by one milled dollar, and so pro ratâ for any greater or less sum; and the treasurer is hereby directed and required to pay all such drafts as are or shall be made pursuant to law upon the treasury, payable in bills of the last emission accordingly: provided always, and it is accordingly to be understood, that no part of the sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds aforesaid, shall be issued out of the publick treasury in silver before the thirty-first day of March next, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

No silver to be issued until after the 31st of March next.

Bills of credit to be paid, where they are desired.

Provided also, that it shall and may be lawful for the treasurer, at any time between the publication of this act and the thirty-first day of March aforesaid, to issue forth bills of credit that may be lying in his hands, and were received in for taxes, impost and excise, in discharge of any warrants that shall have been drawn on him and made payable out of any of the appropriations in this act, to such person or persons as shall declare their desire to receive such bills of credit according to their nominal value in discharge of such warrant.

And be it further enacted,

Provision in case of deficiency of silver.

[SECT. 5.] That if by means of issuing the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, lawful money, for the payment of the debts of this province or members of the house of representatives, there should not be a sufficient quantity of lawful silver money in the treasury, together with the other provision that is or shall by law be made for the exchanging and drawing in the outstanding bills of this province, that then the treasurer of this province be and hereby is authorized, impow[e]red and required, in the name and behalf of this government, forthwith upon such deficiency appearing, to borrow the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand and four hundred pounds, or such part thereof as shall be necessary to supply such deficiency occasioned in manner aforesaid, which sum to be made payable from this government on or before the last day of December, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, allowing an interest therefor not exceeding six per cent per annum; which sum so borrowed shall be employed by the treasurer for the exchanging and drawing in the outstanding bills of this province, and no otherwise.

And as a fund and security for drawing in and for the payment of such sum as the treasurer shall and may borrow as aforesaid, and the interest arising thereon,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of sixteen thousand five hundred pounds, with the interest thereof, or such part of the aforesaid sum of sixteen thousand five hundred pounds, and the interest thereof, as the treasurer, pursuant to this act, shall and may borrow as aforesaid, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed on and ordered by this court at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, and paid into the publick treasury on or before the last day of December then next after.

£16,500, &c., in 1751.

And as a fund and security for drawing in and for the payment of such sum or sums as shall be paid out to the representatives of the several towns,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of such sum or sums as shall be paid to the several representatives as aforesaid, to be levied and assessed on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of the several towns, according to what their representatives shall so rec[ie][ei]ve; which sums, together with the interest (if any such) that may be due thereon, shall be set on the said towns in the next province tax. And the assessors of the said towns shall make their assessment for this tax, and apportion the same according to the rule that shall be prescribed by the general assembly for the assessing the next province tax, and the constables, in their respective districts, shall pay in the same when they pay in the province tax for the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, of which the treasurer is hereby directed to keep a distinct and separate account; and if there be any surplusage, the same shall l[y][i]e in the hands of the treasurer for the further order of this court.

Tax to be made for what is paid the representatives.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That in case the general court shall not at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, agree and conclude upon an act ap[p]ortioning the sums which by this act are engaged shall be, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sums as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then preceeding; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impow[er]ed and directed, sometime in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sums engaged by this act to be assessed; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the next preceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted,

Taxes to be paid
in the several species herein enumerated.

[SECT. 9.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they respectively may, in pursuance of this act, be assessed, in silver, at six shillings and eight pence per ounce, troy weight, and of sterling alloy, or in gold coin, proportionably; or in merchantable hemp, flax, winter and Isle-of-Sable codfish, refined bar[r]-iron, bloomary-iron, hollow iron-ware, Indian corn, rye, wheat, barley, pork, beef, duck or canvis, whalebone, cordage, train-oil, beeswax, bayberry-wax, tallow, pease, sheepswool, or tan[n]’d soal-leather (the aforesaid commodities being of the produce or manufacture of this province), at such moderate rates and prices as the general assembly of the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one shall set them at; the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commodities afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodities to the province treasury; but if the aforesaid general assembly shall not, at their session in May, sometime before the twentieth day of June, in the said year, agree upon and set the aforesaid species and commodities at some certain prices, that then the eldest councillors, for the time being, of each of those counties in the province, of which any one of the council is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully authorized and impow[e]red to do it; and in set[t]ling their prices and rating the value of those commodities, to state so much of them, respectively, as an ounce of silver will purchase at that time in the town of Boston, and so pro ratâ. And the treasurer is hereby directed to insert in the several warrants by him sent to the several collectors of taxes for that year, with the names of the afore-recited commodities, the several prices or rates which shall be set on them, either by the general assembly or the committee aforesaid, and direct the aforesaid collectors to receive them so.

How the commodities brought into the treasury are to be rated.

Treasurer to sell the said
commodities.

[SECT. 10.] And the aforesaid commodities so brought into the treasury shall, as soon as may be, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage for so much as they will fetch in silver at six shillings and eight pence per ounce, or gold coin proportionably; and if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, or by any unforeseen accident, such deficiency shall be made good by a tax of the year next following, so as fully and effectually to pay in the full sum that may be borrowed as aforesaid; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury. 1749-50.

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE AND PASS[E]’D IN THE TWENTY-SECOND YEAR OF HIS MAJ[ES]TY’S REIGN, INTIT[UL]ED “AN ACT FOR DRAWING IN THE BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE SEVERAL DENOMINATIONS WHICH HAVE AT ANY TIME BEEN ISSUED BY THIS GOVERN[EN]T AND ARE STILL OUTSTANDING, AND FOR ASCERTAINING THE RATE OF COINED SILVER IN THIS PROVINCE FOR THE FUTURE.”

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass[e]’d in the twenty-second year of his present majesty’s reign, intit[u]led “An act for drawing in the bills of credit of the several denominations which have at any time been issued by this government and are still outstanding, and for ascertaining the rate of coined silver in this province for the future,” it is, among other things, enacted and declared in the words following; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, “That no execution shall be issued during the term aforesaid from the office of any clerk of any of the inferior courts of common pleas, or of the superior courts of judicature, for any sum whatsoever, unless the plaintiff or plaintiffs, suing in his or their own right, shall first take the oath aforesaid; and certificate thereof shall be made on such execution”; and whereas such clerk, ex officio, is not impow[e]red to administer such oath, and by means thereof great delay may be occasioned to many plaintiffs, and loss and damage thereby arise,—

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 1.] That the clerks of the superior court of judicature, and the several clerks of the inferior courts of common pleas, within this province be, and hereby are, impow[e]red to administer such oath, when it hath not already been done before a justice of peace and certified to the clerk, to any plaintiff or plaintiffs whatsoever, suing in his or their right, and dwelling within this province; and certificate may, and shall be, made thereof accordingly. And for administering the oath as aforesaid, such clerk shall be allow[e]’d threepence, and no more.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That for each certificate on an execution, the clerk of the court signing the same shall be allowed threepence, lawful money, and no more; and the cost and charge of such oath and certificate shall be added to the sum in the execution required to be levied accordingly. AN ACT FOR ASCERTAINING THE RATES AT WHICH COINED SILVER AND GOLD, AND ENGLISH HALFPENCE AND FARTHINGS, MAY PASS WITHIN THIS GOVERNMENT.

Preamble.

1748-49, chap. 15,
§ 9.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass[e]d in the twenty-second year of his present majesty's reign, intitled "An act for drawing in the bills of credit of the several denominations which have at any time been issued by this governm[en]t and are still outstanding, and for ascertaining the rate of coin'd silver in this province for the future," it is enacted in the words following; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, "That all bargains and contracts, debts and dues whatsoever, which shall be agreed, contracted or made after the thirty-first day of March, 1750, shall be understood, and are hereby declared, to be in silver, at six shillings and eightpence per ounce; and all Spanish mill'd pieces-of-eight, of full weight, shall be accounted, taken and paid at the rate of six shillings per p[ei][ie]ce for the discharge of any contracts or bargains to be made after the said thirty-first day of March, 1750; the halves, quarters and other less p[ei][ie]ces of the same coin to be accounted, received, taken or paid in the same proportion"; and whereas, there is great reason to apprehend that many and great inconven[i]es may arise, in case any coin'd silver or gold, or English halfpence and farthings, should pass at any higher rate than in a just proportion to Spanish p[ei][ie]ces-of-eight, or coin'd silver, at the rates aforesaid,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Rates of coins stated.

[SECT. 1.] That it shall not be lawful for any person within this government, from and after the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hund[re]d and fifty, to receive, take or pay any of the following coin at any greater or higher rate than is allowed by this act; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, a guinea, at twenty-eight shillings; an English crown, at six shillings and eight pence; an half-crown, at three shillings and fourpence; an English shilling, at one shilling and fourpence; an English sixpence, at eightpence; a double Johannes, or gold coin of Portugal, of the value of three pounds twelve shillings sterling, at four pounds sixteen shillings; a single Johannes, of the value of thirty-six shillings sterling, at forty-eight shillings; a mo[y][i]dore, at thirty-six shillings; a pistole of full weight, at twenty-two shillings; three English farthings for one penny; and English halfpence in greater or less numbers in proportion.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for giving more for any the said coins than according to establishment.

[SECT. 2.] That if any person within this government shall, after the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, for the discharge of any contract or bargain, account, receive, take or pay any of the several species of coins before mentioned at any greater or higher rate than at which the same is hereby regulated, set[t]led and allowed to be accounted, received, taken or paid, every person so accounting, receiving, taking or paying the same contrary to the directions herein contained, shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds for every such offence, one moiety thereof to his majesty for the use of this government, the other moiety to such person or persons as shall sue for the same; to be recovered with full costs of suit, by action of debt, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts within this province.

Provided always, and it is hereby declared,—

Proviso relating to bargains, &c., made before March 31, 1750.

[SECT. 3.] That nothing in this act shall be understood to restrain any person or persons from accounting, receiving, taking or paying any of the abovementioned species or coins in discharge of any debts, contracts or bargains made before the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, at the following rates; viz<sup>ty</sup>, for any debt contracted before the said thirty-first day of March, and understood to be payable in bills of the old tenor, in such proportion higher or greater than the rates set at in this act as forty-five shillings is to six shillings; and for any debt contracted before the said thirty-first day of March, and understood to be payable in bills of the middle tenor or bills of the new tenor, in such proportion higher or greater than the rates set at in this act as eleven shillings and threepence is to six shillings; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. ## CHAPTER 20.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL ACTS OF THIS PROVINCE MADE FOR THE DISTRIBUTION AND SETTLEMENT OF THE ESTATES OF INTESTATES.

WHEREAS by the laws of this province made for the distribution and settlement of the estates of intestates, it is provided that such real estates as cannot, without prejudice to or spoiling them, be divided among all the children of any person dying intestate and leaving children, may be settled on one or so many of them as the estate will conveniently accommodate; but no provision by law has as yet been made for the like settlement of estates, incapable of a division among all the heirs, where the intestate dies without issue,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That where the real estate of any person dying intestate and not leaving issue, cannot be divided among all the heirs, without great prejudice to or spoiling the whole, the judge of the probate of wills in the county in which such intestate person last dwelt, shall have power, and he is hereby authorized to order and assign the same to one or so many of the next of kin to such intestate, in equal degree, or their legal representatives, as such estate will conveniently accommodate without prejudice to or spoiling the whole (preference being given to the male heirs among such as are of kin in equal degree), in manner as the same might by law have been settled on the children of the intestate in case he or she had left issue. ## CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON SUNDRY ARTICLES HEREAFTER ENUMERATED, FOR AND TOWARDS THE SUPPORT OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT, OF THIS PROVINCE.

WE, your majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in general court assembled, have cheerfully and unanimously granted and do hereby give and * For reasons for disallowance, see the note to this chapter, post.

grant unto his most excellent majesty, to be applied to the support of his majesty's government of this province, according to such acts, votes or orders of the general court, as shall hereafter be made for that purpose, an excise upon the several articles hereafter named; and,—

Be it accordingly enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council, and House of Representatives,

Duty to be paid for tea, coffee, arrack, snuff, and china-ware.

[SECT. 1.] That there shall be paid for all tea, coffee, arrack, snuff, and china-ware, the sundry duties following, viz<sup>t</sup>.,—

For every pound of tea, twelvecence.

For every pound of coffee, twopence.

For every gallon of arrack, two shillings and sixpence.

For every pound of snuff, sixpence.

For all china-ware, five per cent ad valorem, at the retail price.

And be it further enacted,

No person to sell the things enumerated without license.

[SECT. 2.] That from and after the first day of August next, and during the continuance of this act, no person or persons whatsoever, other than such as shall obtain licence from the justices in general sessions to sell tea, coffee, arrack, snuff and china-ware, shall or may presume to sell the same; and every person so licensed shall give bond, with sufficient sureties, for their well and truly paying the duties laid on those articles he or they shall be licensed to sell, and that he or they will use his or their licen[s][c]e in such house or houses as shall be therein named, and no other; and that he or they will render to the collector or collectors, on oath, a just and true account of all the said commodities by him or them sold, from time to time, and pay unto the said collector or collectors, at the end of every half-year, the sum or sums of excise that may arise pursuant to this law.

And be it further enacted,

License not to be renewed unless the duty for the time past be paid.

[SECT. 3.] That the said licen[s][c]e be renewed yearly, and bond given as aforesaid; and that the said licen[s][c]es be renewed to no persons whatsoever, unless he or they, before their receiving the same, produce certificate, under the hand of the collector, of his or their having paid the full of the excise due from them as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for selling without license.

[SECT. 4.] That if any person or persons not licensed as aforesaid, unless as hereafter is provided, shall, from and after the first day of Aug[us]t next, presume, directly or indirectly, by themselves, or any under them, to sell any tea, coffee, arrack, snuff, or china-ware, by any quantity, weight, number or measure, he, she or they shall, for every such offence, on due conviction, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding ten pounds, nor under two pounds, at the discretion of the court before whom the conviction may be; one half to the informer, and the other half to his majesty for and towards the support of this government, and to be paid into the prov[s][ince] treasury accordingly: the manner of conviction to be the same as of persons selling strong liquors without licen[s][c]e, as is by law already provided.

And be it further enacted,

1748-49, chap. 4, § 8.

Collectors of this duty to be appointed.

[SECT. 5.] That there be one or more collectors in each county annually appointed by the general court; and, in case of death or refusal, the court of gen[era]l sessions of the peace are hereby impow[er]ed to take charge of the aforesaid duty of excise; and each of the said collectors shall give bond with sureties, before he enter into said office, to the treasurer of the province, in such sum as the court of general sessions of the peace shall order, not exceeding one thousand pounds, conditioned for his faithful performance of his duty and paying into the treasury all such sums as he shall collect by virtue of this act; and said collectors, respectively, shall also be under oath to see to the observation of this law, and to prosecute the breakers of it, and may and are hereby authorized and impow[e]red to appoint one or more officers under them, who shall also be under oath, to inquire after and prosecute the breakers of this law; and the said collectors are hereby impow[e]red and required, every half year, carefully to examine on oath the accompts of every person licensed to sell any or either of the before-mentioned articles in their respective counties, and demand and receive the several sums due from them by virtue of this act; and shall give in a particular accompt, under their hands, of the particular sums they received, together with the names of the persons of whom received, and pay in the same unto the province treasurer upon oath, which oath the said treasurer is hereby directed and impow[e]red to administer, and each collector shall be allowed five per cent for all monies received by him as aforesaid and paid into the province treasury.

Collectors to examine licensed persons on oath.

To render an account to the treasurer on oath.

Allowed five per cent.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That if any person licensed as aforesaid, shall not, within the space of one month next after the time limited by law for their paying the duties aforesaid, account with and pay the collectors the sums due from them for the excise aforesaid, in manner as aforesaid, that then the said collectors are hereby impow[e]red and required to put such deficient or delinquent person's bond in suit; and upon his recovering and receiving the money due thereon, he shall pay in the same to the province treasury, and shall be allowed two and an half per cent for doing the same.

Collectors to put delinquent's bonds in suit.

Provided, nevertheless,

[SECT. 7.] It shall and may be lawful, anything in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding, for all and every person or persons that shall import any of the before-enumerated articles, or that at the time of the publication of this act may be possessed of any of the same, to sell or export the same out of this province, or sell and dispose of the same within this province, to such as are licensed to sell and retail the same, and to no other person[s] whomsoever, without being subject to the penalty by this act imposed on those that shall transgress the same.

Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the justices in the several counties be and hereby are impow[e]red, at their several sessions during the continuance of this act, to grant licen[s][c]es for the selling and retailing any of the aforesaid articles to all such fit and proper persons as shall apply to them for the same; and all persons desiring licen[s][c]es are hereby directed to apply to the justices in sessions for said licen[s][c]e accordingly; and the person receiving such licen[s][c]e shall pay no other or greater fee than four shillings in the whole (two shillings to the court, and two shillings to the clerk), for his or her licen[s][c]e and bond aforesaid.

General sessions to grant licenses.

Fee for license.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That every person residing within this province, excepting the governour-in-chief, the lieutenant-governour, the set[t]led ministers, and president of Harvard College, for the time being, that are or shall be the owners of any coach, chariot, chaise, calash, or chair, shall certify the same to the collector of excise in the county in which they reside, on or before the first day of July, annually, and pay the sums herein respectively set on said coaches, chariots, chaises, calashes and chairs, by the first of September; viz<sup>ly</sup>, for every coach, ten shilling; for every chariot, five shillings; for every chaise, three shillings; for every calash, two shillings; for every chair, two shillings; upon pain of forfeiting the sum of twenty shillings for such coach, chariot, chaise, calash or chair, which shall not be certified, and for which the duty shall not be paid as aforesaid, to be recovered by the said collectors, who are impow[er]ed and required to demand and sue for said excise, and for all such forfeitures as may arise by the neglect of any person or persons as aforesaid. And the said collectors are hereby further required to pay into the province treasury, all such sum or sums as they shall so receive, on or before the first day of October, annually, during the continuance of this act; and shall be allowed five per cent for all money so received by them and paid into the province treasury as aforesaid.

Provided, nevertheless,

Proviso.

[SECT. 10.] That if any such coach, chariot, chaise, calash, or chair shall not, at any time in either of the years during the continuance of this act, be actually used or improved, the same shall be exempted from the tax hereby laid thereon, for such year in which the same shall not be used or improved as aforesaid.

Limitation.

[SECT. 11.] This act to continue and be in force until[1] the first day of August, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty-three, and no longer. [Passed April 20; published April 21, 1750.]

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT AGAINST DIMINISHING [AND] [OR] COUNTERFEITING MONEY.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

Punishment for counterfeiting, clipping, or diminishing any coin, &c.

1700-1701, chap. 17.

1702-3, chap. 2.

Or uttering such coin.

[SECT. 1.] That if any person or persons, after the publication of this act, shall forge or counterfeit money or coin, the currency of which is established or regulated by the laws of this province, or shall forge or counterfeit any money or coin that is or shall be current in this province, or shall for gain, wash, clip, round, file, impair, falsify, scale, lighten, or diminish any or either of the monies or coins aforesaid, or that shall utter any such false, forged, counterfeit, washed, clipped, rounded, filed, impaired, scaled, lightened, or diminished money or coin, knowing the same to be false, forged, counterfeited, washed, clipped, rounded, filed, impaired, scaled, lightened, or diminished, and be thereof convicted at the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, every such person shall be fined at the discretion of the said court, and also be set in the pillory for the space of one hour, and then have one of his, her or their ears cut off, and from thence shall be drawn to the gallows and set thereon with a rope about his or their necks for the space of an hour, and shall then be publicly whipped not exceeding twenty stripes, and shall then be committed to the house of correction (but not receive the usual punishment at his, her or their first entrance), and be kept to hard labour for the space of three years.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 2.] That the justices of said court may and shall, at their discretion, abate any part of the pains and penalties aforesaid, according to the circumstance of the offence; and upon a second conviction of any or either of the offences aforesaid, such offender or offenders shall be committed to the house of correction, and there kept to hard labour for the space of twenty years.

Punishment on a second conviction.

Saving always,—

Saving.

[SECT. 3.] That nothing in this act mentioned shall be construed so as to prevent any goldsmith or other person from melting into bullion or working into plate any of the mon[i]e[y]s aforesaid, except his majesty's coins.

Provided, also,—

[SECT. 4.] That the making use of the copper halfpence and farthings, for the making or mending any vessel, shall not be construed a breach of this act. Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That whoever shall inform of any of the foregoing offences, so as the offender or offenders may be convicted of the same, such informer shall receive out of the treasury of this province the sum of twenty-five pounds. Reward to the informer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That whoever shall buy or receive any clippings, scalings or filings of any of the aforesaid coins, knowing them to be clippings, scalings or filings of the same, shall be imprisoned for the space of one year, and pay a fine of fifty pounds, one moiety whereof shall be to his majesty for and towards the use of the government within this province, and the other moiety to him or them that shall inform of said offence, so as the offender or offenders may be convicted of the same. Penalty for buying clippings of coin, &c.

[SECT. 7.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from and after the publication of it, and no longer. Limitation. [Passed April 18; published April 21, 1750.]

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AND FOR RENDRING MORE EFFECTUAL AN ACT FOR THE RESTRAINING THE TAKING EXCESSIVE USURY.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd in the fifth year of the reign of King William and Queen Mary, intituled "An Act for the restraining the taking excessive usury," it is enacted, "That no person or persons whatsoever, from and after the first day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred ninety-three, upon any contract to be made after that time, shall take, directly or indirectly, for loan of any mon[i]e[y]s, wares, merchandize or other commodities whatsoever, above the value of six pounds for the forbearance of one hundred pounds for a year, and so after that rate for a greater or lesser sum, or for a longer or shorter time"; notwithstanding which, many persons do presume to take and reserve much more for interest than the rate aforesaid,—to the discouragement of industry, trade and commerce in this province,—the discovery and detecting whereof is difficult, and the provision by the law already made has prov[e]d in many cases ineffectual; for preventing whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any person or persons are or shall be sued on any bond, contract, mortgage or assurances whatsoever, made after the tenth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and fifty, for the payment of any moneys, wares or merchandize, or other commodities whatsoever, whereby or wherein any sum is given, secured or taken for the forbearing or giving day of payment for a longer or shorter time, then and in such case, the creditor being alive, if the debtor or debtors shall come into court where the said cause is to be tried, and shall offer to make oath, and, if required

Preamble.
1693, chap. 1.

Penalty for taking more than six per cent for interest.

Proof to be made by the debtor's oath,— by the court, actually swear to the same, that there is taken, reserv[e]'d or secured by such bond, contract, mortgage or assurance, above the rate of six pounds in the hundred for the forbearance of the same,—whether it be money or other things,—for one year, and so after that rate for any greater or lesser sum, or for a longer or shorter time; or that the creditor or creditors have received more than at the rate of six pounds in the hundred for the loan of the money or other things sued for, such bond, contract, mortgage or assurance shall be utterly void, and the debtor fully and absolutely discharged from the payment of any moneys, goods or other things lent, exchanged, bargained, sold or agreed for as aforesaid, unless the creditor or creditors will, bonâ fide, swear that he, she or they have not, directly or indirectly, wittingly taken or received more than after the rate of six per cent for forbearance or giving day of payment, and that by such bond, contract, mortgage or assurance there is not reserv[e]'d, secur[e]'d or taken more than after the rate of six per cent for forbearance or giving day of payment for the goods, moneys or other things sued for or demanded; any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

—unless the creditor will discharge himself upon oath.

Provided,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 2.] Nothing in this act shall extend to the letting of cattle, or other usages of like nature in practice amongst farmers, or maritime contracts amongst merchants; as bottomry, insurance or course of exchange, as hath been heretofore accustomed.

Limitation.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed April 11; published April 21, 1750.]

CHAPTER 24.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING STAGE-PLAYS AND OTHER THEATRICAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

Preamble.

FOR preventing and avoiding the many and great mischiefs which arise from publick stage-plays, interludes and other theatrical entertainments, which not only occasion great and unnecessary expences, and discourage industry and frugality, but likewise tend generally to increase immorality, impiety and a contempt of religion,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Penalty for letting any house for stage-plays, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons, whosoever, shall or may, for his or their gain or for any price or valuable consideration, let[t] or suffer to be used and improv[e]'d any house, room or place whatsoever, for acting or carrying on any stage-plays, interludes or other theatrical entertainments, on pain of forfeiting and paying, for each and every day or time such house, room or place shall be let[t], used or improved contrary to this act, twenty pounds.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty to actors and spectators.

[SECT. 2.] That if at any time or times whatsoever, from and after the publication of this act, any person or persons shall be present, as an actor in, or spectator of, any stage-play, interlude or theatrical entertainment, in any house, room or place where a greater number of persons than twenty shall be assembled together, every such person shall forfeit and pay, for every time he or they shall be present as aforesaid, five pounds.

[SECT. 3.] The forfeitures and penalties aforesaid to be one half to his majesty for the use of the government, the other half to him or them that shall inform and sue for the same. And the aforesaid forfeitures and penalties may likewise be recovered by presentment of the grand jury; in which case the whole of the forfeiture shall be to his majesty for the use of this government. Disposal and manner of recovering the penalties.

[SECT. 4.] This act to be in force and continue five years from the publication hereof, and no longer. [Passed April 11; published April 21, 1750.] Limitation.

CHAPTER 25.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE ACT, INTIT[UL]ED “AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE UNTO BILLINGSGATE BAY, IN THE TOWN OF EASTHAM, BY CATTLE AND HORSE-KIND, AND SHEEP, FEEDING ON THE BEACH AND ISLANDS ADJOINING THERETO.”

WHEREAS Samuel Smith, Esq<sup>[r]</sup>, for himself and the proprietors of the islands and beach lying westerly of Billingsgate Bay, and south of Griffin’s Island, have represented to this court, that the good end proposed by the act made in the sixteenth year of his present majesty’s reign, intit[ul]ed “An Act to prevent damage being done unto Billingsgate Bay, in the town of Eastham, by cattle and horse-kind, and sheep, feeding on the beach and islands adjoining thereto,” will be wholly frustrated, unless further provision be made for that purpose, and therefore have proposed, at their own cost, to build a fence across the north part of the great island, and so into the sea, as also a house on said island, and set[t]le and continue a family therein to secure the same, in case they may be allowed the privilege of feeding a number of cattle thereon at certain seasons of the year,— Preamble. 1742-43, chap. 11.

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That for and during the term of seven years, accounting from the first of March, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, it shall and may be lawful for the said Samuel Smith, and the proprietors aforesaid, and their heirs, executors and administrators, to feed, on the beach and islands aforesaid, five cattle, from the first of March to the first of May, and twenty-five head of cattle, from the first of October until[l] the last of November, annually; and one cow, for the use of the family that may be settled on said island, for and during the whole of the term before mentioned, anything in the aforesaid act to the contrary notwithstanding,— Proprietors of Billingsgate Beach and islands allowed to feed a number of cattle thereon

Provided,—

[SECT. 2.] That he the said Samuel Smith, and the proprietors aforesaid, their heirs, executors or administrators, shall and do make and maintain a good and sufficient fence across the north part of the said island, and into the sea; also build a house on said island, and set[t]le and keep a family therein during the term aforesaid. [Passed April 17; published April 21, 1750.] Proviso.

CHAPTER 26.

AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE ON THE MEADOWS AND BEACHES LYING IN AND ADJOINING ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THE TOWN OF HARWICH, BETWEEN SKEKET-HARBOUR, ON THE EAST, AND SETUCKET-HARBOUR, ON THE WEST.

Preamble.

WHEREAS many persons frequently drive numbers of neat cattle, horses, sheep and swine, to feed upon the beaches, meadows and shores adjo[y][i]ning to the north side of Harwich, lying between Skeket-harbour, on the east, and Setucket-harbour, on the west, whereby the ground is much broken and damnified and the sand blown on said adjo[y][i]ning meadows and uplands, to the great damage not only of sundry private persons in their property, but also to the inhabitants of said town in general,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

Penalty for horses and sheep or swine feeding on Harwich beaches and meadows.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no person or persons shall presume to turn any neat cattle, horse-kind, sheep or swine, to or upon any of the beaches, meadows or shores that l[y][i]e on the north side of the town of Harwich, between Skeket-harbour, on the east, and Setu[c]ket-harbour, on the west, at any time between the first of April and the last of October yearly, during the continuance of this act, on penalty of paying for each offence five shillings a head for neat cattle, horses or mares of one year old or upwards, and one shilling and sixpence a head for each sheep or swine, that shall be turned or found on said beaches, meadows or shores, within the limits afore-said; which penalty shall be recovered by the selectmen or treasurer of the said town of Harwich, or any other person that shall inform of and sue for the same: the one half of said forfeiture to him or them that shall inform of and sue for the same, the other half to be to and for the use of the poor of said town: provided the said town of Harwich, in conjunction with the town of Eastham, or proprietors of said beach or sedge ground, keep up a two-rail fence during said time, on or near the place, as usual, on the east side of great Skeket-harbour, beginning at the land of Nathan[i][a]el Freeman, Esq<sup>r</sup>, thence extending north-westerly on said flats or sedge ground, near half a mile as usual.

How to be recovered and disposed of.

Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

Cattle found feeding on said meadows, &c., to be impounded.

[SECT. 2.] That if any neat cattle, horse-kind, sheep or swine, shall, at any time hereafter, be found feeding on the said beaches, meadows or shores that l[y][i]e between said Skeket-harbour and said Setu[c]ket-harbour, in said Harwich, it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, immediately giving notice thereof to the owners, if known, otherwise to give publick notice thereof by posting the same up in some publick place in said town, and the two next adjoining towns; and the impounder shall rel[ei][i]ve the said creatures with suitable meat and water while impounded; and if the owner thereof appear to redcem his impounded creatures, he shall pay one shilling and sixpence to the impounder, for each neat beast and horse-kind, and sixpence for each sheep and swine, and the reasonable costs of rel[ei][i]ving, besides the pound-keeper's fees as by law appointed for such creatures. And if no owner appear within the space of six days to redcem the said cattle, horse-kind, sheep or swine so impounded, and to pay the cost[s] and damage occasioned by impounding the same, then and in every such case the person impounding such cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine, shall cause the same to be sold at publick vendue, and pay the cost[s] and charges arising about the same (publick notice of the time and place of such sale, to be given in the said town of Harwich and in the towns of Eastham and Yarmouth, forty-eight hours beforehand), and the overplus, if any there be, arising by such sale, to be returned to the owner of such cattle or horse-kind, sheep or swine, at any time within twelve months next after, upon his demanding the same; but if no owner appear within the said twelve months, then the said overplus shall be one half to the party impounding such cattle, horse-kind, sheep or swine, and the other half to the use of the poor of said town of Harwich.

To be sold, where the owner doth not appear.

Disposal of the produce.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said town of Harwich, at a meeting of said town called for that purpose, or at their meeting in March, annually, for the choice of town officers, be authorized and impow[er]ed to chuse one or more meet person or persons whose duty it shall be to see to the due observance of this act, and to prosecute the breakers thereof, and who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and in case any person so chosen shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay ten shillings for the use of the poor of said town of Harwich; and upon such refusal, said town, from time to time, to proceed to a new choice of such officer or officers, until[1] one or more person or persons will serve therein.

Persons to be chosen to see to the observance of this act.

Provided,—

[SECT. 4.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the owner or owners of said beach or meadows, or any improving under them, from turning on their horses they ride, or cattle they improve in their teams, to feed on said beach or meadows while they are cutting or carting their hay off said beach or meadows adjo[y][i]ning.

Proviso.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed April 18; published April 21, 1750.]

Limitation.

CHAPTER 27.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE ACT, INTIT[UL]ED “AN ACT TO ENCOURAGE THE INCREASE OF SHEEP AND GOATS.”

WHEREAS in and by an act made in the fourteenth year of his present majesty’s reign, intit[ul]ed “An Act to [i][e]ncourage the increase of sheep and goats,” it is enacted, “That from and after the publication of the said act, no rams or he-goats shall be suffered to go at large, or be out of the inclosure of the owner thereof, from the tenth day of August ’till after the fifteenth day of November, annually, under the penalty of fifteen shillings”; which has been found inconvenient in some towns in this province, inasmuch as, by a strict adherence to the said act, the lambs and kids will annually come too late for prof[it]; therefore,—

Preamble.
1740-41, chap. 23.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives.

That it shall be in the power of any town, at a town meeting for that purpose appointed, by a vote, to give liberty for rams or he-goats to go at large, within the bounds of such town, at any other times than those limited in said act, or to restrain them, as the several towns at such meeting shall think proper; and in such case it shall be lawful for any and every person or persons to suffer his or their rams and he-goats to go at large, anything in the before-recited act to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed April 12; published April 21, 1750.]

Towns may give liberty for sheep and goats to go at large, &c.

NOTES.—There were but four sessions of the General Court this year.

The engrossments of all the acts of this year are preserved, and all were printed with the sessions-acts, except chapter 4, which, being an impost-act, was separately printed and distributed.

By command of Lieutenant-Governor Phips, all the acts of the year were duly certified for transmission to the Privy Council, May 28, 1750; and on the 27th of September, following, they were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, by the Agent of the Province. On the 4th of October they were referred to a Committee of the Council, which, in turn, referred them to the Lords Commissioners for Trade, etc., November 15, 1750.

On the 29th of November, the Board for Trade ordered them to be sent to Mr. Lamb, for his opinion, etc., and Mr. Lamb's report is dated January 3, 1752.

The report of the Board of Trade was prepared and ordered to be transcribed, May 26, 1752, and on the 4th of June was signed.

In this report, chapters 1, 4, and 17 are declared to have been "for a temporary service, and are either expired, or the purposes for which they were granted have been completed." Chapters 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, and 27 are declared to "appear to have been enacted for the particular convenience and benefit of the Province and as Mr. Lamb"—the report continues—"has no objection to any of them in point of Law, We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them"; and on chapters 8, 18, and 19, which the report describes as containing "certain Regulations for the more effectual carrying into execution & supplying some defects in the Provisions of" the act of 1748-49, chapter 15, "confirmed by His Majesty," the following representation is made: "and as the last of them is not contrary but as near as may be agreeable to the Act of the 6th of Queen Anne for ascertaining the Rates of Foreign Coins in the Plantations in America. We beg leave to lay the said Acts before your Lordships as proper to be confirmed." Chapter 16 is represented as reviving an act (1742-43, chap. 34) which did not appear to the Board to have been laid before the King in Council; but the report recommends that this chapter be confirmed, nevertheless, "as it appears" * * * "from the annex'd copies of the said Acts, transmitted to us by the Secretary of the said Province that they were enacted only for their private convenience." The report concludes with special comments on chapter 21, and recommends that it be disallowed. These comments are given in full in the note to that chapter, post.

Two orders in council were passed June 30, 1752; one of them expressly confirming and ratifying chapters 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 18, 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, and 27, and the other disallowing chapter 21. The latter is given in full in the note to the chapter last named, post.

Chap. 1. "June 24. 1749. The Secretary has laid before me your Engross'd Bill for granting me the Sum of Twenty two hundred Pounds for my Support.

I think (Gentlemen of the House of Represent<sup>ees</sup>) I might have expected a larger Grant from You; But as I understand the Reason of your not granting me the same nominal Sum you did last Year, was the melancholy Prospect now before you, of having the Fruits of the Earth cut off by a threatening Drought; thó I believe I shall have a double Share of the Distress which may arise to the Province on that Account; yet as I hope my Acceptance of the Sum now granted me for the before mentioned Reason, will be regarded by You as a proof that I am not desirous to decline bearing my part in any publick Calamity of the People within my Governm<sup>t</sup>, I readily accept it."—Governor Shirley's Message to the Assembly: Council Records, vol. XIX., p. 28.

Chap. 2. "Jan<sup>y</sup>. 20. 1746. A Petition of the President & Fellows of Harvard Colledge in Cambridge, Shewing how much the Revenue of the said Colledge (upon which the Support of their Officers does depend) is deminish'd by the low Rates of the Ferriage over Charles River; which Ferry is the Estate of the said Colledge, & therefore Praying that the said Ferriage may be set at the Rates they were at, when first established by the General Court. In the House of Represent<sup>ees</sup> Read & Ordered that Major Appleton, Mr Hall, Mr Russell, Capt Read, Mr Foster, Dr Pynchon, & Coll. Choat, with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall appoint be a Committee to take this Petition under Consideration & report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon. In Council Read & Concur'd & Jacob Wendell"—Ibid., vol. XVIII., p. 53.

"February 13. 1746. Jacob Wendell Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Committee appointed to consider the Petition of the President and Fellows of Harvard Colledge gave in their Report. In Council Read & Ordered that the Consideration of this Report be Refer'd to the next Sitting of the Court, & that the Committee in the mean time, consider of some proper method for regulating the said Ferry & make report at the said Sitting. In the House of Represent<sup>ees</sup> Read & Concur'd. Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 73.

"June 2. 1747. In the House of Represent<sup>ees</sup> Ordered that Major Lawrence & Capt Wilder be added to the Committee of both Houses, upon the petition of the President & Fellows of Harvard Colledge, respecting the Regulation of the Ferry over Charles River in the room of Joseph Pynchon & Daniel Appleton Esq<sup>s</sup> who are not of the House this present year, the Committee to sit forthwith, & report as soon as may be. In Council, Read & Concur'd."—Ibid., p. 139.

Chap. 7. "March 21. 1746. The Secretary laid before the Court an Anonymous Letter directed to the Governor & Council containing Scandalous Reflections upon the conduct of the Government, particularly respecting the billeting of the Soldiers.

In the House of Represent<sup>ees</sup> Voted that Mr. Welles, Coll. Choate & Mr. Goldsbury, with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall join, be a Committee to take said letter under consideration & report as soon as may be what they judge proper to do thereon. In Council Read & Concur'd & Joseph Dwight & James Minot Esq<sup>s</sup> are added in the said affair."—Ibid., p. 96.

“April 21, 1749. His Excellency sent the following Message to both Houses by the Secretary.

Gentlemen of the Council & House of Representatives,

One of the Members of his Majesty's Council has laid before me a villanous Paper importing a wicked Conspiracy for robbing him of part of his Estate, by extorting a Sum of Money from him, & threatening him with the burning of his House Warehouses and Vessells & the murdering of his Person in Case of his refusal to comply with their Demands.

Gentlemen. This being the first Instance of this Kind of execrable Villany attempted in this Province, it highly imports this Legislature to make Provision for Preventing & punishing the same Attempts for the future; Wherefore I desire you would immediately take the matter into Consideration & do what you judge Necessary before you Rise.

In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Read together with the Paper referred to, and Ordered that Mr Speaker Colo Heath, Colo. Otis, Col<sup>o</sup> Dwight, & Col<sup>o</sup> Buckminster with such as the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall join be a Committee to consider this Message & Paper referred to & report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon: the Committee to sit forthwith.

In Council Read & Concur'd, And Samuel Welles, Sam<sup>l</sup> Danforth, Andrew Oliver, and John Otis Esq<sup>rs</sup> are joined in the affair.”—Ibid., p. 467.

“April 22<sup>d</sup> 1749. Samuel Welles Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Committee on his Excellency's Message referring to the threatening Letter sent to one of his Majesty's Council, gave in the following Report, The Committee appointed to Consider of his Excellency's Message of this Day are of Opinion, that all possible means should be used to detect & punish the horrid Crimes his Excellency refers to & to prevent such heinous & detestable Practices for the future; And therefore they humbly Apprehend it to be proper for the two Houses to desire & advise his Excellency to issue a Proclamation promising a Reward of two hundred Pounds, Bills of the last Emission to any Person or Persons who shall inform or discover one or more concerned in this Wicked Conspiracy so that he or they may be Convicted; And if the Informer shall have been an Accomplice or engaged in said Crime, he shall be forgiven: And to the End the greater Horror & Detestation may be raised in the minds of his Majesty's good Subjects with respect to this Atrocious & execrable Design; The Committee humbly report as their Opinion, that the two Houses desire his Excellency to insert in the Proclamation, the Sum & substance of the Anonymous Letter referred to in the Message & some of the impious, insolent, inhuman Message verbatim; that thereby all his Majesty's good Subjects may see how reasonable & necessary it is that they join Universally in their Endeavours to bring forward to Exemplary Punishment the profligate & abandon'd Wretches concerned in this Wicked & impudent Combination. The Committee would propose that some Gentlemen of each House be appointed to prepare the Draught of a Bill for the more easy & effectual preventing or detecting such Abominable & dangerous Crimes hereafter to be laid before this Court at the beginning of their Session in May next.

April 21. 1749. by Order of the Committee Sam<sup>l</sup> Welles. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Read & Accepted & Mr. Speaker, Mr Hubbard, with such as the Honble Board shall join are a Committee to prepare the Draught of a Bill accordingly. In Council Read & Concur'd.

Consented to by the Governour”—Ibid., p. 470.

“June 1st 1749. Gentlemen I must inform you of a new & flagrant Instance of the same kind of audacious Villany, which was begun to be practiced a little before the Dissolution of the last Court in an Anonymons Letter being sent to me by one or more of the abandon'd Offenders concerned in this Criminal Practice, to demand my laying a Sum of Money for them in a secret Place, & in Case of my Refusal.—threatning to burn the Province House & my own House in the Country, & in their Letter treating the Proclamation I issued at the Desire of both Houses for Apprehending the Persons concerned in these Attempts with the utmost Indignity. The Letter I shall order to be laid before you & desire you will without Delay prepare a Bill for suppressing this Kind of Wickedness & punishing the Authors as they justly deserve. * * * *

I must earnestly recommend to you to proceed in the Affairs that may ly before you with the greatest Harmony & Unanimity which will prove one of the most effectual methods to dispirit those lawless Villains that are Enemies to all Governm<sup>t</sup> & therefore would rejoice in every thing they may apprehend will tend to weaken the hands of it, for ordaining & inflicting on them a just Punish[ment] for their crimes”—Ibid., vol. XIX., pp. 5 and 6.

“August 3 1749. Gentlemen of the Council & House of Represent<sup>es</sup> I now lay before you a new Instance (which I have had the Information of from New Hampshire) of the same kind of Villany that was twice lately practiced in this Province for extorting money by threatning Gentlemen of Substance with the Destruction of their Estates & Persons in Case of Refusal to comply with the Demands of these Miscreants.

I am sorry that this Court has not yet pass'd any Act for the preventing & punishing this pernicious Practice, tho' I recommended it to the last Court in their last Session. I must therefore desire that there may be no further Delay to provide for the Safety of his Majesty's Subjects of this Province & their Interests in this Case, & for the Punishment of such Offenders.”—Ibid., p. 43.

“August 4th 1749. In the House of Repres.<sup>es</sup> This House having taken into Consideration his Excellency's Message of Yesterday relating to the Atrocious Crimes that Some Villains, as yet unknown, have been guilty of, for extorting Money, by threatning Gentlemen of Substance, with the Destruction of their Estates & Persons, in case of Refusal to comply with the Demands of these Miscreants. Voted that James Otis, Israel Williams & James Allen Esq<sup>rs</sup> with such as the hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall Join be a Committee to prepare, & bring in a Bill for preventing & punishing such pernicious Practices for the future. In Council, Read & Concur'd; and Andrew Oliver & Joseph Pyncheon Esq<sup>rs</sup> are Joined in the Affair.”—Ibid.

Chap. 8. “March 31. 1750. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> It appearing to this House that in the exchanging our present Currency, it will give great dispatch, as well as tend much to the ease of the Subjects, if six persons be appointed a Committee (three of whom to be a Quorum) to assist in s<sup>d</sup> Affair. Therefore Voted that James Allen Esq<sup>r</sup> Andrew Boardman Esq<sup>r</sup> M<sup>r</sup> James Russel & Thomas Foster Esq<sup>r</sup> with such whom the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Board shall join, be a Committee (who shall be under oath for the faithfull discharge of their Trust & accountable to this Court, & for which Service they shall each receive five shillings a day) in order to receive from the Possessors of the bills of this Province, exclusive of the inhabitants of Connecticut Rhode Island & New Hampshire, what bills may be brought to exchange, agreeable to the Act for drawing in the bills of credit, made in the 22<sup>d</sup> year of his Majesty's Reign; which Committee shall attend each day in the week except Lord's days & Saturdays from nine to one, & from three to seven a clock of each day, until the further Order of this Court; and for each sum or sums in such bills they may so receive (after they have been counted & told by two persons at least of said Committee) they are impowred & directed to give Orders on the Treasurer, to the persons of whom they may receive such bills, & also to keep a list of such Orders, which list shall be transmitted by them to the Treasurer, under their hands or the hands of the Major part of them, from time to time, as they may give said Orders; & shall from day to day consume to Ashes what bills they may so receive, keeping an Account of what sums may be so consumed; and if among the bills which shall be offered in Exchange, there appear to be any that are Counterfeit, or suspected to be so, said Committee are to stop the same, & take the names of the persons of whom they receive them for the further Examination & Order of this Court; And the Treasurer in exchanging the said money, agreeable to the afores<sup>d</sup> Act, is hereby impowred & directed to pay three pence of the Copper half pence & farthings that are now in the Treasury, in every twenty shillings he shall so exchange, & so in proportion for a greater sum; & shall also in each Exchange, deliver Pillar'd money & milled money, according to the respective proportion & value of the same that may be in the Treasury, & shall be at liberty to pay unto any person (that may desire the same) three pence in every twenty shillings that may be exchanged in the bills that are proposed to be emitted for the convenience of small change, & so in proportion for a greater sum; And the Treasurer is further inpowerd & directed to appoint a sufficient number of persons to assist him in exchanging the aforesaid Silver & Copper (for whose Conduct he shall be accountable in such exchange) And they together with the Treasurer shall attend said business at the same times at which the before mentioned Committee are obliged to attend. And it is further Ordered that the Committee chosen as aforesaid be impowred & directed to receive of the Inhabitants of this Governm<sup>t</sup> any sum or sums of the bills of Connecticut, Rhode Island or New Hampshire & give Receipts & make fair Entries of the same, & from whom received; they making oath before the s<sup>d</sup> Committee, or a Justice of the peace or Town Clerk (where no Justice dwells) that the bills by them tendered, are their own property, & that they were actually possessed of the same before the first day of April 1750, and said Committee are also directed & impowred to examine all persons bringing any sums of the bills of this Province to exchange for Silver, whether the same be their own property, or the property of their Neighbour's Inhabitants of this Province, & whether they have, & whether they have not received such bills for Silver sold directly or indirectly to any Inhabitant, or Resident in the aforesaid Governments of Connecticut Rhode Island or New Hampshire since the 30th of March 1750, & to administer on Oath to such persons as they shall judge proper, to answer to all such questions, as shall be asked them respecting the said bills; and upon refusal to swear they shall not have their bills exchanged; And upon the said Committees discovering the said bills so tendered, to be the property of the Inhabitants of any of the aforesaid Governments, that in such case, the bills of the respective Governm<sup>ts</sup> in the hands of said Committee shall be given in exchange for the bills of this Province; and said bills or Silver shall be given to the persons who have lodged the Bills of the aforesaid Governments in the hands of said Committee, in proportion to the sum or sums so lodged, at the end of every two months; And in case there be not a sufficiency to redeem all the bills of the other Governments in the hands of said Committee, the Committee to deliver the said bills to the Owners of the same when they please to call for them In Council; Read & Concur'd and Samuel Watt, John Quincy & Ezekiel Cheever Esq<sup>rs</sup> are joined in the affair. Consented to by the Lieut: Governor.”—Ibid., p. 157.

“March 31. 1750. In Council; In order to disperse the Silver now in the Treasury in the speediest & most general manner amongst the Inhabitants of the Province Voted that upon Monday & Tuesday the second & third of April next the Treasurer be directed to pay no higher or greater sum than fifty dollars or the value thereof to any one person & that in every payment he deliver three pence in copper half pence or farthings for each twenty shillings of such payment, or such greater proportion of Copper as the person exchanging shall desire, and that he deliver a proportion of hammer'd money to the milled according to the quantity of each now in the Treasury & such proportion of the bills ordered to be Emitted as any person shall desire. In the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> Read & Non Concur'd”—Ibid.

The House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> having sent a Message to enquire whether the Board had proceeded on the Bill for supplying the Treasury and being answered that it was Nonconcurr'd, desired that it might be sent down and it was sent down accordingly: And then a Message was brought up from the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> by Joseph Buckminster Esq<sup>r</sup> and others, with the Supply Bill, & for moving the Board to reconsider their Vote of Nonconurrence thereon And the Board accordingly appointed to consider the said Message tomorrow at eleven o'clock in the forenoon.”—Ibid., p. 116.

“January 5. 1749. The Board in compliance with the Message sent up from the House yesterday. Voted to reconsider their Vote of Nonconurrence on the Supply Bill, and after further debate had on the said Bill, again Nonconcurr'd the Vote for Engrossing the same, and thereupon Voted to send down to the House the following Message viz,

The Board in compliance with the desire of the House, have voted a Reconsideration, of the Vote of Nonconcurrency on the Supply Bill, and after a further debate on said Bill, have again Nonconcur'd the Vote of the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House for Engrossing the same. But inasmuch as the Board differ from the House, on that part of the Bill only, which respects the issuing any part of the Silver in the Treasury before the time appointed by Law for issuing the whole; and being desirous of preserving that Harmony which has always subsisted between the two Houses do therefore propose a free Conference on the Subject aforesaid by Committees, if the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House think proper or otherwise between the two Houses

A Message was thereupon brought up from the House by Cpt John Tyng, that they agree to the above proposal of a Conference between both Houses on the Supply Bill & move that it may be had this Afternoon— Voted that Jacob Wendell, Benjamin Lynde, John Quincy, Andrew Oliver & Thomas Hutchinson Esq<sup>s</sup> be Managers for the Board at said Conference—The House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> coming up to the Council Chamber, the two Houses attended the said Conference; and one of the Managers for the Board opening the Subject matter thereof, the Managers for the House disagreed to it; and after some debate thereon, M<sup>r</sup> Speaker & the House return'd to their Chamber.—Ibid., p. 117.

“January 18. 1749. The following Message was sent down to the House of Represent<sup>ves</sup> by Josiah Willard Esq<sup>r</sup> & others viz, The Board observe with some concern the great Earnestness with which the Hon<sup>ble</sup> House have urged a Concurrence on the Bill for Supply of the Treasury; And altho it appears unusual & Unparliamentary thus repeatedly to send up the same Bill in the same Session, yet the Board to prevent as much as may be all Misunderstanding between the two Houses, have again taken the Bill into consideration, but have Voted a Non Concurrence thereon: The Board would by no means retard any Supply of the Treasury that may be Salutary for the Province; And had not the Bill required the Treasurer to issue the Silver before the thirty first of March next, no Exception had been taken to any other parts thereof”—Ibid., p. 131.

“January 27. 1749. Samuel Danforth Esq<sup>r</sup> from the Committee referring to the Copper money & for providing Change &c gave in the followin<sup>g</sup> Report.

The Committee appointed to prepare a Bill for restraining the Currency of half pence & farthings & coined Silver & Gold at any higher rate than in proportion to milled Dollars at six shillings, & to consider some method for providing change, having attended the service so far as the other business of the Court would admit, & being apprehensive that the latter part of their Commission is of most immediate necessity, with respect to that humbly report, that a Committee be appointed by this Court; & impowered & directed forthwith to cause to be struck off & signed as soon as may be small bills of the Form & Denominations following viz. One Quarter Dollar, eighteen pence lawfull money of Massachusetts Bay. A B. Committee And that there be likewise the several Denominations of one eighth of a dollar or nine pence, one twelfth of a dollar or six pence, one sixteenth of a dollar or four pence half penny, one twenty fourth of a dollar or three pence, one seventy second of a dollar or one penny; and that there be such a proportion of each Denomination as the Committee think best; and that the whole sum amount to & do not exceed three thousand pounds lawfull money; and that the same be delivered to the Treasurer, and that he pay the same out of the Treasury in exchange for the bills of credit now outstanding, or in discharge of any Warrants drawn on him, to such persons as are willing to receive the same at par with lawfull money, and that he likewise pay out the same in exchange for Milled Dollars to such persons as are desirous thereof. The Committee further report, that in order effectually to establish the value of said Bills, the Treasurer be directed to reserve in his hand the sum of three thousand pounds in milled dollars at six shillings p<sup>r</sup> dollar, to be & remain as a Fund & Security for the Bills aforesaid, & when soever any possessor of the said bills shall bring to the Treasurer any sums that shall be equal to one two or any other number of Dollars, he shall be obliged forthwith to exchange the said bills with dollars according to their Denomination. The Committee ask leave to sit again, & prepare a Bill agreeable to the first part of their Commission; and report the same at the next Sitting of the Court; which is humbly submitted

“From an aversion to a silver currency, the body of the people changed in a few months and took an aversion to paper, though it had silver as a fund to secure the value of it. A sufficient quantity of small silver for change could not be procured in England, when the grant made by parliament was sent to America. The assembly, therefore, ordered a deposit to remain in the treasury, of three thousand pounds in dollars, and issued small paper bills of different denominations, from one penny to eighteen pence; and every person, possessed of them to the amount of one dollar or any larger sum, might exchange the bills at the treasury for silver upon demand. The whole sum was prepared, but a small part only was issued, and scarcely any person would receive them in payment, choosing rather a base coin imported from Spain, called pistories, at 20 per cent, more than the intrinsic value.”—*Hutchinson's Hist. The novelty of the exhibition attracted great numbers of people into King Street, where, in a pressure for admittance, disturbances arose, which rendered the affair notorious. The legislature, at its next session, for the preservation of the system of economy and purity, which had been thus far transmitted from the forefathers, made a law, prohibiting theatrical entertainments. The reasons, assigned in the preamble to the act, are: 'to prevent and avoid the many great mischiefs which arise from public stage plays, interludes, and other theatrical entertainments, which not only occasion great and unnecessary expences, and discourage industry and frugality, but likewise tend greatly to increase impiety and a contempt for religion.'"—Holmes's Annals, vol. 2, p. 184.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE THIRTIETH DAY OF MAY, A. D. 1750.

CHAPTER 1.

AN ACT FOR IMPOWERING THE PROVINCE TREASURER TO BORROW THE SUM OF FIVE THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR APPLYING THE SAME TO DISCHARGE THE DEBTS OF THE PROVINCE AND DEFREY THE CHARGES OF GOVERNMENT, AND FOR MAKING PROVISION FOR THE REPAYMENT OF THE SUM SO BORROWED.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer of this province be and hereby is impowered to borrow from such person or persons as shall appear ready to lend the same, a sum not exceeding five thousand pounds in Spanish mill'd dollars; and the sum so borrowed shall be a stock in the treasury, to be applied for defreying the charges of this government in manner as in this act is after directed, and for every sum so borrowed, the treasurer shall give a receipt of the form following; viz.,—

Treasurer empowered to borrow £5,000 for the province.

Province of the Massachusetts Bay,                      day of                      17                      , received from                      the sum of                      pounds, for the use and service of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay; and in behalf of said Province, I do hereby promise and oblige myself and my successors in the office of treasurer, to repay the said                      , his heirs or assigns, on or before the tenth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, the aforesaid sum of                      pounds, with interest for the same, at and after the rate of six per cent per annum.                      Witness my hand,                      , Treasurer.

Form of his receipt for said money.

—and no receipt shall be given for any sum less than fifty pounds; and the treasurer is hereby directed to use his discretion in borrowing said sum at such times as that he may be enabled to comply with the draughts that may be made on the treasury in pursuance of this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds shall be issued out of the treasury in manner and for the purposes following; viz., the sum of seventeen hundred and fifty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds, shall be applied for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such orders and grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the further sum of one thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds, shall be applied for the purchasing provisions and the commissary's necessary disbursements for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants

£1,750 appropriated for forts and garrisons.

£1,000 for commissary's stores.

£600 for premiums and grants.

£900 for debts where there is no establishment.

£600 for the members of the court.

£150 for contingent charges.

Duty of impost and excise made a fund for re-payment of said £5,000.

Tax of £5,000, for further security, to be levied in the year 1751.

Tax for the money hereby omitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the further sum of six hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of such premiums and grants that now are, or hereafter may be made by this court; and the further sum of nine hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharging other debts owing from this province to persons that have served or shall serve them by order of this court, in such matters and things where there is no establishment nor any certain sum assign'd for such service, and for paper, writing and printing for this court; and the sum of six hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of his majesty's council and house of representatives, serving in the general court during the several sessions for this present year.

And whereas there are sometimes contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt pay,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds, being the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of five thousand pounds, be applied to pay such contingent charges, and for no other purpose whatever.

And in order to enable the treasurer effectually to discharge the receipts and obligations by him given in pursuance of this act,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the duty of impost and excise for the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, shall be applied for the payment and discharge of the principle and interest that shall be due on said receipts and obligations, and to no other purpose whatever.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of five thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of five thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the general court of this province at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, which sum shall be paid into the treasury on or before the tenth day of February next after.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, and before the twentieth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be, in said year, apportioned, assess'd and levied, that then and in such case, each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts shall have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then last preceding: saving what relates to the pay of the representatives, which shall be assess'd on the several towns they represent; and the province treasurer is hereby fully empowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assess'd, and also for the fines upon the several towns that have not sent a representative; and the assessors, as also the persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the last preceding tax act.

Provided always,—

[SECT. 7.] That the remainder of the sum which shall be brought into the treasury by the duties of impost and excise for the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, and the tax of five thousand pounds ordered by this act to be assess'd and levied, over and above what shall be sufficient to discharge the receipts and obligations aforesaid, shall be and remain as a stock in the treasury, to be applied as the general court of this province shall hereafter order, and to no other purpose whatsoever, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Remainder to be and remain as a stock in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay the sum of five thousand pounds, borrowed as aforesaid, out of such appropriations as shall be directed to by warrant, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay; and the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house of representatives, when they direct, such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof. ## CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT IN EXPLANATION OF AN ACT MADE AND PASSED IN THE EIGHTEENTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, ENTITLED "AN ACT FOR GRANTING TO HIS MAJESTY A DUTY OF TONNAGE ON SHIPPING."

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd in the eighteenth year of his present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for granting to his majesty a duty of tonnage on shipping," the treasury of this province was supplied with the sum of eight thousand pounds, in bills of credit, for building and maintaining a ship of twenty guns; and in consideration of the advantage of such a ship to the trade of the province, certain

Preamble.

* From the record: the date given in the parchment is June 30.

rates and duties on shipping were by said act granted to be paid for the term of seven years, and as much longer as the war should continue, in order to draw into the treasury the said sum of eight thousand pounds, and to maintain said ship during the war. And whereas, a peace was concluded before the expiration of said term of seven years, and the sum that has already been rais'd by the duty aforesaid, together with the sum said ship may be sold for, will be sufficient to draw into the treasury the said sum of eight thousand pounds; and it appears to be contrary to the true intent and design of the act aforesaid, that a burthen should be continued on the trade for any longer term than during said ship's being advantageous to it,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Act for tonnage on shipping to expire upon the publication of this act.

That from and after the publication of this act, each and every of the rates and duties imposed on shipping by the act made and pass'd in the eighteenth year of his present majesty's reign as aforesaid, shall determine and cease, altho' the term of seven years from the publication of the said act be not expired; any construction that may be put on said act, or any part thereof, to the contrary notwithstanding. present majesty's reign, [i][e]ntituled "An Act to prevent unnecessary cost being allowed to parties and witnesses in the several courts of justice within this province"; and another act was made and pass'd in the eighteenth and ninetecnth years of his present majesty's reign,

1745-46, chap. 5.

[i][e]ntituled "An Act for encouraging the killing of wolves, bears, wildcats and catamounts within this province"; and another act was made and pass'd in the eighteenth year of his present majesty's reign,

1744-45, chap. 26.

[i][e]ntituled "An Act to prevent neat cattle and horses running at large and feeding on the beaches adjoining to Eastern harbour meadows in the town of Truro";—which several laws ar[e*] near expiring; and the said laws have by experience been found beneficial, and necessary for the several purposes for which they were passed,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Represent[at]ives,

Said laws continued. Saving.

That each of the afore-recited acts, and every matter and clause therein contained (saving that the several penalties in said acts mentioned, which were payable in bills of the last emission, shall be understood in this act to be a sum in lawful money equal to said sum in last emission bills). be and hereby are continued and to remain in force for the space of five years from the time in them severally limited for their expiration, and from thence to the end of the then next session of the general court and no longer. ## CHAPTER 5.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE ACT FOR THE BETTE[R*] REGULATING SWINE.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd in the twentieth year of Preamble.
 [his*] present majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for the better regulating swine," it is, [am*]ong other things, enacted, "That from and after 1746-47, chap. 26, the publication thereof, no swine shall be suffered to go at large, or be § 1.
 out of the inclosure of the owner thereof," under certain penalties in said act mentioned; "Provided nevertheless, That it shall be in the 1746-47, chap. 26, power of any town, in a town-meeting for that purpose appointed, from § 2.
 time to time, by a vote, to give liberty for swine going at large within the bounds of such town; and in such case, it shall be lawful for any and every person and persons to suffer his or their swine to go at large"; and whereas the power therein granted to the several towns of assembling for giving liberty for swine to go at large is not restrained to any particular time of the year; by reason whereof some towns have been, sundry times, called together for that purpose in different, and sometimes in busy, seasons of the year, whereby their private affairs and business have been interrupted, and much time needles[s]ly expended, and contentions raised among the inhabitants; for the prevention whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Lieuten[an]t-Governo[u]r, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, the Power of towns, for granting liberty for swine to go at large, limited.
 power of the several towns of granting liberty for swine to go at large, be and the same is hereby restrained to the month of March, in the several years during which the said act is to continue in force, and to the anniversary meeting for the choice of town-officers in the same month, at which time it shall be lawful[1] for any town to give liberty for swine to go at large during the whole or such part of the year as shall be judged most for the benefit of the inhabitants.

And whereas the situation and circumstances of the different parts of Preamble.
 some towns may be such, as that it may be convenient that swine go at large in one part, and not so in another part of the same town,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That when the inhabitants of any tow[n*] within this Limits for swine going at large.
 province shall judge it most convenient for swine to go at large in so[me*] certain part or parts only of the town, such town is hereby impowered (under t[he*] aforementioned restriction as to time) to grant liberty for swine to go at lar[ge*] within such limits as shall be assigned for that purpose by the town; and if any swine shall be found going at large without such limits, either of place or time, as shall be so assigned, the owner or owners thereof shall incur the penalties by [the*] act aforesaid in such case already provided.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue in force until the end of the sitting Limitation. of the general court in May, [An*]no Domini, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven, and no longer. [Passed and published June 30.]

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING TO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TONNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being desirous of a colateral fund and security for drawing in part of a tax of eighteen thousand four hundred pounds granted the last year, have cheerfully and unanimously given and granted, and do hereby give and grant, to his most excellent majesty, to the end and use aforesaid, and to no other use, the several duties of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province, and tunnage of shipping, hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, and during the space of one year, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, pig-iron, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and also all prize goods condemned in any part of this province, excepted), the several rates or duties of impost following; viz<sup>t</sup>.,—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, ten shillings and eightpence.

For every pipe of Medara, twelve shillings.

For every pipe of other sorts not mentioned, twelve shillings.

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, nine shillings.

For every hogshead of sugar, threepence.

For every hogshead of molasses, twopence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, five shillings and sixpence.

For every ton of logwood, fourpence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shillings value: all goods imported from Great Britain, and hogshead and barrell-staves and heads from any of his majesty's colonies and provinces on this continent, excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, et<sup>a</sup>., that shall be imported into this province from the port of their growth and produce, by any of the inhabitants of the other provinces or colonies on this continent, or the English West-India Islands, or in any ship or vessell to them belonging, on the proper account of any of the said inhabitants of the other provinces or colonies on this continent, or of the inhabitants of any of the English West-India Islands, there shall be paid by the importer double the impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned; and for all rum, sugar and molasses imported and brought into this province in any ship or vessell, or by land-carriage, from any of the colonies of Connecticut, New Hampshire or Rhode Island, shall be paid by the importer, the rates and duties following:—

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, twenty shillings.

For every hogshead of molasses, containing one hundred gallons, eightpence.

For every hogshead of sugar, containing one thousand weight, one shilling.

—And in that proportion for more or less thereof: provided always, that all European goods, and for all other goods, wares and merchandize, eightpence for every twenty shillings value; all hogshead and barrell-staves and heading from any of his majesty's provinces or colonies, all provisions and other things that are the growth of New England, all salt, cotton-wool and pig-iron are and shall be exempted from every the rates and duties aforesaid.

[SECT. 3.] Impost rates and duties shall be paid in current lawful money, by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize, unto the commissioner to be appointed, as is hereinafter to be directed, for entring and recieving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or reciever is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons, where his or their duty of impost, in one ship or vessell, doth exceed the sum of three pounds; and in cases where the commissioner or reciever shall give credit, he shall ballance and settle his accounts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accounts may be ready to be produced in court in May next after. And all entries, where the impost or duties to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer; and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the master of every ship or vessell coming into this province from any other place, shall, within twenty-four hours after his arrival in any port or harbour, and before bulk is broken, make report and deliver a manifest, in writing, under his hand, to the commissioner aforesaid, of the contents of the loading of such ship or vessell, therein particularly expressing the species, kind and quantities of all the wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported in such ship or vessell, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same are consigned; and make oath before the said commissioner that the same manifest contains a just and true account of all the load taken on board and imported in such ship or vessell, and so far as he knows or believes; and that if he knows of any more wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize loaden on board such ship or vessell, and imported therein, he will forthwith make report thereof to the commissioner aforesaid, and cause the same to be added to his manifest.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That if the master of any such ship or vessell shall break bulk, or suffer any of the wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported in such ship or vessell to be unloaden before report and entry thereof be made as aforesaid, he shall forfeit the sum of one hundred pounds.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 6.] That all merchants and other persons, being owners of any wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported into this province, for which any of the rates or duties aforesaid are payable, or having consigned to them, shall make a like entry thereof with the commissioner aforesaid, and produce an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath before him in form following; vizt.,—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibits the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which oath the commissioner or reciever is hereby impowered to administer; and they shall pay the duty or impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessell in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 7.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharffe, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the daytime only, and that after sunrize and before sunset, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or reciever, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessell out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 8.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantities of rum or liquors to him or them consigned, then the cask wherein the same is, shall be gaged at the charge of the importer, that the contents thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, within one year after the publication of this act, by land-carriage, or in small vessells or boats, shall make report and deliver a manifest thereof to the commissioner aforesaid or his deputy, therein particularly expressing the species, kind and quantity of all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize so imported, with the marks and numbers thereof, when, how and by whom brought; and shall make oath, before the said commissioner or his deputy, to the truth of such report and manifest, and shall also pay the several duties aforesaid by this act charged and chargeable upon such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, before the same are landed, housed or put into any store or place whatever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province, shall be allowed twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines shall not have been filled up on board; and that every hogshead, but or pipe of wine that hath two-thirds thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty for the same. And no master of any ship or vessell shall suffer any wines to be filled up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so filled up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or reciever of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 11.] And if it may be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessell be decayed at the time of unlading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or reciever that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the master of every ship or vessell importing any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof, contained in his manifest, as shall not be duly entered, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned. And it shall and may be lawful, to and for the master of every ship or other vessell, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported in any ship or vessell, until he receives a certificate, from the commissioner or reciever of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and until he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as are not entred, in to the commissioner or reciever of the impost in such port, or his order, who is hereby impowered and directed to recieve and keep the same, at the owner's risque, until the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the commissioner or reciever of the impost in each port, shall be and hereby is impowered to sue the master of any ship or vessell, for the impost or duty of so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not entered and the duty of impost therefor not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertained, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consigned, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That the ship or vessell, with her tackle, apparrell and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize not entred as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessell, and so much of the tackle or appurtenances thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgment, may be taken into execution for the same; and the commissioner or reciever of the impost is hereby impowered to make seizure of the said ship or vessell, and detain the same under seizure until judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures or impost; to the intent that, if judgment be rendered for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessell and appurtenances may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing of such ship or vessell from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or reciever of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeiture and duties, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon such suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss or damage unto his owners, through his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes to any master of any ship or other vessell, outward bound, until he shall be certified, by the commissioner or reciever of the impost, that the duty and impost for the goods last imported in such ship or vessell are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 16.] And the commissioner or reciever of the impost is hereby impowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessell importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or vessell, at the discretion of the commissioner or reciever, not exceeding three per cent of the lading ; and duties payable by this act for such wines and liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And for the more effectual preventing any wines, rum or other distill'd spirits being brought into the province from the neighbouring governments, by land, or in small boats or vessells, or any other way, and also to prevent wines, rum or other distill'd spirits being first sent out of this province, to save the duty of impost, and afterwards brought into the government again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That the commissioner and reciever of the aforesaid duties of impost shall, and he is hereby impowered and enjoyned to, appoint one suitable person or persons as his deputy or deputys, in all such places in this province where it is likely that wine, rum or other distilled spirits will be brought out of other governments into this ; which officers shall have power to seize the same, unless the owner can make it appear that the duty of impost has been paid therof since their being brought into or relanded in this government ; and such officer or officers are also impowered to search, in all suspected places, for such wines, rum and distilled spirits brought or relanded in this government, where the duty is not paid as aforesaid, and to seize and secure the same for the ends and uses as in this act is hereafter provided.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 18.] That the commissioner or his deputys shall have full power to administer the several oaths aforesaid, and to search in all suspected places for all such wines, rum, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize as are brought into this province, and landed contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, and to seize the same for the uses hereinafter mentioned.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming into any port or ports of this province, to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessells as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pensilvania, West and East Jersey, Connecticutt, New York, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessel is in burthen : saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted ; to be paid unto the commissioner or reciever of the duties of impost, and to be employed for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 20.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a met and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure or tonnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same ; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessel, before she shall be cleared, in case she shall appear to be of a greater burthen : otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel, until he be also certified, by the commissioner, that the duty of tonnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 21.] That when and so often as any wine or rum imported into this province, the duty of impost upon which shall have been paid agreeable to this act, shall be reshipped and exported from this government to any other part of the world, that then, and in every such case, the exporter of such wine or rum shall make oath, at the time of shipping, before the receiver of impost, or his deputy, that the whole of the wine or rum so shipped has, bonâ fide, had the aforesaid duties of impost paid on the same, and shall afterwards produce a certificate, from some officer of the customs, that the same has been landed out of this government,—or otherwise, in case such rum or wines shall be exported to any place where there is no officer of the customs, or to any foreign port, the master of the vessel in which the same shall be exported shall make oath that the same has been landed out of the government, and the exporter shall, upon producing such certificate, or upon such oath of the master, make oath that he verily believes no part of said wines or rum has been reloaded in this province,—such exporter shall be allowed to draw back from the receiver of impost as follows; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of Western-Island wine, eight shillings.

For every pipe of Medara and other sorts, nine shillings.

For an hoghead of rum, eight shillings.

Provided always,—

[SECT. 22.] That if, after reshipping any such rum or wine to be exported as aforesaid, and giving security as aforesaid, in order to obtain the drawback aforesaid, the wine or rum so shipped to be exported, or any part thereof, shall be reloaded in this province, or brought into the same from any other province or colony, that then and over and above the penalty of the bond aforesaid, which shall be levied and recovered to his majesty's use, for the ends the duties aforesaid, are granted, all such rum and wine so reloaded and brought again into this province shall be forfeited, and may be seized by the commissioner aforesaid, or his deputy.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 23.] That there be one fitt person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatsoever thereto relates, to receive commission for the same from the governour or commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, and other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping as aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entries and duties arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessel, so that the duties of impost and tunnage arising on the said vessel may appear; and the same to lye open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer or receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such monies as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputys, before their entering up in the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from ten of the clock in the forenoon, until one in the afternoon.

[SECT. 24.] And the said commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of forty-five pounds per annum; and his deputy or deputys to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding five pounds per annum, each; and the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and recieving the said commissioner's accounts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salarys, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputys.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 25.] That no duty of impost shall be demanded for any goods imported after the publication of this act, by virtue of any former act for granting unto his majesty any rates and duties of impost, and that all penalties, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of any breach of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the abovementioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge of the prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer. [Passed and published June 30.]

CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT FOR IMPOWERING THE PROVINCE TREASURER TO BORROW THE SUM OF FOUR THOUSAND POUNDS, FOR APPLYING THE SAME TO DISCHARGE THE DEBTS OF THE PROVINCE, AND DEFREY THE CHARGES OF GOVERNMENT, AND FOR MAKING PROVISION FOR THE REPAYMENT OF THE SUM SO BORROWED.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer of this province be and hereby is impowered to borrow, from such person or persons as shall appear ready to lend the same, a sum not exceeding four thousand pounds, in Spanish mill'd dollars ; and the sum so borrowed, shall be a stock in the treasury, to be applied for defreying the charges of this government, in manner as in this act is after directed ; and for every sum so borrowed, the treasurer shall give a receipt of the form following ; viz.,—

Treasurer empowered to borrow £4,000 for the province.

Province of the Massachusetts Bay,                      day of                      , 175                      , borrowed and received of A. B.,                      Spanish mill'd dollars, of full                      , Form of his weight, for the use of this province ; and as their treasurer do promise to                      receipt for said pay the same number of like dollars to the said A. B., or order, by the tenth                      money.
day of June, 1752, with lawful interest for the same, annually, 'till paid.
W— F—, Treasurer.

—and no receipt shall be given for any sum less than five pounds : and the treasurer is hereby directed to use his discretion in borrowing said sum, at such times as that he may be enabled to comply with the draughts that may be made on the treasury in pursuance of this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds shall be issued out of the treasury in manner and for the purposes following ; viz., the sum of twelve hundred and eighty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such orders

£1,280 appropriated for forts and garrisons.

£800 for commissary's stores, &c.

£520 for premiums and grants.

£760 for debts where there is no establishment.

£520 for the members of the court.

£120 for contingent charges.

Duty of impost and excise made a fund for repayment of said £4,000.

Tax of £400 for further security, to be levied in the year 1752.

Tax for the money hereby emitted, to be made according to the preceding tax act, in case.

and grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes ; and the further sum of eight hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the purchasing provisions, and the commissary's necessary disbursements for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes ; and the further sum of five hundred and twenty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of such premiums and grants that now are or hereafter may be made by this court ; and the further sum of seven hundred and sixty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharging other debts owing from this province to persons that have served or shall serve them by order of this court in such matters and things where there is no establishment, nor any certain sum assigned for such service, and for paper, writing and printing for this court ; and the sum of five hundred and twenty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of his majesty's council and house of representatives serving in the general court during the several sessions for this present year.

And whereas there are sometimes contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the sum of one hundred and twenty pounds, being the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of four thousand pounds, be applied to pay such contingent charges, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

And in order to enable the treasurer effectually to discharge the receipts and obligations by him given in pursuance of this act,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the duty of impost and excise for part of the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty and fifty-one, and ending in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, shall be applied for the payment and discharge of the principal and interest that shall be due on said receipts and obligations, and to no other purpose whatever.

And as a further fund and security for drawing the said sum of four thousand pounds into the treasury again,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of four thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the general court of this province at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, which sum shall be paid into the treasury on or before the tenth day of February next after.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May, and before the twentieth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be, in said year, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then, and in such case, each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts should have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then last preceeding; saving what relates to the pay of the representatives, which shall be assess'd on the several towns they represent ; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowred and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed; and also for the fines upon the several towns that have not sent a representative: and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to all such rules and directions as have been given in the last preceeding tax act.

Provided always,—

[SECT. 7.] That the remainder of the sum which shall be brought into the treasury, by the duties of impost and excise for the years one thousand seven hundred and fifty and fifty-one aforesaid, and the tax of four thousand pounds ordered by this act to be assessed and levied, over and above what shall be sufficient to discharge the receipts and obligations aforesaid, shall be and remain as a stock in the treasury, to be applied as the general court of this province shall hereafter order, and to no other purpose whatsoever; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Remainder to be and remain as a stock in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay the sum of four thousand pounds, borrowed as aforesaid, out of such appropriations as shall be directed to by warrant, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherways pay; and the secretary, to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accmpts of charge, shall lay before the house of representatives, when they direct, such muster-rolls and accmpts after payment thereof. [Passed October 10; published October 12.]

Money to be paid out of the proper appropriations.

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AN ACT, INTITLED “AN ACT FOR BENDRING MORE EFFECTUAL THE LAWS ALREADY IN BEING, RELATING TO THE ADMEASUREMENT OF BOARDS, &c., AND FOR PREVENTING FRAUD AND ABUSE IN SHINGLES, &c.”

WHEREAS the laws now in force for regulating the assize of shingles and the admeasurement of boards are insufficient to answer the good and salutary ends proposed by them,— Preamble.

1743-44, chap. 22

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That all shingles that are exposed to public sale in this province shall be at least, one with another, four inches in breadth, fifteen inches in length, one third of an inch thick at the butt end of the shingle,—neither of them to be under three inches in width; and that all shingles, before they are ship'd off from any of the maritime towns in said province, shall be culled by a sworn culler, who is hereby fully authorized and required to condemn all those shingles that shall be short of the dimensions aforesaid; and in case there shall be above five shingles that are under two inches in width or twelve inches in length, in a bundle of two hundred and fifty, and so in proportion to a larger or smaller bundle, the bundle in which such shingles are contained shall be forfeited; and the surveyor or culler is hereby required and fully authorized to condemn all such shingles, notice being first given to the owner or owners of said shingles to be present, if he or they see cause:

Rules for the dimensions of shingles.

Penalty for not conforming thereto,— —to be for the use of the poor.

which shingles shall be delivered to the selectmen or overseers of the poor in the town where such shingles are condemned, for the benefit of the poor of said town, first deducting therefrom the charge of culling or surveying.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for the cullers' neglect of duty.

[SECT. 2.] That if any sworn culler or surveyor shall neglect or refuse to do his duty in condemning all such shingles aforesaid, he shall, upon conviction in any of his majesty's courts, forfeit the sum of ten pounds; one half for the informer, and the other moiety for the poor of the town where such offence is committed: to be recovered by bill, plaint or information.

And be it further enacted,

Shingles not surveyed, to be forfeited.

[SECT. 3.] That all shingles in each town where they are made, or at the place of first sale, before their delivery, shall be surveyed by a sworn surveyor, and the town-brand set upon the hoop of the bundle; and all shingles offered to sale, without being surveyed and marked as aforesaid, shall be forfeited: and the surveyor is hereby impowered and directed to condemn all such shingles for the use of the poor of the town where such shingles are condemned; and in case the surveyor shall refuse or neglect to do his duty, he shall forfeit the sum of ten pounds; one half for the poor of the town, the other moiety for him that shall inform or sue for the same, to be recovered by bill, plaint or information in any of his majesty's courts.

Preamble.

And whereas there is often great fraud and deceit in the admeasurement of boards, by reason that the surveyors are not by law obliged to have any regard to the thickness of the boards, by which means great wrong and injury is done to the purchaser who imports them to foreign markets,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Regulation of the thickness of boards.

[SECT. 4.] That all boards that are brought to market shall be full one inch thick, and of a square edge, to be reckoned merchantable; and that the surveyor or surveyors upon oath are hereby authorized and required to make proper allowance to the purchaser, in their admeasurement, for those boards that are short of an inch in thickness, and that are not square-edged, as well as for those that are split and knotty.

Limitation.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed October 10; published October 12.]

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AND EXPLANATION OF AN ACT MADE THIS PRESENT YEAR, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TONNAGE OF SHIPPING."

Preamble.
1750-51, chap. 6.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd this present year, intitl'd "An Act for granting unto his majesty several rates and duties of impost and tonnage of shipping," it is provided, "That all penalties, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue" of the said act, "shall be one half to his majesty, for the uses and intents for which the" duties of impost therein mentioned "are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed; the whole charge of prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer;"—

Be it enacted by the Lieut[enan]t-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

That from and after the publication of this act, in all cases where any claimer shall appear, and shall not m[a]ke good the claim, the charges of prosecution shall be born and paid by the said claimer, and not by the informer; anything in the afores[ai]d act, or any part thereof, to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed October 6; published October 12.

Claimer of goods seized by the impost officer, not making good his claim, to pay charges.

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TENTH DAY OF JANUARY, A. D. 1750—51.

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT TO REGULATE THE IMPORTATION OF GERMANS AND OTHER PASSENGERS COMING TO SETTLE IN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble.

WHEREAS Germans and other persons may be imported in so great numbers in one vessel, that through want of necessary room and accommodations, they may often contract mortal and contagious distempers, and thereby occasion not only the death of great numbers of them in their passage, but also by such means on their arrival in this province, those who may survive, may be so infected as to spread the contagion, and be the cause of the death of many others; to the end, therefore, that such an evil practice may be prevented, and inconveniencies thence arising avoided as much as may be,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives.

Sufficient room and provisions to be allowed to passengers coming in any vessel to settle in this province.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, no master or commander of any ship, or other vessel whatsoever, bound to the port of Boston, or elsewhere within this province, shall import into said port of Boston, or into any other port within this province, any greater number of passengers, in any one ship or other vessel, than such only as shall be well provided with good and wholesome meat, drink and other necessaries for passengers and others, during the whole voyage; and shall have room therein to contain, for single freight or passengers of the age of fourteen years or upwards, at least six feet in length, and one foot and six inches in breadth, and if under the age aforesaid, to contain the same length and breadth for every two such passengers.

Penalty to any delinquent master.

[SECT. 2.] And if any master or commander of any ship or other vessel, against the tenor of this act, shall import into this province any one or greater number of passengers not accommodated or provided during his voyage with good and wholesome meat, drink, room and other necessaries as aforesaid, such master or commander shall forfeit and pay, for every passenger so imported into this province, the sum of five pounds; to be recovered by action of debt, with full costs of suit, in any court of record within this province: the one half of said forfeiture to any one who will sue for the same to effect, and the other half to the province treasurer, to be applied towards payment of the charges and expences of this province: provided, such action shall be commenced within the space of forty days next after any such offence shall be committed; or such delinquent may be indicted for the same in the next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where the offence shall be committed, and, on due conviction, be fined, at the discretion of the court, not exceeding five pounds for each passenger exceeding the number by this act allowed to be imported as aforesaid.

And to the end this act and the provisions herein made may be more particularly observed,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the commissioner of impost for the time being, or his lawful deputies, in going on board any ship or other vessel importing passengers, either by his or their view, or otherwise, shall, and is hereby required to, inform himself of the condition and circumstances of the passengers on board, and whether they have been provided for, and accommodated with the provisions, room and other necessaries herein directed; and where at any time a deficiency shall appear to him or any of them, he or they shall forthwith give notice of the same to some one or more of the justices of the peace for the county where the offence is committed, to the end the person or persons delinquent may be sent for, or bound over, to the next court of general sessions of the peace, then and there to answer for such offence.

The impost-officer and his deputies empowered to make inquiry referring to the observation of this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That every master or commander of any ship or other vessel importing any passenger or passengers to be landed within this province, who, in their passage hither, or soon after their arrival, may happen to die, leaving goods, chattles, money or other effects on board such ship or other vessel, or in the hands or custody of any such master or commander, every such master or commander, within the space of twenty days next after his arrival, or after the decease of every such passenger, shall exhibit to the register of the judge of probate of wills and granting administration, for the county where such goods and effects shall be, a true and perfect inventory, upon oath, of all such goods, chattles, money or other effects, to the end that after payment of all just demands which shall be due to the said master or commander, or to his or their owner or owners, the remainder of such goods and effects may be committed to the custody of some proper person or persons for the benefit of the wife and children, or other kindred, or creditors of the deceased, as the case may require, and the law in such case shall direct.

Provision for saving the money, goods, &c., of any passengers that may die on the passage.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That if any such master or commander of any such ship or other vessel shall neglect or refuse to exhibit such an inventory of the goods and effects of any such passenger or passengers so dying as aforesaid, every such master or commander shall forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds, to be recovered and applied as aforesaid. [Passed February 6, 1750-51.]

Penalty for any master's neglect of exhibiting an inventory of such goods, &c.

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT FOR HOLDING A SUPERIOUR COURT OF JUDICATURE, COURT OF ASSIZE AND GENERAL GOAL DELIVERY AT OTHER TIMES THAN THOSE ALREADY APPOINTED BY LAW.

WHEREAS the time by law appointed for holding the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery is but once in six months in any county, and but once a year in many counties, by reason whereof felons, by making their escape, or by the death of witnesses, may avoid justice, or great charges may arise by keeping such offenders in goal, as well as damages accrue to witnesses by being detained until[1] the time by law appointed for holding the court where Preamble. 1747-48, chap. 15.

such offenders are triable; and as there is not by the laws of this province, sufficient provision made for remedying the inconvenienc[i]es aforesaid,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Governor and council empowered to call a special court of assize, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That the governour or commander-in-chief, for the time being, by and with the advice and consent of the council, may, upon such occasions, by precept, directed to the justices of the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, order and appoint them to hold a superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery for inquiring of, hearing and determining all such felonies, on certain days and places by them to be appointed in the county where such offence by law is triable; and that the justices aforesaid, upon the receipt of such precept, shall cause process to issue for summoning grand jurors and petit jurors out of the several towns,—as is usual for the stated courts,—to attend such special court at the time and place appointed by the justices thereof for holding the same, and make out all other necessary process; and do whatever else is or may be requisite to be done for the holding such court, inquiring of such felonies, hearing and determining the same, giving judgment and awarding execution thereon, as fully as the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery might or could do at a time by law appointed for holding such court.

And be it further enacted,

How the court may be adjourned.

[SECT. 2.] That if any such special court can't be held on the day appointed therefor, any one of the justices thereof may adjourn the same from time to time until[1] such court can be held. [*Passed February 11**; published February 16, 1750-51.

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR RAISING THE SUM OF TWELVE HUNDRED POUNDS BY LOTTERY, FOR BUILDING AND MAINTAINING A BRIDGE OVER THE RIVER PARKER, IN THE TOWN OF NEWBURY, AT THE PLACE CALLED OLDTOWN FERRY.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the building a bridge over the river Parker, in the town of Newbury, in the county of Essex, at the place called Oldtown Ferry, will be of publick service; and whereas the town of Newbury have, by Mr. Daniel Farn[a][u]m, their agent, applied to this court for liberty to raise the sum of twelve hundred pounds, by lottery, for building and maintaining a bridge over the said river, at the ferry-place aforesaid, under the direction of persons to be appointed by this government,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

A lottery to be set up in Newbury for building a bridge over the river Parker.

That Thomas Berry, John Greenleaf, Joseph Gerrish and Joseph Atkins, Esquires, and the said Daniel Farn[a][u]m, or any three of them, be and hereby are allowed and impow[er]ed to set up and carry on a lottery, within the said town of Newbury, amounting to such a sum as, by drawing ten per cent out of each prize, they may thereby raise the sum of twelve hundred pounds; to be applied, by them or any three of them, towards building and maintaining a good and sufficient bridge at the place aforesaid, and for defraying the necessary charges of the lottery aforesaid; and that the said Thomas Berry, John Green-

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH TWENTY-SIX THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED MILL'D DOLLARS.

WHEREAS the payment of the publick debts of this government requires a speedy and further supply of the treasury; and as the circumstances of the several towns in the province are so alter'd since the last valuation was taken, as that a just and equal tax can't be levied; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That any person or persons may adventure, advance and pay to the managers or directors hereinafter named, three mill'd dollars, and as many times that number of such dollars as they please; and that every adventurer, for every three such dollars so advanced, shall have such right and interest in the lottery hereby established as is hereafter provided.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That Samuel Watts, Esq., Thomas Hutchinson, Esq., Joseph Richards, Esq., Mr. Harrison Gray and Mr. James Russel, or any three of them, shall be managers or directors for preparing and delivering out tickets, and to oversee the drawing of lots, and to order, do and perform such other matters and things as are hereafter, in and by this act, directed and appointed by such managers or directors to be done and performed; and that such managers and directors shall meet together, from time to time, for the execution of the powers and trusts in them reposed by this act; and they shall cause books to be prepared, in which every leaf shall be divided into three columns, and upon the innermost of said three columns, there shall be printed eight thousand nine hundred tickets, numbered one, two, three, and so on, progressively, 'till they arrive to the number of eight thousand nine hundred; and upon the middle column, in every of the said books, shall be printed eight thousand nine hundred tickets, of the same breadth and form, and numbered in like manner; and in the extreme column of the said books, there shall be printed a third rank of* series of tickets, of the same number of those of the other two columns: which tickets shall severally be of an oblong figure, and, in the said books, shall be joined with oblique lines, flourishes, or devices, in such manner as the said managers and directors, or the major part of them, shall think most safe and convenient, and that every ticket in the third or extreme column of the said books, shall have written or printed thereupon, besides the number of such ticket and the present year of our Lord, these words, "MAS-SACHUSETTS GOVERNMENT LOTTERY."

And it is further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said managers and directors shall, upon payment of three dollars, as aforesaid, for a ticket, from any person or persons adventuring in this lottery, cut out of the said book or books, so as to put into his or their custody, through the said oblique lines, flourishes or devices, indentwise, one of the tickets in the said extreme columns, which shall be signed by one of the said managers or directors; and the ticket so cut off shall be delivered to such adventurer as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Tickets to be indented, rolled up, and put into boxes, &c.

[SECT. 4.] That the said managers and directors, or the major part of them, shall, in the presence of such of the adventurers as may attend, cause all the tickets in the middle column of the books aforesaid to be cut off, indentwise, through the said oblique lines, flourishes or devices, and to be carefully roll'd up, and made fast with thread or silk, and to be put into a box to be prepared for that purpose, and to be marked with the letter "A," which is presently to be put into another strong box, and to be locked up with five different locks and keys,—one to be kept by each of the said managers and directors,—and sealed with their seals, until the said tickets are to be drawn as is hereinafter mentioned; and that the tickets in the first or innermost columns of the said books, shall remain still in the books, for discovering any mistake or fraud, if any should happen to be committed contrary to the true meaning of this act.

And be it further enacted,

Books to be prepared, and tickets printed therein.

[SECT. 5.] That the said managers, or the major part of them, shall also prepare, or cause to be prepared, other books, in which every leaf shall be divided or distinguished into two columns, and upon the innermost of those two columns there shall be printed eight thousand nine hundred tickets, and upon the outermost of said two columns there shall be printed eight thousand nine hundred tickets,—all which shall be of equal length and breadth, as near as may be,—which two columns in the said books shall be joined with some flourish or device through which the outermost ticket may be cut off indentwise; and that two thousand two hundred and twenty-five tickets, part of those to be contained in the outermost columns of the books last mentioned, shall be and be called the "benefit tickets," to which extraordinary benefits shall belong, as hereinafter mentioned. And the said managers and directors shall cause the said benefit tickets to be written upon or otherwise expressed, as well in figures as in words at length, in manner following; that is to say, upon one of them, one thousand dollars; upon another of them, six hundred dollars; upon another of them, four hundred and fifteen dollars; upon two of them severally, three hundred dollars; upon three of them severally, two hundred dollars; upon four of them severally, one hundred and fifty dollars; upon eight of them severally, one hundred dollars; upon ten of them severally, seventy-five dollars; upon twenty of them severally, fifty dollars; upon seventy of them severally, forty dollars; upon one hundred of them severally, thirty dollars; upon two thousand and five of them severally, seven dollars. And the said managers shall cause all the said tickets contained in the outermost column of the last-mentioned books to be, in the presence of such of the said adventurers as may be there, to be carefully cut out, indentwise, through the said flourish or device, and carefully rolled up, and fastened with thread or silk, and to be put into another box to be prepared for that purpose, and to be marked with the letter "B"; which box shall be presently put into another strong box, and locked up with five different locks and keys,—one key to be kept by each of said managers,—and to be sealed up with their seals, until these tickets shall also be drawn in the manner and form hereinafter mentioned. And the whole business of cutting off and rolling up, and putting into the said boxes, shall be performed by the said managers and directors, within six days, at least, before the drawing of the said lottery shall begin.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That on or before the eighteenth day of April next (notice of the time being given in the publick prints at least fourteen days before), the said managers and directors shall cause the said several boxes, with all the tickets therein, to be brought into Faneuil Hall, or such other convenient place in the town of Boston, as shall be agreed upon by the major part of the directors, by nine of the clock in the forenoon of the same day, and placed on a table, there for that purpose, and shall then and there severally attend this service, and cause the two boxes containing the tickets to be severally taken out of the other two boxes in which they shall have been locked up, and the tickets or lots in the respective innermost boxes being, in the presence of such adventurers as will be there for the satisfaction of themselves, well shaken and mingled in each box distinctly; and some one fit person, to be appointed and directed by the managers aforesaid, or the major part of them, shall take out and draw one ticket from the box where the said numbered tickets shall be put as aforesaid, and one other indifferent and fit person, to be appointed and directed in like manner, shall presently take out a ticket or lot from the box where the said two thousand two hundred and twenty-five benefit, and six thousand six hundred and seventy-five blank, tickets shall be promiscuously put as aforesaid, and immediately both the tickets so drawn shall be opened, and the number of the benefit, as well as the blank, tickets, shall be named aloud; and if the ticket taken or drawn from the box containing the benefit, and blank, lots, shall appear to be a blank, then the numbered ticket so drawn with the said blank at the same time, shall both be put on one file; and if the ticket so drawn or taken from the box containing the benefit, and blank, lots, shall appear to be one of the benefit tickets, then the number of dollars written upon such benefit tickets, whatever it be, shall be entred, by such clerk or clerks as the said managers, or the major part of them, shall employ and oversee for this purpose, being first sworn to a faithful discharge of his or their office, into a book to be kept for entring the numbers coming up with the said benefit tickets; and the said benefit, and numbered, tickets so drawn together shall be put upon another file; and so the said drawing of the tickets shall continue, by taking one ticket at a time out of each box, and with opening, naming aloud and filing the same, and by entring the benefit lots in such method as is before mentioned, until the whole number be compleatly drawn; and if the same cannot be performed in one day's time, the said managers shall cause the boxes to be locked up and sealed in manner as aforesaid, and adjourn 'till next day, and so from day to day, and every day, except on the Lord's day; and then open the same and proceed as above, 'till the said whole number shall be drawn as aforesaid; and afterwards the said numbered tickets so drawn, with the benefit tickets drawn against the same, shall be and remain in a strong box, locked up as aforesaid, and under the custody of the said managers, until they shall take them out to examine, adjust and settle the property thereof. And, as soon as conveniently may be after the drawing is over, the said managers are required to cause to be printed and published, the number of the ticket drawn against each benefit ticket, and the number of dollars written on the same, and if any contention or dispute shall arise in adjusting the property of the said benefit tickets, the major part of the said managers agreeing therein, shall determine to whom it doth or ought to belong.

Time and place of drawing the tickets.

Benefit tickets to be entred by the clerk or clerks.

Managers may adjourn from day to day till all are drawn.

ficate or certificates thereof, or utter, vend, barter or dispose of, or offer to dispose of, any false, altered, forged or counterfeit ticket or tickets, or bring any forged or counterfeit ticket or tickets, the number whereof is altered, knowing the same to be altered, to the said managers, or any of them, or to any other person, to the intent to defraud this province, or any adventurer upon this act, that then every such person or persons, being thereof convicted in due form of law, shall suffer such pains and penalties as is by law provided in cases of forgery.

The managers to commit such to prison.

[SECT. 8.] And the said managers or directors, or any two of them, are hereby authorized, required and impowered to cause any person or persons bringing or uttering such forged or counterfeit ticket or tickets as aforesaid, to be apprehended and committed to close goal, to be proceeded against according to law.

Provided always,—

And it is hereby enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That each manager and director for putting this act in execution, before his acting in such commission, shall take the following oath; viz.,—

Director's oath.

I, A. B., do swear that I will faithfully execute the trust reposed in me, and that I will not use any indirect act or means to obtain a prize or benefit lot for myself or any other person whatsoever, and that I will do the utmost of my endeavour to prevent any undue or sinister practice to be done by any person whatsoever, and that I will, to the best of my judgment, declare to whom any prize, lot or ticket does of right belong, according to the true intent and meaning of the act of this province, made in the twenty-fourth year of his majesty's reign in that behalf. So help me God.

—which shall and may be administered by any two or more of the other managers and directors.

Be it further enacted,

—dollars to be lodged with the treasury before the time of drawing.

[SECT. 10.] That the managers or directors of said lottery, shall pay into the hands of the treasury all such number of dollars as they shall receive for the sale of the tickets, before they proceed to draw said lottery. And one or more of the managers or directors aforesaid, after the drawing of said lottery is completed, are hereby ordered and directed to certify upon each benefit ticket the number of dollars it drew in said lottery; and the treasurer of the province for the time being, is hereby impowered and directed to pay off all such benefit tickets to the possessor or possessors thereof, in one year from the drawing of said lottery, with three per cent for the same until paid, without any deduction; which will make in the whole twenty-six thousand two hundred dollars.

And be it further enacted,

Tickets not taken up to be for the province.

[SECT. 11.] That if any of the aforesaid numbered tickets shall remain in the hands of the directors or managers, undispos'd of when the time set by this act for drawing said lottery shall be arriv'd, that then, and in such case, all and every such ticket shall be and remain as the interest, share and lot of this province, and the number of the said remaining undispos'd tickets shall be, by the directors or managers, given out to the province treasurer, in order to be drawn for the province.

Provided, notwithstanding,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 12.] That if there should not be at least five thousand tickets disposed of at the time appointed for drawing the lottery, the managers and directors aforesaid shall wholly desist from any further proceedings until they shall receive further orders from the general court, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And as a fund and security for paying off the benefit tickets,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, a tax of eight thousand and ten pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates real and personal, within this province, according to such rules and in such proportion on the several towns and districts within the same, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the general court of this province at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, which sum shall be paid into the treasury on or before the first day of February next after.

Tax on polls and estates for paying benefit tickets.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That in case the general court shall not, at their session in May next, and before the twentieth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged shall be, in said year, apportioned, assessed and levied, that then, and in such case, each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their districts, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts should have been taxed by the general court in the tax act then last preceeding: saving what relates to the pay of the representatives, which shall be assess'd on the several towns they represent; and the province treasurer is hereby fully impowred and directed, some time in the month of June, in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of the sum before directed and engaged to be assess'd, and also for the fines upon the several towns that have not sent a representative; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be govern'd by, and subject to all such rules and directions as have been given in the last preceeding tax act.

Tax to be made according to the preceeding tax act, in case.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That the sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds shall be issued out of the treasury, in manner and for the purposes following; viz., the sum of two thousand five hundred and sixty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds, shall be applied for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such orders and grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the further sum of sixteen hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds, shall be applied for the purchasing provisions and the commissarie's necessary disbursements for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province, pursuant to such grants as are or shall be made by this court for those purposes; and the further sum of one thousand and forty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds, shall be applied for the payment of such præmiums and grants that now are, or hereafter may be made by this court; and the further sum of one thousand five hundred and twenty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds, shall be applied for the discharging other debts owing from this province to persons that have served or shall serve them, by order of this court, in such matters and things where there is no establishment nor any certain sum assign'd for such service, and for paper, writing and printing for this court; and the sum of one thousand and forty pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds, shall be applied for the payment of his majesty's council and house of representatives, serving in the general court during the several sessions for this present year.

£2,560 for forts and garrisons.

£1,600 for purchasing provisions, &c.

£1,040 for præmiums and grants.

£1,520 for debts where there is no establishment.

£1,040 for the members of the court.

And whereas there are sometimes contingent and unforeseen charges that demand prompt payment,—

Be it further enacted,

£100 for contingent charges.

[SECT. 16.] That the sum of one hundred pounds, being the remaining part of the aforesaid sum of seven thousand eight hundred and sixty pounds, be applied to pay such contingent charges, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

Provided always,—

Remainder to be and remain as a stock in the treasury.

[SECT. 17.] That the remainder of the sum which shall be brought into the treasury by the tax aforesaid, over and above what shall be sufficient to pay off the benefit tickets as aforesaid, shall be and remain as a stock in the treasury, to be applied as the general court of this province shall hereafter order, and to no other purpose whatsoever; any thing in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted,

Money to be paid out of the proper appropriations.

[SECT. 18.] That the treasurer is hereby directed and ordered to pay the sum of eight thousand and ten pounds, as aforesaid, out of such appropriations as shall be directed to by warrant, and no other, upon pain of refunding all such sum or sums as he shall otherwise pay; and the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and accompts of charge, shall lay before the house of representatives, when they direct, such muster-rolls and accompts after payment thereof.

And be it further enacted,

Directors' allowance to be made by the general court.

[SECT. 19.] That the directors or managers by this act appointed, shall have such allowances for their services as the general court shall hereafter order, and in case of the death, refusal or incapacity of attendance of any one or more of said managers, the vacancy shall be fill'd up by the governour and council. ## CHAPTER 16.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING THE SUM OF THREE HUNDRED POUNDS, FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOUR AND COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Governor's grant.

That the sum of three hundred pounds be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty, to be paid out of the publick treasury to his honour Spencer Phips, Esq<sup>[r]</sup>., lieutenant-governour and commander-in-chief in and over his majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay, for his past services, and further to enable him to manage the publick affairs of the province. [*Passed February 15; * published February 16, 1750-51.*]

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING AND SUPPRESSING OF RIOTS, ROUTS AND UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLIES.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the provision already made by law has been found insufficient to prevent routs, riots and tumultuous assemblies, and the evil consequences thereof; wherefore,—

* See the note to this chapter, post.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, if any persons, to the number of twelve or more, being arm'd with clubs or other weapons, or if any number of persons, consisting of fifty or upwards, whether armed or not, shall be unlawfully, riotously or tumultuously assembled, any justice of the peace, field officer or captain of the militia, sheriff of the county or undersheriff, or any constable of the town, shall, among the rioters, or as near to them as he can safely come, command silence while proclamation is making, and shall openly make proclamation in these or the like words:—

Officers to make proclamation when persons are riotously assembled.

Our sovereign lord the king chargeth and commandeth all persons being assembled, immediately to disperse themselves, and peaceably to depart to their habitations, or to their lawful business; upon the pains contained in the act of this province made in the twenty-fourth year of his majesty King George the Second, for preventing and suppressing of riots, routs and unlawful assemblies. God save the king.

Form of the proclamation.

And if such persons so unlawfully assembled, shall, after proclamation made, not disperse themselves within one hour, it shall be lawful for every such officer or officers, and for such other persons as he or they shall command to be assisting, to seize such persons, and carry them before a justice of the peace; and if such person shall be killed or hurt by reason of their resisting the persons so dispersing or seizing them, the said officer or officers and their assistants shall be indemnified and held guiltless.

[SECT. 2.] And all persons who, for the space of one hour after proclamation made as aforesaid,—or to whom proclamation ought to have been made, if the same had not been hindred,—shall unlawfully, routously, riotously and tumultuously continue together, or shall wilfully let or hinder any such officer, who shall be known, or shall openly declare himself to be such, from making the said proclamation, shall forfeit all their lands and tenements, goods and chattles, to his majesty (or such a part thereof as shall be adjudged by the justices before whom such offence shall be tried), to be applied towards the support of the government of this province; and shall be whipt thirty-nine stripes on the naked back at the publick whipping-post, and suffer one year's imprisonment, and once every three months during said imprisonment receive the same number of stripes on the naked back at the publick whipping-post as aforesaid.

Penalty for disobedience.

[SECT. 3.] And if any such person or persons, so riotously assembled, shall demolish or pull down, or begin to demolish or pull down, any dwelling-house or other house parcel thereof, any house built for publick uses, any barn, mill, malt-house, store-house, shop or ship, he or they shall suffer the same pains and penalties as are before provided in this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That this act shall be read at every general sessions of the peace, and at the anniversary meeting of each town, within this province, annually; and no person shall be prosecuted for any offence contrary to this act, unless prosecution be commenced within twelve months after the offence committed.

This act to be read at the anniversary meeting of the towns and general sessions of the peace.

Provided always,—

[SECT. 5.] That where there shall appear any circumstances to mitigate or alleviate any of the offences against this act, in the judgment of the court before which such offence shall be tried, it shall and may be lawful for the judges of such court to abate the whole of the punishment of whipping, or such part thereof as they shall judge proper; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Judges empowered to abate the punishment of whipping, in case.

Continuance of the act.

[SECT. 6.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed and published February 14, 1750-51.]

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT, INTITLED "AN ACT TO PREVENT DAMAGE BEING DONE ON THE BEACH, HUMOCKS AND MEADOWS BELONGING TO THE TOWN OF SCITUATE, LYING BETWEEN THE SOUTHERLY END OF THE 'THIRD CLIFT,' SO CALLED, AND THE MOUTH OF THE NORTH RIVER."

Preamble.

1749-50, chap. 14.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and passed in the twenty-third year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent damage being done on the beach, humocks and meadows belonging to the town of Scituate, lying between the southerly end of the 'Third Clift,' so called, and the mouth of the North River," the penalt[y][ie]s for turning or driving neat cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats upon such beach, humocks or sedge-ground adjo[y][i]ning to said beach, to feed thereon, are to be recovered from him or them that shall so drive said cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats, or from the owner or owners of them that shall so order them to be driven; and it is found, by experience, that proof thereof can seldom be obtained, whereby the good end and design of said act in a great measure is defeated,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Neat cattle and other creatures to be impounded if found feeding on the meadows, &c.

[SECT. 1.] That if any neat cattle, horse-kind, sheep or goats shall be found feeding on said beach, humocks, meadows or sedge-ground adjoining to said beach, it shall and may be lawful for any person to impound the same, such person to observe the rules and directions in the said act prescribed in case of impounding; and the owner or owners of them shall forfeit and pay to the impounder one shilling a head for all neat cattle and horse-kind, and twopence for every sheep or goat; and the said penalt[y][ie]s or forfeitures shall be paid, before the creatures, which shall or may be impounded by virtue of this act, be discharged or released by the pound-keeper.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Rates to be paid for such impounded creatures.

[SECT. 2.] The owner or owners of the creatures so impounded may, if they think fit, replevie such creatures, on condition they give sufficient bond, with one or more suret[y][ie]s, to prosecute such replevin to effect before some justice of the peace in the same county, within fifteen days from the date of such replevin, and to pay all such forfeitures and costs as shall be awarded or adjudged against them. ## CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO BENJAMIN CRABB THE SOLE PRIVILEGE OF MAKING CANDLES OF COARSE SPERMACEÏTI OYL.

Preamble.

WHEREAS Benjamin Crabb, of Rehoboth, in the county of Bristol, has represented to this court that he, and no other person in the province, has the art of pressing, fluxing and chrystalizing of spermacæti and coarse spermacæti oyl, and of making candles of the same so prepared, and has been at great expence in providing himself with proper implements therefor, and is willing, on due encouragement, to undertake and carry on that business here, and to teach and instruct five of the inhabitants of this province his art aforesaid: this court being willing to encourage an undertaking so likely to prove beneficial to the province; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the said Benjamin Crabb, and his heirs, shall and may have and enjoy the sole use, exercise and benefit of making candles of coarse spermacæti oyl so prepared, until [1] the thirty-first day of May, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-one: provided, that he do forthwith [i][e]ngage in and carry on the business aforesaid, within this province, and shall, some time before the thirty-first day of May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two, remove to some place within seven miles of the town of Boston, and there set up works suitable for carrying on the said business, and shall then and there manufacture all such quantities of oyl as can be procured fit for the purpose; and shall likewise, within five years from the publication of this act, well and fully instruct five of the inhabitants of this province, two of whom shall be appointed by the general court if they see cause, in the art aforesaid.

Benj. Crabb to have the sole privilege of making candles of coarse spermacæti-oil.
Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That no person or persons, saving such only as shall have first obtained the consent of s[ai]d Crabb or his heirs, signified under his or their hand, in writing, shall sell within this province, or export out of it, any candles made of the oyl prepared as aforesaid, during the time the said Crabb and his heirs are intit[u]led to the privile[d]ge aforesaid, other than such as are made by the said Crabb, his heirs or assigns, on pain of forfeiting [ten*] pounds for each offence. [Passed February 20; published February 23, 1750-51.]

Penalty for others selling the said candles without his consent.

WHEREAS by the act aforesaid, for the supply of the treasury, it is enacted that it shall be done by a lottery, and the drawing of said lottery is fix'd upon the eighteenth of April, provided five thousand tickets should then be disposed of; and whereas there is no prospect of that number being sold by that time,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Lottery to be drawn the 5th of June next,
in case.

[SECT. 1.] That the time for drawing said lottery be and hereby is put off to the fifth day of June next, at which time the managers and directors are ordered and impowered to proceed to drawing of said lottery, if the aforesaid number of five thousand tickets shall then have been disposed of.

And for the encouragement of said lottery,—

Be it further enacted,

Province bills and orders on the treasury to be received for tickets.

[SECT. 2.] That the managers or directors be and are hereby impowered and directed to receive province bills, as well as silver, for said tickets, as also warrants on the treasury for any demands that the money received by virtue of this lottery is appropriated to discharge. And the said directors or managers are hereby enjoined to deliver to the province treasurer all such sums of money as they have already received, and such sums as from time to time they shall receive, for tickets that have or may be disposed of; and the said treasurer is directed to receive the same, and give his receipts therefor, as also to receive, as equal to money, such warrants as shall be delivered to said directors in exchange for the tickets. And the directors or managers shall give publick notice in the newspapers at least ten days before the drawing of the lottery, that so the adventurers may be present, if they see fit.

Preamble.

And whereas, in and by said act, it is provided that the benefit tickets shall be paid within one year from the time of drawing said lottery, at the rate of three per cent interest per annum; now if it should so happen that there should be any deficiency in the treasury, that the whole of such benefit tickets cannot be paid according to the true intent of said act,—

Be it further enacted,

Six per cent per annum

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT PROVIDING FOR THE SUPPORT OF MINISTERS IN NEW PLANTATIONS.

WHEREAS the power by law granted to the courts of general sessions of the peace within this province to afford relief to ministers who shall not be suitably supported, is so restrained as not to extend to the relief of such ministers as are or may be settled in new plantations not erected into towns or districts; and it being necessary that provision be made by law for the encouragement and maintenance of such,—

Preamble.
1715-16, chap. 17.

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That in case of neglect in the proprietors or occupants of any new plantation, within this province, in fulfilling their contract or agreement with the minister or ministers of such plantation, qualified as the law directs, respecting his or their settlement or support, the court of general sessions of the peace within and for the county wherein such plantation is, are hereby impowred and directed, upon application to them made for that purpose, to provide for the relief of such minister or ministers; and in case the assessors for such new plantation do or shall neglect duly to assess and apportion the full sum voted or agreed on for the settlement or support of such minister or ministers, according to the true intent of the contract, the said court are hereby impowred and directed to appoint three or more sufficient freholders within the same county, to assess the occupants or proprietors who are parties to such contract, such sum as, at the time of making such application, shall be judged by said court to be due to such minister or ministers by virtue of such contract, together with such further sum, in case payment has been long and unreasonably delayed, as said court shall judge sufficient, to afford to such minister or ministers meet recompence for any damage[s] sustained by such neglect: such assessment to be made on the occupants or proprietors, in such proportion as they may have agreed among themselves, or, if no such agreement shall appear, as said court shall judge most just and equitable.

Ministers of new plantations, their salaries to be assessed by the court of general sessions of the peace.

[SECT. 2.] And said court shall make out and affix to a list of such assessment a warrant, in like form, mutatis mutandis, as is by law prescribed for levying and collecting of town rates or assessments; which warrant shall be signed by the clerk of such court, and directed to the collector or collectors of taxes in such plantation, if any there be, or to such person or persons as said court shall appoint for that purpose, requiring him or them to collect and levy the sum total of the said list, and to pay in the same unto such minister or ministers, or to such person or persons as said court shall appoint to receive the same for his or their use; and such collector or collectors, or other person or persons to whom such warrant shall be directed, are hereby fully authorized to execute the same, and to collect such assessment of the persons named in such list, wheresoever they may be found within this province.

Warrant in usual form to be directed to the collectors, to collect said assessment.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That when and so often as timely payment of his or their dues shall be withheld from the minister or ministers of such new plantation, the justices of the said court of general sessions of the peace are hereby impowred and directed to convert before them the assessors, collector or collectors, or such others as have been or may be specially appointed by the occupants or proprietors of such plantation, to take care in that matter; and, upon conviction of neglect therein, to impose a fine on each delinquent not exceeding forty shillings for the first offence, and upon every after conviction of such neglect, to impose a fine of four pounds, to be levied by distress and sale of the offender's goods, and to be applied for the making of meet satisfaction unto the assessors or collectors that may have been appointed and employed by said court in the service aforesaid; the remainder, if any be, to be paid to the county treasurer, for defreying the necessary charges of the county.

[SECT. 4.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [*Published * April 27, 1751.*]

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT FOR REGULATING FENCES, CATTLE, &c.

Preamble.

1693-4, chap. 7,
§ 9.

WHEREAS in and by an act made and pass'd in the fifth year of the reign of King William and Queen Mary, intituled "An Act for regulating fences, cattle, &c.," it is enacted, "That for every sheep in every town, going on the commons without being under the hand of a shepherd, from the first of May to the last of October in every year, the owner or keeper of the said sheep shall pay the sum of threepence for every sheep at any time so found running on the common, not under the hand of a shepherd or keeper, betwixt the first of May and last of October yearly"; and it being found by experience that great damage is often done by sheep in the month of April, especially among English grain; therefore to prevent such inconveniencies for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Fine for sheep going at large without a shepherd, between the 15th of March and the last of October, yearly, unless allowed by the town.

[SECT. 1.] That for every sheep in any town within this province, going on the commons or ways, without being under the immediate care and inspection of a shepherd or keeper, from the fifteenth of March to the last day of October in every year, the owner or keeper of such sheep shall pay threepence for each and every sheep so found running on the commons or ways, without a shepherd or keeper, at any time from the fifteenth day of March to the last of October.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 2.] That it shall be in the power of any town, at their annual meeting in March, by a vote, to give liberty for sheep to go at large, the whole or any part of the time, between the said fifteenth day of March and the first day of May; and in such case, it shall be lawful for the sheep in such town to go at large during such time as shall be so voted; anything in this or the before-recited act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Limitation.

[SECT. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for five years from the publication thereof, and no longer. [Passed April 26; published April 27, 1751.]

* The date of the passage of this act has not been ascertained, owing to the imperfection of the records and the loss of the engrossment. The bill took its first reading, in the Council, March 29, 1751.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL LAWS ALREADY IN BEING FOR THE MORE SPEEDY FINISHING THE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY SCHEME.

WHEREAS an assessment was made by the commissioners appointed by the act of this province, pass'd in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, intitl'd "An Act for the more speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme," on certain delinquent partners, so called, and said assessment was published in the "Boston Gazette, or Weekly Journal," of the 21st of August, 1744; and another assessment was made by said commissioners on other delinquent partners, so called, and published in the "Boston Gazette, or Weekly Journal," of the 13th of November, 1744; and a further assessment was made by said commissioners on the late directors and partners of said company, and published in the supplement to the "Boston Evening Post" of the 27th of December, 1745: all which assessments have been received in part only; and whereas, by reason of the burning of the court-house in Boston, and the papers that were therein relating to the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme, it is now become impossible to ascertain the exact sum which has been paid by said director* and partners in consequence of said assessments, otherwise than from the books, papers or other evidence which may be produced by said directors and partners themselves,—

Preamble.

1743-44, chap. 17.

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That each and every one of said late directors and partners assessed by said commissioners, whose names are published in the aforesaid "Gazettes or Journals" of the 21st of August, 1744, and of the 13th of November, 1744, and the supplement to the "Boston Evening Post" of the 27th of September, 1745, and their estates, shall be held and are hereby declared to be liable to the payment of the sums affixed to their names, respectively, saving such part thereof only which said directors and partners, or their representatives, shall make appear, by receipts or other evidence which shall be satisfactory to the commissioners, has already been paid in discharge of said assessments; and each and every of the said directors and partners in the several assessments aforesaid, and their estates, shall likewise be held and are hereby declared to be liable to the payment of interest on the whole or such part of their respective assessments as they shall not make appear to have been discharged, at and after the rate of six per cent per annum, to be computed from the time such assessment, or such part thereof, respectively, as shall remain unpaid, became payable or due, until the time of payment; and each and every of the delinquent partners whose names were published in the "Gazettes" of 21st August and 13th November, 1744, and their estates as aforesaid, are held and hereby declared to be liable to the payment of the further sum of ten per cent; and each and every of the directors and partners whose names were published in the supplement to the "Boston Evening Post" of the 27th December, 1745, and their estates, are held and hereby declared to be liable to the payment of five per cent on the sums respectively due and unpaid, over and above the interest aforesaid, in consideration of the charges which have been caused by their nonpayment of their respective parts of the assessments aforesaid.

Directors and partners to be held to the payment of the sum affixed to their names in the "Boston Gazette," &c.

Saving what is already paid.

Six per cent added as interest.

Ten per cent added.

Five per cent added for charges.

Preamble.

And whereas there appears to be a balance due from several of said directors, agreeable to a report of a committee of the general court, signed, John Wheelwright, per order, and dated April 17th, 1751, and the vote or order of the general court accepting said report, amounting, in the whole, to seven hundred and forty-eight pounds three shillings and threepence, Land-bank money, so called; and whereas it is reasonable that each and every of the directors of said company should pay the sum of forty pounds, Land-bank money, as their proportion to what the partners have already been assessed for the charge and loss sustained by said Land-bank or Manufactory Company, over and above the sum of twenty pounds, lawful money, which has heretofore been assessed on each of said directors,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Directors to pay the balances in the committee's report.

[SECT. 2.] That the several directors still surviving and mentioned in said report, and their estates, and also the estates of such of said directors as are deceased, be and hereby are declared to be held and made liable to the payment of the aforesaid balances as are respectively declared by said report to be due from them to said company; and also, to the further sum of forty pounds, Land-bank money, each, as aforesaid, such payments to be made in Land-bank money, or lawful money equivalent.

And be it further enacted,

Warrants to be issued against the directors and partners.

[SECT. 3.] That if either of the late directors and partners, or their heirs, executors or administrators, shall not have paid the sums which, by this act, they, the said directors and partners, or their estates, are held and made liable to the payment of, on or before the first day of August, 1751, then, and in such case, the said commissiners* be and hereby are impowred and required, any judgments of court heretofore obtained and unsatisfied notwithstanding, forthwith to issue their warrants of distress against the persons or estates of each surviving director and partner, and the estates of each director, and partner deceased, from whom any part of the sum required by this act to be paid as aforesaid, shall then remain due; which warrant shall be in the form following:—

Form of the warrants of distress.

To the Sheriff of the County of A., his undersheriff or deputy,—Greeting:

By virtue of the authority given to us in and by an act made and pass'd in the twenty-fourth year of his majesty King George the Second, intituled "An Act in addition to the several laws already in being for the more speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme," these are in his majesty's name to require you to levy, by distress and sale of the estate of A. B., of C., in the county of E., the sum of _____, lawful money, and bring the same to us at our office in Boston forthwith, returning the overplus, if any be, to the said A. B.; and if there cannot be found in your precinct estate sufficient to discharge the same, then you are to commit the said A. B., if to be found in your precinct, to the common goal of the county of E., there to remain until he has paid the said sum of _____, lawful money, and charges; for all which this shall be your sufficient warrant: save, only, that if you shall take the real estate of the said A. B., that then the said A. B., his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, shall have liberty, for three months thereafter, to redeem the same, and if the same shall not be not redeemed within three months as aforesaid, by paying said sum of _____, and charges, then you are required to sell the same as aforesaid, and return this warrant, and your doings thereon, into the office of the register of deeds for the county of E., there to be recorded.

Given under our hands and seals, at Boston, the _____ day of _____, 175 _____, in the _____ year of our Sovereign Lord, _____, by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, &c.

J. J.
S. D.
J. C.

[SECT. 4.] And all sheriffs, their undersheriffs and deputies, are impowred and required to execute the said warrant on the persons whose names shall be inserted therein, or their estates, real or personal; and where the sheriff, his undersheriff or deputy is concerned, such warrant may be directed to the coroner of the county of A., or his deputy, and be executed by either of them; and as some of said persons are or may be deceased, or out of the province, before such warrant or warrants of distress shall be issued, the said sheriffs and coroners are hereby impowred and directed to take such estate as they may find belonged to such deceased person, or was by law liable to be taken, if such deceased person or persons were then living, and in the province; the estate taken, whether real or personal, to be sold, and the overplus, if any, to be returned, as by law required in ordinary cases of execution or distress: save, only, that the liberty of redeeming the real estate shall extend to three months only after being taken; upon the expiration of which term of three months, if the same be not redeemed, the sheriff, or other officer who took the same, shall return the warrant of distress, with his doings thereon, into the office of register of deeds in the county where the lands lie, there to be recorded.

Officers empowered to execute said warrants.

Three months allowed to redeem real estates.

And whereas it may happen that a further sum may be still necessary to be raised in order to finish the affairs of the said Land-bank or Manufactory Company,—

Preamble.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That if the whole sum which shall be due, and which shall be recovered on or before the first day of December, 1751, on the several assessments aforesaid, and from the several directors for what is by this act declared to be due from them, shall not be sufficient to exchange the whole of the bills of said company that are now outstanding, and to pay the charges that have arisen or may arise therein, then, and in such case, the commissioners aforesaid be and hereby are impowred and required to make a further assessment on directors and partners in proportion to the sum which shall appear to the satisfaction of the commissioners to have been originally received or taken out by each person: saving, only, that each director shall be assessed in proportion as if he had received or taken out two hundred and fifty pounds, altho' the certain sum by such director received or taken out shall not appear.

Commissioners empowered to make further assessments.

[SECT. 6.] And said commissioners shall cause such assessment to be published in the "Boston Gazette or Weekly Journal," and each of the persons who may be so assessed, and their estates, shall be held and are hereby declared to be liable and obliged to the payment of the respective sums on them assessed, in like manner as those directors and partners who have not paid the former assessments are by this act declared to be liable and obliged to the payment thereof; and if either of the directors or partners so assessed, or their executors or administrators, shall not, within sixty days after the publication of such assessment, pay to said commissioners the sum on such director or partner assess'd, the said commissioners are hereby required and impowred, unless such assessment shall be set aside or disannulled by the general court, forthwith to issue their warrants of distress against the persons or estates of each surviving director and partner, and the estates of each director and partner deceased, respectively; which warrants shall be in the form before prescribed by this act: and all sheriffs, undersheriffs and their deputies, and, where they are interested, all coroners, are impowred and required to execute such warrants in like manner, and observe the same rules as prescribed for the executing warrants for any of the former assessments mentioned in this act.

Assessments to be published.

Warrants to be issued on such assessments.

And whereas in and by the afore-recited act, intituled "An Act for the

Preamble.

1743-44, chap. 17,
§ 3.

more speedy finishing the Land-bank or Manufactory Scheme," it is enacted in the words following: "That from and after the publication of this act, the estate of each and every such director and partner shall be thereby bound and subjected to the payment of such sum or sums of money as shall be assessed upon him by the said commissioners, or any two of them, with the approbation and allowance of the great and general court of this province, as is hereinafter mentioned, for the redemption of their respective proportions of the bills of the said late company, and their equitable part and share of all losses and charges arising by the said scheme, in such manner as the same would be bound and subjected by the actual service of process of attachment upon it at the suit of any creditor according to the ordinary course of the law and the usage within this province,"—

Be it further enacted,

Real estates subjected to satisfy the same.

[SECT. 7.] That all and every part of the lands and tenements of each and every director and partner, which were bound and subjected by the said last-recited clause, in whose possession soever the same now is or hereafter may be, be and hereby is declared to continue to be held subjected and liable to the payment or discharge of the sums declared by this act, respectively, to be due from or required to be assessed upon such director and partner, as well those who shall be deceased as those who shall have survived; and shall be liable to be taken by distress, as if then in the actual possession of such director or partner.

And be it further enacted,

Notice to be given by commissioners of their redeeming the Land-bank notes.

[SECT. 8.] That as soon as the commissioners shall have received a sufficient sum, in their judgment, to redeem the Land-bank bills, so called, which may be outstanding, they shall give publick notice thereof, in all the weekly newspapers published in the town of Boston, three weeks successively, of the time or times, and place or places, in said town, when and where they will attend to redeem said bills; which publick notice hereby is made and declared to be a legal tender to all and every possessor and possessors of said bills. ## CHAPTER 24.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE AND PASS'D IN THE TWENTY-SECOND YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR DRAWING IN THE BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE SEVERAL DENOMINATIONS WHICH HAVE AT ANY TIME BEEN ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT AND ARE STILL OUTSTANDING, AND FOR ASCERTAINING THE RATE OF COINED SILVER IN THIS PROVINCE FOR THE FUTURE."

Preamble.

1748-49, chap. 15.

WHEREAS, notwithstanding the provision made for enforcing the payment of the publick taxes into the treasury, many of the constables and collectors of the towns within this province have neglected or delayed to pay in the sums committed to them to collect, and other unforeseen accidents have happened, by means whereof a larger sum in bills of credit is now outstanding than there is silver in the treasury sufficient to redeem or exchange, and the possessors of said bills will be injured, unless relieved by the government, and the paper currency of the province cannot be brought to a full period by the time proposed; in order therefore that the possessors of the bills which still remain outstanding, and the possessors of the orders given by the committee of the general court for bills brought in and burnt, may have justice done them,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the possessors of the bills of credit of this province, which are now outstanding, who shall bring in the same by the third of June next, shall be entitled to the immediate exchange of one-eighth part thereof in silver, at the like rate with those which have been redeemed or exchanged already; and the remaining seven-eighths shall be redeemed or exchanged with silver at the like rate, on or before the thirty-first day of December, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, with the addition of a premium of one per cent, and interest from the thirty-first day of March last, until paid, at the rate of six per cent per year: and each and every of the orders which shall have been given before the thirty-first of March, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, by the committee aforesaid, shall be redeemed and paid off with silver, at the same time, and at the like rate, with interest as aforesaid, from the date of said order, until paid.

Possessors of the bills entitled to one-eighth in silver.

The remainder to be paid by the 31st of December, 1751.

Interest to be allowed.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the committee appointed by the general court, for receiving from the possessors the bills of credit of this province, may and shall continue to sit until the third day of June next, and no longer; and whensoever any of the said possessors shall bring any of the said bills to the committee, such possessor shall receive therefor two orders for every sum, each order to be signed by three of the committee at least; viz., one, for one-eighth part of the principal sum, which the treasurer shall cause immediately to be discharged and paid out of the silver now remaining in the treasury, or that may hereafter be bro't in for taxes, and the other, for seven-eighths of said sum, which order shall be accepted by the treasurer, and shall be in the form following; viz.,—

Committee for exchanging the bills to sit till June 3, 1751.

To give two orders for each sum received.

To the treasurer of the province of the Massachusetts Bay,

SIR: Pay to A. B. or bearer, in lawful silver money, at six shillings and eightpence per ounce, or Spanish mill'd dollars, at six shillings apiece, by the thirty-first of December next, with a premium of one per cent, and lawful interest for said sum, from thirty-first March past, 'till paid, being for in bills of credit this province, of the old tenor, received of the said A. B. this day of , 1751.

Form of the order for seven-eighths.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the orders given as aforesaid, shall and may be received by the several constables and collectors for all taxes that are already due, accounting the principal sum only, without any allowance for interest or premium, and the treasurer shall receive them from, and give discharge to, the said collector or constables accordingly; and in case any of the said orders shall remain outstanding after the warrants, for the tax for eighteen thousand four hundred pounds, lawful money, conditionally engaged to be assessed in the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, shall go forth, said orders shall be received in discharge of said tax, accounting both the principal sum, interest and premium due on said orders, provided the same be paid before the thirty-first of December next.

Which may be received by the collectors of taxes.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the committee of the general court shall, from day to day, transmit to the province treasurer, an exact list of all the orders by them given, and such persons as shall first bring their bills to be exchanged, and shall first take orders therefor, shall be entitled to have such orders first paid off and discharged; and immediately upon the treasurer's being possessed of a sum not less than three thousand in cash.

pounds, lawful money, in silver, he shall give publick notice in all the newspapers, that so as many of the first-dated orders as shall amount to the sum of three thousand pounds, may then be paid off and discharged; and the like publick notice shall be given, from time to time, when and so often as there shall be a stock of three thousand pounds for the purpose aforesaid: and if any orders shall not be tendered within thirty days after such publick notice given, the interest and also the premium which would be otherwise due on such orders, shall then determine and cease. [*Passed April 26, 1751.**]

NOTES.—The foregoing were the only sessions of the General Court this year. The engrossments of chapters 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 13, 14, 16, 18, and 19, only, are preserved. The acts of each session were printed together, except chapter 6, which, being an impost act, was printed by itself for separate distribution.

No evidence has been discovered that the acts of the first session ever reached the Privy Council, or that they were considered by the Board of Trade.

The acts of the last three sessions were formally certified for transmission to the Privy Council, September 25, 1751. They were duly received and laid before the Council, March 11, 1752, and were immediately referred to a committee. From this committee they went, in regular course, to the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations, where the letter from Secretary Willard, transmitting them, was read, March 19, 1752, and they were ordered to be sent to Mr. Lamb, for his opinion thereon in point of law.

Mr. Lamb's report is dated January 12, 1753, and sets forth that he has "perused and considered these acts," and that he has no objection to offer against any of them except chapters 17 and 23. His comments on the two acts last named are given in the notes to those chapters, post.

On the 29th of January, Mr. Lamb's report was considered in the Board of Trade, and a draught of a representation was ordered "to be prepared proposing the confirmation of such of" these acts "as have not expired by their own limitation or have not had their full effect." On the 4th of February this draught had been prepared, and was agreed to at the Board, and ordered to be transcribed; and on the next day it was signed.

This report represents that chapters 8, 9, 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 20, and 24 "were for temporary services and are either expired or the purposes for which they were passed have been completed"; and that chapters 7, 10, 12, 13, 18, 19, 21, 22, and 23 "appear to have been enacted for the particular Convenience and relate to the present Economy of the Province, and"—to further quote the language of the report—"as Mr. Lamb, one of his Majesty's Counsel at Law, whose opinion has been taken upon these Acts, has no objection to any of them in point of Law; We see no reason why His Majesty may not be graciously pleased to confirm them."

Accordingly, on the 11th of March, 1755, an order was passed, in Council, confirming chapters 7, 10, 12, 13, 18, 19, 21, 22, and 23.

Chap. 1. "From the first introduction of paper money, it had been the practice of government to issue bills for public charges, and to make a tax for the payment of the sum issued, in future years, into the treasury again. The bills being all exchanged by the silver imported from England, and provision made by law, that no bills of credit should ever after pass as money, there was a difficulty in providing money for the immediate service of government, until it could be raised by a tax. Few people were, at first, inclined to lend to the province, though they were assured of payment in a short time with interest. The treasurer, therefore, was ordered to make payment to the creditors of government in promissory notes, payable to the bearer in silver in two or three years, with lawful interest. This was really better than any private security; but the people, who had seen so much of the bad effects of their former paper money, from its depreciation, could not consider this as without danger, and the notes were sold for silver at discount, which continued until it was found that the promise made by government was punctually performed. From that time, the public security was preferred to private, and the treasurer's notes were more sought for than those of any other person whomsoever. This was the era of public credit in Massachusetts Bay."—Hutchinson's History of Mass., vol. 3, pp. 9 and 10.

Chap. 2. "April 6. 1750. His Honor the Lieutenant Governor sent down the following Message to the House by the Secretary, viz, Gentlemen of the House of Representatives. The Secretary has laid before me the vote of the two Houses granting the sum of two hundred pounds to the Lieutenant Governor & Commander in chief in consideration of his past Services in that important Station I cannot but observe to you, that it is more than six months since the Administration of the Government has devolved upon me, that my whole time is spent in the publick Service & consequently that I have good reason to expect from you a Sum sufficient for my support; such a sum as shall be equal to the common Expence of a Family (which many of you must be sensible, the sum now granted is not) besides some further Allowance for the honor of the Station his Majesty has been pleased to place me in I am desirous of preserving a perfect Harmony & good Understanding between the several Branches of the Legislature, so far as shall consist with the Honor of his Majesty's Commission; but this I shall always endeavor to maintain; And in order to enable me to do it more effectually, I must desire you to send for your Vote, and to make such Addition to the Grant, as shall render it agreeable to the Assurances given by a former Assembly to his Majesty, that they would support his Governor suitable to the dignity of his Station, on "January 26 1749. A Petition of Joshua Winslow Esqr & others Merchants in Boston proposing to this Court in case they may have the use of the Ship Massachusetts Frigate upon terms particularly mentioned in their petition to employ her in a Voyage to Ireland for transporting Protestants of that Country into this Province, and praying that they may be allowed the use of the said Ship for that purpose accordingly—

In the House of Representatives; Read & Voted that the Ship Massachusetts Frigate with the Tackling & furniture as they ly (warlike stores & Artillery with such other Stores as the Committee of this Court shall judge unnecessary for the Voyage excepted) shall be Apprized by three Judicious men upon Oath; for which Apprized value the Petitioners shall give Security to the Province Treasurer to pay in case of loss, & for the performance of the several Articles in this Vote After which they shall at their own cost & expense fit the said Ship for the Seas, & order some skilfull person (giving the preference to Cpt Moses Bennet, provided they can agree with him on like terms as with another) to proceed with her to the North part of Ireland, from whence they shall cause to be brought in said Ship not less than three hundred nor more than five hundred & fifty Foreign Protestants (of which number there shall be at least thirty Families) and shall land the same in some part of this Province (the danger of the seas & Mortality excepted) and shall within thirty days after her arrival at Boston deliver up said Ship to the Treasurer, or any Committee that shall be appointed by this Court to receive her together with all her Tackle, Stores & Appurtenances, agreeable to an Inventory which shall be taken by the Master of said Ship, after she is fitted & before she sails from Boston, & shall be lodged with the Treasurer (Ordinary wear & tear excepted) Provided nevertheless that in case the Ship should during the Voyage (which shall be limited to twelve months from this time) meet with any loss or extraordinary damage, the said Petitioners shall make good the same to the Province & shall give Security to the Treasurer accordingly—

In Council; Read & Concur'd—Consented to by the Lieut Governr.—Council Records, vol. XIX., p. 140.

"January 27 1749. In the House of Representatives; Ordered that the Committee heretofore appointed to dispose of the Ship Massachusetts Frigate be impowered to carry the Vote of the Court into Execution pass'd this Session respecting the said Ship; and that M<sup>r</sup> Tyng be of the Committee in the room of Thomas Foster Esqr who declines that Service.

In Council Read & Concur'd—Consented to by the Lieut Governr.—Ibid., p. 142.

"June 29th 1750. In the House of Representatives; Read & it appearing that by reason of unforeseen & unavoidable accidents, the intended Voyage within mentioned cannot be performed in the twelve month limited for performing the same; Therefore Ordered that a further Time be allowed the Petitioners for performing the Voyage aforesaid in, & that the same be extended to the first of October 1751, upon the Conditions of the former Order mentioned; Provided the Petitioners shall continue to bear all charges upon the Ship that it be necessary to preserve her in good Repair, & shall continue to keep a sufficient Number of hands in Pay to look after her, & shall execute their Contract with the General Courts Committee within ten days from this Time

In Council; Read & Concur'd—Consented to by the Lieut Governr.—Ibid., p. 227.

"October 11th 1750. Jacob Wendell Esqr. from the Committee appointed to take Care of the Ship Massachusetts Frigate gave in the following Report; viz<sup>t</sup> The Committee appointed the 27th of January last, to carry the Vote of the Court respecting the Ship Massachusetts Frigate into Execution, do report, viz, That on the Application of M<sup>r</sup> Samuel Wentworth for himself & the other Petitioners, the Committee allowed them to take the Ship into their Possession; And the Petitioners gave Orders for the Ship being removed from Mr Hutchinson's Wharf to the graving Yard & from thence to Clark's Wharf:— That the Committee applied to Mr. Secretary for a Warrant of Apprizeement to be made out to Richard Bill Esqr. Mr Jeffrey Bedgood & Mr Stephen Boutineau, for apprizing the Ship, & acquainted Mr Samuel Wentworth of it, who well approved of said Gentlemen, & as soon as the Warrant was obtained, it was given to Richard Bill Esq<sup>r</sup> & he with the other Gentlemen desired to proceed thereon, as soon as possibly they could & make Return into the Secretary's office;—The Committee in the mean time employed a scrivener to draw a proper Instrument for the Petitioners to execute to the Treasurer of the Province, agreeable to the General Courts Direction; And when it was done was given to Mr Wentworth for himself & the others concerned with him, to look over, who in some days after returned the same, & said they approved of it & were ready to sign it, when it was drawn fair; And the Committee sent to Mess<sup>rs</sup> Winslow, Wentworth & Gunter to come to the Court House & execute said Bond; which they did but some of the Committee was just then so engaged in the publick Affairs, that they could not go down immediately, when notice was given that they were attending, but did as soon as possibly they could go down to them, when Mr Gunter was gone, & Mr Winslow & Mr Wentworth said if we would give them the Bond, they & Mr Gunter would execute it, & return it to Jacob Wendell Esq<sup>r</sup> & they were asked for it by him, but never returned it according to their Promise, but some time in May told him, they design'd to petition the General Court for granting a further Time to perform the Voyage into Ireland, accordingly they did put in their Petition the 7th of June, & it pass'd the Court & was granted the 29th—The Committee some days after got a Copy of the Court's further Grant to them, which was sent to them; And thereon they gave their Answer in Writing the 24th of July, that they did not accept thereof; But they have had Possession of the Ship ever since they first gave Capt. Bennet Directions to remove her from Mr. Hutchinson's Wharff until the 27th of August, when the Lieut. Governour & Council gave Directions to the Committee to take Care that she be caulked. Jacob Wendell Esq<sup>r</sup> order. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Read & Accepted. In Council Read & Concur'd.—Consented to by the Lieut. Govern<sup>r</sup>.—Ibid., p. 260.

"April 3. 1752. In the House of Representatives, Voted That the Committee appointed to take Care of the Massachusetts Frigate be directed to make Sale of the same & Appurtenances, for the best Advantage of the Province, as soon as may be Excepting Warlike Stores: In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by the Lieutenant Governour."—Ibid., p. 412.

"A society was formed in Boston for promoting industry and frugality. The government of the colony, to forward this laudable design, purchased the factory in Boston. It also granted four townships of land for the use of foreign protestants, and permitted the provincial frigate to be employed in their transportation."—Holmes Annals, vol. 2, p. 180.

"January 11. 1749. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Ordered that the Committee appointed by both Houses, to consider of some proper Encouragement for improving the natural Advantages of the Soil &c be directed to prepare the draught of a Bill, to Supesede or explain any Act or Acts that have in any measure, a tendency to discourage the Importation of Foreign Protestants & report thereon—In Council, Read & Concur'd."—Ibid., p. 122.

"January 23. 1749. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Voted that there be four Townships allowed for Foreign Protestants to settle in, viz. two in the Western & two in the Eastern parts of this Province, that each Township shall be settled with one hundred & twenty Settlers, such Settlers to be so many distinct Families, Single men of the Age of twenty one years who shall actually settle to be accounted as part of the number. The two western Townships to be the Easternmost Township lately laid out at or near Fort Massachusetts & the other to ly East thereof, & to contain the quantity of seven miles square; This Township to extend East & West from Charlemont to the Township aforesaid; and North & South to make up the quantity of seven miles square as aforesaid. The Eastern Townships to contain six miles square each & in Order for their being laid out, that a Survey be made from Sabago pond to the head of Berwick; & that these two Townships be laid out contiguous to some Township already laid out there; and that there be a Reserve of two hundred acres in each of said four Townships; which is hereby granted to Mr Joseph Crellius, on condition, that he import, or cause to be imported & settled in each of sd Townships, in three years from this time one hundred & twenty Protestant Settlers as aforesaid: Also that there be reserved two hundred acres for the use of the Government where Fort Massachusetts stands: And that all the remainder of said four Townships be granted to one hundred & twenty Settlers in a Township; provided that they make one hundred & twenty three Shares in a Township viz one for the first settled Minister, one for the Ministry & one for a School, provided also that they settle in each Town a learned Protestant Minister in five years from this time; always provided that the said four Townships be severally settled with one hundred & twenty such settlers in three years from such time; provided further that each settler by himself, or some other family shall remain on his Settlement for the space of Seven years, or his Share shall revert to the Province & may by the Government be disposed of to some other person. In Council, Read & Concur'd—Consented to by the Lieut. Govern<sup>r</sup>."—Ibid., p. 138.

"May 31st 1750. And now I am speaking on these Heads, I must acquaint you that Mr Crellius a German Gentleman (with whom the last Assembly treated about the transporting of Protestant Families of that Nation into this Province) is now come to attend upon this Affair in Person & has delivered to me some further & more particular Proposals he has to make, for effecting this Design; w<sup>ch</sup> I shall lay before you: And by what I can learn of the Character & Disposition of that People, I apprehend it to be of great Importance to encourage their Settlement among us; For together with other Benefits likely to accrue from it, It is probable they will introduce many useful Manufactures & teach us by their Example those most necessary & excellent Arts for increasing our Wealth, I mean Frugality & Diligence in which we are at present exceedingly defective"—Extract from a speech of Lieutenant-Governor Phips to the Assembly: ibid., p. 194.

"June 1. 1750. In the House of Represent<sup>es</sup> Ordered that Judge Russell, Colo<sup>l</sup> Otis, Mr, Allen, Mr. Hall, & Mr Tyng, with such as the Honble. "An attempt was made to settle a manufacturing German town, a few miles from Boston, within the limits of the township of Braintree; but it never flourished. The private undertakers grew discouraged; the emigrants complained of being disappointed and deserted; the assembly first slackened their correspondence with Mr. Luther, and, after a year or two, ceased answering his frequent letters, which were filled with complaint of neglect, and hard usage. Mr. Phipps, the lieutenant-governor, was concerned for the honour of the government, and repeatedly recommended to the assembly a proper notice of Mr. Luther, and a consideration of his service and expense, but without any effect. The house had been brought into the correspondence, by the influence of a few persons who deserted the cause, and were under no apparent concern at the reproaches upon government. Some of the members, both of the council and of the house, earnestly endeavoured to persuade the general assembly to do as a collective body, that, which every individual would in honour have been bound, and, perhaps by law might have been compelled to do; but they could not prevail."—Hutchinson's History of Mass., vol. 3, p. 12.

Chap. 16. "His Honour the Lieut: Governor sent the following Message to both Houses by the Secretary; Viz<sup>t</sup>

Gentlemen of the Council & House of Representatives.

The Secretary has laid before me a Bill, granting the sum of Three Hundred Pounds towards my Support: When you granted the like Sum in May Session, I was very much in Doubt whether I ought to accept it; Tho' I flattered myself that in your Winter Session you would agree upon a Grant which should make up for what the former was Deficient; But I am very much Disappointed. These Grants are considerably short of the Proportion in which former Assemblies have paid the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, in the Absence of the Governor; And yet I cannot Charge my Self with want of Application to & constant Attendance upon the Affairs of the Government. And you must be sensible,

I am put to greater Inconvenience & Expence than if my Residence was in Boston; Which has been the Case with the former Lieutenant Governor.

When you are doing Honour to the Province by making Additions to the Allowances of several of the Officers of the Government, I am sorry you should distinguish the Commander in Chief by granting him a lesser Allowance than has been usual.

I must therefore desire you to take this Affair again into your Consideration; and add such further Sum to your present Grant as that I may be able with Honour to accept the Same."—Dated February 7, 1750-51: ibid., p. 299.

This Act was signed by the Lieutenant-Governor, February 8, according to the memorandum on the engrossment; but the record shows that it was signed February 15, immediately after the following grant has been passed:—

"In the House of Represent:<sup>ves</sup> Ordered that there be granted, & allowed to be paid out of the publick Treasury to His Honour the Lienten<sup>t</sup> Governor and Commander in Chief the Sum of Eighty Pounds, over & above the Grant made His Honour the fifth Currant, in Consideration of his past Services, and further to enable him to manage the publick Affairs of the Province.

Chap. 17. "The aversion, in the common people, to a silver and gold currency, had occasioned several tumultuous assemblies in and near the town of Boston. The paper, they said, was not worth hoarding, but silver and gold would all fall to the share of men of wealth, and would either be exported or hoarded up, and no part of it would go to the labourer, or the lower class of people, who must take their pay in goods, or go without. In a short time experience taught them, that it was as easy for a frugal industrious person to obtain silver, as it had been to obtain paper; and the prejudice in the town of Boston was so much abated, that when a large number of people from Abington, and other towns near to it, came to Boston, expecting to be joined by the like people there, they were hooted at, and insulted by the boys and servants, and obliged to return home disappointed.

The assembly being then sitting, it was thought proper to pass an act for preventing riots, upon the plan of the act of parliament known by the name of the Riot Act, except that the penalty is changed from death, to other severe and infamous punishment.

This was a temporary act, but was not suffered to expire; and continued in force until riots took place to prevent the execution of acts of parliament which were deemed grievous, and then it was discontinued."—Hutchinson's Hist. Mass., vol. 3, p. 8.

"This Act is agreeable to the Act passed here the first of King George the First called the Riot Act with a difference in the Penalty which in the Riot Act here is made Felony."—Report of Mr. Lamb, to the Board of Trade: "Mass. Bay, B. T., vol. 74, H. h., 38," in Public Record Office.

I have heard so much of the Difficultys which many of the Ministers of the Gospel within this Province are brought under, thro; the great Depreciation of the Bills of Credit, in Which their Salaries are paid, & the little care taken by their People to make them proper allowances for it, that it seems probable many of them will soon be necessitated to quit the Ministry & betake themselves to Secular Employments for a Livelihood; In which case there will be great Danger of the Pulpit's being fill'd with Ignorant & Illiterate Men, And of all manner of foolish & hurtfull Errors being thereby propogated; wherefore as I esteem it the indispensable Duty of the Legislature, to do everything in their Power for the Support & Advancement of the Christian Religion; I must earnestly Recommend it to you to take Care that the Ministers of the Gospel be properly Supported, & that you would Make Enquiry into this Grievance which I have Mentioned, & if you find their Case as is Represented that you would provide a sutable Redress"—*Council Records, vol. Chap. 24. “April 24th 1751. The Secretary delivered the following Message from the Lieu<sup>t</sup> Governour to both Houses;—

Gentlemen of the Council & House of Represent<sup>es</sup> The Secretary has laid before me an Engross’d Bill entitled an Act in further Addition to an Act made & pass’d in the twenty second year of his present Majesty’s Reign, entitled an Act for drawing in the Bills of Credit of the several Denominations which have at any time been issued by the Government, & are still outstanding & for Ascertaining the rate of Coined Silver in the Province for the future. By this Bill, Gentlemen you make certain Receipts or Certificates given by a Committee of the General Court, to be a Tender in Law, in discharge of all private Debts & Contracts whatsoever; And thus you repeal or enervate the Act (to which you call this Bill an Addition) in one of the most Material Parts of it, whereby coined Silver at six shillings & eight pence 4th ounce or mill’d Dollars at six shillings each, are declared to be the only Tender for discharging of Debts, This is directly against his Majesty’s Instructions to me, & I think besides that, it would prove of fatal consequence to the Country; Therefore I cannot give my Consent to it & at the same time, I am desirous that Justice should be done to the Possessors of the Outstanding Bills; And I earnestly recommend to you the making Provision therefor, in such a Way & manner as that I may concur with you in it.”—Council Records, vol. XIX., p. 350.

This bill, in its original form, was passed to be enacted, by the House, April 18, but was rejected by the Council. After some modification it was passed to be enacted by both branches, April 24, and vetoed by the Governor as shown in his speech, above. On the 25th, the bill, in a new draught, was passed to be engrossed, in both branches, and, on the next day, was enacted and signed.

ACTS

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE TWENTY-NINTH DAY OF MAY, A. D. 1751.

CHAPTER 1.

AN ACT TO ENABLE AND IMPOWER THE INHABITANTS OF NEW PLANTATIONS WITHIN THIS PROVINCE, ENJOYED AND SUBJECTED BY LAW, OR THAT MAY HEREAFTER BE ENJOYED AND SUBJECTED, TO PAY PROVINCE AND COUNTY TAXES, TO ASSESS, LEVY AND COLLECT THE SAME.

WHEREAS there are sundry new plantations within this province by law enjoyned to pay province and county taxes, that are not impowered to choose the proper officers to assess, levy and collect the said taxes,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That the freeholders of every such new plantation be and are hereby impowred and required to assemble together on the first Monday of August next, at the usual places for holding their publick meetings, and, being so assembled, shall choose a moderator and clerk for said meeting; which clerk shall be immediately sworn, truly to enter and record all such votes as shall be passed at said meeting,—by a justice of the peace, if any be present; otherwise, by the moderator of said meeting,—and shall then proceed to choose three assessors to make a valuation of estates and faculties of persons in such plantations, agreeable to law, and to assess such province and county taxes as are or shall be set on the inhabitants of such new plantation, to be paid this or any former year; as also a collector to levy and collect the same: which assessors and collectors shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of the duty of their respective offices, before a justice of the peace for the county within which such new plantation lies, if present; otherwise, by the clerk for said meeting, Freeholders of new plantations to have a meeting in August next, to choose officers.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the inhabitants of the abovesaid plantations, qualified as by law is required of voters in town affairs, are hereby impowred and enjoyned, some time in the month of March, annually, to assemble together, upon due notice given by the collector or collectors then in office, pursuant to warrant, under the hands of the assessors, or the major part of them, who shall have been last chosen,—and who are hereby impowred and required to issue such warrant,—at such time and place as shall be, by said assessors, appointed; and shall then and there choose a clerk for said meeting, who shall be sworn in manner as is before prescribed for the swearing the clerk for the first meeting, and three assessors, and one or more collectors, to assess and Inhabitants of new plantations to meet in March, annually.

Duty of assessors and collectors of taxes.

levy such province and county taxes on said inhabitants as they shall, from time to time, be enjo[y][i]ned by law to pay; and said assessors and collectors, as well those that shall be chosen on the said first Monday of August, as those who shall, by virtue of this act, be hereafter annually chosen in said new plantations, shall be liable to all such penalties, in case they or any of them shall refuse to be sworn and serve in said offices, or in case of any default therein, as the assessors of province and county taxes for towns are by law liable or may be subjected to; and said assessors are hereby impowered and required to make out such warrants, mutatis mutandis, as assessors of county taxes for towns are by law impowered to make out, and to direct the same to said collector or collectors; and the said collector or collectors are hereby impowered to levy, collect and [i][e]nforce the payment of all the afores[ai]d taxes in all such ways, and by all such means, as constables and collectors of province and county taxes are by law impowered to do, of the inhabitants of the towns within this province.

Duty of the clerks.

[SECT. 3.] And the clerk at said annual meeting, shall, immediately on the election of said assessors and collectors, make and give out to the collector or collectors for the then last preceeding year, a list of the names of those persons who shall be chosen assessors and collectors at said meeting for the ensuing year; which collector or collectors shall forthwith thereupon summon each of said assessors and collectors for the then ensuing year, to appear at a certain time and place, within the space of seven days from the time of their election, before a justice of the peace, if any dwell in such new plantation; or otherwise, before the clerk chosen at said meeting,—to take the oath, mutatis mutandis, which assessors and collectors of publick taxes for towns are, by law, enjo[y][i]ned to take; w[hi]ch oath said clerk, in such case, is hereby impowered to administer.

And to the intent that the inhabitants of said new plantations may have due notice and warning given them of the meeting which they are before in this act impowered and required to hold on the first Monday of August next, and of the ends and purposes thereof,—

Be it enacted,

Clerk of the peace in the county to notify the meeting in August next.

[SECT. 4.] That each clerk of the court of general sessions of the peace, for the several counties within this province wherein any of the afores[ai]d new plantations l[y][ie], shall, in some convenient time before the s[ai]d first Monday of August next, make and cause to be delivered a warrant, under his hand, directed to some principal inhabitant in each of s[ai]d new plantations within their respective counties, therein expressing the time, place and purposes for holding said meetings, and requiring such inhabitant[s] to notify all the inhabitants of said new plantation, qualified as in this act is provided, of said meeting, and the time, place and purposes thereof, three days at the least before the time set in this act for holding the same; which warrant the inhabitant to whom said warrant shall be directed, is hereby enjo[y][i]ned and required to execute, and make return of, under his hand, into said meeting, under the penalty of forty shillings, to be recovered by complaint, information or action of debt, before any of his maj[es]ty's justices of the peace for the county wherein said inhabitant, making default in the premis[s]es, shall dwell; said forty shillings to be for the use and benefit of the person or persons who shall inform or sue for the same. [Passed June 21; published June 25.]

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE AND PASS[E]D IN THE FIRST YEAR OF THE REIGN OF HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE THE FIRST, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR BUILDING AND MAINTAINING A LIGHTHOUSE UPON THE GREAT BREWSTER (CALLED 'BEACON-ISLAND'), AT THE ENTRANCE OF THE HARBOUR OF BOSTON."

WHEREAS the lighthouse at the entrance of the harbour of Boston hath been greatly damaged by fire, and it hath been ordered by this court that it should be repaired; and it being reasonable that the charge of such repairs should be born by those who receive the immediate benefit thereof,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieut[enan]t-Governor, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

That the commissioner of impost be and hereby is directed, by himself and his several deputies, to demand and receive of the master of every vessel (which, within the space of two years from the publication of this act, shall clear out from any port within this province, being bound to any port without this province), over and above what is already by law provided, the following rates at each time of clearance; viz<sup>[t]</sup>, for every vessel of less than one hundred tons, two shillings; for every vessel of above one hundred tons, and not exceeding two hundred tons, three shillings; and for every vessel of above two hundred tons, four shillings: the tonnage to be computed according to what such vessels may measure in carpenter's tonnage, and not according to the register of such vessel: and the said commiss[ione]r of impost shall once in every quarter of the year pay such sums as he or his deputies shall receive for the aforesaid duties, to the province treasurer, to be applied to the uses aforesaid. [Passed June 22; published June 25.]

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT FOR ALTERING THE TIME APPOINTED FOR HOLDING THE COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS OF THE PEACE AND INFERIOUR COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, AT CONCORD, WITHIN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX.

WHEREAS the time appointed by law for holding the court of general sessions of the peace and inferiour court of common pleas, at Concord, within and for the county of Middlesex, is found to be inconvenient,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

[SECT. 1.] That the time for holding the said court of general sessions of the peace and inferiour court of common pleas at Concord, for the county of Middlesex, shall henceforth be on the first Tuesday of September annually; and all officers and other persons concerned, are required to conform themselves accordingly.

Time for holding the courts
at Concord, altered.
1742-43, chap. 32
§ 1.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That all writ[t]s, suits, complaints, processes, appeals, reviews, recognizances, warrants, or other matters or things, whatsoever, which now are, or at any time before the said first Tuesday of September shall be, issued, taken or depending in the said county of Middlesex, which were to have been returned or proceeded on at the time

Processes to remain good.

heretofore appointed by law for holding the said courts at Concord, shall be valid, and stand good to all intents and purposes in the law, and shall be returned and proceeded on at the time appointed by this act for holding the same. [Passed June 20 ; published June 25.]

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT FOR ALTERING THE TIME FOR HOLDING THE COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS OF THE PEACE AND THE INFERIOUR COURT OF COMMON PLEAS FOR THE COUNTY OF NANTUCKET.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the time by law appointed for holding the court of general sessions of the peace and inferiour court of common pleas for the county of Nantucket, on the last Tuesday of March, annually, is found on divers accounts inconvenient,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieutenant-Governor, Council, and House of Representatives,

Time for holding Nantucket courts altered. 1742-43 chap. 32, § 1.

That the said court of general sessions of the peace and inferiour court of common pleas, appointed to be holden for the county of Nantucket, upon the last Tuesday of March, shall hereafter be holden and kept upon the first Tuesday of March, annually. [Passed and published June 18.]

CHAPTER 5.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON WINES AND SPIRITS DISTILL[E]D, SOLD BY RETAIL, AND UPON LIMES, LEMMONS AND ORANGES.

Preamble.

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in general court assembled, being desirous to lessen the present debt of the province, have cheerfully and unanimously granted, and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty, for the ends and uses above mentioned, and for no other uses, an excise upon all brandy, rum and other spirits distill[e]d, and upon all wines whatsoever sold by retail, and upon lemons, limes and oranges taken in and used in making of punch or other liquors mix[e]d for sale, or otherw[ays][ise] consum[e]d, in taverns or other licens[e]d houses within this province, to be rais[e]d, levied, collected and paid by and upon every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer within each respective county, in manner following:—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Time of this act's continuance.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, for the space of one year, every person licens[e]d for retailing rum, brandy or other spirits, or wine, shall pay the duties following:—

Rates of excise.

For every gallon of brandy, rum and spirits distill'd, fourpence.

For every gallon of wine of every sort, sixpence.

For every hundred of lemons or oranges, four shillings.

For every hundred of limes, one shilling and sixpence.

—And so proportionably for any other quantity or number.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer, shall, upon the said twenty-ninth day of June, take an exact account of all brandy, rum and other distill[e]’d spirits, and wine, and of all lemmons, oranges and limes then by him or her, and give an account of the same, upon oath, if required, unto the person or persons to whom the duties of excise in the respective count[ry][ie]s shall be let or farm[e]’d, as in and by this act is hereafter directed; and such other persons as shall be licens[e]’d during the continuance of this act, shall also give an account, as aforesaid, upon what brandy, rum or other distill[e]’d spirits, and wine, and of what lemmons, oranges or limes he or they shall have by him or them at the time of his or their licen[s][c]e; which oath the person or persons farming the duties aforesaid shall have power to administer in the words following; viz<sup>t</sup>.,—

Account to be taken.

You, A. B., do swear that the account exhibited by you is a just and true account of all brandy, rum and other distill[e]’d spirits, and wine, lemmons, oranges and limes you had by you on the twenty-ninth day of June last. So help you God.

Form of an oath.

And where such person shall not have been licens[e]’d on said twenty-ninth day of June, the form of the oath shall be so varied, as that instead of those words, “on the twenty-ninth day of June last,” these words shall be inserted and used, “at the time of taking your licen[s][c]e.”

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler and retailer, shall make a fair entry in a book, of all such rum, brandy and other distill[e]’d spirits, and wine, as he or they, or any for him or them, shall buy, distill and take in for sale after such account taken, and of lemmons, oranges and limes taken in, consum[e]’d or used as aforesaid, and at the end of every six months, deliver the same, in writing, under their hands, to the farmer or farmers of the duties aforesaid, who are impow[er]ed to administer an oath to him or them, that the said account is, bonâ fide, just and true, and that he or they do not know of any rum, brandy or other distill[e]’d spirits, or wine, sold, directly or indirectly, or of any lemmons, oranges or limes used in punch or otherwise, by him or them, or any under him or them, or by his or their privity or consent, but what is contain[e]’d in the account now exhibited, and shall pay him the duty thereof, excepting such part as the farmer shall find is still remaining by him or them: twenty per cent to be allowed on the liquors aforesaid for leakage and other waste, for which no duty is to be paid.

Within six months, accounts to be delivered.

Twenty per cent allowed for leakage.

Provided always, and it is the true intent and meaning of this act,— Proviso.

[SECT. 4.] That if any taverner, retailer or common victualler, shall buy of another taverner or retailer such small quantity of liquors as this act obliges him to account for to the farmer, and pay the excise, such taverner, retailer or common victualler shall be exempted and excus[e]’d from accounting or paying any excise therefor, inasmuch as the same is accounted for, and the excise therefor to be paid, by the taverner or retailer of whom he bought the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That every taverner, innholder, common victualler or retailer, who shall be found to give a false account of any brandy, distill[e]’d spirits, wine, or other the commodities aforesaid, by him or her on the said twenty-ninth day of June, or at the time of his or her taking licen[s][c]e, or bought, distill[e]’d, or taken in for sale afterwards, or used as aforesaid, or refuse to give in an account, on oath, as aforesaid, shall be render[e]d incapable of having a licen[s][c]e afterwards, and shall be prosecuted by the farmer of excise in the same county, for his or her neglect, and ordered by the general sessions of the peace to pay double the sum of money as they may judge that the excise of liquors, &c., by him or her sold within such time, would have amounted to, to be paid to the said farmer.

Penalty on giving a false account.

And be it further enacted,

General sessions to take recognizance.

[SECT. 6.] That the justices in their general sessions of the peace shall take recognizances, with sufficient suret[y][ie]s, of all persons by them licens[e]d, both as to their keeping good rule and order, and duly observing the laws relating to persons so licens[e]d, and for their duly and truly rendering an account in writing under their hands as aforesaid, and paying their excise in manner as aforesaid; as also that they shall not use their licen[s][c]e in any house besides that wherein they dwell; which recognizance[s] shall be taken within the space of thirty days after the granting of such licen[s][c]e, otherw[ays][ise] the persons licens[e]d shall lo[ose] the benefit of his or her said licen[s][c]e; and no person shall be licens[e]d by the said justices that hath not accounted with the farmer, and paid him the excise due to him from such person at the time of his asking for such licen[s][c]e.

Preamble.

And whereas, notwithstanding the laws made against selling strong drink without licen[s][c]e, many persons not regarding the penalties and forfeitures in the said act, do receive and entertain persons in their houses, and sell great quantit[y][ie]s of spirits and other strong drink, without licen[s][c]e so to do first had and obtained; by reason whereof great debaucheries are committed and kept secret, the end of this law in a great measure frustrated, and such as take licen[s][c]es and pay the excise greatly wrong[e]d and injured,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

Forfeiture of £2 for selling without license, &c.

[SECT. 7.] That whosoever, after the said twenty-ninth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, shall presume, directly or indirectly, to sell any brandy, rum or other distill[e]d spirits, wine, beer, cyder, perry or any other strong drink, in any smaller quantity than a barrel[1] (thirty gallons to be accounted a barrel[1]), and all delivered to one person, without drawing any part of it off), without licen[s][c]e first had and obtained from the court of general sessions of the peace, and recognizing in manner as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay for each offence, the sum of two pounds to the farmer, and costs of prosecution; and all such as shall refuse or neglect to pay the fine aforesaid, shall stand closely and strictly committed in the common goal of the county for three months at least, and not to have the liberty of the goaler's house or yard; and any goaler giving any person liberty contrary to this act, shall forfeit and pay two pounds, and pay costs of prosecution as aforesaid. And if any person or persons, not licens[e]d as aforesaid, shall order, allow, permit or connive at the selling of any strong drink, contrary to the true intent or meaning of this act, by his or her child or children, servant or servants, or any other person or persons belonging to or in his or her house or family, and be thereof convict, he, she or they shall be reputed the offender or offenders, and shall suffer the same penalties as if he, she or they had sold such drink themselves.

And be it further enacted,

One witness sufficient for conviction.

[SECT. 8.] That when any person shall be complained of for selling any strong drink without licen[s][c]e, one witness produced to one such fact, and another produced to another, shall be sufficient conviction, provided that there be not more than the space of forty days between the facts concerning which such witnesses declare. And when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected to sell strong drink without licen[s][c]e, any justice of the peace shall have full power to convene such persons before him, and examine them upon oath concerning the person suspected of selling or retailing strong drink in such houses, outhouses or other dependencies thereof; and if upon examination of such witnesses, and hearing the defence of such suspected person, it shall appear to the justice there is sufficient proof of the violation of this act by selling strong drink without licen[s][c]e, judgment may thereupon be made up against such person, and he shall forfeit and pay in like manner as if process had been commenced by bill, plaint or information before the said justice; or otherwise said justice may bind over the person suspected, and the witnesses, to the next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where such person shall dwell.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That when and so often as any person shall be complained of for selling any strong drink without licen[s][c]e to any negro, Indian or molatto slave, or to any child or other person under the age of discretion, and upon the declaration of any such Indian, negro or molatto slaves, child or other person under the age of discretion, and other circumstances concurring, it shall appear to be highly probable in the judgment of the court or justice before whom the trial shall be, that the person complained of is guilty, then, and in every such case, unless the defendant shall acquit him- or herself upon oath (to be administ[e]r[e]d to him or her by the court or justice that shall try the cause), such defendant shall forfeit and pay two pounds to the farmer of excise, and costs of prosecution; but if the defendant shall acquit him- or herself upon oath as aforesaid, the court or justice may and shall enter up judgment for the defendant to recover costs.

Penalty for selling strong drink to negroes, mulattoes, &c.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That after any person shall have been once convicted of selling strong liquors without licen[s][c]e, contrary to this act, he shall, upon every offence after such first conviction, be obliged to enter into bonds, with one or more suret[y][ie]s, in the penalty of twenty pounds, to his majesty, for the use of this government, that he will not, in like manner, offend or be guilty of any breach of this act; and upon refusal to give such bond, he shall be committed to prison until he comply therewith.

Persons after first conviction to enter into bonds.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That if any person or persons shall be summoned to appear before a justice of the peace, or the grand jury, to give evidence relating to any persons selling strong drink without licen[s][c]e, or to appear before the court of general sessions of the peace, or other court proper to try the same, to give evidence on the trial of any person informed against, presented or indicted for the selling strong drink without licen[s][c]e, and shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to give evidence in that behalf, every person so offending shall forfeit the sum of twenty pounds and cost of prosecution; the one half of the penalty aforesaid to be to his majesty for the use of the province, the other half to and for the use of him or them who shall sue for the same as aforesaid. And when it shall so happen that witnesses are bound to sea before the s[c][i]tting of the court where any person or persons informed against, for selling strong drink without licen[s][c]e, is or are to be prosecuted for the same, in every such case, the deposition of any witness or witnesses, in writing, taken before any two of his majesty's justices of the peace, quorum unus, and sealed up and delivered into court, the adverse party having first had a notification in writing sent to him or her of the time and place of caption, shall be esteem[e]d as sufficient evidence, in the law, to convict any person or persons offending against this act, as if such witness or witnesses had been present at the time of trial, and given his, her or their deposition viva voce; and every person or persons who shall be summoned to give evidence before two justices of the peace, in manner as aforesaid, and shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to give evidence relating to the facts he or she shall be inquired of, shall be liable and subject to the same penalty as he or she would have been by virtue of this act, for not appearing, or neglecting or refusing to give his or her evidence before the grand jury or court [as] aforesaid.

Penalty on persons refusing to give evidence.

And be it further enacted,

How fines are to be recovered.

[SECT. 12.] That all fines, forfeitures and penalties arising by this act shall and may be recovered by action, bill, plaint or information, before any court of record proper to try the same; and where the sum forfeited does not exceed two pounds, by action or complaint before any one of his majesty's justices of the peace in the respective count[y][ie]'s where such offence shall be committed; which said justice is hereby impow[er]e'd to try and determine the same. And such justice shall make a fair entry or record of all such his proceedings: saving always to any person or persons who shall think him-, her- or themselves aggr[i]ev[i]ed by the sent[a][e]nce or determination of the said justice as aforesaid, liberty of appeal therefrom to the next court of general sessions of the peace to be holden in and for said county, at which court such offence shall be finally determined: provided that in said appeal the same rules be observed as are already, by law, required in appeals from justices to the court of general sessions of the peace.

And to the end the revenue arising from the aforesaid duties of excise may be advanced for the greater benefit and advantage of the publick,—

Be it further enacted,

Persons empowered to farm out the excise.

[SECT. 13.] That one or more persons, to be nominated and appointed by the general court, for and within the several count[y][ie]'s within this province, publick notice being first given of the time and place and occasion of their meeting, shall have power, and are hereby authorized, from time to time, to contract and agree with any person for or concerning the farming the duties in this act mentioned, upon brandy, rum, or other the liquors and commodities aforesaid, in the respective counties for which they shall be appointed, as may be for the greatest profit and advantage of the publick, so as the same exceed not the term of one year after the commencement of this act; and every person to whom the duties of excise in any county shall be let or farm[e]d, shall have power to inspect the houses of all such as are licens[e]d, and of such as are suspected to sell without licen[s][c]e, and to demand, sue for, and recover the excise due from licen[s]e'd persons by virtue of this act.

And be it further enacted,

Farmer to give bond that the sum agreed for be paid into the public treasury.

[SECT. 14.] That the farmer shall give bond with two sufficient suet[y][ie]'s, to the province treasurer for the time being, and his successors in said office, in double the sum of money that shall be contracted for, with condition that the sum agreed be paid into the province treasury, for the use of the province, at the expiration of one year from the date of such bond; which bond the person or persons to be appointed a committee of such county are to take, and the same to lodge with the treasurer as aforesaid, within twenty days after such bond is executed; and the said treasurer, upon failure or neglect of payment at the time therein limit[t]ed, shall and is hereby impow[er]ed and directed to put such bond in suit, and to receive the money due thereon for the use afore mentioned; and the said committee shall render an account of their proceedings touching the farming this duty on rum, wine and other the liquors and species afore mentioned, in their respective count[y][ie]'s, to the general court in the first week of their fall sessions, and shall receive such sum or sums for their trouble and expences in said affair as said court shall think fit[t] to allow them.

[SECT. 15.] And every person farming the excise in any county may substitute and appoint one or more deputy or deput[y][ie]s under him, upon oath, to collect and receive the excise aforesaid, which shall become due in such county, and pay in the same to the farmer; which deputy or deput[y][ie]s shall have, use and exercise all such powers and authorit[y][ie]s as in and by this act are given or committed to the farmers for the better collecting the duties aforesaid, or prosecuting of offenders against this act.

And be it further enacted, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding,

[SECT. 16.] That it shall and may be lawful to and for the said farmers, and every of them, to compound and agree with any retailer or inholder within their respective divisions, from time to time, for his or her excise for the whole year, in one entire sum, as they in their discretion shall think fit[t] to agree for, without making any entry thereof as is before directed; and all and every person or persons, to whom the said excise or any part thereof shall be let or farmed, by themselves or their lawful substitutes, may and are hereby impowered to sue for and recover, in any of his majesty's courts of record (or before a justice of the peace where the matter is not above his cognizance), any sum or sums that shall grow due from any of the aforesaid duties of excise, where the party or part[y][ie]s for whom the same is or shall become due shall refuse or neglect to pay the same.

Farmers may compound with any retailer or inholder.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That in case any person farming the excise as aforesaid, or his deputy, shall, at any time during their continuance in said office, wittingly and willingly connive at, or allow, any person or persons within their respective divisions, not licens[e]d by the court of general sessions of the peace, their selling any brandy, wine[s], rum or other liquors by this act forbidden, such farmer or deputy, for every such offence, shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds and cost of prosecution; one half of the penalty aforesaid to be to his majesty for the use of the province, the other half to him or them that shall inform [or] [and] sue for the same, and shall thenceforward be forever disabl[e]d from serving in said office.

Penalty for farmers or their deputies offending.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 18.] That in case of the death of the farmers of excise in any county, the ex[e]c[ut]ors or adm[inistrat]ors of such farmer shall, upon their taking such trust of ex[e]c[ut]or or adm[inistrat]or upon them, have and enjoy all the powers, and be subject to all the duties, the farmer had or might enjoy or was subject to by force of this act. [Passed and published June 18.]

Provision in case of death, &c.

WHEREAS an act was made and pass'd in the twelfth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent the unnecessary journeying of the members of the general court"; and also an act was made and pass[e]d in the thirteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act in addition to an act intituled 'An Act for the better preservation and increase of deer within this province'"; and also another act was made and pass[e]d in the thirteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act for the effectual preventing of horses, neat cattle, sheep and swine from running at large or feeding upon a certain island, called Plumb Island, lying in Ipswich Bay, in the county of Essex"; and another act was made and pass[e]d in the thirteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act in addition to the several laws of this province relating to common roads and private ways"; and also another act was made and pass[e]d in the fifteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act for the rel[ei][ie]f of poor prisoners for debt"; and also another act was made and pass[e]d in the sixteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent the spreading of the small-pox and other infectious sickness, and to prevent the concealing of the same"; and also another act was made and pass[e]d in the same year, intituled "An Act to prevent the multiplicity of lawsuits"; and also another act was made and pass[e]d in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act for regulating the hospital on Rainsford's Island, and further providing in case of sickness"; and also another act was made and pass[e]d in the nineteenth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act in addition to the act intituled 'An Act for appointing commissioners of sewers'"; and also an act was made and pass[e]d in the twentieth year of his present maj[es]ty's reign, intituled "An Act relating to views by a jury in civil actions"; and another act was made and pass[e]d in the same year, intituled "An Act to prevent the firing of guns charged with shot or ball, in the town of Boston";—all which laws are expired or near expiring: and whereas the afores[ai]d laws have, by experience, been found beneficial for the several purposes for which they were made and pass[e]d,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Lieut[enan]t-Governour, Council and House of Repres[entati]ves,

That all and every of the afores[ai]d acts, and every matter and clause therein contained, be and hereby are continued and revived, and shall continue and remain in full force for the space of three years from the first day of July next, and no longer. [Passed June 22; published June 25.]

CHAPTER 8.

AN ACT FOR CONTINUING THE TIME FOR DRAWING THE LOTTERY ESTABLISHED BY AN ACT PASS[E]D IN THE TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY, INTIT[U]LED “AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH TWENTY-SIX THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED MILL'D DOLLARS, AND FOR MAKING FURTHER PROVISION RELATING TO SAID LOTTERY.”

WHEREAS an act intit[u]led “An Act for supplying the treasury with twenty-six thousand seven hundred mill'd dollars,” pass[e]’d the great and general court of this province, begun and held at Boston upon Wednesday, the thirtieth day of May, 1750, and continued by prorogation to Thursday, the tenth day of January following; by which act a lottery was established for the end and purpose of supplying the treasury as abovesaid, and the eighteenth day of April last was therein prefix[e]’d and appointed as the time for drawing said lottery; and whereas by one other act or law of his majesty’s province, made in addition to the abovesaid act, the time of drawing said lottery was put off to the fifth day of June instant, at which time the managers and directors were ordered and impowered to proceed to the drawing of said lottery, if the number of five thousand tickets should then have been disposed of; and the days aforesaid set for drawing said lottery being now lapsed, and by reason thereof the end propos[e]’d in said lottery cannot be answered and obtained without some further act of this court respecting said lottery; and whereas it is apprehended that the time for drawing said lottery having been h[eretofore][itherto] made pendant on the sale of a certain number of tickets by the certain days above mentioned, has proved a great discouragement and obstruction to the disposal of said tickets, and that if a perem[p]tory day was set for the drawing said lottery, it would very much promote the sale of said tickets,—

Be it therefore enacted and declared by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the said lottery shall be revived, and is accordingly hereby revived, and all the proposals, engagements and declarations contained and made in the abovesaid acts, by and on the part of this province to be kept and performed, and all the paragraphs therein contained, investing any persons with power to act and transact any matters in and about said lottery, are hereby revived, and shall be and remain of the same force and effect as they were before, or would have been if the said days therein prefix’d for drawing said lottery had not lapsed and expired.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the sixth day of August next shall be the time for drawing said lottery; at which time the managers and directors of said lottery are ordered and impowered to proceed to the drawing thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if any of the tickets mentioned in the said act, whereby said lottery was established, shall remain in the hands of the directors or managers, undisposed of when the time set by this act for drawing said lottery shall come, that then and in such case all and every such ticket shall be and remain as the interest, share and lot of this province.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[SECT. 4.] That the managers or directors may, if they see cause, next after the first or second day’s drawing, adjourn the further draw-

CHAPTER 9.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING TO HIS MAJESTY SEVERAL RATES AND DUTIES OF IMPOST AND TUNNAGE OF SHIPPING.

WHEREAS, in and by an act of this province, pass'd in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth year of his majesty's reign, the treasurer was impow'ered to borrow the sum of five thousand pounds for the supply of the treasury; and, in order to enable him to discharge the receipts and obligations that should by him be given for said sum in pursuance of the aforementioned act, it was therein provided that the dutys of impost and excise, for the year one thousand seven hundred and fifty-one, should be applied to that and to no other use whatever,—

WE, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in Now England, being desirous of enabling the said treasurer to discharge the receipts and obligations as aforesaid, have cheerfully and unanimously given and granted and do hereby give and grant to his most excellent majesty to the end and use aforesaid, and to no other use, the several duties of impost upon wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province, and tunnage of shipping hereafter mentioned; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the publication of this act, and during the space of one year, there shall be paid by the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize that shall be imported into this province from the place of their growth (salt, cotton-wool, pig-iron, provisions, and every other thing of the growth and produce of New England, and also all prize goods condemn'd in any part of this province, excepted), the several rates or duties of impost following; vizt.,—

For every pipe of wine of the Western Islands, eighteen shillings.

For every pipe of Medara, twenty shillings.

For every pipe of other sorts not mention'd, eighteen shillings.

For every hogshead of rhum, containing one hundred gallons, fifteen shillings.

For every hogshead of sugar, fourpence.

For every hogshead of molasses, fourpence.

For every hogshead of tobacco, six shillings.

For every ton of logwood, fourpence.

—And so, proportionably, for greater or lesser quantities.

And all other commodities, goods or merchandize not mentioned or excepted, fourpence for every twenty shilling value: all goods imported from Great Britain, and hogshead- and barreil-staves and heads from any of his majesty's colonys and provinces on this continent, excepted.

[SECT. 2.] And for any of the above wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, &c<sup>ra</sup>., that shall be imported into this province from the port of their growth and produce, by any of the inhabitants of the other provinces or colonies on this continent, or the English West-India Islands, or in any ship or vessell to them belonging, on the proper account of any of the said inhabitants of the other provinces or colonies on this continent, or of the inhabitants of any of the English West-India Islands, there shall be paid by the importers double the impost appointed by this act to be received for every species above mentioned; and for all rum, sugar and molasses, imported and brought into this province in any ship or vessel, or by land-carriage from any of the colonies of Connecticut, New Hampshire or Rhode Island, shall be paid by the importer the rates and duties following:—

For every hogshead of rum, containing one hundred gallons, thirty-three shillings.

For every hogshead of molasses, containing one hundred gallons, one shilling and sixpence.

For every hogshead of sugar, containing one thousand weight, two shillings.

—And in that proportion for more or less thereof; and for all European goods, and for all other goods, wares or merchandize, eightpence for every twenty shillings value: provided always, that all hogshead and barrel-staves and hedding from any of his majesty's provinces or colonies, all provisions and other things that are the growth of New England, all salt, cotton-wool and pig-iron, are and shall be exempted from every the rates and duties aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the impost rates and duties aforesaid shall be paid in current lawful money by the importer of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize, unto the commissioner to be appointed as is hereinafter to be directed for entering and receiving the same, at or before the landing of any wines, liquors, goods or merchandize: only the commissioner or receiver is hereby allowed to give credit to such person or persons where his or their duty of impost, in one ship or vessel, doth exceed the sum of six pounds; and in cases where the commissioner or receiver shall give credit, he shall ballance and settle his accompts with every person on or before the last day of April, so that the same accompts may be ready to be produced in court in May next after. And all entries where the impost or duties to be paid doth not exceed three shillings, shall be made without charge to the importer, and not more than sixpence to be demanded for any other single entry to what value soever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the master of every ship or vessel coming into this province from any other place, shall, within twenty-four hours after his arrival in any port or harbour, and before bulk is broken, make report and deliver a manifest, in writing, under his hand, to the commissioner aforesaid, of the contents of the loading of such ship or vessel, therein particularly expressing the species, kind and quantity of all the wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported in such ship or vessel, with the marks and numbers thereof, and to whom the same are consign'd; and make oath before the said commissioner that the same manifest contains a just and true account of all the lading taken on board and imported in such ship or vessel, so far as he knows or believes; and that if he knows of any more wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize laden on board such ship or vessel, and imported therein, he will forthwith make report thereof to the commissioner aforesaid, and cause the same to be added to his manifest.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That if the master of any such ship or vessel shall break bulk, or suffer any of the wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported in such ship or vessel to be unloaden before report and entry thereof be made as aforesaid, he shall forfeit the sum of one hundred pounds.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That all merchants, and other persons, being owners of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported into this province (for which any of the rates or duties aforesaid are payable), or having the same consign'd to them, shall make a like entry thereof with the commissioner aforesaid, and produce an invoice of all such goods as pay ad valorem, and make oath before him in form following; viz<sup>[t]</sup>.—

You, A. B., do swear that the entry of the goods and merchandize by you now made, exhibits the present price of said goods at this market, and that, bonâ fide, according to your best skill and judgment, it is not less than the real value thereof. So help you God.

—which oath the commissioner or receiver is hereby impowered to administer; and the owners aforesaid shall pay the duty or impost by this act required, before such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize be landed or taken out of the vessel in which the same shall be imported.

[SECT. 7.] And no wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize that by this act are liable to pay impost or duty, shall be landed on any wharffe, or into any warehouse or other place, but in the day time only, and that after sunrise and before sunset, unless in the presence and with the consent of the commissioner or receiver, on pain of forfeiting all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, and the lighter, boat or vessel out of which the same shall be landed or put into any warehouse or other place.

[SECT. 8.] And if any person or persons shall not have and produce an invoice of the quantitys of rum or liquors to him or them consign'd, then the cask wherein the same is shall be gaged at the charge of the importer, that the contents thereof may be known.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 9.] That the importer of all wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, within one year from and after the publication of this act, by land-carriage, or in small vessells or boats, shall make report, and deliver a manifest thereof, to the commissioner aforesaid or his deputy, therein particularly expressing the species, kind and quantity of all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize so imported, with the marks and numbers thereof, when, how and by whom brought; and shall make oath before the said commissioner or his deputy, to the truth of such report and manifest, and shall also pay the several dutys aforesaid, by this act charg'd and chargeable upon such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize, before the same are landed, hous'd or put into any store or place whatever.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That every merchant or other person importing any wines into this province shall be allow'd twelve per cent for leakage: provided, such wines shall not have been fill'd up on board; and that every hogshead, butt or pipe of wine that hath two-thirds thereof leaked out, shall be accounted for outs, and the merchant or importer to pay no duty for the same. And no master of any ship or vessell shall suffer any wines to be fill'd up on board without giving a certificate of the quantity so fill'd up, under his hand, before the landing thereof, to the commissioner or receiver of impost for such port, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds.

[SECT. 11.] And if it may be made to appear that any wines imported in any ship or vessel be decay'd at the time of unloading thereof, or in twenty days afterwards, oath being made before the commissioner or receiver that the same hath not been landed above that time, the duties and impost paid for such wines shall be repaid unto the importer thereof.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 12.] That the master of every ship or vessel importing any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize, shall be liable to and shall pay the impost for such and so much thereof, contain'd in his manifest, as shall not be duly enter'd, nor the duty paid for the same by the person or persons to whom such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consign'd. And it shall and may be lawful, to and for the master of every ship or other vessell, to secure and detain in his hands, at the owner's risque, all such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize imported in any ship or vessel, until he receives a certificate, from the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty for the same is paid, and until he be repaid his necessary charges in securing the same; or such master may deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as are not enter'd, unto the commissioner or receiver of the impost in such port, or his order, who is hereby impowered and directed to receive and keep the same, at the owner's risque, until the impost thereof, with the charges, be paid; and then to deliver such wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize as such master shall direct.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the commissioner or receiver of the impost in each port, shall be and hereby is impowered to sue the master of any ship or vessel, for the impost or duty of so much of the lading of any wines, liquors, goods, wares or merchandize imported therein, according to the manifest to be by him given upon oath, as aforesaid, as shall remain not enter'd and the duty of impost therefor not paid. And where any goods, wares or merchandize are such as that the value thereof is not known, whereby the impost to be recovered of the master, for the same, cannot be ascertain'd, the owner or person to whom such goods, wares or merchandize are or shall be consign'd, shall be summoned to appear as an evidence at the court where such suit for the impost and the duty thereof shall be brought, and be there required to make oath to the value of such goods, wares or merchandize.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 14.] That the ship or vessel, with her tackle, apparrell and furniture, the master of which shall make default in anything by this act required to be performed by him, shall be liable to answer and make good the sum or sums forfeited by such master, according to this act, for any such default, as also to make good the impost or duty for any such wines, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize not enter'd as aforesaid; and, upon judgment recovered against such master, the said ship or vessel, with so much of the tackle and appurcēs thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said judgments, may be taken into execution for the same; and the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby impowered to make seizure of the said ship or vessel, and detain the same under seizure until judgment be given in any suit to be commenced and prosecuted for any of the said forfeitures of impost; to the intent that, if judgment be rendered for the prosecutor or informer, such ship or vessel and appurcēs may be exposed to sale, for satisfaction thereof, as is before provided: unless the owners, or some on their behalf, for the releasing of such ship or vessel from under seizure or restraint, shall give sufficient security unto the commissioner or receiver of impost that seized the same, to respond and satisfy the sum or value of the forfeitures and duties, with charges, that shall be recovered against the master thereof, upon such suit to be brought for the same, as aforesaid; and the master occasioning such loss or damage unto his owners, through his default or neglect, shall be liable unto their action for the same.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 15.] That the naval officer within any of the ports of this province shall not clear or give passes to any master of any ship or other vessel, outward bound, until he shall be certified, by the commissioner or receiver of the impost, that the duty and impost for the goods last imported in such ship or vessel are paid or secured to be paid.

[SECT. 16.] And the commissioner or receiver of the impost is hereby empowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seaman of such ship or vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act for such wines and liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

And for the more effectual preventing any wines, rum or other distill'd spirits being brought into the province from the neighbouring governments, by land, or in small boats or vessells, or any other way, and also to prevent wines, rum, or other distill'd spirits, being first sent out of this province, to save the duty of impost, and afterwards brought into this government again,—

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 17.] That the commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost shall, and he is hereby empower'd and enjoyn'd to, appoint one suitable person or persons as his deputy or deputys, in all such places in this province where it is likely that wine, rum, or other distill'd spirits will be brought ought of other governments into this; which officers shall have power to seize the same, unless the owners shall make it appear that the duty of impost has been paid therefor since their being brought into or relanded in this government; and such officer or officers are also empowered to search, in all suspected places, for such wines, rum and distill'd spirits brought or relanded in this government, where the duty is not paid as aforesaid, and to seize and secure the same for the ends and uses as in this act is hereafter provided.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 18.] That the commissioner or his deputys shall have full power to administer the several oaths aforesaid, and to search in all suspected places for all such wines, rum, liquors, goods, wares and merchandize as are brought into this province, and landed contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, and to seize the same for the uses hereinafter mentioned.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 19.] That there shall be paid, by the master of every ship or other vessel, coming into any port or ports of this province, to trade or traffick, whereof all the owners are not belonging to this province (except such vessells as belong to Great Britain, the provinces or colonies of Pennsylvania, West and East Jersey, Connecticut, New York, New Hampshire and Rhode Island), every voyage such ship or vessel does make, one pound of good pistol-powder for every ton such ship or vessell is in burthen: saving for that part which is owned in Great Britain, this province, or any of the aforesaid governments, which are hereby exempted; to be paid unto the commissioner or receiver of the duties of impost, and to be employ'd for the ends and uses aforesaid.

[SECT. 20.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure or tonnage thereof, in case he shall suspect that the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the master or owner of such ship or vessel, before she shall be cleared, in case she shall appear to be of a greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer, in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel, until he be certified also, by the commissioner, that the duty of tonnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 21.] That when and so often as any wine or rum imported into this province, the duty of impost upon which shall have been paid agreeable to this act, shall be reshipp'd and exported from this government to any other part of the world, that then, and in every such case, the exporter of such wine or rum shall make oath, at the time of shipping, before the receiver of impost, or his deputy, that the whole of the wine or rum so shipp'd has, bonâ fide, had the aforesaid duty of impost paid on the same, and shall afterwards produce a certificate, from some officer of the customs, that the same has been landed out of this government,—or otherwise, in case such rum or wines shall be exported to any place where there is no officer of the customs, or to any foreign port, the master of the vessel in which the same shall be exported shall make oath that the same has been landed out of the government, and the exporter shall, upon producing such certificate, or upon such oath of the master, make oath that he verily believes no part of said wines or rum has been relanded in this province,—such exporter shall be allowed to draw back from the receiver of impost as follows; viz<sup>t</sup>.—

For every pipe of Western-Island wine, fifteen shillings.

For every pipe of Medara and other sorts, seventeen shillings.

For every hogshead of rum, thirteen shillings.

Provided, always,—

[SECT. 22.] That if, after the shipping any such rum or wine to be exported as aforesaid, giving security as aforesaid, in order to obtain the draw-back aforesaid, the wine or rum so shipp'd to be exported, or any part thereof, shall be relanded in this province, or brought into the same from any other province or colony, that then all such rum and wine so relanded and brought again into this province, shall be forfeited and may be seized by the commissioner aforesaid, or his deputy.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 23.] That there be one fitt person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatsoever thereto relates, to receive commission for the same from the governour and commander-in-chief, for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy receiver in each port, or other places besides that wherein he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping as aforesaid that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entrys and duties arising by virtue of this act; also, a particular account of every vessel, so that the duties of impost and tunnage arising on the said vessel may appear; and the same to lie open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer or receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such moneys as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver and his deputy or deputys, before their entering upon the execution of their office, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in the said office from ten of the clock in the forenoon, until one in the afternoon.

[SECT. 24.] And the said commissioner and receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, the sum of forty pounds, per annum; and his deputy or deputys to be paid for their service such sum or sums as the said commissioner and receiver, with the treasurer, shall agree upon, not exceeding four pounds, per annum, each. And the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accounts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary or salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputys.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 25.] That no duty of impost shall be demanded for any goods imported after the publication of this act, by virtue of any former act for granting unto his majesty any rates and duties of impost, and that all penaltys, fines and forfeitures accruing and arising by virtue of any breach of this act, shall be one half to his majesty for the uses and intents for which the afore-mentioned duties of impost are granted, and the other half to him or them that shall seize, inform and sue for the same by action, bill, plaint or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, wherein no essoign, protection or wager of law shall be allowed: the whole charge of prosecution to be taken out of the half belonging to the informer.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 26.] That from and after the publication of this act, in all causes where any claimer shall appear, and shall not make good the claim, the charges of prosecution shall be born and paid by the said claimer, and not by the informer. [Passed and published June 18.]

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF THIRTY THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED AND NINETY-FOUR POUNDS, EIGHT SHILLINGS AND EIGHTPENCE; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A FURTHER TAX OF FIVE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY POUNDS, ELEVEN SHILLINGS AND FOURPENCE, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT, AND TRAVEL[L], AND FOR FINES LAID ON SEVERAL TOWNS FOR NOT SENDING A REPRESENTATIVE; AMOUNTING IN THE WHOLE TO THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE POUNDS.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of the province of 1749-50, chap. 17. the Massachusetts Bay, did, at their session in November, one thousand seven hundred and forty-nine, pass an act for levying a tax of eighteen
 1750-51, chap. 1, § 5. thousand four hundred pounds; and, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, did pass an act for levying a tax of 1750-51, chap. 9, § 5. five thousand pounds; and, at their session in September, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, did pass an act for levying a tax of four thousand pounds; and, at their session in January, one thousand seven hundred and fifty, did pass an act for levying a tax of eight thousand and ten pounds;—each of the several sums aforesaid to be levied and assessed this present year,—amounting in the whole to the sum of thirty-five thousand six hundred and eighty-five pounds; and by the aforesaid acts, provision was made that the general court might, this present sitting, apportion the same on the several towns and districts within this province, if they thought fit: wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectual drawing in the sum of thirty-five thousand six hundred and eighty-five pounds, pursuant to the funds and grants aforesaid, into the treasury, according to the apportion now agreed to by this court; all which is unanimously approved, ratified and confirmed; we, his majesty's most loyal[1] and dutiful[1] subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That each town and district within this province be assessed and pay, as such town and district's proportion of the sum of thirty thousand three hundred and ninety-four pounds, eight shillings and eightpence, and their representatives' pay, and fines laid on several towns, the sum of five thousand two hundred and ninety pounds, eleven shillings and fourpence; viz<sup>[1]</sup>, the several sums following; that is to say,—

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or district within this province, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or district, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable male pol[e][t]s above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or districts, or next adjo[y][i]ning to them, belonging to no other town, five shillings per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury for the payment of the representatives (except the governour, the lieutenant-governour and their famil[y][ie]s, the president, fellows and students of Harvard Colle[d]ge, settled ministers and grammar-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as for their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement); and other persons, if such the[i]r[e] be, who, thro[ugh] age, infirmity or extream poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not capable to pay towards publick charges, they may exempt their polls, and so much of their estates as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective count[y][ie]s assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns in such county in proportion to their province rate, exclusive of what has been paid out of the publick treasury to the representative of each town for his service; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town or district, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession soever the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits that shall or may arise by money or other estate not particularly otherwise assessed, or commissions of profit in their improvement, according to their understanding and cun[n]ing, at one penny on the pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set[t] and ordered hereby for such town or d[e][i]strict to pay; and, in making their assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' income of the yearly rents, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let[t] for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and where no contract is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every cow of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at fo[ur]ty shillings; every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old, three shillings each: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of the said assessment, setting forth, in d[e][i]stinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty, and if as guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be d[e][i]stinctly expressed; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collectors, constable or constables of such town or d[e][i]strict, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collectors, constable or constables, together with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of October next.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impow[er]ed and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, constable or constables of such town or d[e]st[ri]ct, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, before the last day of December next; and to pay in their collection, and issue the accompts of the whole, at or before the last day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fifty-two.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town and d[e]st[ri]ct, respectiv[e]ly, in convenient time before their making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town or d[e]st[ri]ct, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rat[er]able estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful [ ] to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of the said assessors, of bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town or d[e]st[ri]ct where the delinquent lives, to be lev[y]ed by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collector or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering town assessments, and to be paid in to the town treasurer or selectmen for the use aforesaid: saving to the party ag[g]r[ei]v[ed] at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief, as in case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate, as aforesaid, to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of sessions for any abatement of the assessment laid on him.

[SECT. 6.] And if the party be not convicted of any fals[e]ness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rat[er]able estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he doth or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to trade is finished and delivered to the constable or collector, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, th[er]e[fo]re, in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That when any such person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, and trade, to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impow[er]ed to rate and assess all such persons according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act provided, th[er]e[fo]re the former rate may have been finished, and the new one not perfected, as aforesaid; and the constables or col[Z]ectors are hereby enjoyned to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, and pay the same in to the town treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the inhabitants of this province have liberty, if they see fit, to pay the several sums for which they may respectively be assessed, as their proportion of the aforesaid sum of thirty thousand three hundred and ninety-four pounds eight shillings and eightpence, in good merchantable hemp, or in good, merchantable, Isle-of-Sable codfish, or in good refined bar-iron, or in bloomery-iron, or in hollow iron-ware, or in good Indian corn, or in good winter rye, or in good winter wheat, or in good barley, or in good barrell pork, or in barrell beef, or in duck or canvas, or in long whalebone, or in merchantable cordage, or in good train oyl, or in good beeswax, or in good bayberry-wax, or in tryed tallow, or in good pease, or in good sheeps-wool, or in good tanned sole-leather; and that the eldest councellers, for the time being, of each of those countys in the province, of which any one of the councellers is an inhabitant, together with the province treasurer, or the major part of them, be a committee, who are hereby directed and fully authorized and impowred, once in every month, if need be, to agree and sett the several species and commoditys aforesaid, at some certain price, at which they shall be received towards the payment of the sums aforesaid: all which aforesaid commoditys shall be of the produce of this province, and, as soon as conveniently may, be disposed of by the treasurer to the best advantage, for so much as they will fetch in money; and the several persons paying their taxes in any of the commoditys afore mentioned, to run the risque and pay the charge of transporting the said commodit[y][ie]s to the province treasury.

[SECT. 9.] And if any loss shall happen by the sale of the aforesaid species, it shall be made good by a tax of the next year; and if there be a surplusage, it shall remain a stock in the treasury.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That the inhabitants of this province shall have full liberty to pay in the several sums which they shall respectively be assessed in pursuance of this act, in bills of credit on this province: provided, they pay the bills aforesaid to the collectors of said assessments, on or before the last day of December next. [Passed June 21; published June 25.]

ACT

PASSED AT THE SESSION BEGUN AND HELD AT BOSTON,
ON THE SECOND DAY OF OCTOBER, A. D. 1751.

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF FOUR THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIVE POUNDS.

WHEREAS in the late proposed supply of the treasury with twenty-six thousand seven hundred milled dollars, there happens a deficiency of four thousand five hundred and forty-five pounds, so that the debts of the government which require a speedy payment, cannot be discharged until the treasury is farther supplied with that sum; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 1.] That the province treasurer be and hereby is ordered to borrow and take up, on lawful interest, the sum of four thousand five hundred and forty-five pounds, for the use of this government; and that he give to such persons as shall lend the same, his promissory notes for the payment of the sums by them respectively lent, to them or the bearer of such notes, within six months, with lawful interest for the same, until paid.

Preamble.
1750-51, chap. 15.

Treasurer to borrow £4,545
on his notes.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the province treasurer apply the sum so borrowed towards the payment of such of the government's debts as were to have been discharged by the said twenty-six thousand seven hundred mill'd dollars, and that the province treasurer pay off and discharge the notes aforesaid, as they shall become due, out of the monies that shall come into the treasury by force of the last act made for supplying the same.

Said money to be applied to discharge the debts of the government.

CHAPTER 12.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT MADE AND PASS[E]’D IN THE THIRTEENTH YEAR OF KING WILLIAM THE THIRD, INTITLED “AN ACT PROVIDING IN CASE OF SICKNESS.”

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Clothing and other goods suspected to be infected, to be liable to be stopped and secured.
1701-2, chap. 9.

Manner of proceeding therein.

[SECT. 1.] That when and as often as there shall be brought into any town within this province, whether it shall be from any other town within the province, or from parts without the province, any baggage, cloathing or goods of any kind soever, and it shall be made to appear by the selectmen of the town, or major part of them, to which such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be brought, to the satisfaction of any one of his majesty’s justices of the peace, that there is just cause to suspect such baggage, cloathing or other goods to be infected with the plague, small-pox, pestilential fever, or other malignant, contagious distemper, it shall and may be lawful for such justice of the peace, and he is hereby required, in such case, by warrant, under his hand and seal, directed to the sheriff or his deputy, or any constable of the town in which such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be, requiring him to impress so many men as said justice shall judge necessary, to secure such baggage, cloathing or other goods to be secured, and said men to set and post as a guard and watch over the house or houses, or other place or places where such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be lodged; which guard and watch are hereby required to take effectual care to prevent such baggage, cloathing or other goods being removed or intermeddled with by any persons whatever, until[1] due inquiry be made into the circumstances thereof; and in case it shall appear to the said justice highly probable that such baggage, cloathing or other goods are infected with the plague, small-pox, pestilential fever, or other malignant, contagious distemper, said justice is hereby impowered and directed to issue a warrant, under his hand and seal, directed to the sheriff or his deputy, or the constable of the town where such goods, cloathing or baggage shall be, requiring said sheriff, deputy or constable to remove said baggage, cloathing or other goods, to some convenient house or place from whence there shall be the least danger of the infection’s spreading, or being conveyed, there to remain until[1] such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be sufficiently aired, and until[1] it shall appear to the satisfaction of the selectmen of the town where such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be, that they be free from all infection; and said sheriff, deputy sheriff or constable, in the execution of said warrant, are impow[e]red and directed, if need be, to break up any house, warehouse, shop or other place or places, particularly mentioned in such warrant, where such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be; and in case of opposition or resistance, to require such aid and assistance as shall be necessary to effect the removal of such baggage, cloathing or other goods, and repel the force and resistance which shall or may be made thereto.

[SECT. 2.] And all persons are hereby required, at the commandment of either of the said officers having such warrant, under the penalty of forty shillings, to be recovered before the justice granting the same, to assist said officer in the removing said baggage, cloathing or other goods, unless they make an excuse to the satisfaction of such justice; and the charges of securing such baggage, cloathing and other goods, transporting and airing the same, shall be born and paid by the owners thereof, at such rates and prizes as shall be set and appointed by the selectmen of the town where such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be; and in case of refusal, to be recovered by suit at law by all and every person and persons concerned and employed in and about the business of securing, removing and airing said baggage, cloathing or other goods.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That if need so require, any justice of the peace may, and is hereby impow[e]red, on application to him made by the selectmen of the town in which such infected baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be, to make out a warrant to the sheriff of the county or his deputy, or constable of the town where such baggage, cloathing or other goods shall be, requiring said officer, with the advice and direction of the selectmen of said town, to impress and take up convenient housing or stores, for the receiving, lodging and safe keeping thereof, until[l] the same shall be sufficiently aired, as aforesaid. [Passed January 30; published January 31, 1752.]

Penalty for not assisting the officer.

Charges to be borne by the owner of the goods, &c.

Warrants to be made out to take up convenient housing.

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO THE ACT INTITLED "AN ACT FOR REVIEW IN CIVIL CAUSES."

WHEREAS the defendant in any personal action may, by force of the act made in addition to the act [e][i]ntitled "An Act for review in civil causes," have execution of the judgm[en]t of the superior court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, given on the trial of the appeal, stayed six months in some counties, and a year in others, only by giving bond, with security, approved of by that court at the time of entring such judgment, conditioned to prosecute a writ of review of such action, with effect, at the next superior court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery to be holden in and for the county where such judgment is given, and to answer and pay the original plaintiff double interest for the debt recovered, and double additional costs in case the judgment be affirmed, although the estate attach'd by force of the original writ is not thereby held or subjected to satisfy the plaintiff's demand for more than thirty days after the judgment given on the appeal; and in all cases where bail is given to the action, the sureties cannot be compelled either to satisfy the judgment, or deliver up the principal: wherefore, for preventing creditors being defrauded of their just debts by executions being so stayed,—

Preamble.

1701-2, chap. 6.

1720-21, chap. 11.

1732-33, chap. 13.

1734-35, chap. 5.

1750-51, chap. 7.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Bond to be given for prosecuting reviews where execution is stayed, in double the sum recovered, and costs.

[SECT. 1.] That execution of the judgment of the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, given on the trial of the appeal in any suit, shall not be stayed, unless the original defendant, his executors or administrators, give bond at the time of entering such judgment, to the party or parties that obtained the same, with sufficient sureties, to be approved of by the court, in double the sums recovered, to review the action at the next superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery to be holden in and for that county, and to pay to the party or parties that obtained the judgment upon the trial of the appeal the sum so recovered, with interest therefor, after the rate of twelve per cent per annum, and double the costs arising on such review, if the judgment be not thereon reversed, in whole or in part, or otherwise satisfied; and if reversed in part only, then to pay him or them that obtained the judgment on the trial of the appeal what remains due by force thereof, and is not reversed by the judgment of said court given on such review, or otherwise satisfied, together with interest therefor, after the rate of six per cent per annum.

Provided always,—

Proviso.

[SECT. 2.] That nothing in this act shall extend to any suit already commenced, wherein, upon the mean process, bail was given or estate attach'd. [Passed January 30; published January 31, 1752.]

CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR ERECTING THE VILLAGE PARISH, AND MIDDLE PARISH, SO CALLED, IN THE TOWN OF SALEM, INTO A DISTINCT AND SEPERATE DISTRICT BY THE NAME OF DANVERS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the town of Salem is very large, and the inhabitants of the Village and Middle parishes, so called, within the same (many of them, at least), live at a great distance from that part of the first parish in Salem where the publick affairs of the town are transacted, and also from the grammar school which is kept in the said first parish; and whereas most of the inhabitants of the said first parish are either merchants, traders or mechanicks, and those of the said Village and Middle parishes are chiefly husbandmen, by means whereof many disputes and difficulties have arisen, and may hereafter arise in the managing their publick affairs together, and especially touching the apportioning of their publick taxes; for preventing of which inconvenienc[es] for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governour, Council and House of Representatives,

Village, and Middle Precinct in Salem erected into a precinct.

[SECT. 1.] That the part of the said town of Salem which now constitutes the Village and Middle parishes in said town, according to their boundaries, and the inhabitants thereon, be erected into a separate and distinct district by the name of Danvers; and that said inhabitants shall do the duties that are required and enjoyned on other towns, and enjoy all the powers, privileges and immunities that towns in this province by law enjoy, except that of seperately chusing and sending one or more representatives to represent them at the general assembly; in lieu whereof,—

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the said inhabitants of said parishes shall, from time to time, have full power and liberty to join with the said town of Salem in the choice of one or more represent[ati]ves to represent them and the said town at the general assembly, and also of being chosen for that purpose, as if this act had not been made; and the said town of Salem are required to notify said inhabitants of the said Middle and Village parishes, of all meetings that shall be called for the choice of represent[ati]ves as aforesaid, as by law they have heretofore been obliged to do.

Inhabitants of said district to join with the inhabitants of Salem in the choice of representatives.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 3.] That the said town of Salem, and the inhabitants by this act erected into a separate district, shall, respectively, be held to fulfil[?] the agreement entred into on the twenty-third day of October last, in like manner as if the said inhabitants had been by this act erected into a separate and distinct township. [Passed January 28; published January 31, 1752.]

Salem to fulfil their agreement with the inhabitants of this district.

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT FOR ERECTING THE PLANTATION CALLED THE ELBOWS, INTO A DISTRICT BY THE NAME OF PALMER.

WHEREAS it hath been represented to this court that the inhabitants of the plantation, in the county of Hampshire, called the Elbows, labour under difficulties, by reason of their not being incorporated into a district,—

Preamble.

Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governo[u]r, Council and House of Represent[ati]ves,

[SECT. 1.] That the plantation aforesaid be and hereby is erected into a district by the name of Palmer, bounding as follows; viz., easterly on the town of Western; northerly, partly on the plantation called Cold Spring, and partly on Ware-River Precinct, called Roads Farm; southerly and westerly on the town of Brimfield; and that the inhabitants thereof be and are hereby invested with all the powers, privilege[s] and immuni[ni]ties that the inhabitants of towns within this province are or by law ought to be vested with: saving only in the choice of a representative; which, it is represented, said inhabitants are not at present desirous of.

The plantation called the Elbows, erected into a district.

Bounds thereof.

Be it further enacted,
