CORONATION OF THE KING AND QUEEN

VICTORIA TAKES SHARE IN EVENT

CITY IS IN FESTAL GARB IN HONOR OF SOVEREIGN

Salute at Dawn Inaugurated the Ceremonies of Day at Empire's Western Gate

To-day is Coronation Day, and all the world shall know it—or know the reason why. It comes, not like the unexpected thunderclap of change enveloped in a wealth of eccentric sound that cleaves its impress upon the human mind by a process of displacement, but rather like the long-desired and inevitable triumph that adds a step to the ladder of life and experience, from which new eminence it is possible to visualise ampler areas and more rosy vistas than the step beneath afforded.

Although the spirit of the event is still mounting its turrets of conquest in the celebrations of this western city of the Empire, the actual deed of crowning King George the Fifth and his consort, Queen Mary, has eloped with that arrant wastrel, Time, and is even now flying toward the bourne of history, from whose embrace it is as impossible as it would be sacrilegious to retrieve it.

Happily for Victoria and other places it is possible to crown the King and Queen all day long and all night long as well. The vintage of time is open to them (since the keeper is engaged elsewhere) and the delicious draughts of the stolen juice should be appreciated at a figure so far above par as to make the vintner dream of paradise.

Long ere the sun reached the meridian heights of the west, London had proclaimed a new king, and the world had re-echoed the clamorous shouts like the ricocheting of a rifle shot over a mountain range, but in spite of that Victoria goes on "coronating" not only till the sun sets in his arbour of corse and gold, but until the dew of heaven, dropping on the velvet grass like the ringing of myriad matins to the morn, closes for ever the incident of fact by transforming it into an incident of history.

And who reads history, anyway? "One crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name," said someone with a true prophetic vision, and while the quotation may be embalmed in lavender or otherwise forgotten, its application goes on with undisturbed serenity and appositeness. It is that crowded hour that Victorians have made up their minds to have and will have, if but half the arrangements for the day's festivities are carried through to an issue.

To some extent the magnitude of the programme is accounted for by the fact that Victoria is more than herself to-day. She has been chosen as the central point from which the loyalty effusions and confusions of the entire province will emanate the breathe their messages of love and fealty across the world to the newly-crowned occupants of the Empire's throne.

Not only so, but strangers and friends from across the border have come into the capital in great numbers to witness the spectacular manner in which Victoria proposes to celebrate the occasion. Hundreds of well-groomed Americans arrived in the city by yesterday's steamers and mingled with the unusually large influx from the mainland. Vancouver was represented by a large contingent of holiday makers, and other points unconnected with the influence of merry-making, either by birth or location, were represented also.

To give some idea of the rush of visitors from all parts it may be stated with perfect truth that the hotels of the city were never more crowded than yesterday, when the incoming vessels deposited their loads of travellers at the various wharves. Foreigners of all nationalities could be detected in great numbers mingling with the general crowd and intent on having as good a time as their fellows.

When dawn began shooting incipient rays of light across the darkened sky there was a feeling that the events of the day might be slightly marred or impeded by a repetition of the lachrymose conditions which prevailed yesterday, but as daybreak advanced before the recession of cluster clouds it became tolerably certain that, if the day was not brilliant with sunshine, it would not be marred by rain. The opaque embellishments which decorated the suburban area like the drapings on a panel gradually dissolved into opalescent wreathsome hues, promising complete evaporation or at the worst forming a not unfriendly framework for the picture to be enacted within its compass.

The arrival of the day and incidentally, the "evening" moment was announced in the stentorian notes of a royal salute which was delivered from Work Point. The time at which this historic volley awoke the slumbering echoes of the morning was 5.38 a. m., and those who were in a position to take advantage of the warning got the full benefit of a long day, to which, no doubt, the others whose position or condition rendered them incapable

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN MARY IN THEIR CORONATION ROBES

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES IN ANCIENT EDIFICE

Crowds Which Line Streets Ac- claim Their Majesties— Metropolis Rejoices

London, June 22.—King George V., eighth of the House of Hanover, was to-day crowned King of the British Empire and given the public homage of his world-wide subjects. With his consort, Queen Mary, His Majesty was crowned in the Abbey of Westminster with all the wealth of religious rites and royal ceremonial prescribed by custom.

The picture in the grey walled Abbey was one of medieval splendor. The coronation services, solemn and imposing, were those handed down from the earlier centuries and the actors in the principal and secondary roles of to-day's great function were garbed in reproductions of the multi-colored, gold-embroidered trappings worn by their ancestors.

The latter made a wonderfully effective setting around the central figures.

Outside the usually dull streets had been transformed into a mass of colors. The King and Queen's progress to the Abbey and the route to Buckingham Palace was one of unbroken enthusiasm. The route was hedged, with a vast polyglot host with a background of gaily decorated viewing stands and windows and roofs, all of which were crammed to their capacity. Hundreds of thousands of spectators shouted themselves hoarse at central points like the Mall and the entrance to the Abbey archway, where the government stands held a score of thousands. Trafalgar Square was so densely packed with humanity that it would not have been difficult to traverse the square walking on the heads of the people. Parliament Square, Clubland and Constitution Hill held their countless thousands.

The tumult of thunderous welcome was almost deafening as the King and Queen, on the outward and home journeys, preceded in the first instance and followed by a stately superb cavalcade of eminent princes, many themselves heirs to thrones, statesmen, diplomats, courtiers, soldiers and men of all honors and creeds from the four quarters of the globe.

The great ceremony passed off unmarred by untoward incidents. When dawn broke, the skies were heavy and showers fell during the progress of the procession of royal guests and the junior members of the royal family to the Abbey; but as the King and Queen left Buckingham Palace to be crowned, the heavens smiled and a flood of sunshine brightened the splendid pageant.

It was a proud day in the British Empire, but of all its millions, the one who perhaps had the most reason to be proud was denied by court etiquette the honor of witnessing the triumphal event. At Sandringham Palace Queen Mother Alexandra, who, 46 years ago, this month, gave Britain a King, awaited the news that her son had taken his place in the long line of British monarchs.

EARLY MORNING SCENES IN THE METROPOLIS

A drab sky and smart showers early this morning, though they dimmed the freshness of the lavish decorations, could not dull the enthusiasm of the multitude who for months, had been planning to make the 22nd of June a red letter day in their lives.

The weather was about the only thing that had not been pre-arranged with exactness and it was the one thing likely to mar or make supremely glorious coronation day.

Fair weather had been promised, and when John Bull looked from his window this morning upon leaden skies he experienced a pang of disappointment, but this did not dampen his spirits to a noticeable extent. Later his stolid optimism was rewarded, for as the royal coach bearing King George and Queen Mary to Westminster Abbey for their crowning emerged from the yard at Buckingham Palace the clouds gave way and the sun burst through in all its glory, and (Continued on page 7.)

(unable is a more polite word in such a delicate connection) of taking any such advantage, gratuitously welcomed them.

Fortunately, from the picturesque standpoint the rain which promised all sorts of havoc last night, did not last long enough or develop sufficient force, to destroy any of the spectacular arrangements for the celebration. The hunting in certain places assumed a bedraggled appearance, but generally speaking the effects of the rain were not noticeable. The floral arches and electric streamers across the Causeway proved impervious to the attack and preserved their delightful aspect of freshness and novelty. In fact, despite the ominous predictions of some people, everything conspired to make the day one of memory-laden significance and beauty, to be treasured up in the store-house of reminiscences and retold in the days to come with the flavor of old wine.

CELEBRATIONS HELD THROUGHOUT ONTARIO

Toronto, June 22.—Coronation Day is being generally observed throughout the province as a holiday. In Toronto practically all places of business are closed, including the afternoon newspapers. At 3.30 the day's programme began with games and drills by the children. The Toronto Infantry brigade, reinforced by public school cadets, marched to Queen's Park, where a military review and trooping of colors, ending up with a royal salute, was witnessed by thousands. Free band concerts in all the parks will be given this afternoon, while in the evening a military tattoo of eleven bands and fireworks display will be held in Riverdale Park.

The stores and private residences are lavishly decorated, and flags are flying everywhere.

PRINCE RUPERT'S BIG DRYDOCK

Ottawa, June 22.—Plans for the Grand Trunk Pacific $3,000,000 drydock at Prince Rupert are on a point of being approved by the public works department. The company will get a subsidy of 3½ per cent. on the cost of construction.

TROUBLE EXPECTED.

Toronto, June 22.—Trouble is looked for on the Toronto street railway, the manager having ignored a letter sent by the union asking for a meeting to discuss the alleged grievances.

TRADE CONDITIONS CONTINUE TO IMPROVE

Ottawa, June 22.—Marked improvement in the general tone of industry and a corresponding increase in the activity of general labor is reported in the June Labor Gazette to-day. The crops are doing splendidly. That the fine agricultural outlook had an effect on the commercial community is shown by the increasing buoyancy of orders.

PORTUGAL'S PRESIDENT.

Lisbon, June 22.—Anselmo Braamcamp was elected president of the republic of Portugal by the constituent assembly yesterday.

CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Toronto, June 22.—At a meeting of the Canadian Press Association the following officers were elected: C. W. Young, Toronto, president; John B. Bone, Toronto, first vice-president; H. B. Donly, Simcoe, second vice-president.

The report of the action taken in connection with the establishment of the Dominion press council was given by John A. Cooper. The Maritime Association had not yet decided to come into the national organization, but he agreed that they would do so before another year had passed. Mr. Cooper promised to get into touch with the Alberta and British Columbia Association at once in the matter.

The sessions of the association will continue over to-day and will be followed by an excursion to the Island district of Georgian Bay.

TROUBLES OF A TAX COLLECTOR

DIFFICULTIES CAUSED EXISTING STATE OF LAW

Monthly Registration of Property Owners to Be Instituted

When privateer B. J. Perry jarred the headlamps of Mayor Morley and his newly invested train of municipal benches and caused them to "come back" for endorsement on another ticket he little thought of the network of complications he was weaving in regard to the incidence of taxation. The spectacular dethronement of Victoria's first citizen was all very well; it contributed to the interest and gaiety as well as education of the populace; but in its wake it has left a series of gaunt legal-looking stalks which inspire unpleasant reminiscences.

According to the law only registered owners of property are entitled to vote at municipal elections and of course the same exclusive qualifications entitles them to pay taxes also. With the agreement-of-sale system in every-day use, however, it will be readily understood that the registered owner in fact of to-day is not necessarily the unregistered owner in fact of to-morrow, and the unregistered owner is entitled to vote on by-laws. It is an almost every-day occurrence for property to be sold and re-sold several times, and as the incidence of taxation should change with the sale the difficulty of discerning the actual owner and assessing him is not the easiest one in the world.

Since the assessment notices were sent out W. W. Northcott, city assessor, has had an exceptionally busy time explaining the situation to anxious inquirers who are no longer owners of property but who have been assessed for property now sold to other people. When such a thing happens, and it is happening every day, the original owner endeavours to trace through the original owner the actual owner, and when he finds him of course he assesses him. As a general rule real estate men know their customers, and when the assessment notices come to them they know exactly where to forward them, and in that way the difficulty is got over, but in many cases carelessness prevails and the notices are not forwarded, so that the actual taxpayer does not know what his assessment is this year. Presumably the same difficulty will arise later on with the tax bills.

In addition to the assessment tangle there is the voting tangle to be considered. Only those whose names appear on the list as registered owners, that is those whose property deeds are lodged in the registry office, are entitled to vote at a municipal election. Once the assessment roll is completed and revised, which it is expected to be shortly, only those whose names appear on its pages will be entitled to vote at the municipal election of next year. It so happens, however, that unregistered owners, the agreement-of-sale people, whose names the assessor has noted on the roll have the right of voting on by-laws. In such cases, too, Mr. Northcott has forwarded the assessment notices direct and later on the treasurer will do the same with the tax bills.

The difficulty of this situation will be obvious. Recently it has become so pronounced that it has been decided to have registrations every month, that is registrations for by-law votes, and not municipal elections. When that course is adopted the complications will have been reduced to a minimum and the situation will be as clear as it is possible to make it until some change is made in the law. No definite arrangement has yet been made for the adoption of this method, but Mr. Northcott announced his intention in conversation with the Times, to take steps to have it adopted at the earliest possible moment as the matter is of supreme importance to a large section of the community.

While speaking of the difficulties attending the assessment the registry office, wherein are deposited the documents entitling one to be known as a registered property owner, should not be overlooked. The congested condition of this office, together with the hopelessly inadequate clerical service, contributes not a little to the delay associated with the registrations of property. While it is asserted covertly that the system in vogue belongs to somewhere in the eighteenth century it is devoutly claimed that everything within the office moves about a year behind the part of the procession which Victoria happens to adorn. Whichever of these periods has the distinction of accuracy in the approximate is immaterial—they both represent the essential fact, which is that the office premises and the meagre staff are out-of-date and unfit to accommodate the needs of the present day.

MACHINERY DEPOT BOOKS ARE SEIZED

Evidence for Spratt's Defence Yesterday Was Stories of Bullock's Requests for Money

A further development in the prosecutions launched against C. J. V. Spratt and William Houston directors of the Victoria Machinery Depot, charging them with having stolen navy yard stores in their possession, resulted yesterday afternoon, when a warrant was issued by Magistrate Jay at the request of the prosecution authorizing the seizure of the Victoria Machinery Depot books.

Police officers, accompanied by Frederick Bullock, the chief witness for the prosecution, left the court and went to the depot, made a seizure of nearly all the books in the office, brought them back to the city and placed them in the custody of the clerk of the court that they may be produced in evidence during the present prosecutions and those against John Day and Oliver Richards.

The defence to the charge against C. J. V. Spratt, as heard yesterday afternoon, consisted of evidence directed to throw light on the actions of Bullock, the accusing witness, rather than on the defence of Spratt. Witnesses all told of meetings with Bullock and of alleged endeavors to secure money from Spratt through them. They were Andrew Bechtel, formerly president of the Victoria Machinery depot, and now a director; John Wilhois, a delivery rig man, William Henry Price, secretary of the Conservative association; John D. Norris, driver for the Victoria Truck and Dray company, and Albert E. Brooks, clerk at the Victoria hotel.

The latter witness, Brooks, remembered "Doc" Howard staying at the Victoria hotel and said he had seen go to Howard's room on one occasion. He could not identify Bullock yesterday at the depot with the officers, but he was called again to-morrow. He remembered an order for drinks coming from Howard's room and two brandies and sodas were sent up. There was a wardrobe in the room occupied. There was considerable guessing in court as to who, as Bullock had testified he had no intention of taking down the wardrobe though it might have been for the purpose of taking down Bullock's conversation. The destiny of the second drink was left with the witness, till to-morrow. It seemed generally agreed that one drink was for the Seattle detective, Howard. Even Hon. C. E. Pooley, K. C., who has been quite a disputant in regard to evidence did not dispute that probability.

William H. Price told how Bullock had gone to his office, and said Bullock was the party who was going to lay charges against Spratt. Bullock asked witness to intervene. He said he had a suit for damages against the depot and asked Price to see John Day and get him money. He had copies of information and said he had copies of books for the last ten years.

Mr. Taylor (to Mr. Alkman)—I suppose you don't want the books now that you have all the information?

Price said he saw Day, but nothing resulted, and he told Bullock he was through with the matter. Bullock said he was going to lay information.

Mr. Pooley remarked that the informations had been issued and were in effect at the time of which Mr. Price spoke.

Andrew Bechtel said he had not taken an active part in the Victoria Machinery depot for 12 years and had been surprised to hear goods were bought from John Day. He told of conversations with Bullock at which the latter had wanted money.

John Bribois, driver for the Victoria Truck and Dray company, said he took a roll of canvas from the depot to Bullock's house for Bullock and on another occasion took some metal pipe for him to the same house. Bullock went to see Bribois when Bullock was summoned and said the roll was carpet, which could easily be got off boats at the depot if one first got properly acquainted.

The evidence of J. D. Norris was that he took two tons of coal to Bullock's house from the E and N. depot, though what it had to do with the prosecutions was not plain, and the lawyers for the other side did not cross-examine him.

Owing to the absence of Bullock the court adjourned until to-morrow morning.

TRIES TO END LIFE.
Man Who Killed His Wife Makes Three Attempts to Commit Suicide.

Ellensburg, Wash., June 22.—Rev. T. H. H. Gardner, wife murderer, tried three times to kill himself the other day first by hanging, second by drinking anti-germine, a poison, and third by pouring the poison over his whiskers. He was unconscious for several minutes after being cut down and on recovering consciousness stated repeatedly that he would never answer trial on the murder charge, but would make other efforts until he succeeded.

The hanging attempt was made in the late afternoon; the prisoner took off his drawers and tied them to a steel bar near the top of his cell; climbing on to a water bucket he tied the other end in a noose around his neck and kicked over the water bucket. Prisoners in an adjoining cell heard something tapping against the cell walls and Jack Connors rushed in and found the murderer's feet swinging backward and forward against the cell walls. Connors slashed the rope loose and the murderer fell in a heap on the floor. Other prisoners rushed to the steel doors opening into the outer rooms and pounded until they attracted Jailer Frank Rogers' attention. Meanwhile others were pouring water over the murderer's head.

Rogers and Deputy Sheriff W. F. Crowley rushed into the cell room and found the murderer unconscious and nearly dead. His head was swollen to nearly twice its normal size and his face was badly discolored.

After recovering consciousness Gardner made the declaration that he would never be brought to trial, but that he would succeed in killing himself. Later he took a bottle of anti-germine, which he used in spraying all the cells daily, and drank nearly half of it. Finding that this would not kill him, the murderer poured the remainder of the liquid over his whiskers, which are heavy, applied a match to them and tried to inhale the fire. The whiskers were nearly all burned off, but death still failed to come to the wife murderer.

Gardner has repeatedly boasted that he would kill himself, but this was regarded as boasting, as the man seemed to have a well developed yellow streak. When first captured after beating his wife to death near Kittitas, he asked to be killed, but when Connors volunteered to do the deed backed out.

SUGAR TRUCK INQUIRY.

Washington, D. C., June 22.—That the American Sugar Refining Company owns 25 per cent. of the common stock and 55 per cent. of the preferred stock of the Michigan Sugar Refining Company, a best sugar corporation controlling six refineries in Michigan, was declared yesterday by C. B. Warren, president and general counsel for the best sugar concern, in his testimony before the House "sugar" committee of inquiry.

The Michigan company was organized in 1896, according to Mr. Warren, six independent companies having been amalgamated with a capitalization of about nine million dollars issued, and an authorized capital of $12,000,000.

Henry O. Havemeyer was interested in acquiring large blocks of stock in the independent companies before the formation of the company, he said, but the controlling interest always has remained with the Michigan investors, who still hold 63 per cent. of the stock.

FLAMES SPREAD OVER WIDE AREA

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE NEAR REVELSTOKE

Millions of Feet of Logs, Lumber and Standing Timber Destroyed

Revelstoke, B. C., June 21.—It is estimated that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 feet of logs, standing timber and lumber, belonging to the Lee Lumber Company, were burned Tuesday night in a bush and lumber yard fire at Wigwam, about 18 miles south of this city.

The blaze, which started about noon, is supposed to have been caused by a spark from a freight locomotive which passed along the south line about that time. The exceedingly dry spell which this country has lately experienced greatly accelerated the spread of the flames which soon raged over an area fully a mile in width. Fire fighters from this city to the number of about fifty went to the scene of the conflagration and assisted those already in from the different camps. The company's mill, which is practically surrounded by a clearing, was saved.

At the same time another bush fire was raging three miles to the south of Three Valley and one camp belonging to the Dominion Sawmills Limited was completely wiped out. This fire is not considered at all serious. The area is said to be cut-over timber and the flames are rushing toward a previously burned-out section. At one time it was thought the Canadian Pacific track and a trestle bridge were in danger, but so far these are safe.

BAPTISTS DISCUSS MISSION WORK

English Speaker Says There is Much to Be Done in Foreign Lands

Philadelphia, June 22.—The Christianizing of the world was the absorbing topic at yesterday's session of the Baptist World Alliance.

Rev. W. Y. Fullerton of England, spoke of the missionary work that has been accomplished by all Christian workers in foreign lands. While he said there was much ground for the work already done, there is still much to do.

"The reproach of the Church of Christ," he said, "is that in the twentieth century of the Christian era there are yet in the world non-Christian hands. Her apology is that she is beginning to feel that reproach. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that in spite of the compassion of the good shepherd there are now ninety and nine sheep in the wilderness and but one in the fold."

"There are still a few lands," Dr. Fullerton said, "where the doors of Christianity are shut—Thibet, Afghanistan, and some native Indian states. There are also places where the natural conditions form a barrier—Borneo, New Guinea, the Amazon valley, the Solomon Islands."

The morning session closed with the preaching of the alliance sermon by Rev. Thomas Phillips of England.

CAIRD GAME INTERRUPTED.

Robbers Relieve Players of Cash and Place Victims Under Lock and Key.

San Francisco, Cal., June 22.—At the command "hands up," five men playing cards at the so-called Editorial Club early yesterday morning, looked up to find themselves covered by revolvers in the hands of two masked men who stood in the doorway. "Cut out the comedy," said one of the players as he pressed his cards tight against his shirt front. "This is serious," replied one of the masked men. "Put up your hands or we'll blow your heads off."

F. C. Briggs, one of the players, was slow to comply and he was stunned and seriously hurt by a blow on the head from the butt end of a revolver. The robbers then relieved the victims of money and valuables totaling more than $100. They locked the club players in two rooms, cut the telephone wires and escaped. Charles Torrentz, said to be a wealthy hotel man of Seattle, was the heaviest loser.

ACCIDENT IN THEATRE.

"Handcuff Queen" and Musicians Nearly Drowned When Waert Tank Breaks.

San Diego, Cal., June 22.—Two thousand gallons of water released by a breaking tank on the stage of a local theatre nearly drowned the members of the orchestra and discomfited a "handcuff queen" who has been mystifying audiences by the apparently marvelous manner in which she freed herself from steel shackles. As she was taking her customary pose before entering the tank, in which she was to release herself, there was a crash and the glass-front gave way. The "handcuff queen" was swept off her feet by the deluge and from her manacled hands there was hurled into the audience a bunch of keys.

NEW KNIGHT ENTERTAINS.

London, June 22.—Sir Max Aitken, M. P., the young Canadian financier, entertained at dinner Tuesday night Hon. Mr. Scott, J. A. Macdonald of the Toronto Globe, Bonar Law, M. P., and Edmund Hood at the Savoy Hotel.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

Our illusions are our chief treasure. To lose one's money is not always so bad; but to be bankrupt in illusions is as good as death.

It is by illusions that Nature gets things done. She keeps dancing impossible happiness and greatness before our noses to make us go forward, much as the carter holds a peck of oats before a balky mule.

When we grow so wise that we perceive the cheat, when we refuse to grasp at dreams and push on toward mirages, that is what is known as Growing Old. Nature then kindly removes us, as being of no more use to her. She prefers an ounce of faith to a ton of experience.

When Solomon was a young man he built a temple and otherwise stirred about mightily. When he grew old, he wrote the book Ecclesiastes, wherein he exclaims, "So I was great and increased more than all that were in Jerusalem before me; also my wisdom remained with me. And, behold, all was vanity and vexation of spirit. Therefore I hated life."

Old age is not years; it is disillusion. It is not facts and conditions that keep life young; it is enthusiasms. The best part of you is the rainbow in your soul. You do not need furniture, you need enchantment. What you want is not a rich uncle, but a fairy godmother. Most of the good of your life is the sediment left by the passing over of dreams. Life is empty and homeless without Castles in Spain. Life is cold and lonesome without fays and ogres. Little children, who are familiar with such real unrealities, are the happiest portion of the race.

R. L. BORDEN SPEAKS ON RECIPROCIITY

Tells Grain Growers He is Unalterably Opposed to the Measure

Regina, Sask., June 22.—Grain growers from a train of a hundred and fifty miles met R. L. Borden's special train on its arrival at Estevan, Weyburn and Moose Jaw yesterday. Mr. Borden expressed the preference to meet the grain growers informally rather than publicly, and such meetings took place.

John Graham, of the Benefit Grain Association, welcomed Mr. Borden in the name of the Grain Growers of Saskatchewan. They were glad of the opportunity to put their views before him. They were deeply interested in the questions of reciprocity, terminal elevators and the Hudson Bay railway.

Mr. Borden asked whether they were not also interested in the question of the chilled meat industry. A. G. Hawkes replied that they were, but that the chilled meat industry would be connected with the meat trade.

Further, Mr. Borden asked whether as citizens they were not also interested in three prairie provinces administering their natural resources. The grain growers present said they were, but on the whole this subject did not appear to have exercised them greatly.

With regard to terminal elevators, Mr. Borden said that the government bill might mean government ownership in fifty years. He was in favor of government ownership of terminal elevators as something which would promote good feeling between the east and west. He was bound to say, however, from certain things he had heard in Brandon that he was led to think some of the farmers were not as serious about the question as he had supposed.

With regard to reciprocity, Mr. Borden said he would remark that perhaps he was not a very good politician. He had told the grain growers of Canada that if they could give him the prime ministership of Canada by reason of his acceptance of the reciprocity he would not take it. He wished to repeat that to them today.

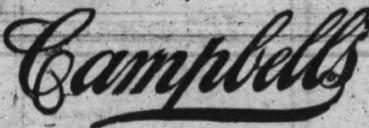

With regard to the Hudson Bay railway, he believed it should be operated by the state.

Turning to the question of the chilled meat industry, Mr. Borden said he was surprised at Winnipeg to find that New Zealand and Australian mutton and lamb were being served at local hotels to guests. Men would never go into the chilled meat industry unless they had the markets at home. He had studied the case of Denmark, and had been greatly struck at the way in which that little country was shipping bacon and other things all over the world.

E. J. Campbell, of Carnduff, stated that he had been delegated by the grain growers of Saskatchewan to tell Mr. Borden that they wished to see the reciprocity pact go through. They insisted upon reciprocity and wished him to impress that fact upon Mr. Borden. They hoped that his tour through the west would give him further light on the subject. Mr. Borden said he did not question the right of the farmers represented by Mr. Campbell to be insistent for reciprocity. They must realize that he had certain convictions.

"I would not hesitate for one thousandth of a second to go out of public life rather than support the proposed reciprocity agreement," said Mr. Borden.

Mr. Hawkes said the grain growers still hoped they would be able to convert Mr. Borden.

PRISONERS DENOUNCE POLICE OFFICIAL

Officer Tells of Finding Proofs Connecting Cammorists With Murders

Viterbo, June 22.—At the continuation of the Camorristi trial yesterday, Catalano, a police official, described how he had discovered the first evidence connecting the defendants with the murder of Cennaro Cuoccolo and his wife.

Later the witness said he abandoned the supposed proofs because of intimidation of the priest, Ciro Vitozzi, who represented that he had learned from the confessional that others than those supposed were the assassins. The witness declared that the prisoners were not only members of the Camorra but are known criminals. This statement aroused a demonstration by the accused, who cried out that the police had joined the Carabiniere in an attempt to ruin them.

U. S. WARSHIPS AT KIEL.

Kiel, Germany, June 22.—The American warships, second division of the Atlantic fleet, arrived here yesterday and are surrounded by the array of battleships and yachts entered for the emperor's great annual naval festival. Practically a full division of the new Dreadnoughts, are assembled, the only absentees being the cruiser Von Der Tann, which is at Spithhead for the coronation, and the obsolete reserve division at Wilhelmshaven.

Emperor William arrived in the afternoon from Hamburg on the Hohenzollern and was saluted with 33 guns by every warship in the harbor. The American crews, like the Germans, manned the sides of the vessels at the approach of the Imperial yacht and hoisted the German ensign. The Hohenzollern, with the emperor on the flying bridge, the Imperial standard flying past the German and American lines, while the crews of each vessel in turn fired the salute. At the end of the American line the Hohenzollern came about and passed between the South Carolina and the Louisiana to permit His Majesty a closer inspection of the battleships.

MEDALS FOR CHILDREN.

Ottawa, June 21.—Earl Grey has donated 2,000 coronation medals to be presented to children who take part in the celebration on Thursday.

FLOODS IN AUSTRALIA.

Melbourne, June 22.—The rainfall throughout the various districts of the Commonwealth is passing all records for quantity.

In the state of Victoria the rivers are everywhere flooded, and many townships are suffering from inundations, which they seldom, if ever, before experienced. Communities in some districts are completely cut off from communication with the outer world, while farmers are reporting general loss of their crops. Many houses have been washed away and the owners rendered homeless.

In Gippsland a remarkable incident occurred. The rising waters caught a funeral party who had to use all efforts to escape, but only managed to reach safety after they had abandoned the coffins to the swirling floods. On the coast the gale is throwing the sea spray a distance of several hundred yards inland. It is estimated that the gale at times exceeded sixty miles an hour. Apprehension has been caused as to the effect of the boisterous weather on the coronation celebrations.

MUST BE DISSOLVED.

Wilmington, Delaware, June 22.—The United States circuit court for the district of Delaware yesterday handed down a decision declaring that the alleged powder trust is dominated by the E. I. DuPont Denemours company, is a combination in restraint of interstate commerce and decreeing that the combination shall be dissolved.

The action against the powder trust was begun by the government in 1907 and was directed against forty-three corporate and individual defendants. The suit as to 15 of the defendants was dismissed because some of the concerns are out of existence or it was not shown that they were parties to the combination.

In an interlocutory decree the court fixed October 16 as the date for hearing both sides as to the nature of the injunction to be granted and consider a plan for dissolving the combination.

LONG LIVE THE KING.

George V., by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

At a few minutes past the half-hour after five o'clock this morning when many of the citizens of Victoria were aroused from their early slumbers by the salutes of the guns of the navy and fortress, the Crown of Empire was placed upon the head of Britain's King and thus was completed the solemn and reverent act of consecration to the sovereignty of the British people.

OUR LETTER BOX

"IMPERIALISM."

To the Editor:—From a letter in the Sunday Times, London, by an Imperialist, and your own recent references to the lively newspaper attacks upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier in England, one would infer that our Old Country Tories are about to transfer their time-honored veto to Ottawa, before losing it at Westminster.

The sovereign of the British Empire is becoming not less but more an outstanding figure in the horizon of the history of nations. The monarchical form of government is perhaps the oldest of which we have any record in civilized history.

With the rights of Demos well defined and guarded with a scruple that is jealous and perfervid in these days, it must not be thought that the throne and personality of the sovereign lose their significance or influence in a mere symbolism. One can imagine that, were the throne of Britain to be occupied by kings whose lives were too short for them to attain years of maturity and full-orbed manhood, a succession of these would, within the short period of a century, result in a marked difference in affairs throughout the empire.

hood and motherhood of Queen Victoria proved a benediction to the British race, while the astute and sympathetic appreciation of his responsibility by the late King Edward VII. was not less directly his inspiration in yielding the sceptre as a wand waved for the nation's good.

Great empires there have been before, but never greater. "We hold a vaster empire than has been," was no mere empty boast. It was a profound and significant truth. But the great empires have fallen; they are known now only in epical periods of history. They did not fall because of their greatness; it was not their magnitude which decreed their end.

There is a theoretical phantasm of science that, given a healthy body, keeping it free from contamination of disease and living under perfect hygienic rules, it is possible to live forever. The mistake of the scientists, or those of them who have fancied this, is that they have substituted the truth about nations for, and made it, the hypothesis of possible material and physical achievement.

If the British Empire ever ceases to be, or should it ever become a subject of historic record only, it will be because its people fail to learn the momentous lessons of the past. If it becomes reduced it will be only because some part of the great body became diseased and must be amputated, in order to save what remains.

The chairman's answer to this statement of objection was: "Gentlemen, if you subscribed literally, I think I may say that the Presbytery of Toronto would not war with you."

after all know something, however small, about their own country, so infect us, that though there are "bodies" which we know to be "essential," we have for the present to confine ourselves solely to terrestrial things.

If, as we truly is not the case, "Imperialism" means "The old flag and a bonus," or "Canada for the Canadians," with a heavily increased tariff on British goods, then verily we know it not, and can merely aid England for the time being in such matters as the sending of contingents to her wars—when we approve of them and they are not conducted by Lord North—the relieving of her taxpayers from our proportion of her army and navy expenditure, and the "disloyal" lowering in her favor, by means of the preference, of the National Policy duties.

In regard to the proposed reciprocity, in natural products only, with the States, a policy which can be abandoned later if experience disappoints us—may not this prove an important factor towards a common trade, and other, understanding some day, between all sections of the English-speaking race? If only our church and state Tories would realize that "the strength of sin is the law," and give us as little of this last as may be, the grace abounding from this unaccustomed freedom might then, for all practical purposes, be sufficient to ultimately bring certain revolutionary gentlemen "back to the army again."

Be this, however, as it may, as far as the British dependencies are concerned, any one of them of course, without waiting for the doubtful prospect of a Unionist government's support—can at once secure closer trade relationship with the Mother Country by a reciprocity with the Aquatic tariff; the probable immediate loss in revenue being compensated for by some other system of finance.

The 1911 graduating class of Knox college, numbering seventeen, during their examination for Honours by a committee of the Toronto Presbytery took the extreme course of indicating that they were unable to subscribe literally to the Westminster confession of faith.

The Presbyterial Church adheres to it as an historic document on the ground of broad, general principles. You may take any document of that time and under those conditions and make ducks and drakes of it to-day.

Members of the committee intimated that they thought the matter should be brought up in the Presbytery and an overtone presented to the assembly. The feeling is strongly held in many quarters that the wording of the confession should be altered.

ALBERT CHEVALIER IS HERE TO-NIGHT

Famous English Comedian Will Appear at the Victoria Theatre for Two Nights

The coronation day attraction at the Victoria theatre is Albert Chevalier, who appears there to-night and will be seen again on Saturday night. The theatre having been booked previously for to-morrow evening he will go up to Nanaimo and give a performance there.

This is Chevalier's first visit to Victoria. Chevalier is a master delineator, a creative artist. He gives you character, and because he gives you character, both his humor and his pathos have the searching quality of truth. Chevalier has enormous range, and he sounds the notes in that great range with absolute precision. Elaborate study, infinite pains must have been lavished upon these sketches, but there is no elaboration of method discernable. On the contrary, the method seems simple in the extreme. It is a method comparable to that employed by the masters of the short story where a rigid economy is imposed and where every detail that does not tell is excluded. One regrets that such art is not often visible.

Chevalier is accompanied by Miss Edna Blanch Showalter, prima donna soprano; Myron W. Whitney, basso; John C. Holliday, pianist.

The sum will be devoted to providing four cabins in the new institute at Vancouver, a "Canadian room" in the King Edward Memorial Institute, on the Island of Malta; a "Canadian room" at Holyhead in memory of the Prince of Wales' forthcoming investiture, and a "coronation cabin" to the new institute at Victoria.

his musicians, and otherwise the programme will be the same as the other shows this week. Full houses and all seats occupied. The Olivetti troubadours will again charm with their artistic and delightful playing upon the violin and the guitar.

George Rowland and his company, offering "Hogan in Society," the American slang classic, form the star act on the bill, having besides Rowland, Dick Flower, Mae Mann and Leslie Paul in the act. The brilliant dashing Josephine Davis will sing again, and wear the harem and other costumes. Josie O'Meers, queen of the silver thread, and Sandberg and Lee, in a laughing dance and patter act, are billed and complete the five-act programme now showing.

GIANTS WIN FROM SPOKANE INDIANS

By Securing Three Runs in the Seventh Seattle Overcame Spokane's Lead

Landing on Kraft in the seventh inning and pounding out enough hits to secure three runs, Seattle won yesterday's game from Spokane, 3 to 2. Fullerton, pitching for the Giants, was wild at times, but effective in the pinches. Both teams played a good game in the field. The score:

TIGERS HIT OFFENER.
By hitting the ball just a little offener than the Pippins, Tacoma won the game at Portland yesterday by a score of 13 to 8. Garrett was lifted after he had allowed nine hits, two of them for home runs, in the first three innings. Maxmeyer, who succeeded him, did a little better, only four runs being secured off him. The Pippins started to bat Higgins in the fourth and pounded merly after for five innings, netting their eight runs therein. The score:

CARNIVAL OF SPORT AT BROCKTON POINT

Good Programme Arranged for Dominion Day—Joe Bayley vs. Bat. Nelson

A carnival of sport is slated for Dominion Day at Brockton Point, Vancouver. The Maple Leaf Lacrosse Club, Limited, under whose auspices the meet, will be held, have arranged for both amateur and professional events, the former, foot races, and the latter, boxing and wrestling matches. A feature of the affair is that all the tedious competitions, such as throwing the hammer and jumping, which take up so much time in measuring and fussing about, have been eliminated and nothing but those contests, which may be started promptly and kept going until someone is declared winner, will be on the programme.

Among the boxers who have promised to take part are Battling Nelson, Joe Bayley, Young Maxwell, Driver Miller, Young Nelson and Joe Smith. The local lightweight, who so handily won his bout with Fred Wyatt at Cumberland on Monday night, will be given a chance to test his skill against the Battler in a four-round bout. Besides Bayley, "Bat," will meet Young Nelson, Driver Miller and Jim Smith.

Of the amateur entries, also, Victoria will contribute her share, several local sprinters having agreed to make the trip. The contests open to the amateurs are, 100, 200 and 400 yards, one-half mile and one mile and relay races.

TRACK MEET AT LADYSMITH.
Mining Town Will Hold Annual Event on Dominion Day.
Word has been received from Ladysmith to the effect that the usual annual track meet, open to amateurs in good standing, will be held on July 1, Dominion Day. All entries will be in the hands of the secretary, T. Bryant, Ladysmith, by June 30. Entry for the single man events is 25 cents and for the relay race 50 cents.

Programme is as follows:
First, 100 yards dash; amateur, 1st prize, value $10; 2nd, value $5.00.
Second, relay race (3 men in team, open to any recognized club) amateur 450 yards. Prizes, value $24.
Third, 1/4 mile amateur—1st prize, value $10; 2nd, value $5.00.
Fourth, 1 mile amateur—1st prize, value $12; 2nd, value $6.00.

SPORT NOTES
Despite the showing made by the Victoria Club, President Bob Brown, of Vancouver, believes that it has the possibilities of a great club in it. He thinks that Thomas is one of the greatest pitchers in the league if he were properly handled, but under the present conditions he will soon ruin himself.

Of the 293 minor league players who were purchased, drafted, and taken back under optional agreements by the sixteen big league teams last fall, only seventy-nine have stood the acid test and of this number fully a dozen or more will probably find their way back into the minors before another month is past.

A despatch from Toledo, Ohio, reads: Forty-two strike-outs in a ten-inning game was the record established in a contest between Melvin, semi-professionals of Toledo, and Oak Harbor, played at Oak Harbor and won by the Melvins 2 to 1. Luebke of the Melvins, and Kolath of the Oak Harbor team each struck out twenty-one batsmen.

Barlow Galbraith of New Westminster, is officiating in the New Westminster-Vancouver lacrosse game today, while Matt Barr of Vancouver, will direct the play on Saturday.

Billy Weeks, middleweight and heavyweight boxing champion of British Columbia, has left for San Francisco where he will enter the professional ranks. He will engage in a number of four-round bouts in the south.

OAK BAY GIVEN GAME.
At the regular meeting of the Victoria Lacrosse Association held last evening it was decided that the intermediate game, scheduled to take place on the evening of June 15 between the Victoria West and Oak Bay twelves should be awarded to the latter by default. This gives the Oak Bays two victories in the series.
The team to represent Victoria in the next B. C. game at Vancouver, on July 1, will be chosen after the practice on Sunday morning. A practice is also called for to-morrow night.
Those present were: Christopher, Hancock, Cares, Taylor, Martin, McDonald and Sweeney.

POLICE PATROL SIGNALS.
How to find a police constable is a problem in Montreal that perplexes the minds both of the general public and of the chief of police, says the Gazette. If the trouble is at one end of a policeman's beat, he is more than likely to be at the other end, not from design but by accident. To help solve this problem and to get the greatest good out of the men in the force, the Westmount Police Committee of which Ald. Jones is chairman, has now under consideration a scheme for installing a plant which will bring the chief in touch with his men by means of signalling apparatus. The two outstanding features of what is known as the Patrol Flashlight System are that it allows the central office to communicate an urgent call to all on all the beats in the city. Each lights from boxes, and also it affords a system of reporting presence on the beat at regular intervals.

The idea of establishing communication between patrolmen and police headquarters is not in itself new, but the scheme under consideration has many points about it that are quite novel.
If this system is adopted by the committee it will be installed by the Northern Electric Company, and would be operated on the following lines: A police switchboard is fixed at headquarters, and from it radiate several lines of patrol boxes set up men on the beat by means of flashlight box, or set of boxes, is wired over one circuit to the switchboard. With each circuit there is associated a key on the switchboard which, when properly thrown, lights powerful incandescent lamps in the boxes connected with this circuit. The rays are seen through red lenses and are strikingly visible at night when they are most needed, and in the daytime a gong can be constituted for the light.

The practical effect would be seen in case of a fire, or an accident in one part of the city, when the headquarters would at once communicate with all boxes and summon every available man to the scene of action. Once these boxes were established the members of the force would naturally keep a sharp lookout for signals. Then on their side, if they needed special help, they would be able to send in a message. This possibility of rounding up a number of men obviates the necessity of maintaining a reserve force at headquarters simply in case of emergency.

The system of registration for patrolmen is quite simple, consisting of the unlocking of a door and the action is registered on tape which can be dated and timed.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE

mitting what might have been a bedraggled procession a spread of splendour. After the early morning rush of enthusiasts, mainly of the humbler classes and great numbers of ticket holders, to secure places of vantage, from which to witness the royal procession before the crowds arrived on the scene, there was some falling off, and as late as five o'clock, when the front gates at Buckingham Palace were closed, there was little difficulty in moving freely at any point between the Palace and Westminster Abbey.

Later the crowds rapidly increased and by the time the troops began to take up their positions along the line of the processional route at 7.15 o'clock there were dense masses of spectators. The pressure was so intense at Charing Cross and at Whitehall that the police cordon was broken by the surging crowd. With the aid of the troops, however, the authorities soon regained control.

CHEER SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

General Kitchener, who is in command of the troops, and 12,000 police hurried here and there and were everywhere cheered. It was a great day for Tommy Atkins. Sixty thousand of the Empire's picked men lined the processional route and as they swung along to their assigned posts with a cocksure stride, there came a cheer from everywhere. There were mounted men from the regiments with the glistening breast plates and waving plumes; mounted and unmounted artillery, infantry in every uniform known to the British army. Here and there a group of the ever-popular blue jackets and bayoneted rifles, the route columns of troops in the workmanlike khaki, troops from north, south, east and west, along with sailors from Chelsea and other homes for men who have fought Britain's wars, though the latter were not required to stand.

PROCESSION TO WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Entertained by the bands, the sight of the troops and the scurrying about of officials, the crowds were well engaged and before they realized it, the processions from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey were under way. There were three processions, one for the royal guests, and for the Prince of Wales and members of the royal family, other than the King and Queen, and the Imperial procession. The first was made up of four dress carriages occupied by the royal guests and the distinguished court officials and officers attached to their staffs. The carriages were drawn by two pairs of the famous bay and black horses from the royal stables, driven by royal coachmen and attended by footmen in scarlet livery. Trumpeters and an escort of the royal Horse Guards preceded the royal guests. The spectators were quick to pick out the special envoys and the crown princes. Each of these was given a round of cheers and there was a pontaneous clapping of hands. A light rain was falling and the carriages were closed but their occupants could be distinguished through the windows. Immediately following was the second procession with members of the British Royal family, including the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary and their younger brothers. Their appearance was the signal for the greatest demonstration up to this time. The cheering began as the royal children emerged from Buckingham Palace and carried along the route of seats echoed by the crowd behind. Four other carriages were occupied by others of the royal family and the suites. Hardly had these passed when there were signs in the square yard of the assembling of the great procession of the day, that which was to escort the King and Queen to the Abbey and back to the Palace.

There was a brilliant scene in the quadrangle, but this was reserved for friends of the royal family, officials and their families and court servants who had seats at the windows and on the roofs of the Palace itself.

Exactly at 10.30 o'clock booming guns announced that the King and Queen were leaving the Palace and by a happy coincidence which, however, has become almost traditional in British royal functions, the sun suddenly broke through the clouds and the rain ceased. The staff officer appeared under archway, the guard of honor, big six footers from the Guard regiments, blue jackets and troops came to attention with a clang of swords and musketry, while the bands struck up the National Anthem.

Following the staff officers was the advance guard, the sovereign's escort of the 1st Life Guards, in their famous steel breast plates and helmets with plumes, and white breeches, on their black chargers. The King's barge master and twelve watermen, in quaint costume, reminded the sightseers that there was a time when the King travelled by water when he went to Westminster to be crowned.

Aides-de-camp to the King, naval and military officers of the headquarters staff were in their modern uniforms, and then came another quaint crowd when the yeoman guard, "Beefeaters" as they are nicknamed, walked solemnly by, carrying long staves.

Esquires to the King, escorts of the Colonial and Indian cavalry, the Colonials in khaki and the Indians in bright colors, passed in rapid succession.

As the first regiment of the sovereign's escort of the Horse Guards trotted slowly through the gates, the booming of cannon announced that the royal coach with the King and Queen approached.

The long awaited moment when Their Majesties were to look into the faces of their subjects and their subjects upon their King and Queen had arrived. There was a momentary hush broken first by the trumpeters and the crash of brass, and then, as with one voice the multitude acclaimed the sovereigns with cheers that preceded and followed them from the gates of the Palace yards to the very doors of Westminster Abbey.

Smiling and bowing, Their Majesties acknowledged the greetings. The King wore a long purple robe and velvet cap trimmed with ermine. The Queen made a beautiful picture in her robe of cloth gold.

Through the Mall to the Admiralty Arch, Charing Cross, Whitehall and Parliament street, the procession moved. The arrival at the Abbey was proclaimed by the ringing of the bells of the Abbey and St. Margaret's Chapel, the firing of a gun and another and another burst of cheering from the crowd on the stands in Parliament Square.

At the entrance to the cathedral Their Majesties were received by the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk and the pages in waiting.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY MARKS CORONATION

Westminster Abbey, the lodestar of all the ceremonial, was ready and waiting the arrival of their Majesties by the time the Imperial procession left Buckingham Palace. Nothing could be more impressive than the customary aspect of the interior of the Abbey, but this was all transformed to-day. Where usually is a gray and somewhat gloomy atmosphere was a mass of blazing colors. All the tombs and the floor were concealed under immense carpets and hangings of deep blue and amber. The color scheme was rich and impressive, while it afforded a subdued background to the marvellous mass of richly colored dresses of state of variegated uniforms with flashing decoration.

The floor space in the transept was wholly occupied by the white upholstered chairs of the peers and peeresses, those of the peers on the south side, and the peeresses on the north. Back of these were immense stands in ascending tiers filled with the members of the House of Commons and their ladies. Many commoners were uniformed and wore decorations, while the dresses of the ladies were rich and elegant. At each angle of the transept were smaller stands for the accommodation of the foreign and colonial representatives and other high personages.

There were the heirs to most of the thrones of Europe, a crown prince and crown princess of the Norman Empire, Prince Henry, the Emperor's brother, and his princess; the Duke of Aosta, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, Yusoff Izzed Din, the heir to the Turkish throne, with a red fez on his head; Prince Fushimi of Japan, with the heroes of the Russian war, Admiral Togo and General Nogi in full uniform, with much gold lace and decorations on their breast; the American official contingent, Special Ambassador John Hays Hammond, with his aides, Admiral Vreeland and General Greely, Ambassador Reid, with his staff, almost the only officials wearing plain clothes; the Chinese Prince Tsai Chen, robed in gorgeous embroidered silks, and Manuel, deposed King of Portugal.

Above the choir stalls were arranged tier after tier of benches displaying the embroidered arms of the three kingdoms. Above the choir stalls were other tiers of seats and altogether nearly seven thousand people were congregated as closely together as they could be packed.

Above the choir screen was an orchestral platform where there was an orchestra of 80 musicians, selected from the principal choirs of the kingdom. The centre of all interest was the area between choir and transepts, which is called the theatre. Five broad steps led up to it. It was covered with a carpet of rich blue, on which was embroidered the emblems of the Order of the Garter, and other heraldic designs. There were the two thrones for the King and Queen covered with crimson velvet and silk and before them marvellous Oriental rugs 500 years old.

On the south side, before the peers, were chairs for the young Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught. In front of the thrones and facing the altar was the historic King Edward's chair, with the stone of destiny set in its frame. Peers in their velvet robes and ermine mantles, carrying their coronets, had hours previously escorted in processions in prescribed dress and superbly borne by pages wearing diamonds and with feathers in their hair. There were ambassadors and ministers in full regalia, Lords wearing robes thickly laid with gold and members of the House of Commons, all in court dress and uniforms.

The wait for the arrival of the procession was made less tedious by the music of the orchestra.

At 9.30 o'clock the impressive procession of clergy composing the chapter of Westminster Abbey put a sudden stop to the sonorous hum of conversation and inaugurated the service of the day.

The crowns and regalia were lifted from the altar and carried on cushions and in great state down the aisles to the robing room, the choir chanting "Oh, Lord, our help in ages past." The chimes in the tower pealed a loud accompaniment.

Upon the arrival at the robing room, the regalia was handed over to the hereditary bearers who waited Their Majesties.

All eyes were turned to the west door in anticipation of the arrival of the procession. Scattered through the vast audience were many nurses in simple costumes prepared to lend first aid if their services were required.

The whole complicated arrangement for seating from 7,000 to 8,000 persons was carried out smoothly and with the best of order.

The royal guests making up the first procession had been seated, when at 10.29 the second procession arrived. The Prince of Wales, a boyish figure, was the centre for all eyes. The cheering of the crowds outside as he entered the Abbey could be heard within its walls while Mr. Riley ringing bells sent an echo to the roof. There was a pretty incident as the junior members of the British royal family entered. They were saluted with a blaze of trumpets, and every one arose as they were conducted to their seats. The Prince of Wales in robes took his seat beside the throne. Princess Mary wore her hair down her back in girlish style, but had a long train which attendants carried. The three younger Princes were in Highland costumes with jackets and plain kilts.

Nothing remained to complete the picture but the arrival of Their Majesties with the great state officials. Everyone was on the tiptoe of excitement and a solemn hush remained all over within the Abbey, as within a few minutes of 11 o'clock a fanfare of trumpets announced the entrance of the King and Queen, again everyone arose to their feet.

The scene was marvellously impressive as the leading figures emerged from the robing rooms. Many who looked on secretly restrained themselves from cheering, but the joyful notes of the initial anthem "I Was Glad" by the choir suppressed the impulse.

Lining the avenue of the approach to the throne where the picturesque Yeomen of the Guard in their scarlet uniforms and carrying their pikes, a company without whom no British ceremony of state would be complete, first entered a little group of the clergy. Then came the chaplains of the chapels royal, the Dean of Westminster, the Archbishop of Canterbury and York, the Bishop of London and other bishops.

Next, moving with great deliberation, five pursuivants followed by heralds in quaint costume, then the officers of the orders of knighthood, first those of St. Michael and St. George, after them the Star of India, the Order of St. Patrick and the Order of the Thistle, then gentlemen ushers of the Green Rod, the Scarlet Rod and other functionaries of the royal household, on impressive and picturesque band. Then came the standards of the kingdoms and the great colonies borne by some of the most eminent men of the Empire, the royal standard, by the Marquis of Landsdowne, the Union Standard by the Duke of Wellington, that of India by Lord Curzon, of Canada by the Earl of Aberdeen, and the only one stituted Union of South Africa by Lord Selbourne.

After them were the four Knights of the Garter, selected to bear the canopy at the King's anointing, Lords Cadogan, Rosebery, and Crowe, and the Earl of Minto, then came the Queen's regalia borne by nobles, and then the Queen herself, in her wonderful coronation gown, with the jewels of the Garter presented her by the Marys of the Empire.

Her long, purple train, embroidered in gold, was borne by six young women, daughters of earls. They carried a bouquet of pink carnations presented to her by the Gardiners Company, one of the ancient guilds of the city of London. The flowers known as "Lady Heliotrop," a purely English growth, were especially cultivated by gardeners all over the British Isles, those blossoms forming the bouquet selected by a committee of experts. The bouquet was offered to her Majesty in a beautiful silver basket of Jacobean design. The Queen was followed by mistresses of robes, the maids of bedchamber and the maids of honor.

After the cortege of the King and Queen came the Queen's regalia, carried by the highest nobles of the kingdom, attended by their pages. The Bible was borne by the Bishop of Ripon, the chalice by the Bishop of Winchester, the paten by the Bishop of London, St. Edward's crown by the Bishop of Northumberland, the orb by the Duke of Somerset, the sceptre by the Duke of Richmond and sword of state by Earl Beauchamp, the second sword by Earl Roberts, the third sword by Viscount Wiltshire, the golden spurs by the Earl of London and Lord Grey De Ruthen, the sceptre with cross, by the Duke of Argyll, and St. Edward's staff by the Duke of Roxburgh, attended by their pages, a retinue of high court officials, all in the first state costumes. The you King George, the undoubted King of this realm: Wherefore all of you have come this day to do your homage and service, are you willing to do the same?"

As the voice of the archbishop, strangely loud after the impressive silence that had fallen on the august assemblage, died away, the spell was broken by the blast of the trumpeters and a mighty chorus of "God Speed the King" fairly shook the great edifice. Cheers followed and escaping the walls of the Abbey, were re-echoed and re-echoed by the throng outside.

Then followed the various religious rites. Two bishops sang the Litany and the communion was recited. After a brief sermon, the King kissed the Bible and signed the oath, swearing to govern according to the laws of the land and to maintain the Protestant reformed religion, this latter declaration having recently been modified from the traditional records. The King was anointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor touched His Majesty's heels with the spurs, he was girded with the sword of state, invested with the Imperial orb and received the ring and sceptre. Reverently the Archbishop placed the crown upon the King's head. Again the trumpets sounded and once more the Abbey resounded with cheers and the cry "God Save the King."

Ascending the throne, the King received the homage of the Archbishop. Then the Prince of Wales, the Princes of Royal blood and peers, who touched the crown and kissed the monarch's cheek, the simple ceremony of crowning the Queen Consort followed.

The sacrament concluded the chief functions of the ceremony. The procession was then reformed for the return to Buckingham Palace.

group, as it moved slowly up the aisles, made an imposing spectacle.

After them walked the King in his crimson robe of state, the train borne by eight noblemen of high rank, the collar of the Garter around his neck and on his head the cap of state. Following him more court dignitaries and gentlemen-in-waiting completed the procession. Their Majesties passed their thrones and proceeded to the chairs of state, on the south side of the altar, where they knelt at the foot stools.

On the King's right stood the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Chamberlain, the Lord High Constable, the Earl Marshal and the Garter-arms, the noblemen bearing the swords of state, and on each side his Episcopal supporters. The dean of Westminster, wearing a cap of crimson, took his place on the south side of the altar. The Archbishop of Canterbury was on the north, beyond him the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of London, with twenty-one other bishops, all in consecration robes.

Rising, the King replaced the cap of state which he had removed, while kneeling. Then the service proper began. The ancient ceremony familiar for 1200 years, was performed with the same symbols and the recital, but little changed from the ancient scene.

Putting On the Crown. The Archbishop of Canterbury presented the King. Facing the four sides of the Abbey in succession he announced: "Sirs: I here present un-

GREAT GATHERING IN THE METROPOLITAN CHURCH

Ministerial Association Service Last Night Leads Off the Celebrations

What might be regarded as the official opening of the public celebration of the coronation was held in the Metropolitan Methodist church last night, when a special religious service of a dignified and appropriately loyal nature was given under the auspices of the Ministerial Association of Victoria.

The service, which was well attended considering the inclement nature of the weather, consisted of hymns, psalms and solos, interspersed with brief and interesting addresses bearing on the solemnity and auspicious nature of the occasion. The province was represented by His Honor the Lieut-Governor, and Lord Young, provincial secretary and acting premier, who, with Mrs. Paterson and Mrs. Young, occupied prominent seats in the auditorium; and the city was represented by Aldermen Bishop and Peden. The ministerial element of the city was well represented, the following gentlemen taking part in the evening's programme: Rev. W. Stevenson (chairman), Rev. J. B. Warnicker, Rev. A. N. Miller, Rev. T. A. MacConnell, Rev. T. E. Holling, Rev. Joseph McCoy, Rev. T. W. Gladstone and Rev. Dr. Reid.

In the course of a short address upon the coronation, Rev. T. E. Holling stated that they were gathered together upon an event was about to take place in another part of the Empire which would have a world-wide significance. In the metropolis of the British Empire a new King was being crowned. "The King is dead; long live the King." In the old days it was said with pride and apparent truth that "all roads lead to Rome," but it could be said to-day with certainty no less truth that all roads led to London. Princes and Kings and Emperors of other lands were there to do honor and make obeisance to King George and his Queen Consort. Political differences, national and international, were forgotten for the nonce and everyone and everything conspired to make the ceremony not only one for the preservation and harmonious living of the world, but one of such spectacular attractions as would live long in history and in memory. One feature of the coronation which he desired to particularly emphasize was the presence of the representative heads of the overseas dominions. These representatives, though probably few in number, typified the vast realm of the Empire beyond the seas, which had just acknowledged time and again as the bulwark of Great Britain's greatness. Associating religion with patriotism for a moment, he said that if their patriotism was to be of the highest order it must be religious, and if their religion was to be an elevating influence at all it must be patriotic.

What the kingship stands for was briefly dealt with by Rev. Joseph McCoy. He claimed that King George represented the people, although there were some people who asserted that he represented merely a class. He contended that the King represented the people in the broadest sense of the word; that is, that he represented all classes.

The liturgical prayer was offered by Rev. T. W. Gladstone, after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Reid.

Prior to the opening of the service an organ recital was given by E. Parsons. The programme opened with German's Coronation March and concluded with the andantino in B-flat of E. Lameré.

The interior of the church was suitably decorated in purple and gold, and mental crowns, fronting the pulpit from which the lessons were read.

W. C. T. U. OFFICERS. Convention Adjourned Over To-day and Concludes To-morrow.

The election of officers of the British Columbia W. C. T. U. was the principal business of the afternoon. The results of these were announced in the afternoon and are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. MacNaughton; president, Mrs. Spofford (unanimously re-elected); vice-president, Mrs. M. A. Cunningham, New Westminster; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Livingston; recording secretary, Mrs. Graves. The election of a treasurer was deferred until to-morrow.

The morning session was devoted to the continuation of the reports of superintendents. Miss Gilchrist reported on the increasing use of unfettered wine. Mrs. Thompson gave an interesting account of the work done to further moral education. Mrs. Pichard advocated the adoption of garber meetings. Extra reports were given by Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Ker-shishian, an Armenian delegate from Foster Gray, and Mrs. Ireland, Nelson. Mrs. Wellwood's report on the local mission was read by Mrs. Lashley Hill, who also preached the convention sermon. She chose for her text "Do all Glory to God."

In the afternoon reports were received from Mrs. Fitch, Vancouver, who was in favor of public meetings to spread the fight against intemperance and Mrs. Frank Vancouver, who read an account of the work done by the mission there in charge of Mrs. Flett. The meeting closed with a solo by Miss Dilworth.

RUPERT READY FOR SERVICE BY JULY 2

Repairs Will Be Completed at Seattle by That Time—Prince George Leaves for the North

After inspecting the steamer Prince Rupert, which is now undergoing repairs at Fox's boiler works, Seattle, Capt. C. H. Nicholson, superintendent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Company, arrived in Victoria this morning from the Sound on the Prince George. When asked as to when the steamer would again be ready for service, Capt. Nicholson stated that she would be leaving this port on July 2. She has had a lengthy lie-up, having been off the run for the past two weeks and it will require another ten days before the repairs are completed.

When the Prince Rupert again goes into service she will run right through to Stewart, making semi-weekly calls with the Prince George. At the early part of the season when the steamers began running on their summer schedules the Rupert was sent to Stewart, but owing to the defects in her boilers was unable to maintain the speed required.

The Prince George, Capt. Robertson, left port this morning at 10 o'clock for Prince Rupert and Stewart with a big cargo of freight. Among her passengers were: C. C. Johns, T. C. Johns and J. J. Harlow, for Prince Rupert, and Henri Marchand, Georges Dimpault, who will be guests of the French consul, Mr. Frances, on a trip to Stewart.

SUBMIT REPORT ON WATER SUPPLY

Proposed Hydro-Electric Power and Gravity Systems for Kamloops

Kamloops, June 21.—At the last meeting of the city council H. K. Dutcher, the engineer engaged to make a preliminary report on the water system, submitted his report and was requested to explain some points of his investigations more fully. His report was in part as follows:

"I beg to inform you that I have about completed the examinations of the different streams and lakes in the vicinity of Kamloops and while I shall hand you at a later date a more complete report with reference to the results of the examination made, I beg to say that I have decided that a gravity water supply system and hydro-electric power may both be secured from Paul lake and creek. I would, therefore, ask that you take immediate steps towards filing applications to both the federal and provincial governments for the necessary rights and privileges for the proposed developments. I have handed your city clerk the necessary forms of water right to be posted up and copies filed, and these provide for a record of 50 cubic feet per second direct from Paul lake to be obtained by a storage of the overflow, the water to be returned to Paul creek at a point about 2 1/2 miles below the lake, where it may be delivered to the reservation and the Western Canada Ranching company in proportion of their present records, giving a difference of elevation of about 420 feet, which at 20 feet per second will give about 1200 horse power, and one-third of this—or more than you are using at present—by a flow of 10 cubic feet per second.

"A record of 5 cubic feet per second to be obtained direct from Paul lake for domestic water supply to be delivered by pipe to Kamloops. This is nearly three times the quantity you are using at present.

"When you have my report you will clearly follow the reasons why I consider both projects not only entirely feasible but of sufficiently low capital cost for construction as to enable you to reduce your rates for water and light to a very appreciable extent. You will also understand that the power development will not interfere with either the records held by the ranching company or the rights of the Indians as you return the water to the points where they take it from now in accordance with the records filed in the government office. In fact the construction of a higher dam for storage and the development of electric power should be regarded by the ranching company as a further advantage to their interests and they would probably be willing to combine with the city toward furthering this project.

"With regard to water supply, the amount of water required is so small and the importance of a gravity system so great that there should be no difficulty in having this record granted."

In addressing the council on the matter, Mr. Dutcher pointed out some of the advantages that Paul lake held over other possible sources. The cost of construction could be very great, but the descent was gradual, there was very little clearing to be done and cost of maintenance would be reduced to the minimum. On the other hand the cost of a transmission line such as from the Barrier river would probably be $1,000 per mile and the cost of maintenance prohibitive. He estimated the cost roughly at $150,000, which included $60,000 for the gravity system.

A motion that the report be received and filed—and the recommendations be carried out was made and carried.

BIG-TIMBER DEAL

Large Limits on Shuswap and Arrow Lakes being Sold to Coast Parties.

Nelson, June 21.—A big deal involving timber limits on the Arrow and Shuswap lakes is pending, and according to word received here the papers are on the point of being signed. The limits comprise 37 square miles on Shuswap lake and four square miles on Arrow creek, a tributary of Cariboo creek, which flows into Arrow lake near Burton City. In all the estimates, at a conservative estimate, 425,000,000 feet of standing timber. The heaviest interest in the syndicate owning these limits is held by Walter Scott of Nakusp, the other members of the syndicate being J. Gibbons and A. Symons, both of St. Leon. The limits are being purchased by parties at the coast.

WILL BUILD CHURCH

South Fort George, June 21.—Rev. C. M. Wright of the Presbyterian church on the Nechaen River townsite, has formulated plans for the erection of a place of worship in South Fort George, which is to have a seating capacity of 200 or more. The church will, as far as possible, be open for the use of all denominations. For every dollar, up to $1000 contributed by the people of South Fort George toward the erection and equipment of a church this summer, the board will contribute a dollar. The main auditorium will have a seating capacity for about 100 and by installing additional seats can be made to hold 200 in all. There will be a small vestry and a hall to be used for Sunday school, social gatherings and later as a public reading room. The building will cost about $2000, and necessary equipment (including light, heat, and organ, etc.) about $500.

BOY SCOUTS FIND BABY

Vancouver, June 21.—Through the assistance of the Tuden-Powell Boy Scouts, the three-year-old child of Alderman James Ramsay, which had strayed away from the alderman's home on Burnaby street, was discovered after a three-hour search the other evening. The baby was first missed about 7 o'clock in the afternoon and the services of the Scouts secured. It did not take them long to find the child, but they had to scour the whole west end before they did so.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings. "I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness was a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long afflicted and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cure that I shall never on any account be without them."

CONCILIATION BOARD TAKING EVIDENCE

Hears Operators and Miners in the Crow's Nest Pass

Fernie, June 21.—The conciliation board has continued its session by the Pass towns last week, visiting the various collieries. The chief man is evidently expediting the work as fast as possible, but under the most favorable circumstances it is not to be expected that the board will conclude its work for some weeks. If each individual mine affected thereon is taken to properly judge the relative merits of the claims of the opposing parties, the conciliation board has a great deal of labor ahead of it still.

There is no doubt that the award of the body is being awaited with great interest and its pronouncement will be the beginning of some movement to effect a re-opening of the collieries in District 18. At Michel Charles Garner, international board member for district 18, and late secretary of the Michel local union gave evidence. He underwent a close cross-examination at the hands of the operators, but gave statements proved in the matter. Garner's evidence to the board was unimpeachable. As proved in the matter, Garner's evidence to the board was unimpeachable. As proved in the matter, Garner's evidence to the board was unimpeachable.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Vancouver, June 21.—Asked if the committee on the commission form of government were able to submit a report to the council, Alderman Stevens, as chairman of the committee, replied in the negative.

"There is a great deal of needless alarm and unfair criticism," said Alderman Stevens. "At the last election the people voted for a commission form of government and gave a mandate to the council to go ahead and make necessary provisions. It is very rarely known that nothing legally or actually can be done until after the sitting of the next provincial legislature. The charter amendments will be prepared as soon as possible."

SAVED BY HIS HORSE

Fernie, June 21.—The other evening as one of the dairymen was riding through the city park in search of a lost cow, he attempted to cross the branch that is now flooding between the island and the main part of the park. The current carried the horse and man, and he was swept up on a gravel bank, over which about 18 inches of water was running. They were about two rods from the shore on either side, and it was hopeless to try and swim the intervening distance. The horse showed some intelligence by screaming with all his might and some men who were in the park heard the noise and hurried to the bank where, with the aid of a rope and a long ladder, they hauled horse and man to terra firma.

REDUCES BRIGADE

Roseland, June 21.—Dan McDonald, assistant fire chief here, has gone to take up a similar position at Prince Rupert. He has been a member of the department for 34 years. The city council has decided to dispense with one fireman as his place will not be filled and the fire chief has been instructed that no promotions are to be made and no increases of salary will be granted.

WILL CONTINUE TO DRAW PAY

Roseland, June 21.—Accused by the fact that the city's finances are not in a very satisfactory position Alderman Tanner moved at the last meeting of the council that the mayor and council donate their pay to the city after July 1. The motion was defeated by 4 to 2.

SHINGLE MILL DESTROYED

New Westminster, June 21.—The Port Moody shingle mill, belonging to Jack Maclean and others, has been destroyed by fire. The main mill is a total loss, but the dry kiln was saved. The loss is estimated at $20,000. It is partially covered by insurance. The fire occurred about 3 a.m. and was first observed in the boiler room, but nothing definite has yet been discovered as to its origin.

FOUGHT DUEL OVER LOAN

A duel was fought recently outside Berlin between two officers, Baron Oswald von Richthofen and Herr von Gaffron. At the second exchange of shots Herr von Gaffron fell mortally wounded in the chest, and died a few hours later. The quarrel arose out of a loan by Herr von Gaffron of $500 to Baron von Richthofen, who is 25 years of age, while Herr von Gaffron was 51. Baron von Richthofen gave a note for $1000. Herr von Gaffron declared that this was merely for form's sake, but the story got abroad, and Herr von Gaffron found himself boycotted. As a result he struck Baron von Richthofen in a restaurant. The conditions of the duel were unusually severe, being pistols at fifteen paces, the exchange of shots to continue till one of the duellists was put out of action.

Sober second thought may not show up until the morning after.

By Ruth Cameron

Now that the time for outdoor life has come around again I want to pass on a warning which came to me last summer too late to use.

"Please tell your girls," urged
my correspondent,
"what an awful
time one reader
had with her eyes
because she read
a few hours on the water. The eyes were terribly
swollen and I lay
it wholly to that."
One cannot be too careful of the strain upon the eyes which the strong light from
I myself know of a girl who, some years ago, when the mania for getting tanned and burned was at its height, lay flat on her back on the deck of a sailboat in the blazing sun for several hours to "get a good burn." She got the burn, but alas, not only on her face but also in her eyes. They were so badly bloodshot that she was a sight for days. Moreover, they were permanently weakened and so predisposed to burn that she cannot go out on the water—at all—without making them bloodshot.

Remember the next few months
what delicate, complicated and altogether wonderful affairs those eyes of yours are. Be careful to shade them well and be especially careful not to use them in too bright a light. That is quite as much a strain as the insufficient light.

"May I sit here?"
What a pleasant, gracious little touch the use of that phrase is.
You are in a railway compartment and have half of a double seat.
A woman wants the other half of the seat and instead of simply taking possession unannounced, prefaces her entrance by a "May I sit here?" and a pleasant smile.
Of course it is only a formality. Of course you couldn't answer any other way than in the affirmative. Of course it's unnecessary. But don't you think it's pleasant?
I do.

It seems to me just one of those gracious little habits that are the hall-mark of the true lady—not necessary, but very nice.
A man whom I know who is very anxious to breed habits of saving in his children, has adopted this method.
Perhaps it will appeal to other fathers.

As each child begins to earn his own bread and butter the father takes out for him a twenty-year endowment policy for $1,000. This, he tells his son or daughter, he will pay for three years. At the end of that time he is going to turn the policy over to its owner, who can either redeem it for three-twentieths of its face value or keep on paying it.
He has six children. Four of them have received their policies and not one has chosen to take the money out.
Two have the policies already paid up and ready for a rainy day, and not only that, but have kept on saving on their own accounts.
Doesn't that sound like a pretty good method?

Ruth Cameron THE LOVE LETTER

"My heart was lost or stolen—scarce it strayed—
One night this summer in our valley
blest,
A village youth wrote to a village maid,
His love for whom he'd not as yet confessed.

"I've searched the stile, where many a time we've stood,
Whose time-worn steps the neighboring farmers serve;
The flower-fringed paths within the fragrant wood,
That 'twixt the nodding trees and bushes curve.

"I've searched the bower with leafy creepers spun,
Whose rustic seat soft mossy cushions
strew,
That seat of size a little large for one,
Though large enough—yet scarcely so—for two.

"Here, oft in twilight's shadowy hour of dreams,
Many's the happy time with thee I've spent;
Here, oft the moon's perchance prophetic beams
Our shadows into one have silent bent.

"And can it be that thou, with face so fair,
From off whose cheek the mantling blush scarce clears,
My heart did'st steal, while we were sitting there?
Alas! Alas! to me it so appears.

"Ah! child, not these suspicions of my soul,
But if two hearts—thou findest in thy breast,
Then give me one—nay, not the one you stole—
The other would I crave—'tis love's request."
BUDLEY H. ANDERSON,
Victoria, B. C., June, 1911.

Johnny—"Papa, would you be glad if I saved a dollar for you?"
Papa—"Certainly, my son."
Johnny—"Well, I saved it for you, all right. You said if I brought a first-class report from my teacher this week you would give me a dollar, and I didn't bring it."

GOING TO CORONATION.

In 1859,
And when we got to town, quite tired,
The bells all rung, the guns they fired,
The people looking all bemired,
In one conglomeration,
Soldiers red, policemen blue,
Horse-guards, foot-guards, and black-guards, too,
Beef-eaters, Dukes and Lord knows who,
To see the coronation.

While Dolly bridled up, so proud,
At us the people laughed aloud;
Dobbin stood in thickest crowd,
"Wi' quiet resignation."
To move again he wasn't inclined;
"Here's a chap," says one behind,
"He's brought an old horse, lame and blind."
To see the coronation.

Dolly cried, "Oh! dear, Oh! dear,
I wish I never had come here,
To suffer every jibe and jeer,
In such a situation."
While so busy, she and I
To get a little ease did try.
By gosh! the King and Queen went by,
And all the coronation.

I struggled hard, and Dolly cried;
And tho' to help myself I tried,
We both were carried with the tide,
Against our inclination.
"The reign's begun," folks cried, "is true;
"Sure," said Dolly, "I think so, too;
The rain's begun, for I'm wet thro'."
All through the coronation.

We bade good-bye to Lunnon town,
The King and Queen they gain'd a crown,
Dolly spoilt her bran-new gown,
To her mortification,
I'll drink our King and Queen wi' gladness,
In home-brewed ale, and so will she;
But Dolly and I never want to see Another coronation.

THE DAINTY AND FASHIONABLE FICHU

The fichu effect is always extremely dainty for summer wear, and is this season one of the favorite modes with the French designers. The attractive design illustrated in the sketch is of lavender linen with tiny white em-brothered dots and insertions of cluny lace. The waist line is slightly raised, and the bodice and sleeves are made entirely of linen and lace insertions.
The sleeves are finished with deep cuffs of plain linen with lace frills falling over the arm. The fichu is of considered null edged with lace matching the sleeve frills. The bottom of skirt is faced with a shaped band of lavender linen and trimmed with linen buttons and cord loops.

"Here's a nickel," said a thrifty housewife to a tramp at her door. "Now what are you going to do with it?"
"Well, mum," replied the hungry man,
"I'll buy a touring car. I shan't have enough left to pay for my chauffeur; if I purchased a steam yacht there won't be enough left to defray the cost of maintaining; so I guess, mum, I'll get a schooner and handle it myself."

Like many expensive things, the keeps each plume separate from the others, and prevents it from being shaken about and the delicate little feathers broken. This holder consists of a flat box with a hinged end that lets

INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL COUNCIL

CROWNING EVENT IN LIFE OF GEN. BOOTH

Salvation Army Officers From Ten Nations Foregather in London

Unacquainted by kings and princes, potentates or plenipotentiaries, unheralded by the cable and unknown to that loosely defined but rigid circle known as London society, there has been in session in London simultaneously with the Imperial conference, of whose doing much have been heard, another conference which has even larger aims and is world-wide in its scope and objects. It asserts its jurisdiction over not only the British Empire but the whole wide world.

It is called the International Social Council and it has been held under the auspices of the Salvation Army—the first world council concerned with social apart from distinctly religious effort that that organization has had—the most remarkable thing of its kind in history.

It is proclaimed in martial parlance as the "crowning event" in General Booth's life before he "goes Home." It is the social redemption side of the spiritual salvation scheme. It is to provide the way out not only for darkest England, but for the dark places of five continents, including Canada.

That the movement has its romantic side may be taken for granted. Does not the Salvation Army revel in romance? The Clayton Congress, as it is called, is the outcome of one of the world's great epic romances and that quite apart from the question of whether social redemption should be regarded as an end in itself or merely as a means to an end.

As some indication of achievement the following list of countries from which the 200 representative "officers" have been drawn is of interest:

In Europe—Great Britain, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Holland, Norway, Russia, Sweden, Switzerland.

In Asia—India, Japan, Korea, Dutch Indies.

In Africa—The South African Union, In America—Canada, United States, West Indies.

In Australasia—Australia, New Zealand.

These representatives are not professors of social science, and some of their theories may possibly be crude, but they can boast themselves practical workmen and workwomen in their several spheres of social endeavor. That is why the council is called the most remarkable of its kind in history.

As the deliberations have been private it is necessary to wait until the publication of the official report, in book form before drawing conclusions or passing criticisms; but to mix with the officers from foreign lands even for a few hours has been found an interesting experience. They are hard-headed men and women of proved organizing ability rather than missionaries or revivalists.

Colonel Hopkins, the secretary in charge of social work in Australia, for example, brought out unconsciously in a few minutes' chat one of the vital differences between the conditions of work here and in the Southern Continent.

"Our people's palaces," he said, "are rolling fine. We started the Sydney palace as an 'elevator' with three penny heels—413 of them—but now it's what you would call a temperance hotel, with beds up to a shilling. The new elevator accommodates 413."

The transformation of a doss-house for the submerged into a "palace" for the clerk or artisan seemed the most natural thing in the world to him. It was merely a matter of convenience. The public were eager to patronize institutions under the wing of the Salvation Army, and nobody felt in the least degraded by doing so.

These people's palaces are springing up in all the great cities—at Perth, Brisbane, Melbourne, Ballarat, Adelaide, and elsewhere—and are as frankly socialist in atmosphere as the Rowton Houses.

In most regions, nevertheless, the work of the army is still done among the dregs of society. A remarkable story of such labors among the criminal tribes of India—communities of thieves by caste and profession—was told by Colonel Souton. Two and a half years ago the army opened an industrial settlement at Gorakhpur, in the United Provinces, for between 200 and 300 of these caste thieves, and so striking was its success that to-day, by request of the government, it has assumed the control in various parts of the country of more than 4,000 hereditary professional criminals.

"Human nature is very much the same there as here," said Colonel Souton. "We try to make these people realize that we are disinterested friends. The rest is comparatively simple."

Six new settlements have been planned, but the magnitude of the task may be judged from the fact that there are still a million caste thieves in the Indian Empire.

From thieves by caste to children in crèches. But the crèches had, at any rate, the advantage of being in Germany, and the officer was a German lady—Major Catherine Bismeyer, a quiet little woman with a broad white brow, who, thirteen years ago, started the first Salvation Army social centre in Germany, at Berlin-Friedenau.

One of the curious subjects she dwelt upon was the enthusiasm of well-to-do people in Berlin for Salvation Army workers as private nurses.

"They come to us," she said, "and say: 'We will have no other nurse; we will pay you; you are so kind.' That is, of course, a financial help; but when only ten workers are available, and five of these are always

SAVED ONLY BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Clanbrasse, Ont. "Two years ago, the doctor made forty-four calls on me, and then said he had done all he could for me. I was suffering with intense Kidney Trouble and Inflammation had set in. Two other doctors were consulted, but agreed that nothing could be done to help me.

On the recommendation of a neighbor, I took "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me. To-day, I take "Fruit-a-tives" as my only medicine. I am in excellent health, and "Fruit-a-tives" is the medicine that cured me after I had been at Death's Door for months. I am glad to be able to give you this testimonial. It may benefit some other woman suffering as I suffered, as I believe that I would not be alive to-day had I not used "Fruit-a-tives."

"slumming." It is sometime a little embarrassing as well. Switzerland's attitude of welcome is even more striking, because official. Of the seventeen cantons in which work is carried on, so Brigadier Von Tavel said, thirteen contribute to the funds, and the police throughout the country have come to regard the army as one of the most valuable aids to social order. Particularly successful seem to have been the rescue homes for women at Zurich, Basel, and other places.

"A poor girl who had been forty-five times in prison has now for five years been a servant in a rich family," said the brigadier, telling one of those little stories which most Salvation Army officers brighten their conversation.

Nothing is so wearing as an effort to get along with people who grate on your nerves.

Cod Liver Oil With the Oil Taken Out

A Triumph for Chemical Science and Pharmaceutical Skill

Oil from the liver of the cod-fish has been used as a preventative of disease and a restorative for ages.

For a long time it has been the general opinion that the medicinal value of Cod Liver Oil was the greasy, oily part itself—its only drawback being the unpalatable, fishy taste of the oil.

From the first experts have been trying to find means to make it more palatable. They used to "cut" it with whisky—take it in wine—flavor it with lemon juice—anything to get away from that abominable fishy taste and smell.

Lots of people still take it in Emulsion form, which is nothing more than "churned" oil—broken up—but still greasy, oily and a strain on the digestion.

Doctors used to think it was the oil itself that built up the system—they were slow to find out that the oil was a distinct drawback to the medicinal principles contained in it.

Crude oil is quite indigestible, and will, in time, put the strongest stomach out of order.

A way has now been discovered to do away with the grease and the smell, and retain all the medicinal properties of the liver. This is done by removing the fresh oil from the new livers. The liver pulp is then reduced to the form of an extract like beef extract.

Nyal's Cod Liver Compound is simply this liver extract combined with an extract of malt and healing wild cherry. It also contains the true hypophosphites.

This combination makes Nyal's Cod Liver Compound a delicious tonic—builds up the system, and makes you strong.

Take it when you feel yourself losing your grip. It's a pleasure to take—even the children like it.

Get a bottle to-day and ward off disease. $1.00 for a large bottle. Your druggist will cheerfully recommend it because he knows all about it.

BIRDMAN'S NERVOUS FRIGHT.

Lost Control of Aeroplane and Dropped to Sudden Death.

Vivid insight into the perils and technical complications of flying was afforded at the Inquest at the Hendon Sick hospital recently into the terrible death of a pupil at the London Aerodrome.

The suggestion was made that Mr. Bernard Benson, a man of twenty-one, of Netherhall Gardens, Hampstead, undertook a flight which, as a pupil, he ought not to have essayed. The theory was put forward that rashly reaching a 200 feet altitude he became confused or stricken by panic and neglected, with disastrous results, to attend to all the points of the machine in a volplane descent, the end of which was disaster.

The jury, conducted to the flying ground, had a view of the aeroplane which Mr. Benson was using when he met his death. They were also shown at the aerodrome a full-size, complete Valkyrie monoplane, similar to the one used by Mr. Benson.

Mr. Barber, the managing director of the London Aeronautical Syndicate, whose pupil Mr. Benson was, explained to the court that he was the inventor of the Valkyrie machine, and Mr. Benson's monoplane was about six weeks old. Mr. Benson had previously only flown at a height of from 15 feet to 20 feet.

Mr. Benson, he went on, had been a pupil for about five months, but could only come to practice on "occasional week-ends. He was a slow flyer, but sure and steady. He did not expect him to go ore than a height of 30 feet, and everyone was surprised when he went up so high. Mr. Barber added that he was afraid of Mr. Benson's descent from that height. After he had gone two circuits Mr. Benson apparently stopped his engine to make a volplane to the ground.

He had been much cheered as he made two circuits at a height of 200 feet, and when the aviator made a signal the witness thought it was in response to the applause. Describing the accident, Mr. Barber said the descent was very shaky, and when about forty feet from the ground the machine turned right out of control. "The machine immediately struck the ground," he continued, "and I ran towards the wreck. There was nothing lying on Mr. Benson, but his head must have struck the ground, as I took a stone out of his mouth."

The coroner: What do you attribute the accident to?
Mr. Barber: I think that he was embodied by the ease with which he was flying to go higher than a beginner should. I think he then became panic-stricken by his height. I know from my own experience and that of others that your first 200 feet seems to be about 1,000 feet. When I did my first 200 feet I had a moment of fear, and got down as soon as I could. If Mr. Benson had followed instructions he would have cut off his engine a little and come down gradually.

Dr. Hopkins, medical officer of the asylum, described the terrible injuries sustained by Mr. Benson, and said that death was due to shock, caused by the internal injuries. A " verdict of "Death by misadventure" was returned.

FEWER STUDENTS

FOR MINISTRY

General Assembly Discusses Stipends of Ministers and Cognate Subjects

The dearth of students studying for the ministry was the basis of considerable discussion at the Presbyterian general assembly at Ottawa. The inadequate stipend was given as one of the main reasons and also for ministers leaving the profession.

After nine years as secretary of the western department of home mission work, Rev. Dr. E. D. McLaren announced his retirement to assume the position of general manager of an educational institution in British Columbia. He stated that the heavy nervous strain which the duties involved had so worn on him as to make it absolutely imperative that he should resign. He has been in the work for thirteen years. In handing in his resignation he pointed out that many of the ideas which he had cherished he had never had an opportunity of putting into effect because of the great amount of detail he had to attend to. He urged that the duties of the office be so arranged for his successor that he be given more opportunity to devote to the larger matters in connection with the evangelization of the West.

The resignation was accepted after many regrets had been expressed. A special committee will report as to a successor.

Rev. Dr. John Neil, of Toronto, said that had the home mission committee known a few years ago how much work Dr. McLaren was really called upon to do they would have made many big changes. They found out too late. The committee has done everything possible now in the way of offering other arrangements to induce Dr. McLaren to remain, but without avail. Dr. McLaren was made honorary convener of the home mission committee, and the assembly voted that his salary continue to March, 1912, since he had performed many duties not within his work for which he had received no remuneration.

Edward Brown, Winnipeg, said that to a large extent the organization of the church was antiquated and secretaries were deluged with a lot of details which they should not be called upon to deal with. In any business concern the heads were left to deal with large questions only and were given a free hand to develop any initiative in them. The church restricted Dr. McLaren too much and had really driven him from the position by overwork.

Owing to being away in connection with the negotiations for the settlement of the strike at Crow's Nest Pass, Rev. Dr. Gordon, of Winnipeg, was not on hand to present the report on ministerial supply. It was read by Rev. Dr. J. W. MacMillan, of Halifax. While there are many young men going in for the ministry he said there will not be nearly enough to supply the demand for the next few years on account of the rapid growth of the country. The committee had written various sources of information to ascertain the reason why more young men were not entering the profession. Among the answers the insufficient stipend was one of the main reasons advanced. An apparent decline in the status of a minister in his locality, and the lack of family influence, "mothers praying their sons into the ministry," were other reasons. In the opinion of Dr. MacMillan too much emphasis was laid on the teaching of dead languages, particularly Hebrew and Greek, which should not be made compulsory subjects in the theological course. Most students on graduating had only a smattering of these languages, and that after much uninteresting drudgery. It was time lost. It had been proven from the statements of many prominent educators that other languages and studies could develop the intellect as well as these "dead languages."

"It is of the first importance that the standard of education should be a high one. So far from entertaining any thought of lowering it, we desire to lift it to a higher plane alike of culture and efficiency.

"The main object of a college training should be to fit the majority of students for practical efficiency. A certain number should be prepared for the work of scholarly investigation, but the great majority should be made trained speakers, teachers, pastors, and moral and religious leaders.

"While it is doubtful whether we are in a position to replace Hebrew and Greek immediately as cultural disciplines, there is no doubt that they can be replaced by an optional English course, in which these subjects shall not be required, should also be instituted.

"The English Bible should be taught very thoroughly.

"The principles and methods of modern social service should be taught, viz., criminology, relief, social control of the child; treatment of defective, conservative of human life and health, the peculiar problems of urban and rural life, etc. The student should be trained under a professor in practical religious activities. The churches, charities, public institutions, etc., of the neighborhood might be utilized as social laboratories.

"The student should be carefully trained, both physically and mentally.

"Some system of rotations or honors courses should be introduced with the regular theological course to allow of specialization and stimulate higher scholarship.

"No unearned financial aid should be allowed beyond what students for other professions receive. The payment for services in the home mission field, and, perhaps, from congregations benefited by the employment of students under a professor in practical religious activities should be such as to obviate the need of gifts.

"There should be, in view of the rapid expansion of the church's field of operations, a special, temporary, emergency course, with full ordination given after a period of successful probation in the pastorate.

"Thirty-five men have left the ministry of the Presbyterian church in Canada in the last five years for financial

LEPROSY IN GARMENTS.

Girl Infected From Wig Worn for Dress in Character Ball.
What dire results may arise from wearing clothing or wigs that have come from goodness knows where, and have been grizzly shown by the experience of a North London girl, who after attending a fancy dress ball in the character of a Chinese lady found she had contracted leprosy, the cause of contagion being the wig she wore.

The ball took place in the winter, and the girl's make-up was voted excellent, the wig being particularly admired. There was nothing strange in its truth to nature, for it came from the East. A few days ago the girl consulted her doctor concerning a strange mark which had appeared on her forehead. The medical man diagnosed it as eczema, and treated her accordingly. It disappeared; rather did it grow larger, and the doctor called in a specialist. It did not take the latter very long to discover that what the girl was suffering from was leprosy, and arrangements were at once made for her removal to a leper colony.

Every effort is being made to discover who may have worn the wig previously to this unlucky girl, for there is the possibility it may have infected others with the terrible disease. Efforts are also being made to trace all those who came into contact with the girl at or since the ball, with a view to keeping them under strict observation and preventing the disease from spreading.

Care is said to have killed a cat, but there is a lot of care and a lot of cats that fail to get together.

DECORATIONS ARE MOST EFFECTIVE

Tastefulness Marks the General Scheme on Public and Private Buildings

The street decorations, though not lavish or overdone, are tastefully executed, and where the private individual had displayed the necessary enterprise to adorn his own premises the effect, in comparison with the general scheme, proved most attractive and satisfying to the eye.

Of course Government street and the Causeway loomed large in the decorative scheme. The floral arches of attractive design filled the eye and the delicate traceries of filmy bunting lent a pleasing color to the scene.

Coming further north one was struck with the tasteful appearance of the various banking establishments. The entrance to the Royal Bank of Canada was decorated with an artistic arrangement of flags and wreaths.

Most of the shops on the street, whose commodities could be demonstrated in colors were made to do so, and the result of the many efforts at decoration in this fashion is most diverting as well as most praiseworthy.

Branching off the main thoroughfare on to Post street one is struck by the fine decorative displays on the Pemberton and Times blocks, as well as most of the other business houses in the locality.

At the city hall, which is always well decorated on occasions such as this, flags of large dimensions have been strung about the building and broom and bunting gives a most beautiful effect.

OFFICIAL CEREMONY IN PARLIAMENT SQUARE

Troops, Navy, Cadets and Scouts Salute the Flag—Rainbow Fires Salvo

The official ceremonies of the province of British Columbia was held at noon amid a scene of pomp and circumstance that vied in a miniature fashion with the original act in London to-day.

In due time the troops arrived on the scene and formed a large square facing the entrance to the buildings. On the steps leading to the legislative chambers were gathered all the leading officials, naval and military, civic and provincial, and many leading citizens with their wives.

The square formation on the lawn consisted of the Fifth Regiment, the Marines, sailors from the Rainbow, and the Boy Scouts.

Paterson then were on the steps of the Parliament buildings Acting Premier Young, Hon. W. R. Ross, ex-Governor Dewdney, Col. Wadmore, D.O.C., Senator Macdonald, Commander Stewart, Commander Vivian, Very Rev. Dean Doull, Col. E. G. Prior, Mr. Justice Irving and Mrs. Irving, Mayor Planta, Nanaimo, and Mrs. Planta, Mayor Morley, Carl Lowenberg, German consul, A. E. Smith, American consul, G. H. Barnard, M.P.; Capt. C. Phillips, Major Wilson, Hon. A. E. McPhillips, Ald. Bishop, H. G. Wainwright, president of the board of trade; Ald. Clayton, Prince Rupert; Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries D. N. McIntyre and Mrs. McIntyre, Capt. J. M. Drake and officers of the ships now in Esquimalt harbor.

The function was patriotic in the extreme and signified to the mind many other things than the crowning of the King. Ald. Clayton, of Prince Rupert, remarked that such an imposing demonstration shattered all ideas of annexation, and many other similarly loyal and British sentiments were heard expressed.

A rather amusing incident occurred during the short term of the ceremony. After the National Anthem had been played the order was given for the playing of "O Canada." The call came back to the effect that there was no music, and consequently the Canadian song could not be given.

Portland, Ore., June 22.—Mrs. A. B. Poynter, who recently came here from Denver, committed suicide by drowning herself in a bath tub. She left notes to her husband and sons, saying that ill-health caused her to take her life. She was 60 years old.

Quebec, June 22.—Two sons of Theophile Desjardins, guardian of the lighthouse at Sept Iles, aged 20 and 18, were accidentally drowned in a deep well here.

The man, apparently unprovoked, watched the scene in silence, but later, was astonished to find that the captain of the Corinthia would permit him to continue the voyage, but ordered him ashore.

SCHOOL CHILDREN REVIEWED IN PARK

Lieutenant-Governor and Minister of Education Present—Choruses Rendered

Probably nowhere in the city was the spirit of festivity and loyalty attendant on this great holiday more completely manifested, or more heartily indulged than among the school children, who assembled in joyful and reverent concourse this morning to honor the occasion.

When they arrived there the lieutenant-governor and party had taken their places in the stand, and to the strains of the National Anthem and Maple Leaf, hundreds of little girls of the primary classes who headed the parade filed in.

When the boys came in the singing began with Conductor Pollard leading. The effect of the singing was to a large extent lost, owing partly to the band which drowned the voices of the children, and partly to the fact that the children themselves failed to sing out as well as they might have done.

After the singing of the coronation hymn, delegates from the various schools presented boxes of contributions to the fund to establish a children's home and hospital. These were received by Mrs. Paterson.

Capt. Clive Phillips-Wolley, author of the new coronation hymn, then moved the resolution to found a branch of the Children of Empire. In seconding this resolution Hon. Dr. Young read a message of greeting from the children of London, assembled in the Guild Hall.

Hon. Dr. Young, minister of education, last night received the following cable message from Walter H. Key, secretary of the committee of the Imperial School Children's League: "The school children of London assembled in the Guild Hall, the Lord Mayor presiding, to do honor to King George and Queen Mary at their coronation greet the children of the province of British Columbia in love and loyalty."

VANCOUVER WON

In a game full of thrilling incidents Vancouver slipped another one over on Victoria this morning, 2 to 1. Victoria has made many unfortunate errors, but never was one so unlucky as that made by McMurdo in the seventh inning, when by dropping Kellar's throw he gave Bennett a life and presented the game to the Beavers. The Islanders were in the lead with one run up to that time and, with Starkell pitching a beautiful ball, would most certainly have won but for that one bungle.

When President Taft was seven years old his mother bought him a pair of short duck trousers. The first time they were washed they shrank badly. The boy was fat, but his mother wedged him into the trousers against his protest. It was not to play, but in a few minutes returned. "Mamma," he said, "I can't wear these pants; they are too tight. Why, mamma, they are tighter than my skin."

Of 19 deaths certified by the English Local Government Board returns to starvation, or causes to which starvation was contributory, fifty-four occurred in the county of London. The striking fact appears to be that in eighty-seven of 246 cases no application had been made for poor law relief or application was only made when the person was in a dying condition. In three cases the people were in receipt of outdoor relief at the time they were represented at the funerals.

PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN.

Winnipeg, June 21.—At the annual meeting of the Temperance and Moral Reform committee yesterday, Principal Patrick and W. W. Buchanan, the secretary, strongly urged the formation of a third party in Manitoba pledged to prohibition. Failing this they advocated direct legislation and the pledging of candidates to its support. No decision was reached.
Silence is often the strongest protest that can be offered.

CELEBRATE CORONATION DAY.

British Subjects in New York Honor the Occasion.
New York, June 22.—British subjects in New York City began early to-day to observe the coronation day. All the British shipping in the harbor was decorated in gala dress of bunting and flags, while on land many hotels and residences unfurled the Union Jack with the Stars and Stripes.
The more formal exercises of the day here were arranged to synchronize as far as possible with the actual coronation ceremonies beyond the sea. Three o'clock in the afternoon was the hour set for the special services in Old Trinity, the programme being a counterpart of that in Westminster Abbey, even the prayers and hymns being the same. The invited guests included all the British officials in the city, the foreign consuls, diplomats, officers of the army and navy of the United States, city officials and a thousand or more British residents.
Diners in honor of the coronation were held on the British steamships and the Pilgrims, an organization composed of Britains and Americans devoted to promoting unity between the two nations, were the hosts at a formal luncheon at the lawyers' club. This evening the British colony will attend a coronation banquet at the Hotel Plaza and drink the health of the new ruler in a special wine bottled in England in 1838, the year of the crowning of Queen Victoria.
STEAL REGISTERED MAIL.
Memphis, Tenn., June 22.—Two masked men forced the night mail clerks aboard a north-bound Illinois Central train to gather up the registered mail and deposit it in a gunny sack while the train was still in the city limits of Memphis last night. After riding for several miles and satisfying themselves that they had secured all of the valuable mail matter, the men gave the signal for the application of the emergency brakes, and, as the train came to a stop escaped in the darkness. Immediately information of the hold-up was telephoned to police headquarters, possees were organized and a search for the robbers began.
At midnight no trace of them had been discovered.

CORONATION SERVICE AT CHRIST CHURCH

Cathedral Filled With Worshipers This Morning—Dean Doull Officiated

A special coronation service was held at Christ Church cathedral this morning at 9:30 o'clock. The service was conducted by Very Rev. Dean Doull and included the reading of a description of the coronation ceremonies, and of the many articles used in the ceremony, their uses and meanings.

Payers were offered for the King and Queen and the members of the Royal family, for the Governor-General of Canada and for the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and for all the peoples of the Dominions of the British Empire.

The altar and the chancel rail were decorated with a profusion of flowers, and the congregation filled the cathedral. There were present among the congregation many military, naval and consular uniforms. Lieutenant-Governor Paterson and Acting Premier Young were in attendance.

The coronation hymn written by G. Jennings Burnett, was sung.

JEWISH CITIZENS HOLD A SERVICE

Rabbi Friedlander Speaks in Synagogue on Greatness of the Empire

Preaching a coronation sermon in which he brought out in a most forcible way the great assistance that Great Britain had been to the Jewish people at different times, and hoping that King George V and Queen Mary would be even more successful in their reign than any of their predecessors, Rabbi Dr. Friedlander's sermon in the Jewish Synagogue this morning was of a most patriotic nature and one which will be long remembered by those who had the opportunity to hear it.
The doctor eulogized the sterling qualities of the King and Queen and expressed the hope that during the time they hold dominion over palm and pine the silken cords of love and affection, which hold the vast British Empire together, will be strengthened and interwoven so that time will never witness the downfall of the greatest nation the sun has ever shone upon.
The rabbi eulogized the newly crowned King's demeanor and behavior and Queen Mary as being one of the most benevolent and charitable women that ever held the position of queen consort.
"What has made Great Britain what she is," said Rabbi Friedlander, "is her unbounded liberalism and I earnestly hope that the new king will help to expand and increase his sincerity amongst his subjects all over the world."

COMPLICATED SITUATION

Washington, D. C., June 22.—An already badly tangled situation in the senate was still further complicated to-day when the senate finance committee decided to throw the woolen revision and so-called farmers' fee list bills, recently passed by the Democratic house, into the open senate to take their chances along with the Canadian bill. Both measures, however, received reports from the finance committee that they were ready to be passed.

ONE ON THE BISHOP

Bishop Noyes, of New England, who tips the scales at 300 pounds, while out walking decided to rest for a few moments and seated himself on a bench that had an unusually deep dip. Finally, he essayed to rise from the deep-bottomed seat, and the effort proved too much on the first attempt, owing to his generous proportions. He fell on his back and a little girl had been watching him closely, and when he again made an effort to rise she stepped forward and said: "Give me your hand, mister, I'll help you to get up."

TAFT'S FIRST TROUSERS

When President Taft was seven years old his mother bought him a pair of short duck trousers. The first time they were washed they shrank badly. The boy was fat, but his mother wedged him into the trousers against his protest. It was not to play, but in a few minutes returned. "Mamma," he said, "I can't wear these pants; they are too tight. Why, mamma, they are tighter than my skin."

MAN DROWNED

High River, Alta., June 22.—While attempting to cross the north fork of the High Wood river above Sullivan creek, a boat load of river drivers capsized. Twenty men were precipitated into the water, which was very swift and cold. N. Babin, a Calician, was drowned.

THE ADVANCE MAN

John Drew To-Morrow.
 Four comedies from the pen of W. Somerset Maugham have already been presented in Canada. They comprise "Lady Frederick," "Jack Straw," "Mrs. Dol" and "Penelope." At the Victoria theatre, Friday, June 23, John Drew will be seen in the fifth, entitled "Smith," which won undoubted favor during a three months' run at the Empire theatre, New York.

This newest Maugham play is said to be by all odds the best its author has yet turned out. He has not only supplied Mr. Drew with a role more worthy of his fine and versatile art than anything he has offered the public for a number of seasons. "Smith" is a purposeful play, a biting arraignment of senseless, frivolous, heartless women who make up a section of the fashionable world, but it never drops into sermonizing. It has created talk, which is a sure indication that it possesses interest. "Smith" will have the complete original cast and scenic equipment.

"The Old Homestead."

At the Victoria theatre on Monday, June 26, will be presented Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead." Joshua Whitcomb is a character, not a part. The audience sees the same Uncle Josh that the temporary stage has known for nearly a quarter of a century. The lasting appeal of "The Old Homestead" lies in the whole play, all the characters and the general atmosphere. Keep that atmosphere in the Swanzye kitchen at the beginning and in the Prime, the Gauzye boy, Aunt Matilda and all the rest go to and fro in the old way; tell the tale in talk and action as it has been told these many years, and the result is sure.

No child that is a child wishes any changes in the stories it loves; no more do the audiences who witness "The Old Homestead." Familiarity as much as anything else has endeared the piece to every theatre-goer. There is a pleasure in smiling at the joke before it is quite round and feeling the eyes turn moist in anticipation.

The present is the twenty-fifth season of the old play. In another year it will have reached the quarter century mark, and during all these years the production has been kept up to the very highest standard of excellence from a scenic point of view as well as in its cast and in its musical features. This season, we are assured by the management, the staging of the famous quartette of farm hands and the rendition of "The Palms" in the celebrated Grace church scene are better than ever.

May Robson.
 The funniest of all comedies, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which comes to the Victoria theatre on Tuesday, June 27, has been successfully presented by May Robson in every large city in the United States, and duplicating the success at Terry's theatre, London, England, where Miss Robson extended the time of her engagement from three weeks to nearly three months.

Her immediate recognition by a proverbially critical audience of London was one of the best compliments of her talents and capability as an actress. The press was unanimous in praise of "Aunt Mary," the unsophisticated epistoler, and her blending the humorous and pathetic without apparent effort was commented upon in flattering terms. The shrill untrained voice and the awkward gesture of the provincial becomes softened and musical when she speaks of her tenderness for her nephew, Jack. The very naturalness of her acting carrier conviction that Miss Robson is an exceptionally clever woman and the only one on the stage to-day presenting the somewhat difficult role of an eccentric old maid.

"Aunt Mary" is not an imaginary type of the tender, big-hearted country woman. They exist everywhere, and are easily recognized, and at the end of the play you have a sort of feeling that you would like to have just such an Aunt Mary.

ALLEGED FRAUD.

Seattle, Wash., June 22.—W. A. Ridgeway of Spokane, president of the Jovita Heights Company, and Harry Lyons, advertising manager of the same company, were arrested yesterday on federal warrants charging them with using the mails to defraud. They were released on $5,000 bonds each to appear to-day before U. S. Commissioner W. D. Totten for a preliminary hearing.

The complaint was sworn out by Benjamin M. Bell of Pullman, Wash., who charges the defendants with having sent fraudulent matter to him through the mail in connection with the sale of lots in Jovita Heights, a townsite in the southwestern part of King County, not far from Tacoma. The complaint alleges that the townsite company advertised valuable logged off land for sale and did sell 15-foot lots at prices ranging from $140 to $5,000. This land, the complaint charges, is really worth only $50 an acre. It is asserted that the Jovita Heights Company has sold lots to people from all parts of the United States at fancy prices. The defendants assert that they have spent more than $250,000 developing the property and deny that fraudulent methods have been used in selling lots.
