NEW-ORLEANS. Monday (Morning,) March 14, 1631.

The Mobile mail, arrived on Saturday evening, brought New York papers of the 25th: Philadelphia of the 26th, and Charleston of the 3d inst.

M. SERRUBIER, the nevely appointed French Minister to the United States, arrived at New diately, agreeably to the declaration above men-York, with his family, in the Henry IV. We do not hear, says the National Intelligencer, that M. LASTETRIE, the grandson of LAFAY-RTTE, who, it was said, would be attached to was the French Minister to this country, of the accomplishment of their decisions, &c. Empire, and of the Restoration.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, FEB. 23. In the Senate, yesterday, a aesolution submit ted by Me. Livingston for the appointment of a relect committee, to report by bill or otherwise on the subject of a legislative provision to prevent and punish the practice of dueling in the District of Columbia, was adopted, and Mr. Livingston, Mr. Hayne, and Mr. Clayton, were apointed by the Vice President. Mr. Benton submitted series of resolutions to regulate the foreign commerce of the United States: they contain 10 different propositions on the subject. Mr. Poindexter also submitted a resolution, which was agreed to, relative to information respecting the expenditure of such appropriations as had been made for the improvement of the navigation of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, with the results.

The motion of Mr. Tazewell to strike out so much of the amendment to the General Appropriation Bill, as relates to the Commissioners employed at the Ottoman Porte, was again discussed. Mr. Forsyth argued at great length against the motion, and combated with much in genuity the positions taken on the other side, by Mr. Tazewell and Mr. Tyler. Mr. Smith (of Md.) followed on the same side. The question was then taken-first on the amendment. submitted after Mr. Tazewell's motion, by Mr. Kane, and it was carried in the affirmative, by a vote of 22 to 11 -then on the proviso proposed by Mr. Tyier, which was also carried by a vote of 25 to 18; and on this Mr. Taz well withdrew his motion, conceiving that the proviso embraced the same object contemplated by his motion. Thus the matter stands at present, but we must remark, that as this occurred as in Committee of the whole, it is still open to be again canvassed in the Senate. Another amendment was after wards proposed by Mr. Webster, and carried by 37 to 7, which goes to appoint merely a Charge Addites in the Sublime Porte, in lieu of a Legatian, Drogomon, &c. &c. as was at his to contemplated. The amendments made by the Senate to the bill for the punishment of crimes in the District of Columbia, were concurred in. So that the bill has now passed both Houses of Congress.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS. BELCIUM.

The news from this country is of considerabis interest. It will be perceived that hostilities have commenced between the Belgians and Hollanders, and that the Provisional Congress of Belgium have not yet definitely agreed on heir country is to be confided. Their first wish appears to be an union with France, u der a tseparate constitution; but the apprehencious enterained by Louis Philip, that a general war would be the consequence of his acceptance of this proposal, led aim to decline it. They then turned their views to a sovereign in the person of the Duke de Nemours, the second son of the King of the King of the French, to which the same pacific views caused him to refuse assent.

The choice of the Belgians seems then to have fallen on the Duke de Leuchtenberg, son of Eugene Reauharnois and the sister of the cent King of Bayaria, in the expectation that Louis Philip would give him one of his daughters in marriage. This seems to have met with s will more decided refusal, for the French mininter declares that of all the combinations it is the most unfortunate, that they flatter t emselves i vain if they adopt the expectation that the King of the French would grant one of his daughters in marriage to a son of Eugene Beauharnois, that under him, "Belgium would become the flighter of all the assions of the Napoleonists, and France, instead of opening to Belgium events. ry possible communication, would be compelled to surround herself with barriers and shut her self up from her." Louis Philip, however, reverts to another personage to Prince Otho of Bavaria. To him, the King would not hesitate to give one of his daughters, In the uncertainty in which the Congress are therefore still left on this important subject, the Prince of Orange has addressed a manifesto to the Belgians, in which he again presents himself as a candidate for their favor, and promises that if called to the throne, he will doom to forget falness all that has passed in relation to himself that he will maintain the Catholic religion, its ministers, and govern constitutionally.

Prevented by a resolution of the Allied Powers from selecting a chief from among themselves, from placing at their head one of their own countrymen, whose virtues and talents are known to them, and who already filts a conspicwous place in public estimation, they are compelled to wander about amongst the petty princes of the continent in search of a Sovereign. Under such eircumstances it is not to be wondered at, that the choice is embarrassing and prolonged.
In the sitting of the Belgian Congress, Jan.
16, a protocol under the date of Jan. 9, was received from the plenipotentiaries of the five powers, in answer to some reigonstrances of the provisional government of Belgium, declaring the determination of the powers to enforce the entire execution of the engagements which they declare to have been entered into with themselves. On the part of the King of the Netherlands. they demand, therefore, the immediate repeal of the mineures obstructing the free navigation of

As it was a prevent of a Constitution so ardently wished matter of vital importance to commence, the for." nonorable member proposed that the Congress should immediately proceed to a vote, whether orders should not be sent off that very night for the army of the Mease to withdraw.

Mr. Charles Roger observed, that it did not illow, that because the committee for Foreign Mairs had communicated the Protocol, the Congress should come to any resolution upon it, and mereby supersede the Committee. He remained the Assembly that the Protocol had emanated from the five most preponderating powers of Europe, and that if their suggestions were not acted upon, they would enforce them with their

M. Jottrand said: We have always seen that when the King has found himself pressed, he restored to the intervention of the Plempotestiaries at London. Let us then order our troops to advance, for never will the Dutch giv up the question of the Scholdt. The Committee for Foreign Affors oug a to wait till they have been enlightened by a discussion in the Congress. Let the Dutch open the Scheldt, and then our troops may be withdrawn from before Maestricht.—[Hear, hear.]

A member announced that news had that eveing arrived that Muestricht was on the point of surrendering.
It was agreed that the Congress should form it self into a general Committee to-day [16th] at two oclock.

Adjourned at midnight. Longos, Jan. 15 .- We have received the Paris papers of Wednesday, and those dated Thursday. They contam no news of any real importance, either foreign or domestic. With respect to Folund, nothing later than the date of the preciding accounts was known of a positive nature, but there is much speculation upon the means which the Poles possess, for giving a becoming reception to the Russian despot, and anich more upon the undanited spirit by which i the Imperial Guards, to the amount of 12,000 bon eight hundred beles at near our quotations, appropriations of early fine the bill make men, he tien St. Petersburg for Poland, but the that of Louisiana and Mississipal ing appropriation for building a Custom House Emperor had not yet set out. It is not, however, dev id of probability. The tion veroment of France have left themselves called upon to repress the ardour of the students in the public schools by prohibining political associanois. This was a measure rendered necessary by the intemperance of these young men during Portsmouth, the lite riots which took place in Paris, at the total of the ex-Ministers; but it required no little desterity at once to ceasure disobedience, in the abstract, to an existing and established Govern ment, and yet approve an insubordination to the rule of Charles X., which contrib ded material ly to the foundation of the present dynasty. The extracts from the German papers, which will be found in another place, are interesting only as they are indicative of the temper of the Prussian and Austrian Cabinets upon the Polish revolution. Both Courts, through these papers, which are their passive tools, assert that Posen and Galicia are perfectly reconcited to their respective sway, but still they deem it convenient to find them with German troops. It is seldom that a large armed force fails in extinguishing demonstrations of discontent in a population.—

It has no doubt been considered as a guarantee for the peace of Europe, and a proof of the existence of a good understanding with our government. If those letters arrived before the revolution of Warsaw, we should have had more confidence in the amicable dispositions of the Cabinet of St Petersburgh; but now we are inclined to imagine that it is rather the result of the existing difficulties, which prevent that Cabinet from thinking of crusade of absolute Gavernments aginat our revolution of July. If this be so, these will be no more than a postpone of the great struggle, which must sooner or later take place, between the principle of Divine Right and the Some reignty of the People; and this forced delay ought not to lead us to neglect the necessary preparations for meeting the inevitable contest.
