PORTUGUESE REVOLUTIONARIES ORGANIZE REPUBLIC

REPUBLICANS PREPARE TO DEFEND THE CAPITAL

Provincial Troops Are Demanding the Restoration of King Manuel—Provisional Government is Trying to Prevent Civil War

STRONGHOLDS IN HANDS OF ROYALISTS

(Times Leased Wire.) Badajoz (via Portuguese frontier), Oct. 6.—The Royalists still hold many strongholds in Portugal, and it was reported late this afternoon that a battle is expected to-night.

Fortifying Capital.

Badajoz, Spain, Oct. 6.—(via Portuguese frontier)—Anticipating an attack by the royal troops in the eastern provinces, the revolutionaries to-day are fortifying the capital at Lisbon. Couriers report that the Royalists are advancing on Lisbon and that the provincial troops are demanding the restoration of King Manuel to the throne. It is not believed, however, that they will seriously interfere with the operations of the provisional government.

Additional advice states that the administration of President Theophile Braga, who has assumed the direction of the provisional government, is meeting with genuine approval, and that a favorable impression is spreading among the opponents of the republic. The chief aim of Braga and his ministers seems to be to placate the Royalists and prevent a civil war.

Practically the entire navy, which did not take a particularly active part in the revolution, to-day pledged its loyalty to the republic.

The strength of the Royalists cannot be ascertained at the present time. The latest reports do not mention whether the garrisons at Elvas or Oporto are marching on Lisbon. The capital is still isolated and train service hardly reaches to Santarem.

One of the first acts of the provisional government was an order prohibiting reprisals on the Royalists.

Heavy Losses.

Badajoz, Spain, Oct. 5.—(Portuguese frontier), Oct. 6.—Two hundred killed and 400 wounded are the estimated casualties at Lisbon, according to refugees arriving to-day. They claim these figures are conservative and that later advices will swell the totals.

Suppressing Disorders.

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—The provisional government is firmly repressing disorders. The only fear expressed is that Great Britain may interfere in behalf of the Royalists. It will be formally announced to-morrow that the existing treaties would be observed by the new regime, and in this way it is hoped that intervention may be avoided.

The success of the Republicans.

has won the support of the Lisbon populace, although the troops in the provinces are reported as being loyal to Manuel. The provincial regiments, however, are handicapped because the revolutionaries control the telegraph lines out of Lisbon and succeed in cutting in wires to various parts of the kingdom, thus curtailing the movements of their enemies.

Outbreak of Revolt.

A combination of circumstances rather than any detailed plan precipitated the coup d'etat of last Tuesday. The plans for revolutionary action had been laid long ago but the time was not deemed ripe. Dom Manuel's intrigue with Mlle. Caby Des Lys, however, started the revolution. Then followed the assassination of Deputy Bombarda. Finally, last Saturday, the revolutionaries assembled in Lisbon harbor, was to be scattered to distant stations owing to the Republican sentiment abroad.

The revolutionists decided to act quickly. Following the death of Bombarda, who was killed by an officer at the instigation, it is alleged, of the Clericals, a mob threw a priest into the Tagus river. The police charged the mob and a regiment of infantry which happened to be passing, charged upon the police, both sides shot to kill. The fleet in the harbor, thinking that the revolution had begun, became ally with mutiny. Royalist commanders were overpowered in their quarters or at stations aboard the vessels. Republican flags were run up and the guns of the warships trained on the citadel.

Sailors were sent ashore by the boatload, to join with mutinous troops in attacking the police.

The police, soon outnumbered, broke and ran, the mob pursuing them, shooting and cutting down the laggards. The sounds of conflict precipitated a storm throughout Lisbon, and Republicans everywhere rushed into the streets, carrying rifles and greenaded which they had concealed in their houses for weeks.

Within half an hour Lisbon was in an uproar, the Republicans had rallied behind their leaders and presented a united front to the Royalists, who were equally active in massing their forces.

Couriers carried the news of the fighting to the palace as the telephone and telegraph wires had been cut or were in the hands of the revolutionists and the Loyalist troops prepared to defend the Necessidades palace.

Within the palace the royal family, in terror, sought the bastions. The fleet, in the hands of Republicans, began shelling the palace. The palace commander signalled to the harbor fortifications to open fire on the fleet. Suddenly the royal ensigns on the forts fluttered down and the green and red Republican flags rose in their place. The guns of the forts also were trained on the castle.

Shells from the warships began falling in the vicinity of the palace. The royal family were hurriedly escorted to the cellars out of harm's way, while the hydro-bombs hurled and exploded above them.

The forts remained inactive until a regiment of royal artillery began replying to the warships' fire. Then the guns of the fortress opened and a general bombardment took place.

In the meantime about half the troops in Lisbon had deserted to the Republicans, while throughout the first hours of fighting the greatest fatalities were among the Loyalist officers who were endeavoring to check the mutiny in their regiments.

Within an hour after the first outbreak half the blue jackets of the fleet had joined the Republicans ashore, while those who remained aboard manned the guns waiting orders from the Republican leaders to bombard the palace and the government buildings.

The priest who aroused the ire of the mob was "ducked" at one o'clock Tuesday morning, by daybreak the revolutionists began their attack on the palace.

The fighting continued intermittently Wednesday, but increased as darkness fell and throughout the night there was a continuous roar of artillery. The gun fire grew steadier and louder toward morning, the revolutionists attempting to storm the palace, which was resisting stubbornly. Its capture, however, was seen to be only a matter of time, and it is rumored that as soon as this became apparent, the commandant, General Gorgias, shot himself.

Shortly after daybreak Wednesday morning a great number of the palace defenders were dead or dying, and the flagstaff signalled "ceased firing."

In addition to the warships and the fortifications, there were several pieces of field artillery trained on the place. The palace guards had only field guns with which to reply, and these were directed in a futile effort to silence the men-of-war.

Shortly after the excitement the light loss sustained by the Republicans.

Handicapped by the long range guns of the besiegers, the defenders were unable to fight at close quarters, and therefore could not use their side arms.

At 9 o'clock the Republican flag flew from a new flagstaff on a dismantled section of the palace, the old staff having been shot away.

With all the excitement the Republicans succeeded admirably in retaining order throughout the city. Looters were shot down on sight. The banks and other places where valuables were deposited, the art galleries and government buildings that escaped the bombardment were surrounded by cordons of blue jackets.

The provisional government obtained complete control of the telegraph late Wednesday, and no news from the provinces is given out.

Troops March Northward.

Rumors are current throughout the capital that a large force of loyalist troops have massed near Matra and are marching toward Lisbon. This is denied by the Republican leaders, who declare that the provinces are generally quiet, and that a revolutionary force soon will be sent out to repress minor disorders.

Notwithstanding this, the Republican commanders are preparing for an attack, and troops, augmented by marines, are moving northward of the city.

Eusebio Leao, provisional civil governor of Lisbon, began the organization of a police force to-day, and will relieve the Republican troops of police duty. Citizens from all parts of Lisbon are volunteering as policemen, while others are enrolling in the Republican army. Col. Barro, minister of war, refused to-day to estimate the number of men mustered by the Republicans, declaring that the necessity for troops was not great, and that little opposition to the Republican army was anticipated.

MASTERLY INACTIVITY.

SPAIN IS MASSING TROOPS ON FRONTIER

Authorities Fear Rising Will Follow Overthrow of Portuguese Monarchy—Barcelona Authorities Appeal to Madrid for Reinforcements

(Times Leased Wire.)

Madrid (via Hendaye, France), Oct. 6.—The flower of the Spanish army has been ordered to the Portuguese frontier.

Madrid is seething with excitement over the news from Portugal and the Republicans assert that it foreshadows an attempt of King Alfonso to aid Dom Manuel against the Republicans of Portugal.

Republicans here predict that if this is attempted, civil war will result. It is said Alfonso fears that the success of the Republican armies in Portugal will mean the overthrow of his power, and it is asserted that he has been counselled by his ministers to fight to the last ditch.

That Alfonso will pursue this course is not doubted, and it is therefore judged that he will assist Manuel with a strong Spanish force in order to frighten the Spanish Republicans into inactivity.

The Republicans are overjoyed at the success of their Portuguese brethren. A radical club where the Marseillaise was sung was raided last night by the police and a small riot followed. Afterwards the radicals gathered in the streets, parading and cheering for the Portuguese revolutionists.

Formidable military preparations have been made throughout Spain for a great uprising of the Republican revolutionists, supported by the Clerical faction that is bitterly opposed to the King and his cabinet.

Plans for a great demonstration by the anti-Royalists have been discovered by the government spies and should they be carried out there is bound to be the utmost difficulty in handling the trouble-makers.

There is no concealment of the fact that the demonstrations are to be of an anti-dynastic character, and to make matters worse, counter-demonstrations are planned by the anti-Clericals.

Word comes from Barcelona that the Republicans have become extremely restive and there is a growing suspicion among the Clericals there that King Alfonso plans to indefinitely postpone the settlement of affairs between the Church and State.

The constitution does not require the cortes to sit more than one day in the year. The general impression is that as soon as the cortes has transacted the routine business of the kingdom,

SEARCH RUINS FOR BODIES

WORK CONTINUED AT LOS ANGELES It is Believed Remains of Victims Still Lie Buried in the Debris

(Special to the Times.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6.—Detectives of the Los Angeles police department were detailed to-day to search the various southern California harbors for traces of the gasoline schooner Kate, which has been drawn into the police theory regarding the Times disaster. The officers believe that the dynamite taken from the Giant Powder Company, September 23, may have been transferred to the Kate and brought to Los Angeles. The Kate lay for several days near Victoria, on San Francisco bay, and, according to Capt. Burns, of the state launch Governor Gillet, the launch Pastime, believed to have been disguised as the Peerless, was seen making several trips to Visitation September 24.

The Kate cleared from San Francisco September 25 for the Galapagos islands. She had not been reported since.

Officers were sent hurriedly to Long Beach last night upon the receipt of a message from the police stating that a man had been arrested on the municipal pier as he attempted to board a gasoline launch that slipped into the harbor in the direction of San Pedro, under the cover of darkness. The man was released after being questioned. The launch disappeared from the wharf when the man was seized by the police.

Work amid the ruins of the Times building was continued to-day. It was believed that more bodies would be recovered before night.

Secretary Zeehandelaar, of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, announced to-day that but $15,000 of the $50,000 reward voted by the association will be used for the purpose. The remaining $35,000 will be used as a "defence fund." He did not state the exact use to which the money will be put.

Detective William J. Burns appeared at the police headquarters shortly before noon. He was closeted with Chief Galloway and Capt. Flammger. When he reappeared he said:

"I want it understood that what I am here for is to catch the men who dynamited the Times building. Any dispute between labor and the enemies of labor has nothing to do with my work. I refuse to become involved in that dispute in any way."

"My whole object is to find the guilty men. I don't care who they are, and am making no predictions as to what our investigation will bring forth. Whoever is guilty will be caught and must be punished."

ROYAL FAMILY REPORTED ON WAY TO FRANCE

Minister of Justice Admits King and Queen Mother Have Fled From Portugal—Escaped Before Fall of Lisbon Palace

REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED

(Times Leased Wire.)

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—Provisional President Braga to-day telegraphed the foreign offices throughout the world, formally announcing the proclamation of the republic of Portugal.

"The provisional government guarantees public order and safety," the message said.

On Way to France.

London, Oct. 6.—Reuter's Agency to-day carries a dispatch from San Sebastian which says Dom Manuel and the exiled queen mother Amelie of Portugal passed there this morning en route to France, travelling incognito. The fate of the deposed king's uncle, the Duke of Oporto, is not known.

The pretender, Dom Miguel, Duke of Braganza, left Vienna recently, and has not since been heard of. It is believed that he was notified in advance of the projected uprising and that he is now conferring with his adherents, hoping to be enthroned and restore peace.

Dom Miguel's son recently married Anita Stewart of New York. The prospect of his father's ascending the throne is not considered bright.

The republican movement is unpopular in the Portuguese provinces, according to dispatches received to-day which declare that the royalists are gathering to resist the provisional government.

The success of the new regime, it is said, depends largely upon the disposition of the deposed ruler. If Manuel is a prisoner or is fleeing from Portugal there is no question but that the monarchy is ended.

If the reports that he is rallying his forces at Matra are true, a long struggle is inevitable, it is believed. The final success of the republic is, however, practically assured.

The Central News Agency to-day received a dispatch to the effect that the deposed King Manuel is at the royal summer home at Cintra.

A Marconi wireless press agency dispatch says he is at Cascaes, 15 miles west of Lisbon.

A report yesterday was that the queen mother was alone at Cintra. Flight from Lisbon.

Lisbon, Oct. 6.—The royal family has fled from Portugal, it was the announcement to-day of Senhor Dom Alfonso Costa, provisional minister of justice.

No specific details were vouchsafed and the statement disposes of the story of Manuel's escape to Matra, north of Lisbon, rallying his forces.

Costa asserted that the provisionals are receiving many messages from adherents in the provinces pledging support.

"There is no doubt of the republic's complete success," said Costa. "Civil war is not likely and within a few days we expect to have the provinces supporting us as enthusiastically as does Lisbon."

King Manuel escaped safely. This was in accordance with the revolutionary programme, according to a statement given the United Press from the highest authority.

The republicans declared that it was preferable to exile Manuel rather than kill him. The leaders know where the deposed king is, and have purposely spread conflicting reports in order to prevent his capture, and place them in the embarrassing position of deciding Manuel's fate.

The news of the fall of the palace caused great joy among the populace, who gathered in the plaza Dom Pedro, sang the Marseillaise, cheered the republic and the downfall of the king.

Shortly after the fall of the palace the defenders of the ministry buildings surrendered.

It was at first supposed that the royal family had been captured when the palace fell, but it was announced at noon that they had escaped.

The most likely version of Manuel's escape is that the king, disguised as a policeman, was conveyed through a subterranean passage of the palace to the dowager queen, Maria Pia, disguised as peasants, were hurried to some foreign legation and later removed to safety.

President Braga, Minister of Justice Costa, Minister of Foreign Affairs Bernardino Machado, were in conference to-day and it is believed they disussed the possibility of intervention by Great Britain. The republicans are elated that the French minister to Portugal called to pay his respects to-day. They eagerly seek recognition by France and the United States as the Republic of Portugal.

The minister of finance, Brazilo Telles, to-day conferred with leading bankers regarding the monetary situation, urging them to do everything possible to protect Portuguese securities, assuring them that the republic would repudiate none of the obligations that Portugal had incurred as a monarchy.

The minister of marine, Amaro Gomez, conferred with the fleet commanders to-day regarding the policing of the harbor. Other provisional ministers are Antonio Almeida, interior, and Luis Gomez, public works.

The officials have taken charge of the medical and sanitary work of following the fighting.

Minister's Statement.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The Central News Agency to-day received a cable message from Alfonso Costa, minister of justice of the provisional government at Lisbon, stating that the Portuguese royal family has fled. They are believed to be on the sea.

This is borne out by a Madrid dispatch quoting Premier Canalejas as saying that King Manuel, Queen Mother Amelie and the king's uncle, the Duke of Oporto, are aboard the royal yacht, and that they cannot be captured.

Palaces Reported Dynamited. Madrid, Oct. 6.—Dynamiting of the Necessidades palace and the royal palace at Santara is reported to-day in Lisbon dispatches. Continued interruption of wires is construed here to mean that there is fighting either at Lisbon or in the adjacent provinces.

ENGLISH MEMBER ON IMPERIAL RELATIONS Suggests Formation of Department in London With Colonial Connections

(Special to the Times.)

London, Oct. 6.—Evelyn Cecil, M. P., who was the last Englishman to confer with Presidents Kruger and Steyn before the outbreak of the Boer war, spoke at Aston before his constituents. He said that he was very anxious to see the idea of the Imperial conference develop along these lines: First, let the equality of the Mother Country and overseas Dominions be recognized with close Imperial connections. Secondly, let the nucleus of a federal government by the Mother Country and the self-governing Dominions over truly Imperial affairs be formed by creating an efficient department in London with colonial connections as the connecting link between periodical Imperial conferences.

COURT HELD IN THE BARRACKS

WITNESSES HEARD AT SCENE OF THE MURDER

Crown Closed Case Against Allen Before Adjudgment—No Bill in Wood Case

For an hour or so yesterday afternoon the assize were held in the barrack-room at Work Point from which the shot was fired which killed Captain Elliston. The jury were taken there after lunch in order to see the position of the buildings and while there the evidence of Sergeant Askey and the man who was in the room with Allen was taken.

When court resumed soon after 4 o'clock Sergeant Askey was called to the box for purposes of cross-examination by Mr. Davie. He described Allen's condition when found as one of nervousness, but he had not seen enough of the man to say whether he was suffering from the effects of alcoholism.

What was his general character before this?—He was not of good character.

What do you mean?—He had very little regard for himself; was more or less troublesome to himself and everyone connected with him.

In what way?—His drunkenness. Bombardier Ryan also was cross-examined and gave Allen a good character when sober. When drunk the prisoner was "up to his tricks." Witness identified the rifle Allen had used by its lack of a foresight.

There had been two rifles at the head of Allen's bed, one which he had been practising with which was not defective, and the one just mentioned. Mr. Davie sought to get an admission from witness that a man in his sane mind would not have taken the defective rifle if he desired to kill a man, but Ryan would not say so.

Mr. Aikman—If one rifle was loaded and the other was not, which do you think he would take?—The loaded one. Sergeant Askey recalled that when he ran to Captain Elliston's assistance he asked who had shot him, and the injured man pointed with his hand towards No. 2 Block, in which the room occupied by prisoner was.

Sergeant-Major Farley told of Captain Elliston having left the company office, of hearing a report, or finding his commanding officer wounded and his removal to the hospital. Allen he described as a good rifleman and he declared that it would be possible to shoot at a near-by object without the aid of a foresight.

Mr. Davie's cross-examination was directed to the possibility of drawing accurate aim with a defective rifle but the witness held that with a good-sized target, especially where there was means of estimating elevation as on a man's figure, the rifle without a foresight would shoot pretty nearly true.

His Lordship—If the object was large, as a man, it would not be difficult to hit him, although it would be doubtful, without the foresight, whether you would hit him in the head or the breast?—That is so.

The sergeant-major said he had soldiered with Allen in Halifax and knew him as having a pretty good character. At one time he had been a corporal of police in that city.

Mr. Davie—Do you know if he drank much?—He was about the ordinary run of a soldier.

Gunner Harry Brown was one of the white-washing party with which Allen was drafted to work. He swore that Allen, while he had been drinking heavily for three weeks before, was sober that morning, but was suffering from the after effects of drink and was pretty shaky. Allen was understood to do most of his drinking in town because he could not get any sprits in the canteen. When sober he was a jolly fellow and good company.

Gunner Frank Trimby spoke of Allen having passed out through the gate where witness was on guard, about ten minutes after there had been a report, which he thought was a blast. He had heard Allen making vague threats against "the old fellow," which he took to mean Captain Elliston, and saying the latter was no good. He would make such threats every time he was punished for drunkenness or absence from barracks, and he was frequently punished. Twice to witness' knowledge Allen had got cells and often "C. B." (confined to barracks), when a man was allowed the privilege of not going out and not going to the canteen.

Mr. Davie referred to the company complaint record of Allen, which showed that he had been committed to cells once, and then by Captain Elliston. He cross-examined Trimby sharply on his statement that Allen was frequently punished by his commanding officer, but witness explained that the barracks never paid attention to who imposed the punishment.

His Lordship—How many times did he get "C. B." from Captain Elliston? Mr. Davie—None.

His Lordship—How many times from anyone? Mr. Davie—Five times.

Colonel Peters, who retired from the district command a few weeks ago, put in the charge sheet, which showed Allen's record for three years. There was one occasion on which there was a district court martial on Allen, and Captain Elliston had once committed him for twenty days.

Chief Justice Hunter—How does this record compare with the average soldier?—Well, sir, it is a pretty bad one.

Colonel Peters was questioned about the accuracy of shooting done with a rifle lacking the foresight and to Mr. Davie said that he did not believe there would be an inch out in a hundred yards or so. The trajectory was practically flat for the first 500 yards.

Mr. Davie—Do you think a man who murders another for a matter of having been given twenty days in cells is sane or insane?—He could not be insane. A man might be sane and do a great many strange things. I might as well hit you over the head for something and still I would not be insane.

If you were to commit a murder what do you think?—I would be insane.

Then why not the same in Allen's case?—I don't think him insane.

Provincial Constable Dockstader told of arresting and warning Allen who, after being cautioned, said: "I only intended to maim him. I am sorry I killed him but he has treated me very mean at times." At that time Allen was under the influence.

Detective Carlow described the prisoner as having had drink but as acting very strangely and not at all like a drunken man, at one moment brightening up and the next being quite stupid. He said: "Captain Elliston punished me unjustly but I didn't mean to kill him, only to maim him." He was said by some of the soldiers to be a "one-trick as well as a drinker."

Chief Jailer Hunter said Allen was very sick the afternoon of his arrest and appeared to be getting over a spree.

This closed the case for the crown and the jury were locked up for the night.

In the case of Colin Wood, charged with manslaughter, the grand jury found no bill.

CONFESSES ROBBERY ON ALASKAN STEAMER

Mess Boy Declares He Had No Confederates—Part of Plunder Not Yet Found

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 6.—Thos. Buckley, the mess boy of the steamer City of Seattle, yesterday admitted he stole $30,000 in gold bullion, currency and diamonds from the registered mails while the steamer was en route from Alaska ports to Seattle. The local authorities have released several other men who were arrested along with Buckley as suspects. As several thousand dollars worth of gold bullion is still missing, the federal agents are not inclined to accept Buckley's story that he had no confederates. The man says he does not know what became of the rest of the plunder.

WHAT THE WOMEN THINK OF GIN PILLS

Letters From Four of Them.

3 Wright Ave., Halifax, N. S.

"I have suffered with Sick Kidneys for about five years and had got no relief from various remedies which I had taken until I tried Gin Pills which gave me instant relief. I can not speak too highly of them and recommend them to my friends."

Mrs. M. LAWRENCE, Tyneside, Ont.

"I received your sample box of Gin Pills and then got a large box from my druggist. After taking three boxes of Gin Pills, the pain across my back and kidneys has entirely gone and I am better than I have been for years. I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism and it has all left me."

Mrs. T. HARRIS, Williamsdale, Ont.

"Before I had taken Gin Pills, I suffered dreadfully with my back for twenty years. I tried about everything but got no relief until I got Gin Pills. I have taken six boxes and now I have not a sign of pain or ache in my back. I am now 48 and feel as well as I ever did in my life. There is nothing that can hold a place with Gin Pills."

Mrs. Wm. P. RIPLEY, Davisville, Ont.

"For fifteen years I suffered continually with Kidney and Bladder Trouble. I doctored all the time but nothing gave me any lasting relief until I was persuaded to try Gin Pills. Within a couple of days, I received great relief and after taking one box, I was completely cured, and now would not be without them. I can highly recommend Gin Pills to all who suffer from any form of Kidney Trouble."

NEW PARTY IN AUSTRALIAN POLITICS

Farmers and Settlers Form Association—Some Planks of Platform

Melbourne, Oct. 6.—A new organization has entered the field of Australian politics, the Farmers' and Settlers' Association. This body is to form a political party distinct from and independent of the two sections now struggling for supremacy. By no other means do the farmers and settlers see a way of obtaining their demands. Already they have drawn up their platform, which candidates will be expected not merely to sign, but to abide by and fight for. It has at present twelve planks: Land settlement to be parastatutory; freehold tenure; choice of tenure of crown lands; permanent right of re-appropriation; rail-road extension; water conservation and irrigation; administration of lands department by commissioners; desirable immigration; the elective principle in land boards; bulk handling of grain; extension of practical and experimental education; land law consolidation. If the organization has a leaning to

WILL SUE RAILWAY.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 6.—Thomas Prosser, of Youngstown, Ohio, father of Reese Prosser, the Seattle automobile salesman who was shot and killed by his wife, Vera, on a Great Northern train near Libby, Mont., will bring a damage suit for $25,000 against the railroad for negligence in permitting the killing to occur, according to a statement made here by the old man.

Mr. Prosser says that the railroad employees in charge of the train had been warned that Vera might kill her divorced husband, but that no precautions were taken to avoid the killing. Vera Prosser was acquitted by a Montana jury.

TWO SUFFOCATED IN FIRE AT PORTLAND

Inmates of Lodging House Lose Their Lives—Property Loss $20,000

Portland, Ore., Oct. 6.—Two men are dead from suffocation, and one fireman is in the hospital as a result of a stubborn fire which partially destroyed a three-story frame building on Washington street near Tenth. The two top floors of the structure were used as a lodging house while the first floor contained a saloon and a paint store. The loss is estimated at $20,000. The fire started in the rear of the paint shop where a quantity of oils and paints were stored.

One of the fire victims is believed to be J. Burke of Dee, Ore. The name of the other has not been ascertained. They occupied room 18 on the top floor. The men had retired a few minutes previous to the discovery of the fire.

Seven firemen and two newspapermen were overcome by the stifling oil smoke while making desperate efforts to rescue the men. Fireman E. N. McDonald was so far overcome that it was necessary to take him to a hospital.

THE PREMIER AND HIS SUCCESSOR. Should Premier McBride be actuated by a high sense of honor such as might naturally be expected in a public man in a British country and deem that there is nothing for him to do but tender his resignation to the Lieut.-Governor in redemption of a solemn pledge, he need not be under any apprehension as to the King's government not going on.

SPREAD OF POPULAR GOVERNMENT.

A new republic is born to-day. Portugal is no longer a kingdom, but will in future be ruled by a more popular form of government.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL. The meeting of Victoria's representative labor organization, the Trades and Labor Council, last night was of particular interest in that the report of the delegate to the Trades and Labor Congress was read and adopted.

TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA.

The Canadian government has called for tenders for a steamship service between British Columbia ports and Australia, with alternate proposals for a call at New Zealand.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXPECTED.

We are expecting to read another announcement from the Provincial Government in regard to railway construction on Vancouver Island.

A MOTHER'S EXPLANATION.

To the Editor:—There seems to be a misunderstanding among the public in regard to little Samuel McCleave, who was prepared to jump the high jump at the horse show on Thursday night last.

PRESS OPINIONS.

Value of Public Opinion. The public officer who interferes with any illicit business makes many enemies. Without a strongly assertive public opinion behind him in favor of right no good comes to him for doing his duty—often much harm.

the two joining to make one big city. If this ever happens the city will be a second New York, but in the meantime New Westminster resents any suggestion of sinking her individuality and will look after her own business and prosper.

"If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you; if you can trust yourself when all men doubt you; but make allowance for their doubting, too; if you can wait and not be tired by waiting; or, being lied about, don't deal in lies; or, being hated, don't give way to hating; and yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

"If you can dream—and not make dreams your master; if you can think—and not make thoughts your aim; if you can meet with triumph and disaster—and treat those two imposters just the same; if you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools; or watch the things you gave your life to broken; and stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

"If you can make one heap of all your winnings; and risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss; and lose, and start again at your beginning; and never breathe a word about your loss; if you can force your heart and nerve and sinew; to serve your turn long after they are gone; and so hold on when there is nothing in you; Except the will which says to them: 'Hold on!'

"If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue; or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch; if neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you; if all men count with you, but not too much; if you can fill the unforgetting minute with sixty seconds' worth of distance run; Yours is the earth and everything that's in it;—and which is more—you'll be a man, my son!"

vagabonds" in other countries than the United Kingdom. A German statistical notes that there are not less than a quarter of a million convictions, of vagabondage annually, in Germany, where protection is "enjoyed"—Hamilton Times. Smashing the Machine. Roosevelt has smashed the machine. Will it stay smashed? The weakness of most democracies is that they are not democratic enough. Popular control is spasmodic. The giant rises in his might, slays a tyrant or shatters an abuse; then, being a good-natured and forgetful giant, he resumes his gridding at the mill, and other tyrants and abuses arise. The blame of bossism, of plutocracy, is unjustly laid on democracy; whereas the political boss and the plutocrat are simply the natural successors of the old despotic king.—Toronto Star. Wants Military Salute. A crusade has been started in Philadelphia against the long established and orthodox custom of tipping the hat as a salutation to lady friends. In the case of wearers of panamas and fedoras the practice entails prompt executive ability, and the object of the respectful salutation is sometimes affected 372,388 days, or just twenty days per head. The disputes affecting coal miners the respectful salutation is sometimes affected 372,387 working days, an increase of nearly 200,000 strikers as compared with the previous year. The effect of the greater use of conciliatory methods is seen in the fact that the percentage of the disputes which resulted in a compromise is the highest for the past ten years. The disputes settled by conciliation and arbitration during that year form a record, while the number of cases settled by joint boards of employers and men showed a considerable increase. The railway boards were the chief cause of this. Further, although the number of workpeople involved in disputes was the highest recorded since 1884 (the year of the general strike in the Scottish coal trade), the working time lost was only a little over a fourth of the time lost in the previous year, and was well below the average of the ten years 1889-1908. Cases affecting 66 per cent. of the workpeople were settled by compromise, 22 per cent. going in favor of the employers, and 11 per cent. in favor of the men. The machinery for conciliation and arbitration was extended during 1909 by the formation of boards for the printing trades of the United Kingdom, the Birmingham brass trades, the Hull fishing trade, the Scottish pottery trade, and the London county council tramway workers; while national agreements providing for the discussion of grievances at joint conferences were entered into by the employers and men in the plastering and ship-building trades of Great Britain.

FIRST ANNUAL MEETING HELD

WOMAN'S CANADIAN CLUB HEAR VARIOUS REPORTS

Splendid Work Accomplished During the Past Year by Young Organization

The first annual meeting of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria was held yesterday afternoon in the drawing room of the Driard. The first vice-president, Mrs. F. B. Pemberton, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. H. G. Barnard.

Mrs. Pemberton, in opening the meeting, expressed her regret that the illness of the president laid that duty upon her. The hon. secretary, Mrs. C. E. Wilson, then read the minutes of the previous meeting which were adopted. The secretary then read the following address:

"The Women's Canadian Club has now completed its first year's existence. During this period the membership has increased materially, and in the unfortunate absence of our president, Mrs. H. G. Barnard, the chair has been most acceptably filled by the first vice-president, Mrs. F. B. Pemberton, to whom we owe our hearty thanks. In October, 1909, we had the great pleasure of entertaining Miss Agnes Deans Cameron at a luncheon given by the club in the Broad street hall, which was attended by forty of our members, and at which Miss Cameron spoke in her own inimitable style. In December, at the request of Mrs. Fitzgibbon, Ralph Bond addressed an informal gathering of our club in the Driard hotel. Mr. Bond's subject was an appreciation of the anti-suffragette movement in England.

Later in the winter, W. Shallcross gave an interesting talk on the 'Social Position of Commerce,' also at the Driard.

"At a mass meeting of the Navy League, called by W. C. Pooley in March last at the theatre, a special box was allotted to the officers of our club and the members represented officially a patriotic body. Capt. Wooley's address was most stirring, and dealt especially with the question of Canada's contribution to our Imperial navy.

"In conjunction with the members of the Alexandra Club and the Ladies' Musical Club a joint reception was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hamburg in March last. It is to be regretted that on this occasion members of these bodies did not give a very loyal response to the undertaking of their officers.

"In April, Victorians had the very great pleasure of receiving a visit from Miss Muriel Talbot, secretary of the Victoria League, London, Eng. Miss Talbot's entertained during her stay here by Mrs. Fitzgibbon, and a very charming at home was given in her honor by our acting president, Mrs. F. B. Pemberton at her beautiful home. Miss Talbot gave an interesting resume of the work of the Victoria league and its great inter-colonial value.

"In May the club broke up for the summer vacation, work to recommence with the annual meeting called for the 21st of October. The previous month an extraordinary opportunity offered calling for the assistance of the W. C. C. The executive should be called and take all necessary action.

"While some think that possibly there is little scope for such a club as ours, especially in cities where a man's Canadian club is already in existence, it would seem that our past year's record proves the opposite. With increased travel, continual enlightenment upon the great Imperial question of the hour and the position now accorded to women in all matters where she can bring intelligence and graceful assistance, we should combine, not only to increase our membership, but also to hold ourselves ready to act, not only as hostesses, but as compatriots, whenever the call comes, be it for the entertainment of the individual or for the great promotion of whatever the cause that makes for our country's welfare.

"DOROTHY M. WILSON.
"Hon. Secretary."

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Robertson, Mrs. Wilson also read the treasurer's report which showed the sum of $222 raised by fees with a balance on hand of $41.70.

Mrs. F. B. Pemberton, who was presiding, then read the following address:

"In the absence of our president, Mrs. Barnard, it is my pleasant duty to address a few words to you at our first annual meeting. Our first year as a club has not been marked by any great event, and in fact I have been told that in the opinion of several members we have not done enough in the way of entertaining. But I should like to remind you that the Canadian Club is not in any sense of the word an entertainment club. It is purely a patriotic club, our aim being to learn all we can of our particular country, Canada, and of the great empire to which we so proudly and loyally belong. The only entertainments we give are luncheons or teas at which men and women qualified to speak on any of the great questions of the day as affecting Canada, her position in the empire, her resources within herself, her policy both at home and abroad are invited to give us their views. But being as we are, the outpost farthest west of the empire, we have not so many opportunities as our sister clubs in the large eastern cities. So it has been proposed that this year we ask some of our own prominent men to address us on their own particular subjects. We feel that it is hardly fair to call on such busy men, but hope that of their good nature they will not refuse us. It was a great disappointment not to hear Lord Grey during his visit, but his time was so limited that he was unable to address us. The great drawback has been the lack of a suitable room for our luncheons, but owing to the energy and foresight of Mrs. Hasell, Mrs. Croft and other ladies, that difficulty will be overcome in the near future, as the new ladies' club will have beautiful and suitable rooms for such gatherings.

In conclusion, I would say that this

DEPUTIES GUARD PROPERTY.

Imperial, Cal., Oct. 6.—Sheriff Meadows and his deputies are guarding the property of the California-Mexico Land Company near here, in the belief that enemies of General H. G. Otis, of Los Angeles, may attempt to damage it. General Otis and Harry Chandler, managing editor of the Los Angeles Times, are the principal stockholders in the company.

Two stacks of hay at widely separated points were burned Tuesday and it is believed the fires were of incendiary origin. Officers of the company are guarding the property from the Mexican side.

SOCCER TEAMS

GOALS KICKED

VICTORIA WEST IN LEADING POSITION

North Ward Second Eleven Out-points First and Second of Senior League

Besides being at the head of the list in points towards the premiership, the Victoria West soccer team has secured the first place in the goal average, having kicked against their opponents eight goals and not yet had a point scored against them. The Bays have kicked the same number of goals but lose a qualifying position with the Wests because the Garrison and Cedar Hill teams each registered a goal against the eleven.

The teams in the first division stand in the goal kicking record as follows:

Goals.	For.	Against.
Victoria West	8	0
J. B. A.	8	2
Garrison	4	3
North Ward	3	2
A. O. F.	3	3
Empress	3	3
Esquimalt	3	6
Cedar Hill	2	10

In the second division North Ward not only leads the list, but outpaces the two first teams of the senior league in total of goals kicked, having in only two matches played scored nineteen times, and with but three registered against them. As yet unbeaten they hold the leading place in the second division.

The situation of the second division clubs in the goal kicking record is as follows:

Goals.	For.	Against.
North Ward	19	3
Victoria West	15	3
Baraca	2	2
Beacon Hill	2	2
Garrison	2	9
Regiment	2	1
Oak Bay	1	1
Esquimalt	1	1

MOTOR CYCLE RACE.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 6.—"Dare Devil" Leonidas, a Greek motor cycle racer, who, along with 39 other racers left Atlanta, Ga., on August 7, on a 12,000-mile race from Atlanta to San Francisco for a purse of $7,500, has arrived in Portland. He will leave this afternoon for San Francisco, expecting to arrive there either Saturday night or Sunday morning and win the prize. His nearest competitor is more than 2,000 miles behind him.

WARDS LEAD OWING TO DRAW MATCHES

Four Equalized Scores in Seven Second League Games This Year

Although the North Ward second division soccer team is leading the second division list at present, having won both matches this season, it is not by any means as clear of the contesting factions in the league as its errorless progress and long goal lead would indicate.

The second division league has had more drawn games in the two days' play this season than the whole of the teams in the first and second divisions of the soccer leagues experienced last season. There have, for eight matches, been four-drawn games and one unplayed match, making the percentage in played games of more than fifty per cent. drawn. North Ward has escaped all this, and the teams that get draws get one point only. With such evenly balanced material playing in the second division anything is likely to happen, for the rivalry is bound to be keener than ever before among the second teams, and each club will be hunting up new men for the line-up to strengthen the teams in future matches.

Of three games played the first Saturday, two were drawn, Baraca and Victoria West playing a 2-2 game and Beacon Hill and Esquimalt getting a goal apiece. Last Saturday there were four games, with two of them drawn again.

On Saturday the North Ward team has its biggest second division game, meeting the Victoria West, the second team in the list, which, having one draw and one win against North Ward's two wins, can lead the second division by obtaining a victory next Saturday.

Owing to the many drawn games, none of the other six teams have a win to their credit yet, and if Victoria West gets a win on Saturday it will be one point ahead of the North Wards, but a win in North Ward will place it well on towards security for the first place during the first round of the season.

ENGLISH SPORT

Lost Everything—In the English county cricket championship, just closed, out of 18 games played, Somerset did not win a match.

Premier Teams—The Corinthians is England's premier amateur team; Scotland's, Queen Park; Ireland's, Bohemians.

To Tour India.—The United Kingdom is to have a visit from an Indian cricket team next year.

Imam Bux Home.—Another Indian wrestler, Imam Bux by name, is making a sensation in London. Recently he clashed with John Lemmi, of Switzerland, but the latter had no chance with his dusky antagonist who, by the way, is a brother of the famous Gama, who wrestled 2-2 hours with Zybszco without a fall to either man.

Wants a Job.—Steve Bloomer, at one time the idol of all England as an inside right, is out of a job. This little keeper in his day, seems to be "going back." Still, he should have a lot of good football in him yet.

Swimming Records.—A McFarlane, of the Dolphin club, won the 220 yards swimming championship of Scotland in the Whitevale baths, Glasgow, his time being 2 min. 55 1-5 secs. Miss Etta Mackay, the professional lady champion, at the same meet, gave an exhibition swim over 200 yards, which she accomplished in 4 min. 25 secs., thus beating her own world's record for the distance by 11 secs.

New Scotch Record.—Frank Beaurepaire, the amateur champion swimmer of Australia, and holder of many world's records, accomplished another fine performance in Hull when he swam 500 yards in 6 min. 19 2-5 secs. He appeared later in the week at the annual gala of the Glasgow Amateurs, and created a new Scottish record over 200 yards. His time was 3 min. 32 2-5 secs., the previous best being 3 min. 53 2-5 secs. by Haynes.

Preliminary Round.—Round one of the Scottish Qualifying cup is over, and two of the most notable results were the failure of LEITH ATHLETIC (the holders) to dispose of Bathgate on the former's ground, and the defeat of Bath Rovers (a first league club) by Dumfermline Athletic. This competition is merely a preliminary canter to the competition proper, the Scottish cup. Nearly one hundred clubs this season will take part in the minor event, but only those of the pignies reaching the fourth round can compete with the "big fellows." Excitement is always intense in the provinces during the first three or four rounds of the competition. It would be no easy matter to pick the winner, and so much depends on the ballot. To win the Qualifying Cup is the greatest honor a country club can hope to achieve.

Fortune Lost by Head—The Warwick-Walker Handicap resulted in one of the plunges of the season coming undone. Sunspot, a three-year-old son of Sundridge, belonging to Mr. J. B. Joel, had never previously raced over a longer distance than five furlongs, but he was now backed for literally thousands of pounds to win at his first attempt over a mile, and three furlongs. The stable commission is said, even for Mr. J. B. Joel who occasionally gambles heavily, to have been something abnormal.

The horse was beaten a head by Scarlet Runner, who was not backed for a half penny, and whose trainer, as a matter of fact had backed the second. People blamed Walter Griggs for riding a bad race, and as Sunspot was making up ground so fast in the last furlong that in another stride he must have won, there was the natural temptation to do this, but Griggs, as a matter of fact, rode to orders. The orders he received were: "You are to the last, and you are not to move on the horse till you get into the straight."

Maher Leads.—Frank Wootton won the New Handicap on Claret Lad, who made his third success during the afternoon, and the boy is now only three points behind Maher in the winning jockey list, the scores being: Maher, 80; Wootton, 77.

Arnst and Barry.—Ernest Barry, English sculling champion, has arrived at Southampton from South Africa after his unsuccessful attempt to win the world's championship from Dick Arndt. Barry is willing to put the losing end of a purse for a return match on the Thames. Arnst having promised to if Barry obtains the necessary support.

Hindu Wrestler.—Gama, the Hindu wrestler, wanted a second match with Zybszco, but the latter refused, because he had to go home to Poland to see his mother. Gama, therefore is now entitled to the championship of England. Gama was born at Lahore, in the Punjab, twenty-nine years ago, and has been a wrestler from infancy. He is not, like some of the great continental wrestlers, a bag of fat, but is muscular in every ounce of his 144 lb. weight. His chest measurement is 48 in., he is 18 in. around the neck, 13 3-4 in. round the forearm, 26 1-2 in. round the thigh.

The sudden demand for popular education in China is shown by the fact that the school attendance in one province has increased 8,000 per cent. in five years.

STANLEY KETCHEL

STOPS HORSE—HERO!

Does Daring Deed After Late Breakfast, Too—Women and Children on Sidewalk.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 6.—Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight pugilist, was the hero of an exciting runaway in a crowded street here to-day. As Ketchel stepped out of his hotel after a late breakfast, two driverless horses attached to a light wagon rounded the corner and headed toward the sidewalk, where Ketchel was standing. The sidewalk was thronged with women, children and men. Ketchel stepped into the street, and, as the runaways passed, leaped for the bridle of the nearest horse. He was jerked from his feet, but hung onto the horse's head. For half a block he was dragged and bumped along the street. Ketchel finally checked the team and with the assistance of others brought them to a standstill.

When Ketchel arose he was cheered by the crowd. His identity was not discovered until he returned to his hotel for another suit of clothes. Spectators declare that his heroism probably averted a serious accident.

VICTORIA, B. C.

Wilton Lackaye in "The Battle." When Cleveland Moffett introduced "the survival of the fittest" as one of the main notes of his "The Battle," the play in which Wilton Lackaye is due at the Victoria theatre next Saturday evening, he also struck a plaintive minor chord with "it's hard to prove that to those who do not fit." Undoubtedly one of the principal factors in making "The Battle" one of the most successful plays of the past few years, was not the novelty of the author's attitude on the ever engrossing subjects of business achievement, but the human appeal of the characters who struggle onward unaided by financial genius such as Haggleton. It is on the appeal of the play as a drama, rather than on the fact that it interested John D. Rockefeller sufficiently to cause him to contribute to its dialogue, or that it caused a remarkable commotion among the Socialists of New York, that Lieber and Company rely in their hope that the play may duplicate locally its New York success. To this end an excellent production has been made, and a company of very capable players engaged in Mr. Lackaye's support. The latter has made the part of John J. Haggleton one of the most striking in a gallery that includes Svengali, Dr. Balgarn, Reb Shemuel and many others.

Fitch's Last Play.

It remained for Clyde Fitch to make the dramatic transition from the frivolous drawing-room to the analytical clinic in the last of the long series of plays from his pen. It remained for the Clyde Fitch, cold in death, to receive the laurels for serious dramatic writing that were withheld from the Clyde Fitch warm in life. The public, pleased yet surfeited with the many three-act foible exposes of the gifted, light-touched playwright, had come to regard him as a master of the chiffofied themes, whose other adjective is "society"; but, beyond that, they had agreed that his capabilities were, to say the most, conjectural. Picture, then, the surprise when "The City" flashed forth his unknown strength far afield—away from the dollies and tarts and tattle in the heart of the jungle of wild, beating emotions. "The City," which comes to the Victoria theatre next Tuesday, wields the scalpel at human beings where "A Happy Marriage" and so many of Fitch's other plays used only the paper cutter.

RELATION OF INSECTS TO HUMAN HEALTH

Natural History Society Arranges for Address by Dr. G. Gordon Hewitt

The Natural History Society is arranging for a public meeting to hear a lecture by Dr. G. Gordon Hewitt of Ottawa, on the "Relation of Insects to Human Health," especially in connection with the house fly, under the auspices of the Natural History Society at 8 p. m. on Tuesday next at the Broad street hall. The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides and will be free to the public.

Dr. Hewitt is an eminent entomologist and succeeded the late Dr. Fletcher as Dominion Entomologist at Ottawa, and since the subject of his lecture is of the most vital importance, in view of the sickness which has prevailed and is prevailing, owing to a great measure, it is believed by the medical fraternity, to the influence of the common housefly, everyone who can do so should attend the lecture.

The following is a copy of Dr. Hewitt's letter to the secretary of the Natural History Society:

Sept. 23rd, 1910.
My Dear Anderson, I left Ottawa on Monday and found your telegram of the 18th awaiting me on my arrival here to-day. I shall be very pleased to give you a public lecture in Victoria. I will address you on "The Relation of Insects to Man," and shall deal principally with the relation of insect life to health and to the conservation of forests, in fact, "Conservation" will be my text. I shall require a lantern part of the time as I have slides illustrating the relation of insects to the public health, a subject upon which I am lecturing on behalf of the city council, at Regina for the provincial government, and at Vancouver. It will, of course, be a popular lecture in no way technical. Sincerely yours, G. GORDON HEWITT.

FORMULATE PLANS FOR COMING POULTRY SHOW

Local Association Met Last Evening to Discuss January Exhibition

Plans for the annual show of the Victoria Poultry and Pet Stock Association, to be held during the first week of January, are now being formulated. A meeting of this organization was held last evening in Labor hall, Douglas street, when the coming show was discussed. There were a large number of poultry raisers present and judging from the spirit of enthusiasm which prevailed the 1911 show will be one of the best ever held by the association.

Although several months have yet to elapse before the show will be held the members of the association are buckling down to work with the sole object in view of making this next year's show a financial success. The last exhibition held by this organization was the first to leave a surplus, and the members hope that the coming show will help to swell the funds of their association considerably.

A committee, consisting of the following, was appointed to draw up the prize lists: James Wood, H. D. Reid, Jas. Garland, W. E. Machtrieb, R. T. Edwards, W. McDowell, A. B. Ormond, J. West, Geo. Middlestark, J. H. Hughes, J. Smith, W. H. Van Arum, A. J. Gray, E. Greenwood and Messrs. Pyle and Lewis. This committee will meet weekly, every Wednesday evening, at the meeting next week, will be held in Sylvester's store, and it is the request of the president that all those who can possibly attend may do so.

The work of selecting judges has proved a very trying task to the association. After a great deal of discussion as to whether the birds should be judged by comparison or score card, the association has decided on the former method. George Wood, of Winnipeg, a judge who is reported to be equal to any on the continent, has been appointed to place the cards in the chicken classes.

There are three names before the association for the position of judge of the pet stock, T. Wilkinson, of Nanaimo; Mr. Allison, of this city, and Mr. Jenner, of Seattle. Jack Smith, George Middlestark and R. McDowell were appointed a committee to communicate with these gentlemen and report at the next general meeting.

The matter of securing a hall is now occupying the attention of this organization. It is impossible to obtain the Broad Street hall, where the show was held last year, and it is thought that the association will once more have to hold their exhibition in the market building. As the Victoria & Sidney railway will not be occupying this building, then there will be more space available than has been the case in former years. The secretary was instructed to interview the mayor and council to see if arrangements for the hall could be made.

Several alterations are to be made in the rules governing the judging of the breeding pens, the most coveted prize in the show. At past exhibitions the pen containing the largest number of prize winners has always been awarded the ribbon, but the members protest against this method. They believe that the prize should be awarded to the pen where the best results can be obtained from breeding.

Victoria's show, which is known throughout this province as the "quality show," will have several new exhibitors this time. The poultry industry is coming to the fore on Vancouver Island and each year many residents enter into this line of business. Every effort will be made to make this show the banner one of British Columbia.

SPY KILLED BY HAND OF ASSASSIN

Russian Who Betrayed Terrorists Slain While Seeking Place of Safety

Berlin, Oct. 6.—Eugene Azef, the Russian spy who is alleged to have planned assassinations in order that he might expose them, has been himself assassinated at Weisbaden, according to reports received here. The information has not yet been confirmed.

Azef was high in the councils of the Socialists and Anarchists and was a member of the committee that planned many of the assassinations. Though he exposed these to the Russian police he was so careful that he was not suspected by the other members of the terrorist party.

Since his exposure Azef has gone from place to place seeking safety. The Socialists put a price on his head and swore vengeance.

ELECTROCUTED AT WASHING MACHINE

Woman is Killed While Trying to Save the Life of Her Brother

Brigham City, Utah, Oct. 6.—A simple device attached to the wringer of a washing machine operated with deadly effect when it drew from a live wire more than 1,900 volts of electricity and dealt death in a horrible form to Thomas McMaster and his sister, Verma, and shocked the man's wife into unconsciousness.

In the act of adjusting the washing machine, McMaster had detached the small wire from the washer and was about to connect it with the clothes wringer when by some mischance he came in contact with a live wire. While the man writhed in death agony flames were darting from his arms. Seeing his pitiful plight his wife rushed to his side and was knocked insensible to the floor.

BUSINESS BEFORE TRADES COUNCIL

DELEGATES REPORT ON THE RECENT CONGRESS

Typographical Union Favorable to Members Wearing Clothing With Labels

At the regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council last evening, President Watters in the chair, A. G. Jacques presented his credentials as delegate from the Bartenders' Union. The hall committee reported in favor of allowing the Plumbers' Union free use of room No. 2 during the day as an office for the organizer, the union agreeing to instal a telephone. This report was approved.

Delegate Sherk reported that the unions, with one or two exceptions, had subscribed generously toward the expense of sending a delegate to the labor congress at Port William.

Delegate Sivert reported that Rev. Mr. Stevenson, a member of the Ministerial Association, desired him to express regret that a very busy season prevented the delegates from the association being present at the labor council meetings, and further requested that a delegation of the council be sent to meet the delegates of the Ministerial Association to discuss matters of grave import to both bodies. Final action will be taken when an official communication is received from the Ministerial Association.

E. A. Johnson, of the Typographical Union, wrote to say that he had resigned as delegate to the council from that union.

The secretary was instructed to thank H. Hallas Helmecken, K. C., for kindly sending printed matter of much interest to the labor council.

The Typographical Union secretary wrote to say that his union was in favor of compelling all delegates to the labor council to appear at meetings of that body with three union labels on their wearing garments. The secretary of the Bartenders' Union wrote giving a list of saloons and hotels that are strictly union houses.

J. C. Watters, delegate to the 25th convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, held at Fort William, Ontario, on the 12th of September, 1910, reported on the deliberations of that body.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Watters for his report, which was unanimously received and ordered printed and distributed among the unions. Delegate Miller, of the Plumbers' Union, reported on the success that had come to his union since putting a permanent business agent in the field, namely, the energetic Wm. Thacker.

Delegate Herberger reported that the machinists' strike was still in progress and that his union had no doubt of the final result.

The president took occasion to congratulate the Plumbers' Union for being the first union in Victoria to appoint a business agent, and hoped that all unions would follow their example. He pointed out that every one of the 45 unions in Vancouver had business delegates, the system not only benefited the unions, but prevented many unnecessary disputes between the men and the employers of labor.

The report of the delegate, read as follows:

The convention opened at 10 o'clock on the morning of September 12, in the city hall of Fort William. One hundred and thirty delegates were in attendance, representing organized labor from Halifax, in the east, to Victoria, in the west. Addresses of welcome were made by the presidents of the Trades and Labor Councils and the mayors of Fort William and Port Arthur respectively. The convention sat for the first three days in Fort William, the last three days in Port Arthur.

After striking the committees, the convention settled down to discuss the problems affecting the welfare of organized labor through the many resolutions introduced, and to dispose of the routine work as expeditiously as possible.

In addition to the varied resolutions adopted by the convention calling for the best thought and the greatest care of the executive council of the congress, with respect to legislation dealing with immigration, both Asiatic and European, the safeguarding of human life on railroads, the abolition of election deposit and property qualifications for holding public offices, etc., the convention took a long stride in the onward march of the congress by adopting amendments to the constitution providing for the chartering of Provincial Federation of Labor.

With regard to the status of the congress in Canada, and its relation to the American Federation of Labor, the consensus of opinion as expressed by the delegates in the convention is set forth in sections seven and eight of the report of the executive council, and is both important and significant in the extreme. The sections alluded to read as follows:

"It is, perhaps, right that your executive should make reference to a matter that came up for discussion during the interim. It will be left to the delegates to express themselves as they see fit upon the subject matter, but your executive feels it is expressing the views of every member of every body affiliated with this congress when it protests against being classed by any officer of the American Federation of Labor as a state federation. The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is as supreme in Canada as the American Federation of Labor in the United States, or the British Trades Union Congress in Great Britain, or similar bodies in France, Germany or elsewhere. The American Federation of Labor might just as well class those other bodies as state federations, and place the congress in that category. The American Federation of Labor as an organization has done nothing to justify our stating that it believes otherwise, but the correspondence of Secretary Morrison of that body shows that his view is that the congress is simply a state federation. We deny it, and no amount of argument will convince us to the contrary. The American Federation of Labor in the United States another, just so long will the congress speak as the supreme mouthpiece of the workers of this country, and it will make for a better understanding if all parties concerned will at once accept this intimation. This congress and every member and body affiliated with it, stands for international trade unionism, once and for all, but loyalty to that principle does not involve the admission that in other respects our congress is not supreme in Canada. We further believe that where trades councils are chartered by the congress that they should not be required to take out another charter from the American Federation of Labor. This congress requires every affiliated body to belong to the international union of its trade. An effort has been and is being made to have trades councils already chartered by the congress take out a charter from the American Federation of Labor. We do not believe such efforts are in harmony with that spirit of mutual respect that has been manifested heretofore at all times between the congress and the American Federation of Labor, and we strongly recommend that your executive be authorized to draw the attention of the proper officers of the American Federation of Labor to the matter, with a request that such efforts be discontinued.

Your executive strongly recommends the formation and chartering by the congress of provincial federations in each province, along the lines of state federations in the United States. We believe that such action will have a good effect in cementing together the workers of each province for the purpose of mutual protection and will encourage a more active interest in the legislation enacted from time to time respecting the rights of the masses. Such federations would be of untold assistance to the provincial executives, provided they work in harmony, in securing the passage of laws looking to the betterment of the toilers and in preventing and remedying abuses wherever they exist. For this purpose it is recommended that the incoming provincial executives take the initiative in calling a convention of the respective trade bodies in their jurisdiction for the purpose of organizing the federations."

It will be thus seen that while the congress recognizes the supremacy of the A. F. of L. as the expression of international trade unionism, both in Canada and the United States, the position of the congress as the legislative mouthpiece of organized labor in Canada, is exactly similar to that of the A. F. of L. in the United States—each of the two bodies is supreme on its own particular side of the international boundary line. Since therefore provincial labor bodies and central labor bodies together with the congress are legislative in their nature, in contradistinction to trade and labor unions proper, it logically follows that each of the three bodies enumerated must deal with Canadian institutions, and in order to promote the coherence that should obtain to enable each to sanction in its own sphere of activities, most effectively it is necessary that each should co-operate with the other to that end. This can be best accomplished by recognizing the supremacy of the congress in Canada and the subordinate bodies, both provincial and central, being chartered by the congress only.

The convention by resolution reaffirmed its attitude in favor of international peace, and instructed the executive to enter into correspondence with organized labor in Europe, as well as in America, with the view of arranging for an International Peace Conference of wage-earners, with the object of putting into operation a program which will have the effect of relegating warfare among civilized people to the reliquy of savagery.

A remarkably unanimous sentiment was expressed both on the floor of the convention and at the two public meetings held, as to the necessity of organized labor supplementing its efforts to secure recognition and the enactment into law of measures in the interest of labor through means of the Congress, by placing in the different houses of parliament wage-earners as labor's own representative. This end to be accomplished by reason of independent political action by labor.

One of the outstanding features of the convention was the address of the fraternal delegate from the A. F. of L., J. J. Manning, of New York. He possesses the happy faculty of appealing to the risibility of his audience in an extraordinary degree, while his word painting of conditions prevailing and labor's struggle on behalf of the congested industrial centres, the little white slaves of the Southern cotton mills and the pity inspired victims of the sweatshops, with the encouraging sentiments he uttered to keep up the fight, struck a chord which will long vibrate in the minds of hearers.

In conclusion, it is with extreme gratification your delegate has to report that acrimonious debate or personal abuse were conspicuously absent in the discussions arising from the different matters introduced to the convention. In spite of differences of opinion, an earnest desire, as a rule, to further the interests of organized labor and in consequence the welfare of humanity, was much in evidence, and while the Congress may fall short of our ideal, it is cause for congratulation and a source of encouragement to its affiliated membership, however, to cast the mind's eye over its past history and note the progress that has been made, to realize the latent possibilities within itself as a factor, not alone in elevating its own membership to a higher and better condition of life, but as a factor in promoting the world's peace and making for the enlightenment, progress and happiness of the human race. The result of the convention should stimulate each member of every union to renewed effort in bending his energy in the direction of doing all in his power to raise the standard of living from the broadest view point, not the view point of immediate working conditions alone, but from the view point of an all-embracing humanity. By raising our fellows from the slough of poverty, degradation and misery we are taking the best precaution to prevent ourselves being swept into the slough. By striving for the amelioration of labor, by giving every man the right to work and the full returns for his labor, the slough of poverty will disappear with its attendant squalor and wretchedness, and in its place will come a garden of comfort and peace.

How It Healed a Terrible Burn.

From top to bottom of the great British naval ladder Zam-Buk is known and used. Admiral and stoker alike have proved its value, as the foregoing and the following show:

Stoker Kingsnorth, of H. M. First Class Cruiser "Cochrane," says:—"One day I slipped and fell with my arm on an exhaust steam pipe, which fairly frizzled the skin. At once the ship's surgeon dressed my arm, but from the first, the burns took the wrong way, owing to a lot of coal dust and dirt from the pipe having got embedded in the flesh and setting up blood-poison. A large scab appeared, and from underneath the festering flesh matter oozed out. I was in fearful pain and didn't know how to get ease.

"For weeks I remained under treatment, but the ordinary ointments proved no good for my arm. Indeed, I got worse, and I became alarmed at the spreading of the poison. I therefore obtained a supply of Zam-Buk and almost as soon as this was applied I got ease. From the very first application, healing commenced; and a few boxes of Zam-Buk healed my wound completely."

No matter in what occupation or stage of life you may be, for skin injuries and diseases of all kinds you will find Zam-Buk is the latest and best in scientific healing. That is why it is so popular to-day. Mothers should see that it is always handy in the home. It is a proved cure for eczema, ulcers, abscesses, ringworm, poisoned wounds, tetter, itch, bad leg, varicose ulcers, suppurating wounds, cold sores, chapped hands, babies' sores, inflamed patches, etc. Zam-Buk is also a specific for piles. All druggists and stores at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse all substitutes and harmful imitations.

How Can a Cloth Be Rain-Proof, Yet Porous?

If you examine a single fibre of wool through a microscope, you will find a small passage or canal through the interior. When the cloth is rained upon this canal, in its normal state, immediately fills with water, and the woollen material is said to be in a soaked condition. Now, by the secret English process by which our cloths are made rain-proof, each canal in each fibre of wool is filled up with an insoluble substance, thus destroying the hygroscopic quality, or, in other words, the power of the fibre to absorb water.

Add to this the apparent opacity of the material obtained by the texture being tightly woven, and you have the perfection of a rainproof yet porous cloth, which will resist hours of continuous rain.

YOU ARE INVITED TO CALL AND EXAMINE OUR RAINCOATS.

RECIPE FOR 16 OUNCES OF COUGH SYRUP
No Better Remedy at Any Price, Fully Guaranteed

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualic acid and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

as very beautiful as long as it is hers exclusively, is relegated to limbo as soon as it becomes sufficiently inexpensive for a few other people to have it? What else is it that makes the possession of a diamond seem infinitely more desirable than the possession of its paste imitation, even in the eyes of those who could not probably tell the difference between the two? How few values are determined by beauty and utility, and not at all by rarity—that is the possibility of general ownership.

Did you ever see any laces half so beautiful as the dove-sparkling cobwebs that you find on the grass of an early morning, and that look as if the fairies had left them there when they fed from their revels at dawn?

Well, just suppose for a moment that these cobwebs could by some process be made indestructible and used on gowns. If that process did not cost much, and this beautiful lace were as free as air, how many rich ladies do you think would wear it? Why, none at all, of course. They'd all prefer their infinitely less beautiful Mechlin and old Duchesse laces, just because these were out of reach of most people.

Myself, I confess with shame that when I first obtained a long-cherished desire, and rode horseback, a not inconsiderable part of my pleasure consisted in having the envious glances cast at me that I had so long cast at other people.

Isn't it all absurd?

Can't we rise above it and learn to like and admire and strive for things just because we get pleasure out of them, and not because other people can't have them?

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

"Half the unhappiness in the world comes from thinking other people are happy."

That epigram, which I read in Life the other day, appealed to me as one of the best things I have ever run across in that delightful candy-box medicine chest of humor-colored truths.

But I think it's converse, or is it "opposite"?—I'll have to leave that to the geometry students. I guess—is even truer.

That is, half the happiness in the world is caused by thinking other people are unhappy.

Perhaps you think that's a very wild statement.

I don't, and maybe you won't when I tell you just how I mean it.

Whether they admit it to themselves or not, I thoroughly believe that a very great part of many people's enjoyment of valuable opportunities and possessions is in thinking that not everybody can have them.

In other words, a great deal of the pleasure they receive is founded on other people's envy, which is certainly a very poignant kind of unhappiness.

Why else is it that a pretty model or an attractive style, which the rich madame is delighted with and regards

MARINE NOTES

A New York exchange of recent date states that the steamships Yale and Harvard, previously reported sold for service on the Pacific Coast, will leave New York shortly for San Francisco, using both coal and oil as fuel on the long voyage. Six of the twelve boilers in each vessel have been fitted for oil and six for coal consumption. The names of the purchasers are not divulged, but it is believed the steamships will be operated between San Francisco and Seattle. Another report states that the vessels have been sold to the Florida East Coast Railway for use between Miami and Havana.

The Bank liner Sueric leaves Mollatoy on her way to this port from Hongkong. She is due to sail from Yokohama on the 12th, and is expected to arrive Oct. 25th.

AUSTRALIA TO AWAIT RECEIPT OF TENDERS

Commonwealth Objects to New Zealand Call on Canadian Mail Service

Melbourne, Oct. 6.—The Commonwealth government has decided to revise its decision to call for tenders for the Canadian mail service, and will await the result of tenders called for by the Canadian government. Objection is taken to the inclusion of Auckland as a port of call because New Zealand's preferential tariff gives the products of that country an advantage over the Australian. The view is taken, however, that if the Canadian tenders are reasonable Australia may share in them, but in the best informed circles this is thought to be improbable. It is pointed out that the fact of Australia being prejudiced by tariffs as compared with New Zealand is a sufficient obstacle in the way. Recently it will be recollected, Sir Wilfrid Laurier endeavored to induce Australia to include New Zealand in the proposed mail service, but, as was announced at the time, with very little possibility of success.

CHINESE SMUGGLED ACROSS BORDER

United States Officers Are Making Investigation in Eastern Cities

(Special to the Times.) Montreal, Oct. 6.—United States authorities are here to investigate the cause of the large increase of Chinese in American cities. It is claimed that a wholesale smuggling trade has been worked through Canadian ports into the United States, and under different disguises hundreds of Chinese are being taken across the border each month. Tong societies of American cities have engineered the game and it is said Chinese smuggled by them are virtual slaves for two years till they liquidate the heavy charges imposed for the service rendered.

The Eiffel Tower, Paris, has become such a favorite mark for aviators to round that the Aero Club has issued a notice warning airmen not to pass too close because of the antennae used in connection with the tower's wireless installation.

The prefecture of police has taken official action in connection with aviation for the first time in asking the Aero Club to recommend that aviators avoid landing in towns. This action was due to Parbot landing in the Esplanade des Invalides in Paris.

A WEST AFRICAN SKETCH

BY J. J. M.

Dedicated to His Unknown Correspondent

Street, Victoria, B. C., Oct. 4, 1910.

To J. J. M., care Times Office, City.

"Dear Sir—

"All my lady friends and I have so very much enjoyed these nice and amusing stories you have written for The Daily Times, that I thought I would write and ask you if you would be good enough to write just one more short story before you leave Victoria."

"The reason I am taking this liberty is that I have cut all your stories out of the paper and put them in my scrap book, and one more will just fill it up. All your poetry I have learned off by heart, except the 'Avergent Woman,' which was very nicely worded, but I did not like it because it was too hard on our poor girls. I have noticed that all your stories, except one, were about Australia. Of course, Canadians do not like Australia, so I thought I would ask you to write your next story about Victoria West—oh, I mean West Africa—or some place where savages love and marry in their own way.

"By granting my request you will oblige several readers of the Times and none more than

"Yours very sincerely,

"MARY AGNES."

However susceptible the tendencies of my fair correspondent may be, I must admit she is particularly, if not indeed peculiarly, candid; however, as I do not claim the honor of being an Australian, I cannot take a very substantial exception to the fact of being told that "Canadians do not like Australia," and must, therefore, endeavor to "oblige," as requested, the friends of Mary Agnes, as well as Mary Agnes herself, with the following "short love story," which, in legal phraseology, "is true in substance and in fact."—J. J. M.

The Rev. George Cartwright was, I believe, jilted by the lady-superintendent of his Sunday school, who also acted as general superintendent of church organizations in Secombe, Berks.

Mr. Cartwright—young, earnest and hard-working—thought his heart was broken and went out to West Africa as a missionary. To use his own words, he disliked the idea of committing suicide, directly, but hoped to meet death at the hands of the savages or, to be more accurate, at the teeth of the cannibals, and in such a manner as would not only "wind up" his temporal tortures here but ensure him an eternal crown—a martyr's crown—hereafter.

Whether the Rev. Mr. Cartwright did really hope to win the "martyr's crown" in the manner stated, or, whether he really regarded his "temporal tortures" as a happy release and a blessing in disguise, does not appear very clear from the incidents which followed, but one significant particular in connection with the matter must be borne in mind that of all places under heaven, he went to Monrovia, then the capital of Liberia, the free negro republic.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln Smith was a negress who kept a sort of store, and you had to go up a ladder to get to it. Cartwright clambered laboriously up that ladder one morning and found the family—clothed briefly in bandanas and their kintias, and sitting on a heap of coffee berries. There was the mother, a son, and four girls, all full-blooded natives and all busy treading out and sifting coffee berries. Well, Cartwright sat down and began to talk. By and by a tremendous swell came up the ladder and asked for "Miss Rachel." This negress wore a dress waistcoat and gorgeous pyjama trousers, a tall hat, and a stars and stripes—the wonderful chape, those Liberians—and he "guessed and calculated," you know.

Just as Cartwright, in his modesty was making for the ladder, "Miss Rachel" came in, and shook hands with the gentleman in the dress waistcoat—the Hon. Albert Edward Walker.

Cartwright sat down on a cube-sugar box and remained. This Rachel, you know, had a skin like the inside of an Avocado pear before it is ripe enough to have streaks, and she wore more clothes than the others.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln was a Benin River woman, you see, and had looked after the camp of a white man down there.

"I don't know any details, you understand, but the man had been her first husband and the father of Rachel. He died of fever, and she came north and married a Warri River man in Liberia. Times when she had a son and four daughters, she buried her second man in Grand Bassam and took up her abode in Monrovia.

Now, Rachel was seventeen, and a girl you had to stare at. Heaven knows what sort of a man her father could have been. She was superb. You must have seen that sort of thing—silly hair, great, soft black eyes, figure a dream of lissam curves and "sensual oombas," all of a face of irregular type, but maddeningly beautiful.

Poor old Cartwright! He looked at Rachel up there in that funny old coffee-loft place, and I can imagine him turning a delicate pink. She paralyzed the man, and made his eyes ache. He had never before seen femininity when it's blazingly beautiful. The full glare of the thing frightened, and fascinated him. Honestly, he shivered when he mentioned her to me. I said:

"Oh, George, my friend, be wise in time!" But I don't think he knew in the least what I meant.

I am not certain, but I fancy she was sort of half engaged to the Hon. Albert Edward then, but her instincts, mind you, were a cut above that brilliant darkey, and her mother and sisters, too.

I warned Cartwright off two or three times, but he talked about his sacred calling, and his duty as a man—forgetting, I suppose, that he was a full-blown man, and so ought to have left that gold-skinned panther severely alone, let her faith be what it might. I met him once or twice when he was bound for the coffee-loft and went up with him. You ought to have been there, Mary Agnes—you who require character studies and are so partial to "short love stories."

The old woman saw exactly how the land lay, and her snoring was the weirdest kind of sport you ever saw. When she heard his step on the ladder she would hustle Rachel out of the room and then sit round with the rest of her family, and pose as an interesting semi-convert who wasn't quite sure of herself.

Pretty soon Cartwright would timidly ask where Mammy Smith's other daughter was, and there'd be a general simper all round, that you could have heard the other side of the town. Then Mammy would put her head through the hole at the back of the loft and sing out, "Yew, Rachel—oh Droo dem bo-oks, now do. Hee's Messah Ca-ar-right lib foh come see yew!"

Then Rachel, freshly fixed up, and glorious in new country cloth, would come curving into the room like a carpet snake, and sit down modestly at the white man's feet. I tell you, Cartwright would tremble all over, and he would nearly choke in his effort to be all the person. By-and-by Mammy would come to the door and look out as quietly as they could their eyes rolling and their great lips simpering. More than once I got tired of it, and made off down the ladder myself, hearing something like this as I left: "And do you understand this that I've been trying to tell you, Rachel?"

"Oh, yes, Master Cartwright!" This in a soft cooing voice from the panther. It was the most hopeless case imaginable, and I couldn't pretend much surprise when Cartwright, with a tremendous spurge, took me into his confidence one day. "The man's whole soul was wrapped up in that girl, and of course, he meant marriage."

"You see, McGinnis, the fact is that though I find Rachel docile and ready to learn—she has hereditary belief in her favor, I think—yet in Mrs. Smith and her other daughters racial instincts are so strong that I can make but little headway with Christian teaching."

"Well, but hang it," I said, "there's no need to convert the whole family!" I couldn't make out what he was driving at.

"Of course, I should like to do that," said Cartwright, "but that is not the point. The thing is that Mrs. Smith, whilst having no objection to my marrying Rachel, and marrying her in a Christian church, yet makes it a consideration that I should—it is a terrible proposal—that I should marry her also, and Rachel's sisters as well. No! please don't laugh, McGinnis. Horrible though the idea is to us, it is natural enough to these people, and as part of their religious creed, demands serious consideration, however much one may deplore it."

"And do you propose to marry the old haack and the family?" I asked.

"My dear McGinnis, surely you must see that, as a teacher of the Gospel, apart from my own convictions as a private individual, I—oh, hanging it is utterly impossible; and criminal, I believe, besides!"

"Look here, Cartwright, you're wearing yourself to a shadow over this thing all for the sake of a great lump of a negress who is laughing up her sleeve at your imbecility. You'll be down with fever before you know where you are, and think of the conversions you'll miss then! The Malabar calls here to-morrow and Rawlings, the English, the English, the English, is coming out in her. Take my advice, now; pack your traps and clear out down the coast with Rawlings on the Malabar."

"No! he wouldn't hear of it. His honor was at stake, and he loved the girl."

"Well, then, hang it!" I cried, "if you must marry the girl, take her with your other traps; let Rawlings marry you, and then settle somewhere—a good way nearer heaven than Liberia."

The Malabar was to arrive about noon, and leave again at or about 4 o'clock. We decided to pack Cartwright's belongings in rough cases, to make them look like cargo, and then send them off to the ship in charge of a couple of my Kroo boys. Then we thought Cartwright himself should go off early in the afternoon, and remain in Rawlings' cabin till all the shore-folk had left the ship. This would avoid rousing Mammy Smith's suspicion, and would enable me in a perfectly natural state to beg a half-hour for Rachel, and take her off to see the ship.

The plan worked well, and I saw the Reverend George comfortably stowed away in Rawlings' cabin. I say comfortably—he was trembling with nervousness, and implored me, with tears in his eyes, not to do anything which went against his conscience.

"Half an hour afterwards I was in Mammy Smith's loft.

"Morn, Mammy!"

"Morn, Messah Ginnis!"

"You lib foh let your Missy Rachel go for dem ship with me, huh?"

See dem peeps have holiday, huh?"

"Oh, yes, Messah Ginnis; foh sur she lib foh come one time, s'pose yew go hamba lib foh take um."

The first man I saw when I stepped on the Malabar's deck with Rachel was the Hon. Albert Edward Walker. He glared at me, and turning to Rachel, said:

"Gues you'd like t' see ovah th' frigit, Miss Rachel. Yew'll come right round with me? Do, now!"

But she stuck to me like a little brick and, later on, one of the Hon. Albert Edward's friends sang out for him to join them in the boat, which was starting for the shore. He wanted Rachel to go with him then, but she said she was waiting to go in my boat, and so Walker had to leave us. I waited till the Malabar's anchor was apeak, and everyone else for the shore had left her. Then I called my boat to the Jacob's ladder, and bade Rachel "good-bye."

By the time my boys had started their "yew alloo, alaa lai" boat song the Malabar was fairly under way, and I could see Cartwright standing on the poop and waving his soft felt hat to me with one hand, whilst Rachel had possession of the other. I naturally thought his affair was satisfactorily completed, as far as I could effect it; and I several times expressed to myself a sincere hope that Rawlings would not refuse to marry them.

I put up with the white agents at Digby Farn's that night and told them the whole story, after sending a message down to Mammy Smith to explain that Rachel had gone off with Missah Cartwright.

It was just as well that I put up with the white agents, because Mammy went round to my place and shamefully manhandled two of my servants, in the course of her search for me.

Three days later an intermediate boat came down the coast and stopped a couple of hours at Monrovia. After this steamer had left I heard with some surprise that Mammy Smith and her four daughters had gone aboard as deck passengers, and had left the store in the hands of young Smith, the son.

"Sis! she gone to hunt up Cartwright," said the men at Digby Farn's, and I began to fear there might be something in the idea.

Sure enough, when the next home-bound boat touched at Monrovia I learned that Mammy and her progeny had landed at Kandamal only a few days after George Cartwright went ashore there with Rachel. I had a little time on my hands just then, so I made off down the coast by the very next steamer for Kandamal, and landed there, by a fiendish stroke of luck, with a touch of fever in my blood and my skin on fire. However, I managed to get hold of four carriers and started inland in a hammock for a village called Anamo, where I was told I would find Cartwright. I arrived at the big Ju-Ju house outside the village just after sunset, and was sufficiently feverish then to wonder how much of what I saw might be real and how much fancy. There was an enormous fire blazing in a plantain grove near the Ju-Ju house, and around this fire every man, woman and child in the village seemed to be dancing. It was a big bobby—I knew that by the trimmings and frills—but what it was all about I could not at first make out. Inside the ring of dancers was a smaller ring of Ju-Ju men, all robed in spotless white Manchester stuff, and chanting for their very lives. There was no moon that evening, and the grove—all prickly pear, bananas, and plantains—being only lighted by that great mangrove fire, the scene was rather weird. I assure you. Suddenly the Ju-Ju men fell flat on their faces and the mad dance was stopped. The centre of the circle was exposed in this way, and as I hope for heaven, Cartwright was standing there in his black tail-coat and white choker, fanning his streaming face with his big-soft hat. Round him in a little ring were clinging Mammy's four girls, black and glittering, and Rachel, golden-skinned and beautiful, squatting, crooning Ju-Ju charms to the tune of "Hold the Fort." You may think I'm painting, but it's a bald fact, as I am a sinner.

The immediate subsequent proceedings had no interest for me. My little bout of fever gave me all the trouble I had any use for, and I became unconscious. I was not really clear about things for a few days and then I woke in Cartwright's bungalow at Kandamal, next to the little tin church that stands on piles near the beach.

It was evening, and I was in the big ground floor room. Near the window sat the Reverend George, with Rachel at his side. Squatting on the floor in a row behind this couple sat Mammy's four other daughters, wearing the headgear of married women.

Now, perhaps, you can guess why it wouldn't be very easy for our friend George to go home. Of course, it's given out that Rachel's four sisters just keep house at Kandamal and save Cartwright and Rachel servants' wages, and as a matter of fact, that is literally true; but all the same, on this evening of my arrival in that hammock at Anamo, the Rev. George Cartwright had been forced to choose between losing Rachel—she would have gone back with Mammy Smith and the four others—and marrying the four sisters in the church at Ju-Ju—Mammy herself apparently having, as a sort of compromise, withdrawn her own claim at the last moment. He chose the latter alternative and I was the only white man in Africa who witnessed the ceremony.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH MEXICO

SMALL COMPARED WITH THE UNITED STATES

Some Hints Which May Be Useful to Producers in British Columbia

The Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, has just issued the following bulletin on trade with Mexico: The total importation of foodstuffs and provisions into this republic is not at all commensurate with what one would expect for a country of some 16,000,000 inhabitants. This is due principally to three reasons: first, to the fact that about 75 per cent of the population, numerically speaking, belong to the poor or laboring class, which does not earn a wage permitting it to indulge in the luxury of imported foods, or to a very limited extent; secondly, a great many articles considered by northerners as prime necessities are scarcely known by name to the vast majority of the other 25 per cent of the native element; and, thirdly, owing to the high rate of duty charged on nearly everything that comes under this heading, the consumption by those who would otherwise buy much more freely is consequently sparing.

The more important articles of importation under the above heading, the totals of which, due to the reasons already cited, is comparatively unimportant, are: (1) hams, bacon, fish, etc.; (2) canned meats, canned fish and condensed milk; (3) lard; (4) butter; (5) cheese; (6) dried fruits; (7) fresh fruits and vegetables; (8) preserved fruits and vegetables; (9) food seeds and grains; (10) crackers and biscuits of all kinds and (11) wheat and other flour, including breakfast foods and food starches.

As the effect of the financial crisis of 1907 was more pronounced in the fiscal year July, 1906 to June, 1909, than in the previous year, there was a general falling off in imports of 30 per cent as compared with 1907-8 and this notwithstanding that grain (mostly wheat) was imported in the latter period to nearly five times the amount of the earlier, or $2,328,000 as against $480,000. In this connection it is gratifying to learn from the aggregate returns of foreign trade for 1909-10, just to hand, that business is again becoming normal and the imports for said period show an increase of 25 per cent over the previous year 1908-9.

Speaking of years in which conditions are normal, there is no likelihood of any pronounced increase in the near future in the importation of the articles under review. As the country increases in population, as the immigration of foreigners continues, as wages grow gradually higher and as articles of every day consumption become known to and in demand by the large native population, there will naturally be an increase in the consumption of imported food products. But as all these contributing causes are of gradual growth, so must also be the imports of the special products mentioned. In years of domestic crop failure a temporary check may be looked for along certain lines, for the money stringency caused by large purchases abroad of the three staples of prime necessity—corn, beans and wheat—necessarily lessens the amount of money available for those products that are consumed more or less as luxuries or of secondary necessity.

With the single exception of the United States, all the butter sent to Mexico is preserved. Denmark, in this item, leads all other countries, not even excepting the United States. During the past year (1909-10), a larger amount has found its way from Canada, but still to a very inconsiderable extent notwithstanding that the quality has been good. Nearly all the butter from the United States for Mexico is fresh dairy, brought in on ice by express in wrapped pound packages. With a cold storage service from Canada and a warehouse here with cold storage, Canada could not only become a strong competitor, but the Canadian could undersell the American article and get the preference for quality.

In years past Canadian cheese has been favorably received here, but the importations have dwindled to zero due to lack of proper and energetic pushing. The last sentence in regard to butter will apply equally to cheese.

Canada could not compete with other countries to a very great extent as the bulk of the imports under this heading are of fruits not produced there. There is, however, more or less of a market for evaporated apples, peaches, cherries, berries, etc.

The bulk of the imports of fresh fruit and vegetables consists of apples and potatoes, though peaches, pears, plums, grapes and Spanish onions each contribute their quota. If Canadian exporters would inform themselves in regard to the requirements and conditions of the market, they should be able to obtain a fair share of the apple and potato trade. Apples should invariably be packed in the standard apple box (not barrel) and potatoes in crates or barrels, never in bags. Also shipments should be made all rail through the United States, as the long ocean voyage through the hot weather of the tropics, and the delay in passing the customs at a tropical seaport, are most serious factors against their arrival at destination in good condition.

It takes from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 eggs a year to supply the demands of the calico printers of the United States.

REVELSTOKE TRAGEDY

Revelstoke, Oct. 5.—A significant feature of the Julian tragedy, in the opinion of the majority classifying it inevitably as attributable to Mafia policy, was the peculiar black mark virtually around the face and which is taken to be the mystic symbol of a Black Hand chapter. This mark, or brand, the doctors testify, penetrated slightly below the skin, and was evidently caused by some peculiar acid, the character of which has not as yet been determined. The aid of the most expert chemists will be necessary in this connection.

At a meeting of the city council a resolution was passed that $500 be added by the city to the reward offered by the provincial government for the conviction of the murderers of Frank Julian.

According to the latest board of agriculture returns, there were in Great Britain 7,030,982 cattle, 1,582,993 horses, 21,678,419 sheep, and 2,389,587 pigs in June, 1909, while the number of dog licenses issued was 2,866,168.

Uncle Walt
The Poet Philosopher

Mary clerked in Whimple's store, and her heart was sick and sore, for poor Mary wasn't strong, and the hours were beastly long, and her pay was pretty slim, and the boss was sour and grim. Mary's nerves were worn to shreds, selling yarns and pins and threads. And one day a haughty dame to this salesgirl's counter came, wanting stuff to make a gown; and she made the girl hand down fifty tons or so of cloth; and she grew exceeding wrath 'cause the prices were too high; and she glared with fiery eye at the weary girl and said: "Hustle! Try to earn your bread! Bring me half a carload more of the dress goods in your store! On those highest shelves I see fabrics that look good to me!" Then poor Mary, worn and weak, soaked that woman on the cheek; slugged her three times on the nose with a bolt of linen clothes, hit her roundly with a chair, pushed her down the cellar stair. In the court the case was tried, and poor Mary, weary-eyed, told her simple tale with tears, thinking she would get ten years. But the jurors, honest men, did not send her to the pen. "She's not guilty!" they all cried, and she's now the foreman's bride.

COMPLICATIONS OVER GARBAGE TIN SCHEME

Denied That City Has Right to Insist Upon One Type of Utensil

Two important matters were considered at a special meeting last evening of the health and morals committee of the city council—the question of improvements and alterations to the isolation hospital, and that of the right of the city to compel householders to use a certain type of garbage tin. In regard to the hospital the medical health officer, Dr. G. A. B. Hall, is of the opinion that the funds available under the by-law are entirely inadequate; and in respect to the garbage tins the city solicitor will be asked for an opinion upon the ability of the city to enforce the provisions of the by-law, making it compulsory for householders to use only such cans as are approved by the city.

At last night's meeting it developed that some of the local tinsmiths, who tendered on the tins, as required by the city, but who were unsuccessful in getting the contract, are preparing to manufacture a tin for sale to such householders as will take them. The tinsmiths claim that the city cannot force householders to purchase the city tin, and they foresee a demand for their own product.

Mayor Morley was of the opinion that the city can force the use of only such standard tin as is called for by the city, and it has not now that power the by-law can be so amended as to make it obligatory on householders to adopt the standard of size and pattern. The city solicitor's opinion will be sought upon this point.

Health Officer Dr. G. A. B. Hall, Sanitary Inspector Lancaster and Ald. Raymond were authorized to consider what changes and additions are necessary to put the present inadequate isolation hospital premises, in a proper condition and report back with proper plans.

Dr. Hall recently submitted a plan of construction which would have cost some $42,000 but this amount was considered too much to spend and only $25,000 was granted. He had favored a central administration building whence the other buildings would branch off, the necessary offices, accommodation for the nurses, office, heating, etc., to be placed in the administration building.

Mayor Morley did not think an administration building is necessary though Dr. Hall stated that through lack of some such central structure present conditions in the hospital in some respects are direful. Some steps will be taken towards improving the grounds particularly with regard to providing recreation for convalescent children.

ORDERED TO TESTIFY AT BRIBERY INQUIRY

U. S. Senate Committee Wants Evidence of Men Who Are Under Indictment

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Ignoring the plea that State Senator Broderick is about to be tried on a charge of bribery, the senatorial committee investigating the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate, yesterday ordered Broderick to appear and testify completely concerning his alleged connection with legislative bribery.

Broderick is under indictment at Springfield on a charge of having given $1900 to State Senator Holtzlaw for Holtzlaw's vote for Lorimer. He is about to be tried at Springfield, according to the prosecution.

Holtzlaw already has been before the Lorimer committee and testified that Broderick gave him the money with the understanding that his vote was to be cast for Lorimer.

Broderick was summoned and his attorney, Dawson, declined to allow him to testify unless the committee should order it. Dawson said that he would be willing to allow Broderick to testify in general but not in detail.

Chairman Burrows said: "The chair will not enter into an agreement as to what the witness should or should not testify. He must answer all questions."

Lee O'Neill Browne, who already has been tried and acquitted, probably will be compelled to testify similarly. Browne also is under indictment in Springfield.

The committee granted Attorney Dawson until to-day to decide whether Broderick shall decline to testify. Browne was summoned and given until to-day to decide also.

ALBERTA WINS CUP AT SPOKANE

Exhibit at Dry Farming Congress Captures Prize—Election of Officers

Spokane, Oct. 6.—An argument against the conservation policy outlined by Mr. Roosevelt against the conservation policies of Ballinger as well as those of Pinchot, is outlined in the address of Congressman F. W. Mondell of Wyoming, president of the Dry Farming Congress, on "Dry Farming and Its Relation to the Public Land Laws," read before the assembly yesterday by Secretary John T. Burns.

The address closes with the assertion: "The present doctrine of national conservation, which contemplates permanent national ownership of all mineral, all pasture and all wooded lands in the country is so radical that it behooves every thinking man to carefully consider the effect of such a system of permanent government landlordism."

Congressman Mondell declares the policy of "permanent government ownership" of the timber area tends to concentrate the lumber business in a few hands.

J. H. Worst, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, was selected as the unanimous choice for president of the Dry Farming Congress, and immediately assumed office.
