DR. ISAAC M. WISE.

Prepared by

Librarian, Hebrew Union College.

NOTE.

The following is a tentative (by no means selective) list of the writings of Isaac M. Wise. With a single exception (no. 39), and unless issued as a "separate", no attempt was here made to survey his numerous, signed and unsigned, articles, essays, sermons, novels and stories that appeared during a period of fifty-three years in the Israelite (afterwards, American Israelite), or to record the important dissertations and translations he contributed to the Asmonean and the Deborah. Neither are his addresses published in the Proceedings of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations included; while his contributions to the Occident are only in part here listed.

However, the year 1919, the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Dr. Wise, will be a timely and an appropriate occasion to give a complete and systematic bibliography of the works that have issued from his pen for over four decades.

The list is divided into two sections (I. Separate Works; II. Articles and Contributions), consecutively numbered; and the titles in each section are given in chronological sequence. Reprinted articles, &c., are listed in section I. "Editions" of any given independent work follow the original issue. The occasional annotations may not prove altogether superfluous. The abbreviations employed are self-explanatory.

A. S. O.

[N. B.—The list was originally prepared with the view of having it appear as an Appendix to the work "Isaac Mayer Wise", by Max B. May (New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons), and it is being published as such. However, owing to the many changes Mr. May was obliged to make—changes which all but enhance the value of the compilation—it was found necessary to issue it independently.]

I. SEPARATE WORKS.

1. The end of popes, nobles and kings; or, The progress of civilization, delivered before the Hebrew Young Men's Literary Association of the City of New York, (December 22d 1852). New York: J. Muhlhæuser, 1852. 20 p. 12°.
2. History of the Israelitish nation, from Abraham to the present time. Derived from the original sources. v. 1. Albany: J. Munsell, 1854. xxiv, 560 p. 8°.

No more published (see, however, no. 19; see also no. 39).—2,000 copies printed.—For criticism, see: Asmonean, v. 9 (1854), p. 140; Israelite, v. 1 (1854-55), p. 43; Occident, v. 11 (1853-54), p. 520-521, 613-619; v. 12 (1854-55), p. 16-38, 79-86, 315-319, 398-411, 455-461, 549-557.

3. מנהג אמריקא. תפלות בני ישראל חלק א'. סדרו והעתיקו בפקודת האסיפה הגדולה בק"ק קליוולאנד הרבנים יצחק מאיר ב"ר יהודה, בנימין ב"ר יצחק, ישראל בן מוהר"ר שמחה בונם. צינציננאטי, תר"י"ו. [Cincinnati: Bloch & Co., 1857.] 1 p. l., ii p., 1 l., 5-144 p. 16°.

In Hebrew.—It "was practically Wise's work" (Jewish Encyclopedia, article "Wise, I. M."; by D. Philipson).—Also issued together with the following English and German versions.

4. מנהג אמריקא. The daily prayers, part 1. Revised and compiled by the committee of the Cleveland conference. Translated by Isaac M. Wise. Cincinnati: Bloch & Co., 5617 [=1857]. iv, 5-120 p. 16°.

Also issued together with the Hebrew version.—"Wise made the English version, for which Nathan Mayer furnished metrical translations" (Reminiscences, p. 345).

5. Gebet-Buch für den oeffentlichen Gottesdienst und die Privat-Andacht. Theil 1. Geordnet und übersetzt von der in der Cleveländer Conferenz ernannten liturgischen Commission, den Rabbinern Kalisch, Rothenheim und Wise. Cincinnati: Bloch u. Co., 1857. iv, 5-171 p. 16°.

Also issued together with the Hebrew version [and with the Hebrew-English versions?].—"Kalisch and Rothenheim composed the metrical portions of the German version. The prose German translations were divided among the three" (Reminiscences, p. 345).—"It is characteristic of the statesman-like views Wise had of the conditions that his Minhag America was [originally?] published without his name on the title page. It is the first revised book for Jewish devotion in America without an editor's name" (Selected writings, p. 67). The writer is mistaken: the original Hebrew, English, and German editions have Wise the editor and translator, respectively, on their title-pages.—For criticism, see: Sinai, Jahrg. 2 (1857-58), p. 788-792; Jahrg. 3 (1858-59), p. 837-841, 867-871, 978-981, 995-997.—See also no. 10-12a.

"The comedy owed its existence to the poverty of the Jewish hospital [of Cincinnati]. The hospital needed money, and I wrote a comedy which was performed by amateurs in the Allemania for the benefit of the hospital. It achieved its purpose. A gracious audience laughed and applauded. There were occasional hisses and whistlings, because I castigated unmercifully the prevalent evil, card playing" (Reminiscences, p. 334).
