Dear Captain Haraburda:

Congratulations! The Army Astronaut Nomination selection Board has recommended you to NASA for consideration as a candidate astronaut mission specialist.

The Army will now forward your application to NASA for competition in the national selection process. The NASA selection process is six months in duration. Those applicants who NASA deems to be best qualified are invited to the Johnson Space Center, Houston, Texas, for one week of orientation, interviews and medical evaluations. NASA will directly contact all applicants they wish to interview.

Again, congratulations on your selection. The Army wishes you the best of luck during the national selection process.
