THE LEGISLATURE. Sitting of the 9th January, 1835. IN SENATE.

Mr. Moore gave notice that he would introduce a bill to remove obstructions from different rivers; and presented full to reneal the act establishing cotton weighers. Mr. Lubauve presented a bill to amond the act relating the ende of practice, and another to incorporate the New Orleans and Carrollton rail-road company. The bill formerly presented by Mr. Moore; substituting the second Monday of February for the third Monday of January, as the period for making the official appointments by the governor, was made the order of the day.

Mr. Moore said he introduced this bill at the express of heitation of the retiring governor in his last message—that he might be relieved from the responsibility of making the appointments immediately before his leaving office. Mr. N. is not interested in any appointments which may be made by tior. Roman; yet wishes to exenerate him from the duty of gratifying his friends, by giving them places, and from any artacks which might be made by his enemies. Indeed it is the only request of governor Roman which he is inclined to grant; and he hopes that it will be complied with-that Mr. Wante may be an independent officer, and that Mr. Roman may retire peaceably to private life.

Mr. Hon does not object to the principle of the bill; yet he th uks that a serious difficulty would attend its enactment. By the law, all the state officers are obliged to give securitas during their continuance in office; and these securities terminate on the 3d Monday of January, therefore, altho, the legislature may extend the period of service of the officer, they cannot enforce the excusion of the time for which the securities have been given.

Mr. Saunders moved to have the bill postponed, 'till the senate shou dreceive more information on the subject. He thinks there is already an act which provides for the difficulty-as as all persons in office are empowered to retain ther situations till their successors shall have been appoint ed. If so, the present governor need rot be in the dilemma state—of appointing the executive of hours of his successor-Mr. Moore thinks that when Mr. Duppe retired from of five as governor, he resigned the nominations to his successer. Mr. Roman; so that the appointments were delayed first weeks beyond the legal time. If a delay occurred at that time for such a period, why not now for two weeks? and | ag inst 19. if the delay was then made without law, why might it no now be equally enforced with law? According to the pre scal period of making nominations, a governor is strictly re sponsible for the executive acts of his government, only for the two weeks in which he and his own appointed officers act conjuindly.

Mr. Saunders did not then wish to depute the policy of the bill: for a discussion on that topic would involve paints of constitutional law. He meant inerely to notice the exsed ency, the conveniency or inconveniency, of the proposed bill. It the laws arleady existing are adequate to permit the extension of the state officers for two or four weeks; then there is no need for any additional law on the subjects but if they are not, then is there an additional metive for posiponing the measure: for it may be politic, and involve a c institutional question. The bitt was postponed.

The senate concurred in the resolution of the other house to meet together in the hall of representatives on Monday next at 1 P. M. to elect a senator to congress.

The resolution proposing an inquiry sato the conduct the Ponchartrain navigation company.

On motion of Mr. Hen the bill was read a second time to incorporate the Merchants' Insurance Company, with capital of $250,000, in 5000 shares of $50 each.

Mr. Hoa presented a petition from the inhabitants of Lafayette and the suburbs in the paish of Jefferson, to amend the mode, and extend metice in that district. The senate then adjourned.

The edimirers of the fine arts will be pleased to under. stand that Dubuse's celebrated paintings of Adam and Eve are on exhibition in the rooms of Mr. Stevenson in Camp. street, nearly opposite the American theatre. These grea efforts of the pencil have attracted universal attention, and have elicited the warmest encomiums from connoisseurs .-From numerous highly favorable notices, we extract the following from the New-York Commercial of the 25th of last February

"ADAM AND EYE.—Such was the rush to see these great paintings on Saurday, that great numbers could not gain admittance for want of room. They are from the classic pencil of Dubufe, a favorite pupil of David. The garden of Eden. Adam is portrayed seated on a broken bank, with five lying in a recumbent porture at his side; the left arm of Eve is gracefully interlocked with Adam, and with her right hand she places in his unconscious grass the issais apple. The attitude and air of Adam is manly and noble—that e Eve delicate and graceful; but what shall we say of he face and extression? It is the very soul of poetry, simplicity truth, feeling and loveliness; if she had descended in a snow fake from the regions of purity, she could not have show flake from the regions of purity, she could not have looked more faccinating and lovely. Her eyes speak eloquent persussions to the wavering mind of Adam, half doubtful, and fearing but to err; if he gazes at the resistless angel by his side the looks upward upon the fair face of Heaven but there all is calm and serene; the sky relision in beauty maring life is there to disturb the solemnity of his repose, on the procession, and to have designated by a save the subtle and envenomed viper, who crawls unseen badge of distinction all those engaged in the action and unheast upon his bower of innocence and love. He comes, but in uncarthly silence, to turn his paradice into a fifthe 23d December 1814 and on the battle of the oomes, but in unearthly silence, to turn his paradise into a burning-hell; red wrath and maliguant malice glare from his horrid eye-balls, pestiferious with death, as he creeps with velvet-like pace from the trunk of a tree, and breathes the poison of his own hideous nature into the charmed ear of Eve: the spell is potent upon her—the honied accents of perverted and seening truth, enter into the too credulous and unsuspecting ears of the common mother of mankind, and she fails, a blasted and broken pillar of the composite order of behavy, grace and loveliness.

The tints which pervade the picture are cool, chasts and mellow, imparting a vigorous freshness and boldness of re-
