MOTHERS' DAY

This age is marked by so much that is new in the way of inventions, improved living conditions and in the status of women. The age of the mother who sacrificed everything for her home and children is passing. A new mother is here. Women are beginning to see that they owe something to themselves and they are willing to pay themselves in full. They consider their duty to themselves where they formerly thought only of husband and children. And this is right.

The woman who can spend eight hours a day in a business office and at the same time make a home for her husband and care for her children and bring them up to be good citizens is deserving of all praise. Women whose only interest is in the home and those whose only interest is in the office wonder how any one can hold two jobs at the same time, but, as the old saying goes, you never know what you can do till you try. This is one of the greatest problems of civilization today, one in which millions are interested, as witness the popularity of A. M. S. Hutchinson's story, "This Freedom," which deals with the mother who is a business woman.

It is not fair to herself nor to her children that a mother should sacrifice everything for them. It drains away her own life blood and only weakens them. But the modern tendency seems to be that the mother owes her children very little and they owe her still less. Any tie that binds is galling.

Older readers have mothers, or have had them, whose sole business was the welfare of the family, the making of a home, the establishment of a background and a foundation for the children. Her purpose in life was to clothe and feed, educate and inspire her offspring. She never rested and her duty was never done until her hands were folded for her at the last.

Others have mothers, or remember mothers, who had their interest just as much at heart but who sought diversion and recreation and culture for themselves outside the home, knowing this would better prepare them to be companions to the children and help them meet the problems of life.

The mother who from necessity must be the breadwinner for the family, while she is at the same time head of the home, and who does her job well, is deserving of all the honor and glory that the world can give.

There are mothers and mothers. Of course your own is, or was, the very best that ever lived. If she has gone, honor her memory on Mothers' Day. If she is living show the love and appreciation that is due her.

HELP TO SPREAD JOY

An association of neighborliness in every southern California community is one of the greatest needs of the day. The county is becoming so populous that without a recreation of the friendly spirit the residents of the "small towns" back east are going to dread their trip to the coast and many will find it pleasant to retire elsewhere.

Ten years ago the communities surrounding the city of Los Angeles were that small anyone knew everyone and everyone knew anyone as soon as they had settled in a neighborhood. This now is all changed. Community Service, in its way, tries to fill the bill; clubs are very good, but to many of country folk there is nothing more than a back-fence visit desired to cheer them along life's way So it is sound advice to all the residents of southern California to get acquainted with your neighbors-otherwise, you may not have them for long. Make them feel that you actually take an interest in them. Discuss the old days "back east," invite them over to your house to hear the radio, or "have them in" some evening for dinner. In other words, be hospitable and spread joy. It pays big dividends. Try it and see!

THE STORY

Dr. Ralph Leslie, just graduated from medical college, ships on the yacht Ella as deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opportunity to recuperate from an attack of typhoid fever. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorces named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. Turner is dissipated and evidently jealous of his wife and Vail. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid, the cook and Williams, the butler. Charlie Jones, a German sailor with a bent for

Sublivisions Possible

The powerful rays of publicity have made possible in Los Angeles the selling of subdivisions on an unpresedented scale. On the other hand, the opening up of subdivisions has made possible to a certain extent the enlargement and growth of the conveyors of tracts containing 80,000 tional lots. Mind you, that all this has taken place within a year.

A comprehensive survey of what prices actually are paid for residential rents in cities over the United States and Canada will be made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards through questionnaires sent out to its member boards in approximately 500 cities. The inquiry will also go into the question of what way

Southern California's Needs Call for More Than State of New York

Southern California used more lumber in 1923 than did the whole state of New York during the year of the last official census, with enough left over to provide homes for a complete new city the size of Des Moines.

Enough lumber was brought into Los Angeles harbor in 1923 to build 202,000 five-room bungalows. In other words, lumber boats brought in last year the equivalent of 554 bungalows a day. This is a statement in the current number of Southern of Commerce.

Washington Meet Are Being Made Now

Reservations for the All-California and Western Realtors special train to Washington for the national real estate convention are being made through the California Real Estate Association offices in Los Angeles.

Thus far more than fifty reservations have been made, and an additional fifty are needed to insure getting the train. The special will leave via the Union Pacific on May 28, starting from San Francisco, Portland and Los Angeles on the same date. It will be a complete train of sleepers, and will arrive at Washington the evening of June 1. The convention will open two days later.

A large number of realtors from the Northwest and states enroute will join the All Western special. President F. S. Barrett will be at the head of the Northwest delegation, and President Henry P. Barbour will head the California delegation.

Nature's nesting season holds a strong home-building appeal for every man and woman.

And aside from the sentiment, aside from the comfort, convenience and pride of ownership which a new home of your own provides—it's a good, sound business investment.

With construction materials abundant and skilled builders ready to materialize the "home of your dreams" —now is the time to erect your future residence.

There is a need of more homes in this community. If those who have new homes in mind will make their plans and go through with them NOW, it will not only be a wise move individually but will be a service to the entire community. Notice--
