THE WARD COMMISSIONERS.—The city council has a ingth resolved to organize that part of the municipal government relating to the duties of the commissaries of the wards—who have had heretofore so much pay to receive, and so little duty to perform, that they became a nuivance on well as a burthen-complaint after complaint being reiter ated against them unavailingly.

Now it is intended that a commissary shall be seconified for each ward; and that he shall be subject to the requirements of the afferman of his ward as well as of the energy -use will thus fortunately be exonerated from the dutie he found so very opposite that the exchange them ! It is expected also that each commissary will be the collector of may be supposed to be intimate with all residents of his ward, their profession, occupation, etc.—and we may sugcest to the council that as each commissary must be acrespect, as that part of the sevenue is now shamefully acgiccied; and as such discipline would obviate the presumed utility of appointing special collectors of the paving taxes.

The simple principle for the due organization of the comthis serv department, is to make were commissary responward-whether these ardianages are for the preservation of order and heafth; or for the response to a man of probity and more commissery should therefore be a man of probity and in gence;—should be adequately remonerated (—give satisfactory securities for the response bility of his office; have at his command the police of the respective stationa, to remove the refractory;—and be hisself ander the remove. It would also be wall to render him response to for the collective was made to ascertain whether as inlend passage and the ward—particularly those reimbursing and Capt. the resources of the city would greatly be augmented.

PONTALBA-NEW ORLEANS.-The tragical circumstance extending the death of the elder Mr Pontalba are well known to most of our citizens; but not so are the particulars of his legacy. By his will be bequeaths the whole of his property this city-valued at 100,000 france, to the corporation of Mont l'Eveque, where he resided ton condition that that corporation shall erect a college for the education of 60 l'Evêque; 20 from Senlis; and 20 from New Orleans, But Mr Pontalba the son, preserves the usufruet of the property during his life.

It can scarcely be necessary to impress on the minds of the members of the city council the propriety pass of securing for our commerce and people, a saf and utility of concurring in the proposal, as soon as possibly ennyenient; and of releating as objects of this bounty, those who are destitute and meritorious.

The state of the certon market has undergone a very ferial edieration during the past few days in this city-few purchasers being willing to give the former high prices. Yet our advices from Liverpool -see the commercial intelligence in the See of this day-do not warrant any apprehensions and safely exact the expences of paving required from every that the demand for cotton will not be so great in Europe as Proprietor-which would certainly be a desideratum in every was anticipated. The consumption of the article has greatly increased, the demand must be commencerate with the consumption; and if any apprehension should be entertained, it is that the supply will not equal the demand. If this prove true, then cotton will command even higher prices than usual so that enceutators in the article may realize considerable r the enforcement of the city ordinances within his profit, by retaining or accumulating their stock on hand.

THE COTT ON TRADE.

The position of the cotton trade demands at this period the most serious attention of those engaged in it. If the the mest serious attention of those engaged in it. If the consumption of Europe, this year, is to equal that of the last, the stocks will no doubt, be very small in December next; but, should it go on a recessing in the same ratio, it remains to be shown whether the expected supplies from all quarters will prove adequate to it. Prices have wore all quarters will prove adequate to it. Prices have been gradually advancing during the last twelve months and this improvement has not originated in theoretical speculation, but has been founded on the legitimate basis of increased demand for munfacturers. In the United States of America, as one estimates the growth of cutton over 1,250,000 bales, while many maintain that is will fall considerably short of that amount, and, also, that the opanity required the considerable and the termination of the sail around the sail of the sail or the sail of the sail or and the sail of the sail or and the sail of the sail or and the sail an considerably such a state mount, and, and, that the quantity required for consumption there will exceed that of the provious year. That country is, of course, the on the providing year. A unit country is, or coming, the obief source of our amplies, and the extent of crop there will bothe grand regulator of the markstein Europe, as we are not led to expect any material increase from other marters beyond what he been furmerly produced. The excitement in the States, and the consequent high rices at which alone cotton can be bought, would seen to warrant the epinion of a moderate crop. It will at at events chiek the export, and when it is considered with what competition and a tivity the cetten trade is con
