BRIDGES WASHED OUT.

Waters in the Smaller Streams Now Falling.

Kamloops, B. C., July 3.—The cause of the delay on the C. P. R. is the washing out of two small bridges at Six Mile Creek and Twin Buttes.

Lillooet, B. C., July 3.—The weather is still warm and the river is still rising. It is about a foot higher than yesterday morning.

A Batch of Orders-in-council Were Rejected by the Governor General.

Dymont, Liberal, Elected in Algoma by Over One Thousand Majority.

Ottawa, July 3.—There was a meeting of the treasury board this forenoon and afterwards a meeting of the cabinet.

A large batch of orders-in-council passed by the government are said to have been rejected by the Governor-General.

Lieut.-Gov. Dowdniey and Hugh John Macdonald were closeted together at the Russell House for an hour this morning.

The following seats have been set apart for British Columbia members: Bostock No. 78, McInnes No. 79, Maxwell No. 80 and Morrison No. 81.

No order has yet been issued appointing Hon. D. M. Eberts to the vacant judgeship in British Columbia.

Wm. Mulock, M. P., and Dr. Borden, M. P., arrived from Montreal this afternoon, where they were interviewing Laurier. Mulock goes to Toronto to-night.

An analysis of the new house of commons shows that ninety-nine members elected last week were not in the last parliament; fifteen of those, however, sat in previous parliaments.

A miniature tornado passed down the Ottawa valley last evening about 8 o'clock. A number of boats out sailing on Lake Descheneaux were overturned.

The bodies of Peter Macrae, Mrs. Macrae and her son aged 11, who were drowned on Lake Descheneaux yesterday by the upsetting of a sail boat, were recovered to-day.

Toronto, July 3.—The Globe says that a leading citizen of Winnipeg, careful, cool-headed and moderate, thus writes in a private letter:

"We had a bad, hard fight here in November, 1893, in the Martin-Chapell bye-election, we polled 3,900 votes. On Tuesday we polled an aggregate of 5,500, or 2,600 more. Not only was there direct buying, but there must have been persuasion on an extensive scale.

Probably $50,000 changed hands in bets and Hugh John's active campaign was in the hands of the gamblers. I am convinced that the whole business was a cold-blooded conspiracy to overawe the Liberals by force of arms if they protested.

All the tricks played in London were played here, and by the time the courts have made clear the facts the public will recognize that Winnipeg was simply strangled. There was no test, no election at all.

A CHURCH SCANDAL.

Canon Scott Holland, Dignitary of the Church of England, is in Trouble.

Said to Have Written a Letter to a Young Lad Which Caused Much Trouble.

Curious Facts Connected With the Sale of Celebrated Race Horse Lafete.

London, July 3.—What seems likely to prove the most painful English Church scandal of recent years was touched upon in the London police court to-day.

Part of the rebutting evidence brought forward by a solicitor named Rabbitt, in the course of the proceedings brought against him by his wife for cruelty and desertion, consisted of a letter written to his stepson. This letter, said Rabbitt, led to the trouble between his wife and himself.

Montreal, July 3.—Sir Oliver Mowat has left for Ontario after concluding his conference with Laurier. No announcements have been made yet by the Liberal leader regarding the composition of the new cabinet.

Winnipeg, July 3.—John A. Macdonald, Liberal, has been declared elected for Selkirk by one majority. The Conservatives will demand a recount, but there is little prospect of their gaining the seat as nearly all of the rejected ballots were marked for Macdonald.

Port Arthur, July 3.—Dymont, Liberal, has been elected in Algoma by over one thousand majority.

The magistrate expressed himself of the opinion that no gentleman could write such a letter.

The boy to whom the letter was addressed asserted that it was written by Canon Scott Holland, one of the best known and most respected dignitaries of the Church of England, and an intimate friend of Mr. Gladstone.

When Rabbitt demanded the return of the letter the magistrate refused, and pointedly asked if he wished to sue it for the purpose of having blackmail. It was accordingly handed back to the boy, who, with his mother, left the court room.

Beyond a doubt Canon Scott Holland's explanation will be eagerly looked for.

The papers are full of mysterious references to curious facts connected with the sale of Lafete, which celebrated race horse was bought at Hirsch's sale by Lord Marcus Beresford at the record price of 12,000 guineas, avowedly for Sir Tatton Sykes, though the latter at once repudiated the sale.

Washington, July 3.—The Women's Rescue League intends to begin a national crusade against the use of the bicycle by women.

Winnipeg, July 3.—A suicidal mania seems to have started here. Late last night a well dressed woman, about 21, attempted to throw herself into the Red River from the Broadway bridge, but was caught in the act by the caretaker.

A Fallen Woman Burned to Death—General American Notes.

THE OLD WORLD.

Bulawayo Still in Peril—Jack the Ripper Again.

Madrid, July 3.—Marshal Martinez de Campos, ex-captain-general of Cuba, defended his command in Cuba in the senate and declared that he had been only responsible for the military operations, and not the reforms, for which the government must answer.

London, July 3.—The massacres of white people in Matabeleland continue. Powerful chiefs are joining the insurgents. An attack on Bulawayo is expected the next new moon, July 10. The supply of provisions there is short.

The premier predicts a rising of natives in the colony. In the house of commons, Hon. Geo. N. What a relief to have the turmoil of elections over. As a believer in an equitable tariff the general result pleases me, though it is a pity that the district did not fall in line with the remainder of the west.

At the public school examination on Friday the rolls of honor went to Sophia Pears, Lee Field and Gordon Weir for proficiency, deportment and regularity respectively. The best of each class (Sophia Pears of the senior fifth, Gavin Weir of the junior fifth, Percy Percy Arsen of the 4th, and Guy Pears of the 1st class) received a book from Mr. Elliott, the teacher, as a prize. There was also a special prize competed for in reading, recitation and spelling, the judges being Messrs. Fitton, Foster and Smart. The book for reading by Mr. Elliott went to Sophia Pears. G. Weir won that for recitation offered by Mrs. Martin and also that for spelling by Mrs. A. Weir. Mrs. Glyde's characteristically generous prize of $2 for punctuality and regularity was won by Gordon Weir, who was absolutely perfect in that respect. The most enviable pupil was perhaps Lee Field, who received a book from the teacher as a "testimonial to his truthfulness, his diligence and politeness." After the distribution of the books a picnic was partaken of in the hall. In the evening there was a party for which the music was supplied by the kindness of Mr. R. Witty.

I hear that a host of barnets was stirred up by the school election last Saturday. The retiring trustee, Mr. Stotbark, is succeeded by Mr. Puster.

The cross road from Metchosis to Sooke is being cut out this year, so that people will soon be able to go through there without going all round by Happy Valley.

Metchosis Agricultural Society is to be addressed by Mr. Marker Saturday night next at 7:30.

QUEENSLAND FORKS.

Queensland Forks, June 26.—Agreeable as the weather feels at present, it appears to be somewhat unusually cold at nights for midsummer—one or two nights lately it has almost touched the freezing point, but during the day it has been warmer. Last Sunday it reached 80 degrees in the shade, and again about the same yesterday. I understand there is still a considerable amount of snow in the mountains between here and Barkerville. Possibly this slightly protracted discrepancy of snow in these upper districts may be helpful in giving a longer supply of water for washing in some of the workings.

The elections have passed off very quietly and it is generally believed that Mr. Bostock has won the race. At Keithley, the polling place for this district, the figures stood Bostock 15, Mara 10, spelt 1. Mr. Mara is generally well spoken of here, and had it not been that he is now in very unpopular (Tupperian) company the result would likely have been different. In mining matters there is very little to report. Work is progressing in sundry places, but so far results, for this season, are not coming to light. I suppose the "wash-up" will come by-and-by. At the Cariboo company's claim some of the men imported from California are becoming dissatisfied and are leaving in disgust, saying they have "come further and fared worse." Promises, they say, have not been fulfilled, and they will return to California again poorer but wiser men, as they say they could have done much better at home. Importing labor into a district like this, already more than supplied, cannot but be attended with unhappy results. There is more room for the importation of capital than labor.

The California Consolidated Company are about closing down for want of water. The Victoria Company are very busy with works about Spanish Lake for the improving of their water supply. Other smaller schemes are stopped for want of water. The greatest necessity for this district is some comprehensive water scheme, and given that there is no doubt but our hillsides would soon be a scene of life and activity. The gold is there, but the volume of water at suitable elevations is wanted to unearth it.

We hear nothing yet of any work being done on the trails in the neighborhood of the North Fork and Spanish creek which "our members" promised to help. Promises are useless if they never materialize. No doubt Mr. Rogers and Mr. Adams will look after our interests.

In blasting out a site for the new No. 2 tunnel on the Jumbo down near the creek a fine body of good grade quartz ore has been exposed.

Superintendent Haskins of the Jumbo, who is directing the work on the Little Darling, has opened up a big strong ledge down near the creek and close to the west end line of the claim. The ore so far obtained is fine-grained and assays most encouragingly.

On the Evening Star 60 feet of the new crosscut has been finished leaving 100 feet more to run to tap the main and cross veins at their junction. The surface work done since Supt. Scerford took hold consists of an open cut 65 feet long on the east and west vein which shows a continuous ore body of good average value. Averages run from $20 to $50, and $30 would be a low average.

On the C. & C. work has been continued in the shaft from which the high assays were obtained a week ago. It is now down about 25 feet and shows a solid body of ore in the bottom which is 4 feet by 1 foot in cross-section. Work on the main tunnel of the Monte Cristo is now well under way. The site for the compressor plant will be finished this week. Surface work in the past week has been confined chiefly to prospecting the south, or C. & C. vein, which is opening up very handsomely. It has been traced clean through the claim and is opened in two places from which average assays of $12 in gold have been obtained.

On the St. Elmo the main vein is being exposed about 325 feet from the mouth of the main tunnel. An open cut is being made on the south vein near the west end of the claim and this too looks very well. On the new north vein the shaft is down 20 feet, disclosing a solid body of ore nearly high enough in grade to ship. Every day's work has shown a slight improvement in grade as depth is being attained.

A crosscut is being run from the foot to the hanging wall in the main tunnel of the Mayflower. The face of this crosscut is yielding about a ton of ore per day which averages about 70 ounces in silver and $12 in gold. On the north vein a shaft will be started this week.

The vein on the Eric has been opened by shafts in two places and looks very well. It appears to be six feet in width with about two feet of high grade copper ore.

C. H. DeBeck of New Westminster has purchased the Bannock, which lies one thousand feet west of the Jumbo. The stone foundation for the new 10-stamp mill at the O. K. is just about finished, as is a new wagon road from the mine to connect with the Northport road. The new machinery is at Northport on the way to the mine.

The Jumbo company has bought the Oohir fraction, which adjoins it, for $500.

The shaft on the Josie is being steadily sunk in five feet of fine shipping ore. Over two hundred tons have already been shipped from this point which averaged $30 per ton. The crosscut from the main tunnel is now only about 25 feet distant from the north vein, the shaft on which is now down 45 feet and shows solid ore the full width.

about a mile opposite Barney's ranch. There has been a fair demand for stocks during the past week. Great Western, Josie, Deer Park, Silverline, Monte Cristo and St. Elmo have been most actively traded in. There are no notable advances or declines.

Work was begun on Tuesday on the Sooner, now called the Imperial, which lies about a mile from Trail on Lookout Mountain. A little stripping shows an immense capping from which assays up to $12 in gold and 12 per cent. copper have been obtained.

Why does not the government promptly furnish Recorder Kirkup with sufficient clerical aid to keep the work of his office right up to date? We warn the government that unless the transfers can be kept recorded and indexed to date a serious injustice to individual purchasers of mining property is bound to follow sooner or later.

The main working tunnel of the Monte Cristo has been started nearer the lower west end of the claim and a site is now being graded for its large compressor plant. The C. & C. vein has been opened in two places on the Monte Cristo ground and shows a very handsome body of a highly satisfactory grade about 5 feet in width.

The title to the Nest Egg ground has finally been cleared by the Nest Egg company purchasing the titles of all adverse claimants. The company now owns all of the ground shown on Kirk's maps as the Nest Egg and Pirety.

The Iron Horse company has let a ton in gold alone, while the percentage of copper in the solid ore is about as high as in the stamp.

Until Monday the owners of the Silverline had nothing to boast of. They were merely following a seam in the rock, though what little ore they found there was of a very superior quality. Since that date, however, the bottom of the shaft has never shown less than three feet of solid ore and it is about as high grade as any ever struck in the camp. This strike places the Silverline among the most desirable properties on Monte Cristo hill, which is now threatening to dispute the title to first place with Red Mountain.

The Deer Park is the scene of the latest sensational strike. On Saturday the men stripping the surface about 400 feet north of the shaft uncovered about ten feet of a new parallel vein. Work has been continued on this showing and ten feet of mixed ore is now exposed. Assays from average samples returned values of $12 in gold and three per cent in copper. These figures do not in themselves seem big enough to cause much excitement, but to those who are familiar with the enormous ore bodies hitherto uncovered they are most significant.

The Anne Fraction, a claim adjoining the California and Black Bear on Red Mountain, has been bought by a syndicate of gentlemen, among whom are Edward Pritchard, A. J. McMillan, E. H. Cover and W. A. Campbell. A company is to be formed to be called the Kootenay-London company to handle this and other properties in this camp, among which is the Comet No. 2, and extension of the U. S. and B. C.

A. G. Dickson, of London, England, bought the Mountain Chief last Thursday, which adjoins the Beguine, for $10,000 cash. Mr. Dickson left for London, Friday, where he will incorporate a company to handle the property and put it on the English market.

Basalard Record. Howard Hazeltine of Wenatchee is in town on business connected with the sale of the Bald Eagle, a valuable property owned by Robert Pignam.

Three men started work on the Imperial yesterday. It is situated on Lookout mountain. Preparations are being made to drive a cross, but to catch the vein, which will be about 100 feet long. Surface rock assays as high as 12 per cent. copper and $13.50 in gold.

A. E. Humphries and J. D. Farrell have returned to the camp for the purpose of inaugurating active work on the Iron Horse. The Virginia adjoins the Iron Horse on the west, and is owned by the War Eagle people who are joining Mr. Humphries and Farrell in forming a double compartment shaft.

C. A. Baldwin returned from Iron Horse mountain Saturday. He says that the properties over there are looking well and promising with work. The Heven is working night and day shifts as is the Knight Templar. The ore in the Heven

Stabbing Affray Within the Portals of a Village Church.

Indianapolis, July 3.—The village of Farmland is greatly excited over a riot that occurred at the North White river church after services, in which one man was fatally stabbed and several others seriously hurt. Just how the trouble originated no one knows, but as the congregation was passing out John Moser and John Emerson, who have long been enemies, were seen to be scuffling, when Emerson drew a knife and stabbed Moser several times. Friends went to their assistance and the fight became general, clubs and pocket knives being used. When the room was finally cleared Moser was dead, William Murphy had a fractured skull, a little child of John Henderson had been badly bruised by being trampled upon, and her mother was unconscious from fright. Others in the congregation were bruised.

THE GREAT UPHEAVAL. The Spirit of Patriotism will not tolerate Tupper.

The O. K. was the second mine in Rossland to make shipments of ore over the Columbia & Western. The returns have just been received from the Trail smelter on the carload of concentrates and they show $89.70 in gold and $11.50 in silver per ton.

The five-drill compressor was started at the Cliff this morning and worked most satisfactorily.

The Ivanhoe company started work on its property on Wednesday with a force of five men. The development work to date consists of a 16-foot shaft and a big open cut which shows a strong quartz vein from 5 to 7 feet in width. The ore is free-milling and runs from $4.50 to $21 in gold.

Finch & Campbell have sold W. A. Campbell the Northern Belle at a price reported to be in the neighborhood of $30,000 cash. The property lies on the north slope of Red Mountain between the Good Friday and Snowaloe. Mr. Campbell is organizing a syndicate in Eastern Canada to purchase it.

The owners of the Sunset have started a new shaft near the northeast corner of the claim. They have already a fine showing of sulphide ore which is thought to be on the same vein as the No. 1 shaft on the Nest Egg.

The work of clearing the right-of-way of the Columbia & Red Mountain railway is progressing very rapidly. It is practically all cleared up to the boundary line and all that is left to be done on this side of the line is a distance of contract to Hector Mellicie to sink four holes with his diamond drill on the Iron Horse ground.

J. K. Clark has sold the Red Point mine on Lookout Mountain for $20,000 to Hector Mellicie.

Some very fine copper ore is being taken from the surface of the new vein on the Southern Cross-Wolverine group which lies just north of the Crown Point.

The miners on the San Joaquin have quit stripping the vein and started sinking a shaft. The croppings of the vein looked very well and assay surprisingly, the average being about $8 in gold.

The Miner has just learnt that it was mistaken in announcing that Captain Gore had sold his quarter interest in the C. & C. for $5,000. We now know that Capt. Gore only offered to sell an eighth interest in the claim for $5,000 and he has since withdrawn his offer.

The Nickel Plate is rapidly being developed into a mine by the present owners. They have kept steadily at work all year since it became their property with very satisfactory results to themselves. They now have over 300 tons of $70 ore on their dump ready for shipment and in addition have ore in every drift in the mine. In the west drift from the north crosscut on the 100-foot level they now have a full face of high grade ore. Three feet of it is a solid sulphide of iron and copper and the other three feet is mixed. The whole six feet will average over $70 per ton in gold alone, while the percentage of copper in the solid ore is about as high as in the stamp.

JOSHUA DAVIES

AUCTIONEER Room 7, Board of Trade Building.

The Daily Times.

A "SAFE SUSPECT."

Dr. Duncan yesterday produced a letter from Dr. Davie in which it was asserted that "the public had not been subjected to any risk by allowing the suspect out of the hospital."

4. The municipal health officer shall further place, in another building or tent which shall be provided by the local board of health, all persons (other than the nurses and the necessary attendants upon the infected persons) who may have been exposed to the contagion, and shall supply them with all necessaries until the period of incubation of the disease shall have elapsed, and no such person shall go abroad until he has given satisfactory proof of successful vaccination within the preceding seven years, or shall have obtained a medical certificate of insusceptibility to the vaccine disease, nor until the clothing or effects worn or carried by him have been properly disinfected, if the same have been exposed to contagion.

5. Whenever an infected person shall, under the provisions of rule 3, be isolated in a house or place other than the general hospital, tent, or place provided by the local board, under rule 2, it shall be incumbent on the municipal health officer to appoint and employ a proper person or persons, to keep constant watch over the house or place where such infected person shall be kept, and not to permit ingress or egress to or from such house or place, except to a duly qualified medical man attendant upon such infected person, or to a clergyman under regulations to be made by the municipal health officer, or other person by the permission of the municipal health officer, and any person accepting the duty of watchman under this rule, who shall depart from his duty as watchman, or shall neglect his duty, or who shall permit of ingress or egress to or from the affected premises, or any communication therewith contrary to this rule, or who shall disobey, or fail to observe any direction of the municipal health officer relative to the duties of such watchman, shall incur a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered upon summary conviction, or in default of payment, to three months imprisonment with or without hard labor.

These provisions bear directly on the cases of the suspect and the caretaker now under discussion, but Dr. Davie sets them quietly aside because it suits his purpose to do so. This is not the first time that Dr. Davie has taken similar action.

THE WEST.

Some of our Conservative contemporaries are repeating the fiction that the Liberals are the declared enemies of Western Canada, and that there is no hope of the much desired development under Liberal rule. As we have already pointed out, the people of the west have given a most emphatic declaration that they do not believe this assertion. By their votes they have discredited the claim of the Conservative government to be considered peculiarly the friends of the west, and have shown very plainly their realization of the fact that the successive administrations calling themselves Conservative have looked upon the west more as an exploiting ground than as a region to be developed.

nient and development of the west are subjects which ought to receive early attention. The west has made some satisfactory progress but not what ought to be expected from its splendid resources. We must inquire into the causes which have delayed progress and proceed to apply whatever remedies are suggested by sound public policy. The basis of that policy, we believe should be the truth that the best immigration agent is a contented settler. Reduce the taxation on the necessities of life, improve and cheapen the means of transportation, and two good themes will be furnished to our immigration agents. Advertising the country is all very well, but it is well to bear in mind the sound, if familiar, business maxim that the basis of good advertising is to have a good article to advertise. We have the country, we have the benefit of British institutions, we have in many respects good laws, and whatever else can be done in the way of legislation and administration ought to be done speedily.

Harriet Beecher Stowe had the good fortune to reach the hearts of the people with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," one of the few novels written for teaching purposes which have achieved their aim. Though she produced much other literary work, it is probable that none will appeal to future generations with success. But as long as there are boys and girls to read, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will keep its popularity, and even children of a larger growth will peruse its pages with interest.

A correspondent calls attention to Mayor Beaven's failure to do his duty in the matter of the health officer's conduct on election day. When Mr. Jorgensen refused to accept his own a letter written by the mayor to the water works contractors, he was promptly suspended by the mayor and as promptly dismissed by the council. Evidently Mayor Beaven has one law for Jorgensen and another for Duncan. Why?

NOT YET SUSPENDED.

To the Editor:—A subject of very general comment is the conduct of Mayor Beaven in not suspending Dr. George H. Duncan, the political medical health officer who voted "suspect" at the late general election. Dr. Duncan still retains his official position, and, no doubt, like Carson, is "ready to do the same thing again to help his friends." Mayor Beaven ought never to forget a former experience he had as mayor of the city, and the great injury which a failure to successfully grapple with the situation had upon the commercial interests of Victoria. A man of Dr. Duncan's indiscretion, and possessing the same contemptuous disregard of a superior's instructions, can do any amount of harm to a city. The responsibility, however, is with the mayor, and if any harm results from the stupidity and partisanship of the so-called "health officer," the blame will be laid on the shoulders of Mayor Beaven and not at the door of Dr. George H. Duncan, who is now looked upon as a very dangerous "suspect."

M. D. Victoria, July 3.

LAW AS TO GARNISHEES.

Mr. Justice Drake's Judgment in the Case of Gray vs. Hoffar.

The following is a copy of Mr. Justice Drake's judgment in the Gray vs. Bostock garnishee case:

Gray et al v. Hoffar, Bostock garnishee.

Plaintiffs obtained judgment against defendant 18th February, 1888, on 6th February they issued a garnishee summons on Bostock and served the same day.

Hoffar was the architect for Bostock and his remuneration depended on the expenditure made on a building at Vancouver and was not payable until the building was finished.

At the time of the garnishee order the building was not finished, and although Hoffar had received monies on account it was a matter of favor and not of right.

An attachable debt must be a perfected debt and payable absolutely same time. Webb v. Stanton 11, 2 B.D. 518.

The claim here depended on a condition which had not been performed at the time of the notice of garnishee and therefore there was no attachable debt. Howell v. Metropolitan Railway, 19 C.D. 508.

Mr. Coltart in his affidavit says that $50.47 was due if Hoffar completed his work, if Hoffar could not sue his judgment debtor is in no better condition than independently of this view, Hoffar had prior to the plaintiff's judgment assigned wherever money might be coming from Bostock to L. Cook. No notice, however, was given of this assignment until 6th May after the service of the garnishee summons. But this is no bar to the validity of the assignment, Hirsch v. Conroy 25 L.J. C.P.

The judgment creditor can only obtain that which the debtor can lawfully part with, having regard to the rights of others. Hoffar had no interest in Bostock's debt when the plaintiffs obtained judgment, formal notice of an assignment is not necessary except as between incumbents in which case the person giving notice first may be able to obtain a priority over one who is neglected to give notice. The General Horticultural Society ex parte White House 12 C.D. 512, and Beasley v. Consolidated B.K. 38 C.D. 238, are authorities in point.

I therefore order the money in court to be paid out to Cook and that plaintiffs pay the costs of Cook of this application and the costs of Bostock on the garnishee summons.

AN UNCANNY STONE.

Some years ago a Paris jeweler told a story of a diamond which had passed over his counter no less than eleven times. It was a beautiful stone of nearly four carats, of perfect color and lustre, and easily identified by means of a small "feather" in the tip of the lower part. He bought it from an East India dealer, and had it set in a ring. It was sold to a countess in 1869, just before the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war. The countess died in a few weeks, and the ring was worn by her husband. He was killed in the siege of Paris and a few days after his death the ring was brought into the store by a common soldier for sale. He was arrested and the ring sent to the family of the dead count.

Before the siege ended they brought in the ring and sold it to the dealer in order to procure money to buy food. Directly after the siege it passed into the hands of an English tourist, who visited the city to get a look at the ruin wrought by the communists, and a year later he came to the firm, who, on being later buyer of the ring from the Indian soldier and being desired to tell how he got it, stated that it had been the property of an English tourist hunter who had been killed by a tiger, and his friend sold the ring to get means to send the body home.

The stone was reset and soon found a purchaser in a prominent member of the demi-monde, who not long after was arrested in her room. Among the articles taken by the murderer was the ring, and the firm began to wonder how soon it would turn up. They had not long to wait, for all their people had by this time learned about the stone, and were on the lookout for it. After six months it was found in the show case of a jeweler in London, who had bought it from a firm in Amsterdam. It was bought by the Paris agent and sent back to be started afresh on its travels. It was purchased again by a woman of the town, who six weeks later was drawn out of the Seine with the gun on her finger, and by a strange coincidence it was offered to the firm that sold it by the police agents, the court having jurisdiction having ordered it to be sold. And so it went from hand to hand, attended with misfortune at every change, and usually bringing death to the possessor. Laborers in the Golconda mines used to say that when a stone is baptized in blood when first taken from the earth it caused the shedding of blood wherever it went, and the story of one such ill-omened gem goes far to confirm belief in such a superstition.

ONE HONEST MAN.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest, home cure by which I was permanently restored to health and many vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, actual weakness, night losses and weak sinkings on parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but, thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness, I promise you perfect secrecy, and as I do not wish to expose myself either, please address simply: P. O. Box 388, London, Ont.

A PRINCE'S BONES.

London Truth:—A certain Prince of Orange was generalissimo of Austria at the end of last century. He fought against the French in Italy, died, and was buried at Padua in 1763. For four years the Dutch government has been in treaty for the prince's remains, and after an endless amount of diplomatic negotiations and correspondence, matters were arranged, a Dutch man of war arrived at Venice, and after another three weeks delay, surmounting the last difficulties raised by the church and red tape of the Italian government, last Thursday was the day fixed for opening the tomb and conveying the remains to Venice, to be transported by the man of war, and ultimately deposited in the vault of the family at Delft. It was a most impressive ceremony. A representative of the Queen of Holland came expressly. Admirals, generals, officials galore, special trains, funeral car, troops lining the way, minute guns, and flags half-mast high, and then the tomb was opened and contained—nothing.

THE DACOTT OF BURMAH.

Burma is one of the countries that are changing very fast, and one of the things that has changed in Burma is the dacoit. Instead of living together in bands in the jungle, dacoits are scattered through separate villages in the guise of peaceful cultivators. During the day each man attends to his paddy fields, and at night they meet together for the dispatch of their more important and lucrative business. Dacoity, as defined by law, is simply robbery committed by a band of five men or more, and it is important only because of the Burman's strong natural propensity toward it, and the great difficulties which his national character places in the way of its detection.

Perhaps the strange workings of the native character are best exhibited in the following case, which occurred recently. The facts are vouched for by an English official.

There were a band of five men who were in the habit of practicing dacoity occasionally. Three of them came from the same village—not a common thing, as it makes detection easier; the fourth from another village; and as for the fifth, no man now knows where he came from, for reasons that will appear. One night these five men, armed with nothing but their knives and spears, which are used for fishing in Lower Burma, entered a house, tied up the owner and began plundering. Now this house was in a large village containing not only a population of some 1400, but a police post, with fifteen native policemen armed with bladders. The alarm was given and the house surrounded, and then there was a pause. The robbers continued their work undisturbed within the village—some two or three hundred able-bodied men, all more or less armed—set down on the dam which surrounds and protects every village in the delta, looked down upon the house and discussed the question: the police stood rather nearer the house and fired shots into it through the bamboo walls, hurting no one. One solitary policeman after a time volunteered to advance. He crept up quite close to the house and fired in through an opening in the wall; then he went further and actually put his head and part of his body through the hole, apparently to see what execution he had done. One of the robbers promptly plumed him to the ground with a kukri spear and killed him.

By this time they had completed their preparations, so they sallied forth, each man with his pack of plunder on his back. Though the house was surrounded, they appear to have had no difficulty in making their way through; only the police fired after them with buckshot, and hit three of them in the back, not seriously wounding them. But one of the band had the misfortune to stumble and fall. Instantly the crowd rushed upon him and before he could rise, literally backed him to pieces, and so effectively that not the slightest clue to his identity remained. He was absolutely destroyed; no one knows even what was his nationality. The other four got away.

Now comes the sequel, which is, if possible, still more extraordinary. Some days after a man in a neighboring village informed the thugly, or head man, that two of the villagers, whom he named, had been concerned in the late dacoity. The thugly had them arrested promptly, and they were carried to headquarters for identification. The man whose house had been plundered was confronted with a crowd of men from the informer's village and told to pick. The first he picked was the informer; then he pointed out the two men accused. All three were examined, and found to have buckshot still sticking in their backs, and all three were hanged for dacoity in which a man is killed in murder. The remaining robber was never traced.—St. James' Gazette.

ONE HONEST MAN.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest, home cure by which I was permanently restored to health and many vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, actual weakness, night losses and weak sinkings on parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but, thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness, I promise you perfect secrecy, and as I do not wish to expose myself either, please address simply: P. A PRINCE'S BONES.

London Truth:—A certain Prince of Orange was generalissimo of Austria at the end of last century. He fought against the French in Italy, died, and was buried at Padua in 1763. For four years the Dutch government has been in treaty for the prince's remains, and after an endless amount of diplomatic negotiations and correspondence, matters were arranged, a Dutch man of war arrived at Venice, and after another three weeks delay, surmounting the last difficulties raised by the church and red tape of the Italian government, last Thursday was the day fixed for opening the tomb and conveying the remains to Venice, to be transported by the man of war, and ultimately deposited in the vault of the family at Delft. It was a most impressive ceremony. A representative of the Queen of Holland came expressly. Admirals, generals, officials galore, special trains, funeral car, troops lining the way, minute guns, and flags half-mast high, and then the tomb was opened and contained—nothing.

—Mrs. Rodie Noah, of this place, was taken in the night with cramping pains and the next day diarrhoea set in. She took half a bottle of blackberry cordial, but got no relief. She then sent to me to see if I had anything that would help her. I sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. Another of our neighbors had been sick for about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea, but kept getting worse. I sent him this same remedy. Only four doses of it were required to cure him. He says he owes his recovery to this wonderful remedy.—Mrs. Mary Sibley, Sidney, Mich. MRS. STOWE DEAD.

The Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Passed into the Great Beyond.

Sketch of Her Life From the Pen of Her Son, Charles Edward Stowe.

Hartford, Conn., July 3.—Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe has passed away at her residence in this city. At her bedside were three members of the family, Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker, her husband, Dr. Hooker, and Harriet Stowe, a daughter of Mrs. Stowe. Throughout the forenoon the friends of Mrs. Stowe gathered in the room waiting for the end. Death came without a struggle, and the end appeared to be merely a continuance of the unconscious state into which Mrs. Stowe lapsed on Monday. The arrangements for the funeral have been partially completed. The services in Hartford will be private, and the interment will take place in Andover, Mass.

London, July 3.—The English papers all kindly comment on the death of Harriet Beecher Stowe at Hartford yesterday.

The following sketch of Harriet Beecher Stowe is from the pen of her son, Rev. Charles Edward Stowe:

Harriet Beecher Stowe was born in Litchfield, Conn., June 14, 1812, and was the third daughter and sixth child of Rev. Dr. Lyman Beecher. When Harriet was a mere child of four years, Mrs. Beecher died, yet she never ceased to influence the lives of her children. Mrs. Stowe wrote: "Although my mother's bodily presence disappeared from our circle, I think that her memory and example had more influence in molding her family than the living presence of many mothers." After her mother's death, Harriet was placed under the care of her grandmother at Guilford, Conn. Here she listened with untiring interest to the ballads of Sir Walter Scott and the poems of Robert Burns. The "Arabian Nights" was also to her a dream of delight—an enchanted palace through which her imagination ran wild. After her father's second marriage her education was continued at the Litchfield academy, under the charge of Sarah Pierce and John Brace. Of Mr. Brace and his methods of instruction Mrs. Stowe ever spoke with the greatest enthusiasm. "Mr. Brace exceeded all teachers that I ever knew in the faculty of teaching composition," she wrote. "Much of the inspiration and training of my early days consisted not in the things I was supposed to be studying, but in hearing, while seated unnoticed at my desk, the conversation of Mr. Brace with the older classes. Nor, indeed, were the influences in her home less stimulating to the intellect. Dr. Beecher, like the majority of the Calvinistic divines of his day, had his system of theology, vast and comprehensive enough to embrace the fate of men and angels and to fathom the councils of the Infinite. His mind was kept in a state of intense and joyous intellectual activity by constantly elaborating, expounding and defending his system. Consequently his children grew up in an atmosphere saturated with mental and moral enthusiasm. There was no trace of morbid melancholy or ascetic gloom in Dr. Beecher. He was sound in body, sound in mind, and the religious influence which he exerted on the minds of his children was healthy and cheerful. Under such circumstances it was not surprising to find a bright and thoughtful child of twelve years writing a school composition on the profound theme, "Can the Immortality of the Soul Be Proven From the Light of Nature?" The writer took the negative side of the question, and argued with such power and originality that Dr. Beecher, when it was read in his presence, not knowing the author, asked with emphasis: "Who wrote that?" "Your daughter, sir," quickly answered Mr. Brace. Said Mrs. Stowe, speaking of the events: "It was the proudest moment of my life. There was no mistaking father's face when he was pleased, and to have interested him was past all juvenile triumphs." Dr. Beecher read with enthusiasm, and encouraged his children to read, both Byron and Scott. When nine or ten years of age Harriet was, despite impressions by readings

Byron's "Cenci."

"I shall never forget how it electrified and thrilled me," she wrote. "I went absorbed and wondering about Byron, and afterwards listened to everything that father and mother said about him at table." Byron's death made an enduring but at the same time solemn and painful impression on her mind. She was eleven years old at the time, and usually did not understand her father's sermons, but the one he preached on this occasion she remembered perfectly, and it had a deep and lasting influence on her life. At the time of the Missouri agitation Dr. Beecher's sermons and prayers were hardened with the anguish of his soul for the cause of the slave. His passionate appeals drew tears from the hardest faces of the farmers who listened to him. Night and morning, in faithful devotion, he appealed to heaven for "poor, oppressed, bleeding Africa, that the time of deliverance might come." The effect of such sermons and prayers on the mind of an imaginative child can be easily conceived. They tended to make her what she was from earliest childhood, the enemy of all slavery. In 1824, when thirteen years of age, Mrs. Stowe went to Hartford to attend a school that had been established there by her eldest sister, Catharine. Here she studied Latin, read Ovid, and Virgil, and wrote metrical translations of the former, which displayed a very respectful knowledge of Latin, a good command of English, and considerable skill in versification. At the age of fourteen she taught with success a class in "Butler's Analogy," and gained a good reading knowledge of French and Italian. As pupil and teacher she remained with her sister in Hartford till the autumn of 1832, when both removed with their father to Cincinnati, where Dr. Beecher assumed the presidency of Lane theological seminary and the pastorate of the Second Presbyterian church. At his time Mrs. Stowe consulted an elementary geography for a Western publisher which was extensively used, and again engaged with her sister in Cincinnati. She wrote lectures for her class in history, and as a member of a literary club called the Sempleton, humorous sketches and poems. In January, 1836, she married Mr. Stowe. During her residence in Cincinnati she frequently visited the slave states, and acquired the minute knowledge of Southern life that was so conspicuously displayed in her subsequent writings. Fugitive slaves were frequently sheltered in her house, and assisted by her husband and brothers to escape to Canada. During the riots in 1836, when James G. Birney's press was destroyed and free presses were hunted like wild beasts through the streets of Cincinnati, only the distance from the city and the depth of mud saved Lane seminary and the Yankee abolitionists at Walnut Hills from a like fate. Many a night Mrs. Stowe sank into uneasy slumber, expecting to be aroused by the howling of an angry mob, led by the agents of exasperated and desperate slave holders. In 1819 Mrs. Stowe published "The Mayflower," a Short History of the Decendants of the Pilgrims, being a collection of papers which she had from time to time contributed to various periodicals. In 1850 she removed with her husband and family to Brunswick, Me., where the former had just been called to a professorship in Bowdoin. It was at the height of the excitement caused by the passage of the fugitive slave bill. It seemed to her as if slavery was about to extend itself over the free states. She conversed with many benevolent, tender-hearted Christian men and women, who were blind and deaf to all arguments against it, and she concluded that they did not realize what slavery really meant. She determined, if possible, to make them realize it, and as a result of this determination, wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin, or Life Among the Lowly." In the meantime Professor Stowe was appointed to the chair of biblical literature in the theological seminary at Andover, Mass., and removed thither with his family about the time that this remarkable book was published. Neither Mrs. Stowe nor any of her friends had the least conception of the future that awaited her book. She was herself very dependent. It does not seem to have been very widely read when it appeared in the "National Era," at Washington City, from June, 1851, till April, 1852, before it was issued in book form. Mrs. Stowe said: "It seemed to me that there was no hope; that nobody would hear; that nobody would read, nobody would pity; that this frightful system, which had pursued its victims into the free states, might threaten them even in Canada. Nevertheless, nearly 500,000 copies of

Hair, Hair! Prof. DORENWEND Is Coming.

It is contrary to nature that the hair should be bald. Let that be fully understood. It is not a fact that many ladies and gentlemen do not wear artificial hair for no other reason than pretence. Unfortunately there has been a marked increase of late in baldness and gray hair, and the result is the loss of an attractive and refined appearance. MANY LADIES have the wretched habit of crimping and curling their own hair instead of buying artificial hair according to the style. There is the key to their hair, and when new styles come in they are unable to follow them.

OLD FORT LANGLEY.

The Hudson's Bay Company Closes Up the Old Post.

Langley, June 26.—The old established post of the Hudson's Bay Company in this district ceased to do business here on the 19th inst. During its long career in this locality, it proved a great convenience to the Indian and immigrant population, and was no small factor in inducing white settlers to stay in this part of the Dominion. All regret the closing of the doors of the old historic house, but for years the interests of the company here have been a decreasing quantity, from various causes, amongst them the growth of the near cities, and the increased facilities of access there to by road and river, which enabled the farmer to make purchases from the civil commercial marts for his family at the same place and time that he disposed of his field produce. Another element has been in the increase in the number of local stores, which diminish the distance the consumer had formerly to traverse when obtaining his supplies from the fort, whilst at the same time there was but a small difference in the relative prices. The trade conditions of the company have also altered, so that, as a distributing and collecting centre for all sorts of merchandise over a large extent of country, the Langley post of the company has been gradually receding into the background, and the business in this respect absorbed by the city and other stations.

The officials in charge of the winding up operations have had an arduous time of it for the last fortnight, listing and disposing of the large stock of goods of all kinds in the store, many of the articles having been stowed away unsold for many years. The sales made at reduced prices have been large, considering the crisis through which the farmers are passing, owing to the low rates and slow sales of their produce, and the losses to many of them consequent on the disastrous flood in the Fraser of 1894—the Hudson's Bay Company having suffered by injury to much of its warehouse goods by the unprecedented rise of the water. Mr. J. D. Scott, the well known, courteous, and experienced manager of the dry goods department in the Vancouver branch of the company's business, with the able assistance of Mr. F. G. Evans, from the same establishment, and of Mr. W. D. Jardine, who has been the local assistant in the store here for some years past (all under the direction of Mr. Jas. Thompson, district manager for the company) have been working hard from early morning until late at night and they have now the unsold stock, which is considerable, both in bulk and commercial value, ready for transfer to the company's premises at Vancouver.

This ends an episode in the life of the Hudson's Bay Company, which, in times past, held a fort here, stockaded and guarded by their men, but not long since dismantled and disposed of, as well as its large farm, now known as Langley Prairie, and peopled by persons settlers. In by-gone years the company gave employment in this place to a numerous staff of tradesmen, carpenters, shipwrights, smiths, coopers, and other skilled artisans, who were required for their extensive commercial and agricultural operations. It will be of use to tourists to know that, from the site of the old redoubt on Langley Hill, the visitor will obtain a charming view of the valley of the Fraser, the picturesque island which forms the Indian reservation, and a long and lofty range of mountains which form a background, gracefully outlined against the blue horizon, completing a beautiful picture, one of the many to be seen in this favored scenic neighborhood—Columbian.

NEW EAST RIVER BRIDGE.

The Great Structure Intended to Span the Hudson at New York.

Before the summer is ended the chief engineers and the commissioners of the new East river bridge believe that ground will be broken for the beginning of the erection of that structure, and that within four or five years they will have completed the greatest highway, as well as the biggest and most important engineering project within the area of greater New York.

The main plans, says the New York Sun, have advanced far enough under the direction of Chief Engineer L. A. Beck to enable one to tell a good deal about the bridge. In general appearance it will be like the Brooklyn bridge, but with marked differences in detail. Like the Brooklyn bridge it will be a suspension bridge, its weight carried upon four immense cables of steel, but, unlike it, the towers which will hold the cables aloft will be of skeleton steel instead of granite masonry. Naturally the first actual work of construction will be the laying of the foundations for these towers and for the enormous masses of stone masonry, known technically as anchorages, which must be planted in either city at the points where the great cables come to earth beyond the towers, and there by the sheer force of their mass hold the entire structure, tons of thousands of tons in weight, in balance. The site for these piers and anchorages, as well as the site for the main part of the bridge approaches, has been fixed.

The work of getting to the rock for the foundations of the piers will be done just as it was done for the Brooklyn bridge a quarter of a century ago. Great caissons will be built, towed to their places and sunk by weighting them with masonry, and in the chamber within them protected from the water which would fill them through their open bottoms by a constant pressure of air, the workmen will first remove all the earth overlying the rock, then level the rock at least into steps, and upon this lay a foundation of broken stone and cement concrete.

For the Brooklyn bridge only one caisson was used on each side of the river, as the stone towers rise solidly above. For the new bridge it is proposed to use two caissons on each side. Those for this side will be about sixty feet wide by seventy feet long. On the Brooklyn side, because of the greater depth of the water, the caissons will probably be sixty-five feet by seventy-eight feet. These caissons will be sunk side by side, their centres about a hundred feet apart, and the masonry upon each of them will rise separately to a distance of twenty feet above tide water. From there will begin the steel towers, whose tops will rise to a point 322 feet above the river. They will be eight-legged towers, with four great legs resting upon each caisson pier. Each steel foot will be thirteen feet square, and the legs themselves will be of hollow steel four feet square. Near the bottom the legs will be arched together, and at a height of 117 feet from the water they will begin a second arched space, through which the main roadway for cars and foot passengers will pass. This main space will be seventy-two feet wide, and all of this space will be inside the inner legs of the towers. This will be occupied by tracks for cars, two for elevated railroad trains and four for trolley or other surface cars. Above this roadway will be broad footways and probably a bicycle path. Upon the level of the railroad tracks and between the legs of the towers will be other arched spaces, one on each side for use as carriageways. These will each be eighteen feet wide in the clear, and the whole bridge will be 117 feet wide. This is thirty-seven feet wider than the Brooklyn bridge.

From top to top of the two towers will be a clear span of 1010 feet. Across this great chasm, fifteen feet longer than the span of the Brooklyn bridge, the cables must support themselves first, then the bridge structure and every possible load that might be put upon it, and after all this have to spare to meet emergencies, the ability to carry three times this entire load before reaching the breaking point. The cables for the new bridge will be made of straight steel wires, each of No. 14 gauge, and each cable will be between seventeen and eighteen inches in diameter. This is three inches more than the Brooklyn bridge cables, and this means an ability to carry fifty per cent more weight. Each cable will be made up of nineteen strands, and each strand will contain 271 wires, each three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter. Each cable will therefore contain 5149 wires, or 20,596 wires in all, and every wire will be capable of carrying a load, including its own weight, of 5,000 pounds. The total strength of the cables will be 51,490 tons. The engineers have not worked out the weights of the several parts to be used for the bridge yet, but, assuming that the load is to be one-third of this, the weight of the bridge structure from tower to tower will not be far from 17,000 tons, all of steel.

A great part of the weight of the bridge will be made up of the enormous stiffening truss which is to run from tower to tower to prevent flexures of the cables by passing loads. This truss will be in two parts, each opposite to one set of tower legs and just outside the roadway. It will be supported by the cables, and the truss will carry all the cross beams upon which the different roadways will rest. The bridge proper will end at the towers. The cables will run beyond for 500 feet on each side of the river to the anchorages. Each anchorage will weigh about two and a half times as much as the whole weight of the bridge, or say 40,000 tons. The centre of the bridge for 200 feet in length must be 135 feet in the clear above high water. From there it is to slope down at the rate of three feet in each hundred until it approaches finally to the land level. At the water side the bridge will be 117 feet above high water. The approaches are to be of steel.

VICTORIA MARKETS.

Retail Quotations for Farmers' Produce Carefully Corrected.

Victoria, June 29.—There are but few changes to report in the local markets. Old potatoes are nearly out of season, and those on the market are of a very poor quality. New potatoes still remain high in the California market and they are selling here at from 2 to 2½¢ per pound. Only a small quantity of new Island potatoes have yet been put on the market. Island eggs are stiffening and are now retailing for 25 cents. The retail quotations corrected to date follow:

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., brother of the late, John Wesley Bell, B.D., prostrated by nervous headaches. A victim of the trouble for several years. South American Nerve effected a complete cure. In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother Mr. James A. Bell. The former was recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 10,000 members of this order in Ontario his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, settling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell, is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headache, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell? The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In turn consulted a tried and recommended South American Nerve. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Reporting his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nerve immediately relieved my headaches and gave him up my system in a wonderful manner. Let us not depreciate the good our countrymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not for the relief that South American Nerve brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system, as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nerve treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nerve at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there comes a through the system strong health. Do not forget the blood, and nervous system of every variety are thines of the past.
