

OUTLINE C. C. EXPANSION CAMPAIGN PLANS

Spirit of Rivalry to Be Fostered Between Teams Competing

THE proposed expansion campaign that is to be carried out by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was outlined at the weekly luncheon of the board of directors in the Citizens' building yesterday by S. P. Morris, of the organization service bureau of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who has been here for several days making a preliminary survey of local conditions in order to have everything in readiness when the campaign starts.

Goal Set at 1500 The membership goal of the campaign is to be set at a minimum of 1500 members. Mr. Morris stated, and to reach this number it will be necessary for every man connected with the campaign to throw himself into the work with all the enthusiasm at his command and to make sacrifices to insure its success.

Must Comman Loyalty It will be essential, Mr. Morris declared, that every man placed in authority in this movement be able to command the loyalty of every man associated with him and to sell Glendale to each of them, and through them to the rest of the people of the city, and to get the message of the Chamber of Commerce and its aims and importance to the civic existence clearly across to the people whose membership is sought.

A system of points will be used in keeping a record of the work accomplished by the various teams in securing new members, raising money for the service fund and collecting dues, and the spirit of rivalry that is to be generated and that has already seized on every one of the members of the board will lead to surprising results, he asserted. VETERAN AGE 93 YEARS LINCOLN'S FRIEND

Charles Bock, Who Will Be In Today's Parade, Tells of 'Before th' War'

IT is memory of the tall, gaunt figure, homely, prominent features and gracious, charming personality of Abraham Lincoln that brings brightness to the eyes and enthusiasm to the voice of Charles Bock of 122 North Castle, Eagle Rock, 93 years old, Civil war veteran, oldest member of the N. P. Banks Post, and one of the oldest members of The Glendale Evening News Sunset Club.

Three years before the war, while Mr. Bock was acting as steward in the Capitol hotel, in Springfield, Ill., he became acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln. "I well remember Abraham Lincoln," says Mr. Bock, reminiscing of his acquaintance with the great American. "His home was but a short distance from the Capitol hotel, and I used to meet him every morning walking from his home to the courthouse. He was a great lover of children, and it was rarely that one saw him without at least two children clinging to his hands.

"At that time Springfield was a small town, and desirable food supplies were much sought after. "Favor for Lincoln "It was my custom to drive out into the country twice a week for fresh butter and eggs. One morning I was starting out in my buggy, and as I drove up the street I met Abraham Lincoln. "Hello, Charley," he shouted. "Where are you going? Out for a pleasure drive?"

"I replied that I was going after fresh eggs and butter for the hotel. He then said: 'Will you do me a favor? Bring me some fresh eggs and butter.'"

And so it came about that Charles Bock visited the Lincoln home twice a week for a year and became a familiar figure to the future president and his wife, both of whom always greeted him cordially upon meeting.

Battles With Indians In 1858 Mr. Bock was married and moved to Omaha, Neb., and there, in 1860, he had the privilege and pleasure of voting for Lincoln for president of the United States.

During the Civil war most of the men in Nebraska went south to fight. That left the northern country unprotected, and the Indians invaded the country. Mr. Bock was a member of the Second Nebraska cavalry, Company K, which was sent north into Minnesota to drive out the Indians.

So it was that Mr. Bock never saw Abraham Lincoln again after his departure from Springfield, but the memory of the great American remains a vivid picture in his mind, and one of his greatest pleasures is reminiscing of their association. Among the treasures of the Bocks' little home is a piece of wood from the Lincoln home.

Younger Vets Typify Spirit Of Day As '61 Ranks Grow Thinner

Thinning ranks of "Boys in Blue," above. Below, Sergt. Harry J. Adams, World war hero who typifies younger generation honored on Memorial Day, and aged hero of '61 and youthful hero of World war honoring fallen comrades together. Each Memorial Day finds the depleted ranks of the boys of '61 growing thinner and thinner. Age has laid a firmer hand on the scattered few heroes of the Civil war who still survive. But as their numbers grow less the younger heroes of the World war become more enshrined in the hearts of the country and homage is paid to them along with the Boys in Blue and Gray. So today the nation pays tribute to both generations—honors the living and the dead of the wars of long ago and that one fresh in our memory. Graves of all heroes are decorated impartially.

CALIFORNIA'S CLIME GETS NEW COLOR

San Francisco Pastor Says People Here Are Dopey From Its Effects

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Rev. Walter John Sherman, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church, warns the city of San Francisco that it is in the grip of a "spiritual lethargy of a very malignant type." He urges that the city arouse itself from its dream of self-satisfaction, a dream that leads to degeneracy and death.

Rev. Sherman spoke Sunday night upon the subject, "Sleeping Sickness in San Francisco." "The atmosphere of San Francisco is spiritually cold," he said, and continued: "Spiritual sloth is pandemic so long as the information, the recreation and the working condition of the entire city are dominated in each instance by organized greed thirsting for blood. We are being drugged until there is no normal spiritual reaction against these things.

Climatic Liability "Climate can be a liability as well as an asset," he said in opening his sermon. "If a man resides in an equatorial region he must be prepared to resist certain tropical diseases. Among such diseases we are somewhat familiar with the so-called sleeping sickness of Africa. It is supposed to be caused by certain blood-sucking insects, notably the tsetse fly, and results in protracted lethargy, intermittent fever and ultimate death. "San Francisco has no tsetse flies, and Californians rightly boast of their climate. It exerts a magic and magnetic appeal upon all the unfortunate residents of those frigid states beyond the Sierras. God has done much for California climatically. But a survey of the spiritual condition of the state or of our city is not reassuring. Spiritual lethargy of a very malignant type is characteristic.

Evils Corrupt "Paul made such a survey of the city of Ephesus and wrote to his friends afterward, 'Wake up, O sleeper, and rise from the dead, so Christ will shine upon you.' There is no mistaking his esti- (Continued on page 8)

Chalmer D. Day Commander Of Glendale Legion

CHALMER D. DAY, commander of Post 127 of the American Legion. The Glendale organization is planning for the establishment of a clubhouse of its own.

Chalmer D. Day of 208 East Wilson avenue is commander of Post 127 of the American Legion. Mr. Day is associated with Charles B. Guthrie in the real estate business, makes his headquarters at 110 West Broadway and spends a large part of his time boosting Glendale.

The local post of the American Legion, which meets in its hall at 610 East Broadway, is now planning a membership drive to bring into the "old" all ex-service men who live in this vicinity. Plans will be made in the near future for the erection of establishment of a local clubhouse. A site, which may either be utilized or sold, was given to the post at the recent municipal election. This is located upon the northeast corner of Mountain and Campbell streets. It is valued at $10,000. Other officers of the local post are: Mitchell Frug, first vice-commander; Don Packer, second vice-commander; Charles G. Gibb, adjutant; Henry C. Prussing, treasurer; Frank W. Secrest, sergeant-at-arms, and Rev. C. M. Calderwood, historian. Trustees are Robert Plume, Emil O. Kiefer and Eugene J. Wix.

GREAT FAITH REMAINS IN AMERICA

National Commander of American Legion Says Spirit Unbeaten

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—"The world is wrecked by the quibbling of nations over the spoils of war but the sublime faith in the achievements of the recent world struggle is still in the minds of men and women of America who cherish a belief in the righteousness of the cause."

Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, declared in a Memorial Day statement made public at national headquarters today. "Brave Americans in the pursuance of the conflict's grim course became imbued with the fires of ambition which carried them on to the war's objective—the destruction of an unrighteous power," Owsley's statement said.

Triumph Over Wrong "The ideals of our citizen-soldier found expression in the defense of humanity. To have fought for the flag in the great conflict was to have maintained the cause of right. In the words of one soldier who wrote to his mother on the eve of battle: 'For myself, I would have you believe that whatever end I met, I met it with an even mind, constant in the conclusion that I would rather have gone out to this war and not come back, than not to have gone at all. My chief regret, if I may not live to see the end, is that I may not see the triumph of right over wrong in this, the most terrible eruption of the forces of reaction in the history of man. That these forces can triumph is unthinkable. If they are to win, I would rather die than witness the victory.'"

"It was in this spirit of unalterable pride in the defense of humanity's rights that led them to give their all. Theirs was the realization of the spirit of America."

MANUFACTURER ROBBED SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—The home of J. D. Zellerbach, a director of the Zellerbach Paper Company here, was robbed of $17,000 worth of jewelry.

PARADE AND CEREMONY TO CLOSE TRIBUTE

Impressive Services Will Be Held at Forest Lawn During Afternoon

DECORATION DAY will be observed this afternoon with a parade starting shortly before 2 o'clock, and appropriate exercises immediately after at Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Led by Col. J. D. Fraser, grand marshal, and his aides, W. H. Reeves, George L. Rollins and R. C. Plume, the parade will march south on Brand boulevard from Colorado street to Forest avenue where it will turn east and march into the cemetery.

The lineup will include the Elks' band, members of the G. A. R., and W. R. C. Legionnaires, War Mothers, members of the American Legion Auxiliary, Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliary, Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Veterans, and representatives of other civic and patriotic organizations. The schools will be represented both in the parade and the following ceremonies. The order of De Molay, which is composed of high school boys, will participate in the parade. Grammar school pupils will meet at the Corritos school and fall-in at the rear of the parade as it enters Forest Lawn.

Squadron of Planes A squadron of army aeroplanes from Clover Field, Santa Monica, is scheduled to fly over Glendale and after the parade enters the cemetery will strew flowers on the symbolic grave. The decoration of all veterans' graves in Forest Lawn Cemetery will be done tomorrow afternoon immediately preceding the ceremonies. This will be in charge of Robert M. Taylor of 336 West Park avenue, member of N. P. Bank's post of the G. A. R., and first scout master in Glendale.

The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. W. E. Edmondson, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Short speeches will be made by Eugene J. Wix in behalf of the American Legion and W. H. Reeves in behalf of the Spanish War Veterans. Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" will be delivered by Arden Ginkery, student at Glendale Union High school.

The musical program includes a selection by the Elks' band, the singing of "America" by the audience, and the singing of "America, the Beautiful" by a chorus of school children. The soloist will be Madame Constance Balfour of Los Angeles who is well known in local music circles. She will sing "The Story of Our Flag." Another special number will be a melophone and pfluehorn duet by Miss Lorraine Davis and Miss Alberta Davis, who are known as the Sammie Sisters.

Symbolic Grave The ritualistic service of the G. A. R. will be part of the ceremonies. Rev. C. R. Norton, chaplain of the local post, will pronounce both the invocation and the benediction. A symbolic grave will be decorated with wreaths in honor of those sleeping in foreign cemeteries. It will be marked with an American flag to be presented by Sons of the American Revolution.

The patriotic exercises will close with the firing of a volley over the symbolic grave and the sounding of taps.

Association to War On Dope Incorporated SACRAMENTO, May 30.—Articles of incorporation of the International Narcotic Education Association, which plans to join in the war on "dope," were filed with the secretary of state here.

The association plans to "prevent the spread of the use of narcotics by general special educational work." The articles set forth that the organization will seek to bring about systematic instruction on drugs and to try to secure the inclusion of the necessary instructions in all educational systems.

Pasadena Bus Line May Change Rates SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—The Pasadena-Ocean Park Stage Line has applied to the railroad commission for permission to establish on one day's notice a new schedule of rates for the transportation of passengers between Pasadena, Ocean Park and intermediate points, including Glendale.

The commission has authorized George R. Carne, operating under the fictitious name of Waterman & Carne, to sell, and Frank C. Johnson to purchase by contract, an automobile freight line operated between Los Angeles, Ventura and Ojai.

Nevada's Chief Will Give Talk at Grand View

JAMES G. SCRUGHAM, governor of Nevada, the first Legionnaire to be elected governor of a state, who will deliver the principal address at the morning exercises at Grand View Cemetery today.

Governor James G. Scrugham of Nevada, who will deliver the principal address at Grand View cemetery this morning, is the first World War veteran to be elected chief executive of a state. Governor Scrugham is a past national vice-commander of the American Legion. During the war he was commissioned a major in the O. R. C. and early in 1918 was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the United States army, where he served as chief of the carriage section, production of artillery divisions and ordnance department, and in the latter part of 1918 was made a member of the artillery board of the ordnance department.

Governor Scrugham graduated from the University of Kentucky as a mechanical engineer and held responsible positions with the largest engineering firms of Cincinnati, Chicago and San Francisco. From 1903 to 1914 he was a professor of mechanical engineering in the University of Nevada. He was commissioner of exhibits for the state at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915 and chairman of awards on machinery and manufactured goods at the California exposition the same year.

In 1917 he was an associate member of the United States consulting board; in 1918 he was state engineer of Nevada; in 1919 he was on the public service commission of that state; in 1920-21 he served as national vice-commander of the American Legion and is one of America's foremost contributors to technical magazines.

Wives of Bandits to Face Holdup Charge LOS ANGELES, May 30.—Two women, Mrs. Jenny O. Blair, wife of the wounded bandit now in custody, and Mrs. Blanche Dowdy, driver of one of the bandit cars used in the robbery a week ago of David Antink, cashier of the Sun Drug Company, were charged with participation in the daring holdup in which $22,000 was secured and the bandits escaped, in complaints filed late yesterday by Deputy District Attorney W. G. Heinecke.

According to S. S. Hahn, attorney for the Blairs, and who is said to represent the other four bandits who are still free, he will surrender Mrs. Dowdy. This was expected any time by the authorities.

Arizona Gold Pales Before Copper Output WASHINGTON, May 30.—As a mineral producer Arizona is pre-eminently a copper-mining state, although it makes a considerable output of gold as a by-product from copper ores. At present there is only one district from which the annual output of gold from ores that are primarily gold-bearing exceeds a few hundred ounces, the Oatman district, Mohave county, in the western part of the state, just opposite the southern point of Nevada. This district is described in a report recently issued by the Department of the Interior, as bulletin 743 of the Geological Survey.

De Valera Confirms Order to Cease War DUBLIN, May 30.—Eamonn de Valera, through his publicity department, has confirmed the authenticity of his order telling the Republican irregulars to end their fighting against the Free State.

SENT OVER WIRE PARIS, May 30.—A system for sending autographed telegrams is being installed in French telegraph offices. The sender writes the telegrams on a revolving cylinder and it is received by the addressee in the original writing of the sender.

LOCAL LEGION WILL HOLD PATRIOTIC SERVICES

Impressive Ceremony Will Take Place at Grand View Park Today

GLENDALE Post No. 127, the American Legion, under whose auspices Glendale's part in the Memorial Day services this morning at Grand View cemetery are being held, has played a prominent part in the patriotic and civic life of this city, ever since its organization in October of 1919.

Chalmer D. Day, the commander of the post, will lead the parade, which will start at 10 o'clock from the corner of Grand View avenue and Glendale road and will continue straight to Grand View cemetery, a short distance away. Others officers of the local post who will march in the parade and participate in the ceremonies are: Mitchell M. Frug, first vice-commander; Don Packer, second vice-commander; Charles G. Gibb, adjutant; Henry Prussing, treasurer; Frank W. Secrest, sergeant-at-arms; Harley G. Preston, chaplain; and Rev. Charles M. Calderwood, historian.

Members in Parade The 250 members of the local post will be in the parade, almost to a man together with many ex-service men who are not yet legionnaires and representatives of the American Legion Auxiliary, G. A. R., W. R. C., Spanish War veterans and other patriotic organizations. The program on the Grand View grounds will be opened by Rev. W. E. Edmondson, former state chaplain of the American Legion, whereafter Dwight W. Stephenson will deliver the address of welcome.

Mayor Spencer Robinson will then sing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," after which the symbolic burial will take place, the casket containing the body of the overseas hero who lost his life in the World War. Commander Leonard Wilson, chairman of the Los Angeles Inter-Post Council of the American Legion, will talk briefly on "Legion aims and ideals," introducing at the conclusion of his remarks Governor James G. Scrugham, of Nevada, the first Legionnaire to achieve the high honor of election to the governorship of a state.

Governor Scrugham will then deliver the address of the day, telling with the oratorical gift for which he is noted, the significance of the ceremonies just witnessed. Among the many prominent persons (Continued on page 8)

Joined Together With Patriotism And By Death

JUST on the eve of Memorial Day the call of "taps" sounded for two comrades of the N. P. Banks Post No. 170, G. A. R., and today, when the roll is called there will be no response from Comrade R. W. Thompson, whose death occurred on Tuesday, May 29, 1923, and Robert M. Searle, Eagle Scout of Boy Scouts of America, who served the post as bugler, whose death occurred Saturday, May 26, 1923.

It is beside these two newly made graves that the old soldiers will gather to renew the faith of years and pay tribute to fallen comrades. Though separated in age by over half a century R. W. Thompson, the white haired veteran, and Robert Searle, the youthful scout, were kin. Their hearts beat with the same fearless patriotism and loyalty, the one a Civil war veteran and the other a Boy Scout, but both soldiers.

American Legion Plans Full Military Honors for Twenty Who Gave All

BURIAL of twenty world war comrades who made the great sacrifice will be symbolized this morning, Memorial Day, 1923, at Grand View cemetery, by the lowering with full military honors of a casket containing the body of an American soldier brought back from overseas.

The soldier whose symbolic burial signals the honor being paid each of these twenty heroes, is Ray M. Clementson, who died in action, in France, and was buried there, later to be brought home, finally to be interred here on this beautiful and sunny slope, where forever after he will lie side by side with other brave young comrades who gave their lives for the nation and the world.

The twenty comrades laid away beneath the green grass of tranquil Grand View are but the vanguard of a great host of 11,000 men who, through the years to come, will swell their ranks, for the American Legion Inter-Post Council, of Los Angeles, has recently consummated arrangements by which a great tract in this cemetery becomes a perpetual burial ground for ex-service men.

- Those for whom this morning's impressive services will be held are: IRL E. JACKSON, LOWIS BARBRUGGO, WILLIAM ROWLAND, THOMAS KELLY, JOHN P. SOLVIK, FRANCIS A. STREET, JEAN MCCORMIC, OSCAR CRAWFORD, EDWARD BUISE, PAUL BURRIS, ALYSINO KERNS, RAY M. CLEMENTSON, FRED E. ERWIN, J. S. PERCE, RAYMOND L. PAGE, HOWARD M. CARTER, LEWIS GRETE, HUGO M. Social Event
Honor Mrs. Toll
Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Tuesday afternoon club member and president elect of the Los Angeles County District Federation of Women's clubs, was specially honored yesterday afternoon when the members of the board received at the clubhouse life members, all members joining since June 1922, the curators of all sections and the chairmen of all committees.
Quantities of early summer flowers arranged in tall graceful baskets decorated the various rooms.
Receiving in the lounge room were Mesdames Daniel Campbell, Charles H. Toll, A. H. Montgomery, C. W. Houston, John Dunn, H. E. Bartlett, E. W. Hayward, A. F. Findlay, A. A. Barton and J. C. Frampton.
After the arrival of the guests Mrs. Campbell greeted the company and invited them into the auditorium, where a program was given.
A delightful introduction to the program was a group of violin numbers by Miss Hazel Linkoel, accompanied by Mrs. Eva Christ. She played "By the Waters of Minnetonka" (Liaison); "Deep River" (Coleridge-Taylor); "Merry-Go-Round" (Cadmian); and "The Rosary" (Nevin).
Other enjoyable musical numbers were a solo "Down in the Forest" from "Mignon" by Mrs. Helen Graham Cole; "The Pine Tree" by Mary Turner Salter, accompanied by Mrs. Ripley; "Trees" (Kilmer) and "My Bonnie" by Mrs. A. M. Draper, accompanied by Mrs. Ripley.

Birthday Surprise
Mrs. H. A. Wilson of North Louise street entertained Monday evening with a birthday surprise dinner for Mr. Wilson in the celebration of his birthday anniversary.
The rooms were artistically decorated with arrangements of flowers in red, white and blue. The dinner table was decorated in the same color scheme with a large white birthday cake beautifully decorated with flags forming the centerpiece and place cards and other table appointments also carried out in the patriotic colors.
Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Harrison and daughter, Inez, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lee and son, Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Kitterman and daughter, Kathryn, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weller, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lennox, Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Lusby and sons, Donald and Bobby and Mr. and H. A. Wilson.
P-T. A. Benefit
The Edison Road Show will present an unusual entertainment under the auspices of the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher association on Wednesday night, June 6, at the school house, beginning at 8 o'clock.
The proceeds of this affair will be applied toward the cafeteria fund. The association recently installed a cafeteria at the school for the accommodation of the pupils and are now feeding about 100 children daily, and this entertainment is being planned in order to raise sufficient funds to defray the expenses of this new undertaking.
In addition to the program and entertainment there will be on sale at various booths home-made candy, cakes, sandwiches and coffee, which may be purchased at a nominal sum.

All-Day Meeting
The aid society of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church will hold the regular all-day meeting tomorrow at the church, it is announced. All members and friends are urged to attend, and to come prepared to sew. Luncheon will be served at noon.
Organize P-T. A.
Last Monday evening, a special meeting was held at the Emerson School of Self-Expression for the purpose of organizing an Emerson School Parent-Teachers' association. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Mercer, president; Mrs. Rhodes, vice president; Henry Biederman, secretary; Mrs. McBroome, treasurer; Mr. Fisher, auditor; Mrs. Lloyd, critic. Mrs. Rhodes was also appointed chairman of the program committee.
Preceding the business meeting a pupils' and teachers' recital was given which proved unusually pleasing and enjoyable.
Those taking part in the program were Jim Rhodes, Beth Morrish, Adele Loyd, Gloria Hart, Clifton Hanning, Robert Rhodes, Vera Mercer, Norma Dietrich, Frances Schalkow, Twyla McBroom, Willard Leeds, Virginia Rutter, Bill Rhodes, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Cravens, Mrs. Rhodes, Miss Algie, Mr. Badger, Mrs. Scharnikow, Mr. Biederman and Mrs. Cleghorn.

Church Program
A song recital will be given on Thursday night, May 31, at the Tropic Presbyterian church on South Central avenue, by Miss Alta Arnold, soprano. She will be assisted by Mrs. Roberta T. Young at the piano and Mrs. Ruth E. Lane on the steel guitar.
Miss Arnold is a pupil of Mrs. Virginia Freeman and has a glorious voice with a warm and sympathetic quality that appears destined to bring her many laurels.
The following is the program to be presented: "The Star" (Rogers), "Dawn" (Curran), "A Birthday" (Woodman), "The Vendor of Dreams" (Cox), "Cry of Rachel" (Salter), "Ah, Moon of My Delight" (Lehmann), "Concert Waltz" (Miller), "Drowsy Water" (Palo), "Aloha Oe" (Princess Kealakal), "Elegiac" (Massek), "Chanson Indome" (Karsakow).

Picnic Outing
Last Saturday proved to be a big day for the pupils of the Pacific Avenue school, the event being a school picnic held at Brookside Park. About 350 children were escorted to the park grounds in automobiles furnished by the teachers and the members of the Parent-Teacher association.
At noon a delicious picnic dinner was served and in the afternoon games, contests and races, and all that go to make a picnic such a jolly affair was participated in.
Class Will Meet
Mrs. Edith Dockery of 723 South Louise street is to be hostess tomorrow at the regular meeting of the Berean Bible class of the First Baptist church. The women are asked to meet at 2 o'clock and come prepared for sewing.
The knowledge of where to plant and hoe wards off all disappointment's woe.

Our Deepest Gratitude
MEMORIAL DAY! Today a nation of more than a hundred million souls pauses in its diversified and complex activities to pay tribute and homage to the men who died or offered their lives in the service of that nation. There are many evils that threaten us as a nation today—the activities of those who would overthrow our government, and the short-sightedness of those who condone the breaking of our laws. The constitution on which our government is founded is threatened and many believe our national life is menaced by the growing laxity of our home life.
So, amid these influences that tend to tear down and destroy and strike fear to our hearts, how refreshing is the fragrance of the flowers of Memorial Day! What encouragement, what inspiration, what solace comes with the spectacle of a great nation on its knees at a soldier's grave breathing a prayer of Thanksgiving for patriot countrymen!
Memorial Day was inaugurated shortly after the Civil war and the sentiment of the day is so essentially sound and appeals so strongly to our sense of gratitude and justice that it has grown stronger year by year as more join the silent ranks and our obligations become greater.
Ingratitude is one of the most despicable of sins. Former Commander Galbraith of the American Legion said, "We shall live as a nation only as we remember our dead." A missionary to a remote island where the natives were most depraved, wrote that these people had words in their very limited vocabulary to express every form of torture and killing but no word to express thanks, for they had never felt the emotion of gratitude. For us who have lived in an enlightened and Christian land not to feel grateful to those who have defended our homes and our land would be placing us lower than those depraved savages.
And so the fact that we do celebrate Memorial Day is evidence that our civilization is not deteriorating as rapidly as some would have us think.
Growing in significance year by year, Memorial Day is one of our national institutions, one of the bulwarks of our nation. It is an inspiration to us to become better citizens, to strive to deserve the peace won at such a sacrifice. It should quicken our sense of responsibility and strengthen our resolve to be true patriots in time of peace as well as in time of war.
The statement is often made, "That war didn't settle anything." It is true the nations of Europe are at each other's throats almost as fiercely as ever. But don't let these people make you believe that our boys died in vain. They drove the dreaded U-boats from the seas and kept the invader from their country's shores. They kept from us even the knowledge of what war really is.
And, so we owe our deepest gratitude to the boys of 1918 as well as those of '61. Long may we cherish our departed patriots in our hearts for just so long will our nation endure. Let us truly celebrate Memorial Day, the holiday whose sentiment is an inspiration to youth, a consolation to the aged.

OUTLINES PLANS FOR C. C. DRIVE
Minimum of 1500 Members Is Campaign Goal, Morris Declares
of the grand force of 110 men will be held-at which the results obtained will be canvassed, and the leading teams will be spurred on to battle for the leadership in bringing in new members and in raising money for the Chamber of Commerce.
Accurate lists of the names of Glendale residents are being prepared and from these names will be selected a list of at least 3000, each of whom will be made the object of a personal solicitation by members of the campaign committees, and out of this total it is anticipated that at least the 1500 aimed at will be secured, while the point system of ranking the various teams will, Mr. Morris predicted, bring in from 60 to 75 per cent of the subscriptions, thus eliminating the collection of these sums later.
Enthusiasm Grows
Mr. Morris instilled his hearers with much of his own enthusiasm when he declared that the work of a Chamber of Commerce is the most important of any body in this or any other city, emphasizing the assertion that the development of the great empire of southern California is the peculiar province of the Chambers of Commerce in every town and city in the southland. The absorption of the newcomers to this region must be a vital concern to every city in this part of the state, and the Chambers of Commerce must help the various towns to keep pace with the demands that are being made on them to take care of this flood of new population that is constantly being poured into this region. He stated that the record of accomplishment of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which is lending its prestige to help Glendale build up its organization to that point where it will take its proper place in the minds of every citizen of Glendale, has brought that body the acknowledged leadership among the Chambers of Commerce in the entire world, and its aid in Glendale at this time is being directed toward stabilizing and re-emphasizing the importance of the local body.
The problem of southern California, Mr. Morris declared, is that of assimilating the new residents that are coming in here on every train, and many cities are suffering from indigestion from trying to take care of the thousands of people who have flocked to southern California during the last few years, when the facilities for doing so have been strained to the utmost and when the original settlers have had neither the length of life nor the variety of contacts to take care of the problem that has been laid upon them. The directors of the Chamber of Commerce, he maintained, must throw themselves into the present campaign even at the sacrifice of some of their own interests, and must assume the position of leaders which they are fitted to assume by virtue of their standing in the community. Mr. Morris praised the present board of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, which is, he declared, one of the best in representative commercial life that he has ever encountered, and this verdict, he stated, had only been reached after a close investigation of every local condition and of the men connected with the organization.
H. S. McCormack, of the publicity committee, reported on the progress that is being made in the publication of the booklet that is to be issued by the Chamber of Commerce, and it was decided to delay the issue of the booklet for a few weeks until the directors can investigate the question of cost with a view to spending more on the booklet than had originally been intended.
Conservative estimates compiled by the exposition committee, Mr. McCormack said, indicated that the Chamber of Commerce would receive at least $25,000 from the proceeds of the exposition, and he paid a tribute to Director General H. Leavitt for the action of the latter in turning over to the committee a check for $240 which had been rebated to him by one of the contractors having an important part in preparing for the exposition. All of the directors of the organization who have come in contact with Mr. Leavitt since he came here also testified that he had "come clean" in every business transaction that he had carried out with the organization.

Predict Early Grant of G. & M. Franchise
Assurance that early action would be taken on granting the desired franchise to the Glendale & Montrose railway was given to P. J. Hayselden, in an interview that he had yesterday morning with several men close to the city administration, in Los Angeles. The granting of the franchise by the Los Angeles city council will, it is stated, mean the early electrification of the Glendale & Montrose railway. Everything is ready for submission to the Los Angeles city officials, and it is believed that favorable action will be taken in the immediate future, so that the plans for the improvement of the service will be carried into effect as rapidly as possible.

Memories of Cuba and Philippines Are Revived by Men Who Fought in 1898

SPANISH WAR VETERANS IN STRONG ORGANIZATION

Camp for Glendale and Vicinity Is Formed In June, 1922, and Meets Twice Monthly; Complete List Of Its Members

REMINISCENCES of Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines are always in order on the first and third Wednesdays of each month in the Knights of Pythias hall, 104 West Park avenue, at the semi-monthly gatherings of Camp No. 67 of Spanish War Veterans.

Since this camp was established in June, 1922, its meetings have been a source of inspiration and great interest to its members. In a barrage of tobacco smoke, comrades discuss until a late hour of the night various phases of the former conflict from the time they left home as volunteers for the training camps until they returned again as full fledged veterans. Among the topics discussed from time to time are the weighty haversacks, the sore feet, the appetizing mess, the vicious mosquitoes, the sludgy swamps, the crowded transports and the tasty medicine.

Deeds of heroism and bravery are frequently revealed in a modest way and discreet questioning on the part of the post officers frequently reveals the fact that many of the members of the local post distinguished themselves in the service.

The national encampment was held this spring in Los Angeles. It was attended by a number of comrades from the local post, including, as delegates, Capt. W. H. Reeves, past commander; Dr. W. C. Mabry, present commander, and Col. J. D. Fraser, who had control of a port area in New York harbor during the World War.

The California annual convention was held this year in Riverside, where the delegates gathered at the Mission Inn. Among those attending were Dr. W. C. Mabry, Capt. W. H. Reeves, Col. J. D. Fraser, C. M. Young, Alex Schmitt and Frank E. Peters.

Officers for the present term are as follows: Dr. William C. Mabry, commander and surgeon; L. D. Pike, senior vice-commander; Col. J. D. Fraser, chaplain; Herbert Gray, officer of the day; Jack Satow, officer of the guard; Samuel Warren, adjutant; Alexander Schmitt, quartermaster; John Clark, historian; Harry Girard, musician; Capt. G. L. Rollins, patriotic instructor; Frank E. Peters, sergeant major; G. T. Harness, quartermaster sergeant; George L. Murphy and Forrest E. Hill, color guards; Capt. William B. Kelly and Capt. William A. Loving, trustees.

The roster of Spanish War Veterans in this vicinity is as follows: Adams, Dan D., San Fernando. Ayars, A. C., 400 West Elk avenue, Glendale. Axup, George A., 122 North Adams street. Baker, C. Vandals Fined for Breaking Forest Law
Three residents of the foothills were haled into the Burbank township court of Justice Harry W. Chase in Glendale yesterday and fined for infractions of forestry rules. Two were charged with removing yuccas from forbidden property, and the third convicted of starting a brush fire without a permit. This occurred Sunday in La Crescenta vicinity. Representatives of the county forester's office informed Judge Chase they will prosecute all who start brush fires at this time of the year in the foothills without obeying regulations. Too great damage has been done the watershed of Los Angeles county by uncontrolled fires, according to the officials, and a minimum fine of $25 will be assessed.

Contrary to the Common Estimate

MONTROSE RIDE VERY ATTRACTIVE

Electric Cars Go Through Beautiful Scenes to Thriving Sections

A scenic ride of rare beauty winding through the picturesque, historic Verdugo valley to Montrose, is offered patrons of the Glendale & Montrose railway. "Leaving the East Broadway terminus every hour, the cars of this foothill line lead to picnicers and all in search of an outing, access to Montrose, La Crescenta, La Canada and Tujunga at a most nominal cost," says Preston L. Hatch, general manager of the company. "No motor trip over superb boulevards could be more delightful than a trolley ride to Montrose, through the heart of one of the most beautiful valleys in the Southland," Mr. Hatch says. "And yet the trip is available to everyone, whether or not in possession of an automobile."

"What could be a better way to spend a part of Memorial Day than to take a ride out through Verdugo valley, on one of the cars of the Glendale & Montrose Railway Company, and get the beauty of the scenery, the exhilaration of an altitude of 2000 feet, the grandeur of a view that takes in to the south all of Glendale, Los Angeles and the harbor, and to the east and west the whole stretch of the San Fernando valley and the Sierra Madre mountains?"

Ride Continues

Past beautiful green Verdugo Woodlands the ride continues, winding and curving; past the Oakmont Country club and Sparr Heights, straight up to Montrose and on to La Crescenta. In the "Los Angeles County Alps," gradually climbing; past myriad tiny bungalows set in along the hill-sides, together with many more pretentious homes; until in La Crescenta, the northern terminus is reached.

And such a history as those green Verdugo hills could tell! Of Father Junipero Serra and the man who passed that way over El Camino Real, "The King's Highway," on the journey from mission to mission, in the old days.

'Vanity Fair' Feature Picture at Glendale

"Vanity Fair," made by Hugo Ballin from the immortal Thackeray classic, shows today at the Glendale theatre, with the director's wife, Mabel Ballin, in the role of Becky Sharp. Scarcely anything needs to be said regarding this great Goldwyn production, for its popularity has swept from coast to coast. It is one of the outstanding pictures of the year and will rank with Mr. Ballin's finest work.

In addition to Mabel Ballin, the fine cast contains Hobart Bosworth, in the role of Marquis de Steyne, and Harrison Ford, George Walsh, Robert Mack, Eleanor Boardman and many others. "Vanity Fair" as a film is the same as "Vanity Fair" as a novel and as a play—a great human document with a strong appeal to everyone.

Mayor Robinson Tries to Drive 'Bone Dry Car'

MAYOR SPENCER ROBINSON, as you all know, is the possessor of a new motorcar. Yea, verily, he is the proud possessor of same.

But, for all his pride, when he poked the starter with his cane early Tuesday morning in front of the Glendale Elks' club, it refused to respond to his entreaties, both physical and verbal.

Finally, it was discovered the machine had gone without any of the fluid that chugs. The gasoline tank was bone dry, with not a drop in sight at that hour of the night.

L. W. Chobe, known for his ability to make peace-keepers strut, offered the services of his old bus as a tow car. And the mayor went trailing after in regal state looking for the sign that cheers, "Gasoline—Day or Night."

Glendale Couple Wed at Pendroy's Booth At Exposition in Presence of Big Crowd

Picture of bridal party which was the feature at the Industrial Exposition last night. The center couple are the bride and groom, Miss Nellie Butler and Roy Brasfield.

ALTHOUGH it was a simple home wedding in an attractive California bungalow, the marriage last night of Miss Nellie Butler of 516 West Millford street and Roy Brasfield of the Gray hotel, at the Pendroy booth at the Industrial Exposition, was witnessed by more than one thousand people.

It was a brilliant event, and the happiness of the young couple, the artistic decorations, beautiful wedding gown and gay spring frocks and flowers of the bride's attendants, the interest of their many friends and the graciousness of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pendroy and their staff all happily combined in the event.

The announcement of the wedding attracted crowds to the big tent on North Brand boulevard, and before the bridal party arrived the hundreds of spectators promenade past the Pendroy booth to admire the lovely setting.

The living room was arranged for the ceremony. A bower of greenery with arch bearing a huge wedding bell fashioned from fern and orange blossoms was artistically arranged, and under this arch the bride and groom stood during the reading of the ceremony by the officiating minister, Dr. H. C. Funk.

Wedding Cake Ready

In the dining room a beautifully decorated table was in readiness for the serving of the bride's cake and ice cream immediately after the ceremony. Places were marked for four.

Miss Butler, who is a charming sixteen-year-old girl, was beautifully gowned. The gown, which was an exact replica of Princess Mary's bridal gown, was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy. It was richly simple in material and design, fashioned from white georgette crepe, embroidered with crystal beads and pearls, over white satin. It was worn with a long white tulle veil built on a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was bride's roses, lilies of the valley and fern.

A pleasing color effect was created by the gowns and flowers of the bride's attendants. Little Betty Mink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mink, was the little flower girl, and she appeared in a cunning frock of yellow organdie.

Bobby Morrow, the tiny train bearer, wore point d'esprit over a pink satin costume. Miss Butler's sister, Miss Fay Butler, attended as maid of honor, wearing a yellow organdie dress and carrying an arm bouquet of Shasta daisies. The bridesmaids, Misses Stella Bellue, Ellen Swamer

Klan Fights Plan To Reveal Members

NEW YORK, May 30.—In the next few days the Ku Klux Klan will test the mettle of the Empire State's law requiring the publication of the names of its members, which would be tantamount to unmasking.

That is, it will if the New York king klegale of the masked fraternity carries out his threat made before several thousand klanmen to defy the Walker act, which requires all organizations to file lists of membership with the state by June 2.

and Vesta Morrow, were gowned also in organdie, one in yellow and the other in lavender, and carried arm bouquets of Shasta daisies and yellow coreopsis.

The groom, best man, Roy Clinton, and other attendants, Ernest Butler, Noel Carder and Clarence Rode, all wore the uniform of the Modern Woodmen of America. A group of Woodmen were present and formed an aisle through which the bridal party entered the bungalow.

Bridal music was furnished by an orchestra consisting of Winifred Parker, pianist; Laurie Truitt, saxophone; Ivan Dow, trumpet, and Harry Williams, traps.

Federation of Labor Warns Seattle Body

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Peremptory orders to the Central Labor Council of Seattle to repudiate its recently expressed approval of sovietism and communism, as well as the I. W. W. and similar movements, have been issued by the American Federation of Labor. The executive council of the federation issued the orders in the form of a letter to James A. Duncan, secretary of the Seattle council.

The Seattle body was told in plain terms "not to issue credentials of any kind accrediting any person either as delegate of observer to any congress, convention or gathering of the Red labor or Internationale, the communist international or any other body hostile to the American Federation of Labor."

The organization was called upon to give the executive council "definite and tangible" assurance of its purpose to be loyal to the American Federation of Labor, to abide by the decisions of the federation and to conduct itself in all matters with the laws and principles of the federation and the policies declared by it.

All Yosemite Roads Now Reported Open

CAMP CURRY, YOSEMITE, Cal., May 30.—All road branches to Yosemite from the San Joaquin valley are now open, it was announced Monday. The Oakdale sociability run has opened the Big Oak Flat road. The Fresno Dealers run opened the Fresno route. The Los Angeles Economy run opened the Madera branch. The Merced route was opened by San Francisco newspapermen. The Modesto sociability run June 1 will open the Modesto-Contierville branch of the Big Oak Flat route, and the Tioga road from the north will open July 15.

SLASH IN REPARATIONS

LONDON, May 30.—A Central News dispatch from Lausanne says the Allies have notified the Turks they are willing to forego reparations in the amount of 15,000,000 gold Turkish pounds if the Turks restore all sequestered property and compensate Turkish business concerns financed with Allied capital.

WILL CATALOGUE ENTERTAINMENTS

Community Service to Seek Co-operation of Civic Organizations

In order to permit the various organizations in Glendale to plan their entertainments and other gatherings without conflicting with other affairs that may be set for the same evenings, the executive secretary of Community Service, R. Ernest Tucker, has addressed the following letter to the heads of such organizations: Glendale has grown so rapidly that there is a continual overlapping and conflict of social, educational and religious activities that are of community-wide interest.

Community Service of Glendale, in its desire to be of help along social lines, is preparing a calendar to be kept on file in this office wherein all events that are of interest to large or small groups of people in the city will be catalogued.

The idea is to provide a clearing house where your organization may call up and find out what dates seem to be clear for special affairs which you may be planning.

This service can only be a success with the whole-hearted co-operation of your organization. Will you not report to us all regular and special events so that they may be indicated on the program? If conditions warrant, it may be that we can issue a weekly bulletin at some future date showing what Glendale has to offer through its various agencies.

CONDITION SERIOUS

A SAVAGE TIRE "AD" --- WITH COMMENTS

When you get through reading this "ad" you may say to yourself or somebody else, "That fellow Lee certainly thinks he knows all about advertising. If you do—you misunderstand me and the purpose of my effort. I don't begin to know what there is to know about that subject, and I don't pretend to know, however, why certain things have been done and I am passing that information on to you because I think you will be interested.

Royal B. Lee, Advertising Manager.

No. 2 OF A SERIES

COPYRIGHT
1923 S.S.T. CO.

This illustration does one thing and in doing so serves its purpose well. Notice how the artist has made the product advertised the very center of attraction. Around the tire this group is listening to a story—the Story of the Aristocrat. It must be interesting, to hold their attention so!

An "interest arousing" headline or title helps to make a successful ad.

The space available does not permit us to go into detail so we must tell in 180 words the accomplishments of three and one-half years! Have you ever tried it? It's hard work when there is a lot to tell.

This is sort of a summing up of the desirable things to be had if you make your selection from our particular line of tire equipment. The integrity of our institution and the type of products manufactured insures this.

This list makes it easy for you to ask one of our nearby dealers to tell you about some of the mileage records Savage Tires have made in your own territory. He can readily do this if he has handled our line for two years—it takes that long for most Aristocrats to wear out, unless, of course, you pile up exceptional mileage in a short time.

THE STORY OF THE ARISTOCRAT

It was in the Fall of 1919 that the Big Chiefs of the Savage Tire Company said, "Go build a mighty tire—a tire that will surpass, in beauty of design and in the work it is to perform, anything that has been produced heretofore." They were speaking of the new Savage Tire of Cord construction about to be built.

A year and a half later, after much painstaking effort and research, this tire was presented to the Big Chiefs, approved, and put on the market. It contained 17 outstanding constructional features that made it a truly remarkable tire by comparison with every other make.

And it was a beautiful, stately-looking tire. So we called it The Aristocrat.

Since then slight changes have been made in its construction which make it even a better tire, and other changes will no doubt be made as time goes on, for we are determined to maintain the leadership among tires and the good will among motorists we have established with this Aristocrat—the tire we are building to excel all other makes.

BURBANK PATRIOTIC NOTE MARKS PROGRAM

Decoration Day Exercises Will Honor to Nation's Heroes

Burbank is to have a full program of patriotic events today, opening with exercises at the Thomas A. Edison school at 9 o'clock, a large number of ex-service men being present.

The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Main, followed by a cantata, "America Triumphant," by the Choral club.

Mayor J. C. Crawford will then deliver an address.

The Choral club will sing "The Star Spangled Banner," joined by the audience, Mr. Munro directing.

Company No. 1 buglers will render "To the Colors." The flag will be lowered and thirty seconds of silence observed.

The buglers will then sound "Taps."

The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will pledge allegiance to the flag.

Rev. Parker will deliver the benediction.

Order of March

A parade will then form and march to the corner of Olive avenue and Fourth street, where a train of Pacific Electric cars will be waiting to take them without charge to Grand View cemetery to join in the big demonstration there.

Twenty girls dressed in white will carry flowers for the graves of the soldiers.

The order of the march will be: Capt. C. K. Bowen, Past Commander of the Post, marshal of the day.

Colors and color guard, the latter furnished by Van Nuys; firing squad, life and drum corps, G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, American Legion service flag, American Legion and guests of the day, from San Fernando, Van Nuys and Owensmouth posts, Company No. 1, the National Guard, Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Flower Girls and all school children.

Following the conclusion of their own exercises at Grand View cemetery, the Burbank delegation will join with Glendale and Los Angeles in the monster affair at the American Legion plot, to which have been drawn representatives from all over the Southland, including Governor John Scruggam of Nevada, who will make the address of the morning.

Mausoleum Planned Burbank is to have a superb mausoleum at Grand View cemetery, Glendale, if plans under way materialize.

Pay Tribute To Veterans Of Civil War

Joining today with their fellow patriots, veterans of the Spanish-American and World wars, the members of the Grand Army of the Republic paid special tribute to their dead. The roster of the N. P. Banks post includes the following deceased comrades:

- WILLIAM ALLEN THOMAS ATKINSON LYMAN W. ADAMS ABRAHAM ANDREWS MOSES BLACK F. M. BEERS DAVID BARDWELL JACOB H. BATES WILLIAM BLACKBURN J. B. BRADFORD W. R. BURRINGTON JAMES P. BRIGGS WARD E. CLARK C. Work is expected to start on the structure within the next sixty days, as 200 Burbank people are back of the movement and have reserved crypts, the cost of which is said not to exceed that of ordinary cemetery lots.

This modern method of caring for the earthly remains of departed loved ones has long been popular with American families, as is attested by the fact that there are mausoleums in 2000 cities of this country, exponents of the idea pointed-out.

The proposed structure will be built of reinforced concrete, supplemented with bronze and marble, and will constitute a beautiful, enduring, sanitary burial place.

EAGLE ROCK THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN PAGEANT

Huge Marathon Display at Patterson Field; Hold Memorial Services

A huge marathon pageant was staged yesterday afternoon, May 29, at Patterson field, Occidental College, by the Woman's Benefit Association of the Macabees, whose national convention is now in progress in Los Angeles.

The pageant commemorated the thirtieth anniversary of the organization, said to be the largest fraternal benefit society composed exclusively of women.

Over 3,000 people, including 1,000 school children, took part in the mammoth attraction, which was witnessed by in excess of 15,000 spectators.

The program in brief follows: Grand entrance of 100 color bearers, fifty-six state and provincial trumpeters with supreme officers, summer camp club escort and guard of honor.

Marathon songs by state divisions, accompanied by 100-piece band.

Procession of years led by Miss 1892 with 1,000 beautifully costumed participants.

Grand entrance of world nationalities in costume to the music of the national anthems played by the band.

Massed marathon guard display drill of 1,000 uniformed guards. A thousand costumed children in a pantomime.

Crowning of 1,000 victors. Exercises at school.

Another large event that took place in Eagle Rock yesterday was the annual Memorial Day observance at the Central school. So many pupils were anxious to attend this affair that it was found necessary to hold it in two divisions.

In all, well over 1,000 pupils gathered in the auditorium, where they enjoyed an inspiring patriotic program featured by addresses from a number of G. A. R. veterans.

Music was furnished by the Central school orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Leopold. Mrs. Leopold's son, Harold, was one of the musicians.

All of the Civil War veterans present are residents of Eagle Rock, and several have grandchildren who are pupils at the school. Athletes of the Central school distinguished themselves at the track meet held at Arroyo Seco park last Thursday, a number carrying off first honors.

Russell Slocum, aged 12, broke the record for the 100-yard dash, making an official time of 11 seconds flat. The previous record was 11 1/2 seconds.

Another Eagle Rock boy, "White" Jackson, took first in the 75-yard dash and relay, making fast time in both events.

It is announced that the first annual School Annual will soon be out.

There will be a big Central picnic at Brookside park Thursday, May 31, in the afternoon, it is announced.

Eagle Rock post of the American Legion will co-operate in the morning exercises at Grand View cemetery, Glendale, this morning, as one of the posts of the Los Angeles Inter-Post Council, under whose auspices the affair is being staged, announces Commander Maurice Hammond.

In the afternoon Eagle Rock post will participate in the big patriotic parade starting at 2 o'clock in Los Angeles.

Eagle Rock's Civil War veterans, who are members of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., will likewise participate in the patriotic exercises held at Grand View this morning.

This afternoon the "boys in blue" will participate in the exercises held at Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale.

The old comrades rallied early yesterday morning and led by C. Henry Clark of 134 East Eagle avenue, next to the youngest member of the post, and Charles Bock, 93 years old and the oldest member, they visited the East, West and Central schools in the morning and at the Rockdale school in the afternoon.

Mr. Clark, who is adjutant of the post, addressed the pupils. It was a strenuous day for him because between his morning and afternoon talks in Eagle Rock, he motored to Glendale to address the pupils at the Colorado street school.

Interesting accounts of their recent trip north to the recent G. A. R. encampment at Modesto are being given by Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Clark of 134 East Eagle avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark, accompanied by Mrs. Flora Pixley of Glendale, motored north and with ideal weather prevailing they enjoyed a delightful trip. They traveled by the Ridge Route, stopping at Bakersfield, Visalia and other points of interest.

Mr. Clark is adjutant of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., of Glendale, and he and Mrs. Clark are anticipating attending the thirty-sixth annual encampment of the Southern California Veteran Association.

Early this morning Mr. Bock and his wife, who is 83 years of age, raised the Stars and Stripes at half-mast on the flagpole in their garden, in recognition of the nationwide memorial to America's dead.

LOCAL LEGION TO HOLD CEREMONY

Members Will Gather at Grand View Park Today For Services

Committee Members Members of the following committees and organizations of the Glendale Post, the American Legion, will also be present: William C. Mabry, Dru Nicoles, James F. McBride, E. Payson, Hayward and James W. Everington, of the executive committee; Robert C. Plume, chairman; and Emil O. Kiefer and Eugene J. Wix, of the board of trustees.

Dru Nicoles, Emil O. Kiefer, and James F. McBride will also represent the local post as post commanders.

There will be present J. F. McClish, chairman; and William H. Reeves and John D. Fraser, of the membership committee, together with chairmen of the following committees: G. L. Kaeding, sick and relief; Jesse Flower, funeral; A. G. Wheeler and Victor Carr athletic; H. B. Lockwood, scoutmaster, in charge of Troop No. 4, the Boy Scouts, and assistant scoutmasters Merrill A. Lewis, Ivan Crooker and Nelson Diek.

Many other officials of Post No. 127, the American Legion, will also be present upon this great patriotic occasion.

California's Climate Gets New Color

(Continued from page 1) mate of the danger. He is a faithful watchman upon the city's wall and his words are as a trumpet call to a slumbering camp.

"Paul never magnified nor minimized a man's spiritual peril. He discovered that the presence of universal irreligion induces a spiritual numbness and stupor that is truly alarming. He discerned the connection between a man's religious environment and his religious energy. Evil companionships corrupt good morals, therefore awake to righteousness is his plea.

Spiritually Cold "The atmosphere of San Francisco is spiritually cold. For this cause many are weak and sickly among you and many are asleep." John Wesley once said that no man could be converted who had cold feet. Who can count the men who come to this great city and lose all sense of vital religion because the climate is against them?

"In a little village in Maine some time ago a delivery man started on his route when the temperature was 24 degrees below zero. He started, but he never returned. He did not commit suicide. He went to sleep. Somewhere along the way the paralyzing warmth of the delusion that no danger existed seized him, the seductive numbness followed, and he never arose.

New Sanitarium To Be Great Asset For City

HUGE HEALTH PLANT FOR HUMANITY

Starts With Vision and Is Now Being Built Amid Glendale's Hills

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff

High on the San Raphael hills, between Wilson avenue and Sycamore Canyon road, just east of Verdugo road, amid idyllic surroundings and commanding superb vistas to all points of the compass, a $500,000 structure of brick and steel is rising to be the new home of the Glendale Sanitarium & Hospital, whose present plant at 511 East Broadway has for years been a familiar landmark.

Winding up through the twenty-seven acre tract to the summit where these extensive building operations are under way, meanders a road that in the California of old was an Indian trail, used by the natives to gain that elevation from which they could survey the landscape in every direction, thus determining if "redfaces" or hostile tribes were in their province.

And many of the same great live-oaks that bend their shady branches over the path today sheltered those Indians of long ago, both from the sun and from surveillance, it being estimated that numbers of the trees in the grove are over 200 years old.

Variety of Trees
Not only oaks but olives, almonds, apricots, peaches, English walnuts are among the trees to be found in large numbers on this twenty-seven acre tract that makes up the grounds of the future Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. And, in addition, grapes, pears and persimmons are found in abundance, together with many garden fruits and vegetables.

Continuing up the old Indian trail to the crest, one sees in the foreground great walls of masonry and steel girders rising amid a swarm of workers, while the view that bursts upon one's vision brings forth a gasp—for there to the front, facing southwest, lies in magnificent panorama Sycamore hill, the whole valley of Glendale, with the new high school in the central foreground, and Griffith park, with the Los Feliz road seen clearly, climbing the hill to Hollywood; while to the rear, facing the northeast, can be had a sublime, ever-changing spread of scene, including the Verdugo hills and Mt. Lowe, 6000 feet high, the white observatory glimmering clearly in the sunlight while the valley between offers a pastoral of green meadows and waving trees.

And all about this hilltop, twittering and fluttering, a thousand birds sing and the air comes soft and cool as a mist of spring water. A place of healing tonic, sunny, where the healing tonic of nature is everywhere in evidence; a retreat, away from the world yet near it; a spot of infinite beauty and peace.

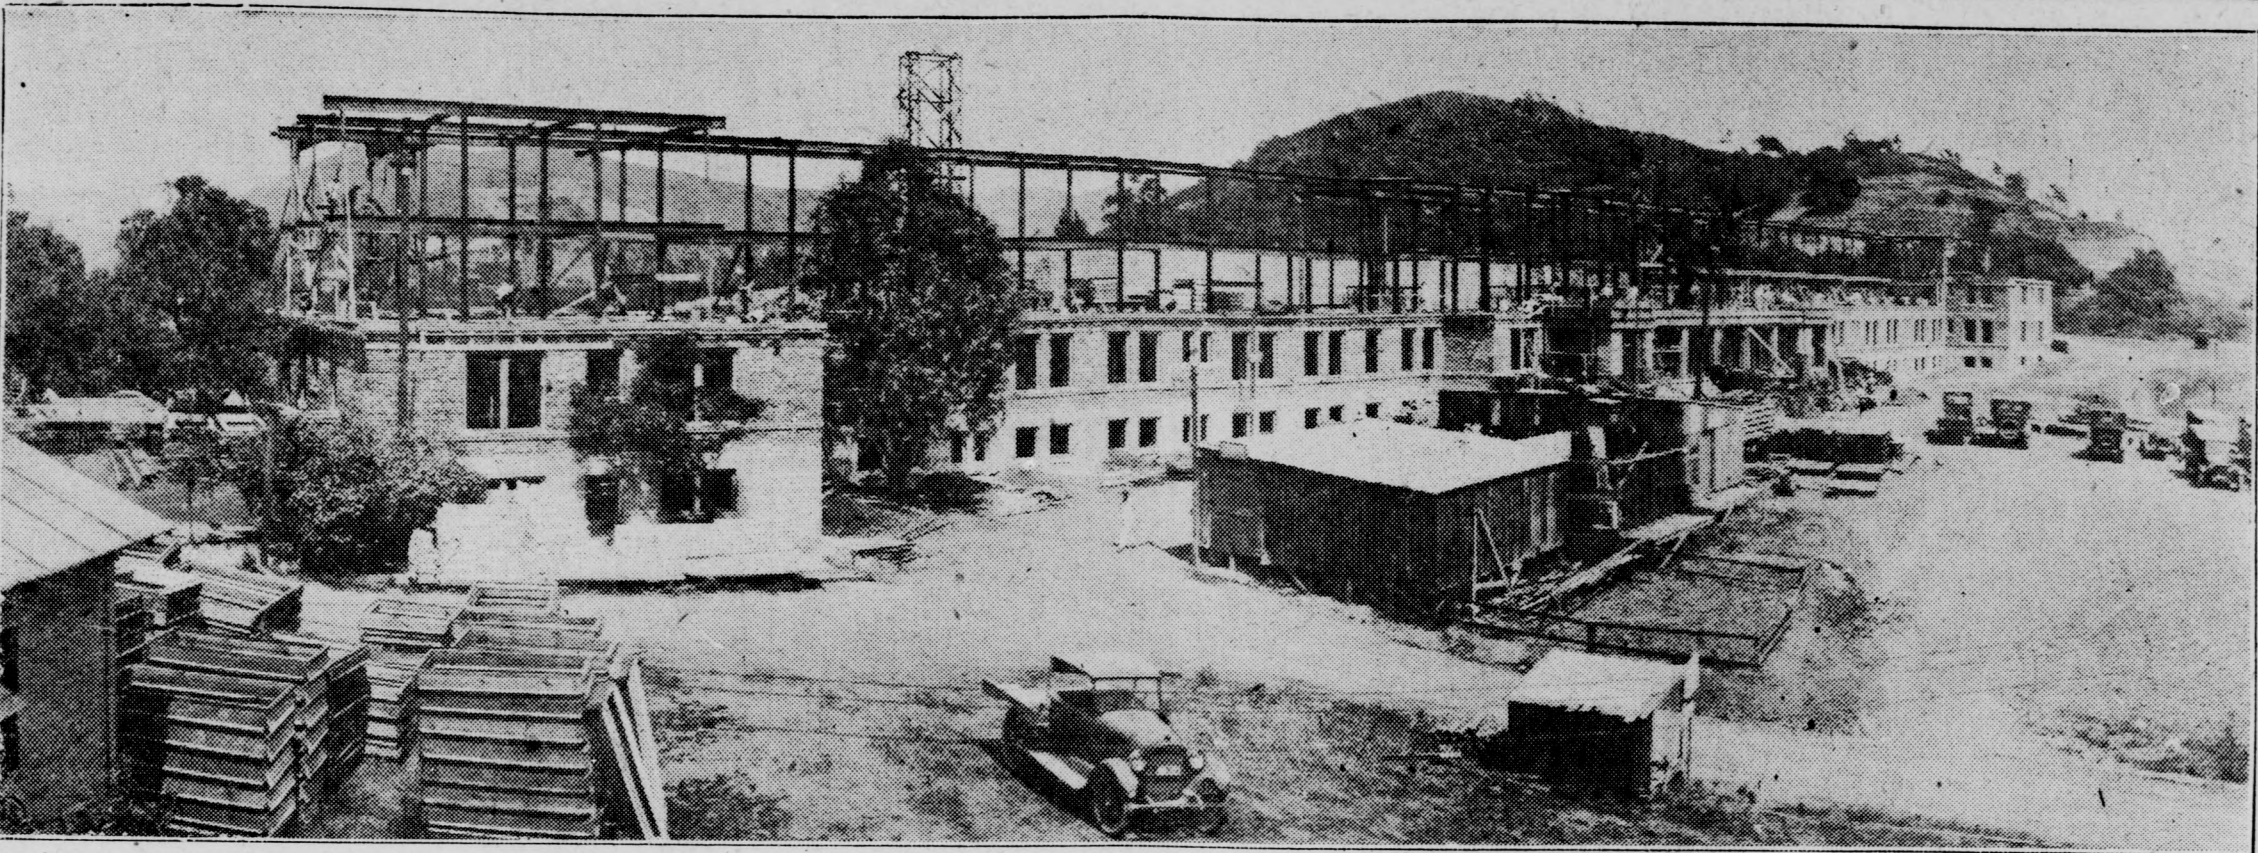

Imposing Structures
The structures being erected upon this site are of imposing dimensions. The main building is 45 feet long by 44 feet wide, with sixty-two, including the wings at either end, and comprises a main floor and three upper floors, throughout, with a fourth floor in the center, forty-four by 106 feet, devoted to a sun-parlor, from which the view will be so superb that on clear days Catalina island may be distinguished.

Adjoining the main building is a two-story annex, forty-four by 130 feet, with a twenty-four by thirty-eight foot extension. This annex connects with the main building by a covered way. Both main building and annex are of brick and stucco construction, the floors of noiseless terrazzo.

The main building contains 129 private rooms for patients, together with large wards on the ground floor, a spacious reception room, dining-room, kitchens, offices and numerous other rooms. The annex contains a parlor, employees' dining-room, cafeteria, kitchen, storeroom and other rooms.

Completely Equipped
Each of the 129 private rooms in the main building is equipped with a toilet, lavatory, clothes closet, silent call button, telephone plug, radio receiving connection and other features. Each room is an outside room and one-third of the rooms have private baths.

View of Glendale Sanitarium, Hospital Under Construction

This picture shows a portion of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital now under construction at an ideal site on the San Rafael Hills, between Wilson avenue and Sycamore Canyon road. The new institution will represent an outlay of a half million dollars or more. It will advertise Glendale throughout the world—and it will bring people here from all corners of the globe. The institution is a part of the Seventh-day Adventist church organization and will be, it is predicted, one of the finest sanitariums in the country.

DR. H. G. WESTPHAL, medical superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, and noted for his ability, who is directing the establishment of the medical departments of the new institution.

plant and a ten foot hallway running the entire length of the building.

In addition to the main building and annex, there are under construction at the present time a hydro-therapy building, medical office building, central heating plant, laundry, garage, machine shops and other incidental structures.

The hydro-therapy building, or bathhouse, is forty-six by 152 feet and comprises a main floor and two upper floors. The ground floor will be laid out in class-rooms and devoted to a nurses' training school, with a well-equipped domestic science school, where instruction will be given both nurses and patients while on the second floor will be a women's bath and the third a men's bath.

The medical office building, forty-two by 114 feet, will be devoted to physicians' offices, laboratory, X-ray room, physicians' library and pharmacy.

The central heating plant will be equipped with two 200 horsepower boilers, and will furnish ample heat and power for all purposes of the institution.

Provisions are being made to maintain a staff of seven doctors, an X-ray technician, a laboratory, 30 graduate nurses, 160 nurses in training and 100 additional helpers, a total staff of 300 people, of one and one-half times the maximum of 200 patients the institution can accommodate, an insurance of personal service for every patient admitted.

Some idea of the immensity of this undertaking can be obtained when it is realized that 135 names are at present on the construction payroll, which totals $4500 a week. Alfred F. Priest is the architect who designed the structure and W. E. Whalin, as superintendent of construction, is carrying out his plans.

The guiding heads back of this great work are C. E. Kimlin, general manager, and Dr. H. G. Westphal, medical superintendent, in conjunction with the board of directors of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, of which they are members. This board, in addition to Mr. Kimlin and Dr. Westphal, comprises W. M. Adams, president; W. D. Salisbury, vice-president; and B. M. Emerson, W. J. Johnson, M. D. and G. W. Reaser.

The board has met once a week during construction, and will continue so to meet until the institution is completed. At these meetings, conferences are held with Mr. Kimlin and Dr. Westphal, all important matters being discussed and decided in this manner.

The new and magnificent home of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is the result of a vision—a dream held for many years by C. E. Kimlin, who has acted as manager of the institution for five and one-half years, enjoying the co-operation of Dr. H. G. Westphal as medical superintendent for the past five and one-half years.

They Work Together
Mr. Kimlin and Dr. Westphal worked together for years to materialize this idea, at last succeeding in their ambitious hopes, gaining both the necessary site and the requisite finances.

A year ago they went east together, visiting sanitariums and hospitals in many points, for the purpose of incorporating in the new home-to-be of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital all the most approved modern developments in human health-building and preservation.

The result is the great half-million dollar plant now rising on the San Rafael hills, in the northwestern section of Glendale—a plant that in the general opinion of the best physicians is a credit not only to this city, but to the entire Southland, and the finest sanitarium this side of Battle Creek, Mich.

Standing there on the site of that old Indian lookout, atop a knoll richly wooded with liveoaks, rising daily higher into the magnificent vistas to north, south, east and west, as steel girders and cross bars are set in place and the rap of the mason's hammers supplants the machine-gun staccato of the riveters—rising like the materialization of a dream in the clear sky, the new home of the Glendale Sanitarium, to be completed by January of 1924, spells faith in Glendale and service to humanity.

Every hotel in the city has been booked for weeks in advance. The tourist, not to be outdone, has flung his hat into the ring and thousands of them are camped on every highway awaiting the dawn and speed trials late Tuesday.

At the time of the start Tommy Milton, in an H. O. S. Miller-motored mount, had shown the most speed, with a workout of more than 108 miles an hour for his qualifying ten miles.

SCHOOLS HONOR NATION'S HEROES

Program Orators Tell of Country's Wars in Last 60 Years

Glendale, as an "all-American city," paid homage to the nation's heroes yesterday in local public schools in the presentation of Memorial Day programs.

At the Columbus Avenue school an interesting program was given by representatives from the various patriotic organizations of Glendale.

Reviewing memories of '61, Comrade T. M. Barrett, commander of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., and Comrade T. A. Robinson, also of the G. A. R., recited in an interesting manner experiences of the Civil War; Chalmers Day, commander of the American Legion post, related incidents of the late World War, and Mrs. C. L. Peck, Methodist minister, G. A. R., also gave an interesting patriotic talk.

At the Glendale Union High school a committee of five addressed the students at three large assemblies. They were Comrade T. M. Barrett, commander of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., and Rev. J. C. Collins, retired Methodist minister, Rev. Collins was the principal speaker on the program and gave an interesting talk on the causes of the Civil War, the World War and necessity of peace.

Motor Fans Hurry to See Speed Demons

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—From many mistakes and blunders, scarred and mud-spattered flippers, from distant cities and far-away states, have come wave after wave of "motor fans" for the 500-mile Memorial Day automobile race.

Every hotel in the city has been booked for weeks in advance. The tourist, not to be outdone, has flung his hat into the ring and thousands of them are camped on every highway awaiting the dawn and speed trials late Tuesday.

At the time of the start Tommy Milton, in an H. O. S. Miller-motored mount, had shown the most speed, with a workout of more than 108 miles an hour for his qualifying ten miles.

School Costs Slashed By Supt. W. C. Wood

Here's Official Schedule Of Events In Glendale For Memorial Day Observance

The following is the official schedule of 1923 Memorial Day events in Glendale, that will make today a day long to be remembered in the history of this city:

MORNING

At Grand View
10 o'clock—Parade forms corner of Grand View avenue and Glenwood road, and marches to Grand View cemetery, led by Commander Chalmers D. Day of the local post, No. 127, the American Legion.

10:45—Exercises at Grand View, opened by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, former state chaplain of the American Legion.

10:55—Song by Mayor Spencer Robinson, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

11:00—Symbolic burial, casket containing body of overseas soldier lowered into grave with full military honors, as typifying honors being paid nineteen other former service men buried at Grand View, in the American Legion plot.

11:05—Salute by firing squad from Burbank Post, G. A. R. and bugle call, "Taps."

11:10—Commander Leonard Wilson, chairman of the Los Angeles Inter-Post Council, the American Legion, will talk on some of the aims and ideals of the Legion.

11:30—Governor James G. Scrugham of Nevada, the first Legionnaire to become a governor of any state, will deliver the address of the morning.

Many prominent people of Los Angeles, Glendale and Burbank will be present at these exercises, practically all patriotic, municipal and civic bodies of the three cities being represented.

AFTERNOON

At Forest Lawn
1:30 o'clock—Parade forms Colorado street, just east of Brand boulevard and on adjacent streets.

2:00—Parade proceeds south on Brand boulevard to Forest avenue, led by Col. J. D. Fraser, grand marshal, turns east on Forrest and marches into Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

The lineup will be as follows:
Elks' Band—Form on Colorado street, facing west.
G. A. R. automobiles will park on Colorado street behind band.

W. R. C. Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans, on Louise street, facing south.

Spanish War Veterans, Auxiliary of War Veterans, on Louise street, facing north.

American Legion and War Mothers, on Kenwood street, facing south.

Order of DeMolay and children, arranged according to schools, on Jackson street, facing south.

Any other organizations not having yet reported, which decide to go into the parade, will find an aid either at the corner of Louise, Kenwood or Jackson streets, who will assign them to a place in the line.

Aides will be R. C. Plume, W. H. Reeves and George L. Rollins.

Grammar school children, who intend to take part in the exercises, have received orders to meet on the Cerritos playground and fall into the rear of the parade.

2:05—Squadron of United States government aeroplanes will precede the marchers, after the parade enters Forest Lawn, and will strew flowers on the symbolic grave. These planes will be provided by Capt. A. F. Harold, commanding officer, U. S. airplane reserve, Clover Field, Santa Monica.

2:10—Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will decorate all veterans' graves, E. M. Taylor, of the N. P. Banks Post, officer of the day, in charge of this feature.

2:15—Selection by Elks' band.
2:25—Audience Standing—"America."
2:30—Invocation, Rev. C. R. Norton.
2:40—Selection—Grade School Children's Chorus, "America, the Beautiful."
2:45—Service by N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R.
3:00—Gettysburg Address, Arden Ginery, Glendale school.

3:15—Speaker of the day, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, D. D.
3:45—Selection, Melophone & Pflugelhorn Duet, Loraine and Alberta Davis (Sammie Sisters).
4:00—Address—Speaker for Spanish War Veterans, W. H. Reeves, City Manager, Glendale.
4:15—Address—Speaker for American Legion, Eugene J. Wik.

4:30—Decoration of symbolic grave. Representatives of the different organizations gather at the symbolic grave and strew wreaths in honor of those sleeping in foreign countries whose graves cannot be decorated. Representatives of the governor will present a wreath and Mayor Cryer will also place a tribute on the symbolic grave. Sons of American Revolution will present an American flag to be used to mark the grave.
4:45—Firing a volley over symbolic grave.
4:50—Sounding of Taps.
5:00—Benediction, Rev. C. R. Norton.

DISPLAYS BY SCHOOL ARE FEATURE

Students Show Wide Range Of Manual Training Activities

Attracting as much attention as any exhibition in Glendale's Industrial Show, the Union high school's exhibit prepared by students from all parts of the city is declared the most representative of any display under the big tent.

So many crafts are depicted there that the booth appears to be a medley of handiwork, denoting the cleverness of the present day younger generation. Graduates of earliest public school days express marked surprise at the industrial talent shown in the exhibition of finished products.

Appealing to the mechanically inclined are two huge drill presses, built by Jack Offut. These were constructed from rough material, which Offut fashioned in the school shops. The forge class, instructed by James E. Clark, proves its skill by a variety of chains, chilled steel chisels, and iron, bird cage holders and heavy metal flower stands.

In the auto shop division, instructed by Bert Rolfe, is displayed a Ford engine, which the students have dissected after the method of a surgeon. Spark plugs divided longitudinally and the engine with its various parts exposed show eloquently the searching nature and skillful mechanical exploration exercised by the classmen.

Furniture Is Shown
Mechanical drawings and plans have been contributed by Walter Tyler, Ruth De Laix, C. R. Chamberlain, Christina Choates, Maurice Crawford, Glen Bronner, Elmer Muff, Alvin Lynde Brown, Charles Lundie, Jack Offut and several others.

Exercising an attraction to home owners, an assortment of cleverly constructed wooden pieces of furniture and utensils, all highly polished, is shown as the contribution of the wood working class, presided over by Walter Gorman. Handsomely inlaid, a deep stained table represents the cleverness and painstakingness of Danny Berman, according to students in charge of the booth. Nut bowls, tabourettes, furniture of various descriptions and other articles of wood are in the group.

Of highly artistic qualities, heads of wax models for displaying the output of the millinery class, rivet the gaze of passing throngs. These models are fashioned in such lifelike designs that many assert they surpass those commonly seen in shop windows.

Upon heads of these feminine figures are hats representing the work of numerous talented millinery designers. These hats are of the latest modes, reflecting modern styles coupled with the ingenuity of Glendale's designers.

Home Economics
Dressmaking classes in the public school also furnish an exhibit of fashionable in and out of door wear, while future housewives are to the front with an array of delicious preserved dainties.

In the applied arts division, a collection of batiks, rainbow dyed scarfs and polychrome fabrics have been fashioned by the woodworker Bagler, Beatrice Bolen, Bertha Brown, Zelma Bunting, Dorris Barnett and numerous other pupils.

From the music division of the school are contributed numerous original compositions, including a waltz, "Springtime," by Lucile Beach; "Pussy Willows," a waltz song by Doris Davis, and "La Lune," another song by Amy Bainbridge.

Penmanship and art are jointly exhibited. Under the classification of sketches, Jessie Hunt has supplied a hoop skirted beauty in the act of feeding swans on a silver lake. Rhyo Kodama has furnished a remarkable head of an old man. T. Rueder and Amelia Vorweck have contributed girls' heads, respectively.

The school booth is gaily decorated with pompons, done in red and black, the official colors of the institution.

Speed of Liner May Help End Family Feud

SEATTLE, May 30.—The speed of the Admiral oriental liner President Grant, which arrived here after breaking the trans-Pacific speed record for American vessels, may help to re-unite a family shattered after an alleged quarrel in Yokohama on May 19.

On that day Mrs. Warren H. Worden, wife of an insurance broker there, boarded the President Lincoln for San Francisco with her two children. The next day the President Grant was leaving the same port for Seattle. At the last minute young Worden jumped aboard. Today he is aboard a fast train bound for San Francisco, where he expects to arrive a day ahead of the President Lincoln.

LOWER ADMISSION PRICES PREVAIL

Extra Amusement Features Will Be Shown at Exposition

The announcement that the exposition committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and the Glendale Merchants' association has decided to reduce the prices of admission to the exposition is expected to bring a much greater number of visitors to the affair than has been present for the last two days. In addition to lowering the price of admission, it is the intention of the committee and of Director General H. L. Leavitt to stage a wider range of amusements than has yet been presented.

Demonstrating the wide latitude of their accomplishments, students of Glendale Union High school have on display two intricate and powerful drill presses, which they formed from rough castings; some popular and classic songs, which they composed in class rooms; a gorgeous array of household furniture constructed in the school cabinet shop; modern millinery modes on attractive wax figures formed by the students' skilled fingers; and a similarly divergent variety of other articles, all of which were created within the school building. The students willingly describe how the exhibits were made, and gracefully express surprise that the accomplishments may be considered extraordinary.

A galaxy of pianos set at regular spacing around the walls of the Glendale Music Company's exhibition imparts the touch and tone of the modern musical goods store. Brunswick phonographs are set between the pianos, and an announcement on a huge sign bears the information that Conn instruments may be found in the store's downtown branch.

As a representative of the industries of Glendale, Leah Holzers' home-made candies portray in silent but eloquent language that this community offers an exceptionally sweet reason for this being one of the pleasantest spots in southern California. The candy is selling rapidly at the exposition.

A case of trophies and other awards in a large show case in the Security Trust & Savings bank section denotes one of the reasons why patrons and employees of that organization show pride in the association. General information on banking subjects and methods is being dispensed from the booth.

Literature describing business opportunities and the openings for new industries is distributed from the Merchants' association's sector. At a flat-topped desk, a member of the association presides at all hours to explain Glendale's attainments, present and potential, to out-of-town persons seeking such information.

Anesthetics Shown

Thirteen varieties of anesthetic gases, used in surgery and dentistry, attracted members of those professions to the Certified Products show. In neatly painted containers, these gases offered an attractive appearance that excited curiosity of others than dentists and surgeons.

Emphasizing the presence of vitamins in their products, Lassen & Rohrer company demonstrates the superiorities of California Health flour. Flavor and originalities in the grinding process also were described.

With a bottle labeling machine running at a rate that turns out 50 bottles a minute, the S. W. Brown company has an active, switch-moving and attention-getting exhibition. Greenhill ginger ale, chocolate malted milk and brewed ginger beer is dispensed from the bottling works' team. A miniature of the company's office at 462 West Los Feliz road also is prominently featured.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Pains or Bladder Is Irritated

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much acid forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weak; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

MEMORIAL DAY, 1923

GLENDALE, today, in reverent gratitude, Honors her sons, who in time's interlude, Sleep sweetly, waiting God's own reveille, To greet the blessed morn of His new day.

And so in Forest Lawn and Grandview, And other plots 'neath red, white and blue, We heap our flowers upon the soldiers' biers, And for our martyred dead we shed our tears.

While flowers we bring for those who near us sleep, Prayers must suffice for those across the deep, But in our gratitude we humbly bow To all who rest in well-earned slumber now.

The honor that we pay our dead today, The wreaths that on those grassy mounds we lay, Avail them nothing in their last long sleep, Nor render their eternal rest more sweet.

'Tis only that we miss them so today, 'Tis only that we would our homage pay To soldiers who the Union helped to save, To those who for the nation their lives gave.

To men who dared the armaments of Spain And gave to harassed Cuba peace again; To boys who braved the hell-traps of the deep, A rendezvous with Death in France to keep.

To those who suffered wounds and hardships too, And came alive the awful carnage through, Only to suffer war's grim torture still, A death robbed of war's grim torture still,

We feel ourselves forever in their debt, And long to show that we are grateful yet; We owe it to our souls this day to keep, To show our gratitude to those who sleep.

O, ever may the graves of soldiers brave, Be shrines to us, recalling all they gave; Though they know not the honor that we pay, Nor share the solemn sweetness of the day.

And while at martyr graves today we bow, With floral gifts our thankfulness to show: Can we forget our living soldiers brave, Who offered life and everything they have?

Methinks the highest honor we can pay, As we extol our soldier dead today, Is that we give our living heroes, too, The help and gratitude that is their due.

—A Soldier's Mother.

BOYS IN GRAY BENEATH NORTHERN SOD HONORED

Each Year 'Both Sides' Pay Tribute At Graves Of Confederates

NOT FORGOTTEN MEMORIAL DAY

Although Resting Far From Friends, Respect Shown By All People

SANDUSKY, Ohio, May 30.—Graves where 206 southern soldiers lie buried on Johnson's Island, in Sandusky Bay, four miles northwest of this city, claimed recognition that is theirs annually today—Memorial Day. The graves of these 206, mostly Confederate officers of the war which divided the Union, collectively referred to as the "flower of the southern army," have come to be Sandusky's own.

They are never forgotten. When the first Memorial Day was observed here the thoughts of the "boys" of the locality—then men in their prime—turned to their brothers of the "enemy"—the "boys" who had worn the gray.

"They're far from friends and home comrades," said the late General Isaac Foster Mack, orator of the occasion. "Let us remember them as the valiant soldiers they were—the soldiers who gave their all for the cause they espoused—and honor them accordingly."

Offer Flowers

Flowers were plucked in the doorways of the dwellings of those "boys in blue"—flowers which later rested on the graves in the Johnson's Island burying ground.

And so a custom was established that endures today—a custom in the continuation of which sons and daughters, grandsons and granddaughters of the men who established it are always active on the morning of Memorial Day.

Within the island burying ground a prayer was said, a hymn was sung. Flowers were then strewn upon the graves. A moment of meditation was followed by the benediction. Then came the four-mile journey back to Sandusky.

It is always so on the morning of Memorial Day in Sandusky. Who are those southern sons who sleep in the little burying ground on Johnson's Island?

Some Unknown

Available records fail to disclose the names of all. They do, however, show that each man—and the men were officers, with few exceptions—was brought to the lonely island as a prisoner of war between the autumn of 1862 and the early spring of 1865.

Grave No. 1 contains the remains of Colonel J. E. Crugg, or Scruggs, who commanded the Eighty-fifth Virginia Regiment and for whom "taps" sounded March 5, 1863.

In Grave No. 2 rests Captain E. J. Tuggles, Company H, Thirty-fifth Regiment, Georgia Infantry, who died March 6, 1863.

The records do not show who sleeps in Graves, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7, their headstones bearing the single word "Unknown."

In Grave No. 8 lies buried Captain A. E. Upchurch of the Fifty-fifth North Carolina Infantry; in Grave No. 13, Lieutenant-Colonel Joel Barnett of the Ninth Battalion, Louisiana Cavalry; in Grave No. 16, Captain D. E. Wells, First Alabama Cavalry; in Grave No. 18, Lieutenant W. Nullins of the Fifteenth Arkansas Infantry, and in Grave No. 21, Captain R. D. Copas of the Sixth Tennessee Infantry.

On down the list of known soldiers, in whose hearts there may never have died the hope that their "boys" might return.

Money Raised

Through the efforts of the membership of Robert Patton chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of Cincinnati, need of money was raised by subscription, and in 1905 the cemetery plot was purchased by the chapter, thus insuring its retention to posterity as "hallowed ground."

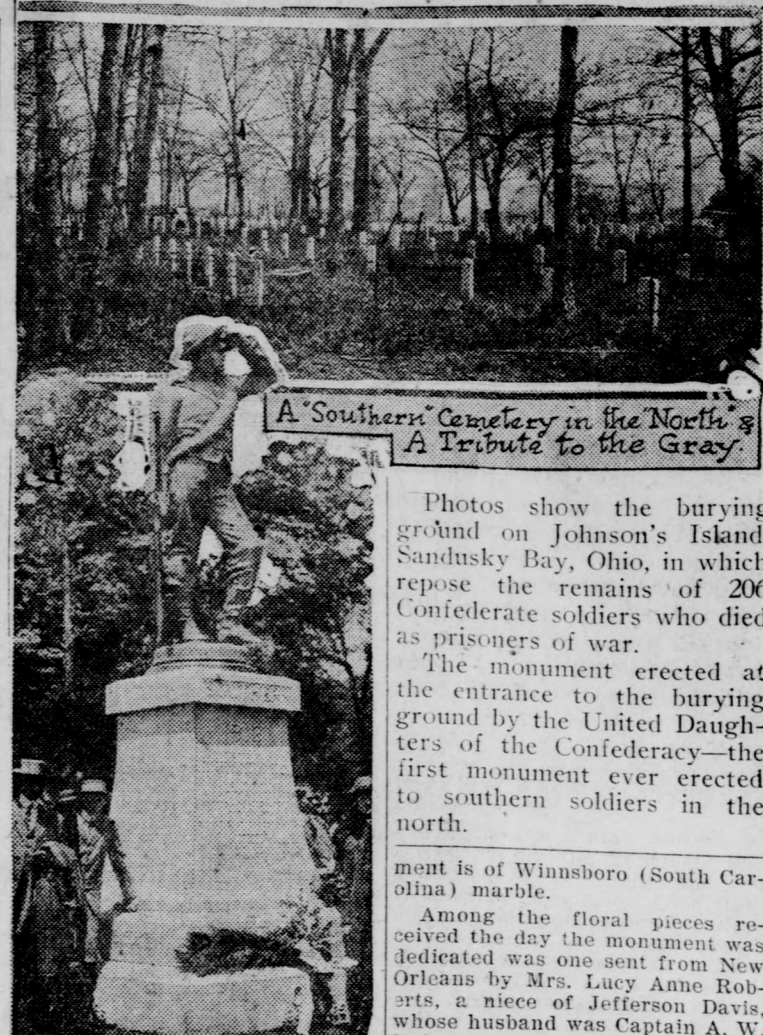

On June 8, 1910, a monument was dedicated at the entrance to the burying ground—the first monument ever erected to the memory of Confederate soldiers in the north. The United Daughters of the Confederacy supplied the funds, raised by subscription throughout the United States.

The unveiling of the monument was the occasion of ceremonies that attracted international attention. The late General George W. Gordon, the last surviving major-general of the Confederacy and at the time commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, delivered the dedicatory address. Prominent men and women of the south and north met and fraternized. Soldiers of the Confederacy and the Union clasped hands and "forgot."

From the boat landing to the island cemetery the Stars and Stripes and the Stars and Bars were carried side by side, respectively, by William T. Brown of Covington, Ky., a Confederate, and John G. Ellis of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, a Union veteran.

The monument unveiled by Mrs. Mary Patton Hudson of Cincinnati, daughter of Colonel Robert W. Patton, West Robert Patton, after whom Robert Patton chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was named, was designed and executed by Sir Moses Ezekiel, a soldier under Lee, and was donated by him.

ment is of Winnsboro (South Carolina) marble. Among the floral pieces received the day the monument was dedicated was one sent from New Orleans by Mrs. Lucy Anne Roberts, a niece of Jefferson Davis, whose husband was Captain A. W. Roberts of Company C, Fourth Regiment, Louisiana Volunteers.

A box of Florida palms was received from Patton Anderson chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Palatka, Fla. Much of the credit for the protection of the Johnson's Island Cemetery is due to the late United States Senator Joseph Benson Foraker of Cincinnati. He personally negotiated the transaction whereby the title to the little plot was vested in the Daughters of the Confederacy and later saw that markers for the graves were placed by the Federal government.

Still later Senator Foraker—himself a Union soldier—secured from congress legislation providing for a small appropriation annually to be expended for its care and upkeep. Johnson's Island, wholly surrounded by the waters of Sandusky Bay, is one of the most isolated areas in the region of the Great Lakes.

The most of the buildings comprising what was Johnson's Island prison during the Civil War have long since disappeared.

Base From State

The monument is twenty-one feet in height and exquisitely proportioned. The base beneath the plinth was contributed by the state of Mississippi, through its Grand Lodge of Masons. The foundation of the monument is of granite.

AMERICAN GIRLS MOST GRACEFUL

Dancing Teacher Says U. S. Women Show Up Best at Court Affairs

By LUTHER A. HUSTON For International News Service LONDON, May 30.—"The average American debutante is not so beautiful as the average English girl, but the natural suppleness and grace of the American girl enable her to show to a better advantage at court functions than her English sister."

This statement was made to International News Service today by Miss Marguerite Vacani, official dancing instructor at the English club.

Miss Vacani has spent strenuous and patient hours for many days teaching English and American women the essential parts of court etiquette in preparation for their presentations to King George and Queen Mary.

"The American women were eager to learn and most anxious to do everything correctly," continued Miss Vacani. "They were more interested in the details than the English women. They were more painstaking in practicing the most important things. A correct curtsy looks as easy as making a simple bow, but in reality it is very difficult."

WALL OF FIRE SWEEPS TOWARD ONTARIO TOWN

WHITE RIVER, Ontario, May 30.—A semi-circular wall of fire was sweeping toward this town late Tuesday, threatening it with destruction. The inhabitants are preparing to flee.

EXPOSITION REAL MINIATURE CITY

Every Convenience Needed in Municipality is Under Big Tent

A municipality in itself. That's the Glendale Industrial Exposition. Mayorless—that's true. But not without a guiding genius.

For there's H. L. Leavitt, director general. To say nothing of Pearl Wilkerson, business manager, and many Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' association executives, who see that everything runs after the approved methods of an up-to-date city.

But, with the exception of electoral officials, the big show is a real little city, with every other essential to denote its independence.

For there's— A fire department, consisting of four men, assigned with a fire truck by instruction of Chief A. H. Lankford. A telephone exchange established by Fred H. Deal, manager of Glendale's branch of the Southern California Telephone Company.

United States mail box furnished by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. Restaurants galore, candy stands and soft drink booths. A newspaper office, consisting of editorial, circulation and advertising departments. This is operated by The Glendale Evening News, which also is maintaining a business office for its 300 printing department.

A laundry, conducted by Good House-keeping Shops. And practically every other industry ever found on a down town street in a thriving metropolis.

Baby Crushed Between Parents While Asleep

SEATTLE, May 30.—Crushed when his parents rolled on him in their sleep, Nickolai Kibizoff, 3 months old babe, died in the city hospital with broken ribs and other injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kibizoff, parents of the child, could offer the coroner no other explanation than that they had rolled onto the child while it was asleep between them.

OFFICE SUPPLIES

—Typewriter Ribbons and Paper, Carbon Paper, Pens, Pencils, Ink, Letter Files, Bookkeeping Supplies, etc. —Engraved Stationery And everything you would expect to find in a first class Book and Stationery store. GLENDALE BOOK STORE C. H. BOTT, Prop. 113 S. Brand, Glendale 219 plan is the strong talking point of salesmen in the Jesse E. Smith company booth. There, with especially "dolled up" Fords, it is proved how attractively these cars can be dressed when attired in Smith's attachments. Lincoln cars and Fordson tractors also are represented either in full size or in miniature replica.

Two fleet Rickenbackers grace the exhibit area of A. M. Shoffner, local dealer. One car is a splendid sedan, while the other represents the phaeton touring type. Rickenbacker's picture, decked with American flags, swings from a nail on the wall of the booth.

Electricity in the modern home is being exploited by a varied display of the purposes to which it can be applied in the exhibit of the J. A. Newton Electric company. Washers, percolators, toasters, stoves and vacuum cleaners are headliners in the array of brightly nicked machinery. A radio receiving set here can be heard in far distant sections of the tent.

Tires, Camp Outfit

A smoothly-revolving Keaton tire marks the corner of the Monarch Auto Supply Company's allotment of space. At another corner can be viewed an opening section of auto gears moving through a quantity of Lubriko grease. Camping outfits that may be folded into small space for auto purposes are given numerous demonstrations each afternoon and evening.

With an erect wax man holding the reins, the Crescent Milk Company is introducing to Glendale, in another booth, the style of wagon soon to be put on this city's streets for delivery purposes. A horse in effigy completes the tableau.

Rainbow Valley lots issue a marked appeal to those passing the real estate firm's booth. Scenery in the vicinity of these lots, and homes that have or will be erected thereon are shown through the medium of oil paintings. A plot of the sub-division completes the exhibit, which is decorated with green and orange flags.

Gravel on the floor, a truck loaded with rock, and sections of plaster hung on wire lath and netting, forms Harris & Hull's exhibit of building materials. The firm is represented by a corps of salesmen and others who explain the purposes to which their production is adapted.

In an orange and green color scheme, Jewett and Paige cars are exploited by Ralph B. Bliss, their local representative. The Jewett is at the exposition in the form of a commodious phaeton, while the other car is represented by a sedan of dignified, comfortable aspect.

Movies Show Building

While movies flicker inside, a Pacific ready-cut real estate office demonstrates the quality which may be anticipated in that type of construction. The exhibit is staged by the Low Building company, the ready-cut house firm's local agent. Moving pictures of making ready-cut homes are flashed on a screen inside the real estate office.

A move for home establishment is sounded in the display of Follmer & Mayer, representing the Security Housing corporation. Attractive sketches of residences, calculated to stir a desire for such accommodations, are scattered tastefully through the booth. Parlor wicker furniture holds out an invitation for tired zone tramps to halt and rest, and a background of miniature stucco bungalow completes the appeal. Floors for the housing corporation's exhibit are of hardwood, furnished by Vernon C. Tennis.

Ninth Victim Slain By Ala. Axe Murderer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 30.—Charles Graefo, 38, a grocer, is dead today, a victim of Birmingham's axe murderer. His body was found by Birmingham police authorities in a pool of blood, the head split open with an axe and his throat severed from ear to ear.

A blood-spattered axe stood behind the door. The handle of the death implement had been shortened so it could be carried under a coat. Evidence points to a robbery motive, according to the police.

Graefo has been the ninth victim of the fatal axe here in forty-two months and the assault that resulted in his death was the twenty-eighth attack that has been made.

Brigands' Terms Are Sent to Washington

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The state department issued the following statement late Tuesday: "The department has received from Minister Schurman of Peking the information that the Chinese bandits, on the night of May 28, reiterated their five demands, which are as follows:

- 1.—Withdrawal of soldiers.
- 2.—Central government to furnish the bandits regularly with food and clothing.
- 3.—One thousand bandits in the southwestern district to be formed into four mixed brigades under the direct control of the central government, which should furnish arms and ammunition.
- 4.—The central government to give six months' pay in advance, also arrears of pay not to exceed total of six months' pay.
- 5.—Upon consent of the central government to the above terms, an agreement to be drawn up between the central government and the bandits to be signed in the presence of representatives of the diplomatic corps, who is to act as guarantor for the proper execution of the agreement.

Rum Runner Is Armed, U. S. Officers Declare

NORFOLK, Va., May 30.—The steam yacht Istar, so-called "flagship of the rum runners," has a mounted gun aft, it was charged late yesterday by federal authorities here, and, because of her British registry, the matter has been referred to the state department at Washington.

Officers of the coast guard cutter Mascoutin said a mounted gun partly covered with a tarpaulin and a six pounder and a three inch rifle, were plainly seen on deck.

Seagoing yachts are permitted under international law, to carry guns for saluting, but they are rarely more than one pounder and their position is always forward.

KIDDIES PLEASE IN FASHION SHOW

Pupils of Mrs. Nanno Woods Win Warm Applause With Dancing

The children of the Woods' School of Dancing and Dramatic Art, who are taking part in the Kiddies' Fashion Revue at the Glendale Merchants' Exposition are winning the hearts of the large enthusiastic audiences who greet them every night in the big tent.

On the opening night Master Joseph Taylor gave a clever clown dance and Little Elizabeth Havaland a charming dance, featuring "The Spirit of Millinery" and Saxon Barney and Evelyn Melz were a delightful in their fairy dance. The Fitting sisters won applause as models and the eldest's whistling solos were greatly enjoyed. Ruth Bender entertained with a clever "Sleigh Dance" and Little Master Koris appears every evening as "announcer", exhibiting the placards describing the various fashion revue items. On Saturday evening, Constance Steelman was charming in her interpretative dance of Little Bo Peep.

Each evening, during the exposition, some of these clever and talented children will entertain either as models for kiddies' clothes or as dancers.

Bandit Shot Down By Son of Victim

CHICAGO, May 30.—One bandit of a gang of five was shot and killed here late Tuesday in an attempted holdup of the Columbia Cleaners & Dyers. The bandit was shot by Meyer Berkossky, Jr., son of the owner of the plant, who happened along while the bandits were robbing and beating his father. The dead bandit had not been identified.

K-L Pills

For Kidney and Liver Troubles, Constipation, Intestinal Indigestion and Kindred Ailments

Liver trouble leads to serious illness. And a sure sign of liver trouble is biliousness. If you have attacks of headache, if you have a coated tongue, if you have a sickle appetite, you probably are bilious—which may lead to derangement of the liver and to serious and quite often fatal results. Read this strong endorsement of Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills. Mrs. J. H. Stone, Route No. 3, Bazley, Ga., writes:

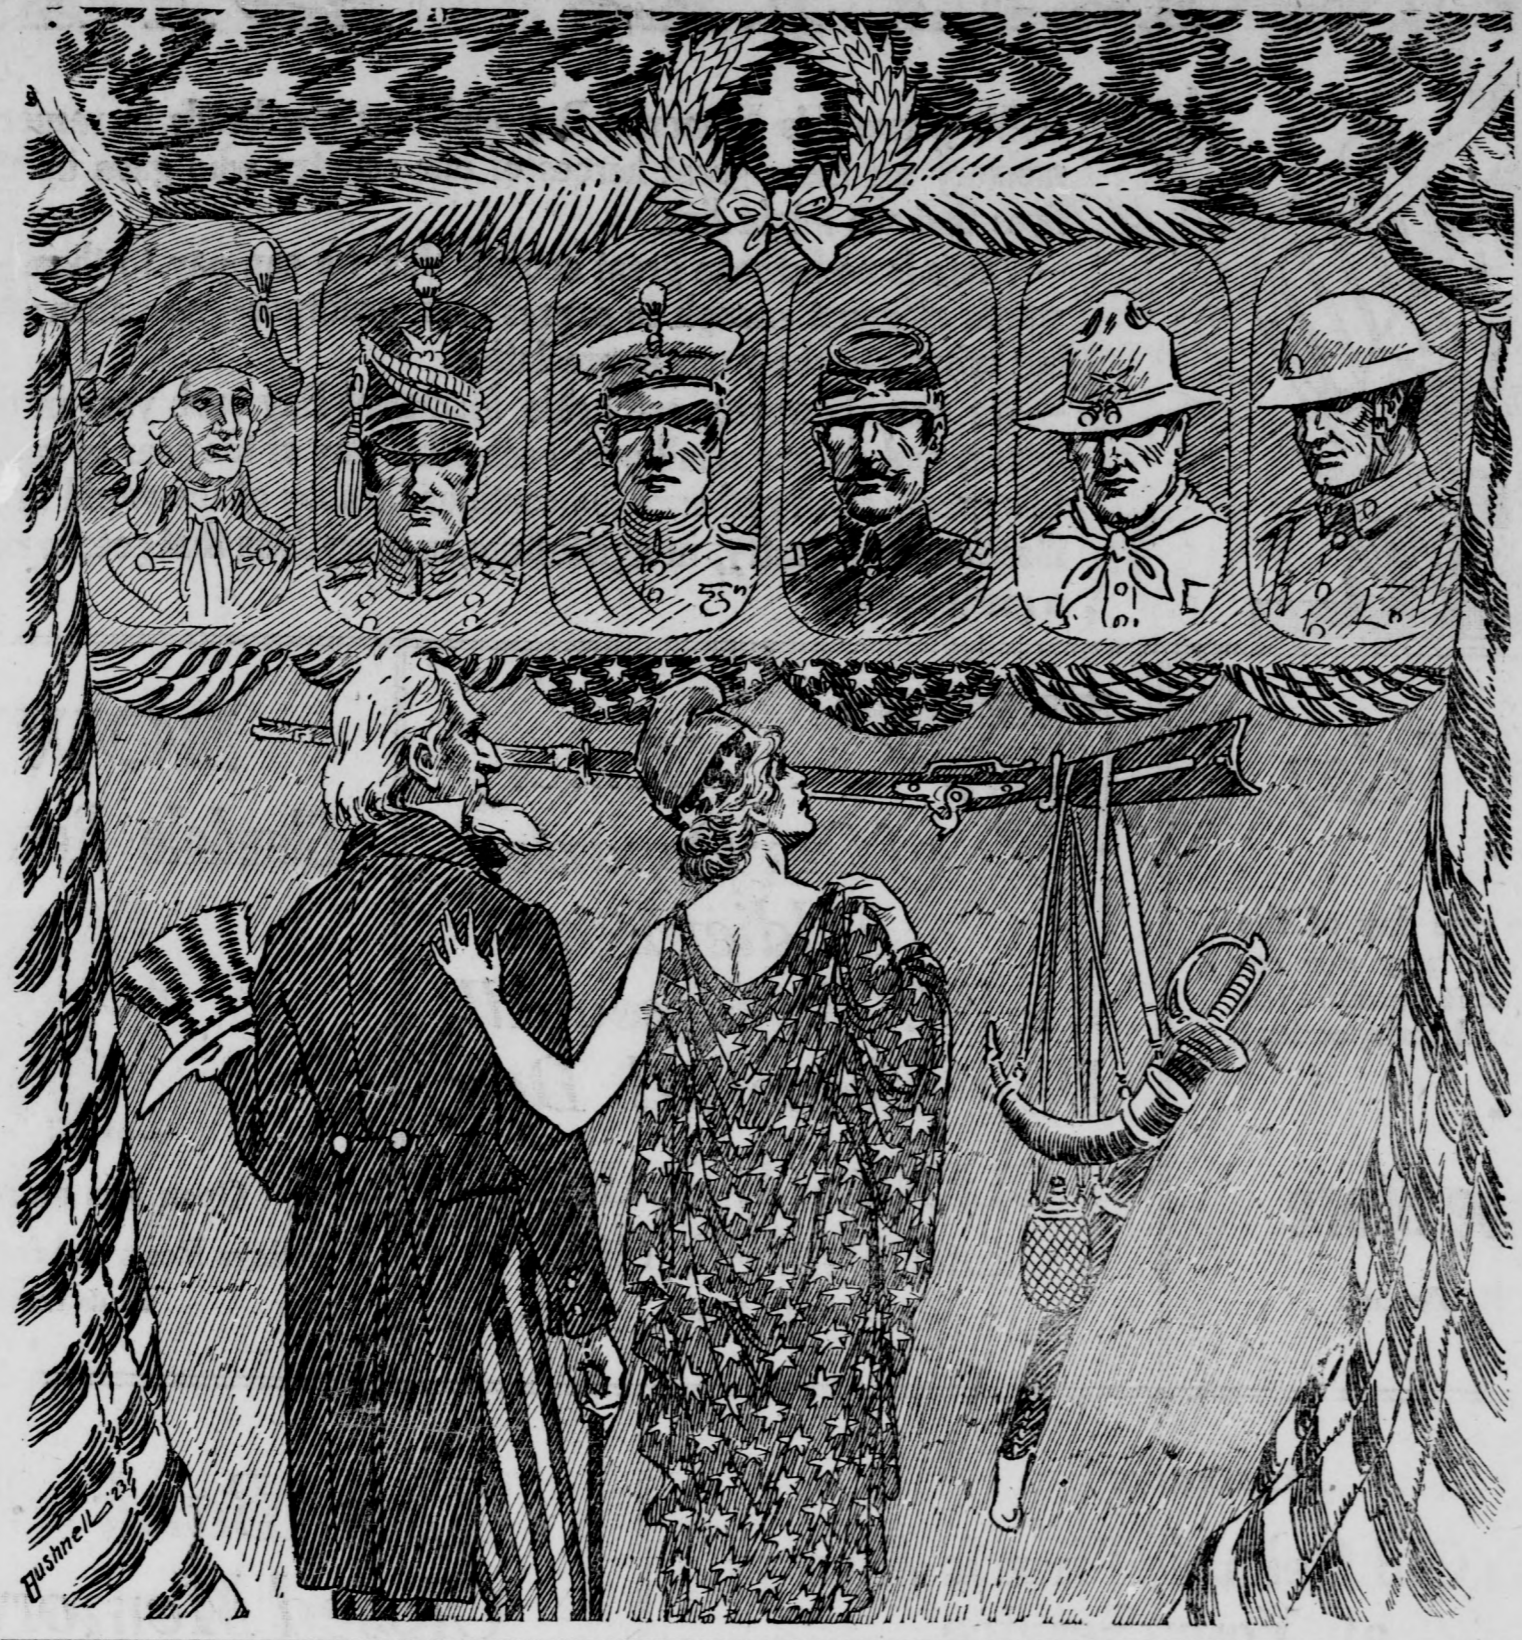

"For a number of years I have been troubled with my kidneys, liver and also my heart. I find Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills a wonderful remedy. They certainly are the finest I ever used. I would not be without them in my home and take great pleasure in recommending them to my friends."

LAUDS DIRECTOR OF FASHION SHOW

Showman Pays Tribute to Ruth Stokes, Head of Dazzling Exhibit

A ringing tribute was bestowed today on Miss Ruth E. Stokes, 1261 South Central Ave., in recognition of her having directed the nightly fashion show, made up of local girls practically without previous stage experience. The tribute was paid by Pearl Wilkerson, business manager of the exposition, an experienced and observant showman, who, aside from his exposition duties, is secretary of the Los Angeles Theatrical Managers' association.

Despite their unfamiliarity with the stage, Mr. Wilkerson declared the girls of the fashion revue executed their individual roles with a skill and grace which would credit veteran actresses. Largely, he said, Miss Stokes is responsible for the splendid performance by the non-professional Glendale girls.

Girls Are Beauties

"Miss Stokes not only gave the girls those touches that denote real artistry," Mr. Wilkerson said, "but she also proved herself a 'picker' of real skill when she made selections for the cast. Every girl in the organization is a beauty in every sense of the word."

"In getting her cast assembled, Miss Stokes was put to the task of calling on each young lady in person, and winning the interest of each in the event. Naturally all were willing to co-operate in Glendale's Industrial Show, but it takes real persuasiveness to convince a non-professional that she is safe in entering a production that would be watched as critically as the fashion revue."

The Glendale fashion revue director is a local girl, who has established herself in New York as an interpreter of juvenile or ingenue roles. She has appeared in Ziegfeld's famous "Follies" where she was directed by Ned Wayburn. At the conclusion of her summer vacation spent in home surroundings, she probably will return to her work in the east.

Mary Baker Refuses to Talk to Reporters

NEW YORK, May 30.—Miss Mary Langdon Baker, one time fiancée of the much-tilted Alister McCormick, sailed yesterday for Europe with her mother, Mrs. A. D. Baker, after ordering reporters out of her sight and refusing to discuss the part, if any, young McCormick has in her future plans.

"Go away!" she told reporters who found her in her cabin.

"Are you going abroad to marry Mr. McCormick?" she was asked.

"That's none of your business," she replied. "I'm going to stay away from the United States indefinitely."

McCormick is in Europe.

U. S. Solons to Study Russian Conditions

WASHINGTON, May 30.—"A summer school" for congress will be opened in Russia in July, according to an announcement by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah.

Senator King, accompanied by Senator Ladd, Republican, of North Dakota, and Representative Frear, Republican, of Wisconsin, will leave for Russia on July 14 to open the school. They will spend a month "obtaining first hand information on the soviet government and business."

MORE TIRES ARE SOLD THIS YEAR

Popularity of Closed Cars Increases Demand for Rubber Product

Throughout the country the increased popularity of the closed car is in evidence. The Ford Motor Company, for instance, reports that closed cars are selling in larger numbers than are open cars. The interest recently displayed in closed cars at automobile shows held in New York and in other large cities is another indication that the closed car movement is a decidedly virile one and that it is one of the outstanding developments in the motor world today.

This increase in the use of closed cars is not unaccounted for in those parts of the country not as favored climatically as our own, winter used to mean that the automobiles were in the garage, with the water drained from the radiators, there to remain jacked up on trusses until spring opened. This situation is rapidly changing and with the constant improvement in roads, cars, and the knowledge of the car owners, motorists throughout the country are using their cars more generally the year through regardless of weather conditions. Naturally the desire for comfort and uninterrupted service disposes the car owner to favor the closed car, especially since the modern car of this type is practically convertible and affords the advantages of being either open or closed as occasion requires.

Boosts Tire Sales

According to the statement recently made by M. F. Low, assistant sales manager in charge of field organization of the Speckels "Savage" Tire Company, makers of Savage Tires and Tubes, the constant increase in popularity of the closed car has already had a definite bearing on tire consumption. It has naturally made for a more constant demand in many sections for automobile castings, and it is likely that in a few years the movement will increase materially the average consumption of tires per car.

The growth in tire sales is already reflected in the business that is being done by the local agents for the Savage tires, the Jellison Motor Company, 1006 South Brand boulevard.

Comb Quarries for Five Missing Boys

DAVENPORT, Iowa, May 30.—Davenport people are searching the quarries near Fishertown, Iowa, for the bodies of five boys, who are missing from their homes. They are: Louis Dudley, 15; Stanley Smith, 10; Norman Atwood, 15; Glen Atwood, 12, and Carl Linsey. Reports of parties having seen the boys playing near the quarries, lead the police to think they have drowned.

ADVOCATES HALT OF IMMIGRATION

Problem of Jap Entry Into U. S. Cannot Continue, Says Churchman

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service

TOKIO, May 30.—"While I personally am not opposed to Japanese immigration, feeling against it in the United States has reached such a height that the problem cannot continue."

With this declaration Sidney Gulick, secretary of the Federation of American Churches, started a meeting of the American-Japanese society here yesterday afternoon. The society, at whose meeting expressions leaning toward Japan have so long been made, was unused to so frank a statement coming from one who has proved a friend of good relations between the two countries.

Japs Keep Faith

"Only one of the wildest imaginations can claim that the Japanese government is not keeping its agreements with America," he continued, "but the status of affairs today whereby Japan is charged with responsibility of choosing emigrants from Japan is highly embarrassing."

He then mentioned the various solutions to the Japanese question under consideration in America, including refusal of citizenship to all Japanese in America, whether born there or not.

Gulick left the impression with his audience that he believed Japan's wisest course, in view of her present desire for amity with the United States, was to compromise to the fullest extent in this issue and thus expect the United States and California to compromise in some degree, particularly with reference to the Japanese already located in California.

Outline Defense in Oil Fraud Charges

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 30.—The defense of "General" Robert A. Lee and his co-defendants in the Lee oil trial was outlined to the jury late yesterday, attorneys saying the "General" would attempt to trace his lineage back to the famous Lees of Virginia.

The federal government charges the name of the famous Lees, especially General Robert E. Lee, were used to entice investors when "General" Robert E. Lee was no relation to the Confederate leader.

The jury, which will try the first of the long series of oil fraud cases, was completed after all members of the Ku Klux Klan, four in number, had been challenged and removed from the panel.

BUREAU AIDS IN WAGE COLLECTION

Labor Dept. Helps Workers to Secure $450,164 From Employers

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—State Labor Commissioner Walter G. Mathewson, in his biennial report, filed yesterday with Governor Richardson, announced that his department has collected $450,164 for workers during the past two years from companies which attempted to escape payment of wage claims.

The labor commissioner reported that out of 22,718 wage claims filed with his office the bureau collected 10,538, or 46.4 per cent.

Mathewson estimated that in legal fees the state labor office saves California workers approximately $85,000 annually.

Commenting on the prevalence of child labor in the state, as recently exposed by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, the labor commissioner says: "During the school year of 1921-22, 2395 working permits were issued to children under 16 years of age. Of this number, 1423, or 59 per cent, were issued to children between 14 and 15 years of age. The remaining permits were issued to children between 15 and 16 years of age."

Continous Improve

Mathewson notes, however, that child labor conditions have improved materially during the past decade, and cites the fact that 11,251 children were classed as workers in 1910.

A total of 870 violations of the eight-hour law were reported during 1921 and 1922, Mathewson states, the chief offenders being restaurant proprietors.

Showing the necessity of free state employment agencies, the labor commissioner pointed out that private employment agencies collected approximately $1,025,000 from workers during 1922 and $1,924,000 in 1921.

About 67 per cent of all the commercial agencies charged fees ranging between 25 to 50 per cent of the applicant's first month's salary, the report stated.

Offer Billion for U. S. Merchant Marine

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A definite but informal offer to purchase the entire active portion of the government merchant fleet has been received by the Shipping Board in the form of a single bid.

The proposal was delivered to members of the board late Monday by a representative of a group of financial interests, whose identity was not disclosed. The entry of the bidders offered to post a bond of $1,000,000 as a guarantee of sincerity. The aggregate amount suggested in the proposal was said to be in the neighborhood of 51,000,000,000.

British Stirred by Caricature of Prince

LONDON, May 30.—A flurry of criticism was aroused by an exhibition of caricatures by Max Beerham. One depicted the Prince of Wales, aged and bearded, married to the daughter of an English landlady. The time of the supposed marriage is set at 1972. It is entitled "Long choosing and beginning late."

The basis for the caricature is the Prince of Wales' apparent aversion to marriage. He is nearly thirty years of age and while his name has been linked with those of many English girls of high title he has shown no disposition towards matrimony.

The End of the Trail
TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY
Ad Schuster

Cal Harris and Matt Randall were boyhood friends. Matt used to whistle in front of the Harris home, and together they walked down the country road to the schoolhouse. At about the same time they moved to the city and they were married at a double ceremony.

Randall and Harris opened a windmill and farm implement establishment in Merlowville and struggled valiantly to make it pay. There was a little Marie Randall now and Cal, Jr., to be looked after.

"This business could support one family," Cal said one day when the semi-annual accounting had been made, "but it will be years before it can do for two. I have made up my mind to strike out to go after big money. When I hit it we will come back. And then," he smiled as he repeated the favorite plan of two households, "and then Cal and Marie, perhaps, will get married."

Little Cal was not a year old when his parents went to Alaska on the quest for gold. He was no more than a year and a half old when they set out up the Copper river. There is no one who can tell the story of that expedition, for the baby was the only survivor. All that the north knows about it came from Book-Larnin' Joe, trapper, who found the bodies beside the stream, caught in a blizzard.

"I figured," said Joe, "when I came upon them, the man and his wife, and the two old-timers, that here were two newcomers who had grubstaked the miners and they had all set off for the diggings. They had reached the fork and, instead of taking the one to the north and the settlement, had gone to the south. They must have wondered after three days' travel and no signs of man. And then the storm came. I came by just too late, and maybe would have gone on had it not been for a queer little cry. There, between the man and his wife, wrapped up and warm, was the kid. That's how I got him."

The north agreed the kid was lucky, for Book-Larnin' Joe was the smartest man it had seen. There was a story he was a graduate of Harvard, who, for one reason or another, had taken to the solitudes of northern forests. He had a cabin filled with books and was known by reputation as a hunter and trapper in all the camps of the territory.

The kid became Young Joe. In the long evenings he learned to read and listened to stories of the great country to the south. Again and again he heard the story of how he was found whimpering in the cold and how there was nothing to tell who he was or who his father and mother had been. Young Joe developed the muscles of the Indian, the quick eye and steady arm of his foster-father, and a great love of out-of-doors. When he was seventeen he had read all the books in the cabin a half dozen times, and there was nothing the older man could teach him.

"The time has come," Book-Larnin' told the lad on his eighteenth birthday, "for you to go back to the States. I figure that is where you came from. What I want, boy, is for you to have a college education. I had one in my time, and just look what it has done for me."

"Parting with old Joe and the north was difficult. The boy, who had seen so few men and women in his life, who had never been in a large city, was frightened at the prospect. "If it wasn't I might find but who I am," he kept telling himself, "I could never go. And I'll come back!"

With a letter in his hand addressed to the president of a large state university on the coast, a bewildered and bashful youth applied for admission. When he told the story of the old man who had coached him, of the long journey to Skagway and then by sea for the sake of an education, the usual requirements were overlooked and he was given a trial.

Joe Barker's college career is a part of the tradition of the university. He was the greatest and the eleven had ever seen, a lithe and powerful athlete who was also swift and brainy. Inasmuch as he was a leader in his classes, the whole college was proud of him. It was in commencement week, when all the others were surrounded by relatives, that Joe walked the campus path with The Girl.

"So you see, I still have a task to do. I want to find out who I am, where I came from. Why, I don't even know when my birthday is."

The moon shone through the trees, and for the first time the young man felt the weight of his grief. "There is no one to see me graduate, who really cares."

The girl stopped and the moonlight fell on her face. Could it be he did not know she cared? She started to speak, but her face had told him what he wished to know. "I don't know why it is," the happy youth said a little later, "but the load is all gone from my heart. It is as if I had found out all I need to know—as if I had done what my father and mother would have wished."

Marie Randall and the boy who was known as Joe Barker were married just as Cal and Matt had planned it years before, and on their honeymoon they went to Alaska for the blessing of Book-Larnin' Joe.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Vitamins—No. III

In two previous papers on vitamins I have told you of the importance of health and the prevention of disease in man.

Other diseases besides scurvy, beri-beri and zepothalmia are deficiency diseases—that is, diseases produced by a deficiency of certain five elements we now call vitamins, in the diet.

Since these discoveries research work on nutrition has been stimulated to a marked degree and we have advanced more in the science of nutrition the last fifteen years than we did in hundreds of years previous. In fact, the study of nutrition has now assumed the importance that it deserves as the chief factor, probably, in the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease in man.

The research work has also demonstrated that not only are the vitamins necessary to prevent these true deficiency diseases, but they are also necessary to keep the tissues resistant to infectious diseases, notably tuberculosis.

Catarrhal conditions of the mucous membranes and pyorrhea have been produced in animals on deficient diets. Why not in man? In fact, almost any disease is going to have a better field to flourish in when the diet is deficient in vitamins. (But we must not forget that the same thing can happen when the diet is deficient in the other vital elements as well as the vitamins.)

One more very important function we must add to the credit of the vitamins. It is this: They have been shown to have to do markedly with the regulation of growth and reproduction. Are they important? We'll say they are!

While the scientists have not yet been able to separate the vitamins from the food in such a state that they can be chemically identified without destroying them, they have definitely proved which foods they are present in, whether they are soluble in fat or water.

TOILET IMPLEMENTS

Most people make the great mistake of buying too many toilet articles. It is not necessary to have a lot of toilet implements lying on the dressing table; in fact, it is a sign of bad taste, and worse than that, it is unfashionable. If you have only a little money to spend upon toilet articles try one of the two following suggestions:

Put all your money into one or, at most, two good looking pieces and have only these showing. Your dressing table will be attractive if it contains nothing but a handsome powder bowl flanked by two glass candlesticks with colored candles. (The glass candlesticks are 10 cents apiece in 5 and 10 cent stores.) If you can afford two pieces get a good looking powder bowl and mirror; the rest of the things may be the cheapest variety of unpainted wood. They should be kept out of sight in a drawer. This is the newest idea anyway in furnishing a boudoir, and certainly much better than a lot of cheap, mussy, dust-collecting articles scattered over the table top.

Of course, whether it shows or not, a handsome toilet set is a prize possession for any woman. I would advise you to collect your set gradually piece by piece, putting all the money you can spare at any one time into something really worth while, something you will always be glad to own. The powder bowl will be the first and most expensive item and need not match the set. The next most costly thing is the mirror. I would suggest perfectly plain silver with a monogram, or a plain or inlaid tortoiseshell. After that collect the manicure pieces, then the comb and finally the hair brush and cloth brush, which will be equally expensive. After that you may pick up little ointment jars and pots as you can afford them. A few handsome pieces on the dressing table top are permissible, but in no case should it look cluttered.

Velvia—Unless you can have the electric needle used I think it is best to extract those extra hairs with the tweezers. There is no way to kill the roots of these hair, through applications to the skin, without injury to the skin and the tissues under it.

Young Mother—Deep breathing will build up the muscles of your chest, including those of the bust, so you can overcome this flabby condition.

C. S.—In making a mixture of olive oil and tar for the scalp use a tablespoonful of tar to a half of a pint of oil. Of course, you would only use this for dandruff, massaging it into the scalp the night before the regular shampoo.

Tomorrow—The Disfiguring Cold.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

KEEPING A CHILD'S FAITH

Speaking of training children—surely someone did—I have a letter from the kind of mother who takes an intelligent, constructive interest in her children's brain and character development as well as their physical development.

"I have considered for years," she writes, "the inevitable period when our boy would learn that father and mother were not all-knowing, and have been preparing for it. We have been deliberately teaching him that it is always wise to go for information to those who are in position to know best; but that while there are many things of which father and mother may be ignorant, no one else in the world can excel them in affection for him and solicitude for his welfare."

"Two illustrations will serve to show you what I mean in this connection.

Junior's Milk Route

"Junior had a calf given him some years ago and he has delighted in caring for it until now interest in her children's brain and making a nice little sum for himself each month. While his father is a successful dairyman, he advised Junior some time ago to write to our county agent for advice regarding the care and feeding of his cow. As a result, very cordial relations have been established between the two which have enabled Junior to learn and do many things which are of far-reaching value in character building, whatever career he chooses later.

"Another illustration, Junior wanted a dictionary for Christmas. I could easily have telephoned our superintendent of schools and gotten it for him. But I advised Junior to write to him about it. He received by return mail the information desired and also a very sincere personal note of interest which will help the boy along in the way we are anxious for him to go.

Why Children Lose Faith

"Above all, we try to be absolutely honest with him in every way. Which is often hard, with the warp and woof of life running in so many directions. But

and I dearly love him. He lives thirty-eight miles from me and I don't see him often, not once a week. He takes another girl to the shows and doesn't want me to go with any boys at all. I want you to tell me what to do.

PLEASE.

You are too young to go with a man of forty-five. Regardless of what he says, go to places with boys of your own age. If you want to be happy after you marry, choose some one near enough your own age so that you will have congenial interests and so that your husband will not be an old man when you are in the prime of your life.

JOSEPH S.: My column is not a matrimonial bureau, and therefore I cannot help you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it right to ask a young lady's father and mother if I may come to see their daughter?

How should I ask a lady to marry me?

How should I ask the permission of her father and mother if I want her to marry me?

O. M. E.: It is customary to ask the daughter herself if you may call on her. If you prefer to consult the parents, however, simply say: "May I come over to see your daughter some evening?"

The spirit of the moment should guide you in your proposal. Surely you can say very simply that you love the girl and want her to marry you.

Tell the girl's parents that you love her and you want to ask her to marry you.

I am going to chat, today, on the use of pectin in jelly-making. Pectin is that gummy substance in fruits which makes jelly "jell."

Our grandmothers knew that some fruits had more of this gummy substance than others. They knew, for instance, that if they wished to make a good, firm jelly out of such fruits as strawberries, rhubarb or blackberries, they must mix a little currant juice (both currants and apples are strong in pectin), with the juice of the fruit that is weak in pectin.

But we housekeepers of today have taken a still farther step in jelly-making. We have at our disposal clear pectin—either in bottles from our grocer, or made by our own hands, as follows:

Home-Made Pectin: Grate or peel the outside yellow skin from oranges and discard it. It is the thick white under part of the orange skin that contains the pectin. Chop this off the orange with a small, sharp knife. Then chop it very finely and weigh. You should have one-half pound of it. Put this half pound of white chopped under-skin into an earthenware bowl with three cups of cold water and three tablespoons of lemon juice and let it stand four hours. Now bring the mixture to a boil and continue to boil for ten minutes; cool it, add another three cups of water, bring to a boil again and take off the range immediately, to stand over night covered. In the morning bring to a boil once more, then cool at once and strain.

To Make Rhubarb Jelly With Prepared Pectin (either the home-made kind given in the above recipe, or the commercial kind which comes in bottles at any grocer's).

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

HEART-BROKEN MOTHER: Since your husband is earning a splendid salary, I would not advise you to economize too seriously. If you are not careful you will save money for him to spend on other women. Buy beautiful clothes so that he will be more than ever proud of you and so that he will feel that no other woman makes so attractive an appearance.

Do not mention his little affair with the other girl. The less said about it, the more apt it will be to pass over without causing any trouble. I doubt if it is of a serious nature. He loves you and your child, just as he says, and he would not let his little flirtation go very far.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl seventeen years old and I am in love with a man forty-five years old. He seems to love me, but he teases me about a married woman. What would you advise me to do?

DOUBTFUL: The man is so very much too old for you that I would advise you to forget all about loving him. Let him tease you about the married woman if he wants to. The fact that he is interested in another woman should not interest you in the least since you are so young. Look forward to loving some one of your own age when you are a little older and forget about marriage for the present.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen. I have been going with a fellow of forty-five

DREAMING

When hearts go a-dreaming,
Ah! then they find a rest;
And eyes softly beaming,
When hearts go a-dreaming,
But speak in their gleaming,
That dreams are the best.
When hearts go a-dreaming,
Ah! then they find rest.

We are having quite a bit of trouble with that mustache. It is now two months old, the birthday anniversary being yesterday. While no doubt it has done its best, its growth seems to be stunted on one side.

One side is much more luxuriant than the other and it is quite noticeable, and not only that, it makes us walk slightly lop-sided, which reminds us of a pair of (excuse us) we mean a suit of underclothes we bought once upon a time. Every time that suit went to the laundry and came back, one leg had grown longer, a matter of two inches. There was no possible explanation and we wrote to several Columbia professors for information. We had to keep cutting off the long leg and sewing the piece onto the shorter leg. With a mustache which keeps growing longer on one side and shorter on the other, if there is any cure for this we would like to hear what it is. Also, we are looking for a good dye. The mustache has disappointed us completely as regards color. It is sort of mouse tint with just a dash of Italian sunset, and, in fact, it doesn't look like much of anything and we haven't been able to fool anybody with it yet except a few detectives.

Raising a mustache is like raising chickens. You are lucky to get the original investment back.

VIA PRESS AGENT

Louis F. Verba announces that only those girls who are named "Adrienne" will be engaged for the chorus of his new musical comedy "Adrienne."

"Nomenclature," says Mr. Verba, has a great deal to do with success, and if the girls are named "Adrienne" they will feel a personal interest in the play.

"Just now we are having an authority in the science of names, and numbers find out the relation of the name 'Adrienne' to chorus girls and their success."

All of which comes under the head of potpourris or bunk, but as it is a welcome change from the usual press matter we print it. Anyhow, it is original.

The genius who has invented a limousine body for a motorcycle must have patterned it after some statesman we might mention.

Connecticut paper speaks of young women doing housework for $6 a week. From the standpoint of any city dweller, this is the height of optimism.

We think it will pay in the end—both that and our effort to teach Junior to do things for himself and to seek out authorities on every subject instead of trying to set ourselves up as supreme authorities. That might work now, but in the end, when he found out we didn't know everything, it would make him think perhaps we didn't know anything."

I wonder if that last sentence doesn't contain the explanation of the violent reaction against all parental ideas which so often comes as children grow up.

TODAY—South Sea Pirate Loot a Million in Gold Bullion. TOMORROW—England and prohibition, by David M. Church, London correspondent.

By IRENE CORRALLY KUHN For International News Service

HONOLULU, May 30.—Gold and silver bullion to the value of more than a million dollars, the loot of pirates who in the early years of the nineteenth century raided a temple of the Incas in South America, lies buried on one of the Islands of the Palmyra group in the South Pacific, according to a story which has just come to light here.

The tale of the buried treasure, a romance of the seas without a duplicate save in fiction, is contained in a package of letters purporting to be almost a century old, which has been in the possession of Captain William R. Foster, harbor master of Honolulu for more than 20 years, but which he has up until this time held secret. The letters, Captain Foster says, were given him by a sailor stranded here after he had succeeded in obtaining a berth for him on a sailing ship going to the South Sea. Several months later the ship was wrecked in the Solomon Islands, and so far as is known, all hands were lost. The sailor never returned to Honolulu to claim the letters, and for two decades they have lain in an iron chest in the harbor master's office.

The story of the Palmyra treasure goes back to January 1, 1816, when the Spanish ship Esperanza was in the harbor of Callao. By bartering with the native Incas the crew of the vessel had succeeded in obtaining gold and silver bullion, stolen from the temples, which at that time was valued at more than 3,000,000 pesos. The vessel set sail from Callao, intending to go to the Spanish West Indies to dispose of the loot. Four days out, however, a fierce storm broke and the Esperanza was driven from her course, lost her mast and sprung a leak. Drifting and helpless, the Esperanza was an easy victim for a pirate vessel which encountered it shortly after the storm, and the crew was captured and taken aboard the pirate ship. With them went the gold and silver of the Incas.

The Esperanza was sunk and the pirate captain stunk his course for Macao. On the forty-third day after the encounter with the Esperanza the pirate ship met a storm and during the night lost her course. Just as morning broke the vessel struck on a coral reef. Her mainmast broke and she was helpless. Desperate efforts were made by the crew to float her, but when these succeeded it was seen that the ship was leaking so badly as to make any attempt to board or open seas again impossible. After four days of incessant toil the ship was brought close to the beach of a small island and then dismantled.

The Pacific Navigation company sold the islands in 1890 to Attorney W. A. Kinney, of Honolulu, and he sold them to F. W. Wundenberg for $500. Later Judge H. E. Cooper came into possession of them. Last summer the group was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. L. Fullard-Lee, of Honolulu, at a price said to have been $15,000. Judge Cooper, it is understood, has heard the story of the buried treasure and conducted a search of the islands but was unable to find the hoard in some quarters the story is doubted, but it is generally believed that somewhere on one of the islands is the pirate loot.

BILLY WILKERS

"Get up, you miserable beast!" Mrs. Ward called to Billy, who lay perfectly still on her newly painted porch and only winked at her until she threw the stick she had in her hand at him. Then he got up, but when he did so, nearly all the fresh paint struck to his side. "Oh, my! Oh, my! How can I get him loose?" she wailed, wringing her hands in her perplexity. For she was afraid of Billy. Besides, she did not wish to get paint all over her shoes and clothes by walking up the steps to untie him. And just when she was in this predicament, who should come round the house whistling and with the most angelic expression on his face but Bobbie? That smile was Bobbie's stronghold, as it was the sweetest, most innocent one imaginable, and with his big eyes looking as if surprised at you for being so angry, he nearly always carried his point.

ADAPTING THE ENGINE TO WARM WEATHER

Extremely warm weather, as well as intensely cold weather, imposes conditions which must be realized and met by the operator in order that the best results may be obtained. During the winter the cold outside air must be warmed artificially so that it shall be able to vaporize the gasoline sprayed by the carburetor, and even the mixture, after leaving the carburetor, must, in many instances, be heated by the exhaust. While, with fuel of the present grade, it may be necessary thus to furnish some artificial heat, the high air temperature of a mid-summer day, renders it much less necessary and the carburetor hot air supply may, in some cases, be beneficially discontinued, especially if a heated manifold is used. In extreme cases, the exhaust supply to such a manifold may be reduced or cut off, especially if the hot air supply is left on. A too highly heated mixture is, of course, undesirable, and experiment will determine what should be done. High exhaust temperatures naturally reduce the activity of radiators with the result that all other factors remaining the same, the circulating water temperature averages much higher in summer than in winter, and the cylinder walls are hotter on the

POOR HILL CLIMBERS

H. T. writes: My six-cylinder car has been driven 50,000 miles, and has never developed good power on hills. At first the dealer said the engine was stiff; then, that it needed carbon removed and valves ground; later, that the timing and carburetor should be checked up, all these things being done without betterment. Oil has been changed regularly, and the engine does not overheat. The car runs perfect on level going, but when the throttle is opened it lags, and smoke comes from the crankcase. What can you suggest?

Answer: There are so many possibilities that we do not know where to begin. The engine may be of too high compression for the gasoline you are using; and, on the other hand, the cylinders may be leaky, resulting in your not having good enough compression to give you satisfactory power. The timing of the ignition, if it is not exact, will give results such as you describe. In a general way, if the cylinders of your engine are tight; if the carburetor gives a good mixture under all conditions and the spark is strong and takes place at the correct instant, you should be getting full power. There is always the possibility that the brakes drag, or that there is

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily came home to his hollow stump bungalow, after having gone to the eight and nine cent store to get Nurse Jane a paper of pins, the bunny rabbit gentleman saw his muskrat lady housekeeper standing on her hind legs in the middle of the parlor.

And, not only was Nurse Jane standing on her hind legs, but she was clapping her front paws together—slap, slap—slapity-slap. "My goodness, Nurse Jane, why are you so happy this morning?" asked Uncle Wiggily, with a jolly little twinkle of his pink, pink nose.

"Happy? Happy?" asked Nurse Jane, ceasing her dancing. "Why, yes, aren't you happy? You are clapping your paws," went on Mr. Longears.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I am not happy—far from it. I am clapping my paws trying to catch the flying moth millers which will soon lay eggs that will hatch out into moths, which will eat up all my best clothes and the parlor furniture."

"Oh, so you are catching moths, are you?" asked the rabbit. "Trying to, but it is little use," replied Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy with a sigh. "There goes one now." Up she hopped on her hind legs and clapped her paws in the air. "I missed him," she said, as a little white bug flew into a dark corner of the room.

"Cedar sawdust?" questioned Uncle Wiggily. "Do you mean you are going to blow cedar sawdust in the eyes of the moth bugs, and catch them that way?"

"Nonsense!" laughed Nurse Jane. "Not that way. But moths don't like the smell of cedar. If I sprinkle cedar sawdust around the bungalow the flying moths won't come in to lay their eggs to hatch out into biting, eating moth bugs. Get me some cedar sawdust, Wiggily, my dear."

"I shall do that little thing for you with pleasure," spoke the bunny uncle with a low and polite bow of his red necktie.

Uncle Wiggily hopped over to the home of Grandpa Whackum, the gnawing beaver gentleman, and politely said: "Nurse Jane wants some cedar sawdust."

"I'll take her a basket full," offered Grandpa Whackum kindly. "With my strong teeth I am going to cut down some cedar trees this morning, and I'll save the little chips and sawdust for Nurse Jane."

Uncle Wiggily thanked the beaver gentleman and then the bunny hopped on his way to look for an adventure. Later in the afternoon Grandpa Whackum took to Nurse Jane, in the hollow stump bungalow, a large basket of the sweet-smelling aromatic cedar sawdust.

"Where shall I put the sawdust?" asked the beaver gentleman. "The man, for instance, who is highly susceptible to widows' weeds."

ALL CITY WILL PAY RESPECTS TO PATRIOTIC SOLDIER BOYS IN BLUE

Veterans Of Civil War Will Be Greeted With Hearty Cheers, and Tears, As They March In Today's Parade; Complete List of Members Of Local Post Auxiliary Doing Active Work

As the flag passes by today and Glendaleans see their veterans and citizens march in review in celebration of Memorial Day, hearts will beat a bit faster and many an eye will be dimmed when they greet "The Boys in Blue," those loyal American fighters of 1860 and 1864, whose numbers are fast decreasing as each year marks the clear call of "taps" for hundreds of the old comrades.

Years have whitened the heads and lined the faces and forms are bent and steps are slow to the spirit of the "sixties" still lives and the fire of true American spirit burns brightly in the eye and heart of each loyal soldier who rallied to the call of "Honest Abe."

T. M. Barrett Is Commander Of Glendale G. A. R.

T. M. BARRETT, commander of N. P. Banks Post No. 170, G. A. R., who has the distinction of having been elected to that office the second time.

T. M. Barrett is commander of the N. P. Banks post, No. 170, G. A. R. He was commander of the Glendale post once before, and holds the record of being the only comrade honored by election to the command of the second time.

Comrade Barrett exemplifies the loyalty and patriotism of his fellow post members, and has been one of the active chairmen in arranging today's parade.

Back of Comrade Barrett stand the eighty-six living members of the post, whose invitation to all Civil War veterans is, "Comrades, join Post No. 170, and we will do you good, strengthen fraternity, increase charity and establish you in loyalty."

The object of the Grand Army of the Republic is voiced as: "To preserve and strengthen those kind and fraternal feelings which bind together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion, and to perpetuate the memory and history of the dead."

"To assist such former comrades in arms as need help and protection, and to extend helpful aid to the widows and orphans of those who have fallen."

"To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America, based upon a paramount respect for and fidelity to its constitution and laws; to discountenance whatever tends to weaken loyalty, or to insurrection, treason or rebellion, or in any manner impairs the efficiency and permanency of our free institutions; and to encourage the spread of universal liberty, equal rights and justice to all men."

Upon these principles the G. A. R. was founded in 1868.

The roster also shows that C. H. Clark is past senior vice-department commander.

Regular meetings of the post are held on the second and fourth Fridays of each month at 10:30 o'clock, in the post hall at the corner of Glendale and Garfield avenues.

Women's Auxiliary

Closely bound up with the history of the post is that of the women's auxiliary, the N. P. Banks W. R. C., No. 67, organized in January, 1898, with fifteen members and now an organization of over 270 women.

Of the fifteen charter members there are living Mrs. Cora Hickman Stearns, Mrs. Adelaide Imler, Mrs. Isabel Moore of South Pasadena and Mrs. Clara Gulbin Thompson of Long Beach.

Joint meetings with the post are held every second and fourth Friday of the month in the G. A. R. hall. This hall was a gift from Charles E. Winne and wife, deceased, to the G. A. R., and they wished the title of the property vested in the W. R. C., with Mrs. Cora Hickman Stearns as life trustee. These loyal women have since held the property in trust for the veterans. Mrs.

That's All

Hour of Homage Due Remember Living Dead Swing Low, Sweet Chariot Just Consider Hawaii

By Gil A. Cowan

THIS is Memorial Day, a time of tribute and reverence, an hour of homage due the departed dead of this country's battles.

Appropriate services commemorating the deceased veterans of the Civil War, as well as later conflicts, are being held in Glendale today.

And while assembled we pay tribute to the dear departed ones a kindly thought should be extended the literal "living dead"—those boys who gave their opportunity, their health, their limbs, and still survive.

We still can see the World War veterans coming home from France, their shell-torn limbs, blanched faces, gassed lungs and scarred bodies, live memorials to their service for justice and humanity.

All this is said because it is mostly those who have died since the close of the war who lie buried in our Memorial parks. Few of those who died in France are to be found in the Green Verdugo Hills, transplanted from Flanders fields. There is the everlasting peace in another part of the world.

And the dedication of an American Legion plot in Grand View today represents the last resting place of others to pass beyond.

There is something about Memorial Day, so sad, yet exultantly comforting, that one cannot help thinking of the old folk sung in our childhood, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." Airplanes over the symbolic grave in Forest Lawn will represent that "chariot."

For be it known that the ranks of the Boys in Blue are fast fading from this earthly realm and almost constantly taps are sounding for some member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

To the soldier's ears, however, there is nothing sweeter among the bugle calls than that one last far-flung note as it echoes through the still night in a benediction of music which says, "Peace on earth, good will toward all men."

So it is that the comradeship of battle, the fraternity of camp life and the benevolence of the High Commander of the Universe permits us today to stand united in commemoration of the spirit of those who were with us at the reveille of yesterday.

You know, folks, it's a long, long trail a-winding to the end of our dreams, and each year to tarry along the way for a day and see the final resting place, perhaps, and commune with the departed, is refreshing as the flowers on the graves.

Some of the greatest lines in literature have been spoken of death, for which we should have no fear, likewise no desire, for things are as they are, forevermore.

This comment is being written in close proximity to a map picturing Hawaii. That is one of America's island possessions, comprising about eight islands, several cities, lots of volcanoes and all the sea water lying between.

What intrigues us most is the Hawaiian national park. Wonderful woods must be found in the tropics back of Hilo. Another interesting feature is the number of steamship lines making the island ports of call.

It is interesting to note that the largest island—that of Hawaii—is perhaps only a little larger than Los Angeles county, yet it is cut into about nine political subdivisions. Under territorial rule they may compare with our townships, but it does seem as though townships are useless things.

Just like anything else, the democratic form of government in this republic wears out the machinery by which it is created. The fact that some one in the early days didn't have sense enough to chop this state into three to five parts is no reason it should not be done.

Nor should the best interests of Southern California block the further subdivision of Los Angeles county into two or three political entities.

It is only natural and very logical that this should come.

Campus Romeo Sues Alleged Kidnapers

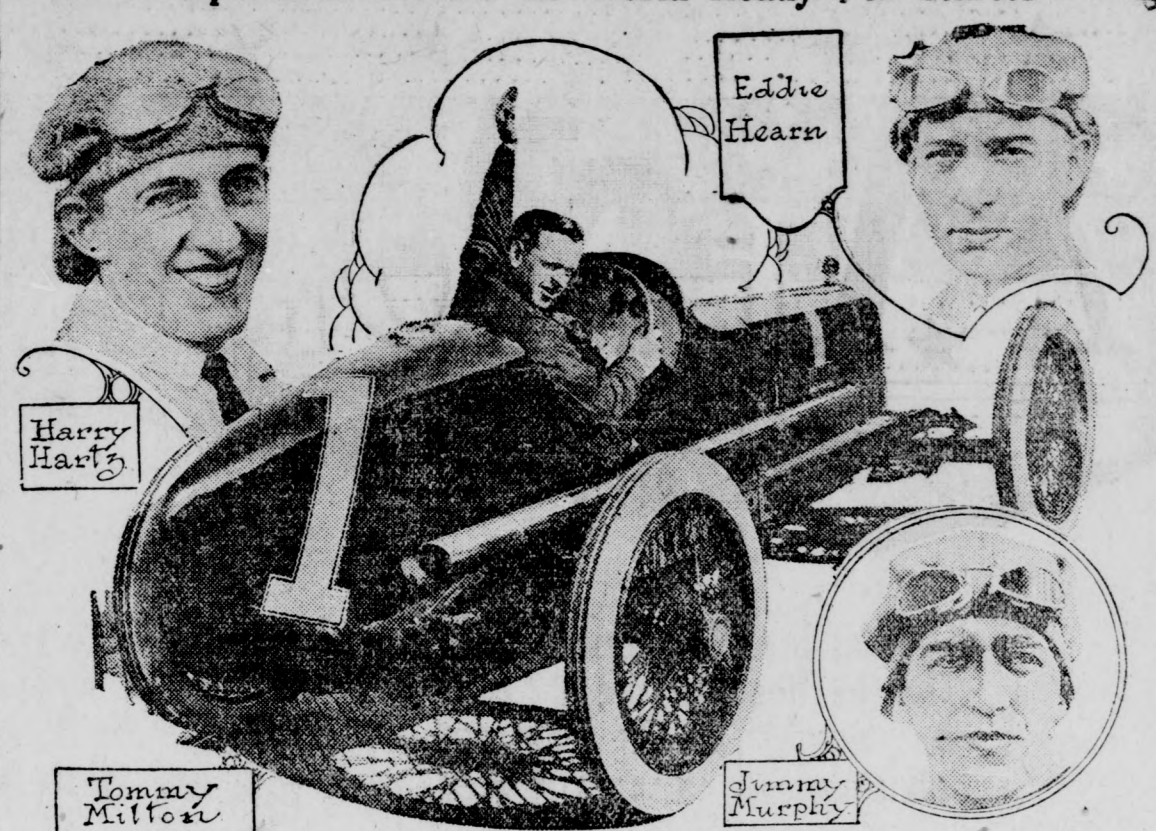

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 30.—Gordon H. Holler, 18, known as the "Romeo" of the Des Moines university campus, has filed charges against William Eaton, 20, and William Clifton, 20, fellow students at the university here, asserting they were leaders of the band of masked men that Holler alleges kidnaped him early Sunday morning.

Holler told police he had been bound and gagged in his room, and taken to a spot outside the city where he was beaten and a coat of molasses and feathers applied to his body.

EXPECT TO SMASH RECORDS AT INDIANAPOLIS

Some Of Speediest Drivers In World Ready For Starter's Flag

All world's records for speed are expected to fall at the annual 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis, Indiana, Speedway today. Tommy Milton, the world's greatest driver, is entered in a Miller Special, a one-man car, with 122 inches of piston displacement. Eddie Hearns, a youthful veteran, will make the winner drive pretty fast. Jimmy Murphy won the race last year, at a record-breaking average of 94.48 miles per hour. Harry Hartz, who was second last year, will drive a Durant Special this year.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—They're off!

Enthusiasm, speed, thrills to the point of frenzy marked the start of the eleventh international 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway before a record-breaking assemblage here today.

Groomed to the minute, both the cars and their drivers got away for the most agonizing grind in the annals of motordom. It was the most severe test for men and motors. The single-seated, wasp-like, waist-high speed creations, representing the utmost in power and durability in the smallest package, were new triumphs in the science of automobile engineering.

Before the start the question uppermost in the minds of the thousands of fans was: With the piston displacement reduced to 122 inches and with only the drivers in all but a few cars and no mechanics to watch the oil, the gas, the air and signals, could the 1922 record be equalled or bettered?

Four Bugatti machines, led by Pierre de Vizeaya, a wealthy French sportsman, formed the defense on a far-flung battleline, but no less determined one that at Verdun, where the Germans did not pass, Prince de Cystrla, son of Prince Fauquign Luceign, husband of a Princess Murat, was behind the wheel of one of the Bugattis.

Two adventurous lads who went to France and found excitement on the speed paths then drove for the Argentine. They were Raoul Riganti and M. Alsaga.

Jules Goux, the first foreigner to win a 500-mile race in Indianapolis, had driven on the Hoosier bricks often and on one of his trips not only won fame as a driver, but won a pretty and prominent Hoosier maiden as a wife. Goux entered a Schmidt-Special, which, contrary to the sound of the name, is a French car. Albert Guyot, who had competed several times before, drove a Roland-Pillain.

Howdy Wilcox, Ralph DePalma, Dario Resta, Tommy Milton and Jimmy Murphy—all winners in former years—were being depended upon by those who felt that an American-made product would triumph. Their machines all bore the Yankee stamp.

Louis Chevrolet, whose speed wagons had won twice previously at Indianapolis, had four cars endeavoring to qualify, with Dave Lewis, Ira Vail and C. W. Van Ranst named as drivers.

The crowd was a typical speedway crowd, and that means motorists and speed enthusiasts from all over the United States. There are fight crowds, there are Derby crowds, there are those that pay to watch Babe Ruth, but they all pale into insignificance in size beside that which sees the 500-mile race annually.

As the get-away was made more than racing honors were at stake. Mechanical genius of the world competed. France, England, Germany, Italy, Argentine, Poland, were all contending either by having native sons entered as drivers, by mounts made in the old country, or both. Germany for the first time in several years was making an active bid for laurels. France, an old contender and always a dangerous one, was well represented.

German cars entered Lautenschlager and Salzer, two of the famous old Mercedes team which made a grand slam by taking first, second and third places in the 1914 French Grand Prix race, were to uphold racing tradition in Germany, along with Saylor, who had driven a Mercedes in European events recently.

Four Bugatti machines, led by Pierre de Vizeaya, a wealthy French sportsman, formed the defense on a far-flung battleline, but no less determined one that at Verdun, where the Germans did not pass, Prince de Cystrla, son of Prince Fauquign Luceign, husband of a Princess Murat, was behind the wheel of one of the Bugattis.

U. P. PLANS FOR EXTENSION TOLD

Road to Spend $45,000,000 for Rolling Stock And Better Service

President Carl R. Gray of the Union Pacific system has announced that the total of that system's budget for improvements, extensions, new rolling stock and betterment of service, for one year, is $45,000,000. It was stated today by C. A. Redmond, district passenger agent of the system in Glendale.

Mr. Redmond said the railroad was making large expenditures to make Zion Canyon National Park, Cedar Breaks, Bryce Canyon and the north rim of the Grand Canyon, in Utah, more accessible.

Under construction at the present time is a branch Union Pacific line from Lund, on the main line between here and Salt Lake, and Cedar City, Utah. Cedar City is the gateway to the Zion National Park region. The Union Pacific has bought the new hotel rising in Cedar City and is erecting some great hostels in Zion Park.

While these improvements are not ready this summer, Mr. Redmond added, that, nevertheless, comfortable accommodations are available in Zion National Park this year and that trip there and also to the Grand Canyon north rim and Bryce Canyon may be arranged. Motor stages operate from the railroad at Lund into Zion Park, via Cedar City.

The summer tariff to the Zion Park region has just been issued by the passenger department of the Union Pacific and copies have been received by the representative here.

Commission and Roads Ask Terminal Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—The railroad commission of California has forwarded to Washington a joint motion of the commission, the Southern Pacific company, the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railway company and the Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad company, for the advancement of the United States supreme court of the Los Angeles union terminal and grade crossing elimination case on the October calendar of the court.

An early hearing of this case is requested by all parties at interest because of the importance of the issues involved, and the fact that there are a number of cases of great importance, revolving around the same principle, in other states.

Joseph W. Folk Is Dead at Sister's Home

NEW YORK, May 30.—Joseph W. Folk, former governor of Missouri and for years an outstanding figure in the political life of America, died here Monday at the home of his sister, whom he was visiting.

—With boundary lines a thing of the past—every wound healed—we now join hands in united regard for the honored dead. Strong, indeed, is the nation that pauses for a day in its material tasks to turn its thoughts to the lofty and the spiritual. No longer is there a South—no longer is there a North. We all stand on common ground, each with one ideal—to make this nation better and greater.

Architect's Drawing of New Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital—Now Nearing Completion

The Glendale Sanitarium, in addition to bringing thousands of strangers to Glendale each year, advertises the city extensively by means of its advertising literature sent to every part of the globe.

The Glendale Sanitarium & Hospital has never turned away a patient on account of age, sex or color for financial reasons.

Its patients are numbered from every state in the Union, as well as many foreign countries.

On This Memorial Day—

—When we pay homage to the Veterans of three great wars—this institution realizes as never before its responsibility in trying to alleviate the suffering of humanity and pointing the way of HEALTH to those whom we may be privileged to benefit.

FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF BOTH SURGICAL AND MEDICAL PATIENTS. CURATIVE METHODS ARE EMPLOYED ACCORDING TO THE LATEST PRINCIPLES OF PHYSIOLOGICAL THERAPEUTICS.

—The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparation and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, give the patient a well-balanced course of treatment. The purpose of this work is to help nature restore health and put one in possession of knowledge that will help them know how to live to maintain health, for it is easier to lose than to regain.
