NEW YORK, November 15.
LATEST FROM EUROPE.—The Sylvaus Jenkins from Liverpool, brings up London files to the 9th ult. including Liverpool papers to the 10th. This is only one day later than the accounts received last week by the Leeds from London; and there is, in truth, little additional intelligence of a positive character.
 The Russians, it would seem, had actually commenced retrograde movements, and the Courier of the 8th considers the campaign of this season as ended. The Times, it is said in an article we take from the Morning Herald of the 9th, were in the intoxication of victory. The Courier of the 7th continuing to insist that "no ground of war has yet been afforded by any of the European powers," takes pains to explain that this opinion strenuously maintained, does not arise from any dread of war, or from any unwillingness or inability on the part of England to go to war, in a just and necessary cause. Continental journals on the other hand, treat of a general war as probable.
 The war has for many days and nights been rising. We give the latest news from the front article, gain, again to caution our speculators against excess.

[From the London Morning Herald of 9th Oct.]
 We have just received, by express, the Courier of France, dated the 27th, and the other Journals of the 5th of Oct. The only news which they contain is in a letter from Constantinople, of 12th September, which says:
 "The Turks are in the expectation of victory, but great alarm had been excited by the arrival of the Russians near Bourgas. On receiving this news the Grand Vizier stopped at Adrianople. He appears to have entered into concert with Hussein Pacha to attempt to relieve Varna. The measures for the defence of the capital are actively prosecuted. On the 7th of September fifteen thousand Kurdish cavalry headed by the Pasha, and the divisions of Constantinople, took the road to Schumla, but the taxes in the capital continue to increase, and business is at a stand. Great care, however, is taken to provide for the wants of the people. The Clinician has lately made a general inspection of the hospitals on this occasion twenty patients were killed by the cars to their own doors. During this cruel operation, several of them dropped their papers with the greatest indifference."
 The operations before Varna have been brought down by a Russian Bulletin in the South States Gazette to the 17th ult. and before Schumla to the 15th. The counterparty in front of the Rutch Bession near the sea, was blown into the air early on the 17th, and falling into the Fosse, completely lifted it, and enabled the Russians before Varna to take possession of the entrance to a breach in the Rutch. The road to Bourgas having been occupied by Gen. Golowin, the Emperor sanctioned the operation to surrender. It was at this time that the garrison were informed of the same, and hostilities were for a short time suspended. But Admiral Orde being convinced in a conference held on board his ship with the Captain Pasha, that the only chance of gaining the negotiations were broken off. The works have been advanced so far, and the communication with Bourgas having been cut off by Gen. Golowin, it was supposed that the place would not be able to hold out much longer.
 The operations before Schumla seem to linger, and no further attacks have been made upon the Turks. It is reported that the Russian army will soon make a retrograde movement; indeed the hospitals and magazines have even already moved to Jemi Rong. The Grand Vizier has effected his junction with Hussein Pacha.
 The campaign may now be considered as nearly at an end.
 According to the intelligence brought by a French brig from the Moron, the Egyptian convoy from Alexandria was of the crew. Ibrahim was to embark with the second company. The convention for the evacuation of the Moron has given great displeasure to the Porte. The Viceroy of Egypt expressed himself by saying that he had been compelled to sign the convention under the threat of Admiral Coddington to blockade all the Egyptian ports, and bombard Alexandria.
 The following article is extracted from a Paris paper we received this morning:
 Vienna, Sept. 22.—The Russian Bulletin of Sept. 9th, detailing the affair which has taken place near Schumla was produced here a great sensation. It is believed that the Grand Vizier, after his junction with Hussein Pacha, would have attempted upon the Russians, and should be successful, a general retreat on their part must be the consequence. It even should they lose the Turks and enter Varna, it is almost sure that they will recross the Danube to take up cantonments during the autumn and winter. The Emperor Nicholas dismissed the Empress, when he quitted her, that he should soon see her at St. Petersburg.

 The following article is extracted from a Paris paper we received this morning:
 Vienna, Sept. 22.—The Russian Bulletin of Sept. 9th, detailing the affair which has taken place near Schumla was produced here a great sensation. It is believed that the Grand Vizier, after his junction with Hussein Pacha, would have attempted upon the Russians, and should be successful, a general retreat on their part must be the consequence. It even should they lose the Turks and enter Varna, it is almost sure that they will recross the Danube to take up cantonments during the autumn and winter. The Emperor Nicholas dismissed the Empress, when he quitted her, that he should soon see her at St. Petersburg.

 We have just received, by express, the Courier of France, dated the 27th, and the other Journals of the 5th of Oct. The only news which they contain is in a letter from Constantinople, of 12th September, which says:
 "The Turks are in the expectation of victory, but great alarm had been excited by the arrival of the Russians near Bourgas. On receiving this news the Grand Vizier stopped at Adrianople. He appears to have entered into concert with Hussein Pacha to attempt to relieve Varna. The measures for the defence of the capital are actively prosecuted. On the 7th of September fifteen thousand Kurdish cavalry headed by the Pasha, and the divisions of Constantinople, took the road to Schumla, but the taxes in the capital continue to increase, and business is at a stand. Great care, however, is taken to provide for the wants of the people. The Clinician has lately made a general inspection of the hospitals on this occasion twenty patients were killed by the cars to their own doors. During this cruel operation, several of them dropped their papers with the greatest indifference."
 The operations before Varna have been brought down by a Russian Bulletin in the South States Gazette to the 17th ult. and before Schumla to the 15th. The counterparty in front of the Rutch Bession near the sea, was blown into the air early on the 17th, and falling into the Fosse, completely lifted it, and enabled the Russians before Varna to take possession of the entrance to a breach in the Rutch. The road to Bourgas having been occupied by Gen. Golowin, the Emperor sanctioned the operation to surrender. It was at this time that the garrison were informed of the same, and hostilities were for a short time suspended. But Admiral Orde being convinced in a conference held on board his ship with the Captain Pasha, that the only chance of gaining the negotiations were broken off. The works have been advanced so far, and the communication with Bourgas having been cut off by Gen. Golowin, it was supposed that the place would not be able to hold out much longer.
 The operations before Schumla seem to linger, and no further attacks have been made upon the Turks. It is reported that the Russian army will soon make a retrograde movement; indeed the hospitals and magazines have even already moved to Jemi Rong. The Grand Vizier has effected his junction with Hussein Pacha.
 The campaign may now be considered as nearly at an end.
 According to the intelligence brought by a French brig from the Moron, the Egyptian convoy from Alexandria was of the crew. Ibrahim was to embark with the second company. The convention for the evacuation of the Moron has given great displeasure to the Porte. The Viceroy of Egypt expressed himself by saying that he had been compelled to sign the convention under the threat of Admiral Coddington to blockade all the Egyptian ports, and bombard Alexandria.
