AUSTRIANS FAILED ON THE ASIAGO PLATEAU, LEAVING PILES OF DEAD; SENT 18,000 FORWARD IN MASSES

King Victor's Troops Stood Firm and Repulsed the Enemy, Inflicting Enormous Losses, Thus Aiding Forward the Process of Attrition; Observers in London Are Watching Developments on Italian and Russian Fronts With Intense Interest

Rome, June 15.—Austro-Hungarian troops estimated to number 18,000, attacked in dense formation the Italian positions on the Asiago plateau yesterday, but were repulsed, leaving piles of dead before the Italian trenches, says a statement given out by the war office to-day.

London, June 15.—The military critics here are watching the developments on the Italian and Russian fronts very closely, being unable to determine as yet what move the Austrian staff will make in an effort to save the situation. All accounts agree that the Austrian armies in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukovina have received a terrific battering at the hands of General Brusilov's forces, and under ordinary conditions it would be reasonable to expect the Austrian high command to move masses of troops from the Italian front to the east front in an effort to strengthen the armies there and stay the menacing Russian advance, but the apparent imminence of a great Italian offensive must be taken into consideration in forecasting developments. As a result of their use of great masses of troops in violent attacks during the past few weeks the Austrians have been able to drive certain salients into the Italian lines. By falling back and straightening out the line they could recover a certain number of troops to be sent to the east front, but it is pointed out that the troops so released would be far short of satisfying the urgent demands of the situation in Galicia and Bukovina. The Austrians dare not weaken their lines on the Italian front to any substantial degree, and it is believed that the Austrian general staff now is facing a problem of greater magnitude than any which has confronted it since the war began.

CASUALTIES AMONG OFFICERS NOW 395

List Received at Ottawa Today Brings Total to That Figure

Ottawa, June 15.—A list of 87 casualties among officers received by the militia department to-day brings the total casualties among officers announced since the beginning of the heavy fighting on the Ypres salient to 395.

The majority of the names which appear in the list received to-day are those of officers of the 1st Division. It would appear that it was the 1st Division, which is commanded by Major-General A. W. Currie, C. B., of Victoria, B. C., which made the attack last Tuesday, which resulted in the recapture of more than 1,500 yards of trenches from the Germans southeast of Zillebeke, on the Ypres salient.

Among the names on the list are those of 4 officers killed, 1 wounded and believed to have been killed and 30 wounded.

As yet only press dispatches about this action have reached here. The department is awaiting an official account of the action which resulted so successfully. It is expected that it will be found that the losses sustained in the attack were much lighter than those suffered in the heavy fighting for mine craters which preceded it.

GERMANY DENOUNCED BY JAMES M. BECK

Former Assistant Attorney General of States Spoke at Toronto

Toronto, June 15.—Unity and uniformity in law and legislation were the insistent notes struck by speakers at the opening session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association.

Sir James Aikins, in his presidential address, spoke of the difficulties arising from the different races, ideals and languages in the Dominion, which militated against unity.

An address was delivered by Hon. J. M. Beck, formerly assistant attorney-general of the United States. It was a powerful arraignment of Germany, its violation of pledges and its outrages on humanity.

"Shall not the supreme court of civilization sit as one of criminal assize," he asked, "and if so, what punishment shall be inflicted upon these beribboned and much decorated criminals who have brought upon the world this unspeakable tragedy?"

"The future of civilization will depend upon the helpful and sympathetic co-operation of the two divisions of the English-speaking races."

MAJ. CUNNINGHAM WITH TRAINING DIVISION NOW

London, June 15.—Major Cunningham, of Victoria, has been attached to the headquarters training division.

ITALY WILL HAVE STRONGER CABINET

Refusal of Vote of Confidence Demonstrated More Energy Needed

EVENTS LEADING UP TO THE RESIGNATION

Leading Member of Neutralist Party Explains the Present Situation

Rome, June 15.—As the causes of the Italian ministerial crisis are likely to be misunderstood and misinterpreted, especially in Austria and Germany, where the downfall of the Salandra-Sonnino cabinet may be regarded as a triumph, a leading member of the Neutralist party to-day gave the following explanation of the resignation of the cabinet:

"Although the Austrian offensive on the Trentino front, resulting in the invasion of less than 50 square miles of Italian territory, practically provoked the ministerial crisis, still even the Neutralists are convinced of the necessity of continuing the war until a complete victory has been won by the employment of the utmost energy."

The Division. "It is a mistake to suppose that the Italian parliament is opposed to war, since of 508 members, only 37 of the Socialists form the anti-war party. The followers of ex-Premier Giolitti, numbering about 250 members, supported the cabinet, and only 50 of them joined the opposition on Friday. The remaining deputies, including the Roman Catholics, voted in favor of the government, and about 100 members did not participate in the division.

"Thus the cabinet was forced to resign owing to the votes of the so-called Interventionists, consisting of 20 reformist Socialists, 25 Radicals, 25 Republicans and 20 Democrats, besides the Nationalists and a few others who till Friday were united in their support of the government."

Salandra Promised. "A crisis was averted in March because Premier Salandra promised to strengthen the cabinet, assuring parliament that the mistakes that had been made had been remedied, and that no danger of an invasion of Italy existed."

"His optimism and self-assurance were belied by subsequent events. The Austrians were able to invade Italy owing to the mistakes of General Brusilov, who, despite his incompetency, retained command of the Trentino armies because he is a brother of the king's aide de camp. Further there was found to be a lack of efficient defenses as well as a shortage of guns and ammunition."

Mors Energy. "The premier could have averted the crisis, but instead of heeding the warnings, he publicly admitted to parliament that the Austrian advance could have been checked sooner had the defenses in the Trentino been better prepared. The refusal of a vote of confidence in the cabinet demonstrated that a more energetic cabinet was needed, consisting of representatives of all parties, which could continue the work and intensify the conduct of the war, and probably extend it against Germany."

"The significant feature of the session on Friday, apart from the debate on the cabinet, was that peace was mentioned only by the official Socialists, who, however, joined in the applause for the Italian soldiers defending the Venetian frontier against the Austrian invasion."

TALKS OF STRENGTH AS GERMANY WANES

Bethmann-Hollweg Asks Germans to Believe They Are Stronger Now

Berlin, June 15.—Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, addressed the Reichstag unexpectedly to-day during the third reading of the budget.

"Six months ago," he said, "I first spoke of our readiness for peace, basing my remarks upon the military situation as it existed then. I was able to do this feeling confident that the situation created by the war would develop still further to our advantage. Events have justified that confidence. We have made further progress, and now are stronger on all fronts than ever before."

Dr. Gradanauer declared the Socialists would support the new war credits. "Germany," he said, "would welcome President Wilson's efforts to make peace if the country could be sure of his absolute impartiality."

Bulgarians Moving Most of Forces to Roumanian Border

Athens, June 15.—It was reported in Athens to-day that the Bulgarians are withdrawing the greater part of their forces from Salonica to the Roumanian frontier.

FRENCH BROKE UP GERMAN ATTACKS

Defeated Enemy's Plans Once More East of Meuse River

HOLD TRENCH SOUTH OF DEADMAN'S HILL

Paris, June 15.—Powerful German attacks made last night on the French positions southeast of the Thiaumont Farm, on the Verdun front east of the Meuse, broke down under the French machine gun and infantry fire.

The official statement issued this afternoon says the Germans began their assault at 6 o'clock in the evening on the right bank of the Meuse from Hill 321 to the edge of Hill 329. At the same time another attack was delivered at the southern edge of the Callette wood. All attacks were repulsed.

The trench captured by the French yesterday on the southern slope of Deadman's Hill, west of the Meuse, also was the object of several German counter attacks during the night, all of which failed. The total number of prisoners taken by the French at the time of the capture of the trench was 5 officers and 139 non-commissioned officers and men.

German Statement. Berlin, June 15.—Two attacks delivered by the French yesterday and last night on the German line along the southern slope of Deadman's Hill, on the Verdun front, west of the Meuse, were unsuccessful, the war office announced to-day. In the first attack the French temporarily gained some ground, but a counter attack drove them back.

65TH AND 102ND INSPECTED BY DUKE

Gov.-Gen. Complimented Saskatoon and Comox-Atlin Units at Ottawa

Ottawa, June 15.—Two western battalions, the 65th, of Saskatoon, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Laing, and the 102nd, of Northern British Columbia, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Warden, were inspected here this forenoon by the Duke of Connaught and Maj.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes. As the weather was wet the inspection took place at the Central railway station. Sir Robert Borden, Hon. Martin Burrell and H. S. Clements, M.P. for Comox-Atlin, who accompanied the 102nd Battalion from the Pacific coast, were present.

After the inspection the duke addressed the officers of the two units, complimenting them on the fine appearance of the men and expressing the conviction that like other battalions from the west they would give a good account of themselves at the front. The men in uniform from the west include a number of former residents of these districts and many relatives were at the station.

FOOD DISTURBANCES IN ROTTERDAM TOO

Amsterdam, June 15.—Disturbances at Rotterdam by demonstrators against the high prices of food were repeated last night, especially in the neighborhood of the town hall. There was some stone-throwing and the police cleared the streets by charging the crowds.

KILLED TWENTY-TWO.

Douglas, Ariz., June 15.—Yaqui Indians attacked the town of Bacho, seven miles north of Esperanza, on June 8, killing 22 of the inhabitants before they were driven off, according to a letter received here to-day from Esperanza, Sonora, Mex.

PROMINENT WINNIPEGGER ILL.

Winnipeg, June 15.—Archibald Harstone, of Harstone Bros., coal merchants, one of Winnipeg's best known business men, is critically ill at his residence. Mr. Harstone was stricken on Wednesday.

KITCHENER DID NOT LEAVE HAMPSHIRE

Talking With Officers on Quarterdeck When Cruiser Went Down

STORY OF END TOLD BY A LEADING SEAMAN

After Explosion Field Marshal Walked Calmly From Captain's Cabin

London, June 15.—The Daily Mail publishes the following account of the sinking of the cruiser Hampshire by Leading Seaman Rogerson, one of the survivors:

"Of those who left the ship and have survived, I was the one who saw Lord Kitchener last. He went down with the ship. He did not leave her. I saw Captain Savill help his boat's crew to clear away his galley. At the same time the captain was calling to Lord Kitchener to come to the boat, but owing to the noise of the sea and the wind Lord Kitchener did not hear him, I think.

"When the explosion occurred, Lord Kitchener walked calmly from the captain's cabin and went up the ladder to the quarterdeck. There I saw him walking, quite collectively, talking to two of the officers. All three were wearing khaki and had no overcoats on."

Looked On. "Lord Kitchener calmly watched the preparations for abandoning the ship, which were going on in a steady and orderly way. The crew just went to stations obeyed orders and did their best to get out the boats, but it was impossible. Owing to the rough weather no boats could be lowered. Those that were got out were smashed up at once. No boats left the ship. What people on the shore thought to be boats leaving were rafts.

"Men did get into the boats as they lay in the cradles, thinking that as the ship went under the boats would float off, but the ship sank by the head, and when she went she turned a somersault forward, carrying down with her all the boats and those in them."

On Deck. "I do not think Lord Kitchener got into a boat. When I sprang to a raft he was still on the starboard side of the quarterdeck, talking with the officers. From the little time that elapsed between my leaving the ship and her sinking, I feel certain Lord Kitchener went down with her and was on deck at the time she sank.

"Of the civilian members of his suite I saw nothing. "I got away on one of the rafts, and we had a terrible five hours in the water. It was so rough that the seas beat down on us, and many men were killed by the buffeting. Many others died from the piercing cold. I was quite numb, and an overpowering desire to sleep came over us all. To keep this away we thumped each other on the backs, for the men who went to sleep never woke up again."

Worse at Shore. "When men died it was just as though they were falling asleep. One man stood upright for hours on the raft with the dead lying all around him. One man died in my arms. When we got near the shore the situation was worse. The wind was blowing on shore. The fury of the sea dashed our raft against the rocks with tremendous force. Many were killed in this way. One raft was overturned three times. I do not quite know how I got ashore, for all the feeling was gone out of me. We were very kindly treated by the people who picked us up. They said it was our worst storm they had had for years."

CLOTHING CARDS IN GERMANY SHORTLY

Indication Berlin Government is Finding Difficulty in Outfitting Troops

Amsterdam, June 15.—New clothing regulations which have been put in force in Germany prescribe that, with the exception of corsets, hats, caps, veils, suspenders and the most expensive men's suits, no more clothing may be sold until the retail dealers have furnished the government with a complete inventory of their stocks.

One-fifth of the stock on hand may then be sold until July 31, after which time no clothes on the reserved list may be sold without the production of a clothing card issued officially. No cards will be issued except to persons who produce absolute proof of their need of new clothes.

14,100 MORE TAKEN BY RUSSIANS; TOTAL STANDS AT 166,576

Czar's Forces Continue to Win Successes Over Austrians in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukowina; Fighting With Big New Guns Made by Japanese Which Use a Very Powerful Ne. Explosive

Petrograd, June 15.—The capture of an additional 100 officers and 14,000 men was announced to-day by the war office.

The Russian successes in the offensive along the southern front are continuing, the statement declares.

Added to the total of 152,476 announced officially yesterday, the 14,100 announced to-day bring the total number captured up to 166,576.

London, June 15.—A dispatch to the Central News from Petrograd says that much of the effectiveness of the Russian artillery in the great drive in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukowina is due to the use of big Japanese guns. These guns are said to be more powerful than any that the Russians have had heretofore and are charged with shells filled with a new explosive, the destructive power of which is terrific.

CANADIAN GUNS DID THEIR FULL SHARE

Troops Praise Artillery for Fine Work Southeast of Zillebeke

London, June 15.—(By F. A. Mackenzie.)—Every returning Canadian soldier last week foretold of the tremendous attempt to recapture the trenches southeast of Ypres.

"Maybe we'll be wiped out," they said, "but we'll have those trenches back first."

The majority believed the recapture possible only at a heavy cost. However, victory was obtained on Tuesday far more rapidly and with far fewer casualties than any had dared to hope.

The Canadian boys had a fortnight's great strain, some companies being 12 days together in the trenches awaiting the moment for the advance. The Canadian artillery fire has improved so greatly that the Canadian artillerymen's boasts, which I recently reported, was more than justified. The guns continuously poured an almost overwhelming fire on the Germans.

Wet and Dark.

"On Tuesday night the weather became favorable for an advance stormy, wet and dark. The guns suddenly 'strafed' the Germans tremendously, overwhelming their new front and wiping out every attempt at defensive work, making it impossible for the German machine gunners to fire or the German infantrymen to show themselves. Suddenly the Canadians rushed up. The Canadian artillery fire was so exactly timed that it covered the German trenches until immediately before the charging ranks of Canadians arrived.

Burning for revenge, burning to wipe out their losses, the Canadians were in the German lines, bombing, bayoneting, shooting, in one wild, terrific, irresistible rush. Some of the Germans fought desperately. They had no time to employ machine guns. Bombs replied to bombs. Other Germans staggered, stunned by the Canadian advance and firing, and yielded more easily. Within an hour the main points, particularly the Serrel Hill observatory and the ridge south of the Sanctuary wood, were in the hands of the Canadians. Commanding Position. Hooge village was not attacked. The capture of Serrel Hill is particularly important as it is a commanding position from which the Germans could pour a dominating fire upon large parts of the Canadian line. The condition of the ruined captured trenches showed that the Germans had been driven in an attempt to retain them. The Canadian artillery fire made it impossible for them to remove their stores or construct effective earthworks during the whole time they held them."

The fighting on Tuesday night is another proof of the dominance of artillery in this campaign. Nothing could have been better than the spirit, the impetus and the fierceness of the attack, but the infantrymen themselves were the first to admit they owed their success largely to the preparatory work of the guns.

Less Activity.

It is still an open question whether the authorities will consider it worth while to hold the recaptured trenches except as ground for the big advance. The Germans during the past few days suddenly lessened their activities upon

CRITICAL STAGE IN IRISH NEGOTIATIONS

Ulster Unionists Demand Final Exclusion of Six Ulster Counties

New York, June 15.—A special cable to the World from London says: "The negotiations for a settlement of the Irish question have reached a highly critical stage, and there is little optimism among those engaged in them."

"In the first place the Ulster Unionists demand that the proposed settlement shall be definite and final as far as the exclusion of six Ulster counties is concerned. This attitude, if persisted in, will destroy all hope of agreement, as the purely provisional character of the proposed arrangement is only an offset offered to the Nationalists in Ulster and the other provinces for the exclusion of six Ulster counties."

John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, met the Roman Catholic bishops of Ulster and Cardinal Logue at Armagh to-day to urge acceptance of Mr. Lloyd George's scheme.

"Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, was engaged at the same time—in reasoning with his Orange followers to induce them to accept a provisional scheme."

A resolution proposed by the British Columbia association requesting the women of Canada to take some action in making preparation for the care of nurses who will return from the war zone incapacitated for work, was approved and will be forwarded to the National Council of Women.

MRS. BROWN PRES. OF TRAINED NURSES' ASSN.

Winnipeg, June 15.—Mrs. Bryce Brown, of New Westminster, was elected president of the Canadian National Association of Trained Nurses to-day. Miss Randall, of Vancouver, was elected a councillor.

A resolution proposed by the British Columbia association requesting the women of Canada to take some action in making preparation for the care of nurses who will return from the war zone incapacitated for work, was approved and will be forwarded to the National Council of Women.

the western front both around Verdun and on the northern front. It is uncertain whether this suspiciously sudden quietness indicates a withdrawal of troops to strengthen the Austrian line against the Russian advance or a fresh concentration for a surprise attack on other positions in France and Belgium. News reaching here from every part of the British lines proves the British never more ready to resist a great attack or attempt a big offensive than now.

French opinion, after a spell of pessimism concerning Verdun, is growing hopeful again through the permanent retention of the city against all the German attacks. The military situation is more hopeful than for many weeks past.

MORE POINTS TAKEN IN GERMAN E. AFRICA

London, June 16.—The British column which is advancing into German East Africa along the seaboard has occupied several more towns. A report from Lieut.-General Smuts says that on June 13 this force reached Makuyuni. Wilhelmstahl has been occupied and Tanga cleared of enemy forces.

British forces operating on Lake Victoria Nyanza have captured the German islands of Ukerewe, which constitute an important point for an attack on Muanza, the principal German town on the southern shore of the lake.

WILSON NOMINATED FOR THE PRESIDENCY

St. Louis, June 16.—President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall were nominated by acclamation last night by the Democratic national convention. To President Wilson's nomination there was only one dissenting vote, Robert Emmett Burke, of Illinois, who came to the convention declaring that he was opposed to the president. His vote technically made the president's nomination 1,091 to 1.

Costumes of Perfect Quality and Cut

To the discriminating lady our unrivalled facilities for the production of costumes which embody the latest and most becoming modes of the season will appeal strongly. We can assure you the satisfaction that ready-to-wear clothing does not guarantee, and which can only be had from the highest grade European tailors. The best costumes made by Chinese tailors are, in both quality and cut, distinctly Oriental—a fact so obvious as to defy contradiction.

NEW DAILY PAPER IN FRENCH IN ATHENS

Athens, June 16.—A third daily newspaper in French has been launched in Athens, devoting itself largely to the Serbian interests. It is called The Flag, and appears in the evening, in competition with "Baron Schenck's" German propaganda newspaper, also in French, the Athens Gazette. The French morning paper is regarded as one of the best in Greece—the Athens Messenger. It is edited by a woman, Miss Jeanne A. Z. Stephanopolis, daughter of A. Zannettaki-Stephanopolis, who founded the paper in 1876.

MACDONALD STRONGER THAN WHEN ELECTED

Unanimous Vote of Confidence Passed by Vancouver Liberal Executive

BOWSER'S EFFORTS ONLY BOOMERANG FOR HIMSELF

Remarkable Ovation for Able Liberal; Prosecution of Wrong-doers

Vancouver, June 16.—With ringing cheers as the members stood in a splendid front of harmony, the executive of the Vancouver City Liberal Association last night passed unanimously by a vote of confidence in M. A. Macdonald, the city's Liberal representative at the last session of the late legislature, against whom the Bowser machine engineered a gigantic conspiracy, and reaffirmed its unbounded faith and confidence in the whole Liberal ticket. If anybody had been misled by the efforts of the government press to inspire an expectation that there would be a split in the Liberal ticket, his mind would have been thoroughly disabused of the illusion had he been in attendance at last night's session, which was remarkable not only for the harmony displayed, but for the strength of the demonstration of enthusiasm for M. A. Macdonald when his name was mentioned.

The executive also declared its satisfaction at the prosecution of Peter Annance and its approval of vigorous prosecution of any others against whom evidence of wrong-doing in the by-election can be produced.

RESOLUTIONS

The resolutions passed were as follows:

"Be it resolved that this executive of the Vancouver Liberal Association, in meeting assembled, do herewith reaffirm its unbounded confidence in our member, M. A. Macdonald, and his associates of the Vancouver City Liberal ticket, and do place on record our high appreciation of the untiring services rendered by Mr. Macdonald to our respected leader, H. C. Brewster throughout three strenuous months of seasonal activities, in their endeavors to provide for the future, correct many faulty enactments of the past, while at the same time exposing the unprecedented maladministration of the late top-heavy Bowser-McBride government in its awful extravagances with the hard-pressed taxpayers' moneys and the exploitation of the natural resources of this richly endowed province."

"And be it further resolved that in view of the tremendous majorities given our leader and his able lieutenant at the late by-elections in the two most populous cities of this province, we are encouraged to await in confidence the coming appeal to the provincial electorate and hereby renew our pledge of our unceasing efforts to that end that we may place in control of our provincial affairs men holding the public confidence of those outside as well as inside the boundaries of British Columbia."

WRONG-DOING

"Whereas reflections are being made on the Vancouver City Liberal Association for the actions of John T. Scott and those employed with him at the recent by-election in the city of Vancouver;

"And whereas, any illegal acts which John T. Scott committed were entirely outside and apart from the duties for which he was engaged;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this association go on record as repudiating absolutely all such operations of John T. Scott and those employed by him at the said by-election;

"And be it further resolved that this association, reciting its satisfaction at the prosecution of Peter Annance and its hearty approval of the vigorous prosecution of any other person or persons against whom evidence of wrong-doing in the said by-election can be secured;

"And be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the leader, H. C. Brewster, and all Liberal candidates and district associations throughout the province."

OVATION FOR MACDONALD

When M. A. Macdonald was called upon to speak applause greeted him which for a continuous demonstration some said exceeded anything ever heard in this city at a political gathering; while for noise, when he concluded a speech full of fight and confidence, the demonstration was limited only by the number there.

The resolution of confidence was offered immediately following the conclusion of the fighting speech. It was by far the most splendid speech Mr. Macdonald ever made in this city. Those who know his quiet, collected speech-making form, were carried away with the change in him, for he was not only eloquent, but fiery, in a terrible denunciation of the methods which had been used in an effort to besmirch his character. His remarks frequently were interrupted by bursts of applause. Other speakers made reference to the dauntless attempt to ruin the character of the man the Liberals and the Conservatives opposed to the Bowser methods had elected by such an overwhelming majority, and the temper of the gathering was for Macdonald, first, last and all the time.

Mrs. Griffin Spoke.

Following the unanimous adoption of the resolution of confidence, Mrs. W. H. Griffin, president of the Women's Liberal Association, made it known to the gathering that women two weeks ago had expressed a resolution along similar lines, and a copy, she thought, had been sent to the executive to be read at the meeting at which she was speaking. A copy had been sent to H. C. Brewster, the Liberal leader; to Mr. Macdonald and to the premier also. When she told that one had been sent to Premier Bowser, the irony of it, in light of Mr. Bowser's activities against Mr. Macdonald, struck the gathering as decidedly humorous, and the good lady did not quite gather, for a moment, what the laughter was about.

Further Investigation.

The executive stated its attitude unequivocally with regard to John T. Scott or any others who had to do with the plugging operations which it had been alleged were carried on in the by-election, and went on record as not only repudiating such methods as attributed to young Scott, but voiced a determination to pursue further the investigation the Liberals started; to the end that the interests behind Scott be found out and punished.

Electors Know.

At the conclusion of the routine business, L. V. Rogers, candidate of the Liberals in South Okanagan, and F. R. deHart, president of the Liberals of the Okanagan district, made brief addresses brimming with confidence and faith in Mr. Macdonald. Each made it clear that throughout the interior the electors appreciate the fact that the efforts to besmirch the successful Vancouver Liberal was a deep-laid plot which would prove a boomerang against the Bowser party. They expressed, too, their pleasure at the unanimity of the meeting and spoke optimistically of the outlook in the Okanagan, where they were confident all the Liberal candidates will be successful. Mr. Rogers likened the Bowser plot to blacken Mr. Macdonald's reputation to the submarine warfare of the Germans.

The resolution of confidence was proposed by Fred Fraser, J.P., and seconded by Alex. Henderson, K.C., that repudiating Scott and his methods was proposed by W. H. MacInnes and seconded by G. Roy Long, President Charles E. Campbell occupied the chair.

RECRUITING SYSTEM IS TO BE CHANGED

All Provinces May Be Represented at Another Ottawa Conference

Ottawa, June 16.—The probabilities are that some time will elapse before any definite changes are authorized in the system of recruiting in Canada which would reduce industrial conditions both in the factory and on the farm. As stated by Sir Robert Borden at the conference with the members of the war committee of the Ontario legislature, the matter will be taken up with the various provinces and in all probability a general co-operative plan will be worked out. No time will be lost, as the government realizes that some change must be made, but it is realized that it will take some time to ascertain the views of all the provincial governments. It is not improbable that there may be another conference at the capital at which all the provinces will be represented.

HOW PORTUGAL IS HANDLING GERMANS

Those Interned Are in Azores; Only Few Classes Left in Republic

Lisbon, June 16.—The last of the Germans ordered expelled under the decree of the government have left Portugal. Those ordered interned have been sent to the Island of Terceira, one of the Azores group. This island has been placed under the military command of the governor of the Azores, and he has adopted the measures necessary to maintain order there. The ministry of foreign affairs and the police officers for some days have been devoting their entire attention to Germans in distress, Germans anxious to deny their Teutonic nationality, Portuguese women married to Germans and hence affected by the government's mental decree, and aged German women who have been employed for years as servants in Portuguese families.

With the Germans, a great many Austrians and Turks have been expelled. Large and important firms have been forced to discontinue business, and a number of factories have closed.

Discovery has been made of faulty machinery on some of the German steamships which the government requisitioned. Machine experts and operatives have reached here from England to effect repairs, and a British naval mission and other British government representatives have arrived.

ATLIL WAS VISITED BY FIRE YESTERDAY

Nearly Destroyed; Blaze Started in Royal Hotel; Number of Buildings Demolished

Attila, B. C., June 16.—Attila was nearly destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire started in the Royal hotel while a southerly wind was blowing. The following business houses were demolished: Royal hotel and adjoining store and stable, owned by Louis Schulze; E. L. Pillman's general store, Macintosh & Dickinson's grocery store, T. A. James's drug store, Jules Eggert's jewelry store, J. B. Kerahan's hardware store, Mrs. Dunlop's restaurant and a number of smaller buildings.

The government buildings were all saved. The new White Pass hotel, in course of erection, narrowly escaped destruction.

On May 23, two years ago, Attila met with a similar disaster.

ITALIAN BOYS BEING TRAINED AS FARMERS

Rome, June 16.—Boys' farm colonies as one means of providing for the future cultivation of Italy's soil and for the employment of the orphans of farmer-soldiers killed in war, are being established throughout the country districts of Italy. The colonies are being organized by a society, founded especially for this purpose under a plan drawn up by the National Institution of Agricultural Mutual Insurance. No fewer than twelve such colonies now are being founded.

Boys from the ages of 7 to 15 years are being taken into these schools, where they will be kept at an annual expenditure each of $100, the funds to be furnished in part by the districts where the farms are maintained. The plan is to keep the boys on the farms until 21 years of age. They will be taught cattle raising, breeding of silk worms, rotation of crops, treatment of the soil and use of modern agricultural machinery.

After the age of 21 it is planned to set up the boys as independent farmers by the sale of lands and equipment to them on favorable terms.

DRINKING IN HOMES IN LONDON INCREASING

London, June 16.—Drinking in the homes is growing, and there is an increase of excess among those women who drank before the war, according to a report by a committee of prominent women which has investigated the subject.

Remedial suggestions offered include more drastic restrictions as to the distribution and canvassing for the sale of liquor, the withdrawal of the proposal that the wives of sailors and soldiers should not be arrested for drunkenness, except after a first or

The Dutch also are reported to be indulging in food riots. As a people of great forethought the Hollanders should have conserved their food supply instead of selling vast quantities of it to the Germans at high figures, then when the allied embargo was applied against imports obviously intended to be exported to the hungry Huns they would have been secure against want. Perhaps the Dutch expected the "Emperor of the Atlantic" and his vaunted "High Seas Fleet" to give them timely assistance in case of extremity.

Russia has increased her Austrian lag to more than 160,000 men, with articles of war too numerous to mention. And Bethmann-Hollweg says "we are now stronger on all fronts than ever we were before." Possibly the Teutons are releasing their men in droves because they are unable to feed them.

The Russian roller is a powerful machine when it gets up a full head of steam. It seems almost capable of flattening out the Carpathian Mountains should it not succeed in crushing the Austrian armies against them.

"What is Americanism?" asks a contemporary, and then makes a labored effort to give its readers a satisfactory definition. "Pork and Patriotism," suggests a reader who believes in the virtues of condensation.

Discussing the Huns' claim of a great victory in the Battle of Jutland, a New York paper points out that it is only in yacht races that a contest is won by running away.

THE GRAVE.

They dug his grave by lantern light,
 A nameless German boy;
 A remnant from that hurried flight,
 Lost, wounded, left in hapless plight
 For carries to destroy.
 They felt the heart's slow beat,
 So calm he lay, serene and still,
 It seemed a butchery to kill
 An innocent so sweet.
 To call his mother there;
 A tear, a smile of victory—
 Then awful death proclaimed him free,
 Free from a tyrant's care:
 Somewhere a mother drops and sighs
 For tidings long delayed;
 Somewhere a sister mourns and cries
 For him who in that cold grave lies,
 Dug by the foeman's spade.

had a right to expect at the hands of the Mother Country."
 "If discontent with the present imperial relations existed in Canada beyond the chairs of a few writers aiming at sensationalism, it would surely find expression in the only body fully entitled to speak for the Canadian people—the parliament of Canada; and if there were any scheme of closer union understood by the Canadian people and desired by them, unquestionably the Canadian government and parliament would have formulated their requests for the proposed constitutional change. No such action has been taken by our parliament, or proposed by the government, for the simple reason that, apart from a few faddists, nobody in Canada is troubling himself at this time over such a question."

Sir Richard McBride is merely the business agent of this province in London. In a national sense he has no standing, and whatever he says on this or any cognate question has no more significance than the personal views of any other Canadian who may happen to be in London at this time. Sir Richard's sole preoccupation should be the justification of his appointment as Agent General for this province at the large salary of $15,000 per annum by the efficient performance of the duties attached to his office, not the assumption of the role of spokesman for the other provinces, which, by the way, have competent representatives of their own. Incidentally, it would be well to point out that the interests of British Columbia in England cannot be profitably promoted by speeches of this sort. The British people are never favorably impressed by either bluster or gallery play.

CHURCH UNION.

When the greatest of all wars is but a memory or a matter of history the news topic of importance in Canada probably will be the union of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. For the General Assembly of Presbyterians now in session in Winnipeg has been making history. It has decided by a decisive majority in favor of union upon a basis which has been under discussion for several years. There is a strong and determined minority firmly opposed to union, chiefly, we surmise, upon sentimental grounds, and even in this prosaic age sentiment is a factor not to be despised. The "dissenters" we trust they will not object to the term—claim that the unionists by their action have lost their identity, that they (the minority) constitute the General Assembly and automatically enter into possession of all the temporalities of the church. They will defend their position by appeals to the courts and to the legislatures. Consequently there are possibilities for a "bonnie fecth" and a dour in the situation. The men who constitute the Presbyterian Church, like their fathers before them, are not of the metal to yield on a point of principle. As a purely secular institution we believe the Times is in position to take a perfectly dispassionate view of a situation which would be intensely interesting if it were not overshadowed by the vastly more dramatic and important drama occupying the stage in Europe. Consequently, from this detached vantage point it may not be out of order to point out that the trend of human events seems to favor the unionists. Even in the old home of Presbyterianism the tendency towards unity has proved irresistible. We can remember the time when the church there was divided into a considerable number of bodies or factions: There were the Established, the United, the Free, the Wee'Free, the Camefoun, the Auld Licht and other churches. And most of them despised one another with a fervor characteristic of their day and generation. Now the scattered sheep are either gathered or are being gradually gathered into one fold. Whether it be for good or ill, men are becoming more liberal and tolerant in their views upon even theological subjects. In essential things the Presbyterians and Methodists are not so far apart that union upon a broad basis should be impossible. That the union will be consummated we do not doubt; that the consequences of the union of two of the strongest denominations in Canada will have a far-reaching effect for good hardly anyone will deny.

GALLERY PLAY.

Under the caption "Unwise Speaking in London," a recent issue of the Montreal Journal of Commerce devotes some attention to a rather absurd performance of Sir Richard McBride in London a few weeks ago. Our contemporary says:
 Some of the Canadian representatives abroad might do well to remember the old maxim respecting the unwisdom of too much speaking. A London cablegram reports that at a reception given a few days ago to representatives of the Overseas Dominions the new Agent-General of British Columbia, Sir Richard McBride, in referring to Imperial problems, "went so far as to hint that if the Overseas Dominions were not treated as they had a right to expect at the hands of the Mother Country, the solidarity of the Empire would be endangered." In thus speaking Sir Richard was repeating with increased emphasis something that had been said a few weeks before on a similar occasion by Sir George Perley, the acting High Commissioner for Canada. We are certain that the public will agree with us when we say that such intemperate utterances as those attributed to Sir Richard at any time do not represent any considerable volume of public opinion in any part of Canada. They imply a discontent with the present British connection. No such discontent exists. It is one thing to desire that all parts of the British Empire shall be brought into close relations. Every patriotic British subject must entertain that wish and be willing to listen with interest to every proposal that may be offered—at a proper time—for the furtherance of that good end. But it is a very different thing—and we think a very reprehensible thing—for men in official position to threaten the British government and people with pains and penalties unless they adopt some scheme of union which nobody has ever been able to put into definite form. Discussion of that kind, which would be regrettable at any time, is particularly open to censure when used in the midst of a great war, when the energies of British statesmen are properly employed in the great work of saving the Empire, rather than in fanciful schemes for reorganizing it.
 One is not surprised to learn from the cable report that, following Sir Richard McBride, Sir Charles Lucas expressed regret at the remarks of the British Columbian Agent. Sir Charles Lucas is an old Colonial Office man, now retired, of great ability and wide experience. Probably no man in England is better able to understand the Imperial problems. In terms very polite and complimentary to Canada, describing this country as the "Princely Kingdom of the Dominions," he intimated that if Canada desired any constitutional change she should give a lead, should make overtures. Sir Charles, an accomplished author and experienced man of affairs, knew well how to make his point quietly and smoothly. Translated into blunter English, his speech meant that if Canada desired constitutional changes so much that she must ask for them in this time of crisis, the least that Englishmen should expect was that Canada should find out what she wanted and put her desire into some definite, intelligible and official form. When Canada has done this and her requests have been refused by the government and people of the United Kingdom, it will be time enough for her agents to go into the London clubs to threaten the Imperial authorities concerning what may happen "if the Overseas Dominions were not treated as they whose combinations and calculations are worked out with unerring precision and accuracy. It was the genius of Alexieff which saved the Russian armies in Poland from annihilation last summer, and we doubt if the annals of war have produced a more masterly achievement. All men make mistakes, but those that may be attributable to the great brain of the present Russian chief of staff will be few and far between.

THE YPRES SALIENT.

Not only did Sir Sam Hughes recommend to Earl Kitchener the abandonment of the Ypres salient but, according to a statement issued by the Prime Minister, the Canadian government inquired of the general staff as to the importance of the position and the necessity of holding it.

This correspondence is something the Canadian people will desire to forget after the war is over. Not only does it question the military judgment of the greatest soldiers of Britain and France but in itself is unworthy of the Dominion. The Ypres salient was a vital part of the line in the conflict in Flanders in 1914, which ranks with the battles of the Marne and Verdun as the greatest struggles on the western front, and its retention has cost probably more than a quarter of a million French and British losses. In her various futile attempts to capture it and gain command of the communications with the coast Germany has had over half a million casualties.

Canada has suffered grievously in holding her share of this ground, but no more grievously than Australia and New Zealand did at Gallipoli. Indeed she has suffered as much. Yet neither the ministers of defence nor the governments of those two dominions recommended or inquired as to the feasibility of the abandonment of the enterprise. There is nobody in the Canadian government or anywhere else in Canada qualified to tender advice to those who are in supreme charge of the allies' operations in the west. The army council, which includes General Joffre, General de Castelnau, Sir William Robertson and Sir Douglas Haig, will do what is best in all circumstances.

THE PETROGRAD OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION

To-day reports the capture of 14,000 more enemy troops, which swells the total number of prisoners taken since June 4 to over 166,000. The sectors in which this last batch was captured are not specified; in fact Petrograd again has thrown a screen over the advances of the last two or three days. It is altogether likely, however, that these prisoners belong to the bag which has fallen to General Letchitsky's army along the Pruth. As was expected, the rapid advance of this force, has compelled the Austrians to evacuate Czernowitz and to retire over a circuitous route towards the Carpathians. Had they lingered at Czernowitz a few days longer the best avenue of retreat would have ceased to be of any practical concern to them.

The Austrian army charged with the protection of Bukovina thus has been cut off from the Teutonic forces operating in Galicia from the Dniester northward. Through the breach Letchitsky can now advance north-westward and threaten the flank and rear of the Teutonic forces which have been guarding the various avenues of approach to Lemberg. These troops have been putting up a stiff resistance from the Dniester near Bucacz, to the vicinity of Tarnopol, forty-five miles north of it and east of Lemberg, but they must now abandon those positions or they will find themselves caught by the Russian nippers. Should the Russians reach Kolomena, the point west of Czernowitz where the main railroad turns to Lemberg, it is impossible to see how the Teutons can expect to make a serious fight for the Galician capital. It is reported that they are preparing to evacuate Lemberg. This is likely to be correct, for Lemberg is commencing to bear the same relation to the situation of the Teutonic southern armies as Warsaw bore to the Russians last summer when the threat at both their flanks forced them rearwards. If the Russians have captured 166,000 Teutonic soldiers, the enemy's total casualties cannot be less than 200,000, and before the fugitives have reached a line favorably situated for a stand they will probably amount to considerably more.

With this loss in man power they have had to abandon enormous accumulations of war material of all sorts, and thus in every respect they are hopelessly inferior to their assailants.
 General Brusiloff, who is in chief command of the group of Russian armies operating between the Pripiet and Bukovina, is noted in Russia for the vigor and persistency of his attack and his boldness in the employment of his forces. In this he resembles von Hindenburg and von Mackensen. He is a cavalry officer by training, and the speed with which his blows are followed up indicates that he is making full use of the hardy Cossacks, of whom he commands vast numbers. He was associated with General Ruzsky in the brilliant campaign in the beginning of the war which resulted in the conquest of most of Galicia and the demoralization of Austria's first line army. Much of the success of that campaign, as well as of the present drive, is due to the study he and Ruzsky made of the topography of Galicia long before the present war broke out. But if cavalry is Brusiloff's favorite arm, no Russian general knows how to handle artillery with greater effect. The terrible concentration of metal, the barrage fire behind the enemy's trenches, the hurling forward of masses of fierce bayonet fighters, such as the Russians are well known to be, followed by the swift onslaughts of hordes of Cossacks, had a demoralizing effect upon the war-sick enemy, who showed it by surrendering in whole divisions. And behind Brusiloff is Alexieff, Russia's master strategist, a man of towering intellect, a mysterious chief of whom little is seen, but

DOLLAR DAY AT THE "HOMADE" STORES

Our "Special" for last Dollar Day was completely sold out long before closing time. And remember, this was not because we had failed to make what we thought sufficient preparation. The fault lay in our too modest forecast of the business we expected to transact. Which all goes to prove that the public appreciates the excellent of "Homade" dainties.

To-morrow we will be amply prepared—but call early, nevertheless.

DAMAGED BY FIRE

Two Rooming Houses on Langley Street Suffer in Blaze Last Evening.

As a result of a fire which occurred last evening at the Langley and Angel rooms, adjacent premises on Langley street, about $3,500 to $4,000 of damage was done. The worst sufferer was the former, which will probably have to be removed, the old building being of frame construction and coming within the A. fire limits. About $1,000 insurance is carried on the building by the owner, A. R. Wolfenden. Considerable damage was done to the interior furnishings of the Angel rooms owned by Mrs. Fred Carpe, sr., 1242 Port street.

On the Angel rooms $8,000 insurance is carried.

The cause of the fire, in the opinion of the deputy chief, was the combustion of material in a storeroom. Several streams were required to control the outbreak, which broke out soon after 5 o'clock. The damage was chiefly done through what is known as a "face" fire, that is, where, with windows and doors open, it spread rapidly, and thereby caused much damage to the interior. Mr. Wolfenden said he did not know to-day if the Langley rooms would have to be reconstructed, the decision being pending the appraiser's report.

Will Confer Degrees.—Victoria Royal Scarlet Chapter will meet to-night at 8 o'clock in the Orange hall, when degrees will be conferred on Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanichton members. A large turnout of Sir Knights is earnestly requested.

Social Evening at Y. M. C. A.—The "Giants" Club of the Y. M. C. A. will entertain their sisters to-night at the first "Brother and Sister" social evening to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building at 7:30. The programme will consist of games in the gymnasium, stunts and a display in the swimming tank, and a play entitled the "Black Hand." Refreshments will be served and musical selections will be presented by the Giants Club band.

Bank Clearings.—The bank clearings for the week ending June 15 totalled $1,251,781.

Vancouver Pastor Will Preach.—Rev. R. W. Collins, of Vancouver, is spending a few days in Victoria, and will preach at St. Columba church on Sunday morning.

Winner of Lingaria.—The lucky ticket in connection with the raffle of a nightgown held at the Nurses' Club garden party at "Cloverdale" on Tuesday is 171. The holder of this ticket is asked to communicate with Miss Harty, secretary of the club.

Sale of Home Cooking.—St. Andrew's Presbyterian church tea and sale of home cooking will be held in the lecture room to-morrow afternoon from 3 to 4. There will be on sale home-made bread and buns, cakes, pies and all sorts of good things to eat.

A. Belanger asks for your patronage at his new address, Delhi Cafe.

New Thought Lectures.—Dr. T. W. Butler will speak at the New Thought temple, corner Pandora and Blanshard streets, on Sunday, at 11 a. m. Subject, "Practising the Presence of God;" 3 p. m. subject, "The Psychology of Health, Happiness and Prosperity." The public are invited.

To Hold Sale of Work.—The Ladies' Guild of St. Mary Magdalene church, Gosworth road, will hold a sale of work and garden party on Thursday, June 29, from 2:30 until 5 o'clock. A concert will be held in the church in the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. The sale of work will be continued in the evening from 7:30 till 8 o'clock and after the concert.

Sale of Work.—The Women's Guild, St. Matthias Mission, will hold a sale of work and home cooking in the form of a garden party to-morrow, 3 to 6 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. R. L. Drury, Kenilworth, 359 Powl Bay road. Tea will be served in the summer house for 15 cents. Ice cream will also be sold. The proceeds will go towards paying off the debt on the church and lot.

Court House Site.—In confirming the assessment of a number of lots around the new court house site, Blanshard avenue and Collison street, Alderman Johns alluded in the civic court of revision yesterday afternoon to the serious effect the high price paid for the site had on that district, after it became known that the government had made a large outlay for the site. He pointed out that property was held at a far higher figure than it could ever expect to be sold, and land which could readily have changed hands during the boom, failed to find a purchaser thereafter. He spoke feelingly, as an owner of lots in the vicinity.

Garden Fete To-morrow.—All is in readiness for the garden party and fete at the residence of Miss Gilbert, corner of Lansdowne and Cadboro Bay road, Upplands, to be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of First Presbyterian church to-morrow afternoon and evening. With the prevailing fine weather a large attendance is expected. The beautiful and spacious grounds, very attractive in themselves, have been decorated and every arrangement possible made for the comfort as well as the entertainment of the guests. Those attending can reach the grounds by the Upplands car, getting off at Lansdowne road, and motorists should proceed by Cadboro Bay road.

Timber Sales.—Tenders are being asked by the forest branch of the department of lands for the purchase of two timber licenses. License X491 covers the cutting of 4,218,000 feet of Douglas fir, cedar, hemlock and balsam and 65 cords of cut shingle-bolts on an area adjoining Lot 1907, Jervis inlet, and two years will be allowed for the removal of the timber. License X492 permits the cutting and taking of 216,000 feet of dead and down cedar and Douglas fir and 500 cords of shingle bolts on an area adjoining Pre-emption Record 165, on Powell lake.

Snow Still Deep.—A. O. Wheeler, who is at present at Banff, has written to friends in Sidney this week that the spring is only just beginning in that part of the mountains, where none but the earliest flowers are out in the woods. Last week Mr. Wheeler made an effort to get to the site of the Alpine camp to be held by the club this year in the Bow valley below the Massive range, near Banff, from July 13 to July 31. But the horses got stuck in four feet of snow. The weather is warm in the mountains as well as on the coast, however, and there is little doubt that the road will be open by this time.

Sidney Pastor Leaves.—Rev. J. Wesley Miller, pastor of North Saanich Methodist church, was, with Mrs. Miller, the guest of honor at a farewell social held last Friday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. Prister, Sidney. Mr. Miller has been appointed to a Vancouver charge, and left Sidney this week for the mainland to assume his new duties. Mrs. Miller has been active in patriotic and social work in the community, and was particularly well known in the former capacity as honorary secretary of the Allies Chapter, I. O. O. E., who are sorry to lose her capable services. The new pastor, Rev. A. E. Stephenson, has arrived in Sidney, and he and Mrs. Stephenson were given a cordial welcome by the ladies' aid of the Methodist church on their arrival. Mr. Stephenson will conduct services in the different churches in his circuit next Sunday.

AT THE THEATRES

ROYAL VICTORIA.

Following her marvellous performance in the dual title role of the adaptation of "The Prince and the Pauper," the first of the inimitable Mark Twain works to be transferred to the screen as a feature, Marguerite Clark appears as the star in the presentation of a popular theatrical success "Mice and Men," which is the attraction at the Royal Victoria again to-night and to-morrow.

"Mice and Men," which was written by Madeleine Lucette Ryley, was first presented at the Royal Academy in Manchester, England. In 1903 the tremendous success of the initial production led to its appearance in London at the Lyric where Sir Johnston and Lady Gertrude Forbes-Robertson secured a great hit in this happy combination of comedy and pathos. The play enjoyed the unique distinction of a twelve months' run. Annie Russell, the distinguished actress, starred in "Mice and Men" at the Garrick theatre in New York in the season of 1903, which marked the first presentation of the play on the American continent.

The talented little star has among her supporting cast such distinguished players as Marshall Neilan, Clarence Handyside, Charles Waldron and Robert Conville.

On the same programme is a picture of the convocation at the British Columbia University and the annual May Day Festival at New Westminster, also a picture of Canada's immense lumbering industry, the programme being finished off with the last chapters of the serial story, "The Goddess."

PANTAGES THEATRE.

Inconsiderable circumstances often lead to important careers. This may be truer of stage people than others, but it is true enough of two very conspicuous comedians on the American stage to-day. This inconsiderable circumstance was no small matter either, to Al and Harry Jolson, for it meant a great deal more brilliant in their near pants pocket than was possessed by any of the other "newsies" of their set.

"People set into the amusement and show business by a variety of routes," says Harry Jolson, the widely-known blackface singing comedian, who is a big hit on the Pantages bill this week, "but I believe I can show a combination of circumstances which possesses a trace of the unusual.

"My home city is the site of the factory of the famous 'pork barrel' industry, and the recreation place for senators and representatives from every state in the United States—Washington, D.C. When Al and I were very young and tender we used to sell papers on the streets of the capitol.

We soon discovered that, by dispensing a little song with the sale of our wares our business could be made more profitable. "Pennies by the hundreds, and nickles and dimes and now and then well, nothing is to be gained by discussing salaries these days when the standard of measurement is the miserable income of my contemporary Charles Chaplin."

Harry Jolson is one number on a bill of exceptional acts at the Pantages this week. Webber's Melodyphians is an unusual headline feature act. They are a group of clever musicians who versatility extends to a complete line of stringed instruments embracing violin, piano, harp, mandolin, mandola, zither, phone and ukulele, the national instrument of Hawaii.

The Five Sullys present a fine comedy skit called "The Information Bureau." Butler Haviland and Alice Thornton contribute a dainty and attractive comedy sketch, Hanlon and Hanlon open the show with a harlequin acrobatic turn, and Fiddes and Swaine are delightful singers.

The new Famous Players photodrama, "The Innocent Lie," by Lois Zellner, with Miss Valentine Grant, the sweet little screen star, as Nora O'Brien, appear at Dominion. The exquisite exterior scenes were pictured on the island of Bermuda, where Miss Grant and a well selected cast under the leadership of Director Sidney Olcott had gone expressly for this production.

Nora O'Brien, who arrives in America with the intent of finding her brother and delivering a note for a friend of hers, is injured in a street brawl. Believing her to be the expected relative of the family addressed in the note, she is conveyed to them. The Winters, not having ever seen their little Irish cousin, welcome her as their own. Mrs. Winters and her two sons, Teddy and Egan, are attentive to "Cousin" Nora, who persists in her plea that she is not their cousin. Thinking that the lie is not their cousin's, all her protests go unheeded. After a while Nora becomes accustomed to her enjoyable surroundings and rejoices in the fact that her identity remains only in the forgotten past. Her daring rescue of Teddy, the youngest of the family, establishes her more firmly in their hearts. Her brother, a notorious thief, plans to rob the wealthy Winters. By remarkable strategy he secures the position of chauffeur in the family; here the first meeting in America of sister and brother takes place. Suspicious and thrilling adventures follow.

Valentine Grant, by her splendid portrayal of these trying situations, creates a new dramatic character on the motion-picture stage. Credit enough cannot be given the notable direction of Mr. Olcott, and the cast which supports her so admirably, which includes such popular photoplayers as Robert Cain, Hunter Arden, Jack J. Clark and Morris Foster.

There were remarkably good congregations at St. Barnabas church at all the services held yesterday in connection with the silver jubilee of the parish. Holy eucharist was celebrated at 8 a. m., and at 11 o'clock Rev. J. W. Flinton preached on "The Power of the Holy Spirit," a subject which he amplified in a very forceful manner. There was choral evensong at 8 o'clock, when Rev. W. Baugh-Allen, of St. Paul's, Esquimalt, preached on "The Manliness of Our Saviour."

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, broom and marguerites forming a color scheme of gold and white which was very effective. A good crowd is expected at the garden party to-morrow at St. Barnabas; provided the present good weather continues. The fete is to be opened with music by the 103rd Battalion band, kindly lent for the occasion by Lieut.-Col. Henniker and officers of the battalion. There will also be a squad of picked men who will give a demonstration of military drill and salute the flag on the flagpole of the church. Clock and ladder golf and other pastimes will be provided for the amusement of the guests.

Capt. the Rev. Dr. Campbell last evening, at "Breadalbane," Fort Street, celebrated the marriage of Carl Delmar Edonett and Miss Evelyn Helen Withler, of Victoria. The bride, who wore a becoming traveling suit of navy blue serge, was attended by Miss Dorothy Torrance, of this city, while Griffith Kennedy acted as best man. The bridegroom is an employee of the E. & N. railway.

A very pleasant event took place Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Harris, corner of Cloverdale avenue and Douglas street, the occasion being the celebration of their golden wedding. Over 100 guests assembled to extend their heartfelt congratulations to the happy couple.

Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon and evening under the capable supervision of Mrs. C. James, sister of Mrs. Harris, and a most enjoyable time was spent by both old and young. Mr. and Mrs. Harris have spent most of their married life in Canada. Mr. Harris was born in Southampton, Eng., and Mrs. Harris was Miss Jane Harvey, Newport, Isle of Wight. They came west 25 years ago, and being charmed with the delightful climate, decided to make Victoria their home. They have five sons, one daughter, 18 grand-children and one great-grand son, all residing in Victoria.

GARDEN FETE HELD

Many Attend Pleasant Function Given in Aid of St. James Ladies' Guild Funds.

The Ladies' Guild of St. James church held a very successful garden fete yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. F. Kernode, 128 Ontario street, the event proving very popular judging by the large attendance. The pretty gardens lent themselves well to the placing of booths for the sale of needlework, candies, etc., and the sales from these netted a very gratifying sum for the guild funds. Another commodity from which the workers reaped good profits was the afternoon tea, served in the grounds under direction of Mrs. Stephens, Mrs.

Church and Miss Sorby. Mrs. Gordon Smith had charge of the ice cream sales, and with the aid of a number of young ladies succeeded in meeting the heavy demand created by the warm weather. Mrs. Pennel and Mrs. Shill had the needlework stall, while the candy booth was very ably directed by the Misses Jagers, Knight, Martlew and Croft.

The young ladies of the church took a very active part in making the affair a success, the St. Agnes Guild having charge of two tables, the proceeds from which were for their own guild funds. One of these tables was the candy stall above referred to, while a second table contained china. The Misses George and Pennel were in charge of this. There was a children's booth in charge of Mrs. Branstrom.

Mrs. Scriven in her usual happy manner opened the fete, which continued until quite late in the evening. A number of the city clergy and their wives were present, including Venerable Archbishop Sweet and Miss Sweet; Rev. W. Baugh-Allen and Mrs. Allen; Rev. E. G. Miller and Mrs. Miller. Rev. Mr. Archbold, the new rector of St. James church, and Miss Archbold were present, practically throughout the proceedings, which were thoroughly successful in their purpose of augmenting the funds of the Ladies' Guild.

HARRY JOLSON

Brother of the great Al Jolson, of "Winter Garden Fame," who is at the Pantages theatre this week.

a coin of a larger denomination became a part of our daily income, not reckoned with the sales of newspapers. Naturally some of the larger contributions came from the congressmen, who were used to thinking in big sums where government appropriations were the stake. "Now little things lead into bigger ones. With our applause came a certain amount of local reputation, and following that naturally came ambition. Ambition is a treacherous old dame, and once in her toils it is a case of fight or be lost. My first step up seemed a step back, for it involved something of a loss in income. One dollar a week and my board, with a troupe, was my first salary in the show business, but take my case now—oh,

EIGHTY DELEGATES IN CITY TO-DAY

Visit to Victoria Follows Convention of Canadian Credit
Men's Trust Association

DRIVE IN ENVIRONS FOLLOWED ARRIVAL

Effect of Restricting Credit on Mercantile Position in Province

The Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Ltd., having concluded its convention in Vancouver yesterday, to-day was set aside for the visit to Victoria. At the last moment, however, business for the branch managers developed, and it was decided that the managers of the C. C. M. A. in the various cities should come over by the evening boat, and hold a morning meeting at the Empress hotel. This meeting took place to-day, about 10 members of the party having arrived. Later by the day boat about 60 other delegates and their wives reached the city for a visit.

The convention has been a great success, and more business has been transacted than at any time at previous meetings. It was stated at its close, Wednesday being a public holiday on the lower mainland, advantage was taken to show parties of delegates the Lake Runtzen Power plant, and the Fraser Mills, of the Canadian Western Lumber Co.

The arrangements on arrival to-day will include a drive round the Saanich peninsula, by way of Gordon Head and Brentwood, and in the evening, on the return, there will be a dinner at the Empress hotel. The opportunity afforded by the drive will be taken advantage of to give the visitors an idea of the strawberry picking season at the best time for the harvesting of the berries. To-morrow there will be no definite arrangements for the delegates, who will be permitted to see the beauties of Victoria as they choose, some returning later to Vancouver, others going south to Seattle and Portland, while the remainder of the party will leave for Prince Rupert, intending to return east via the C. T. P. R.

A general sense of satisfaction is expressed with the fine weather experienced during the convention, and at the excellent arrangements made by the local British Columbia committee. The objects of this organization, which was established in 1910 with a membership of 154, are to protect the wholesale and manufacturing interests by an organization to watch credit in the mercantile industry. It has grown so that six years it embraces 1,000 members, and has branches in the important centres of Canada, being fully representative of the industrial community.

The Personnel.
The president this term is L. J. Mylius, of the National Drug & Chemical Company, Winnipeg, and the general manager is Henry Detchon, of Winnipeg, where are situated the head offices. The branch managers attending the convention include: A. E. Burns, Winnipeg; A. S. Crighton, Toronto; S. E. Diamond, Regina; F. R. Freese, Calgary; F. T. Fisher, Edmonton; J. E. Moriarity, Montreal; T. H. Sommerville, St. John, N. B.; and R. D. Dinning, who with Mr. Roy are the joint managers for British Columbia. Most of the branch managers have their wives with them.

Others in the delegation are: A. W. Adams and wife, Sanford Manufacturing Company, Winnipeg; Wm. Baxter and wife, McClary Manufacturing Company, Toronto; F. W. Black, P. Burns & Co., Ltd., Calgary; F. R. Hirden, Ashdown Company, Calgary; J. F. Clark, Hamilton; H. Y. Ferr, Lacc Goods Company, Ltd., Toronto; F. R. Frost, Winnipeg; H. P. Weeks, Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, Montreal; W. C. Wright, Wood, Vallance & Adams, Ltd., Calgary; W. R. Bottom, Revillon Wholesale, Limited, Edmonton; and W. E. Skritch, Louis Petrie, Ltd., Calgary.

Discussing the present business situation in its relation to the work of credit men, R. D. Dinning, of Vancouver, one of the B. C. joint managers, said to the Times this morning: "The stability of the province is better today from our point of view than ever. The time of unchecked credits by the wholesaler to the retailer, and extended credits by the retail storekeeper to his customer, have passed in British Columbia, and I think will not return. Now the business is coming back to a bona fide basis, and as many of the mushroom stores, which ought never to have been in business, have disappeared, the man who knows his trade is able to make a living, and is not expected to give unlimited credit to his customers, who are coming to recognize they must pay their obligations."

"The fact is shown by the decreased number of assignments in the past 12 months in British Columbia. The wholesalers do not want to force retailers into assignment, because every assignment decreases our returns, and it is on the wholesaler that the loss eventually falls, often not more than 10 per cent. of the book debts having been collectable since the depression occurred."

"We have been carrying on a campaign of education to teach the retailers to keep proper sets of books, for many small storekeepers have a hazy notion whether they are solvent or not, or at any rate, if the business is making money. We want to keep these men in business in order to facilitate distribution of supplies, and it is of mutual benefit for them to do business on a proper basis. Then at the beginning of winter we remind them of the fire hazard, and the necessity of insurance on stock, as well as in many ways educating an opinion of sound mercantile transactions. There is no doubt that very real value has resulted from the establishment of the association, and the attention given by our members to the creation of a healthy spirit of co-operation. The public also benefits in stability of business, and prevention of abuse by the unscrupulous."

"With regard to the War Relief Act, it will affect credits to some extent, for there has been abuse of the exemption, but with the greater care given to credits by the retail trade we hope to check imposition."

WOULD MOVE BOARD OF TRADE OFFICES

Claimed Necessary as First
Step in Proposed Amalgamation Plan

When the adjourned conference of the committee of the Board of Trade, the Victoria and Island Development Association, the Victoria branch of the B. C. Manufacturers' Association and the Retail Merchants' Association was called to order this morning in the board of trade room, there were nine delegates present. The conference was for the purpose of hearing the reports of the representatives of the three last named associations in regard to affiliation with the Board of Trade. There was no representative from the B. C. Manufacturers' Association, and it was stated by delegates that the Retail Merchants' Association just now is not very active. This left the discussion mainly between the Development Association and the Board of Trade.

Summing up the situation after considerable debate it was agreed that if the Board of Trade expected the others to affiliate it would have to move to a central part of the city and desert the building it had occupied for many years. As one delegate expressed it, "Mahomet has to move." Several resolutions were offered, but no action was taken until a resolution was put forward that the committee inform the executive of the Board of Trade that its members viewed with favor the possibility of amalgamation on the part of the Victoria and Island Development Association and the Retail Merchants' Association, but to bring this about it was essential that the Board of Trade offices be moved to a more central business location.

This resolution was carried, but before it was put it was explained that the Board of Trade is occupying premises owned by the Board of Trade Building Company, and the stockholders in this would suffer if the present offices were vacated. One speaker expressed the opinion that the loss would not be great and that the building might be let to some firm and eventually produce better revenue than it now does.

One of the main factors in the proposed amalgamation is the cutting of expense, but this, the commissioner of the Development Association said, could not be done in regard to his organization. At present it was being operated as economically as possible and he really needed more help. He could not see any use in moving his offices to the board of trade building, as the location would be hopeless as a tourist bureau.

Several speakers supported the plan for moving the board of trade offices, expressing the opinion that a central location was the first necessity. H. O. Kirkham advocated an early move, as the time was opportune for obtaining new premises.

Mr. Cuthbert moved that the chairman report the proceedings to the Board of Trade, with especial reference to the proposal to remove to other offices, but this, put as an amendment to the motion, did not carry.

The matter now rests until action is taken by the Board of Trade on the resolution, but meantime there is to be an endeavor to increase the membership of the organization. No date was set for another meeting.

"I'm going to decorate you for bravery, Mr. Wadleigh. Put this French war-orphan medal on your coat." "But I haven't performed any deed of heroism." "But you will when you give up twenty-five cents."

The Big Thing for Breakfast

And it's BIG in more ways than one. First, there's that wonderful flavor. The crisp, nutty granules of Grape-Nuts food combine the sweets of whole wheat with the smack of malted barley—a flavor that no mere wheat food can rival.

Next comes the remarkable digestive quality. (Malted barley contains a natural digestive element.) Grape-Nuts digests quickly, and weak as well as strong stomachs handle it comfortably.

And then comes the wonderful nourishing value. No other cereal food puts the vim and vigor into body and brain that Grape-Nuts does.

This food-standby tells its own story after trial.

SPORTING NEWS

FIRST FIGHT FOR HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

Just Twenty-Eight Years Ago Since John L. and Mitchell Battled

It was just 28 years ago that Charlie Mitchell and John L. Sullivan met on Baron Rothschild's training grounds near Chantilly, France. It was England against America, the former represented by the lithe, slender, scientific boxer, Mitchell, and the latter by the big, broad, bluff, bell-cose Irish-American, "Young" John L. Sullivan.

Now as then John L. bellowed and roared and glared as of yore, but for the most part he fought quietly. Perhaps this was because he had discovered in his previous experience with Mitchell that the little Englishman was not to be frightened by such tactics as usually scared John L.'s opponents into a blue funk, with the result that they were beaten before they had scarcely commenced. There were only two men who ever fought Sullivan who were not more or less affected by John's imitation of a bull looking at a red flag, and they were Mitchell and Corbett. Jake Kilrain was too game to be really frightened by such tactics, but at times he was angered by Sullivan's bellowing, and temporarily lost his head.

In the early rounds of the battle of Chantilly Sullivan often knocked his opponent down, and several times Mitchell had to be carried to his corner. It was soon plain to the spectators, however, that Mitchell was not badly hurt by Sullivan's blows, and that he was trying to wear the big fellow out. At the end of the thirty-ninth round the affair was called a draw, the battle having occupied three hours and eleven minutes. Neither man was badly hurt, although Sullivan kicked much the worse. John's right eye was in mourning and his lips were cut and swollen, while a thin stream of crimson poured from his nose and trickled from his mustache. Mitchell had a big bruise on his temple, but he had shed no blood. Altogether the affair was unsatisfactory to the fans who had traveled so far to see it.

GEORGE CUTSHAW HITS FREAK HOMER

Ball Hits at Bottom of Fence and Slowly Crawls Over

George Cutshaw, of the Dodgers, exuded a circuit clout against the Phillies in a game at New York, the game of which will romp down through the vales of history as the most remarkable since the game was born. It was a drive that Cutshaw made in an accidental way to start with; a sweat that sent the ball in a zigzag course to the fence, and a tatty that was sticky in the extreme, because after the ball hit near the bottom of the fence it practically crawled up to the top, fluttered there a second or so—and then dropped over. Cutshaw's ludicrous actions while the ball was deciding what it should do form the humorous chapter in this story.

The score was tied in the eleventh. When Cutshaw went to bat, facing Mayer, The Phillie pitcher heaved a slow one at the Dodger second-sacker. Cutshaw started a swing, went half way and then "tumbled" to the fact that the ball was a souter. He "pulled" his stroke, but just as he stopped he noticed that the ball was curving in, whereupon he made another swipe at it and through some freak caught it or the end of the mace.

The ball shot through the air, about ten feet above ground. It sailed just inside the right field foul line, turning and twisting as it went. To the spectators watching that ball zipping along it looked like a succession of inshoots. As it neared the fence it started to descend. It struck a board that was nailed to the bottom of the fence, but which jutted out about three feet. As the ball hit that board just where the top of this board and the fence meet, it seemed to hesitate for a fraction of a second. Then, to the utter amazement of the crowd, it climbed the twelve-foot wall, as though it had legs. Slowly, but surely, it moved upward. Finally, it reached the top of the fence. Defying the laws of gravity, it remained stationary for the barest fraction of a moment and while the 25,000 crowd stood spellbound, the ball rested for a second on top of the wall—and then rolled over into the street.

But, in the meantime, Cutshaw was performing antics that almost were as strange as those of the ball. When he rounded first, the Dodger second baseman saw that the ball was headed for the bottom of the fence—a normal two-base hit, if a player hustles. And Cutshaw hustled. He turned first under full head of steam, and slid into second in whirlwind fashion. He jumped to his feet a second later and began looking around for orders from the coaches. "Wilbert Robinson," manager of the Dodgers, was signalling something in a frantic way. Cutshaw figured that Robinson was ordering him to try for third. Cutshaw started, but when he got no sign from the other coaches, who, by the way, was too busy watching the climbing ball, he figured he had misinterpreted Robinson's signals. So Cutshaw whirled around, ran back toward second and swept into the base in a cloud of dust. Then Cutshaw jumped to his feet again and while he brushed his legs he began looking for orders—and also for the ball. But he couldn't see one or hear the other. Robinson was yelling something to Cutshaw, but it was lost in the tumult. And Robinson was waving his arms in a frenzied way. But did "Bobby mean" that Cutshaw should stay at second or go to third? Cutshaw pondered and at last decided to try the advance. Cutshaw raced for it. Half way along on his journey, the third base coach, taking advantage of the temporary lull in the cheering, shouted: "You hit a homer, George—a homer; slow down!" And then the amazing truth dawned upon Cutshaw and he walked the rest of the way to the home plate, while the huge crowd went into another frenzy of madness at this unexpected eleventh-inning victory.

FINISH WHERE HE BEGAN

Al Bridwell, for 10 years a major league shortstop, and who played in the Federal League last season, has joined the Atlanta team of the Southern League. Bridwell had several offers from Class AA minor league teams but accepted a contract with Atlanta for less money because he wanted to finish his baseball career where he started. Bridwell started his baseball career with Atlanta 13 years ago, and wants to close it there after he had rounded out 15 years. He is well fixed financially, and will retire after the 1917 season.

STECHER TO GET CHANCE AT GOTCH

Chicago, June 16.—Frank Gotch, wrestling champion of the world, has signed to meet Joe Stecher, the Nebraska marvel, in a finish match for the title. Harry Tammen, owner of the Sells-Floto circus with which Gotch is now under contract, gave out the news of the new agreement in this city. Gotch signed with Tammen the other day after a bantering match in which Tammen dared him to make the match and show that he really wanted to see which was the better man. "I'm free to sign," Gotch said, "because nobody has my signature. If you will promote the match you can have my signature right now."

MAY GO TO PORTLAND

Portland, June 16.—If Howdy Elliott and the Oakland team part company Portland fans would be surprised to see Elliott working behind the bat for the Beavers. It has been rumored for some time that the McCredies are dissatisfied with the work of Jack Roche. From remarks made by Judge McCredie, it is believed he would jump at the chance to get Elliott.

SNCHNEIDER IN GAME

Pete Schneider, formerly of Seattle, took part in a long game at Boston the other day when Cincinnati and the Braves battled sixteen innings and neither team able to score. Clarke batted for Toney in the twelfth and he hit a terrific liner which Dick Rudolph stopped with his bare hand and retired him. As there were three men on bases at the time that hit would have settled the show had it got away. Schneider took Toney's place in the box and kept up the good work. Pete allowed one hit and Toney had been found for but two in the twelve innings he was on the job.

THAT WAS LONG AGO

"Baseball certainly has changed from the old days when I first broke into a major league," remarked Napoleon Lajoie during a fanning here. "Nowadays if a pitcher is asked to warm up he has to have a brand new ball. An old ball or a slightly soiled ball will not do for him. The ball must be brand new. When I was a kid with the Phillies, the manager merely put his hand in the bag and handed out the first one he put his hand on when he wanted a pitcher to warm up. A pitcher, too, thinks he should have three or four days off after working a full nine-inning game."

CAN CANADA CONTINUE?

CATHCART'S

To Adjust Their Business to the New Conditions, Every Dollar's Worth of Merchandise in the Store

Goes on Sale Saturday

PROBABLY the greater part of the retail shoe business of Canada has heretofore been done on imported lines of High Priced American Footwear. Many of Canada's best shops have featured this class of Merchandise almost exclusively. Cathcart's is one.

But the Shoe Business is changing of late more rapidly, perhaps, than any other. Prices are climbing higher and higher every day. In many instances manufacturers are asking more to-day than the price at which the dealer formerly sold. Changing markets necessitate changes of policy by the retailer. This store proposes to keep pace with conditions, and this is a time when it realizes important changes must be made in its method of merchandising. Here is how Mr. Cathcart puts it up to me:

"As you know, most of the shoes in this store are from the highest priced American manufacturers such as Laird, Cousins, Nettleton, Hanan and others. Many of these shoes to-day cost me as high as $8.00 to $10.00 a pair to lay down in the store. Now the question is—Can I continue to buy such footwear? Can Canada continue? My business is my barometer, and my conclusion is that every shoe house in Canada handling this class of merchandise must change its policy, for the time at least. We have decided to change ours to suit conditions, and the first step requires the selling off of almost the entire present stock. Now you know what these shoes cost and what we want--GO TO IT--turn them into immediate cash. Our plans for the future have been carefully made. What we want now is our money back for the shoes on hand."

ALL EGGS ON SALE MUST BE MARKED

Regulations of New Act Are to Be Enforced at Once; the Rules

The attention of all poultry keepers who sell eggs by retail is directed to the Egg Marks Act passed at the recent session of the legislature, which requires that everyone selling first grade eggs by retail "shall cause each receptacle containing or holding such eggs to bear a placard on which shall be printed in letters not less than four inches in height the name of the province or country of origin, and the additional words 'fresh,' 'cold storage,' or 'preserved,' as the case may be; such sign or placard to be so placed that same can be readily seen by all persons desirous of purchasing eggs from such person carrying on such business," and, secondly, those offering second grade eggs shall have them similarly labelled "cooking eggs."

Farmers selling eggs in the market, as well as retailers, are warned that the inspectors are putting the act in force now, the penalty for failing to observe the law being a maximum penalty of $100.

The inspectors who have been appointed to administer the act are Chief Poultry Inspector J. R. Terry, Assistant Inspector H. E. Upton and the Markets Commissioner R. C. Abbott. The inspectors are named by the minister of agriculture under the statute. Other clauses of the act, which was introduced by Leif Mackenzie to the House last session, define preserved and Chinese eggs. Importers of eggs, or wholesale dealers, are to have all receptacles containing eggs plainly marked with the country of origin and grade. Marking of the eggs is to be done by a mark, brand, stamp, impression, or imprint made by means of a rubber stamp, stencil, or other method, and such mark shall be legible in gothic letters and in durable ink.

HAD LIVED HERE FOR FIFTY-TWO YEARS

Miss Emily Henrietta Woods Came to Victoria in 1864 From Ireland

The death occurred this morning at her home, 2938 Bouchier street, of Miss Emily Henrietta Woods. The deceased lady, who was born in Ireland 64 years ago, had lived in the city for the past fifty-two years, and had a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances among old timers and pioneers of the island.

There survive one brother, Edward Woods, of Grand Prairie, B. C.; and three sisters living in this city: Mrs. Andrew, Mrs. Tomlinson and Miss Woods.

The funeral has been arranged to take place on Monday, June 19, at 10:15 a. m. from the residence. Fifteen minutes later services will be held at St. Mary's church, Oak Bay, by Rev. M. Payne. Interment will be at Ross Bay.

SOLDIERS NOT REMOVED

In Recent Revision Names of Absent Soldiers Were Left on Voters' Lists.

Complaint is made by Sergt. George McDonald, late of 1274 Centre road, in a letter published in the morning paper, that he has been struck off the voters' list.

This is not so. A notice of objection was filed by the Liberals to the retention of this name on the list, since the man had left the city in the summer of 1914 and no trace could be got of his whereabouts at the time. Later on it was found that he had enlisted, and at the court of revision the objection was withdrawn and the name allowed to remain.

Sergt. McDonald objects to the form of the objection filed in his case. This is a statutory form and has to be followed in all cases, or else the objection would not be valid.

There has never been any wish on the part of the Liberal party or workers to disfranchise any soldier, and wide publicity was given to this fact, as well as requests to anyone who knew of a voter objected to being a soldier to notify the secretary or any member of the Liberal executive of that fact.

With the large number of names on the lists that ought not to be there, and the fact that it in some cases is impossible to find where some of the men who have left the city have gone to, and whether they have enlisted or not—a difficulty which both political parties have found—it is impossible to avoid challenging the name of an odd soldier in the course of cleaning up the lists.

At the recent revision, when some three thousand names were struck off, the agents of both parties had to withdraw objections which it was found had been made in ignorance of the man being in the ranks, and this was done willingly.

ITALIAN VESSEL SUNK.

London, June 16.—The Italian steamship Mott, of 500 tons gross, has been sunk, a Lloyds announcement today states.

"I suppose your son was well prepared for college," said the casual friend. "Yes, indeed," replied the fond mother. "The president wrote the faculty could not teach him anything, so they permitted him to come home."

HALF-HOLIDAY ACT IS SUBJECT OF INTEREST

Text of the Legislation Passed in Regard to Rest for Employees in Stores.

As there has been a good deal of inquiry as to the terms of the Weekly Half-holiday Act, and some people appear to be in some uncertainty as to whether it is obligatory in its application to adjoining municipalities, the Times publishes it in full below. Its full title is "An Act to Provide for a Weekly Half-holiday for Store Clerks," and its text reads:

His majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the legislative assembly of the province of British Columbia, enacts as follows:

1. This act may be cited as the Weekly Half-holiday Act.

2. In this act the expression "shop" includes any premises where any whole sale or retail trade or business is carried on. The expression "week" means the period between midnight on Saturday night and midnight on the succeeding Saturday night.

3. (1) On and after the first day of July, 1916, every shop shall, save as otherwise provided by this act, be closed for the serving of customers not later than one o'clock in the afternoon on one week-day in every week.

(2) This section shall not apply to any shop in which the only or principal trade or business carried on is trade or business of any of the classes mentioned in schedule A to this act.

4. (1) It shall be the duty of the respective municipal councils of the cities of Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster and they are hereby empowered and required to submit to the vote of the municipal electors qualified to vote for mayor the following questions:

(a) Are you in favor of a weekly Wednesday half-holiday?

(b) Are you in favor of a weekly Saturday half-holiday?

(2) The vote shall be taken on Wednesday, the fourteenth day of June, 1916, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and seven o'clock in the afternoon, and the procedure shall be the same as that provided for at municipal elections. The said day shall be a public holiday in each of the said cities for the purpose of this section.

(3) The voting papers shall be printed in accordance with the form in schedule B to this act, and at the close of the poll the ballots shall be counted and the result of the poll declared by the returning officer, and thereafter the weekly half-holiday in each of the said cities respectively shall be observed on the day approved by a majority of the electors as shown by the result of the poll.

(4) All costs and expenses of the voting shall be borne by the municipality.

5. (1) In all other municipalities the weekly half-holiday as respects any shop shall, subject to the provision in subsection (2) of this section, be observed on the day appointed in that behalf in any by-law heretofore passed under the provisions of the Shops Regulation Act and in force in the municipality; and if there is no such by-law or if there is no agreement for a weekly half-holiday in any such municipality, then the weekly half-holiday shall be observed on such day as may be agreed upon by the employer and the employee, and, in the event of disagreement, such day as the employer may specify in a notice affixed in the shop, but it shall not be lawful for the employer to change the day oftener than once in any period of three months without the consent of a majority of his employees.

(2) At the municipal elections to be held in January, 1917, a vote of the municipal electors entitled to vote for mayor or reeve shall be taken to determine whether the weekly half-holiday shall be on Saturday or some other day in the week, and the day approved by a majority of the municipal electors in any such municipality shall, on and after the first day of February, 1917, be the day fixed for such half-holiday in such municipality.

6. The day fixed for a weekly half-holiday on a referendum to the electors in any municipality may be altered on a referendum at any subsequent election.

7. In unorganized districts the weekly half-holiday as respects any shop shall be such day as may be agreed upon by the employer and the employee, and, in such case of disagreement, it shall be such day as may be fixed by the lieutenant governor in council.

8. It shall be the duty of every employer to whom this act applies to keep his shop closed for the serving of customers from and after one o'clock in the afternoon of the day fixed as a weekly half-holiday and during the remainder of such day, and in case of any contravention or failure to comply with this provision the employer shall be guilty of an offence against this act.

and be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding:

(a) In the case of a first offence, ten dollars;

(b) In the case of a second offence, fifty dollars; and

(c) In the case of a third or subsequent offence, one hundred dollars. Provided that nothing in this section shall render a person liable to any penalty for serving after the closing hour any customer who was in the shop at the closing hour, but no employee shall be allowed to remain on the premises after half-past one.

9. When the day immediately preceding a half-holiday is a day upon which shops may be lawfully kept open for business, it shall be lawful for the employer to keep his shop open for the serving of customers until half-past nine of the clock on the evening of such preceding day, any law or by-law to the contrary notwithstanding.

10. Where an offence for which the employer is liable under this act to any penalty or punishment has, in fact, been committed by some agent or servant of such employer, such agent or servant shall be liable to the same penalty or punishment as if he were the employer.

11. (1) When the employer is charged with an offence against this act, he shall be entitled, upon information laid by him, to have any person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge; and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the said employer proves to the satisfaction of the court that he has used due diligence to observe the provisions of this act, and that the said person committed the offence in question without his knowledge, consent or connivance, or willful neglect or default, the said employer shall be exempt from any penalty or punishment, but such person shall thereupon be summarily convicted of such offence and shall be liable to the same penalty or punishment therefor as if he were the employer.

(2) When the employer is a corporation, such information may be laid by the president, secretary, or any director, or by the solicitor of the corporation.

12. The provisions of this act shall extend to every shop, whether clerks are employed therein or not, and the owner, proprietor, or manager of a shop wherein clerks are not employed shall be liable to the penalties provided in this act in the same manner and to the same extent as if he were an employer, and the agent of such owner, proprietor, or manager shall also be liable to the same extent as if he were an agent of an employer.

Schedule A states that the following trades and businesses are exempt from the provisions as to a weekly half-holiday, namely: Those of bakers, barber shops, cigar stands, drug stores, newspaper stands, restaurants; shops or stands for the sale of fresh fruits, vegetables, soft drinks, cut flowers, and dairy products; confectionery shops, and such other trades or businesses as may be declared exempt by order in council published in the Gazette.

ANNUAL POUND PARTY HELD AT ORPHANAGE

Scores of Old and New Friends Carry Donations to "House on the Hill"

The annual pound party of the B. C. Protestant Orphanage took place yesterday afternoon at the home, and nearly two hundred people called during the day with gifts for the larder or store-rooms of the institution. Supplies of all kinds were generously contributed, staple groceries, flour, sugar, tinned meats and fruits, new materials for making clothing for the children, and liberal cash donations finding their way into the list of new assets. Old friends did not fail in their remembrances, and new ones expressed their interest in practical form.

As usual the ladies' committee had charge of the arrangements for the reception both of visitors and their donations. Mrs. McTavish, the chairman, and Mrs. McCulloch welcomed the guests as they arrived. The home was inspected by many, and some failed to express her pleasure in the neatness with which the rooms were kept and to note the happy faces of the children. The latter contributed to the afternoon programme by singing one or two of the little gies in which they have been trained by Mr. Pollard.

All the rooms were attractive with flowers. In the tea-room were quantities of broom, while the tea-table was beautiful with bowls or rose and oak leaves. As usual the ladies had provided ample refreshments.

The gifts were received in the dining-room and listed up as they arrived, and it was evident quite early in the afternoon that the tables would be laden before the close of the pound party. The ladies in charge of the listing and arranging of the donations were Mesdames W. R. Higgins, David Miller, John Langley, C. F. Tod, and Hiscocks.

In the tea-room the ladies who had

ONE GUESS AS TO THE NATION.
There is a nation that spits upon international law, upon treaties, upon pledges and agreements. It mistakes for terrifying strength, ferocity and a blind, useless maiming and killing of harmless men, women and children; children seem to be its favorite subjects for Zeppelin slaughters. On land and sea, from under the sea and from the air, it kills non-combatants as nonchalantly as an Apache of the old days would scalp a baby or dash out its brains against a doorpost. The madness for destruction which it can satisfy only in part on the monuments of Belgian and French art it feeds fast upon helpless, innocent human beings. The will to power scores all the "sentimentalities" of honor. Wherever it can it makes a breach in the walls that the nations have slowly built against the old savagery of war. It murders' right and left.—New York Times.

at the bulkheads. They looked pretty bad, hanging loose in strips. But we decided we could make it. The engines were right; nothing broken there. The periscope was true. It was only her bow-and her rudder that were gone.

"So we started back. We drove along under our own power. It was a bit of a sea, but we made it. The waves broke over the bridge and pounded on the one bulkhead we had left forward.

"And so," he said, and smiled, "we came home."

Teleperiscope.

Then he took me over his ship, and explained its mysteries to me. He took me through four compartments, each one resplendent with white paint and polished brass. He showed me the teleperiscope, lowered it, and revealed to me the grey horizon with the ships ranged against it. When I marvelled at this he turned the teleperiscope, and there flashed up before me, in a little clear image, a minute picture of men walking amidships of one of those distant vessels.

Then he explained the fine mechanism of the control room to me, and pointed out the places for the men who have certain stations in this vital compartment. I do not think that I have ever seen such delicacy of construction as I saw in this immaculate little room, and such evidence of efficiency and concentration.

Centre of the Ship's Life.

This was the heart of the ship; beyond the great watertight doors there was the engine room with the breathing pipes and white intakes overhead, and beyond another white door was the battery room. But the control room was the centre and the source of power.

When I came up on the deck I remembered this room above all the others. But the officer who was with me would not admit that one part of his ship was finer than another.

I could not blame him for this. For I looked again at her smashed bow and torn bulkheads, and I remembered that she had come some 300 miles with the heavy seas pounding her; that she had dodged the patrols; that she had sent no message asking for help. She had come back broken, battered, helpless. But the work she had been sent to do she had done.

Britain's Military Effort

Achievement Unique in All History; Record Surpassing All Others; With Possible Exception of France.

(By Hilaire Belloc.)

The war has been in progress less than two years. In that brief period of time (it will be but a flash in the eyes of history) Great Britain has produced, upon the military side of the state, an organization almost entirely novel and constructed under conditions which render it unique in all the history of war.

Unless we recognize not only the magnitude but the individuality of the effort, not only its scale, but its quality, we shall miss (to our disadvantage to-day) what posterity will certainly grasp.

When the war broke out Great Britain was able to put into the field not quite four divisions.

The full-four divisions of what we called "the Expeditionary Force" were only constituted in the progress of the fighting. Their last complementary units did not exceed the losses already suffered in the first shock, and only reached the field while the third heavy day of action was in doubt.

Even this original body, of less than four divisions, was not in line until the war had been in progress upon the Continent for more than a fortnight. It was a force of professional regulars, it represented very nearly the maximum effort which Great Britain was pledged to or had hitherto thought possible in case of a Continental campaign.

When, in the counter-offensive which began a fortnight to three weeks later, these four divisions increased to a nominal six ("nominal" because the losses of the previous fighting had so grievously depleted the units engaged) the very maximum was reached of all that had been envisaged before this war.

So matters stood when the British army in France, representing not a tenth at that moment—indeed not very much more than a twentieth—of the total allied forces in the west, came to the Aisne river and entered that second phase of the campaign to which we are still condemned: the war of trenches.

In the middle of May, 1916, exactly 20 months later, the army in the field numbers 70 divisions, so far as the effort of these islands alone is concerned. Not only are those 70 divisions kept at full strength during a campaign of unprecedented wastage, but they have behind them such

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

On Board a Mined Submarine

Shattered and Sunk and Risen Again

From the London Chronicle.

In a certain dockyard in England there is to be found a splendid tribute to the prowess of British Submarines and the skill of those who man them. It is one of the finest of his majesty's undersea boats, which, with her bow twisted and bent as the result of a collision with an enemy mine in enemy waters, covered a distance of almost 300 miles, under her own power, and arrived safely in a home port.

Through the courtesy of the British admiralty I was permitted to see this submarine and talk with her officers and her crew.

She is in harbor, with her bow-plating torn into strips and two of her torpedo tubes crushed. Her plates are crumpled; two of her bulkheads are broken away at the bow; but in her tubes are two unexploded torpedoes. Their casing is twisted and stayed in, and the rear doors of them are jammed. But the quality of the high explosive in her torpedoes and the mechanism controlling it prevented an explosion, thus saving her from total destruction.

Shattered and Sunk; Not Lost.

She struck a mine, head on. The explosion smashed two of her bulkheads, broke all glass aboard her, and sent the crew sprawling to the floor of the compartments. But her torpedoes did not explode; her motors did not stop; her dials did not fall to register. She dropped to the bottom of the sea, and the water flooded in under the doors of the torpedo tubes. But within ten minutes after the collision she had been righted, had come to the surface, and turned her nose toward home.

When I looked at her lying with her exposed tubes shining in the sunlight and her bulkheads in strips of rusty iron, it seemed incredible that she had been under the coast guns of the enemy, that she could have made in her damaged condition a journey of 300 miles, returning to a safe harbor with the information she had been sent to obtain.

And added to this was the fact that she had made the voyage in a high sea, that for 20 hours, defenceless, she evaded the enemy patrols.

Below.

I had heard stories of German submarines sunk by a single shot, so I asked one of the officers how his boat had survived the tremendous shock of a mine explosion.

"She held because of her strength," he said. "It broke her bow and it tore off two of her bulkheads. But the last one held. The efficiency of her pumps was not impaired. Within two minutes we had them working."

He asked me if I would not come below and see the marks of the disaster. So I followed him across a gangway and on to the narrow deck, which already was beginning to show red patches of rust. The hatch was open. Below I could see a white compartment with brass fittings.

I do not know what I had expected to find, but when I stood in this compartment I could see no traces whatsoever of the catastrophe. Directly in front of me were the rear doors of the torpedo tubes, painted a brilliant white; and to my right and left the great shining torpedoes were clamped in their racks. Only the wheel controlling the bow rudder was not true. The slender brass rod supporting it had suffered from the vibration.

Problem of How to Rise Again.

This was the only mark made by the mine of the enemy. Not that it was to be estimated as minor damage. For the rudders have their part to play in the rise and the dive, and it was necessary to come up from the bottom of the sea. Not a simple matter, with the rudders not under control.

"You see," one of the officers explained to me, "we didn't know what had happened—the water was spurting in and broken glass was everywhere. We didn't know how much of her was gone. We knew that every man aboard her had been knocked flat on his face, that the glass of the dials was rattling about underfoot. But we didn't know what was to become of us. We were as far down as we could be, and, as for getting up well, it didn't look like much of a chance."

"It was fine, you know, to see the crew. They got on their feet and at their stations before the commander had time to order them there. In two minutes the order to rise had gone through to the engine room, and the pumps were going. But whether we were going to rise or not remained to be seen."

"It was still enough down there, after all the noise of the explosion. You could hear the motors turning—it's not much of a sound they make. But we were glad enough to hear it. And when we saw the bubble in the clinometer was registering, and the inclination was becoming less, we knew that matters were not as bad as they might have been."

"Then they reversed the motors. We waited. That was a bad minute. Then the broken glass began to rattle about again. We were rising. 'We weren't long in getting up. At any time there's nothing like coming up into the air and sunlight after you've been under for a bit. But this was different. Yes, this was a bit different."

To The Air Again.

"We came up. In the silence room there was the noise of the wireless sparking. The operator was testing it. At any rate, we were floating. So we started looking her over for the damage."

This was how he told it to me—the story of that black interval when these officers and the men of the crew waited, at a hundred feet below water level, not knowing whether or not their bulkheads were destroyed, whether their instruments were irreparably damaged, whether or not they would ever come up again into the sunlight.

"It was his ship he seemed to think of above all other things. 'We found out what we'd come into,' he said, 'knew that there was no mistake about the mine. . . . Things didn't look particularly promising. But it all came down to whether we could make a port alone, or whether we couldn't.'

"The wireless was working. That is, we could send; we couldn't receive. We took a look at the bow-plating and

ARGUMENT BEGUN FOR CITY IN SOOKE CASE

W. B. A. Ritchie, K. C., Obtains Decision in Favor of Individual Defendants

In the court of appeal yesterday afternoon W. J. Taylor, K. C., finished his main argument for the appellant plaintiff company in the appeal of the Westholme Lumber Company against the city of Victoria.

W. G. A. Ritchie, K. C., with whom is the former city solicitor, T. R. Robertson, began his argument for the city and continued for greater part of to-day.

Mr. Taylor, resuming his case at the afternoon sitting, said that the contractors had gone to the office of the engineer and were given a profile map for 23 miles, but the contract profits was 27 miles. It was admitted that on three occasions the city had made default in the payment of monthly estimates, and this assisted in weakening the financial position of the contractors.

It was shown in the authorities that if a contractor was delayed by any act of the owner, the latter could not rely on any clause in the contract requiring the contractor to apply for an extension of time if this was needed. In this case the city lacked the site, lacked the location, lacked the plans, lacked co-operation with the contractors, and from the very outset began to hamper the contractors. This being so the city could not then step in and say that the contractor was behind hand. The contract was a time one and the contractors were entitled to the whole time limit of the contract.

Counsel cited the authorities and cases in support of his argument.

W. B. A. Ritchie, K. C., for the city, took up first the cases of the individual defendants—Mayor Beckwith, Alderman Okell and Alderman Anderson, Boyd Ehls and Wynn Meredith, engineers, and James L. Raymur, former water commissioner—before going into the case for the corporation. He maintained that the non-suit entered for the three council members was a proper course, and that Mr. Ehls was found to have acted fairly and given his evidence fairly.

Chief Justice Macdonald asked if counsel for appellants really asked the court to reverse the decision of the lower court as against city officials.

Mr. Taylor replied that in the case of Mayor Beckwith there was the fact that he had stated in the city council that he had personally investigated the condition of the contract and had found the contractors hopelessly behind and lacking in funds. There was also a report from the finance committee that the contractors had made their peace at the bank. However, if their lordships were against him on this he would not press it with further argument, and Mr. Ritchie might save himself the trouble of addressing any arguments.

The chief justice intimated that the court was against Mr. Taylor on this cent by-election in Vancouver, is being made. A petition is being circulated in Vancouver and to this between two hundred and three hundred names have been signed, it is said.

Annance was convicted through the efforts of the Liberal party in Vancouver, an investigation having been begun immediately after the election into rumors that had reached the ears of leaders of the party, and this being followed up when it was found that Annance had been implicated in the gathering together of some twenty men in the Calumet rooms on election day, to each of whom was paid $10.

A sinister feature of the matter is that the men who were gathered by Annance were all, or almost all, men who were known as Liberals, and they were kept around the rooms all day, having registered, and were paid ten dollars a head for doing nothing. The natural surmise is, that there was some scheme on the other side which made it desirable to be able to prove in any future emergency that on that day these Liberals were collected in this place and that they had received money.

Annance was silent before the police magistrate as to where he got the money, but when he came before the legislative committee he said he got it from Scott. By the action of the attorney general in having a warrant issued for Scott's arrest just at the time when he was about to be called as a witness, the opposition were prevented from finding out from Scott where he got the money. The fact that Scott was thus kept out of the country in this manner raises the suspicion that what he would have to tell would not be in the interests of the government to have the public know.

The appeal for pardon is based on the grounds that by a resolution of the legislature all who volunteered their evidence to the committee were granted immunity from punishment, and in this manner Pierce and others, perhaps more culpable than Annance, are now free men, while Annance is now doing his sentence at Oakalla prison farm.

Dugald Donaghy, who defended Annance, claims that his client should be granted the same immunity and privileges as other witnesses who were heard by the committee.

B.C. BANTAMS ARE FILLING UP RANKS

Daughters of the Empire to Assist; British Campaigners to Hold a Recruiting Rally

The campaign of the Bantams for recruits gains ground every day. As announced a generous Victorian, who declines to have his name mentioned, offered $1,000 if a hundred recruits could be secured before Saturday night in Victoria, and the campaign is being waged to secure the hundred men needed to win the reward. Yesterday sixteen more were secured, making a total of thirty-one since the offer was made at the great recruiting rally held on Tuesday evening. Great interest is being taken by the citizens of Victoria in the work of recruiting for the Bantams and the Daughters of the Empire have consented to join in the work during the coming week by making "a silent recruiting campaign." Throughout the coming week the Daughters of the Empire have agreed to wear recruiting badges, and the British Campaigners' Association, at their meeting last night, offered to hold a Campaigners' recruiting rally on Saturday afternoon, June 24. The Campaigners will parade, veterans who wear the medals for the Crimean-Indian Mutiny and many other campaigns—men who have done their bit in bygone campaigns—and will make a vigorous campaign to induce the younger men to emulate their proud record in order that in the years to come they may also be veterans of a great war.

Lieut. Duncan and Ely, who have been on a recruiting tour on Vancouver Island extending to Cumberland on the east coast and Alberni on the west coast, are expected to return to the city to-day or to-morrow, bringing with them a number of recruits signed on by them during their tour. Other drafts also are expected to arrive from the mainland, where a recruiting detachment, in command of Lieut. Peck, accompanied by the band, is at present at work. The detachment will remain in Vancouver until Sunday, and will then march to New Westminster, continuing from there up the Fraser valley.

Speaking of the mainland detachment's work the Vancouver Province of yesterday said:

"The famous band of the Bantams, which is the unofficial name of the 143rd Battalion, C. E. F., arrived from Victoria last night to help the big little men in their great recruiting campaign in this city and the Fraser valley. Along with the musicians came others, making in all about one hundred who, during the time they are here will make headquarters at the old Vancouver Athletic Club building on Cambie and Beatty streets, and from where they will make periodical foraging raids in search of more recruits to add to the seven who, charmed by the martial music of the band when it landed at the dock last night, gave their names in on the spot. The recruiting squad, expected to leave this city for the Fraser valley about Monday next. In the meantime the band will give a number of concerts at various public places. The first was given on the old courthouse site behind the main recruiting depot, and attracted a large and admiring crowd, among whom the recruiting sergeants were as busy as bees."

ENGINEERS AT WORK

Busy Making Arrangements for the Summer Camp at Sidney.

Capt. Ritchie, C. E., went to Sidney yesterday afternoon and inspected the work being done at the military camp here. The engineers are establishing a water system and making the other necessary camp arrangements. At the beginning of the week drafts from the two units who are to go to the camp will be sent out to assist the engineers in finishing the work. The construction of these camp facilities will be completed in about ten days and the 143rd and 103rd Battalions will march to Sidney as soon as the canvas for the tents is received.

Sgt. Major Watson, who went from Victoria and served at the front with the 7th Battalion, has been detailed here for instruction duty in physical training and bayonet fighting. He will work with Lieut. Wilkinson, who is supervising the work here, and will be engaged at the Sidney camp. He has passed the course at the Winnipeg school.

GAIN DISTINCTION

Victoria and Vancouver Officers Mentioned for Gallantry.

Among the names mentioned by Sir Douglas Haig for gallant and distinguished conduct, is that of Major-General Currie, C. B., of Victoria, whose rapid advancement since leaving here with the first detachment has stamped him as a born soldier.

Lieut.-Col. Odium, commanding the 7th Battalion, also is mentioned. He has already won the D. S. O. Lieut. McIlree, whose name is given as attached to the 8th Battalion, probably belongs to the 7th. The list also includes the name of Capt. Bell-Irving. He went to the front from Vancouver, and is well known in this city.

Major-General Lipsett, commanding the 2nd Brigade, is mentioned in the list.

If you would please a mother, praise her child; but do it with discretion. A visiting gentleman had submitted for some time to the attentions of the three-year-old boy of his hostess but at last he became tired of having his whiskers pulled and his horns trodden upon. "Madame," said he, "there is one thing about your charming little boy that especially pleases me." "And what is that?" asked the smiling mother. "That he isn't a twin."
