TO LEAVE WA CLEAR FOR CO-OPERATION ON REPARATIONS PLAN

Forecast of Statement Baldwin Will Make to British Commons Thursday—World Will Learn British Views on Restoration of Europe

London, July 10.—While there are no indications of the precise nature of the statement to be made in Parliament Thursday by Premier Baldwin concerning the reparations question, official spokesmen here say there will be nothing spectacular about the Government's declaration. The statement, they say, will aim at setting openly before the world the views of Great Britain for the economic and political restoration of Europe. The door will be left open for full co-operation between Great Britain and France. Even should it prove necessary for the British Government to take its own line, it is pointed out that twice already has France taken individual action regarding Germany without consulting Great Britain and that this has not resulted in any breach.

The diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph ventures the opinion that the Premier's statement will be constructive rather than critical, and will contain a final bid for the co-operation of Great Britain and her allies in restoring the European situation.

The writer also asserts that when Dr. Schmar, the German Ambassador, interviewed Lord Curzon yesterday the recent incidents of sabotage in the Ruhr were discussed, as well as passive resistance. Lord Curzon, adds the expert, is reported to have urged Germany to act moderately and prudently, giving the Ambassador a decided hint that the Berlin Government would be well advised to make clear its disapproval of acts of violence.

Satisfaction Expressed.

London, July 10.—Satisfaction over Premier Baldwin's promise of a statement on the reparations question is generally manifested by the press and numerous attempts have been made to "predict" official secrecy so the public may be furnished with a forecast of the Premier's utterances.

It is impossible at the moment to add anything of consequence to the opinion that Britain may bring forward again her suggestion for the appointment of an international commission which would determine Germany's capacity to pay. The possibility of the public being furnished with a forecast of the Premier's utterances is expressed, but the United States would participate.

It is thought the British Government may suggest that the commission appointed last year be required to serve again. J. P. Morgan was a member of that body.

No Indication Given.

Whether Great Britain will decide with Germany separately is still an open question as far as the public and newspapers are concerned, for no one in a responsible position will talk on this point. It is known that in certain quarters there is a feeling that Britain should help Germany if the Reich's condition is as weak as the French believe it to be. Britain, in the opinion of these authorities, could hardly afford to lose German trade and the utter collapse of the Reich would be disastrous.

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—Following an explosion late last night, fire rushed through the plant of the Interstate Refineries here, consuming a building and several tanks of oil, the value of which was estimated by Ralph R. Langley, president of the concern, at $200,000.

While in Vancouver he consulted Rev. J. P. Westman, President of the B. C. Conference, regarding his work. Dr. Darwin has been in Liverpool, England, for some years as the representative of the Canadian Methodist Church.

TREATY DELAYS CAUSE OF REGRET

U. S. Would Welcome French Parliamentary Action

Washington Chinese and Submarine Pacts Still Unratified

Washington, July 10.—Action of the French Chamber of Deputies in voting ratification of the Four-Power Treaty, coupled with the favorable vote last week on the Hotel Treaty, caused gratification in official circles here, although some regret was expressed at the forecast that the three other Washington treaties would not be put through at once.

The five treaties negotiated at the Washington Conference are independent documents, but to a certain degree they are designed to supplement each other and to extend the effectiveness of the general plan contemplated by the conference for reorganizing the world. Although there will be no barrier to putting into effect the Naval Treaty and the Pacific pact even though the French ratification of the other treaties is delayed, the result of that delay may be to develop a somewhat peculiar situation.

Chinese Treaties.

The Chinese treaties, one dealing with customs matters in China and the other with political questions, were worked out as a very vital element in the project of assuring peace in view of the disturbed conditions in China and to extend the effectiveness of the general plan contemplated by the conference for reorganizing the world. Although there will be no barrier to putting into effect the Naval Treaty and the Pacific pact even though the French ratification of the other treaties is delayed, the result of that delay may be to develop a somewhat peculiar situation.

Submarine Pact.

For a somewhat different reason the delay over the treaty dealing with submarines and gas warfare is cause of regret to officials. It had been hoped that the time of the Washington Conference that the doctrines laid down in that treaty as binding upon the signatories would be extended to all other nations, adding a new chapter to international law. World progress is halted, however, until the treaty has been ratified.

French Reservation.

In the absence of the text of the French Government's proposed reservation to the submarine clauses, officials here are unwilling to comment on the probable effect. There has been some disposition among Government experts to view the French proposals reported in Paris dispatches as constituting a rather sharp limitation upon that section of the treaty which sets out an agreement as commerce destroyers.

Admittedly, however, the question is one more vitally affecting British than United States interests and it is assumed that the British fully understand what has been suggested by the Paris Government. As far as is known here no question has yet been raised from British sources as to the intent or effect of the French reservation.

FISHERMEN OF LAKE ERIC WATCH FOR MAN'S BODY

Fort Stanley, Ont., July 10.—The fishermen of Port Stanley, more than a score of them, were out on Lake Erie near here yesterday gathering their catches and scanning the surface for Lieut. T. B. Null, missing United States aviator, or his body. A companion in the United States naval balloon A-6598 of Lieut. L. J. Roth, whose body was found in the balloon basket yesterday, has virtually been abandoned.

German Riot Forced Meat Price Down to 10,000 Marks a Pound

Berlin, July 10.—Food riots have started at Mowaves, near Potsdam. Thousands of angry people besieged the butcher shops, compelling the dealers to sell meat at 10,000 marks per pound instead of 40,000. The police restored order after the shops had been completely sold out.

GERMAN AGENT WAS ATTACKED

Charge d'Affaires Received Blows in Street Affair

Two Belgian Soldiers Arrested; Now On Bail

Brussels, July 10.—The German Charge d'Affaires here was assaulted in a street last night. According to the Belgian authorities, the official, who was accompanied by fellow-countrymen, was talking rather loudly in German when a passerby shouted "Bosches." A crowd quickly gathered and the Charge was struck a number of times before police arrived. Two Belgian soldiers were arrested, and later released, under bail.

EARLY BUYING OF COAL URGED

People of Great Lakes Region of Canada Given Warning

C. A. Magrath Suggests Trouble Next Winter Be Avoided

Ottawa, July 10.—C. A. Magrath, head of the Government Advisory Committee on Fuel, is issuing a warning to householders to lay in their winter's coal at once. Anthracite miners in the United States are asking an increase in wages of twenty per cent, and there is a possibility of a strike in August. Anthracite production at present is heavy, running nearly 10,000,000 tons a month.

The output in Nova Scotia is affected by the labor trouble there. The suggested low freight rate of $1.10 per ton for coal from Alberta has not yet attracted any supplies to Ontario from that source, and as it is only to be granted during the summer months, western coal will apparently not be a factor in the situation in Ontario this season.

Hongkong, July 10.—About twenty of the bandits who held up a train on the Canton-Kowloon Railway near Canton last Saturday were killed to-day in a battle with Chinese troops. The main body of the bandits, however, escaped to the hills with the ninety well-to-do Chinese who were taken prisoners when the train was raided.

A Chinese military officer and one soldier were killed in the attack on the train last Saturday, and loot valued at $50,000 was taken.

ASKS CHANGES IN IMMIGRATION LAW

Commissioner at Ellis Island Makes Requests at Washington

Questions On New York Situation Answered in British Commons

New York, July 10.—Henry H. Curran, in office for a week as Immigration Commissioner at Ellis Island, announced to-day he would go to Washington in the near future to suggest changes in the immigration law.

London, July 10.—Ellis Island came up for discussion in the British House of Commons again yesterday. Ronald McNell, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in answer to questions, said Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, had inspected the island six months ago at the invitation of the United States Government, to which Government he had communicated his impressions.

Ambassador Geddes had made no secret of his conviction that the only way of effectively relieving the congestion would be either to build an entirely new station or supplement the existing one by creating an additional station to which certain classes of immigrants could be diverted.

SOUTH ALBERTA'S CROP ESTIMATES

Lethbridge Herald Puts Total at 46,000,000 Bushels

Plenty of Moisture; More Workers Needed

This estimate is the result of information gathered by The Herald for its tenth weekly crop report, issued to-day. Wheat is plentiful and the scarcity is gradually becoming accentuated.

PREMIER-ELECT ASKS CO-OPERATION

G. Howard Ferguson Says Great Opportunities Before New Ontario Legislature

Toronto, July 10.—G. Howard Ferguson, Premier-Elect of Ontario, in announcing the formation of his Cabinet, issued the following statement: "The people of Ontario have given the Conservative Party a mandate to administer their affairs for the next four years. The Lieutenant-Governor called upon the leader of that party to form a Government. As leader, I accepted this invitation, realizing the great responsibility which the electors had placed in my hands. Probably never before has a province spoken so decisively; never before has any electorate sent to the Legislature as members of one party such a number of outstanding men from all spheres of public and private activities. This has enabled me to choose a strong Cabinet, but that very fact made the task difficult.

Crops in United States

Washington, July 10.—Smaller crops than last year are indicated in the July forecasts of the Department of Agriculture issued for wheat, corn, rice, and sweet potatoes, and other crops. Production this year is forecast at 2,377,000,000 bushels.

Winter wheat showed a slight improvement over a month ago, but spring wheat showed a deterioration of 7.5 points in the month. The combined production forecast, however, is 4,000,000 bushels larger than the June forecast, with a total crop of 82,000,000 bushels indicated.

Montreal, July 10.—The first witness at this morning's session of the Delorme trial was Dr. Wilfred Derome, morgue autopsist, whose examination of the bullets which have figured in the case was continued by R. L. Calder, K. C., the prosecutor. He showed the jury, through a microscope, two bullets taken from the body of Raoul Delorme at the first autopsy. Allyn Tashereau, K. C., counsel for the defence, when the rifling grooves and the characteristic scratch alleged to have been made by Rev. Adelaire Delorme's automatic were pointed out, drew attention to a hair in the magnifying glass.

Dr. Derome explained this was for measuring. He next showed the jury the bullet extracted from the body when it was examined. He described the delicate process by which he had measured the grooves and scratch on the bullets.

Hon. D. Cameron, Provincial Secretary, when asked to comment on the report, said it was his understanding troops were already in control at No. 2. He expressed the opinion that the occupation had been decided on because an endeavor yesterday on the part of the company to relieve the officials operating the pumps and fans by officials from other collieries was alleged to have met with opposition from the men.

BOY BURNED TO DEATH IN LAUNCH

Tragedy On River at Winnipeg Due to Explosion

Winnipeg, July 10.—While the father and friends stood on a dock, helpless to render assistance, Arnoia Hall, fifteen years old, was burned to death following an explosion in a gasoline launch in the Red River here last night. While the men were making the launch fast to the dock, the boy returned to the cabin of the boat to stop the engine. He shut off the gas and immediately there was an explosion and the craft was completely enveloped in flames. The concussion hurled Richard Hall, father of the boy, and two friends to the dock, all three suffering slight injuries in their fall and from flying glass.

Arnold was trapped in the cabin. About ten seconds after the explosion a muffled cry was heard, but the fury of the flames prevented approach within twenty feet of the craft. The fire was quickly extinguished by the St. Boniface fire brigade. The body was found lying in front of the engine and had been burned beyond recognition.

Protests

Ottawa, July 10.—While protests against the presence of troops in the Sydney district are continuing, the Department of Labor from Western labor organizations, Government officials hold to the position which they have maintained all along, that provincial and local authorities are responsible for the use of soldiers in Cape Breton.

Hon. James Murdoch had no comment to offer upon the situation this morning. He acknowledged that there was a possibility of the strike spreading into other districts, and the department was watching developments closely. Officials of the Department of National Defence continue to affirm that the troops cannot be withdrawn from Cape Breton until the situation is under control, who are responsible for their presence.

J. Burke Tells New York District Attorney About Brokerage Firm's Failure
He and Partner Failed for Over $2,000,000

New York, July 10.—Haggard, defunct and "broke," John Burke, once Treasurer of the United States and three times Governor of North Dakota, walked into District Attorney Hantson's office yesterday to offer the authorities what help he could in the grand jury investigation of the brokerage firm of Kardos and Burke, which failed eighteen months ago for more than $2,000,000.

Mr. Burke said he was ready to waive immunity and tell the grand jury everything he knew—which was astoundingly little—about the operations of the firm. "I give you my word as a man that the first intimation I had of what was going on was when the bankruptcy petitions were filed," he said. "What hurts more than anything

WATCH OUT

There is a rather cruel deception being practiced on women who desire Palmolive Soap. Common soaps are shaped and colored like it. Some are given names which sound like Palmolive. But they offer you nothing of what you seek, which is benefit to your complexion.

Palmolive has won millions of users by its remarkable aid to beauty. The demand has spread almost the world over—wherever beauty lovers exist. Its unique results have made Palmolive the world's leading toilet soap.

What you prize in Palmolive is the skin effects which ordinary soaps never brought you. Then don't be cheated of them. Don't let somebody make you think that a like-looking soap is Palmolive.

Another value you get in Palmolive is a 25-cent quality for 10 cents. That is due to enormous volume.

A beauty soap—a scientific toilet soap for 10 cents is unique. You are cheated of that extra value when you get an imitation. Nothing in all ages has compared with a blend of palm and olive oil for skin beauty.

Never in a soap has that blend been perfected as it is in Palmolive Soap. That is why it won supreme place with beauty-loving people.

Be sure you get it. Look carefully at the name and the wrapper. Otherwise an ordinary soap may be substituted, and you will think that Palmolive has deteriorated.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

Victoria never finds it difficult to welcome ships and men of the Royal Navy. The people of this community look upon it as part of the privilege which goes with residence in such a favored community. On that account the officers and men who have just reached Victoria on H. M. S. Curlew can consider themselves thoroughly welcome in every sense of the term. After a fairly long cruise from the headquarters of the West Indies station it will no doubt be a pleasurable relief to all ranks to stretch their legs for a little while on British soil. While H. M. S. Curlew is in port we shall hope that her crew will avail themselves of the recreation which their programme permits. They will find Victorians ready and willing to add to the enjoyment of their stay. And it is an honor to have as our guest in the person of Captain Holbrook such a distinguished member of such a distinguished naval family.

PEACE AT LAUSANNE.

After many weary weeks of negotiation and conference the Lausanne gathering is about to witness the final act of signing the treaty that is to restore concord between Greece and Turkey and all the nations involved in the Near East question. It has been a long and trying job. Crisis followed crisis and bluff followed bluff. Turkey went into the conference with her victory over Greece as her passport back into Europe. She was not successful in all her plans. Compromise was either voluntary or forced from her in her earlier arbitrary mood. But when the new map of the Near East comes to be drawn it will be found that nearly all of the territory that was taken from Turkey as punishment for her contribution to the cause of the Central Powers will remain under the influence and domination of the Crescent.

At the same time it can be said that much good has been done at Lausanne. It may even have been a profitable lesson for Turkey if only because of the fact that her virtual agreement to be put on her honor in matters that were previously under joint influence will give her another opportunity to demonstrate her capacity to govern on Western lines. Incidentally it may also have proved to the Government at Ankara that Turkey will not be allowed to disturb the nations of Europe without encountering a very definite obstruction in the nature of united action by the Allies. In the more general sense the peace treaty of Lausanne will remove a danger spot that might well have aggravated conditions in other parts of Europe if the conference had been prolonged.

THE ISLAND'S WEALTH.

Neither Sir Henry Thornton nor anybody else can expect to understand very much about the vast storehouse of natural treasure that belongs to this Island until after a fairly exhaustive personal inspection has been made. Carefully compiled statistics furnish essential detail and usually satisfy the man who is looking for a timber limit; but the man who has to give a final answer in respect of the construction of new railways, or the extension of old ones, must be thoroughly convinced in his own mind that ample tonnage awaits transportation facilities. On this account it is an excellent idea to press upon the chief of the Canadian National Railways the desirability of spending three or four days in the charge of officials competent to show him that the organization over which he presides has nothing to fear in this important particular. And Sir Henry Thornton can get rid of any impression that he is alone in lack of specific knowledge of our latent wealth. We venture to suggest that only about one Victorian in fifty has any conception of what the Island has to offer in scenic beauty alone. Perhaps not one in two hundred could lay claim to first hand acquaintance with the enormous treasure that is just outside their own backyard. Yet one can take even the most hurried trip up this Island and at once become seized by the fact that we are living in a veritable paradise with convertible natural wealth literally hugging the roadway.

EASIER SAID THAN DONE.

Neither the British nor the American Governments will be particularly perturbed over the remarks which the naval architect who reconditioned the Leviathan, which was formerly a German liner, is reported to have made when that giant vessel went for her trial trip a few days ago. The gentleman in question is charged with saying, in the presence of all the official guests of the Shipping Board, that while in the service of British steamship owners he had learned all their tricks and that now the United States was in a position to apply them to her own advantage and, with the aid of the Leviathan, to gain the mastery of the seas. When he was questioned on the subject he declared that he did not mean to reflect upon the methods by which Great Britain had developed her merchant marine.

The United States Shipping Board is under no delusion about the task which confronts it. Its officials are under no delusion about the British merchant marine, its history, its present status, and its future, and the Board has no expectation of gaining the blue ribbon of maritime supremacy, although naturally it will endeavor to put its shipping on a profitable basis. British shipping concerns will see in the Leviathan a worthy rival. As far as they are concerned with the actual carrying-business this particular vessel will be flying the flag of a friendly nation instead of that in whose yards she was originally built. Apart from this the Leviathan will probably set up a speed record that will appeal to the sportsmanship of the British mariner. But American shipping experts will smile with their British confreres at the suggestion which seemed to have run away with the good judgment and taste of the naval architect who is naturally proud of his work on the great Atlantic liner.

TOWN PLANNING.

British Columbians should not require a great deal of education to impress upon them the desirability of town planning legislation. While Victoria betrays only one or two examples of short-sightedness in street widths and residential arrangement the fact remains that in even the younger city of Vancouver there are conditions in some parts that could have been guarded against if scientific planning had been employed twenty-five years ago.

Nor is it reasonable to sit back and say that in a country with vast spaces there is no necessity for intelligent foresight in the making of new towns and new cities. One of the most vital factors in town and city life in this and other countries is the housing question. Overcrowding in many of the European cities, in numerous instances almost unavoidable, has been primarily responsible for the creation of unrest in many forms. And as agricultural and industrial development takes place in this Province there will always be a danger of costly error unless there shall be some guiding principle established in time.

Town planning legislation should have few opponents. Its interest and concern are general and its benefits cannot be gainsaid. It makes for appearance and health. Healthy people make good citizens. National prosperity and progress are therefore not unalied with the proposal which the Legislature will be asked to consider at its next session.

THE DARE DEVIL.

Two men were killed at Santa Monica recently when a wing of their aeroplane crumpled while they were performing a number of spectacular feats above a huge crowd of spectators. Some time ago the "human fly" fell from the face of a New York skyscraper and ended his life on the pavement. Numerous other preventable fatalities could be cited without any trouble. How is it that the general public will encourage these sort of stupid exhibitions by its enthusiastic support? Is there so little appreciation of the skill that enters into performances of a less hazardous nature? Must the possibility of a fatality enter into and constitute an essential element in modern entertainment? One hates to think that years of training for good healthy sport is to be turned aside for the tricks of the dare-devil artist who is willing to tempt Providence because the desire for sensation seems to have got entirely out of hand. Is a renaissance of good sport about due?

NOTE AND COMMENT

It has now been established that Victoria enjoys more sunshine in a year than any other locality in British Columbia. Small wonder that we are satisfied with our Summer climate.

The German Reichstag has gone for its Summer holidays. This looks like a new application of the principle of going while the going is good.

There is a great deal to be said for the argument that if we want people to stay over at Victoria they must be posted upon local attractions before they buy their tickets. There is nothing like the mind that is made up in advance.

Marks could have been bought yesterday at the rate of 266,667 for the American dollar. What sort of a paper pyramid would John Bull's debt to the United States make if it were to be built with the equivalent in marks?

French apiarists are complaining through the French newspapers that bees delivered to them from Germany under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles will persist in returning to their native land to the East of the Rhine. It looks as if the honey makers continue their active membership in the Flottenverein.

Great Britain is going to express her own views upon the subject of reparations. It is expected that new support will be given to the advocacy of an international-commission to determine exactly what Germany can pay without completely demolishing her economic structure. In any case the question involved is getting near the plane of straight economics. Moral right and moral obligation seem to be on the altar of sacrifice.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES

FEW CHOSEN.

Montreal Gazette:—Of 424 candidates for matrimony who presented themselves in one month at the newly-established municipal department in Vienna for advice on matters of matrimony, the physician in attendance granted certificates to only 46 per cent of the applicants. So that this is what comes of taking matrimony seriously.

BUYING COAL IN SUMMER.

Ottawa Citizen:—The Dominion Fuel Board has issued a warning to householders to put in their supply of next Winter's coal now, and it is good advice, if one can afford to follow it. By doing this the board points out that the public will be ensuring themselves against inconvenience and worry, and will also assist in solving the fuel problem. Even if there is no recurrence of strike troubles, buying coal in the early Summer helps in more ways than one to remove the difficulties that now commonly occur when the coal season arrives.

LAND DIRECTORY

To the Editor—On page four of your valued issue of June 27 appears an editorial under the heading, "Detail It in Black and White."

The article informs us that "There is nothing like letting the intending settler know exactly where he can buy land in this Province and what it will cost. In issuing a concise directory along these lines the Land Settlement Board is taking a course that should bring reasonable, rapid results. Accompanying the more statistical details of the Land Settlement Board is a list of precise location, nature of clearing that will have to be undertaken, the cost involved in that process," etc.

As a directory compiled along the lines suggested in your editorial (and particularly one with all the "trimmings" proposed therein in the balance of the article referred to) would be most useful to me at the present juncture, I early made personal application to the Land Settlement Board for a copy of a same, but to my great surprise, after a lengthy search, was informed this Department had no such compilation, and that it contemplated the production of it.

A further inquiry in the office of the Land Settlement Board, to my equal surprise, was met with an equal success. As others besides myself are equally desirous of obtaining this information in a ready form, and doubtless letters from other parties of the Province inquiring for copies will in due course reach the department, I enclose you, for the benefit of the general public, my own copy, kindly state just precisely where the directory your article refers to can be found. Further, a line at the foot of this letter will dispel the incubus.

OUR RESOURCES

To the Editor:—Many letters have been written and plenty of suggestions made as to why so many people are leaving this province. I think one great cause is that we wait for other fellow to develop what we leave undeveloped. Take for instance our timber. I understand that at least 75 per cent belongs to the province. I often think that if our invisible international boundary was the money belt and not the iron fence, friends along the boundary line, the cost of living increased by tariffs, coupled with the ever-increasing taxation, would not have driven the money out of the country, and the more that goes, leaves those behind to bear a heavier burden. We are now having a number of American tourists visit us, and I think I am fairly in the mark that not one in a thousand ever visit the beautiful bays that are to be seen on the northwestern coast of Victoria. As a fact I have mentioned some of these spots to residents of Victoria for over ten years, and they admit, they have never visited them. I have never referring more particularly to the beauty spots between Tod Inlet and Patricia Bay. To my way of thinking the names of these places are a lot to blame, and the next cause is that the B.C. Interurban charge too much and don't attempt to bring these places to the attention of the visitor or resident. No doubt the names were given the places to carry down to posterity the worthy former owners, but that does not mean the present-day usage. If those men had been blessed with common garden names, like Smith, Jones, Brown or Robinson, it could not have been the B.C. Electric stations less conspicuous. No visitor would want to go to, say, Jones' road. I think the time is ripe for the B.C. Interurban to name some by which the places can be distinguished. Take Tod Inlet. There is one of the most wonderful coves; a person would have to travel a fair distance or more to find its equal. Then Marchant's Road, a beauty spot par excellence. Then Sluggetts, another spot to charm the visitors' hearts, where persons could rest their cars, erect tents and enjoy at least a week in unique surroundings and other places, yet these beauty spots are left and nobody seems to care. I would suggest that some competition be started, and to the person who selects the best name or names, he paid some small prize in money by the owners of the different districts selected. I wonder what would happen to them all if they belonged to a community like Los Angeles?

CHURCH UNION.

To the Editor:—My attention has been called to an "interview" with Rev. Dr. Gray, and also to a "hortation" from Dr. Clay, both of which appeared in recent issues of your paper. There are several statements which might lead to the impression that the action of the Presbyterian Church in the union movement was altogether unworthy of any Christian Church.

It is a fact that those opposed to such union are planning to defeat the action of the Assembly when the bills come before the parliament. The ground given by Dr. Clay "As it stands the union scheme involves an invasion of conscience, and we believe that Parliament will be loathe to take the responsibility of endorsing it," comes as a great surprise. In the recent debate, as on former occasions, the ground of opposition was not "conscience," but expediency and sentiment, the conviction that the unity and peace of the Church. If a minister ceases to accept the government of the Church, he does not accuse the Church of invading his conscience if it does not let him have his way. He simply withdraws and chooses one which does agree with his views. The proposed legislation does not have any coercive measures not found in the Presbyterian Church.

Christ and conscience as those opposed. If Dr. Clay claims liberty of conscience for himself and others in this matter, why does he undertake even by the authority of Parliament to deny those in favor of the liberty to determine their action in this matter?

Then there is the objection to the form of legislation. The fact is that throughout all the negotiations the Presbyterian Church has been acting as a unit. The mind of the Church has been voiced through the regular procedure in her courts. This has always been the law of the Presbyterian Church, as of every representative government. The majority rules. Dr. Clay declares that the bill recognizes that the church acts as a unit, and that all ministers and members are carried into the new organization. This he calls an invasion of conscience. But surely he must recognize that this is simply the law under which the Presbyterian Church has always worked. Every minority in a congregation, session, synod or assembly has been "coerced" by the action of the majority through the regular procedure, if the word "coerced" can rightly be applied to such a democratic principle. But in the Church, no one has protested against the operation of this principle because every member is coming into full membership promised to be obedient to this type of government and not to follow any divisive course, but to maintain the unity and peace of the Church. If a minister ceases to accept the government of the Church, he does not accuse the Church of invading his conscience if it does not let him have his way. He simply withdraws and chooses one which does agree with his views. The proposed legislation does not have any coercive measures not found in the Presbyterian Church.

ately provides for congregational action, which determines its future. During six months after the passing of the Act any congregation can decide "not to concur in the said union of the said churches, but to withdraw therefrom." The legislation thus recognizes that the will of the church acts as a unit, individual congregations during six months have all their rights and privileges unaffected and can be simply saying so remain as they are. They are not forced into the united church, as the six months is expressly allowed in order to permit congregational action. The fact that a vote "not to concur" leaves them in possession of all their rights and privileges shows that they had not by the passing of the Act been deprived of any of their privileges. Objection has been taken to the fact that the Presbyterian Church in Canada will cease as a name. This is inevitable, as the Church bearing that name will have gone into the united church, but the bill provides for the continuance of the Presbyterian Church, which is free to select any name it chooses. It is not a sentimental, but a legal principle, which is involved.

The "Commission of nine members" follows the principle selected in setting the difficulties in the Presbyterian Churches in Scotland. The wisdom of such a commission has been abundantly justified as it deals with the merits of each case and prevents appeals to the courts which have been so disastrous to both the personal and spiritual interests of opposing parties. It ought to be said that the minority has equal representation with the majority, and when it is remembered that in view of the votes they stand as one to three this fact shows how generous the provision has been in the interests of the minority. If any of the privileges won by our Presbyterian forefathers were being sacrificed in the proposed union I could understand why Presbyterians should conscientiously oppose such a union. Clause 26 in the bill expressly declares the spiritual independence and freedom of the united Church, and as a matter of fact the clause is almost identical with the one guaranteeing the spiritual freedom of the Scottish Churches in their proposed union.

I can understand the action of men who wish to retain their Church as the best method of worship and service, but it is very difficult to understand the attitude which determines to do everything possible to prevent the entire Methodist and Congregational Churches, about a million and a quarter souls, and the great majority of the Presbyterian Church from having the Church they deem most acceptable to their Master. If Dr. Clay considers the will of the majority an invasion of conscience, what must the majority of Presbyterians as well as all the Methodists and Congregationalists, and for that matter members of Parliament and the people of Canada and the world, think of a minority which denies all others the right of self-determination even to the extent of asking Parliament to refuse legislation which is necessary to carry on the work they believe best in the interests of the Kingdom of God and the world? What must be thought of minority rule in a democratic country and in the free churches? The determination to fight the action of the Church is assuming a responsibility which might well cause the leaders to pause and rethink the problem in the light of history. Surely the time has come for frankly recognizing the fullest rights and privileges of both minority and majority and of seeking as Christian men to adjust our differences and make possible the continuance of good will and mutual respect. The Assembly instructed its new Union Committee to seek conference with those opposed to achieve, if possible, this end. It seems a great pity that before an opportunity has been afforded of doing this that it should be taken for granted that a religious war is inevitable. In view of our great responsibility toward our present work it ought to be the burden of every heart to cultivate the things which make for peace and better understanding.

J. R. ROBERTSON,
Secretary Synods, Church Union Committee.

NOT NEEDED.

To the Editor—There is absolutely no necessity for a juvenile court or curfew in Victoria. If the School Board and parents in this city would exert their authority, any need for such a court could be met by calling for. Of late a few outstanding cases involving minors have appeared in the courts, but not one of them would have reached that stage if the parents had applied ordinary sense to the home training of their children.

Some years ago I wrote to the School Board about boys hanging around and making themselves not only obnoxious to decent residents but indulging in habits and using language that could not be other than detrimental to their own moral welfare. Among those boys were some who are now paying the penalty.

The School Board thanked me for my information, which they "received and filed." Several parents also answered me, not so politely through the medium of the press. However, the point is now: Will the taxpayer attend the extra expense of a juvenile court, and a curfew law, because a few irresponsible parents and incapable school trustees lack nerve or intelligence sufficient to make the youthful population be good? A juvenile court is all cost — no revenue. Other courts collect in fines practically enough money for running expenses—not so with the juvenile institution. It is purely a fatherly sort of legal procedure that positively no need for exists except in very large centres of population.

The New Economical
WILLYS-KNIGHT
Stops Seldom at The Gasoline Pump
20 miles and more to the gallon, is the common performance of the Willys-Knight. And the sparing manner with which its sleeve-valve motor consumes fuel, is only the beginning of its economy. This marvelous engine actually improves with use. No valves to grind—no carbon to clean. Carbon only increases compression. Many owners have reported 30,000 miles and more without a single engine adjustment. And a Willys-Knight engine has never been known to wear out. Thus powered and distinguished by beautiful streamline body design, the Willys-Knight offers remarkable value at conservative price. The severe, beautiful new models won immediate public acceptance, as evidenced by orders from all over the Dominion in such numbers as to tax production capacity.

ALL PARTS OF CANADA HAVE REPRESENTATIVES

Teachers. On British Tour Leave On Minnedosa

The two hundred teachers who sailed from Montreal on S. S. Minnedosa, July 5, on the annual jaunt of the Overseas Educational League, represent every part of the Dominion of Canada, with thirteen of the delegation representing Australia and New Zealand. Montreal added its quota of seventeen to the party on the day of embarkation.

Since the League came into existence in 1909 nearly seventeen hundred teachers have taken this advantage of an educational trip to the other side. These figures, it is claimed, would have been greater had it not been for the outbreak of war in 1914, when the activities of the movement were called to a halt and it was not until 1921 that a reorganization was accomplished. From 1921 to 1923 inclusive, 580 of the teachers belonging to the League will have passed through the port of Montreal.

The conception of the movement was co-incidental with the visit of the British Association to Winnipeg for its annual meeting in Winnipeg in 1909. And, as the year of educational views and ideas gave rise to a desire for a closer understanding and co-operation between Great Britain and Canada in matters educational. The outcome was the first organized visit of 165 Canadian teachers to Europe in the Summer vacation of 1910 under the auspices of an organization subsequently taking the title of Hands Across the Seas, which became well known throughout Canada in the following five years, and of which Mr. F. J. Ney was the founder and organizer. During the war, Mr. Ney rose to the rank of Major in the field and won for his military service no less than three decorations.

SUMMER TRAINING SCHOOL. A Summer training school for girl guide officers is now in session at Crofton House School, by kind permission of Miss Gordon. Mrs. Kinloch, deputy provincial commissioner, acting as commandant. Other officials present are Mrs. Lake, provincial commissioner for Vancouver; Mrs. Tyrell, provincial commissioner for Burnaby; and Mrs. Brock, provincial commissioner for Vancouver. Lectures and demonstrations are given daily in guide and brownie work by Miss W. A. Symes, of Toronto, Dominion camp adviser. Other courses include folk dancing, conducted by Miss Goddard; story-telling, Miss Hill, of the Vancouver public library, and a special course in signalling, demonstrated by Colonel Moorhouse.

Not only guides, but members of guide committees, especially those of country districts, are taking this opportunity for class instruction, the growing popularity of the movement being obvious from the number of new districts which have taken up the work, and have sent officers for training.

TWO WOMEN ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH One in Chicago and One in New York; Man in Chicago. Chicago, July 10.—For the first time in the history of Cook County a jury yesterday meted out the death penalty to a woman when Mrs. Sabelle Nitti Crudelle and her second husband, Peter Crudelle, were found guilty of the murder of Frank Nitti, Mrs. Crudelle's first husband, and death was decreed for both.

The jury returned its verdict after less than two hours' deliberation. The woman and her husband were convicted largely through the testimony of Charles Nitti, sixteen-year-old son of the woman. Attorneys made a motion for a new trial, which was set for hearing Saturday.

Frank Nitti, a truck farmer, disappeared July 23, 1922. Shortly thereafter Crudelle, a boarder at the Nitti home, and Mrs. Nitti were married. Charles Nitti, the son, told the authorities that Crudelle had killed his father with a hammer as Nitti lay asleep and that Mrs. Nitti had held her husband's hands while Crudelle struck the blow. The boy said Crudelle had forced him to help dispose of the body, which he said had been thrown into the river. An indictment was voted, but dismissed when no trace of the body was found. On July 3, however, Nitti's body was found concealed in a catch basin. Crudelle, his wife and Charles Nitti were indicted for murder, but the case against the boy was nolle prosequi.

Crudelle is twenty-three years old, and his wife in her marriage license said she was thirty-nine, but her son declares she was forty-six. "I am glad we finally found a jury which would treat a woman in a cold blooded murder case the same as a man," Milton Smith, Assistant State Attorney, declared in commenting on the case.

Woman in New York. Chicago, July 10.—Two women in this country are facing death as the result of verdicts by two juries, one in New York and the other in Chicago. They are Mrs. Anna Buzzi, of New York; and Mrs. Sabelle Nitti Crudelle, of Chicago. Mrs. Buzzi was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of Frederick Schneider, with whom she had lived for eight years.

Lady Constance Lytton Led Suffragists in Many Weird Raids

Those in Victoria who were interested in the early progress of the movement for woman suffrage in England will have learned with much regret of the death last month of Lady Constance Lytton. One of the gentlest and sweetest of women, Lady Constance was a most devoted adherent of the women's cause. She suffered years of ill-health as a result of the part she took in the militant movement, being imprisoned altogether four times. First in her own name and then disguised as a working woman. Forcible feeding administered on the last occasion had serious consequences, and in May, 1912, she had a stroke and had been an invalid ever since.

The London Times in the course of an appreciative article speaks of her as follows: "The second daughter of the first Earl of Lytton, Viceroy of India and afterwards Ambassador in Paris, Lady Constance Georgina Lytton was the sister of the present Lord Lytton, Governor of Bengal, and of Mr. Neville Lytton, Lady Betty Balfour and Lady Emily Lyttons. Born in London, where her father was then Secretary of the Embassy, on February 12, 1869, she had a home education, her childhood and youth being passed chiefly abroad. Her greatest gift was for music, and her sympathetic nature endeared her not only to her family, who were devoted to her, but also to many attached friends.

It was not until 1908, when she was thirty-nine, that she became an adherent to the principle of woman suffrage. Her militancy began in February, 1909, when she joined a deputation to the Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, who was arrested and sentenced to two months' imprisonment in the second division, with the alternative of being bound over. She went to Holloway and was there put in hospital on the ground that her health was affected. To this she objected, as other suffragist prisoners had no such privilege, and began a protest strike. In a book describing her prison experiences, published in 1914, she said that she decided to write "Votes for Women" on her body, scratching it in her skin with a needle, beginning over her heart and ending on her face. "I propose to show the first half of the inscription to the doctors, telling them that as a woman's name appears on the list of names of the prisoners, I thought it well to warn them that the last letter and a full-stop would come upon my chest, and that I would quite fresh and visible on the day of my release." She began with a hair-pin point, polished and clean, but her rough skin caused her to guard against blood-poisoning by cutting the point with a razor. The governor threatened, "If you go on like this we shall have to dismiss you and charge you with sedition," and Lady Constance submitted and served her sentence.

On October 9, 1909, she was arrested at Newcastle, and sent to the workhouse at Wigan, where she was assaulting Sir Walter Runciman by throwing a stone at him and damaging his motor car to the amount of £100. She was reduced to a state of disorderly conduct and she was given a month in the second division in lieu of finding sureties to keep the peace. In Newcastle, a physician went on hunger strike for fifty-six hours, her heart was examined by a specialist, and she was released without being forcibly fed. Early in January, 1910, Lady Constance resolved to make a test. She cut her hair, put on glasses and disguised herself as "Jane Warton," a woman of the working class, and she made a protest meeting outside Walton Gaol, Liverpool, where other suffragists were confined, she was arrested and sentenced on January 15 to fourteen days' imprisonment with hard labor with the option of a fine. Her heart was not examined before, on the fourth day of this hunger strike she was released, but she afterwards gave distressing accounts of her sufferings. She was released on January 23 on the grounds of loss of weight and general physical weakness, not of heart disease. The Home Office, however, where Mr. Churchill had by this time succeeded Mr. Gladstone, denied her charges.

Before leaving for her home in the South Mrs. Slosson will motor to Campbell River and other points on the island. Captain L. S. Holbrook, R. N., of H. M. S. Curlew, was a visitor at Government House yesterday forenoon, when he called to pay his respects to His Honor, the Lieut. Governor. Later in the day he, with a guard of Royal Marines, received His Honor and Mr. H. J. Musketts on board the warship. The usual salute of fifteen guns was accorded His Honor at the termination of the visit.

Mrs. Fred Grievce, 242 Prior Street, gave a farewell party Saturday evening in honor of her niece, Mrs. Harris, who left Sunday morning for Los Angeles to join her husband. They will be the guests of Mrs. Robert Grievce, formerly of Victoria. Dancing and singing occupied the evening. Mrs. Harris and Miss Hancock gave the party a special treat in the form of selections on the piano. Those wishing Mrs. Harris "bon voyage" were Mr. and Mrs. R. Alexander, Mrs. Nan Bonnar, Mr. and Mrs. Hoskyn, Miss Hancock, Billy Hoskyn and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grievce.

Continued Summer weather augurs well for the success of the garden party and sale of work which is being held to-morrow afternoon in the Precincts under the auspices of the Victoria branch of the Royal Society of St. George. Mrs. C. W. Nichol has kindly consented to open the function at 2 o'clock, and a well-arranged program including costume dances by the West End Players, some amusing items by the Radio Concert Party, dancing, tennis and other amusements, with the attractions of well-stocked booths and delicious refreshments, should ensure a record attendance and unequalled success for the undertaking.

MIGRATION OF JEWS TO PALESTINE

London, July 10.—Hon. William Ormsby-Gore, British representative on the permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations, told the House of Commons in answer to a question yesterday that of the total of 12,800 Jews, who migrated to Palestine in 1922, only 280 were from English-speaking countries. For the first available months of 1922, 24 out of a total of 4,000 emigrants were from such countries.

ROYAL VICTORIA

One of the most exciting of the thriller episodes abounding in "The Isle of Lost Ships," now playing at the Royal Theatre, centres about a submarine, and Director Maurice Tourneur has injected into it tense and gripping drama.

The locale of the story, which was written by Capt. Crittenden Marriot, is in the Sargasso Sea, a tract in the North Atlantic in which, sailors declare, thousands of vessels of all eras have been sucked and where the survivors have formed a colony.

Into this strange "island of ships" the hulk of an ocean liner is drawn. On it are three persons, a society girl, a New York detective, and his prisoner, a former naval officer, under sentence of death. The ruler of the colony covets the girl, who is saved from his clutches by the prisoner. Seeking a means of escape from what looked like certain death, they find a submarine which had been abandoned by its crew and has been swept into the vortex by the currents.

Being a former naval officer, the prisoner is able to operate the submarine, and plans are laid to escape in it. They are discovered before they can get away, but manage to find refuge in the boat just as it is being sunk. Desperately, the pursuers climb aboard the slowly sinking submarine, trying to batter a hole in it before it can gain the depths. As the boat sinks below the level of the water they are washed off and their attempts foiled.

Then started a hazardous journey. As the submarine started to rise to the surface it was held down by the weight of tons of wood, and the detective was shot out of the torpedo tube to cut away the weeds. Start-

GEORGIA MINSTRELS NOW AT PANTAGES

Clever Show Will Be This Week's Drawing Card

The famous Georgia Minstrels opened at the Pantages Theatre this afternoon to a big house and two shows will be given to-night at 7 and 9 and the same to-morrow and Thursday. The prices being the same as have prevailed since the reopening.

The history of the American stage does not record a more enduring success than that achieved by the famous Georgia Minstrels. This company saw weather the storm of over thirty-three years on the road, having visited time upon time every city and state on this continent, and have spent numerous seasons in foreign countries where they have been received by crowned heads and the nobilities, where their success has been as marked as in their native country. The company and production for this season is out of the ordinary.

PLAYHOUSE

"Certainly a play to see, and reveal in," is the criticism of "The Angel in the House" contained in the London paper "Town Topics." Among a host of enthusiastic and eulogistic opinions, this one perhaps hits off most aptly the favorable manner in which the play was received in London a few years ago, when produced by the late Mr. H. B. Irving. It is a fantastic comedy in three acts, fresh and vastly amusing, brilliant and deliciously witty, in the hands of the Compton Comedy Company, who had entrenched themselves so strangely in the hearts of Victoria playgoers, and whose excellent work in drawing an increased attendance to the Playhouse nightly, this play will receive a powerful rendering.

Mr. Compton will play "The Angel" and will give the unusual competent support from the other favorite members of the company. "The Angel in the House" is considered one of the cleverest comedies of the light ethereal style that have been written in the last fifty years.

YOUR CHILD IS AN ANIMAL.

Many mothers do not realize that children are little animals and require as great feeding care as other young animals. Everyone knows that young animals can be killed by improper food.

Chickens, pigeons, guinea pigs, rats, mice, dogs, monkeys, and men have been quickly brought to death's door or killed by an exclusive diet of white flour products, polished rice, white or creamy wheat, barley, and corn cereals, from which the dark parts have been refined away. With all of the above foods an animal can eat, or soon dies, because such foods are deprived of their alkaline salts and growth and repair substances. Such foods turn the blood acid and the body's vitinizing elements are thus destroyed. The very bones are absorbed in the process. Prof. Forbes fed swine upon modern corn cereals until their legs broke under them because of poor bone quality.

We must revise our child feeding. More whole grains, milk, eggs, beans, nuts, vegetables and fruits, foods which kept our forefathers rugged and long lived. Such foods keep the blood normally alkaline and rich in growth and repair substances, lessening sickness and increasing growth.

There is but one non-acid, whole-grain cereal, Roman Meal, 400 parts in each 1,000 parts "Excess Alkali" (opposite of acid). Roman Meal, as porridge with milk or as baked products with milk or as baked products with milk as drink, will keep your child normal, robust and well. Your child demands the best and Roman Meal is the best child's food. Buy it in one of the following brands and JELL-E are hot day treats. Recipes on package. At grocers. (Adv.)

There's Eleanor Boardman in the leading role, that of Remember Stedman, the daughter of a minister, who fell into a motion picture career. Miss Boardman a year ago was unknown on the stage, but she had already made a name for herself in her previous picture "Gimmie," and then in Marshall Neilan's "Strangers' Banquet" and Hugo Ballin's "Gandy Fish" that Goldwyn gave her a long-term contract and awarded her the lead in "Souls for Sale."

COLUMBIA SCHOOL HAD MANY AWARDS

Remarkable Successes in Recent Musical Examinations

Victoria has always enjoyed much fame in its past musical traditions. It can also feel justifiably proud of its many musical institutions, which in the course of a year prepare and enter many hundreds of pupils for theoretical examinations in practical and theoretical subjects. These are held here by the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and Royal College of Music, London, Eng. A few weeks ago these examinations were held by Mr. Maurice Besly, of London, Eng., representing the Associated Board, when a large number of candidates presented themselves.

Among the musical institutions entering candidates was the Columbia School of Music, Broad Street, and out of a total number of 259 local students who gained passes, no less than 70, or one-third of the whole number, were Columbia pupils. Of this total number of candidates entered by this school 92 per cent. passed, and out of the ten honors gained in Victoria, four were awarded pupils of this institution. These being in the Advanced Grade, Ronald Heard, in the Elementary Grade, Mary Leith, and Brian Burdon-Murphy, and in the Primary Grade, Phyllis Hadfield, who in only five years' study, such high standard bespeaks the best of methods, efficient and conscientious teaching. A great deal of these successes can be attributed to the pupils' monthly excursions given during the months of the year, which tend to lay a broad and firm foundation by reason of the interest being steadily maintained, confidence and inspiration being afforded by these "marriage tests" by all who take part in the interesting programmes prepared each month.

Names of the Columbia successful pupils are: Advanced Division, Piano—Ronald Heard (honors), Isabella Milnehall, Dorothy Osborn.
Piano, Intermediate Division—Hilda Elliott.

LAST VESTIGE OF VANISHED TRADE

Only Seal Pelts Taken On West Coast Here for Export

Fur Buyer Voices Opinion On Present Sealing Restrictions

With 1,530 fur seal pelts, valued at a minimum of five pounds sterling, James Sloman, fur-buyer, of Toronto, on the West Coast, has arrived in the city. For the past few months Mr. Sloman and his son have been engaged with the Indians, purchasing pelts. There they have been watching a catch which is one of the best in years. Over 2,000 pelts were taken by the Indians, which realized them over $30,000, stated Mr. Sloman.

"It is evident," he said, "that the seal herd is rapidly increasing, and it will do so year by year, especially if the present treaty which expires in 1926 is renewed. Four countries are involved in this agreement, Great Britain, Japan, Russia and the United States, but it is quite probable that Canada and Japan will not be parties to any such agreement when the present treaty becomes null and void. Both these countries, Japan and Canada, have practically lost a thriving industry and the United States is getting the best of the deal. The seal herds may be compared to an oyster," said Mr. Sloman. The United States is getting what is inside, and the rest of us get the shell."

The Indians from Doggers' Cove, Ucluellet and other points were instrumental in securing the pelts this season for Mr. Sloman. Law forbids these hunters to use any sort of power boat in their hunting expeditions, or in any way connected with the catching of the seals; nor are they allowed to use guns, but must hunt with their old weapons as they have done for time immemorial.

The Claviquet, Aousahet and Kelsmahit tribes, farther north, give their time to hunting more than do those with whom Mr. Sloman has his dealings. Their trawling operations give them better returns, without any doubt, thinks Mr. Sloman, than would any seal hunting method.

Mr. Sloman will have his skins passed by the Canadian Customs officers here, and when this inspection is completed the sealers will be anyone wishing to make a purchase. However, the whole catch will probably be shipped to England, where it is sold by public auction, and where buyers from Munich, Moscow, Petrograd, Berlin, Paris, Brussels and many other towns of Europe converge.

Figuring the value of the pelts on last year's price basis they are worth in the neighborhood of $40,000 in the raw state. But after being plucked, tanned and dyed, and placed upon somebody's back in the shape of a coat or cloak, their value would run over half a million dollars.

Chamber of Commerce Directors Elect Group Chairmen and Hear Reports

Complaints against the insistence of the Canadian-Australasian Royal Mail Line that freight charges be paid on all goods shipped from Vancouver Island to the Mainland for transshipment to certain ports in the South Sea, were referred to once more by a special committee, headed by R. W. Mayhew, yesterday at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors.

C. P. W. Schwengers and A. E. MacLean were chosen as chairmen of the Transportation and Wholesale groups of the Chamber of Commerce, respectively. F. A. Pauline, M.P.P., was elected chairman of a special committee which will investigate iron and steel possibilities on the Island.

Brigadier-General R. P. Clark stated that Saanich and Oak Bay had practically promised support for the maintenance of Menzies Avenue. An Esquimalt would in all probability follow suit. The situation regarding the Avenue, he believes, has improved considerably. Saanich is willing to provide upkeep for the Avenue to the extent of $200 annually.

TO BUILD UP FOLKS OVER 40
Iron Rejuvenates Blood; Yeast Quickens Life-Building Cells

If you feel that you are "slowing up," if the day's work tires you more than formerly, or if you lack the punch and stay-there powers of younger days, nothing will bring such quick improvement or produce such amazing tonic effects as this new combination of iron and yeast known as Ironized Yeast. For the first time scientists are now able to give to yeast a power that acts directly on the blood. As everyone knows, yeast has proved itself to be of untold value in strengthening the life-building processes. But something was needed to build up this, pale, weak yeast, and this was done by yeast-positively to establish far-reaching effects in its work of physical reconstruction of the vital functions of the body. Scientists now agree that brewer's yeast is the richest source of vitamins and is the most potent source of iron, and yeast is a combination of iron and other valuable tonic ingredients with yeast imported from Dan's Ale Brewery, England, and especially concentrated under the process recommended by Dr. A. S. Sidel, of the Hygienic Laboratory of the U. S. Public Health Service. Get Ironized Yeast from your druggist to-day. It is convenient and pleasant to take, being in handy tablet form. The ten-day treatment costs only $1.00. It is guaranteed to give satisfactory results or your money will be cheerfully refunded.

OVERWORKED CITY FINANCIAL HEADS DENYING RELIEF

Finance Committee, Unable to Do All Work, Urges Remodelling of System
Want All Members to Attend and Share Work Or Resign

Overworked and unable to attend to important matters of policy because it must go over and approve every expenditure made by city departments, the City Council finance committee is about to recommend a revision of the present system of city accounting. If the committee's plans are adopted, the council will have only for two members of the committee to approve an expenditure to make it legal. Under this plan it will be possible to divide the routine work among the committee members and speed it up, leaving more time for important matters of policy.

While recommending this revision of the accounting system, finance committee members are demanding emphatically that all committee meetings be fully attended, so that the routine work may be divided among the members. Absence of Alderman Egan, for example, has caused a dozen consecutive meetings to be subject of strong protest at yesterday's committee meeting it was stated by members to-day.

If Alderman Andrew does not attend the committee meetings, a member of the committee will move that he be asked to resign and that the Mayor replace him, it was learned at the City Hall. Discussion of Alderman Andrew's absence from the committee meetings is the upshot of a recent discussion in the Council which the Finance Committee was criticizing Finance Committee work when he did not attend committee meetings. Alderman Andrew replied that he would attend when he saw it and that he had a right to question his manner of serving the city.

Yesterday's Finance Committee meeting was a busy one. The committee voted to speed regulations to spend practically all its time from two o'clock to five o'clock on routine accounts. As a result, important matters of policy could not be discussed. This condition is considered intolerable by the committee members.

The appeal and cross appeal of Alkman vs. Burdick Brothers and Alkman will open in the Court of Appeal as the next case at bar.

The hearing concerns the action brought by Burdick Brothers, former wife of James Allan Alkman, barrister of this city, against Burdick Brothers, Ltd., brokers, and her former husband, Mr. Alkman, in the Supreme Court. The appeal is by the defendant against an order of Mr. Justice Morrison, who ruled that judgment be given for the plaintiff against himself. The cross appeal is by Mrs. Alkman against the same order, which held that the defendants, Burdick Brothers, Ltd., were not liable, and dismissed the action against them.

The sum of $1,900 and brokerage charges was paid, and brokers instructed, says the claim, to carry the shares on the account of the plaintiff. On November 30 of the same year the defendant broker went to the claimant and sold the shares, realizing $1,424.50. This sale was unauthorized, alleged the plaintiff, and claimed the sum of $1,900, or return of the shares or the money, or alternatively against the defendant, Alkman, alleging that he had wrongfully received the proceeds of the sale and applied them to his own use.

In a judgment dated January 3, 1923, Mr. Justice Morrison dismissed the action against the brokers, with costs to be carried by the plaintiff, but found for the defendant as against the defendant Alkman. The appeal is taken by Mr. Alkman on the ground, with others, that the trial judge erred in not holding the transaction to be a "gambling in stocks," and as such illegal under Section 237 of the Criminal Code. The cross appeal asks that the order holding only the defendant Alkman liable be varied to include the retaining defendant brokers, and that the trial judge erred in not finding defendant brokers liable on their books from the plaintiff's name to that of the defendant Alkman, and that the defendant brokers were agents solely for the purpose of selling the shares to sell the shares.

This will complete the freight salvage.

OFFICIALS SEIZE SMOKE LAKE CAMP

Fishing Also Banned Entirely On City Waterworks Area
City waterworks officials have seized a tent and camping outfit, found on the Sooke Lake watershed.

City Engineer and Water Commissioner F. M. Preston announced to-day: "No camping on the watershed is allowed and any more camps discovered there will be seized." Mr. Preston declared, "The city explained, has no right to keep the tent and outfit on the Sooke Lake and will return them to their owner if he can be found. So far no one has applied for them."

No license allowing people to fish in Sooke Lake are being issued this year. Numerous applications for fishing privileges have been made to the city engineer, but he has refused them to Mr. Preston. The Water Commissioner, however, has rejected them all. He has no power, he says, to grant fishing privileges.

KING'S EVIDENCE PROVED UNRELIABLE

Dong Wing, Indicted With Intent to Murder, Made Conflicting Confessions

That the trial judge, Mr. Justice Morrison, prevented counsel for the defence from examining a witness who had turned King's evidence, and informed on his own of the evidence on a material point at issue was the contention advanced by M. A. Macdonald, K.C., in the Appeal Court this morning. Mr. Macdonald appears with G. S. Carter for the appellants in the hearing of Rex (respondent) versus Elsie Simmons, Henry Greenwood, and Dong Wing. The three defendants were charged at the Revelstoke Assizes with dynamiting the home of Christine Smith on Front Street with intent to murder. Dong Wing turned state evidence after pleading guilty to the charge. The remaining accused pleaded not guilty. The trial that followed involved much of the underworld life at Revelstoke and dealt largely with a series of bombing incidents, in one of which the home of the complainant was wrecked, and in another the garage of the mayor was damaged.

To the court to-day Mr. Macdonald submitted that the trial judge erred in permitting evidence as to bombing incidents other than that mentioned in the indictment of the accused Dong Wing. It appears, confessed to his share in the whole matter, but his confession to the police, the defence materially said counsel, to the confession he made at the preliminary hearing. He, as counsel for the accused who had pleaded guilty to the charge, had introduced evidence in his statements, and gain the benefit to be derived from such a course in the presence of a jury. The trial judge had ruled that the confessions were in violation in themselves and that was sufficient without additional cross-examination. The defence continues with Cecil Killam for the Crown yet to be heard.

Publicity Bureau is Now at Peak of Business
The great majority of settlers coming to Vancouver Island at the present time are from Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, the Victoria and Publicity Bureau announced to The Times this morning. Owing to the fact that farmers on the prairies—who have no great amount of capital to keep their business intact—are having a very hard struggle to keep out of dangerous waters, the influx of this class of people is surprising. Many of them are selling their homes and acreage and are coming to the Island.

With the farmers from the prairies comes a host of tourists from all parts of the continent every day. The increasing number of tourists of the American States, have sent their contingent of tourists to Vancouver Island. These are pouring through the ferry boat which connects the prairies and motor, and make Victoria their mecca. Yesterday nearly 150 tourists called at the Publicity Bureau offices for information.

The increasing number of communications which are coming to the Publicity Bureau from all parts of the Dominion and many points of the United States, are an indication that public interest has been awakened regarding Vancouver Island. The little cards which advertised the Island and were placed in the strawberry crates which were sent to the prairies have called forth a veritable deluge of enquiries.

PREMIER VISITS RODD HILL CAMP

Value of Boys' Naval Brigades Is Demonstrated
The Boys' Naval Brigade Camp at Rodd Hill was visited by Premier Oliver and members of the Cabinet yesterday afternoon. They were the guests of the officers at a camp luncheon. The boys were inspected at different classes by the Premier, and were complimented on the showing that they made.

J. B. Warricker, in a short address, pointed out the object of these boys' naval brigades, and the importance of finding openings for Canadian boys in Canadian enterprises. This, he said was a responsibility that the Navy League had undertaken and every Canadian ship sailing the high seas and leaving the ports of Victoria and Vancouver carried at least two and in some cases three and four of these young lads as apprentices serving their time to become officers in ocean liners frequencing the Pacific Coast. The brigades were productive of the same results as were those ships in the Old Country, the Conway, the Mersey and the Worcester, where intending mercantile marine officers were trained. Canadian apprentices were never entertained in the Mercantile Marine until the Navy League took the work in hand, and now the shipping companies look wholly to the Navy League to supply their needs. About thirty boys will be qualifying in the year or so and without making any allowances for new ships, that many vacancies will be open to applicants that time.

England became the greatest shipping and trading country of the world by its enterprise and sea spirit and Canadians should take every advantage of the possibilities of this great country, bearing in mind the words of President Roosevelt: "The Mediterranean era died with the discovery of America, the Atlantic era has almost reached the limit of its resources, but the Pacific era is only just born."

The Premier replied briefly, commending the work which he realized was of great benefit to British Columbia and Canada.

AGENT TO VISIT SEATTLE TOURISTS

Harold Palmer, Local Man, to Spread Victorian Publicity Among Motorists

Harold Palmer, of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, and secretary of the local automobile club, will leave to-morrow morning for Seattle in company with George L. Warren, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, to work in the Seattle field for tourists on behalf of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. It will be the duty of Mr. Palmer to endeavor to attract to this Island the motor tourists which flock to Seattle camps, and there he will be stationed with this end in view.

Mr. Palmer has for some time been connected with the local Chamber of Commerce and has been an ardent worker for the automobile camp at Curlew Point on the Gorge. It was through him largely that the camp has had much of its success, and with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, Victoria's camping ground for the motoring tourists is second to none in the Northwest.

Mr. Palmer will remain in Seattle until the end of August, in all probability. Mr. Warren will possibly remain in Seattle for several days. He also plans a trip to Portland, there to give his talk on Vancouver Island, illustrated as it is with splendid films of scenic attractions of this country. Mr. Warren will then return to Victoria, going through Seattle en route and will leave with Mr. Palmer the same day.

MUSICAL TEA
A very enjoyable affair was the "music tea" given as the first of a series at her studio in the Hibben-Bone Block by Miss Clara Powell yesterday afternoon. Michaelmas Festivals were used in the floral decorations, the whole effect being charming. Miss Powell opened the programme with the popular poem, "Lilac Time," by Alfred Noyes, with a musical accompaniment adapted from Dvorak. Following this she gave several other items, grave and gay, with original musical settings, among them being a stirring poem by Canon Scott entitled "Our Duty." Ashfield Walker, a young pupil, gave able assistance with a number of recitations by Newbolt, Nesbit and others. The next tea will take place on Thursday afternoon, when several of Miss Powell's pupils will take part in the programme, and Miss Ethel Anderson will contribute a Grecian scarf dance.

Curlw Boxers Include Crack Featherweight

Fighter Who Handed Kayo to Criqui May Be Seen in Action To-morrow

A special bout between Al Davies, the crack V. L. A. A. bantam, and a member of the crew of H.M.S. Curlew, who is claimed by his shipmates, is one of the best feasters in the service and who it is claimed has a record which includes a K.O. over Criqui, the famous French featherweight, who was successful in winning the world's championship the other week from Johnnie Kilbane, is the ambition of Billy Davies, match maker for to-morrow night's United Service boxing tournament at the Drill Hall in aid of the Esquimalt Sailors' Home.

If the bout or exhibition is staged it should prove to be one of the finest staged in this city. The local boy has proved conclusively in the past that he is the finest boxer that has ever been developed in Western Canada.

Beat Ridley.
His record, which extends over the last twelve years, includes victories over such famous boxers as Bud Ridley, the Coast featherweight champ, who he beat decisively in a 15-round bout; Earl Baird, of New York, who is looked upon as the logical successor to Johnnie Dundee, the present United Service champion; Len Holiday, the clever Vancouver lightweight, and Stoker Teddy Yates, the H.M.S. Newcastle lightweight, claimant of the championship of the China squadron, whom he K.O'd on two occasions. Possibly the greatest fight in which the local boy took part was with Eddi Campi, one of the best men in the world who had victories over Joe Fox, the English champ; Ledoux, the French champ, whom he K.O'd, and a draw with Kid Williams, the world's champion, to his credit. Although out-weighted by about twelve pounds, the local boy gave Campi one of the best fights of his career and was beaten on points in ten rounds.

Other boys who have offered their services for the show are: Scotty McKay, the well known local lightweight, and F. Haigh, featherweight, who have offered to appear in either exhibitions or bouts and if men can be found to meet them they will be put on in special bouts. The Davies' kiddies, Albie and Jumbo, will also appear on the programme in a special bout. Their last appearance was at the Moose sports when Albie retained his title of world's dustweight champion, after a most strenuous three-round battle which had the big crowd of spectators on their feet from start to finish. Lieut. Watson, who is acting as master of ceremonies, requests that all civilian boxers be at the Drill Hall at 7.30 sharp to-morrow evening so that they can be examined by the doctor before entering the ring. All civilian entries must have an amateur card which can be procured from W. S. Maguire at the Y. M. C. A. There is a big demand for tickets and it looks as if there would be a record crowd in attendance at the Drill Hall to-morrow night. The committee have made special reduction in the general admission for the boys who will be admitted at a very nominal charge. Ringside seats can be reserved at the Empire Realty Co., 441 Fort Street.

Elks Gala an Attraction For Visiting Seamen

Events for Men of H. M. S. Curlew Included in Programme for July 21st

Among the outstanding entertainment features during the stay in Victoria of the H.M.S. Curlew will be the fourth annual gala of the Elks' Swimming Club, the date of which has been changed to Saturday, July 21 for the benefit of the visiting sailors.

A good entry list is expected in the events thrown open to the men from the ship, the gala being held in cooperation with the United Services, including officers and men of the Curlew and members of the permanent forces of the Army and Navy. The Elks' pool at the Gorge has been placed at the disposal of intending competitors for practices.

Work has been started on the new pool which will be ready for the gala.

Secretary J. Stewart is advised that a delegation of swimmers will be over from Vancouver. There are two B. C. championships at stake. Dave Barclay, of the Elks' Swimming Club, present holder of the 100 yards Canadian championship will endeavor to add the B. C. title for that distance to his long list of honors.

Diving from the ten foot board is the other title event. It consists of ten dives for each contestant, running from five, standing jack knife, back dive and four optional.

The open events include an obstacle race, a 50 yards backstroke race, a duck chase and a relay race for the United Services. Sarazen Turns in Low Card at Inwood

Weak Putting Prevents Him Making Course Record in Championship Games

Inwood, N. Y., July 9.—Gene Sarazen, golf wizard of Briarcliffe, Louisiana, and present open champion, qualified for the 1923 national open championship to be played Friday and Saturday. The course at Inwood, which he attempted to qualify, he turned the difficult Inwood Country Club course twice to-day in 148 strokes, the lowest card in the eighteen who led a field of ninety.

One Under Par.
Sarazen's long and accurate driving and pitch shots accounted for his 36, the under par, on the first nine in the morning. His putting was not at its best, however, and this probably prevented him from setting a course record. He missed several strokes several times going out and coming in, but made the second 9 in 37, two over par.

In the afternoon a stiff wind blew, making the course at least three strokes harder, and Sarazen found trouble in keeping his shots straight down the fairways.

On his last nine Sarazen was at his best, finishing with a par 35.

Of the three amateurs who took part in the tournament to-day Charles B. Evans, of Chicago, was the only survivor. The others, Kenneth Reid, of Ardrey and Larry Patton, of Boston, fell by the wayside. Reid took two over par, while Patton used up so many precious strokes in the morning that he withdrew in the afternoon.

Evans was off from in the morning, taking an 82. He started on the first with a birdie three, but after that his golf slumped. His 158 strokes for the 36 holes was two strokes within the limit required for the first eighteen.

VICTORIA NET PLAYERS DEFEATED AT PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., July 10.—Leon De Turenne, Seattle, reached the second round in men's singles in the sectional championship by defeating Roy Okenberg, Salem, Ore., and Dr. E. H. Stimmertz, of Portland. In the second round he was defeated in the afternoon by Wallace Scott, of Tacoma, 3-6, 2-6, 6-8.

G. H. Peers, of Vancouver, B. C., disposed of Sandy Smith, of Tacoma, in the morning, he was defeated by Ed Murphy, of Portland, Ore., in the afternoon. He defeated Murphy by scores of 3-7, 6-3, 6-4.

In the only junior singles match, Harry Shaw, of Seattle, easily defeated A. A. Hodgins, of Victoria, 6-0, 6-1.

First Pictures in British Columbia of Shelby Heavyweight Fight

A part of the crowd of 15,000 that gathered at the railroad station at Shelby to watch the throngs arrive for the Dempsey-Gibbons battle. But only about 8,000 of them bought tickets to the fight. Some of the special trains that brought the fans to town are shown on the sidetracks.

Gibbons and Dempsey were so intense on the battle that Referee Jimmie Daugherty often had to wave at them like a treading waves at a bull to make them lay off at the end of a round. This shows the close of the tenth round.

SPORT WRITERS GIVE LEONARD DECISION

Lightweight Champion Defeats Ohio Boy in Eight-Round Go

Philadelphia, July 10.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, last night defeated Alex Hart, of Lorain, Ohio, in the opinion of the majority of sports writers at the ringside, in an eight-round bout. Approximately 20,000 persons, the largest crowd that ever witnessed a boxing exhibition in this city, saw the match.

Ritchie Mitchell, of Milwaukee, won the popular decision in an eight-round bout here to-night with George Russell, of this city, preliminary to the Benny Leonard-Alex Hart and Joe Lynch-Bobby Wolgast encounters. Russell substituted for Joe Tipitz, Philadelphia, who was reported to have been taken suddenly ill just before the bout.

In another preliminary bout Nate Goldman, Philadelphia, outboxed Pinky Mitchell, of Milwaukee, in eight fast rounds, according to the newspapermen. Both men scored knockdowns in the fourth round. Mitchell weighed 139 pounds and Goldman 149.

Bobby Wolgast, Philadelphia, earned a draw, according to sports writers, in his eight-round bout to-night with Joe Lynch, New York, heavyweight champion, at the National League Baseball Park. Wolgast forced the fighting in the early rounds and in the fifth he had the champion holding. Lynch got better as the fight progressed, his work in the seventh and eighth rounds putting him on even terms with the Philadelphia challenger.

Leonard returned to New York today after his defeat of Alex Hart, of Lorain, Ohio, last night, to take a brief rest before he starts training for his bout with Lew Tenders, the Philadelphia challenger.

SEATTLE GOLFER HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR THE TIMES

Cordial appreciation of the fact that The Times was represented at the Pacific Northwest golf championships at Seattle was expressed at a dinner party to the professionals given by Vice-President Stierick of the Seattle Golf Club.

Mr. Stierick mentioned that The Times was the only paper outside of Seattle sending a reporter to the tournament and he sincerely admired the enterprise of the Victoria paper. The Times was singled out for complimentary reference in the toast to the Press at the banquet, its representative making a suitable response.

FIGHT FINANCIER AT GREAT FALLS CLOSES DOORS OF HIS BANK

Great Falls, Mont., July 10.—The Stanton Bank & Trust Company, of Great Falls, closed its doors to-day. George H. Stanton, president, was prominent in the financing of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Mont., on July 4.

Stanton was associated with men who raised the second $100,000 that was paid to Dempsey as part of his $300,000 guarantee to meet Gibbons for the title in Shelby.

"Any money raised in Great Falls or Shelby for the Dempsey payment was not drawn from the reserve of the Stanton Bank or from my personal funds," Stanton declared. "I gave such assistance as I could to the promoters of the contest, but my connection with the bout should not be associated with the closing of the bank to-day."

Stanton said the bank was closed because of inability to meet obligations at the clearing house. L. Q. Skelton, state superintendent of banks, arrived to-night and went into conference with Stanton.

FIGHT POSTPONED.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—The Rocky Kansas-Johnny Mendelsohn fight which was to have been held to-night, was postponed until Wednesday night, when Kansas, through his manager, refused to meet the Milwaukee boy because he was four pounds overweight.

MECHANICS AFTER SCALPS OF C. P. R.

Battle Royal Expected When Teams Clash at Stadium This Evening

This evening at the ball park the Automotives and the C. P. R. nines will provide the excitement in a senior amateur league fixture. The mechanics will be right out after the scalps of the railwaymen and if the marked improvement that they have shown in their last couple of games has given them the confidence that they will be able to hand the league leaders a trimming. Last Tuesday the spark plugs humbled the highly touted Eagles and on Sunday they gave the Lady Smiths nine a drubbing.

However, the railroaders have been playing a high class of ball and will take a lot of beating.

Zaccarelli, the hefty southpaw of the mechanics, will be on the mound for them with Parfitt in reserve.

Either Art Webster, the new entry to the fold, or Charlie Saunders, will do the heaving for the C. P. R.

The twilight game means a lot to the railroaders, as they have a game and a half lead on the Eagles, so a win this evening will put them well out in front, while a loss will practically tie things up again.

To-night is Ladies' night and it is hoped that a lot of the fair sex will be present at the battle.

The usual will be called at 6.30 o'clock sharp, with the old reliable Alvie McGregor "rolling 'em."

HORSE RIDING WAS FEATURE OF SPORTS

Among the many events which drew the applause of the crowd at the Police Sports at the Willows on Saturday was the jumping exhibition by horses from the McCleave stables. The difficult stunt of jumping over an automobile was twice accomplished in spite of the fact that the track was heavy.

The famous Cormock also gave an exhibition of jumping.

OPEN NEGOTIATIONS FOR NEXT BIG FIGHT WITHIN A FEW DAYS

Salt Lake, Utah, July 10.—Negotiations for the next heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and probably Harry Wills, negro, will be opened with New York promoters within a few days. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, announced as he prepared to leave for New York to-day.

Jack and Jess Together Fair Game For Firpo

Luis's People Think Champ and Ex-Champ Would Make One Good Fighter

New York, July 10.—Six Argentinians and one Coati, an animal that somewhat resembles an ant-eater, arrived from South America on the Pan-American to-day to help Luis Angel Firpo achieve victory over Jess Willard at Boyle's Thirty Acres Thursday night.

The Argentinians, confident that Firpo can whip Willard and Champion Jack Dempsey, singly or simultaneously, declared themselves ready to bet everything they had on their countryman. And if they succeed in their design of getting Captain Rose, of the Pan-American, to make Firpo a present of the lucky coat they intimated they might be willing to bet even more.

Training.

Nearing the finish of their training programme, Luis Angel Firpo and Jess Willard, giants of the prize ring, who will meet at Boyle's Thirty Acres Thursday night to determine a challenger for Jack Dempsey's crown, planned only light exercise to-day.

Firpo, at his seaside quarters in Long Branch, N. J., was slated for the harder workout of the two. Jimmy De Forest, ring mentor of the South American, expected to have his sparring partners, Bill Tate and Jack McAuliffe, in action against Firpo, besides a private workout and a few miles on the road.

Willard, pronounced by Jack Skelly, his veteran handler, to be in top shape, will have just enough exercise to keep him on edge.

The big fellow, scaling around 240 pounds, appears fit.

Floyd Johnson, who boxes McAuliffe in the semi-final Thursday, will put the finishing touches to-day on his training at Saratoga.

Stein Captures Medal Honors at Seattle

Washington State Amateur Champion Leads Brilliant Field of Golfers

Seattle, July 9.—Achieving a rally that evoked the enthusiasm of the Bon Stein, of the Seattle Golf Club, Washington State amateur champion, to-day captured the medal honors in a 36-hole qualifying round for the amateur championship of the Northwest Golf Association, which opened Friday.

Playing on the links of the Seattle Golf Club, Stein, after shooting a forty on the first nine, five strokes over par, came back with 34-35-36 for a total of 145, three strokes under for the 36 holes. He was four strokes ahead of Forest Watson, Spokane, Dr. O. F. Willing, Waverly Golf Club, Portland, and Russell Smith, Waverly, who were tied at 147 for second place.

Stein shot the last twenty-seven holes in twenty par, six birdies and one eagle. The eagle was made on the ninth, second time around, when Stein laid a brazen eight foot shot for the flag and dropped the ball for a three. His second round was 69, four strokes under par, which ties the course record.

Dr. Willing, whose name was in American headlines while he was playing in England with the Walker Cup team, early this summer, clipped off a 79 on the morning round, one stroke better than any score turned in during the Pacific Northwest open championship tournament on the same links last week.

H. Zaccarelli, the hefty southpaw of the mechanics, was right behind him with 71, and Watson was next with 72.

Either Art Webster, the new entry to the fold, or Charlie Saunders, will do the heaving for the C. P. R.

The twilight game means a lot to the railroaders, as they have a game and a half lead on the Eagles, so a win this evening will put them well out in front, while a loss will practically tie things up again.

To-night is Ladies' night and it is hoped that a lot of the fair sex will be present at the battle.

The usual will be called at 6.30 o'clock sharp, with the old reliable Alvie McGregor "rolling 'em."

Giants Break Jinx Winning One From Reds

Serious Talk By McGraw to Slipping Team Brings Fruits of Victory

New York, July 10.—A reported serious talk by Manager McGraw to his slipping Giants on Sunday after the second defeat at the hands of Cincinnati, bore the fruit of victory yesterday when the Giants beat the Westerners 13-6.

The Yankees at St. Louis continued their victory, winning 9-3; Boston took the measure of Cleveland 4-1, while Philadelphia beat Detroit, 4-5. The Chicago Cubs defeated Boston 4-1, while the White Sox pushed Washington further back in the second division by winning 8-1.

Slater to Manage St. Louis
St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—Change in the field management of the St. Louis Americans, contemplated by Phil Ball, owner of the club, is said by local sport writers to be a reflection of the fans' disappointment at the Browns' failure this season. Their showing generally is believed to be due to the absence of George Slater, star first baseman, who, it is believed, will be asked to replace Manager Lee Fohl.

Mr. Ball's determination to change managers is said to have been openly expressed Sunday after the game with New York. He is reported to have criticized the manner in which Fohl directed the game.

HEAT DRIVES NEW YORK CLIFF-DWELLERS FROM HOMES.—Baby swings low in a cradle under the dock, Dad and Buddy stretch out on the beach and Mother sits up against a post so the sun won't get down her neck. This is how many New York families, cliff-dwellers, are spending the sweltering Summer nights that have made sleep in their homes almost impossible. This picture was taken at Coney Island.

WHEN SAFETY LAST'S THE SLOGAN.—The wreckage above was once an auto. Two persons, one of them Mrs. Harry McAfee, prominent interior decorator, were killed when a Los Angeles suburban double-header electric struck their machine. The train derailed and caught fire, injuring twenty-two passengers.

FATTY THINKS HE'S A KING.—Look at Fat, fellows. He's sittin' there on the fire-plug just as though it wuz a throne. But he feels like a king since the firemen of the East Side of New York City let the tenement kids cool off with their hose.

HONORED—See the man. Is he not proud? He wears a silk topper. And a cut-away. And a watch fob. That parchment in his hand is an honorary L. L. D. degree. Harvard conferred it at the 287th annual commencement. The man is J. P. Morgan.

INSIDE THE THREE-MILE LIMIT.—Choice liquors have been confiscated from several British steamers, by U. S. government dry-agents. This shows how a derrick lifted many cases from the White Star liner Baltic at New York following the Treasury Department's ruling that foreign vessels may not have surplus supplies within the three-mile limits. Note the British government seals, which revenue agents broke open, affixed to the boxes.

FOR THE CHILDREN
 The Sandman Story For To-night
 THE VERY WICKED WITCH.

Once upon a time there was a wicked witch who lived in a cave in the forest because she did not like anyone and wanted to be all by herself.

She did not like the birds, she disliked the animals, and if anything or anybody ventured near her cave she promptly changed them into stones. After a while the cave was surrounded by little piles of stones. One day into the forest there wandered a little girl. When she saw this strange stony looking place in the midst of the great green trees she wondered who could live in such desolation; and, being curious, she went to the cave and looked in.

"Ha, ha," said the old witch. "So you shall pay for this. A black kitten you shall be. And before the little girl could run away the old witch had chanted her song of enchantment and a little black kitten ran under the table."

The very wicked witch had long wanted a black cat, but only a pretty girl could be used on which to work the spell, and as none had come to the forest before the old witch had been careless until now.

The poor little black kitten learned many strange things about the magic arts in the time she lived with the wicked witch, but she had never found the way to break the spell that held her in the form of a cat.

One day while she was wandering about near the cave the black kitten heard the sound of a horse's feet and the next thing she heard was a cheery voice saying, "Kello, kiddy! How did you wander into this place?"

Now at the time the very wicked witch changed the girl into a kitten she had thrown over her a spell to make her forget how to talk, and when the black kitten looked up and saw the handsome man and heard his kind words she thought of what had happened when the witch saw him.

"Go back!" she said, but she had hardly spoken when she saw the old witch coming through the forest.

"It is too late," said the black kitten. "But don't let her know I can speak. If I can I will save you."

There was no time to say any more, for by now the wicked witch was chanting her magic song and in another minute the handsome man and his horse had become a pile of stones.

The poor little black kitten was now in deeper trouble than ever, for she had fallen in love with the man who had spoken the first kind words she had heard in many a long day, and she wanted to save him.

That night when the old witch held her wild dance she took her kettle and the black cat to the place where she had changed the man and horse into a pile of stones, instead of dancing by the door of her cave as she nightly did.

When all was ready and the fire was burning under her kettle the witch began to sing and to her listened harder than ever to what she said.

 When the wild dance was over she seemed to have forgotten the kitten and, standing before the pile of stones she had never of made, she said in a high pitched voice.
 A prince you never shall appear. 'Till these magic words you hear.
 Then the black kitten heard, the witch saying softly to herself, "Al-dobaron, Maldebaron, change," and again she began her wild dance.
 But the black kitten held the key to the magic art the witch had guarded, and she began to chant the song that changed the poor victims into stone and slower and slower the witch danced until she fell a heap of stones upon the ground.

 Then, running to the stones that had been the horse and rider, the black kitten very softly whispered the magic words she had heard the wicked witch repeat and up from the ground sprang the handsome man again, the horse which beside them no longer stood the black kitten, but a pretty blushing girl.

Before she went away with the Prince the pretty girl had given to all the victims of the wicked witch fact that he had hitherto not observed, that the sun never set on his dominions.

The danger plainly before Germany was this swarming imperialism, Russia and France into a combined attack upon her, an offensive-defensive. The Kaiser wavered between a stiff attitude toward Britain and clumsy attempts to propitiate her, while his feet grew shaky while he prepared for a preliminary struggle with Russia and France. When in 1913 the British government proposed a growing middle-aged and over-careful, the crown prince renewed his. Germany had never been so strong, never so ready for a new great adventure as another harvest of victories. The Russian Empire, were destroyed, the French degenerate, the British on the verge of civil war.

This young crown prince was but a sample of the abounding upper class youth of Germany in the Spring of 1914. They had all drunk from the same cup. Their professors and teachers, their speakers, and leaders, their mothers and sweethearts, had been preparing them for the great occasion that was now nearly at hand. They were full of the romantic sense of imminent conflict, of a trumpet call to stupendous achievements, of victory over mankind abroad, triumph over their own enemies at home.

Yet Germany did not yield itself without a struggle to the strongest flowing tide of imperialism. Important elements in German life struggled against this swamping new autocracy. The old German nation, and particularly the Bavarians, refused to be swallowed up in Prussianism. And with the spread of education and the rapid industrialization of Germany, organized labor developed its ideas and a steady antagonism to the military and patriotic clamoring of its ruler.

A new political party was growing up in the state, the Social Democrats, professing the doctrines of Marx. In the face of the strongest opposition from the official and clerical organizations, and of violent repressive laws against its propaganda and against combinations, this party grew.

The Kaiser denounced it again and again; its leaders were sent to prison or driven abroad. Still it grew. When he came to the throne it polled not half a million votes; in 1907 it polled over three million. He attempted to concede many things, old age and sickness insurance, for example, as a concedinging gift things which it claimed for the workers as their right. His conversion to socialism was noted, but it gained no converts to imperialism.

His naval ambitions were ably and bitterly denounced; the colonial adventures of the new German capitalists were incessantly attacked; by this party of the common sense of the common man. But to the army, the Social Democrats accorded a moderate support, because such as they defeated their home-grown autocrat, they hated and dreaded the barbaric and retrogressive autocracy of Russia on their eastern frontier more.

"Something intervened," he murmured.
 "Why didn't you wire?" she faltered almost under her breath. "He couldn't have had any time to get ready."
 Andrew Tallente looked at his wife across the bowl of floating flowers.

"Ah!" he exclaimed. "I didn't think of that. But in any case I did not make up my mind until I arrived that it was necessary for him to go."
 There was silence for a time, an unsatisfactory and in some respects an unnatural silence. Tallente trifled with his hours d'oeuvre and was inquisitive about the sauce with which the fish was flavoured. Stella sent away her plate untouched, but drank two glasses of champagne. The light came back to her eyes, she found courage again. After all, she was independent of this man, independent even of his name. She looked across the table at him appraisingly. He was still sufficiently good-looking, lithe of frame and muscular, with features well-cut although a little irregular in outline. Time, however, and anxious work were beginning to leave their marks. His hair was grey at the sides, there were deep lines in his face, he seemed to have shrunk a little during the last few years. He had still the languid, high-bred voice which she had always admired so much, the same eagerness of manner and quiet dignity. He was a personal man, but after all he was a failure.

His career, so far as she could judge, it was at an end. She was a fool to imagine, even for a moment, that her whole future lay in his keeping. "Have you any plans?" she asked him presently. "Another—constancy?"

He smiled a little wearily. For once he spoke quite naturally. "I have no plans at present, but I intend to rest for a time," he admitted.

She drank another glass of champagne and felt almost comfortable. She told him the small events of the sparsely populated neighborhood, spoke of the lack of water in the trout stream, the improvement in the golf links, the phantasms which a near-by landowner was turning down. They were comparative newcomers and had seen as yet little of their neighbors.

"I was told," she concluded, "that the great lady of the neighborhood was to have called upon me this afternoon. I waited in but she didn't come."

"And who is that?" he enquired.
 "Lady Jane Partington of Woolhanger—a daughter of the Duke of Barnminster. Woolhanger was left to her by an old aunt, and they say that she never leaves the place."
 "An elderly lady?" he asked, merrily with an intent of prolonging a harmless subject of conversation.
 "On the contrary, quite young," his wife replied. "She seems to be a sort of bachelor-spinster, who lives out in that lonely place without a chaperon and rules the neighborhood. You ought to make friends with her, Andrew. They say that she is half a Socialist—by the by, how long are we going to stay down here?"

"We will discuss that presently," he answered.
 The service of dinner came to its appointed end. Tallente drank one glass of port alone. Then he rose, passed along the terrace and looked in at the drawing-room, where Stella was lingering over her coffee.
 "Will you walk with me as far as the lookout?" he invited. "You may find it a good idea if you are likely to be cold."
 She responded a little ungraciously, but appeared a few minutes later, a filmy shawl of lace covering her bare shoulders. She walked by his side to the end of the terrace, along the curving walk through the plantation, and by the sea wall to the flagged space where some wattle and a table had been fixed. Four hundred feet below, the sea was beating against the jagged rocks. The moon was late and it was almost dark. She leaned over and he stood by her side.

"Stella," he said, "you are leaving the new British imperialism found its poet in Mr. Kipling and its practical support in a number of financial and business interests whose way to monopolies and exploitations was lighted by its glow. These Prussianizing Englishmen carried their imitation of Germany to the most extraordinary lengths.

REV. CANON SCOTT DELIGHTS HEARERS

Senior Chaplain of First Canadian Division Here

Stirring Story of Battlefields in Flanders

"If we are to-day a nation, boys—if we are now an important member of the world's conference—it is because you did your bit in France and Flanders and put Canada on the map. That is the birthplace of Canada." In these words Canon F. G. Scott, Senior Chaplain of the First Canadian Division, addressed a large gathering of men, and addressed the fighting forces of the Dominion in a stirring address before 200 assembled at G. W. V. A. Rooms last night.

Col. Ross Napier occupied the chair. Dr. Sharpe, new Dominion President of the G. W. V. A., and T. C. Lapp, editor of the Veteran, spoke briefly during the course of the three-hour meeting.

A Vivid Story.

Canon Scott, rector of St. Mathias Anglican Church, Montreal, was the senior chaplain to accompany Canada's first contingent overseas, and stayed with the Canadians from the camp at Valcartier until the close of the fighting at Passchendaele and Mons at the close of hostilities. Tracing every foot of the way from the time war called men to the colors in the Dominion and the First Division spent "a night in the trenches" at Armentieres under the wing of a British Division until the Canadian Corps emerged in the closing engagement holding one-fifth of the British front at the pivot point of attack, Canon Scott gave so vivid a picture that 200 ex-service men tramped with him through the billets, trenches, and battle fields in his retrospect.

Completing a tour of the battle fields last year Canon Scott brought to his audience a picture of Flanders as it is to-day. Told by the general, and it was a pleasant picture, Belgium, with less to repair and more money to do it, was pushing the reconstruction of her towns and villages faster than France. France was forging steadily ahead in the rehabilitation of her country, buoyed with optimism and hope that the last struggle was final so far as her terrain was concerned.

Memory Cherished.

All who cherished the memory of those who fell in action would do well to visit the battle fields, held the speaker, and see there the reverent care given to the last resting place of Canada's heroes. A tour of the battle fields, a talk with the people there, he said, would serve to convince that the sacrifice had not been in vain. The memory of Canada's sons was hallowed and re-

ESQUIMALT COUNCIL MET LAST NIGHT

Ordinary Business Transacted at Regular Municipal Meeting

The appointment of William Porteous as wire inspector, the acceptance of an invitation to attend the Esquimalt Retailers' picnic at Rose Bank on July 18, and the grant of $50 to the Esquimalt Women's Institute for their annual fair at the canteen ground were the business transacted last night by the Esquimalt Council.

A communication from Messrs. McIntosh and Finland informed the Council that by-laws set forth at a previous meeting for revision were ready for the Council's inspection. The by-laws include the Building By-Law, Garage By-Law, Firearms By-Laws, Fire Prevention By-Law, Milk By-Law, Motor Vehicle By-Law and other of less importance. The by-laws as revised were laid on the table to be left for the councilors to consider.

speaker, and outlined the steps which had been taken in the direction of the establishment of such a court. She stated that before the Local Council of Women approached the Provincial Government on the subject again it was almost imperative that it had the united support of all the municipalities. Mrs. Schofield told of the response she had received from the Attorney-General, who was willing to go to any effort to help members in their work. Mrs. Schofield explained that with the united support of the four municipalities, and the advice they could receive from them, members would then prepare a budget and show the Provincial Government just what would be the cost of conducting such a court.

Want Woman Judge.

Alluding to the formation of the court Mrs. Schofield described how it was desired that a woman judge be appointed so that girls of tender age might be treated with less embarrassment. Women understood girls better than men, Mrs. Schofield contended. Another of their aims was to have a staff of probation officers, who would look after and investigate the various juvenile cases, finding out the environment of their home.

vered, and the graves of her absent ones tended by loving hands. Introduced by Col. Ross Napier as "Three C. Scott"—Canon, Colonel, Comrade—the speaker's first act was characteristic of a large, friendly-looking pipe was extracted from his pocket, and a match in the Canon's hands led his audience at once to the pleasant lines of reverie where nothing but the goodly memory of comradeship obtruded.

The speaker traced his tour from Victoria station through Folkestone to France, where he was joined by Gen. Garnet Hughes, formerly of Victoria, through St. Omer, Cassel, Steenvorde, Strazeel and Itezinghelst to Poperinghe, where the party made their headquarters for the tour of the battle front to follow. The first cemetery visit was typical of the others. A stone wall enclosed the ground. The main gates were surmounted by the Cross of Sacrifice, while at the rear was the Stone of Remembrance, bearing the words: "Their Names Liveth for Evermore." Each Canadian grave had a maple leaf on it and all was beautifully kept. Twelve thousand men, known and unknown, were buried there.

Quarter of a Million

At Ypres a memorial reminded the visitor that the ground was consecrated to the lives of 250,000 British officers and men who lost their lives in the salient. Of these 19,000 were Canadians reported as missing, but their names were on the rolls. Pte. Metewell, and all the old bills, let the party went, missing here and there towns that had been obliterated in 1915. Metewell was in the salient, said the speaker, his Mayor living in a Nisson hut.

Throness, Bessent, St. Jean Capelle to the first lines of the Canadians at Houp lines where men of the First Division spent their last night in the trenches, and where Herbert Beaumont, the first Canadian killed received his wound. Everywhere was electric light and electricity. The factory section of Armentieres, reduced to crumpled brick in the war, was being reconstructed rapidly.

An Open Sesame.

To Fleur Baix, where the Canadians first had a line of their own, and back to Ypres through "Fleur Baix" village went the party. Everywhere old billets had been torn down to make way for new brick houses. The inhabitants remembered the Canadians, and the word was as an open sesame to all hearts and doors, said the speaker. Ypres square was a hive of industry with shops and restaurants. Only the Cloth Hall and the Cathedral stood in ruins.

The scene of the Second Battle of Ypres, St. Julien, Wytsen and Poel Capelle were visited next. The speaker picked out the trenches where Canadians were gassed and rose to charge; dressing stations where the wounded had lain on stretchers, and all the old landmarks of that scene. Tilers of the field were recovering bodies from the Salient at the rate of 400 a day. They found in most cases scant remains, but were paid a bonus for the recovery of weapons, shell fragments, caught by the shrapnel on the way to dumps exploded now and then, killing farm hands. In spite of this the plough and the harrow was converting the face of the salient, and the battlefield was fast disappearing.

The graves of many of the cemeteries bore the simple words "An Unknown Soldier," and the speaker who had been informed that the task of the graves commission was nearly over as far as the recovery of the bodies was concerned.

At Vimy.

Passchendaele, where 40,000 tons of shells had crossed the lines in a day was visited by the party at night. Two fares went up from a Very pistol as the visitors arrived, bringing back the scene of the warlike night vividly. On Vimy Ridge the Canon found the only intact cemetery he saw, that of the 7th Battalion from the Province. It was intact and the names of many a dead soldier were familiar. Beyond the ridge in the coal area lights were glowing and the full operation was again. The party saw Canada's park at Vimy, dedicated forever by the French to the Canadians who fell in that historic engagement.

Through Bethune, Festubert and Givenchy the party went to the Somme, where Albert, Pozieres, Regina trench and old landmarks were seen.

Regina trench, the debut of the Fourth Canadian Division, and the consolidation of the Corps, was still to be observed in places. Old scraps of battle instruments littered the ground; shells, bombs, bayonets, rifle stocks and the all pervading odors of the scene.

Full of Hope.

"The general result of a visit to the battle fields is very wholesome," said the Canon. "Each man is full of hope and rebuilding their homes as rapidly as possible. It would be a very good thing for the relatives and parents of those who were lost in the war to go there. That is the birthplace of Canada. If to-day we are a nation, boys, if we are to-day an important member of the world's conference it is because all you boys did your bit."

"We can never forget the war as long as men who are alive and suffering for what they did there continue in want. They are the men who helped to put Canada on the map. As long as I live I will devote myself to their cause. Heaven only knows what might have happened if the line had not been held, and remember this at the close of the war Canada held one-fifth of the British line. That spirit of comradeship which we hope still prevails should be used for those who are still suffering; the many who were gassed, the widows and orphans—and we have as inspiration the service of the men who saved Canada."

At the close of his address Canon Scott was met with cheering that prevented all speech for many minutes. The company rose to sing, "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow," and cheer again.

Other Speakers.

Dr. Sharpe, newly elected president of the Dominion G. W. V. A., spoke briefly on association matters. The G. W. V. A. and ex-service men had won the first round in the pension dispute. Organization and closer affiliation of all ex-service bodies was necessary to consolidate that gain. Nothing, he said, could withstand the force of 500,000 ex-service men solidly together on any question they chose to advocate.

T. C. Lapp, editor of The Veteran, added a brief address, in which he spoke with confidence of the outcome of pension matters. During the meeting the work of Canon Scott, "The Great War As I Saw It" was passed around and autographed by those present. Leading all signatures already in the book is that of Baron Byng of Vimy, leader of the Canadian Corps in the field, and now Governor-General of Canada.

Alluding to the formation of the court Mrs. Schofield described how it was desired that a woman judge be appointed so that girls of tender age might be treated with less embarrassment. Women understood girls better than men, Mrs. Schofield contended. Another of their aims was to have a staff of probation officers, who would look after and investigate the various juvenile cases, finding out the environment of their home.

"Get them both!"

AWAY they scamper to the pantry—hungry little mortals, just in from play! Down come the familiar packages of Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice.

How the grains are puffed

To the invention of Dr. A. P. Anderson, we owe the unique process of making Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice by shooting the grain from guns. The selected grains are first cleaned and then sealed in huge guns of heavy iron. The guns revolve for an hour in a fierce heat. This cooks the grain and turns all its moisture to high pressure steam. When the guns shoot into a great room of fine wire mesh the grains are exploded. Each grain is puffed to 8 times its normal size, and 125 million steam explosions take place in each kernel. Every food granule is thus broken into minute fragments and the whole grain becomes easy to digest and delicious to eat.
