PREPARING TO VACATE OFFICE

CABINET COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING TO-DAY

Hon. G. E. Graham May Act as Sir Wilfrid's First Lieutenant

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Most of the members of the cabinet arrived in Ottawa yesterday and immediately began the work of clearing up their arrears of departmental business preparatory to the transfer of the administration to the incoming government.

The cabinet council met this morning and broke up for lunch at one o'clock, but reassembled for afternoon session. The ministers were all present with the exception of Hon. Frank Oliver, Hon. William Templeman and Hon. William Patterson. The latter is said to be at his home in Brantford.

According to a statement of one of the ministers at one o'clock, there is a general desire in the cabinet to get the government's resignation into the hands of His Excellency as soon as possible. How soon that can be is doubtful. In 1878 winding up occupied a month, and in 1896 two weeks. The difficulty is the accumulation of work in the spending departments. The heads of these departments must estimate the length of time necessary to finish up in each branch.

Reports will then be made to the council and the date of resignation decided upon.

A large amount of routine business requiring the passing of orders in council has accumulated during the absence of the ministers since the campaign opened and they will have a busy week or so ahead of them before they can take a much-needed rest after the stress of the past year.

One of the routine matters that will be put through before the cabinet resigns will be the completion of the formal arrangements to put into effect the bill passed last session guaranteeing the bonds of the Canadian Northern Railway for the uncompleted section of its transcontinental line through Ontario. The Act providing for the guarantee received the final assent before dissolution and the passing of the order in council enabling the company to go ahead with its financing of the road is in accordance with the instructions of Parliament.

The resignation of Hon. A. N. Parent, chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission, will, as foreshadowed yesterday, be handed in before the government goes out of office. If he is not taken into the new ministry as minister of railways, Haughton Lennox, minister for Simon, will probably be appointed to succeed Mr. Parent. It is said that both Mr. Lennox and E. A. Lancaster have long been in training for the railway portfolio when the Conservatives should come into power. Mr. Lancaster is now said to be out of the running and Mr. Lennox may have to give place to one of the other numerous Ontario aspirants for cabinet honors.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster was early on the scene and to-day had a conference with Mr. Borden. He is said to be almost certain of a place in the new ministry, but not as finance minister.

In the Liberal party there is a strong desire in evidence that Hon. Geo. P. Graham should come back to Parliament to help Sir Wilfrid's first lieutenant in leading the Liberal opposition. It is learned that Mr. Graham has already been offered the choice of several seats won by Liberals on Thursday.

Portfolio for Rogers.
 Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works in Manitoba, has been invited to enter the new cabinet and left this morning to meet R. L. Borden at Ottawa to decide on which portfolio he will accept. It will likely be the minister of the interior, as that goes to westerners.

ALLEGED PLOT TO BLOW UP MINE

Wife of Man on Trial at Deadwood Says Husband Was Offered $1,000

Deadwood, S. D., Sept. 26.—Testifying that her husband and John W. Butler, a Fourth cav try musician, were in a plot to get her to blow up the Homestead mine and that they had been employed by the Western Federation of Miners, Mrs. Elmer O'Grady, wife of one of the defendants, yesterday afternoon sprang a sensation in the Butler trial.

In the circuit court Butler and O'Grady were charged with conspiring to blow up the Homestead mine in April, 1910.

Mrs. O'Grady declared that Butler came to her in Fall River, Colo., saying he was a representative of the Federation, and that O'Grady was wanted to blow up the mine. She said her husband told her he was to be paid $1,000 for the job.

CONSERVATIVES GET TWO MORE SEATS

DEFERRED ELECTIONS IN PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Hon. R. Lemieux Defeated in Gaspe—Still Holds Seat for Rouville

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—Gaspe and Chicoutimi-Saguenay, the two deferred elections in Quebec province, yesterday cast in their lots with the new Borden administration, both following the lead of the rest of the country and electing Conservative candidates.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, retiring minister of marine, went down to defeat at the hands of Dr. G. P. Gauthier in Gaspe by a majority which the latest returns give as 558, although there are several places still to be heard from.

In Chicoutimi-Saguenay, the former member, J. Girard, who was elected in 1908 as an Independent Conservative, heads the list with a majority of about 1200 with few places still to hear from.

In the last House Girard, although elected as Conservative, pledged to support the Conservatives in the new House and there is little doubt that he will be found on the right of the speaker now that the political fortunes of the party led by Mr. Borden are in the ascendant.

Hon. R. Lemieux's defeat in Gaspe leaves him in possession of the seat in Rouville, where he succeeded Hon. L. P. Brodeur, former minister of marine and fisheries.

The return of the two Conservatives in yesterday's election gives Borden a representation of 28 from Quebec with several seats in the Eastern Townships and elsewhere in the doubtful column.

When matters are straightened out the Conservative organizers expect that 65 of the seats of the province will be divided between the two parties.

Will Ask for Recount.
 Montreal, Sept. 26.—One more change is made in the standing of parties by the inclusion of Shefford as a Liberal county. The Liberal candidate has a majority of 24, so far as can be learned. The official declaration will be made at Waterloo this afternoon, and it is understood that if, as expected, it shows a majority for Mr. Bolvin, James Davidson will immediately apply for a judicial recount, the number of rejected ballots being quite heavy, while there are a number of alleged irregularities, which it is desired to investigate. Should the judicial recount not give the seat to the Conservative the election will be protested.

AVIATOR FALLS TO DEATH

Amateur Loses Control of Aeroplane Which Dashes to Ground

New York, Sept. 26.—The international aviation meet at Nassau Boulevard was marred yesterday by the fatal fall of Dr. J. C. Clarke of New York, an amateur. He fell 260 feet in his Queen-Bleriot monoplane, sustaining such injuries that he died. He had flown only 500 yards, rising rapidly, when he seemed to lose control and was dashed to the turf. As the aeroplane rushed to the ground, it turned over, catching the amateur aviator and crushing him under it.

Clark was formerly a well known professional bicycle rider. He was the originator of the "loop-the-loop" performance, which has thrilled hundreds of circus audiences. Clark's real name was Charles Clark Bunting. He was born in Tennessee.

In the speed contest White won the prize of $500, flying ten miles at an average of 61.2 miles an hour. Matilda Molsant won 1,414 feet.

Orth, of Islington, who has five years' experience as a teacher, while the future Mrs. Smith is Miss Etta Gregory, a teacher of Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Chave leave Montreal on October 26 and sail from England on November 24, their destination being Cochin.

FAREWELL DINNER TO EARL GREY

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and R. L. Borden Pay Tribute to Governor-General

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and R. L. Borden met last night for the first time since the election at the farewell dinner given by the members of the Rideau Club to His Excellency Earl Grey. They manifested the greatest cordiality in their greetings. Sir Wilfrid extended his congratulations to the victor and Mr. Borden expressed his gratification at the result and at the premier's cordiality.

Travers Lewis, K.C., president, having the Governor-General on his right and Sir Wilfrid at his left, Mr. Borden sat at the right of His Excellency and among the ministers present were Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Hon. Mackenzie King and Sir A. B. Aylesworth. Speeches were made by the chairman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden, paying tribute to the admirable service of Earl Grey, who made a felicitous reply.

Sir Wilfrid wore his uniform of an Imperial Privy Councillor, and with his array of orders presented a striking contrast to the coming premier, who was garbed in the traditional dress suit.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Building permits taken out by 30 Canadian cities for August, says the Financial Post, show a total of $11,796,411, compared with $8,349,254 in August, 1910, an increase of $3,447,157 or 41.3 per cent. SEALING TREATY NOT RATIFIED

DELAY IN BRINGING REGULATIONS INTO FORCE

Absence of Diplomats From Washington Probably Responsible

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Although the quadrilateral treaty for the protection of seal life in Arctic waters was planned to go into effect within less than three months from this date, apparently no steps have yet been taken by either Great Britain, Russia or Japan to exchange the ratifications which are necessary to bring the convention into play. These ratifications must be exchanged in Washington by representatives of the three powers named, clothed with the necessary authority from their governments and by Secretary Knox for America.

It is probable that the delay is explainable by the absence from Washington on summer vacations of most of the diplomatic representatives and that some action will be taken immediately upon their return to this city.

BELFAST JOURNALIST LIKES VICTORIA

R. M. S. Baird Gives Impressions of Journey to Pacific Coast

Toronto, Sept. 26.—R. M. S. Baird, proprietor of the Belfast Evening Telegraph and some half-dozen other papers, reached Toronto to-day from his western trip with the British editors. He is amazingly pleased with Canada, commenting upon the unfinished state of the country out west. Regina, he thought, seemed the most prosperous of the smaller places. The growth of Calgary and Vancouver he thought remarkable, but like most British visitors, he preferred Victoria.

The elections, he said, would give a fillip to preferential tariff ideas in England. He agreed that as long as the Empire had a surplus of food it would be no hardship for Britain to confine her food purchases to the Imperial band.

FOREIGNERS FLEE FROM TRIPOLI

FEAR TROUBLE IF ITALY LANDS TROOPS

Socialists, Who Oppose Government's Policy, May Call General Strike

Tripoli, Sept. 26.—Foreigners are alarmed at the situation growing out of the reported intention of Italy to occupy Tripoli in defiance of the Turkish government. An Arab revolt is feared.

Foreigners are fleeing hastily. Every available boat leaving here is crowded with Europeans.

Situation in Italy.
 London, Sept. 26.—A news dispatch from Rome says a general strike throughout Italy will be declared within 24 hours. The Socialists have arranged for the movement as a protest against the occupation of Tripoli, and it is expected that the strike will be rigidly enforced in all the principal cities. The Socialists alone of Italian people oppose the Tripolitan programme of the government.

A news dispatch from Rome this afternoon says: "It is announced here this afternoon that the Italian charge d'affaires at Constantinople has presented to the Porte a note to the effect that any dispatch of Turkish military troops to Tripoli would be regarded as a most serious action."

Great Britain, in common with the rest of Europe had just settled down to what it was hoped would be a season of peace after the settlement of the Moroccan question, when news came of a threatened war between Italy and Turkey. Nobody here believes that Turkey would give up Tripoli for economic considerations or without resistance.

On the other hand, the friends of Italy do not believe that she proposes to take Tripoli with force without having first attempted to settle the differences through diplomatic channels, although it is admitted that she has serious grievances, including the boycott of Italian goods in Asia Minor and Tripoli, the danger to Italian subjects in Tripoli through the return of the agitator who was before expelled from the country for stirring up the people against the Italians, and in the matter of concessions in Tripoli, granted to non-Italian firms. However, from all sources comes the information that Italy is preparing to force a compliance with her demands by the mobilization of her army and navy and the movements of ships toward Tripoli.

DEATH ROLL IS PLACED AT 235

CASUALTY LIST ON BATTLESHIP LIBERTE

Survivors of Disaster in Toulon Harbor Answer Roll Call

Toulon, Sept. 26.—A thin ship's company was drawn up on the deck of the ill-fated battleship Liberte, which was destroyed by an explosion and fire yesterday.

The survivors of the disaster, with the exception of those in the hospital, are temporarily quartered on the sister ship. When the name of an absent one was called, some one of his comrades responded "Dead," "Hospital" or "Missing."

An official statement of the casualties places the dead at 235 and the injured at 88, with one man missing.

The search of the wreckage of the Liberte continued throughout the night with the aid of great torches. Occasionally a launch drew away from the illuminated spot and disappeared in the darkness to reappear presently at the pier with its load of wounded for the hospital and dead for the mortuary.

During the night fifty bodies were recovered and eight wounded men were rescued from that part of the vessel that remained exposed after the hull sank. The men had been pinned in the ruins from 16 to 26 hours. Most of them were insensible from pain.

Lieut. Aubert, son of Vice-Admiral Aubert commander of the fleet, described the admirable discipline on board the Liberte. The lieutenant, who is serving on another warship, was sent with a party to help extinguish the fire on the Liberte. He found Lieut. Garnier in command of the battleship in the absence of Captain Jaures and the second officer in command, both of whom were ashore.

A petty officer in command approached the lieutenant and said: "The fire, sir, is near the magazines. Is there not danger of an explosion?"

"Attend to your orders," Lieut. Garnier replied. The petty officer saluted and without further questions returned to his post.

Lieut. Garnier perished in the disaster. Captain Jaures visited the wreck this morning and then spent the rest of the day at the bedside of the wounded sailors. A number of these continue unconscious, due possibly to the fumes of burning powder which they inhaled. They may never recover their senses.

Some idea of the violence of the explosion which destroyed the Liberte may be had from the fact that the officer commanding the gunnery scout ship Foudre, anchored three kilometers (1.86 miles) from the Liberte, was killed on his own quarterdeck by a fragment of shell hurled from the Liberte, and two sailors standing beside him were wounded.

One of the survivors, a warrant officer on the Liberte, who came out of the hurricane of fire with only a slight cut on his forehead, telling of the disaster, said:

"The fire broke out in the general store among cans of oil, turpentine, paint and other inflammables. In spite of every effort the flames reached the coal bunkers, and after that it was difficult to prevent them gaining the powder magazine. It was about 5:20 o'clock and dawn was just breaking before the danger seemed to be realized. Assistance was then being sent us from the port and three other warships lying in the harbor.

"Just when the whole ship's crew seemed to have reached the boats in safety there was a terrific explosion. The Liberte was hurled over on her side, and the forepart, where the full force of the explosion was felt, lurched forward heavily with an appalling crash. The greater part of the ship's boats with the rescuers and the men from the Liberte sank instantly. From

TRADE DISPUTES DURING AUGUST

Over Eight Thousand Workers Involved—All Disputes of Short Duration

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Trade disputes in Canada during August were less than in the previous month, although Canadian workers lost 203,200 working days during the month. All disputes were of brief duration and none of them were far reaching or of great magnitude.

About forty-five firms and 8,116 employees were involved in strikes. The loss of time to employees was much greater than during the same month last year when only 62,400 days were recorded.

The department of labor also reports that individual accidents occurred to 237 individual work people during the month. Of these 194 were fatal and 123 resulted in serious injuries.

TRIAL OF DAY GOES OVER TILL SATURDAY

Police Officer From Toronto Being Brought Here by Defence to Identify Bullock

The Day trial was yesterday afternoon adjourned until Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m., owing to the application of the defence to call Inspector of Police Davis from Toronto, who is now on his way here, and will, the defence believes, identify Frederick Bullock, the crown witness, as Alfred Bullock, who in 1887 was sentenced at Toronto for forgery. Since the former adjournment the defence has secured the attendance of the Toronto police officer through the attorney-general, and has provided $200 for his expenses to the coast.

Judge Lammiman is about to leave for Vancouver to hold court and although Inspector Davis is expected here Wednesday afternoon, his honor will not be back until Saturday afternoon. The necessity for concluding the trial before the adjournment on Monday, and Judge Lammiman's absence, are the reasons for the case being continued Saturday afternoon.

In reference with the identity of Bullock with Alfred Bullock, Fire Chief Thomas Davis took the witness stand yesterday afternoon and identified Bullock as one Alfred Bullock working in Toronto. He had seen Bullock working at a store on Queen street, Toronto, in the vicinity of the fire hall at which the chief was then stationed.

"To the best of my belief and knowledge he is the same man," said the fire chief yesterday afternoon. "I always knew him as Alf Bullock in Toronto. I may be mistaken. I remember him as a boy and he used to play the snare drum in the fire and drum band. It was a pleasure to listen to him. When I came to Victoria I saw him once when I was through the store room of the Victoria Machinery Depot and he telephoned me later, saying he was Alf Bullock, and asking me why I had not spoken to him in the store room as I passed through. I do not remember him getting into any trouble there."

Leon Cassius, of the firm of P. McQuade & Company, said that Day had acted as launchman for the firm and he might have bought over-stores, condemned stores, surplus stores, and stores from distressed vessels. During the Japanese-Russian war, witness said, several ships brought excess stores here and offered them for sale. Paint is the principal article the ships have to sell. It would be either condemned or accumulated paint.

The witness had seen similar candles in the city to those produced in court. He had one in court which he took from his pocket that he had obtained yesterday from the Imperial Oil Company at the request of Mr. Henderson, accused solicitor. The candle produced was similar but larger in circumference. It did not have the same top as the navy candle produced. He had seen similar ones but none exactly the same as the navy candle. He had never employed Day to buy stores from ship captains but had heard Day had purchased them. His firm had never handled paint in tins exactly like those in court. They usually had a complete top lid, and those that were similar were smaller. When the seizure had been made he looked over the paint tins taken and they were not the same kind of tins as used in the trade here.

Richard Currie, assistant storekeeper at the Victoria Machinery Depot, remembered a year ago carrying certain boxes from the sidewalk to the store room. One had the name Price on it. He weighed them in Bullock's office. He said the boxes were a little larger than those in court and had no yellow band on them.

To Mr. Alkman, witness said he was not aware that Price was the name of a maker who supplied candles to the British Admiralty.

Jim Jokes, a Greek, said he had worked for the Machinery Depot and had taken candles aboard a ship at the depot. The candles were different in appearance and size to those in court.

Jack Myias, a Greek, said he had worked for the Machinery Depot last September as night watchman, and during that time he had helped pack boxes from a launch to the storeroom and had taken the boatmen afterwards to the home of William Houston, who is superintendent of the works. He had handled paint tins on the same occasion but they had wire handles and were painted red outside. He had been told by Houston when going on duty that a boat load of goods would be brought round during the night.

The indictment and conviction of Alfred Bullock at Toronto in 1887 were put in as evidence, subject to the identification of Frederick Bullock as Alfred Bullock.

LAYING PAVEMENTS WITH GREAT SPEED

Mineral Rubber Company is Forging Ahead With Contract

During the past few weeks municipal interests in the city of Victoria, as elsewhere throughout the broad Dominion, have been submerged in the "greater issues" which were palpitating the minds of the people, and it is only now when the perspective has had time to resume its normal condition that an intelligent appreciation can be accorded the many works which have progressed either considerably or to completion during the period of mental recess. And perhaps no work of civic importance has progressed so rapidly during that specified period as the work of the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company, which consists of the paving of the city streets with asphalt.

To a large extent, at least after the initial test on Yates street, where the public confidence must have been gained fully and freely, the work of the company has elicited little interest, and certainly no complaints. Having seen the paving on Yates street and been pruned its beautiful surface and beautiful contour the critic goes home satisfied that his day's work is done—the only alternative is that his occupation is gone, for criticism of such work is superfluous when it is not important—and the result is that the paving operations which are at present being carried on in the Ross Bay district attract little or no attention from anyone save those who reside in the immediate locality.

It may safely be stated that contract work on such a large scale seldom attained such a spirit of mutual confidence on the part of the divergent interests, divergent only in the sense of division, for of course it must be apparent that it is as much in the interest of the paving company to merit the appreciation of its employers as it is in the interest of the city to see that it gets what the contract called for. Every pavement laid by the company is guaranteed for a number of years, which means that if anything goes wrong with it they will have to repair it at their own expense, a consideration which ought to weigh something against the indiscriminate suspicions of the passing public.

There are so many pavements laid now, however, particularly in the Ross Bay district, where the company has been operating for some time, that it is possible to test at first hand the resilience of the new surface and the consequent exhilaration of speeding over "the smooth" automobile or other vehicle. Practically all the sectional streets running from Cook street to the Bay are either completed altogether or are in such a condition of preparation for the final layer of asphalt that their early completion is assured. The statement made on the authority of the manager that this section of the work will be completed in ten days, after which the "smoke-dust" gang will hire themselves to another section where the concrete surfaces await their last attentions.

Touring round the Ross Bay section one is struck by the remarkable uniformity that has been preserved in the contour of the pavements, and the skill with which the accessories, such as the curbs and gutters, have been fitted into the scheme so as to render their junctions not only unobtrusive but altogether unnoticeable save to the closest inspection. Glancing along the edge of a finished pavement one might be pardoned thinking that the whole thing had been modelled in clay and then dumped down upon the street. Another remarkable fact in connection with the work as it is being carried on at this point is that the only street held up is the one which is being asphalted. All the others are open to traffic, and the myriad lines upon the street surface proves very effectively that they are being taken full advantage of.

It might also be mentioned that the waterworks department of the city and the paving company are now working hand in hand, so that no misunderstanding can occur to delay the work. Before any very definite scheme was organized for carrying out the paving contract occasional snags were encountered owing to the fact that other departments of the city, which had to deal with the streets first for sewers or other purposes, did not have them in a condition of readiness. Now, however, these difficulties have been surmounted and the whole scheme is working harmoniously. The city engineer is in constant consultation with the heads of the company and the result of this attitude of mutual consideration is furthering the completion of the contract in the best way possible.

HARDSHIPS OF SURVEY PARTY

MEMBERS LIVE ON SHORT RATIONS

Indian Packers and Drivers Desert—Surveyors Tell of Work in North

Vancouver, Sept. 26.—Severe hardships were experienced this summer by a Dominion government survey party which was engaged in locating the Alaska boundary line across Malaspina glacier, between Yakutat Bay, Alaska, and Mount St. Elias. In addition to the natural obstacles that almost stilled their progress, the surveyors ran short of provisions and for six weeks were compelled to subsist on hard-fleshed and gelatinous bacon. To add to their troubles, Indians who had been engaged to act as packers and dog-sledge drivers, deserted before the party had got less than 20 miles from the coast.

Details of their advances were related by H. S. Mussell, who acted as assistant for Noel J. Ogilvie and who left here Sunday for Ottawa. The party started from Yakutat Bay early in June. It comprised nine white men and nine Alaskan Indians and three dog teams. No attempt was made to plant boundary monuments. The work involved the ascent of half a score of peaks which rise from the centre and sides of the glacier. The highest peak scaled by the surveyors has an elevation of 7,489 feet above sea level.

The Duke d'Abruzzi, cousin of the King of Italy, is credited with being the only white man who has ever crossed the glacier and reached the summit of Mount St. Elias. The feat was accomplished about ten years ago and is described by the duke in a well known book.

Using triangulation methods about thirty miles of the Alaskan boundary line running through the centre of Portland Canal was located this season by a Dominion government survey party in charge of F. H. Mackie, with J. M. Bates as assistant. The boundary in question, according to the treaty between the Imperial and the United States governments, traverses the centre of the canal from the first mountain on shore a few miles below Stewart to the mouth of the canal and then swings westward to a point at sea opposite Cape Muzon and directly north of Graham Island.

Mr. Mackie and Mr. Bates left last night for Ottawa. Their party numbered ten members including Fremont Morse, who acted as representative of the United States government. Mr. Mackie has been engaged in Alaska boundary survey work for seven years and has had many adventures. His assistant, Mr. Bates, won the sobriquet of "Grizzly" over his encounter with a bear on the upper Stikine several years ago. Mr. Bates wounded the animal and in making his escape slid down a glacier with the bear in pursuit. The grizzly was dead before it reached the bottom of the icy incline.

This season's work was exceptionally difficult as the boundary follows the sinuosities of the canal. It involved the climbing of many high peaks on both sides of the channel and the taking of over 200 photographs which will constitute part of the official record. A start was made at the initial bronze monument on shore a few miles below Stewart. The party utilized a gasoline boat in connection with the summer's work. The final surveys were concluded last week, near Maple Bay, thirty miles below Stewart. Seventy miles have yet to be traversed and located before the entrance of the canal is reached.

QUAKES DEMOLISH BUILDINGS.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Sept. 26.—Four earthquakes did serious damage on Sunday at Rio Bamba, the capital of Chimborazo province, about 85 miles from Guayaquil. The shocks continued throughout the day with diminishing intensity.

At the first shock a great panic prevailed. Many buildings were shaken badly and several collapsed. The occupants of most of the houses fled to the streets, where they have since remained.

At Guaranda, capital of Bolivar province, twenty-five miles from Rio Bamba, the shocks were heavy. The walls of a number of residences collapsed.

The seismic disturbances are attributed to the Tungurahua volcano in the southern part of the province of the same name.

GIRL KIDNAPPED.

New York, Sept. 25.—The West Side police are searching to-day for Irene Westley, a comely 17-year-old girl who was kidnapped by four unidentified men early to-day as she was returning home with James Kerns, an eighteen-year-old neighbor.

Kerns was beaten into insensibility by repeated blows from a beer bottle wielded by one of the assailants and is lying in the New York hospital with a fractured skull.

LIVE COALS FROM ENGINE START FIRE

Two Oil Tanks at Montreal Destroyed—Loss Estimated at $18,000

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Live coals from a Grand Trunk engine started a fire in the yards of the Canadian Oil Company on St. Etienne street which consumed 8,000 gallons of oil and did damage to the extent of $15,000. The oil burned was contained in two large tanks, and as six others containing coal oil, gasoline and benzine, stood within a hundred yards, the firemen were in constant danger.

The fire started when an engine employed in bringing tank cars to the yards passed a spot where oil had leaked out and saturated the ground. Live coals from the engine's firebox ignited this and the flames soon spread to two tanks.

THAW CASE REVIVED.

According to a report current at Pittsburg Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, will soon make another attempt to gain his release from Matteawan asylum. His friends say that he has completed a long study of insanity and feels certain that he can prove himself sane when next examined.

It is said that Thaw will not make any attempt to divorce his wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. He told his friends that he held nothing against her, despite the fact that they were estranged. He pointed out that one of the principal symptoms of paranoia was a desire for revenge and that he thought his kindly attitude toward her was evidence of his sanity. It he regains his freedom Thaw will make Pittsburg his home.

DEATH OF MRS. JEFFRIES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Rebecca Jeffries, mother of James J. Jeffries, died last night at her home in this city, aged 74 years. Mrs. Jeffries has been ill since last March, and for several weeks hope for her recovery had been abandoned. News of her mother's illness was taken to James and John Jeffries, who were on a hunting trip in the wilds of Alaska, by a guide, who found them in the lower Kenia country. They started at once, but the advice received by the father is that they cannot reach Seattle before next Tuesday. The funeral will be delayed until their arrival.

JEALOUS MAN'S DEED.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 26.—Actuated by what is believed to have been jealousy, Frank Calvin, a moving picture operator, twice shot and probably fatally wounded Mrs. Vivian Irving, a trained nurse, at Eatonville, 30 miles from this city, Sunday evening. Leaping into a rig in which he had driven from Winlock, Wash., to see the woman, Calvin sought flight. Two sons of Deputy Sheriff Williams pursued him first on motor cycles and later in an automobile. About 20 shots were exchanged between Calvin and pursuers, none of them taking effect, before the fugitive deserted his rig and escaped into the deep woods. It was reported last night that Calvin was wounded in the running fight which followed the shooting. The fugitive's overcoat, pierced through the right sleeve by a bullet hole and stained with blood, was found in the woods near the Mount Tacoma road, Louis J. Pettit, a rancher, took two shots at Calvin yesterday when he came across the fugitive on his farm, but the latter again escaped into the woods.

C. B. LOOMIS DEAD.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 25.—Charles Pettit Loomis, famous humorist, author and lecturer, died here Saturday night at the Hartford hospital. Death was due to cancer of the stomach.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

I want money. Brothers, you who all toil for it and crave it and dream of it, I am with you. Is there any feeling more comfortable, that just permeates your whole being with a sense of power, that so saturates you with self-respect, as the sensation that comes over you when you take out a fat pocket-book from your hip-pocket and finger a small mattress of green, yellow or blue bills? It means Freedom; it cuts you free from the shackles of poverty. It means power; your will becomes a Director, and is no longer directed. It means pleasure; all they that own the supply of eatables and drinkables come running, and bow, and spread the cloth. You are general of that most delectable of armies, the army of hotel-keepers, waiters, grocers, butchers and store-keepers, Marshall Field's chariot and horse-men wait at your door. Barkers, haughtiest of mortals, unbend. Yours is the Throne, Aladdin's genie is named Money. He it is that builds palaces.

There is no more abominable affliction than to say that one does not care for money. It is the same as proclaiming; that one does not care for life.

To love money is precisely like loving health and strength. It enables you to express your personality. You cannot help others until you have force and power to help them with. You are to love your neighbor as yourself, but if you do not love yourself sanely and soundly, how can you love your neighbor? The love of money is not immoral; it is the forth-putting of the natural desire to impress one's self upon the world.

Money is the profoundest of democracies. Our plutocracy, if it can ever get itself squared to Justice, will be fairer than all old-world systems. Still I wonder, if I were rich, if I should become as stupid as are most rich people?

There are things I love more than money.

THE EARLY BIRDS.

A proverb, Persian in its origin and much older than the Hebrew Scriptures, has found its way into the English language in the expressive sentence, "Where the carrion is, there are the vultures gathered together." The amenities of journalism compel one to somewhat modify the asperity of the language, especially when it is intended to make current application. For this purpose it may be rendered, "Where creatures are predatory in their nature their instincts guide them directly to the place of a full meal."

We make these reflections as the logical inference from the news which came over the wires yesterday respecting the personnel of the company which met and welcomed Mr. R. L. Borden on his arrival at Ottawa.

The information is that Mr. Borden is immediately to face problems of tariff revision and that the revision demanded is to be decidedly of an upward tendency. The president of the Manufacturers' Association was among the first to give Mr. Borden the glad hand and he was followed by an immediate petition from one branch of the united manufacturers over which he presides—the woolen manufacturers—for an increase in the customs duty from thirty per cent. to fifty per cent. This is to afford protection for the Canadian manufacturer of woolen goods against the importation of wools from Great Britain. That is the first evidence and the earliest illustration of how Mr. Borden's scheme for an imperial preference is to be worked out. It is an emphatic intimation that the people who placed Mr. Borden in power intend to exact their pound of flesh; not from Mr. Borden, it is true, but through Mr. Borden from the wearers of clothing in the Dominion of Canada.

Unwilling to wait until Mr. Borden had taken the oath of office as Prime Minister, these hungry vultures are demanding that he pledge himself to "raise the duty still higher." Without the decency to await his selection of a cabinet he is introduced to the ultimatum that he will not be slow to insist on tariff increases. This is the first real guarantee that Premier McBride is assured of a place in the Federal councils. Mr. McBride has already asserted his adherence to the principle of increased tariffs and announced his readiness to endorse such a policy. His place in the cabinet is, therefore, assured.

The amazing thing about the demand of the woolen manufacturers is that the increased duty they ask will most seriously affect the importation of woolen goods from the United Kingdom. For the fiscal year of 1909-10 the importations of woolens and textiles of wool imported from the United Kingdom into Canada reached the enormous sum of $20,283,803, the amount imported from the United States being but $97,670, the total from the two countries amounting to $21,283,473. In addition to these amounts and varieties of woolen goods Canada imported from Germany and France similar articles to the value of $2,208,918, or a total importation of woolens reaching the sum of $23,491,491.

The increase on the first cost of these goods which will be charged to the consuming public of Canada if the manufacturers obtain their request will be $4,688,298 and it will not matter whether Canadians buy Canadian, British or foreign manufactured woolens. Should the consumers choose to buy Canadian goods, the money will go into the pockets of the already over-rich manufacturers. Should they buy foreign or British woolens, the tariff levy will go into the treasury, but in either case it must come out of the pocket of the consumer. In any case the future is not reassuring to those who must purchase.

There is now no prospect of a reduction in the cost of living. If straws tell which way the wind blows there is every indication that the prices of foodstuffs will rise; in Victoria they have already done so. There is no danger that the packers will not extort the last farthing that the law allows, and the high tariff enables them to keep the price of foodstuffs at the present extortionate cost as well as encourage them to go to the limit of the power of the people to pay.

If there is to be added to the present cruelly extortionate cost of food another fifty per cent. to the cost of clothing for that is what a twenty per cent. rise in the duties will mean—there is no hope for anything but poverty and privation for the presently prosperous consuming people of Canada.

It must be added to these statements that the increased tariff will in no way benefit the British manufacturer. His prices will remain the same and the Mother Country will in no way be benefited by the additional impost on the people of Canada. There will be no evidence of loyalty to anyone but the political bosses who will, without mercy, fleece the consumers as they have always done.

The Times repeatedly pointed out what must inevitably follow a return of the high tariff party to power; the evidence of the correctness of our prediction is already amply verified. The vultures did not even wait for their political opponents to be decently out of office before asserting their power and making their demands. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his ministers have, ever since their accession to power in 1896, withstood the clamorous demands of the woolen manufacturers for an increase in the tariff on goods of their make. Their resentment had grown to an explosive pressure and they now proceed to make up for the years they have lost. And the people must pay. It serves them right. That is what the flag-wavers have brought them to and what was always intended by waving the flag. Premier McBride said, "We don't wave it enough." Perhaps he is right.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

It was a tragedy that, in order for the Canadians to express their loyalty to the Mother Country, they were forced to turn down the greatest man that Canada has ever produced and one of the greatest men that the world has produced in the last half century. No man has done for the Dominion one half the work which Sir Wilfrid Laurier has accomplished. The country, the reins of whose government he took fifteen years ago, was paralyzed industrially, if not financially. To-day, it is one of the most prosperous on the face of the globe. A physically beautiful man of seventy years of age, he is possessed of all the graces, as well as of wisdom far beyond that of any of his countrymen.

Not a few of our Bellingham people will be deeply affected financially by reason of the result of yesterday's election. Many of our citizens, who have accumulated their wealth in the lumber business of this country have gone into Canada and made extensive purchases of timber holdings in the belief that there was no question of Canada's adopting reciprocity. Only a short time since, Mr. J. H. Bloedel announced that he had invested heavily on the other side of the line and expected to erect saw mills and engage in business over there as soon as the treaty was adopted. A great many other of our lumbermen of this city and state had followed Mr. Bloedel's example. While these gentlemen were all opposed to the reciprocity treaty, nevertheless, they figured that it was sure to be ratified and had made their preparations to make their money in Canada, hereafter, instead of in the United States. To say the least, this will mean a considerable rearrangement of their plans.

Such is the opinion of the Bellingham American.

COMPARATIVE LAND VALUES.

That very ably edited, powerful and independent journal—Canadian Finance deals tersely with the question of the future of agriculture in Canada, and incidentally makes some interesting comment in comparative land values between the Canadian West and the farm lands in the United States. It points out that, as yet, only about 10 per cent. of the 175,000,000 acres of arable land in the Middle West has been brought under cultivation, so that there is still ample room for expansion of what it calls "the oldest art and the newest science"—farming. The payment of $30 and $40 per acre for improved lands in Canada by the new American arrival leads the prospective British investor to remark that the people of America are land crazy. In comparison with the price of similar situated land in Minnesota, Dakota and Kansas, Canadian Finance thinks these prices reasonable, as the longer settled lands in the United States are being sold for an average of $100 per acre. The sale of farm lands in America by the early settlers and the purchase of the cheaper lands in Canada is thus easily explained. The movement toward Canada has a rational basis, and the Americans are not too slow or two provincial to seize their opportunity.

There is no doubt of this explanation of the great and growing movement of immigration into the Canadian Middle West. The soil of Canada is virgin soil and the experiences of the past in the New England states will serve as a warning against the abuses of the soil which, in former years and by reason of the widespread ignorance of scientific farming, have much reduced the value of agricultural land upon the Atlantic seaboard.

What must be anticipated is a still further and even earlier rise in the value of Canadian lands. The Tariff Board of the United States gives the comparative average value of lands in Minnesota as $46, in Manitoba $25, in Saskatchewan $22 and in Alberta $20 per acre. The difference is not in the intrinsic quality of the lands, though there is some difference in the locations and conveniences of transportation which affect prices. These must, however, soon be overcome and with the rapid settlement the demand for modern conveniences and facilities for education, commerce and the comforts of life will produce results that—so far as desirable location is concerned—must equal anywhere.

The settlement of these lands and their cultivation must result in a manner wholly favorable to every part of Canada, and we think the movement of the tangible evidences of prosperity will continue to be westward rather than eastward. We know how closely the prosperity of the coast province is bound up with the prosperity of the prairie sections of the Dominion. It may be said that there is no part of Canada which more quickly reflects the commercial conditions on the prairies than does British Columbia. There are no stock, bond or estate operators who watch more closely the crop reports than do those of this province. The rise, in land values in the Middle West, being bound to be steady and permanent, provides a reasonable prospect of continuous good times throughout the cities and business centres of the West.

Arrangements have been perfected by the Post Office Department at Washington whereby second-class mail matter, consisting of magazines and periodicals, heretofore transported in railway mail cars, is carried by fast freight. The idea is to reduce the expense of transportation.

There are three charitable institutions in Victoria which by all the rules of honor are each entitled to a forfeit in the sum of $500. We do not know what steps the directorate of those institutions may have taken to claim the forfeit, but the Times and the public are of the opinion that it should be unnecessary to await a demand or even request for payment. Is honor dead?

The vagaries of the political campaign just closed were as varied as they were vagarious. In Toronto the opponents of reciprocity placarded their windows to explain away the high cost of living. They blamed the trusts and they blamed Laurier for the same which permitted trusts and Laurier's pledges for not enforcing the law against trusts. Now that Laurier is deposed may we not reasonably hope for the end of the trusts in Canada? It was trust money that defeated Laurier and the only satisfactory return the new government can make is to put the trusts out of business. Will it do so?

With a government in power whose economic theory of the rights of workmen is that they should be paid only enough to live upon and with an increase of fifty per cent. in the cost of clothing staring them in the face, the wage earners have a pleasant prospect ahead. It would seem logical that with the next shipment of British woolens to Canada about a year hence the wage earners should have another raise in wages in order to be ready to meet the increased demand that will be imposed upon them when they wish to dress decently. We shall take the greatest interest in watching wages rise "automatically" or the same way as they fall with a decrease in the cost of living.

OAK BAY COUNCIL.

School By-law to Go Before Ratepayers on Oct. 7.

At the regular meeting of the Oak Bay council last evening the school by-law to raise $20,000 for the purchase of school sites before the price of land became any higher was passed and will go before the ratepayers on Oct. 7. The sites are, two in number, 2 1/4 acres on Monterey Avenue South and 2 1/4 acres off Calhoun Bay road between Tod and Bowker roads.

The by-law authorizing the paving of South Hampshire road with asphalt by the Worwick Paving Co. was given its third reading. Some objection was raised to this by-law, it being contended that there was really no need for such an expensive road in the district and it was deemed advisable by several of the councillors that the residents be to the high rate of taxation involved in this improvement.

Acting Reeve McGregor pointed out, however, that as the petition had been signed by two-thirds of the property owners nothing could be done except by a counter petition. $10,500 is the sum to be expended on this improvement.

THE HOUSE and the Home

It has been well said that there are plenty of houses but not enough homes. Most anyone can own a house of some kind or other, but for that house to be a "home" in the fullest and best sense of the word it must be beautiful, within and without, artistic in its arrangement, and rich in its design. This does not, of necessity, imply extravagance or expense. The smallest house if properly designed may have the beauty and simple grandeur which a palace may lack. Everything depends upon the genius of the architect. If the plans for the house are conveniently drawn conforming to the essential principle of architectural science, they will please the eye, and prove a perennial source of pleasure.

"DORA THORN" STAGED BY WILLIAMS COMPANY

A play which in many respects reminds the spectator of Mrs. Henry Wood's "East Lynne" occupies the boards at the Princess Theatre this week.
The title role of "Dora Thorn," a lodge-keeper's daughter who is loved by the squire's heir, raised to a position beyond her natural inclinations, undertaken by Miss Finkle Mullally, and crowded as the story is with incidents of pathos and humor, the audience had an opportunity of seeing Miss Mullally in a part which suited her better than as the heroine of the western dramas recently staged at the Princess.

The part of the father, "Stephen Thorn," taken by George R. Robinson, was in excellent hands, and he showed to the greatest advantage in a role which might easily be overdone by too much elaboration. As the artist "Ronald Earl," W. S. Van Dyke had a difficult part to sustain, but he proved equal to the task, and was exceptionally good as the impetuous lover.
As the snake in the grass, "Valentine Charteris," Miss Ora Wolf did her allotted role with effect, and played the hypocrite whole-heartedly. As the Earl's son, Alfred had no easy task, while the lighter side of life was shown in the loves of the Earl's sister (Miss Marguerite Berle) and Richard Dacie (Arthur Cyril). George L. Sweetman played the rejected sailor's part effectively, and Fred Horn appeared as the insolent marquisant.
The Williams Street Company are to be congratulated on this addition to their repertoire. The performance will be repeated each evening this week, and at two matinees, Wednesday and Saturday.

BRIGHTER PROSPECTS IN S. AFRICAN UNION

Librarian of House of Assembly on Visit Here—Difficulties of Native Question

An interesting visitor to the city at the present time is the librarian of the Union House of Assembly at Capetown, South Africa, Rev. Dr. Flint, who is making a tour of Canada, is leaving at an early date to attend the great Methodist gathering at Toronto, where so many prominent members of the denomination from all over the world are gathering.

Dr. Flint, who was librarian of the old Cape House of Assembly before the Union of South Africa came into being last June, was continued in his office by the new government, and therefore as a public officer he is reluctant to talk South African politics.

As a librarian he has, during the time he has been travelling in Great Britain, Canada and in the United States, been making an investigation into modern conditions, and will carry with him a record of numerous improvements which he hopes to see installed in the library of the South African house. The parliament buildings, which are delightfully situated, adjoining the celebrated gardens in the oldest city of South Africa, have been extended to meet the demands of the larger condition of things in South Africa to-day, and his library has now more room and accommodation. He says in these days of telegraph and telephone the divorce of the legislature from the administrative headquarters of the union is not so badly felt as might have been expected, although the removal of the civil servants of Pretoria has made considerable difference to the merchants in Capetown. Business however is improving in the whole of the South African provinces, and it is difficult to realize that war concluded less than a decade ago.

Dr. Flint has another interest, in addition to libraries—although it may be mentioned by the way that he called on President Laurier at E. O. S. School field while on the way—and that is the care of the native races. He was a delegate to the recent Universal Races Congress with the Hon. W. P. Strickland, former premier of Cape Colony, whose interest in the great race problem of South Africa is second to none. The delegates, including a number of every race, and among the wilder people of the earth came under review. The doctor remarked that the provinces of the union of South Africa had not yet been able to come to any mutual arrangement of the native franchise, and in consequence the laws varied on the subject in different parts of the union. Cape Colony still maintained the native franchise, while the Transvaal rejected it. Yet in the Cape the natives on the register were not numbered in the necessary quota of population which each constituency had to possess to return a member, about 3,000. Owing to the overwhelming preponderance of the natives over the whites the problem was certainly a serious one, and different to any other self-governing Dominion.

Turning to the question of immigration, the doctor said the opinion of the leading men of South Africa was that it was unwise to encourage men of every race, and work among the men of some capital emigrated, but it must not offer the same inducements to the man with little or no capital as the vast resources of Canada did, nor had the immigrant the same chance. As one concerned in ethnological questions he was very interested to watch how the diverse races which were flocking into Canada would assort in the next generation. He did not know whether they would have the same experience as the United States had seen during the past half century.

The doctor is making his headquarters at the Dominion hotel, while here.

Rev. H. H. Rothman, field secretary for the Christian Endeavorers of Western Canada, will confer a round table and conference with the officers and committee, workers of all local societies this evening. The meeting will be held in the First Baptist church, corner of Yates and Quadra streets, opening at 8 o'clock.

INSPECTOR REDGRAVE LEAVING THE FORCE

Retiring to a Beautiful Home at Los Molinos in California

In the person of Stroud L. Redgrave, inspector of police, whose retirement from office was tendered to and accepted by the police commission yesterday afternoon, the city of Victoria has had, and is now about to lose, the services of a redoubtable guardian.
Having served the city for twenty-three years Inspector Redgrave has made up his mind to retire. And happily for the attainment of this laudable desire he is the possessor of a rich and flourishing fruit ranch in that sun-kissed part of the world known as Los Molinos, near Red Bluff, California, acknowledged to be one of the finest fruit-growing areas in the world.

His intention to retire has been known for some time, but as the inspector is still a comparatively young man it was thought that a few more years of work might be got out of him. The call of the south proved irresistible, however, and in a few days he will shake the dust of Victoria from off his feet and hasten to his beautiful home in Los Molinos.
Like most men who threw in their lot with the police forces of the west in the early days Inspector Redgrave is not without those elements of interest in his composition generally summed up under the head of "experiences." Born in Toronto in the year 1861 (which reveals the fact that he is but fifty-to-day) of English parents he came to the city of Victoria some thirty-five years ago. His first acquaintance with the police was made in 1885 when he joined the provincial force, and in his capacity as an officer of that body acquired much valuable experience in clubbing, stabbing, and all the other ills or potential ills, that police flesh is heir to. The toils of these days knew a lot but they believed in the honors going round—especially when the victim was a policeman. In the year 1889 he joined the local police force, with which he has been associated ever since—in the capacities varying from a constable to the position of dignity and honor from which he is now retiring. As a mark of esteem for the services rendered by the retiring inspector the commission voted him a month's salary.

Senior Sergeant H. H. Walker was appointed to the vacancy caused by Inspector Redgrave's retirement, and Constable Wesley Harper was promoted in turn to the vacant sergeantship.

A stripe was accorded Sergeant Beckton for his excellent work at the exhibition where, by the exercise of unqualified courage, he averted what might have developed into a serious accident. He stopped three runaway horses at a critical time in the programme when there were many people about who might easily have suffered but for his valorous action.

The question of a motor patrol was discussed by the commission, and it is probable that an attempt will be made to have it drafted into the by-law shortly to be submitted to the people, requesting an additional loan for more motor apparatus for the fire department.

The council's action in voting $700 for the improvement of the detective department was commented upon and approved. It is understood that temporary quarters of a sufficiently commodious character will be provided in the market building until such time as the new city hall scheme is further advanced or definitely shelved.

THE ADVANCE MAN
Richard Carl in "Jumping Jupiter."
Richard Carl's popularity was never better exemplified than during the present season, for his latest vehicle, "Jumping Jupiter," has brought the elongated comedian his greatest success since "Times of the Spring Chicken." "Jumping Jupiter" is a show that is destined primarily to entertain, and like the other Frayser & Lederer production, "Madam Sherry," wins because of the quality of its cast rather than in force of numbers. Carl and "Jumping Jupiter" will be seen at the Victoria theatre on Thursday night.
The play does not rely on its star alone to make its way but employs the services of a company of artists who have been more than once described as the model musical comedy cast. Richard Carl will be seen here on this occasion for the first time as a star.

"Jumping Jupiter" was written by Richard Carl and Sydney Rosenfeld upon the basis of the latter's farce, "The Purple Lady," and a character has been fashioned for the star for the adequate exploitation of his unique gifts and odd personality. Carl, who is always funny, has never been funnier in anything than in "Jumping Jupiter." The complications of the play arise through his efforts to escape a tangle of lies in which his friends have involved him.
Karl Koschna, composer of "Madam Sherry," "Three Twins," "Bright Eyes," etc., has written a dozen catchy numbers for "Jumping Jupiter." Probably the most characteristic of these is "Little Girl, I Love You," which runs through the play.
"Will Be Popular Engagement."
"When Knighthood Was in Flower," that fine old English drama of the sixteenth century period, is coming to Victoria this fall, and local theatre-goers will have an opportunity of seeing one of the finest and most elaborate road productions of this play since the original Maglowe production. Miss Anna Day, who has been starring in this production for the past three seasons, will again be seen in the stellar role of Mary Tudor, the madcap princess.
"The Flirting Princess."
Harry Bulger, who has been associated with the Victoria theatre since he has around. Oval baskets made of selected sap-pine, willow, light and handy. Four sizes, 70c, 90c, 95c and $1.10. Extra heavy rectangular baskets, $1.75 and $2.25, at R. A. Brown & Co., 1392 Douglas Street.

ADDRESS PRESENTED TO NOTED CHURCHMAN

Cowichan Congregation Express Feelings of Regret at Bishop Perrin's Departure

The members of St. Peter's congregation, Cowichan, on Sunday presented Bishop Perrin with an address expressing regret that he is leaving the diocese. The address was read by Mr. Jaynes, one of the oldest members of the congregation and one who took part in a reception to the Bishop in 1893. The presentation was made in the afternoon, after Bishop Perrin had conducted the service. In the morning he preached at St. John's, Duncan, and returned to Victoria yesterday. The address reads as follows: To the Right Rev. William Wilcox Perrin, Lord Bishop of British Columbia. Right Rev. Father in God: We, the members of St. Peter's congregation, feel that we cannot allow this, possibly the last visit to our church, to pass without expressing to you our sorrowful regret that you are about to sever your connection with this diocese. For 18 years we have been privileged in receiving frequent visits from your lordship, and it is not too much to say that we have always looked forward with pleasure to these visits, and have listened with great profit to the wise and kind counsels you have given to us from the pulpit of this church. Very many of our young people have received the holy rite of confirmation at your hands, and what you have said to them, your lordship may be assured will not merely be memories of the past, but will help them in their spiritual life, and bear good fruit. Your lordship will not leave this diocese without knowing that in this parish you will leave behind many attached and personal friends, who will follow your future career with interest. That the Divine blessing may be richly bestowed upon your future labors for Christ and His church is the sincere prayer of the people of St. Peter's, and that God in His own good time may grant us to meet once more in a far better country, him who for so long has been our faithful chief pastor here. FOREIGNERS FLEE FROM TRIPOLI

The Turkish forces in Tripoli are variously estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000 men, described as badly equipped and unable to offer serious opposition to Italian landing parties, who would be protected by the guns of the navy. Turkey's only reply could be the enforcement of a boycott of Italian shipping in the Levant and the expulsion from Turkey of Italian subjects who have large interests in the country. France, it is expected, will not interfere in any way with Italy, while Great Britain also would be a spectator. Germany would be most seriously affected, and would be in the position to have a choice between two irreconcilable courses upon a matter which is the direct result of her Moroccan enterprise, and which will neutralize entirely the naval advantage which she expected from a careful handling of Turkey, the reconciliation of the Turks and the Austrians and the encouragement of Turkish and Austrian ambitions. Germany, therefore, is probably, however, that the Turks could be held back. For them to back down would bring about further international troubles in Turkey, while on the other hand, for them to go to war would mean an opportunity for which the Balkan states have long been waiting. On the whole the outlook is dark. Germany Desires Peace. Berlin, Sept. 26.—Although Germany has not offered formal mediation, it is learned that she is exerting endeavors at Rome and Constantinople to bring about a peaceful settlement of the controversy between Turkey and Italy over Tripoli. Germany regards hostilities between these two countries as a menace to European peace, since it probably would be followed by an outbreak in the Balkans, into which Austria, Hungary and the other powers might be drawn. Germany advocates Turkish recognition of Italy's special interests in her abandonment of opposition to the economic development of Tripoli by Italy and also of the close recognition by the latter country of Turkish sovereignty. Germany's position is delicate, as she is bound by an alliance to Italy and pledged to bear friendship to Turkey.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL CLERKS ON STRIKE

It is Believed Federated Shopmen May Attempt to Gain Recognition

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 26.—All members of the Clerk's Union employed by the Illinois Central railway are ordered to strike to-day by an order issued last night by J. J. Carrigan, president of the union. While many union clerks in southern cities struck last night, officials of the railroad said that they did not fear a general strike of employees, although the real threatened strike of federated shop employees might be revived by way of sympathy. Refusing Freight. Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 26.—With practically every clerk and shopman of the Illinois Central railroad on strike in Memphis, the strikers are confident they will be successful in their attempt to gain recognition of the federation. The railroad officials are equally confident that they will be able to resume traffic late to-morrow. The striking clerks, however, that a two-days' standstill in the city would produce a congestion of the road which would be difficult to handle. Both the Illinois Central and the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroads have refused freight trains at points. At New Orleans. New Orleans, La., Sept. 26.—Striking Illinois Central railroad clerks and railroad officials began taking stock of the situation to-day. Although the railroads are refusing freight, officials assert they will be able to-morrow or Thursday to resume business. The shopmen are still at work and no order for a strike has yet been received by them.

that moment I was conscious only of being carried aboard the Republic, where I was cared for. When I had somewhat recovered my senses they told me what had happened. "After the explosion an enormous fragment detached from the Liberte and other pieces of iron fell on the Republic, smashing the bridge and plunging between the decks. The bugler of the Liberte was hurled through the air from our ship to the deck of the Republic, where he was picked up badly hurt. In his hands he still held the bugle with which he was sounding the alarm." The immense force of the explosion is shown by the fact that the turret of one of the twelve-inch guns was wrenched from its base and thrown upwards. It plunged downward like a great projectile forward of amidships, cleaving the warship in two. The steel bridge weighing many tons, was blown from its supports and crashed through one side of the warship, cutting the steel flank as if that flank was made of wood. The causes of the disaster continue to be discussed with animation among the officers and men of the fleet. Whatever may have started the fire aboard the Liberte, it was pointed out, might equally well fire any ship in the French navy. If the initial cause of the tragedy was the chemical change in the powder so that by the mere lapse of time it began to burn, not a life aboard any warship, it was agreed, would be secure. The general discussion of this vital institution will, it is believed, result in an investigation of a most searching and rigid nature. The opinion of experts is generally against the theory of spontaneous combustion, yet no other adequate cause is put forward. Judgment, it is declared, should be suspended until the searching official investigation is completed. A ferryboat with more than a hundred workmen on board was nearly involved in the disaster. As it was nearing the Liberte smoke and flames were observed from the battleship, and the captain immediately reversed his engines, removing the boat from the danger zone. Paris in Mourning. Paris, Sept. 26.—The city is in mourning to-day for its navy's dead. The flag over the public buildings are at half-mast. Official dinners arranged for the immediate future have been abandoned and social engagements generally are cancelled. The ministry of marine began to-day to issue lists of dead and injured. The latest of these named sixteen as dead, fifteen as having disappeared and sixty seven as injured. The brief list indicates the difficulties of identification. Resolution of Sympathy. Berne, Switzerland, Sept. 26.—The local council to-day adopted a resolution expressing the sympathy of Switzerland for France over the naval disaster at Toulon. FIGHTING IN MEXICO. Fifteen Men Killed in Clash Which Follows Raid on Ranch. Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 26.—That 15 Magonistas were killed and four were captured in a battle with a Maderista force which began Saturday at the Santa Rita ranch, near Columbus, Mex., and continued throughout Sunday, is the report brought by a wounded soldier in Matamoros last night. With the exception of the man brought to Matamoros, the Maderista forces among the Maderista troops. The fight, it is said, followed the raiding of a store at the Santa Rita ranch. The Maderista force stationed at Camargo were dispatched to engage the raiders, who were finally routed. On the average, four out of every six men use tobacco.

LITTLE JOURNEY TO RICHMOND PARK is full of surprises. Perhaps you remember Richmond Park as that parklike property adjoining Pemberton woods. If such is the case you will be surprised with the many improvements taking place on this property. The parklike surroundings are still the same and the same unique setting, but the hand of man is creeping in and Richmond Park is becoming what nature intended it should be—a place of beautiful homes. When a man builds for himself, he chooses a homesite containing the most advantages within the limits of his purse. He usually asks: How far out is it? Is it close to a car line? Has it or will it have sewers and water? Will it have good streets? Will a good class of houses be built upon the property? Is it in a good residential district? Now, Richmond Park answers all the above questions satisfactorily, and in addition, is close to a good picnic beach, an important point for the consideration of the person who buys to build. Another important point is that although Richmond Park has all the advantages of suburban property, it is inside the limits and jurisdiction of the city. PIONEER GRAIN SHIP

LIKELY CELTICBURN

British Barque First of 1911 Fleet to Get Away From Sound for U. K.

From present indications the British barque Celticburn, Capt. Cook, will be the pioneer of the 1911 grain fleet from the Sound to the United Kingdom. She is now at Tacoma taking cargo. The French barque Francois F. Am... is also in port for grain, but as she has still a part cargo to discharge, the Celticburn will probably be the first to get to sea.

Wheat receipts for Saturday at Tacoma, totalling 178 cars, were larger than at any time this season, and that the grain exports from Tacoma will be the largest in several seasons seems assured. It is believed the larger portion of the wheat exports from the Sound port will be taken in steam bottoms, a part of it going in regular liners plying between Puget Sound and Europe.

The British barque Celticburn arrived on the Sound September 7 from Santa Rosalia. She is under charter to Kerr, Gifford & Co. The d'Amboise has a part general cargo for Balfour, Guthrie & Co. and is under charter to carry wheat to the United Kingdom for the Puget Sound Mills Company. She is taking stiffening preparatory to discharging the remainder of her inward freight.

Another shipment of wheat is to leave Tacoma on the Kosmos liner Salatis. She will take 500 tons for Europe. The steamer will also load 500,000 feet of lumber, 500 tons of flour from the Sherry mills and 500 tons from the Puget Sound mills. She will complete her freight with 400 tons of box shooks which are being loaded to-day. The liner will clear from Tacoma for San Francisco and the west coast.

The Japanese steamer Awa Maru, which leaves this week for the Orient, carries a large shipment of flour from this port, and others loading are the British steamers Belle of Spain and Strathguy, and the Japanese steamer Panama Maru. The latter vessel will have a capacity cargo of flour, machinery and general freight.

The Kosmos liner Salatis will leave the Sound early this week for Hamburg via San Francisco.

Big Freighter Sold to Liverpool Firm and Has Been Renamed Nile also Sold

Vancouver, Sept. 26.—The British steamer Bannockburn, Captain E. A. Dent, which arrived here from London on Sept. 22, left port this morning under new ownership. Messrs. R. Shankland & Co., of Greenock, have sold her to Messrs. Hugh, Evans & Co., of Liverpool for $210,000.

The Bannockburn was built in 1888 at Port Glasgow by Russell & Co. and she is 4,936 tons gross and 3,156 tons net. Her engines are triple-expansion, 27-in., 44-in., and 73-in., by 48-in. stroke. Her new owners will rename her the Hillcrag. She discharged 500 barrels of cement here and also 125 tons of girders and left at 11 o'clock this morning for Nanaimo where she will load a full cargo of coal for San Francisco.

Another vessel known here which has changed hands is the sailing ship Nile, which is now lying idle at Belfast and has been sold by the Alliance Shipping Co., of London to the Norwegians for $21,750. The Nile arrived here on February 16 from the United Kingdom with general cargo and left for Tacoma on March 24.

NIPPON LINER IS SPOKEN FAR AWAY

KAMAKURA MARU REACHES HERE NOON ON WEDNESDAY

Awa Maru Getting Away for Yokohama To-day — Full Passenger and Freight Lists

Somewhere about noon on Wednesday the crack Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kamakura Maru will reach the William Head quarantine station, according to a wireless message which was received in this city yesterday. The operator at Estevan communicated with the steamship at 12.30 a. m., and her skipper gave his position as being lat. 49.10 north, and long. 144.25 west, at 10 o'clock Sunday. The vessel, 770 miles from Estevan and should be at the station about noon-Wednesday.

The vessel will be at the outer wharf about an hour after her arrival at quarantine and will discharge at this port several hundred tons of cargo taken on at Hongkong, Yokohama and other Oriental ports. For points on the Sound she has about two thousand tons of freight, including a shipment of silk worth half a million dollars. The Maru will get away from here as soon as possible so that her silk goods may be rushed from Seattle to New York at the earliest moment.

When the Nippon Yusen liner Awa Maru sails for the Orient this evening she will have among her passengers Viscount Yasuga Uchida, formerly Japanese ambassador at Washington, D. C. Viscount Uchida has been called to Tokyo to occupy the post of minister of foreign affairs in the new cabinet of Premier Saionji. He will be accompanied by Viscountess Uchida.

Also aboard the Awa Maru will be a number of tourists who are returning to the Orient after a trip around the world. In the party will be Miss A. Hyde and Miss H. Hyde, of London; G. S. V. Bidwell, a banker of Yokohama, and Miss Bidwell, and Y. Shimidzu, of London, Rev. G. H. Schofield, wife and family, and Floyd Appleton and wife, of Chicago, who will also be aboard the Awa Maru. Are missionaries, bound for China. Other passengers who will sail on the vessel are Miss A. Olson, Miss Cora Olson and Miss A. Hanbury, of Chicago; Erik Geeser and wife, of New York; Miss C. R. Harris and Miss G. K. Harris, of Victoria; Miss Maude Edwards, of Chicago; and K. Ikeda, of New York.

Every berth aboard the Maru has been taken and she will have aboard a record passenger list. She will also have a full cargo of freight, including principally wheat and flour. The Nippon liner will have about 7,000 tons aboard, the largest cargo to leave the Sound on a Japanese vessel for many months.

After loading 4,000 barrels of whale oil and 30,000 cases of the Blue Funnel liner Onfa, Capt. Lyett, left the outer docks early Sunday morning for Seattle. She will take on about 500 tons of additional shipment of salmon, scrap iron and general merchandise. The Belleophon, the next of the Blue Funnel liners due here, is expected on Friday morning from Liverpool via Yokohama.

LUCKENBACH IN PORT

Reaches Seattle After Sixteen-Day Trip From Nome—Other Seattle Marine News.
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 26.—Sixteen days from Nome the steamer J. L. Luckenbach, under charter to the Western Alaska Steamship Co., arrived in Seattle yesterday at noon. The vessel sailed from Nome on September 9, put in at Dutch Harbor on September 16, and since that time nothing was heard of her until she came steaming down the bay yesterday. Not until she passed Port Townsend yesterday morning were the fears for her safety quelled.

The Luckenbach's charter to the Western Alaska Steamship Co. has expired, and she will be turned over to Balfour, Guthrie & Co. for a voyage from San Francisco to New York, with a cargo of barley.

The British steamer Amertig arrived in Seattle last night from San Francisco and will probably go on the dry dock before loading cargo. The vessel sailed from Newcastle, Australia, on August 4, with cargo for Californian ports.

The steamer Victoria, which put in at Ladysmith for sacked coal cargo while bound north, continued her voyage to Nome from that port yesterday. The New England Fish Company's steamer Kingfisher will be sent to Seattle from Vancouver in a few days for general repairs and overhauling.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Sado Maru arrived at Yokohama yesterday from Puget Sound ports.

MAKE VESSELS LOOK MORE LIKE CRUISERS

G. T. P. Plan Alterations to Prince Steamers to Cost $50,000

Alterations to the G. T. P. Steamship Company's steamers Prince George and Prince Rupert costing approximately $50,000, will be made in the near future. The work includes the converting of the vessels into oil-burners, which will be followed by alterations which will give the steamships an entirely new appearance. About ten feet are to be cut off the three funnels on each of the two vessels, and they will look more like fast armored cruisers than passenger vessels. The change will also give a hugging effect, exemplifying the tenacity of the G. T. P. in the competition for business.

Captain C. H. Nicholson, manager of the coast service of the company, has left for San Francisco where he will arrange for the purchase of fuel oil for the vessels. The company says that there will be no need of the long funnels which produce the draft for the coal-burning engines, after the vessels are converted into oil-burners. The change will also result in the reduction of 12 men in the crews of the Prince George and Prince Rupert.

Bids for the work on the two vessels will be requested in a few days. At present it is not known whether the work will be carried out at this port or Seattle. When the travel north shows a rapid decline one of the vessels will be withdrawn and the work will then commence. When the first one is completed she will relieve the other on the northern run and the repairs made to her.

Reports have been received here that the G. T. P. intends to construct three new steamers for the northern run, giving practically a daily service. It is stated that work will commence on their construction this winter and that Capt. Barney Johnson will superintend the work.

LATEST ADVICES OF WRECKED STEAMERS

Knight of St. George Declared Total Loss — Still Hope of Salvaging Empress of China

That the Empress of China is not in any too good a position was the news which reached here to-day. The liner went ashore on July 26 on the Japanese coast and rested on an even keel. She is surrounded by rocks and divers have been engaged in removing some of these and the first effort to tow her off resulted in the steamer being moved 25 feet.

On August 30, however, the weather became worse and the ship shifted 30 feet inshore. The stern is damaged seriously but all the pumps have been able to operate with her own steam. The second deck between deck cabins aft are submerged and prospects of salvaging are not of the best. On August 31, the position was unchanged.

The damage to the bilge well tunnel is extensive but this is being filled with cement. Lloyd's agent, who arrived on the scene last week has reported that the weather is good and the prospects of salvaging are fair so that a change for the better has evidently taken place.

DISPOSE OF EGERIA AT AUCTION SALE SHORTLY

British Admiralty Resorts to Last Method to Sell Little Sloop-of-War

Following an unsuccessful attempt made several months ago by the British Admiralty to dispose of the sloop-of-war, H. M. S. Egeria, now lying at anchor in Esquimaut harbor, the Imperial authorities have arranged to have an auction sale held at the navy yard on October 8 and 9, commencing at 11 a. m. each day. Commander Vivian, of H. M. S. Shearwater, commander of the Pacific squadron, has been instructed to have the sale conducted and Stewart Williams has been selected as the auctioneer.

No doubt there will be a large number of bidders at the sale, as the Egeria, although an old vessel and built on rather heavy lines, is staunch and quite capable of remaining afloat for a good many years to come. The little sloop of war is one of the oldest ships in the British navy and she is practically obsolete. While stationed at Esquimaut she has been used almost entirely for survey work, and has done a great deal in charting the rocks in British Columbia waters.

Among the bidders who are expected at the sale, will be representatives of the Vancouver branch of the Navy League. The members of this organization canvassed the Terminal City for funds for the purchase of the ship and offered in the neighborhood of $5,000 for the vessel at the first sale. The tender, however, was refused by the British Admiralty but the league has been active in the meantime and gathered together additional money. The representatives who attend the sale will do their utmost to have the ship turned over to the league, and have much capital to back them up.

It is the intention of the Navy League, if successful in purchasing the Egeria, to moor her in the Terminal City harbor and convert her into a training ship. Capable instructors would be secured and the boys given tuition in both the sail and steam parts of the ship. The Egeria has an advantage over any of the other vessels of the navy, and the league has noted it. She has yards on her masts and considerable canvas can be spread and she is also a steam propelled craft, so that she is a combination of the antique methods of making progress on the high seas and the modern. Aboard this ship the boys could be taught the rudiments of engineering and navigating better than anywhere else.

Other bidders, though, will be present, as the vessel has much copper on her hull as well as copper fittings, and her engines, although of an old design, are worth a good sum.

BANK LINERS' POSITIONS.

The weekly circular issued by Walkerhouse & Co., managing agents for the Weir line, shows the last reported position of the vessels in the Pacific fleet as follows:

C. A. LEWTHWAITE SAYS IT IS BETTER METHOD

Effect of Wild Land Tax on Settlement—Forest Protection Against Fire

At this morning's session of the Provincial Tax Commission Senator Macdonald, W. J. Sutton, geologist for the Canadian Collieries, Ltd., Hon. Dr. Helmecken and C. A. Lewthwaite gave evidence...

Senator Macdonald took up the question of the revenue tax, and said he believed that persons who paid $25 taxes to other sources, municipal or otherwise, should be exempted from paying the three dollars, now being exacted...

He was not opposed to the raising of the exemption limit from $1,000, though that figure was suitable for himself. It was no doubt true that "more people got the more they wished to have."

He favored a straight rate per acre on wild land, as the fairest means of assessment. It was difficult to arrive at the value of land for the four per cent rate, and a charge per acre was the best and cheapest way for the government.

In answer to Mr. McPhillips, who pointed out that while the province, in unorganized districts exempted both land and buildings held for religious and charitable purposes, the municipalities only exempted the improvements, he favored the full exemption...

A geologist of 35 years' residence in British Columbia, W. J. Sutton pointed out that two-thirds of the province could never be anything but "wild land." It was almost impossible to dilute the question of administration from that of taxation...

Reverting to the pre-emptor he ventured the opinion that on the island and lower mainland the pre-emptor should be limited to 80 acres, and in the upper country the limit should remain as at present, 160 acres.

The witness thought the "circumstances of Manitoba and British Columbia were different, owing to the large floating population here."

Mr. Malkin raised the question of the taxation of the natural products of the country, to which witness said he thought the owners, particularly of timber limits, were already paying as much as they could afford. Whatever tax was imposed on products, the consumer ultimately had to pay the difference.

Hon. Dr. Helmecken attended to voice a complaint with reference to the Victoria City Council against him over property for Douglas street improvement, contending that by passing through two of his lots he was not only losing his property at valuation, but had to pay extra taxes on the remainder, which had thereupon become corner lots whose assessment was higher.

C. A. Lewthwaite, of the Nechaco Land Company, gave evidence on the wildland tax, and contended that large colonization companies, a term he liked better than "speculators" were responsible for bringing in settlers more than any governments. At the present time these companies, who had large blocks of land in the northern and central sections of the province, were paying 20 to 40 cents an acre on unimproved land, an excessive figure. These figures were a detriment to capitalists, who on the top of this tax had to make interest on their money when selling to settlers. So difficult it was for the ordinary...

CANADIAN PACIFIC PAY CHECKS FORGED

Forgers Make Mistake in Color of Paper and Are Easily Detected

Kamloops, Sept. 25.—A series of forgeries, the extent of which will not be known for some little time, but which is expected to reach $50,000, has been pulled off in the west since Friday last. It is the forgery of a number of C. P. R. monthly pay checks. A number of the checks have already appeared at the bank, and it is feared that more have been passed.

The forgery is very cleverly executed. It appears as if the gang that has worked it had photographed one of the August checks, changed the month, and from that had cut up a number of the checks. It would be possible to print any number of checks and fill the amounts in later together with the necessary signatures.

The forgers have made one mistake which reveals the forgery at once to anyone connected with the C. P. R. system of issuing pay checks. Each month a different colored paper is used. In August the color was pink and the forgers have printed their checks on pink paper. This month, however, the company used yellow paper, so that the forgery is readily detected. On the forgery the name of the paymaster appears to have been printed on and the countersigning is forged in ink. The checks are made payable at the Bank of Montreal, Winnipeg. In the past the C. P. R. pay checks have been accepted practically as currency by a great many storekeepers, hotel men and others and it is this class of people who have been victimized. When the forged checks are turned over to the bank, they are refused and the man who cashes them is the loser, for neither the bank nor the C. P. R. will redeem them. Warning has been issued against anyone cashing pink checks for September, as all of that color are forgeries.

Of the forged checks discovered so far it is stated that all were perforated in the usual way but the sums were $50 or under.

STOLEN RIDE WAS FATAL

Newsboy Taking Ride on C. P. R. Train at New Westminster is Run Over and Killed.

New Westminster, Sept. 25.—A sad fatality occurred here when the life of little Willie Wilson, aged 12 years, was crushed out by the wheels of the C. P. R. train. The boy, who sold newspapers, was in the habit of standing on a ledge on the train, jumping on when the train was proceeding slowly along Front street in the business section. One saw the accident, but the boy was seen to run after the train, with the apparent intention of jumping on. He must have slipped, however, for turning round, a witness saw the mangled body lying on the tracks. His head had been partly crushed, his right arm was severed from the shoulder and his right leg was cut off at the knee. Dr. Kenny arrived on the scene almost immediately, and declared that death must have been instantaneous. The deceased had been living with his grandparents at 313 Keary street, Sapperton. His mother died some time ago and his father has been employed in North Vancouver.

LEAVING KAMLOOPS.

Kamloops, Sept. 25.—Rev. H. S. Akhurst has tendered his resignation as rector of St. Paul's church to identify himself with the Savona and North Thompson mission work. His resignation has been accepted by the church committee with many expressions of regret as he has been prominent in the religious life of Kamloops for the past ten years and during that time St. Paul's church has enjoyed a healthy, spiritual and financial growth. Mr. Akhurst has severed his connection with the parish to take up mission work with the view of extending his field of usefulness by establishing new missions, and in this work a man of his ability and zeal has long been needed.

FUTURE OF GEOGRAPHY.

Major Leonard Darwin, the President of the Geographical Society, says "that in looking to the future it is important to inquire, not how their past history would then be regarded, but rather how the society would be able to maintain its reputation and its usefulness in the new condition of geographical knowledge. It was true that the South Pole was as yet unexplored, that the map of Arabia was still largely composed of great blank spaces, and that the bend of the Brahmaputra was drawn by guesswork. In their atlases. But it was probable that all those problems would be solved before long, and where then would be the field in which the explorer might hope to win renown by robbing the unknown of its romance? They must sooner or later face the fact that the work by which the society had become best known in the past represented an almost finished chapter in geographical history, and to that condition of things the society would have to adapt itself. In view of the changing conditions, they ought, no doubt, to direct their efforts with more persistence than heretofore in the direction of encouraging travellers to make systematic and detailed examinations of comparatively small areas, and not merely to cover long distances with the result of doing little more than confirm the impressions of previous explorers. The traveller of the future ought to be a trained topographer, or to have thoroughly prepared himself in advance for some definite class of investigation, if he wished to win their prizes."

CITY HALL FOR PRINCE RUPERT

Work of Excavation in Progress—Construction to Be Rushed

Prince Rupert, Sept. 25.—Prince Rupert's new city hall is under way. At a recent meeting of the council there was a report from the board of works recommending the adoption of the plans for the municipal edifice prepared by Messrs. Potter & Lalley, architects. The estimated cost of the building is $14,750, but the board reported that it will be necessary to have a heating plant put in at an approximate cost of $1,900.

The front elevation of the building on Fulton street is plain in design and will be of stone covered with stucco. The main entrance opens into a hall to the two floors above. On the right of the entrance will be the office of the chief of police and in the rear a large day room for prisoners almost surrounded by cells. Across the hall is the office of the superintendent of public works, the kitchen, heating apparatus and so on. On the second floor there is provision for a court room 24x37 feet, and commodious offices for the mayor, city clerk, accountant, assessor and tax collector. In the front of the third floor on the right is a council chamber 24x42, a committee room 14x34, general office, city engineer's office and bookkeeper's office. On the opposite side is a library 24x36, drafting rooms and large concrete vault. The council have ordered detailed maps and specifications and meantime men are engaged excavating for the foundation. The construction is to be carried on as rapidly as possible.

FALLS UNDER WHEELS.

Ashcroft, Sept. 25.—An accident happened at Spence's Bridge as the east-bound train was pulling out, which resulted in the death of George B. Smith of Ashcroft. Smith attempted to board the train while it was moving and fell beneath the wheels of one of the cars, being instantly killed.

Little is known in town regarding Smith, and he appears to have no friends in this vicinity. He came out from the old country some years ago and worked on the Canadian Pacific for two years on bridge work. The summer before last he spent at Hazelton at the mine there and came down to Waltham last winter, where he did some work for the Development Company ploughing and cultivating. He was about twenty-eight years of age.

Already a large number of applications from all over Kootenay have been received and a big crowd is expected at the organization meeting on October 2.

BIG HYDRAULIC PLANT IN OPERATION

First Clean Will Probably Be Made at Hydraulic Early in November

Vancouver, Sept. 26.—The big plant of the Queen's Hydraulic Gold Mining Company at Hydraulic, on the Queen's river, Cariboo district, started operations for the first time on August 18 last. It is handling 15,000 tons of gravel daily. This figure will shortly be increased to 25,000 tons daily. The plant is one of the largest in the world and represents an investment of over $1,000,000. It is owned by a close corporation with a paid-up capital issue of $1,750,000. Three years were devoted to surveys and examinations before a start was made three years ago and the building of the plant was only completed last month. The first clean-up, it is expected, will be made about November 1, and as the plant is located at the low elevation of 1500 feet above sea level, operations will be continued until December 1. Howard W. Dubois, the engineer and general manager, of Philadelphia, is here. The water supply for the plant is derived from Swift river, 27 miles distant, and is conveyed to the plant in ditches, flumes, inverted siphons, and over 10,000 feet of pipe line. Great engineering difficulties were overcome in building the water supply system and an unending supply is assured even during the driest seasons. The plant is running very smoothly. While no predictions can be secured, the gold output is expected to be enormous, as there is enough ground to keep the plant at work for 100 years, working day and night, as is now being done. Mr. Dubois is the father of the enterprise, having discovered an ancient river channel while seeking platinum in that locality five years ago. His associates at Hydraulic are W. W. Edwards, chief engineer, and Andrew Nesbitt, superintendent, who have had extensive hydraulic mining experience in California and Siberia.

TAX COMMISSION AND THE REVENUE

SCHEMES SUBMITTED TO RAISE PUBLIC FUNDS

Urgent Exemptions in Favor of Churches and Charitable Institutions—Revenue Tax

When the Provincial Tax Commission resumed its sessions yesterday afternoon, pending the arrival of the witness called for that hour, Simon Leiser, the chairman, Hon. Price Ellison, received the deputation from the Board of Trade, consisting of H. G. Wilson (president), F. A. Pauline, Col. E. G. Prior, D. R. Ker and J. P. Elworthy (secretary).

Mr. Wilson read a resolution passed by the board in January last asking the government to remove the merchandise tax, and to raise the exemption for income tax to $2,500.

In support of this resolution he mentioned that the tax weighed on distributors in this province who had to meet in competition travellers from other provinces, who were not taxed. During the last two years the wholesale grocers had had to carry very much larger stocks, and at the time the assessment was made the local grocers, for instance, had large stocks upon which their assessment was made, often having an assessment made on a year's supply. He could not see the government had such a demand for money under existing conditions. The personal property tax ought also to be abolished.

The board thought the sum of $1,000 a year, the present exemption for income tax, much too small, with the increased cost of living on the coast, and from his experience he was satisfied there was a large class earning between $1,000 and $1,500 in the retail houses of the province who had a hard time to make a living, when the man had a family to provide for, and to pay life insurance in addition for their protection.

In answer to Mr. McPhillips, he did not think the government would have to make up the difference lost by such a provision, through increasing the taxation on those paying taxes on income above $2,500, because he believed the government was not pressed for money. He was certain that while the exemption the board proposed might be large, the present exemption was much too low. Perhaps $1,500 to $1,800 a year would prove a fair incidence, in accordance with the price of living on the coast.

F. A. Pauline, wholesale dry goods, sketched the history of the merchandise tax, and said the circumstances were brought before a previous commission, over which Hon. F. Carter-Cotton presided at a time when the finances of the province were in bad shape. They were then told that the government would tax every dollar in sight. The personal property tax was not fair to the community, and acted in restraint of trade and as a bar to enterprise. The very fact that it was an alternative tax to the income tax meant in actual operation that the government had the choice of taxing the citizen in whichever way it chose. Stocks, under present conditions were deliberately reduced before stock-taking, in order to make the sum as low as possible for assessment.

In answer to the chairman the witness said that while it was not good policy to let stock run down, it was done to cut down expenses, the merchants being pressed from all quarters, municipal and government, in the way of taxation. He was in favor of the abolition of the personal property tax, and would prefer a graduated income tax commencing at not less than $1,500.

Mr. McKilligan took issue with Mr. Pauline as to the duplicate taxation of stock, when the latter, as a wholesaler, took stock in December, and sold to a retailer, who took stock in January, each paying taxes on the same material. Mr. Pauline submitted that only one man should pay on stock, while Mr. McKilligan claimed the transaction was merely a personal one between the wholesaler and retailer, of which the government could take no cognizance.

Mr. Pauline strongly argued against the poll tax as an individual citizen, not as a member of the board, but from his experience in the province. It was an irritating tax, accompanied as it was by a municipal road tax of $2. The charge of $5, three dollars for the provincial government and two for road tax, often caused dissatisfaction among new comers.

The chairman drew attention to the fact that the poll tax was the only means of touching the Orientals, but Mr. Pauline said in one way or another they could not evade taxation, municipal and otherwise.

Hon. Price Ellison observed that the people of British Columbia were paying the head tax on Chinese, as the wages of Chinese cooks had risen from $25 to $40 a month.

D. R. Ker, grain merchant, was not in favor of the exemption from income tax as high as $2,500, but the present sum was too low, and the balance of the revenue ought to be obtained by taxation of the natural resources of the country, owing to its unexploited resources given by Providence. It was true it would be something of a novelty, but the province would gain advantage from the advertisement so secured. He did not think as a general rule the poll tax pressed unduly on people in this province. There were, however, certain cases of hardship undoubtedly.

If these taxes were removed the money would have to come from other sources, and, in answer to questions, he was afraid the money would have to come from the consumers in the way of paying more for coal and lumber, and similar natural products which had to be used in the people's homes. Contrary to the general impression, the coronation festivities lasted 40 days while the returns from the revenue tax, the chairman said, amounted to about $300,000, it meant that about 100,000 people contributed to the revenue in this way, and a large proportion of them never paid in any other manner. Mr. Ker said he was opposed to the taxation of church sites, which involved a considerable burden on religious congregations.

In answer to Hon. Mr. Ellison, the president of the board said he was in favor of exemption of taxation on church property, and in fact on charitable institutions.

The next witness, Col. E. G. Prior, believed in the necessity of the removal of the merchandise tax, owing to the competition of eastern rivals, who did not need to carry such large stock, being nearer their sources of supply, the factories. He was not opposed to the income tax, provided it began at a reasonable rate, with a fair exemption. He believed that all charitable institutions should receive exemption benefits.

Simon Leiser, ex-president of the board of trade, was the next witness. His views agreed largely with those of previous members of the board. He made the suggestion that the revenue tax should be made $4 instead of $3, and believed no one would suffer from the change. He went into the details of the Assessment Act as it affected the goods in warehouses at the time of the assessment being made, and showed how it affected the business of wholesalers. It appeared that the assessors levied on the goods in the warehouses, irrespective of which party owned them. The government simply looked to the warehouse for the tax, whether the goods belonged to him, or whether he was simply selling on commission.

He was in favor of remission of taxation on churches, charitable institutions, and also theatres. The latter were just as instructive as churches (laughter) and of benefit to the community. He hoped the government would take in hand the question of agents representing various firms who did a large quantity of business in the province and paid nothing. To a certain extent they were controlled by the recent Companies' Act, but much further legislation was necessary to bring within the scope of the act individual business men and private firms.

Mr. McPhillips said the difficulty would be to bring the man or private firm into the bounds of the law, and decide what he should pay. At present the rate was fixed on the capital of each company.

Mr. Leiser concluded by expressing his approval of the wild land tax, to control speculation. The commission then adjourned till this morning.

PASSING SHOW

Empress Theatre.

To start on the stage of the Empress theatre clad in two dress suits, one on top and one below, and have between them eleven other suits of vastly different arrangement, is the phenomenal stunt of Robert Fulgora, who yesterday mystified Empress audiences with his quick transmutations.

He appeared as an English gentleman, then as a member of the King's Life Guards, next as an Irish policeman, then as General Grant, Abraham Lincoln, General Lee, George Washington, the famous Robert Emmett; from that by the loosening of two strings he became an old market woman; a flip of an apron and he was a jockey, and appeared suddenly in two other jockey jackets. The curtain then rang down and up again swiftly and Mr. Fulgora was bowing his acknowledgements to the applause correctly clad in evening dress again. The changes from English gentleman to market woman, a flip of an apron and he was a jockey, and appeared suddenly in two other jockey jackets. The possibilities of such a play are immense, and with a poker-playing husband, a loving wife and a mother-in-law, the opportunities for the drug to do his work astonishingly are evident. This company takes in all the opportunities.

Fred Niblo and Miss Riley, black face artists, are the other gizzel get-ter. Niblo is very funny both as a humorist and as a dancer. He has good support from Miss Riley, and there is an upsurge from the time they introduce the cow-dolly egg, and even before that, the messages from the dead by given. They go repeated encores last night.

An act that is far away too good to open the bill with is the musical performance of the Venetian four, three violinists and a harpist. Seldom does a harpist come to vancouver, as it is a rare talent, and never was another harpist here like this one. Their act opens in a street scene with three violins, and then the curtain rises on an Italian canal scene with the harpist taking the centre stage. Their best numbers are "My Rosary" and a duet from "The Arcadians." They were encored.

Charles Bartholomew has a decidedly English act, characterizing London music hall favorites. In those he relies on voice and manner without changes of dress, and looks the irreproachable Dublin dandy as he is billed. The show is made of five headline acts whichever way it is looked at.

Coronation in Color.
The Kinemacolor pictures of the coronation and other scenes which will be shown at the Victoria theatre to-day, to-morrow, Friday and Saturday were taken by royal command, the company producing them being the only one in the world photographing the royal crown and jewels worn by King George VI. and Queen Mary, as well as all the scenes of the 40 days' festivities, in connection with the coronation. The pictures are shown in brilliant photographic natural colors. It has been shown in natural colors of royalty in all the pageantry of court.

Contrary to the general impression, the coronation festivities lasted 40 days

A Boy Who Was Wide Awake

EVERYTHING was very quiet in the old Scotch kitchen. The only sounds that broke the stillness were the spluttering of the wood fire and the click of the ever-busy knitting needles. In the chimney corner sat a little boy, with wide-open, intelligent eyes and thoughtful face. His name was James Watt. Finally, he broke the silence with one of the questions his relatives dreaded.

"What," he asked, "is the thing which makes the fire burn, grandma?"

The click of the knitting needles ceased, and with a smiling "How should I know, child?" the good dame set about preparing a meal. Watt's eyes wandered from the fire to where the old-fashioned teakettle hung above the flame.

It was just beginning to boil, and a thin cloud of steam was coming from the spout.

Watt got up and cautiously lifted the lid.

Nothing but water met his gaze. He sat down again and watched.

"You have seen that there is nothing but water," she smiled.

"But there is something else," persisted Watt. "Something which makes the heavy lid of the kettle lift up and make a noise."

"Oh, you mean the steam?" she said.

"That always comes from very hot water."

"How much water did you put into the kettle, grandma?"

"Only about a quart, lad. Why do you ask?"

"I was just thinking. The steam that comes from that little bit of water is very strong. Why should not we heat a great quantity of water and let the steam which would rise lift heavy weights for us or turn machinery?"

The old woman's face grew thoughtful as she looked into the bright upturned face.

"Jamie," she said, slowly, "you'll never be a very great man or you'll never be worth your salt."

With which remark she turned to the supper table and busied herself in preparation for the evening meal.

But James Watt could not so easily dismiss the subject from his mind. The more he thought about it the more fascinating it became to him.

Day after day he studied his grandmother's kettle. Day after day, and night after night, the filmy steam wove itself into his dreams, awake or asleep.

When he had become a man the idea of utilizing steam for power came into his mind. He finally evolved the first crude steam engine.

And thus the force which lifts weights, draws loads, weaves, spins and sows and turns machinery was discovered. The greatest invention of modern times, which almost halves the labor of the world, came to be known because that little boy in the chimney corner had wondered and puzzled out what made the kettle top on the old iron kettle bob up and down.

A larger stream of vapor poured from the spout. The lid shook at a terrific rate.

"What is in the kettle, grandma?" he asked.

MOTHER GOOSE'S PANTRY

"HOW did you get your frock so soiled, Jane? Listen to your mother. Don't you know that often one thing leads right to another? If you don't heed untidy dress, next thing you'll let your hair go all uncombed, your face unwashed—a sad sight, I declare! Go in the pantry right away, nor come out till I say you may."

So Jane very obediently went into the pantry to think over what her mother had said. "And it sounded like poetry," reflected Jane, aloud.

"So it was poetry," said a flippant voice with a half laugh in its tones. When Jane turned to see who was speaking, there stood the oddest fairy imaginable. "And one thing leads to another," continued the fairy, quite as Jane's mother might have said it.

"Who are you?" inquired Jane, in

Jane required no second invitation, and soon had the top off a can labeled "Hey, Diddle, Diddle." There was nothing in the can but invisible words, which, however, soon made themselves heard.

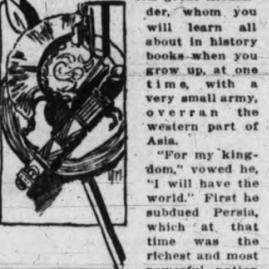

Hey, diddle, diddle, the cow and the diddle; The dog ran after the spoon; The dish jumped up to see such sport; While the cat laughed out at the moon.

"Sounds kind of mixed up," declared Jane, "although I have heard something like it before."

"This mixed up," sneezed Topsy-turvy. "You see, I sneezed things up

No More Words to Conquer

The gorgeous city of Tyre he burned and became sole monarch of Egypt. Near the mouth of the sluggish Nile he built a great new city, which he called, after himself, Alexandria.

One day he called a man who had traveled far.

"What lands lie to the west of Egypt?" he asked.

mountain. Looking northward, Alexander again called the traveler.

"What lies there?" he asked.

"Huge marshes," was the answer, "frozen and desolate. To the place where the earth doth end there is nothing else."

Then the great general marched with his army back to the southward. One city of India after another fell into his hands, and the prizes were rich. They came to the great wide river called the Ganges.

Again Alexander called his counselor.

"What lies yonder—to the east?" asked he.

"Only trees," answered the traveler. "Mile after mile, to the furthest bounds of the earth, there are only trees."

Then Alexander and his great army got into ships and floated on the India river until they had reached the salt water of the sea.

"What lies beyond?" asked he.

"The pathless wastes of water," answered the traveler. "As far as the eye can see and further, mile upon mile, mile upon mile, to the place where the world doth end, there is naught but the waste stretches of the sea."

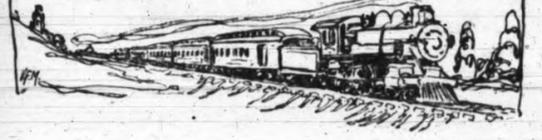

Then Alexander folded his arms and bowed his head, and what he said has echoed down the ages.

"No more words to conquer," and he was so sad that he sat down and wept.

"Naught but the burning deserts," answered the traveler. "Mile on mile and mile on mile, only sands and nothing more."

So Alexander and his army went back into Asia. They tramped across the huge plains which lie along the shores of the big Caspian sea, and at last they came to a high and snowy blunt which are the results of the fire blisters. The turkeys are proud of these blisters, for they testify to the bravery of their great ancestor who lost his feathers, but gave fire back to the world. It is for this reason that the wing of the turkey is used to fan a fire even unto the present day.

About the Chinese

Old women, not young, are the idols of Chinese society and play ball while the children look quietly on.

The very highest ambition of a Chinaman is to have a handsome coffin and a costly funeral. Men wear long skirts and carry fans. Women wear short jackets and carry canes.

When a Chinaman meets an acquaintance he covers his head and shakes his own hand. If very glad to see a friend, a Chinaman very often rubs shoulders with him.

If a Chinaman desires a visitor to dine with him, he does not ask him to do so; but if he should not want him, he says: "Won't you stay and dine?" The visitor then knows that he is not wanted.

THE Indians have many legends connected with the habits prevalent among them. If one should visit the home of an old Indian, one would be almost certain to find a turkey-wing hanging near the fire. This is for the purpose of fanning the fire into a clearer flame. Should you chance to ask him why a turkey wing is always used for this purpose in preference to that of any other bird, the reply would most likely be:

"Once on a time long ago the great fire of the world was almost put out at the beginning of the long winter. This state of affairs greatly worried the birds, for they knew that in order to live through the cold of winter they must have a little warmth. A great meeting of all the birds was held, and it was decided that the high-flying birds should soar into the heavens in order to see if they could find a spark of fire anywhere. The eagle, the lark and the raven flew, but their efforts met with no success.

The great honor was reserved for a little brown sparrow, who saw a tiny bit of fire, which burned slowly in a deep forest in the heart of a decayed stump. All the council of birds gathered around the stump and tried to decide which was to venture in and pick the spark out. Suddenly they all looked into the stump and a flutter of alarm resulted.

The spark was rapidly dwindling, growing smaller and weaker every moment. The turkey offered to try to prolong the life of the spark by fanning it with his wings. Hour by hour the turkey fanned and hour by hour the flame grew steadily in strength until the feathers were singed off the head of the turkey.

If you examine carefully the head of a turkey you will easily see the little

The Largest Grapevine in Existence

THE very largest grapevine in the world is one that grows in California, Cal. The shade which it casts will shelter 500 people from the sun.

It is of the mission variety, and was planted in 1842 by a Spanish woman, and is therefore 60 years old.

It bears from eight to ten tons of fruit annually, and the trunk is eight feet in circumference.

Some Beliefs

A Fiji cannibal has the greatest reverence for the god Matawaloo, who has eight stomachs and is always eating.

The Tongans have a curious old legend to account for a night and a day being twenty-four hours in length. It used to be much less and the sun went down too quickly. One fine day a man caught it in a noose and ever afterward it had to go down slower.

The American Indians have a dogma which asserts that the sun is a god and the moon is his wife. One tribe which lived in a very hot region worshipped only the moon, having no use whatever for the scorching sun.

A Funny Postermother

ISN'T this a funny looking pair? The smaller animal is a badger cub, which was caught when three or four days old and carried from Wales to England in a cigar box. It was carefully fed with spoon and bottle until the Irish terrier in the picture saw and took a fancy to the little fellow.

She adopted him immediately and in a short time they were the very best of friends and devoted to one another.

The cub in the picture was four months old when the photograph was made.

Flowers in Ceremonies

WHEN the swarthy Spaniards captured Mexico, they found in the lake which almost surrounded the capital city many floating gardens, the fragrant products of which were used only for the temples.

In Greece and Rome flowers were made into huge triumphal arches, and a species of flowers, known as the Flora, was established in their honor.

The Wandering Star

ONCE on a time a little star lost its way in the guffy clouds which hang about the earth. Now, in its travels it came nearer and nearer to the earth and to the tepees and wigwams of the Indians. They were frightened, for they thought it would burn away the world, and they all ran away and hid in caves.

This made the star very sad, for it intended no harm, and it was very lonely.

Day by day it traveled over hills, valleys and rivers. Sometimes it paused where the bright flames of campfires lit up faces. Sometimes it sought for a friend among the wigwams of hunters. But always people were afraid of it, and it was compelled to pass on, twinkling wistfully in the lonely dark.

Now, after a time, a new little daughter was born to a family of red children, and lot when she saw the star she was not afraid, as the others had been. She stretched out her dimpled little arms and cried: "Come nearer, my beautiful star!"

And the little star came near and played with her and followed her always, hovering about her head.

Years passed swiftly and the child grew into a slim, fair maiden, and still the star watched over her and was always near.

One day the girl wandered alone far away from home. When she started to go back she found herself hopelessly lost.

Suddenly a great storm arose. The wind blew, the rain pelted down and the black clouds pressed around her.

At the lower end of the valley was a great swamp full of bottomless holes. And a voice from the swamp called—called to the maid, "Come!"

And she went, blindly. Soon she slipped on the tufts of slippery grass, and she sank down, down into the oozy earth. By and by the grasses came together above her, and all was as it had been. Some thought that the wind had taken her up to the cloud castle; others thought she had been borne by spirits to the far north.

No one knew but the poor, lonely little star. And to this day it may be seen keeping watch and ward over the swamp where its friend disappeared.

It is a belief of her people that sometimes her spirit returns to the swamp to play with the friendly star. Then the hunters often see the wandering star darting in and out over the marsh.

We call it the "will-o-the-wisp" but the Indians love to think the dancing light is the wandering star.

The travelling secretary of the Y. M. C. A. work in western Canada, C. R. Sayer, of Winnipeg, arrived at the Empress hotel on Saturday to attend the opening of the local Y. M. C. A. building. The progress of the work has been so great that four new buildings for the association are being opened this year in British Columbia alone. These are, in addition to this city, Vernon, Cranbrook, and New Westminster. Mr. Sayer's territory covers the whole of western Canada from the Great Lakes to Victoria.

The arrivals at the Empress hotel include Lord Newton and Clinton, who are making a tour of the Dominion in company with Lord Elphinstone, who for several years a member of the British House of Commons, some months ago introduced a reform bill into the House of Lords which received a large amount of support among the progressive peers and he has taken a prominent part with Lord Rosbery in seeking the reform of the upper chamber. Lord Clinton, who has estates in Devonshire and Kincardineshire, made an unsuccessful attempt to enter the House of Commons for the latter county in 1895, before he succeeded to the peerage.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

We were speaking of a young girl, who although only twenty-two or three years old, looks thirty.

She has not had a particularly hard life. There is nothing especially aging about her work. She has not had any more than the ordinary mortal's share of sorrows and disappointments.

Why, then, this strangely premature aging, we debated.

Said the lady—who always knows somehow, "I'll tell you just what I think it is. It's because she has so many responsibilities."

"Responsibilities," we scoffed, "what particular responsibilities has she, a girl of twenty-three, with a father and mother who give her a pleasant home, and not even any younger brothers and sisters to worry her?"

"Well," said the lady, "she has her father's business to carry on, and then there's her mother's housework, and just think of the responsibility of that married sister's home and two children, and then there's her older brother's business—think what a tax that must be for her."

"You mean that she carries all the family responsibilities as well as her own?"

"Exactly," said the lady, "just as most of these people who get old before their time do."

Isn't it true?

Aren't there innumerable people everywhere who are wearing themselves out just because they have not yet mastered what Harriet Beecher Stowe calls one of the most important parts of the scheme of living—"to learn just what our responsibility is, and to let other people's alone?"

When we were out driving the other day, our horse became frightened and bore down upon a crossroad at a most undrable smart pace. Just as we reached the crossing, another carriage loomed up in front of us, and although we pulled in as hard as we could it looked for an instant as if something were going to happen. Fortunately, the other man whipped up his horse and got past in time to avoid a collision.

"Didn't you think we were going to run into them?" I said afterwards.

"Oh, no," said my companion cheerfully, "I knew that if the other did his part we would be all right, and I thought he would. I believe in not trying to do the whole thing, but in giving the other fellow credit for having sense, as well as you."

It seems to me that that is a philosophy which is too little regarded by many travellers on the King's Highway.

We feel that the whole responsibility of avoiding a collision rests on our handling of the reins, while all the time the other fellow is doing just as much to avoid it.

We feel the burden of whole situations upon us, while in reality we are only responsible for some tiny corner of the business.

We insist on thrusting our shoulders beneath other folk's responsibilities, even though in so doing we do not help at all, but merely weary ourselves and hinder and impede them.

If only we could throw off this foolish weight of other people's responsibilities that we are struggling under, how many of us might throw back our shoulders and lift up our heads and breathe freely once more.

Can't we?

Can't we relax from the strain of all the little cares and worries, least things go wrong in spite of us, and from the fear that something will happen in this old world if we let go? Can't we quietly listen and rest in that great big question that God asks us as He asked Job, "Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?"

SICK HEADACHE

A Symptom of Troubles Which are Removed by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Sick headaches are not merely afflictions to be borne as patiently as possible—they are danger signals. They never come unless the digestive system is out of order, and their regular recurrence is proof positive of serious trouble and a warning that should be heeded promptly.

Sick headaches are caused by Indigestion, Bilioussness or Constipation, and no amount of "headache powders" will do more than temporarily relieve them. The only way to get rid of them entirely is to cure the Constipation or Indigestion that is causing them, and nothing will do this quicker or more effectively than Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

These terrible headaches permanently banished by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are purely vegetable in character, and are free from any harmful drug. For over fifty years they have been in constant use in Canada, and have proved most effective in regulating the bowels, aiding digestion, banishing sick headaches and restoring vigorous health.

NEWEST MARVELS OF MODERN SURGERY

Transplanting of Organisms of Animals and Human Beings

Some remarkable experiments on the grafting of limbs on animals to which they did not originally belong, and the transference of vital organs, such as the kidney, from one animal to another, are reported from Harvard University. Most of them have been carried out by Dr. E. E. Tyzzer.

His first successful grafting of an artery, the first that he placed on record, was for the benefit of a fox terrier. This he described before the American Philosophical Society. The terrier, owing to an accident, had to have its leg amputated. A small dog that had just died was pressed into service. Its leg was removed and grafted on to the stump of the leg of the living dog. Arteries, veins, and nerves were connected by suitable means, and the bones were placed in juxtaposition. As the bones and the dog remained perfectly healthy.

That this is only a minor triumph in surgery when compared with those which have come later. From the grafting of limbs Dr. Carrel has moved on to a step by step until it would appear that he can transplant and replace almost every organ in the body. Here are a few of his latest successes, as described by himself.

A dog whose abdominal aorta was replaced by a human femoral artery is still alive in a normal state. The thoracic aorta of another animal was replaced about the same time by a large artery that had been kept several months in cold storage, and the operation was a perfect success.

In the transplanting of kidneys, Dr. Carrel has been attended with greatest success in the case of cats, and he has said that possibly the results would have been much better in experimenting with dogs, if he had used dogs of the same breed. While he has taken organs from one animal and placed them in another, he has been uniformly successful in reversing the kidneys. In this work he has taken a cat, and removing the kidneys, has replaced the left kidney in the cavity of the right side and the right kidney in the left cavity.

When one thinks of the complex structure of the kidney, with its nerve supply, its three great connecting vessels—artery, vein, and ureter—and its intimate relations with other organs of the body, such operations as these are truly amazing. Their value in the saving and preservation of human life, if such a thing as the removal of a kidney is a fairly common operation. After it has been performed the patient usually recovers his health, but sometimes in after life the increased demand made on the single remaining kidney may lead to serious trouble.

It is only a month since a wealthy widow, Mrs. Reginald Waldorf, of Philadelphia, offered a small fortune to any one who would sell her an index finger to be grafted on to the stump whence hers has been removed. It would be curious if such advertisements as this went further and public requests were made for the supply of kidney, spleen, or even for a new liver. But it is difficult to see where the organs of which persons only possess one each are to come from.

An intimate friend and fellow-worker of Dr. Carrel, speaking to a representative of the Boston Post, said: "We have become accustomed to skin grafting and to the transfusion of blood, and both these are instances of tissue transplanting, for the blood is tissue. Another similar operation is for necrosis of the tibia, the large bone of the lower leg. In this operation, which has been performed by Dr. Edward E. Nichols, of Boston, the shaft or interior diseased portion of the bone is removed and the outer shell, known as the periosteum, is left. Then the tissue of the interior shaft grows again and the result is a sound bone.

What takes place in the bones under these circumstances is similar to what occurs when an organ is transplanted.

from one animal to another. The kidney, or the large artery, such as the aorta, that is transplanted simply acts as a tube or form upon which the tissue of the animal builds. In the dog whose abdominal aorta was replaced by a human femoral artery that artery is now dog tissue and not human tissue. The fact is that a transplanted organ will perform its functions for a time, but the tissue could not continue to live in another animal. Instead, it is gradually replaced by the tissue of the animal in which it has been placed.

There is a great difference in tissue, however, and bone tissue, which is of a very low order, is hard to kill. The length of time which tissues may be kept alive outside the organism from which they were removed is of the greatest importance.

This it has been found in the experiments as conducted by Dr. Carrel and repeated by a number of others, that tissues placed on a glass plate and covered with a natural plasma, or liquid serum, develop admirably. After some hours the cells continue to develop apart from the body. The life of these cells varies greatly, for cancerous tissue will die in six or eight days, while cells of spleen or skin can live a month.

These points have been well established, but the question has been raised as to a favorable medium for developing nervous fibres. These are of a high order, quite the reverse of bone tissue, but if their life can be prolonged it may mean eventually a regeneration of the nerves by a surgical operation.

Strange as these operations are to the lay mind, certain of them are by no means new. The regeneration of bone has been practised in London hospitals for many years. About fifteen years ago a boy had both his tibia (shin bones) removed in St. George's Hospital because of their diseased condition, the permanent being left in each case. In a very short time they began to regenerate, and five years later the boy was able to walk about, having grown entirely new and healthy bones. As to the more drastic and fundamental operation described by Dr. Carrel, we must wait for further reports to tell us whether he has succeeded in doing for human beings what he has already done for certain lower animals.

SENTINEL GAGGED AND BOUND.
Officer at Chatham Made Daring Raid to Win Wager.

Much speculation has been aroused recently by the fact that the guards at the magazines at many army stations have been increased. It appears that the change is due to a highly successful practical joke which was played recently upon a guard at Upnor magazines, Chatham.

In the local officers' mess one evening a discussion arose as to whether or not a clever spy or unauthorized person could penetrate Upnor magazines, and, in effect, bluff the officer who was waxed so warm that one officer, who maintained that they could be entered, offered to make a wager that he could get inside himself without authority provided he had the assistance of a small number of men. The sporting offer was accepted, and the officer had no difficulty in getting five men of his regiment to come with him.

After dark one night he went up to the main gate at Upnor, followed in a casual and nonchalant manner by the quintette, who played their part very cleverly. The officer found only one man on guard, and, bluffing the officer who was in the dockyard and wash-houses in hand and at anchor.

The officer and his two helpmates afterwards returned to the main gate, released the sentry, and told the man who the officer was. The man then recognized his captor, but for obvious reasons neither the sentry nor his immediate superior let the story go very far. The wager, however, was won and the practical joker's story soon got round. It is said it ultimately reached the War Office, but what disciplinary action, if any, was taken by Whitehall is not known. A short time after, however, there was a singular sequel.

It should be explained that in each garrison there is an emergency battalion periodically allocated to be ready to turn out for duty at ten minutes' notice, the only equipment carried being arms, ammunition and emergency rations. A sudden order was received from the War Office that the emergency battalion should go at once to Upnor magazines and take charge.

The colonel commanding the battalion was ill on sick leave, the major could not be found, and no officer was available. The telegraph was sent round the barracks, and finally given to the senior warrant officer. He declined the responsibility of heading the battalion, and sent a telegram to the general.

The general was at home, and he promptly came to the barrack square, took charge of the battalion, and marched it to Upnor, where sentries were at once mounted. The authorities have since taken action, which shows that they consider the military arsenals are insufficiently guarded, and it is stated that this remarkable practical joke is the reason for activity recently shown in guarding Timor magazine, Portsmouth; Upnor magazine, Chatham; and Marchmont magazine, Southampton.

YOUNG AT 100.

A woman who met and talked with Sir Walter Scott in 1829 is still living and well at Helensburgh, Scotland. The venerable lady is Mrs. Drew, of Arden Castle House, and she recently celebrated her hundredth birthday. It was at her aunt's house at Orkney, Lanarkshire, that she met Sir Walter. Mrs. Drew was delighted to receive the following letter from Lord Sturfordham on behalf of the King:

"The King has been informed that you will celebrate your hundredth birthday on the 21st inst., and His Majesty desires me to express to you his hearty congratulations upon having attained this wonderful age, and his hope that you are in the enjoyment of good health."

Mrs. Drew remembers, as a girl of eighteen, going to a party given in honor of Sir Walter. She remembers also driving with him along the Clyde Valley, while he also gave her copies of his works as they appeared.

Although feeble, Mrs. Drew is in excellent health, taking a daily drive in the Highlands, and she takes a keen interest in the doings of society.

"The way to keep young is to keep up-to-date," she says.

President Brown, of the New York Central, governing in London on the English railroad strike, said: "I have long been of opinion that a strike on any public service utility, should be rendered impossible by compulsory arbitration."

With a population of 7,252,000 London maintains its lead as the world's largest city.

SAVAGES SURROUND WRECK.

Shore Lined With Thousands of Hostile Somalis.

The thrilling experiences of the crew and passengers of the steamer Fifeshire, wrecked on the coast of Africa, about twenty miles south of Cape Guardafui, were described at Plymouth, when survivors arrived on the P. and O. liner Persia.

The survivors included Edward Arthur, second steward; R. Middlemiss, butcher; Alfred Brown, chief cook; Robt. Nixon, stowage steward; and J. Hunter, who was taking a passage home in the steamer as a distressed British seaman.

At the time of the wreck the Fifeshire had on board 110 people, of whom the passengers numbered thirty-three.

Telling the exciting story of the wreck and the subsequent adventures, Mr. Arthur and his shipmates said that in the Indian Ocean the Fifeshire had encountered a wild monsoon, but as an improvement in the weather, and when the wreck occurred on August 9 the sea was quite smooth. All day there had been a light haze, but not sufficient to impede the vessel's progress.

The Fifeshire was hurrying along at top speed, when suddenly there was a harsh grating sound, and gradually she slowed up. The liner had evidently struck a sandy or pebbly ridge on the outer edge of a dangerous reef, but so gently did she take the ground that no trembling or vibration was felt until the engines were put full-speed astern in the effort to release her.

When the first attempt failed to move the Fifeshire a kedge anchor was put out over the stern, and once more the engines were reversed at top speed. It was in vain, however, for the liner's stern was deeply embedded, whilst a pinnacle rock penetrated the forehold and held the ship firm. The moving engines flung her broadside on to the rocks, instead of—as she was at first—bow on, and 15 feet of water was found in the forehold. The bulkhead, however, held well, and the engine room was not invaded, so the prospect of refloating the ship was not entirely hopeless.

All through the night efforts were made to save her, and rockets were frequently fired to attract attention. Daylight showed that the wreck was about twenty miles south of Cape Guardafui, but what created consternation in the passengers was the fact that as far as the eye could see the shore was thronged with hordes of hostile savages. They were Somalis, and were attired in weird costumes, and all were armed with long spears and old rifles. Their attitude was distinctly unfriendly.

There were thousands of these natives. Some were mounted, but the great bulk were on foot. Evidently they had been attracted by the rockets, and were standing looking at the ship. They brandished their weapons, and some of the more daring plunged into the sea and swam to the liner, some 200 or 400 yards from the shore. It is believed they would have clambered on board, but for the display of rifles and an occasional warning discharge of shot. One man, a chief, was allowed on board. He was given presents of clothing, etc., but it was impossible to extract any information from him or to obtain any promise of help or guarantee of safety for the ship's company.

Accordingly, convinced that their rescue depended to a large extent upon their own exertions, Captain Cramer decided to send away the lifeboat in charge of the chief officer to obtain help. This was done at breakfast time on August 10, five hands going with the officer in the boat.

All on the Fifeshire were convinced that they would be massacred if they fell into the hands of the Somalis, or else would be sold into slavery. All through the day the natives watched the progress of events, and after dark there was some anxiety, as it was thought the savages might attempt to surprise the ship's company. Careful watch was, therefore, kept, and guns were discharged at intervals as a warning to the natives to keep clear.

Then came a change in the weather. A storm sprang up during the night, and next morning heavy seas were breaking over the liner, which began to break up. Realizing that no time was to be lost, Captain Cramer directed four lifeboats to be provisioned and supplied with fresh water. The first to be launched was put over on the weather side, and at once capsized, the occupants having to swim for their lives. All were picked up, and eventually the four lifeboats were safely afloat, the women and children going in the boat with the captain.

Orders were given for the little flotilla to keep together, but at night, in the storm, they separated. From a boat in charge of the third officer, Iverson, one of the crew was washed overboard, but was picked up after being a quarter of an hour in the sea. Fourth Officer Clinton's boat was early dismantled and was driven ashore among the savages, but by desperate efforts the crew pulled the boat seaward. Huge seas threatened to swamp her, and the crew were up to their knees in water, when, after fifteen hours, during the whole of which time they had been battling for their lives, they were picked up by the French mail steamer Adour.

Their rescue was an exciting one, as the boat was smashed against the liner's side. Some of the occupants were rescued from the water in an exhausted condition. Three hours earlier another boat had been found by the Adour, the captain of which searched the vicinity for the other boats. Twenty-eight hours after leaving the Fifeshire the captain's boat was picked up, the Adour rescuing about seventy-five of the Fifeshire's people, including a three-months-old baby. The fourth boat has never been heard of.

BETTER THAN KOPENICK.

An individual at Temesvar has surpassed the famous Captain von Kopenick; in fact, the German shoemaker is now here. The Temesvar hero engaged a gang of thirty workmen, went to a distillery which was closed and instructed them to dismantle it. Following this exploit he demolished a fountain and then sold it with the distillery fittings for old metal. Next he turned his operations upon an avenue and cut down all the trees and sold the wood to a carpenter. Then he vanished into space, and the good people of Temesvar are still in a state of ferment.

"JIM THE PENMAN" BY CAPABLE ARTISTS

Tri-Star Combination Present Evergreen Play of Elder Day in Faultless Fashion

JIM THE PENMAN, drama in four acts, Agnes Halston..... Florence Smythe Lord Drummond..... Stanley de Wolfe George Halston..... Isaac Dillon Captain Redwood..... Frank Denithorne Lady Duncombe..... Marie Baker Mrs. Clapstone..... Ruth Lecher Mrs. Halston..... Florence Roberts Dr. Pettysaw..... Earl D. Dwire James Halston..... Thurlow Bergen Mr. Netherby..... George McManus Louis Percival..... Clarence Apper Baron Hatfield..... Theodore Roberts

It is not often that such a galaxy of stars breaks into effulgence in the local theatrical firmament as did last night—the Roberts-Bergen-Roberts combination, flash forth for too short a season in that twenty-five year-old melodrama, "Jim the Penman."

For many reasons the presentation of the play last night was one of interest to the old play-goer and the critic, and to the average amusement-seeker it was equally a delight. In a sense the play—which was written by Sir Charles Young, first performed at the Haymarket in London in 1886 and first produced on this continent by the old Palmer Stock Company, if we mistake not in Madison Square Theatre, New York, about twenty-four years ago—was an inspiration, for we do not remember that its author had preceded it with any worthy work, nor can we recall any that has come from his pen later.

There are many quaint departures in method from the standard attractions of to-day, and it is borne in upon one that if "Jim the Penman" is a fair example of the play which pleased the generation of a quarter-century ago our parents must have been less imaginative and much less sophisticated play-goers than their descendants of this exacting day. Its dramatic expedients are so obvious and so little is left to the spectator to imagine; there is such a painstaking effort to elaborate every point so that no doubt shall be left:

It is full of asides and soliloquies which the modern artist, with his modern sympathies, its sentimentality is hopelessly unreal, it is full of too apparent artifices, its "confidential" scenes take place with open conversatories or doors ajar where slumbering Captain Redwood can overhear whole plots. And yet it is vibrant with gripping in spite of the technical flaws and will continue to charm half a century hence because it is developed on sound dramatic lines which some of our surer technical dramatists of a later day have missed.

Miss Roberts has developed wonderfully since the present writer last saw her. Her long experience in stock in the east, and her later seasons in romantic drama, have ripened her dramatic skill and her undoubted surety of touch. Her Mrs. Halston is portrayed with fine intelligence, exquisite self-repression and great humanity. Not until late in the play does her opportunity come, but in the fine scene where she discovers by a comparison of writings, in the latter hand wrote the letters ostensibly from her to Percival and from Percival to her, which spoiled the romance of her life—and in the far more poignant scene when she finds her husband to be the prince of forgers and criminals Miss Roberts rises to the height of her art. Criticism has been levelled at her because of her repression in the latter scene. We fail to find any cause for criticism in her handling of it. It is one of the most worthy things she has done.

Theodore Roberts—who, by the way, is a cousin of Miss Roberts, never moths her till both were stars—is the dominant character in the company as he is in the cast of the play. His character work is the best thing that has been seen here for many a day, and the frequent applause which greeted him was but a feeble tribute to his genius. He has submerged his own personality in that of the head of the criminal trust, and presents such a vigorous type of craft, roguery and vital energy as to strike the class theatricalism, his deft handling of broken speech, his mastery of all the lights and shades of facial expression, his ingratiating ways when all seems clear, his cowardice when at the end of his tether, are but some of the elements of a most artistic portrayal.

Thurlow Bergen as the Penman is sure of himself at all times, convincing, effective as he shows his sense of impending doom, and as he impresses on the beholder that doom. He wins sympathy in spite of his raceality, and develops the growing insecurity of his position, especially as against the latter, with his scarp accents and explosive mirth, perfectly.

The balance of the company play well up to their leaders, and the entire production will be remembered as one of the dramatic treats of the season.

SUPREME COURT FITTINGS.

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Hon. L. P. Brodeur, former minister of marine and fisheries, who was appointed to the Supreme Court bench several weeks ago, arrived in Ottawa yesterday and took possession of the room assigned to him in the Supreme Court building. He will take his place on the bench when the autumn sitting of the court opens on Tuesday next.

ARBITRATION COMMISSION.

London, Sept. 26.—The government has decided to appoint a board of trade commission empowered to arbitrate labor disputes. The commission will consist of twelve commissioners, representing equally the employers and the employees.

BOARD OF TRADE ON HARBOR IMPROVEMENT

Necessity for Breakwater May Be Embodied in Committee's Report to Council

On Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the Board of Trade committee on harbor development will meet and draw up a report which will be presented at the quarterly annual meeting of the council on October 13. It is likely that the necessity for a breakwater between Holland Point and Brochle Ledge will be embodied in the report.

The report of the harbor development committee prepared in June last and presented to the council in July referred to the Brochle Ledge breakwater scheme as follows:

"As the business of the port grows the breakwater between Holland Point and Brochle Ledge can be constructed and would provide for the future requirements of the port so far as present need be considered. The proposed breakwater presents no serious engineering difficulties and Mr. Keefer, in his report to the Dominion government, estimated the cost at $1,250,000, which is a small sum when the vast expenditures for similar purposes on the Atlantic seaboard are considered.

"With the expected opening of the Panama Canal in 1915 there will be great changes on the Pacific seaboard, and in order to secure the Victoria, all measure of the general prosperity which appears to be assured it will be necessary to look ahead in making plans. The present appears an opportune time to consider some scheme of harbor development and control by a corporate body assisted from public funds and the assistance of a pilot.

The harbor development committee have been busy for the last few weeks in securing further information on this subject and at Thursday's meeting will draw up a full report to be presented to the council.

Secretary Elworthy states that the imaginative and much less sophisticated play-goers than their descendants of this exacting day. Its dramatic expedients are so obvious and so little is left to the spectator to imagine; there is such a painstaking effort to elaborate every point so that no doubt shall be left:

COLONIZATION BY PRIVATE MEANS

selector to choose Crown land that it was months before he could settle down, and even then he had no security for his holding. The colonization companies could offer the locator his exact position. He did not know if the commissioners realized that when a man went up into Northern B. C. he had the greatest difficulty to secure his place, for as the surveys were numbered now there was no indication of the situation on the maps, numerals being used, and not Section, Range, and Township, as in the Northwest. There was practically no cleared land naturally, some would cost from $40 to $45 an acre to be prepared. None of the land was clear, except such as had been burnt off, where the soil was of the poorest quality. Where the soil was good it was heavily timbered country.

He favored a flat rate of ten cents an acre on unimproved land. From three years' experience in the north of colonization must be undertaken by private companies rather than under government auspices.

His opinion was that the whole of the northern portion would become tributary to Edmonton, owing to railroad being nearer to that city than any important town in B. C. There must be a railway to the coast if they were to save the trade.

LACROSSE IN EAST.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—The Vancouver amateur lacrosse team have arrived in town for their games with Young Toronto at Scarborough beach next Saturday afternoon, and have received no wire from the coast advising them not to play the Young Toronto for the cup as the locals were supposed to be professionalized by the A. A. U. of Canada.

"We will play the Young Toronto and abide by the ruling of the trustees in the matter," said Mr. Clark, who is managing the team.

The Vancouver boys figure they will be successful in lifting the cup this time and they are quite confident of the result. All of the members of the team are a clean cut looking lot and they are sure to give the Young Toronto a stiff argument. They have not made any arrangements about going to the Olympic games next year, as it would be too big an undertaking financially.

LOCAL SCIENTIST IS WELL RECEIVED

F. Napier Denison Returns From Old Land Full of Confidence and Aspirations

After a trip to England, extending in all over three months, F. Napier Denison, the local seismographical expert, who has done so much to give Victoria the prominence which her natural position and geographical location on the earth's surface entitles her, has returned to this city full of hope for the future development of the experiments which he has carried on in the past so successfully, and for the result of which he went to England in order to place his knowledge before the leading astronomical and seismographical bodies of the Old Land.

Mr. Denison, while naturally of a very reserved disposition, cannot conceal his enthusiasm at the cordial manner in which the results of his laborious researches were received by the eminent scientists of Great Britain, and while he declines to build any metropolitanical castles in the air, he is decidedly buoyant with new confidence and greater aspirations as a result of his personal contact with the "lights" of another sphere.

Six weeks of Mr. Denison's visit spent in London, the metropolis of the Empire, and while there he met everyone of prominence associated with scientific research in the world and exchanged opinions and experiences with them. His work in the capital was not confined to that courteous element of existence, however. He had the honor of delivering addresses of divers subject connected with science at several famous institutions, and before some of the most distinguished audiences in the land.

While in Manchester attending the International Seismological Congress he had the honor of presenting a paper upon his own pendulum researches, an advanced theory which he placed before the local board of trade before his departure for the Old Land, when the question of having an observatory located in Victoria was dominating the public mind.

At Portsmouth another paper by Mr. Denison was submitted to the British Association of Arts and Sciences by Dr. Milne, and after hearing the brilliant treatise the audience unanimously expressed their approval of the great work being carried on in Canada single-handed by Mr. Denison.

Among the places Mr. Denison visited was and was cordially received were Cambridge University, Stonyhurst College and observatory, the Solar Physics observatory, Greenwich observatory, the London meteorological office, the Royal Meteorological Society, the Royal Astronomical Society and the Bidston observatory at Liverpool.

Mr. Denison accompanied her husband throughout the trip, from which they returned home yesterday, and the best wishes of the community will be extended to the gifted Victorian who has done so much to make this city prominent as a centre of research work.

CONSTABLE AND HIS CONCEPTION OF DUTY

Wagon Drivers Think They Should Have Been Warned Story of a Pavement

The moral responsibility of the police officer on street duty was brought into question at yesterday's session of the city police court, and the evidence submitted, which was of a rather informal nature, did not exactly tend to show that the particular guardian of the law in question was precisely "on top of the ethical aspect of his job."

To calmly stand by while an offence was being committed against the municipality and then effect the arrest of the offender may certainly answer the official requirements of an officer's uniform, but at the same time it is open to doubt if it is the best means to adopt for developing, not merely the officer, but the constable himself, to a higher appreciation of the law, of course on the other hand, as was conclusively proved in the court house, it is an excellent means of filling the civic coffers.

It occurred on this way, Bank street, which is a point of discharge for wagon loads of many kinds and commodities, has recently been decorated with a red sidewalk. In the past wagon drivers were wont to pass over the "sidewalk" to the point of "debarcation" without let or hindrance, there being nothing in the way which could suffer hurt by their so doing. A sidewalk, however, is not the sort of thing for wagon loads to hurtle over, and of course it had to be protected.

The method adopted for its protection was rather curious. A constable was posted to look after the point, but instead of warning the wagon drivers not to drive over the pavement, which, as wagon drivers, they no doubt thought they had acquired a prescriptive right to do from long and unchallenged usage, he escorted them (one or two at a time) over the sidewalk and then arrested them, or took such steps as resulted in their appearance at the court to respond to the charge.

The offence was obvious, and the magistrate had no option but to fine the offenders, which he did to the extent of $5 each, a gentle process which (there being eight of them) brought to the police treasury the comforting sum of $40. Quite a number of the victims, while admitting that they rode the sidewalk, claimed that not only were they unaware of the fact that they were committing a breach of the law by so doing, but that the constable saw them do it with a calm and sober eye without challenging their intention, although he must have been aware from previous experience, what they were about to do.

MERRYMAKERS ARE KILLED BY TRAIN

Twelve Persons Meet Death While Returning From Wedding Anniversary

Noenah, Wis., Sept. 26.—Twelve persons were instantly killed, one was so severely injured that she died later, and three were dangerously hurt when a fast Chicago & Northwestern train struck a hayrack loaded with 30 persons. Five other members of the party were badly hurt.

The party was returning from a wedding anniversary at the farm of Peter Hanson, near here. All the victims but two lived in Menasha, Wis. Among the occupants of the hayrack who escaped were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brzinski and a child of two years. They were seated in the front half of the rack, the mother holding the child in her lap. About half way back in the wagon sat Mary Schwarzbauer. The latter was hurled about 50 feet and rendered unconscious. When found by rescuers, the Brzinski child was in her arms unscratched. The parents of the child were slightly hurt.

Six of the dead were found on the engine pilot. Two others were hurled through the flagman's shanty with such force as to overturn the little structure. One of these, a young woman, though hurled through a wall of the house, was alive when rescued. She died a few hours later. Another victim was thrown over a barn fifty feet from the railway right-of-way.

In the last eight years nearly two dozen persons have lost their lives at the crossing, where the accident occurred.

TURKEY INVOKES AID OF POWERS

The Porte Addresses Note to Representatives in European Capitals

Constantinople, Sept. 26.—The Porte has addressed a circular to the Turkish representatives abroad, instructing them to invoke the good offices of the powers with a view to restraining Italy from hostile action in Tripoli. The grand vizier has abandoned his projected European holiday.

A more tranquil feeling prevails, as it is now known that the reported landing of Italian troops in Tripoli is untrue. The Porte has postponed sending the transports with war material for Tripoli. Orders have been sent to the Tripolitan authorities to avoid doing anything calculated to disturb good relations or give Italy a pretext for hostile action.

It is understood that if Italy proceeds to occupy Tripoli the Turkish plan of campaign will include the suspension of diplomatic relations, the closing and sequestration of all Italian government property, post offices and schools in the Ottoman empire, and the proclamation of a boycott against Italian goods, financial establishments and shipping.

Opposed by Socialists. Chiasso, Switzerland, Sept. 26.—According to late advices received here all Italy except a section of the Socialists demands the speedy opening of Tripoli. Meantime the Italian government is taking advantage of the present opportunity to experiment in the partial mobilization of troops. The entire fleet is ready for war, including the smallest and oldest ships; the coast fortifications have been strengthened and sixty steamers have been chartered for the transportation of 35,000 soldiers, war material, aeroplanes, dirigibles and Red Cross workers.

The contingent of soldiers kept in service after their time had expired, the standing army to 80,000 brings normal. The troops intended for Tripoli are centred chiefly in the Naples, Sicily and Taranto barracks.

Foxall's Photo Studio is now open for business. Our work is high grade and will please you. Room 623 Sayward Block. Fire losses in Canada during August amounted to $3,200,000, as compared with $2,384,591 for July, and $1,967,270 for same period last year.

ENGLISH SCHOOLBOYS

GO ON STRIKE

Demand Abolition of Cane, Shorter Hours and Less Home Work

London, Sept. 26.—An amusing feature of the strike mania which has swept this country this summer is the demand of the school boys in various cities for the redress of alleged grievances. The schoolboys of Liverpool were the first to demand relief from their hard lot. Parading the streets the striking schoolboys displayed banners inscribed, "What our fathers have done, we can do also."

The strikers demand, first, the abolition of the cane, then shorter hours and less home work. Parents proved effective strike-breakers and the leader of the strikers learned to his sorrow that the cane had not been abolished. Last week the strike fever spread to London, where it was engineered from the Bath Street school by a juvenile "Tom Mann." The strikers were armed with sticks, stones, iron bars and belts, and became so free with these weapons that a special detail of twelve policemen were summoned. Stopping before one school, the leader, a boy of 13, demanded that the boys of his school be called out. A command of the caretaker to move on, accompanied by an energetic kick, discouraged the strikers and they made no further attempt there.

In Manchester schoolboys paraded the streets, demanding shorter hours, the abolition of the cane and the payment of monitors. At a general meeting a plan of campaign was formulated and so successful was the movement thus inaugurated that at one time several schools were out on strike. Pickets stationed at the gateways forcibly prevented all efforts to enter these schools. Mothers finally quelled the trouble.

BANKS AMALGAMATE

London, Sept. 26.—The Colonial bank, a strong financial institution with head office in London and with fifteen branches in the West Indies, where its operations chiefly consist of carrying on, has been absorbed by the Royal Bank of Canada.

The negotiations were put through by C. F. Hall, assistant general manager of the Royal, who is now in London in connection with the matter. The Royal bank has a number of branches in the West India islands, the list including Trinidad, Cuba, Jamaica and Porto Rico. In the British Islands the Royal has been coming into competition with the Colonial. This amalgamation will give the Royal a stronger hold on business in the West Indies. The last absorption by the Royal was a year ago, when that bank took over the Union Bank of Halifax, thus securing a firmer hold on the business in the Maritime provinces and particularly in Nova Scotia.

AERIAL POSTMAN

New York, Sept. 25.—Earl Ovington, at the aviation meet at the Nassau Boulevard grounds, carried on Sunday the second aerial mail under the sanction of the United States mail authorities, a bag containing 50 pounds of letters and postals to Mineola where he dropped them into the hands of a postal employee. Miss Moisan made a picturesque flight in a monoplane, attaining an official altitude of 1,700 feet.

PROTESTANT ORPHANAGE.

To the Editor.—I had occasion recently to visit the Protestant Orphan's Home in this city and took the opportunity to look carefully over the institution, and I feel that the thanks of the citizens generally are due to the committee in charge and also to the matron and her capable assistants for the excellent manner in which the Home is conducted.

It appears to me, Mr. Editor, that no institution is more worthy of public support, and those who are actively engaged in attending to the wants of these homeless children should be made fully aware of a large-hearted public interest and sympathy in the work which they are carrying on, not merely in the matter of gifts to the institution, but also in seeing that such work is remunerated in just proportion to its efficiency and the responsibilities undertaken.

While there is much to praise and little that can be criticized in the Orphanage, it appears to me that the committee's attention should be directed to one or two minor matters that require looking after. The children's play room is in need of a new floor, new bookshelves should be laid in the kitchen and on the halls of the second floor, and the city council should be asked to close a drain that is now open on Cook street close to the Orphanage, other wise there is danger of typhoid fever among the inmates of the Home.

It would appear also to the casual visitor that the work of the attendants must be quite heavy and their hours of labor rather long.

The committee is probably not to blame for any of the matters which I have called attention to, as they have doubtless done their best possible with the money at their disposal, but as the institution is a semi-public one in its nature and services to the community, it appears to me that it is only necessary to call attention to its claims on public support in order to obtain for it all that may be required; and right here, Mr. Editor, I wish to make a suggestion. Why not have a Children's Day once a year in this city, similar to the tag day the hospital has annually? If the amount mistaken a great deal of money could be raised in this way. Not only would it provide means for needed improvements, but what is probably of more importance, would bring the public into a more general knowledge of and sympathy with the aims of the public-spirited men and women who have given so much of their time and attention to the bringing of the Home up to its present high state of excellence and efficiency.
