DEVIL'S DAM WORK OKED BY CHAMBER

Resolutions Endorsing
Flood Control of Regan
Are Passed
PROMPT AID GIVEN
Endorsement Is the Same as Given by the City Council

A set of resolutions extending a vote of thanks to the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county, and J. W. Regan, chief engineer of flood control, on the excellent work they have done on the construction of the Devil's Gate dam, and other projects that have for their object the saving of the property of the people of Southern California from damage from storm waters, were unanimously adopted by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at its meeting yesterday. These resolutions had formerly been passed by the city council of Glendale. They further thank the board and Dr. Regan for responding so promptly to the call for aid of the officials of Glendale this year with regard to flood control matters that were facing the people of Glendale and were threatening lives and property in this city.

The resolutions follow:
"Resolutions passed by the Honorable City Council of Glendale and the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce in token of appreciation and gratitude of the people of Glendale for the splendid and effective work of the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, also the Honorable J. W. Regan, chief engineer of the flood control.
"The Honorable City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, representing the citizenship of Glendale through the City Council and the Board of Directors observe with appreciation and gratitude the many weighty and perplexed matters constantly coming before the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county and the Hon. J. W. Regan, chief engineer of flood control, and the broad business judgment and vision displayed by these public officials is such that should warrant the commendation of their entire constituency in the handling of their affairs in all public matters brought to their attention and initiated by them, and "We recognize in the construction of the Devil's Gate dam near Pasadena across the Arroyo Seco, a project of engineering planned by Hon. J. W. Regan and supported by our Board of Supervisors, and the many other matters affecting flood control which means so much to the people of California, engineering skill, economic and permanent construction, unparalleled, and
"During the floods of 1922 when the people of Glendale were facing peril, destruction and danger with flood waters, the said supervisors and relief engineer responded and came to our aid on a moment's notice, eliminating the red-tape that is usual in such matters, thereby saving great property loss and mental anxiety.
"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Honorable City Council of Glendale and the Chamber of Commerce through its Board of Directors in regular joint session held this date, that we extend a vote of thanks and confidence to our Honorable County Supervisors and the Hon. J. W. Regan, chief engineer of flood control, for their splendid work and business management in conducting the affairs of their high trust in a manner satisfactory to their constituency, loyal to their obligations and economical in their administrative duties."

MARY GILLETTE TENT MEETING

Mrs. Jennie Tinchler Is Initiated Tuesday by Organization

Mary Jane Gillette tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, met Tuesday night at the American Legion hall with a good number in attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Susie Peck, and reports of various committees were read and approved. The tent initiated a new member last night, Mrs. Jennie Tinchler, who was cordially welcomed. After the business session, the meeting adjourned and Mrs. Peck stated that she had a surprise for every one and asked that they all remain. In the course of the following ten minutes those present were served with delicious hot chocolate and heart-shaped cookies, both prepared by Mrs. Peck, and this was presented in the tent. At the close of the meeting dancing was also enjoyed.

Dr. Crane Says We Tremble at Fear of Unknown

The moral system of the people is not spontaneous. The fibre of men is not built in a moment.
"A man is not born with education, he acquires it," says James W. Foley tonight in "The Listening Post," in the course of a philosophical discussion on "Thinking." He says the outcome of the whole system of thinking in the past decade or two seems to be the idea to get a laugh, a hand, notoriety and the money. "That spirit in a people will corrupt and degenerate any moral fabric in the world."
Henry James in his comment on the day's news tonight says that there appears to be a studied effort to drive Lloyd George from power, that Ireland has furnished the premier with a stupendous task but that the premier cannot be blamed for the outcome in Ireland.

Dr. Frank Crane in his column says that it is the unknown at which we tremble and the most of our troubles and troubles are entirely due to the hypnotic terrors of the unknown. Della Stewart in her column says there is no need to worry about the womanhood of the country, and John Pilgrim in his niche on the editorial page says that knowledge is something we must get for ourselves and that it is a thing we must have to succeed.
There are other features, able editorials, eastern points of view, scientific facts, and other articles worthy of your consideration.

Woman Charges Govern- ment Neglect of Indians

Miss Elizabeth Haupt, Indian missionary and literary authority, of Washington, D. The reservation near Chico, Cal., once their home, has been taken from the native redskins because of non-payment of taxes, and Miss Haupt's report to the government agents will include many other charges of neglect. The territory grant near Chico was the gift of the late Mrs. Bidwell, widow of the famous General Bidwell. No government reservation has ever been granted, Miss Haupt alleges.

COAL STRIKE IS CERTAIN ON APRIL 1

Only Government Intervention

Crisis Say Workers

BLAME OPERATORS BOOSTED MARKET

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 15.—An organized plot of terrorism designed to take his life if he presided over the wage convention of the United Mine Workers now in session, was disclosed today by President John L. Lewis.
During a personal debate between Lewis and Alexander Howat, deposed Kansas union leader, as to whether Howat should be reinstated, Lewis swept the convention off its feet with this declaration:
"Day after day, mail by mail, I have received letters saying that it had been decreed in sacred convocations that I should die if I tried to preside over this convention."
In an official report to the union, Howat was designated an instrument of the I. W. W. and his followers as unwitting tools.
With more than 100 of his men, Howat came up to the convention and tried to stampede it into overruling the international organization which revoked the Kansas union charter.
They interrupted deliberations of the 2,300 delegates over wage policies, which terminated in a coal strike April 1 when the wage agreement expires, unless the government prevails upon mine operators to negotiate with the union.
By a rising vote of 977 to 864, the convention repudiated the expulsion of Howat and his followers from the union. A roll call of the 2,300 delegates was then ordered on the theory that several unaccredited delegates from the Kansas rump union had voted.
If the roll call sustains the standing vote, it will be an about face by the convention from the stand it took last September which upheld the international organization.

WEST PINE ASSOCIATION UNDER FIRE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Western Pine Manufacturers' association is being conducted for the primary purpose of fixing prices so as to obtain profits were made today by the federal trade commission.
In a report to congress the commission asserted that the association has endeavored to regulate production so as to keep up prices.
"In periods of depression," the report says, "the association members have resorted to concerted regulation of production for the purpose of maintaining prices arrived at through concerted action and as a basis for recurring cycles of increased prices when demand springs up again. In the fall of 1921 prices were again advanced on the basis of depleted stocks brought by a reduction of over fifty per cent normal in that year. Notwithstanding a nationwide housing shortage members estimate that their production for 1922 will not be over 50 to 60 per cent of their 1921 production and there is trade talk of another runaway market."
The Western Pine Manufacturers' association is composed of manufacturers in Idaho, Western Montana, Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington.
Other charges of the commission were:
"Despite many price reductions in other lines, the present quotation of the association are 'far in advance' of war time levels.
"Officers of the association have warned members that the advances made since the war threaten nationalization of the industry.
"Since its organization in 1905 the association has given uninterrupted intention to control of prices.
"Approximately 80 per cent of the output in the territory of the association is controlled by its members.
"The association has maintained a box bureau through which prices of boxes and box materials have been fixed.
"In order to make prices uniform, a common freight rate basing point was adopted by the association.
"Efforts also were made to standardize discounts and to some extent has indulged in 'open price' activities.
"There has been active cooperation between the association and the West Coast Lumbermen's association and the producers of pine in California.

CHICAGO 'PONZI' PUZZLES POLICE

Will Try to Find Law That Will Fit New Wizard

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Authorities mobilized today to rid Chicago of "Ponzed finance." Investigation of financial concerns, which already has caused collapse of two companies alleged to have taken a steady stream of gold from the savings of the gullible foreign born, was expected to result in more arrests.

State and federal officials conferred to determine just what offense under the law was committed by Raymond J. Bischoff, 25-year-old "wizard" who drew as high as $50,000 a day from residents of "Little Poland" with a lure that 100 per cent interest would be paid.

Warrants alleging operation of a confidence game have already been served on him. Federal operatives, on advice of Judge Landis, sought to find evidence to support a case of using the mails to defraud, a federal offense.

Bischoff blames his downfall to a large extent on Leslie Harrington, for whom the police of the nation are seeking. Harrington, whose three aides were arrested during a raid on his office, fled before the storm broke.

It is alleged he drained $1,000,000 from Lithuanians by the same method employed by Bischoff.

INTERVIEW? IT'S NEVER DONE SAYS NOBLE FILM STAR

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Lady Diana Cooper, the actress daughter of the Duke of Rutland, besides starting a fashion for the English nobility by her success in a new color film, has set a new fashion for film actresses in general. She refuses to be interviewed.

Not that any one expects for a minute that many film actresses will follow the idea. But Lady Diana, who every day now is being sought by newspaper men hopelessly attempting to interview her, has bundled out to the country looking not for publicity, but seclusion.

Felix Orman, assistant to Stuart Blackton, the producer, said that Lady Diana was very serious about her work.

"She begged for a copy of the scenario before I could get it ready," she said, "then she studied old paintings of the seventeenth century, in which the plot is laid, in order to learn the fashions of the times. When she found she was working with an all-star cast she was a little nervous for a time, but soon got over it."

Lady Diana is about to enter another color picture to be produced by Mr. Blackton. Her friends expect that she will appear to even better advantage in it.

230 in the office. There will be a special program at this meeting in honor of the 25th anniversary of the Parent-Teacher organization. There will be a pretty birthday cake and a birthday celebration as well as the patriotic meeting. Miss Anna Jenkins of Los Angeles will be the principal speaker of the afternoon.

NEAR EAST RELIEF CALLS FOR CLOTHES

Those Having Cast-Off Garments Should Notify Committee

Many inquiries have been made regarding the gathering of cast-off clothing for the Near East relief this spring. Suffice it to say this "drive" will be made early in May for all kinds of inner and outer clothing, hats, caps, hose and shoes. Ship will sail from America about March 28 loaded with provisions and clothing for needy refugees and orphans, yet suffering beyond description. If any Glendale people have cast-off, faded, out of style, unused clothing to send on this vessel in March kindly write to R. W. The ship "Esther Dollar," which left last June for Asia Minor, landed safely in Constantinople and Batoum. The thousands of tons of provisions and clothing for those hungry and destitute Christian people have proved to be a blessing.

monk. In pursuance of that life he began wandering, gathering funds as he went, and discovering hypnotic powers. These were as great a surprise to him as to others and in the beginning, in the opinion of Baroness de Ropp, were regarded by him as a divine gift which he was justified in exercising to secure any ends he might seek. Women were especially subject to this influence because more religious and more superstitious than men, and as his career ascended his influence increased, high and low falling under the sway of his powerful and corrupt personality. Victims were justified by his doctrine that he was one with God, and union with him meant oneness with God.

The incidents she told of the healing and other powers exercised by which he secured an ascendancy over the mind of the Czarina through her devotion to her son, the youthful grand duke, were all obtained at first hand, she said, from the Countess Tolstoy, who had charge of the daughters of the Czar; from her own husband, Baron Ropp, who met Rasputin several times and who was acquainted with many facts that have never been published, and, lastly, through letters from the son mentioned, who was imprisoned with grand dukes who told him the truth concerning Rasputin and his end.

When a group of grand dukes of Russia who had watched the malignant influence of Rasputin became convinced that he was a spy in the pay of Germany and betraying Russia, steps were taken to put an end to his "reign" by the only means possible—putting him out of the way.

As he had never chanced to meet a certain daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine and as his craving for new conquests was insatiable, he was enticed to the palace by her husband, another grand duke, who invited him and himself drove the car, which carried Rasputin to his doom; the chauffeur and all other servants save a trusted butler having been dismissed. There, while awaiting the advent of the woman he had come to meet, he was treated to port wine heavily drugged with strychnine. Even as he realized that he had been poisoned he rallied his forces to follow his host, who had fled, overcome with horror at what he had been forced to do to save Russia from further degradation and was shot by one of the fellow conspirators awaiting his demise.

It was believed that the sound of the shot betrayed the group, but at all events after the body of the dead man had been dropped into a hole in the ice of the River Neva, and in the days to come the "monk" was missed, suspicion was directed against the son-in-law of Grand Duke Constantine. He was summoned by the Czar and confessed what he had done and why he had done it, not betraying his associates in the group. In punishment he was sent to the eastern front, and is now alive.

No such career would be possible in America or in any country except Russia, where the people are steeped in superstition and mysticism, said the baroness, but she gave authentic examples of his hypnotic control of his victims, even when he summoned them by an effort of will from a distance.

In closing she said "The evil star of Russia set in gloom which still enshrouds her, but the sun will rise again and then she will remember what America has done for her. America did not lend her hand and did not countenance the dismemberment of our empire. Then, in your unbounded generosity, you were our disinterested friend and were first to come to our aid, the only people who have showed us sympathy. You did not forget that Russia had always stood by the United States since the first days of our republic. You remembered when, in the Napoleonic wars, Russia protected you, how during the civil war, when other powers menaced you, Russia sent a fleet to San Francisco and another fleet to New York. You have paid back more than you received. You cannot imagine how grateful we feel not only because of what America has done for our country but because there has not been a day since we landed that we have not received some kindness from Americans."

Although a man never knows what he can do until he tries, it is not always expedient to try.

Air-Service Signals

By JOHN BRECK

The hawks are the spies of the mountains, just as the killdeer are the spies of the flats. They give much detailed information concerning whoever stirs abroad to any one crafty enough to decode their signalling. To be sure, they are far less annoying than the noisy plover; they do not fly into hysterics a-wing, boldly berate you for trespass, and then fit abroad, gasping the bad news of your "drive" will be made early in May for all kinds of inner and outer clothing, hats, caps, hose and shoes. The soaring red-tail will climb her endless spirals like a stretched spring into the upper sky. If you pass her inspection the spring contracts; she wheels again at the proper level for ground squirrel hunting. The poaching round-wing may drop into the brush and do his famous imitation of a dead branch, one basilisk eye on you, the other alert for any little bird you may put up, for you, all unwittingly are the setter who beats his coverts. One suspects, from the way he seems, to tag their footsteps, that the antlered deer often serve him the same end. But the gay little sparrow-hawk merely turn their heads over their ruddy shoulders to stare at you. They are not easily disconcerted; nor do you matter at all to their small game, careless crickets, near-sighted slugs, or foolish mice who peer down, anxious faces from their holes on the heels of each fresh alarm, though sparrows seem as rare on their bill of fare as Christmas turkeys. Once an accepted piece of the landscape you may see the red-tail shift her landing-ground rather than match pounces with a visiting coyote. Or you may hear a thrasher hold forth in his most confidential strain as his enemy, exasperated by your inactivity, seeks a more stirring scene. You are forgotten indeed; even the little falcons cease to stare. You watch, in tantalized ignorance, many a winged maneuver. They must mean something; do the other groundlings, you wonder, never lift their eyes to read? Did that coyote take a tip from his rival aloft when he spoiled her hunting? Is her searching shadow on the

MAKE MONEY BY SWISS DRINKING

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—As a rule one has to pay for the wine one drinks. In Tyrol this is different—one gets paid in addition. It happened like this. A passenger riding an express from Voralberg to Switzerland drank a bottle of wine for which he paid 500 Austrian crowns. In Saint Margarete he handed the empty bottle to the keeper of the restaurant, for which he received 50 centimes, equalling 700 Austrian crowns. Gains 200 crowns for drinking the wine. In all motion picture theatres in Japan there is always a speaker who dramatically explains each picture because the English words shown on the films are unintelligible to the audience.

ELSE WHAT?
A colored man named Sam had worked for his boss about five years, and in that time he had just about run things. His good friend had said to him one day: "Now, Sam, you have worked up there and made your boss rich. You ought to ask for more money, or else you quit. You just go up there and tell him: 'Look here, boss, you pay me more or else'—"

Sam tried his friend's advice while sweeping the next morning. He began, "Say, boss, you'll have to give me mo' money fo' dis job." "Well, Sam, I'll see about it," replied the boss. "See about nothin', you pay me or else." "Pay more or else? Else what?" The boss' eyes flashed, and his tone was sharp. Sam's eyes blinked as he detected his boss' anger, and in a soft voice he replied, "Else I wuck fo' de same money."

L. A. ATTORNEY KILLS FAMILY AND HIMSELF
Boden Murders Wife and Mother-in-Law and Commits Suicide

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Geo. A. Boden, prominent Los Angeles attorney, killed his wife and her mother and then committed suicide here today, according to a report to the police.

Three young children, two of them girls, were made orphans by the tragedy.

The shooting sent the residential district about the Boden home in a panic. Captain C. F. Jackson of the University police station was forced to rush reserves to the North Hobart boulevard district upon receipt of numerous frantic calls. Boden's wife, Mary, 37, filed suit for divorce against him last December, according to neighbors. He made every effort to effect a reconciliation but without success.

Today he called upon her under pretense of bringing an installment of the temporary alimony of $155 a month allowed her under an order issued by Judge Sumnerfield.

He urged her to return to him. She refused. Enraged, Boden is said to have drawn a revolver and shot her down. Her mother, Mrs. Julia Taylor, rushed into the room when the gun was fired. She rushed at Boden, according to the police report. He turned the gun on her.

Mrs. Boden's sister, Mrs. Bessie Walters of Bakersfield, escaped death in the wild shooting episode by plunging head foremost through a bathroom window and fleeing for her life.

By the time the police arrived Boden had shot and killed himself. All three bodies were found in the same room.

The Boden children, Dorothy, 17, Virginia, 11 and Donald, 8, were in school at the time of the shooting.

Boden had law offices in the Pantages theatre building.

GLLENDALE MANOR SUBDIVIDERS GET SWIFT ACTION

150 of 300 Lots Are Sold by Brief Advertising Campaign

Dickenson & Gillispie, subdividers for the Glendale Manor tract, report that they have sold 150 of their 300 lots already. It is claimed by the owners that this is the first time in 20 years that so many lots have been sold in any one tract before the beginning of the advertising campaign. According to this firm, the people who have bought in this tract are Glendale people living in this vicinity, most of whom expect to build homes there.

The headquarters of the firm of Dickenson & Gillispie is at 529 West Eighth street, Los Angeles. This firm is one of the largest subdivision operators throughout the western states, and has offices in Los Angeles and Minneapolis. This firm considers that it is very fortunate in discovering this wonderful piece of close-in property. It believes that this piece was overlooked by the other subdivision companies in the mad scramble for foothold and other outlying property. While discussing the tract this morning, Mr. Dickenson said:

"Acting under telegraphic advice from our Minneapolis office, I was fortunate enough to at least secure a small portion of that rare and limited territory between Glendale, the fastest growing city in the world, and Los Angeles, the greatest city we have ever seen.

"Needless to say, when I saw the realization of this ideal directly before my eyes, I snapped up this wonderful opportunity without further delay."

On the Glendale Manor tract there is a selling force of about 50 expert salesmen. These agents are on the job every minute and, on account of having undergone intensive training with regard to the merits of the tract, are able to give truthful and exact information as to the property. This force is under the personal direction of Sales Manager F. B. Burns.

Clifford Gillispie came from the east for the special purpose of assisting in the subdividing and selling of this property. He is very enthusiastic over the future prospects of Glendale. He has this to say about the Manor:

"Glendale Manor is the entire fulfillment of my highest expectations," was Mr. Gillispie's first comment upon viewing the tract. "In all of our 20 years of subdivision experience this is the first time that we have been so privileged as to be able to offer low priced lots directly between the two fastest growing cities of the United States and in the exact midst of the greatest growth and development we have ever witnessed.

"In response to the present day demand and need we will permit temporary dwellings on the rear of the lots, but only when same are completely and neatly finished and painted on the exterior."

CANDY KITCHEN IS NOW OPEN

The formal opening of the Broadway Candy Kitchen, 113 West Broadway, was held yesterday. An exceptionally high class line of candy is being handled by this confectionery establishment. It is an old-time candy maker from Los Angeles, in which city he, up to a shore time ago, owned a number of candy stores and manufacturing plants. This store will handle candy exclusively and everything sold will be made in the kitchen at the rear of the store.

Mr. Addis has purchased two homes in Glendale. One of these is at 544 Myrtle street and the other is at 417 Palm drive. It is Mr. Addis' intention to later branch out into the wholesale candy business in Glendale.

ERLANDER BUYS THE SHADE SHOP

J. A. Erlander has just purchased the shade shop at 619 East Broadway and is working overtime in his endeavor to make the stock and service of this concern the finest in Glendale. It is Mr. Erlander's intention to enlarge the stock of shades on hand and also to add a complete line of "hooteums," awnings, etc. All of the shades sold by this firm will be manufactured at this store. On account of large purchases, Mr. Erlander will be in a situation to give the people the best of material at the lowest of prices.

Two Great Men

February marks the birthday of America's two greatest men—Lincoln and Washington. It was their leadership and calm judgment which has made possible the pre-eminence of this country today.

Both well knew the importance of thrift in the prosperity of either a man or a nation. Washington once said: "Economy makes happy homes and sound nations—instill it deep." Lincoln's expression was even more direct: "Teach economy; that is one of the first virtues; it begins with saving money."

Have you followed these precepts? Are you saving?

RECORD DISTANCE IN BOOSTING

Mrs. E. D. Hamlin and Mrs. D. W. Hepburn, wives respectively of the members of the firm of Hamlin & Hepburn, subdividers, enjoyed an unusual experience on Sunday.

For some time past they had been corresponding with their aunt, Mrs. F. M. Case, of Rochester, N. Y., telling her of the beauty and advantages of California in general and of Glendale in particular. Mrs. Case indicated in recent letters that she was likely to come to the coast.

Mrs. Hamlin and Mrs. Hepburn decided that the call of the human voice across 3,000 miles of space would do more to crystallize Mrs. Case's plans than anything else they could do. Accordingly, on Sunday, they called her by long distance telephone. The line was clear and Mrs. Case's voice could be heard distinctly, and the message, "Come out to California," went back into the frozen east.

And the best part of it all was that Mrs. Case promised to come.

The firm of Hamlin & Hepburn, which has had remarkable success in subdividing the Fairview tract in the northwest section of Glendale, will open a Glendale office the latter part of this week. They have leased space in the Ralphs building, directly west of Ralphs market, the number being 203 West Broadway.

The growth of the business has necessitated a Glendale office and from this office will also be handled all kinds of Glendale property, including houses and lots, business property and acreage.

Six lots at Fairview are all sold excepting a few lots and the seventh unit will be ready for the opening next Sunday. This will be the choicest property that Hamlin & Hepburn have offered. It is located on the north side of Glendale road, with a beautiful view of the entire San Fernando valley.

Truths in Epigram

Discontent is the want of self-reliance; it is infirmity of will.—Emerson (1803-1882).
You cannot possibly have a broader basis for any government than that which includes all the people, with all their rights in their hands, and with an equal power to maintain their rights.—Garrison (1805-1879).

THE TAYLOR CASE

There could be no occasion for reviewing the Taylor murder case at this writing. There has been an earnest effort to make the public familiar with the details, many of the details, it may be said, purely the creation of imaginative souls.

However a day or an hour may change the aspects of the tragedy, the truth seems to be that the police authorities, working earnestly, are without a clew. Hence they "probe" here and "grill" there, in the hope of finding a trace of the perpetrator of a truly shocking crime.

Meanwhile it is clear that many of the tales told concerning the victim are without basis in fact. For example, he has been described as engaged in various pursuits in different parts of the world. It would have been impossible for an individual to have compressed the experiences credited to him into any span less than a century.

People who profess to know all about his previous life tell tales utterly contradictory. Some declare that he had no brother. Others tell of his liberality in supporting the widow of a brother. Still others say that the man Sands, who is eagerly sought as the possible murderer, really was Taylor's brother. One theory is that a "professional gunman" was hired to do the killing, a theory somewhat impaired by lack of knowledge that there is such a thing as a professional gunman whose services are for hire.

Perhaps the whole truth is destined to be known. There is small indication of it yet. Nine-tenths of the purported information given with spectacular freedom, is speculation and idle gossip.

JUSTICE NOT COMPLETE

Justice towards China is not complete. The wrongs done that country have not been all undone. Hence there remains a large duty to be performed. It doubtless is well that Japan should have been drawn into the four-power compact. The other members at least are there in good faith. They may be of excellent effect on the conduct of Japan. Certainly the Japanese would not dare recant as to any promise made to China, and would not be permitted to frame new ways of taking advantage of that country.

China will not have justice until the other nations cease to meddle. This is what China, with every element of logic behind the request, asks them to do. They have expressed a willingness to comply. They have not complied fully.

Considered as an individual nation, the United States has been just to China. Becoming conscious long ago of certain wrongs to which America had been party, the United States made liberal reparation. No other nation did so, at least not until long after, and then in the nature of a pledge still to be redeemed.

Morally considered, (and why not such consideration?) Japan had exactly the right to the property she seized in Japan, that a burglar has to the spoons. Japan agrees to relinquish the spoons, but there are capacious pockets in the Oriental garb. They have not been turned inside out. Suspicion arises that in the ample folds a spoon or two still might be concealed.

There is no reason why the nations should not be honest with China, regarding it as a people of character, brains and certain worthy ambitions. They seem slow to do this. China is so pacific and such easy prey!

It is pretty dangerous to badger a quiet people too far. China shows signs of awakening. Once awake, it could care for itself, and as a first step would be likely to eliminate the bumptious Japan.

QUESTIONABLE MONKEY BUSINESS

Not long ago a New Jersey man underwent an operation involving the grafting of a monkey gland upon his tissues. The experiment was brassbanded to the world as certain to lead to rejuvenation. Just a few hours after turning monkey to the limited extent due to adding a simian gland, the patient began to proclaim his symptoms to the public. He announced that the years were falling away from him. He could feel youth approaching with bounding footsteps. Old age had been conquered. He had the strength mental and physical, he'd tell the world, and was about to go forth and make that same world his oyster.

Naturally this stuff failed to impress in precisely the way intended. On the contrary it gave rise to the opinion that a foolish elderly person had been hired to pose as an example of "after taking." This would boom the monkey gland business, give the surgeon an excuse to sharpen his tools, and inspire the astute monkey to haste to the tall timber. There was "advertisement" all over the episode.

Suddenly the patient ceased to record his throes of delight. If he was kicking the ceiling in his joy he was too busy to tell about it. The general impression was that whoever had been promoting the fake had become tired of it. Now it is said that the man has disappeared, not in any juvenile role, either, but feeling the full burden of his years, out of a job and hopeless.

Science does so many wonderful things that one hesitates to regard any announced achievement impossible. Nevertheless it may be said that a fairly intelligent laity is far from being converted to the theory that a bit of monkey tissue will benefit the human frame. On the other hand, the absence of the gland might cause the original owner to go into a decline.

CRIMINAL TRIALS

Early in the Obenchain trial the announcement was made that the prisoner was not to be permitted to be the center of any "court room teas." By this was meant that she was not to group her well-groomed friends about her, was not to be petted, and during intervals in the proceedings was not to be one of a laughing, chattering group. In other words, the judge, aware that a trial for murder really is a serious affair, intended to impress this idea upon all concerned. In this he may be certain of public support.

The treatment of the Obenchain woman as a prisoner has not been in keeping with the ethics that should prevail. She has been elevated to the position of heroine, her moods recorded, her opinions quoted at great length. This was all quite regardless of the fact that she is charged with murder, and that murder is a crime punishable by law, when the law is given a chance.

Probably there is nobody in the world who desires this woman to suffer if she is innocent. There is not the slightest tendency to make a sacrifice of her. All that the public demands is that she be given a fair trial. The effort of either side to prevent such a trial would be resented. But it is the merest propriety, meanwhile, to remember that she is a prisoner, not a guest, and that the style of her courtroom gown bears no relation to whatever facts may constitute the ground for her arraignment.

PEPPER'S SALUTATORY

It perhaps was unfortunate that the first public utterance of Senator Pepper, after his appointment to office, was in defense of the seating of Newberry. The consent of the senate to admission of the Michigan man was given in such a manner as to indicate an acute knowledge on the part of the senators voting for it, that they were doing wrong. They adopted a resolution condemnatory of certain methods, and then they voted to admit to fellowship the aspirant whose claim to support rested wholly on the methods condemned. There does not properly seem to follow any reason for formulating a defense. To defend the indefensible, is not the expression of useful energy.

The Post is not of the number believing that to win partisan advantage by a course in itself reprehensible is right or wise. Nor does it believe that an advantage so won is real or lasting. It is impossible for a senator whose title is morally clouded, whatever the records may show forth to give it the aspect of legality, to be of much service. He is likely to be a target for the opposition. His repute is certain to shadow his activities.

It was a little unfair for the seasoned members of the senate to shunt the task of justification upon a new-comer. Senator Pepper appears on the scene naturally ardent to show his mettle. It is not strange that his enthusiasm, and the consciousness of his fresh honors, should have led him to excess. Scoring the democrats for voting against Newberry "because he was a republican" was far from being a happy thought, in view of the fact that this was precisely the reason Newberry got the necessary republican support.

JOANNA'S BOX

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Joanna Southcott was born in 1750. She went about Scotland as a sort of evangelist. She was venerated as a prophetess.

When she died in December, 1814, she took with her into the tomb a little box containing, according to her last will and testament, a prediction.

This prediction, she declared, was of such a nature as would save, not only England, but also the whole world from a terrible disaster.

Her will provided that the box should not be opened until after a hundred years.

In December, 1914, the box ought to have been opened. But the war came along and people had something else to think of.

Now, however, her memory is being revived in a curious manner.

A wave of mysticism is spreading over the little Scotch fishing village of Cairnburg, which is now being called the Village of the Saints.

From this hamlet a number of people are going out through the country demanding the opening of Joanna's Box, exhorting the people to penitence and announcing the coming of the end of the world. They are making new converts with rapidity.

If there was anything in Joanna's Box that could have prevented the people of the earth from making monumental asses of themselves it ought to have been opened before the kaiser began his fatal activities.

It is greatly to be feared, however, that all the power of the Box abides in its mystery. Once we find out what is in it, it will probably turn out as commonplace as any prediction of Mother Shipman.

For it is the unknown which exercises the greatest power over the human mind. No great disclosure was ever as interesting as a great secret.

No veiled prophecy of the past was ever so important as the things that have taken place unprophecied. Such, for instance, as the invention of the steam engine, the telephone, and the airplane.

These discoveries, however, we trample under foot as soon as they become actual. For things lose their power of amazement when they become known.

If you tell a person that you have some bad news for him, it gives him more of a sinking feeling of dismay than if you would plump out your information.

It is the unknown at which we tremble. The witches and wizards, the soothsayers and dealers in dark predictions, have a hold on the human mind that no scientist or inventor can ever hope to possess.

Most of our worries and troubles are entirely due to the hypnotic terrors of the unknown. One wise old man said on his death bed, "I have seen many troubles in my lifetime, but most of them never happened."

THE LISTENING POST

A man is not born with education. He acquires it. A man is not born with morals. He acquires them. The educational system of the country was not a spontaneous creation. It is the result of a long system of development.

The moral system of a people is not spontaneous. It does not and did not spring into being of itself.

It exists as the result of a long system of thinking and experimentation and trial and development.

The fibre of men is not builded in a moment. It is the result of a long period of years. The nature and thinking of a people are not constant.

Except in certain elemental things. They are variable. Colored by a thousand and one things.

This Listening Post said a number of months ago that the things that wrought changes in the customs and habits and thinking of people were to a great extent external things.

External things that finally worked into internal customs and thoughts and habits. And it stated three things that have wrought great changes in the customs and habits and manners and thoughts of people.

It enumerated them as the motor car. The apartment house. And the movie theater.

And the effect of these three things is most apparent in the cities.

But it is well to remember that the greater part of the population of the country today is urban. It lives in the city.

These things have not had their effect to the exclusion of other things. There is the intensity of struggle in city life.

There is the desire for luxury that comes from the natural instincts of many people. From looking into shop windows.

And seeing furs and motor cars and magnificent palaces and this, that and the other.

Then there is woman's suffrage. The great war. The woman's club. The Volstead act. Immigration.

And we might mention many things that are having and will have an effect upon our civilization.

Some for good. Some for evil. But all in some manner shaping peoples' habits and customs and morals.

Just as Lecky declares the fibre of the Roman people was degenerated by three things largely: Slavery. The free distribution of corn. The gladiatorial combats.

There is only one means by which an evil tendency may be checked. That is by education.

In the home. In the school. In the church. In the press.

In the club and the social organization and the drama and every institution that colors thinking.

The theater, especially the movie, is not without its large share of responsibility for the present day loose thinking of people.

The publicity men acknowledge their share. The press is not without its share. Nor is the pulpit nor the profession of writing. The maker of vulgar cartoons can't escape.

Back of the whole system of thinking in the past decade or two seems to be this idea: GET A LAUGH. GET A HAND. GET NOTORIETY. GET THE MONEY.

And that spirit in a people will corrupt and degenerate any moral fibre in the world.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Don't—By James Jeffrey Roche (1847-1908)

Your eyes were made for laughter; Sorrow befits them not; Would you be blithe hereafter, Avoid the lover's lot.

The rose and the blended Possess your cheeks so fair; Care never was intended To leave his furrows there.

Your heart was not created To fret itself away, By being unduly mated To common human clay.

But hearts were made for loving— Confound philosophy! Forget what I've been proving, Sweet Phyllis, and love me!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THOSE MARRIED MEN!

[Hartford Courant]

A subscriber writes regarding a statement published in Friday's Courant quoting the census bureau as saying that on January 1, 1920, there were 21,849,266 married men in the country, while there were only 21,319,333 married women. He wants to know how there can be 530,333 more married men than women at one time. An exact answer involves recourse to the final authority on the subject, the census bureau, but while it would be astounding if the figures were ever exactly the same, more than a half million difference seems extraordinary, for we assume that widowers are not counted as married men. Our own supposition is that the fact that there are a great many men from other countries living here whose wives remain in the countries from which they came is the explanation.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

England may have a general election. At least there is a studied effort to drive Lloyd George from power. He had held his position a long time, and has faced crises that would have ruined a weak man.

While he has been at the head of affairs, England has been through a great war, and since, has been struggling with the problems growing out of the conflict. George never has lost his head. He has made enemies in plenty, and there always are aspirants for the seat of the mighty.

Ireland has furnished the premier with a stupendous task. In facing this task he displayed a desire to do the best that might be done for peace. He must have known that civil strife would follow any possible decision, but perhaps he thought such strife would be less dangerous than one involving England also. Now the Irish are fighting it out among themselves. They have the opportunity that they had demanded, and what they do with it must be regarded as largely their own concern. Assuredly the premier will not be to blame whatever the outcome.

The anonymous person who wrote "Mirrors of Downing Street" denied that George was a great man, but at the same time proved the statement incorrect. It is a waste of time to set forth abilities and accomplishments that prove greatness, and accompany this by the affirmation that the greatness is lacking.

One commentator says this: "England, a naval empire, and Japan, a militaristic empire, have won all the points at the expense of the Republic of France, the Republic of China, the Republic of Russia, and the United States."

This may be classed as one of the things that would be important if true. It is not true. Doubtless the writer of it, stupid as he often has shown himself to be, knows that it is not true.

The United States arranged the conference, set the pace for its proceedings; was generally supported in its aims. France alone displayed a reluctance of spirit, this particularly in relation to submarines.

China gained a good deal, but not the full measure of its desires. A start was made in the right direction. At least the whole world was aroused to a sense of what should be done for China. This may be an arguery of what will be done ultimately.

There is no "republic of Russia." There is an outlaw oligarchy in power there. It could have had no place at a counsel of civilized nations.

The court of appeals has done an excellent thing in sustaining the conviction of one "Big Hutch," a bunkman of large achievement and almost unexampled insolence.

A new trial had been sought on the ground of improper conduct on the part of the district attorney. Doubtless a prisoner, found guilty, is able to discern in this fact alone, an impropriety of monstrous proportions.

The specific allegation was that the district attorney had struck the counsel for defense on the nose or thereabouts. The official, yielding to a purely human impulse, had done this, his act not in any manner impairing the evidence against "Big Hutch."

But there are other courts. The prisoner has a purse and a pull. However, the public hopes for the best.

Henry Ford wrote his check for $8,000,000 the other day. Few individuals could do this without having the paper come back marked "Not sufficient funds."

Ford might multiply his eight million by several, and the paper would go through without a hitch.

The mayor of Chicago has appointed a minister to lead the fight on crime. The chances are that the minister means well and will fall utterly.

Crime of the varieties that thrive in Mayor Thompson's city might defer to a police club laid on with discretion, but moral suasion is likely to make no impress.

Kidnapings of Ulsterites by Sinn Feiners is viewed with apprehension, remarks an exchange. Doubtless this is no exaggeration of the truth.

It may be added that the kidnaped Ulsterites share in the emotion mentioned.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Did it ever occur to you how few of us have definite, precise, exact knowledge of the details of whatever business we may happen to be engaged in?

It occurred to me today with what one might call a sort of a shock. I had been talking with one of the big men of the country. I do not know whether he is a great man or not. Fifty years from now, if I am still alive, I will know more about that. But he is certainly one of the big men. He handles great enterprises and millions and men and issues like a driver does a bull whip.

"I can do these things," he said—and in no spirit of boasting—"because I make it a rule to get my knowledge first-hand."

He told of his struggle up to the financial surface. The routine was invariably, first, he was busted. Busted higher than Gildery's kite. Then he saw a chance. Then he made himself acquainted at first-hand with every detail of that chance. He worked with his hands and his head, whether in the factory or the office. By and by he knew.

"I knew," he said. "I KNEW. When you get your knowledge that way you cannot be deceived."

So he would get into that enterprise and begin to make use of that knowledge that he had laboriously and personally acquired and made a success. Then he would begin to branch out. Then he would rely on some other man's knowledge and discover that the other man only thought he knew and that the other man was terribly sorry, but that nothing could be done, and then the sheriff would get him. Then the speaker would start all over again—working with his hands and his head—getting some more knowledge at headquarters.

Not long ago he bought an affair that had been as nearly a total failure as failures can be. He went into it like any other workingman. He wore overalls and carried a tin bucket. He got grease under his fingernails and bruises everywhere and he slept as he had not slept since he had had the last job with his hands. In the end he knew.

"I KNEW," he said again. "What some one tells you isn't knowledge. Knowledge is something you must get for yourself. It is the thing you must have to succeed."

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Why do you know, I've had the surprise of my life! Yes, indeed, for Mr. Stevens at STEVENS' PAINT STORE, 219 1/2 East Broadway, informed me today that I might paint my car over myself for about $2.00! Imagine it—and there is a full assortment of colors, including black, red, maroon, several shades of green and brown, and a beautiful, and blue! In a paint shop the job would cost at least $35.00—but by using Paton's famous Auto Gloss Varnish, the only cost is for the paint! He Passed A Wall street man was very keen on having proficient clerks in his employ. Before a clerk could enter his office he was required to pass a written examination on his knowledge of the business.

Noah successfully floated a company while the rest of the world was in liquidation. He passed. If women were unable to see the fine clothes other women wear they would have fewer wrinkles.

Within the week Mrs. G. Erwin Murphy entertained at the First Methodist church, girls in her Sunday school class known as "The Servers." It was a valentine affair at which games were played and refreshments served.

NO, MY DEAR, I DON'T even bother any more about baking cookies, cakes, cup cakes or the like. At least, not since I've been trading at the FANCY BAKERY, 142 North Brand Blvd., for their things are always, it seems to me, just a wee bit better than "home-made!"

SPRING-TIME IS IN THE AIR—it's everywhere—and who can resist it? Surely not the woman who loves to shop, for indeed she, first of all, hears the call of the stores—the trumpet call that heralds the selection of her summer wardrobe! And, once more I ask, who could resist it—for every where I turn the shop windows are filled with suggestions of spring-time and summer—even hints of vacation are already beginning to permeate the very atmosphere!

LONG AFTER THE GUEST LIST is forgotten, unique and tempting refreshments served at a tea or bridge party will be remembered! Mrs. Bigens of the ELITE SWEET SHOP, 134 South Brand boulevard, just delights in planning novel suggestions for the supper table to tea wagon! Her newest thought is the delicious snowballs—which they sell only three times a week—Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. They are of the same delectable white cake that has made the Elite so popular—but baked in individual rounded molds and covered with a lovely white icing—just heaped with shredded cocoanut! They present an appearance that is just every bit as white and fluffy as the real snowballs—but to the taste—they're ever so much more pleasing! These wonderful snowballs at 10c each, served with the Elite Sweet Shop ice cream in, perhaps, individual molds, also—is a charming complement to any tea table! Stop in and order some!

HERE IS JUST THE HOMIEST sort of a home—an adorable little six-room bungalow with modern built-in features, an attractive shingled exterior and a prettily decorated interior! There is a lovely lawn and a good-sized back yard with full-bearing fruit trees of every variety! But it is the price that will interest you—only $4900 cash or $5100 on terms—with but $1000 down! Stop in and see MR. J. B. WRIGHT, in his attractive new office at 106 South Maryland avenue. Or call him at Glendale 1663-J during the day or Glendale 1281-J of an evening. If you wish to learn more of the location and situation of this dandy house!

RAISIN PIE One cup seeded raisins, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon vinegar. Cook raisins in enough cold water for one pie; add tablespoon butter; mix all together. Bake in two crusts.

HAVE YOU VISITED THE NEW ELLIOTT HARDWARE STORE at 205 West Broadway? Well, my dear, you most certainly should, for they are local agents for the famous Premo stoves—the stove that is tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute! And, will you believe that they've just a dandy model with white porcelain splasher, pans and door panels, an excellent oven and four-burner pilot, in fact, just every convenience a range might boast, for only $59.50! Stop in and see it!

THE FIRST THING YOU KNOW you'll feel that "Call of the Wild"—the irresistible summons to the Great Out-of-Doors—when you take your car, your gun and your lunch, and are off! But how about that old gun of yours—is it in condition, ready for the hunt? Take it into the WM. A. PFEIFER CYCLE CO. at 110 South Maryland Ave.—they specialize in gun repairing. In fact, Mr. Crafts, who is associated with Mr. Pfeifer, is an expert along these lines—he'll repair any gun you may have, and most reasonably, too!

WHY, DO YOU KNOW, I'VE had the surprise of my life! Yes, indeed, for Mr. Stevens at STEVENS' PAINT STORE, 219 1/2 East Broadway, informed me today that I might paint my car over myself for about $2.00! A FINE PLACE FOR CHILDREN

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"Yes, but—? But what, Ripple?" demanded Dr. Muskrat, cocking his head on one side as if to say, "Ask me a question I can't answer. Let's see if you can! Just you ask me."

"But I don't see what our great-grandparents were thinking of to try and raise any little ones at all until they knew how the world was going to work out after everything that had happened to it. An old dead tree, without so much as a leaf to its twigs or a root to keep it from flopping over in the next storm, is no place for children."

"Empty clamshells!" snorted the old paddler. "It was the greatest place in the world for them. In fact, it was the only place. Mister Noah wouldn't let the beasts who were aboard his ark go to housekeeping because he said it was cluttered up enough as it was and he hadn't contracted to carry more than two apiece of each kind. That's why the mice didn't dare tell how the bears were catching them—'cause they knew Noah would be so ripping mad if he found they'd stolen a march on him and started a mouse nursery in the bottom of the woodpile, where nobody'd ever think of looking."

"Yes, except for Shem's baby that old oak tree held the only little ones in sight when it sailed past the ark, all sagged over uncomfortably to one side, where it hung on the jagged peak of Mount Ararat. And weren't the other beasts green with envy to see it floating along, with the flood as smooth as the ball of your eye, for the sky was all rained dry and the wind was blown out to a gnat's breath, thought the poor caged birds raised breeze enough with their envious flapping. Why, there was a nest in every crotch by the time it swung to anchor at the foot of the first Beaver Pond."

"How much of a family was there?" asked the Widow Squirrel.

"Several of them, several of them," he chuckled. (It was such a mother beast's question, to be sure.) "For by then they'd met up with my great-great-grandparents as well, and the seals had a

The Once Over

IGNATIUS INBADD DOES HIS BIT

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

Ignatius Inbadd opened his morning mail. He smiled broadly as he passed a letter to Mrs. Inbadd. "Read that!" he said.

"You are hereby notified that your rent, beginning the 15th, will be increased $35 a month," said Mrs. Inbadd.

"The cutest, fattest little thing you ever saw, in a little sporty coat. They had a terrible time teaching it to walk on that trunk, instead of dry land, because, you know, its claws aren't fixed so it can use them. And, of course, it had to walk before it could swim. They say—"

"But, doctor," interrupted Ripple. "You never told us anything about your folks. How did they come to be there?"

Next story: WHAT A USE FOR A MOUSE'S TAIL!

"Ha! ha! ha!" roared Ignatius, holding on to his sides. "Ho! ho! ho!"

"This is terrible," declared Mrs. Inbadd. "Why all the joy stuff?"

"Hee, hee! Hee, hee!" chuckled Inbadd.

There came a knock at the door. Mrs. Inbadd opened it and took a message from a messenger boy. She read it to Ignatius:

"Dear Ignatius—Uncle Tobias died last Tuesday. Cut you off without a red cent—Marian."

"Whoop!" exploded Ignatius. "Ho! ho! Hee! Hee! Ha! ha! ha!"

"What is the matter with you?" demanded Mrs. Inbadd.

"I'm so happy," said Inbadd. "Open the phonograph and play that Jolson record about it always raining violets."

The bell rang. Two husky straners walked in, glared at Mr. and Mrs. Inbadd, then walked over and picked up the phonograph.

"What's the idea?" asked Mrs. Inbadd.

"We got our orders to take it away. You ain't kept up the payments."

"They pushed the wife aside and walked out of the door with the instrument."

"La la de dum dum de de do do la la le la," hummed Ignatius as he did a sort of Greek dance about the room.

"Ignatius!" exclaimed the wife. "Haw! haw! haw!" roared Ignatius, as he dropped into a chair. "Gee, but it's a lovely day, dearie, ain't it? Sort of day to make one feel glad one is alive. Hee hee!"

The telephone rang. Inbadd answered it:

"Hello. Garage talking? Yeah. What? Had a fire last night and my new flyover was totally destroyed? Good! Fine! Ha, ha!"

"Why, Ignatius?" put in the wife as he hung up the phone. "You didn't have a cent of fire insurance on it."

"I know it. Haw! haw! haw! Get me some alcohol liniment. My sides are just sore from laughing."

The doorbell rang again. Mrs. Inbadd responded, and let in old Dr. Dodo, the family physician.

"Why the doctor?" asked Ignatius, grinning.

"I asked him to drop in about your cold. You need a looking over," explained Mrs. Inbadd.

The doctor took off his things, shoved a thermometer under Inbadd's tongue, and felt his pulse. Inbadd beamed at him.

"Well," said Dr. Dodo gravely, "you'll have to get into bed and stay there at least two weeks."

"Tee hee! Tee, hee!" tittered Ignatius. "Ha! ha! ha!"

"You've got SPANISH INFLUENZA," said the doctor.

"Yea, ho!" roared Ignatius. "Oh, he! ho! ho, hee! hee!"

"And you're threatened with pneumonia," said the doctor.

"Haw! haw!" exploded Ignatius. "Oh, doctor, you make me so happy. Have a cigar—or suppin'."

"I know I never did it before, but don't you know what week this is?"

"What?" demanded the wife.

"IT'S SMILE WEEK!" explained Ignatius. "And the Committee in charge expects every man to do his bit."

Gen. Henry Knox was 20 years old when George Washington put him in command of the artillery.

The liar who can repeat a story ten times without any alteration deserves more credit than he gets.

You're such a jolly old soul. Tee! hee! hee!"

"Ignatius Inbadd!" declared the wife as the doctor left. "Enough of this silly business! The idea of laughing and grinning and roaring around like a perfect ninny. What is the matter with you. You never acted like this before?"

"I know I never did it before, but don't you know what week this is?"

"What?" demanded the wife.

"IT'S SMILE WEEK!" explained Ignatius. "And the Committee in charge expects every man to do his bit."

HIGH TRUSTEES DISCUSS ESCROWS

Regular Meeting of Board Concentrated on Details of Building Plans

At the regular meeting of the trustees of Glendale union high school, held Tuesday, another Mr. Smith was elected to the staff of the mechanical arts department, viz. J. G. Smith, to be instructor in charge of work. This appointment was made necessary on account of the heavy student enrollment. Mr. Lockwood, who has been de-voting part of his time to the long waiting, will now be free to put in full time on mechanical drawing.

Architects commissioned to prepare tentative plans for the new buildings were unable to be present, but the board instructed Principal Moysie to cooperate with them in every way by which he can forward the preparation of plans. He has asked heads of departments for suggestions relative to arrangements of those departments to be submitted to the architects, and they are responding with enthusiasm. Mr. Brown, head of the science department, will visit Pomona tomorrow to inspect plans of a new biological laboratory being built for Pomona college with a view to securing the most advanced ideas to be reported to Mr. Moysie and the architects. The architects are expected to be in Glendale within a few days to go over the grounds and make preliminary sketches.

Perkins and Brown were walking up Main street together. "There goes an old buddy of mine," Perkins remarked as a man passed. "Who is he?" asked Brown. "Bill Bristow—poor old Bill!" "Why poor old Bill?" "Well, it's this way," Perkins explained. "When the war broke out I enlisted and Bill got married." "Yes, go on." "Well, can't you see? I got a discharge more than two years ago now."

SOME DOSE A professor in a medical school asked a student: "What is a dose of croton oil?" The student replied: "A teaspoonful." The professor said nothing, but looked at his watch. The work of the class here with. Some minutes later the student who had replied attracted the professor's attention and exclaimed: "Oh, professor, I made an error. A dose of croton oil is one drop." The professor quietly looked at his watch and dryly remarked: "Yes, and your patient has been dead just 12 minutes."

Who is this Dean Swift, who is so amusing? I should like to invite him to one of my receptions. "I'm afraid," answered the author, "that the dean has done something that has shut him out of society for good."

Oh, how very interesting," said the lady. "And what was it he did?" "Some hundreds of years ago," replied the author, "he died."

NAVAL HOLIDAY TO FINANCE BONUS IS NEW PLAN

Republican House Leader Mondell Thinks He Sees Way to Finance Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Republican leaders of the house will try to raise the soldier bonus funds by paying down the budget and through the savings effected by the naval holiday, Representative Mondell, Wyoming, house leader, said today.

The republicans have practically decided to drop the plan of raising the money from special taxes, a sales tax or a bond issue, he said. There will be a bonus for ex-service men, house and senate leaders told the United Press today.

Regardless of the stand of President Harding against raising money to pay the bonus through either taxes proposed by the house ways and means committee, or through a bond issue, leaders were hopeful that the letter Mr. Harding has promised to send would help them out of their difficulties.

This letter was expected to go from the White House either today or tomorrow. Persons in touch with the executive claimed it would offer the congressional leaders a plan, if any, help in the way of a concrete bonus solution problem. Meantime the congress chiefs were pondering over several methods of raising funds. Some of these are:

- 1—Taking savings which are expected as the fruit of the naval limitation program and paying them to service men.
- 2—Lowering of a sales tax.
- 3—Issue of short time bonds in a sum not so great as originally proposed on the theory that the president would not veto them in the end.

CHAMBER BACKS FIGHT ON FARES

would take care of 7714 passengers per day. Twelve cars would be kept in service at all times, and three cars would be kept at each end for emergency purposes. During the peak hours there are about 700 persons passing between the two cities per hour. We claimed that the system proposed for Glendale would take care of this amount of traffic. The idea is to run on a 30-minute schedule, although it has been definitely ascertained that the trip one way can't be made in 18 minutes if occasion should arise, which is not probable. The bus proposed to be used is a 29-passenger vehicle, and if it is desired a double-deck machine could be used. It is proposed to continue service from 5 o'clock in the morning until almost midnight—or about 20 hours a day.

"Owing to the fact that the bus line would operate more frequently passengers would not need to wait so long on the corners. Buses may be secured for from $3800 to $6500, and in our estimate we have allowed $5000 for each bus. The line that is proposed would cost $88,000 if only 50 percent of the seating capacity of the buses was taken, and if 10 cents per ride or 20 cents for the round trip were charged.

"So far as the freight between the two cities is concerned it is known that at this time the freight from the San Fernando valley pays a dividend of 28 per cent. That is why the Southern Pacific is constantly loaning money to the Pacific Electric—it wants to get this cream.

"The estimates furnished to the city council includes every expense that might possibly arise in the conduct of this bus line. It takes in drivers' salaries, gas, oil, tires, depreciation—which consists of setting aside enough to replace the system every two years, while with reasonable care the cars will last four years—insurance, mechanics, and in fact, every item of expense that could come up in the operation of the proposed line.

"The matter of a rate fight between the Pacific Electric and the proposed Glendale municipal bus line was brought up. The fact was brought out that in the event of a fight of this kind and if the Pacific Electric could possibly lower its rate below that charged by the municipal line, which is entirely improbable, the bus line could, if it were deemed wise, be permitted to remain in the shop, to be taken out only when the P. E. attempted to raise its rates again. Should this take place the money saved the people of Glendale in car fares would pay a handsome dividend on the cost of the bus line. It was also shown that the buses proposed for this line are more luxurious and far more comfortable than the Pacific Electric cars now in use.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE KILLJOY
He sits down there in the second row,
And I'm up here on the stage,
I see him everywhere I go,
And he fills my soul with rage.
He sits up straight, he can't be missed,
And he scorns my friendly craft,
For his look says: "Mister Humorist,
I'm here—now make me laugh!"

Yes, there he is with his frozen face
That as vinegar is sour,
There's one of him most every place
Who ruins half my hour.
His mouth is shut with a tightness grim,
He glares in an angry way,
And there isn't a laugh in the soul of him
If you chaffed with him all day.

I start my talk with a friendly air,
I smile the once or twice,
And then I look and see him there,
That human chunk of ice.
He looks at me with a frosty sneer,
And glum as a sick giraffe,
And his look says to me: "Well, I'm here!
Why don't you make me laugh?"

His mouth is shut with a tightness grim,
He'd like to eat me whole,
I'm sure that's his wife next to him,
Poor little frightened soul.
He seems to hate her from the way
He scowls at her the half
His time. Poor soul! Perhaps one day
She made old Killjoy laugh!

After some discussion the club voted unanimously to ratify the appointment of the finance committee and its sub-chairmen, who are: Miss Preston announced as follows: Mrs. Jack Thomas, advertising; Miss Myrtle Knapp, tickets, and it also endorsed the plans of the committee for the three entertainments mentioned.

An invitation from the City Teachers' club, of which Miss Carrie Noble is president, invited the Business and Professional Women's club to be its guest at an informal reception March 10, in the social hall of the chamber of commerce. It was received with expressions of appreciation, and the president, Mrs. Margaret Biggs, was instructed to communicate with Miss Noble, after ascertaining whether the date in question would conflict with any dates to which the club is already committed.

At the conclusion of the discussion relative to the entertainments, Miss Preston collected and read the jingles which had been brought by members for use of the committee in selling advertising. All the poems submitted were clever, several inspiring spontaneous applause, and the club authorized the committee to continue the contest and to appoint judges who would award a modest prize—left to the discretion of the committee—for the best jingle submitted. IRISH PRESIDENT OBJECTS TO TROOPS

Declares Suspension of English Evacuation Endangers Republic

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Hope for peaceful settlement of the new crisis in Ireland was felt today when Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, announced in commons that Michael Collins had secured release of fifteen Unionists kidnaped by Sinn Feiners in a raid into Ulster.

Churchill further announced that Collins, who is head of the Irish Free State provisional government, hoped the remainder of the kidnaped men would be freed today.

This may result in cessation of fighting along the Ulster frontier, and permit withdrawal of British troops remaining in Ireland.

Military evacuation of Ireland by the British army will be resumed tonight, according to a Dublin dispatch to the press association.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—With 21 persons dead and 60 wounded in the fighting between Sinn Feiners and Ulstermen in Belfast and a battle threatened on the Ulster frontier, Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government, arrived here today to confer with Lloyd George on the situation.

Collins first talked with Winston Churchill, minister for the colonies. He was to see Lloyd George later and it is understood he intended to protest against the British proposal of evacuation of Ireland by the British troops.

Collins' view is that suspension of evacuation will not help the disordered conditions in Ireland, but will merely strengthen the De Valera supporters who are plotting overthrow of the Free State and establishment of a republic.

Collins was ready to promise that he would exert every effort to effect release of the Unionists captured by Sinn Feiners when they raided Ulster a few days ago. His attitude was one of resentment at the action of the British in keeping troops in Ireland.

He considered it indicative of lack of faith in the provisional government's power to maintain order. The attitude of the British government was indicated in Lord Chancellor Birkenhead's address to the house of lords. He said the situation was one of extraordinary anxiety and grave potential danger.

While this tension exists in Ireland, he said, the government was not justified in withdrawing the troops. There are important areas in Ireland, he asserted, where troops of the Irish republican army have defied the provisional free state government and virtually mutilated against it.

NEW ELECTRIC STEAM RADIATORS

An unusual display of Eureka vacuum cleaners is to be seen in the window of the Jewel Electric company, 200 East Broadway. This establishment is making a specialty this week of this particular type of cleaner, which it believes is the best on the market. Something new in the way of electric-steam radiators is also being shown.

This would be a quiet and peaceful world were it not for the movements of the under jaw.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work—they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Adv.

UNPROFESSIONAL PRESCRIPTION OF DRUGS CHARGED

Harry Soules, Bad Check Artist Asserts Got Narcotics Here

Unprofessional prescription of drugs by a Glendale physician is alleged by Harry L. Soules, who was arrested in San Bernardino Monday and held for Glendale police on a charge of passing worthless checks here. Detective Sergeant Herda went to San Bernardino to bring Soules back to Glendale, and on the return trip Soules told the detective that he was a drug addict and had been for the past four years. He said that he has been using heroin, cocaine, morphine and powdered opium.

He told Detective Sergeant Herda that he had secured narcotics in Glendale from doctors practicing here. He said that one doctor had supplied him with two doses of narcotics in one day.

Soules was arrested by San Bernardino on a telegraphic request from the chief of police of Glendale for passing an alleged worthless check on the Army and Navy store of this city. He was returned to this city last night in custody of Detective Sergeant Herda and held in the house No. 1 pending his arraignment on the bad check charge.

An investigation of the allegations of Soules will be made by detectives.

LOW BUILDING COMPANY MOVES

The Low Building company has just taken possession of its new quarters at 629 East Broadway, its former location being the Robinson building on North Glendale avenue.

This company is the local agent for "Readycut" homes. It claims it can save the builder from 15 to 30 per cent on the lumber price, 10 per cent on the freight and from three to five weeks in the time of the construction of a five-room home. It has a number of this type of homes under construction at this time. Several have been completed and have given entire satisfaction.

In screening this famous grand opera, "Rigoletto," the producers have followed more than the situation of Verdi's libretto, the Victor Hugo novel, "Le Roi S'Amuse"—"The King Amuses Himself."

It is the first time that a famous grand opera has been filmed, and "Rigoletto" is without any doubt a masterpiece both as to action and scenery.

The leading man in the screen version is not only a great Italian singer but a great actor, for Tommaso Salvini said of him that there was no one else on the dramatic stage who can be compared to this young actor, especially in love scenes.

Signorina Liana Haid has been proclaimed the successor to Eleonora Duse, the famous Italian actress, and recently has been engaged as leading lady for a great production which will prove a sensation the world over, the scenario of which has been written by Gabriel D'Annunzio, author of "Gabriola."

Besides these two big stars there is a super-cast of real actors, most of them belonging to the famous La Scala of Ullian, Italy.

The "Rigoletto" film has been shown for 300 consecutive days at the big auditorium in Rome, and has had a triumphant run all over Italy. In the United States this production has been shown in the great theatres generally, and recently at the Auditorium in Los Angeles at grand opera prices.

Manager Howe of the Glendale theatre has spared no expense to secure this artistic film for his patrons and disregarding its cost will be shown at regular prices.

A specially compiled musical score from the opera rendered on the great organ by Mr. Paul Carson will furnish an added charm to an already charming entertainment.

Such news is worth heralding. The records will be played in installments each afternoon at the three following music stores: Glendale Music company, Kenny Music Shop and the Loomis-Shuck Music company, all on North Brand. The concerts begin at 8:30 and the public is invited to enjoy them and familiarize themselves with the compositions in preparation for the demonstration concert at the close of the contest when prizes will be awarded to those who can recognize the largest number when rendered at that concert.

At present being done in Los Angeles could be handled.

The letter stated that a class of six girls has graduated recently from the University of California as technicians and bacteriologists and that it is possible that the city could secure the services of one of these girls to take charge of the laboratory. The plan has been taken under advisement by Dr. J. E. Eckles, city health officer and it is possible that such a laboratory will be installed here by the city.
