

CLUES UPHOLD LODI MAN FLIGHT THEORY

STOCKTON OFFICIALS INVESTIGATING STORY FROM RENO

ACQUAINTANCE OF KELS SAW HIM IN NEVADA

Stunned by Sight of Supposed Murdered Man Allows Him to Escape. Hotel Clerk and Policeman Describe Man.

Stockton.—Deputy District Attorney Sanborn, has returned from Reno, where he has been investigating the reports that Alex Kels, wealthy cattleman of Lodi, supposed to have been murdered and his body cremated, several weeks ago, when his burned automobile was found in a lonely field containing his supposed remains, had been seen by a friend on the Reno streets.

Thomas Bawden, former Lodi undertaker and a friend of Kels, is positive that he saw the missing cattleman several times on the streets and at the railroad station in Reno, but was so amazed at the sight of a man supposed to have been foully murdered, that he did not approach him and allowed him to get away.

In his statement to the attorney, Bawden said he first caught sight of Kels in front of the Golden hotel and was within a few feet of where he was standing, but was so startled he was unable to speak. That Kels observed him and hurried into the hotel, where he secured a grip he had checked and hiding behind persons in the lobby made his way again to the street, going in the direction of the railway station. Bawden did not follow.

Further statements were made to Sanborn by the hotel clerk and a Reno policeman, that they had observed the man described as Kels, and they also identified photographs of Kels as bearing a strict resemblance to the man they saw.

The report submitted by Deputy District Attorney Sanborn upon his return has convinced some of the authorities here that the theory that an unidentified dupe had been murdered and Kels fled Lodi is correct. Stronger evidence was produced when a Lodi woman announced that Kels had suffered an injury to his nose recently in a fall from a horse, which coincided with the story told by the clerk of the Reno hotel, who said that the man he had seen bore a cut across his nose.

While proof strongly points to this theory, authorities are at a loss to understand the motive for the heinous slaying and the reported flight of Kels. The theory that Kels was the perpetrator of the crime and fled to reap personal gain from insurance has been dropped.

Investigation has shown that Kels made an effort recently to dispose of his large butcher business at a great loss.

EAST AND WEST TO MEET ON CALIFORNIA GRIDIRON

Annapolis.—Admiral Wilson, naval academy commandant, has announced permission for the team to go to California to play the collegiate champion of the Pacific coast at the Tournament of Roses football game in Pasadena on New Year's day. Approximately thirty players, the entire main squad, will make the trip to the coast and Middy grid warriors will sacrifice their Christmas vacation in order to bring about a contest between representative teams of the east and west.

Early selection of an eastern opponent to meet a western team is believed to have been made this year to avoid the trouble of last year when the eastern team was not known until a bare three weeks before the game.

WHAT THE WORLD IS LOOKING FOR

The world today is looking for men who are not for sale; men who are honest, sound from the center to circumference, true to the heart's core; men with consciences as steady as the needle to the pole; men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; men who can tell the truth and look the world right in the eye; men who neither brag nor run; men who neither flag nor flinch; men who can have courage without shouting it; men in whom the courage of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong; men who know their message and tell it; men who know their place and fill it; men who know their business and attend to it; men who will not lie, shirk or dodge; men who are not too lazy to work; nor too proud to be poor; men who are willing to eat what they have earned and wear what they have paid for; men who are not ashamed to say "No" with emphasis and who are not ashamed to say, "I can't afford it."

YES, THEY READ ADVERTISEMENTS

In a recent report published in Editor and Publisher, and from the evidence as obtained by the Des Moines Advertising Club, it is shown that ninety-four per cent of newspaper readers read advertisements and eighty-eight per cent have faith in their truthfulness. These returns were received on a questionnaire answered by 600 shoppers at Des Moines.

Eighty-six per cent of those who replied thought newspaper advertising the most effective. Truthfulness and clearness are the most appealing elements in an advertisement, attractiveness next, and the opportunity for saving money third, was shown according to the answers. The departments of a newspaper, in the order of their interest to the reader, were indicated thus: Local news, national news, Editorials, advertisements, personal or society news, comics and sports. Women represented two-thirds of those who filled out the questionnaires.

RECKLESS DRIVERS

Cannot users of Santa Clara valley and mountain roads take a warning from the several accidents that have occurred lately? Fortunately no fatality or even serious injury has resulted in the past two weeks, but it is only good fortune or the will of God to prevent it.

Cars have been wrecked by drivers, presumably under the influence of liquor. Something should be done to stop this, some lessons given before the community is shocked by some heavy tragedy that may involve mob action in revenge.

EDITOR'S FIRST DUTY

The two purposes of a newspaper are to make money and to serve the community. Making money is put first for the paper that is not making money cannot serve the community, it is bound to be a poor down-at-the-heels affair. You owe it to your community to help your paper make money.

WHAT IT REALLY MEANS

Did you ever stop to think that when you trade in another town you injure your home town in the same degree that you help the town you trade in? When you help the other town you naturally hurt your town. Therefore play the game safe. Trade at home.

Mrs. Coolidge when she first visited the White House eighteen years ago was told by a White House policeman "to step lively". The policeman may have to do it now.

Mr. Coolidge has been president all this time and hasn't introduced a single pet word or slogan yet.

Life is just one coal parley after another.

WOMEN OF THE OLD SOUTH

Had by No Means a Life of Idleness,
Since Their Domestic Duties
Were Many.

There is still widespread conception that the wives of the ante-bellum southern planters led a life of ease and idleness. Such was far from the truth, says a writer in the New York Sun. Woman played a vital part in the old southern economic system, a role which kept her busy and loaded her with grave responsibilities.

She was the head of the domestic side of the plantation life. Not only did she supervise the housework of the mansion, but she had to look after the servants' quarters as well. As for the slaves, their food, their clothing, their health were under her care.

It is related that a distinguished foreign diplomat was astonished, when visiting Mount Vernon, to find Mrs. Washington surrounded by negro girls from ten to fifteen years old, busily knitting stockings for the slaves of the plantation.

Thus was the sphere of the southern woman sharply defined. It was an important sphere, so far as it went, but it was dependent upon the plantation system out of which it grew. After the freeing of the slaves and the industrial revolution which it produced, the women of the South found themselves bereft of the occupation for which they were bred.

PRUNE-APRICOT OUTLOOK

BRIGHT SAYS MORTENSEN

The outlook for the prune and apricot industry is very bright and brokerage facilities for the selling of association products have been more than double, was the word brought by A. M. Mortensen, general manager of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, on his return from a business trip in the interests of the association to the eastern markets.

"The market is improving," Mr. Mortensen said, after his arrival in San Jose. "Buyers who were formerly taking only 200 or 300 boxes of prunes or apricots at a time are now buying by the carload lot. We have increased the number of brokers who sell association fruit from 58 to 127, and will add to this number immediately. Taking it all around, I am quite optimistic over the outlook for the association."

Mortensen who stated that he had found a market for slabs, the split fruit which growers have had much difficulty in disposing of in the past. This announcement will be hailed with joy by the growers, according to association officials.

During his trip to Chicago and New York markets, Mortensen succeeded sales of spot stock in warehouses in New York City and Brooklyn in reducing the 1922 carry-over crop of prunes from 40,000,000 pounds to less than

THE SALVATION OF THE IRISH

"Did you see that in the paper the other day about kraut?" The wise customer had taken up a can of kraut and stood scrutinizing the label.

"Don't believe I did. What about kraut?"

"Well," said the wise customer, "they claim that kraut is the most wholesome food you can imagine. Makes a man vigorous and healthy. Gives a woman the finest complexion in the world. Everybody ought to eat kraut at least once a week."

All this is news to us. Come to think about it, though, it is said that cabbage and potato (with emphasis on the cabbage) saved the day in many a time of famine in Ireland. Cabbage is listed as having the highest vitamin content of any green vegetable. That is one secret of its food value.

JHN Kraut is, of course, all cabbage. Excellent for food—and the complexion. Inexpensive at 15c.

FRUIT SUITS MAY BE TRIED AS ONE

Possibility that the six suits brought by the California Prune and Apricot Growers' association seeking injunctions to prevent certain members from disposing of their fruit through channels other than the association will be combined and heard as one was indicated last week. The six cases were before Superior Judges P. F. Gosbey and F. B. Brown upon return of the injunctions and in each case the continuance requested by the defendants was granted until the week of October 8. It has been suggested that as the points of law involved in each case are the same they can be tried as one.

Because of the prominence of those against whom the suits have been brought and the importance of the points at issue, the cases have attracted widespread interest among members of this and other co-operative fruit associations.

The six suits now before the courts are those of H. G. Coykendall, former vice-president and general manager of the association; Mrs. R. G. Wallace, sales manager of the association during the Coykendall regime; C. C. Spaulding, state senator and member of the voting board of the association. Also Spaulding's partner, F. D. Calkins; the Pomeroy Orchard company, in which I. E. Pomeroy is a director. Pomeroy was a member of the voting board of the association until the recent reorganization when he failed to be re-elected. The other two cases are those against Rocco Mazzone and Joe Ghirdelli. The various suits were filed on September 19, 21 and 22.

School Days
by Grace E. Hall

There's a land of level prairie
Where the bobwhite's call is heard,
And the song birds hold high carnival each morn;
Where a zig-zag fence outlines the road,
Most rakish and absurd,
As it follows past the fields of waving corn;
There's a singer on the topmost rail
A-trilling out his lay
To his haughty, muffed-up lady sitting nigh;
Time on time I've paused to listen
And to watch his loving way,
And afar I'd catch a rival's raucous cry.

Trudging onward down the beaten road
Made hard by driving rain,
I have listened to those songsters o'er and o'er,
Til I'd reach the old brown schoolhouse
And be robbed of their refrain
When the teacher closed the clumsy, creaking door.
Now, the years have brought me many a tune,
Sung in a thousand keys,
And I've tried to get the "cultured" view and sense,
But I vow I never yet have heard
Such music on the breeze
As the meadow lark trilled from that old rail fence.

THE ETHICAL SERVICE BUSINESS RENDERS

BY J. H. PUELICHER
President of the American Bankers Association

I sometimes think we lay too much stress on the technical efficiency of our business instrumentalities and too little on their moral services.

Is it enough to say to our radical opponents of the present capitalistic order that it effectively feeds and clothes and houses and furnishes us with physical comforts and pleasures and therefore it is good? That is not enough. They can rightfully tell us that, even though a system may minister to our physical well-being, if it stunts us morally, if it does not positively make us better ethically, it is an inadequate system.

The general answer to this assertion is obvious. The very fact that our industry, commerce and finance serve us so simply with the materials and means for physical well-being gives us the opportunity to build and support our churches, to foster the arts, to develop our great educational system,—to be kind to one another.

But need we deal in generalities? Do we not find in the direct effect of our business upon the individual much to improve his ethical standards? To toughen his moral fiber? Is it not good for the personal character of the race to do business as we are now doing it?

Let us take the business of banking, for example. Is it a mere mechanism or is it a vital moral force? Does it do more than, by facilitating production, raise the physical standard of living, or is there anything inherent in the manner and methods of banking that raises the moral standard of living as well?

Nine-tenths of our business is done by means of credit. The great bulk of that credit is obtained from the banks. It is obtained from the banks because men have character,—because they are honest, because they keep faith,—because they can be trusted.

If they did not have these qualities they could not do business with credit. We say banks deal in credit. That is but a way of saying they deal in honor and honesty. They build the business structure with the faith of man in man.

The part banking plays in our business life is growing. That means that the faith of men in each other is growing. The more men who come to the banks with characters that entitle them to credit,—the more men who realize that to gain credit at the banks, they must possess themselves with characters that win them unquestioned trust, the higher becomes the ethical standards of the nation.

Is not this a great moral service that banking renders? It is a greater justification for our present financial system than even its wonderful efficiency in providing us with the material things of life. No greater service could be rendered the nation.

AMERICA'S NEW PLACE
Many Americans fancy that, because labor is well employed and our industries have been reporting substantial earnings and improvement over the depression period, normalcy has been restored. The truth is, what we must consider normal in the future will be an entirely different thing from what was considered normal prior to the war. One reason is, our new place in the world as the leading creditor nation. That change is a permanent one. We are not going to return to the old position of debtor nation. Bankers in the agricultural communities have come to the conclusion that we cannot afford to maintain an attitude of isolation and that opinion is not a personal one. The men I have talked with are voicing the ideas of the people with whom they have daily business contact.

A great many politico-economists have warned against America's entrance into the European situation, asserting that our foreign trade makes up less than 20 per cent of our production, and therefore is too small an item to be vital or to risk our investment in. They forget, and most people who have listened to them forget, that the unimportant 20 per cent is the difference between full employment of our industries and labor and much unemployment and business depression. If a manufacturing enterprise is running at 90 per cent of capacity, it may be making a fairly good showing of earnings, but it is not running at normal and is not earning the margin which it should earn in order to be fully prosperous. It appears obvious that we shall have to build up foreign investments in this country. But it will be necessary to go slowly in the matter of foreign investments. There must be assurance that whatever we loan will be used for productive purposes.—William E. Knox, Second Vice-President, American Bankers Association.

The last few years have brought about a completeness in Funeral Directing but little realized by the general public. Beautiful buildings have replaced less desirable quarters, and the finest and most modern equipment has been added for reverently and perfectly caring for those just departed this life.

The Melvin Mortuary has become noted for having almost attained the ideal in these many respects. As such it merits the patronage of everyone desiring such service.

A Better Oil
Even if it does cost less

It isn't what you pay but what you get in lubrication that counts. Thousands of laboratory and road tests have proved that Zerolene oils and greases reduce friction and wear to a greater extent than any other motor lubricants we have seen and tested or been able to produce.

Zerolene oils form on an average 30% less carbon than other motor oils. They form less carbon than any other motor oils known to us.

And because Zerolene gives better lubrication continuously, the Zerolene-lubricated automobile averages 5% more mileage from the gasoline consumed.

Insist on Zerolene even if it does cost less.
