SOME STORIES that are continued from week to week ought to be omitted to the same extent.

GOVERNOR HILL is not given to peanut politics, for really the nut of that denomination is quite a respectable nut.

PERHAPS THE GREATEST of the books that have helped you is your bank book; yet it is seldom mentioned in the list of valuable works.

MRS. CLEVELAND is to be commended for stamping out the fire in her napkin; yet if she had been a real good housewife there wouldn't have been any fire.

IT IS A GREAT truth that the government is not a hospital for superannuated politicians, but it seems to be superannuated itself.

JOHN COCHRANE at the head of Tammany hall means that the prairie-hens are singing for Cleveland, just as they sang for Greeley in 1872.

SPEAKING OF the presidency, the Buffalo Express inquires, "Is the editor of the JUDGE in the hands of his friends?" Not at all, sir—not at all. Still—

THE EDITOR of the Buffalo Express says his paper is not edited by the devil; so we suppose his satanic majesty has gone back to his old position on the New York Sun.

SENATOR HALE'S CHARGE that the national administration has acted the hypocrite with regard to civil-service reform is about the best compliment the administration has had.

WE HAVEN'T SEEN the third James G. Blaine, but if he isn't a remarkable baby it is because he hasn't had the time or opportunity to spout his comb in appreciation of his grandfather.

MR. AUSTIN CORBIN is a great and good man; but we dare say there was a time when, as a mere worker, he thought himself and his representatives as good as the capital their labor helped to create.

WE DO NOT believe in miracles, but there are indications that Rollin M. Squire is to have a trial. This is not to say, however, that he will necessarily fall shattered from Time's dial.

THERE IS NO such thing as hydrophobia, as the medical editor of the Evening Post says; and yet when a man thinks he dies of that affliction he persists in his ignorance beyond all hope of a speedy resurrection.

THE BRIEF EDITORIAL which prevails in some daily journals is a compression of words to the sacrifice of sense; is totally without pith or force, and is therefore a sorry pauper in a great glare of reportorial pride and shoddy.

A JUROR in the Platt case didn't know who was president of the United States or who governor of the state of New York. He did, however, know which party he belonged to, and to state the party would be to give superfluous information.

THERE HAS BEEN so much of Roger A. Pryor in the pictorial dailies that it makes the general public ill. Roger is not sweet as to countenance, and there are enough epidemics without him.

IT IS A MISTAKE, this assumption of men like Austin Corbin that it is their right to wear the crown signifying authority above that of the Creator. No, Austin; we are all of us still a little lower even than the angels.

DO WE LIVE FOR ENGLAND?

The last few weeks have been made memorable by the political eruptions of free trade. The pyrotechnic display has been fascinating, while the scoria and ashes promise to be dangerous. The first lurid puff, engineered by the cyclopaean forces of the white house, were followed quickly by the responsive editorial jets and throes of the great Kentuckian of Louisville. There are, however, fire-worshippers who, blinded by the glare, delude themselves that the torch is the corona and the rumble is the voice of a political god. As the unthinking crowd bow down before this dazzling disturbance, they forget that its old paths beat down fair fields and sweet as well as splendid homes, and only after its fury was spent and silence subdued the unreasoning roar did the plains blossom again and village and vineyard climb and cover the political cemetery. There are geological periods in national politics, times of growth and times of destruction. A people, like a person, grows forgetful of its experiences, and learns only to avoid great injuries by a repetition of admonitory hurts. Free trade menaces peaceful and shrinking industries with a knuckle of vices; and the Democratic bruises, it is hoped, may stir them to defensive alertness, and so shield against a more dangerous or deadly assault. If the English free-trader deems American protection so baleful to this nation, so exhaustive to its people, whence cometh this disinterested and magnificent philanthropy? It cannot be that it represents throes of repentance—for England never repents, unless a loser—for building, twenty-five years ago, the blockade-runners on the Clyde and striving by its helping of a kindred aristocracy to crown capital and keep labor servile? Was it not this same kind kin that grew gleeful at the prospect of the disruption of the republic, that applauded that clause of the confederate constitution that repudiated protection, that now prays its praises of the last message of President Grover Cleveland? England, foresighted, persistent and patient in its policy, seeks, as the lion always does when it lies down with the lamb, to have the lamb inside, and would satisfy its financial hunger by devouring the industries of the continent. It would keep only farms on this and factories on its side of the sea. English diplomacy never sleeps. It trains its statesmen, by an apprenticeship of years and the spur of promotion, to an easy contention with our graduates from the prairie or his accident from the lake. England, who bought and fortified Cyprus to control Egypt, the Suez canal and the markets in the east; who sharpens the prows of her steamers with subsidies and pushes them into every sea; who wins, or tries to win, her way to commercial spoils by the soft or the smiting hand—England has now a new ally in the Democracy of the United States and a cajoled friend in the executive chair.

THE FIGHT between Messrs. Pulitzer and Dana is to be taken in the Pickwickian sense. That is to say, both gentlemen will go to the debtors' prison rather than consent to peace and pay the consequent damages.

MR. ARBUCKLE is not the only man who has made a fool of himself

AT THE GRAND CENTRAL STATION.

BUNCO SHARP—"I can't be mistaken. Isn't this my father's old friend, Jeremiah Giddings of Cooperstown?"
MR. GIDDINGS—"You ain't Silas Guppy's boy Bill are ye?"
BUNCO SHARP—"Why, of course I am; don't you know me?"
MR. GIDDINGS—"I've kinder forgot your face, Bill, but I ain't forgot that milk bill you owed me when you skipped town. 'Three-sixty an' int'rest it wuz. Shell out."

in writing love-letters; and in saying this we feel that we touch the popular male heart—though without the faintest idea, let us hasten to say, dear sirs, of creating apprehension.

IT IS A CURIOUS fact that during Democratic administrations the fees of the health officer and the quarantine commission were not deemed too large; and yet there is a choice as to whether we shall have the money or you shall have it.

A LONG ARTICLE on "the art of elbowing" in the Evening Sun should have been reduced to the great truth that the art of elbowing is not to elbow.

FABLE.

A number of little Frogs ran to a Patriarch of their tribe and said they had seen two enormous Oxen. "Were they as big as this?" inquired the Patriarch, puffing himself out. "Much bigger," was the response. "As this?" said the Patriarch, puffing himself still more. "Nay," said the little Frogs; "if you were to try till you burst you would never be so big." Thereupon the silly old Frog tried to puff himself still more, and suddenly burst and scattered himself over all the contiguous territory. For the modern application of this pretty fable the reader will look at our first page.

HIS WAY OF TELLING IT.

"I attended Jack's funeral," quaintly remarks a private note to the JUDGE which is really pathetic with genuine feeling. "It was a cold day. The ground was frozen to the bottom of the grave. It was

AN UNFORTUNATE VOLLEY.

YOUNG SHEKELS—"I've been longing to ask you a question, Mizpah. Do you think you could care enough for my happiness to"— VOICE FROM SPEAKING-TUBE—"The collector's here from the milliner's, Mizzy. I've given him two hundred on account, and the other eight hundred can stand till next month!"—
 SHEKELS (continuing question)—"Go to Harrigan's with me to-morrow night?"

an awful cold place to leave an old friend in; but Jack didn't seem to mind it."

IT WAS ALWAYS THERE.

In the opinion of John Sherman the secretary of the treasury is empowered by law to use the surplus for the reduction of the public debt—and John drew up the bill conferring the authority. We recall the case of Jones, who stubbed his toe on a large stone in a familiar path. "I've dodged that stone a thousand times," said Jones during his reflective agony, "and I never knew before that it was there."

MR. LAMAR is not a great lawyer, but he is now in a position which will enable him by close application to eventually become one.

THE JUDGE approves the bill to reform the quarantine business; but is this state so barren of unobjectionable men that it must needs provide by law for such a man as John A. Nichol?

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that Kalakaua's property should be in pawn; but if the people of Hawaii might pawn his majesty and lose the ticket that would be a mild article of wealth for all of them.

ALL TALK AND NO CIDER.

Congress meets principally to consider. It seldom acts. There was talk of an extra session some time ago, to do what this congress ought to have done within five hours after its complete organization—the latter a matter of months; but there is as much delay as if there had never been and were never going to be an emergency. The difficulty seems to be a desire to legislate for party rather than for country; though the fact is that any bold, resolute policy for the country advances the party as a natural consequence and far more effectively than any partisan measure might. But what can you expect of a party whose chief business it is to act the part of a sneak and duck its head to avoid every responsibility it invites, as it ducked against the bullets of its friend the enemy from 1860 to 1865?

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

HOULIHAN—"Ah, Brannigan! this news from the ould sod jist sets me blood a b'illin'. Jist think of that ould Bareacres evictin' his tinants for a paltry year's rint!"
 MRS. SCHMITZ—"Meestar Houlihan, may I shpeak mit you? I like you to wait until comes Saturday night for your money."
 HOULIHAN—"Why, yez are a week behind already. Is it charity tinimint-houses ye think Ol'm rintin'? Let it be Saturday noight, sure, or out yez go!"

AN IRISHMAN'S CAUTION.

PAT—"If I git me loife insured fur $1,000 will yez pay me at onct?"
INSURANCE OFFICER—"No; not until you are dead."
PAT—"Och, thin, I'll wait till I'm dead before I sign the paper."

HUM OF THE COURT.

The proper place to wear the skates is between the shoulders, always providing a bustle for the back of the head.

The latest initials in the case of Arbuckle-Campbell include p. d. q. That is to say, the lady wants the $45,000 as soon as she can get it.

There are several persons who haven't gone to Florida for the winter, and they are so tickled that they want to shout themselves to death.

In writing love-letters it is best to confine the utterances to those which are purely vocal. They may not be pretty, but they are not evidence except by hearsay.

An exchange has a long account of the opening of a man's stomach to draw a snake therefrom, and the account concludes with the statement that the reptile got away through the man's mouth. Somehow we always suspect these things.

It is noticeable that the woman with a high hat is not only on her high-heeled shoes but generally sits on her high-heeled bustle.

No man of intelligence ever made a pun except by accident, and then he wept over it because he thought his hearers might look upon him as a fool.

If a man's imagination lets him get well through what is called the faith cure it is just as well as if he had employed a doctor at large expense; but the trouble is, it doesn't.

Lyman Abbott will occupy Mr. Beecher's shoes very acceptably; but he must take care not to let his toes wander around without a guide, lest they get lost beyond recovery.

aldermen that when they are tired of the regular business they go out and kill robbers for fun. Talk about your family quarrels—what is there to compare with that?

A New York paper tells of "stabbing men out of pure devilry." That is the thing which most men want to be stabbed out of, and their relief must be great even if the wound is fatal.

A youth of Ashland, Me., shot a bull moose, early the other morning, while going home from a dance. As a general thing these conditions generally inspire the entire menagerie, but usually all the animals get away.

Human nature is a queer thing. We know of no one who began the new year with a resolution to forgive his enemies who hasn't regretted his generosity. That, however, is of course the fault of the enemies.

"You never open the bible without finding something new in it," says an exhorter. It is so with old bible-readers, and it is a magnificent fact; but how peculiarly true it is with regard to the most of the rest of us.

A Virginia City (Nev.) woman threw out of her stomach a fish four and a half inches long. If Dan Lamont were telling this story he would make the catch large enough to kill the woman.

We do not wish to encourage local disturbances; but Troy is chiefly remarkable because it is near Waterford, Albany because it is a little beyond Coxsackie, Rochester because it is near Palmyra, and Buffalo because it is free from excitement and not far from Tonawanda.

THE BEST BRAND.

ENRAGED BROKER (to persistent soap-peddler)—"I tell you I don't want any of your soap! I never use the stuff."

PEDLER (persuasively)—"Mister, af you only dry vun cake I guarantee, so hellup me cracious! dot your wife wouldn't know you herseluf."

JUDGE'S PHOTOGRAPHS.

A VARIETY SOUBRETTE.

In a flimsy and abbreviated frock of blue and lace, and with streaks of pearly powder on her sadly-freckled face, she scampers in the footlights, while her broad, expansive grin delights a shriveled dudlet or the leading violin. Her eyes with anguish tremble and her heavy visage nods in a manner that is catching to the playful gallery gods, as she moans and groans and whimpers in a highly-flavored role and recounts the sinful scandals which are pestering her soul.

She cuts a dashing figure when arrayed in boyish suits with a crop, a racing jacket and a pair of Hessian boots. In the ballad "Sister's Left Us" she is—O! so very droll, for she lets her sister wrestle with the daily pail of coal; and many burly fellows rub their fingers in their eyes when she sings how "Darling mother waits and watches in the skies." But I wonder could her mother to our lower planet come, if she'd mind her daughter's winking at the chap who taps the drum? With her thumb and index finger she will twirl a cigarette, while she owns

AN EVIDENCE OF WEALTH.

"My dear," said Cophetua a year or two after the beggar-maid episode, "a commission has been appointed by my bankers to make an appraisal of my personal property to determine whether or not it be safe to accommodate me with a new loan. They are coming this morning and I have taken the liberty to remove the feather from your last new hat and propose to insert it in my crown as slightly overshadowing these priceless jewels which would have come from Brazil had that country been discovered." And the erstwhile beggar-maid dropped a tear with a dull splash.

TOO PARTICULAR.

Husband—"Why have you discharged the servant?"

Wife—"Because she claimed to have had ten years' experience in doing housework."

Husband—"Well, wasn't that in her favor?"

Wife—"No; I didn't want any one so particular as that to boss me."

A BIG DIFFERENCE.

"You ought to be ashamed to abuse your horse in that way," said an indignant citizen.

"He isn't my horse," replied the man. "I've just hired him from a livery stable."

TOO MUCH FATHER.

"Remember, children," said the school-teacher to her charges, "that Bobby Smith has no father now and that you must treat him very kindly. How would you feel if you had no father?"

And immediately a youngster, whose father had evidently chastised him that morning for some misdemeanor, said, "Well, I guess I'd feel better'n I do now."

NOT THAT HE KNEW OF.

In a police court.

"Prisoner, I am told, too, that your wife was extremely sensitive."

"Humph! Don't know what you call sensitive. She was alive yet after I struck her three times with my heavy stick."

A SHATTERED CLIMAX.

Our poet is in the midst of the master conception of his life. The burning blush on fair Lilian's angelic face has ravished Guyne's soul to a declaration of the most transcendental love. With wild, throbbing heart he has unconsciously entwined her sylph-like form in his arms as her superbly chiseled lips murmur—

WIFE (opening the door)—"Dearest, do you like plenty of grease with your tripe, or shall I cook it dry?"

with vulgar candor, "I'm a dandy, boys, you bet." The gallery and orchestra in frenzied tumult crash as she blows a dozen kisses to a dudlet "on the mash." In the day time, out of hours, with the true artistic pose you may see her shapely fingers ironing or scrubbing clothes. Her Cohen jewels shimmer as she's wringing out the socks, while her laughter wakes the echoes of the shanty on the rocks.

She will catch some callow strippling, though his parents fume and rage, and will leave the realistic boards for life's more rigid stage. The moral is, don't monkey with the buzz-saw on the fly, and beware a pretty damsel if she sports a merry eye.

DE WITT STERRY.

EASILY ACCOUNTED FOR.

"Life should be reckoned by incidents, not years," she said. "Take myself, for instance; I am only twenty-five, and yet I've been married three times."

"Quite true, my dear," he replied; "but you must remember you are an actress."

AN UNFORTUNATE BOY.

A well dressed gentleman enters the compartment of a railway carriage and makes preparations to light a cigar.

"You ought at least," remarks a slip of a lad with a pipe in his mouth, "to ask these ladies whether smoke is disagreeable to them or not."

"And was that what you did?" asks one of the fair travelers referred to.

"No; but then I never had any bringing up, you know."

IN THE ART GALLERY.

Higgins—"There, Wiggins, how is that for the nude in art?"

Wiggins—"Bah! You ought to come to the Metropolitan opera house with me some night, and see the nude in nature."

THERE was once a Persian poet,
Long ago,
Who was poor, as poets always are,
You know,
And he thought 'twas very hard
That so excellent a bard
Must go barefoot—trudging, trudging
To and fro.

So he fretted and he grumbled
At his fate,
And some misanthropic verses
Did create.
And he constantly inclined
To be hating all mankind
With a very bitter, bitter
Kind of hate.

But, one day as he was walking,
He did see
One whose feet were amputated
At the knee;
Who in lieu of finished legs
Must go stumping by on pegs,
More afflicted than the poet,
You'll agree.

Said the poet to his conscience:
"I am hit:
Henceforth you'll hear no whining,
Not a bit!"
And contentment from that time
Overflowed in all his rhyme,
And a most delightful, happy,
Jolly wit.

Fond mother—"Doctor, I don't know what to do with Martha. She's peevish and fretful and I can't do anything with her."
Doctor—"Perhaps your daughter is in love. Maybe she pines for love in a cottage."

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Jones was so awkward the othere vening as to sit down on a gentleman's silk hat, crushing it flatter than a pancake.
 "And to think," was his comment, "that it might have been the new one I've just bought!"

CHANGE.

Every cent that I'd enjoy
 Seemed to me a gold one
 When I was a little boy,
 Now I am an old one!

As a youth on pleasure bent
 I tempted fortune fickle,
 And each dollar that I spen
 Seemed but as a nickel.

All I soon in folly spent,
 Want caught me by the collar,
 Till I had to make a cent
 As far go as a dollar.

Now the shoulder turned by joy
 On me is a cold one;
 Not as when a little boy,
 Now I am an old one.

G. B.

COULDN'T STAND THE RACKET.

Jones, although not very brave, accepted a challenge to fight a duel with pistols.
 "Only," said he to the seconds, "I must insist on one condition. You must allow me to put cotton in my ears—on account of the noise, you know."

NOT SO BAD.

Brown is something of a philosopher.
 "It is true that my shoes are in holes," he remarked to himself the other day, "but it's a matter of compensation. If the water comes in easily it goes out just as quick."

SET RIGHT.

"Did I understand you to say, sir, that you told some one I ought to be sent to an insane asylum?"
 "Not at all, sir; I simply remarked that I thought you had been let out too soon."

Clerk (who belongs to a Shakespearian lyceum and whose dramatic bent has rather the better of him reaches the office at ten a. m. Greeting to his employer, "Good morrow, sir."
 Employer (something of a business man)—"It is nearly, indeed. Hereafter, sir, I would like to have you get around in time to bid me good-morning."

A CONSTANT CROP.

Higgins—"Spent last evening with Brown. Awfully jolly fellow—loves to crack a joke."
 Wiggins—"If you'd heard his yarns as often as I have you'd say he loved to crack chestnuts."

 Mr. UMPHA (feeling for his steel)—"Didn' say so, criss-cross hones', 'deed 'r didn'!"

THE INDURATED SERVITOR.

What a prime exasperater is that man we call a waiter,
Who embarrasses in parlor and in dining-room and hall!
How his stupid blunders bore you,
and how rattled, mad and sore you
Feel when impudence and ignorance run races with his gall.

If you dine at public table he is never, never able To find anything you want to eat, though kitchenward he skips,

Unless you may have "seen him," for he thinks it can't demean him

To defer his search for dishes till he makes sure of his "tips."

When you pay a social visit this spectacular what-is-it
Twists your name out of all semblance or leaves thumb-marks

THE WAY MANY SWEAR OFF.

"Well, gentlemen," said Jim Baggs, as he held up a glass of pure bourbon, "I'll drink this, and after this"

Everybody looked up in astonishment, for the prospect of Jim's swearing off was something of a surprise.

"And after this," continued Jim, "I'll refuse no more."

TRAMP (reading notice)—"Scott! I'm glad I run across that. When this suit of mine gets old I'll bring it down here and raise a few dollars on it."

A RASH BET.

Hagermeyer—"Why so sad this morning, Ned?"

Killingsbury—"I just met your brother."

Hagermeyer—"That's complimentary to the family. I'm sorry he threw a pall over your feelings."

Killingsbury—"Well, he did. We saw a red-headed girl on the avenue, and I bet him a case of yellow label that we'd see a white horse within a block."

Hagermeyer—"Well?"

Killingsbury—"So help me John Righteous! the only team that came along was a coal-cart drawn by four black mules and driven by a darkey as black as the Times's race tips. To add insult to injury, a black-and-tan dog belonging to the outfit barked at me as he went by."

WANT OF TACT.

Rev. Mr. Futinit (calling on invalid parishioner)—"I wish you could get over to the grounds and see what wonderful improvements we've made since you were taken sick."

Parishioner (feebly)—"I'm glad everything is in such a prosperous condition."

Pastor—"Yes; brother Pilgriff let the Lord move him enough to present the parish with a new Brewster hearse last week, and I have heard rumors that one of the anointed proposes to build us a new crematory on that vacant lot back of the churchyard."

REASONABLE FOR ONCE.

LADY—"There! For the first time your bill is reasonable."
FLORIST (excitedly)—"Quick! Let me see! I must have made a mistake."

A SNUB TO THE OLDEST INHABITANT.

"And how is your father, Mrs. Drew?"

"Father is not as well as usual this winter."

"Is there anything serious the matter?"

"Well, I should say so. This is the first time in several years that the Bugle hasn't sent a man to interview father on the dreadful winter of '37."

HE COULD STAND IT BEST.

Bertie—"Pa, I hope grandma will die before I do; don't you?"

Pa—"What on earth ever put such ideas into your head?"

Bertie—"Oh, I have often noticed that I can stand trouble better than she can."

SOME COMPOSITE PHOTOGRAPHS.

GREAT LUCK.

Good Fortune that Came by Chance and Business Sagacity.

One cannot help being struck with the important part the element of chance plays in the history of most men who acquire great fortunes.

It is peculiarly illustrated in the career of Thomas H. Williams, a California six millionaire. He went from Kentucky to the Pacific slope in 1849, and settled in Virginia city. As attorney for a mining company, he acquired a claim against it for $1,500 for services, and when the company failed he bid in its mine for the amount of his claim.

He moved to San Francisco, years rolled on, and the transaction had passed from his mind, when he was one day approached by a representative of Flood, Mackay & O'Brien, who offered him $100,000 for his long forgotten mine.

He was not a greenhorn and he at once refused the offer, as he did successive offers of $250,000 and $500,000. But when a member of the great firm came to see him with proffers of negotiation they were not rejected and the interview resulted in the firm's check for $6,000,000.

It was a great piece of luck, but the luck was supplemented by keen business sagacity.

In April, 1887, Charles W. Sprague, an orange grower at Chaseville, Fla., was laying in bed, suffering the "torments of the cursed," with disease of the kidneys, with which he had been troubled for two years. He had been under the treatment of an eminent physician but kept growing worse. One day when, as he says, "even hope itself had become inanimate" a casual acquaintance happened in and advised the trial of Warner's safe cure.

He hesitated, because it was a proprietary medicine, but the testimonials of its efficacy were so convincing, that, as a business man, he could not doubt the wisdom of trying it. The result was that May 20th, 1887, he wrote: "From the first dose I commenced to improve, and have now recovered my health."

Mr. Williams owes his large fortune and Mr. Sprague owes his life to chance, supplemented by good business judgment. It is no doubt true that fortune knocks at least once at the door of every man, but it is not every man, it seems, who has the good judgment to grasp opportunity by the forelock.

THE GERMAN POLICEMAN ON PROVERBS.

The German Policeman takes no stock in proverbs. He says that these so-called "truths in popular form" are most of them falsehoods. In all probability the truth is that he cannot understand a great many of them because they are idiomatic or purely figurative. What is the use of trying to get one who does not clearly understand the English tongue to appreciate such sentences as "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, or "A light heart lifts heavy loads?"

"Dot's all humbucks," says he; "der only ding to lift a heffy load mit is a Chon L. Sullivan muscle."

"Ach," says he, "'beauty is only shkin deep.' Bah, dat's anoder uf dem broverbs vich effery-poddy has got in his moult. I vas so mat I could haf hit him, if he hat been shsmaller as myself. Effer sinz I saw a bicture uf Mr. Holman uf Indiana I dought he inwended dot proverb. Chiminy Cracky! if such beauty vos more as shkin deep it vood kill him."—The German Policeman

JUDGE AND THE PLAY.

"Pete" is without doubt the most successful of Harrigan's plays.

"The Wife" is in the fourth month of its run and is still drawing big houses.

The "Corsair" company should end all this suspense and get married in a body. This getting wedded in sections and Hoboken is becoming harrowing.

"Texas Bender" is the suggestive title of an ambitious southern actor. It is said that when Mr. Bender lets himself loose something has to give way down south.

A strange sight met the eyes of a portion of the New York public the other afternoon. The theatres were just letting out after the Wednesday matinee. Among those noticed leaving the Academy of Music was Mlle. Sarah Bernhardt, escorted by a rather undersized gentleman of a foreign cast of countenance. The pair started up 14th street. Upon reaching the corner of 4th avenue Mlle. Bernhardt suddenly, without a word of explanation or apology, broke from her escort and ran wildly down the street. She did not take the sidewalk but rushed down the middle of the street in the most eccentric manner, running in a zigzag course from one curb to the other. The people stopped and stared in wonderment, while cabmen and truck drivers looked back and hurriedly drew their vehicles to one side allowing the strange mademoiselle to sweep along undeterred. Her escort madly tried to follow her, but Bernhardt's legs were too much for him, and he was soon left in the rear, a sad and half crazed man. Miss Bernhardt was at last stopped in her mad course by two gentlemen who ran out from the corner of 8th street and suddenly, without giving her opportunity to expostulate, grabbed her by each nostril and brought her to a realization of her surroundings. Bernhardt kicked considerably at the unceremonious manner in which she had been stopped, but after a little allowed the gentlemen to conduct her to a place of safety and out of the gaze of the immense crowd which had assembled. For a brief fifteen minutes excitement ran high on 4th avenue, and so did Bernhardt. It is proper to say that the Mlle. Bernhardt referred to was the camel which forms such a strong feature among the four-legged artistes now performing at the Academy.

JUDGE's recommendations for the current week—"The Corsair" at the Bijou, "Pete" at Harrigan's, "Heart of Hearts" at the Madison-square, "L'Abbe Constantin" at Wallack's, "A Run of Luck" at Niblo's, "The Wife" at the Lyceum, "Check 44" at the Star.

"Mazulm" is one of the best spectacles that the Kiralfys have given us. The ballets are exceptionally good and bewilderingly numerous, while the grotesque dancing of Arnold Kiralfy and the marvelous trapeze performances of the Vaidis sisters are two particularly important adjuncts to the pantomime.

WOMAN'S RELIEF.

"Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal," whether arising from physical, mental, or moral sources. The promises and consolations of the gospel furnish abundant remedies for all spiritual or mental woes, and the Creator has stored, in the kingdom of Nature, remedies for every physical ailment. For ages these remedies were allowed to lie dormant, through the ignorance of mankind as to their uses, and for ages more than little attention was given to remedies for the peculiar afflictions of woman, who was looked upon and treated as a slave by lordly, and then brutal man, and her suffering regarded with beastly indifference. In later times, science and Christian philanthropy have come to her relief, devising remedies for her peculiar weaknesses, which have been combined in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a remedy that cures the pains, aches, nausea, displacements, wasting and debilitating afflictions to which she is constantly exposed. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

A PURE COCOA.—The breakfast cocoa prepared by Messrs. W. Baker & Co., Dorchester, is generally recommended by physicians as the only fitting drink for the morning meal. This advice specially applies to invalids, for it tones the stomach and in many cases acts as meat and drink for the sick. The manufacturers warrant this cocoa absolutely pure, the excess of oil being properly and carefully removed. It is guaranteed to have three times the strength of ordinary cocoa, because the latter is invariably mixed with sugar or arrowroot, and for this reason Baker's Cocoa is the cheapest as well as the best. Baker's Cocoa is delicious, nourishing, strengthening and easily digested. It is for sale by all grocers in the United States.

Sohmer & Co., the great piano firm, can point with pride to the magnificent endorsement their instruments have received at the hands of the best native and foreign musical artists.

A prominent physician in Berlin, Germany, has just discovered that Catarrh can readily be cured by CARL L. JENSEN'S Crystal Pepsin Tablets, the famous Dyspepsia remedy. The discovery was accidental. Patients who simultaneously suffered from Dyspepsia and Catarrh were also cured from the latter complaints, thereby proving that perhaps most cases of catarrh are created by Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Good Things from Judge.

A HANDSOME 64-PAGE BOOK FROM THE JUDGE OFFICE.

OVER 200 ILLUSTRATIONS.

Pages same size as Judge.

New Ready.

Price, 25 Cents.

There is a period in every man and woman's life when pathos and tragedy as a steady diet become surfeiting, when one's thoughts turn from the funeral-baked meats and ready-made pastry of literature to the brighter and more effervescent morsels that now and then crop up to chase away the shadows and aid the mental digestion of mortal man, and to incidentally swell the exchequer of the fellow who helps them "crop." Recognizing that just at this time mental indigestion and literary biliousness are, like death and the last tax assessment, cutting a swath in the ranks of morality, the publishers have taken advantage of the moment to spring upon the public an antidote warranted to lighten up the atmosphere and effectually wipe out the disease. If you are afflicted and dying for a little fun and wholesome hilarity, if you are aching for a bit of light intellectual dissipation and a laugh, place your faith and 25 cents in "Good Things from Judge." It contains over 200 illustrations and a multitude of good things touching the humorous side of life.

It is clean and healthy, and is sold everywhere. Ask any newsdealer or train boy for it, or send 25 cents to

JUDGE AND ITS CARTOONS.

We expect an immense circulation for the JUDGE during the next year. With its humor, extravaganzas, admirable hits at the follies of nature and satires upon the foibles of society, its four pages of richly colored drawings, full of humor and sarcasm taking off the political follies of the time, it will make this a highly enjoyable publication in the coming political campaign.—Grand Haven (Mich.) Herald.

This week's JUDGE has a very funny cartoon representing the "cake walk for the Presidency." It is by Gillam and in his funniest vein. Mr. Cleveland leads off with Speaker Carlisle. They are followed by Mr. Blaine, who escorts Whitelaw Reid. Then come Ben Butler with Susan B. Anthony—and so down the list to Frank Hiscock, who is under the wing of Mr. John A. Schleicher of the Albany Evening Journal.—Troy Telegram.

The JUDGE is the best medicine in the market for dyspepsia and kindred ills. The cartoon in it this week, entitled "Opening the Campaign—Walking fur de Cake," in which the prominent politicians of both parties are represented in a grand masquerade march, is alone worth a whole year's subscription.—Bellows Falls (Vt.) Times.

The JUDGE portrays Grover Cleveland as a sort of Moses in the bullrushes in the act of being discovered by John Bull, who doubtless represents Pharaoh's daughter, and who hails the smiling babe as the one who will open America to his pauper labor. The picture is elegantly designed and executed, but is liable to shock pious people who object to a Pharaoh's daughter with patent-leather boots and side whiskers.—Hastings (Neb.) State Journal.

"GOOD THINGS FROM JUDGE."

Every reader of the JUDGE has laughed until his sides ache over the many funny sayings and ridiculous illustrations with which that publication abounds the year round. There are others who do not see the paper regularly, but will be interested in knowing that the second edition of "Good Things from JUDGE" is now ready for distribution. It consists of a collection of humorous, satirical and society pictures contributed by well known artists to JUDGE during the year, and compiled in one volume of about seventy pages. Write for a copy or get it of your newsdealer. You will not regret the small outlay—25 cents.—Cedar Springs (Mich.) Clipper.
