

Dear Sir,

We are under the painful necessity of informing you that, owing to a series of misfortunes during the last eighteen months, we find that we are no longer in a position to meet our engagements, and are accordingly obliged this day to suspend our payments.

As soon as your books have been balanced, we shall call a meeting of our creditors and lay before them a statement exhibiting our liabilities and the means we possess of meeting them. In the meantime we beg that you will suspend your judgment upon us, our embarrassments, as you will discover, having arisen solely from events which it was impossible to foresee, and over which we had no control.

We are,

Yours obediently,
