Subject: Fluid Milk Distributing Firms in the United States

Attached is a list of names of fluid milk distributors in the United States. Although it is not complete and up-to-date, it is sufficiently accurate so that it should serve a useful purpose in our Branch, especially in connection with FDO-79. To obtain an accurate list would require a noticeable amount of time, effort, and expenditure of funds.

The entire list contains the names and addresses of 16,412 fluid milk distributors and the average number of routes operated by these firms. The firms operate a total of 77,285 routes (wagons or trucks). See Table I.

Only a few of the producer-distributors are included; for the most part the names of these firms were not available.

It will be noted from Table II that the listings of firms are quite complete for the larger cities but very incomplete for the smaller cities which have a large proportion of producer-distributors. For example, the list shows distributors for only 4 out of 63 Alabama cities of the 1,000 to 2,500 population size. Dependable information was not available for the other 59 cities within this population range.

For the United States as a whole, this list gives names of milk distributors in 1,223 of these small cities, while in 1,883 cities of this size no names are listed. As the cities increase in size the listing of firms becomes much more complete. In the 5,000 to 25,000 population cities, 1,366 show listings of distributors and only 233 show no listings. In cities of 25,000 or over, only 14 show no listings out of a total of 405 cities in the United States of that size ( (a) 391 + (b) 14 = 405, Table II).

In checking the names of milk distributors which are known to exist in certain cities this list seems to be surprisingly accurate. That is, if a city is included in the list, all the dealer-distributors of that city are likely to be included.

1/ The individual firm has been considered a "dealer-distributor" unless followed by footnote 1 on the list, in which case it is presumed to be a "producer-distributor."

2/ Note that the class intervals are not identical throughout the entire distribution.

3/ In addition to the 16,412 firms listed, there are 3,093 firms, presumably "producer-distributors," in our file but not here listed and for which no information is available concerning the number of routes. It is presumed that most of these are firms with only 1 route (1 wagon or truck).
