

ANARCHY STILL HOLDS ITS SWAY

FURTHER BLOODSHED IN SOUTHERN RUSSIA

Mobs Continue Work of Slaughter at Odessa—Witte Has Difficulty in Forming Cabinet.

Odessa, Nov. 3.—12:42 p.m.—After a quiet night shooting began again to-day. The Red Cross is busy attending to the wounded.

To the present no Christian shops or homes have been touched. The principal hotels are full of the better class of Jews seeking refuge from the week's disorders.

There was a veritable reign of terror on October 31st. After the Emperor's manifesto, granting a constitution to Russia, had been published the Jews made the Russians furious with rage by making a prominent display with red flags, trampling on a portrait of the Emperor and tearing down the emblem of the crown.

Late in the afternoon there was firing in the outskirts of the town and the massacre of the Jews commenced and lasted during the night of November 1st.

All Jews found in the streets were severely beaten and many killed. Their shops were pillaged. The quarters of the poorer Jews on the outskirts were wrecked and plundered, the soldiers apparently looking on. Crowds of workmen, toadies, women and children, laden with all kinds of loot, walked openly through the streets quarrelling over the spoils.

Late that night patrols of soldiers and Cossacks restored some semblance of order. The pillaging was continued yesterday, and there was heavy firing all over the town. Nobody was safe in the streets. People carrying arms who were caught by the troops were shot at sight. Shatters of all houses were ordered to be closed, and people detected shooting from windows were shot.

The soldiers used machine guns to clear away the crowd from the vicinity of the port. In fact there was indiscriminate shooting everywhere in town.

Firing is still going on as this dispatch is filed. Trade is at a complete standstill. Provisions are still obtainable at greatly increased prices.

It is impossible to make a correct estimate of the number of killed and wounded. Similar serious reports reach Odessa from most of the other towns in southern Russia.

LETTER OF GREETING FROM THE KING

WILL BE PRESENTED TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Prince Louis is Bearer of Message—Visit of British Officers to Washington.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 3.—Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, Admiral Evans, the officers of the personal staff, the commanding officers of the six British armored cruisers, Rear-Admirals Davis and Brownson, with their flag lieutenant, and Capt. W. S. Cowles, commander of the Missouri, came up Annapolis harbor today on board the Yankeetown and were met at the boat landing by Admiral Sande. They drove to the Baltimore Hotel, Ohio station, leaving about 10 o'clock on a special train for Washington.

Entertainments Arranged. Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—A reception by President Roosevelt at the White House, a dinner at the British embassy and a reception and dance at the British embassy, are the features of today's programme for Prince Louis of Battenberg. The Prince will arrive here in a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad shortly before noon. He will be driven to the British embassy for luncheon, and in the afternoon will be received formally by President Roosevelt.

Officials of the United States government and Ambassador Durand are planning to do the Prince great honor on the occasion of his three days' visit here. While plans have been taken to give no official color to Prince Louis' visit to Washington, an impressive feature will be the presenting by the Prince of a friendly letter of greeting from King Edward to President Roosevelt.

The Prince's suite will be included in the reception at the White House at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It is probable that a drive to some point of interest in the city will be made. The dinner at the White House will be a brilliant affair, and for the reception and dance, which will follow several hundred invitations have been issued.

The first formal entertainment on Saturday at 4 o'clock when the Prince will become the guest of the army. His host will be Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee, chief of staff. The trip to Port Meyer for the cavalry Col. Hatfield will follow. Then will be the brilliant dinner at the White House in the evening. As guest of the state department, the Prince will be driven to Mount Vernon Sunday.

On Monday morning, Admiral Evans will escort the Prince back to Annapolis. Arrived in Washington. Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—Prince Louis arrived here at 11:30 a. m.

NAVAL POLICY OF GREAT BRITAIN

IMPORTANT STATEMENT BY PRINCE LOUIS

Explains Reasons for Recent Changes—Necessity for Concentration—The Closing of Dockyards.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, commander of the second cruiser squadron which recently visited a number of Canadian ports, was entertained at a banquet at St. John, N. B., on October 29th, and during the evening made an important statement regarding the naval policy of Great Britain. His speech, which was reported in full by the Halifax press, was as follows:

"When I return to England at the end of my period of command, I hope to have the opportunity of giving His Majesty an account of my non-ordinary tour in the different parts of the Dominion of Canada, both from here and from the other cities which I have visited, and from all of which I have been requested to carry to His Majesty messages of studying loyalty. This, my visit to this important seaport town, marks the end of what has been to me, and to the officers and men under my command, a most enjoyable and interesting visit—a great visit, I may say. My visit is indirectly caused by what some people describe as a violent change in the naval policy. The dockyard at Halifax has been closed and the same policy has been pursued on both sides of the Dominion of Canada as well as in the West Indies; and

We have benefited by it. If you will give me your attention for a few minutes, I should very much like to have this opportunity (probably the last time I shall be in a position of address) to explain to you the reasons for this change. I should like to show you that instead of having to deal with a sudden change of policy, it is the nature of a natural evolution brought about by a great many factors, including the progress of naval science and lessons learned elsewhere.

THE QUESTION OF TARIFF REVISION

MAY BE DEALT WITH DURING NEXT SESSION

Bill to Repeal Law Providing for Pensions for Retiring Ministers May Be Introduced.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The tariff commission sits at Montreal on November 7th and 8th. The ministers will be in Ottawa on November 9th, the King's birthday, to attend state dinner. The commission will go to Toronto the following week.

Ministers' Pensions. Next session of parliament will in all probabilities see the repeal of the law which gives a pension to retiring ministers of the cabinet. That is the general opinion here. Although the government view is not obtainable, one minister of the crown stated, to your correspondent that the matter was one for parliament to deal with.

Americans Vainly Endeavored to Escape From Mob of Enraged Natives—Hospital and School Burned.

Hongkong, Nov. 3.—Bishop Meiel, of the Catholic church, has received a letter confirming the news of the massacre of American missionaries at Linchow and giving the following particulars:

Dr. Machie requested the removal of a street theatre near the hospital on account of the noise. This request incensed the Chinese who, becoming violent, attacked the hospital. The mob then paraded the street exhibiting the skeleton used on the instruction of the medical class, and alleging that it was an example of the foreigners' inhumanity to the Chinese people.

A NEW TRAFFIC ROUTE FOR C. P. R.

TO REACH COAST BY YELLOW HEAD PASS

It is Reported That Main-Line For Freight Trade Has Been Settled Upon.

Advices from Winnipeg are to the effect that the C. P. R. is pushing construction of their line to Edmonton, and that the policy is to continue the line thence to the Pacific.

The present main line of the C. P. R. through British Columbia, while recognized as one of the most interesting roads in the world from a scenic standpoint, is always pointed out by engineers as in no way lending itself to competitive freight traffic.

These grades on the line are too great, and it has been recognized that with the greater development of the trans-Pacific trade the C. P. R. would have to seek a better route for the carrying of freight.

It would appear now as if the company is about to adopt the northern route formerly surveyed by way of the Yellow Head Pass. Prompted by a feeling of rivalry, due to the construction of the Canada Northern and the projection of the Grand Trunk Pacific into the northern part of the Northwest and British Columbia, the C. P. R. has prepared to meet the competition.

Charters have been acquired by the C. P. R. by which a most direct route is provided from Winnipeg to Edmonton. The road is almost as the crow flies, passing through Saskatchewan on route, West to Bate Inlet or Knight Inlet, and thence to Vancouver Island. An easy way is thus provided, the only part remaining to be surveyed being that section along Bate Inlet, if it is selected.

The latter route contemplates the bridging of Seymour Narrows, with the ocean port either on the west coast of Vancouver Island, near the northern end, or at Victoria, which can be reached by the E. & N. line extended to the northern part of the Island.

On the other hand, should the obstacles along Bate Inlet be found too great to warrant railway construction, the line, it is generally supposed, would be deflected somewhat so as to come out on Knight Inlet. From that point a ferry route has been proposed, which is all that could be desired. It is not long, and after being examined by practical railway men has been pronounced as ideal for the purpose, being amply sheltered.

It will therefore be no surprise if what will become really the mainline of the C. P. R. by way of Edmonton and the Yellow Head Pass to Vancouver Island is pushed forward without delay.

Emperor of Japan Entertained Diplomats at Tokio.

Honolulu, Nov. 3.—At a banquet given in honor of his birthday today, the Emperor expressed his satisfaction at the restoration of peace and toward the erigents and victors of the countries represented at his court.

Baron Daresbourg, the Belgian minister and head of the diplomatic corps, replied to the toast. In the course of his remarks he said: "The entire world expressed joy and a feeling of genuine relief at the news of the complete end of the war and applauded the peace which was inspired by the loftiest sentiments of humanity and adds such a beautiful page to the glorious history of His Majesty's reign."

DEAD AND WOUNDED NUMBER THOUSANDS

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER REPORTED FROM ODESSA

After Days of Terrorism City Has Been Placed Under Martial Law—Cossocks Lose Heavily.

London, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to the Evening Standard from Odessa dated 2.30 p. m. says: "The city rings with the reports of rifles and revolvers, and occasionally a volley is heard. Every house and tenement is bolted and barricaded. Patrols are doing their duty peacefully, declining to fire on the mob unless they themselves are attacked. The Cossocks themselves are said to have lost over a hundred men by bombs and shots from windows. Cossock patrols carry carbines and have their fingers on the triggers. The streets are absolutely unsafe for civilians. The casualties yesterday are believed to have been 5,000 killed and wounded."

"In the Jewish quarter the bodies still strew the streets and sidewalks. Jewish women and children were strangled and hacked to pieces in the streets. The military are now placing a hundred machine guns at various points. Gen. Kaulbars was called to the balcony of the palace this morning by 5,000 loyalists. He earnestly entreated them to desist and go home, but with ringing cheers they resumed marching through the city. The sound of firing is again moving westward towards the Jewish quarters. The mob swear they will not leave a single Jew alive."

A dispatch from a news agency from Odessa says that martial law was declared there this afternoon. The whole garrison has turned out and now occupies the city. The police control has also been re-established. All citizens are forbidden to leave their homes after 9 p. m., at which hour all lights must be out. Maxim guns have been placed in positions commanding a hundred streets. Under these conditions, the dispatch says, a repetition of the fearful scenes is practically impossible. The peace-loving people are overjoyed at the prospect of witnessing the restoration of order and property. The military has now adopted drastic measures to force the disorderly mobs to return to their homes. Loyalists Disturbed.

London, Nov. 3.—The Standard's correspondent at Odessa says: "Within three hours of the declaration of martial law, which came to the unspeakable relief of peaceable citizens, no fewer than 5,000 Russian loyalists had been disarmed by the agents and the military. "How some 50,000 rosy-beretted became disarmed, and a number of cartridges is another question. The declaration of martial law is welcomed after the terrorism of the last few days." Gen. Kaulbars says the correspondent told me to-day that he had done his best with the inadequate force at his disposal. He was unable to guarantee the safety of individuals and foreigners he especially advised to keep within doors.

Situation in Capital. St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—A dreaching downpour of rain today was a more effective means of preventing a renewal of the demonstrations than the police and military patrols. The crowds had no desire to appear on the streets in the torrents of rain. The police having arrested three members of the strike committee, the committee sent a deputation to Count Witte, upon whose request Gen. Treppoff ordered their release. It is now definitely established that the whole movement is practically conducted by a student organization which belongs to the social-democratic party. Much of the work has been directed from the headquarters at Berlin and Geneva. The organization includes students throughout Russia, and they are acting in harmony with the leader here, who has displayed remarkable genius as an organizer and director. He is a young man of 23 and an exceedingly clever student.

The socialists and revolutionaries who believe they have the government swamped, are bending their efforts to precipitate its catastrophe, from which they hope a social republic will emerge. Count Witte is doing his utmost to meet the chief objections against the new regime. In addition to the promised amnesty for political prisoners, liberty of the press has been granted. Count Witte offered to a deputation of editors who called on him to demand the abolition of censorship-regulation. The amusing explanation that in the hurry of writing the manifesto the words "liberty of the press" were inadvertently omitted and that the omission had not been noticed until the complaint was made. The official Gazette formally announces that the term "liberty of speech" is to be interpreted as including the press. Against the demand for the removal of General Treppoff, however, Count Witte is inflexible. He informed a delegation of the strike committee which called on him to-day to demand the release of their imprisoned comrades and the removal of Gen. Treppoff that if they were maddest for him to dismiss the only man capable of maintaining order in the city. The printers have determined to work only for the journals which refused to submit themselves to the censorship regulations. The Publishers' Association have met this determination by resolving to disregard hereafter all circulars issued by the censor and to print what they please. The council of the workmen's delegates at midnight issued a notice pointing out the necessity for arming workmen for a decisive struggle for the conclusion of a constituent assembly based on universal suffrage, with a view to the formation of a democratic republic.

The council decided to suspend the political strike at noon to-day, but on the condition that it be resumed if their demands were not granted. The railwaymen's union, however, has decided to continue the strike, mainly through a desire to prevent the transport of troops to Finland. The union of unions has resolved to demand complete amnesty for political prisoners, the immediate withdrawal of troops from St. Petersburg, and their replacement by militia drawn from the people. The proceedings of the workmen's council daily appear in a secretly published newspaper, which to-day contains an article saying: "Freedom of meeting, but the meeting surrounded by troops; freedom of speech, but the censorship remains; freedom of learning, but the university occupied by troops; inviolability of persons, but the prisons full; Witte given, but Treppoff remains; constitution given, but autocracy remains; all given, nothing given."

Manifesto Criticized. St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—The imperial decree creating the cabinet ministers under the imperial manifesto granting a constitution to Russia was greeted this morning and has already aroused criticism as the machinery is extremely complicated and smacks of the old-fashioned bureaucratic regime. The relations of the cabinet to the council of the empire or upper chamber and the imperial duma or popular chamber are not clear because the powers of these bodies are yet to be defined under the manifesto. Two features are especially unsatisfactory. While the cabinet has authority to decide matters within the competency of legislative bodies, no measure of general importance can be introduced into the chambers without the sanction of the cabinet. Another provision requires that when the cabinet is unanimous the premier must go to the Emperor and receive instructions. This would seem to make the final authority go back to His Majesty. Moreover, all questions affecting the imperial court and domains, the army and navy, and foreign affairs are specifically excluded from the competency of the cabinet without direct imperial authority. By implication the great questions in which the nation is vitally interested are also outside the competency of the legislature and therefore are bound to prove unsatisfactory to the representatives.

Nothing is said in the decree about the premier or ministers being responsible to the national assembly or responsible to any body outside the competency of the cabinet, but care is taken to consolidate the power in the hands of the premier, or as he is termed, "president of the cabinet," and especially to prevent any individual minister going to the Emperor with a report without previously submitting it to the premier. Should the latter not approve of a report he has the privilege of being present when the minister presents it to His Majesty and stating his objections. This provision is designed to put an end to the practice of the minister undermining another, which has been one of the most vicious features of the old regime and the cause of unbridled confusion. CHORUS GIRL'S DEATH. Man Confesses That He Assisted in Disposing of Body of Susan Geary. New York, Nov. 2.—Two men are under arrest here charged with homicide in connection with the Winthrop dress suit case mystery. One of the men is said to have confessed that he and his comrade are the ones who took the body from the house in Boston and threw it into the river. His comrade denies that he knows anything about the case. Chief Inspector Waite of Boston is on his way here with witnesses who say they saw the men throw the body from a ferry boat.

In the arrest of the two men the police declare that the solution of the mystery will be reached and that the person primarily responsible for the death of Susan Geary, the chorus girl of the "Shepherd King" company, will soon be in the toils. Howard, one of the men, who has an alias of Hume, is 36 years old. He says he is an engineer by occupation. Crawford, the other, is a theatrical agent. Howard, the police say, as soon as he was placed under arrest told a complete story of the disposition of the body. Crawford for some time has been engaged in managing what the police say is a dingy hospital conducted by his mother-in-law, Dr. Jane Bishop, at 178 Brown street, Boston. On September 18th last, two days before the dismembered body of Susan Geary was found, Howard called at Dr. Bishop's place to see Crawford. Howard said he needed money. Crawford said: "I have got a chance to let you make a good piece of money, only you want to be mighty careful and keep your mouth shut. One of our patients is dead and we have to get rid of the body, but without delay." Then he went on to tell Howard, according to the confession, that a girl had died from the effects of an operation. He explained in detail what was required—to remove the remains to some spot where they would not be discovered for some time. "How much is there in it?" Howard says he asked. "One hundred dollars," answered Crawford, and immediately Howard says they closed the deal. They made an appointment to meet at the dingy hospital the following morning.

and Howard put in an appearance. Crawford kept Howard there all that day, and when night came the two made ready to start. Crawford handed Howard a small hand satchel, the latter says, while Crawford himself carried a dress suit case. Howard was told what was in the bag and the satchel, but was assured that no suspicion would be attracted. Then they started for the East Boston ferry at the foot of State street. When they boarded the ferry boat, however, no favorable opportunity presented itself for them to throw the satchel and suit case overboard. On reaching East Boston they went ashore and boarded a trolley, riding as far as Orient Heights and return. Upon reaching the ferry house there were four persons in the vicinity, and while this craft was well out in the stream Crawford said "Let her go," and Howard dropped the satchel which contained the head of the dead girl, while Crawford dropped over the stern the suit case containing the limbs. Howard thought the job was done, but Crawford told him that there was another portion of the body yet to be disposed of, and straightway they went to the Tremont street hospital and got another suit case, much heavier than the first, which Crawford carried on the fire-trip. They boarded the Chelsea ferry, and when nobody was looking threw the suit case into the river. Before they parted Howard got $60, he says, Crawford telling him that he would pay the other $40 the next day. Howard says that he got $300 from Crawford, saying that he had not taken in much at the hospital. Two days later Howard was started when he heard newspapers talking about the gruesome find of a dismembered body in a dress suit case, and immediately he went to the hospital and told Crawford that he was scared and wanted to leave town. Crawford gave him some more money, he says, and told him that he intended to get out, very much that he would accompany him to New York. So the following morning, September 22nd, they boarded a train and came to this city.

MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR. County Prosecutor's Theory Regarding the Death of a College Student. Mount Vernon, Ohio, Nov. 2.—Buried beneath a culvert 200 feet from the spot where Stuart Pierson, the Kenyon college student, was ground to death by a train, the authorities have found three pieces of blood stained rope and a wad of absorbent cotton, also saturated with blood. County Prosecutor Stillwell believes the boy was chloroformed, as the cotton was bound across his face, and that then he was led across the tracks as a part of his initiation into a college fraternity. The authorities believe that the cotton was removed later and the boy left strangled. On these grounds the prosecutor will carry the case to the grand jury on November 13th.

Ald. Hanna Accuses Ald. Fell of Raising
Gambling Question For Cam-

A little spice was injected into the meeting of the city council last evening by Ald. Hanna, who made a polite demand on Ald. Fell that he apologize to the council for his remarks on the China-

night council meeting.

Ald. Fell did not apologize.

It was just before the council adjourned that Ald. Hanna got the floor and said:
"We were all treated to a dissertation on gambling in Chinatown by Ald. Fell can all guess why such a story was put out just at this time. Evidently to injure the chances of certain citizens with the church people at the coming

an effort was made to keep the white people away. I do not think I would be doing my duty if I allowed a city official to be brought into such notice. I think that Ald. Fell ought to explain his remarks and that he owes an apology for making them."

Ald. Fell: "All I have to say is that the chief of police is a personal friend of mine and I would be the last person to do him an injury."

A deputation made up of the representatives of the Victoria Transfer Co., headed by Anton Henderson, and Chief Watson, of the fire department, waited on the council in regard to the horse belonging to the company which had been injured while in the city's service.

Mr. Henderson said that the horse was perfectly sound when loaned to the fire department last December, but that when it was returned in January that the horse had a bad cut on one of his hind legs that for 42 days the horse was under the veterinary surgeon's care, and could not be used, and that the horse was injured by getting his leg fastened in a chain at the back of the stall.

A bill of $12 had been paid for the days in which the horse had been laid up. The city held up payment on this bill. Chief Watson, however, said that the horse had been injured while in the service of the city, and that the bill was reasonable. The bill was ordered paid.

One of the important communications to come before the council was a telegram from Ottawa saying that work could be commenced at once on the Rock Bay bridge, and that the contract for same could be drawn up.

S. M. Tuck and others wrote to ask the council what had been done with the matter of fixing the drain on Burdette avenue, and the cinder walk on Blanchard street. City Engineer Topp reported he had investigated the matter and found that it necessitated quite an expenditure of money in making cuts, etc., for the drain, but the cinder walk would be repaired. The matter was laid over until next meeting.

F. C. Gamble, Dominion government engineer, wrote to the council asking what authority the city had for removing gravel from the foreshore within the city limits. The matter was referred to the city solicitor for report.

D. K. Chunggrass made a request for a permanent sidewalk on Broughton street and the same was granted.

T. J. Evans wrote to the council stating that the fence in front of his property on Williams street, in Victoria West, had been moved in as advised by city surveyor, and that now he desired
the promised sidewalk. Said Mr. Evans:
"I have moved my fence in to within four inches of the property line, and it is impossible to move it in more without injuring the trees. If you refuse to give me a sidewalk under these conditions I shall continue to walk in the mud."

Ald. Fullerton: "That is a bad place, and I move the walk be laid." Ald. Hanna: "I would like to see the walk put down, but have we the money to do it?"

Mayor Barnard: "We surely have $90, which I understand is the cost." Ald. Fullerton: "He surely needs the walk. The mud is about nine inches deep there."

The walk was ordered laid.

Messrs. Pemberton & Sons wrote to say that the city could lay the sewer through their property provided places were left every 100 feet for connections, and the property was left in good shape.
The offer was accepted and the city solicitor instructed to prepare an agreement.

Ald. Oddy inquired if a request for a sewer on Powell street had been made.
City Engineer Topp replied that he expected a request in a few days.

Ald. Hall inquired when work would be commenced on the new sewer.

Mayor Barnard replied that active work would be commenced within the next few days.

The sewer question being up, Ald. Fullerton made a few remarks concerning workmen. He said in part: "There is a general complaint among the laboring classes of the city that they are not given a fair chance on the city work. I think we ought to see to it that the married men, especially of the city, should have work. We should take care of them first, then the single men. It ought not to be said that outsiders could come in and get jobs which belong to our own laboring people. This new sewer is to be commenced now, and we ought to take care of the town men."

Mayor Barnard: "It is up to the foreman to employ the men. We can do nothing to force the labor market, but we can't dictate who they shall hire. I don't believe there are very many cases where city men have been refused work and outsiders brought in."

Ald. Fullerton: "I have heard of several complaints on this score."
Mayor Barnard: "It sometimes happens that the foremen have regular gangs whom he gets accustomed to, and he knows he can depend on them. Maybe some of the complaints come from men who want an easy job."

Ald. Fullerton: "I think we ought to instruct the city engineer to do all he can to have city men favored."

Mayor Barnard: "The new sewer will take about all the laboring men in the city, and I don't believe there will be any complaint."

It was reported by the city engineer
that an open drain on Lansdowne road needed fixing, and that $50 would cover the necessary repairs. It was ordered fixed.

Mayor Barnard called the attention of the members to the street sprinkling proposition, and said something ought to be done. That if the city was to take up the offer of the city railway in this matter several weeks to be taken, as it would take several weeks to build a car
for sprinkling purposes.

City Engineer Topp now got the floor,
and modestly made a request for a horse and carriage. Said Mr. Topp: "I really need a horse and carriage so that I may get around over the city. The new sewer is to be commenced in a day or two, and with that and other city matters to attend to the city ought to have a conveyance to facilitate matters. It has averaged at least $30 per month for horse hire for the department, and to buy a horse and carriage would be a saving proposition to the city."

Mayor Barnard: "How much will it cost?"

Mr. Topp: "To get a good outfit we will probably have to pay $250."

Ald. Hanna: "I move that $250 be set aside to purchase a horse and carriage for the city engineer."

Mayor Barnard: "That may be a good idea. Maybe if the city engineer gets a chance to ride over the streets the streets
will be fixed up better."

The council decided to buy the horse and carriage.

After a few remarks by Ald. Hanna regarding Chinese gambling and a short reply by Ald. Fell, the council adjourned.

PLEASED WITH INTERIOR.

A. A. Arthur, Who Is Financing the Midway & Vernon, Examined Country.

A dispatch from Phoenix says that Alexander A. Arthur, of New York, after spending several days in the Boundary, left there Monday for the east, being more than pleased with his first visit to this section of British Columbia, and intending to return at no distant date.

Mr. Arthur has taken in hand the financing of the new Midway & Vernon railway. The bonds for the construction of the road have been underwritten by English, French and German capitalists, to the extent of $4,500,000, or at the rate of $30,000 per mile, through Mr. Arthur, who came out to see the country for himself, bringing eminent technical men with him to report on the potentialities of the territory through which the railway will be built. While the reports have not yet been made public, it is known that they are very favorable, both from a mineral and agricultural point of view, as the line will pass through the well mineralized west fork of Kettle river valley and emerge into and through a large part of the richly endowed Okanagan country.

In fact, Mr. Arthur stated that bids for the entire construction of the line were now in at his New York office, and the contract would be awarded on his return to that city. At present only ten miles of the line, out of Midway, are under construction, in order to get the actual work under way, this work being done by McLean Bros., of Vancouver.
But the entire contract will be let this fall.

To build the line a construction company was organized entitled the Okanagan Construction Co., the officers of which are Frederick M. Allen, of New York, president; A. A. Allen, New York, vice-president, and A. E. Best,
New York, secretary and treasurer.

The road is being built for and will be operated by the Midway & Vernon Co., with a capital of $1,000,000, and having the following officers: President, John Cain, New York; vice-president, Charles
S. Stule, Pittsburg; general manager,
A. E. Best, New York; secretary-treasurer, H. H. McDonald, Victoria; other directors being L. S. Cook, Pittsburg, and Ralph Smiles and Robert Wood,
Greenwood, B. C.

Asked as to what connection the Midway & Vernon will have with other railways, Mr. Arthur stated, emphatically, that it was entirely independent of any and all other lines in this section, and would be so operated. In fact, the capital for its construction comes entirely
"outside of Wall street, where most western railways secure capital. The road will, however, doubtless arrange for interchange of traffic with other railways with which it connects."

The work of construction is under the immediate supervision of Chief Engineer A. T. T. Leckie, a gentleman who is highly competent in his line, having been engineer in charge of the great railway tunnel under the city of Baltimore, and having had a wide experience in railway work. Mr. Leckie now has sixteen men in the field surveying, are route, and making the final location of the same. The preliminary surveys were made some time ago.

Among the original promoters of the Midway & Vernon are Ralph Smiles, Robert Wood, Christopher Wood, Francis Metcalfe, James Kerr, Robert Kerr, all of Greenwood, and Charles Wilson, of Victoria. The road has been subsidized by Dominion and provincial governments for about $11,500 per mile.

It is stated on good authority that Emperor Francis Joseph has decided to grant universal suffrage to Austria and has instructed the premier, Baron von Frankhurn, to draft a measure on a comprehensive basis.

The Norwegian storting, by a vote of 87 to 29, has adopted the proposition of the government that it will be endowed with full power to negotiate with Prince Charles of Denmark for his acceptance of the crown of Norway, with the understanding that the wishes of the people be consulted in the form of a referendum.

THE NOSE KNOWS.

He who smells woods' smoke at twilight
knows the glamor of the wild, Understands its fascinations—how its lovers are beguiled.

He who sniffs the scents of Autumn and
the fragrance of the pine, Feels primeval wildness in him—but another song is mine:—

Winding down the rugged mountain with a deer, my guide and I, Hardly knowing where our camp is, toiling
on with grunt and sigh, Hold! what savor floats to meet us, borne
upon the evening breeze, Sweeter than the spice of hemlocks, or the balm of good, green trees?

'Tis a savor from the tropics, from the gurgling, hissing spout
Of the camp cook's pot of coffee, panting
now to be poured out.

Whiff! The load we bear seems lighter.
Whiff! That's sweeter than the rose!

No more need of eyes nor compass—move your feet and chase your nose.

'Tis a day of sport well ended, when a chap can take his ease
With his cup of CHASE & SANBORN'S
and his supper on his knees.

A meeting of members of the Fernwood Young Men's Association was held last evening when the basketball situation was discussed. Business being concluded a general practice was indulged in last year's players performing in first-class form.

Last evening about 6 o'clock some men entered the house of Napier Denison and got as far as the front hall, when the sudden appearance of a young lady from up stairs seemed to give him a great surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Denison were not at home at the time.

E. R. Blackwood, for many years in the railway and steamboat business of this city, has returned to Victoria after a season spent in the north, and yesterday succeeded C. E. Lang in the management of the local office of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, the latter as previously reported having been transferred to Vancouver. Mr. Blackwood has two assistants, H. W. Lang, son of the former agent, who will look after the ticket department, and F. Doney, who will be freight clerk.

In the garden rooms of I. Eaton & Co. are some of the crops of potatoes taken off the same ground. They were grown on the Fairfield road by G. Bagshawe, and bear evidence to the equitable climate of this district. A plot ten feet square was planted in February. The crop was taken out of the ground in June. About July 1st the plot was again planted, and has now yielded its returns. There was gathered from the two seedlings 125 pounds, which is at the rate of over 100 bushels an acre.

The new boot and shoe store at 35 Johnson street will be opened to-morrow under the proprietorship of Messrs. McCausland Bros. & Cathcart. The store has been largely stocked, the last consignment having arrived yesterday, and as the supply of goods is new, patrons can rely upon the fact that they will be buying nothing but up-to-date wear. William Cathcart and his assistant, George Fish, are to-day getting everything in readiness for the opening to-morrow, and they invite the public to inspect the large stock they have on hand.

The three bounding Gordons, Danny Mann and Lola Haines, in the beautiful little rural playette "Mandy Haxford," Woods and Woods in a novel light wire act, Walter Perry in song and amusing monologue, "The Silent Violin," and an interesting line of moving pictures make up a programme at the Grand that no opposition has been able to effect, as the house has been crowded all week. Tomorrow afternoon there will be two matinees, beginning at 2:30, at which only five cents will be charged for children, to whom several of the acts, particularly that of the bounding Gordons, will prove most interesting.

A new three-story building on Government street has recently been completed for two Chinese societies. One of these is the local branch of the Chinese Reform Association, which has the distinction of being the first branch of the organization. The other half of the building is to be occupied by the Lung Kong King Shan, a Chinese secret society. The latter is now preparing to occupy the quarters and opening ceremonies are now in progress. To-morrow at 12 o'clock noon the formal opening will take place, followed by a grand banquet. Both divisions of the building are fitted up as stores on the ground floor. The Reform Association will devote their section to club purposes and assembling rooms for the meeting.

The question of opening the new mission on Yates street was brought up at the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon. In the absence of the president Mrs. Gleason occupied the chair. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements, and it was decided that the opening should be marked by a reception in the afternoon and an entertainment in the evening, when a number of the local clergy will be asked to give addresses. The W. C. T. U. temperance service celebrated throughout the week will be held in Victoria at the Metropolitan Methodist church on November 26th. Another subject of discussion at yesterday's meeting was the proposal to hold an entertainment in the near future which will be under the direction of Miss Underhill.

Business is very quiet in police circles. In court this morning Garfield Johnson, charged with vagrancy, was the only offender before His Honor. His case was continued until to-morrow, and in the meantime he was allowed to go on his own recognizance. It is barely possible that he may choose to shake the dust of Victoria from his feet and not show up in court Saturday. Two other men, who registered under the name of Kirby and Loney, were allowed to go on their own recognizance yesterday, and they failed to show up this morning. It is probably they have left town. The only arrest made this morning was that of Michael McEllan, who is charged with assaulting and obstructing one Florence McLellan by name, who has been accustomed to living with Michael and in other ways showing her affection for him. The assault occurred about ten days ago, but as O'Toole's firmness on the Princess May, it was possible to get him until the best returned, when the warrant was served.

ADDRESS ON THE CARE OF TREES

TIMELY SPEECH BY THE LIEUT. GOVERNOR

An Interesting Entertainment Given in Schoolroom of Christ Church Cathedral Last Evening.

There was a good attendance in the schoolroom of Christ Church cathedral last evening to hear the address of His Honor Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, on the "Care of Trees," and the splendid programme of music which was given in connection with the lecture.

His Honor in introducing the subject referred to the wanton destruction of trees. On every hand was seen the results of bad pruning of the forest trees.

A very complete set of examples showed the effects of good pruning and of careless methods. These were taken from the trees in such a way as to show plainly the effect of the pruning which had been done.

He advised the cutting off of limbs which might prove objectionable before they reached such a size as to endanger the life of the tree in removing.

An excellent musical programme was given during the evening. A vocal trio by Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. Roger and Miss Mainwaring Johnson was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Harry Pooley's rendering of "I Know a Lovely Garden" was encored, this popular vocalist responding with "Open Thy Blue Eyes."

The latest theory in regard to seasickness is that it is a nervous trouble which can be cured by a new dosage of a certain of the one of the eyes, or by simply putting a bandage over one eye.

Sporting rifles of a special kind were expressly made for the personal use of the Prince of Wales and his immediate suite when touring the game lands of India during the winter.

A statistician affirms that the majority of people who attain old age have kept late hours. Eight out of ten who reach the age of eighty have never gone to bed until after 12 o'clock.

The prodigality with which the sun dispenses heat and the possibilities which arise from this prodigality have found the subject of an address delivered in London by the great astronomer, Sir Robert Ball.

He could not escape from the operation of the simple rule, he said, that as it gave out heat the sun's body must get smaller. What the sun would become in the future he could not say, but if one could go to the sun with a measure he would find it had shrunk sixteen inches in twenty-four hours.

Ten million years ago the sun was nearly a million times larger than at present, and the simple principle that a red hot poker is a trifle larger than when cold must also apply to the sun.

The most important question regarding the sun, he said, is the manner in which its heat is kept up. Supposing every particle of coal were taken from the earth and poured into the sun, how long would it keep that going.

It is a scientific truth, the lecturer declared, that the entire coal supply of the world would not give the sun's heat for more than the ten thousandth part of a single moment of time.

This prodigality of heat cannot be kept up by combustion, there must be some tremendous force of energy. That is, however, an idea which is assuming a clearer and more definite shape, which gives proof how the sun's heat is kept up.

The sun, it was said, by the mere fact of attraction of its particles, gives us as much heat as could be got from burning 5,000 globes of coal. When this calculation is worked out, and it is remembered that it is not only to the earth that the sun gives heat, it shows that the sun might be kept going for 24,000,000 years.

A conclusion was made that the creation of the sun's energy has been due to radium. If radium was in the sun, as it was in the bulk of earth, then instead of a penny 24,000,000 years of life allowed to the sun it would be 1,000,000,000 years.

As mentioned in these columns yesterday, it is probable that a senior fifteen will have to journey to Vancouver on the 23rd inst. for the purpose of meeting the Terminal City stars in the opening match of the season.

The intermediate and juniors may have to form teams for the same purpose. Therefore all who wish to secure places on one of the teams must attend practice. None but those who take advantage of every opportunity to train will be chosen.

HANDBALL. INTER-CLUB TOURNEY. An inter-club handball tournament has been arranged by a number of enthusiasts.

They contend that it could be made a success under the prevailing conditions, and that the result would be the stimulation of the interest taken in that fascinating game by local athletes.

There are, it is said, no less than four separate organizations which might be expected to participate in such a competition, namely, the J. B. A. A., F. Y. M. A., Y. M. C. A. and the Garrison.

There is little doubt about the three former clubs. Their members have been playing for several seasons and are sufficiently expert to make a close race for the premier places.

As for the soldiers, they are known to have some first-class players who would be glad of an opportunity to try conclusion with the civilians.

Should the project be carried any further an invitation will be extended to the Garrison as well as the clubs mentioned.

But it is doubtful if such a tournament can be started at the present time. It is yet early, and the various associations must at least be given sufficient time to allow their members to get in shape.

Later on, when club tournaments have been held and all players are at their best, those desirous of organizing an inter-club tournament might broach the subject with much more chance of success than at present.

In fact there is reason to believe that the scheme will be taken up with some enthusiasm before the conclusion of the present season.

HOCKEY. GAME TO-DAY. A match is in progress this afternoon between the South Park and Victoria College teams. It is taking place at Oak Bay grounds, having commenced at 3 o'clock.

PRACTICE TO-MORROW. Members of the Victoria club will hold a practice to-morrow afternoon at Oak Bay grounds. For the purpose of giving all concerned as good a training as possible, arrangements have been made for a friendly match between the best eleven, which played at Nanaimo, and a team captained by B. Tye and composed of seniors and intermediates. Play will commence at 3 o'clock, and a first-class contest is anticipated.

A CHALLENGE. The secretary of the Victoria hockey club has received a communication from Nanaimo asking for a match at some early date. The challenge has been accepted, and the locals will meet Nanaimo as soon as convenient.

In the meantime they are training assiduously and should be in the best of form when called upon to try conclusions with the Cool City representatives.

THE WORK ON GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

SPECIAL ATTENTION PAID TO THE GRADIENTS

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson Refers to Western Terminus—Important Contracts Have Been Awarded.

The half yearly general meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada was held at the Cannon Street Hotel, London, on October 12th, Sir C. Rivers-Wilson presiding.

The chairman in moving the adoption of the report said that a retrospect of the company's operations during the six months under review offered a very pleasing contrast with that of the corresponding period of 1904. They had entirely recovered from the setback which was experienced at that time, and he thought he might satisfactorily say that the results of the current year would in all probability be quite as good, if not better, than those in their most favored year of 1903.

After referring to the accounts of the company for the past half year, the chairman turned to the subject of the Grand Trunk Pacific undertaking and said: "Day by day as the records of the rapid development of the Northwest provinces of Canada were published, he felt more and more convinced of

The sound judgment exercised by the stockholders when they determined to support the policy of extending the company's operations into that fertile country."

He then read an extract from a recent speech made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier as to the promising prospects of the western portion of Canada, and continuing said that it was his hope that the results of the current year would in all probability be quite as good, if not better, than those in their most favored year of 1903.

When the question of this new undertaking was first brought before them it was anticipated that the distance to be traveled from New Brunswick to the Pacific would be 3,400 miles, and it was thought at the time that the eastern portion from Winnipeg to the Atlantic, which would be constructed by the Canadian government, would be about 1,500 miles. The surveys which had been made and which were still in progress led to the conclusion that the probable distance of the eastern portion would not be greater than 1,800 miles. On the other hand, the prolonged and careful surveys made of the western portion, this company's portion, from Winnipeg to the Pacific, seemed to show that

The Original Estimate of 1,500 miles would very likely be extended by 250 miles. The figures, so far as the report has been able to obtain them from the surveys, which were virtually completed over a great portion of the distance, gave the mileage from Winnipeg to Edmonton as 775 miles, from Edmonton west to what their officials described as the eastern section of the mountains, running down to the prairie, as 561 miles, and the balance of the mountain section as 418 miles, making a total of 1,754 miles. That of the western portion, from Winnipeg to the Pacific, seemed to show that

The figures, so far as the report has been able to obtain them from the surveys, which were virtually completed over a great portion of the distance, gave the mileage from Winnipeg to Edmonton as 775 miles, from Edmonton west to what their officials described as the eastern section of the mountains, running down to the prairie, as 561 miles, and the balance of the mountain section as 418 miles, making a total of 1,754 miles. That of the western portion, from Winnipeg to the Pacific, seemed to show that tract had been concluded with another eminent Canadian firm for the construction of 275 miles of line to a place called Touchwood Hills, in the prairie. At Winnipeg itself, which was a point of the first importance to the Grand Trunk Pacific, they were in negotiation for securing the necessary terminals. It might be possible to come to an arrangement with some other important corporation, but if not they would proceed independently. Winnipeg was a most important point for the company. The city had become the third in the way of population in Canada. Passing across the prairie, the line would, he hoped, in a reasonable time reach Edmonton, for which they might prefer, he believed, almost as great a future as that which was certain to come to Winnipeg. He believed that Winnipeg and Edmonton would be the two great cities of the West in the future.

Passing over for the moment the mountain section of the new line, which would not require to be so rapidly proceeded with as the portion through the wheat districts, they arrived at the Pacific, where he did not think it had yet been publicly announced they had selected as the site for their terminus a most eligible port, which was known as Keio, about 25 miles south of Port Simpson, which they would remember, was spoken of originally as the possible terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. The company's officers had succeeded in negotiating there, upon extremely easy terms, crown lands amounting to 10,000 acres, and he had no doubt that the time would come when it would rival in importance the principal ports on the Pacific coast.

The policy adopted in building some of the American railways in the past was to push the road forward without much regard for the gradients. They were proceeding with the Grand Trunk Pacific railway upon a different plan. It had been determined to make this road as perfect as possible from the commencement, and therefore on the prairie section the maximum gradients were to be four tenths of 1 per cent, or about 22 feet in a mile, while on the mountain section they were not to exceed 1 per cent, or 33 feet in a mile. The consequence of this would be, he thought, that the drivers would not have to be coming perpetually to the stockholders to ask for money in order to improve the gradients.

A contract had also been entered into with the Canadian Car Company, lately established close to the railway at Montreal, for the supply of the whole of

of the new company. The contract was for 12,000 freight cars and 250 passenger cars, to be delivered beginning in 1906, in the course of the next five years, and the total amount of the contract was about £2,000,000. The first time he mentioned this project to the stockholders—for it was then but a prospect—was only 2½ years ago, and the legislation connected with it had only been completed as recently as in July last. A considerable amount of work had been done in that period—9,200 miles had been surveyed, the whole of the financial arrangements had been concluded for the building of the line from Lake Superior and the prairie section, and in addition various important contracts had been made and the work of construction was already in progress.

ATTACKED BY SAVAGES. Doctor and Three Women Were Killed at Station in China. New York, Nov. 2.—The Presbyterian board of foreign missions to-day received a cablegram from Canton, China, telling of the murder of a number of missionaries at the Presbyterian station at Lionchow, news of which was received in a dispatch to the Associated Press from Hongkong yesterday.

The cablegram to the board reads as follows: "Lionchow station has been attacked. Mrs. Macle, Annie (Mrs. Macle's daughter) Mrs. Pealas, Chestnut killed. Dr. Macle and Patterson safe. Buildings destroyed."

The Chestnut referred to is Dr. Eugene Chestnut. The board is not aware of any motive which might have seemed more likely to prove favorable, and has since resided there, engaging in fruit farming and also practicing his profession. Dr. A. Holmes Simpson was born in 1869, so that at the time of his death he was 36 years of age. He graduated from Manitoba Medical College in 1893, and further prepared himself for practice by a post-graduate course of study in New York. He then took charge of the Bauff Sanitarium for a year in the absence of Dr. Brett, and at the expiration of this time engaged in practice in Winnipeg along with his brother, Dr. R. M. Simpson. When the Yukon excitement was at its height, Dr. Simpson was one of the young men who pushed his way into the gold fields. Here he suffered from a severe attack of typhoid fever, which unfortunately undermined his constitution somewhat, and was considered the cause of his later ill health. Returning from the Yukon he practiced again in Winnipeg until continued ill health determined him to seek a more favorable climate. At the time of his removal from Winnipeg, Dr. Simpson resigned the chairmanship of the provincial board of health, a position he had held for some time previously. He gave up at the same time his work as professor of materia medica and therapeutics in the medical college, which work he had been in charge of for several years. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Frances Stewart, daughter of George A. Stewart, who planned the Bauff national park, and by their two children. Four brothers and two sisters also survive him.

GRAND FORKS. W. C. Thomas, superintendent of the Dominion Copper Company, who has been here a couple of days, has given on order to the Boundary Iron Works for several large slag pots of the design recently patented by the local foundry. Mr. Thomas says that nothing definite has been decided upon regarding the final location of the new smelter. He says that M. M. Johnson will be here in a few days and will inspect the various smelter sites preparatory to transmitting the final report for the approval of the company's directors in the east. The owners of the Silver Lump group of three claims, known as the Silver Spot, Rangelia and Silver Lump in Thunder hill camp, have made arrangements to continue development work on these properties. Provisions to last several months have been packed into the mines. The work to be carried on this winter will consist of driving a 300-foot tunnel. Recent assays taken from assorted samples from the claims ran as high as $140 in gold and 14,000 ounces in silver.

President Roosevelt has issued his proclamation naming Thursday, November 30th next, as a day of thanksgiving.

PROVINCIAL NEWS.

VANCOUVER.

During the past month there were 69 births (38 whites, 1 Oriental, 30 marriages and 31 deaths (26 whites, 5 Oriental).

There were 202 cases before the police court during the month of October. Of this large number the 185 of different descriptions contributed 93, while vagrants and theft were accountable for 23 cases each.

The fire department responded to 13 alarms during the past month, the total loss sustained by fire amounting to about $150,000. This is the heaviest loss sustained in any one month in many years. During the month the dry kilns at Heaps' mill were destroyed, the B. C. Wire & Nail Company's factory and plant was gutted by fire and several other fires occurred in different parts of the city.

NELSON.

Extensive development has been definitely decided upon for the Ymir mine. The detailed plans will probably be determined very soon. The recent discoveries of ore of high grade, and the indications that the newly found ore are extensive, have decided the company that a policy of operation and development on a larger scale than that followed for the last few years was called for. S. S. Fowler has received from the London and B. C. Goldfields a renewal of his lease on the Whitewater mines on very favorable terms. Oliver Wethered, of London, a director of the London and B. C. company, and also of the Ymir company, has left for England after spending several weeks visiting the various interests of the company in Kootenay and conferring with the managers. Seen by a member of the Daily News staff just before his departure Mr. Wethered said: "I have visited every property in which we are interested. I am glad to say that I have found the most encouraging signs everywhere, so much so that I am inclined to take a rather optimistic view of the company's prospects. There is no longer any doubt about the future of the Ymir mines. There is a big sheet of good ore in the No. 5 level and Manager Hand is certain now of finding it also in the No. 6. Development work will be carried on there now on a bigger scale than ever. Yes, Mr. Fowler has been given a renewal of his lease on the Whitewater mines. He has confidence in them, which, it seems to me, is well founded. There is nothing that I can tell you about the Enterprise. It is still under lease on terms satisfactory to the company. The prospects of the Cascade power plant are excellent. These buildings will be separated by a clear space of 14 feet. As a further precaution against fire the building will be roofed with galvanized corrugated iron. The mill building will be 36x120 feet, and the planer room will run on the hammer mill building in the form L. The planer building will be 84x68 feet. Each building will be two stories in height. It is intended to have the mill ready for operation by April 1st, and the building will be erected ahead in readiness for the installation of the machinery, which will begin to arrive next month. The mill will have about the same capacity as the Arrowhead Lumber Company's mill at Arrowhead, namely, 125,000 feet day, running 24 shifts. A new building is being erected for machine shop, and will be fitted up complete with turning lathes and planer. The machine shop will be operated by water power till the mill plant is ready for operation. The new mill plant will include a 500 light dynamo with a 50 horse-power engine to drive it. Thirty men are already employed on construction of the new mill. The company have about 50 men employed at their logging camps in the district. They are getting out a supply of logs for next season's mill cut.

REVELSTOCK. Work has started in earnest on the Revelstock Lumber Company's mill. The foundations for the superstructure are being substantially built of concrete. The engine room and boiler house will be located in separate buildings, and substantially built of brick, so that they will be absolutely fire-proof. These buildings will be separated by a clear space of 14 feet. As a further precaution against fire the building will be roofed with galvanized corrugated iron. The mill building will be 36x120 feet, and the planer room will run on the hammer mill building in the form L. The planer building will be 84x68 feet. Each building will be two stories in height. It is intended to have the mill ready for operation by April 1st, and the building will be erected ahead in readiness for the installation of the machinery, which will begin to arrive next month. GREENWOOD. F. F. Ketchum, of W. A. Keith & Co., general merchants, Beaverdel, came down from the West Fort last week. Mr. Ketchum says business has been concluded for the building of the line from Lake Superior and the prairie section, and in addition various important contracts had been made and the work of construction was already in progress.

IN THE ROOM, OR TWO

The First Step in the Pickling

The Lid Should Fit the Pot

First Step in the Cooking Boiling

Ready to Put the Lid Down

Dear Marion Harland: We three workers be— although not as the old rhyme runs—

One of us is a bookkeeper, another is a stenographer in an office downtown, and I am a seamstress whose specialty is making children's clothes. I have worked up quite a custom among the mothers of families who want really durable sewing done and a nice "finish" upon babies' outfits and little girls' garments. I do all my sewing at home.

But that isn't what I want to write about. My perplexity is one which I believe is shared by many who are situated in somewhat the same way as ourselves. We have a six-room flat, well uptown and well toward the top of the house. We don't mind the stairs, being young and strong, and the higher we go the better is the air and the lighter the feet. We think it necessary to health and decent privacy to have a bedroom above. The kitchen being light and airy, I had the painter take out the old sink—enamel white—and painted white above the sink is enamel white. I have a pretty screen before it, making a nice bedroom for a single woman. I have arranged our kitchen and our dining room as the same. It takes in the whole width of the flat. It has three windows, and overlooks a garden and a yard. Our parlor is at the other side of the hall, and as we like to keep it neat and pleasant for ourselves and visitors, I do all my sewing in the dining room, or kitchen, whichever you may please to call it. I do the cooking, too, and the marketing for my family in one case.

Now, I am coming to the point. One and all, we are tired of having a "mess" and deft, as an entire house cannot be kept in order and kept for ourselves. Up to now we have lived upon what housekeepers would call a "regular" and "good" house. Yet I haven't time to be a regular cook, and I don't want my work to get the "kitchen smell" we all know as well as the "old-fashioned" smell of a kitchen. To all clothes kept in a kitchen. My gas cook stove is a neat affair, but small, with room for one pan of biscuits or two small loaves of bread or cakes. I can't roast or broil on it.

I don't have time to bake bread or to stop work in the middle of the afternoon to go to the store to buy, and anything prepared on the top of the stove fills the place with a "kitchen" smell. We are hard-working girls, and need something more housewifely than the "old-fashioned" way of housekeeping, hall-rooms and small flat dwellers live.

The Seat of Mysteries

The Last of the Pickling

AT LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING (IN TWO PARTS, NOW)

I have let Phoebe Ann "free her mind" in class meeting phrase—first, because she has a genuine grievance, and knows how to express her appreciation of it; and second, because I feel that it is right in regarding herself as the representative and spokeswoman of a large class of "light housekeeping" women.

To come directly to business, let me ask if you, my correspondents, have paid any attention to what has been written in my department within the last two months, respecting the fireless stove, or, as one letter calls it, "the hay-stubble-and-wood worksaver." It would seem to be especially contrived to meet your difficulty.

Have made, by a common carpenter, what is known as a "window bench"—a box, eighteen inches high and as many wide, and four feet long, with a hinged top. If you have not, get iron or other enamel-ware pots and kettles, each of suitable dimensions to fit in the box and leave room all around for stuffing of hay or of shredded paper, such as is used in packing glass. One essential to success in this style of cookery is tops that will fit into the pots, after the manner of the common tin pail, and not lie loosely upon the upper rims.

Directly after breakfast (or before it, would be even better), prepare your soup for the evening dinner. Have ready:

One pound of lean beef and the same of lean veal, cut into small dice. If minced, it will clog and not be fitting. Add a carrot, an onion, a stalk of celery, a small turnip and a little parsley—all chopped fine. Put them, with the meat, into a pot with straight sides, and set where they will not be disturbed for an hour. When it boils, keep it up for fifteen minutes. Open the box, which should be full of hay or shredded paper, burrow in the centre a hole large enough to contain the soup pot, leaving a thick layer of "stuffing" at the bottom. When all is in readiness, whisk the pot from the fire, and, without the delay of a second, plump it into the hollow prepared for it, shut the boiler, and cover all with a thick wadded quilt or comfort, kept for the purpose. Over the box-spread a Bellagio blanket or other ornamental cover, and give yourself no further care as to the soup until you lay aside your sewing at luncheon time. Turn the soup then into a bowl set in cold water, and let it cool to throw up the grease. Skim this off when formed, and season the soup with pepper and salt. Draw off a quart, strain it, add half a can of tomatoes, a teaspoonful of sugar, and three tablespoonfuls of washed rice, put into a smaller pot, boil for ten minutes after the bubble really begins, and tuck away in the recesses of the hay. It will be ready for the table by 2 o'clock.

Set aside the rest of the stock in the refrigerator for future use, and variations, leaving meat and vegetables in it.

Excellent Glasgow broth is made by substituting lean mutton for the other meats, adding half a cup of peas to the vegetables, and, when the grease is removed at noon, fishing out the meat and returning the soup to the fire, stirring in half a cup of barley that has soaked four hours in enough water to cover it. Pack away as before.

Fricassee chicken may be prepared early in the day, cutting the fowl apart at every joint and putting it into the pot in the following order:

In the bottom a layer of chopped pork an inch deep; next, minced onion-sprinkled with the pork and peppered; then pieces of chicken, over this a lighter layer of pork and onion, and so on until all the materials are used up. Cover the pot closely and set to heat very slowly at the side of the range. (Not a drop of water.) When the contents are boiling hot, and there is no longer danger of scorching, draw the pot to the front of the stove, boil ten minutes, and consign it, still bubbling furiously and closely shut in, to the hay retreat.

Next week, I shall tell of pot roasts, casseroles and stewed fruits—all prepared at the saving of time, labor and cost—incredibly to the novice.

MARION HARLAND.

(TO BE CONCLUDED)

Housemothers in Conference With Marion Harland

I AM an interested reader of your page, especially when there is anything cooking tabular. I would like to say a few words, and will make my little as brief as possible.

To the lady whose baby cried all the time when she was nursing it, I will say that I think the best child was undoubtedly nursed by its mother. I think that you do not think that you would agree with it. When my first baby came, I was a nurse, and I should have had, of course, a nurse, but I had no artificial food, and when the nursing children in a few months another one came, I had a nurse, and she did not do it. I was a nurse, and I would not do it. I was a nurse, and I would not do it. I was a nurse, and I would not do it.

when it is worked twice. That would save her both the time and labor of cutting the food into small pieces, and she would not have to do it.

I have been wishing for some time to tell you how I took part out of a comparison of the two. I had a very good one. I had a very good one. I had a very good one. I had a very good one. I had a very good one.

I want to tell you of my experiment with the straw box cooker. I found among my friends a box of three-year-old, added to a few more, and I found it very useful. I found it very useful. I found it very useful. I found it very useful. I found it very useful.

RECIPES BY MARION HARLAND

Mixed Cucumber, Cauliflower, Gherkin and String Bean Pickles. (By Request.)

Put in a stone jar or wooden bucket, in layers, stewing salt, between them. Cover the top layer with salt and pour on cold water enough to cover all. Lay a small plate or round board upon them, with a clean stone to keep it down. You may leave them in the brine for a week or a month, stirring up from the bottom every other day. If the longer time, be sure your salt and water is strong enough to bear up an egg. When you are ready to put them up, throw away the brine, with any pickles that may have softened under the process, and lay the rest in cold fresh water for twenty-four hours. Change the water three or four times. Have a kettle ready lined with green vine leaves, and leave it for another day. Have a kettle ready lined with green vine leaves, and leave it for another day.

Pumpkin Pie. (By Request.)

One quart of stewed pumpkin, pressed through a sieve, nine eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, two scant quarts of milk, one teaspoonful of mace, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and the same of nutmeg, one and one-half cups of white sugar, or very light brown.

Old Virginia Sweet Potato Pie. (By Request.)

One pound of nearly sweet potatoes, one-half cup of butter, three-quarters of a cup of white sugar, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of nutmeg, four eggs (whites and yolks beaten separately), one cup of milk, one lemon, juice and rind, and three of brandy.

Baked Bananas.

Peel carefully, roll in egg then in cracker crumbs, set on fire until you are ready to bake. Bake in a shallow pan, until the buttered to prevent the fruit from sticking to the pan, and take out with a delicate knife in one and a half minutes, and lay in hot, deep fat.

Fried Hominy.

Boil hominy after washing it for several hours, and when done season with salt and a little butter, turn into a small colander, and drain. If you would like it in the pate pan, turn out when still and cold, dip in egg and cracker crumbs, and fry in hot, deep fat.

Graham Bread—No. 2.

Two eggs, butter, size of an egg, one small cupful of sugar, three-quarters of a cupful of oil, one and one-quarter cups of flour, with a pinch of salt, and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, mixed with flour.

Our Colorado member speaks words of truth and soberness that should be heeded and pondered by many a mother. There is a class of doctors—and of nurses—whose stock remedy for every disorder of a nursing child is "let her wean it." I wish I were not obliged, as a truthful commentator, to add that they would not be so ready with the cut-and-dried formula were it not for the belief that it is agreeable to the mother. There have always been women who felt the duty of nursing their babies after the manner recommended by the "lakers of us all" to be a "burden," a "nuisance," and—as I recollect, my mother reports on the utterance of an acquaintance of her girlhood—"degrading."

Gluten is the "nutritious" part of flour, and is not removed from what we know as gluten flour. It contains a large proportion of albumenoids, and is prescribed in cases of diabetes.

You do not come too often, and your papers do not gravitate toward any one of my quartette of waste-baskets.

THE SERVANT'S ROOM AND HOW TO FURNISH IT

By Mary E. Carter

It is a safe plan, when one is doing for others, always to bear in mind that if we should be reduced to the manner of living adopted by the family that they are serving. Their furniture ought to be good and in good order, and kept in repair as scrupulously as that in any other part of the house. It is not fair to severely reprimand a servant's room as if it were a sort of infirmary for all the crippled furniture signed for them, those temperatures reversed to extreme degrees when the seasons are reversed. conveniences to teach, and enable them to be clean. All in one family went to one place for their scanty ablutions. That they are not immaculately clean but are actually well groomed in those days of darkness goes without saying. Neither is it fair to say, "Oh, what's the use of giving anything nice to servants? That might as often be said with reference to children, and even of the young men and young women of a family, who are frequently exceedingly careless and destructive of beautiful and very expensive articles. It requires training and time before people generally learn how to appreciate and care for what is bestowed upon them, and costs them nothing at all. Domestic are not peculiar in these matters.

Oil Mango Pickles.

Small oiling melons, English mustard seed, one handful, mixed with scraped horseradish, one handful, once and nutmeg, one dozen, one cupful of vinegar, two teaspoonfuls, a little ginger, whole peppercorns, one dozen, one-half of a pound of ground mustard to a pint of the mixture, one teaspoonful of salt to the same, finally one tablespoonful of the best salad oil to the same, one teaspoonful of every seed.

CHAPTER I.

It was nearly half-past seven, and the actors and actresses gathered at the Duke of Clarence's theatre, for the beginning of the evening's work.

George Anderson was in a bad temper to-night. "Do look out and not stumble, Maconry," he was saying.

Then two men came in sight of the other two who stood in the doorkeeper's room. One was exceptionally tall, exceptionally good-looking, with wavy brown hair, worn rather long, dreamy dark eyes, they kept their dressiness even in bad humor, and a Greek profile, unspoiled by beard or moustache.

"What time does Mr. Anderson usually come in?" he asked of Hansey, the doorkeeper, when a clock over the empty fireplace pointed to the quarter before eight.

"He ought to be along in about fifteen minutes now, for we ring up sharp at half-past," returned Hansey. "But he's a quick dresser, is Mr. Anderson."

"He's a queer fellow, is he?" said the Duke of Clarence's theatre, and the star actor as well.

"I don't think I should care to be one of them," said the young man; for he had no liking of the surreptitious which Father had hidden in her sleeve.

"Who's that young lady?" inquired the "house star" when she had disappeared along the passage, which led to the stage and the dressing rooms.

The young man had come in, saying that he wished to wait for Mr. Anderson, who had asked him to call at the theatre that evening, but Hansey, while granting standing room in his little box, said hardily that he would not do so.

"This is the worst stage entrance in London," Beauty placed.

"Some terrible accident must have happened to spoil the face in the past, and what it might have been before that time it was impossible to guess.

"I thought you were going to speak to Mr. Anderson," said the doorkeeper, not without sarcasm, when both gentlemen had passed, followed by the actor manager's valet.

"It was the other man," answered the stranger. "His awful face took my wits away for a minute. I must ask you to send my name to Mr. Anderson instead."

"Not a bit of use doing that till Mr. Maconry's gone out again," pronounced Hansey. "For the governor never sees anybody but the manager, and when Mr. Maconry's with him—I know that."

at the door of the actor manager's outer room. Hansey held the card near his eyes, and read what it tender had written.

"Hope, welcome, introduced by F. E. Z." was scrawled upon his pencil.

George Anderson took the bit of paste-board somewhat impatiently from the hand of his servant, and read the name and initials which followed along.

Never before had Anderson seen L. and Maconry's face, and he was surprised the purplish flush had partly faded away.

"The most hardened tea drinker may admit that tea drinking can be, and often is, excessive, and yet the best, suffered-in consequence of their excessive indulgence in the cheering cup."

"Perhaps this extravagant and excessive consumption of tea may account for some of the eccentricities of the tea drinker."

"I don't think I should care to be one of them," said the young man; for he had no liking of the surreptitious which Father had hidden in her sleeve.

"Who's that young lady?" inquired the "house star" when she had disappeared along the passage, which led to the stage and the dressing rooms.

Robert Finlay and Charles Grant Have Reached London From Russia.

A special dispatch to the Times to-day from London, England, says: "Robert Finlay, of Victoria, and Charles Grant, of Nova Scotia, who were taken prisoners when the Russian warship captured a Japanese sealing schooner some months ago, arrived in London to-day, bringing a letter to Lord Strathcona from the British consul at St. Petersburg, Lord Strathcona is arranging to send the men home, as both are penniless. They tell of great privations and neglect and loss of money and goods. They were compelled to pay their own passage to St. Petersburg, where a claim for compensation was ignored. They will renew their claim through the Canadian government."

THOSE DRAWING BOOKS. Verdict of School Board Likely to Be Unfavorable to South Park.

The inspection of the drawing books belonging to members of the last high school entrance class of the South Park school by the board of school trustees is likely to result in a decision unfavorable to Miss Cameron, principal of the institution mentioned, and the pupils concerned. As mentioned by the Times yesterday, the board visited the department of education yesterday afternoon and were shown the work which has been so severely criticized by Examiner Blair and others. From what can be gathered the majority have come to the conclusion that in many instances "traced" lines were used instead of the "free hand" required by the regulations. If such is the case a report will be submitted at the next regular meeting of Wednesday evening to that effect and the most advisable policy to adopt under the circumstances considered.

VALUABLE CARGO. The Blue Funnel liner Jason sailed out yesterday with a cargo valued at $1,800,000. The ship loaded 15,000 cases of salmon at this port. In all she had 143,002 cases. Most of the salmon is consigned to Liverpool and London, while the fish landed at Seattle is going to Fremantle, Geraldton, Perth, Sydney, Melbourne, Capetown, Durban. This will be transhipped into connecting steamers running from Hongkong to Australia.

MARINE NOTES. Steamer Queen will be due from San Francisco this evening. The Unadilla, of the same line, sails for the Bay City tomorrow evening. Steamer Waddan arrived from San Francisco this morning with a shipment of nitrate for the Victoria Chemical Works.

The action was taken in consequence of the complaint made at last Monday night's meeting of the city council that gambling houses were running wide open. His Worship Mayor Barnard, when spoken to about the matter, said that he did not know that the police had taken such an action, but when the announcement was made at last Monday's meeting of the council that gambling houses were running wide open in Chinatown he gave instructions that if such was the case the police must enforce the law. More than this he does not know about the gambling cessation.

FULL COURT APPEALS.

Judgments Were Handed Down To-day in Four Cases—Birdcage Walk By-law Stands.

The Full court handed down four judgments to-day. Two of these affected the city, which in each case won on the appeal. The appeal taken on behalf of Catherine Cameron in connection with the Birdcage Walk Extension By-law was dismissed. The city by-law authorizing the extension of that street is thus upheld.

The Broad Street Improvement matter was also adjudicated upon in Weston vs. the city of Victoria. In that case the city appealed. The Full court allowed the appeal.

Of the remaining two cases one was an appeal taken on behalf of the defendant, Mrs. Joan Dunsmuir, in Sayward vs. Dunsmuir. In this case the plaintiff was allowed by the trial judge a claim for damages for the defendant's hotel-employees. The appeal taken by the defendant was dismissed.

In Dickson vs. Drake, Jackson and Helmecken, a case involving a question of the amount of rent which should be paid for the premises occupied by the defendant company, the Full court dismissed the appeal taken by the plaintiff.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY.

In Belief He Was Administering a Love Philire Officer Gave Widow Poison.

Paris, Nov. 3.—In the belief that he was administering a love potion to a young widow, a "philire" railway officer, Count Georges Ferrary, gave her a dose of poisonous liquid.

He had met the lady at the seaside, and subsequently he visited her in Paris. She repelled his advances, however, and he asked an elderly friend who possessed the reputation of being an alchemist to provide him with a potion which would make the widow return his love.

With an enigmatic smile the alchemist, who is looked upon as somewhat mad, gave the count a small bottle of colorless liquid. This the officer contrived to drop into the lady's wine glass when dining with her. No sooner had she drunk from the glass than she became pale and fell to the floor, suffering from cramp. A doctor was called in and declared a case of poisoning.

The count promptly gave himself up to the police commissaire of the Chaillof district, and made a full confession, but as the widow is now out of danger he was not arrested, and the incident may end in a marriage after all.
