FOREWORD

The history of the forty-sixth year of life at Woman's College is presented in a book typical of the school itself, the 1939 volume of PINE NEEDLES. Because it is representative, it presents the college and its personalities in the light to which we are most accustomed. The book does not, therefore, confine itself to any one phase of college life, no matter how important that one phase may seem. It portrays the school not only during its working hours but its playtime as well—a composite picture of many activities.

In recalling for you the extensive programs of the student and organizations of the Woman's College we realize that nothing is more outstanding than our democratic way of living. Woman's College is a democracy in which is bound up the spirit of the pioneer state, the dynamic activity of the present, and the purposeful planning of a state of time to come.

Because we believe that today the ideal of democracy is more important than ever before in the history of the world, we have chosen that ideal as the theme of our year book. From Paul Green's dramatic story of the beginnings of the colonization in our own state, "The Lost Colony," we have selected quotations of representative verse to give to you that significant spirit of the hope and the life of the commonwealth of North Carolina and the community of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina.

For here once walked the men of dreams,
The sons of hope and pain and wonder,
Upon their foreheads truth's bright diadem,
The light of the sun in their countenance,
And their lips singing a new song—
A song for ages yet unborn,
For us the children that come after them—
"O new and mighty world to be!"
They sang,
"O land majestic, free, unbounded!"

STUDENT LIFE

Educator, counselor, believer in youth, Miss Minnie L. Jamison has served the college and the state since her graduation. Her work has been as distinctive for excellence as for length of service. Her personality has influenced generation after generation of college girls.

To Miss Jamison, who has shown herself to be the peerless friend of young womanhood, her "last class of Spencer girls" and the Class of 1939 feel honored to dedicate this volume of PINE NEEDLES.

Have a dream – so let it be, but still it will persist until I die.... There is an ancient saying that if a tree would grow great it must send its roots deep and wide. In its shade the lesser trees will die. So it is with nations, so with an idea, or by your leave, a dream.

IN MEMORIAM

This page is dedicated with devoted appreciation by the students of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina to the memory of Charles Thomas Woollen, University of North Carolina 1905, Controller of the University of North Carolina, who worked for the upbuilding of the Woman's College "with all his heart, with all his soul, and with all his mind."

The College became a part of the University of North Carolina in 1931, when the General Assembly of North Carolina passed an act to consolidate the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the State College of Agriculture and Engineering at Raleigh, and the North Carolina College for Women, into the University of North Carolina. By the provisions of this act, the North Carolina College for Women on July 1, 1932, became the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. At that time, also, the Board of Trustees chosen by the General Assembly assumed control of the new university, and a few months later they elected Dr. Frank Porter Graham its president.

There is an extensive and interesting building program in progress on this campus. Beginning with the renovation of Spencer Hall, which is now an exquisite and modern building, we have been carrying out a program in cooperation with the Federal Government. The North Wing of Spencer which was not remodeled last year, will be completed during the spring. A large increase in the enrollment has made the construction of two new residence halls necessary. These halls, which are to be in effect one building, are to be of Georgian style of architecture and are to be located at the north end of the Quadrangle. They will house approximately three hundred students.

A Science Building, costing approximately $300,000, is already under construction on the old Athletic Field and will house the Biology, Chemistry, and Physics departments. A small sum of money has been appropriated for the remodeling of McIver Building. A new dining hall is being constructed, completing the original plan of four dining rooms surrounding the central kitchen and service departments. All of the construction work in progress is supposed to be completed by September, 1939.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS

DR. WALTER CLINTON
JACKSON
DEAN OF ADMINISTRATION

The government of the College is based upon the principles to be found in any well-organized community. The Faculty and the students have integrated their ideas in the formation of the Constitution. The law-making authority resides in a representative body from the student group and the Faculty. All student officers are chosen democratically. The student organization works in close cooperation with the Dean of Women and the Counselors who have charge of the residence halls.

There are three divisions of the student government machinery: the Judicial Board, the Legislature, and the House Organizations, serving in their various capacities.

It is understood that to the Faculty and the Executive Officers is reserved the handling of such matters as affect academic questions, matters relating to the health of the college community, the control of property, and of special cases of discipline which are outside of student jurisdiction.

IN MEMORIAM

During the past year the College lost one of its most beloved and valuable faculty members. Miss Etta R. Spier, who died on October 29, 1938, has been associated with the College from its beginning. She entered the College as a student when it began its first session in 1892, was graduated in the class of 1895, and, save for interruptions to teach in the public schools and to study, was a member of the Education Faculty of the College until her death. The services of Miss Spier to this College and to all who knew her were so long, so varied, so effective, and so valuable that she earned our respect and won our admiration. It is with a sense of deep loss that the College pays tribute to her memory.

PINE NEEDLES 1939

COUNSELORS AND RESIDENCE HALL LIFE

Each of the thirteen residence halls on the Woman's College campus is a home for approximately one hundred and thirty students from September until June with a Counselor as an official hostess. It is to these Counselors that the students feel most free to go to for advice on personal, social, and academic problems. The deep feeling of friendship and loyalty which exists between the Counselor and the students of her residence hall is one of the most basic aids in creating an atmosphere of responsible freedom on our campus.

The social life of the whole campus circles around the social life in these thirteen halls. Each hall has, or is acquiring, a game room for ping pong, dancing, games, and parties. Tea dances, informal parties, out-door activities, and teas play their part in rounding out a college program in which all students are urged to participate.

PRESIDENT

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

We live together here on our campus in an atmosphere of responsible freedom, and we are all working toward the same goal—to strengthen our characters, our minds, our personalities. This is the individual goal; we stand united in one purpose—to do our part in building a Greater University.

Our setup offers an opportunity for self-government, and the success and spirit of our association depends just as much upon the individual student as it does upon the student officers. The Woman's College of the University of North Carolina stands for all that is vital, honorable, and real in life. Our Student Government Association has as its fundamental aim to contribute always to the academic and social achievement of our college.

GERTRUDE RAINEY
VICE-PRESIDENT

RUTH GILLMORE
SECRETARY

ELIZABETH PATTEN
TREASURER

LEGISLATURE

The Legislature has as its chairman the Vice-President of Student Government Association and is composed of the President of Student Government, Treasurer of Student Government, the President of the Town Students' Association, the House Presidents, three members from each of the four classes, two members from the first year commercial class, and three members from the faculty. The Legislature, as a representative group, strives to keep its finger on the pulse of the entire student body. All legislation that is passed is designed to follow and interpret the needs of the campus.

Members from the classes: SENIOR: Betsy Wharton, Leah Smirnow, Frances Crockett JUNIOR: Joy Corman, Rose Pully, Sophie Schaeffer SOPHOMORE, First Semester: Alice Calder, Betty Prevette, Elizabeth Falls. COMMERCIAL, First Semester: Katherine Godwin, Miriam Soloman.

JUDICIAL BOARD

The College Judicial Board is composed of the President of the Student Government Association, the Secretary of the Student Government Association, five members of the Senior Class, and two members of the Junior class. This Board elects one member from the faculty to serve in an advisory capacity. This Judicial Board, in cooperation with the Hall Judicial Boards, handles all the matters of discipline on the campus which are not specifically delegated to other authorities. The whole purpose of this Board centers around its efforts to GUIDE and HELP students, rather than to punish and restrict them.

Members: Jeanne Carey, Mary Cochrane, Sarah Virginio Dunlap, Ruth Gillmore, Emily Harris, Mildred Haugh, Mary Elizabeth Purvis, Mary Elizabeth Taylor, Ann Tillinghost.

Faculty Advisor: Miss Louise Alexander

HOUSE PRESIDENTS

Each residence hall has its own House President who serves as the student adviser, and presides over the Hall Board of her particular hall. These girls are elected in the spring of the year from the incoming junior and senior classes. The juniors serve in freshmen houses while seniors act as the Administrative officers of Student Government in each of the other halls.

ANNA HOWARD SHAW HALL, Dorothy Rosse-land; BAILEY HALL, Eleanor Kerchner; COTTEN HALL, Louise Crowell; EAST HALL, Muriel Qua; GRAY HALL, Wilhelmina Efird; HINSHAW HALL, Eleanor Horner; KIRKLAND HALL, Helen Book; MARY FOUST HALL, Marian White Fisher; NEW GUILFORD HALL, Charlotte Michlin; NORTH SPENCER HALL, Celia Durham; SOUTH SPENCER HALL, Alice Suter; WEST HALL, Grace Mewborn; WOMAN'S HALL, Miriam Gault.

HALL BOARDS

The Hall Boards, consisting of the House President of each residence hall and four girls chosen by the members of each hall, are in charge of all disciplinary matters of their own group which come under their jurisdiction. In the Commercial and Freshmen halls the Boards consist of the House Presidents and the Hall Proctors; thus the constituency of these Boards changes each six weeks period. Individual consideration and treatment of each case with guidance rather than punishment as the chief concern is the principle of these Boards.

MASCOT AND CHAIRMAN

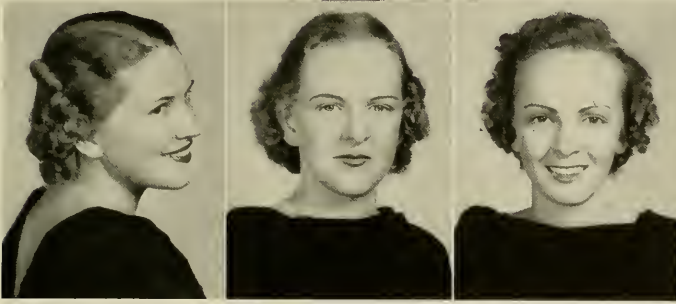

HAMPTON TEAGUE

MASCOT OF CLASS OF 1939

Miss Bernice Draper has the distinction of being the first class chairman to guide her class from the beginning of their freshman year until their graduation. She was most effective in that fine art of interpreting the college to the new student and the new student to the college. Of the abundance of energy she has lavished upon them, members of the Class of 1939 are deeply appreciative.

 With all the loyalty they hold,
 We'll look to God to guide as forward we go;
 We'll ever strive to reach our goal.
 Oh College dear, may we bring honor to you!

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1939

They were in nowise a homogeneous group — the freshmen who entered Woman's College of the University of North Carolina as the class of 1939. They came from little towns and big cities as native North Carolinians, as Yankees, and as pilgrims from far countries. Some of them were seeing Greensboro for the first time; others of them were born within a few blocks of the college campus. Some of them had been high school valedictorians; others of them presented entrance deficiencies along with the application blanks. Some came with unlimited bank accounts; others had awaited notice of self-help appointments before making definite plans. They declared fidelity to each of the great religious faiths; they left the Religious Preference space blank. Many of them had been members of the high school graduating classes of 1935, but this was a generalization that was not without its exceptions.

It rained on the just and the unjust, on those who would borrow and those who would lend—that rain which accompanied Freshman Week in September of 1935. They registered for every combination of courses and instructors. They indicated their intentions of working toward each of the various degrees offered by the college. Not one of them might have dared hope that this multiplicity of purposes and personalities could ever be reconciled to each other. Not one might have hoped that a community of such members might ever develop into a true and happy democracy. No prophet might have foreseen that the class was destined to become one of the most spirited and enthusiastic of college classes—that it was to achieve singleness of purpose without violating the individuality of its component parts.

Although one member of the class, Jane Dupuy, was to be elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa during her junior year, the class was not one of outstanding achievement in scholarship. Any number of other classes had surpassed the brain-power as indicated by grades of the thirty-niners. The mortality rate of the class was boosted by constant withdrawals. Despite these losses, however, the class promised to be one of the largest to be graduated by the college.

In enthusiasm, in community consciousness, in loyalty to leadership, the class had few equals and no betters. Some of this is traceable to the quality of leadership the students saw fit to elect, some of it to the unique attitude of college administrators, and not a little of it to the intangible something which can be called nothing else but the Spirit of 1939.

As freshmen, the class elected Gertrude Rainey of Martinsville, New Jersey, president of the group. Trudy started the class, when it was numerically at its greatest, on the road it pursued from that time on. She motivated the heterogeneous medley of parts to become a whole. She taught them to forget their wide differences in origin and geography, in personality and prejudice. They emerged in the spring of 1936—no longer a mixture; they had become the class of 1939.

THE NEEDLES 1939

In the second year of the experience, the class that had entered with such wide differences established a unanimity of opinion that had no precedent. The presidency of the class went both semesters to the same young lady, Emily Harris of Greensboro, North Carolina. Under Emily's leadership, the class gave a good English term a new and revolutionary meaning: the adjective "sophomoric" became complimentary for the first in its history. The peculiar compromise between individuality and community of the members was reflected in their choice of class jackets. They decided on neither a red nor a white jacket, but on both. As sophomores, they became so conscious of their class as an entity that many thirtyniners as seniors confessed that they would never think of themselves as anything but sophomores.

No development of the final two years changed the promise of eminence that the class of red and white early displayed. As juniors, under the capable direction of Jeanne Carey of Elmira, New York, some signs of maturity were revealed. They were still "peppy" (Jeanne's own trademark), but they were on their way to toning down the brilliance that had so disturbed their predecessors. It was a brilliance of noise and display and enthusiasm that had characterized the class, but never had its members entirely lost sight of the work they had come to do.

Sarah Virginia Dunlap of Wadesboro, North Carolina, presided over the class during its senior year. Sarah Virginia showed the campus students who were becoming quiet and conscientious. Those who could remember knew that fire burned brightly somewhere within the ranks. They were thankful, no doubt, that the fire was under control; they hoped, surely, that they were seeing the beginning of something that might sometime manifest itself as dignity.

If the class had been fortunate in leadership, it was no less fortunate in college administrators. Miss Bernice Draper was the first class chairman ever to begin her term the day her advisees entered college. For four years she competently observed and tabulated and counseled. She proved the wisdom of the advisory system that integrates each class with college life.

The contribution of Dr. W. C. Jackson, Dean of Administration, and Miss Harriet Elliott, Dean of Women, cannot be measured in a chronicle. They had a vision of college as a laboratory of life, as an experience which might offer something to each of the widely differing pilgrims. They had anticipated the natives of little towns and of big cities, the North Carolinians and the Yankees, the valedictorians, the religious, the mature, and the very young. It may be that they were able to anticipate the sophomores, "bless their courageous young hearts." The class was fortunate that a Dean of Women with no institution-made ideas of her duties began her term of office in 1935. The class was fortunate in that both deans fostered the idea of combined individuality and community.

The class of red and white which was graduated in 1939 proved that differences can add to the success of an enterprise. They proved that absolute agreement among its members is not essential to the success of a community. They proved that when each member of a class finds and serves in her place, wherever it may be, that the class has solved its problems. The lesson they learned in college is that democracy is not only possible when citizens work for the common good, but that it is inevitable.

SENIOR CLASS POEM

VIRGINIA WOOD

The tide sloped Europe's
Bulging sides, and then
Churned a retreat against
The stern of that first ship
To bring white seed
Into the New land.
From the ship's deck, Virginia's
Arrow conjecture westward
Sped to haunt the land
Before the yey inhabited it
With wide surmise.
—Did that arrow
Spend itself in the Muscadine's wild embrace, futile
Presage of ill destiny;

Or quiver in the red cloy
Ground, fleet singer of
The new gospel's zeal?
The confidence of night's
Progression into light
Since then has sealed
The way; our steps
Are timed to another's
Well oiled mind,
Whose steely convolutions
Turn us staring upward
Into the sun;
Upward, forward, is
Our quadrennial run.

SENIOR PROPHECY

The STATE of Time to Come, June 1, 1960

From bare beginnings pioneer women began exploration . . . they banished barriers, found new colonies wherein they founded new programs, and made progress a thing perpetual. To them we pay tribute in this account of activity and achievement.

To the state and to the southland has come the first woman governor. This triumph of democracy in 1960 is phenomenal to the point that it has occasioned history's taking a holiday to hallow the happening. Significant is the fact that North Carolina's new governor, Sarah V. Dunlap Jones, long a leading barrister and business woman, was president of the outstanding class of 1939 at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. The position of a senior is signified by more than the possession of the earmarks of dignity and age once declared typical of members of the graduating classes. From the time of initial registration in the fall when seniors are admitted to the "advanced standing" category 'til the last roundup at Aycock Auditorium for receiving the first degree, there is one cycle of activities.

Among the events in the headlines for the class of 1939 have been the faculty-senior banquet which was such a success the seniors declared it should have been held for them as freshmen, four years earlier; and the senior-faculty party which members of the faculty might have avored when they were serving as freshman advisors.

Then seniors had their day with the celebration of the college holiday, Senior Day. They donned formal caps and gowns for the final mass meeting and the annual senior class chapel program. They were honored at a tea given by Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Jackson; and entertained at the formal senior dinner at which Miss Genevieve Herrick, prominent Washington newspaper woman, was guest speaker. Among other class traditions which have been included in the program of activity have been the Junior-Senior Dance, Commencement Ball, Senior Class Formal Dance, and the Alumnae Reception.

We praise thee today, our fair College,
 Our Alma Mater so true,
 May thy numberless daughters, wherever they roam,
 Be faithful and loyal to you.
 All hail from the proud class of '40!
 All hail to our College so dear!

We will ever remember and cherish
 The years we will spend with you here.
 There is joy in the halls, on the campus;
 1940 answers your call.
 And the torch that you hand us we'll keep burning high,
 And pledge you it never will fall.

SONG

Steadfast of purpose we now stand,
And ever true we'll be.
We will forever honor, praise
And love bestow on thee.

Our Alma Mater, may we ne'er
Forget the happy days spent here;
With joyful voices we are ever
Raising songs of cheer.

The kindly virtues you have taught
Shine brightly as the sun;
We part to e'er uphold them,
The class of '41.

FORMAL DANCE LEADERS

The Commercial class, which has as its purpose the thorough preparation of girls for secretarial work through basic training in typing, shorthand, office machines, filing, and personality, has been a vital part of the college community since the founding of the school. This year's group of one hundred and forty-seven North Carolina girls has been the first Commercial class to have a constitution which sets forth the rules of election of officers, the duties of these officers, and various laws governing the class. Each year the members of the Department contribute to the needs of the campus by editing, publishing, and distributing the invaluable Student Directory.

The girls of the Commercial Department are becoming each year more and more an integral part of the campus life. Like other classes they elect a representative to the Legislature; they have a formal class dance; and they are members of and contribute to many of the clubs and organizations of the campus.

Organizations

It is now the time of the demos...

It's writ in the sign of great water.

A view of the Reception Hall in Alumnae House

THE ALUMNAE AND FORMER STUDENTS ASSOCIATION, Inc.

The Fifth Alumnae Seminar was held on March 4 and 5 in Alumnae House. The subject this year was Southern Writers, and the "faculty" was composed of Southern writers:

PAUL GREEN, playwright and novelist
 STARK YOUNG, dramatic critic and novelist
 CAROLINE GORDON, novelist and short story writer
 ALLEN TATE, poet, literary critic, biographer, novelist
 DR. B. B. KENDRICK, history

The last three are members of the Woman's College faculty.

The Seminars were inaugurated several years ago to give the alumnae an opportunity to come back to their college for a brief period of intellectual stimulation. "It is the business of our College not merely to educate us, but to keep us educated."

All Students of the college are members of one of the four societies, Adelpian, Aletheian, Cornelian, and Dikean, which are entirely social in nature. These organizations offer many opportunities for friendship and social experience. Informal teas, dances, parties, Sunday Afternoon open houses, Sports' Day, and a formal dance each fall are some of the interesting events of the year.

GRACE EVELYN LOVING, NATALIE KRUG. . . . News Editors

THE CAROLINIAN, the student newspaper, appears each Friday afternoon of the college year except during the weeks of examination and vacation. The Editor-in-Chief is elected by the entire student body from the incoming senior class in the spring of each year to serve from that May until the May of her graduation year. A Business Manager appointed by the editor heads the staff which is in complete charge of the advertising and financial department of the publication.

Formerly the societies, organized for literary purposes, originated the idea of a campus literary magazine, and gave it the name it still bears, CORADDI (CORnelian, ADELphian, DIkean). Recently the magazine has become an independent publication edited and managed by students with advice from the faculty. It offers to any person of artistic or literary talent a chance for expression.

CHANTECLAIR, the only French newspaper in North Carolina, was begun in January, 1938, by Sheila Carley and Rebecca Price. It was felt that a paper of this sort would be of real value in stimulating enthusiasm for the language. Everyone with a reasonable amount of French is encouraged to submit material such as articles on customs, current events, and the arts, or original compositions. Other students with an interest in the business side of publication work are given an opportunity to exercise it here.

The Handbook, published each year for the benefit of old as well as new students, is, as its name implies, a handy book containing information concerning student government association, religious activities, departmental and social clubs, and athletic groups.

To new students it gives an insight into what a well rounded life at Woman's College is like, and gives them information about how they may take part in the campus life.

The Inter-Faith Council is made up of two representatives from each of the eight organized denominational groups on campus together with representatives from the Y.W.C.A. and the faculty. Feeling that students should be free to believe as their consciences dictate, the Council does not aim at religious uniformity. Rather, it seeks to discover how students of strong religious conviction can live together and in mutual respect work together on problems of common concern. The Council meets twice a month for fellowship and a study sponsoring such activities as the University Sermons and social service projects in the community.

The Young Women's Christian Association is the non-denominational religious association on the campus. It seeks to guide and stimulate students in developing for themselves a satisfying life rooted in a strong Christian philosophy. Some of the highlight features of this year's program, all indicative of the Association's emphasis in personal and social conduct, have been an Institute on Men's and Women's Relations; Internation! Weekend, a Spring Campaign for Far East Student Relief, Vesper services and action study, and discussion groups. The "Y" Cabinet, made up of thirty-six girls outstanding in their respective fields of interest, works cooperatively to make religious activities a vital part of college life, and of deep significance to students participating in the Association's programs both today and tomorrow.

The Religious Activities Center, located on the ground floor of South Spencer Hall, contains the office of Miss Wilmina Rowland, Director of Religious Activities. It is the headquarters of the Inter-Faith Council and the Y.W.C.A. Students have formed the habit of dropping by the center for a meeting or social function, to read, to chat with friends, or to enjoy a quiet minute alone.

The five Freshman "Y" Clubs, which all Freshman and Commercial students may join, are planned to help students become adjusted to the new environment of the campus. They also serve to orient new students into the Association's program. This year the clubs, under the joint leadership of upperclassmen and new students, have included in their weekly programs a "How-to-Study" course, discussions in personality problems and vocational opportunities, and several intercollegiate social functions.

The Band, directed by Mr. George E. Henry, was organized in the spring of 1936. It has the great distinction of being the first college band composed entirely of women in this country. The purpose of the band is three-fold: it offers recreation and musical enjoyment to its members; it contributes to the musical advancement of the entire college; it provides a working laboratory for instrumental public school music students. During the fall season the emphasis is on such traditional band activities as marching, playing for athletic events, and participation in a small number of worthy community projects and celebrations. In the winter the Band functions as a concert and symphonic organization.

MISS VERA LARGENT

To those whose task and privilege it has been to complete this volume of PINE NEEDLES have come many trials, and much pleasure. The helpful assistance and advice of numerous people have succeeded in lessening the trials and increasing the pleasure of our work. We wish to thank those who have cooperated and contributed in making this annual possible.

To Paul Green, North Carolina's outstanding literary figure, we express appreciation for the use of selective passages from his play, THE LOST COLONY, which he graciously granted us permission to quote in the development of the theme of PINE NEEDLES.

We thank Miss Largent, chairman of the Faculty Advisory Committee, for her sincere interest and invaluable assistance. We also acknowledge the notable work by Dr. Kohler and Mr. Ivy in preparing this edition. For the real interest of all our friends among students and faculty—we feature our appreciation!

FEATURES

A college is widely known by its students. Leaders of the class of 1939, because of their individuality, their versatility, and their activities, typify the spirit for which Woman's College is recognized. To eight students selected by their class as the outstanding personalities of the year, PINE NEEDLES pays honor.

Mary Cochrane's is the spirit of activity and accomplishment, the work of an artist. To the class, to campus clubs and to college publications, Mary has given time and talent.

Emily Harris, President of Student Government Association, leads a group of two thousand women who live in a college community distinguished for its democracy. More than any single student, Emily, because of her deep concern for the welfare of people, represents the genuine interests of the community and its citizens.

Gertrude Rainey, as Vice-President of Student Government Association, leads the legislative body of Woman's College. Heading a group of representatives from all classes, she serves ably as an interpreter and leader of student opinion.

Sarah Virginia Dunlap presides over the activities of the Senior Class as its Chief Executive. The zeal, the courage, and the loyalty expressed in the class song is the essence of her leadership.

Jeanne Carey is a recognized leader on the campus. As Junior Class President, president of a society, and in many other offices, she has served faithfully and sincerely.

Maxine Garner edits the college's weekly newspaper, THE CAROLINIAN. Because that publication is alive with student news and interests, Maxine, editorially, has done much to further campus programs wide in scope and effective in execution.

Alice Murdoch is Chief Marshal of Woman's College. Gracious in manner and charming in appearance she acts as the official hostess for the student body.

Leah Smirnow, President of Playlikers and Masqueraders, has proved her versatility in dramatic productions, and she has also done outstanding work in widely divergent programs of the college.

May Day at Woman's College is an event which is anticipated the entire school year. This year's senior class departed from the precedent of a seasonal ceremony to present a historical pageant noted for its beauty and simplicity.

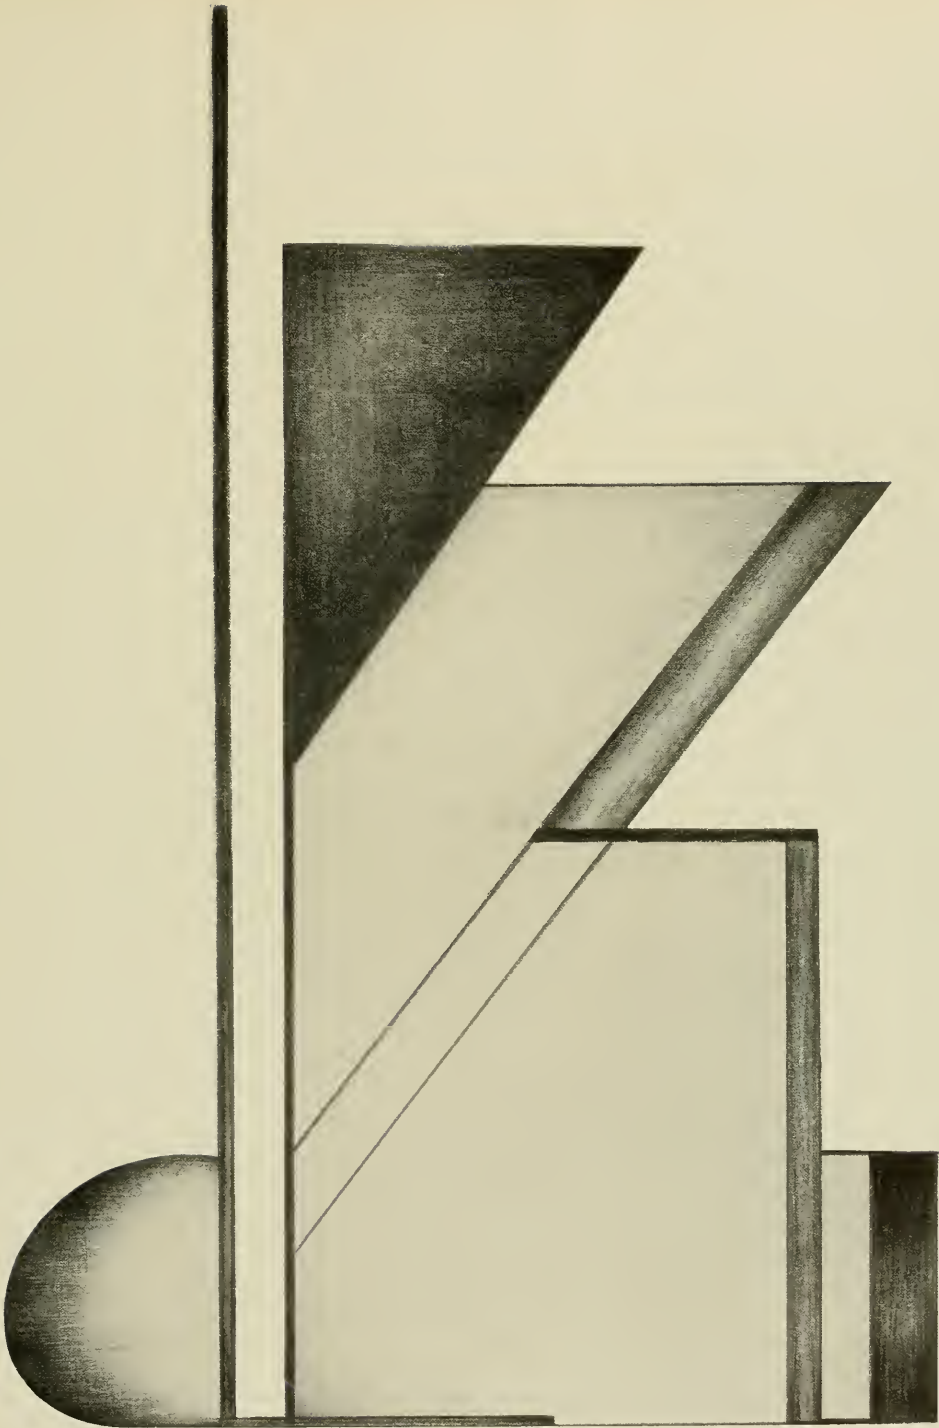

With the town crier's call, "Eight o'clock and all's well," the campus became the scene of the first recorded American May Day celebration which was held at Edenton, North Carolina. The villagers with their bawlers, the boy with his pig, the ox carts, and groups of dancing children presented a spectacle which will long be remembered. Another departure from the traditional festivities was the withholding of the queen's identity until she was chosen from the merry village girls. The suspense which this created, until the Governor made his choice, gave new interest to the occasion.

We are proud that the entire student body cooperated with the senior class this year in making May Day not only a class event, but also a community festivity of campus and state-wide interest.

Hockey season calls the athletic minded out for practice in the first weeks of the school year. Class practices are held twice a week, and teams are chosen to represent each class in the annual inter-class tournament. Over one hundred girls played hockey this year, and the Junior club won the championship by defeating the Seniors in a play-off game.

The high spot of the season was a Hockey Play Day held at Duke University where players from colleges all over the state met to play Hockey with each other. Miss Constance Applebee who introduced Field Hockey into this country was the guest coach, and gave pointers to individual groups. Around thirty girls attended from Woman's College, and five of these were honored by being on the honorary play day team. Dorothy Rosseland, Mary Margaret Johnson, and Helen Bolling were placed on the first team, and Ruth Gillmore and Marjorie Swanson were named on the second team.

At the end of the season on campus, an honorary varsity was chosen by the head coaches. SPORTS DAY

A half holiday is set aside each year in May for what is known as Society Sports Day. Classes and school work are put aside and hundreds of girls take part in numerous and varied tests of skills during the afternoon.

The program is sponsored by the Athletic Association and the four societies on the campus. All participants enter for their particular society in one or more events, according to their ability and the schedule of activities. But ability and skill are not necessary prerequisites for taking part in Sports Day. The aim in having such a day is to provide fun for everyone who might enjoy taking part. The games and activities range from those of lower organization to team games and include jacks, scavenger hunts, horse shoes, volley ball, shuffleboard, tether ball, archery, bowling, tennis, relays, swimming, and last and often most entertaining—a baseball game between student and faculty teams. Of special interest also is the Horse Show which ends the activities of the afternoon and for which ribbons are given.

As part of the program there is a formal dinner, honoring the participants, at which time the winning society is announced and the silver cup is presented to the president of that society. Also, awards in the form of pins are given to those students who have amassed as many as one thousand points by participation in athletic activities during the previous years. The Adelphian Society captured first place honors for the 1938 day

As conclusion to the program for the day, it is customary for each society to present a one-act play in competition with the other societies. This is a fitting climax to an afternoon where fun has prevailed and where friendly intra-society relationships have been strengthened by play and sport.

BEHIND THE BALL

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

1938-39 will go down in the history of the Woman's College as a very eventful year as far as those interested in the sports world are concerned. First, the A. A. cabinet enlarged itself by adding golf, riding, and the outing club; then it undertook a wide social program which included seasonal banquets for all the participants in athletics, and started having its "pow-wows" in the form of supper meetings in the renovated golf hut. The whole campus will remember cabinet for its gifts of skates and skating rink (we mean skating in swing time to the nicklela). It all goes back to our president, Marjorie Leonard, who has really done a good job with the aid of her assistants.

THOSE FRESHMEN

Participation in sports really rang the bell this year . . . more girls than ever before came out to support their class teams. The highlight of the fall season was Miss Constance Applebee, the English coach who visited Duke; she informed our girls after their demonstration game at Durham that they weren't as good as they thought they were. Claudeline Lewis and her booters came out on top in the soccer tournament. Speed ball, although a minor sport, really drew the crowd—could it be those football punts? (SH! don't say we said so, but the freshmen won.) Another minor sport which drew the crowds and the spectators was gymnastics . . . even though we had importation from Chapel Hill to do the men on the flying trapeze act, our girls did not come up lacking, and the seniors walked away with that silver loving cup. Then there were those two basketball tournaments. And here we see those freshmen stepping out in the sport light by winning both of them. In fact, they did hog the limelight because they won the swimming meet, too. Spring sports brought out the tennis advocates, baseball fans, and the archery "infuns" to enjoy the sun. Don't tell us that the restriction against sunbathing had anything to do with it.

OUR SOCIAL LIFE?

The clubs in the Athletic Association seem to advocate this theory of progress, too. "Little Red Swimming Hood" came to campus under the auspices of the Dolphin Club; even with two performances all seating space was occupied—that is enough said. Square Dance Club brought some of the national champions, and we decided that even our grandparents must have been sorts of "jitterbugs," at least figuratively. The movies also seem to have an influence on Archery Club, at least from their activities. Topping the list was this year's recital by the Dance Group. After months of work they gave us something to really be remembered. Miss Edith Vail certainly deserves orchids, and white ones at that.

A WINNING TEAM!

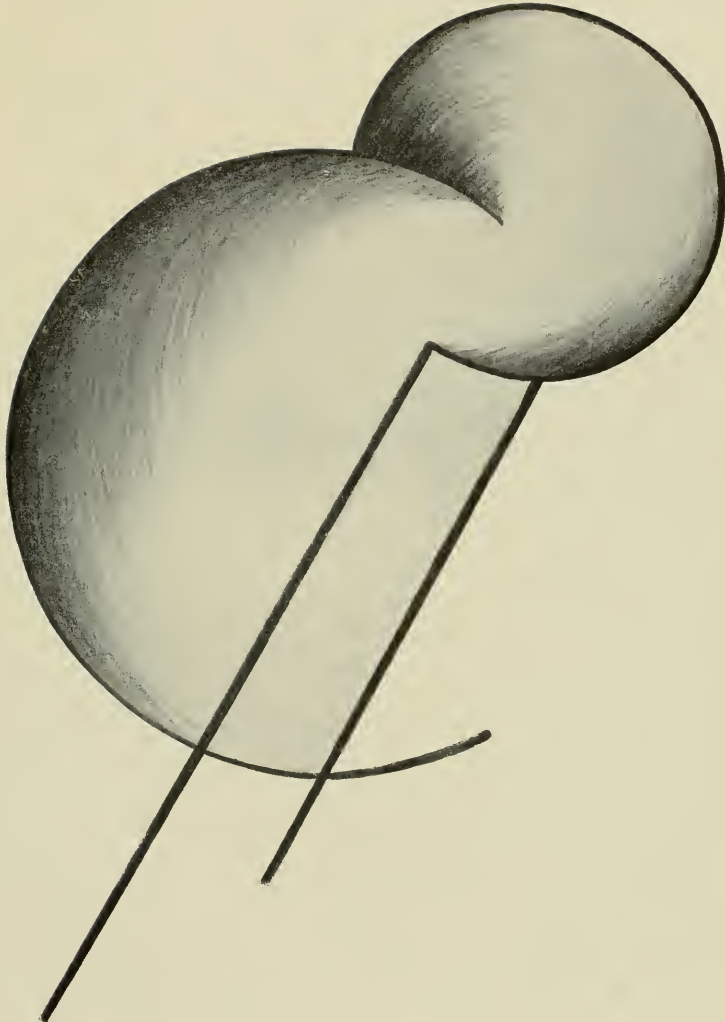

Even though change seems to have been the motto of our faculty this year, they, too, deserve our appreciation. To Miss Coleman, the captain of our team, Miss White, Miss Martus, Miss Davis, Miss Vail, Miss Thompson, Mrs. Bayce, and Miss Sheldon we give our thanks. There has been a lot of fun for everyone in the Athletic Association, and we seniors leave with happy memories of our work and play with them.

PROGRESS

The future holds in store much more progress for our Athletic Association, and even though it is trite, we seniors wish you the "best of luck."

Student Life

The victory lieth in the struggle, not the city won. To all free men it standeth so.... And down the centuries that wait ahead there'll be some whisper of our name — some mention and devotion to the dream that brought us here.

The college every year brings to its student body a number of distinguished artists in the fields of music, art, the dance, and letters. All students have admission to the entire series of recitals and lectures. Woman's College sponsors the lecture programs, and the Civic Music Association of Greensboro is in charge of major concert programs for the year.

Among the popular programs this season have been the review of the theatre and screen by the actress, Elissa Landi; the piano recital by Marion Anderson, only alumna of Woman's College ever to appear on the concert stage here; the performance of the world famous Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra under the musical direction of Eugene Ormandy; and the recitals in modern dance by the troupe of Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman, who also conducted special classes for students of the dance; other features have included: The Mordkin Ballet, Phillis Bottome, Alice Burrows, Captain John Craig, Stuart Cloete, Harry Hansen, Sir Arthur Willert, Gerald Wendt, Henry C. Wolfe, Harrison Forman, Eugene Schoen, Sidney Montague, Andre Maurois, William Seabrook, Efrem Zimbalist, Lucille Browning, Artur Rubinstein, and John Charles Thomas. Many of these artists were honored at tea and dinner by groups of Woman's College students and a number of the lecturers were guest speakers for special classes and informal student meetings.

College is one round of activities. Before enrollment for the first year, the typical student finds herself in a whirl which goes 'round and 'round seemingly forever. Every year student leaders return early in the fall to hold a conference to plan for the year. When the freshman comes to college, orientation is the catch phrase for the first week, and even when the upperclassman returns to carry on initiation culminating in society celebrations, that orientation continues. . . . The outstanding social events of the year are the formal dances held by the societies and classes. Second to none is the Junior-Senior Prom. . . . Formal dinners are in good favor, too, and especially remembered is the Christmas holiday dinner. . . . The college calendar includes many special features, one among many being quiet-hours of organ music held during examination weeks. . . . Registration is excluded from no college calendar. . . . Teas are happy thoughts for all students. . . . and every year spring is announced by the conferences held by seniors with the head of the Public Relations Department to make plans for employment after college.

There are certain members of our college community whose efficient work "behind the scenes" make life smoother, happier, and much more interesting on our Woman's College campus . . . Dr. Shaftesbury and the marshals give time and effort to lending dignity and order to our concerts and lectures . . . Mrs. Hawkins simplifies the problem of entrance to the college for many of us . . . Dr. Collings and her staff are always ready to help us in any of our troubles, mental or medical; one grin from "The Doctor" fixes everything . . . The library staff helps us find what we want even when we don't know that we want it . . .

Paul Green, of the University of North Carolina, author of "The Last Colony", from which the quotations for the presentation of the theme of this year-book have been taken.

Miss Swanson, who has one of the hardest jobs on campus, not only feeds us three times a day, but makes a picnic or a banquet a big success . . . Mr. Sink who keeps up with our clothes, even if we can't . . . Miss Lattimore, with her pleasing personality, aside from her many other duties, makes us forget our stage fright while waiting in the Dean's office . . . Have you a broken chair, a lost key, a blown fuse, or does your lawn need mowing? If you would have something done well call Mr. Sink . . . Here's who makes Woman's College news, "news"—Mrs. Lathrop . . . Mrs. Boyd is one who plays many parts in our daily life by her gracious and helpful cooperations in any of our undertakings.

Since the inception of the institution democracy has been the keynote of student life, academic and social, at the Woman's College. Every year, hundreds of girls have found study and play possible only because of the work they have done to help finance their education. Although it is not possible for a student to earn all of her expenses at the Woman's College or for all who apply to earn even a part, the College is concerned with giving every opportunity to those who desire help. A number of students are employed by the college as assistants to professors in laboratories, offices, and the library, waitresses and dormitory hostesses. Still others are being aided now under the National Youth Administration with work as switchboard operators, playground supervisors, secretaries, and so forth. As long as the Government furnishes such aid, the College will continue to avail itself of it in order that as many young Women as possible may have the advantages of college training.

Forty-seven years ago this college opened its doors to young women of the state as a new institution whose program was one of pioneering and the establishment of precedents. The growth has been phenomenal. Today Woman's College is the third largest woman's college in the country. The future is not without promise; and the past, staped in traditions out of which the powerful present has evolved, is not without significance. The founders of the college built walls, and characters, and customs; and students today are as conscious of those customs as they are of the buildings themselves.

Every October 5, the entire college pauses to pay honor to the educator who established the school, Dr. Charles Duncan McIver—that is the school's most meaningful tradition. Among many others are: the "Hanging of the Green" sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. at the beginning of the Christmas festivities; along with the Junior-Freshman wedding when the big-sister class ceremonially unites with the freshman class; the serenades, of which the one celebrating the major elections in the spring is the climax; and the annual Christmas Pageant, presented by the sophomore class.

College is essentially organized around learning activities. Studies, classes, courses—these constitute the major part of the collegian's life. The inspiration that comes from academic work well done carries over into every phase of college career around an organized course of study in the school of liberal arts, music, education, or physical education. This course of study includes not only lectures and examinations; there are projects, field work, scientific research, experimentation, and practical experience in courses both specialized and generalized. We have tried to picture here only a few of the typical scenes so familiar to us all.

And you have seen these places . . . "time off" in the Home Management House . . . "I'll see you in the Game Room after dinner." . . . Don't forget, it's payment time again . . . "One three cent stamp please, and, oh yes, Mr. Concentrate's book on HOW TO STUDY . . . A spare minute with an extra nickle means Junior Shop—without a doubt . . . Please, put up the "P's" next.
