ENEMY REPULSED NEAR THIAUMONT; A FRENCH SUCCESS IN CHAMPAGNE; BRITISH RAIDS NIGHTLY AFFAIRS

After All-Day Bombardment Germans Attacked East of the Meuse; Failed and Paid Huge Price; French Made Surprise Attack Near Tahure; British Steadily Carrying Out Plan of Wearing Down Germans on Scale Hitherto Unattempted

Paris, June 29.—After a violent bombardment which lasted the entire day, the Germans attacked the French positions northwest of the Thiaumont works, in the Verdun sector east of the Meuse, but were repulsed with heavy losses, the war office announced this afternoon. The French machine gun fire and curtain of fire devastated the attacking ranks.

Success in Champagne.
The statement adds:
"In the Champagne district, near Tahure, in a surprise attack we cleaned up certain first line trenches of the enemy and penetrated at several places as far as the second line. Here we blew up a number of sheltering works."

On British Front.
British Headquarters in France, June 28, via London, June 29.—(By Frederick Palmer)—Cannonading of unusual violence, with numerous trench raids, continued to-day all along the British front and above the general roar of guns there were occasional outbursts of concentrated artillery fire from both sides of the trenches.

The British used gas and smoke to cover their trench raids on the Ypres salient. The bodies of many Germans killed by gas were found in the enemy's first trenches. The Germans retaliated with a terrific bombardment of the Canadian positions on Observatory Ridge and Serre Hill.

The ease with which, under cover of a heavy bombardment, the British can raid their enemy's trenches, inflict losses and bring in prisoners, has made it a systematic night business. The new system of wearing the Germans down is proceeding on a scale hitherto unattempted.

German Statement.
Berlin, June 29.—The fighting on the western front attained proportions of considerable violence at various points yesterday and last night, the war office announced to-day, but the attacks of the British and the French were repulsed everywhere.

Russians Defeated the Enemy Between Dniester and Pruth

Petrograd, June 29.—Russian troops fighting in Volhynia and Galicia yesterday took prisoners 221 officers and 10,285 men, says a statement issued to-day by the war office.

The statement says the Russians inflicted a great defeat on the Teutonic troops between the Dniester and Pruth rivers, capturing three lines of trenches.

King Victor's Troops Still Are Advancing; Positions Captured

Rome, June 29.—The advance of the Italian forces continues on the Trentino front. The official report of to-day says that in the Arsa valley the Italians stormed Fort Mattassone and carried the ridge of Monte Trappola.

THREE ITALIAN SHIPS SUNK.

London, June 29.—Lloyd's shipping agency announces the sinking of the Italian steamships Mongibello, Roma and Pino.

DEFENCE OF AUSTRIANS COLLAPSED LIKE A HOUSE OF CARDS BEFORE PRESSURE EXERTED BY ITALIANS

Cadorna Hurlled His Forces Against Flanks of Enemy Line Which Extended in the Form of a Salient Beyond Asiago and Precipitate Retreat of Austrians Was Result; King Victor's Splendid Cavalry Had Share in Victory

London, June 29.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Milan dated Tuesday night says:

"Details of the precipitate Austrian retreat are coming through from Luigi Bassini and Arnaldo Fraccaroli, war correspondents of the Corriere Della Sera.

It was 1 o'clock on Saturday morning when the first signs of the Austrian retreat became unmistakable. The position was as follows:

"On the extreme Italian right flank the Alpine had captured by assault the formidable height of Cima Isidoro, on the frontier north of Asiago, facing on the Sogana valley, together with a battery of Austrian big guns. On this advanced stronghold, with a tremendous concentration of men and artillery, the Italians proceeded to pivot all the operations in that sector, so that the protection thereby afforded enabled them late Saturday night to smash through the Austrian defences of Mandrielle in a direct line northward at the head of the Camponuovo valley.

Headlong Flight.
This terrible blow at once imperilled the whole system of Austrian positions on the west, and when, at the approach of dawn, the Italian infantry swept down the encircling heights upon Casselguberto and Monte Fiera, and moved forward in concentrated formation from Bosco and from Scharbatal, the Austrian regiments found themselves almost entirely surrounded with no safety except in headlong flight and the abandonment of all their stores and munitions behind them.

"In the ensuing 24 hours the whole Austrian defence of this region collapsed like a house of cards, and the Italians were once more in possession of all the burned and ruined towns and villages.

800 Guns.
"Meanwhile, the Italian left flank continued its heavy pressure against the Austrians, who were effectually bottled up in the Asiago hollow, while 700 or 800 guns of every calibre, massed fanwise at the entrance to the Asiago valley, subjected the region north of Asiago to a frightful tempest of fire and completed three days' and three nights' incessant bombardment of Monte Cengio.
"Toward 2 o'clock on Sunday morning the Austrians quit this lofty peak. Only one way of retreat remained open to them, and that was through the narrow gorge of the Assav in the direction of Asiago. To protect this the Austrian centre held out till evening.
"Sunrise on Monday witnessed a wonderful and novel sight in mountain warfare. The Italians, for the first time, hurled their magnificent squadrons of cavalry across the burning debris across the Asiago and down the valleys toward Rodigillori and Campoverde, north of Asiago, smiting and holding them in check till the oncoming Italian infantry completed the slaughter. The mountains and dale were strewn with dead and dying of the routed army, which pursued its panicky flight toward Monte Interotto, two and a half miles north-northwest of Asiago.
"As yet there is no telling where the Austrians may strive to make a fresh stand."

lapsed like a house of cards, and the Italians were once more in possession of all the burned and ruined towns and villages.

"I have to go to Winnipeg on an important appointment, otherwise I would be glad to attend the public meeting which I understand is to be addressed by Mr. Brewster and you.

"Some other opportunity will occur when I can personally express in public my admiration for the manner in which Mr. Brewster and you discharged your duties during the last session, and for the complete justification so afforded of those Conservatives who, like myself, voted for you at the by-election.

"None of the mud so persistently thrown at you has stuck. You have signally shown that the reputation of an honest man cannot be affected by the machinations of a desperate, discredited conglomeration of political opponents, even though the public chest be open to them in their malicious work.

"I firmly believe that the people as a whole are determined to have clean, honest government and sane legislation, and care little what party flag is down.

ROUMANIA REPORTED TO BE PREPARING

About to Join Allies; Bulgaria Moving Troops to Border

POSITION OF GREECE WORRYING BULGARIANS

London, June 29.—Interest in the expected grand offensive of the allies was shifted temporarily yesterday to the situation in the Balkans, with the revival of reports that Roumania is preparing to join the allies. A heavily-censored Bucharest dispatch, telegraphed via Amsterdam, reported that Bulgaria had closed her frontier against Roumania, and that Bulgarian troops were reported to be concentrating along the Roumanian frontier.
The Austrians are clamoring for the abandonment of the Verdun offensive by the Germans and the sending of more troops to the Austrian front.

CEASELESS FIGHTING ON LUTSK SECTOR

No Hour Without Attack or Counter-Attack at Some Point

London, June 29.—A Lutsk dispatch to the Times dated Tuesday describes the terrible fighting on the Russian front.
"This town," says the correspondent, "is a veritable maelstrom. Along the entire front the contending armies are locked in fierce and ceaseless struggle. No hour passes when there is not somewhere an attack or counter-attack going forward with bitterness and ferocity. The troops coming from Germany are rendering the Russian advance difficult.

SHIPBUILDING BEING CONSIDERED AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, June 29.—The Evening Journal announces that a sub-committee of the cabinet is investigating the possibilities of the development of a shipbuilding industry in Canada and the establishment of a Canadian merchant marine. It is very likely that effective action will be taken and that subsidies will be granted to encourage shipbuilding.

WANTS CARRANZA TO STATE INTENTIONS

Troopers Released, Wilson Still Awaiting Reply to His Note

TENSION SLIGHTLY LESS THAN BEFORE

Washington, June 29.—Official announcement of Carranza's order for the release of Carranza's troops captured at Carrizal early to-day from Special Agent Rodgers, at Mexico City. When he sent the message last night Mr. Rodgers expected to be handed a reply to the American note at any moment.
The danger of an immediate break with the de facto government had been relieved last night by press dispatches saying the prisoners had been started for the border from Chihuahua City. Until Carranza replies to the demand for a statement of his attitude toward the American expedition in Mexico to protect the border, however, the crisis is only less imminent than it was before.

VORWAERTS FORESEES END FOR GERMANY

This is Eleventh Hour, It Says in Denouncing Militarism

London, June 29.—A remarkable prediction of early peace is contained in an article in Vorwaerts, the official organ of the German Socialist party. The greatest significance is attached to the article in view of the fact that it passed the German censor.

"The Nationalists and Socialists are indeed right when they assert that the deeply rooted system of capitalism and imperialistic nationalism has embittered the industrial relations between the nations and the national groups to the utmost degree and finally led to the catastrophe of this world war.
"Experiences of the past can afford us little hope of a peaceful development in the future, but what if this world catastrophe—to quote a striking phrase used by the imperial chancellor—should once more supply 'proof, unanswerable, serious proof,' that imperialism, with its last word, war—world war—and with its militarist and imperialist methods, has failed and should compel us not to further the development of these methods, but to find a new solution?
"What if the cannon stroke as ultimate ratio were in this case set aside and the sword no longer drawn to cut the Gordian knot? What if statesmanship were relied upon to settle the problem for the neighboring nations of Europe? What if the pens of the diplomatists were used, not to destroy, but to place the sword which so vainly sought to achieve their end back in its sheath?
"The idea of disarmament and of an international court of arbitration is necessarily a Utopia, an ideal play-

THE KING AND QUEEN WILL VISIT CANADA

New Gov.-Gen. Here, They Probably Will Come After War

London, June 29.—It may be taken that the presence of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire in Canada will assure the fulfillment soon after the war of the long-felt desire of the king and queen to revisit Canada. The duchess is not only mistress of the robes, but the queen's most intimate friend.

The duchess, as well as the duke, is enthusiastically anticipating their approaching sojourn in Canada, while their two sons and five daughters see limitless and most pleasurable prospects in residence in Canada.
The Manchester Guardian says to-day:
"The Canadian doubtless will see in the duke Stephen Leacock's incredible ideal of an English lord come true."
Cablegrams from Canada published to-day record general satisfaction with the selection. Both Sir George E. Foster and Sir George Perley, speaking as Canadian ministers, take the view that the duke's proprietary association with Great British shipbuilding and mineral enterprises may prove of the greatest assistance in the reconstruction of Canadian iron, steel and other industries to suit the greatly enlarged opportunities arising from the new economic relations between Canada, Britain and her allies.

ESQUIMALT Electorate are invited to attend a Public Meeting in LUXTON HALL on FRIDAY, 8 P. M. H. C. Brewster, M. A. Macdonald and William Sloan will speak.

BOWSER GOVERNMENT TOTTERING TO FALL

Sir Chas. H. Tupper Says It is Conglomeration of Desperate, Discredited Men

VANCOUVER'S MEMBER

Veteran Conservative Statesman Voices Admiration of Brewster and Macdonald

Vancouver, June 29.—The Liberals will open their campaign in this city next Tuesday evening in the Empress theatre, when H. C. Brewster, the Liberal leader, and M. A. Macdonald, will be the speakers. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, whom many have expressed a desire to hear, will not be able to be present because he will be out of the city, but he has sent a letter to Mr. Macdonald expressing his regret and saying he would be pleased on some other occasion publicly to express his admiration for the manner in which the Liberal leader and Mr. Macdonald discharged their duties during the last session of the late legislature.

The final arrangements will be made at a meeting of the executive of the City Liberal Association Friday.

The letter of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper to Mr. Macdonald expressed the belief of the writer that the people as a whole are determined to have clean government, and that none of the mud so persistently thrown at Mr. Macdonald had 'stuck.' Sir Charles' letter follows:

"Vancouver, June 28, 1916.

ROGER CASEMENT TO-DAY SENTENCED TO DIE FOR HIGH TREASON; D. J. BAILEY, WHO WAS HELD WITH HIM, RELEASED

End of Notable Trial Brings Extreme Penalty for Man Who Sought to Lead Uprising in Ireland; Sir F. E. Smith Pointed Out Question He Asked Was Not Answered, and Chief Justice, That Many Facts Were Undisputed

London, June 29.—Viscount Reading, lord chief justice of England, with black cloth, by tradition called a cap, spread over his head, and his two associates in scarlet gowns, likewise black capped, pronounced the sentence of death for high treason on the Irishman, Sir Roger Casement, shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, half an hour after the foreman of the jury in a shaking voice had given the verdict of guilty. An appeal will be taken by Casement.

Bailey Discharged.
Daniel J. Bailey, the former Irish soldier who was charged with Casement, was discharged. It was announced that the crown had withdrawn the charge against him.

After the verdict had been returned, Casement began to read a very long statement.

Casement received the sentence with the utmost composure, smiling at friends in the courtroom. His statement, which occupied half an hour, was a plea for the right to be tried by Irishmen and for Irish nationality.

Casement addressed the court, reading his final statement with the explanation that he wished it might reach a much larger audience than the one before him, and particularly the people of the United States, from whom he had come many messages of sympathy to him, and whose own struggle for liberty, he said, always had been an inspiration to Irishmen.

Casement's auditors, among whom were Viscount Bryce and many other prominent men and women, listened in deepest silence, some moved to tears.

His Opinion.
The prisoner declared he did not regard trial by Englishmen in an English court as a trial by his peers, to which he was entitled. He reviewed recent events in Ireland from the beginning of the formation of the Ulster Volunteers, and said:

"We have seen the constitutional army refuse to obey the constitutional government, and we were told the first duty of Irishmen was to enter that army. Small nations were to be the first consideration; I saw no reason why Ireland should shed any blood for any people but her own.

Not Ashamed.
"If that is treason, I am not ashamed to avow it here. If the Unionists chose the road they thought would lead to the good side, I know my road led to the dark side. Both of us proved right. So I am prouder to stand here in a prisoner's dock than to fill the place of my accusers.

"Self-government is our right. It is no more a thing to be withheld from us or doled out to us than the right to life or light, to sunshine or spring flowers."
Throwing aside his manuscript, Casement said:

"My lords, I have done. Gentlemen of the jury I wish to thank you for your verdict. I meant no reflection upon you when I said this was not trial by my peers."

Jones for Defence.
Mr. Sullivan, the Irish barrister upon whom rested the chief burden of the defence of Casement, was unable to appear in court this forenoon and finish his argument in behalf of the prisoner. Mr. Sullivan collapsed under the strain of excitement and emotion while delivering an impassioned speech in court last night.

Artemus Jones, assistant counsel, addressed the court.

Mr. Jones admitted that at first thought it seemed an outrage for Casement to go to Germany, but he insisted that the defendant had attempted merely to organize an Irish brigade for use against the Ulster volunteers recruited by Sir Edward Carson. He contended that the work Casement had done in Germany was precisely the same sort of work he had carried out in Ireland before the war. While the importation of arms was a wrongful act, it did not constitute treason, but an offence against the Defence of the Realm Act. He reminded the jury of the responsibility resting upon it.

Sir F. E. Smith.
Mr. Jones's speech occupied a little more than half an hour, after which Sir Frederick E. Smith, the attorney general, began summing up. He argued that in the days before the war Casement's defence might have had some weight, but "one circumstance not insignificant had intervened—the greatest military power the world had ever seen was trying to destroy the British empire."

The attorney general dwelt on the truce between the Irish parties. The question he had asked at the beginning—why Casement had gone to Germany—had never been answered, because no answer was possible. Casement had gone to make arrangements to raise "the hideous spectre of insurrection" in Ireland. The attorney general's speech lasted an hour.

Chief Justice.
The chief justice then delivered his charge to the jury.

"Treason in time of war, when all persons in this country are making sacrifices to defeat the common enemy, is almost too grave for expression," the chief justice said.

"You must dismiss from your minds all you have heard or read outside the court. We have heard much about politics in Ireland. For myself, in a court of justice, I always feel anxiety when political passion is aroused. Pay no attention to what has been said regarding conditions in Ireland before the war or after the war than is necessary to consider the conditions of this case."

After defining the law of treason, he pointed out that many facts in the case were undisputed.

KITCHENS FOR POOR IN BERLIN WILL BE KEPT OPEN STEADILY

The Hague, June 29.—The municipality of Berlin has decided to keep open indefinitely the municipal kitchens for the poor, which in previous years were open only during the winter months, closing at the end of March. This year the closing has been postponed month after month under pressure of the needs of the poor people, and it has now been finally decided to keep the kitchens open for an indefinite period.

CIVILIANS ORDERED BY GERMANS TO MOVE FROM LILLE, ROUBAIX

Paris, June 29.—Premier Briand has sent a protest to the neutral powers against the action of the German military authorities in ordering the evacuation of civilians of the towns of Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, according to the Petit Journal. The protest is on the ground that the order is contrary to The Hague convention.

BERLIN, ONT., WILL BE KNOWN AS KITCHENER

Berlin, Ont., June 29.—Upon ratification by the lieutenant governor in council of the by-law changing the name of the town of Berlin will be wiped off the map of Canada, and this city thereafter will be known as Kitchener.

TO MEXICAN BORDER.

New York, June 29.—Twenty thousand National Guardsmen are now on their way to the Mexican border from the department of the east, and 40,000 others are encamped awaiting orders, Major General Leonard Wood announced to-day.

TROOPERS RETURNED; MEXICANS LAUGHED

Americans Captured at Carrizal Handed Over at Border To-day

El Paso, June 29.—Twenty-three negro troopers of the Tenth Cavalry and Len H. Spillbury, a Mormon scout, captured by the Mexicans at Carrizal and subsequently confined in the Chihuahua penitentiary, were brought to the border at noon to-day to be turned over to the American military authorities.

A shout of laughter rose from the thousands of Juarez Mexicans who had gathered to witness the arrival as the negroes filed from the special train. The prisoners were dressed in nondescript garb. While most of them had had restored to them the larger part of their uniforms, some were without coats, one had encircled his waist with a towel, and practically all wore towels and bandanas on their heads instead of hats.

Spillbury was dressed in a white duck suit. He appeared anxious. All the troopers were worn and drawn from their experience, and all were serious save one, who wore a broad smile. This one made himself the impromptu spokesman of his fellows. "We sure are glad to get back," he said.

ST. PETER'S DAY.

Rome, June 29.—To-day being St. Peter's Day, Pope Benedict last night visited the famous church of St. Peter and prayed over the tomb of the apostle.

Time was when some merchants vied with each other in extravagance of statement in their ads. Nerves Were So Upset Could Not Endure Noise

Neuralgic Headaches and Extreme Nervousness Caused Keenest Suffering—Lasting Cure by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Once the nervous system gets run down everything seems to tend to make it worse. You worry over your condition, are unable to get the required rest and sleep, noises excite and irritate you and the future is most discouraging.

The nervous system does not get proper nourishment from the food you eat, so you must have something else to lift you out of the run-down condition. You may find that your experience coincides with the writer of this letter and be encouraged to put Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to the test.

You will make no mistake in employing this food cure, for, acting as it does hand in hand with Nature, it is bound to do you good.

Mrs. Jas. Jensen, Gwynne, Alta., writes: "About ten years ago I was troubled with severe attacks of neuralgia and nervousness, and was for several months so bad that I could not get a night's rest. I used several medicines recommended by the druggist. My doctor also prescribed, but nothing he gave me brought any relief. Instead I got worse and worse until I could scarcely do anything or bear the least bit of noise. My nerves were all upset.

"My husband read about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and got me some. Although I had no faith in it, I began its use, and after a few doses began to sleep well and the neuralgia left me entirely. I used six more boxes and have never had any troubles from neuralgia or the nerves since.

"This is to certify that I know Mrs. Jensen and believe this statement to be true and correct. Fred Freeman, J. P."

ARRANGING CREDIT FOR IMPERIAL GOVT.

White and Bankers Talked at Ottawa Yesterday; Plans for Future

Ottawa, June 28.—The minister of finance conferred yesterday with a committee of the Canadian Bankers' Association with reference to the matter of establishing in Canada a further credit for the imperial government to be used in payment for war munitions and supplies ordered through the imperial munitions board. As a result of a previous conference a credit of $75,000,000 was established, with the result that additional orders to the extent of $100,000,000 were obtained. These orders cover shells, explosives and other war materials for use at the front by Great Britain and the allies.

At present the imperial munitions board is disbursing in Canada from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a day, which is keeping busy more than 200 manufacturing establishments and furnishing employment to many thousands of men. The effect of this vast expenditure upon the general business of Canada has been great.

It is understood that good progress was made at the conference yesterday regarding the matter of further credits, although no official statement was made.

In addition to discussing the question of imperial credits, the minister brought to the attention of the association the desirability of Canada being financially prepared for a greatly increased export business with Russia and the other allies after the war, and it is understood that attention will be given to the question of establishing, if thought necessary, a financial agency or agencies for the purpose of advising upon and dealing with Russian and other foreign credits.

At present it is felt no more can be done than to mature well in advance plans for facilitating future business of this character which it is hoped may largely take the place of the munitions and war supply business in which Canada is participating so largely.

The bankers who attended the conference yesterday included the president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, the president of the Bank of Montreal and the general managers of the Dominion Bank, Royal Bank, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Bank of Nova Scotia and Imperial Bank. The meeting also was attended by J. W. Flavelle and C. B. Gordon, of the imperial munitions board.

U. S. SENATOR INTERESTED IN PLANS OF ENTENTE

Washington, June 29.—Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, introduced a resolution yesterday requesting President Wilson to inform the Senate of the precise character of a commercial treaty being negotiated by allies of France in the European war with "the declared object and purpose of establishing a boycott" against their enemies during and after the war. Senator Stone asked that the resolution lie on the table for the present.

JUDGMENT AGAINST CHAS. WM. NEVILLE

London, June 29.—Judgment was given today for the plaintiff against Charles William Neville whose promotions in World War Canada once were notorious. The plaintiff's present action alleged fraudulent misrepresentation in contracts for land on the east coast of England, supposed to be intended as a seaside resort. The judge said the defendant had not chosen to defend the serious charge of deliberate fraud, and therefore could only blame himself if the court thought his conduct stamped both himself and his scheme with both trickery and dishonor.

WOMEN PAID LESS IN SCHOENBERG

Berlin, June 29.—The "Equal Wages For Equal Work" slogan adopted by the Socialists and labor organizations to apply to woman labor, which is so largely replacing male labor under the war conditions, received a setback in the vote of the Schoenberg common council on the question of the wages of women street sweepers. The municipality employed female "white wings," paying them 40 pfennigs (13 cents) an hour instead of the usual male wage of 25 marks ($6.25) weekly. A Socialist alderman demanded equal pay for the women, but the mayor of the town objected, taking the ground that the principle of equal pay, once adopted, would have to be extended to the other branches of the municipality. The mayor's argument proved effective.

GERMANS REPULSED IN REGION OF RIGA

Petrograd, June 29.—The official report issued last night said: "Southeast of Riga, the enemy on Tuesday night opened an offensive on the Pulkarn sector with considerable forces, having previously directed salvos of gas fire and clouds of gas against our positions. Thanks to the opportune arrival of reinforcements and the concentration of our artillery, we threw back the Germans with heavy losses. On the Drvina and in the region of Jacobstadt there has been artillery and infantry fire. We repulsed by gas fire an attack south of Krevo. On the remainder of the front as far as the Rakitno marshes there have been artillery duels. On Monday evening the enemy attacked us near Linewka, on the Stokhod, but was repulsed. In this district, the enemy continues to maintain a violent artillery fire. In an attempt to halt our advance in Bukowina the enemy is using every possible means to prevent us from constructing bridges, and is destroying bridges already built; but our engineers are surmounting all obstacles and successfully accomplishing their task. "Caucasus front—South of Lake Urumiah we pushed back the Turks from the region of Bann toward the Turko-Persian border. In the region of Bagdad we have defeated the Turks, driving them toward the fortified region of Kalaystrahine."

MORE RAIDS MADE BY BRITISH TROOPS

London, June 29.—The official report issued last night said: "During last night there were raids, and patrols entered enemy trenches at several points, bombing the enemy and inflicting casualties. Near Angres one party found the enemy trenches badly damaged by shell fire. The enemy apparently had suffered from gas, which we had discharged successfully from our trenches. "A successful raid was carried out by the Highland Light Infantry near the Vermelles-La Bassée road, when 40 prisoners and two trench mortars were captured and two enemy mine shafts were destroyed with the loss of only two men. "Today the enemy exploded small mines near Neuve Chapelle and near Houthulst, but with the exception of slight damage to one of our saps, they achieved no results. We successfully exploded two mines south of the Bethune-La Bassée canal."

EVIDENCE ABOUT CLOTH FOR UNIFORMS

Unless More Work Be Discovered Davidson Commission Has Closed

Ottawa, June 29.—When the Davidson commission resumed yesterday afternoon, Hartley Dewart, K.C., counsel representing the opposition, was not present. Sir Charles Davidson said Mr. Dewart had advised the commission by wire that his argument had been sent, but it had not yet been received by the commission.

Sir Charles asked if Mr. Henderson, counsel for Col. J. Wealey Allison, had any statement to make. Counsel for the opposition could throw no light on the matter. Sir Charles thought it desirable that Mr. Henderson should make his intention known to the commission.

The inquiry was then resumed into the sale of a quantity of cloth to the militia department by the Auburn Woollen Mills Company, of Peterboro, Ont. At a previous sitting Dr. Milton Hersey, of Montreal, examined as an expert, had said that the goods were approximately 15 per cent. below sample. Inspector Burns, of the militia department, examined by Dr. McConnell, K.C., Peterboro, was inclined to disagree with the view expressed by Dr. Hersey. He said that there was a certain margin of allowance permitted by the department, and the cloth supplied by the Auburn Woollen Mills Company came within the margin of that allowance in strength, finish and weight. The cloth was substantially up to the sample submitted by the department.

Replying to questions by Sir Charles Davidson, witness said he had never known of pressure being brought to bear upon the department to accept cloth below the standard of the sample at full value. It had often been proposed, however, that inferior cloth should be taken at a reduced price. So far as he knew, he had not seen a single complaint as to the quality of the cloth made in Canada for soldiers' uniforms. The manufacturers had difficulties to contend with, because of the impossibility of getting Canadian

DEVLINE WILL BE TRIED AT REGINA

Regina, June 29.—After long delays while evidence was being taken by the Wetmore commission, J. P. Brown, former chief clerk of the highways department of the provincial government, and E. H. Devline, M. P. P., for Kinsistino, were brought up in District court yesterday afternoon for election. Brown elected to be tried at once and was sentenced by Judge Hannon to serve a total of seven years in the Prince Albert penitentiary. Devline elected to be tried by a judge and jury and his case will not be heard until the fall.

Brown was sentenced to seven years for forgery, five years for uttering forged documents, five years for forging powers of attorney, and five years for forging cheques. The sentences run concurrently.

TAXES ON LIQUORS GOING INTO YUKON

Ottawa, June 29.—A case to be heard in the Exchequer court shortly will test the legality of orders-in-council passed between 1909 and 1914 authorizing the collection of certain taxes in addition to the customs and excise taxes on liquors and wines imported into the Yukon. Under these orders-in-council an extra tax of 23 cents was collected on liquors and 50 cents on wines. Robert Lowe, an importer of liquor at White Horse, is suing the government for the sum of $7,246 which he has paid in taxes, on the ground that the orders-in-council are ultra vires of the government under the Yukon Territories Act. He wants all his money back with interest. The department of justice is disputing Mr. Lowe's claims.

THE BRITISH OFFENSIVE.

German military authorities prophesy the failure of the British offensive. With their bitter experience in the war predictions of their leaders as a criterion, this fresh forecast should frighten the German people out of their boots. They have not yet recovered from the shock which followed the puncture of their most cherished delusion—the military impotence of Russia. The one thing they were sure of was the virtual elimination of their Muscovite neighbor as an effective factor in the war. Their war publicists had told them so, and they laid the flattering unction to their souls. Every nail they drove into the wooden statue of von Hindenburg was a record of their faith. Whatever happened, Russia could not hurt them. Of course she might make attacks in a sort of a way, but they would be easily repulsed before the Teutonic field fortifications—thirteen lines, machine guns, deep trenches, tunnels, barbed wire, and the invincible German and Magyar warriors. But Brusiloff's artillery knocked the field works to pieces, Brusiloff's infantry stormed the thirteen lines of trenches in a few hours, smashed the Teutonic front, drove the Austrians out of Bukovina, helped to bring disaster to the campaign in Italy, and disorganized the whole defensive programme of the Potsdam war magnates, while Brusiloff's Cossacks garnered 200,000 prisoners and an incalculable amount of war booty.

Will the German prediction relative to the British offensive be any happier than the one which Brusiloff has just shattered? It is something new in the way of offensives and probably does not appear in the text-books, certainly not in Clausewitz. It is based upon experience and the conditions of a relatively narrow, congested front flanked by neutral countries. It does not consist of one heavy bombardment followed at once by an infantry rush like the offensives at Loos and in the Champagne last fall. So far it has been a bombardment followed by raids in a dozen places between Ypres and the Somme. Then come more bombardments and gas attacks and more raids. A week or so of those perplexing tactics will play havoc with the German nerve, and that clearly is the object in view. Sir Douglas Haig is mixing his means with psychology, an excellent combination, as Brusiloff found when he tried it on the enemy front in Volhynia and Galicia, although the Russian leader had to be more sparing with his munitions.

Sir Douglas Haig has ample reserves, and, we may assume, abundant supplies of munitions for his nerve-shattering tactics. Between the Ypres salient and the Somme there are probably by this time nearly 1,600,000 British troops. On the whole line from the Aisne to the sea there must be nearly 2,600,000 British, French and Belgian soldiers. This gives the allies on that front a large numerical preponderance over the enemy, which, as the attacking force, they ought to have. When the Germans began their offensive against Verdun they had 800,000 men facing the British lines alone. They have diverted one corps to the eastern front, but probably have filled the gap with some of the very young or very old reserve formations. Their 1917 class should give them 300,000 striplings, some of whom, however, have been identified at Verdun. Altogether the Germans have a little more than 2,000,000 men on the west front from the sea to the Vosges, according to the calculations of the French government, which knows more about it than anybody else on the allied side. The total French, British and Belgian forces being much greater they should be able to conduct wearing-down operations without much risk to themselves if their reserves of munitions can stand the strain. What is brewing in the Balkans? The army of British, French and Serbs based upon Salonica, estimated at half a million men, must have been ready for business for some time. The overthrow of the pro-German elements in the councils of the Greek government has removed one source of anxiety to the entente leaders. Sarrail seems to be awaiting some denouement which will facilitate the advance of his army. This not improbably is either the intervention of Rumania or the granting of permission for Russian troops to pass through Rumanian territory as the result of Brusiloff's blow at Austria. In such a case Bulgaria's defeat would be speedily accomplished. Her total field force cannot exceed 400,000 men, of which a third at least must be concentrated on the Roumanian border and along the Black Sea coast. Meanwhile serious rioting has broken out in Roumania owing to the high prices of food, of which Russian diplomacy no doubt will take the fullest advantage. The Balkan fog ought to lift before long.

GERMAN SEA POWER.

Once upon a time, when a Hun named von Tirpitz was not entirely without honor in his own country, and even had some professional status outside of it, he said: "Germany absolutely requires for her wholesome economic life to be a sea factor; otherwise she would slowly but surely decline." That was one of the many Teutonic excuses for the war. Germany must have her heaven-ordained "place in the sun." So she set out to get it. She has made her bid for sea power. Where is she as a sea power? Is she any nearer the summit of her ambition than she was early in the year of 1914? Is she likely to be any nearer it before the end of 1916? We wonder what the once great shipping concerns of Hamburg, with their vessels rusting in many ports of the world, think about it. The New York Sun outlines the situation very precisely: "It was not necessary for Germany to engage in a war with her neighbors in order to become a 'sea factor.' Before a gun was fired in August, 1914, she dominated the Baltic, and in Hamburg she had one of the greatest commercial ports in the world, with steamship lines running to every port. In Bremerhaven she had another port of departure and arrival, serving Bremen on the Weser. She possessed a merchant marine second only to that of Great Britain. In the Kiel Canal and its terminal waters and at Wilhelmshaven and Emden she had admirable naval bases, with Heligoland as an impregnable strategic outpost. Her export trade was one of the most extensive and profitable in the world, and in commerce she was a formidable rival of England. A great sea factor was Germany before the war that is now convulsing Europe and setting back the clock of progress. There was no sign of decline and no danger of it."

CASEMENT'S TREASON.

The verdict in the trial of Sir Roger Casement and the sentence which followed it were never open to doubt. This renegade's treason was of the vilest character. Had he forsworn his allegiance when he went to Germany, joined the German army and fought against his countrymen, his course, bad as it would have been, would have been free of some of the worst features involved in the charge of which he has been convicted. Casement conspired with Berlin to further an outbreak in Ireland which if successful might have brought disaster to the empire and the cause for which the allies are fighting. The fact that there never was the remotest chance of success for the conspiracy is beside the question. The German design was clear and we had only to read the comments in the German press to realize the importance they attached to the movement to which Casement lent his aid. The renegade was allowed special facilities for his absurdly abortive attempts to induce Irish prisoners to join his treasonable enterprise. It was a German submarine that landed him on the Irish coast and a German schooner accompanied him with arms. It was this direct, personal association with Kaiserism which gives Casement's treachery its blackest hue and grades it apart from the treason of Dewet and probably most of the participants in the Sinn Fein outbreak. Dewet, for certain, sought no arms or any other help from Germany and in fact had no association with German agents. From Casement, in any case, honored by his sovereign and a life-long servant of the state, more was to be expected than from Dewet, a narrow, ignorant recalcitrant who temperamentally never was able to adapt himself to the new order in South Africa so loyally supported by the majority of his compatriots. Sympathy would be wasted upon a renegade of the Casement stamp. His conduct was wholly in keeping with the record of the country with whose devilry he allied himself.

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

If the Duke of Devonshire possesses in any marked degree the sterling qualities of his predecessor in the illustrious title he bears, the wisdom and judgment underlying his appointment as Governor General of Canada in succession to the Duke of Connaught will be readily shown. The selection of a representative of the King for an overseas dominion is no light matter, especially if the choice be restricted to the narrow circle of the higher orders of the titled nobility. The appointee must have tact, breadth of view, some knowledge of the history, development and aspirations of the country over which he is to preside. Men possessing these qualifications easily can be found among those who have rendered distinguished service to the empire at home or in various capacities abroad, but the roster of experienced statesmen among the ducal nobility in the very nature of things cannot be large. The Duke of Devonshire, however, is the head of a house which has given many able men to the affairs of state, and he himself has held a number of appointments in the British government service.

But in any case the selection of a vice-regal representative comparable to the Duke of Connaught would have been a difficult task. Canada could not have had a more experienced and sagacious counsellor in the special circumstances that have arisen than the soldier-statesman who has occupied Rideau Hall for the last four years. He is by right of merit one of the ablest military leaders in the empire, whose qualifications would have called for a high command in Europe had he been free to assume it, and it was fortunate indeed that Canada, confronted with a military duty of unprecedented magnitude, was able to avail itself of his knowledge and ability. It is no secret that His Royal Highness has played a most active part in the organization of the Dominion's contribution to the empire's army, and when the whole story has been told we shall realize with deep gratification how through that circumstance we escaped chaos in our military activities.

The Huns' Overseas News Agency never tells the truth when a lie will better serve its purpose, and generally it may be said that a lie is the very thing that serves its purpose. Now an Underseas News Service has been established and the first fruits of its establishment was the alleged conveyance of a message from the All-Highest to Alfonso of Spain. But it is reported that the Hun submarine which entered the Spanish port of Cartagena had another end in view than the carriage of a dispatch from the Kaiser to King Alfonso. In fact, it is charged that the alleged mission of the submarine was a mere subterfuge, that the actual purpose was to secure supplies that would enable the pirate to wage piracy against allied ships without returning to a more distant base. If that charge is true, Spain will have to answer to the allies for her complaisance. It behooves Alfonso to walk warily. The powers which are determined to hold Germany strictly to account for all her misdeeds are not in the mood to stand any nonsense.

MORAL REFORM LAWS IN STATE OF VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., June 28.—Under pressure brought by private citizens, the Virginia authorities have announced their decision to enforce all the moral reform legislation on the statute book of the state. Prohibitionists claim that this movement has been inaugurated by anti-prohibitionists with a view to making the moral reform laws ridiculous by their strict enforcement. The anti-prohibitionists say that if the laws are on the statute books they should be enforced and the public thus learn the real effect of such legislation. The state officials have been instructed to apply the letter of the law.

Should this order be carried out it would mean that freight traffic, automobile traffic, telephone and telegraph organizations, proprietors of amusement places, druggists who sell anything but medicines, newspaper workers, street car employees, companies operating excursions, choir members, surgeons, confectioners, etc., and in fact all engaged in any form of work whatever which might be classed as unnecessary, will be violating the laws by engaging therein on Sunday.

FRENCH MADE PROGRESS EAST OF MEUSE RIVER

Paris, June 28.—The official report given out last night said: "In the Champagne region intense artillery preparation the Germans succeeded in penetrating some of our small posts in the direction of the Tahure salient. They were driven out soon afterwards by counter-attacks. "On the left bank of the Meuse the bombardment continued with big shells in the sectors of Avocourt and Chantonnay. Preparations for an attack reported going on in the German trenches east of Hill 284 miscarried under the fire of our artillery. "On the right bank we made some progress with grenades north of Hill 304 and in the neighborhood of the Thiaumont wood."

proverb "Where there's a will there's a way" may be thought a trifle banal, it has the greatest possible value for international agreements.

If a fundamental understanding could be arrived at detailed arrangements need not offer the slightest difficulty. The Socialists, who are regarded with such mistrust by the capitalists with their tendency to divide the nations into hostile camps, would find a rich field for work in this matter. All the strength of the Social Democrats would rally to the maintenance of these international agreements.

Peia to German Leaders. "We earnestly trust that our politicians and parliamentarians will devote their attention to these ideas which have for a long time been discussed in neutral and enemy countries by those who have a right understanding of this world war. A way would then be found out of this world catastrophe more quickly than by fixing a fatalistic glance at the events.

RELEASE OF AMERICANS.

LONDON SURPRISED AT APPOINTMENT TO CANADA

London, June 28.—(By F. A. Mackenzie).—The news of the appointment of the Duke of Devonshire to the governor-generalship of Canada came as a complete surprise in London, his name never having been mentioned previously in this connection. The Duke of Devonshire's main characteristics are simplicity, straightforwardness, general John Bullishness and common-sense. To this can be added that the duke is especially interested in agriculture, having served on the councils of the Royal Agricultural, Shire Horse and Short Horn societies.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING TO-MORROW

Representatives on Jubilee Hospital Board to be Named To-morrow -
A special meeting of the city council will be held to-morrow afternoon to appoint five representatives on the board of directors of the Royal Jubilee hospital. The appointment must be made in the month of June by the hospital's private act.

The sitting members are R. S. Day, the president of the institution; Andrew Wright, Leonard Tait, A. J. Kilpatrick and Simon Leiser. They are among the most active members of the board, and are almost certain to be re-elected unopposed, the good showing financially indicated by the report published yesterday appealing to the aldermen, who in other years have been frequently called upon for aid to make up adverse balances.

The meeting will be preceded by a sitting of the civic court of revision, at which it is hoped to close up the work. There will not be a session of the streets and sewers committee, subsequently, as little business calls for attention.

The long controversy with regard to automobiles for the engineering department has at length been settled by the sale of three old cars and the purchase of a new Overland car. It was brought into use yesterday.

City officials will be glad to hear that Boyd Ehle, the resident engineer on the Sooke waterworks and one of the best engineers ever in the city employment, is prospering in his new position. The water commissioner has received a letter from him from Tunja, Colombia, a place in the Eastern Cordillera of the South American republic, in which he stated that he intended to reach Bogota on June 10, and would leave for home at the end of this month. Mr. Ehle is on railway reconnaissance work. He was formerly engaged in the Panama canal some before coming to Victoria, and is therefore familiar with the Latin Americas, speaking Spanish fluently.

To-morrow the application of the solicitors interested in the Hanna arbitration case will be heard in supreme court chambers for an opinion on some technical points raised in the proceedings, as to the admission of certain evidence. When a judicial opinion has been given on these points, the arbitration will then continue.

Garden Party Postponed.—The garden party which was to have been held at the golf links, on Wednesday, July 5, has been postponed owing to other attractions being held during that week.

Oak Bay Public School.—The closing exercises and annual inspection of the cadet corps of Oak Bay public school will take place to-morrow on the school grounds, Monterey avenue, commencing at 10 a. m. All friends of the pupils are cordially invited to attend.

Lecture on Shakespeare.—E. O. S. Schofield, provincial librarian, will lecture to-night at the Unitarian church on Shakespeare. The lecture has been elaborately prepared by Mr. Schofield, who has a number of very beautiful slides prepared from famous paintings of Shakespeare characters and scenes, and these in themselves would be well worth seeing. Rev. W. G. Letham will preside as chairman. The public is invited. The lecture commences at 8 o'clock.

For Serbian Relief Fund.—The strawberry and cream social tea, held at the home of Mrs. A. Petch, Marchant road, on Tuesday, was a very successful gathering. Most of those present availed themselves of the opportunity to have the lines of their hands read by a very clever palmist, who had kindly offered her services for the occasion. Mrs. J. W. Petch presided at the piano and discoursed music to the delight of those present. The proceeds, which were in aid of the Serbian Relief fund, totalled $15, which will be handed over to those in charge of the fund. The committee who had charge of the affair and supplied the delicacies was composed of the following ladies: Mrs. Freeland, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. F. Lindsay, Mrs. F. Verdier, Miss Clarke and Mrs. A. Petch.

Will Hold "At Home."—The Victoria Psychological Society will hold an "at home" social this evening at 8 o'clock in the A. O. F. hall Broad street. An excellent programme has been arranged, a novel feature of which is a hat trimming competition for gentlemen. Refreshments will be served.

Garden Fete.—The Ladies Guild of St. Mary Magdalene Mission, Gosworth road, will hold a sale of work and garden party on Thursday, July 4, commencing at 2.30. Plain and fancy articles, plants, home-made cakes and candy will be on sale; also ice cream. A fish pond will amuse the children. A concert will be held in the evening at 8 o'clock.

The Tyrolsian Quest.—The V. D. O. B. Musical Society which will present this opera on July 4 and 5 in the Old Victoria theatre, in aid of the Returned Soldiers' Association and the poor of Victoria, have just received a letter from his honor the Lieutenant governor, expressing the pleasure it will afford him and Mrs. Barnard to extend their patronage to the entertainment.

Recital This Evening.—The Thos. Steele choir will give an open recital at the British Columbia Academy of Music this evening at 8.15. Coleridge-Taylor's Cantata, "Hawatha's Wedding Feast" and several part songs will be sung. Mrs. Macdonald Fahey will sing the obligato solo in Bishop's "Trump Now Trump" and J. MacMillan Muir the tenor solos. Miss May Mitchell and Miss Rowena Barker, pupils of Mr. Steele, and Miss Mona Misner, pupil of Mrs. Fahey, will also sing. R. Thos. Steele will be the conductor and Miss Phyllis Clayton will be at the piano. Friends of the pupils and the public are cordially invited.

ESQUIMALT ELECTORS AT LUXTON MEETING

A number of Victoria Liberals are going out to Luxton to-morrow evening to hear the Liberal leader and M. A. Macdonald at the public meeting to be held in that central district of the Esquimalt provincial constituency.

A Motor car will leave the Empress hotel at seven o'clock, and Esquimalt cars will leave Esquimalt and Admirals roads at 7.15, and anyone who would like to attend the meeting will be welcome to a seat out and back. The meeting is arousing a great deal of interest in the district and a large attendance is certain.

The leader, H. C. Brewster, and M. A. Macdonald will be the speakers of the evening. It was hoped to have William Sloan present also, but the Nanaimo convention is being held to-morrow evening and Mr. Sloan has to attend that as a delegate. He has therefore had to send a message of regret at his inability to be at the meeting, and will be heard at a later date during the campaign.

The meeting will be held in the Luxton hall and will begin at eight o'clock. Women are especially invited to the meeting and already several have signified their intention of being there. This will be the first meeting that the Liberal leaders have addressed since the session, and therefore there will be much interest to hear them.

St. Columba Plenio.—St. Columba Sunday school annual picnic will be held at the Willows beach on Saturday at 10 a. m.

Special Meeting.—Pythian Sisters are requested to attend a special meeting which will be held on Friday at 3 o'clock prompt.

One Case.—There was only one case in the city police court this morning. E. J. Cameron was fined $5 for using a car on Yates street without an alarm bell, gong, or horn attached.

Victoria Red Cross.—A meeting of the general committee of the Victoria and District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be held to-morrow at 4 p. m. at the headquarters, Temple building. The executive committee will meet at 3.30. All members are urged to attend.

Patriotic Service.—Next Sunday night, at the First Presbyterian church, there will be a patriotic service, the last of the kind which will take place until after the holidays. Through the courtesy of Lt.-Col. Bruce Powley, O. C. of the band of the Bantams Battalion will play. The honor roll, as is usual at these patriotic services, will be read, the roll containing over 200 names.

Legion of Frontiersmen.—The following order was issued from headquarters, amousoy building, this morning: "All Frontiersmen in the city and district are earnestly requested to attend special meeting at Frontiersmen's headquarters on Friday afternoon, June 30, at 2.30 p. m. to meet Sir Rider Haggard. Dress: Full dress without holster. (Sgd.) Seymour Rowlinson, major, sub-commandant."

Congregational Church.—Harry Ballantyne, the national secretary of the Y. M. C. A. western provinces, who is visiting the city, will speak in the Congregational church, corner of Quadra and Mason streets, on Sunday morning next. Mr. Ballantyne is a pleasant and forcible speaker, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Young men are especially invited. In the evening G. S. Watson, M. A., general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. military camp, will preach.

Did Not Stop Running.—A small boy called the fire department out at 1 o'clock this morning to Green street, where smoke was issuing from Brown & Cooper's smoke house. When the chief told him the cause of the smoke and that he had been unnecessarily alarmed, he never stopped running till he got out of sight of the firemen. This is the second false alarm to these premises recently owing to passers-by not appreciating the nature of the business.

Cricket Tea.—In connection with the cricket match which is to be held in aid of the Red Cross on Saturday at the Jubilee Hospital grounds, the tea committee of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I. O. D. E., are asking for donations of cakes, tea, coffee, sugar, strawberries, breads of all kinds, etc., and will be most grateful if donors will leave the same at Clay's (Fort street), before 1 o'clock on Saturday, or send direct to the grounds. Mrs. F. C. Elliott, convenor, 1166 View street (phone 702L) will most gratefully receive offers of assistance. Tea will be served from 3 o'clock on, and patrons will be helping the Red Cross, to which the entire gate receipts and tea receipts will be given.

Exemption for Soldiers' Gifts.—The department of customs, Ottawa, has informed collectors of customs that the British government hereafter will exempt from customs duty gifts sent from Canada to soldiers from Canada serving in British regiments stationed in Great Britain, and to naval reservists and others from Canada serving in the navy, provided they are addressed in care of the Canadian War Contingent Association, Army post office, London, England. Arrangements have been made for this association to act as a central authority for the distribution of such parcels from Canada. This concession, it should be noted, is restricted to such parcels as are sent through the above association.

YOU CAN HELP

make the Saturday Half-Holiday a real boon to both clerk and employer by shopping early.

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association held at Fletcher Bros' Music Store on Tuesday, and presided over by Mr. Jas. Fletcher, it was strongly urged that the public be asked to assist in making the new institution an unqualified success by changing their shopping day from Saturday to Friday.

The members unanimously agreed that in the interests of all parties concerned it was their duty as a body and as members individually to give the change a thoroughly fair trial and accord their cooperation in every way possible.

Commencing with Friday, June 30, all the retail stores in the city will keep open until 9.30 on Friday night instead of Saturday.

SIR RIDER HAGGARD ARRIVES IN CITY

Seeking to Direct Post-bellum Emigration From Britain to Overseas Dominions

TO STUDY SITUATION IN CANADIAN WEST

Famous Novelist Will Meet Returned Soldiers' Commission To-morrow

Sir Henry Rider Haggard, Bart., the famous novelist and land reformer, arrived on R.M.S. Niagara this afternoon, as delegate of the Royal Colonial Institute in connection with a scheme for settling British soldiers on land in the overseas dominions after the war.

Sir Rider's mission has already been alluded to in "Cabbies" from Australia, showing the hearty co-operation offered by the governments of the various states. He visited a large part of the Commonwealth and met with encouragement in this valuable contribution to the readjustment of society after the war.

It is understood that no concrete plan will be advised by the visitor till all his inquiries are concluded, and even then it may be necessary to wait until the war is concluded.

It is the intention of the distinguished visitor to lay his case before the Returned Soldiers' Commission to-morrow, and there are invitations from the Canadian Club to a luncheon and to address the Board of Trade waiting a decision on his arrival.

On behalf of the Military Hospitals Commission and Economic Development Commission, the secretary, E. H. Scammell, arrived from Vancouver today to meet Sir Rider and arrange for his Canadian tour. It is understood that the novelist will remain in Victoria as the guest of his brother, Lt.-Col. A. C. P. Haggard, over the week end, and then proceed to Vancouver.

Empire's Destiny.
 Sir Rider Haggard, speaking in Melbourne on the work of the mission to the overseas dominions, said that some years ago, by one of those strange coincidences which followed and amazed us in life, he had addressed a meeting in the very same room, and he remembered having said that "The empire was a thing worth living for, and a thing worth dying for." At that time these remarks might have appeared to be cheap imperial sentiment, but he now thought that he must have been gifted with the wand of prophecy, as since then how many have died for that empire! He had come to see that Great Britain and the empire after the war lost no clot of their own blood, but kept all of it. After a great war new conditions arose, and those who had taken part in it became filled with a spirit of wandering. Then the circumstance must not be forgotten that in Great Britain women in their hundreds of thousands had taken the place of men. He did not think those women would be easily dispossessed. Migration might not be so large as he thought, but if so it would be a phenomenon. After the Boer war 300,000 people left the United Kingdom, and half went to America. He wanted to see that after this war those men who migrated should go to the dominions beyond the sea.

At the Cross Roads.
 The empire stood at the cross-roads. On the one hand there was the possibility of retrogression, on the other a magnificent future. Our white population was relatively small. With sixty millions of people we were trying to hold a quarter of the earth, and if that population were stagnant this proportion would not be enough. The empire had many dangers to face in the future—it was only foolish men who thought that at the conclusion of the war all danger to the empire would have gone. It would only have begun. We must not think we could stamp out the most terrible hatred of Great Britain, and we must be prepared and be ready for it. The empire must be armed against the evils which one day would fall upon it afresh. His task had not been easily arranged, and as late as the night before, he thought he would not be successful. In fact, it was just before the luncheon took place that everything had been successfully arranged. The following letter had been received by him from the premier of Victoria:

"With reference to the discussions between yourself and the government of the state of Victoria as to the objects of your mission, I have the honor to inform you that we are prepared to extend to all United Kingdom ex-servicemen and their families the same advantages as regards land settlement or otherwise as we give to our returned Australian soldiers, with the stipulation that the men would require to be selected in England in some approved fashion, which can be subsequently settled."

"I do not enter into details, or propound any special scheme, since these must be finally agreed upon according to the circumstances that may arise before the conclusion of the present war."

"I would point out that any participation by the United Kingdom men in private funds raised for the benefit of Australian soldiers is not expected."

"The government of Victoria welcomes this opportunity of expressing in a practical way its belief in that unity

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the only medicine in the world that is made from the juices of fresh ripe fruits. Thus, it is manifestly unsafe to say, "I won't take Fruit-a-tives because I have tried other remedies," and they did me no good." On the other hand, the fact that "Fruit-a-tives" is entirely different from any other preparation in the world, is just why you should give it a fair trial, in any trouble of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys or Skin. of purpose and citizenship which animates our empire. "I regret I have not had time to confer with the other states, but I feel sure they will desire to extend the same privileges."

The Future.
 "Let," Sir Rider Haggard said in conclusion, "the British empire as a whole be animated by and act upon the spirit of this letter, and I am sure, long after me, and after our strivings are but past history, that the empire will stand august and safe, bending the knee to none, dependent upon itself alone; a constellation of free people, a shining wonder to the world. I learn from that letter, I learn from the faces of those who listen to me, that in this matter, as in the terrific business of the war we are waging to safeguard our imperial, our national, and our individual life, and all we hold dear."

A Romantic Career.
 It is not given to every man to achieve fame in a single field of activity, but Sir Rider Haggard has done work of permanent merit in two very widely diverse avenues of human endeavor.

To the thousands of readers of fiction and books of travel the author of "King Solomon's Mines" is a household acquaintance, while to the land reformer and empire builder his investigations into agrarian questions and the settlement of the waste places of the overseas dominions have been watched with interest, the valuable reports issued from his pen ranking among the principal contributions to this problem in recent years.

A younger brother of Col. Andrew C. P. Haggard, D. S. O., who has long resided on Vancouver Island, Sir Rider, who was born at Bradenham Hall, Norfolk, England, on June 22, 1856, comes of a family that has won fame in many channels, though chiefly in literature and diplomacy during the past generation. He is the sixth son of William Meybohm Rider Haggard. Sir Rider was educated at Ipswich.

At the early age of 19 he went to South Africa as secretary to Sir Henry Bulwer, governor of Natal, at a time when affairs were coming to a crisis, both in the Transvaal and across the Tugela.

The presidency of Rev. T. F. Burgers at Pretoria had ended disastrously in a depleted exchequer, disaffected Boers, and a country threatened by the Zulu invasion. The Natal colonists were equally apprehensive of the warlike impetuosity of Cetwayo, and the future of British rule in South Africa was hampered by differences between the officials on the spot and the home administration at Downing street.

Sir Theophilus Shepstone enjoyed the confidence of the various nationalities in a marked degree, and to him was allotted the task of dealing with the Boers at Pretoria. Sir Henry accompanied him as secretary on the mission, and with Col. Brooks, R. E., had the honor of hoisting the Union Jack in the Transvaal capital on May 24, 1877, after the first annexation of the Boer republic. Subsequently he became a member of the high court of the Transvaal. He acted as secretary of the Sececoent commission, Sececoent being a native chief, who caused the British much trouble, his stronghold having to be stormed.

In 1879 the Zulu war with Cetwayo broke out, and the incidents of that war, particularly the defeat at Isandlwana, are the subject of his graphic description in some of his novels. He was adjutant of a corps of Pretoria Horse formed at the time of the struggle with the dusky impis, and the best descriptions of Zulu warfare with the crescent formation moving into battle with their terrible assegais are found in his books on Zulu life.

In 1879 he returned to England, and married Miss Margitson, of Ditchingham, Norfolk, where he resides. He studied law, and was called at Lincoln's Inn in 1884.

Commencement Authorship.
 In 1882 appeared the defence of the policy of Sir Theophilus Shepstone, "Cetwayo and His White Neighbors," "Dawn" and the "Witch's Head" followed. Then came in 1886 "King Solomon's Mines," that wonderful story which established his permanent popularity and drew attention to the Zimbabwe ruins, the most historic archaeological remains of the Bantus' country.

From that date onwards flowed freely from his pen the remarkable series of South African tales that are in every library, in which fantastic marvels, realistic travel pictures and hairbreadth escapes follow in bewildering sequence. To himself and Bertram Mitford may be set down the knowledge of South African life possessed by the ordinary Anglo-Saxon reader, the stories of the Great Trek, of the wars of Dingaan and Cetwayo, and of the natural history of the veldt and the vast hinterland watered by the affluents of the Zambesi, later brought by Cecil Rhodes under the British flag.

Of later years Sir Rider turned to the storied pages of sixteenth century European history and in "Lysbeth" has pictured the defence of Leyden in the realm of Motley. Ancient Egypt and the fall of Jerusalem, as well as the picturesque pages of the Crusaders' records, have been drawn upon for material of his stories.

In "Montezuma's Daughter" and the "Heart of the World" he turned to the downfall of the Aztec empire, finding in the narrative of the Spanish conquest material for the same thrilling incidents which stir the reader in the South African tales.

A Land Reformer.
 Sir Rider subsequently began to devote attention to land reform. A practical farmer, he made a thorough investigation into the problems of the rural population in England, particularly with regard to small holdings, in 1901 and 1902, and later was a special commissioner to investigate the Salvation Army colonies in the United States and at Haddley, Eng. He served as chairman of the reclamation and unemployed labor committee on coast erosion and reforestation, which occupied some years, and from all these bodies valuable publications have been issued, his work having raised him to a foremost place. In 1912 he was appointed a representative of the United Kingdom on the Dominions Royal Commission, which has already taken a great deal of evidence, but not yet in Canada, on account of the war intervening. Of this body Sir Edgar Vincent is chairman, and Sir George Foster the Canadian representative.

Sir Rider has been chairman of the Society of Authors. He is a J. P. for Norfolk and Suffolk, and chairman of a bench of magistrates there. He was knighted in 1912, and made a baronet this year. In 1905 he unsuccessfully contested the East Division of Norfolk in the Unionist interest, being defeated by Sir R. J. Price.

FULL SHARE DONE BY FRENCH RESERVISTS

Conception They Were Merely Last Resource Has Passed Away

Paris, June 29.—An appreciation of reservists since the beginning of the war is contributed to the Socialist newspaper, L'Humanite, by General Percin.

"Before the war," he says, "the reservist was considered a mere odd man, a stop-gap, a last resource. He could not have the dash, the enthusiasm, the resource, the generosity of the soldier of the regular army."

These assertions, General Percin thinks, have been completely contradicted by recent events. He points out that the first soldier to receive a medal in the campaign was Trumpeter Martin, reservist, 4th Hussars, who gallantly went to the assistance of his lieutenant on August 14, 1914. Many other incidents are quoted to prove that the reservist is not only equal in bravery to his younger and more recently trained comrades in the ranks, but that he frequently manifests superior initiative, developed in his civilian experience and unattainable in the easy life and under the necessarily narrow discipline of the barracks.

"After the first battles," continues General Percin, "it was necessary to reconstitute our units with reserves drawn from the depots. These men were chosen from the most vigorous of the reservists, from those who wanted to go to the front and had got their uniforms and had brought the best boots. We took what we could get; we took even territorials. In the reconstituted units the proportion of reservists numbered from 45 to 75 per cent; the soldier from the barracks thus became the exception. All did their duty. Acts of heroism became more numerous as the composition of the units came more and more to represent the nation in arms. Our first victories were coincident with the augmentation of the units by reservists. The soldier of the barracks is only an apprentice reservist. When he is worthy of being a reservist it is time to send him home."

LIEBKNECHT STILL MEMBER OF REICHSTAG

Berlin, June 29.—The conviction of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, on a charge of attempted treason, with provision for an appeal, automatically disbars him as a lawyer and makes him ineligible to hold public office. It does not affect his position as a member of the Prussian Diet and the Reichstag, however, as these offices are held as the result of election by the voters and not by government appointment. His status as a legislator is unaffected, as the court refrained from revoking his civil rights.

BIG INSURANCE TRANSACTION

In these so-called hard times when so many men are showing the red signal of business distress it is refreshing to see the leaders in the various walks of industrial activity boldly launching out upon a policy of expansion and development. It is well for the community that these "live wires" with their spirit of optimism and their unquenchable faith in the future of the Island act as a wholesome antidote.

In the insurance world there must be included Mr. George I. Warren, resident manager of the Guardian Casualty & Guaranty Company. In this "live wire" class, Mr. Warren has been undeterred by the pessimists. The beginning of the period of depression was for him no reason for adopting a policy of business pusillanimity but a reason for courageously branching out on a bigger scale. He begs to advise that he has taken over all the sickness and accident business on Vancouver Island of the Union Pacific Life Insurance Company, the American Life & Accident Insurance Company, the British Columbia Accident and Employers' Liability Company, the First National Life Assurance Society and the International Casualty Company. One of Mr. Warren's outstanding characteristics is his abounding optimism, and when others are thinking of going back he invariably seizes the opportunity and steps forward. He is to be warmly congratulated on this addition to his large business, and his many friends and clients will be glad to hear of his well deserved success.

FISHERMEN'S WORK VALUED BY FRANCE

3,000 Mobilized Men Released to Go to the Cod Banks

Paris, June 29.—The ceremony of "the blessing of the catch" that precedes each spring the departure of the French cod-fishing fleets for Icelandic waters and the banks of Newfoundland, has lost none of its interest or picturesque quality, though the fleets are considerably diminished on account of the war.

The fleets of Pecamp, Paimpol, St. Malo, Cancale, Saint Servan and Granville altogether are sending out about 100 vessels this year as against 200 that composed the combined fleets before the war. The steam trawlers were nearly all requisitioned by the government, and a great many members of the crews were mobilized. This year 3,000 of these mobilized men have been given leave from the army in order to prevent the cod-fishing industry from declining to the point of disaster. The war has shown France the importance of her fisheries, and already ways and means of improving the facilities after the war are being discussed.

While the cod catch will be greatly inferior to the average again this year, there will be plenty of Cancale oysters, for the women have replaced the mobilized men in the important annual catch of seed oysters off the Breton coast. It is really a man's work, for the barques are heavy and the sails are neither light nor easily managed, but the women handle them with as much skill as courage, and the season's catch of oysters to be taken shoreward for breeding purposes will not fall far short of the average season.

LINE IN ARGONNE STRONGLY FORTIFIED

Preparations Made by French Forces Described by H. Warner Allen

London, June 29.—The changes that have been wrought in the fortifications and defences of the Argonne district during the space of nine months by the French, are described in the following dispatch from H. Warner Allen, representative of the British press with the French armies. The Argonne country is, from the military point of view, notoriously difficult. The forest of the Argonne is, as it were, a backbone, running north and south, and for military purposes to-day it is bounded by Sainte Menehould on the west and by Clermonten-Argonne on the east. The backbone itself is marked by the road which is known as the Haute-Chaunee, continued by the Chemin-des-Romains. From the crest there runs down a series of abrupt and deep ravines on the west towards the valley of the Bloune and on the east towards the valley of the Alre.

Earlier Belief. Not so many months ago this country was regarded as absolutely impenetrable for an invader. Trenches were difficult to dig, since water was very near the surface, and it was believed that the thickness of the undergrowth and the broken nature of the ground were sufficient to prevent any advance on the part of the enemy. The result was that there were practically no barbed wire entanglements, no continuous system of trenches except in the advanced lines, and no shelters dug deep in the rock. Modern warfare, however, has shown that geographical difficulties, if they are not supplemented by artificial defences, are insufficient as a barrier.

The French front from the North Sea to Switzerland was so strongly fortified that the Argonne forest, with all its thickets and ravines and cover, appeared to the German high command easier of assault than the plains of Flanders and the bare rolling hills of Champagne. The result was that it was here that the crown prince's army made one of the greatest German offensive efforts that had been made during the war up to the time of the attack on Verdun. The valor of the French troops took the place of barbed wire and earthworks, and such insignificant advance as the enemy could make was dearly paid for.

New Ideas. But the lesson was not lost upon the French, and since the German offensive at the end of last summer they have been working hard to convert the Argonne forest into an impenetrable fortress, for which it seems to have been expressly designed by nature. Since that date there has been a change of general, and new ideas, based on experience, have been given their full effect. To-day it is admitted that without barbed wire and that organized system of trenches which has taken the place of the castles and fortresses of the past, no troops can hope for success, whether they are standing on the defensive or gathering their forces to attack the enemy.

To-day no part of the French line is more highly organized than the defences of the Argonne. From the nature of the ground continuous trenches are impossible and undesirable. The system adopted is that of a series of centres of resistance, mutually interdependent. Wherever there is a hill there is a fortress. On the higher hills there have been built citadels that command the lower eminences, every one of which is fortified. The fortresses themselves, behind their barbed wire defences, differ not at all from a medieval castle, except for one thing—the walls of a castle were raised many feet above the ground; the walls of a modern fortress are hidden many feet below the soil.

A Moat. It came as a surprise to visit one of these earthworks on an important hill, and suddenly to discover that it was surrounded by a moat. The main gate to the fortress was provided with a drawbridge across the moat, which was filled, not with water, but with a bristling array of chevaux-de-frise. The moat was carefully concealed, so that a charging mass of men, convinced that they could reach the trenches in front of them, would suddenly disappear down a drop of many feet. The drawbridge, thanks to a cunning system of weights, could be raised by a touch of the hand in a few seconds. There was no portcullis, but in its stead there was a wooden door, dully loopholed, against which sandbags could be piled to resist any attack. The sandbags were ready in the passage behind, and in three minutes half a dozen men could have backed the door with them.

Dugouts. In the ancient castle the gates gave access to a courtyard on the ground level. In the modern fortress drawbridge and gate open on a narrow dark corridor that slopes down into the bowels of the earth. There, under 20 or 30 feet of soil and rock, the garrison can placidly await the end of the bombardment. In their artificial caverns they have everything they can need. To the layman it seems inconceivable that such a fortress could ever be taken, and even supposing the fortress were carried, it is but a point in the line, an unessential part of the whole fortified area. It is commanded by other fortresses to left and right, dug deeper in the rock, and perched on higher hills. The capture of a single work can make no impression on the whole system of defence.

Little Rops For Enemy. These impenetrable earthworks have the same purpose as the walls and towers of the military engineers of the past. Walls and towers were built not

A Lecture on Christian Science

By Clarence W. Chadwick, C.S.B. Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., Entitled CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: A Religion of Right Thinking

Introduction by Mrs. English, First Reader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Victoria: Ladies and Gentlemen: In these days people in all countries are being driven to seek for a more spiritual way of thinking and living than has hitherto satisfied them.

They are beginning to discover that materiality affords no secure basis for health, happiness or protection and that they must look to some law or power higher than the human, if they are to enjoy that security and freedom which we all instinctively feel is the natural heritage of all people and all nations.

It is the experience of those who adopt Christian Science that they find an ever increasing sense of health and happiness as they learn to understand and obey the Divine Law upon which Christian Science is founded. This Divine Law is unchanging and impartial, it has equal benefits for all, it makes no distinction of age, sex or class. Whatever the profession or walk in life may be, it is found by those who rely upon it that this law can be applied to the daily problems and solve them in such a way as to benefit all concerned.

It brings order and discipline into the home or schoolroom which is governed by it, giving health instead of sickness, replacing fear and anxiety by courage and confidence. Christian Science has a faithful promise of help and comfort for all those who are in anywise afflicted or distressed in mind, body or estate.

It is in order to give you an opportunity of hearing for yourselves that you have been invited this afternoon to listen to a lecture on Christian Science which will give you a correct idea of the subject, from one who has had many years experience of its practice.

I have great pleasure in introducing to you Mr. Clarence W. Chadwick, C.S.B., a Member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Chadwick then spoke as follows:

There are no other two words in the human vocabulary which are attracting more thoughtful attention throughout the world to-day than Christianity and Science. Some still seriously object to any intimate association of these words, but may it not be that the present world-wide interest in the subject of Christian Science is due to the fact that Mrs. Eddy was the one in this age to discover the scientific unity between Christianity and Science? Prior to her discovery there seemed to be very little in common between them. By many they were looked upon as polar opposites. Mrs. Eddy through spiritual discernment brought these mistimed positive and negative poles together and, behold, a light whose resplendent rays are penetrating to the four corners of the globe!

It is the purpose of this lecture to tell you something of the mission of a religion of right ideas known in this age as Christian Science, and present to the world in its text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

A THOUGHT WORLD In the evolution of human thinking it is becoming more and more evident that we live in a thought world. What ever confronts us must be of mental procurement else there could be no mental or conscious recognition of it. What doctored on the retina? We see things because we think them. Things are thoughts and thoughts are things. Divest human existence of all thought and there would be nothing left to see, hear, touch, taste or smell. Without thought there would be nothing to think or to talk about.

If there is no sound where there is no one to hear it, sound must be mental. If there is no sight, touch, taste or smell in the absence of any mind or mentality, then sight, touch, taste and smell are mental, not material. Everything cognizable to the senses is a manifestation of thought. A game of baseball is an exhibition of thought. Divest it of all thought and there would be no ball game. The Twentieth Century limited going at full speed in a manifestation of thought. An airplane in flight is thought in motion. Without thought it could never have been invented. The architect thinks his forty-story building before committing it to paper. The finished structure ready for occupancy is but objectified human thought. And so on throughout the entire round of human existence we can cognize nothing outside of the realm of thought.

MRS. EDDY'S DISCOVERY. It was in the year 1866 that Mrs. Eddy made the all-important discovery that "all causation was Mind, and every effect a mental phenomenon" (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 24).

By Mind she means not the carnal or mortal mind which "is enmity against God," but our infinite supreme creative governing intelligence of the universe, eternal and unchangeable. This is the Mind that the great Apostle referred to when he said: "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." This is the Mind that Jesus employed to heal the sick and sinful, to still the tempest, and to raise the dead. He referred to it as "my Father, and your Father," "my God, and your God." This Mind is the "us" mentioned in Genesis 1: 26: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness." This was the Mind revealed to Moses when he was instructed to "say unto the children of Israel, I Am hath sent me unto you."

It is this clear-cut conception of Mind as elucidated by Mrs. Eddy that is changing the religious thought of the whole world. Not since the days of Jesus and his apostles has any Christian denomination except Christian Science said to its followers: "There is one infinite all-good Mind which is the creator of man and the universe, and this Mind is God, or Spirit, who is of purer eyes than to behold evil, and cannot not look on iniquity." This Mind is omnipotence, omnipresence and omniscience, infinite and indivisible, therefore never in nor of matter. The real man is the image and likeness of this infinite Mind, spiritual and perfect now.

It seems almost needless to state that the reception of this enlarged concept or right idea of Mind by the world has already resulted in the healing of numerous cases of insanity, has restored incorrigibles, has resurrected the feeble minded, has healed inveterate sin and abnormal temperamental traits, and conquered depraved appetites. "There are also many other things which Mind hath done," "the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written."

CAUSATION. Since there is one infinite Mind or intelligence this Mind must be the first and only cause. To admit any other cause than would be equivalent to admitting more than one God, which would be breaking the first great commandment. And since God is infinite good, He could not cause anything unlike good. As the Scriptures plainly state it: "God saw everything that he had made, and behold it was very good."

If Christian people would accept and hold to this idea of infinite good they would quickly and effectively dispose of the problem of evil. It may be easier for the so-called Adam man to admit the power and presence of evil because he sees it through the material senses, but the sole consolation of the Christian is the joy that comes to him because he knows through spiritual sense that God, good, is omnipotent and omnipresent.

It is possible for every human being to gain this practical knowledge of God. We call it practical because it can be proved in every-day experience. To know that there is one infinite spiritual cause affords a basis for scientific demonstration. To believe in many causes absolutely incapacitates one for proving the omnipotence of good. To admit a real cause for evil would give it a foundation in fact, would endow it with power and place mankind at its mercy.

Because Christian Science is the gospel of good to the world, its mission is to implant in human consciousness the idea of one infinite all-good cause which never created evil nor suffered it to exist for some wise purpose, as is so often asserted. Jesus was a man of ideas. He was the perfect example of a thinking man. The basis of his wonderful healing works and his incomparable reasoning and logic was this very idea of perfect spiritual causation. And it must be come ours before we can follow in his mental footsteps. The contemplation of imperfect thought models will never bring health, happiness or blissness into human consciousness. Guessing as to the nature of God and his heavenly kingdom never enables one to define good or to overcome evil. Faith without works is simply guessing, not knowing, and guessing will never usher anyone into the spiritual kingdom of "righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost."

CREATION. Many of us can no doubt recall our childish concept of creation when first reading the book of Genesis, how we tried to picture a primeval chaotic state where there was no light and no created thing in existence, and that later, God to us the then great unknown said, "Let there be light: and there was light."

Could we then have paused to ask ourselves who or what is God? We might have been spared many unnecessary experiences in later years, but most of us did not pause, but listlessly accepted the superficial belief that there was a time when God was alone; and not until the advent of Christian Science did we awaken from this material dream to find out the real nature of God and His spiritual creation, co-existent with Him. Reasoning from cause to effect in the light of Christian Science, thinking persons are quite ready to admit that creation, in order to be a truthful, accurate, perfect expression of infinite Mind, must be wholly mental.

If there are any skeptics to whom this subject may seem vague or intangible, let them grasp the meaning of the word "idea" as applied to God's creation and they will find something far more tangible and real than anything which they have cognized through the physical senses. Christian Science makes it indubitably clear to us that Mind finds expression, not through mortal or human thoughts, but through its own perfect spiritual thoughts or ideas. Unless there was a time when Mind was without expression, there never was a time when these ideas did not exist. When this point is grasped it will explain the meaning of a "finished" or "ended" creation, mentioned in Genesis.

Human thought approaches this subject by slow stages, and those who have erroneously confused the two diametrically opposite accounts of creation in the first and second chapters of Genesis will do well to study that most helpful and illuminating chapter in Science and Health which deals with this much misunderstood subject.

IDEAS DEFINED. Ideas are not the visionary imaginings of the human mind. "My thoughts are not your thoughts," saith the Lord. God's thoughts are reflections, expressions or manifestations of His own nature. They are divine realities. As rays of light from the sun, they reflect but do not absorb the nature or being of God. They are indestructible, therefore eternal. Human thoughts are transitory, destructible, unreal. They are "not of the Father" but "of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth" (Continued on page 13.)

Assistant Commissioner Reports What is Being Done by Society There

The following extract from a report forwarded by Captain Harry Blaylock, assistant commissioner in France of the Canadian Red Cross Society, will give an idea of what is being done by this organization for our men and our allies:

"Monday morning, May 29, I proceeded to Paris, reaching there at noon. I visited our representative, M. Philippe Roy, and met Sergt. Testar, whom I had sent down from Boulogne to assist for a few days. A consignment of 5,516 cases of Red Cross supplies had reached them from London, and which within their limited staff, they had done wonders in handling it, they needed assistance with the booking, etc. Some idea of the size of this shipment can be gathered from the fact that it required 42 railway trucks to bring it from the port to a station just outside Paris. The cases were removed from there to our depot, a distance of some 8 kilometres, by motor lorries loaned by the French government. This meant 8 days hard work and some 82 journeys. Tuesday was spent sorting out and booking in the cases, and when I had left Paris on Wednesday afternoon, the entire shipment had been counted and was stacked in six of the large barracks which the French government had built for us.

"One hundred and thirty-nine cases of the shipment had not arrived, but were on the way and were expected in a day or two. I might add that from the Paris depot we have already sent supplies to considerably over 200 needy French hospitals and have requests in hand for over 1,000 cases. These requests are being filled this week.

"On Wednesday I returned to Boulogne. Thursday and Friday were spent there with arrears of work and going through the stores and ingents of the week.

"On Saturday, learning that our troops were heavily engaged at the front, I left immediately for headquarters to see if we could render any assistance. Of what I saw, I can say but little. Our losses were severe and our men had fought splendidly. I was with the D. D. M. S. throughout the day and night. It was the first time I had seen advanced dressing stations, field ambulances and casualty clearing stations at work during a heavy action. They are magnificent. We got to one dressing station in an old mill about 2 a. m. Here, with sandbags piled on every side, as the place was heavily shelled, were the doctors and orderlies tending to the wounded as they came in as coolly as if in their surgeries at home. True, lanterns took the place of electric light and the floor served as a dressing table, but the care, tenderness and quickness with which each case was handled and sent off to a clearing station was marvellous. The O. C. of this particular unit had been hit the night before and at that time was dying and ten men had been wounded, but everything went on as usual.

"We were able to render much assistance during the night. Once, a shortage of stretchers threatened and I was able, with the assistance of the British Red Cross, to supply them with 200 from Boulogne in six hours; they reached them at 3 a. m. Also, our lorries were going incessantly taking up sterilized bandages, etc. By midnight Saturday the battal had died down and our work had begun supplying the base hospitals."

FAREWELL SOCIAL Congregation of First Baptist Church To-night Will Say Goodbye to Rev. J. B. Warnicker.

There will be a farewell social to Rev. J. B. Warnicker this evening at the First Baptist church, corner of Quadra and Yates street. As this will be the last opportunity many of Mr. Warnicker's friends may have of seeing him before he leaves Victoria, it is anticipated that a very big concourse of church members and others will foregather for the occasion. The farewell is being held in the old Baptist church building which has been renovated and redecored recently, and will be used hereafter for the Sunday services.

To-night several of the other denominations of the city will be represented by their pastors. Rev. Dr. Scott, whose own farewell was held by the congregation of the Metropolitan church on Tuesday evening, will be present. Rev. Dr. Clay will represent the Presbyterian church, Rev. William Stevenson, the new president of the Baptist Convention of British Columbia, the other Baptist communities of the city and district; and Rev. Robert Connell, of St. Saviour's, the Anglican community. H. C. Brewster and J. L. Beckwith will also be present.

A musical programme will be given in addition to the addresses, and the occasion will conclude with an informal social.

MANY IN VICTORIA TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE Many Victoria people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-I-Ka. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-I-Ka is astonishing. Hall & Co. Druggists, 702 Yates Street.

KEEN CONTESTS IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Hard Fought Games the Feature of Yesterday Afternoon's Play

Some well contested games were played yesterday afternoon in the fourth day of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's handicap tournament, and with the brighter weather the experts were able to show some of their true form. A good exhibition of the game was seen when Clute and Hudson met Archibald and Humphries in the men's doubles. Although the former won easily, despite a handicap, the game was the fastest of the afternoon's play. In the same series the veterans, Brown and Bone, were defeated by Virtue and Leeming, after a hard fought match. Although the winners took the match in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, the scores do not indicate the closeness of the play. In the men's singles V. C. Martin defeated Lieut. Broome, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, play being close in each of the sets. In the only game played in the mixed doubles, Miss Neame and Hoyle won easily from Miss Bradford and Wilson, while in the ladies' singles Mrs. Broome had little trouble in defeating Miss Dod, both these matches requiring but two sets. Mrs. Burnes and Miss Kenny beat Mrs. Able and Mrs. Sweeney after three keen sets. The scores: Men's singles—Class A: V. C. Martin (scr.) beat Lieut. Broome, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Class B: A. C. Heyland (scr.) beat H. C. Brown (½ 15), 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. Men's doubles—Hudson and Clute (½ 15) beat Archibald and Humphries (½ 15), 6-2, 6-3; Virtue and Leeming (scr.) beat Bone and Brown (scr.), 6-3, 6-4. Mixed doubles—Miss Neame and Hoyle (½ 30) beat Miss Bradford and Wilson (½ 30), 6-0, 6-2. Ladies' singles—Mrs. Broome (scr.) beat Miss Dod (½ 15), 6-2, 6-0. To-day's Matches. At 3:30 Miss Lawson plays Miss Idens, Miss Peatt and J. D. Virtue play Miss Atkins and F. H. Forbes. At 4:30 Hart and Trimen play Simpson and McQuade, Miss Tuck plays Mrs. Elgee, Miss Bickaby plays Mrs. Piercy, Dr. Hart and Forman play Heyland and Gordon, Percy plays Harvey. At 5:30 Miss Idens and Cove plays Miss McLeod and Phelan, Trimen plays Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Broome play Dr. Hall and Mrs. Burnes.

CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., June 29.—Alexander Campbell, of Baltimore, professional, led the first yesterday in the first flight of the qualifying round for the national open golf championship title at the Minnehaha club. Campbell's score in the morning was 71, one below par, and 73 for the afternoon. Louis Teller, the French champion, now of Boston, was second with 140. J. B. Worthington, an amateur from the Mid-Surrey club, of London, England, returned a card of 146. He was paired with Walter C. Hagen, of Rochester, N.Y., 1914 champion, and the pair were followed by a large gallery. Hagen's score was 149. Harry G. Legg, Minneapolis amateur, and H. G. Legg, Pittsburgh, were tied for fourth place with 147 each.

HEAVYWEIGHTS WILL FIGHT TO-NIGHT

Winner of Bout at Brooklyn Will Be Matched With Willard

New York, June 29.—Frank Moran and Jack Dillon will meet to-night in a bout that is considered the most important since the Willard-Moran contest. The bout is a ten-round, no-decision affair which will be settled by newspaper decision only. Frank Moran is favored to win on points, and many think he will do the heavy work if there is any knocking out to be done. However, the Indianapolis man has been forging to the front rapidly of late, and there are those who think he will beat his big opponent to-night. Although the bout has not yet been arranged, it is said that the winner will be matched with the world's champion, Jess Willard, Dillon, if he beats Moran, is anxious for a crack at the champion, and the bout has been virtually arranged, providing he is winner.

RICH STAKES FOR GRAND CIRCUIT

Chicago, June 29.—Over $500,000 will be the total amount to be distributed by the Grand Circuit among trotters and pacers during the coming racing season, this estimate being based upon the amounts already announced as early closing stakes from the opening of the circuit at Cleveland to the close at Lexington, with Atlanta, Ga., still to be heard from and not estimated.

In the figures are calculated the value of all early closers, added moneys for colt sweepstakes, the estimated value of all the big futurities, the increases in the sweepstakes, and the lowest possible amount to be added for class races of late closing events, the amount for the latter division being placed as a little over half of the total for trotters and pacers in early stakes, which certainly is a low estimate.

POTTER OF SEATTLE WINS AT SPOKANE

Spokane, June 29.—In the feature of the first round of the Northwest tournament yesterday O. M. Potter, of Seattle, defeated Leroy Pratt, Jr., of Tacoma. They were forced to play 19 holes, and Potter won, 4 to 3. D. P. Tisdale, of Portland, defeated T. E. Carr, of Butte, two up and one

BOBBY ROSS WRITES FROM PETAWAWA

Writing to Billy Davies from Petawawa, Bobby Ross, former sporting editor of the Times who left here with the 52nd artillery battalion, says that the officers have arranged a big inter-battery sports competition for July 1, and competitors will be entered from Victoria, Vancouver, Lethbridge, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Guelph and Hamilton units. Bobby is thinking of entering the boxing tournament as a 135-pounder, and will doubtless make a good showing if he does. The drill, he writes, is very strenuous but pleasant, and every evening the various units engage in baseball, lacrosse and football games.

SPEEDY ENTRIES FOR HOLIDAY MATINEE. THIRD PLACE MOST IMPORTANT POSITION

Horse Races Arranged for Saturday; Programme Includes Military Events

The Victoria Matinee Club, assisted by the men of the 163rd Battalion, have prepared a first class race programme and military events on horses for Saturday afternoon, July 1, at the Willow track.

The race programme consists of two first class harness races and several running races, and the entry list is well filled. In the free-for-all-pace the public will see a fast, speedy contest, as the two old-time rivals, Ella Erickson, 2:14, and Alvia, 2:14 1/2 will come together.

In addition to this there will be a matched race between the bay stallion, which was the champion three-year-old two years ago, and May Putnam, which won the same honors last year in Vancouver.

The programme will start at 2 p.m. and will be run off promptly without any tiresome delays.

The meeting is being held to raise funds for the Red Cross Society, and it is to be hoped that the public will patronize what will be an enjoyable day of sport for a good cause.

A little while ago there was a shriek for younger generals, and it now appears that our generals are younger than those of either the Germans or the French.

Sanborn Thinks Third Man in Batting Order Should Be Best Hitter

Fourth place in a team's batting order is considered the spot of honor. The latter is the kind of batter usually picked for third place in the list, and he must also be fast on his feet, preferably a left handed batter.

Although a lot of people know this, it may be included here to make things plainer—that the manager usually arranges his batting order so that the lead-off man shall be a good waiter or sure to get on often, although not necessarily a consistent hitter.

The importance of that third spot in the batting order is demonstrated best by observing the fact that when an opposing pitcher can stop the third man in the line, the rest of that team has a hard time winning if it wins at all.

It is long has been a slogan in the American league: "Stop Ty Cobb and you beat the Tigers." The same has been found true of other teams.

When Tris Speaker was with the Red Sox he could be baffled by the opposing pitcher the Bostonians ran into tough going. Tris now is the main-spring of the renowned Cleveland machine.

He bats third and unless he is smothered almost completely in the attack the other fellows have to make a lot of runs to win.

Cy Williams is the important cog in the Cubs' offence, as proved by the results of the campaign against the eastern teams.

If Williams had a good day the Cubs won, and usually with something to spare. If Cy had a bad day at bat the Tinkers either were licked or had a helova time coping.

On Weegman park Williams looks like a clean-up hitter because of that comparatively short right field wall, which is in line with a considerable number of Williams' hits.

But Williams is not exclusively a hard driver, like Zimmerman, for instance. Cy can also chop the ball over the infield or beat-out slow-bounders because of his great speed. So he qualifies as a third spot-batsman—at home. On the road, where the fences are farther away, he still retained his ability to fill that position, of course.

There is logic behind this, although there isn't much logic in baseball as a rule. If the first man gets on and the second does his duty, but the third

JACKSON THE PRIDE OF THE SOUTHLAND

"Shoeless Joe" Rose From Mill-Hand to One of Stars of Game

It is one of the glories of the Southland that it has produced two of the greatest baseball players the game has ever had.

But when the third batsman is having a good day it works this way: If the first man gets on and the second batter advances him, a hit by the third man will score a run and leave the batter to drive home.

If you are still inclined to doubt the importance of third place batsman to a ball team, look at the White Sox. Eddie Collins, who made himself one of the best men in the game for that "crucial" position, isn't hitting at all.

When Joe was a kid a lot of the farmers of that section of the south, despairing of ever digging more than the barest subsistence from the soil, began to pull up stakes and move to the mill centres, where the whole family could contribute to the task of making a living by tolling in the mills.

London, June 29.—On Friday at Newbury, the hunt cup handicap of $5,000 and the Newbury summer cup of $2,500 will be decided. A large number of horses have been entered for these two feature races, 33 for the former, while the latter has attracted 38, including some of the Irish Derby starters.

G. E. Abbott, 17, of Andover, has been elected captain of the Harvard varsity baseball team. He has played second base for the nine in every game for the past two years, and is the best second baseman Harvard has had for some time.

The mill ball nine was the salvation of Joe Jackson. Without educational advantages, his naturally good brain would in all probability have remained undeveloped, except that baseball gave him the opportunity to break the shackles that bound him to the industrial wheel. Joe was only thirteen when he commenced playing ball, and he was originally a backstop, and from the first a hard slugger.

Joe was short-lived, for the next day Joe flew the coop and returned to his home. He played with Savannah in 1906, and returned to the Athletics the following spring, but was sent to New Orleans for further seasoning. In August he was recalled, and Mack swapped him to Cleveland, where he was a star until the memorable deal of last year which sent him to the White Sox.

YOKOHAMA MARU IS COMING FROM ORIENT

According to cable advices received from the Orient to-day by W. R. Dale, local Great Northern agent, the N. Y. K. liner Yokohama Maru left Yokohama on Friday, June 23, with 35 passengers and 310 tons of freight for Victoria. She is also bringing in 172 passengers and about 5,000 tons of cargo for Seattle. The Yokohama Maru is scheduled to reach here on July 7.

The latest word of the liner Kamakura Maru is that she will be dispatched from Seattle to-morrow on her outbound trip to the Far East. She is expected to arrive at the outer docks about 5 p. m., and after taking aboard 7 cabin and 40 steerage passengers will put to sea for Yokohama. By getting away to-morrow the Kamakura Maru will be three days behind schedule.

Another N. Y. K. liner delayed in getting away from Puget Sound by the longshoremen's strike, is the Tambara Maru. This vessel is due to sail for the Orient on Saturday, but word received from Seattle indicates that she will be about a week late. No less than four N. Y. K. liners are held up at the Great Northern docks, Seattle, by the strike. They are the Kamakura Maru, Tambara Maru, Inaba Maru and Tatsuno Maru, the latter being a new cargo ship which recently arrived on her maiden trip from the Orient.

After disembarking a number of passengers here the two-stackers will proceed this evening to Vancouver.

RETURNS TO COAST FLYING NIPPON FLAG

Unkal Maru, Formerly Robert Dollar, Passed Up to Vancouver Yesterday From Kobe

Manned by a Japanese crew and flying the Nippon flag, the former British steamer Robert Dollar, now known as the Unkal Maru No. 5, passed in last night bound from Kobe to Vancouver. The completion of this voyage marks the first occasion that the familiar four-masted freighter has crossed the Pacific under the Japanese colors. She is but one of a large number of British and American vessels that have been acquired by the Japanese in recent months for the development of its mercantile marine on the Pacific.

The Robert Dollar was recently delivered to her new owners at Kobe after having discharged war supplies at Vladivostok. Capt. E. L. Morton, who turned the vessel over on behalf of the Robert Dollar Company, accompanied by several of his officers, returned to Victoria a week ago aboard the liner Tambara Maru. At various stages of her career the Unkal Maru has been operated under a number of flags. She is a vessel of 5,155 tons gross and was built in 1911 at Port Glasgow by A. Rodger & Co. The vessel was operated under the British flag until shortly after the outbreak of war, when she was placed under American registry. This change was carried out while the Robert Dollar was en route from Genoa Bay, B. C., with a 5,000,000-ft. cargo of lumber, via the Straits of Magellan, for New York.

Although the price paid by Nakamura & Co. of Kobe, for the Robert Dollar has not been disclosed, it is understood on good authority that the figure involved in the deal was $1,000,000.

The Unkal Maru No. 5 brought a full cargo from the Orient consigned to the C.P.R., the vessel being under time charter to the big Canadian company. Another freighter which passed in from the Orient yesterday under charter to the C.P.R. was the Norwegian steamer Strinda. The Danish steamer Arabien is also coming in this service.

AUXILIARY SCHOONER OREGON

SIX VESSELS FOR N.Y.K. PANAMA RUN

Liner Tsushima Maru Inaugurates New Service From Japan to New York

The long contemplated freight service to New York, via Panama, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, will be maintained by six steamers, the Tsushima Maru, Toyooka Maru, Wakasa Maru, Tokuyama Maru, Takayama Maru, and Toba Maru, according to Capt. K. Higo, master of the N. Y. K. liner Inaba Maru, which arrived here yesterday from Kobe.

All the above vessels are newly built cargo carriers, of 7,300 tons each, with a speed of 15 knots, with the exception of the Wakasa Maru, 6,000 tons. The latter steamer will be replaced by another 7,300-ton boat after completing her first voyage. The ports of call both on the outward and return voyages will be Hongkong, Manila, Shanghai, Nagasaki, Kobe, Yokkaichi, Yokohama, San Francisco, Panama, Colon, and New York, including Keelung and Shimidzu in the sea season.

When the Inaba Maru left the Orient it was announced that the company's Panama service would be inaugurated from Kobe on July 17, by the Tsushima Maru about the middle of July and the Wakasa Maru in August, a monthly service being maintained.

By the inauguration of the new service the time between Japan and New York will be cut down to less than half of the time required by the Suez route, which takes about 90 days, a result in the reduction of freight rates by the N. Y. K. The Japanese consignees who have been suffering from the prohibitory tariff imposed by the New York shipping union, have combined to ship their goods by N. Y. K. liners exclusively.

Under instructions from the Tokyo offices, British, Columbia, and Puget Sound agents have been purchasing charts of the coast covering waters as far south as the canal zone and forwarding them to Japan by outgoing ships.

The steamer will be in port only a short time, and in view of this fact the inquiry must be held as soon as possible. Pilot Jones, who was in charge of the vessel when she left Vancouver, Capt. Richards, Chief Officer Green, Chief Engineer Zacharias and other officers of the Barrister will give evidence at the forthcoming investigation.

The Barrister left the outer docks at 6.10 o'clock this morning for Esquimalt and following her arrival in the naval harbor was hauled out in the Esquimalt graving basin for further examination.

Late this afternoon, after the drydock had been pumped out, it was learned that the Barrister had sustained seven damaged plates between the forepeak and forward hold, as the result of stranding on Monday. Temporary repairs will be effected here by Yarrows, Limited, after which the steamer will be dispatched to Seattle to load for the homeward voyage. Permanent repairs will be made following the arrival of the ship at Liverpool.

OWNERS WILL SALVE STEAMER NORTHLAND

Negotiations Have Already Been Opened With View to Raising Vessel at Kake

The Border Line Transportation Company propose to undertake the raising of the freighter Northland, which sank on Sunday at Kake, Kupreanof Island, Alaska. Negotiations have already been opened with the B. C. Salvage Company with a view to recovering the vessel, but the chief difficulty at the present time seems to be the lack of salvage vessels.

The Northland is reported to be resting in 40 feet of water, at which distance it will not be a difficult job to raise her.

Several officers of the Northland, including A. Westholm, pilot; John Mason, first assistant engineer; H. Crowman, second assistant engineer; C. J. Lincolny, purser, and three firemen and five seamen, reached Seattle last night aboard the steamship Humboldt. Capt. A. W. master; Walter Cox, chief engineer; Douglas Ravett, second officer, and three members of the crew are standing by the vessel.

It appears that the Northland was lying at the wharf at Kake pumping oil ashore. Carrying a big deckload, she suddenly took a list to starboard, then a port list, and the water rushed through her cargo ports, which were open. The vessel filled in about five minutes and sank.

The vessel rests on a soft bottom and, it is stated, can be floated without difficulty. The Northland is valued at approximately $125,000.

BARRISTER MISHAP TO BE INVESTIGATED

Ottawa Instructs Wreck Commissioner to Hold Inquiry Into Stranding

An investigation into the circumstances affecting the stranding of the Harrison Direct Line steamer Barrister, which on Monday morning touched on Portlock Point, Prevost Island, has been ordered by the authorities at Ottawa. Capt. J. D. Macpherson, wreck commissioner, received a telegram yesterday afternoon instructing him to proceed with the inquiry which will be opened at Victoria within the next few days.

The steamer will be in port only a short time, and in view of this fact the inquiry must be held as soon as possible. Pilot Jones, who was in charge of the vessel when she left Vancouver, Capt. ASIA GETS IN TOUCH

Inbound C. P. R. Liner Reports Arrival at 11 a. m. on Saturday.

Word has been received at the local C. P. R. offices to the effect that the inbound C. P. O. S. liner Empress of Asia, Capt. W. Davison, R. N. R., will reach William Head at 11 a. m. on Saturday. The liner has a full saloon list of passengers and a valuable cargo of Oriental merchandise.

The liner Empress of Japan, of the same fleet, is scheduled to leave this port late this afternoon on her outward voyage to the Orient. The vessel will be under the command of Capt. W. Dixon-Hopcraft, R. N. R., her former commander, who is returning to the trans-Pacific run after recuperating from an illness developed while with the Japan in the naval service.

SANTA CRUZ HERE AS EMERGENCY SHIP

Was Utilized In Salvaging Admiral Watson; Pilot Coaling for Guatemala Trip

An interesting vessel in port at the present time is the American wooden salvage steamer Santa Cruz, 43 years old, towed across the gulf from Puget Sound this week by the tugboat Pilot, of the B. C. Salvage Company's fleet. Despite her age the Santa Cruz is still staunch and her timbers are sound and from her general appearance there are many years of usefulness ahead of her in the salvage business.

The Santa Cruz is owned by the Puget Sound Salvage Company, a concern in which, it is understood, the B. C. Salvage Company is interested. She was brought to this port to be utilized as a "stand-by" vessel while the steamer Salvor is absent at the scene of the Bear wreck.

Under the terms of its contract with the government the Salvage Company must keep a properly equipped salvage vessel in Canadian waters, for emergency purposes in the event of the regular ship being called away on a foreign mission. While here the Santa Cruz will undergo boiler inspection and be given a general overhaul. Her engines are temporarily out of commission, but in the event of a wreck, the vessel could be towed to the scene. She is equipped with donkey boilers, powerful 10-inch pumps, and carries all the gear necessary for a big salvage job. Some of the gear is to be transferred to the Alaskan, which is also being held here for salvage purposes. The Alaskan is commanded by Capt. Douglas Robertson, the well known local skipper, who up to recently was mate of the Salvor. The Santa Cruz is the vessel used in connection with the salvage of the American steamer Admiral Watson, sunk last August in Seattle harbor in collision with the steamer Pariso. The Admiral Watson was raised in October and is again operating in the Alaska trade.

Pilot About to Leave.

The salvage tugboat Pilot, which has been fitted out here for the Seostria salvage expedition to Guatemala, is now taking aboard bunker coal, and is expected to leave on Friday or Saturday for the south. The vessel will be under the command of Capt. F. C. Stratford and Capt. Robinson Ridley and a number of salvage experts will also make the trip. The Seostria is afloat in an artificial lake about half a mile inshore from the Guatemalan port of Ocos. It will be necessary to dig a channel to the sea, an undertaking fraught with many difficulties, by reason of the heavy swells which continuously lash the shores of Guatemala.

forever." No idea of God will ever be lost, because it alone obeys the will of God. Mortal thoughts disobey the divine will and are consumed as chaff.

MISSION OF AN IDEA. It has well been said that "ideas are the great warriors of the world." They have fought and won its greatest battles.

Then is it not self-evident that humanity's greatest need is to grasp the thoughts or ideas of God? Need we wonder at the injunction of Scripture: "Acquaint now thyself with Him (God) and be at peace?"

OPPOSITION TO SPIRITUAL FACTS. Relatively speaking a divine idea never sailed upon a smooth sea. False human nature opposes it at every step.

The only opponent of spiritual Truth is the mortal or fleshly mind, the so-called good and evil mind of mortals. A divine idea is unattainable to this mind.

Christian Science is here to bring about this change of heart, and the scene of transformation is already active and wide-spread. Thousands who at one time were bitterly opposed to Christian Science have in their extremity gone to it for help, have received their healing, and are now among its most ardent advocates.

HEALTH AND DISEASE. Christian Scientists are a great deal more interested in the subject of health than in disease. They have found out that the right idea of health when intelligently presented to humanity is far more contagious than the thought of disease.

They are fully convinced through the teaching and practice of Christian Science that a negative or human knowledge of disease never has healed anyone will heal any one, but that a positive or demonstrable knowledge of the Truth enables one to overcome belief in disease.

nature of God or good, and it is through these ideas that all the enlightenment of the ages has come. The entrance of sick or sinful beliefs into human consciousness only hinders the recognition of God's thoughts.

The present widespread interest in spiritual things is solely due to the transforming influence of the true idea of God as voiced to the world in Christian Science. This idea is the harbinger of health, strength and happiness. It has no knowledge of disease or suffering to impart.

No wonder Solomon said, "Get wisdom; and with all thy getting get understanding." Jesus did not advise us to acquire a knowledge of disease in order to heal disease. He did not counsel his followers to study medical works in order to cope intelligently with the ills of the flesh.

How do we deal with this subject in Christian Science? We agree to disagree with the very first approach of disease in any form, recognizing such approach as the tempter suggesting life and intelligence in matter and a power apart from God.

Under all forms of material and erroneous mental treatment thought is left buried in the belief of life in matter, that we not only had the disease but that we may have it again. Christian Science enables us to see that the belief in disease is what needed treatment, and not the real man. As this is spiritually understood we are enabled to declare intelligently and without fear of contradiction that as God's children we never really had the disease and never can have it. It is in this case and never can have it. It is in this case and never can have it.

TRUE FREEDOM. We cannot bring out in our lives anything above our highest concept of God. If this concept means God, it is in this case and never can have it. It is in this case and never can have it.

Man's brightness is entire freedom from bondage of every description. There is therefore a law operative to bring this about, and Christian Scientists are striving to live in conformity to this "perfect law of liberty." They have not yet reached the goal of perfection, but they are breaking up their fellow ground, making it ready for the needs of the Father's planting, and they are grateful for His spiritual blessings already received.

When I have bowed my every thought to Thee, And thought with Thee is raised unto the skies, And trustingly my hand within Thine lies, Then I am free.

When I can see Thy will is best for me, And joyfully resign my will to Thee, And seek no love but Thine, - Ah tenderly, - Then life will prove indeed, That I am free.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HEALING. The world to-day is deeply interested in the subject of healing. Suffering humanity is looking in every direction for succor from pain.

The beneficent influence of Christian Science is far-reaching. "It blesses him who gives and him who takes." It is no respecter of persons or ailments. It appeals to all classes of people, bidding them awaken from the day dream of life in matter. Those who listen to its message of "on earth peace, good will toward men," experience moral and physical healing.

Christian Science deals directly with the moral fault in the treatment of disease. If one is receptive to the true idea of God, ready and willing to be shown how to change his habits of thought, this idea will quickly supplant a multitude of erroneous theories and opinions and often bring immediate relief from suffering.

When brought face to face with the goodness and grandeur of infinite Mind, the thought of physical healing pales into insignificance. But as the essential of Christian development and progress, as an awakening from a material to a spiritual sense, its importance cannot be overestimated.

ONE ANTIDOTE. It is the mission of Christian Science to overcome faith in so-called human antidotes and to point humanity to the one perfect everpresent antidote of divine Love. Jesus prescribed one universal remedy for every human disorder, whether in the form of sin or sickness. He said: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

disposition, chafens the affections, silences false pride and self-will, comforts the sorrowing, quenches false appetites, and last but not least, it does away with the evidence of disease. Thousands of witnesses in all parts of the world will testify under oath that Christian Science has healed them of so-called incurable diseases.

OUR LEADER. Mrs. Eddy's vision of the Christ not only healed her of the effects of a so-called fatal accident, but enabled her to reach a purified mental height where she could spiritually discern the things of God and give them to the world. She named her discovery Christian Science. She was, to use her own words, "only a scribe echoing the harmonies of heaven in divine metaphysics" (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, p. 115).

FALSE TEACHING. The world is purdened with false teaching. There is much concerning health and disease which is misleading in the extreme. It is the province of Christian Science to correct such teaching by turning the thought of humanity to Christ Jesus as the sole authority on all subjects essential to human progress and happiness.

What would be thought of a watchmaker who should establish a school for the purpose of teaching and studying the subject of broken watches? In what way would such a course of study assist in the construction of a perfect watch?

What housewife would add to her skill in breadmaking who devoted her time and attention to analyzing and classifying different kinds of unpalatable bread?

Why then make an exception in the case of disease and insist that it alone among the errors of the human mind shall be feared, studied, investigated, classified, discussed, diagnosed and published broadcast in the attempt to find health? Christian Science makes it very clear to the world that this is a very sure method of perpetuating disease and of eradicating one's true sense of health.

One of the first lessons of Christian Science is to reverse this barbarous habit of thinking, talking, and heretofore the symptoms of disease. There is nothing more enervating and demoralizing than to magnify in thought some phase of evil which one would overcome or destroy. Can the popular evil of so-called disease germs ever be eradicated without ceasing to fear it and without ceasing to hear, think and profess Christian should know that the mental image of disease is one of his very worst enemies, and that the Christ or true idea of God comes to rid him of this enemy.

PROTECTION. Protection is divine, not human. The law of right is the only law of protection. Only an ignorance of God could tempt one who is doing wrong to ask for protection in his wrongdoing. Truth does not protect error, Love does not protect hate. Right thought is no protection to wrong thought, but when mortals repent, change their mode of thinking, divine protection is near at hand.

"Man's inhumanity to man" is all based upon a misunderstanding of God and man. Can such inhumanity be done away with without a correct idea or understanding of God? Indeed not!

POLITICAL NOTES

The Liberal convention in Nanaimo is to be held to-morrow evening in that city. William Sloan, former member of the House of Commons for Comox-Atlin, seems to be the favorite among the delegates, and it is thought that he will be the choice of the convention.

Nanaimo has been represented by a Socialist in the legislature for many years, but as a matter of fact it was really represented by a supporter of the McBride-Bowser government for the greater part of that time, when J. H. Hawthornthwaite was the member. It will be remembered that during the first parliament under party government it was the support of Mr. Hawthornthwaite and his Socialist followers that kept the McBride government in office.

In the last parliament the constituency was represented by John T. W. Place, but it is said that he will not get the Socialist nomination again, and in fact there is a good deal of doubt whether that party will put up a candidate at all.

A strong movement was started in Duncan, as the centre of the electoral district of Cowichan, night before last, to have Captain W. H. Hayward, the late member for that constituency, run as an independent pure and simple, and no "Independent Conservative" about it. There is a host of Conservatives in that district, as in all the constituencies, who have no use whatever for Bowserism, and they desire that any candidate professing to represent them shall be entirely independent of the party to which the premier is supposed to belong.

It is said that if Captain Hayward does not contest the seat as an independent without any party strings to it—or if his friends who are managing his campaign for him do not take this position—there is likely to be a candidate put up who will forswear Bowser and all his works. In a letter sent to the Cowichan Conservative Association recently by Capt. Hayward he relies upon his record in the county and makes no mention of either Bowser or the Conservative party as objects of his support.

Another constituency in which there is talk of anti-Bowserism among the Conservatives is the adjoining riding of Newcastle, where Dr. R. B. Dier, of Newcastle, is again the candidate for the government. Dr. Dier and many of his supporters profess to be opposed to the premier and to be in the field as Conservatives in opposition to the government, difficult a position as that is to reconcile.

A considerable section of the party are anxious to have Dr. Dier announce himself as an independent Conservative and opposed to the rule of Bowser, but so far he does not seem to have made up his mind to that definite stand, however much he may be against the premier in theory.

POOLEY ESTATE SUED BY VANCOUVER MAN

Former Client of Late C. E. Pooley Seeks to Recover $50,000 Damages

A lawsuit which was instituted some four years ago, and which is of considerable interest and importance, came on for hearing before Mr. Justice Murphy in supreme court this forenoon.

The plaintiff is James Gillespie, a contractor of Vancouver, and he sues Mrs. Elizabeth W. Pooley as executrix of the estate of the late Hon. Charles E. Pooley.

He seeks a declaration that the late Mr. Pooley held lot 15, block 3, Old Granville Townsite, in trust for him during the years 1896, 1897 and 1898, for $50,000 damages for alleged fraudulent breach of trust and negligence of Mr. Pooley in the conduct of his affairs, and for an accounting in connection with the dealings in regard to this property. The defence is a denial of all the allegations.

J. E. Rubinowitz, Vancouver, is acting for the plaintiff, and W. J. Taylor, K.C., instructed by R. H. Pooley, for the Pooley estate.

Opening the case, Mr. Rubinowitz stated that in 1891 Mr. Pooley had been acting as solicitor for Mr. Gillespie in certain protracted litigation with George Black, which was won by plaintiff. Mr. Justice Drake's judgment decreed that a deed of conveyance should be given by Black to plaintiff of the lot in question, on which to-day stands the Rex theatre, Hastings street, Vancouver. Plaintiff put his principal assets into the hands of Mr. Pooley, and in October, 1892, Black's solicitors, Corbould & McColl, handed over a deed of conveyance in Gillespie's name to Mr. Pooley.

Of the giving of this conveyance Mr. Gillespie remained in ignorance, and it would be sought to be shown that Mr. Pooley did this deliberately and also deliberately omitted to register the deed and allowed arrears of taxes to accumulate. In 1894 this lot was sold for taxes in arrears up to 1892, the purchaser being Mr. Pooley for $1,650. Mr. Pooley had what the plaintiff alleged to be an inflated bill of costs, $2,500, against him and he signed a document, whether a confession of judgment or a mortgage, he did not know. In 1898 the lot was sold by Mr. Pooley for $9,000.

In the intervening years, it would be shown by Mr. Gillespie, Mr. Pooley still continued to tell him that he had neither received deed nor any money from Black. Gillespie went to Dawson, where he remained until 1910, in which year he returned south and saw Mr. Pooley about the matter. In answer to a question as to what he should do Mr. Pooley told him: "Sue the government." The action was entered in 1912, but had been postponed owing to the illness of Gillespie's counsel.

Harvey Combe, deputy registrar of the supreme court of British Columbia, produced the judgment of Mr. Justice Drake in Gillespie v. Black, dated May 27, 1891, and the taxing of costs. One of Mr. Pooley's charges was for attending on October 20, 1892, and receiving duly executed deed of conveyance.

Mr. Rubinowitz put in a certified copy of the tax sale deed of 1894 from the city of Vancouver to Pooley, and the conveyance of 1898 from Pooley to Matthews, when the property was sold for $9,000. Counsel also put in a number of letters with the object of bearing out his contention that Gillespie had entrusted his assets and business to Pooley. Early in 1892 Gillespie valued lot 15 at over $16,500.

The plaintiff is giving testimony this afternoon.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS CANVASS.

Special Meeting of Board of Directors This Morning Gets Suggestions From National Secretary.

A special meeting of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors was held this morning at 9 o'clock in the association building for the purpose of meeting H. F. Ballantyne, national secretary for the western province, who at the invitation of the local Y. M. C. A., offered to give some suggestions and help in connection with their financial problems.

The matter was thoroughly gone into. It was found that the requirements of the local association for the carrying on of the work in the central building and for the continuance of the work among the soldiers amounted to $9,000. This sum a special effort will be made to raise next week, and an organization to consist of the executive committee of three, with six captains under them, will undertake the canvass. No limit will be set to the scope of the undertaking. It is hoped that between two and three thousand calls will be made.

The difficulty, it was realized, will be found in getting workers. Practically all the active members on whom the association was wont to call in times gone by for such a campaign are now serving with the colors. Others, it is hoped, will volunteer for the work, as there are many who must realize the very important and necessary place which the association fills in the city. Anyone who is interested in seeing the institution continue to carry on its work can help either by sending donations or by offering services for the canvass contemplated.

The Y. M. C. A. board of directors, of which Mr. Bell is chairman, does its work voluntarily. The organization is self-controlled, self-governed, and self-sustaining, like all the Y. M. C. A. institutions throughout the country, and it is therefore the property of the people rather than of the directors, who simply give their services in the interests of the work.

ROTARY CLUB HAS VARIED PROGRAMME

Members Learn About Spring Water; Are Tested in Acquaintance and Hear Music

The Rotary Club at lunch to-day held a membership acquaintance competition, in which eighteen members took part, heard a brief outline of the business of the Crystal Spring Water Supply from Rotarian A. V. Hamilton, one of the members of the company, and were entertained with a classical musical programme by the La Scala Opera Company, which is this week singing at the Pantages theatre.

Mr. Hamilton told of how the business began with the sale of water from the Richardson street spring for drinking purposes at the time the city water supply was not of the best. With the improved supply for the city, his company began the manufacture of aerated water in which the crystal spring water is used. His company had sunk a well on the property and at 35 feet depth had struck silver sand, through which the water now comes to the surface. Mr. Hamilton informed the members of the process of making aerated water, of the care taken for cleanliness of bottles and the company's effort to follow the Rotary motto of "Service."

At each seat at the luncheon to-day was a bottle of dry ginger ale and a supply of crystal water from the spring also was offered.

In the membership contest nine of the eighteen candidates failed to name members pointed out to them. R. L. Colbert gained first place with eight votes, and Carl Pendray was third with nine points. There were three prizes donated by K. A. McEneaney, Kelly Douglas & Co., a sack of flour, one dozen of grape juice and five pounds of tea.

The La Scala Opera Company of seven persons sang the Sextette from Lucia and the Marsellaise and other classical selections and were accorded a vote of thanks, which was enthusiastically given. The luncheon closed with the National Anthem.

CARS ARE DETAINED

Difficulty About Automobiles With Fixed Tops Prevents Their Transport to This Island.

The attention of the Island Automobile Club has again been called to the situation which arises when an auto with fixed top is sought to be brought to Vancouver Island on one of the ferry steamers, the dimensions of the freight doors preventing the admission of such cars.

The matter has been again raised by the visit of Lewis Irvine Thompson, a well known architect of Portland, and a vice-president for Multnomah county of the Pacific Highway Association, who is now in the city with Mrs. Thompson. He explains in conversation with Alderman Todd that when he recently drove his Studebaker car from the Sound to Vancouver, B. C., he was told he could not bring it with him here for the reason that it is six feet high and would not fit through the freight doors of the ferry.

Officials of the Island Automobile Club intend to take the matter up and see if the openings cannot be enlarged, as the city is losing motorist visitors from this condition of affairs.

HOLD CONFERENCE UPON AGRICULTURE

Delegates of Island Boards of Trade Entertained at Lunch at Empress To-day

Representatives of the Island boards of trade attending the convention held here to-day at the invitation of the Victoria board of trade agricultural products committee were entertained at luncheon at the Empress hotel at 1.45 o'clock, and afterwards adjourned to hold a conference for the purpose of discussing what could be done for the betterment of the agricultural industry on Vancouver Island and islands adjacent. C. H. Laurin presided, and formally welcomed the delegates from all the Island boards of trade. He outlined the formation of the local committee, and related what steps had been taken here to further the agricultural pursuits now followed.

Professor W. T. McDonald, commissioner of livestock for the province, spoke at some length. He referred to the very large imports of food products into British Columbia and said most of them could be produced here on land already cleared by the employment of improved farming methods. Even with the land already cleared much more could be done than is being done, and many profitable farms could be established.

"Even," he continued, "in a province where the other resources are so extensive, the prosperity of our urban communities will depend much on the prosperity of the farmers in the surrounding communities. By co-operation with the farmers the business men of the towns and the cities can assist in a great deal in furthering the joint interest of themselves and the farmers. In order to do this the business men must arrive at a correct conception of the agricultural problems. This now is something that is very much lacking throughout the province.

"Realizing that their success is in a large measure depending on the success of the farmer, in many places in the United States the boards of trade and other associations of business men have had the agriculturists, while the salaries of district engineers, while many of the important railroads have become alive to the fact that expert farming is essential to the increase of their freight carrying, and consequently a factor in their progress. These have established an efficient staff of agricultural advisors in connection with their roads. Shortly before his death J. J. Hill was so imbued with the idea and its necessity as an assistance to the railroad's prosperity, that he inaugurated in connection with the Hill railroad system a department of agricultural advisors as a special feature.

"In a new province like British Columbia, while small farmers have serious difficulties to contend with, it is very important that business men and corporations do all they possibly can to assist the farmer, to get him on his feet and to make him prosperous. A farmer as he becomes prosperous will almost invariably use his profits in enlarging and improving the operations and the community therefore gains decided and increasing benefit."

Several of the delegates spoke in reference to the remarks of the chairman and Professor McDonald. All agreed that while the industry is progressing there is much that can be accomplished by united effort of the boards of trade.

Following the discussion the delegates were taken for an automobile ride to the experimental farm at Bagan Bay, where they were the guests of Professor Stevenson.

Among the delegates are: J. J. White and S. Fletcher North, representing the Sidney Board of Trade; William Duncan, representing the Courtenay Board; and John Shaw and T. W. Martindale, representing the Nanaimo Board.

FAMOUS ROAD BUILDER ON NOTABLE MISSION

Samuel Hill Goes to Vladivostok to Solve Transportation Problem

Many friends in Victoria, and particularly those who have been associated with him in the development of the Pacific Highway, are very much interested in the news that Samuel Hill, of Maryhill, has been selected to solve the transportation problems of the Russian government in Vladivostok, to relieve the congestion of military supplies needed by the Russian army at the front.

Mr. Hill has paid several flying trips to Victoria recently, his last prolonged visit being to attend the opening of the legislature in March.

Captains returning from the Siberian front have informed the Times on several occasions recently that shipping is badly congested and that the vast amount of supplies despatched from the United States is held owing to defective transportation across the continent.

Mr. Hill sailed recently from this coast recently and bears the highest credentials and will have unlimited means at his command for road building and speedy dispatching supplies to the troops on the frontier.

Of his mission the Seattle Post-Intelligencer says: "His commission is the direct and immediate result of his hurried visit to King Albert of Belgium in May, when he was brought into conference with other representatives of the allies and urged to undertake an adjustment of the difficult and complicated situation at Vladivostok. Hill and King Albert have been friends for years and his fame as a road builder is known to all Europe.

"Returning at once, he stopped at Washington to arrange his passports, tarried at Chicago two days during the Republican national convention, to which he was an alternate delegate-at-large, and then came across the continent to Seattle, where he put his personal affairs in order.

"The great line of railway stretching from the eastern frontier to the port of Vladivostok has been swamped with traffic. At Vladivostok material has piled up until the men in charge of the trans-Siberian railway despair of getting the vast stores to the front.

"The Russian committee in charge of supplies began to look about for a railroad genius who could bring order out of chaos; a man with a gift for organization and for executive achievement.

"The visit of Mr. Hill to King Albert of Belgium brought a solution of the problem. In the war councils of the allies it was suggested that the man needed to bring the Russian railway to its highest state of efficiency must be a man who had experience in handling the traffic of some of the great American railways.

"King Albert arranged a meeting between the representatives of the allies and Mr. Hill. The American was known to them by reputation and so far as King Albert was concerned by association. The predicament in which the Russian committee found themselves was outlined to Mr. Hill and he was requested to undertake the gigantic task. The war council was deeply impressed with his quiet ability and his forcefulness. As soon as Mr. Hill accepted the mission he started home."

WAR RELIEF ACT.

Measure Applies to All Men in Uniform, Court Holds in Reply to Ingenious Argument.

That by the language of the War Relief Act officers are not included in the protection which it affords volunteers serving in this war was the legal proposition which A. Moresby White put up to Mr. Justice Murphy in chambers to-day.

The matter came up in the litigation arising out of the family troubles of the Commercial Investment Company. There is a suit by C. A. Forsythe and others against the company and a cross-suit by the company against Lt.-Col. Forsythe and the others. It was in the matter of Lt.-Col. Forsythe's connection as a defendant in the latter suit that A. P. Luxton, K.C., applied for a stay of proceedings under the War Relief Act. The actions have been pending for over a year.

Mr. White argued that officers were not included in the scope of the act, which applied to men who had either "enlisted" or had "left Canada to join the army of his majesty or any of his allies." Mr. White said the words of the statute were obscure, but the intention was clear that during his absence a soldier was to have his property and person protected from process of law on account of his not being at home to protect himself or give instructions for his own protection. There was a question whether the 50th Highlanders was a militia regiment raised as a force in aid of his majesty in the present war.

Mr. Luxton remarked that it had sent two thousand men to the front already.

Mr. White argued that "enlist" was limited to privates, since officers did not enlist but accepted commissions, and was defined as being a voluntary acknowledgment to serve as a private soldier for a certain number of years. The Militia Act of Canada drew a distinction between officers and men. Mobilization was defined as the process by which the peace footing of troops was changed to a war footing. The present position of the 50th was that it was a militia regiment on home guard, even though a portion had gone overseas and the colonel had just returned from Ottawa, where he had made an unsuccessful effort to secure mobilization orders.

His lordship remarked that the only

VOLUNTEER RESERVE

Results of June Shooting Competition Contests Arranged for Next Month.

The final results of the June shooting competition were compiled on Monday evening last, when F. C. Holden won the silver spoon (donated in aid of patriotic fund) with a score of 49 less one point handicap, or 48 points net. The proceeds from entry fees amount to $5. The range spoon, for second highest target, was won by Howard Chapman, after shooting off a tie score of 45 for first place with F. C. Holden.

For the month of July there will be a spoon put up on usual conditions and entry fees will be given to Returned Soldiers' Association's clubroom fund. A range spoon will also be given for the second highest score made on range during the month.

There has been a very marked improvement in the shooting of individuals, members lately and the V. V. R. can undoubtedly put a team of eight in the field, who would give any challenging team a very difficult proposition to handle at the targets.

CANADIANS BEATEN WITH WIRE CABLE

Winnipeg Man Who Escaped From German Prison Camp Tells of Experience

London, June 29.—How after many months' imprisonment in Germany he escaped after previous attempts had proved fruitless was related to a Canadian correspondent by Pte. Henry Sanderson, of the 8th Canadian Battalion, who formerly was a clerk of the British-American Elevator Company at Winnipeg.

Pte. Sanderson was captured on April 25 last year, when many other Canadians likewise were lost to their battalions. He was first taken with his comrades to Rupel, where they were placed in the church for the night and thence removed to Courtral, part of the journey being done afoot, part by rail. Later they were put on the train for Munster. One incident of the journey thither was that a British aeroplane came over the line and dropped bombs, which so much damaged it that the further journey of the Canadian prisoners was considerably delayed.

At the Mines. There was a stay of three weeks at Munster, and then, with Corporal Chipman and Privates Alders, Chandler, Langstaffs and other Canadians, Sanderson was taken away. They were asked to work in the mines but refused, saying none of them had been used to working underground.

The attempt came off on the first Sunday in September. Sanderson got away from the neighborhood and comfortably covered about twenty kilometres, living mostly on apples which he picked on the way.

"We were sent to Munster for trial and sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment. At the trial we had an interpreter and made complaint of the beating. When I came out of prison, I had to wear a letter on my clothes showing that I had attempted to escape. Some time later this was removed.

"I then volunteered for another working party. I took an Englishman's place on a farm, and was there for six weeks. There also was a man of the Royal Fusiliers. We made it up to have another go at escaping. Then one day came the chance. We worked along six days, hiding during the day behind hedges in the woods and empty houses. We had plenty of food. When we were walking along we passed German officers cycling. Another time, close to the frontier, we were taken into the guardhouse, but the guard thought we were Dutch, and let us pass.

"We got into a deep wood and when we came out we found ourselves across the frontier. We first learned this by going up to a church and reading notices on the door, which showed us we were out of Germany. The Dutch authorities we were then transferred in the British consular car, who sent us home. I am all right myself and so was my friend of the Fusiliers. He belongs to Lambeth."

Private Sanderson added that the Dutch could not have been kinder. He thinks there is no doubt the German common people are very near starvation. They treat the Canadians just like Englishmen. In fact they don't recognize any difference, but they often ask how it was Canadians wanted to come such a way to fight when not compelled.

One day in captivity there came a call for a party of prisoners to work at the Russian front. The British sergeant told the German: "If you think these fellows will do anything to help beat the Russians, you might as well kill them right off here, because they won't." Sanderson believes the project of taking these prisoners to work at the front on the Russian lines was accordingly abandoned.

French prisoners, he says, are treated

TEUTONS HARD PRESSED ON ALL THEIR FRONTS

Russia's Further Advance in Galicia; British Blasting Their Way With Artillery

London, June 29.—Hard pressed by offensives of the entente forces upon the Russian, Italian and French fronts, Kaiser Wilhelm has decided on a supreme effort to stop the Russians, and is personally in charge at Kovel, on the northern Russian front. This information reached London to-day coincidentally with news that the Russians still are advancing in Galicia and Volynia, where they have captured more than 10,000 more Austrians and Germans.

Kovel, in the opinion of military critics, is the vital point in the world struggle at the present time. The Germans are said to be drawing thousands of men from the western front in an effort to stop General Brusiloff's advance through that strategic point to Chelm, Lublin and Brody, because of the certainty that if the Russians capture the railways through them the fall of Lemberg and Przemysl would be near. Doubt is entertained here if Brusiloff is stopped at Kovel, the steady advance of the Slavs through Galicia, the Austrian resistance in Bukovina already being broken, is believed certain to make the fall of Lemberg sure through an advance from the southeast.

Interest in the British and French hammering tactics on the western front to-day was barely greater than in the advance of the Italians, and a statement by the Italian Chamber of Deputies by the new premier, Boselli, that the entente allies from now on were prepared to fight the war with steadily increasing intensity. Ground reports from the British front, while the official declarations of the British fighting were meagre, dispatches from special correspondents were permitted to come through which gave a real picture of the situation. They intimated that expectations of a big infantry advance against the Germans was at least premature and indicated that the British plan is not to waste their men by rushing the German trenches, but by an enormous expenditure of shells to literally blast the Germans back. For three days the cannonade on the British front is said to have been terrific, and as hours go by it is increasing in intensity.

That the British fire has been highly effective and that the Germans are already preparing for a possible retreat was indicated to-day when dispatches from Paris revealed that the Germans have already ordered the evacuation of Lille, Lens and Roubaix by the civilian population. The line through Lens, which was planned for the British advance some months ago through Loos, and military critics say that the same route is almost sure to be chosen again for an infantry push when the right time comes.

Silence almost complete has fallen again over the situation in the south-east of Europe. The Russians are allowing little information of their movements to leak out from Bukovina, the situation in Roumania is not being advertised, and but little news has come through of the reported fighting on the Salonica front on the Vardar river and about Lake Doiran. It is believed that the apparent intention of the allies to press the fighting in the west, east and south will be paralleled by an offensive from Salonica and Roumania's decision as to her final place in the war is awaited with eagerness.

DESIGNERS OF EVIL

The point the designers of evil have in view, it hardly need be emphasized, is to get the nations of the North American continent so involved in difficulties among themselves that nothing occurring elsewhere will be of immediate interest to them. It does not matter much whether the fomentation is entirely internal or partially or wholly international. The lamentable thing is that well-meaning people in Mexico, the United States and Canada are permitting themselves to be used as tools by the mischief-makers. Canada may rest assured, and this is something for its thinking people to remember constantly, a general election, with all the distraction and discord and division, it would entail in present circumstances, would be no less welcome to the influences arrayed against the cause it has espoused than would United States intervention in Mexico.—Christian Science Monitor.

much more leniently than the British. Parcels from the United Kingdom are sure reach to those to whom they are directed, but are opened in the presence of the men to whom they are addressed. The Russians formerly were badly off for food, but now that British prisoners are looked after so well by those at home they get a lot of help indirectly. All prisoners are most ready to share with each other.

THOS. KELLY FOUND GUILTY AT WINNIPEG

End of Trial of Contractor on Manitoba Parliament Buildings

Winnipeg, June 29.—The jury in the Thomas Kelly case returned a verdict of guilty this afternoon.

When Mr. Justice Prendergast concluded his address to the jury he asked the accused if he had anything to say.

Kelly replied that he wished to apply for a reserved case through counsel and the judge reserved his right to objections to the charge to the jury. His lordship called attention to differences in Horwood's evidence before the public accounts committee of the legislature and at the trial. "Any evidence," he said, "is only as strong as the honesty and credibility of the witness."

The case, he added, rested almost wholly upon Horwood's evidence, and it was for the jury to consider whether he was corroborated by documents and witnesses.

"You should hang your verdict on the unsatisfactory peg of doubt only as a last resort," he told the jurors. Kelly's address.

When the court re-opened at 10 this forenoon Kelly continued his address to the jury, unfinished at adjournment yesterday.

"Mr. Bonnar," declared Kelly, "has evidently disregarded truth in general instances while addressing you for the crown."

Kelly pointed to the four different estimates of alleged over-payments to him. Which was the jury to believe? He referred to "the indefensible stand of the crown in forcing him to trial without time to secure counsel. Horwood was referred to as 'the self-confessed perjurer and conspirator.'"

GATHERING ABOUT PERSHING'S FORCE

Reported Mexicans Are Placing 30,000 Troops or More in Position

Columbus, N. M., June 29.—According to reports received here 10,000 Carranza cavalry have been mobilized at Bustillo, on the Mexico-Northwestern; 12,000 men are at Villa Ahumada, 2,000 are at Guzman, and Gen. P. Elias Calles of Sonora, is moving large bodies of troops toward the Sonora-Chihuahua border.

If these reports are true, the enveloping movement of the Mexicans around Brig.-Gen. Pershing's army is becoming more and more pronounced. Army officers say, however, that the American commander is readjusting his men to most every move.

A company of New Mexico militia will leave here late to-day for Deming to stand guard at the hanging of four Villista raiders who are to be executed to-morrow.

SCAMMELL COMES TO SEE HAGGARD

Secretary Speaks of Work Military Hospitals Commission Doing and Planning

ATTENTION FOR ALL INCAPACITATED SOLDIERS

Vancouver, June 29.—That the people of Canada do not exactly understand what is being done at the present time by the military hospitals commission was the statement made to-day by Ernest H. Scammell, secretary of that body.

Mr. Scammell, who arrived this morning with J. S. Dennis in the latter's private car, represents the government, and Mr. Dennis is the representative of the C. P. R. in its scheme for the settlement of returned soldiers on the land and at other occupations after the war. Both have proposals which they will discuss with Sir Rider Haggard on the latter's arrival at Victoria this evening.

The C. P. R., as Mr. Scammell explained, had an admirable scheme for the settlement of from 1,000 to 3,000 families, but the government plan is so far only a tentative one, the details of which Mr. Scammell would not speak about in conversation with the press.

The visit of Sir Rider Haggard is in connection with the settlement of a number of British soldiers incapacitated by the war. He is the representative of the crown, and is a member of the Royal Colonial Institute, and in that capacity he has visited Australia, South Africa and New Zealand, and now has come to Canada with the same object.

Casualty Command. "Regarding the work of the military hospitals commission," said Mr. Scammell, "we recently arranged to organize a casualty command which will take over all returned invalided soldiers immediately they set foot in Canada, and also invalids left behind by battalions proceeding overseas. This command will be divided into units and will take care of the entire administration, including the medical and pay end, as well as matters of discipline. The object is largely to unify the system of dealing with the invalided men. We have at present about 700 in our convalescent hospitals and homes, and about 1,000 as our patients. Added to that there are 250 in sanitariums, so that we have at the present time about 2,000 men to deal with, and they still are coming in at the rate of about 150 to 200 a week."

Government's Plan. Asked what the plan of the Dominion government is with regard to placing the men on the land, Mr. Scammell said he was not in a position to say anything about that.

"The government plan," he said, "is at present under consideration, but not sufficient has been decided for me to make a statement. There is a tentative scheme, but it has yet to be approved by the government. We have all kinds of plans for the rehabilitation of men otherwise than on the land. For instance, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association is taking a survey at present in order to ascertain how many its members can find employment for under present conditions and under future conditions."

"The city of Winnipeg already has taken such a survey, and it is probable that all the provincial commissions similar to your returned soldiers' commission will do the same thing. So far we have had no difficulty in placing all the men who have returned and are capable of going to work. There have been a few complaints in this province, but very few, and they are being dealt with. We could find work for two or three times the number of men who have come back."

Mr. Scammell instanced Ontario, where he said that up to the end of April they had found employment for 714 men in addition to those who had been placed on military duty and others who had returned to their old positions.

Vocational Training. Mr. Scammell was questioned as to what would be done with the men who would be unable to find suitable employment, and in reply he said that those cases would be given vocational training, and steps now were being taken towards that end to enable the men to undertake some other calling or to improve themselves in some way.

"The cases which, as the result of the war, are suffering mentally, Mr. Scammell said, are not being forgotten. "We have just completed arrangements for the opening of a special institution at Cobourg, Ont.," he said. "That is by arrangement with the Ontario government, and we shall send all mental and border line cases there. There are men who by proper treatment may be restored. We want to remove from these men the stigma of the word asylum. This institution at Cobourg will be known as the Military Convalescent hospital, and it will be solely for mental and border line cases. We shall collect all the men who are scattered all over the Dominion and bring them to that place."

Far Ahead. "I want to make it clear," said Mr. Scammell, "that our motto will be to have the accommodation and facilities of our scheme far ahead of our requirements, so that no one will be overlooked, and we have made arrangements in that way for the future. No matter how many men there are to be taken care of, we will look after them."

Mr. Scammell mentioned that his commission now was issuing bulletins at points throughout the country showing its work. Day by day it was receiving suggestions which it already had adopted months ago, but he did not wish it to be understood that it did not ask suggestions. It did and would welcome them.

Mr. Dennis was asked for an expression of opinion on the same matter, but replied that the ground had been fully covered by Mr. Scammell. He had nothing to add to it, except to say that he was representing the C. P. R., whose scheme is to place 2,000 or 3,000 men on their land. He would place that scheme before Sir Rider Haggard and get his opinion on it.

CASEMENT SMILED AS SENTENCE PASSED

Not Tried by His Peers, He Said in Making Statement

London, June 29.—In addressing the judge and jury before sentence of death was passed upon him to-day for high treason, Sir Roger Casement maintained that he had not been granted trial by his peers.

"How would all men here feel," he said, his voice breaking—"how would you feel if an Englishman had landed in England and had been taken to Ireland, if that man had been placed before a jury in a community inflamed against him, believing him to be a criminal?"

When the prisoner shook hands with a friend who was sitting below the dock while the usher placed the black caps on the heads of the judges. The voice of the chief justice was firm, but his face was pale as he spoke the few words in pronouncing the sentence. He began:

"Roger David Casement, you have been found guilty by a jury of your peers of high treason, the highest crime known to the law."

He concluded by sentencing him to "be hanged by the neck until you are dead."

The prisoner, leaning on the iron railing of the dock with his tall frame, black beard and deep flashing eyes, was easily the most distinguished figure in the court except Viscount Reading. As the chief justice pronounced the sentence Casement smiled. Then a warden touched his arm and he withdrew behind the green curtain from what may be his last appearance before the public, which during the trial has regarded him without animosity, if not with some degree of sympathy.

TO-DAY'S TRADING ON THE WINNIPEG MARKET

Winnipeg, June 29.—Wheat closed up for July, for October and for December. Oats were for July and unchanged for October. Flax was unchanged for July and for October. Some export buying featured the market to-day. Most of it came to Winnipeg. Exporters bought all day, both cash and futures. Most of it was for New York representatives, presumably the allies. Otherwise the trade was dull. The cash demand for oats was excellent. For wheat very good premiums were unchanged except in the off grades in oats.

SHORTS COVERED LINES OF WHEAT AT CHICAGO

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.) Chicago, June 29.—Receipts continue of good proportions for this period of the year. Export clearances are large, but have little effect on sentiment as demand at present is not in evidence and these statistics simply cover sales consummated some time previously. Wheat traders are not as aggressive on the bear side as heretofore and there was considerable covering by some of the leading shorts. At the small decline buying by a leading cash house absorbed offerings in corn, and when shorts attempted to cover the market advanced quickly to above last night's closing levels. The stimulus for this movement was the rather insistent reports of a good cash demand, both in Chicago and central Illinois points as well as in the southwest.

SNOWSTORM ACTIVE ON BULLISH SIDE

Wednesday's Movement Duplicated at Session This Morning

A further gain of eight cents in Snowstorm constituted the chief feature of interest for a second session of the Victoria-Stock Exchange.

This makes an advance of sixteen cents within two days. The bulk of the buying emanates from Spokane, its central market, but to what exactly present bullishness can be attributed is not easily established, although the scheme of reorganization has attracted much attention from all points. There was some hardening in several other issues in the list, but action in same was not spirited at all, the trend of outside markets being really responsible for the support.

Mrs. George De Beck Celebrates Birthday at Home of Granddaughter in Royal City

BREAKING OUT ON BOY THREE YEARS Healed by Cuticura Trial Free

"My little boy's trouble started with a rough spot kind of dry and scaly. It lasted for three years becoming larger and he had his face and arms covered with it. The breaking out was red and inflamed and itched more at night and when he was being washed. He was very cross at times. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In a month's time he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Bert Sutton, 56 Paisley St., Guelph, Ontario, December 20, 1915.

At the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Chas. W. Tait, 23 Columbia street, New Westminster, Mrs. George De Beck on Tuesday celebrated her 102nd birthday anniversary surrounded by scores of her direct descendants, her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren numbering as many as her years.

Mrs. De Beck, who still lives an active life in spite of having passed the century mark, is the oldest white woman now living in British Columbia, and few have been residents of this province as long as she has. Miss Ellen Ann Dow was born in Canterbury, N. B., in 1814, and in 1834 married Mr. George De Beck, of Fredericton.

After living in their native province for another 34 years, Mr. and Mrs. George De Beck came west to British Columbia by way of the Isthmus of Panama, bringing most of their twelve children, some grown men and women, with them. They settled in the Royal City and since that time Mrs. De Beck has spent the balance of her life in and around that city.

WOES OF AN INVENTOR

Courts Declare One Entitled to His Royalties, However, as Against an Invalid Assignment.

The inventor generally has a hard time in this world, and frequently has to go to law to get what are his rights. One of these, an inventor of "inserted saw teeth," has, however, just succeeded in the litigation into which he had to enter to secure certain royalties to which he was entitled under an agreement with the manufacturing firm in Vancouver which undertook to make saw teeth according to his patent.

This inventor is a man named McLean, and he entered into an agreement with E. C. Atkins & Co., for the manufacture of the teeth on a royalty basis. In November, 1914, the firm had in its hands a sum of $495, half of the royalty due to McLean. Defendant Birdsall claimed that he was entitled to one-half the sum under an assignment of December 12, 1914, and an interpleader issue was directed by Mr. Justice Morrison to be tried before County Court Judge Schultze.

"On the interpleader McLean pleaded that he was under the influence of liquor when he made the assignment to Birdsall. The county court judge held that the agreement was invalid and that McLean was entitled to the money in court. From this the defendant appealed.

For the plaintiff counsel took the preliminary objection that the supreme court judge had no jurisdiction to refer the matter to the county court, and that both parties, having agreed to the county court judge hearing the case, it must be looked upon as an arbitration from which there was no appeal.

The court of appeal—Chief Justice Macdonald, Mr. Justice Martin and Mr. Justice McPhillips—sustained the preliminary objections and dismissed the appeal.

F. J. McDougall argued the case for the defendant-appellant and David Whiteside for the plaintiff-respondent.

GEORGIAN CIRCUIT

Invitation Accepted by Seattle Delegation and Others to Attend Celebration Here.

The Victoria and Island Development Association has received a number of letters accepting the invitations to attend to-morrow's celebration to mark the opening of the Georgian circuit. A letter from the secretary of the Seattle Automobile Association announces there will be a delegation from that city. New Westminster, Olympia, Spokane and Everett are to be represented, in addition to other mainland cities.

Delegates will reach here to-morrow by the boats from Seattle, Vancouver and Port Angeles. Others will come in by the noon train from north of Victoria. All of them are to be taken to Brentwood Bay and are to attend a banquet at the Empress hotel to-morrow night, at which the speechmaking will take place.

Commissioner Cuthbert of the Development Association, who has been visiting the northwest cities in the interests of the celebration, is expected here to-morrow.
