GENESIS ii. 18.
And the Lord God faid, It is not good that the man fould be alone; I will make an belp wee. for bim.
YI UMAN mifery is to divine mercy, as a black foil to a fparkling diamond, or a fable cloud to the fun-beams, Pfalm viii. 4 Lord; what is man that thou art nindful of bim? Man is, in his creation, angelical; in his corruption, diabolical; in his renovation, theological: In his tranflation, majeftical.

There were four filver channels in which the chryftal ftreams of God's affection ran tc man in his creation.

1. In his preparatron. 2. In his afimilation. 3. In his coronation. 4. In his affociation.
2. In his preparation. Other creatures re ceived the character of their beings by a fimple fiat; but there was a confultation at his forming; not for the difficulty, but for the digxity, of the work. The painter is more fudious about that which he means to make his mafter-piece: The four elements were taken Diut of their elements, to make up the perfection of man's complexion: The fire was puriLied, the air was clarifiet, the vater was purged, the earth was refined. When man way moulded, heaven and earth were married: A body from the one was efpoufed to a foul from the other.
3. In his aftimilation. Other creatures were rade like themfelves, but man was made like od, as the wax bath the impreffion of the al uponit. It is admirable to behold fo fair picture on fuch coarfe canvas, and to bright character on fo brown paper.
4. In his coronation. He that made man nd all the reft, made him over all the reft; 2uintillam Doninum pofuit Deus in tantum domnum: He was a little lord of a great lordhip: This king was crowned in his cradle.
5. In his affociation. Society is the folace of humanity; the world would be a defart without a confort.

Moft of men's parts are made in pairs; now he that was double in his perfection, muft not be fincle in his condition: And the Lor'd faid, &c.

Thefe words are like the iron-gate, that opened to leter of its own accord ; dividing themfelves into three parts.

1. An introduction, And the Lord God faid. - $^{2}$. An affertion, It is not good that man Bould be alone.-3. A determination, 1 weill make an belp meet for bim.

In the firf, there is a majefty propofed.... In the fecond, there is a malady prefented...In the thind, there is a remedy provided.

Once more, let me put thefe grapes into the prefs.

1. The fovereignneif of the expreffion: And the Lord God faid. 2. The folitarinefs of the condition, It is not good. - 3. The fuitabicnefs of the provition, I will make, &c.

In the firft, there is the worth of veracity. morn the fecond, there is the want of fociety.
is A Weddirg-Ring, fit for the Finger.
-In the third, there is the work of divinity. Of thefe in their order. - And firt of the firt. ift, The fovereiganefs of the exprcffion; And the Lord God faid, Luke i. 7o. As. be spake by the mouth of his prophets. - In other. fcriptures, he ufed their mauths; but in this he makes ufe of his own! They were the or gans, and He the breath; they the early itreams, and He the Fountain. How He ipoke, it is hard to be fpoken, whether etermally, internally, or externally, Quomodo non e/f, quod quiceremus fed potius quid dixerit in. afligamos; we are not to enquire into the manner of feaking, but to the matier that is fpoken; which leads me, like a directing ftar, from the fuburbs to the city, from the porch ro the palace, from the founder of the mine to the treafure that is in it: It is not good, &xc. In which you have two things,

1. The fubject:-2. The predicate. The fubject, Man alone; The predicate, It is not scod, &x.
2. The fubject.-Man alone; take this in two branches. 1. As it is limited to one man. 2. As it is lengthened to all men.

Firft, As it is limited to one man : and fo it is taken particularly: Man for the furf man. When all other creatures had their mates, $A$. dam wanted his; though he was the emperor of the earth, and the admiral of the feas, yet in paradife without a companion; though he was truly happy, yet he was not fully happy'; though he had enough for his boa:d, jet lie had not enough for his bed; though he hat many creatures to ferve him, yet he wanted a creature to folace him; when be was compounded in creation, he mufi be compleated by conjunction; when he had no fin to hurt him, then he muft have a wife to heip him. It is not good that man flould be alone.

Secondily, As it is lengthened to ali men, and $f 0$ it is taken univerfally, Heb, viii. 4 . Marriage is bonourade zuto all. It is not only warraniahle, but honourable. "i he whole Trinity have confpired rogether to fet a crown of glory upon the head of matrimony.

1. God the Father; marriage was a tree planted within the walls of paradife, the flowor firit grew in God's garden.
2. The Son ; marriage is a cryftal giafs, whercin Chrift and the faints do fee each other's faces.
3. The Holy Ghoft ; by his overfadering of the biefled Virgin. -Well might the world, when it faw her pregnancy, fufpect her virginiy ; but her matrimonial condition was a grave to that forpicion; witheut this, her innocency had not prevented her infamy ; fhe needed a fhield to defend that ciaplity abroad, which was kept invioiable at home.

Too mane that bave not worth-enough to preferve their virginity, liave yet will encugh to cover their unciatitiy: Turning the medicine of fraity into the wiantle of filthinefs. Corsainly fhe is mad that cuts off her leg to get her a crutch, or that venom: her face to wear a mak.

that flowald cherifi the faith. I Tim. iv. 3 . Not to forbcar marriage, which is not only law\{il, but alfo honourable;-..to for bid which, is damnably finfui, and only taught by the influence of devils.

One of the Popes of Rome fprinkles this unholy and impuse drop upon it, Carnes polhulionent $\mathcal{F}^{2}$ inmmunditurn.
It is ferange that fhould be a pollution, which was inftituted before corruption; or that impurity, which was ordained in the flate of innocency; or that they frould malse that to be a fin, which tley make to be a facrament; flrange ftupidity! But a baftaid may, be laid at the duor of chafity, and a leaden crown fet upon a golden head.

Bellarmine, (that mighty Atlas of the papal power) blows his tlinking breath upon it: Better were it for a priejs to defice bimfelf with many barlots, than to be marrica to one vuife -.. Thefe childen of the purple whore prefer monafteries before marriages, a concubinc befone a companion.-.. They ufe too many women for their lutts, to chuie any for their love --- I heic tabics are fo largely fricad, tiat they carnot feed upon cne difh.

As for then exahnag of a virgin fate, it is like him that commendeu hitin: riten be had filled his belly.

Who knows not that viginity is a pearl of 2 fparkling lutive? Kut canaot the one be fer up, whthout the other te thrown down? Will no obiation pacify the former, but the demelifting of the latter? !hu' ye find many ene-nies to the choice of marriage, yet it is rare 0 find any enemies to the ufe of marriage. hey would pick the lock that want the key, nd pluck the fruit that do not plant the tree.
The Hebrews have a faying that, He is not man that beth not a wife. Though they limb too high a bough, yet it is to be feared hat fuch flefh is full of imperfection that is fot teading to proparation: Though man aone may be good, yet, It is not good that man bould be alone: which leads me from the fubect to the predicatc, It is mot good, \& $\delta$.
Non bonum, is not in this piace as Malum, put bonu:n e,t bonefume, ritic jocundum.
Now it is not good that man fhould be in a fingie condition upon a threefold curifideration

1. In refpect of fin, which would not elfe be prevented. Marriage is like water to quench the fparks of lufl's fire, : Cor. vii. 2. Neqerthelefs, to avoid fornication, let cuery one bave bis own weife, &c. Man needed no fuch phyfic when he was in perfect bealth. Temptations may break nature's beff fence, and lay its paradife walte; but a fingle life is a prifon of unruly defires, which is daily attempted to be broken open.

Some, indeed, force themfelves to a fingle life, merely to avcid the charges of a marriageftate; they had rather fry in the greafe of their own fenfuality, than extir g uifa thofe flames with an ailowed renedy: It is bettcr to ahariy than to butra; to be lawfully coupled, than tu be luffelly foorched. It i: beft feeding thele flames with ordinate fuel.
2. It is not goad in refpect of mankinu which then would not be propagated..-. TH Roman hiftorian relating the ravifhing of th Sabine women, cxcufed it thus: Res erit uniz atatis populous virorum: Without them man kind would fall from the earth and perifh. Marriage turns mutability into the image of e ternity: It fprings up new buds when the ole are withered: It is a creater honour for a mat to be the father of one fon, than to be the mafer of many fervants. Without a wife children canmot be lod lawfuliy; without a good wife, children cannot be had coniforta= bly.....Man and woman as the fock and the fcion, being grafted in marriage, as trees, bearing fruit to the world.

Augufine fays, this pair is primum par et fundamentan: omsium, &c.-․-- hey are the firt link of human foriery, to which all the reft are joined. Nankind had lons ago decayed, and been like a taper fallen into the fucket, if thore breaches which are made by mortaily, were not repaired by matrimony.
3. It is not gnod, in regari of the church, which would then have been extipated. Where there is no genctation, there can be no regeneration. Nature nakes us creaturcs, before grace makes tis Chithans.

If the loins of men had been lefs fruitful, the death of Chrif would have been lefofuccefsfui.

It was a'witty queflion that one put to him that faid, "Marriage fills the earth, but vir"ginity fills the heavens:" How can the liearens le ful!, if the carth be cmpty?

A Wedding-Ring, fit for the Finger.

Had Adam lived in innocency without matrimony, there would have been no fervants of God in the church militant, nor no faines with God in the church triumphart. But I will not fink this veffel by the over-burden of it, nor prefs this truth to death, by laying too great a load upon its fhouhices.

There is one knot which I muft untie before 1 make a further progrefs, 1 Cor. vii. L It is good for a man not to towich a woinan.—— Do ali the feriptures proceed out of the fame mouth, and do they not all fpeak the fame routh? The God of unity will not indite dif* cord; and the God of verity cannot affert falfehood; if good and evil be contraries, how contrary then are thefe fcriptures? Dither Mofes miftakes GOD, or Paul mitakes Mefes about the point of marriage. - To which I. Shall give a double anfwer.

1. There is a public and private good. In refpect of one man, it may be good not to touch a woman; but in refpect of all, to It is not good that man hould be alsne.

Mofes fpeaks of the fate of ran created; Paul of the fate of man corrupted: Now that which by inflitution was a mercy, by corruption may become a mifery; as pure water is tainted by cunning through a miry channel, or as the fun-berms receive a tincture by fhining through a coloured glafs. There is no print of evil in the world, but fin was the ftamp thet made ir. They that feck nothing but weal in its commift nn, will find nothing but wre in the conclution. Which leads me from the folitarinefs of the condition, Man alone, to the fuitablenefs of the provifion, I will mane an belp meet for bim. In which you have two parts:

1. The agent: I will make. 2. The object: A bstp.
2. The agent, I will make We cannot buid a houfe without tools; but the Trinity is at liberty; Die verbum tantum. To Cod's omnifcicnce there is nothing invifible; to God's omnipotence there is nothing imponf. bic. We work by hands without; but He works without hands. He that made man meet for help, makes a meet help for him.

Marriages are confented above, but confummated below, Prov, xviii. 22. Tho' man wants fupply, yet mancannot fupply his wants, Jam. i. 17. Every good and perfect sift comes from above, Sic. A wife, though the be not a perfect gift, yet the is a good gift. Thefe beams are darted from the Sun of righteoufnefs.

Haft thou a foft heart? It is of God's breaking: haft thou a fweet wife? fhe is of God's making.

Let me draw up this expreffion with a double application.

1. When thou layeft out for fuch a good on earth, look up to the God of heaven; let him make thy cluce for thee who makes his choice of thee. Look above you, before yuy look about sou; nothing makes up the hanpinefs of a married condition, like the holineis of a mortified difpofition. Account not thefe the moft worthy that arc ine moth wealthy. "Art thou matched to the Lord; match in the Lord. How happy are fuch marriages, where Cbrift is at the wedding! Let none but thofe who have found favour in God's eyes, find favour in yours

2. Give God the tribute of your gratulation for your good companions. Take heed of paying your rent to a wrong iandlord: When you tafte of the fream, reflect upon the fpring that feeds it. Now thou halt four eyes for thy fpeculation, four hands for thy opetation, four feet for thy ambulation, and four thoulders fo: thy fuftentation. What the fin againtt the Holy Gloof is in point of Divinity, that is unthanikfuinefs in point of morality; an offence unpardonable. Pity it is but the moon fhould be ever in an eclipfe, that will not acknowledge her beams to be borrowed from the fun. He that praifes not the giver, prizes not the gift; and to 1 pals from the agent to the object, $\boldsymbol{A}$ betp.

She mut be fo much, and no lefs: And fo much, and no more. Our rios were not ordained to be our ruiers. They are not made of the bead, to claini fuperiority; but out os the fide, to be content with equality. They defert th. duthor of nature who invert the order of natrire. The woman was made for the man's comfort, but the man was not made for woman's command. Thole fhoulders afpire too high, that content not themfelves with a room below their head. It is between a man and his wite in the houfe, $n$ it is between the fun and the moon in the heavens, when the

The wife may be a fovereign in her heiband's ablence, but fhe ruft be fubject in her hufband's prefence. As Pharaoh find to Jofeph, fo fould the hufband fay to his wife, Gen. xli, 40. Thmu foatt be aver my bouff, and, according to thy woord, Bail all my pleople be rulde, only in the throne se:ll I bo creater than thou. The body of that houfehold can never make any gocd motion, whofe bones are out of place. The woman mell be a heip to the man in thefe four things:

1. To his Piety. 2, To his Society. 3. To bis Progeny. 4. To his Profpericy.

To his Piety, by the fertenteefs of her excitation. - To his seciety, by the fragrantnefs of her converfation.- To his Progeny, by the fruitfulnefs of her education.- To his Profeerity, by the faithfilaefs of her prefervation. 1. To his Picty, by the ferventnefs of her 'excitation, I Pet. ii. 7 :

Hufband and wife fhould be as the two miich kine, which were coupled together to carry the ark of God ; or as the two cherubims, that looked one upon another, and both upon the mercy-feat; or as the tr tables of ftone, on each of which was engraven the laws of God. In fome families married perfons are like Jeremiah's two bakkets of figs, the one very good, the other very evil ; or like fire and water, whilit the one is flaming in devotion, the other is freczing in corruption. There is a two-fict hindrance of holinetis: ift, On the right fide. 2dly, On the left. On the right fide, when the wife fhould run in God's way, the hufband will not let her go: When the fore-horfe in a team will not draw, he wrongs all the reft: When the general of an army forbids a march all the foldiers fland fill. Son etimes on the left : How did Solomon's idolatrous wife draw away his heart from heaven? A fimning wife was Satan's firft ladder, by which he fcaiced the wallis of paradife, and took away the fort-royal of Adam's heart from him. Thus, fhe, that thould have been the help of his flefh, was the hurt of his faith; his nature's under-pronper, became his grace's un-der-miner! and the that fhould be a crown on the head is a crofs on the flioulders .... The wife is ofien to the huband, as the ivy to the oak, which draws away his fap from him.

2. A help to his Society, by the fragrantnefs of her converfation.

Man is an affectionate creatute: Now the woman's behaviourflaould befuch towards the man as to require his affection, by increafing his delectation. That the new-born love may not be blafled as foon as it is bloffomed; that it may not be ruined before it be rocted. A foaufe fhould carry herfelf fot to ber hutband, as mot to difurb his love by her contention, no to deftroy his love by her alienation. Hufband and u ife fhesld be like two candles burning together, which makes the houfe more light fome : or like two fragrant flowers bound up in one nofegay, that augments its fweetnefs; or like two well tuned inftruments, which founding together, make the more melodicus mufic. Hufband and wife, what are they bart as two fprings meeting, and fo joining their ftreams that they may make but one current? It is an unpleafing fpectacie to view any contention in this conjunction.

3. To his, Progeny, by the fruiffuinefs of her education; that fo her children in the fiefl may be God's children in the fpirit. : Sam. i. It. Hannah fle vows, if the Lord will give her a fon, to devote him to his fervice. A fooufe flould be more careful of her children's breeding, that the fhould be fearful of her children's bearing.. Take heed left thefe flowers grow in the devil's garden. Though you briag them out of corruption; yet do not bring them up to damnation. Thofe are not mothers, but monfters, that, whilf they fhould be teaching their chiidren the way to heaven with their lips, are leading them the way to frell with their lives. Good education is the bef livery you can give them living : and it is the beft legacy you can leave them dying. You let out your cares to make then great; O lift up your prayers to make them.good; that berore you die from them, you may fee Chritt live in them. Whilf thefe twigs are green and tender, they fhould be bowed towards God. Children and fervants are in a family, as paffengers are in a boat; hulband and wife, they are as a pair of oars, to row them to their defired haven. Let thefe fmall pieces of timber be lieired and fquared for the celeftial building. By putting.. a fceptre of grace into their hands, you will fet a crown of glory upon their leads.
4. A help to his profperify, by her faithful prefervation, being not a wanderer abroad, but a worker at home. One of the ancients fpeaks excellent!y; She Inu/t not be a field-wife, like Diana ; nor a firset-weffe, like Tamar; nor a windorv-wife, like Y̌ezebel.

Phildeas, when be drew a woman, painted her fitting under a fnail-nell, that the might imitate that litile creature, that goes no turther than it can carry its houfe upon its head.

How many women are there, that are not labouring bees, but idle drones; that take up a room in the hive, but bring no honey to it ; that are moths to their hufband's eftates; fpendins when they fhould be fparing ! As the man's part is to provide induftrioully, fo the woman's is to preferve difcrectly; the one muk not be carelefsly wanting, the other muf not be carclefsly wafting; the man muft be feeking with diligence; the woman muft be faving with prudence. The cock and hen both frape together in the duf-heap, to pick up fomething for the little chickens, fo wind up this on'a Mort bottos.

1. If the woman be a help to the man, then let not the man calt dirt upon the woman.

Secundus being aked his opinion of a woman, faid, Tirinau fragium, domus tempefus quietis impedimentum, &c. But furely he was a monfter and not a man, fitter for a tomb to bury him, than a womb to bear him.

Some have ftyled them to be like clouds in the fky . Like motes in the fun. Like fnufis in the candle. Like weeds in the garden.

It is not good to play the butcher with that naked fex, that hath'no arms but for embraces. A preacher fhould not be filent for thofe who are filenced from preaching; becaufe they are the weaker veffels; faall they be broken ail to pieces: Thou that fayeft women are evil, it may be thy' expreflion flows from thy experience: But 1 mall never take that mariner fois my pilot, that hath no better knowledge than the folitting of his own thip. Wilt thou condemn the frame of all, for the fault of one? As if it were true logic, becaufe fome are evil, therefore none are grod. He hath ill eyes that difdains all objects; to blaft thy helper, is to blame thy Maker. In a word, we pook our rife from their bowcls, and may take our reft in their bofoms.
2. Is the woman to be a help to the man? Then let the man be a help to the woman, What makes thefe debtors to be fuch ill paymalters, but becaufe they lonk at what is owing to them, but not to what is owing by them. If thou wouldef have thy wife's reverence, let her have thy refpect. To force a tear from this relation, is that which neither benefits the hufband's authority to enjoin, nor the wife's duty to perform. A wife muft not be fharply driven, but fweetly drawn. Compafion may bend her, but compulfion will break her. Hufband and wife flould act towards each other with confent, not by conftraint. There are four things wherein the hufband is a meet help to the wife.

1. In his protection of her from injuries. It is well obferved by one, that the rib of which woman was made, was taken from under a man's arm; as the ufe of the arm is to keep off blows frosn the body, fo the office of the hufband is to ward off hows from the wife. 's he wife is the hufband's treatury, and the bufband fhould be the wife's armoury. In darknefs be frould be her fun for direcion ; in dar:ger he thould be her fhieid fur urotcetion.
2. In his providing for her necoflaties.' The hufond muf comeunicate maintenance to the wife. as the head conveys influcnce to the members; he muf not be a drone, and the a drudge. a man in a married eftate is iilse a chamberlain in an inn, there is knocking for him in every room. Mizny perfons in this coudition, wate that efiate in !uxury, which thon!d fupply their wives' nexeffity: Shey have neither the faith of a Chritian, for the love of a liufbud: It is a fad fectacle to fee a virgin foid with her own money into flavery, when fervices a:e better than marriages ; the one receives waree, whit the of her buys their tet ters.
3. In his covering of her infirmities. Who would trample unon a jewel becaufe it is fallen in the dirt ? or throw away a heap of wheat for a little chaff? or, defifife a golden wedge becaule it reains fome drofs? Thefe rofes have fome prickles. Now hefoands hould foread a mantle of charity over their wives' infirmities. They are ill birds that defile their own nefts. It is a great deal beiter you fhould faft, than feaft yourfelves upon their failings. Some hufbands are never well, longer than they are holding their fingers in their wife's fores. Such are like crows, that faften only upon carrion. Do not put out the candle becaufe of the fnuff. If the gold be good allow it grains. Hufbands and wives hould prowke one another to love; and they fhould love onc another notwithfanding of provocation. Take heed of poiforing thofe frings from whence thie ftreams of your pleafure flows.

4. By his delighting in her fociety. A wife takes fanctuary not only in her hufband'shoufe, but in his heart. The tree of love thould grow up in the family, as the tree of life grew up in the garden. They that chufe their love, fhould love their choice. They that marry, where they effect not, will effect where they marry not. Two joined together without love, are but tied together to make one another miferable. And fo I pafs to the laft flage of the text, $A$ belp meect.

A belp; there is her fulneis; $A$ mect belp: theie is her fitnefs.

The angels were too much above him; the creatures were too much below him: he could not fiep up to the former, nor could le ftoop down to the latter; the one was our of his reach; the other was out of his race; but the woman is a parallel line drawn equal with him. Meet the muft be in three things.

1. In the harmony of her difpofition. Hufband and wife fhould be like the image in a looking-glafs, that anfwers in all properties to the face that :"rads before it: Or inke an echo that returneth the voice it receiveth. Many marriages are like putting uew wine into old bottles. An old man is not a mect help for a young woman: He that fets a grey head upon green fhoulders, hath one foot in the grave, and another in the cradle. Yet how many times do you fee the fpring of youth wedded to the winter of old age? A young man is not an help meet for an old woman; raw fefh is but an ill plafter for rotion boncs. He hat in his nonage marries a woman in her dotage, his lufthatw one wife in poffifion, but liss love another in reverfion.

2 In the heraldry of her condition. Some of cur lo ropean nations are fo ftrict in their iunctions, that it is againft their laws for the commonalty to couple with the gentry

It was well faid by one, If the wife be 100 nuch above ber bufoand, She eitber ruins bonit by Ser valt expences, or reviles bin wioh ber'bafe reproacloes: If the be too muib belusu ber baf. Band, enther ber former candition makes ber 100 cnerous; or leer peforat matation makes ber too mipericuls.

Marriages are fyled matehes; yer amongft hese manytiat are married, how few are there hat are matched! Hufbands and wivco are like ocks and keys, that rather brenla than open, xcept the wards be anfwerable.
3. In the holinefs of their religion. If aultery may feparate a marrage esntracted, iolatry may hinder a maniage iot perlected.

To thofe then that want wives, how to chufe them 2. To thote women whu have hufband, how to ule them.

1. To thofe men that want wives, how to chufe them. Marrige is the tying of fuch a knot, that nothing but death can unloote. Common reafon fuggefis fo much, that we thoudd be long a doing that which can but once be done. 2. Let me picferve you from a bad choice 2. Prefent you with a good one. To preferve you from a bad choice, take that in three things: 1. Chufe not for beauty. 2. Chufe not tor dowry. 3. Chufe not fur dignity. He that looks for beauty buys a picture. He tha loves for dowry, makes a purchafe. He tha leaps for dignity, matches with a multitude at once. 1. Chufe not by your eyes, looking at the beauty of the perfon. Not but this is lovely in a woman, but that this is not all for which a woman fhould be loved. He that had the choice of many faces ftamps this character upon them all, Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain. The fun is more bright in a clear kg , than when the horizon is clouded; but if a woman's flefh hath more of beauty, than her fpirit hath of Chriftianity, it is like poifon in fweet-meats, moft dangerous, Gen. vi. 2. The fons of God faw the daughters of men, that they were fair. Une would have thouglt that they fhould rather have looked for grace in the heart, than for beauty in the face. Take care of inning at the faireft figns; the fwan hath black flelh under white feathers.
2. Chufe not by sour hands, for the bouniy of the portion.

When Cato's daughter was anked, why did The net marry? She thus replied, "She could " not find the man that loved her perfon above "her portion." Men love curious pietures, but they would have them fet in golder: frames. Some are fo degenerate, as to think any rood enough, who have but goods encug?. Take heed, for fometimes the bay and baggage go together. The perfon fhould be a figure, and the portion a cypher, which added to her, advances the fum, but alone fignifies nothing. ter, two fuitors courted her together, the ono rich, and a fool; the other wife, but poor; and being demanded which of the two he had rather his daughter fhould liave? he anfwered, Mallen virum fine pecunia, $\mathcal{F}^{\circ} \mathrm{c}$. I had rather Soe Sould bave a man withbout money, than money without a man.
3. Chufe not by your cars, for the dignity of her parentage. A good old ftock may nourifh a fruitlefs branch. There are many children who are not the bleffings, but the blemifhes of their parents They are nobly defcended, but ignobly minded. Such was Aurelius Antonius, of whom it was faid, That he injured his country in nothing, but being the father of fich a child. There are many low in their defcents, that are high in their deferts. Such as the cobler's fon, who grew to be a famous captain ; when a great perfon upbraided the meannefs of his original, My nobility, laitb be, begins roith me, but thy notility ends with thee Piety is a greater honour than parentage. She is the beft gentlewoman that is heir to her own deferts, and not the degenerate offspring of another's virtue. To prefent you with a grod choice in three things:

1. Chufe fuch a one as will be fubject to your dominion. Take heed of yoking yourfelves with untamed heifers.
2. Chufe fach a one as may fympathize with you in your a miction. Marriage is juft like a fea-veyage ; he that cnters into this flap, mutt look to meet with fturms and temperts, I Cor. vii. 26. They that marry ball bave trouble in the flefh. Fileth and trouble are married together, whether we marry ar not now & bitter cup is too much to be drunk by one routh. A heavy burden is cafily carried by the afiftance of other fhoulders, Hufband and wife thould neither be proud fefh, nor dead fieft. You are fellow-nembers, therefore, fhould have a feilow-feeling. While one ftands fafe on the frore, the other fhould pity him that is toft on the fea.---Sympathy in fufferings is like a dry houfe in a wet day.
3. Chufe fuch 2 one as may be ferviceable to your falvation. A man may think he hath a faint when he hath a devil; but take heed of a harlot that is falie to thy bed; and of a hypocrite that is falfe to thy God.
adly, i'o thofe women who have hubands, how to ufe them. In two things;
4. Cary yourfelves towards them with obedience. Let their power command you, that their prafe maty commead you. Though you may have your hufband." hearts, yet you muft not have their heads; as you will his love, fo you thould love his whey. Cillihe huband leaves commanding, the wife mult never feave obeving As his injunctions nult be lawful, fo her fubjection mun be loyal. ,
5. Wirk faitinfulnefs. In creation Gon made not one woman for many. men, or many womer for one man. livery wife fhould be to her hufbani, as Live was to Adam, a whole world of women: and every hufband fhould be to his swife, as Adam was to Eve, a whole world of mon When a river is divided into many channels, the main cuarent thares.

To conclude, good fervants are a great blefing; good children a greater blefling; but a good wife is the greateft blefling; and fuch a help, ler him feck for her, that wants one; let hime figh for her, that hath lof one; let him take pleafure in her that enjoys one.

Where there is pothing but a pisture of virtue, or a few fhadowy qualities, that may fublift without any real excellency, death will hide them for $e$ ver in the night of defpair. The blacknefs of darknefs will clofe upon the naked and wandering ghoft; while its loathfome remains are configned to oblivion and putrefaction in the prifon of the glave, with the profpect of a worfe doom hereafter. But where there is a living image of true goodnefs begun in this ftate, death will deliver it with fafety into the finifhing hand of Eternity, to be produced with every mark of honour in the open view of heaven; where its now nortal partner, refcued from the difhonours of the duft, and brightened into the graces of eternal youth, fhal! rejoin it in triumph to fuffer the pangs of Ceparation no more Everlafting fevoran! what a crown of joy with it confer upon the preacher in that day, if this little fervice fhall be rewarded with the reflection of having contributed to the fatration or inaprovement of any of thefe young perfons whom he now addreffes! If ever thife ear was open to my cry, hear me, O Lord! hear me in their behalt. What cannot thy Spirit peviorm! perform by the Weakefthan l? May that foirit "feal them unto the day of redemption!"-At thatghorious"period "may Imeet you amongf the redeemed of the Lord;" happy to fee. you thining rith immorial fipendour in "the gensal afferbly and church of the firt-born." 'ramportad to thimethat I flell live with you for ever; and join in the gratulations of your fellowangels around the throne of God, when He thall, in the fight of ails "clothe you with the gamment of fatvation, and cover you with the robe of righteoufnefs, as a bridegroom is decked with ornaments, tind as a bride is adon ned with her jewels." Amen.
