Subject: Bill for Partial Amendment to Bonded Warehouse Law & the Bonded Manufacturing Warehouse Law

From: LS To: GS Date: 14 March 1951
S.A.Reese, 57-8546

2. 1. LS objects to Article 33 amending the same article of the Bonded Warehouse Law and to Article 14 amending the same article of the Bonded Manufacturing Warehouse Law. Both articles provide that either a juridical person or an individual (i.e. owner) shall be liable to punishment by fine for offenses perpetrated by their "agent, employee or other workers". Thus, the mere relationship of hire alone is sufficient to justify the principal's guilt irrespective of actual wrongdoing, knowledge of wrongdoing or failure to properly supervise acts of the agent or employees. Legal Section has objected repeatedly to this practice in connection with other bills. The obvious purpose of both amendments is to take away the safeguards provided for in the original laws which stipulated that the fine

> "does not apply where the proprietor or trader can prove that he exercised reasonable care in the supervision of his agent or employee, or where the goods were handled by a customs broker."

2. In conformity with the standard recently enacted into various laws governing similar situations, LS recommends that Article 33 and Article 14 of Bonded Warehouse Law and the Bonded Manufacturing Law, respectively, be amended to read as follows:

> "In cases where any representative of a juridical person or any agent, employee or other worker of a juridical person or of a natural person has, relevant to the business affairs of the juridical person or natural person, committed any violation mentioned in the preceding two articles, not only the violator shall be punished but the juridical person or natural person concerned shall also be fined in accordance with the provisions of any of these articles unless it is proved that the juridical person or the natural person exercised due care and supervision over the business affairs in order to prevent the aforesaid violation committed by the representative, agent, employee or other worker."
