

N·E·W·S & E·V·E·N·T·S

GIFTS FROM WURZBURG....Eugen Emmerling (second from left), assistant to the Lord Mayor of Würzburg, Germany, presented commemorative plates to Mr. and Mrs. Kilian J. Schmitt (at left and at right) and to RIT Vice President Alfred L. Davis (second from right) during a visit to the RIT campus to see the progress on the Kilian J. and Caroline F. Schmitt Interfaith Center. The plate given to Davis has a view of Würzburg and will hang in the completed Interfaith Center. Würzburg is a sister city of the City of Rochester.

Lindner Appointed Vice President In Finance, Administration

Richard H. Lindner

Richard H. Lindner is vice president for Finance and Administration, succeeding H. Donald Scott, who will be financial vice president for Wheaton College in Massachusetts.

RIT President M. Richard Rose announced the appointment June 22, expressing sadness at Scott's departure and stating, "Dick will have the title and responsibility until the position is filled on a permanent basis."

Lindner had served as Scott's assistant since coming to RIT in August, 1981, after 16 years with the University of Rochester. He earned his bachelor's degree in business administration from Northeastern University and earned his MBA from the University of Rochester's Executive Development Program in 1975.

Born in La Crosse, Wisconsin, Lindner moved with his family to Philadelphia and then, in 1946, to Rochester.

Summer

Now that summer is officially here, News & Events goes on its summer schedule.

News & Events will come out every three weeks with issues being published on July 19, August 9 and August 30.

If you have information for News & Events, please send it to Communications, City Center, by Thursday of the week prior to publication.

On September 13, News & Events will resume its regular weekly schedule for the 1984-85 academic year.

VandenBrul Creates Award To Honor Entrepreneurs

A new endowment fund has been established in the College of Business to recognize the importance of entrepreneurs to Rochester's economic life.

Created by Herbert W. VandenBrul, a founder of R. F. Communications, the endowment fund will support a distinguished lectureship, the Herbert W. VandenBrul Award, and will also support a student award.

"The College of Business, as well as the RIT community, greatly appreciates this award. The generous gift donated by Mr. VandenBrul is a significant example of the long and close partnership between Rochester business and industry and the Institute. It will also enable our students to have contact with, and learn from, successful entrepreneurs," said Dr. Walter McCanna, dean of the College of Business.

The Herbert W. VandenBrul Award will recognize an individual who has successfully developed an emerging business that improved Rochester's economic life or whose innovative management skills have changed the course of an existing business.

The first recipient of the award will be invited to lecture in October. The recipient will be selected by representatives of the College of Business as well as by several civic and business leaders.

A College of Business committee will select an outstanding graduate or undergraduate student to receive the student award.

Signifying the spirit of the entrepreneurial award, VandenBrul was one of the founders of R. F. Communications in 1961 and served as counsel to the corporation. R. F. Communications is now a division of the Harris Corporation.

Attending a College of Business luncheon to announce the establishment of the Herbert W. VandenBrul Entrepreneurial Award are (seated) Herbert and Joan VandenBrul; Dr. Walter F. McCanna (standing at left), dean of RIT's College of Business, and Richard H. Eisenhart (standing at right), chairman emeritus, RIT's Board of Trustees.

Since 1969, VandenBrul has been president of Culver Management Corporation, a real estate holding and management corporation. He has been affiliated with the law firm of Mousaw, Vigdor, Reeves, Heilbronner & Kroll since 1976.

Mr. and Mrs. VandenBrul have been members of RIT's Nathaniel Rochester Society since 1969. Their two sons attended RIT.

Personnel Announces Supplemental Dental Plan for Permanent Staff

Checking out the Smiles Preferred facilities available to RIT personnel and their families is Chuck Hayes (standing), benefits administrator for RIT Personnel. Henry D. Rohrer, D. D. S. (right), looks at dental x-rays before beginning work on Barry Heller, administrative executive for Dental Associates.

As a supplement to the Institute's dental assistance program, RIT has arranged for favorable fees for RIT personnel and their families with several local providers of dental care.

The arrangements for favorable fees is available to all permanent employees and to retirees of the Institute, groups not covered under the basic dental assistance program.

"It is our hope that this program will address some of the concerns expressed by employees regarding the amount of out-of-pocket expenses required by regular dental service providers. We realize that this program will not provide a solution for employees who do not wish to change dentists, but the program will provide employees with an alternative," says Jeanne Healy, director of Personnel.

Healy explains that RIT annually tries to improve benefits to employees including reimbursement amounts paid under the present dental assistance program. "With a $500,000 rise in the the cost of health insurance benefits, we are not able to upgrade the fee schedule. We look at this arrangement as an alternate method of improving this important benefit," she says.

The supplemental dental assistance program, Smiles Preferred, is available through:

Brighton Dental Group, P.C.
125 White Spruce Blvd.
Rochester, N.Y. 14620
424-5660

Dental Associates of Rochester
Stoneridge Plaza
1510 Ridge Rd. West
Rochester, N.Y. 14615
865-2200

Henry D. Rohrer, Jr., D.D.S., P.C.
Joseph L. Dulski, D.D.S.
The Elmwood Medical Center
1351 Mt. Hope Ave.
Rochester, N.Y. 14620
442-1230

There are no special procedures for establishing an appointment or seeing a dentist associated with RIT's Smiles Preferred program. Employees and retirees can present their RIT photo identification cards to identify them as RIT employees covered by the Institute's dental assistance program. All Smiles Preferred dentists will have a supply of the appropriate claim forms.

According to Chuck Hayes, benefits administrator in Personnel, part-time employees and retirees will be sent optional verification/identification cards for use at Dental Associates in the mail within one month.

Continued on Page 4

Executive Program Fellowship Available to Administrators

Full-time RIT administrators can apply for the 1984-85 RIT Executive Program Fellowship awarded annually by the Institute.

Designed for Rochester area upper- and middle-level managers, the RIT Executive Program is presented in 20 weekly sessions from October through April during each academic year by the Center for Management Development (CMD), College of Business.

Dr. Philip R. Tyler, CMD director, coordinates the RIT Executive Program. He says, "The typical participant is between 36 and 55, manages 20 to 600 persons and is very concerned with the need to keep current." Tyler adds that participants have an average of 10 to 30 years of management experience.

Administrators who wish to be considered for the RIT Executive Program Fellowship should have 10 years of management experience, currently manage 10 or more professional/managerial personnel and have responsibility for personnel and budget evaluation. In addition, applicants should have a background that is compatible with the industrial managers in the program, a desire for professional growth and job responsibilities that would not interfere with class attendance.

There is one RIT Fellow selected each year.

Persons interested in applying for the RIT Executive Program Fellowship should apply by letter to Dr. Thomas Comte, associate dean, College of Business.

County Medical Society Honors Ann Mulligan

Ann Mowris Mulligan

Ann Mowris Mulligan, a member of RIT's Board of Trustees, has been honored with the Edward Mott Moore Award, the highest annual award from the Medical Society of the County of Monroe.

Mrs. Mulligan received her award as the 1984 lay person who has made outstanding contributions to community health at the Society's 163rd annual dinner on May 12.

For more than 20 years, Mrs. Mulligan has served as an active volunteer with more than 20 community boards and organizations.

"Rochesterians have been very good to me. My greatest feeling of satisfaction comes from serving my community," she says.

Along with her responsibilities with the RIT Board of Trustees, she is active with various hospital associations and other community programs. Mrs. Mulligan is on the Board at Hillside Children's Center, is active with the Medical Society's Scholarship Committee and delivers Meal on Wheels.

In fact, she received the 500 Days of Service bowl from the Visiting Nurse Service for participation in Meals on Wheels.

Along with Mrs. Mulligan, Dr. Thomas E. Cardillo received this year's Edward Mott Moore Award from the Medical Society. Dr. Cardillo was honored as the 1984 physician who has made outstanding contributions to community health.

Campus Activity For Scholars

Three Time Incorporated Scholarship recipients at RIT's School of Printing were honored recently for their contributions to student activities.

Graham Davis, manager of administration for Time Incorporated, New York City, came to RIT to attend a luncheon honoring the students. Dr. Fred W. Smith, vice president for Student Affairs, and Herbert H. Johnson, associate professor and chairman of the Institute's Time Incorporated Scholarship Committee, also attended the luncheon.

Time Incorporated Scholarships, established in 1982, are awarded annually to outstanding minority students enrolled in RIT's School of Printing.

Loren Mercer, Laurelton, N.Y., is a member of the Unity House Theater group, the RIT Gospel Ensemble and is vice president of the Black Awareness Coordinating Committee (BACC) as well as resident advisor of Unity House.

Ferne Dixon, Brooklyn, N.Y., is a member of the RIT Gospel Ensemble and the BACC. Both Dixon and Mercer are working as student interns this summer at Time Incorporated, New York City.

Jacqueline Pelzer, also of Brooklyn, N.Y., is a resident advisor at NTID and is involved with the Unity House Theater group. She served as assistant director for its recent production of Shange's "For Colored Girls...." Pelzer is working as a student intern at Conde Nast Publications this summer.

"We are delighted to honor Loren, Jacqueline and Ferne for their leadership roles in shaping cultural and social affairs in a variety of student activities," said Johnson.

New Campus Vending Machines

New vending machines will be installed at all present locations on campus during the first two weeks of July.

Mitchell Green, assistant director for cash operations for RIT Food Service, explained that the Institute will use the machines of Anderson Paramount Vending Service, a division of Rochester Coca-Cola Bottling Corp. RIT's contract with Canteen Corp. expires on June 30.

Green said that there may be minor inconveniences to vending machine patrons as machines are replaced, but that he expects inconveniences to be for no longer than a day at a time.

Receiving certificates for completing the Adult Basic Education Program offered by the Learning Development Center are (front row, from left) Jon Hromi, Suzanne Fitch, Anne Scoville, Vien Kettavong, Sandra Van Gee and Pat Smith. Pictured in the second row are (from left) Douglas Kurlan, Freddie Lightbourne, Delores Bailey, Comelia Brisco, Sharon Marshall, Sharon Habgood, Robert Day, Donald Savage and Rita Cowd. In the top row (from left) are Richard Van Dusen, Norman Kinney, Michael Cannarozzo, Wendy Schulmerich, Randall Breiner, Richard Phillips, Leonard Aterberry, Scott Starr, Roy McClary, John Patchin and Robert Nesmith.

Staff Members Receive Certificates For Adult Basic Education

Twenty-six RIT staff members received certificates recognizing their completion of the Adult Basic Education Program in ceremonies last month.

Adult Basic Education is offered by the Learning Development Center (LDC). This year's ceremonies marked the second annual presentation of certificates to RIT employees completing the program. The employees along with their supervisors and instructors attended the presentation.

Mary Pizzente, coordinator of the LDC's adult programs, says, "The certificates recognize these employees' initiative in improving their education, thus making them more valuable employees to RIT."

Jim Sears, preventive maintenance administrator for Physical Plant, received a special award for his outstanding support for the Adult Education Program.

Andrew Bessette, consultant with the Employee Assistance Program sponsored by Personnel, delivered the keynote address. Bessette retired last year as superintendent of buildings for Physical Plant.

Meet Pleases Planners, Participants

Both organizers and participants agreed that the Instructional Computing Conference June 1 to 3 at RIT was a success, according to Dr. Charles Plummer, faculty and program development. Plummer served as RIT coordinator for the conference on computer applications in elementary and secondary schools.

More than 270 participants attended the conference which was jointly sponsored by RIT, the Rochester City School District, Honeoye Central Schools, Advocates for Computer Education (ACE), the North American Simulation and Gaming Association (NASAGA) and the Computer Literacy Education and Training System, a project funded by the New York State Education Department.

Featured at the conference was a presentation by Dr. Alfred Bork on writing computer-based learning materials. Bork, who is associated with the Educational Technology Center of the University of California, is the author of Learning With Computers.

A student computer fair, hands-on activities and panel discussions by educators, industry representatives and RIT faculty were also presented for conference participants.

"Our success with the initial Instructional Computing Conference has us making plans for next year's conference," says Plummer.

LDC Workshops Teach Children This Summer

RIT's Learning Development Center is presenting a series of computer workshops for children this summer. The five-day workshops will focus on problem solving skills and will be offered from July 9 to August 17.

Designed for third-through eighth-graders the workshops will allow students to explore the world of Logo Turtlegraphics, to try creative writing on computers and to create a textbook.

For more information or to register a child, call 2281.

PREVIEW TO SUCCESS....Looking over some of the items to be sold at a Kidney Foundation benefit auction are (from left) I. C. Shah, instructor of the College of Continuing Education's Effective Selling course; Marilyn Frank, executive director of the Kidney Foundation of Upstate New York; RIT President M. Richard Rose, and Heidi Beutnagle, RIT student. The benefit auction was organized by members of Shah's class, who surpassed their goal of $15,000 by raising $17,000 at the auction. President Rose spoke to auction participants before the bidding began.

Regents To Honor Frisina With Medal of Excellence

Dr. Robert Frisina, vice president and secretary to the Institute at RIT, will receive the Regents Medal of Excellence from the University of the State of New York Board of Regents on July 18.

Frisina will be honored for his outstanding contributions on behalf of disabled individuals during ceremonies in Albany marking the Regent's bicentennial celebration.

According to Chancellor Willard A. Genrich, the July event will be one in a series of programs that will consider ways in which education can address issues concerning society.

"I have intended that the results of my experience in administration, planning and research be contributed in part to the community through involvement in health and human services programs," says Frisina, who holds directorships in the secondary and special education, hospital, community and business areas.

Frisina is an international lecturer in the area of deafness and a consultant to several state departments of education.

He played a leading role in developing the National Technical Institute for the Deaf at RIT and served as NTID's director for its first 10 years. Since 1976, he served as RIT's senior vice president for Institutional Advancement. He is responsible for RIT admissions, communications, financial aid and institutional research.

During the past several years, Frisina has served as chair of the Regents Advisory Board, New York State School for the Deaf in Rome, N.Y., and on the boards of directors of the Conference of Executives of American Schools for the Deaf, the Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf, the Council on Education of the Deaf, the Rochester Speech and Hearing Center and the Rochester School for the Deaf.

He is current chairman of the Upstate Health Systems, Inc., and the Frank Gannett Newspapercarriers Scholarship Program and is former chairman of the board of directors of Highland Hospital.

Horton: Room for More

The Horton Child Care Center in the Riverknoll complex on the RIT campus has several openings available in the three-year-old class beginning in the fall.

According to Lita Boudakian, director of the center, preference in filling the openings is given to children of RIT faculty, staff and students. Children who are enrolled in the class for three-year-olds must be at least two years and nine months old in September and must be toilet trained before beginning nursery school in the fall.

Horton Child Care Center is open from 7:45 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. Monday through Friday. Children enrolled in the nursery school program can attend half days or parts of weeks as well as full time. The center also provides nursery school for four-year-olds, licensed kindergarten and after school care for children who are ages six and seven.

Parents are welcome to visit the center with or without their children. To make arrangements to visit or for more information, contact Lita Boudakian at 424-1244.

Wallace Library Shows Alumnae Work

An exhibit of sculpture and two-dimensional mixed media by three RIT alumnae is on display at the Wallace Memorial Library Galleries through July 31.

Neon Hardware III features works by Geri McCormick, Judith Stewart and Sasha Trouslot and is on exhibit in the library's three galleries during regular library hours: Monday to Thursday, 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 9 p.m.

Grant Info Listed

The latest issue of RIT's Grants and Contracts Newsletter gives information on several new grants available and lists information on grants previously announced.

Specific guidelines for grants included in the newsletter and for additional copies of the Grants and Contracts Newsletter, contact the Office of Government Affairs at 262-3088.

RIT WOMEN'S COUNCIL...Rebel Braine, Women's Council retiring president, left, and Miss Helen E. (Betsy) Clark, new president, are shown with David Abbott, Instructional Media Services, and the model of the RIT campus diorama he designed. Abbott described the diorama, to be placed in the George Eastman Memorial Building in August. Council members financed construction of the diorama through fund-raising projects. Also at the group's annual meeting May 7 officers were elected and council members heard Dr. Robert H. Johnston, dean, College of Fine and Applied Arts, talk on "Pots."

Business Trio Travels From RIT to Sheffield Poly for Exchange

Three College of Business faculty became jet set educators this spring as faculty members Dr. Robert Barbato, Daniel Tessonni and Dr. Stanley Widrick each spent two weeks at Sheffield City Polytechnic in Sheffield, England.

The three each lectured to classes at Sheffield City Polytechnic and did individual research while in England.

In March Dr. Stanley Widrick, the J. Warren McClure Professor in Marketing, went to Sheffield where he conducted seminars for the faculty of business and management studies in the department of economics and business studies.

also investigating any British programs, government or otherwise, designed to aid the small businessperson."

In addition, Barbato will deliver a paper on quality circles in Southampton, England, to the Organization Development Institute in July.

"We have several objectives in sending our faculty to Sheffield and hosting their faculty," says Dr. Walter McCanna, dean of the College of Business. "Such exchanges are in line with our increased emphasis on internationalism in the curriculum. They help us make valuable contacts for joint

England

Widrick began arrangements for a series of marketing seminars he plans for fall and spring in London, and in New York City, San Francisco, Chicago and Dallas.

Widrick explains that one unexpected pleasure of the trip was staying with Sheffield faculty while he was teaching. "It was rewarding both professionally and personally," he says. "As a result of this contact, I will be doing a joint research project and collaborating on a paper with Colin Gilligan, one of my Sheffield hosts. I gained a good friend and a professional colleague."

In April Daniel Tessonni, assistant professor in the department of accounting, went to Sheffield's department of accountancy and company administration where he conducted four student and two faculty seminars.

Tessonni compared the Sheffield and RIT accounting curricula, identifying how to accommodate students who want to participate in exchanges. "Sheffield City Polytechnic has an annual program with a final exam at the end as opposed to RIT's quarter system," Tessonni explains.

"Students get feedback during the year but only one grade. They seem to develop a broad perspective of the profession with that arrangement, but there are problems of flexibility. They also have no liberal arts, an important part of an RIT education no matter what the discipline."

This month Dr. Robert Barbato, assistant professor in the department of management, will discuss entrepreneurship and small business management, subjects he teaches MBA students at RIT, with faculty and students at Sheffield City Polytechnic's department of management studies. "I'm research projects and are a way of determining what students in other business institutions are being taught since our students will be dealing with a world market when they graduate. We currently are arranging co-op student exchanges and later will have academic student exchanges as well."

RITz Sets Summer Hours

This summer the RITskeller is featuring waitress service along with salad and sandwich bars. Included with the salad bar are hot and cold soups, fresh bread and a daily special hot entree. The sandwich bar offers a variety of sandwich makings and self-serve chili.

Luncheon service at the RITskeller is from 11:30 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. Monday to Friday.

The RITskeller is open for cafeteria-style serving of grill, deli and ice-cream items from 2:30 to 7 p.m. Monday to Thursday.

On Friday, the RITskeller will be open for snacks, beverages and ice cream from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

Bar service is available during luncheon service and during the RITskeller's afternoon and evening hours.

CAREER DAY CANINE TRICKS...A Jefferson High School Law and Government School student gets instructions from New York State Police Trooper Eric Donselaar on how to get Canine Wilder to perform his police tasks. Donselaar's demonstration with the dog was part of a Career Day program planned by RIT's criminal justice faculty for Jefferson and Wilson High School students May 14. Looking on at left is Bette Croft, associate professor in the criminal justice program, College of Liberal Arts School of Human Services, and organizer of the day's events.

NEWSMAKERS

- Zenon Elyjiw, senior research technologist in the Technical and Education Center of the Graphic Arts, College of Graphic Arts and Photography, was one of three judges for the Eastman Kodak International Run for the Money Competition, a competition judging the quality of color reproduction by newspapers. On May 22, Elyjiw discussed various types of color proofs at the 37th annual conference of the Society of Photographic Scientists and Engineers in Boston.
- Joyce Herman, faculty and program development, conducted a workshop, "Taking Charge of Your Life," for the annual conference of the Greater Rochester Media Specialists last month.
- Joann E. Middleton, director of graduate and co-op development, College of Business, was one of four panelists who discussed making career changes at the recent meeting of the Rochester Chapter, National Association of Bank Women, Inc.
- Robert Panara, NTID professor of literature and drama, conducted workshops for teachers at Boston University, School of Education, in March where he did presentations on "The Deaf in Literature and Film," "Creative Interpretation of Literature in Sign" and "Great Deaf Americans." In May Panara led in-service workshops for teachers of deaf and hearing-impaired students at the Atlantic Provinces Resource Center for the Hearing Handicapped in Amherst, Nova Scotia, Canada.
- Harry DePuy, Learning Development Center writing instructor, recently presented a seminar on "How NOT to Write a Scholarly Book or Article" to doctoral students in American literature at Columbia University.
- Sven Ahrenkilde, assistant to the director of the Technical and Education Center of the Graphic Arts, College of Graphic Arts and Photography, spoke on "A Method of Optimizing Tone Reproduction in a Newspaper Operation" during a meeting of The New York Times Newspaper Group. His presentation to The Times Newspaper Group took place during the American Newspaper Publishers Association/Research Institute in Atlanta June 12.

- Dr. Karen Paul, assistant professor, department of management, College of Business, wrote "Fading Images at Kodak," published in the winter, 1984, issue of Business and Society Review. In her articles, she discussed how Kodak's policies have resulted in a loyal and productive workforce, how the company's image has been hurt by political activity and personnel reductions, and whether or not Kodak will be able to attract the talent it needs to reposition the company.

- Dr. Richard D. Zakia, professor in the School of Photographic Arts and Sciences, presented a paper, "Subliminal Faces in Pictures," at the International Conference on Phototherapy at the University of Toronto.

- Dr. Andrew DuBrin, chairman, department of management, College of Business, wrote an article, "This, Too, Shall Pass," recently published in Complete Woman. In the article DuBrin advises uses perspective and persistence to overcome predicaments.

- Michael Krembel, associate professor of applied art, NTID, was selected by Eastman Kodak Company as one of two performing artists who took part in a demonstration of Kodavision equipment at a recent trade show in Chicago. Krembel, who works in stained glass, demonstrated his craft as show participants photographed him using Kodavision equipment.

- Julie Viscardi, academic support services, College of Graphic Arts and Photography, will retire from RIT on July 1. Her friends and co-workers gave a dinner in her honor on June 21.

- Anne Cirocco, chairperson, writing department, Learning Development Center, presented a workshop, "What Should High School Students Expect from College Writing Courses?" at the East Rochester School District's recent Superintendent's Day.

- Chris F. Nilsen, associate professor, College of Engineering, is the co-author of "The Role of Strain-rate and Phase Boundary Geometry on the Deformation Behavior of Two-phase Bicrystals of Alpha-beta-brass," published in the Journal of Material Science. Nilsen's co-author is K. N. Subramanian of Michigan State University.

- Robert S. Menchel, senior career opportunities advisor, National Center on Employment of the Deaf, NTID, has been elected to a three-year term on the board of the Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf, one of the largest organizations for deaf persons in the country.

- A. Ray Chapman, assistant professor, College of Applied Science and Technology, presented a paper, "Computer Applications in the Packaging Industry," at the recent Mohawk Chapter meeting of the Society of Packaging and Handling Engineers in Syracuse.

- Dr. Bruce A. Austin, associate professor, College of Liberal Arts, is the author of "Portrait of a Contemporary Drive-in Theatre Audience," published in the May, 1984, issue of Boxoffice magazine.

- Dr. Eugene Fram, chairman of the department of marketing, College of Business, gave presentations on management skills for minority journalists sponsored by the Institute for Journalism Education. Fram addressed sessions at the University of Arizona, Tuscon, and at the University of California at Berkeley.

Gifted Kids Program Begins Next Month

Kids on Campus, a workshop for gifted and talented children presented by RIT's Learning Development Center, begins its summer program July 23.

There will be a summer camp for students entering grades five to eight and a computer education program designed for students entering grades nine through 12.

Fifth-through eighth-grade students will learn computer graphics and animation, programming, art, photography, design and creative writing. For high school students, the program features workshops in Pascal programming and animation techniques.

To be eligible for the program, students must be recommended by their teacher or guidance counselor, or they must be enrolled in a program for gifted or talented children.

Tuition for Kids on Campus is $190; tuition for the high school program is $165.

For more information or to register a child, call 2283.

United Way Provides Day Care Information

According to RIT's Personnel Office, the United Way of Greater Rochester can provide child care subsidies for qualifying parents through its Office of Child Care Services.

There are 20 group day care centers in city centers as well as in Greece, Webster and Charlotte, and there are 60 family day care homes in the city and several towns.

Parent fees are set on a sliding scale, according to income and size of family. Subsidies are available at incomes up to $22,000 for a family of two and slightly higher for larger families.

For more information, contact United Way Office of Child Care Services, 70 Bragdon Pl., Rochester, N.Y. 14604, (716) 454-2770.

Special Services Honors Students

RIT's Office of Special Services honored students associated with the program at its ninth annual Candlelight Awards Dinner May 5.

A literary magazine, Our Dimensions, published by students in Special Services and the Higher Education Opportunity Program, was distributed at the event. It includes a story, "Theodore and the Magic Box," written by kindergarten students at Horton Child Care Center, as well as poems by students and Marie Giardino, Special Services director.

Honored for academic achievement was Carolyn Jean Powell, graduating senior who achieved a 4.0 cumulative grade point average in graphic design, College of Fine and Applied Arts. Powell also spoke at the dinner.

Each academic quarter Special Services recognizes students for their academic success, personal accomplishments and community service. Letters of commendation are sent to their parents and the students are guests of honor at a staff luncheon.

Giardino said selections for the Spring Quarter were Gordon Davies and Avis Williams; Winter Quarter, Chris Burk and Peter Luck; Fall Quarter, Tony Galucci and Bruce Bennett.

Albert Skinner Award To Scott Goldstone

Scott M. Goldstone, who just completed his second year in RIT's criminal justice program, School of Human Services, College of Liberal Arts, received the Albert Skinner Scholarship Award from the Monroe County American Legion.

Goldstone was nominated by criminal justice faculty members for his contributions to criminal justice education. He received the $250 cash award and a plaque from the American Legion during the Legion's county convention June 2.

A 1982 graduate of Aquinas Institute, Goldstone is chairperson of the Law Enforcement Association of Explorer Scouts and chief of the Rochester Police Department's Explorers Post.

Dental Plan Announced

Continued from Page 1

More specific information about the participating Smiles Preferred dental providers, including hours and services, is given in the June 1, 1984, memo to all full-time and extended part-time faculty and staff from Jeanne Healy. Additional introductory meetings will be conducted in the fall.

Specific questions about RIT's dental assistance program or the supplemental coverage can be addressed to Hayes at 2428.

Bombers Take Trophy In Softball Benefit

The RIT Sportshop softball team, the Bombers, a member of the faculty/staff intramural league, won a third-place trophy in the recent Easter Seal benefit softball tournament.

This is the second year the team, composed of both men and women, has taken part in the weekend event.

Marlene Polson-Lorcak, manager of the RIT Bookstore's branch operations, computer department and special services, is scorekeeper.

Team members are John Roman, Lou Gagliano, Dave Lorcak, Ken Nelson, Dave McIntyre, Dave Cohn, John Deane, Elizabeth Parker, Diane Bierman, Susan Hillen, Mark Washburn, Phyllis Ostroska, Connie Izzo, Mike McWilliams, Dave Pankow, Mark Hillengas and Linda Burley.

The Bookstore also sponsors a Town of Henrietta league team whose members are primarily College of Business faculty members.

Golden Chairs Literature In Liberal Arts

Dr. Robert E. Golden, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will be chairperson of the college's language and literature staff beginning July 1.

Dean Mary Sullivan, announcing the appointment, noted that Golden "wishes to relinquish his position as associate dean and I reluctantly accept that. He has been a superb associate dean. This is not only my view but also that of his colleagues in the college and all across campus. I thank him for four excellent years of services in this capacity. They were years of great help to me and to the college."

Golden, an associate professor, continued to teach in the college while serving as associate dean and as project director of RIT's Personal Computer Task Force. Work of the task force will be completed June 30.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Golden earned both his master's and doctoral degrees at the University of Rochester. He joined RIT in 1971.

Move Over Visa— Library Has Vendacard

In July Wallace Memorial Library will introduce Vendacard, a new copy card system.

Vendacard will replace Auditron use charge accounts, which departments currently maintain with the library.

Departments that currently have an account for library copying charges will be contacted by a library staff member who will explain and set up a Vendacard account.

Departments that do not have an account for charging copies can contact circulation services at 2562 to establish one.

N·E·W·S & E·V·E·N·T·S

Non-Profit Org.
U.S. Postage
PAID
Permit 626
Rochester, N.Y.

Rochester Institute of Technology

One Lomb Memorial Drive
Post Office Box 9887
Rochester, NY 14623

M TAYLOR
GLADYS
LIBRARY